Clark offers to take hostage's place

By The Associated Press

Former U.S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark today told delegates to the "Crimes of America" conference in Tehran that he would be willing to exchange places with any of the 53 American hostages if it would help resolve the 213-day standoff.

He also called for the trial of the deposed shah, saying the former American-supported regime had "brutalized millions" and asked: "How many greater crimes does history reflect than the crimes of the Shah of Iran against the people of Iran?"

But Clark told the delegates that the hostages "are the wrong people" to punish for past American actions, which he said were "terribly painful" for him, and added:

"I am so sure it is imperative that the hostages be released now, so important to the fulfillment of the Iranian Revolution which it is damaging in a hundred ways, so important to the individual rights of the hostages and so important to peace on earth, that I offer today to take the place of any hostage if that will help resolve this tragic crisis.

"Taking hostages uninvolved in the specific offenses for which you are concerned can't be justified in a country which wants to live in peace. The seizure of the hostages here is understandable in human terms. God knows it is understandable. But it is not right."

Clark, who was attorney general in 1967-69, told reporters that the decision by him and nine other Americans to attend the conference was "essential to dialogue between the Iranian people and the American people" and predicted it "will help the American hostages."

Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh said he would meet with Clark, characterizing him as a staunch supporter of the Iranian revolution and an opponent of "the crimes of the shah and the U.S. government in Iran."

In other developments: —A Tehran newspaper, Kayhan, reported without explanation the resignation of Iran's air force commander, Maj. Gen. Amir Bahman Bagheri. Bagheri was strongly criticized for ordering the destruction of helicopters used in the aborted American hostage rescue mission April 25.

—Tehran Radio said Iranian forces killed 122 Iraqi troops and wounded many others in border clashes during the past two days. The report could not be confirmed.

—A Turkish newspaper said Iranian government troops had killed "at least 200 persons" in two days of bombing raids against Kurdish rebels in northwestern Iran.

—Tehran Radio said five more heroin dealers were executed. Clark was dispatched by President Carter shortly after the hostages were seized Nov. 4 to try to negotiate with the Iranian regime. But both he and Senate staffer William Miller were refused entry into the country. Last month, Carter barred nearly all Americans from traveling to Iran.

Now, Clark and the nine other Americans attending the conference may face prosecution from the agency Clark once headed. If a Justice Department investigation leads to charges and they are found guilty, the 10 could be sentenced to 10 years in prison and fined $50,000 each.

Ghotbzadeh insisted that the four-day conference that opened Monday was not putting America on trial. "It is a free exchange of views and those taking part could raise any topic without prejudice," Ghotbzadeh told a news conference at the Tehran Hilton, the site of the conference.

But Ghotbzadeh said Syrian U.N. Ambassador Adib Daoudy would not be allowed to see the U.S. hostages. Daoudy and the U.N. commission probing Iran's charges against the shah and America also were not allowed to see the hostages during their last visit to Iran, which ended March 13.

Six weeks later, President Carter launched a hostage rescue mission that aborted in the desert 200 miles southeast of Tehran. Three of the eight helicopters in the operation dropped out with mechanical problems, and eight airmen and Marines were killed in the collision of two aircraft.

Five U.S. military officers, including one who commanded the failed effort to free POWs from the Son Tay prison camp in North Vietnam in 1970, have begun a probe.

"Since no plan is perfect, the major reason for conducting for conducting this review is neither a whitewash nor a witchhunt, but an effort to identify areas where improvements can be made in any such future operations," the Pentagon said.

On Monday, Clark told an interviewer in Tehran that the U.S. rescue mission was "lawless and contrary to constitutional government. It is inconceivable that constitutional government could ever delegate to a single person — president or prime minister — the power to risk killing many people half a world away in a foreign country."

Carter okays study of Texas 'bullet train'

By The Associated Press

You're driving along Interstate 35 from Dallas to Austin, restricted to 55 mph by state troopers, when all of a sudden, here it comes — the new high-speed "bullet train," whizzing past you on an elevated rail erected in the median of the interstate.

"Imagine the psychological effect when this thing zooms by you about 15 feet in the air about 130 mph and you see a man reading a book, or watching a newscast, or even making a phone call," said John Poerner, chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission.

"You're going to think twice before you get in your car and make that trip again, especially when the train would use less fuel, per person, than the automobile," said Poerner, who has shown more interest in the project than anyone else in Texas.

President Carter signed legislation Friday authorizing $38 million for engineering studies of 13 high-speed passenger trains around the nation, including a "Texas Triangle" route linking Dallas,

San Antonio and Houston.

Texas' portion of the system, which would take to the year 2000 to complete, could be profitably built on the median of Interstate Highways 35, 10 and 45, said Poerner, one of the more vocal advocates of the bullet train for the state.

"By using the medians of these highways, there would be no cost for the right-of-way, since the public already owns it," Poerner said.

A trip from Dallas to Houston by bullet train would take only a couple of hours and would take the passenger from downtown to downtown, with direct access to intracity bus systems, he pointed out.

"That means you could leave home by bus, ride by rail to the next city, connect with the bus system again, and both the rail system and bus system would benefit," he said.

"The reasons transit systems fail now and cost so much to operate is that you cannot remove people from their automobile if it's going to take care of just half their needs. People just aren't going to drive to near Dallas, then go in the rest of the way by bus from a park-and-ride," Poerner added.

The 773-mile route of the Texas Triangle is considered one of the most promising of the 13 corridors nationwide, although none of them is expected to make a profit.

Poerner said he was told by officials in Japan — "and they are sort of experts since they have one in operation," — that the fare for any leg of the Texas triangle would probably be about $33 if it were in operation today.

"I think the Japanese use about 16 cars, and each one holds about as many as a 737 jet, or about 100 to 110 passengers each. So you're looking at the equivalent of about 16 airplanes with each train," Poerner said.

Of the $38 million set aside, "we need about $5 million for a study of the Texas portion. The study would show, for example, if it's feasible to stop anywhere along the line. It could be an Austin, Waco or College Station stop might be feasible," Poerner said.

Passenger trains were considered by many to be a thing of the past by many people, particularly with the advent of low-cost air transportation, which allows a person to fly from either of Texas' three major cities to the other for as little as $24.

"Well, it was a thing of the past until the cost of gasoline began going sky high," Poerner said.

He predicted gasoline prices will hit $5 a gallon by the year 2000.

Officers examine failed rescue mission

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five senior retired and active officers, "free to call the shots as they see them," have begun a special investigation of the failed U.S. commando effort to free 53 U.S. hostages from Iran.

"Since no plan is perfect, the major reason for conducting this review is neither a whitewash nor a witchhunt, but an effort to identify areas where improvements can be made in any such future operations," the Pentagon said Monday.

The "broad examination" of the Iran hostage rescue mission, as the Pentagon described it, actually began a week ago. Pentagon officials said the announcement was held up because a sixth member had to withdraw.

Controversy has swirled around the mission since it was canceled April 24 at a desert refueling stop in Iran.

Three of eight helicopters had dropped out with mechanical problems and Army Col. Charles Beckwith, who led the 90 U.S. commandos, recommended cancellation because he felt the remaining five helicopters were too few to carry out a successful hostage rescue from Tehran.

Eight airmen and marines died in a fiery collision of a helicopter and a C-130 transport plane after the mission was aborted.

President Carter has praised the planning, training and logistic preparations for the mission and has said "everyone believed (it) had a good chance for success."

But critics in Congress have contended more helicopters should have been assigned to the operation. Some have questioned advance planning, helicopter maintenance, and failure to forecast a cyclonic dust storm that may have contributed to the helicopter breakdowns.

Although the special investigation is separate from an "after-action" inquiry being conducted by staff officers for the military chiefs, it may not satisfy some critics who have called for an "impartial review" outside the military.

The Pentagon said members of the special panel had no connection with the rescue mission and were picked by the Joint Chiefs of Staff for their "broad military experience, including expertise in clandestine-special operations."

Heading the panel is retired Adm. James L. Holloway, former chief of naval operations.

GETTING READY FOR SUMMER. Tampa Municipal Pool Manager Gary Meador skims the water of the pool Monday on the first day of swimming. A sizable turnout of "hot" citizens took advantage of the liquid retreat from the heat at the pool, located at 800 Sloan. Opening of the Marcus Sanders Memorial Pool has been delayed, city officials said, because of a lack of lifeguards for the facility. A lifeguard is presently being trained for the position. Administrative Assistant David Callison said the pool is expected to open in two to three weeks, he said, when the prospective lifeguard has completed training. Pool fees are 75 cents for students and $1 for adults. Callison said.

Band carnival opens tonight

The annual Harvester Band Booster Carnival is scheduled to begin tonight at 5 p.m. in the Coronado Center parking lot — weather permitting, of course.

The five-day carnival will feature the infamous "dunkin' board," described by assistant band director Jim Duggan as "always a big attraction."

Also available will be a food booth filled with goodies from Band Boosters' kitchens and the rides and booths provided by Strate's Midwest Shows.

Activities will begin at 5:30 p.m., Duggan said, and will continue until closing time which will vary according to turnout. The carnival will open earlier on Saturday and Sunday, he said.

Proceeds from the carnival will go to the Band Booster Club funds to be used for the trip to Hawaii and other band activities.

Explosion rips home of Yugoslavian official

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bomb exploded at the home of a Yugoslavian embassy official here early today, shattering the pre-dawn quiet and showering debris into the street, police said.

No injuries were reported.

Authorities said there was no indication who was responsible for the explosion, which happened shortly before 4 a.m. EDT at the home of Vladimir Sindjelic, first secretary of the Yugoslavian embassy. Charles Troublefield, District of Columbia deputy police chief, said Sindjelic had suspected prowlers around the house two nights before the blast.

Troublefield said the bomb, described as a plastic explosive, was placed in a flower box under a front window. Windows at the front of the house were blown out and part of the roof was ripped off.

Sindjelic said he, his wife, Leposava, and their nephew, Slobodan Pesic, were upstairs at the time of the explosion and remained there until police arrived.

"We were afraid they were terrorists. We stayed inside," he said. FBI agents and District of Columbia police immediately sealed off the area.

Police said the blast shattered windows across the street and was heard blocks away.

Effort to prohibit CIA use of journalists fails

WASHINGTON (AP) — Under pressure from his colleagues on the Senate Intelligence Committee, Sen. Daniel Moynihan, D-N.Y., said today he would abandon his efforts to prohibit CIA use of journalists.

Moynihan released to reporters a letter signed by the panel's chairman, Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., and five other committee members, which urged their fellow senators to defeat Moynihan's measure.

Saying he "could not hope" to overcome that kind of opposition, Moynihan said he would offer and then withdraw his amendment when a Central Intelligence Agency "oversight" bill comes to the Senate floor this week, perhaps as early as today.

"I want it debated," Moynihan said. "But I don't want them to vote against the principle on a vote that won't be a matter of principle."

Martha Coleman questioned in Jordan shooting

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — Martha C. Coleman, the only person with Vernon E. Jordan Jr. when he was shot, met with federal agents behind closed doors as investigators checked every tip and every phone call for clues in the attack on the National Urban League president.

Jordan, who was shot in the lower back with a bullet from a .30-06 rifle, was in serious but stable condition Monday. Hospital officials said he continued to show steady progress and walked with the aid of two other people, his first steps since the hotel parking lot shooting early Thursday.

The attack came as the civil rights leader got out of a car driven by Mrs. Coleman, 36. He had joined the Fort Wayne Urban League member for coffee at her home.

Mrs. Coleman, who had been in seclusion since the shooting, met with FBI agents Monday, according to agent Roy Mitchell, who declined to disclose details immediately.

Her lawyer, Charles Leonard, blamed the delay on "an incident that greatly troubled my client and greatly troubled me." He did not elaborate, saying only that the incident had been resolved.

Special agent Wayne G. Davis, who is heading the federal investigation, has said he hoped Mrs. Coleman's testimony could lead to a break in the case.

In a copyright story published in Monday afternoon's editions of the Fort Wayne News-Sentinel, columnist Dan Luzadder said Mrs. Coleman called him Friday afternoon and said, "I'm doing whatever my attorneys are advising me to do."

"I'm letting them handle the thing in the way they think is best. I'm not going to talk about it. You know I'm not going to say anything now. Not until the attorneys say so. I'm a little scared. I'm under a doctor's care, but I'm all right."

She continued, "I don't have anything to hide. I didn't see a thing out there. I told the police that when I talked to them. I didn't see any vehicle. I didn't see any person out there. I heard the shot, but I didn't know what it was then. I didn't know what a gunshot sounded like. I just saw him fall behind the car. That's all."

Meanwhile, authorities kept busy chasing an endless parade of tips.

Mayor Winfield Moses said authorities received a call Saturday from a resident of Auburn, 20 miles north of Fort Wayne.

"The caller said he had seen someone throw something into a pond near his house and whatever it was had sunk to the bottom," Moses said. The FBI flew agents and skin-divers to Auburn, he said, but nothing was found.

On Monday, detectives slogged through deep mud a half-mile from the site of the shooting and added a campsite resembling "one that a Boy Scout might build" to the list of possible clues.

But Fort Wayne detective John Phenice said, "We have no evidence to connect it with what happened." He said the campsite most likely was built by children long ago.

Storms pummel the Midwest

By The Associated Press

A series of violent storms, packing high winds, hail and tornadoes, pummeled Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Michigan, killing two persons, injuring at least 35 and causing millions of dollars of property damage.

"It was unbelievable," said Postmaster Donald Ringenberg after the roof collapsed Monday at the Pekin, Ill., post office during a driving electrical storm Monday.

"There was no real warning. It sagged down in the middle of the building and then collapsed under a tremendous force of water."

No one was injured in the incident, which occurred after 5 inches of rain fell on the area near Peoria, officials said.

Thunderstorms blasted Michigan's southern Lower Peninsula early today, knocking out electricity to about 9,500 customers, triggering minor flooding and causing at least one storm-related death.

Kenneth Strayer, 64, of Osseo, Mich., was killed when his car collided with a tree blown down in high winds during the storm on Michigan 34 west of Adrian in Lenawee County, reported sheriff department Sgt. William Waycaster.

Detroit Edison Co. crews worked to restore power to customers in Washtenaw, Monroe, Oakland and western Wayne counties, said utility spokeswoman Peg Furlong.

Three tornadoes touched down in central Illinois and two Illinois State University students were injured when lightning struck near them, authorities reported. University officials said the two were in fair condition Monday night.

Elsewhere in Illinois, hail the size of tennis balls damaged crops and cars near Macomb in the western part of the state; civil defense crews were forced to rescue 20 children stranded by high water at a nursery school in Morton; and an ambulance on the trip from Champaign to Lafayette, Ind., to pick up a patient was blown over west of Danville.

Numerous tornadoes accompanied by heavy thunderstorms slashed across southern and eastern Iowa Monday. More than 6 inches of rain fell on Lee County in the southeastern-most part of the state, causing flash floods.

A Monday morning tornado slammed into a Chicago & North Western freight train, derailing seven of its 116 cars near Allerton.

"In my whole life, I've never heard of anything like this," said D.B. Carlisle, a division manager for the railroad.

The fatality occurred in western Indiana, where Twilla G. Emery, 46, was struck and killed by flying debris from her trailer, officials said. Her 15-year-old son, who was inside the trailer when the high winds struck, was seriously injured, authorities said.

"The trailer is scattered over 20 or 30 acres," said Montgomery County Coroner Russell Powers.

Several tornadoes were reported in Indiana, but only one in northeast Indianapolis was confirmed by the National Weather Service. High winds also tore off a portion of the roof at Culver Hospital in Crawfordsville, but damage was limited to some hospital records, officials said.

There were at least 24 persons injured by the storms in Indiana, police said.

Suburbs north of Cincinnati seemed to be the hardest hit in Ohio. Police in Madeira reported part of the roof of the high school cafeteria was pulled off by the Monday storm. No injuries were reported.

Cincinnati area hospitals said 10 persons were treated for slight injuries after the storm struck shortly after 5 p.m. It was the second straight day of severe thunderstorms and punishing winds in Ohio.

Accident victim released
 MCKINNEY — A Pampa woman, seriously injured in a motorcycle accident which killed her husband, was released from Collin Memorial Hospital early today. Betty Mackie, 49, of 1401 S. Barnes was released from the hospital this morning, a hospital spokesperson said. However, the spokesperson said, Mrs. Mackie is still recuperating from the multiple fractures and internal injuries she received in the accident on May 25. Her husband, Joe Edd Mackie, also 49-years-old, died in the hospital emergency room two hours after the mishap. At 11:35 a.m. that day, according to police reports, the couple were traveling east on Highway 380 about six miles west of McKinney when Mackie apparently veered into oncoming traffic. The motorcycle went into a ditch, striking a culvert and became airborne for 87 feet. DPS troopers said.

Teenager assessed life term
 DALLAS (AP) — Jurors recommended life in prison Monday for a Dallas teenager convicted of murdering a policeman in an automobile collision last year. Ronald Dixon, 17, was convicted of murdering Duncanville police Sgt. Michael Poe, one of three people who died in a fiery head-on crash between a patrol car and Dixon's stolen automobile. District Judge Herbert Line has not yet set a date for formal sentencing. Also killed were Eric Hill, 16, a passenger in the stolen car, and Duncanville police rookie Roger Hobden. Dixon has been indicted for murder in their deaths. Assistant District Attorney Kelly Loving pleaded emotionally for the life sentence, telling jurors that the deceased "loved living" and that he "looked forward to showing his boy how to catch a fish, and (to) being there when his little girl wore her first long dress." Poe's wife, who is expecting his child soon, attended some of the courtroom sessions, but had to leave during some earlier emotional testimony. Loving said Poe was part of a "thin blue line between you and I and the people who would destroy everything important to us." Defense attorney Vince Perini urged jurors not to be intimidated by the number of police officers attending the trial and said, "Please be fair to this black teenage boy." Poe was killed Dec. 3 when Dixon's stolen car, allegedly leaving the scene of a burglary, crossed a median and smashed into Poe's squad car. Two Dallas police cars were wrecked during the 10-minute, 100-mph chase.

TAKE ON TOUGH TERRAIN WITH THE TIGER.

Like its namesake, this self-propelled Tiger is at home on uneven terrain. It's quick to respond. And response begins in the palms of your hands. For instance, release the DriveMaster control lever and the mower can be pulled backward almost as easily as it moves forward. The overriding clutch makes "free wheeling" turns without scuffing the grass. Hahn's exclusive left side trimmer notch lets grass spring up so the blade can trim close, clean and beautifully. See our riding Tigers and lawnmowers soon. You won't go in the tall grass without one.

LaGrange representative undergoing chemotherapy

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Doctors have discovered a malignant tumor in Rep. John Wilson of La Grange, a four-term House member who is now seeking a Texas Senate seat, according to a Wilson aide.

Wilson, 40, is undergoing chemotherapy for lung cancer, Pat Settle, his campaign treasurer, said Monday.

The La Grange Democrat was an apparent 600-vote victor in the May 3 primary election, but James Carroll of Temple asked for a recount.

In a telephone interview with Wilson's campaign headquarters in La Grange, Settle said Wilson's physician referred him to Hermann Hospital in Houston for tests after he began wheezing during the campaign.

"They did find a tumor in his lung and it was malignant," Ms. Settle said.

Wilson is seeking the Senate seat now held by Bill Patman, D-Ganado, who ran for Congress instead. Wilson and Carroll campaigned over a 13-county district extending from the Gulf Coast to Temple.

Ms. Settle said the diagnosis of lung cancer came Saturday and Wilson began receiving chemotherapy the same day. No surgery is planned, she said.

Doctors believe the tumor can be controlled with chemotherapy, according to Ms. Settle.

"He's doing fine and will continue the race. ... He is in the greatest of spirits," Ms. Settle said of Wilson, who was discharged from the hospital Sunday.

Tucson back to normal after tritium scare

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The Baptist church still holds Sunday services. Traffic still flows along South Plumer Avenue. Children still walk through the midtown Tucson neighborhood on their way to parochial school.

But underlying the calm are reminders of the turmoil created last year when a local plant was accused of leaking radioactive tritium, enough so it showed up in a cake baked in a nearby school kitchen.

Today the red brick and adobe buildings of the American Atomics Corp. plant on South Plumer Avenue stand virtually empty, a "For Lease" sign in front of one.

Last spring, the Arizona Atomic Energy Commission accused American Atomics of allowing excessive emissions of tritium. Company officials denied the accusations.

But on June 1, 1979, tests performed in the school kitchen showed that cake, which had been served to 40,000 school children in the Tucson Unified School District, contained excessive amounts of tritium.

The public, already concerned by the earlier allegations, became alarmed. American Atomics said low levels of tritium were not harmful to people, but two weeks later, after furious efforts to rid the area of radiation, the plant was ordered closed.

Questions and unresolved issues remain a year later. Possibly the most significant is just how harmful a substance is tritium, a low-level radioactive hydrogen isotope. Even experts cannot agree what it will do.

Also undecided is what to do with the American Atomics' valuable tritium. Most of the tritium that was removed from the plant under Gov. Bruce Babbitt's orders four months after the closure remains at the Navajo Army Ordnance Depot outside Flagstaff. Plans to sell it or otherwise move it out of Arizona have been stalled.

"We're still waiting for a letter from the Department of Energy because proposals from the private sector have not worked out," said governor's aide Dale Pontius.

Also pending is decontamination of the American Atomics plant. The company went broke and the facility is under control of the U.S. Bankruptcy Court and the state.

It is being decontaminated now — slowly. Darrel Warren, the supervising state health physicist, said American Atomics is strapped for funds and is using only two or three cleaners.

The state Atomic Energy Commission is inspecting the cleanup, testing each piece of equipment to make sure all traces of radiation are removed. When all the equipment is cleaned, the buildings themselves will be scrubbed inside and out.

"All it takes is someone getting down with a scrub brush and a mop and using elbow grease to clean it up," said Warren.

The bankruptcy action, filed by American Atomics after its main asset — tritium — was removed by the state, is nowhere near resolution. Last week, the court gave the company permission to auction more than 300 pieces of equipment and furniture that had been decontaminated.

School lunches have been prepared in individual school kitchens since the district's central kitchen was closed.

American Atomics is out of business in Tucson. But company president Peter Biehl is an officer in a new company that has applied for licensing to operate a similar but smaller plant near Odessa, Texas.

Except that 200 American Atomics employees no longer show up for work each day, the South Plumer Avenue neighborhood appears to be about back to normal.

Police radio damaged in storm operating on auxiliary units

Pampa police are still in radio operation on an emergency basis due to a lightning-damaged antenna.

Lightning struck the radio antenna of the Pampa Police Department Saturday evening shorting out the police frequencies and forcing the department to use one channel for all transmissions.

"Lightning struck the radio antenna on top of the building (city hall) Saturday," Police Chief J. J. Ryzman said. "and knocked out all the police frequencies."

The mishap occurred at about 7 p.m. Saturday, he said. "We immediately went to mobile dispatching when we found the radio wasn't working," he said.

A police unit was parked on the ramp in front of the department. Ryzman said, and was used for radio communications until the dispatching radio was repaired.

"We now have a temporary set-up for one frequency," he said, adding only the main police channel was operable at this time.

"It will be several days before we are completely back in operation," Ryzman said.

Several pieces of the radio equipment were damaged by the electrical surge caused by the lightning. Many replacement parts will have to be air-freighted in, he added.

Stork racing with jail term

LEESBURG, Fla. (AP) — Shirley Dianne Willis, sentenced to 20 days in jail for driving without a license, hopes her jail stint will end before her pregnancy comes to term.

Ms. Willis is eight months pregnant. Lake County Judge Roy W. Caldwell ignored that in sentencing the 19-year-old, who had been on probation for a series of similar charges.

"The sentence was warranted," Caldwell said Monday. "I wouldn't have put her in there if I didn't think it was safe."

The 20 days will be up June 17. The baby is due June 27, said Harvey Johnson, father of the unborn child.

Caldwell said he thinks the young woman will have just enough time to serve her sentence before giving birth. If she doesn't "either welfare will pay for it or we'll pay for it," he said.

"Driving without a license is hardly something you'd send an expectant mother to jail for," said Johnson, 46. The couple has lived together in Kenansville, 80 miles southeast of here, for four years along with Ms. Willis' son, Ronnie.

Ms. Willis pleaded guilty Thursday to two counts of driving without a license and had been on probation in nearby Osceola County for four counts of having no license and one count of having no tag on her car.

Johnson, who works at a maintenance job at a marina, said he's worried.

Bees buzz machinists

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — Employees at Lone Star Machine Co. got an unexpected break from work Monday.

A swarm of about 10,000 bees invaded their shop.

The quivering swarm landed on a forklift truck outside, but workers succeeded in slamming the machine shop door closed before the bees could make their entry.

A two-hour standoff occurred then, as the bees buzzed outside and the employees huddled at the back of the building.

Roy Hammond, vice president of the company, finally decided to test a story he'd heard about swarming bees being docile. Workers opened the machine shop door again, and Hammond stuck his hand in the vibrating mass.

Hammond looked through the newspaper for a classified ad he recalled seeing. He called Wichita Falls beekeeper Skeet Long, who had been seeking information about 10,000 Italian bees he lost in the April 10, 1979 tornado that devastated much of the city.

Houston miffed over road fund distributions

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Chamber of Commerce says the state favors Dallas and Tarrant counties over Harris County in state funding for highway construction although both areas are about the same size in square miles and population.

Bill Klotz, chairman of the chamber's transportation committee, issued the report Monday using highway mileage and traffic statistics for 1970 through 1978.

The figures showed that highway funding for Harris County was $424,990,000 for that period and $711,690,000 was spent during the same period in Dallas and Tarrant counties.

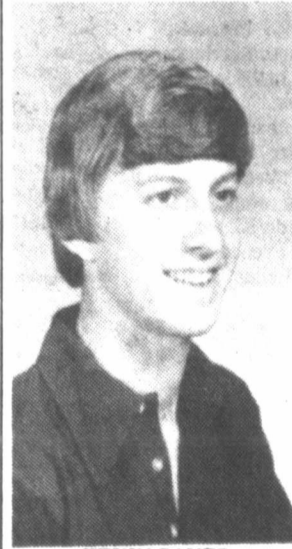

The report said as of 1978 Harris County had 36 per cent fewer miles of highways than Dallas and Tarrant counties combined and almost 50 per cent more traffic per average highway.

Because an equivalent amount of traffic was squeezed onto fewer highway lanes in Harris County, the report said, traffic congestion is much worse here than in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

"Historically, highway construction expenditures have heavily favored Dallas and Tarrant counties, outpacing state expenditures in Harris County by 67 per cent since 1970," the report said.

The current 20-year development plan of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation offers little hope of change, the report said.

Repackaging PAC 'gifts'

By Robert Walters
WASHINGTON (NEA) - An important revision of the federal law governing the financing of political campaigns, necessary to restrain the influence of wealthy special-interest groups, is in danger of being scuttled by Congress.

The measure would for the first time establish a ceiling on the aggregate amount of campaign contributions a candidate for the House or Senate could receive from political-action committees.

Those PAC's - organized and operated by trade associations, corporations, labor unions and other groups seeking to influence congressional legislation - have experienced explosive growth in recent years.

During the 1974 campaign, candidates for Congress received $12.5 million in PAC donations. That figure soared to $22.5 million in 1976, increased to $35.1 million in 1978 and almost certainly will top $50 million this year.

Accounting for most of the growth are business-related PAC's, which numbered fewer than 250 at the end of 1974 but proliferated to 1,100 by the close of 1978. Expenditures by PAC's within the pharmaceutical industry, for example, rose from $61,000 in 1976 to $314,000 in 1978, while PAC outlays went from $77,000 to $354,000 in the airline industry and from $214,000 to $502,000 in the chemical industry.

Any naive notions that such expenditures are made by patriots seeking to advance the cause of democracy by providing financial assistance to outstanding public servants can be promptly dispelled by a cursory examination of where the money comes from and where it goes.

Corporations and trade associations invariably concentrate their giving in the areas where their parochial interests can be most efficiently advanced. That usually means contributing to senior members of the congressional committees that have jurisdiction over legislation affecting their industry.

Thus, an average of $23,000 in PAC contributions was received in 1978 by candidates who had no opposition in either the primary or general elections but whose support was being solicited by various special-interest groups.

Similarly, several senior members of the House Ways and Means Committee, which initiates tax legislation that can cost (or save) individual corporations millions of dollars annually, received more than $100,000 apiece in PAC contributions in 1978.

Federal law currently limits individual PAC contributions to each House and Senate candidate to $10,000 per election year - $5,000 in the primary and $5,000 in the general election - but there is no ceiling on the aggregate amount a politician's campaign treasury may receive from all PACs.

Last October, however, the House voted 217-198 to amend the law to reduce the maximum amount a candidate could receive in any election year to $6,000 from a single PAC and $70,000 from all PACs collectively.

Although that measure, co-sponsored by a Republican and a Democrat, received the support of more than two dozen GOP members of the House, it has been opposed by the Republican leadership in both the House and the Senate.

Those GOP leaders claim their objections are based not on what the bill contains but on what it omits: There is no provision dealing with labor unions' use of members' due payments to finance unrelated but equally controversial political operations.

Although outnumbered in the Senate, Republicans have bottled up the bill by threatening to mount a time-consuming filibuster if the House-approved measure is called up for debate on the Senate floor.

If the legislation isn't approved by the Senate before Congress adjourns in early autumn, the House effort will have been futile and the process will have to begin anew when the 97th Congress convenes next January.

In addition to thwarting a needed reform, the Senate Republicans are hurting themselves because more than half of all PAC contributions go to the chairman of congressional committees - and they're all Democrats.

Get out of our homes

The only thing more nonsensical than the pyramid crowd's claim that their money-shuffling games bolster the economy is the dragnet that local law enforcement has applied against these consenting adults.

For some weeks now, the chain-letter craze has swept our area, the something-for-nothing appeal being made at private parties instead of through the mail. Thousands of dollars are being paid in the hope that later recruits will reimburse those at the bottom of the pyramid; all the while, money keeps floating to the lucky souls at the top. Eventually some people are going to lose, but the multitudes attending these parties accept that risk. Well, nearly all the attendees do. A few these days don't have their hearts in the game. They are undercover police officers, there to roust and even arrest their fellow citizens. Some of the pyramidists have gone to jail.

Throughout the area, there is outrage that the police do not have anything better to do than to bust pyramid parties. Many of the aggrieved participants are middle-class sorts who've never had a run-in with the law before. Perhaps this is a good learning experience for them. The police are apparently entitled to infiltrate these gatherings because of a law somebody passed that made "endless chain" schemes illegal in order to protect the stupid. Much of the anger that's felt toward the meddling police could best be applied to repealing these statutes from the books, and avoiding future ones.

Of course, the discarding of victimless-crime laws is going to have to be accompanied by popular realization that we are each responsible for our own actions. Many people have forgotten that in these days of paternalistic government, take the man who called the Bur bank police to say, "Hey, my wife just pulled all of our savings out of the bank and went off to a pyramid meeting. What are you guys going to do about it?"

We're getting a good taste of what happens when the state "does something about it."

Fidel is in trouble

Fidel Castro's victory in Cuba happened in the blink of an eye. Seemingly overnight his forces triumphed and the dictator fled. Yes, he had been struggling for years, but the Batista dictatorship seemed so powerful one day and the next day - it was gone. That was December 1958. Recent events in Cuba suggest Castro's blood-soaked regime could end just as quickly.

Since mid-1970 Castro has seemed like a powerful world leader, sending troops to the ends of the world and making speeches that would put Mussolini to shame. Like that Italian dictator, Castro sticks out his chest; it's all show.

Over the years Castro's dictatorship has never been able to make the Cuban economy function. Crop failures wrecked the once strong agricultural economy. The cause: "natural calamity," of course. Industrial shutdowns threw large numbers of workers into the streets. The reason: laziness of the people, not the government. Castro's communist regime is one of the few forces incompetent enough to bring once tobacco-rich Cuba to the point that it now imports Spanish tobacco in order to make its famous cigars.

Until the takeover of the Peruvian Embassy few leftists would admit the depth of discontentment in Cuba. To the American left Fidel was a visionary, an idealist after their own kind. There may be validity to that identification; Castro has wrecked the economy of his island nation in the same way American leftists would ruin this nation's economy if they got a chance. Idealists may make good revolutionaries - they love to kill for their ideology - but they rarely are good at making an economy run.

Castro's current display of inhumanity may be turning off some of his trendy leftist support in the United States. It is a bit difficult to overlook the murderous actions of the last few weeks. The bearded dictator has taken hospital patients and loaded them onto boats and pushed them into stormy seas. Last Saturday 14 people drowned when a 36-foot boat capsized. The captain said that Cuban authorities had forced him to take 52 refugees aboard, many more than was safe, and misled him about sea conditions. While such barbarity will disillusion many, some supporters will undoubtedly remain loyal. No one should, for example, hold his breath waiting for a protest from Jane Fonda and Tom Hayden.

None of this is being lost on the Russians, which likely explains the purpose for their combat brigade. They have been subsidizing Castro to the tune of $8 million a day and they are not likely to let this valuable base for subversion sink. Nevertheless it is possible that even the massive military might of the Soviet Union may not be able to save Fidel. If the Soviet presence is expanded surely Castro's popularity will suffer even further.

In the early 1960s, when the threat of a communist Cuba was understood, it was thought that United States military force might be needed to rid the hemisphere of the menace. Such an operation would have been costly in human and political terms. The way things are developing, Castro's regime could disappear without our military firing a shot.

Muskie and the French

by ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON--Secretary of State Edmund Muskie has a lot to learn about diplomacy, and there is no better place to start than with the French.

Last week he made a boo-boo by attacking President Giscard d'Estaing for meeting with Leonid Brezhnev in Warsaw without first telling the United States. What irked Muskie most is that he had just received a dressing-down from the French foreign minister because the United States was failing to consult with France.

The other item that got the secretary's dander up was France's decision to go to the Olympics in Moscow.

What Muskie must learn is what any tourist who has been to Paris knows, and that is, if you want to get the French to do something, you have to indicate that you desire them to do the exact opposite.

For example, when the secretary was in Brussels, he should have taken Foreign Minister Jean Francois-Poncet aside (the French love to be taken aside and whispered to), and said, "Mr. Minister, I must tell you this in the strictest confidence. We want the French to go to the Olympics in Moscow because we believe that your athletes are the only ones who can beat the Russians. President Carter has asked me to instruct you that no matter what he says publicly, he believes privately it is in the best interest of the West if you compete."

Francois-Poncet would have said, "Of course, we want to do what's best for the West. We will send a team." Then he would have excused himself and got on the scramble line to President Giscard.

"Monsieur le President, I have just spoken to Secretary of State Muskie, and he informs me that the U.S. wants France to go to the Moscow Olympics."

"Alors. This means, of course, we cannot go. Are you sure they want us to attend?"

"Yes. Monsieur Muskie took me aside, and told me it is in the best interests of the allies if the French appear at the Games."

"We shall see what is in the best interests of the West. If Carter thinks we will go to Moscow just because he wants us to, then he will be very disappointed. Frankly, Jean, I intended to send our team, but now if I wanted to I couldn't, as we would only be playing into American hands."

"Exactly my thoughts, Monsieur le President. Muskie must take us for fools."

"What did you tell him?"

"I told him we would gladly send a team to the Olympics if the U.S. thought it was the right thing to do."

"Good. Tomorrow I will announce that we have no intention of sending one and never did. I shall say France intended to boycott Moscow long before the United States thought of the idea."

"I can't wait to see Muskie's face when you do it. Do you intend to meet with Leonid Brezhnev in Warsaw, Monsieur le President?"

Who's calling

By D.R. Segal

A Beloved Director of the Millard Fillmore Society, of which I have the honor to be the Beloved Founder, asked for a lack-of-progress report the other day and I was able to point to a splendid first quarter of absolute inactivity and even some encouraging signs of regression. He looked real pleased. There is blessed little one can count on these days, but the invigorating inertia of the Millard Fillmore Society is one of them.

The Millard Fillmore Society's entire purpose, as you may know, is to eliminate the practice of asking, "Who's calling, please?" by invariably answering, "Millard Fillmore here." The Millard Fillmore Society has no meetings, dues, bylaws, uniforms, insignia or membership cards. You are welcome to consider yourself a member at any time with the rank of Beloved Director. Your only obligation is to take a paralyzed oath that you will always answer "Millard Fillmore here" when the secretary asks who is calling. That's all. In return you will have that fine warm feeling of being a prime mover in a noble and useless organization which is not really organized at all. You can't beat that, as Cal tells his dog Spot.

It is, in strict point of fact, quite accurate to say that the Millard Fillmore Society has steadfastly eschewed any of the trappings and encumbrances of Progress, but there have been certain amounts of restrained hilarity. For example - one of my principal clients is a Newport Beach law firm whose switchboard operator always wants to know who is on the other end. They had a new girl the other day, and when I said, "Millard Fillmore here," she replied: "How many l's, please?"

In another heartwarming episode, I returned a call to a New York banker who is painfully British. They asked, of course, who was calling his Lordship and I said Millard Fillmore. They put him on the phone and he said, "Hello, Mr. Fillmore." I said hello, old chap, and we carried on a fine conversation. I told him I used to work for the government and that seemed to confuse him. We chatted amiably for awhile - at least I was amiable and he was a little nifty. I thought, I mean, Millard Fillmore is not exactly a household word in Great Britain or even in Newport Beach, for that matter. I don't think he ever got it entirely straight, but neither did the young lady in Newport Beach, which is a high-rent district and you expect a lot of people down there.

Well, this is not very exciting, but we are not an exciting group of people - only hard-working, dedicated and tired of being asked who we are. If you think you're a member, you are. And if something noteworthy happens to you in the pursuit of your duties as a Beloved Director, I would like you to write me about it. There is absolutely no prize or recognition offered in return. The only thing worse than Progress is incentive and we will have no truck with that.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: This letter is written in response to the woman whose son was planning to marry a paraplegic. I am a rehabilitation counselor, working solely with spinal cord injured persons. I was distressed, but not surprised, that the woman referred to her future daughter-in-law as an "invalid."

Her ignorance concerning the limitations of persons with spinal cord injuries is all too common. This lack of understanding can be a far greater hardship to a person with such an impairment than the impairment itself.

There is no way to undo generations of misinformation in one letter, but I will try: The easiest way is simply to list some of the things a paraplegic (one with lower body paralysis) can do, with proper equipment and/or assistance:

Work, play, marry, divorce, love, be loved, have sex, become a parent, raise children, keep house, drive a vehicle, shop, attend school, church and engage in sports. I could fill your column with more, but I think you get the general idea.

Of course, each situation is different, depending on the extent of injury, motivation, environmental barriers, attitudinal barriers and other factors. But then we're all different, aren't we? Some of us able-bodied people do very little with our lives while others accomplish a great deal. The same applies to persons with physical disabilities.

What we can all do is make sure that we never prevent another human being from living as full and rewarding a life as he is capable of. Let's not be barriers ourselves.
JOE BUTLER, BATESVILLE, ARK.

DEAR JOE: Right on!

CONFIDENTIAL to those who have sent for Abby's booklets: Please, please be patient. I am literally deluged with orders and am getting them out as quickly as possible.

MENDING MATURE MARRIAGE

By LOUISE PIERCE

This is going to be a protest message. I shall protest against the know-it-alls, either amateur psychologists or highly educated marriage counselors, who keep telling us that older marriage is on the rocks.

I don't believe it. I don't want you readers to, either.

The happiest couples I know are those our age. My young friends worry over bills and babies and bickings and battleships. But those weary fears are behind us. So I resent any writer's saying that bitterness between mates is a natural result of growing older.

My acquaintance is not nationwide, of course. But I can't agree with the statement by one so-called authority that most retired couples who stay together, do so in hostility and hate. The dozens of couples that we eat and dance and visit and travel with are all happily married and intend to spend the rest of their lives in each other's company.

So let's examine the arguments that certain writers give for what they call the deterioration of our-age unions:

(1) One counselor states that 70 percent of all retired couples can't stand each other. This has to be a questionable estimate. No national poll is mentioned. If an isolated group has agreed to this figure, I can't believe that it is widespread.

Sometimes counselors themselves are divorced and want to share their misery — or they hope their shock technique will gain them readers or they make incorrect guesses. Let's assume that the 70 percent is far too high. And let's keep it as low as we hope it is.

(2) An article in Modern Maturity by Dr. Dorothy C. Finkel claims that unhappy older marriages are rooted in the silence that ensues when a retired couple finds out, as they almost always do, that they have nothing at all to say to each other. She says, "If Grandpa decides to plotz in front of the TV for the rest of his life, there will never be any conversation to sparkle up the sunset years."

In my opinion, nothing could be more incorrect. In the first place, many older couples, including myself and my beloved Otis, would probably welcome the silent treatment once in a while. We both have a lot to say and we never expect to stop saying it.

The argument about TV destroying visiting doesn't hold water either. I know countless couples who enjoy the same shows and comment on them — or who see different plays and tell each other about them. We love discussions about TV fare. And it certainly does not eliminate our conversations.

(3) This same author urges older couples to make an effort to save their marriages, such as learning to communicate, making lists of each other's good and bad points, avoiding grouching, nagging and stinginess — all of which I have been preaching for years. But she propounds, "Don't expect your mate to satisfy all your emotional needs. No spouse can do it — ever." And she concludes, "If nothing works, end the marriage. It is the emotionally mature thing to do in retirement."

That argument should upset all you older married couples. And it will certainly give the go-ahead to those who are teetering on the edge of separation. If authorities write that married happiness ends at retirement, somebody is going to believe it and pass the word to friends and neighbors.

Soon half a dozen will be convinced and will rush to the divorce court. Judges tell us that divorce is contagious, so the disease can affect whole communities. When you hear a thing enough times, you usually decide that smoke means fire — and you can be tempted to burn up your marriage certificate.

I argue fiercely that a loved-and-loving mate's emotional needs can be satisfied by the other. Otis and I have countless friends whose unions are as happy as ours.

So when famous writers say our happiness is doomed because we are older than we used to be, let us assume that they are wrong because we and our spouses are living refutations of such statements.

Marriage is not downbeat for us. It is the most upbeat institution in our world.

DEAR LOUISE: My family never had a divorce until my two sisters both got divorced. They're in their 60s and I always thought they'd stay married like G and I are. But they decided they wanted a change so they got free and took new mates. Now they keep telling me that their new husbands are spicing up their lives and making them happier than they ever were before. They say we'd be happier if we separated and got new partners too. What do you say? D.O.

DEAR D.O.: I say they are emotionally unstable or they don't want you to think they made a mistake. They might even hope to make you as fickle as they are. Either way, stay with your old love. You have a love that I don't believe your sisters will ever find.

Bentsen calls for council to determine productivity

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Senate has approved legislation by U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen that would require the Council on Wage-Price Stability to determine how good a job the federal government is doing in its efforts to stimulate productivity in U.S. businesses.

At least 50 agencies "are actively involved in stimulating productivity" in private industry, Bentsen, but he criticized their attempts as generally "designed for another time and place."

"In today's world, they may well do more harm than good," Bentsen said in calling for establishment of an Office of Productivity within the Council on Wage-Price Stability.

"I for one am not willing to sit idly by while our economy grows weaker and weaker due to stagnating productivity," the Texas Democrat said during debate on the legislation.

He said one-fourth of all available funds for investment are spent trying to comply with government rules and regulations.

In the government's efforts to spark productivity, "we have tried the old remedies that call for pumping up demand, but they were designed for another time and place," Bentsen said.

"In their place is a new theory that stresses the supply side of our economy — expand savings, investments and the pool of goods and services, thereby creating new jobs, turning inflation and accelerating economic growth. It's worked in Germany and Japan, it could work here as well."

Dallas athlete back as food service president

DALLAS (AP) — David Laughlin, once an all-city quarterback and all-city third baseman in Dallas, is back in Texas again.

But not as an astronaut in the space program, as he had hoped when he left in the mid-1960s to accept a football scholarship with the Air Force Academy.

He's the new president of Trailways Food Services, Inc., whose officials hope he will make the same kind of innovative changes that made him the talk of the industry in four years with Trailways' chief competitor, Greyhound Bus Lines.

"The secret of running a good organization is putting together qualified, well-trained employees with the right background with a winning attitude," Laughlin said.

"If you get people like that, properly enthusiastic and get them so they are all marching to the same drummer, they have to be successful," he said.

A shattered collarbone in a scrimmage ended his football career — and his flight fitness — in his sophomore year at the Air Force Academy, but the 31-year-old Laughlin has been covering a lot of ground ever since.

He returned to Dallas, joined the SMU baseball squad and took a part-time job in the mail room at Bonanza Steak House.

He started moving up through the ranks in a hurry and soon found himself, still in his 20s, trying to teach men twice his age how to run their operations better, how to hire better workers and how to train the workers to assure a successful business.

"One of the things that helped me, I'd have to say, is I never minded working hard. I spent a lot of hours working, and I was a young manager at that time," he said.

"I felt there were drawbacks to working with managers older than me. I felt, therefore, I had to do something to compensate for that, although my personnel management skills were not too polished then at all."

Discipline had been hammered home when he was at the Air Force Academy, and to that he added a positive attitude and a determination to let those working for him know that he appreciated them.

In rapid-fire order, Bonanza made him manager, supervisor of several restaurant operations, director of training, director of franchise sales, director of franchise operations and division manager.

"I had visions then of saying I started in the mailroom of this company and became president. You know the old story. I had a lot of pride and loyalty to that company."

He was only 27 but, after eight years with Bonanza, Greyhound hired him to head its fast food operations.

He received extensive media and industry recognition for his innovative management approach and sales-building track record.

Broken leg foils escape

KERRVILLE (AP) — Two prisoners are back in jail today after one of them broke his leg during a weekend escape, foiling their getaway plans.

The two were recaptured by Kerr County sheriff's deputies Monday evening in a school building by the Church of Christ — less than two miles from the jail, officers said.

They apparently had been hiding in the building since they shattered a "break resistant" window and climbed down a homemade rope. One of the prisoners apparently broke his leg as he jumped from the end of the rope to the ground, said sheriff's dispatcher Aaron Saul.

Sheriff Paul Fields identified the escaped prisoners as Lawrence Davis, 27, who was being held on charges of organized crime activity, and James B. Mills, 19, who was serving a nine-month sentence for misdemeanor theft.

Bradford to play in all-star game

VIC BRADFORD, Wheeler's two-way lineman, will play in the Texas North-South All-Star game July 26 in Houston's Astrodome.

Vic Bradford, one of the key players on Wheeler's Class B state football champions last season, will play in the North-South All-Star game July 26 in the Houston Astrodome.

Bradford, who played in the line on both offense and defense for the Mustangs, is a member of the North All-Stars, coached by Tom Kimbrough of Plano.

At 6-1 and 200 pounds, Bradford has been an All-District 4-B selection the past two seasons. He was named to the first team Area Super Team and the third team Texas Super Team as a defensive lineman.

Bradford is vacationing near Los Angeles, California, but he's not letting himself get out of shape.

"He's been running almost everyday in a park to stay tough," Icy Litrell, Bradford's grandmother said. "Vic knows he'll have to stay in shape if he wants to play."

Bradford, a B average student, plans to attend Texas Tech University.

The 46th annual all-star tilt kicks off at 7:30 p.m. in the Astrodome. The all-stars were chosen by the Texas High School Coaches Association.

Oscar Cripps of Spring Branch Stratford will coach the South squad.

Bird earns all-league honors

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — Larry Bird of the Boston Celtics has become the first rookie since 1969 to achieve all-league honors by being named to the National Basketball Association's first team.

Bird, the brilliant passing forward who was a keystone to the Celtics' turnaround from a 29-53 record in 1979 to a league-best 61-21 mark last season, received 110 points in the balloting of a panel of 66 sports writers, three from each league city, who voted at the conclusion of the regular season.

Two points were awarded for each first-team vote and one for each second-team mention.

Bird, who led the Celtics with 21.3 points and 10.4 rebounds per game, is the first rookie to make the squad since Wes Unseld in 1969. Earvin "Magic" Johnson of the Los Angeles Lakers, who lost to Bird by a 63-3 vote in Rookie of the Year balloting, did not make either of the two all-league teams.

The top vote-getter on the first team was Los Angeles Lakers center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who led the Lakers to the NBA title and last week was named the league's Most Valuable Player for an unprecedented sixth time. He received 130 of a possible 132 votes in gaining all-league honors for the seventh time in his 11-year career.

Joining Abdul-Jabbar and Bird on the squad were forward Julius Erving of Philadelphia, 118 1/2 points, and guards George Gervin of San Antonio, 90, and Paul Westphal of Phoenix, 68.

Last year's all-league team consisted of Gervin and Westphal in the backcourt, Houston's Moses Malone at center and forwards Elvin Hayes of Washington and Marques Johnson of Milwaukee.

Johnson and Malone were named to the second team this year, along with Atlanta forward Dan Roundfield and guards Dennis Johnson and Gus Williams, both of Seattle.

Skellytown splits twinbill

Skellytown sneaked past Clarendon, 12-11, in a little league baseball game last week.

Skellytown took a 2-0 lead in the first inning and led until the fourth when Clarendon tied the score at 11-all. Skellytown scored the deciding run in the sixth inning, but it took a sparkling defensive play by Shelby Davis to preserve the victory. Davis, who plays in the infield, stopped a hard-hit grounder in the final inning and threw to second to retire the side.

Joe Don Brown was the winning pitcher after relieving starter Glen Wise.

Collecting hits and rbis for Skellytown were Brent Bridwell, two runs; Glen Wise, three runs and one rbi; Max Hinds, two runs and three rbis; Ty Cross, four rbis; Joe Don Brown, one run and one rbi; Lance Cross, one run and one rbi; Jacky Furgason, one rbi; Rabbit Rogers, one run; Ronnie Jones, two runs and one rbi.

The Lions host White Deer Tuesday and host Lefors in a makeup game Saturday night.

Skellytown-White Deer fell to Clarendon, 20-9, in a Babe Ruth League game last week.

Playing for Skellytown-White Deer were Ray Payne, Adrian Selvidge, Will Brown, Judd Wheeler, Arnie Adkinson, Richard Nichols, Johnny Furgason, Kent Tice, Mike Richardson, Tracy O'Dell, Bobby Brantwein, Daren Bennett, and Austin Lafferty.

Astro-Graph

by bernice bede osol

June 4, 1980

Success in major areas is likely this coming year, but you must be persistent and patient. Your luck and the prospects for substantial rewards increase as the months wear on.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't be lured into a one-upmanship game today. This could lead you to go against what you know in your heart to be right. No one will win. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be on guard in conversations with others today. You could unintentionally tell some tales out of school. When in doubt, say nothing.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Keep a low profile and forego an impulse to impress others with material goods. Your dynamic personality shows best when you're modest.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your luck today is just the opposite of yesterday's when it comes to negotiations. Be polite and cordial to all, but don't sign or agree to anything important.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't treat your duties or obligations with indifference today or you could create serious problems. Act responsibly in all areas.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Resist temptations today to indulge in matters where you lack knowledge or expertise. Be especially careful where money is involved.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) This is not a day to leave things to the last minute. Falling behind schedule could put you in a position where the time can't be made up.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Talking about something today before it is done might cause you later embarrassment. Do your boasting after you've built your bridge.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Manage your resources with extreme prudence today. Treating funds or other valuables carelessly could result in losses of considerable size.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Taking on more than you can handle today could prove to be a very frustrating experience. Know your limitations and operate within those bounds.

ARIES (MARCH 21-April 19) If you have to make a choice today as to where to devote your energies and resources, place the family first. Help others if there's time.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Not everybody else has your good intentions today. Take care. Someone may try to use you as a pawn in his chess game.

THE FIRST DAY OF JUNE brought out sailboats and speedboats Sunday afternoon on the Potomac River near National Airport as warm summer weather hit the area. The speedboat seems to be in a race with this landing jet plane making a final approach to the airport.

Prisoner credited with saving life takes own

CLUTE (AP) — A 22-year-old prisoner saved the life of a fellow inmate and offered to "talk to the man and help him" then apparently hanged himself in the city jail here, police said.

Patrol Lt. David Kirk said he rushed into the jail when David Gale Herndon began raising a ruckus because an inmate in a nearby-cell was trying to hang himself.

"He hollered and I went in there and cut the man down before it was too late," Kirk said. The 18-year-old inmate, who was not identified, was rushed to a nearby hospital where he was treated and released.

When officers returned the younger man to the jail, they found Herndon dead, Kirk said.

"When I talked to him, he was really concerned about the other man. He was not depressed or anything. He even offered to talk to the man and help him," said Kirk, who was noticeably shaken by the incident.

Herndon, a resident of nearby Freeport, was jailed Saturday for assaulting a police officer, Kirk said. He already was on parole from the Texas Department of Corrections on an assault conviction "and there was a good chance he was going back," Kirk said.

"He apparently cut his blanket into strips and tied them to the top bars in the cell, then jumped off his bunk," the officer said.

LeBaron gets life

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Polygamist leader Ervil LeBaron, sentenced to life in prison for the slaying of a rival leader, could be tried in San Diego on another capital murder charge, officials say.

San Diego District Attorney Gary Rempel said it will be several weeks before his office decides whether to extradite LeBaron to face charges in the 1975 killing of Dean G. Vest, who had defected from LeBaron's Church of the Lamb of God.

One of LeBaron's dozen wives, Vonda White, has already been convicted and sentenced to life in that killing.

A nine-man, three-woman jury last week found LeBaron guilty of ordering the May 1977 assassination of Dr. Rulon C. Alfred, a rival polygamist. Alfred was gunned down in his Murray naturopathy office by two women.

LeBaron also was convicted of conspiracy in a plot to kill his brother, Verlan, the leader of a third polygamist group. He was sentenced to a term of five years to life, to run consecutively with the life sentence, for that conviction.

Third District Judge Ernest Baldwin dismissed jurors Monday before the penalty phase of LeBaron's trial began and took sentencing into his own hands.

The dismissal came after he questioned jurors about their knowledge of a television interview with a rival polygamist, a member of Verlan LeBaron's group, who implicated LeBaron in eight slayings.

Under Utah law, a judge cannot hand down a death sentence.

Doctors, pharmacists charged in drug misuse

TYLER (AP) — A year-long federal investigation of drug prescriptions in East Texas resulted in a glut of federal indictments — specifying more than 230 counts — against four doctors and three pharmacists.

A federal grand jury returned the sweeping indictments Monday, their second day in session, in U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice's court.

The indictments did not specify the type of narcotic and an investigator said the cases did not appear to be connected. Investigators from the Drug Enforcement Agency and the State Board of Medical Examiners worked on the cases more than a year.

The investigator said the indictments grew out of last year's undercover investigation that resulted in federal prison terms on similar violations for an Athens radiologist and a Longview pharmacist.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Jeff Baynham said some counts included allegations that narcotics went to persons under age 21.

Two physicians, two osteopaths, three pharmacists and another man were named in the indictments. It was not known Monday night if any of the men had been taken into custody.

Those named were: Dr. Adrian Wolfe, an Athens osteopath, on 72 counts of illegally dispensing narcotics and non-narcotic substances; Dr. Van Pham, Frankston, three counts of illegally prescribing narcotics; Dr. Adron C. Tenbrook, an osteopath from Omaha, 35 counts of illegally prescribing non-narcotic controlled substances, and Dr. Rame Sham Kar Gurav, New Boston, 74 counts of illegally prescribing narcotic and non-narcotic controlled substances.

The pharmacists named were Donald Murphree, Athens, 29 counts of illegally filling prescriptions; James Warren Irwin Jr., Longview, 11 counts of illegally filling and dispensing prescriptions, and Daniel Curtis, New Boston, seven counts of illegally filling and dispensing prescriptions.
