Heavy fallout follows eruption

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — Mount St. Helens roared into another major eruption overnight, and for the first time sent its steam and ash toward a major population center. A million people were warned to stay indoors, and residents were evacuated from the area around the volcano.

From the Portland, Ore., area southward through Oregon's Willamette Valley, residents were urged to wear face masks if they left shelter.

Scientists said the blast Thursday night was the third major eruption in a month and could become the worst since May 18, when the volcano blanketed six states with ash and claimed the lives of dozens of people.

"It looks like an atom bomb," an observer in a U.S. Forest Service plane radioed. "It's very, very black. It's still booming, it's really booming."

The Portland International Airport 40 miles away was closed to traffic as ash-laden rain cut visibility. Within three hours of the eruption, which sent a plume of ash and smoke 10 miles high, a quarter-inch of the powdery grit had accumulated in Hazelwood, just north of Vancouver.

Early today, Portland Mayor Connie McCreedy declared a limited state of emergency and imposed a speed limit of 15 miles per hour.

Across the Columbia River in Vancouver, the Clark County sheriff's office halted patrols and was making only emergency runs.

There were numerous reports of minor traffic accidents and vehicles stalling after ash clogged their air filters.

Pebbles of pumice up to an inch in diameter were reported falling in Cougar, a tiny town 10 miles south of the mountain. Cowitz County sheriff's deputies said people were being evacuated from the restricted "red zone," an area within a 20-mile radius of the peak.

Twenty people at Cougar were evacuated but another 20 at a sporting goods store just down the Lewis River from the logging town were forced to stay put until the ash fallout subsided.

"It's a major eruption," said Pete Rowley, a U.S. Geological Survey geologist. He said the plume from the southwestern Washington mountain, first reported at 8:45 p.m. PDT by an Eastern Airlines pilot, rose as high as 52,000 feet and was the greatest activity since a May 25 blast that stranded thousands of Memorial Day travelers.

He said it might even surpass the May 25 blast.

Elizabeth Reese, who owns a roadside store south of Mount St. Helens, said the fallout appeared to be heavier than that from the May 25 eruption.

"We've got larger chunks, more sand and darker," she said.

The National Weather Service, as a precaution, issued flash-flood watches for the Toutle, Lewis, Kalama and Cowlitz rivers.

The U.S. Forest Service issued an ash warning for the Portland-Vancouver area.

The National Weather Service said winds below the 40,000-foot level were blowing mostly toward the south-southwest.

At higher altitudes, however, winds were blowing north, and Rhonda Brooks of the Washington Department of Emergency Services said there were scattered reports of very light ashfall in the Seattle-Tacoma area, more than 100 miles north of the mountain.

Emergency officials were alerted in five Oregon counties in the possible path of the ashfall. Stores in Portland closed early and Portland police doubled up in cars to cut down on traffic and dust. The Oregon Emergency Services division reminded people to obtain masks and avoid driving if possible.

The May 18 explosion blew 1,300 feet off the top of the volcano, killed at least 24 people and left another 46 people missing. The blowout paralyzed communities in six states to the east with falling ash, devastated thousands of acres of pristine forest and clogged rivers with boiling mudflows.

A week later, ash billowed 40,000 feet into the air and fell along coastal resort areas to the west.

The eruption Thursday came just a few hours before midnight — and Friday the 13th. Scientists had said the moon's tidal pull on the volcano would be slightly greater than normal today and crossed their fingers, hoping the temperamental mountain would not give a boost to the superstitious and erupt.

"If it blows up on Friday, it will set science back 10 years," Rowley had said.

The eruption was accompanied by a harmonic tremor, the kind of earthquake scientists say often indicates the underground movement of molten rock.

"It (the tremor) looks very large...similar to what we saw on the 25th," said Matthew Stadler of the University of Washington seismology office. He had said earlier that instruments recorded what appeared to be a major quake shortly after the eruption began, but later said the initial blast gave a false reading.

UW seismologist Steve Malone said the entire pattern Thursday was similar to that of May 25 — a low-level harmonic tremor building gradually in intensity, ceasing for about an hour and followed by the eruption. He said he notified USGS officials of the first signs of change Thursday and said they, in turn, notified crews in the area.

Three killed, six injured in area head-on crash

SHAMROCK — A head-on collision near Shamrock Thursday claimed the lives of three women and injured six others — including five children.

The two drivers and one passenger were pronounced dead at the scene of the mishap at 11:35 a.m. by Wheeler County Justice of the Peace Jean Rushing.

The victims were identified as Lydia Lillie Martinez, 39, of Eric, Okla.; Anna Blackshear Jolly, 46, of Wheeler and Minnie Gertrude Blackshear, age unavailable, of Wellington by Texas Highway Patrol (THP) trooper Rocky Wardlow.

The two-vehicle accident occurred one and one-eighth mile north of Shamrock on U.S. Highway 83, Wardlow said, involving a 1968 Ford driven by Mrs. Martinez and a 1979 Oldsmobile driven by Mrs. Jolly.

A witness to the crash said the Martinez vehicle, traveling north on the highway, was "weaving" back and forth across the roadway, Wardlow said, touching the center stripe several times.

The actual point of impact was in the southbound lane, he said, when the Martinez vehicle crossed the line about a foot into the southbound section of the highway.

The two vehicles collided "driver to driver", he said, with the Oldsmobile remaining in the roadway and the Ford veering off into the east shoulder of the highway.

Both drivers and Mrs. Blackshear — mother of Mrs. Jolly — were killed instantly, Wardlow said. Mrs. Blackshear was sitting in the right front seat of the vehicle at the time of the mishap, he added.

Two passengers, Reuben Wayne Martinez, 8, of Eric, Okla. and 32-year-old Sharon Gipson of Borger were transferred to Amarillo hospitals.

Mrs. Gipson is listed in critical condition in the Intensive Care Unit at Northwest Texas Hospital, according to Isabel Van Dyke, assistant director of nursing.

The Martinez boy is in satisfactory condition at St. Anthony's Hospital, said hospital spokesperson, Dee Cox.

The two were transferred after receiving initial treatment at the Shamrock Hospital Emergency Room.

Another child injured in the accident, Jackie J. Howell, 5, of Eric, Okla. — half-brother of Reuben Martinez — is listed in stable condition at Shamrock Hospital, according to a hospital spokesperson.

Mrs. Gipson's two daughters, Kari, 4 and Kristi Kaye, 9, both of Borger were admitted to the Shamrock facility, but were released late Thursday.

Dee Ann Jolly, 10, of Wheeler — the daughter of Mrs. Jolly was treated and released at the Shamrock Emergency Room.

Two units of the Wheeler County Volunteer Ambulance Service were called to the accident to help transport victims, Wardlow said. Wheeler County Sheriff's deputies were also at the scene of mishap.

Clayton says he expected indictments

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas House Speaker Bill Clayton, one of the most powerful political figures in the state, stood quietly as a U.S. Magistrate set his June 20 arraignment date on racketeering, conspiracy, extortion and fraud charges.

The veteran lawmaker had said he been expecting Thursday's grand jury indictments since he was caught up in the FBI's undercover Brilab investigation last February.

Houston labor official L.G. Moore, a Houston labor union official, and Austin attorneys Randall D. Wood and Donald W. Ray also were named in the six-count indictment.

Rusty Kelly, administrative aide to Clayton, was named as a co-conspirator, but not as a defendant.

The indictments came almost five months after the grand jury began hearing witnesses and listening to tape recordings of conversations involving Clayton, Moore, Wood, Ray and FBI informant Joseph Hauser.

The indictment charges that Moore, aided by Wood and Ray, delivered $5,000 to Clayton during a meeting on the $70-million-a-year state employees' insurance plan.

Hauser, while working for the FBI, said he posed as a representative of a national insurance company.

The indictment also charged Clayton with accepting a promise of an additional $600,000 if the state employees' insurance contract was awarded to the insurance company Hauser said he represented.

Clayton, 51, has commented frequently on the pending indictments, but immediately was ordered not to discuss the charges by U.S. District Judge Robert O'Connor Jr.

"You are standing next to a man who wanted to be heard by the media," Roy Minton, Clayton's chief attorney, told reporters following his client's appearance before the judge.

Clayton, who said he had planned to give a prepared statement until being told of the gag order, left the federal courthouse without answering any questions.

The three-term Speaker of the House became wealthy by upgrading production at the family farm and by investing in banks. Elected to the House in 1962, he succeeded Price Daniel as speaker in 1974 and was elected to an unprecedented third consecutive term in 1979.

Shortly after that election, he said he would seek a fourth term as speaker, then retire from the House.

A Baptist deacon, Clayton's tenure in the House has been marked by strong conservatism bred in his native West Texas.

The legislator has said he will ask for a speedy trial and will not seek a fourth term if convicted.

Two leading contenders for the 1981 speaker's race are conservative Rep. Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, and moderate-to-liberal Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas. Bryant already has announced he is opposing Clayton in the race while Lewis has said he will not run officially unless Clayton bows out.

Clayton has acknowledged receiving $5,000 from Moore last November. But he said he

Congress takes another look at gas rationing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's latest gasoline rationing plan, which would dilute the effects of an emergency oil shortage with a flood of coupons, is forcing Congress to take yet another journey across familiar but slippery ground.

The lawmakers will decide whether to embrace or reject Carter's proposal under rules that give the plan — sent to Capitol Hill Thursday — a much better chance for approval than versions that died there in past years.

Congress has been demanding a gasoline rationing plan for five years, but earlier efforts by Carter and President Ford died in a din of congressional squabbling over which states would benefit most.

If the new proposal is approved — more precisely if Congress fails to reject it — a 20 percent shortfall in U.S. oil supplies would set in motion a vast new bureaucracy in which thousands of workers would distribute billions of coupons to the owners of 153 million vehicles at a federal cost of $2 billion or more a year.

Theoretically, the set-up would spread the shortage fairly among all Americans. It would give extra weight to farmers and others in agriculture, to states whose drivers use their cars a lot in times of fuel plenty, to mass transit and to anyone else who could convince the government he or she deserved special treatment.

Anyone who didn't use all his coupons could sell them to anyone else for whatever the market would bear.

Most senators and representatives, preoccupied with budget and draft registration votes Thursday, gave no quick indication how they would vote on the new plan.

But Sen. John Culver, D-Iowa, said chances of defeating it under the new rules would be "slim at best," even if farm-state senators opposed it. And they won't, he implied, since it contains a provision they wanted — taking special farm fuel allocations out of the overall national pot rather than out of each state's share.

The House rejected Carter's first stand-by plan after the Senate approved it last year.

Wood says he and Ray expect acquittal

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Randall Buck Wood, former No. 2 man in the State Comptroller's Department, says he and his law partner are innocent and expect to be acquitted of federal charges arising from the FBI's Brilab investigation.

A Houston federal grand jury indicted Wood and his partner, Don Ray, on Thursday along with House Speaker Bill Clayton and Houston labor leader L.G. Moore.

The indictment alleges a scheme under which Clayton received money and the promise of much more in return for using his influence to shift the state's multi-million-dollar group insurance contract to a different insurer. FBI agents and informant Joe Hauser posed as representatives of Prudential Insurance Co. in contacts with Clayton, Wood, Ray and Moore.

Paradoxically, Wood led Common Cause's lobbying effort to pass reform legislation in 1973 after Speaker Gus Mutscher was convicted of conspiracy to accept a bribe.

Wood, 35, said the agents and Hauser sought his and Ray's help, as attorneys, in obtaining the state group insurance contract for Prudential.

"They asked, 'Would it be of help to have the speaker's name in that?' ... We said, 'Sure, it won't hurt anything, and it might help,'" Wood said.

Subsequently, Hauser and Moore, who already knew Clayton, visited the speaker on Nov. 8. Moore left a $5,000 cash campaign contribution.

"I guarantee you we made no arrangements. I had nothing to do with arranging that meeting," Wood said Thursday. "We had no idea those people would bribe Bill Clayton or he would take a bribe. ... Whether he did or not, I don't know. They think or want to charge that we knew about it and knew it was a crime. ... And we just didn't."

Wood and Ray held highly ranked jobs in state government before starting their law firm in 1977.

A 1968 graduate of the University of Texas Law School, Wood was chief of the secretary of state's elections division under Bob Bullock. He quit in October 1972 to become a lobbyist for Common Cause.

Ray was general counsel for Bullock as secretary of state and later signed on briefly as an assistant to Speaker Price Daniel Jr. in late 1974.

During his stint for Common Cause, Wood lobbied for bills resulting from the Sharpstown scandal and Mutscher's conviction. Most of the bills passed, including an Open Records Act, campaign finance reporting law, Lobby Control Act and a financial disclosure act for state officials.

Wood and Ray joined Bullock's management team when Bullock became state comptroller on Jan. 1, 1975. Ray directed field operations for a while and later was put in charge of sales taxes.

Wood was Bullock's No. 2 man, with the title of chief clerk, from early 1976 to mid-1977, when he and Ray both quit to start their law practice.

Bullock was irate over the indictments, which the U.S. Department of Justice sought. Bullock said U.S. Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti, "They ought to get him a good psychiatrist."

"I'm surprised at (U.S. Attorney) Tony Causale for bringing that indictment. ... If I was him, I'd have to go home and throw up," Bullock said.

The comptroller called Wood and Ray "damn good citizens, good people, good public servants."

LOVEBIRDS PEARL GAMMAGE, 79, AND FRANK JOSLYN, 69, relax before their upcoming wedding Saturday evening at 7 p.m. in the Senior Citizens Center. The Rev. Claude Cone will officiate the services in which the bride-elect's son-in-law will give her away in matrimony.

At 79, Pearl Gammage is unusual June bride

By DEBBIE DUKE
Of The Pampa News

June is, as everyone well knows, the traditional month of marriage. Every young lady's dream is to become the talked about "June Bride." But Pearl Catherine Gammage is not your typical June bride.

Ms. Gammage, 79, will become the wife of Frank Joslyn, 69, during a wedding ceremony Saturday evening at 7 p.m. in the Pampa Senior Citizen Center. The Rev. Claude Cone, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Pampa, will officiate. The bride-elect will be given away in marriage by her son-in-law, Darwin Malone, who as Ms. Gammage playfully puts it, "has always said he was going to get rid of me!"

Ms. Gammage, a native of South Texas, has been a resident of Pampa since 1951. In those years she has been employed at numerous Pampa restaurants and has been a member of the First Baptist Church since 1953. She became the mother of ten children, five of which are still living. When asked about grandchildren and great-grandchildren, she exclaimed, "Oh my, I have so many I can't begin to count them all!"

Born in West Missouri, Joslyn explained that he was brought up "all over the world." He was employed as "nearly everything" but worked most of his previous years as a farmer. He became the father of eight, seven of which are living, and has been a resident of the Panhandle since 1936.

"It was love at first sight," Joslyn said, reflecting on the Senior Citizen Center sponsored dance, where he first met Ms. Gammage only two months ago. As for her, she claims she liked "the looks of him." She also made it clear that she thought "he has beautiful eyes."

With a mischievous smile, Ms. Gammage stated openly that her husband was to be the head of the house, but in a second breath sneaked in a playful "but I'm gonna help him." He followed that up with a wink and, "I was afraid of that."

Both are active members of the Senior Citizen Center and reside in the new Pam Apartments. Joslyn will move into Gammage's apartment after the wedding, and the two will reside there together.

"He told me that he didn't know how he ever lived without me," reflected the spirited bride-to-be. With that same effervescent wink and a slight giggle, Joslyn retorted, "And now I don't know how I'm ever going to live with her!"

Anti-superstition meeting today

CHICAGO (AP) — It's Friday the 13th, which means the Anti-Superstition Society will be meeting today.

The agenda provides time for smashing mirrors, trampling four-leaf clovers and opening umbrellas indoors.

The society meets only on Fridays that fall on the 13th, and today's meeting at a fashionable downtown club is the only one this year.

"In 1961, there will be three Fridays the 13th — in February, March and November," said Les Lear, the society's executive vice president.

The group was organized in 1930 by 13 members, including Chicago Bears owner George Halas. He and one of his former stars, Harold "Red" Grange, will be among 26 men honored today for their civic contributions.

Grange, who wore football jersey No. 77, will be 77 years old Friday, and will talk to those at the meeting by telephone.

"The society tries to discourage belief in silly superstitions," said Lear.

There will be 13 black cats roaming about the room while the meeting is held from 4:13 to 6:13 p.m.

There are 313 members in thgroup.

Weather

Weather conditions call for sunny and warm days through Saturday. Winds will be 15-25 mph today and gusty. The afternoon highs for Friday and Saturday will be in the mid 90s, overnight lows will be in the mid 60s.

Cow-leasing reduces farmers money risks

DALLAS (AP) — Dairy farmers who find expensive cows are milking them dry can now hoof it on down to East Texas and rent a whole herd for about a buck a cow per day.

Quality Holstein Leasing, Inc., a division of machine tool company Borg-Wagner, rents out the bovine food factories for $31 per 1,000 pounds of cow-on-the-hoof — about $1 per cow per day.

"It's a unique business," says Dave Marler, general manager of Quality Holstein. "I'd be pretty safe saying we're the largest in the United States."

When Quality Holstein was founded two years ago, it had two employees and a one-room office, he said. But now the company, located near Tennessee Colony, Texas, has 24 workers and leases 5,000 cows to about 300 dairy farmers in 25 states — mostly in the Southwest.

Leasing can keep farmers off the horns of a credit dilemma, allowing them to save their borrowing power for other purchases. A single dairy cow can be a hefty investment, easily costing $1,200 or more, Marler said.

"This is very attractive, because everyone has only so much borrowing power," he said. "It keeps the local credit line clear, and that's extremely important to the farmer."

"It makes a lot of sense. In leasing, you don't have a big outlay out front. You just have your monthly lease payment. So you let the cow pay for herself."

A healthy cow can pay well over the life of the five-year lease, Marler says.

Nation's largest Protestant group embraces conservatism

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Emphasizing its sharp swing to deep conservatism, the nation's largest Protestant body has issued a firm condemnation of abortion and demanded that its teachers believe in the infallibility of the Bible.

The positions, displaying a reaffirmation of tradition and the influence of conservative leadership elected for two consecutive years, were taken Thursday as the 13,800 messengers of the Southern Baptist Convention closed their annual meeting.

The delegates also urged voluntary prayers in public schools, denounced homosexual practice, disapproved the proposed Equal Rights Amendment, urged the election of public officials with Bible-based moral principles and re-affirmed their belief in "a literal biblical creation and a literal heaven and hell."

The anti-abortion stance, one of the strongest ever taken by a major American Protestant body, put the convention firmly behind the drive to overturn the 1973 Supreme Court decision permitting abortion.

Abortions should be prohibited by constitutional amendment or legislation "except to save the life of the mother," the delegates agreed.

"All medical evidence indicates that abortion ends the life of a developing human being," the convention said, opposing the use of public funds for "selfish, non-therapeutic abortion."

The call for an anti-abortion constitutional amendment or law represented a stiffening of an earlier, more qualified position of the 13.4 million-member denomination.

"It is intolerable that the lives of 1.5 million babies are being taken every year through abortion," said the Rev. Larry Lewis of St. Louis, member of a committee that pushed through the new Southern Baptist stand.

Firm finds ways to say 'forget it'

DALLAS (AP) — So you think you've heard all the excuses? All the reasons why your great idea won't work? Just in case you've missed a few, a Dallas-based insurance company has come up with a tongue-in-cheek list of 60 ready-made ways to say: "Forget it."

They range from a respectful "You're two years ahead of your time" to a scornful "Not that again."

The list is the work of the corporate relations department of the Southland Life Insurance Co., and is one of a series of regular display cards prepared for the 18 elevators in the company's main office.

"It's just something to give the employees something to look at in the elevators except the floors," said June Rogan, a Southland communications assistant.

Joe Josephson, vice president for corporate relations, said the material on the cards comes from all over. He said the cards are popular with employees and visitors to the building. "People swipe 'em all the time," he said.

Here are the "Reasons why 'it won't work'":

1. We tried that before.
2. Our place is different.
3. It costs too much.
4. That's beyond our responsibility.
5. That's not my job.
6. We're all too busy to do that.
7. It's too radical a change.
8. We don't have the time.
9. Not enough help.
10. That will make other equipment obsolete.
11. Let's make a market research test of it first.
12. Our office is too small for that.
13. Not practical for operating people.
14. The staff will never buy it.
15. Bring it up in six months.
16. We've never done it before.

17. It's against company policy.
18. Runs up our overhead.
19. We don't have the authority.
20. That's too ivory tower.
21. Let's get back to reality.
22. That's not our problem.
23. Why change it, it's still working o.k.
24. I don't like the idea.
25. You're right, but...

Surface land owner will fence sinkhole

KERMIT (AP) — The sinkhole that keeps gobbling up acres of land in the middle of an oilfield may be fenced in — that is, if it stays still long enough.

Atlantic Richfield Co., which owns the surface land the hole is consuming, plans to build a fence around the crater as a safety measure whenever the sinkhole stabilizes, said ARCO spokesman Bob Stephens.

The hole, last measured at 400 by 300 yards or just under three acres, chewed up 90 square feet of the east wall Thursday and engulfed a piece of land that had sunk 15 feet over two days before finally falling in, Winkler County sheriff's deputy Jan Moore said.

The huge sinkhole first appeared June 3 as three-foot wide crevice in the earth and has been expanding ever since, though in recent days the rate has slowed.

Stephens said he had no idea when the hole would stop growing. Widening cracks — some measuring two feet across — continue to spread in the area.

Stephens said ARCO was not plagued by sinkhole-induced pipeline problems as are other nearby oil companies, because ARCO doesn't own or exploit any of the underground minerals. "We just own the surface," he said, "what's left of it."

Producers keeping a secret

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Who shot J.R.?" is a question heard around the world these days, but the producers of the hit CBS series "Dallas" are out to keep the answer secret.

J.R. Ewing, an oil-rich scoundrel played by Larry Hagman, was gravely wounded when he was shot twice in the stomach in this season's last episode. The audience doesn't know if he'll live or die, or who pulled the trigger.

Lorimar Productions is taking precautions to keep everyone guessing until the fall season. Probably no more than three people know who the assailant is — and the triggerman could be changed if the secret leaks.

Scripts are being issued with crucial pages missing. Episodes are being filmed under tight security in Dallas. Phony scenes fingering the wrong person are being filmed to keep everyone guessing — including the cast and crew.

"We're going to do everything in our power to mislead or keep the audience guessing and keep the identity of the real assailant hidden until the show airs," said producer Leonard Katzman, in a telephone interview from Dallas.

Katzman gave only one clue: "The assailant will be someone that the audience has seen or heard about. It won't be somebody that J.R. discovered robbing the Ewing office."

Here are the chief suspects:

- Sue Ellen Ewing, J.R.'s ill-used wife.
- Kristin Shepard, Sue Ellen's sister. J.R. ended their affair by telling her to get out of town or he'd have her arrested for prostitution.
- Alan Beam, a devious young lawyer working for J.R.
- Cliff Barnes, whose father was ruined by the Ewings.
- Vaughn Leland, a banker who borrowed $20 million to buy J.R.'s share in oil land in Asia. A few days after the sale the Asian country nationalized the company.
- Marilee Stone, whose husband killed himself after losing all his money in J.R.'s oil scheme.
- Dusty Farlow, Sue Ellen's lover, also has been considered a suspect. Although his plane crashed four episodes before the shooting, Farlow's body was never found.

Besides the "whodunit" angle to the fall series, there's the question of whether J.R. will pull through.

Larry Hagman has not signed a new contract and reportedly is holding out for $100,000 an episode. According to one published report, Lorimar is offering $55,000.

"I think you can say both of those figures are erroneous. Let's say it's a little on the high side," Katzman said.

Linda Gray, who plays Sue Ellen, also has not signed a new contract. There was no indication of what she was seeking.

They are not due to begin work in Dallas for about a week.

Isolation defeats resource strategy

Among the most debilitating effects of this country's Vietnam nightmare was the drift toward a quasi-isolationist foreign policy. The Soviet Union took prompt advantage of this failure of American nerve by expanding its influence dramatically in Asia, Africa and the Middle East since 1975.

The resulting threat to the West's oil lifeline in the Persian Gulf has, however belatedly, awakened growing numbers of Americans to the folly of ignoring U.S. interest abroad. But oil is only one in a long list of strategic resources that must be imported from areas of the Third World threatened by political instability, Soviet-inspired aggression, or both.

Southern Africa is a case in point. The United States relies on imports to supply 98 percent of its manganese, 97 percent of its cobalt and 91 percent of its chromium — three minerals vital to the defense-oriented aerospace industry. The largest reserves of all three are concentrated in sub-Saharan Africa, an area seething with political turmoil abetted by the Soviet Union and its proxy forces including thousands of Cuban troops.

The Carter administration behaves as though none of this mattered, despite abundant evidence that Soviet strategy in the Third World is specifically designed to gain control of resources essential to the industrialized West.

The Soviets know what they are about. For they have diagnosed not only the Achilles heel of the United States, but that of its most important allies as well. Japan and the nine-member European Economic Community are even more dependent than is this country on imports of strategic material.

Japan and Western Europe both import nearly all of the manganese, cobalt, bauxite, chromium, asbestos, nickel, zinc, iron ore, silver, copper, lead and phosphate consumed by their industries and, of course, Japan and Western Europe are almost wholly dependent on Third World oil.

In striking contrast, the 10-member Comecon bloc organized and dominated by the Soviet Union has achieved virtual self-sufficiency in every major strategic resource save cobalt. This has permitted the Soviets to stockpile large quantities of strategic minerals.

Meanwhile, American stockpiles of the 93 minerals deemed essential for national defense average only 48 percent of the minimum levels established in U.S. policy as insurance against any prolonged disruption of imports.

At current world prices, it could cost about $6 billion to restore U.S. stockpiles to prudent levels. This should be accomplished. For the long haul, a proper resource strategy requires two things: a foreign and defense policy capable of protecting American access to vital resources abroad, and a vigorous effort to exploit every possible domestic source of strategic materials. The Carter administration has shown little interest in achieving either goal.

Electric cars to help with rising gas cost

There's a major push on for the development of electric cars as at least a partial response to the rising price of gasoline. General Motors hopes to have an electric car available to the public by 1984 — selling for $4,000. Ford Motor Co., too, is working on an electric option.

A lot of engineering is being devoted to the development of batteries for such cars. One is the zinc-chlorine battery expected to boost the range of electric cars to 100 miles or greater. The zinc-chlorine battery is expected to have a life span of 150,000 miles.

An electric car that can travel 100 miles without a recharge and operate at a cost of less than a penny a mile makes a lot of sense. The family of the future would use such vehicles for daily commuting, saving a larger gasoline or diesel machine for longer trips.

And the frugal operation of an electric vehicle isn't the only potential benefit. Such cars would be quiet and clean — protecting the environment.

NEWS ITEM: A LONG-DORMANT VOLCANO COULD ERUPT AT ANY TIME, WITH UNPREDICTABLE RESULTS.

By Anthony Harrigan
LUBBOCK, Texas — Cotton is king here in the South Plains region of Texas.

Jay Harris, editor of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, says the South Plains 1980 cotton planting may amount to 4.4 million acres. Indeed, almost one-fifth of all the cotton grown in the United States last year was grown on the South Plains.

North of this city, one travels through rich cotton fields extending to the horizon. It is agriculture on a scale to which Easterners are unaccustomed.

But cotton is only one component in the diversified economic base of this West Texas city of 200,000. There are more than 27,000 oil wells in a 125 mile radius of Lubbock. Texas Tech has 23,000 students, making this community a major educational center. NATO fighter pilots are trained at an airbase outside the city. The Santa Fe railroad serves a variety of industries. Commercial office space is 98 percent rented.

As Mr. Harris rightly says, "Lubbock and the area should remain one of the bright spots on the nation's economic map in the months ahead."

A city on the move

This happy condition exists after a decade of extraordinary community effort. Ten years ago the downtown heart of Lubbock was almost completely destroyed by a devastating tornado. The city rebuilt in an imaginative way so that the flattened area has become a major new center of business and civic activities.

Mr. Harris has lived in Lubbock since 1930, but he views his city with a perspective gained from worldwide travels in recent years—in Africa, India and Europe. As I write this he is preparing to leave for Taiwan and Hong Kong.

Lubbock and other cities in West Texas no longer are isolated, provincial communities. While older, larger and more famous cities are in a state of deterioration with gloomy prospects for the future, Lubbock, Amarillo and Midland are on America's inland energy frontier. They also are in a region that, as a result of irrigation, plays a major role in feeding the nation and producing the fiber it needs.

These cities are among the beneficiaries of a process of industrial relocation that is taking place at a rapid rate. They are comparatively close to important mineral production areas. Power plants in this area receive their coal from Wyoming.

Moreover, this is an area that believes in the traditional work ethic. It was settled by sturdy stock that believed deeply in self-reliance. This outlook has endured. Therefore, the region is profoundly conservative in its philosophy. The people here are building their own future. They aren't waiting for government to do it for them.

The only obstacle to the continuing development of this and other progressive areas is the movement that would deny companies the opportunity to relocate. Recently, proponents of a closed, static economy met at Northwestern University's Kellogg Graduate School of Management to sound the cry for reparations legislation and federally-funded, worker-owned plants—proposals aimed at halting or slowing the move of plants to cities such as Lubbock. The political representatives of the inland energy frontier will have to work hard to block the efforts of the movements that want to introduce a medieval rigidity into a traditional mobile industrial economy.

On June 13th, 1856, Britain turned the Suez Canal over to Egypt after operating it for 74 years.

On this date:

In 1776, France's Marquis De Lafayette arrived in South Carolina to help the American colonists in their battle for independence from England.

In 1900, the Boxer Rebellion began against the Europeans in China.

In 1927, 750,000 pounds of paper fluttered down on aviator Charles Lindbergh during a triumphant ticker-tape parade in New York.

In 1967, the Soviet Union called for an urgent meeting of the U.N. Security Council to pressure Israel to return Arab territory seized in the Six-Day War.

Ten years ago, Brazil agreed to ransom the kidnapped West German ambassador by freeing 40 political prisoners.

Five years ago, Britain's inflation rate jumped to a record 25 percent — the highest in the world.

Last year, a strike by independent truckers was gathering momentum, as more truckers pressed for more diesel fuel and lower prices.

Why are people mumbling?

by ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON—It may be my imagination but more and more people seem to be talking to themselves during this election year. All you have to do is walk down the street and you can hear someone mumbling. I was curious to hear what people are saying so I followed one man who was muttering. This is what I heard:

"I can't vote for Carter. Anyone but Carter...But then I can't vote for Reagan either...If I go for Anderson, I'll be throwing my vote away...I better vote for Carter. But Carter doesn't seem to know what he's doing. He got us into a recession, and in four more years he could get us into a depression...I better vote for Reagan...Reagan will get us into a war. It would be terrible to be in a recession and a war at the same time...I better vote for Anderson...What do I now about Anderson? I voted for Carter last time because I didn't know anything about him. I won't make that mistake again...I better vote for Carter..."

"I'm not sure I could stand the Georgia mafia for another four years. I better vote for Reagan...But if I vote for Reagan I'll be voting for simple answers to complicated questions. He hasn't said anything original since "Bedtime for Bonzo"...I vote for Anderson. Why should I vote for Anderson? He seems honest...but they all seem honest at the beginning...I'll bet underneath it all he's just another politician on the make...I'll cast my ballot for Carter. What am I saying? The reason I'm having all this trouble deciding who to vote for is because of Carter. He hasn't solved any of the problems we're facing. He says one thing one day and another the next...It looks like I have no choice. I have to pull the lever for Reagan...But if Reagan gets in he may have two or three Supreme Court appointments. I couldn't live with the people Reagan would appoint to the Supreme Court.

"It's obvious, I have to forget the two-party system and support Anderson. Hold it, Anderson can't win. All he can do is spoil it for the other two and then it will go to the House, and they'll probably give it to Carter. I might as well vote for Carter in the first place...My wife said she'd never talk to me if I voted for Carter again. She says she's had it with Born-Again Presidents...I don't think Reagan's been born again. I wonder if she'd want me to vote for Reagan?...I wish she hadn't left home to take a job in California so I could ask her...I guess it has to be Reagan...No, it doesn't have to be Reagan. He never gets his facts straight. That's all right when you're running for office — but it could be real trouble in the Oval Office...I better think Anderson...Anderson? Is he just a media star who will burn out once the election is over?...Where did he come from? What do I know about him except that he looks different from the others?...I have to come to my senses...I'm not happy about it, but I'll go for Carter.

"But if I vote for Carter we'll get the whole damn family in the White House again...I'm not sure I can put up with Amy in her teens, and I know I've had it with Billy. At least with Reagan we don't get a family...It's obvious what my decision is. I'll vote for Reagan and take my chances. Some people say he was a good governor of California. Come to think of it he's the one who said it. Others say he fudged his record...Maybe I should vote for Anderson and forget about the whole thing. But Anderson's record in the House isn't that hot either. He says he's changed his mind on a lot of things...Well, if he can change his mind, so can I. At least I know what I'm getting with Carter. If anyone asks me, I'm a Carter man...I can't say it with a straight face. Can I say I'm a Reagan man with a straight face? Nope, I can't do that either. I can say I'm an Anderson man with a straight face. Look at my straight face. It isn't straight? I was afraid of that.

"So where does that leave me? Maybe Carter has learned a lot in the first four years and will be a good President in his second term. It's happened before. When did it happen? How do I know?...If I vote for Reagan, he said he'll only stay for one term...That's in his favor. But then again I have to consider his age. Of course, his hair is dark. Anderson's is white. I wonder why Anderson's hair is white...Can the country survive with a white-haired President?"

"There has to be a solution to my problem...Wait a minute!...I think I have it. Why didn't I think of it before? I'll move to Chicago and vote for all three of them."

Out of this world

By Don Graff

If you'd like to get away from the problems of this world for a bit, consider those of another — Venus.

Although it is not because of a problem that Earth's sister planet is currently news, but as a consequence of the resolution of one — the mystery of what lies beneath its thick cover of clouds.

Thanks to the electronic probing of the Pioneer spacecraft that has been orbiting Venus since December 1978, we now have a good idea.

Topographically, Venus bears striking similarities to Earth. It has uplands and lowlands and mountain ranges, some of these configurations approaching the extent of Earth's smaller continents. The super-hot surface has no water, however, and what corresponds to the oceans on Earth — the "sea level" of Venus — are vast, relatively flat plains covering some 60 percent of the planet.

And there also are indications that Venus — like Earth, as Mount St. Helens is so vividly demonstrating, and Io, the volcanic moon of Jupiter — may be geologically active. It may be just beginning a process similar to that caused on Earth by tectonic plates. Rising out of the interior and interacting with each other, the plates shape the continents and are responsible for most earthquake and volcanic activity.

All of this information, and much more, has recently been made public by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. It is the unexpected bonus from the Pioneer mission, originally programmed primarily to study the Venusian atmosphere. One of the spacecraft's instruments — a radar altimeter — was adapted for surface scanning and proved amazingly precise in revealing to the computers what the clouds obscure from the eye.

Getting back to Earth, there might be a useful spinoff application for the device down here — trained on the political situation.

What's in a name

And there's more about Venus. Now that its surface features are becoming known, there comes the task of naming them. Since the planet itself bears the name of a Roman goddess, it was decided to carry on with that theme. A large crater at the point where radar surveying commenced and which was fixed as the Venusian zero longitude was appropriately named Eve.

Appropriately, that is, to the International Astronomical Union but not to the National Organization for Women. The latter read the preference for female names from the mythological past as a typical male chauvinistic response.

Names of real women from history should be used instead.

NOW made its point and it is likely that Mount Amelia Earhart and Florence Nightingale will soon join volcanic peaks earlier designated Diana and Aphrodite.

Carrying this development a bit further and considering that Venus is now believed to be in the early stages of geological activity with a long; way to go before completion, some thought might be given to renaming the entire planet. It might be called ERA.

Military families depend on food stamps

By HAL SPENCER
Associated Press Writer
NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Navy Petty Officer Paul Fineberg, his uniform still crisply creased despite the muggy heat, sat at a kitchen table and tried to explain why he is applying for food stamps.

"We can't really live on my salary. We have one child and another on the way. I've got to pay the bills."

Fineberg's wife, Monica, fanned herself and nodded agreement to her husband's lament. "If we're lucky, sometimes we can afford to go out to Burger King," she said with a short laugh.

The new baby will, ironically, ease the Finebergs' money pinch by making the family eligible for food stamps.

Department of Defense and Navy spokesmen in Washington readily concede that a growing number of servicemen and women, probably numbering in the thousands, must rely on food stamps to supplement government-paid incomes battered by inflation.

"It makes me feel like I'm on welfare or something. But we need the extra $50 food stamps will give us," said Mrs. Fineberg, whose child is due any day. Their son, Brad, is 2.

Her husband, home for lunch, added, "There's only so much reimbursement you can accept in the form of pride. It isn't putting food on the table."

Fineberg has applied for officers' training school. Failing that, he will not re-enlist for a third hitch because of the low pay, he said. And many of his fellow "career men" feel the same way, he added.

Navy command has urged sailors to use food stamps, he said, "and more of us are doing it."

Major Erik Opsahl, a Department of Defense spokesman, said of the roughly 2 million men and women in the armed forces, about 62 thousand are "potentially eligible for food stamps."

The Pentagon doesn't know exactly how many are using the federal program now, he said, but they appear to number in the thousands.

Opsahl said it was impossible to say at what income a serviceman qualified for food stamps. "That depends on other factors," such as the number of dependents and other sources of income, he said.

Last year, about $2.2 million in food stamps were redeemed in Navy commissaries alone.

"This figure does not reflect Navy members redeeming food stamps in local supermarkets," said Lieutenant Ken Satterfield, a Navy spokesman in Washington.

Both officers confirmed the Defense Department actively encourages military personnel to use food stamps if they qualify. "We have sent a notice to all Navy ships and stations to increase awareness of the program," Satterfield said.

"The Navy pay is OK. I'm not knocking the Navy," said Fineberg, whose E-5 rank is equivalent to a sergeant in the Army. "The problem is inflation, and the government's refusal to recognize that the raises we get just aren't enough."

Mrs. Fineberg keeps a budget, which "we really stick to," she said.

For food, she sets aside $250 of the $676 net monthly income. Another $144 is earmarked for "gas and extra food items."

Another $195 goes to pay off loans for college, furniture, a washer and a dryer; $30 is set aside for the telephone, and $20 goes to pay the charge card bill.

The Navy pays utilities and apartment rent.

"Whatever is left over is put in the bank for insurance and savings," she said.

Mrs. Fineberg said she was counting on the extra $50 in food for the new baby's needs. "Formula is expensive."

The fact that the couple can buy virtually all their food at the less-expensive Navy commissary "doesn't help us all that much. We still don't have enough money," she said.

Mrs. Fineberg said her father, who was a career non-commissioned officer in the National Guard, raised eight children on his military pay.

"There was a time when a career military man could do that," Fineberg said. "That's what I wanted to do...not to get rich, but just live in the middle."

The couple said they have been forced to give up annual visits to Mrs. Fineberg's parents in Michigan, as well as simpler forms of entertainment such as movies.

"There's so many guys getting out. It is just too hard to live on this pay," said Fineberg.

He acknowledged that times can be equally tough in civilian life.

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I suppose you've had dozens of letters like this, but here goes. My wife of 18 years came to me about a month ago and said, "I've been in love with another man for a year and I want to be with him as much as I can, so I'm leaving you."

It turns out the guy is well-heeled, married and has a family. He isn't sure he wants to leave his family, but he can manage to get away from home about three nights a week, so my wife moved into their "love nest," which he provided.

I am now baching it with my teen-age son. My wife comes home every Friday and goes back on Sunday. She says she's not sure what she wants — it's still too soon to know. She claims she still cares for me and isn't sure she wants a divorce, but that she is happiest when she is with this other guy. I have tried to be open-minded about it, but it's tearing me up inside and my ego is down to zero. Any advice?

OPEN-MINDED

DEAR OPEN: Don't be so "open-minded" that your brains fall out. Give "Seesaw, Marjorie Daw" a deadline to decide which man she wants. Tell her you don't want a part-time wife. And whether or not there will be a divorce shall not be decided by her alone, because you may want to be free to fall in love with someone else. And be tough!

DEAR ABBY: I can't understand why my husband, who never thanks me for anything, always says "thank you" after a love session.

Somehow, I can't feel good about it. Am I wrong? We've been happily married almost 50 years.

PITTSBURGH

DEAR PITTSBURGH: Never question his thank-you, just accept and appreciate it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MY READERS: I found this lovely Irish prayer (author unknown) displayed prominently on the desk of Al Zitnick, the faithful Jewish "schleppercaun" who sorts the Dear Abby mail:

"Take time to work,
It is the price of success.
Take time to think,
It is the source of power.
Take time to play,
It is the secret of perpetual youth.
Take time to read,
It is the foundation of wisdom.
Take time to be friendly,
It is the road to happiness.
Take time to love and be loved,
It is the privilege of the gods.
Take time to share,
Life is too short to be selfish.
Take time to laugh,
Laughter is the music of the soul."

DR. LAMB

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — For nearly four months now I have suffered from sciatica. This causes pain in the hip. When I stand for more than three or four minutes, the pain proceeds down the large nerve to my ankle and I hurry to sit in a straight chair until the pain subsides.

large nerves that passes down the buttocks and leg. Pressure on this nerve can cause the complaints that you have. The most common cause of such pressure is a diseased or damaged vertebral disc. Sometimes pressure on the nerve can occur from arthritis or from anatomical variations in the spine itself.

Ten years ago I had it much worse and it lasted for a year when suddenly it vanished. For the first three months, I had to be in bed. I went to different doctors but none could offer any help but pain remedies. This time I considered going to an orthopedic surgeon but a friend said that pain pills were all he suggested to him.

Sciatica can also be caused from inflammation of the nerves and such diverse causes as the excessive use of alcohol and even diabetes. Clearly, you can't be properly treated without a proper diagnosis. And by that I mean knowing what is causing your sciatic pain.

I'm 70 and would love to get back on the golf course as I'm gaining weight from these four months of sitting. Can you help?

An intervertebral disc problem is by far the most common cause. I am sending you The Health Letter number 13-10, Backache and What to Do about It. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR READER — Yes, I can. My first advice would be to go see the orthopedic surgeon you mentioned. Sciatica is not a diagnosis. It is merely a term used for irritation of the sciatic nerve, one of the DEAR READER — No, I doubt that the pain in your eye had anything to do with your taking vitamins or minerals. More likely it was associated with the high salt content in sweat which is normal. If you put plain salt water in your eyes, you'd probably feel the same thing. Washing your eyes out with plain cool water diluted the salt and the pain disappeared.

Retread sales increase in times of recession

NEW YORK (AP) — Recession traditionally bring a 10 to 15 percent increase in sales of retreaded tires as consumers seek ways to save money.

During the 1973 recession, for example, retread sales increased 12 percent, according to the Tire Retread Information Bureau.

Industry sources are forecasting at least a 10 percent sales upturn during the predicted recession.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The "Tonight Show's" brightly dressed bandleader tied the knot for the third time, his managers say.

Carl "Doc" Severinsen married television writer Emily Marshall in a poolside ceremony at his home, Bud Robinson said Wednesday. The May 17 ceremony was witnessed by actor John Ritter and his wife, Nancy.

Severinsen met his wife — who has written for "The Bob Newhart Show" and the "Angie" TV shows — when she was secretary to "Tonight Show" producer Fred DeCardova, Robinson said.

It was Ms. Marshall's second marriage.

NEW YORK (AP) — Playwright Edward Albee, winner of two Pulitzer Prizes, has added the gold medal of the American Academy and Institute of Arts and Letters to his list of drama awards.

Albee was among 56 artists, writers, composers and architects honored by the academy at its 39th annual awards ceremony Wednesday.

Other major winners included Peggy Bacon, awarded the gold medal for graphic arts, and novelist William Maxwell, who won the William Dean Howells medal for fiction.

The academy is limited to 50 members chosen for special distinction from the institute.

Cable television franchise fuel for bribery attempt

DALLAS (AP) — The struggle for the Dallas cable television franchise took an odd turn with the arrest of two East Texans accused of trying to sell stolen city documents to one of the competing companies.

A 35-year-old accountant from Paris and his suspected accomplice, a 36-year-old businessman from Clarksville, were arrested in Dallas following a two-week investigation of an alleged offer to sell "stolen trade secrets" for $250,000.

A spokesman for Warner Amex Cable Communications said the company notified police after receiving a call from a man claiming to have inside information that would help Warner Amex win the lucrative contract.

Warner Amex is one of six cable television companies competing for the Dallas franchise, estimated to be worth $300 million. A city council decision is expected later this summer.

Police said the company played along with the man, later identified as Paris accountant Gary Annis, who was arrested Wednesday in Dallas hotel where he allegedly met a company representative to accept a down payment and turn over the stolen documents.

Officers said an undercover agent witnessed the transaction. Annis' alleged accomplice was arrested after he appeared voluntarily at the police department to talk to intelligence division officers.

Annis appeared before Municipal Judge Daniel Solis and was released on $10,000 bond on investigation of theft of trade secrets. Formal charges were not immediately filed.

'Omnibus' is back for short run

LOS ANGELES (AP) — There is, in the desert of summer television, the occasional oasis.

"Omnibus" is back. Only for two shows, at first, and only on a trial basis, but you take your oases when you can get them.

"Omnibus" is a reprise of one of television's class entries of the fabled "Golden Age," which was a sort of "Saturday Evening Post" of television. Alistair Cooke hosted the show, on CBS and then ABC, on Sunday afternoons, before the NFL claimed that territory.

The original "Omnibus" has been described as "a vaudeville show of the imagination," a happy, gentle mixture of poetry readings, drama, dance, conversation, an occasional adventure ... "60 Minutes" tranquilized.

Hal Holbrook is just right as host of the new "Omnibus" (to broadcast by ABC this Sunday night and next), charming and calm, promising "a vehicle for many different passengers." It is that.

Sunday's show is comprised of six segments, ranging from a rousing "Peter Pan" number to a Hollywood fashion show. Actor Lewis J. Stadlen does a funny, warmly nostalgic bit from his one-man show, "Groucho."

There is a charming segment featuring country singer Loretta Lynn and opera king Luciano Pavarotti. They kid each other about their accents, and they sing — he belts out "La Donna e Mobile" from "Rigoletto" ("O Sole Mio..."); she offers "I'm Pregnant Again" ("The car payment's late, the mortgage is due, I'm pregnant again, what will we do?")

It's fun.

"Omnibus" is essentially classy variety, and as such, it has its share of silly. There's a feature with Pittsburgh Steeler receiver Lynn Swann dancing with Peter Martins of the New York City Ballet that's supposed to suggest a common artistry, but comes across as a couple of goofy-looking guys dressed in shorts running around on a football field set (they even use slo-mo instant replays).

Still, "Omnibus" is an uplifting entertainment, and nutritious viewing. TV can be fun without dulling the senses.

ABC goes two-for-two on Sunday, scheduling one of its infrequent "ABC Theater" dramas after "Omnibus."

"King Crab," a TV play by Preston Ransone, is a hot-blooded drama of the Abel-Cain sort, played out against a larger conflict between tradition and new ways.

HOW'S THE WEATHER down there, Shorty? That may have been the question that Henry Cooper, an 18-hand-high shire horse, posed to Long Ears, a 26-inch-high miniature donkey, when the two met recently at an English brewery. Incidentally, Henry Cooper was named for an English boxer.

Major League roundup

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Injuries have got the Montreal Expos turned around—in the right direction.

Despite a mounting string of assorted ills, the Expos are currently playing their best baseball of the season, thanks to a solid farm system that keeps turning up fine, young players.

The latest to help the Montreal cause are pitcher Charlie Lea and third baseman Brad Mills, who combined to help the National League East leaders beat the San Diego Padres 9-1 Thursday night for their ninth straight victory.

"All this means is that we've had a good farm system producing for us in the past few years," said Montreal Manager Dick Williams after Lea scattered eight hits over eight innings for his first major league victory and Mills had three singles and three RBI.

Lea, recalled from the Expos' American Association team in Denver on Wednesday, was a last-minute replacement for David Palmer, who came up with a tender elbow.

"They told me when they called me that I might be pitching for Palmer, so I geared myself up in case I was given the game ball," said Lea.

Mills, called up from the same Denver club last weekend to sub for the injured Larry Parrish, entered the game as a pinch hitter in the fifth inning.

"I'm just trying to do the best I can while I can," said Mills. "I know the ballclub has its own plans and whatever happens will happen."

In other NL games, New York beat Los Angeles 6-5 and Pittsburgh outscored Cincinnati 10-6. In the American League, Detroit whipped Minnesota 8-4; Milwaukee routed Texas 8-1; Baltimore stopped Seattle 4-1 and Boston hammered California 13-2.

The 23-year-old Lea allowed only one extra-base hit in his major league debut, striking out four and walking three. The right-hander lost his shutout in the eighth on Dave Winfield's sacrifice fly.

Mills had a two-run single in the fifth, when the Expos scored four times to put the game out of reach. In addition, Mills singled home a run in the sixth. Jerry White added an inside-the-park homer.

Mets 6, Dodgers 5
Pitchers Dave Goltz and Bob Castillo and shortstop Bill Russell contributed run-scoring throwing errors, helping New York defeat Los Angeles. The Dodgers built a 5-0 lead in the first three innings with Dusty Baker driving in three of the runs with his 14th homer in the third.

But in the fifth, the Mets scored four times with the aid of an errant pick-off throw by Goltz which allowed the first run to come home and a wild throw by Russell which permitted the fourth run to score. In the sixth Castillo's wild throw to third on a bunt by Elliott Maddox allowed the Mets to score two more runs.

Pirates 10, Reds 6
Mike Easler hit for the cycle and Dale Berra slugged a three-run homer to lead Pittsburgh past Cincinnati. Easler became the first Pirate to hit a single, double, triple and home run in one game since

Tournament draws area teams

Several out-of-town teams are expected to enter the Pampa Men's Slowpitch Tournament June 20-22 at Hobart Park.

"Two teams from Liberal, Kan. and one from Perryton have already signed up and I'm expecting eight or ten Amarillo teams to enter," tournament director Jay Trooper said. Entry fee is $60 per team. The tournament is limited to the first 32 teams that sign up.

Pampa Softball Association will use the proceeds to pay for lighting and the construction of concession stands at the ballpark.

Over $500 in prizes will be awarded to players, including a free weekend ski trip for two to Red River, New Mexico.

Tournament sponsors include Harold Barrett Ford, KGRO Radio, T-Shirts Plus, Panhandle Insurance Company, First National Bank, Citizens Bank & Trust, Vance Hall Sporting Goods, Lil' Speedy Mart, and Superior Trailers. No admission will be charged.

Stroope wins again

AMARILLO—Brett Stroope of White Deer continued his accurate marksmanship Thursday in the Texas State Trap Shoot at the Amarillo Gun Club.

Stroope won first place in both the Lone Star junior singles with a 98 and Lone Star doubles with a 90.

Stroope is tied for first in Class A singles (98) with Pete Wreen, Odessa; James Long, Denver City, and Jim Henderson, Wichita Falls. Final placing will be held in Saturday's state singles shoot. If Stroope does not place first or second Saturday, he will receive the Lone Star singles junior trophy.

Stroope took first in both preliminary singles and Class A doubles during Wednesday's preliminary round. He was also knotted with three others in Class A singles.

John R. Hall of Houston broke all 100 targets yesterday to win the Lone Star singles title.

SPORTS

Huntsville hosts tourney again

ABILENE, Texas (AP)—Huntsville will host the Lone Star Conference post-season basketball tournament for at least two more years, league officials said Thursday.

Brownwood also had sought the annual classic, but the conference's eight institutional representatives voted 6-2 Thursday to keep the tournament in Huntsville.

Following the 1982 tournament, a three-year bid will be accepted by conference officials, said Hal Lane, LSC president.

Brownwood hosted the first four tournaments, beginning in 1975. The tournament was held in Huntsville in 1979 and 1980.

NEW YORK (AP)—Beth Daniel, the 1979 LPGA rookie-of-the-year, says in golf there is a difference between self-confident and egotistical players.

"You must be confident but you should keep it inside," she said. "When someone talks constantly about being the best, that's being egotistical."

Nicklaus, Weiskopf lead Open

SPRINGFIELD, N.J. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus and Tom Weiskopf, two Ohio natives, have fought for Buckeye honors since the early 1960s. They're battling again, this time in the U.S. Open.

Nicklaus and Weiskopf each shot a record-tying 7-under par 63 Thursday in the opening round of the 80th Open at Baltusrol, a demanding and long par 70 which can play from 7,013 to 7,076 yard depending on the tee placements.

And, in doing it, Nicklaus, who was four threesomes behind Weiskopf, matched birdies coming to the clubhouse.

"I wasn't conscious of Tom's score until the back nine," said Nicklaus, who explained that he put his whole game together in the round for the first time in a long while.

"Then I saw Tom was 4 under par. When he birdied 13 and we got to 13, Angelo (caddie Angelo Argea) kept saying, 'Answer him.' I never thought much about it but I almost knocked the second shot in the hole."

Each had a bogey early in the round but then fired eight birdies, matching on No. 13, No. 15 and No. 17.

Each had chance for a birdie on the 542-yard, par 5 No. 18 but Weiskopf put his third shot, a pitching wedge, into a sand bunker in front of the green and fortunately came out with a par while Nicklaus missed a 3-foot birdie putt.

"It's kind of unusual to walk off the 18th green in an Open shooting a 63 and being disappointed because you didn't shoot a 62," said Nicklaus.

Although Nicklaus and Weiskopf matched the 63 shot by Johnny Miller in 1973 at Oakmont, there were 22 others who shot par 70 or better over Baltusrol's Lower Course.

Many predicted the course would yield few good scores to the field of 156, but it played easier because of rains earlier in the week.

Three strokes behind the leaders at 66 were Mark Hayes, Keith Fergus and Lon Hinkle while at 67 were Ray Floyd, Jay Haas and Calvin Peete.

Floyd, the former PGA and Masters champion who held the early for a couple of hours, put things in perspective when he said: "Any player who feels he has a shot to win the Open heels no pressure during the first or second day. I think the pressure starts in the third and fourth round," he said. "The first couple of rounds are like a 1/4-mile horse race. You're jockeying for position. You don't want to get behind but you want to be in there conservative and have a shot Sunday."

Lee Trevino, two-time Open winner whose putter was working in the first round, shot a two-under 68 and joined Mark Lye, Andy North and Isao Aoki of Tokyo who played in the Nicklaus trio.

J.C. Sneed, Mark Reid, Bill Rogers and Curtis Strange were in the group of seven at 69 with relative unknown tour regulars Tommy McGinnis, Patrick McGowan and Jeff Mitchell.

Defending Open champion Hale Irwin, Larry Nelson, who won at Atlanta last week, Peter Jacobsen, Jim Simons and Tim Simpson came in at even par, one many predicted would be a good score by the end of the championship on Sunday.

O.J. THE GREATEST

DALLAS (AP)—Coach Tom Landry of the Dallas Cowboys has seen or played against all the great running backs of professional football for more than three decades. He rates the now retired O.J. Simpson as the greatest in that department.

"Jim Brown set most of the records," Landry said. "He was gifted, fast, strong and big. But he played on some great teams. O.J. was never on a great team, either at Buffalo or San Francisco, where he finished his career. Considering that, his record is phenomenal."

Oral Roberts TV special slated

This is a story of love and romance, of lust and passion, of cunning and intrigue... a woman's charm and a man's faith. It is a battle between two young people, carrying the hopes of their Gods, each fighting to the death. With this background, Oral Roberts launches into his powerful message concerning the destruction of Samson, which began very subtly but surely when he comprised his faith and succumbed to the temptations of an illicit relationship with a beautiful woman.

The message is the core of Roberts' latest prime-time television special, which also features a special appearance by country singer, Roy Clark. The program is scheduled for Saturday, June 21, at 7 p.m. on an Amarillo television station. Check your listings for channel. Titled "Keep Holding On," the special deals with the challenges that face Christians every day in their attempt to hold on to their faith and principles in the face of fear, economic struggles and the uncertainty of a world torn by political strife.

COUNTRY & WESTERN STAR ROY CLARK, will be the featured guest on the Oral Roberts special, "Keep Holding On," to air June 21 at 7 p.m. He will share his testimony and perform various sacred music, then team up with Richard Roberts in a lighter vein.

Religion roundup

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A Michigan State University theologian says increased Bible study and evangelism is showing up among young people, but it's often not happening within traditional churches.

"There is more religious activity on campus now, but lower percentages of young people in churches," says W. Fred Graham, professor of religious studies.

"Within the last half decade there has been a movement to non-denominational expressions of Christianity."

"In the university's religious studies department, he says 'we have moved from great interest in Eastern religions in the '60's to more students wanting courses on the Bible than we can handle."

"Our newest faculty appointment will be a New Testament scholar — a discipline we would not have chosen even three years ago."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twelve religious leaders, including top officials of several Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish organizations, have urged President Carter to "revitalize the weakened process of arms negotiation with the Soviet Union."

The group, members of a Religious Committee on SALT, the Soviet-U.S. treaty to limit strategic missiles, said in a letter to Carter that "time is running against Senate ratification of the treaty."

"We urge you, and we wait earnestly to hear the word from you, that Senate ratification of SALT II is once again a high legislative priority for your administration in 1980."

The Senate dropped consideration of the treaty, with Carter's backing, after the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

NEW YORK (AP) — The independent Roman Catholic weekly, Commonweal, says editorially that the Vatican "erred, both in what it did and how it did it," in barring the Rev. Robert Drinan of Massachusetts from keeping his seat in the U.S. Congress.

Decisions on such matters are "clearly dependent on local circumstances," the magazine editorialized, and are well left to local bishops or national hierarchies, or possibly some procedure involving both with the Vatican.

POPE JOHN PAUL II smiles at a baby boy as he holds him in his hands during the weekly open-air general audience in St. Peter's Square in Vatican City recently.

HERE IS THE PATH

OUTMODED EQUIPMENT

This young man certainly won't get much real cleaning done with this broom. A modern street cleaning machine would do the job so much better. His straw broom makes us think of how we try to get along without God, without spiritual values, without church. Our life would be so much better if we would exchange this life for one that knows God and practices His precepts. Without church and God we have little or no spiritual equipment. Hearing God's word preached, being with his people, working in His church, helping others through the church all give us the spiritual equipment we need for meeting life. We invite you to attend this week and make a habit of coming to God's house.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Texas briefs

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — State Comptroller Bob Bullock says a small decrease in city sales tax rebates in June might indicate consumer concern about the economy.

Rebates for June totaled $65.3 million, compared with $67.7 million in June 1979.

"We can't be sure a peak has been reached until the 1980 second quarter returns are filed and analyzed sometime after July 31," Bullock said Wednesday.

Tax rebates for the first six months of 1980 amounted to $266.9 million, compared with payments of $218 million in the same period of 1979.

June rebates for major Texas cities included $13.5 million to Houston, $8 million to Dallas, $2.3 million to Fort Worth, and $3.4 million to San Antonio.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Department of Banking has received an application from the Madison Southern National Bank of Houston, which wants to become a state-chartered institution.

If the application is granted, the bank will be known as the Madison Bank. The bank's capital is $330,000, with a surplus of $330,000 and reserves of $48,698.

DALLAS (AP) — Chairman John Poerner of the Texas Railroad Commission told the State Bar Convention Wednesday the national push for energy independence is raising legal questions about land with multiple resources.

"When there are two competing, or at least differing energy resources to be developed from a particular tract of land, and the immediate development of one precludes immediate development of the other, which should take precedence?" he said.

"There are no oil or gas regulations which address the priority of development of competing resources," Poerner said.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Industrial Commission has announced approval of a $9.3 million revenue bond for MG Burdett Gas Products Co. in La Porte.

The application was for a 12-year loan at 8.99 percent. It was sought by the Port Development Corp., of Houston. The company is buying a gas production plant.

The acquisition will preserve 15 jobs and is expected to add 30 positions at the plant.

Citrus growers will abide by new guideline

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department reached a proposed settlement of its civil antitrust suit charging a Texas trade association with scheming to fix prices for shipping fresh produce from the fertile Lower Rio Grande Valley in Texas.

Attorney General Benjamin R. Civiletti said the agreement with the Texas Citrus and Vegetable Growers and Shippers was embodied in a proposed consent decree filed in U.S. District Court in Brownsville, Texas, on Thursday. The decree will become final upon approval by the court.

The trade association is made up of companies that sell and ship fruit and vegetables from four counties in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

In papers filed with the agreement, the Justice Department said Texas ranks third among the 50 states in production of fresh vegetables, melons and citrus fruits, virtually all of them from the Lower Rio Grande Valley. According to the Justice Department, the value of fresh produce shipments from that area in 1975 was estimated at more than $125 million, with the bulk of it coming from members of the trade association.

The civil antitrust suit filed Feb. 18, 1977, alleged that the trade association had violated the Sherman Act by conspiring to fix the prices paid for trucking fresh produce to other states.

The proposed decree would enjoin the association from participating in any agreement to determine the rates paid to motor carriers by its members. The association also would be barred from discussing or distributing any schedule of motor rates.

Under the decree, the association must provide its members with a written notice of the agreement to be distributed in turn to all truckers with whom they do business. The notice will state that all previously adopted rate schedules are null and void.

The trade association neither admitted nor denied the department's allegation in agreeing to the consent decree.

At the same time the decree was filed with the court, the Justice Department moved to dismiss its complaint against a co-defendant, the Greater Texas Motor Transportation Broker Association of Pharr, Texas, because that association has gone out of business since the suit was filed.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Seventy-eight new manufacturing plants were opened and 34 were expanded in Texas during the first quarter of 1980, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

The increase in new plants is a 152 percent jump over the 31 new plants reported in the same period of 1979.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, will be honored at a June 21 convention convened by the Citizens United for the Rehabilitation of Errants.

NATION

WASHINGTON (AP)—As the nation's capital heads into the tourist season, the hottest ticket in town is the one that lets visitors into the National Archives.

The Watergate tapes that helped cause the downfall of President Richard Nixon have played to a full house since they became available two weeks ago for public listening. Archives officials said Thursday that the tapes most visitors want to hear are the "smoking gun" and "cancer on the presidency." The tapes were played at the cover-up trial of Nixon's aides.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Carter has been asked by 62 congressmen to cancel the shipment of uranium to the Tarapur Atomic Power Station in India.

The shipment has not been approved by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission. But Rep. Ed Markey, D-Mass., said Thursday the Carter administration has indicated it might approve the shipment anyway. The congressmen, in a letter to Carter, noted that "since India is the only known country to have exploded a nuclear device using nuclear material from a civilian program and since India steadfastly asserts its right to future atomic tests, we urge you to draw the line and support the NRC decision."

WASHINGTON (AP)—A move to have the federal government set safety standards for football helmets has been tackled for a loss.
