Forest fire tripled by winds

By The Associated Press

Fanned by hot, dry winds, a forest fire that tripled in size in two hours was raging on 4,800 acres of the Flat Tops Wilderness Area near Eagle, Colo., and a Utah blaze was burning out within fire lines after destroying 3,500 acres.

Nearly 200 firefighters were strengthening fire lines around a stubborn blaze near Lilly Lake in northeastern Utah after it was contained about 7 p.m. Thursday. Officials were unable to say when the fire, first reported Monday, finally would be out.

In Colorado, the fire spread from 1,500 to 4,800 acres on Thursday, said White River National Forest spokesman George Miller.

"The weather is just not cooperating. It's hot and windy. We continue to have 240 people on the fireline with about 80 people on lines overnight," he said.

"The tactic is simply to try to construct the fire line by hand, using fire rakes, power saws and Polaskis (a combination ax and hoe). Unfortunately, that just didn't work out because of the weather and the fire went beyond the line," he said.

"The fire itself generates quite a bit of wind along with gusts to 20 miles per hour," Miller said.

In Utah, Sandra Brown, fire information officer, said the blaze was contained after daylong efforts by some 500 firefighters.

The fire was in heavy timber on the north slope of the Uinta Mountains in the Wasatch National Forest, between Kamas and Evanston, Wyo.

"The objective is to improve and strengthen the line, trying to take advantage of the nighttime temperatures," Ms. Brown said.

The fire would be allowed to burn itself out within the fire line. There was still no estimate of when it might be under control, she said.

Woman surrenders in ax murder

MCKINNEY, Texas (AP) — Defense attorneys hoped to post bond for Candice Montgomery, being held today for questioning in the brutal ax murder of a Wylie schoolteacher, a state district judge said.

Mrs. Montgomery, 30, surrendered to Collin County sheriff's deputies late Wednesday night after an arrest warrant was issued Wednesday afternoon. She was jailed under $100,000 bond.

State District Judge Tom Ryan said a bond reduction hearing was scheduled for 10 a.m. today, but Mrs. Montgomery's attorneys told him they would try to make bond.

Mrs. Montgomery remained in the Collin County jail as of noon today, and sheriff's officials had not received notification of bond, said Lt. Joe Stewart.

Justice of the Peace Glen Swamer issued the arrest warrant Wednesday afternoon, but Mrs. Montgomery did not surrender until 11:15 p.m.

She was accompanied by her attorney, Robert Udashen, when she surrendered.

Betty Gore, 30, was hacked to death June 13 in her Wylie home by an attacker who struck her repeatedly with the Gore's three-foot ax — then apparently washed off her blood in the family shower.

Neighbors discovered the mutilated body in the blood-spattered utility room. The Gores' 1-year-old daughter Bethany was found crying but unharmed in her crib.

Allan Gore, who had flown to St. Paul, Minn., earlier in the day on a business trip, had asked the neighbors to go to his house and check on his wife after he was unable to reach her by phone.

Dallas County medical examiners said Mrs. Gore's skull was crushed in front and back, one of her arms was nearly severed and there were several deep lacerations on her face, indicating she was struck repeatedly after she fell to the floor.

Wylie Police Chief Royce Abbott said there were several holes in the floor that indicated some of the killer's blows missed.

Small bloody footprints were found on the floor of the utility room and traces of blood were discovered on the faucets, soap dish, shower curtain and tub.

Investigators also were able to lift a fingerprint off a blood-smear on a refrigerator.

Abbott said earlier that the killer, who was not deterred by two cars in the garage, may have known the Gores and that Gore had left in the third car.

Apartment owners protest new rates

BY SHEILA ECCLES

Of The Pampa News

The proposed water rate changes introduced by the Pampa City Council have caused protest among apartment owners in the city.

In a meeting Thursday, Pampa realtor Walter Shed and a representative group of Pampa apartment owners discussed their objections to the proposed rate change.

The ordinance that has local apartment owners organizing in protest proposes for class 1-B residences, (apartment houses with two or more apartments), a minimum water charge of $4.40 per apartment per month; for trash service, a monthly charge of $5.50 for each apartment; and for sewer service, a monthly charge of $4.45 per apartment.

The proposed ordinance also states the rates shall be charged whether or not the apartments are occupied.

Pampa City Councilmen agreed to hold a special session July 7 at 4 p.m. in city hall to discuss the proposed water rate hike with anyone interested.

"The people who rent these apartments cannot afford to pay anymore rent and ultimately the rate increase will be passed on to the renter," Ruby Crockett, Pampa apartment owner, said.

"We don't want to charge higher rental rates," Ruby Cunningham, another apartment owner, said. "That's what started inflation in the first place. We will shut down first."

"The city did not instigate the new rates from a need. The new rates were proposed by a certain group in the city who decided they were paying more than their share for water. It was this group that presented the water rate change to the city, and the city decided to do something about their complaint," Shed said.

To add to the ire of the apartment owners, Shed told the group of his call to Mack Wofford, Pampa city manager.

"Will the new rates affect the Coronado Inn?" Shed wanted to know.

"No," Wofford reportedly answered, "they are on a commercial rate," according to Shed.

A hastily organized petition protesting the new rates, containing 59 names of Pampa apartment owners, representing 211 properties, was handed to the city council in their June 24 regular session.

"It took us only three days to get the names on the petition," Shed said.

With pencil in hand, Shed figured the added cost to each apartment owner per apartment.

"The rate change will increase the rates for each apartment to $19.95 per month, resulting in a 239 percent raise on the rates for a triplex unit, and to 349 percent raise on a four-unit apartment," Shed said.

The apartment owners present agreed with Shed that if the larger apartment complexes in Pampa are not charged the higher rates, the group would file suit.

"All we can do is create interest in the issue and educate the people on the eventual effects," the apartment owners said.

Border commission proposed

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — Governors from states bordering Mexico and Mexico are calling for a permanent commission to carry out plans made at their historic two-day meeting here.

The plans include suggestions by Texas Gov. Bill Clements for both nations to relax border-crossing requirements for Mexican tourists and to beef up U.S. immigration staffs as one way to reduce delays and traffic jams on international bridges.

Gov. Manuel Bernardo Aguirre of the Mexican state of Chihuahua, said he would ask for formal action before the meeting ends today. "We must not let the things discussed here languish on the shelf," he said.

Without a permanent international border commission, Aguirre said "the excitement of ideas generated here may just fade into oblivion."

"The meeting in this teeming metropolis, the largest Mexican city on the Rio Grande, marked the first time that the governors of states along the international border have met. All six Mexican governors were present during Thursday's opening session, and among American governors only Edmund G. Brown of California was absent.

Brown's chief of staff, Gray Davis, said the California governor was delayed by state business and was "making every effort possible to join his fellow governors before the convention ends."

The meeting, across the border from El Paso, Texas, attracted more than 100 reporters from across Mexico, and several dozen American newsmen who braved record heat wave to cover the event. The temperature has risen above 100 degrees for 17 straight days.

Clements said the 10 states sharing the international border should do more to promote tourism between the two nations.

"As many as 40 percent of those who apply (to U.S. immigration offices) in Mexico for visas to the United States are turned away," Clements said. "The United States also requires that Mexican visitors must apply in person — in person — for visas, instead of by mail or by proxy, which is standard procedure for European visitors."

He also criticized the Mexican government for requiring passports to travel into the United States, and charging more than $35 each for them.

"Then there is the difficulty of border crossing," Clements said. He cited long lines at international bridges caused by too few border guards and said, "Such delays are discouraging to potential visitors and frequently tend to discourage travel in the border area because of this inconvenience."

Clements' call for more INS guards to handle the heavy traffic jams at international crossing points drew applause from the audience of about 300 persons in the Juarez Convention Center.

Gov. Bruce Babbitt delivered most of his address calling for better mutual understanding of the Anglo and Hispanic cultures in Spanish, while the other governors spoke in their native languages. Babbitt received a standing ovation.

"We can't change history," Babbitt said. "But we must understand history as it is seen on both sides of the border."

He drew enthusiastic applause when he said, "We need an education system in which it is assumed no one is educated until they are bilingual."

Dallas forecasts 113 today

Seven succumb to heat

DALLAS (AP) — At least seven people are dead as the result of a blistering heatwave that has shattered temperature records in most major Texas cities.

Forecasters predicted sweltering afternoon highs to top out near 113 degrees again today.

The heat was blamed for five deaths in Dallas on Thursday, when the mercury reached an all-time high of 113. In initial reports, medical examiners said heat was a factor, but expected more specific causes of death after performing autopsies.

Two deaths in the Dallas area had been blamed on the heat earlier in the week.

David Michaelson, 72, owner of a downtown clothing store, and his sister, Sadie, 86, were found dead in their beds by a relative Thursday night. The air conditioning was broken and homicide investigators said the temperature was 110 degrees in the home.

Alejandro Parra, 50, collapsed on his landscaping job and died after being taken home. Gertrude Forrester, listed in her 60s, was found dead by a neighbor in the 100-degree heat of her un-airconditioned home. Arthur Wygant, 59, of Dallas, died while unloading a truck about 2 p.m.

Eight other persons were admitted to Dallas hospitals Thursday with heatstroke symptoms, including the 67-year-old brother of the Michaelsons.

Electricity usage soared to all-time highs, and residents of two North Texas cities sweltered without power for most of the afternoon.

About 100,000 residents of Garland, a Dallas suburb, and 23,000 in Greenville, about 20 miles to the northeast, were without electricity from 1:30 p.m. until 5 p.m. A Garland city spokesman said the a record demand for electricity, coupled with impairment of a transmission line by tree roots, knocked out two substations.

But John Tarpley, Greenville's electric utilities director, said a member of the power cooperative that connects several small cities apparently had reversed the flow of electricity, causing generators to shut themselves off.

Dallas Power & Light Co. reported electricity usage had passed the record set Wednesday.

At DallasFort Worth Airport, midway between the two cities, a reading of 113 at 4:20 p.m. surpassed the all-time high of 112, recorded on Aug. 18, 1909 and Aug. 11, 1936. The temperature finally declined below 100 at 9 p.m.

Medical examiners were expected to rule today on a possible third heat-related death in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

Arthur Wygant, 59, of Dallas, died while unloading a truck about 2 p.m. Heatstroke has been ruled the cause of death for another Dallas man and a Fort Worth man this week.

Daily records were set at Wichita Falls, with 112 degrees; Del Rio, 103; San Antonio, 102; Austin, 102, and Houston, 101.

At 5:40 p.m., only nine of the National Weather Service's list of 30 Texas cities had readings below 100.

And at the Dallas intersection of Elm and Field streets, where a television crew was filming an episode of "Dallas" by the glassy First Interational Building, the temperature was measured at 117 degrees at 3:50 p.m.

National Weather Service forecasters say they see no relief in sight until next week, when temperatures could fall into the cool 90s.

While the soaring temperatures kept air conditioner repairs and sales high, Dallas police said 23 air conditioners had been reported stolen during the last six days.

Glass dealers said they had been kept busy by a rash of calls from people with broken rear and side windows in their cars.

"The heat just builds up pressure or something," said Mike Killingsworth of Nelson-Brantley Glass Co.

Highways are littered with overheated cars, strained by increased use of auto air conditioners.

The blazing temperatures have affected the Blacklands of West Central Texas, running north and south between Fort Worth and Abilene.

John Burleson of the Texas Agriculture Extension Service in Stephenville said non-irrigated crop yields have been reduced considerably.

Grain sorghum is the main crop affected, Burleson said, and yields will be cut more if a good rain doesn't come soon. Vegetables also are hurting.

Dr. Albert Hoermann, area livestock specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in Uvalde said rangeland in Southwest Texas is being burned.

If rain doesn't come soon, Hoermann said, ranchers will have to begin reducing the number of cattle on the range.

Though the blistering weather may have made most people lethargic, it has made work easier for the city crews that paint lines on Dallas streets.

"It takes 10 to 15 minutes for the paint to dry during the cooler weather," said Sam L. Wilson, assistant director for traffic operations. "Now you get by with three to five minutes. It means they can actually do more and open up the street to traffic quicker."

Soviet bomber crashes off Japan

TOKYO (AP) — A Soviet TU-16 bomber, one of a pair of reconnaissance aircraft dubbed the "Tokyo Express," circled a Japanese naval transport and then crashed in the sea and exploded today after its wingtip brushed the water, the Japanese Defense Agency said.

The bodies of two Soviet crewmen were recovered by the Japanese transport off Niigata, 180 miles northwest of Tokyo, said an agency spokesman, adding the Tupolev bomber usually carries a crew of seven. The other bodies were presumed lost in mile-deep waters.

Known by the NATO code-name

"Badger," the bomber was one of pair spotted about 70 miles north of Sado Island by Japanese radar and the crew of the transport ship Nemuro, the spokesman said.

The Defense Agency, Japan's military branch, scrambled four U.S.-made F-4 jet fighters to investigate after one of the planes circled the Nemuro. The Japanese fighters approached to within six miles of the Soviet aircraft.

After the crash, the second Badger circled the site for 90 minutes, the spokesman said.

Japanese officials said they had not yet decided whether to try to salvage the wreckage of the twin-engine jet, lost in about 5,700 feet of water.

The Badger first went into production in 1954 and is used primarily today for electronic surveillance.

Japanese sources Tupolev bombers, flying in pairs, make about 10 reconnaissance flights a month over Japan, and have been nicknamed: "The Tokyo Express."

Foreign Ministry officials said they had informed the Soviet Embassy here of the "accident," and would negotiate the return of the bodies to Soviet officials. They would make no other comment on the incident.

State officials suspicious of Georgetown water supply quality

GEORGETOWN, Texas (AP) — Signs announcing that this Central Texas town's water supply is approved by the state must be removed pending investigation of the quality of the water, says a state health official.

City Manager Leo Wood responded Thursday by saying removal of the signs is "the most disgraceful, distasteful thing done in the state of Texas."

"It's easy to stomp on someone when they're down," he said. "It's a disgrace that they're after us the way they are."
 Georgetown had a recent outbreak of an unknown sickness that affected about 8,000 persons.
 Studies by the Center for Disease Control and the Department of Health reportedly implicate the water system in the widespread outbreak of sickness.

 David Cochran, chief of the bureau of environmental health in the Texas Department of Health, said the water signs are "a mark of achievement" that are removed if there are any questions about a water system.

"There's been nothing that says it's in our water system," said Wood. "I think that the Health Department will be doing damage and a blow to the city of Georgetown without any proof of it."

Before the signs can be posted again near the city limits, the state will check to make sure the city has followed Health Department recommendations. Cochran said.
 The recommendations include increasing the chlorine level in the water, which the city did Tuesday; flushing the water system by opening fire hydrants; and daily testing for bacteria.

Official says

Government intervention not solution for commodity swings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of a major silver dealer says increased government regulation of commodity trading would not prevent future market swings like the drastic drop that hit the silver market in March.

"The tool of raising margins was, if anything, overplayed by the exchanges," Walter Goldschmidt of ContiCommodity Services Inc. testified Thursday before a Senate agriculture subcommittee investigating the sharp rise and fall of silver prices.

"It is not reasonable to assume that had this authority been lodged with the Commodity Futures Trading Commission or any other governmental agency, it would have really been more judiciously exercised," Goldschmidt said.
 He said the major commodity exchanges took steps to prevent "excessive speculation" after the silver market started its dramatic rise, turning first to increased margin requirements.
 "In my opinion, as the exchanges repeatedly raised the margin requirements, they made the markets less liquid by restricting participation to those who either had very substantial means or had made a lot of money in the market," Goldschmidt told the subcommittee.

Bureaucrats locked out of bathrooms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rank and file bureaucrats who had the rank and file privileges but lacked the rank and file discovered. The government has locked them out of their bathrooms.
 Several years ago, when top-level presidential appointees of the old Department of Health, Education and Welfare moved

He said the market might have peaked earlier than it did, at about $50 an ounce in January, if the use of increased margins had not driven out many of the "hedgers" from trading.
 "There is a fundamental economic principle which holds that the greater the number of market participants the more likely that price variations will be smaller," Goldschmidt said. "It is the diversity of opinion among a large number of participants in the market which assures price stability."

ContiCommodity found itself embroiled in the sharp swings of the silver market, which dropped as low as $10.80 in late March.
 In the declining market, billionaire brothers Nelson Bunker Hunt and William Herbert Hunt of Texas were unable to meet a margin call from their brokers in connection with their massive silver purchases.

A margin call is a demand for more money to back up commitments.
 A report by the CFTC to the Senate agriculture subcommittee said the commission last fall was alerted to extensive silver futures purchases by ContiCommodity. Most of the contracts were held in foreign accounts.

to a new building, civil servants who took over the old offices began using the bathrooms that went with them.

Until last week, when the General Services Administration, the agency that runs government buildings, took the bathrooms away.
 Wilson Gale, who manages five buildings for the GSA, sent a locksmith to 34 offices in what is now the Department of Health and Human Services, split earlier this year from HEW. The bathrooms were cleaned one last time, then the locksmith changed the locks on 33 of the bathrooms.

He is still trying to get into the 34th, whose tenant is resisting. Yet to be changed are locks on 11 more bathrooms.
 "They were very upset," Gale said of the bureaucrats whose bathrooms were sealed. "But I've only got 68 people to clean a building in which 2,200 people work. A toilet has to be cleaned every day. We're not geared to give executive service to these people."

And, he said, there are at least eight public restrooms on each floor.
 Gale was backed up by his boss, Ted Leininger, the deputy regional commissioner for public building services at GSA.
 "The Federal Property Management Regulations say very clearly who's entitled to a bathroom and who isn't," says Leininger — who isn't.

"For example," he said, "a Level 1 official (cabinet secretary, making $69,630) gets 750 square feet of office space, a 500-square-foot conference room and a 45-square-foot bathroom containing toilet, sink, vanity and shower."
 "A Level 5 person (administrator, deputy or associate administrator, general counsel or commissioner, making $50,112.50) gets 400 square feet of office space, no conference room and a toilet and sink in 25 square feet."

Blackthorn survivors are haunted by tragedy

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Six months after he swam away from a sinking Coast Guard cutter that took 23 of his shipmates to their deaths, Larry Clutter is troubled by ghosts on sleepless nights.

"It's the thought of a dead friend," he says. "Before the accident, I would have laughed if anyone had talked about a ghost ... But they just don't seem dead."

Clutter is one of 27 Coast Guardsmen who survived the Jan. 28 collision of the cutter Blackthorn and the oil tanker S.S. Capricorn. The Blackthorn capsized and sank in Tampa Bay. No one aboard the tanker was hurt.

Like all the survivors reached by The St. Petersburg Times, Clutter said he is haunted by the Coast Guard's worst peacetime disaster.

"I see the ships going by, and I know I could never get on one now," he said from Houston. "Shoot, I don't think I'd go on a ship if it was tied to the dock. I'd never know when someone was going to come along and hit it."

Former Blackthorn skipper, Lt. Cmdr. George Sepel, is now port operations officer at a Coast Guard safety station in Houston and "loving it."

He said he has relied on a new-found Christian faith "to take my burden, and that's been a great comfort."

Ake receives life, plus 1,000 years

EL RENO, Okla. (AP) — "He didn't show any reaction," said defense lawyer J. Malone Brewer. "He made the statement he was glad he didn't get the death penalty."

Appeals are automatic on the two death sentences.

Brewer had maintained Ake is insane and should be afforded mental treatment. He complained his client had to be controlled by doses of a major tranquilizer three times a day even during the trial.

The same jury that took two hours to find Ake, 24, guilty of the charges Thursday recommended the sentences.

A judge will formally assess the sentences July 25.

Texas Republicans expecting victory, set another rally

HOUSTON (AP) — The Republican party, sensing a split in the Democratic ranks and expecting a victory in November, plans a fifth show of unity today at a $250-a-plate luncheon in Houston.

With Ronald Reagan as the principal speaker, some 800 persons are expected to contribute to pay off the campaign debts of several unsuccessful candidates for the nomination.

Reagan has enough delegates in the fold to insure his nomination at the national convention in Detroit.

Now he is attempting to help the losers and show a united front for the upcoming campaign and election.

Joining Reagan at the $250-a-plate affair will be former Texas Gov. John Connally, Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., Rep. Phil Crane, R-Ill., and Los Angeles businessman Ben Fernandez.

George Bush will miss the luncheon because of a prior commitment for a speech in Fort Worth.

A spokesman for Bush said, "He has been doing fund-raisers almost every day. He attended two of the previous unity meetings, but can't make this one.

"And, I think it is important to know that Mr. Bush is not receiving one penny from any of the unity luncheons. He has appeared at two of them in an effort to help the others who failed in their bids for the nomination."

Connally and Baker, who have the largest campaign debts, will each receive 43 percent of the funds raised, with Dole, Crane and Fernandez each getting about 4 percent.

Connally and Bush, both Texans, quit the race and announced their support for Reagan.

First it was Connally, who had gained only one delegate in the early primaries after spending $10 million. He stepped aside saying, "Ronald Reagan is still the champion."

Bush, speaking to a news conference in the same hotel ballroom where Connally conceded, said, "I am an optimist, but I can count to 998 (the number of delegates needed for the GOP nomination)."

Mexican cadets take over project

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Armed Mexican Naval cadets prompted the withdrawal of University of Arizona personnel from an experimental shrimp farm on the Gulf of California on Thursday.

The farm was being operated jointly by the UofA and the University of Sonora, in the Mexican state across the border from Arizona.

The incident occurred as the governors of Arizona and Sonora, Bruce Babbitt and Dr. Samuel Ocana Garcia, were meeting at a conference of Mexican and American elected officials in Ciudad Juarez, Mexico.

"I've been briefed on the situation and been told the presidents of both universities will meet to discuss it," Babbitt said in a telephone interview.

"It's a matter that can be very properly handled by the two university presidents."

Ocana Garcia could not be reached for comment.

No one was injured and no property was damaged as of 2:15 p.m., when nine Arizona researchers voluntarily left the farm and flew back to Tucson, according to Carl Hodges, head of the group.

He said the cadets were armed with automatic rifles.

"The cadets were extremely courteous," said Hodges. "None of us at any point in time felt any personal threat."

University of Arizona spokesman Tom Duddleston said the incident stemmed from a dispute over ownership of the farm's shrimp.

He said the university has operated the farm for a few years in conjunction with the University of Sonora and the governments of the United States and Mexico.

Recently, the UofA decided to start a similar farm in Hawaii and on Monday, the school sent a shipload of shrimp larvae to Hawaii to start the farm, Duddleston said.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Bigger burden than predicted

Economic indicators suggest the nation is heading into a period of inflation and recession. The National Taxpayers Union thinks the public will suffer more than economic hardship. The NTU is predicting that the government, once strapped for revenue, will turn the Internal Revenue Service loose on the population. If the prediction is true, Americans could be experiencing bureaucratic repression as well as economic difficulty in the coming months.

Jim Davidson, president of the NTU, bases his predictions of increased bureaucratic repression on the speculation that the federal government will have much less revenue than economists calculate. Rather than allowing their standard of living to dramatically decrease, Davidson suggests the American people will find ways of avoiding taxes. They will find tax shelters and tax dodges as never before, start working in the underground economy, and refuse in increasing numbers to file or pay taxes. In short, Davidson thinks economic hard times will destroy the voluntary compliance now enjoyed by federal tax takers.

Finding themselves short of cash, the politicians, the NTU president predicts, will approve a heavy-handed IRS crackdown on "tax cheaters." Those who think the IRS is already acting like the Gestapo may be surprised to find out how much more that agency is capable of doing. Davidson suggests they will first go after well-known personalities, possibly movie stars or local officials. The tactic will be aimed at frightening the public; it is better described as extortion.

Well-known people will not be the only ones to suffer in such a crackdown. While people in higher income levels find tax shelters — and in hard times the IRS will zero in on the more questionable shelters — middle income people may try to escape into the underground economy. House painting businesses, for example, may just disappear from the tax rolls and reappear on the underground market. But the IRS, given a free hand, can be expected to go after such people with a vengeance. People trying to make car payments by not declaring their income may end up going to jail.

It all sounds scary. Not frightened by government, the NTU is gearing up its legal fund to meet the potential onslaught. Already the NTU Legal fund has been involved in more than a hundred court cases important to taxpayers' rights. It does this with the help of more than 200 volunteer attorneys who see taxation for what it is, a threat to the freedom of the American people.

The NTU lawyers also prepare congressional legislation aimed at restricting IRS power. A loose package of bills NTU research helped legitimize is often referred to as "The Taxpayers' Bill of Rights." Those bills try to give taxpayers the same protections common criminals receive, something they are now often denied.

We hope the dire predictions of the NTU don't come to pass. Nevertheless, we applaud the efforts of this organization. During its decade of existence the National Taxpayers Union has been a substantial force for freedom. We wish it success in its attempt to prepare for any eventuality economic hard times may bring.

Africa's pivotal southern tip

Last week events in South Africa took an ominous turn. Black nationalist guerrillas, in what appeared to be a well-coordinated attack, blew up fuel tanks at three refineries. Those blasts could mark the beginning of armed struggle by South Africa's black population against the nation's white power structure.

The winds of change are blowing in South Africa, and many of that nation's whites realize they can no longer pretend to be out of the breeze. Since the bloody riots in the black township of Soweto in 1976 — riots that left more than 600 dead — South Africa's white government has been slowly changing its racial policies. For decades blacks justifiably considered apartheid, South Africa's racial separatist policy, to be nothing more than the means whites used to keep blacks from improving their condition. But since 1976 apartheid has been evolving into a system that, while maintaining separation, offers South African blacks opportunities not available in South Africa a few years ago.

South African Prime Minister Pieter Botha has moved quickly since the Soweto riots to signal blacks that change has begun. Restrictions on housing ownership and commercial development have eased. Black advancement into the professions is taking place, and blacks in large numbers are assuming well-paying jobs formerly closed to them. The economic advance of Southern Africa blacks has been rapid, too rapid for some of the reactionary members of Prime Minister Botha's National Party.

Botha has been forced to walk a thin line — advocating economic reform on one hand, but maintaining repression of black political activists on the other. The policy of the government is to channel black political activism into self-governing areas — called tribal homelands — which will be, in theory, autonomous from South Africa. It does not appear that the nation's black population — 80 percent of the people — is buying the National Party's political solution; it is, to a great degree, opposing the homeland concept.

The bellying smoke from the oil storage facilities last week served notice on the government that it is time to act. Mozambique and Rhodesia (now Zimbabwe) are in the hands of hostile forces. The South African whites cannot expect that they can maintain their power if four-fifths of the population, whom they now suppress, decide to support armed revolution against them. There are just not enough whites to guard all the refineries and other vital facilities all the time. South African blacks desire to be politically as well as economically free.

This would be none of our business if South Africa were not so important to the United States. That nation possesses minerals that are vital to the Western world — chrome, vanadium and platinum, to name a few. Having these minerals fall to a pro-Soviet government would be a disaster that the West would find immensely difficult to survive. We therefore must pay attention to the Southern tip of Africa.

The rise of do-it-yourself local government

By Robert W. Poole Jr.

When Davidson Rubber Co. donated $750 to the Farmington, New Hampshire, volunteer ambulance corps, it had no idea the gift would lead to a major construction project. But by the time the ambulance and fire volunteers were through, the town had a brand-new fire station. And not one cent of tax money was involved.

The Farmington fire station was financed and built entirely by volunteer effort. In an era of federal grants for nearly everything, we tend to forget the long-standing American tradition of volunteerism. Who would believe, for example, that of the nation's 24,500 fire departments, fully 87 percent are manned by volunteers? Or that 91 percent of America's 2.2 million firefighters are volunteers? Yet both figures come straight from the files of the National Fire Protection Association.

In the Farmington case, the town's selectmen voted the idea of applying for a federal grant: In true Yankee individualist fashion, they reasoned that if the townspeople wanted a fire station, by golly they'd come up with the time and money. And come up with it they did. Each of the 33 firefighters donated his $200-a-year clothing allowance to the building fund. The Jaycees held a town fair which netted $3,500. Altogether over several years a total of $91,000 was raised.

But the efforts didn't stop there. A talented minister drew up the plans instead of an architect. Firefighters who are carpenters or plumbers donated their skills, too. Only the cement work and the finishing of a large wood floor had to be contracted for. The Ladies Auxiliary even raised money from bake sales to purchase tables, chairs and kitchen equipment.

That's all well and good in small towns, you may be thinking, but volunteerism can't be applied to the big city. Think again. One of the country's most sophisticated paramedic-emergency ambulance operations is the Bethesda-Chevy Chase Rescue Squad, which serves northwest Washington, D.C., and Bethesda and Chevy Chase, Md. It operates six paramedic vans, three ambulances, a mobile intensive care unit, a crash truck, and two rescue boats. And does it all with volunteers. Not only that, it has a long waiting list for members!

The Rescue Squad receives no government funds and doesn't charge for its services. It raises its half-million dollar a year budget largely from an annual door-to-door fund drive, supplemented by bingo games, interest income and miscellaneous donations.

Although operations as extensive as the Rescue Squad are rare, volunteer efforts in big cities are not. Out of some 39,000 city blocks in New York City, some 10,000 have functioning block associations, voluntary groups aimed at neighborhood betterment. One of their most common activities is providing a volunteer security patrol.

In the East Midwood neighborhood of Brooklyn, for example, the East Midwood

Patrol provides all-night service, 365 days a year. The 120 members volunteer their time on a rotating basis to maintain coverage in the 25-block area. Besides teaching householders improved security procedures, members patrol the streets in cars equipped with CB radios, watching for prowlers and muggers. When they spot trouble, they notify the police via CB. Studies by the Rand Corp. and others have found that crime drops in neighborhoods so patrolled.

Neighborhood associations go one step further in certain sections of St. Louis. These groups take over full responsibility for neighborhood streets, including sweeping, patching, and snow removal. Similar private streets — to which adjacent owners actually hold title — exist in several neighborhoods in New York City.

The major problem faced by these neighborhood associations is the city's tax system. As Mark Frazier points out in the current issue of Policy Review, association members in many cases end up paying twice for the same services: once by their time and dues money and a second time in property taxes. This type of disincentive, along with the problem of free riders, leads many such associations to lapse into dormancy after several years.

A rational tax system would seek to encourage rather than discourage volunteerism of this sort. And to this end Frazier proposes a solution. There is, he points out, another type of neighborhood association, usually found in more affluent areas. It's the "automatic membership" type, in which everyone in a neighborhood agrees, by deed restrictions, to pay annual dues to provide for certain common services. There are more than 20,000 such associations around the country, many of them providing such services as roads, water systems, security patrols, and in some cases even fire protection. With the automatic membership provision, problems with free riders are eliminated, and (due to 100 percent participation) fairly sizable budgets can be raised — meaning substantial services can be provided.

Why not, then, asks Frazier, give members of such associations tax credits against their property taxes, in proportion to the amount of responsibility for public services the association takes over? Among the benefits would be more responsive services, lower cost (since the association would seek out the least-costly way of providing the service), reduced corruption, and renewed neighborhood feeling.

Of course many details remain to be worked out, but the idea would seem to have a lot of merit. American volunteerism lives on — in big city and small town alike. It would be sound public policy to figure out ways (like tax credits) to make the most of it.

Today in history

Today is Friday, June 27, the 179th day of 1980. There are 187 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On June 27, 1950, U.N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie urged members to help South Korea repel North Korean attacks, and President Harry Truman ordered the Air Force and Navy into the conflict.

On this date:

In 1844, Mormon leaders Joseph and Hyrum Smith were killed by a mob in Carthage, Ill., and Brigham Young became head of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

In 1847, New York and Boston were linked by telegraph.

In 1942, the FBI announced the capture of eight German saboteurs who had gone ashore on New York's Long Island from a submarine.

In 1973, President Richard Nixon vetoed a bill that would have cut off all funds for U.S. bombing operations in Cambodia.

Five years ago, former President Nixon gave 11 hours of testimony to lawyers for the special Watergate prosecutor.

Last year, Syrian and Israeli jet planes battled for first time in five years over southern Lebanon.

Today's birthdays: Television actor and producer Bob Keeshan, better known as "Captain Kangaroo," is 53.

Thought for today: My religion is a matter solely between my maker and myself — Mohandas Gandhi (1869-1948)

Reagan's running mate significant

by Paul Harvey

Vice Presidents for generations have been the butt of jokes which imply uselessness, superfluosity, political impotence.

Vice Presidents have been used as campaign hatchet men, as window dressing and, most always, to "balance the ticket."

If the presidential nominee is identified with Northern liberals, he wants on his ticket a Southern conservative — and vice versa.

Gov. Reagan says that when he is nominated it's not going to be like that.

Gov. Reagan — essentially conservative — says he is going select a running mate who is essentially conservative.

He believes that "if voters select a President because of his political philosophy, he has a moral obligation to provide them a Vice President and a Cabinet with the same objectives, the same philosophy."

Interesting. And significant — because Gov. Reagan's age is an acknowledged political liability and for a running mate he will want somebody younger and healthy.

Inevitably, searching the horizon for somebody young and healthy whose political persuasion is identical to Reagan's — the individuals looming largest are former football star, handsome young Congressman Jack Kemp, George Bush and Sen. Richard Lugar.

This next presidential election is going to have a profound effect on our nation's future.

The American electorate sometimes seeks to justify staying at home on Election Day by expressing a lack of enthusiasm for any of the candidates, insisting it doesn't really matter who wins.

It matters this time.

The torrent of imports

By Anthony Harrigan

The Carter administration's drive to persuade Japanese automakers to set up assembly plants in the United States is shocking and humiliating.

The basic assumption behind this drive is that the U.S. automobile industry won't recover and that, for years ahead, American car buyers will turn to Japan for automotive transportation.

With that attitude embedded in government, one of the most important U.S. industries faces enormous obstacles.

It's hard to understand this kind of industrial defeatism on the part of President Carter and his aides. Do they actually believe that Japan is committed to free trade? The record shows that the Japanese industrial system is a guided, subsidized and directed economic system. Dumping of industrial goods abroad, especially in the United States — in order to maintain or increase market share — is a way of life for Japanese companies.

While the Japanese gain an increasingly deep penetration of the U.S. market, they get a free ride on defense — at the expense of American taxpayers. Again, the administration does little to insist that Japan carry its share of the defense load in the Northern Pacific or assume responsibility for its oil lifeline across the Indian Ocean.

The Carter administration acts as though the United States were enormously wealthy, after the fashion of 30 years ago, and that Japan was economically crushed and in need of American assistance. In point of fact, Japan is flooding the U.S. auto market, taking away profits and jobs from Americans. The administration does nothing to stress the importance of this time of buying American-made products.

James Reston, associate editor of The New York Times, recently spelled out the real situation with respect to America and Japan. "We don't like to think about it," he said, "but the United States has taken the place of Japan's prewar colonies as the supplier of agricultural products and raw materials for the modern Japanese industrial society."

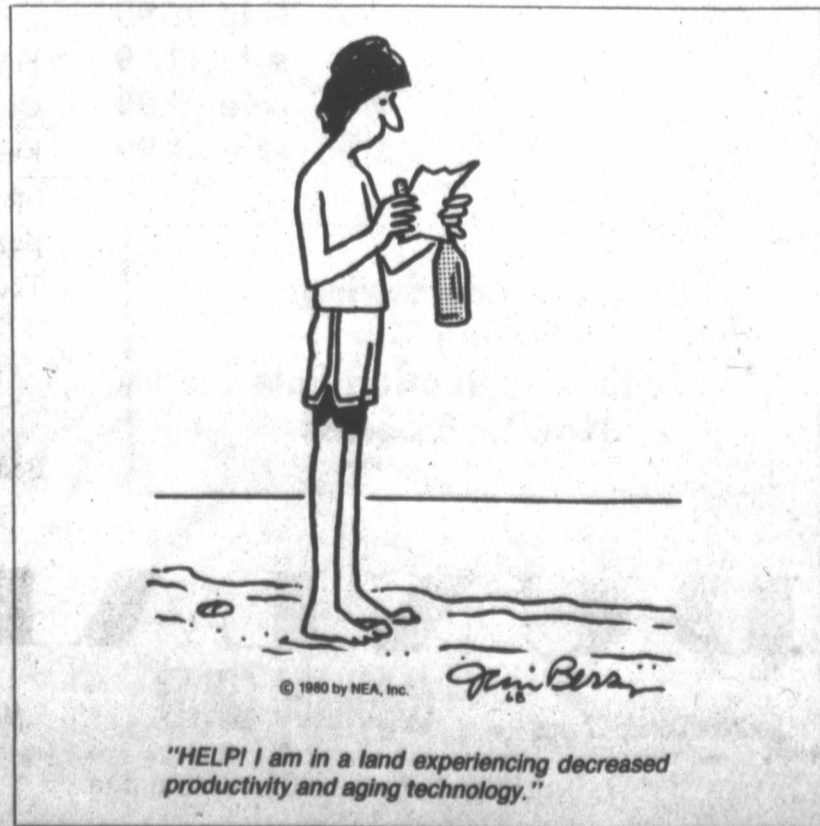

One can admire Japanese skill and energy without wanting the U.S. to be a Japanese resource base and a dumping ground for its products. Across the board, the American Congress and people should insist on fair trade on the part of Japan. U.S. companies should not be asked to compete with Japan Inc., with nationally directed trade offensives.

The place to begin in dealing with Japan's trade offensives is with the Japanese auto invasion. As the Europeans have done, America should let the Japanese know that the torrent of imports can't continue.

It's been estimated that one business in six is involved with the automobile industry in some way. Steel, electronics, textiles, chemicals — all are affected by ups and downs in the U.S. automobile industry. Millions of small businesses — sub-contractors of sub-contractors — depend on U.S. auto production.

The time is past for academic debate on this issue. America must let Japan know that it won't accept the role of an economic colony.

Execution date set for man convicted in son's murder

HOUSTON (AP) — A Pasadena optician has a date with death Aug. 9, almost five years after he was convicted of killing his 8-year-old son by poisoning his Halloween trick-or-treat candy.

State District Judge Frank Price set the execution date Thursday for Ronald Clark O'Bryan, 36, who was convicted in 1975 and sentenced to death for the murder of his son Timothy.

The execution date was scheduled after the U.S. Supreme Court refused to hear an appeal from O'Bryan.

Texas uses lethal injection to carry out the death penalty, but no executions have been carried out at Huntsville since 1965 when the electric chair was the method of execution.

"I now must appeal to a higher authority and trust they will see through what the court calls the dispensing of justice," O'Bryan said before Price set the execution date.

O'Bryan was convicted of murdering his son by giving him candy laced with cyanide in an effort to collect $10,000 in insurance money.

Investigators said O'Bryan's daughter and four other children also received the deadly candy, but none ate it.

O'Bryan quoted from John 13:7 — "what thou doest, do quickly" — before he was sentenced. He said he was innocent and the victim of "speculation, accusation."

He said his case "mocks the very justice of our system of justice."

Marvin Teague, O'Bryan's attorney, and assistant district attorney Don Stricklin both said they felt the biblical reference was intended to expedite the sentencing.

Teague said he planned to appeal the sentence.

Mike Hinton, the prosecutor in the 1974 trial, asked in his closing argument to the jury,

"Can you imagine what this has done to Halloween night?"

"How many more years will it be before we have another normal Halloween?"

A jury of 10 men and two women deliberated 46 minutes in returning a guilty verdict and, a day later, deliberated 71 minutes in assessing the death penalty.

After hearing the second verdict, O'Bryan walked quickly to a holding cell nearby and wept without restraint.

The state presented no witnesses in the punishment phase but the defense offered testimony from nine friends and neighbors.

"He was a decent person, peaceful, agreeable, a very nice person," said Dr. D.L. Akin, an optometrist.

O'Bryan had told the jury he and a friend escorted their children on a rain-drenched trick-or-treat.

He said the death candy was given to him by a man at a home in suburban Pasadena and he distributed it to the children.

O'Bryan said Timothy, preparing for bed later, asked for the candy, took two gulps of the powdery sweet and went into convulsions. The boy died a short time later in a hospital.

O'Bryan identified a man he said gave him the candy but police said the man worked on a night shift and was miles away from his home that Halloween night.

TCU prof wins writer award

CASPER, Wyo. (AP) — The Western Writers Association has given its best short subject award to James Bellah of Tarzana, Calif., for a story he submitted 16 times before it finally was published this year.

Bellah was presented the award for his "Jason Glendauer's Watch," published in "Far West Magazine," during the association's 28th annual Golden Spur Awards Thursday night.

The best TV script award went to Ray Goldrup of West Jordan, Utah, for "The Innocent," which was part of the television series "How the West Was Won."

New York City resident William Decker won the best novel award for "The Holdouts."

Donald E. Worcester, professor of history at Texas Christian University in Fort Worth, won the best nonfiction award for his book, "The Apaches—Eagles of the Southwest."

The coveted Golden Saddleman Award, sponsored by Levi Strauss, went to C. L. Sonnichsen of Tucson, Ariz., for "outstanding contribution to Western literature." He is the author of 18 fiction and nonfiction works. Among the most famous is "Sex on the Lone Prairie."

Bill Bragg of Casper, Wyo., won recognition for his radio series "The Colorful Past" on the American West.

Leon Metz of El Paso, Texas, was installed as president of the association, succeeding Paul Bailey of Claremont, Calif.

Honeymoon continues in burn care unit

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Like other newlyweds, Chuck and Yma Urban are staying in a honeymoon suite. They even take whirlpool baths together.

But they would rather be somewhere else.

The couple, married June 14, shares a room in the burn unit of Memorial Medical Center following a moped accident June 19 during their wedding trip to the Bahamas.

"We didn't feel we were hurt that bad but we found out otherwise when we got back," Urban, 27, said Thursday. Doctors here diagnosed second- and third-degree burns. Bahamian physicians first bandaged their wounds, then removed the wrappings and told them to go swim in the bay.

"We're glad to be back here and get proper treatment," he said.

They had rented a moped to visit the rum distillery in Lyford Cay, on the opposite side of the island from where they were staying.

While riding down a street, Mrs. Urban, 26, said, two young natives riding a motorcycle pulled next to them and grabbed for her purse.

"She wouldn't let go. They pulled us right into the rear of their scooter," Urban said.

The moped turned over, going 30 mph and the Urbans slid on the pavement. Both suffered abrasions on their right sides, arms and legs.

The two would-be thieves circled around and told the couple, "We're sorry, man," and sped off.

Mrs. Urban had about $600 in cash and travelers checks, some credit cards and their return airline tickets.

"We'd probably still be there suffering if they had gotten the purse," he said.

Two local residents took the couple to a Bahamian hospital where a doctor gave them tetanus shots, bandaged the scrapes and gave them a prescription for painkillers.

The Urbans later said they felt so badly they went to a clinic and were told the wounds should not have been bandaged.

JANET BANKS AND PHILIP FIELDS

Banks-Fields slate August wedding date

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Banks of Portales, N.M. announce the engagement of their daughter, Janet Marie, to Philip Eugene Fields. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Allen Fields of Pampa.

The couple will be wed Aug. 16 at the First Assembly of God Church in Portales.

Miss Banks attended Southwestern Assembly of God College in Waxahachie. She is employed by Portales National Bank.

Fields, a 1978 graduate of Pampa High School, attended Southwestern Assembly of God College where he was a member of Phi Beta Kappa. He will be a junior at Eastern New Mexico State University next fall. Fields is employed by Terry Dairy, Inc. of Portales.

Altrusa annual meeting

The Altrusa Club of Pampa held its annual meeting and installation of officers Monday evening at the Coronado Inn.

Leona Willis, Altrusa Information Committee Chairman, read the president's goals for 1979-80. Mrs. Mary McDaniel, president, presented her annual report to the membership.

Following the initiation of a new member, Lynn Hunter, Mrs. Geneva Tidwell conducted the installation of officers. Officers for 1980-81 are: Mrs. Joyce Simon, president; Mrs. Leona Willis, vice-president; Mrs. Betty Casey, recording secretary; Mrs. Cleo Worley, corresponding secretary and Mrs. Jean Scott, treasurer. Mrs. Marjorie Penn, Mrs. Ruby Roysse and Mrs. Erma Lee Barber will serve as directors.

Those receiving membership growth awards for sponsoring new members were Mrs. Erma Lee Barber, Mrs. Billie Bruner, Mrs. Katrina Bigham, Mrs. Mary McDaniel, Mrs. Gertrude Barber, Mrs. Vanessa Buzzard and Jane Gattis.

Special recognition was given to Mrs. Nona Payne (honorary member), Mrs. Gertrude Barber (only remaining charter member), Mrs. Irene Smith and Mrs. Floy Heath (25-year members).

Program chairman was Mrs. Jean Smith. Music was provided by Karen Motley, vocalist, and Vickie Ogdin. Decorations were provided by Mrs. Maxine Ethridge, Mrs. Ann Kay, Miss Ila Pool and Mrs. Floy Heath.

Guests were Mrs. Sam Motley, Mrs. Cherry Craddock, Mrs. Marian Brooks, Pam McClure, Mrs. H.R. Johnson and Marie Brooks.

The next meeting will be July 14 at 12 noon in the Coronado Inn.

Aviation pioneer honored

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The man who helped perfect safe flying recently received the top award of the world's largest engineering society here, the birthplace of aviation.

Sven H. Dodington, a scientist associated with International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. for almost 40 years, won the 1980 Pioneer Award of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers for developing precise navigation equipment used in most of today's commercial, military and general-aviation planes.

Dodington holds some 50 patents in aeronautical navigation and related fields. His developments are credited with permitting hundreds of millions of airline passengers each year to reach their destinations safely.

The engineering award is presented annually by the Aerospace and Electronics Systems Society of IEEE for a development that has stood the test of at least 20 years of successful service. In Dodington's case, the work began in 1945 and was completed in 1959, when the International Civil Aviation Organization adopted his electronic Distance Measuring Equipment as the world standard.

SABRINA BLAKENEY

Miss Blakeney state finalist

Sabrina Blakeney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Blakeney of Pampa, has been selected to be a state finalist in the 1980 Miss United Teenager pageant. Contestants from all over the state will compete for the title. All contestants are between the ages of 14 and 18 and must have at least a "B" average in school. They will be judged in five areas: scholastic, civic achievements, beauty, poise and personality. During the pageant, Miss Blakeney will recite a 100 word essay on the subject, "My Country." Sabrina, a Pampa High School student, is sponsored by the First National Bank, Bob Clements Cleaners and Granny's Corner. She enjoys water and snow skiing, cross country running and swimming. The pageant will be held Aug. 2 at the Sheraton-Daooas Hotel in Dallas.

Miller 50th set

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Miller, 1109 N. Frost, will be honored Saturday on their golden wedding anniversary with a family reception and dinner. The event will be in the White Deer Community Hall. Hosting will be the couple's daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hodges, grandson, David Hodges, all of White Deer, and granddaughter, Kathy Hodges of Pecos. The former Opal Chesher and Charlie Miller were married June 28, 1930 in Woodward, Okla. The former Miami residents moved to Pampa in 1936. Mr. Miller has been machine shop manager of H.R. Thompson Parts and Supply for 44 years.

It's a good idea from time to time to revitalize those always necessary, but often times routine, economy meals. For a budget dinner that will be as welcome as spring flowers, give pork steaks Spanish flair by cooking them in tomato sauce that's laced with sherry and seasoned with basil, suggests the National Live Stock and Meat Board. Pork steaks, always an economical cut, are even more attractively priced this spring.

- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
- 1/4 cup sherry
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
- 2 teaspoons sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon basil leaves
- 2 medium onions, sliced
- 1/4 cup chopped peanuts, if desired

Brown steaks in lard or drippings in large frying-pan. Pour off drippings. Sprinkle steaks with salt and pepper. Mix tomato sauce, sherry, Worcestershire sauce, sugar and basil; pour over steaks. Add onion slices; cover tightly and cook slowly 45 minutes or until steaks are done. Sprinkle with chopped peanuts, if desired. 6 servings.

DEAR ABBY

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a healthy, sociable, easy-to-get-along-with 59-year-old widower whose wife died eight months ago. I am a Catholic but haven't been to church in years and do not want to talk to a priest. I am seeing a very attractive woman who is 58, never married and is still a virgin. She is apparently normal in all respects, enjoys kissing and very heavy petting, but refuses to go all the way for religious reasons. She insists that her religion (also Catholic) does not allow her to complete the sex act without marriage, for to do so would be committing adultery. I know she is not holding out as a means of getting a husband. I tried to explain that adultery is engaging in sex with a partner other than one's legal spouse, so as long as neither one of us is married she wouldn't be committing adultery. However, I can't seem to get through to her. I am not the type to pick up girls at bars; neither would I go to a house of prostitution. I was married for 36 years and am a one-woman man. I don't want to marry yet, and perhaps I may never marry again, but I don't want to end my sex life while I am still able to enjoy it. Is there anything in the Catholic religion that prohibits voluntary sex between unmarried adults?

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: Yes. There are several Biblical injunctions against fornication. Read, for instance, the seventh chapter of I Corinthians.

DEAR ABBY: I understand that there are more psychiatrists in Beverly Hills, Calif., than plumbers. That seems incredible. Is it true? And if so, why?

CURIOUS IN NEBRASKA

DEAR CURIOUS: It's true. Their sinks are OK, but their heads are clogged up.

DEAR ABBY: Somewhere out there a couple is bringing home their newborn adopted baby. This letter is for the baby's new grandmother.

I know you are happy for the couple, but you're having doubts about the baby's "real" or biological mother. I am that girl's mother.

It has been an agonizing ordeal for her as well as for us—her family. I made sure she ate properly, took her vitamins and iron and was cared for by the best doctors in our area.

We all knew from the beginning that giving up the baby for adoption was the right decision, but as the time drew closer to delivery, our selfishness got in the way and we wanted to keep the baby even though it would have been a hardship financially.

For a teen-ager, my daughter showed remarkable maturity and unselfish love for this child to have given it a mother and father through adoption.

This is my first grandchild, and I will not be able to spoil it, but you can, so please love it enough for both of us.

Youth to spread ministry

The Jericho Road, a young group committed to the ministry of sharing Jesus Christ, will be appearing at 7 p.m. tonight in Central Baptist Church.

The group, sponsored by the Christian Youth in Action, will provide special entertainment in contemporary Christian music and unique "Christian Comedy." They are from the Emmanuel Baptist Church in Enid, Okla.

There will also be an appearance by local young talent, prior to the Jericho Road.

Christian Youth in Action is a group formed recently in Pampa to promote Christian entertainment and activities for all youth of Pampa.

The concert is free of admission, and everyone is invited to attend. Anyone wishing to make donations to help pay for group expenses may do so by contacting the First National Bank.

THE JERICHO ROAD

Prayer committee founded in Pampa

The Prayer Committee has been selected for the Wayne Bristow Crusade, a city-wide evangelistic outreach by nineteen local churches. The crusade will be held at the high school football stadium August 3 through 10.

The twelve-member prayer committee consists of General Chairman, the Rev. San Jamison from Foursquare Church; Bill Claterbaugh from Central Baptist; Ira Carlton from Lamar Full Gospel; Kathy Johnson from the Foursquare Church; Minnie Cole from Community Christian Center; Maxine Hapeman from Calvary Baptist; H.R. Jennings from Barrett Baptist; Juanita Smith from First Assembly; Shirley Mason from Calvary Assembly; Joe Chambers from First Baptist; Anabel Simmons from Pampa Chapel; and Lessie Gist from Hobart Baptist.

The Prayer Committee's responsibility is to enlist members of their churches who will coordinate neighborhood prayer meetings two weeks prior to the crusade and during the crusade. Each home prayer group will listen to a daily 15 minute radio program by Wayne Bristow, and then they will pray for the crusade.

Former gang member to preach

Johnny Moffitt will be ministering in the 7 p.m. service Sunday at the Lamar Full Gospel Assembly, 1200 S. Sumner.

Once the vice-president of the third largest motorcycle gang in America, Moffitt has a powerful testimony of grace of God to share.

After the change in his life he went to work for the Lord. He was the founder of the Boys Ranch in Lubbock and is currently living and working out of Milledgeville, Ga., as the president of ministry that reaches out to various prison systems throughout Georgia as well as other states.

The public is invited to attend this special service.

Voice is no prophet

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP) — The man who has been "The Voice of Prophecy" on radio for 50 years says he's no prophet.

"I don't claim myself to be a prophet," said H.M.S. Richards of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, which finds signs in modern-day events that the Second Coming of Christ is near.

Richards' sermons take the form of history lessons to show that biblical prophecies have come true. "A lot of Bible prophecy is not given so we can predict what will happen, but so we can see what already happened, and get confirmation that the Bible is true," he said. "If it came true historically, then when Jesus gives his wonderful teachings, we ought to believe that, too."

Richards, 85, began his ministry as a tent preacher when he was 17. He came to California during the Depression and has been on the air continuously since 1930, when he gave a 15-minute guest sermon on KNX in Los Angeles.

Richards' program was first called "Tabernacle of the Air." In 1937, he picked up "The Voice of Prophecy" from the introduction to a book on how history has been born out certain biblical prophecies.

Richards, whose given names are Harry Marshall Sylvester, got his introduction to radio when future President Warren G. Harding invited him to a demonstration of the new device in 1920.

"He was a senator then and my brother was his driver," said Richards. "I watched him talking to the pilots on the radio and we could hear them talking to each other. I thought it was a miracle."

"Thou wilt shew me the path of life: in thy presence is fulness of joy..."

PSALM 16-11

HERE IS THE PATH

The Lord is my shepherd

PSALMS

DAVID'S TRUST IN PRAYER

PSALM 23

David's confidence in God's grace. A Psalm of David.

THE LORD is my shepherd; I shall not want.

He maketh me to lie down in green pastures; he leadeth me beside the still waters.

He restoreth my soul: he leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.

Thou art my Father, my God, and my King: thou art my Father, my God, and my King: thou art my Father, my God, and my King.

The 23rd Psalm is one of the most familiar chapters in the Bible. Early in life, most of us have committed it to memory. Every once in a while we should go back to these verses and think of the wonderful message of faith and trust in God that they reveal to us. They show us that we have a loving Father; one who will show us the right paths; one who will protect and provide for us. These scriptures end with a note of thanksgiving and a promise.

"Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

Plan to start a regular worship in the Lord's house.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

AL baseball roundup

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

The Baltimore Orioles' pitching staff includes a gourmet, a wine connoisseur, a restaurant owner and a poet.

The gourmet, wine connoisseur, restaurant owner and poet are all named Steve Stone, who also is the current ace of a staff that also includes two Cy Young Award winners.

The 32-year-old right-hander notched his eighth consecutive victory with a six-hitter as the Orioles defeated the Toronto Blue Jays Thursday night. Stone, 10-3, struck out nine while tying New York's Tommy John for the American League lead in victories. It also was Stone's fourth straight complete game, the first time he has accomplished that feat since 1972.

In the only other American League games, the Chicago White Sox owned the California Angels 5-2 and the Seattle Mariners whipped the Texas Rangers 8-4.

"I told Earl last year, during one of our famous run-ins, that I was not quite as bad as I was then," said Stone, who finished with an 11-7 record and 3.77 earned run average as the AL champs' No. 5 starter. "I needed regular work, and I never got regular work with a good ballclub."

He's getting it now with Dennis Martinez sidelined. Since last July 22, Stone has posted a 14-3 record and his current ERA of 3.25 is the lowest among the starters, including Cy Young winners Jim Palmer and Mike Flanagan.

Concerning Stone's extra-curricular activities, he's part owner of a group called "Lettuce Entertain You," which owns and operates eight restaurants, including the "Pump Room" at Chicago's Ambassador East Hotel.

He also writes poetry and has been published in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Chicago papers, as well as the National Jewish Monthly.

White Sox 5, Angels 2
Chet Lemon doubled to drive in two runs and also scored twice for Chicago. Don Baylor, on the disabled list since May 11 because of a broken bone in his left wrist, was in California's starting lineup for the first time since May 9. Last year's AL Most Valuable Player drove in a run with a sacrifice fly but was unable to prevent the Angels from losing for the 19th time in 22 games.

A throwing error by California third baseman Carney Lansford led to a pair of unearned Chicago runs in the second inning. The White Sox added three more in the third, two on Lemon's double.

Mariners 8, Rangers 4
Mario Mendoza and Larry Cox drove in three runs apiece as Seattle defeated Texas in steamy 108-degree weather, the hottest ever in the Dallas-Fort Worth area. Winner Floyd Bannister had a three-hitter through six innings before the Rangers reached him for four runs in the seventh.

"I don't know how you'd ever get used to this heat unless you get in a sauna," said Seattle Manager Darrell Johnson. "Six strong innings is as much as you can ask from a pitcher in this heat, and Bannister gave it."

Mendoza had a double and two singles while Cox rapped a single and his third home run.

Three ex-champions win at Wimbledon, weather still creating problems

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Three former Wimbledon champions have given notice that they intend to be around a while longer.

Jimmy Connors, 1974 men's singles champion, trounced Sherwood Stewart 6-0, 6-2, 6-1 Thursday and announced: "My career is far from finished."

Billie Jean King, six-time winner of the women's singles, and Evonne Goolagong, 1971 champion, both moved into the third round of the women's singles and made similar pronouncements.

That trio was among a handful of players to complete matches Thursday, when the program was once again wrecked by the notorious English weather, which brought hailstorms this time.

Four days into Wimbledon, former women's champion Chris Evert Lloyd has yet to hit a ball. Lloyd is one of a number of players forced into prolonged inactivity by the wet English weather. She was hoping to finally get on court Friday to play her second round match against Christiane Jolissaint of Switzerland.

Lloyd, winner here in 1974 and 1976, had a bye in the first round and has spent four unhappy days waiting for the clouds to lift. They seldom have.

Bjorn Borg, four-time winner of the men's singles title, has played only one match in defense of the championship. His second-round match against former Israeli army sergeant Shlomo Glickstein Thursday was another victim of the rain.

That match is also scheduled to be played Friday, as is No. 2 John McEnroe's encounter with Australian Terry Rocavert. They were 2-2 in the first set when the rains came Thursday.

Women's champion Martina Navratilova meets American Rayni Fox in her second round match — also postponed from Thursday.

Connors' performance Thursday was the most impressive. He took just one hour and 12 minutes to destroy doubles expert Stewart with a display of controlled aggression that he has seldom matched.

"Right now I am hitting the ball as well as I ever have," said the third seed, mellowed by his marriage and the arrival almost 11 months ago of son Brett.

Last year Connors scowled his way to the semifinals, refusing interviews. Twelve months later he is calm and confident, giving freely of his time to both fans and media.

"Last year was difficult for me," he admitted. "This year is different. I'm concentrating and working hard, and I feel good."

King, winner of a record 20 Wimbledon titles, showed all her fighting spirit in saving two set points before defeating Anne Smith of Dallas 6-3, 7-6 in the second round of the women's singles.

Now 36, her knees criss-crossed by operation scars, King has lost none of her desire to win.

"My goal is to win another major title," she said. "I have been training hard for the past eight or nine days and am very relaxed."

Goolagong, mother of a 3-year-old daughter, is still as graceful as ever. At 29, she gives herself only a couple more years on the circuit before settling down with husband Roger Cawley and child Kelly at their home on Hilton Head Island, S.C.

"I am trying to play as much as possible while I'm still enjoying it," she said. "But I do want more children and maybe we will have a second child next year."

As if to prove she has retained her competitive edge, Goolagong had no trouble in brushing aside fellow Australian Jenny Walker 6-2, 6-2 Thursday and then announced: "I could do with a tougher match."

"After playing at Wimbledon for 10 years," she added, "I'm still very happy to be here. I wouldn't be here if I didn't think I had a good chance of winning."

Of the 13 men's seeds scheduled to play, only Connors and 10th-seeded Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia managed to complete their matches.

Lendl retrieved superbly to beat big-serving American John Sadri 6-3, 6-4, 6-3.

Among the non-seeds, Italian Davis Coppers Adriano Panatta and Corrado Barazzutti staged a marvelous battle, with Panatta victorious 6-1, 3-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-1.

The women completed just a few second-round matchups, but two young players produced impressive performances.

Ros Fairbank, the 20-year-old South African, trounced Andrea Buchanan of the United States 6-1, 6-2, while Bettina Bunge ousted Beth Norton 6-4, 6-0.

Skellytown falls to Panhandle, 16-8

Skellytown fell to Panhandle, 16-8, in a little league game earlier this week at the Lions Club park in Skellytown.

Ronnie Jones, Joe Don Brown, and Brent Bridwell pitched for Skellytown.

Skidmore and Hermesmyer were the Panhandle pitchers.

Daron Adkison, who knocked in two runs and scored twice himself, had a homerun for Skellytown.

Ty Cross and Ronnie Jones had a run and rbi apiece while Jacky Furgason, Keith Tice, Brent Bridwell, and Joe Don Brown scored one run apiece.

Little league baseball results

Cabot-Moose Lodge breezed past Chase Oil-100.00 Auto Parts, 19-9, to open the 10-11 year-old Pampa Little League Tournament Thursday night at Optimist Park.

Citizens Bank-Wil-Mart defeated Duncan-Glo-Valve, 12-7, with Troy Owens going the distance on the mound for the winners.

There were a pair of close contests. Celanese-Dunlap edged One Bull-Gate Valve, 7-6. Winning pitcher was Chris Porter.

Rotary-Gibson slipped past OCAW-Dixie, 20-19, in a run-scoring melee. Winning pitcher was Chris Porter. Tonight's lineup of games is as follows: 100,000 Auto Parts-Chase Oil vs. Duncan-Glo-Valve, One Bull-Gate Valve vs. OCAW-Dixie, both at 6 p.m.; Cabot-Moose vs. Citizens-Wil-Mart, Celanese-Dunlap vs. Rotary-Gibson, both at 8 p.m.

The championship finals are scheduled for 8 p.m. Saturday night.

Clifton Pitman, who has created quite a stir with his reverse pivot pitch, will give an exhibition of his unique delivery just prior to the finals. The 12-year-old Pitman faces first base, then pivots facing each base on the diamond as he delivers the ball in one continuous movement.

Both local and state little league officials have been unable to determine if the delivery is legal or otherwise. A film of Pitman in action will be mailed to the National Little League headquarters in Williamsport, Pa. for a ruling on the delivery, said American Little League Director Kenneth Mumford.

"We're in the process of sending off the film now," Mumford said. "Personally I think the motion is legal, but we'll just have to wait and see about that."

Sanderson throws two-hitter as Expos blank Phillies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Montreal Expos' pitcher Scott Sanderson is a cool "cat" for a young man just two years in the major leagues.

The 23-year-old Sanderson proved it again Thursday night in pitching a two-hit shutout to beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 1-0.

The triumph extended the Expos' lead in the National League East to 2½ games over the Phillies.

In the only other NL games played Thursday, New York beat Chicago 4-3 and San Francisco edged San Diego 2-1.

Sanderson, who boosted his record to 7-4, explained that he's always had poise, developed playing before large crowds in tense international competition.

"I pitched for the U.S. team in the intercontinental series in 1975, and at the Pan Am games in 1975. The noise of major league baseball doesn't bother me."

In the Montreal fifth, Chris Speier opened with a single, was sacrificed to second, and with two out raced toward the plate on Andre Dawson's single to right.

Phillies' right fielder Bake McBride threw the ball home on two bounces, and Speier appeared to be out.

Catcher Bob Boone said Speier kicked the ball out of his glove. Speier said he thought he kicked Boone's shin guard. Whatever, Speier was safe with the only run of the game off Randy Lerch, 2-10, who pitched a five-hitter.

The Phillies not only lost a ball game, but also shortstop Larry Bowa for at least a week. Bowa pulled a hamstring in his right leg trying to field a ball in the first inning.

Ron LeFlore stole two bases to boost his total to 40 for the season. The steals also extended his stolen base string to 17 straight.

Mets 4, Cubs 3

Run-scoring singles by Joel Youngblood and John Stearns in the seventh inning lifted the Mets over the Cubs. Lee Mazzilli, who scored all the way from second base on a long sacrifice fly by Youngblood in the first inning, beat out a bunt to open the seventh, then stole second.

Claudell Washington drew a walk off reliever Dick Tidrow before Youngblood singled to tie the score. Stearns then singled-home the winning run.

Bill Buckner's two-run homer helped Chicago to a 3-1 lead in the bottom of the first and Elliott Maddox homered for New York in the fourth.

Giants 2, Padres 1

Jack Clark tripled home a run and scored on a single by Darrell Evans in the fourth inning and Ed Whitson earned his fourth straight victory.

Davis leads coaches classic

McALLEN, Texas (AP) — Defending champion Tom Davis of Boston College held a seven-stroke lead over Larry Little of the University of Hawaii going into the final round of the 10th annual National Basketball Coaches Golf Classic.

Davis survived hitting his first drive into a lake and birdied two par 5 holes to take a 77 in 102-degree weather and grab a seven-stroke lead over Little.

Lemons of the University of Texas, who has won the tournament three times, was in contention at 85, a stroke behind Little.

Always quick with a quip, Lemons said, "I hit my longest drive 250 yards, but it was on a 175-yard par 3."

"I hit it good. It went over the hole, bounced down 10th Street and ended up in a shopping center," Lemons said.

Some games to be covered

NEW YORK (AP) — Even though Americans will not be participating in the Summer Olympics in Moscow, Americans will be able to see more of the competition than originally planned after the boycott.

According to editions of the Daily News, NBC will send a crew of about 50 newsmen and technicians to cover the Games that are scheduled to run July 19-August 4.

The reports on the Olympics will be shown on NBC's news shows throughout the day as well as on its "Sportsworld" weekend series. The 50-member crew is considerably smaller than the 650 people NBC had planned to send to beam back 152½ hours of coverage. It has been estimated that the network lost more than $50 million in advertising revenue when they decided to observe the boycott.

Ritter sidelined for six weeks with broken ankle

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Louise Ritter, the American record holder in the women's high jump and the first place finisher in the event at the U.S. Olympic Track and Field Trials, has suffered a broken right ankle and will be sidelined at least six weeks.

Her coach, Tom Jennings, disclosed the injury.

He said that Ritter, winner of the trials with a jump of 6-1¼ on Monday night, was scheduled to return home to Denton, Texas on Tuesday.

"But she wanted to stay another day," said Jennings. "She went out camping, stepped on a rock and at first thought it was a sprain. Then she went to a hospital and they found out there was a cracked bone in the ankle."

Ritter set the American mark of 6-4½ earlier this year.

Her victory in the Trials qualified her as a member of the U.S. Olympic team, which is eligible to compete in three meets in Europe before the Summer Games in Moscow, an international meet in Philadelphia July 16-17 and three meets in Europe after the games.

Now, Jennings said, "there is no way she will be able to compete before Aug. 5," the Americans' first post-Olympic competition, in Rome, where she hopes to face world record holder Sara Simeoni of Italy.

Jennings said that Ritter returned to Denton after the accident Wednesday.

Astro-Graph

by bernice bede osol

June 28, 1980

Your prospects for the coming year are promising, but what you hope to achieve may not come too quickly. Be patient and persistent. Don't lose track of your established goals.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This is one of those days where it may seem like everything you want to do is opposed by others. Back off rather than doing battle. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph, which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You may have a few more duties and responsibilities than usual to contend with today. Don't make them more difficult by having a wrong attitude.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Misunderstandings could arise today with friends over finances. Try to keep them out of your monetary affairs and don't get involved in theirs.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be reasonable regarding goals you set today. If you aim for targets beyond your capabilities and then fall short, you could become very frustrated.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't read meanings that aren't there into things others say today. You're more sensitive than usual and could overreact foolishly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Make a point to live within your means today. Don't take on any long-term financial obligations. They may prove to be too much for you to handle.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Important one-to-one relationships must be managed with extreme tact today. This is a very shaky area for you. Things could easily go awry.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Situations where you share responsibilities should not be swept under the rug today. This could cause problems for all concerned.

PICES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't try to mix business and pleasure today. Wait for a better time if you have a proposition you want to discuss with another.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be very careful today how you go about fulfilling your ambitions. There's a possibility you could step on some toes and alienate allies.

TAURUS (April 20-May 19) Others will not be too willing to help you today if you issue commands instead of gentle requests. Subdue impulses to be dictatorial.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This is not a good day to take financial gambles or to invest in questionable enterprises. Manage your resources with wisdom and prudence to avoid losses.

Doctor says treating friends is 'good and bad'

By Jacquelyn Mitchard

FENNIMORE, Wis. (NEA) — It is 8:40 a.m. Dr. Charles Shields rises with a sigh from his second cup of coffee. His day can't be postponed any longer.

People are waiting — children who have seen no other doctor since they first opened their eyes, elderly women who met him when they were expecting their youngest, factory workers, businessmen, teachers.

Shields has practiced medicine in this town of 2,000 for 28 years, as a young partner for the first nine and as "the doc" for the rest.

The doctors that Shields tries to recruit as his eventual successors complain that the nearest hospital is 10 miles away. They talk about cultural isolation, an X-ray machine that might qualify for Social Security, weekends on call. Shields can't blame them.

"They want to work a 40-hour week," he says on his way to morning rounds. "Out here it can't be done. I missed things. I watched my daughter sweat through the Girl Scout father-daughter banquet every year for fear I'd be called away. Often I was."

He remembers the night when a farmer with an ailing wife attached a trawls to the back of his tractor and dragged Shields to his house through knee-deep mud by the light of a flashlight. He remembers coming in at 11 p.m. from a house call simply to head out again on another. Most folks today know it won't make them sicker to come to the doctor's office, but they are still informal enough to drop by his home.

"That's one of the reasons young doctors want to stay in the city," Shields says. "They want their privacy. Or their wives do."

"You don't get rich out here, and in the family practice groups they're starting at about $36,000. We don't make much more than that now, after all these years."

Shields has seen many changes in medicine since he graduated from medical school. Then, "the doctor" was someone who could set a bone, calm an expectant mother and remove an appendix. But soon general practitioners were being replaced by specialists.

"I guess I went this route because I had an old G.P.," recalls Shields. "In terms of therapy, he didn't have much to give me. There was no sulfa or penicillin when I was a boy."

"But after he looked at me, my sore throat felt better. And about fifth grade, I decided making people feel that way was a pretty fine thing."

Shields pulls his Chevette into the "doctors only" space at Lancaster Memorial Hospital, where his patients today occupy three of the 49 beds.

The visit is brief. He chats with a nurse about a diabetic learning to use insulin. A half-hour later he is on his way back to the office.

He returns to find on his examining table a young woman with her knees drawn up in pain. Shields gives one of her legs a characteristic squeezing shake and, his voice low with concern, asks, "How's it going, Sally girl?"

"It hurts," she quavers. "I'm bleeding." Outside the room, Pat Bender, Shields' nurse of 21 years, voices her own suspicion: another miscarriage.

Rolling up his sleeves, Shields shakes his silver shock of hair in dismay. "Damn," he says. "And they wanted that baby so bad."

Sally and her husband have had one robust child and much bad luck at having another. Shields delivered Sally and all her brothers and sisters; her husband's mother is the diabetic he counseled earlier.

After a quick examination, he telephones Ken Bauman, a friend and surgeon at Lancaster Hospital. Shields fears Sally has an ectopic pregnancy (a fetus growing in the Fallopian tube). The condition virtually demands quick surgery as the tube could rupture at any moment and Sally could bleed to death.

With Sally en route to the hospital, where Bauman will look her over and call if surgery is indicated, the office takes on a quiet tension. An arthritic senior citizen needs help clipping her nails; another patient's back is giving him trouble again.

Then the call comes. Bau-man agrees with Shields' diagnosis. The afternoon appointments will have to be canceled, Shields tells his staff.

At noon, the doctor drops home for lunch with his wife, Susan, a sturdy, gentle woman who once taught physical education and still shines in golf, a passion she shares with her husband. After tuna casserole, he takes time for one of the little cigars he favors.

The couple's two Siberian huskies come for a pat, weaving their way through a living room full of fragile mementos of Kenya, Japan, Sweden and Russia. This year Shields plans to meet China's "bare-foot doctors" and see the Great Wall.

By 1:45 p.m., Shields is scrubbing up for surgery in the hospital's green-tiled anteroom.

On the table, Sally, her fair hair held back by a cap, is biting her lip. "I'm not scared," she says. "I just don't much want this to happen. But as I told my husband, there's no choice."

Shields is helped into his gown by surgical nurse Sandy Waldman. Inside the operating room, the 33-year-old nurse is all business. But the case has personal meaning for her. She knew Sally in high school, she is also pregnant — and Shields is her father.

"The only regret is that I didn't push harder for medical school 14 years ago," says Shields later. "Sandy would've been a good doctor."

In minutes, Sally is asleep. Shields makes a 3-inch incision on her abdomen. But when he draws the tubes gently through the narrow opening, he sees no evidence of the ectopic pregnancy he suspected.

The problem, he tells Bauman, seems to be an ovarian cyst, leaking blood and threatening the pregnancy.

"Let's take the appendix," says Bauman. "That could be part of it." The two doctors deftly nip the appendix off the edge of the lower bowel.

The tension subsides. Sally went to sleep resigned to losing her baby; she will wake up to find she still has it. The doctors are glad to have been mistaken.

Shields' last case of the afternoon takes him to Good Samaritan Nursing Home. He visits a patient whose battle with cancer may be lost before morning.

"It's bad and good treating people who are essentially your friends," he remarks. "You know what work they do, what the grandma and grandpa died from, what to watch for. You can give them personal care. But then they get their terminal illnesses, and it hurts."

"IT'S BAD and good treating people who are essentially your friends," says Charles Shields, who has been "the doc" to Fennimore's 2,000 residents for the last 19 years. (Photo by Sheila Reeves)

WHEAT REPORT

Approximately 25-30 percent of the local wheat crop has been cut and delivered, according to local elevator operators.

Wheeler Evans office reported at 9 a.m. today the current grain quotations on wheat at $3.56 per bushel.

Wheeler-Evans, Pampa, reports 186,000 bushels of wheat delivered. The largest deliveries on Wednesday were made by Dale Prouse, Gray County and Wiley Reynolds, Roberts County.

Groom Wheat Growers, Groom, reports approximately 100,000 bushels of wheat delivered. The deliveries have been basically dryland wheat. The largest delivery made Wednesday was brought in by Ruben Baggerman of Gray County.

Wheeler-Evans, Kingsmill, reports Wednesday deliveries totaled approximately 30,000 bushels, mixed dry land and irrigated wheat.

Miami Feed and Grain, Miami, reports approximately 125,000 bushels of mixed dry land and irrigated wheat has been received to date.

Actress practices liberation

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — There is no question to which sex Valerie Perrine belongs. She is obviously female, and proud of it.

She is not, however, militant, and that fact lately has begun to irk some of her more active sisters. Valerie Perrine is the type of woman who practices liberation, but doesn't preach it.

"I'm probably one of the most liberated women around," says Valerie. "I have never been married. I have no kids."

She is supporting herself admirably these days. Her career goes on, not perhaps as richly as she would like, in terms of acting parts, but still highly profitably. Hollywood has a hard time swallowing the fact that anybody who looks as luscious as she does can also act.

So they stick her in things like "The Electric Horseman," where she had a few good scenes, and the new "Can't Stop the Music," a loud and off-color musical, where she sings and dances and takes off her clothes.

"I think it's a fun movie," she says loyally. "At least, I'm playing someone a bit more like me than usual. More like me because she's not depressed or on drugs or a lesbian or a prostitute. She's a normal person."

Valerie Perrine is, she feels, notably normal. She likes dogs and flowers and men and most normal things.

"But," she says, "I'd like to get another part being abnormal — that's the kind of part that gets the nominations. They never nominate you in a happy part in a happy picture."

Her normalcy extends to her views on life and, particularly, the man-woman relationship. Her views are more in the mainstream of American thinking than most Hollywood glamour girls, for many of whom women's equality means women's superiority.

"Being equal," she says, "for a woman is wonderful, but being special is divine. That's not something I made up, it's a quote I heard somewhere, but I like it."

"After all, men and women are not equal. I'm sorry, but that's the truth. I don't think women's place is in the home, but I do think that wherever she goes, she should keep her femininity."

She believes strongly in women fending for themselves, as she long has. At the moment, there is no one particular man in her life, but she isn't moping about the house because of that.

"I've never felt the need of having a man take care of me," she says, "but I do like to have a man around. I went with a man from Lebanon for eight years, a Moslem, and all that time with him I didn't speak until I was spoken to. I enjoyed the relationship."

She hasn't been married, "but I don't see myself going to my death bed unmarried."

"As I get older," she says, "I find myself changing and some things that seemed impossible some years ago now seem very attractive."

However, she talks about something the average middle American movie fan may find hard to believe: the difficulty movie stars, even glamour gals such as Valerie, have meeting men.

"It is very hard for me to meet anybody," she says. "Nobody just comes up to me and says hello. I don't go to many parties, but when I do go I've noticed that I can stand there all night and nobody talks to me."

VALERIE PERRINE, star of the new "Can't Stop the Music," believes being equal is wonderful, but being special is divine.

TEXAS BRIEFS

MEXICAN BAPTISTS CONVENE

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Delegates to the Mexican Baptist Convention of Texas have passed a slate of resolutions, including a plank that urges Texas school districts to educate the children of illegal aliens.

The resolution by state's largest evangelical Spanish speaking church group said Texas is the only state denied special funds for the education of children of undomesticated aliens.

Convention delegates voted to send a copy of the resolution to each school district in the state.

The convention also called for an end to the exploitation of aliens and more compassion toward refugees, citing "disorientation" problems in the immigration and naturalization relocation process.

More than 550 churches belong to the convention, which is affiliated with the Baptist General Convention.

REVIEW BOARD NIXED DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas city council has nixed a proposed civilian review board to investigate complaints against police officers.

In place of the controversial proposal, council members approved a "police advisory committee" without powers to investigate, issue subpoenas or interview witnesses.

Spectators packed the council chambers for the Wednesday night vote, and many shouted "let's go, let's go," after review board was voted down 8-3.

Marvin Crenshaw, head of a coalition that supports a review board said petitions calling for a referendum on the issue may be circulated to voters.

"We will take this issue to the people of Dallas and let them decide if we need a citizen's review board," Crenshaw said.

Councilman Fred Blair proposed an ordinance establishing a board after minority groups complained that Dallas police were excessively harsh with minorities.

APPOINTMENT ANNOUNCED

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements announced the appointment Thursday of Barbara Slover of Fort Worth to the Texas Board of Health for a term expiring Feb. 1. Mrs. Slover, 48, a pharmacist, will fill the unexpired term of William Edwards of Galveston, who resigned.

AMTRAK EXPANDS WASHINGTON (AP) — The Amtrak board of directors has approved spending $367,000 to expand and remodel the train station in Austin, Texas.

Plans call for the building to be renovated for passenger use after moving the Missouri Pacific freight operations to another location.

Missouri Pacific owns the building.

Amtrak's Inter-American train from Chicago to Laredo, Texas, stops daily in Austin.

RRC GRANTS INCREASE AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission has granted a $3.4 million rate increase to transporters of sand, gravel and other aggregates. The 15.9 percent increase was $4.06 million less than the carriers requested.

The commission denied a rehearing for Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. on its application to increase rates and charges for intrastate freight traffic. The commission granted a 6.65 percent increase May 12.

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — A grounded tug forced the Intracoastal Waterway to be closed about four hours Thursday night near the Galveston causeway.

The Coast Guard said the Captain Vic, one of two tugs pushing several barges loaded with 100-foot pipes apparently went aground from excess bilge accumulation.

No injuries were reported and investigators said there was no damage to the causeway, barges or tugs.

HOUSTON (AP) — A record $32.6 million budget that indicates a 7.65 percent tax increase has been approved by a 4-3 vote by Houston Independent School District trustees.

The vote just before midnight Thursday was on a budget based on a $1.055 per $100 valuation tax rate compared with a current 98-cent rate. A formal vote on boosting the tax rate must take place before the start of the new fiscal year Sept. 1.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The federal Department of Energy announced Friday that Texas A&M University will receive a $219.526 grant to do research on the combustion of coal and synthetic fuels.

Three other schools in the Southwest — Oklahoma, Tulane and New Mexico Highlands — are among 41 universities receiving similar grants. The DOE said 530 schools applied for $5 billion in grants.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Youth Council Board adopted a $144.7 million budget request Thursday to pay for a proposed juvenile probation program, meet child-care licensing standards and cut class sizes in half.

The proposed budget for 1982-83 is nearly $79 million more than the current two-year Youth Council budget.

A total of $32 million would be for the probation program proposed by a special legislative committee, which has yet to adopt final recommendations.

Funds also would be used to bring the six juvenile institutions operated by the Youth Council into compliance with state child-care licensing standards and to reduce the pupil-teacher ratio from 20-1 to 10-1.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Austin City Council has decided the Armadillo World Headquarters music hall is not a historical landmark.

The Thursday decision cleared the way for construction of a $37 million hotel-office complex on the site, southwest of downtown. The council approved a zoning change to allow the Radisson Hotel chain to build the 18-story complex.

"The Armadillo is the birthplace of the Austin progressive music scene," argued Bill Rallis, a University of Texas senior. "It is part of the cultural characteristic of Austin, an aspect of community sentiment."

Rallis sought the historical landmark status for the Armadillo to save the night spot made famous by Willie Nelson and other performers.

The land is currently zoned for hotels and offices, but a zoning change was needed to raise the height limit in the area.

NO WONDER KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — The 128-mile extension of the Florida East Coast Railway from the Florida mainland to Key West, was completed in 1912.

Considered "the eighth wonder of the world," at the time, it spanned 39 islands and included 30 miles of bridge over open water.

In 1935, the line, which was never a money maker, was sold to the state and became a two-lane highway.
