

Horror flick debuts No. 1 at box office this weekend

By JOHN HORN
AP Entertainment Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The horror movie The Craft debuted in first place over the weekend, earning $6.7 million and easily defeating four other newcomers.

The second strongest debut was the boxing comedy Great White Hype, which finished fifth with $3.3 million.

Of the other new releases, Sharon Stone's death-row story The Last Dance was sixth with $2.7 million, while The Pallbearer, starring "Friends" costar David Schwimmer, was ninth with $2.3 million. Pamela Anderson Lee's Barb Wire was 12th with $1.8 million.

It was the second straight disappointment for Stone, whose Diabolique bombed last month. The Pallbearer was Schwimmer's first starring role in a major movie.

The Truth About Cats and Dogs finished second with $5.8 million, followed by The Quest ($4.2 million) and Primal Fear ($3.6 million).

84-year-old charged with murdering wife of 59 years

TEXARKANA (AP) — An 84-year-old man was charged Tuesday with murdering his wife of 59 years. Edward Utz of Texarkana, Texas, was charged with murder after daughter Linda Freeman found her mother, Clara Utz, 85, dead in the couple's suburban home Tuesday morning. Utz was released on $25,000 bond.

Mrs. Utz was found with a fatal head wound, police Lt. Tony Autry said.

Police had not determined what caused the head wound, Mrs. Utz's body was sent to the Dallas County medical examiner's office for an autopsy.

After police arrived at the scene, Utz was taken at his daughter's request to Wadley Regional Medical Center, where he was treated and released. Officials would not comment on why he was taken to the hospital. Utz became a suspect because the couple lived alone.

Medical savings account advocates lobby Congress over health insurance legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cindy Blagg, wife, mother of two and bookkeeper at a Columbus, Ohio, car dealership, found herself in a new role recently: advocate for medical savings accounts.

Brought to Washington with co-worker Angie Reeves as examples of "real working people who have and use MSAs," Blagg became part of an intense lobbying effort in Congress over a health insurance bill.

"I don't understand why people have a problem with the MSA program being tax free," Blagg said at a news conference last week by Senate Republicans.

Republicans want to include an income tax exemption for medical savings accounts in the bipartisan insurance bill, now under negotiation in Congress. The bill would guarantee that workers who change or lose jobs keep access to health insurance.

"If we just hang in there, we can get what we want," said Keith Appell of Creative Response Concepts, which arranged the news conference. President Clinton needs a health care bill, Appell said, and medical savings accounts must be in the bill to stamp it with Republican free-market ideology.

"Otherwise, Clinton and (Sen. Edward) Kennedy will get all the credit," Appell said.

But so far, Democrats don't seem willing to budge from their opposition to the accounts. As the bill heads to a House-Senate negotiating committee in the next few weeks, Democrats have in turn organized their own lobbying efforts.

On the day Blagg was in town, for example, Consumers Union held a news conference with Kennedy and groups opposed to medical savings accounts.

Democrats argue the accounts are for the healthy and wealthy, would increase premiums, lack consumer protections and would cost taxpayers about $1.8 billion a year.

President Clinton promised to sign the bill in its original, narrower form but opposes MSAs. Yet, predicts House Majority Leader Dick Armey, R-Texas: "He's too good a politician to veto the bill over medical savings accounts."

Consumers could put into MSAs tax-deductible contributions of up to $2,000 a year for an individual or $4,000 annually for a family, and employers could contribute some or all of that. Their insurance company would provide a catastrophic health plan for big medical expenses. Money from the account would be used to pay for routine medical expenses, and unspent money would roll over into the next year.

MADD mothers propose tougher regulations

AUSTIN (AP) — Mothers Against Drunk Driving says it will ask the 1997 Legislature to create several new laws designed to prevent drunken driving.

Both Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and House Speaker Pete Laney have assigned committees to consider changes in drunken-driving laws. Gov. George W. Bush also has named a task force against drunken driving.

Lewis said the House and Senate studies, and the governor's task force, "have given us a chance to get a good head start on passing some lifesaving bills."

Among the measures sought by MADD are a bill to allow the use of "sobriety checkpoints" and one to tighten the legal blood-alcohol content limit.

MADD also said Texas should prohibit carrying of open alcoholic beverage containers in the front compartment of motor vehicles, and strengthen the law that allows for administrative license revocation in drunken-driving cases.

Although MADD and some lawmakers say sobriety checkpoints are a highly visible — and highly effective — deterrent to drunken driving, they were ruled unconstitutional by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals in 1994.

The court prohibited the checkpoints because no statewide procedure existed for setting up DWI roadblocks.

Report: FBI searched tunnels near Kaczynski's cabin

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — The FBI rented portable air packs and recruited a firefighter to search a tunnel complex near Unabomber suspect Theodore Kaczynski's mountain cabin, the Helena Independent Record reported today.

A volunteer with the fire department in nearby Lincoln helped federal agents explore the tunnels two days after Kaczynski was arrested April 3, the newspaper said.

The report did not describe the extent of the tunnel complex or say where it is located in relation to the 10-by-14-foot plywood and tarpaper cabin. It also didn't say whether anything was recovered from the tunnels.

Agents rented two self-contained breathing apparatuses, or air packs, from the Lincoln

Volunteer Fire Department, and recruited a firefighter with experience in "searching for explosives," the newspaper said.

FBI officials in Washington, D.C., and Helena would not comment on the report.

Lincoln Fire Chief Bill Cyr confirmed only that "the FBI rented some air bottles from the fire department to go underground."

Clueless Parents Make Baby Sitter's Job A Chore

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old baby sitter and a pretty good one, too. But I'm sick and tired of some of the parents I sit for showing such a lack of responsibility.

Here are some pointers that I think parents should remember when they leave their children with a baby sitter:

1. Write down all phone numbers, bedtimes, medications, allergies, etc. It's easier for me should there be an emergency, and I also don't have to argue with the kids over their bedtime and dinnertime.

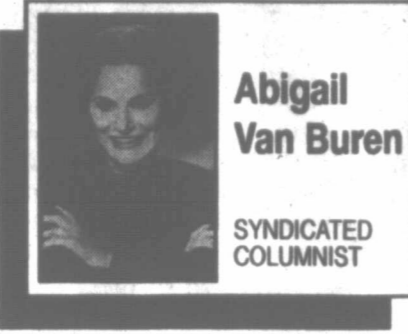

2. Please tell me if anyone will be stopping by. I have locked out two cable companies and a telephone repair crew because I wasn't about to let them in if the parent hadn't informed me they were coming.

3. Inform me of the rules of the household. I don't want to let the kids get away with something they aren't allowed to do, or punish them for something that is in their normal routine.

4. Be home on time. I can understand if you get stuck in traffic, but if it happens every time I baby-sit for you, I'll simply turn you down the next time you call.

5. Pay me on time. I'll baby-sit for free if necessary, but if we had arranged for payment, I would appreciate it on time. That is my paycheck.

6. Last but not least: Please remember that when you leave your children with any baby sitter, you are entrusting the sitter with your most precious possessions. Please help them out a little in keeping the kids safe.

I am signing my name, but if you print this, please sign me ...
RESPONSIBLE BABY SITTER IN SAND CREEK, MICH.

DEAR RESPONSIBLE BABY SITTER: Your letter contains excellent advice to parents of small children, and intelligently summarizes the problems that face many teens who are trying to earn extra money from baby sitting. Before a sitter accepts the responsibility of caring for another person's child, all of the issues you have mentioned should have been discussed and agreed upon.

Your clients are fortunate to have a sitter such as you.

DEAR ABBY: You were kind to print my cats-and-cars letter. I thank you, and so will the many kittens your kindness will have saved. Moreover, scads of people, including many old friends with whom I had lost contact, have called me.

My purpose in writing to you is to thank you and to let you know that the kitten — little Freckles — survived and is loved. He has now been neutered, of course, as all pets should be. He is a special-needs cat, but his job description is not exactly that of a rocket scientist or even a mouse catcher. He purrs and returns affection with love, and is a treasured little spark of the great flame of life. I'm glad he lived.

JUDGE H. HAYWOOD TURNER III, COLUMBUS, GA.
DEAR JUDGE TURNER: Thank you for the update, and I hope that Freckles has a long and happy life. I'm sure my pet-loving readers will be pleased to know that you had your kitten(s) neutered — but you should be aware that I received quite a few letters that pointed out your kittens also should have been confined to an area where they were completely out of harm's way.

Horoscope

Thursday, May 9, 1996

Several objectives you've been anxious to achieve could be reached in the year ahead. However, try to remain patient because things might move slowly in the early stages.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In your social involvements today, don't feel that you have to be the center of attention. If you come on too strong, you'll be relegated to the back of the bus. Major changes are ahead for Taurus in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $2 and SASE to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Make sure to state your zodiac sign.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Do not let your curiosity get the better of you today.

You might poke your nose into a friend's private matter and the intrusion will not be welcome.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You will behave prudently today if your purchases are restricted to items you need. Conversely, you might waste money foolishly on nonessential items.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It could prove to be an exercise in futility today if you try to conquer situations in which the odds are stacked against you. Let your common sense prevail.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Keep exaggeration to a minimum today. You will finish second if you try to compete with someone who is an expert at telling whoppers.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In a joint endeavor today, your counterpart must have the qualities you lack. If both are weak in the same areas, you will not operate effectively.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) When dealing with your family or in-laws today, announcements should be calmly voiced and well-thought-out. Do not phrase your comments in an irritating manner.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Today, take care not to blame others for mistakes that are your fault. Trying to shift the blame is a sure way to make a bad situation worse.

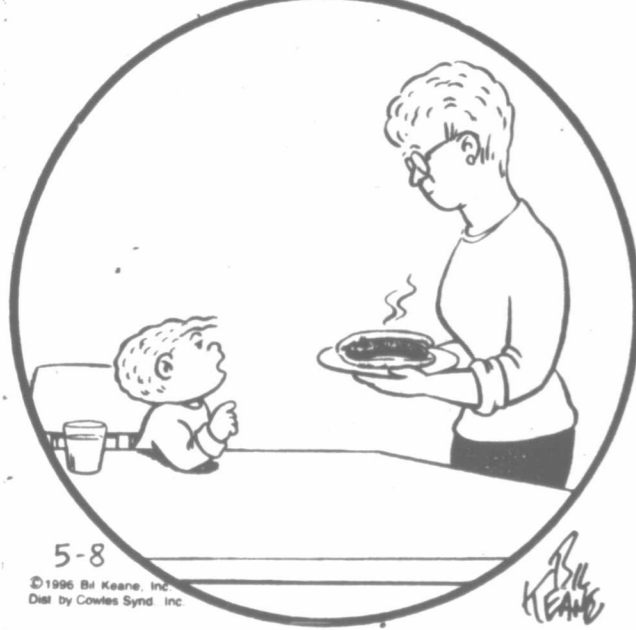

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You will not take higher risks than usual today simply because you feel lucky. These impulses will be generated by faulty judgment and carelessness.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If anyone attempts to boss you around today, you won't tolerate it for one minute. However, take care not to adopt this behavior permanently.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You won't look good in front of your friends today if you say unflattering things about another pal who will not be present to defend himself.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If it is your responsibility to handle the resources of others today, treat it as a sacred trust. Strive to live up to the faith they have placed in you.

Lovett Memorial Library Staff Picks

Lovett Memorial Library staff picks for May include:
Blood Sport by James B. Stewart
 Drawing on scores of interviews with highly placed sources, a Pulitzer Prize-winning investigative reporter, author of Den of Thieves and The Prosecutors, cuts to the heart of the rumors and innuendoes surrounding the First Family to get to the facts about the Whitewater land deal, Vince Foster's suicide and other alleged scandals plaguing the Clinton White House.

Smart Eating, Choosing Wisely, Living Lean by Covert Bailey
 Covert Bailey has been saying it for years: diets don't work. In this companion to his best selling Smart Exercise, Bailey offers a revolutionary way to think about food, nutrition and weight loss, showing readers how to achieve and maintain their ideal weight, without ever dieting. Includes a four color, pull out centerfold of the Smart Eating food target and 200 brand new recipes.

Showdown by Elizabeth Drew
 The author of On the Edge, the acclaimed account of President Clinton's first two years in office, follows up with an incisive analysis of politics inside the Beltway after the Republican victory of 1994. The author traces the political maneuvers of Clinton and the chief rival, Speaker Newt Gingrich, on issues from taxes to welfare reform. Offering a fresh assessment of Gingrich's rise to power, the author reveals the tensions between him and Republican leader Bob Dole. She also shows how White House strategists reinterpreted Clinton's role after his bitter defeat.

Trail of Secrets by Eileen Goudge
 When a baby is snatched in the night, three lives are changed forever in this engrossing new novel by the author of Garden of Lies. Contrasting the blue-blood equestrian world with the blue collar beat of a mounted cop, Trail of Secrets sparks a fire that draws three women into the heart of jealously guarded, dark secrets.

Requiem for a Glass Heart by David Lindsey
 Two women, the first an Eastern European assassin mysteriously enslaved to a ruthless Russian gangster, the second an undercover Drug Enforcement Administration agent assigned to an international task force dedicated to catching him, are thrust together in an explosive confrontation that threatens both their lives. Sensing they are both being set up, the two women join forces at a summit meeting of international crime lords. Their ultimate survival hinges on a choice between being true to themselves and maintaining their undercover identities.

Angel Flying Too Close to the Ground by Annie Garrett
 Can first love have a second chance? In a novel that will touch readers' hearts the way that The Bridges of Madison County did, Garrett offers the story of a first love left behind but never forgotten, of the path not taken, of a one-time chance at rekindled passions.

The Pumpkin Rollers by Elmer Kelton
 In the cattle drives of the Old West, pumpkin rollers were green farm boys almost more trouble than they were worth. When Trey McLean leaves an east Texas cotton farm to learn the cattleman's trade, he learns fast, about deceit among men and the love of a woman. When luck sets him on a cattle drive to Kansas, Trey learns the trade, and the unwritten code of violence that plagues it.

Nathan's Run by John Gilstrap
 Having escaped from a juvenile detention center, 12-year-old Nathan Bailey becomes a terrified fugitive on the run when he is falsely accused of killing a guard. Assigned to track him down, chief homicide detective Warren Michaels is reminded of the son who was Nathan's age when he was killed by a drunk driver several months earlier. Also stalking the boy is a determined hit man who has a reputation for his cruelty. A growing national dialogue on violent youth crime erupts, fueled by an outrageous talk show host. At the core, a young boy must outwit his pursuers and prove his innocence.

School paper exposes credit card scandal

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—Score another scoop for the muckrakers at Palo Alto High School.

The school district is taking a closer look at its credit-card policies after The Campanile student newspaper questioned several hundred dollars in meal charges and the district's enforcement of spending limits.

The story was just one of many investigative articles by the award-winning newspaper. Unlike many high school papers, The Campanile doesn't mind sticking its nose into sensitive issues.

"The primary purpose of the newspaper should be to inform the public," said Ben Hewlett, the reporter who wrote the credit-card story and grandson of Hewlett-Packard co-founder Bill Hewlett. "The more people who know about this issue, the better."

The district criticized the story, but not the students' decision to report it or their aggressive pursuit of scoops.

"We are very proud of them," said Jim Brown, superintendent of the Palo Alto Unified High School District.

World briefs

Ex-Nazi's trial begins in Italy today

ROME (AP)— Fifty-two years after a Nazi massacre of 335 civilians outside Rome, a former SS captain went on trial today for helping to carry it out.

Erich Priebke, 82, admits that he killed two victims and called out the names of 100 others, who were then shot at the Ardeatine Caves. But he insists he would have faced death himself had he disobeyed orders.

"We will show that he was just following orders," defense attorney Velio Di Rezze said.

Priebke wore a gray suit and shirt and a blue-gray tie to the military court. He occasionally whispered to Di Rezze as Judge Agostino Quistelli ran through procedural matters.

As the trial was about to begin, Di Rezze said Priebke was "calm but a little worried."

Since his extradition from Argentina six months ago, Priebke has been alternately contrite and defiant. He expressed sorrow for the victims at his indictment hearing last month, but also called the 1944 killings "perfectly legitimate" wartime retribution.

The victims included Roman Catholic priests, a 14-year-old boy and 75 Jews, all killed in retaliation for a bombing by Italian partisans.

French warplanes collide, one pilot dead

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP)— Two French Mirage-2000 warplanes collided Tuesday night over Dhahran in eastern Saudi Arabia, killing a French pilot.

One pilot managed to land safely, but the other was killed when his plane crashed, said Col. Dominique Canonne, chief spokesman for the French air force in Paris.

The warplanes were returning from an "operational mission" when they collided, Canonne said. They were part of a Western military force patrolling a no-fly zone over southern Iraq to protect the area's Shiite Muslims from government attacks.

Neither Canonne nor the state-run Saudi Press Agency, which also reported the crash, knew whether anyone on the ground was hurt, but the area around Dhahran is mostly desert.

Authorities were investigating the cause of the accident, Canonne said. The identity of the dead pilot was not released.

South Africa adopts constitution after two years

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP)— South Africa adopted a new constitution today that guarantees equal rights for all and completes the country's official transformation from the injustice of apartheid to democracy.

The Constitutional Assembly, which worked two years to draft the 150-page document, voted 421-2 to pass it. There were 10 abstentions.

With the result, delegates leaped to their feet with cheers and began dancing and singing in the parliament chamber where apartheid laws once were passed.

"Our pledge is: Never and never again shall the laws of our land rend our people apart or legalize their oppression and repression," President Nelson Mandela said in a speech after the vote.

The constitution will take effect gradually over the next three years, then come into force fully with the next national elections in 1999.

Smaller parties feared the charter would fail to protect minority rights and opposed it. The Afrikaner nationalist Freedom Front abstained on the ratification vote. The Zulu nationalist Inkatha Freedom Party, which boycotted the Constitutional Assembly, was absent to show its opposition.
