DEATH ALLEY CLAIMED ANOTHER VICTIM early today when a Tulsa, Oklahoma woman died following the crash of a pickup in which she was a passenger, and a semi-truck. The accident occurred near the scene of wrecks which have claimed the lives of six other persons since construction work began on the stretch of I-40 across the Panhandle. (Photos by Ed Sackett)

One dead in early morning 'Death Alley' accident

ALANREED - An Oklahoma woman was pronounced dead and two men have been transported to the Amarillo Emergency Receiving Center as a result of an early morning accident which occurred on the dangerous stretch of I-40, nine miles west of Alanreed. Involved in the crash were a pick-up truck and a semi-tractor trailer rig.

The woman, Nancy Mayfield, 39, of Tulsa, Okla., was driving a Chevrolet pick-up and pulling a U-Haul trailer at approximately 7:30 a.m.

"The pick-up, for some unknown reason, crossed the center line and struck a semi-tractor trailer rig driven by Richard Caldwell, 40 of LaPuente, California," said investigating Texas Highway Patrol Trooper John Holland.

A passenger in the pick-up, Howard Dalton, 54, of Tulsa, Oklahoma, and the driver of the semi-tractor trailer rig are being treated in the Amarillo Emergency Receiving Center for fractures, lacerations and bruises. Both were listed in satisfactory condition this morning by hospital officials.

Due to the weight of the pick-up and the fact that it hit the truck in just the right area, the semi-rig ripped apart on contact, said Trooper Holland.

Investigating officers at the scene of the accident discovered a number of rifles, hand guns and ammunition strewn about the wreckage. Further investigation provided information concerning Dalton, a passenger in the pick-up. Holland said Dalton may possibly be a gunsmith, explaining the large number of guns in the trailer.

McLean firefighters were called to the scene of the accident and employed the Hurst Tool (jaws of life) to remove the body from the pick-up. Today's accident is the fourth fatal crash within four months on the dangerous stretch of highway now known as "death alley" between Alanreed and Groom.

Four persons were killed in two traffic mishaps during the month of May, and two truck drivers were killed in late July when their vehicles slammed head-on within the same dangerous stretch of roadway.

Texas Department of Public Safety officers have increased surveillance on the "death alley" stretch, often working regular time off in an effort to cut down on the fatalities.

Signs, markers and flashing lights have been installed near the dangerous construction area warning motorists of the imminent danger.

Bullock: investigation is "three ring circus"

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Comptroller Bob Bullock says he will cooperate fully with a grand jury that is investigating former Deputy Comptroller Ralph Wayne.

Bullock was subpoenaed Thursday to testify on Sept. 4. Another 11 persons, including Rep. Pete Laney, D-Hale Center, were subpoenaed Wednesday.

"I'll comply," said Bullock, adding he furnished grand jurors numerous documents, including airplane flight logs and travel vouchers, two months ago.

Bullock said he believed Wayne, who resigned as deputy in August 1979 because of ill health, would survive the investigation "as I think all of us will."

"This thing has gotten to be a three-ring circus," Bullock said. The Travis County grand jury is investigating allegations made by former Bullock publicist Bill Collier that Wayne used state employees and equipment to conduct private business.

The investigation started in October 1978 but has been in limbo for over 18 months. District Attorney Ronald Earle had said he was awaiting FBI analysis of a carbon ribbon from the typewriter used by Wayne's secretary. But the FBI revealed this summer it made its report to Earle in September 1979.

Bullock challenged Earle in July to move forward with the investigation or shut it down and end the suspense for Wayne.

Assistant District Attorney Phil Nelson said Bullock himself is not under investigation.

Laney succeeded Wayne as state representative from the Plainview area in 1973 and reportedly has had business dealings with him.

Laney, chairman of the House Administration Committee, is considered Speaker Bill Clayton's closest confidant in the House.

Besides Bullock, Laney and Collier, subpoenas for the Sept. 3-4 hearings were issued to Danny Lewis, a Dimmitt accountant; Bruce Campbell and Ron Wimberly of Abilene radio station KWKC; Jerry Lovell of KYXX, Odessa; E.C. Goodman, cashier of First National Bank in Lubbock; Neal Hefner, senior vice president of Lubbock National Bank; Olan Alexander, president of Central Plains Savings Association, Tulsa; Randall Kidd, vice president of Central Plains Savings in Plainview; and Sherri Revier of Georgetown, Wayne's former secretary.

Wayne had no connection with KWKC, the district attorney's spokesman said.

Goodman's subpoena instructs him to bring records and letters about a loan to Wayne and Laney in connection with Central Plains Savings.

Campbell, Wimberly and Lovell were told to bring their 1978 correspondence with Wayne concerning Ralph Wayne Communications, Panhandle Broadcasting Inc., Big Country Broadcasting Inc., Central Texas Communications Inc., KKYV of Plainview, KKYR of Marshall, KYXX of Odessa and KXVL of Brownwood.

Lewis was told to bring records concerning Wayne's broadcasting and savings and loan interests as well as Savings Life Insurance Co. of Texas.

Alexander and Kidd were instructed to bring copies of their correspondence with Wayne about Central Plains Savings.

Collier said in magazine articles that he took the typewriter ribbons to Earle after resigning from the comptroller's staff. In December 1978, a grand jury turned in a report on Bullock's department and complained he hindered its investigation.

Murder case goes to jury

By DEBORAH BRIDGES
Of The Pampa News

LIPSCOMB - District Judge Grainer McIlhany, sitting in the 31st District Court Room read the charge to the jury hearing evidence in the case of Cathy Darlene Smith, charged with first degree murder of her husband, Dennis Lee Smith, shortly before noon today.

The State and defense in the trial rested at 9:35 a.m. today after the state had called three witnesses in rebuttal.

Pampa Police officer, Johnny Bennett, the first to take the stand, told the court that on the night of the shooting, he overheard a conversation by Mrs. Smith and Department of Public Safety Trooper Wayne Williams.

Bennett testified that on the night of the shooting, he overheard the conversation between Mrs. Smith and Williams as the trio sat in Bennett's patrol unit at the Smith residence.

He said Mrs. Smith answered Williams' question as to what had happened by telling him that Dennis Smith told her, "I know you are going to leave me again... you're killing me with a broken heart... you might as well take a gun and do it." Bennett said Mrs. Smith then related her first accident story in which she stated there had been a struggle for the gun.

Cornier asked the officer if Mrs. Smith was alert. Bennett said she "appeared" alert. Bennett testified Mrs. Smith was "intoxicated, was extremely upset and that her manner of speech was slow."

During rebuttal testimony from Williams, the trooper said Mrs. Smith had invited him to her apartment to see video-tape movies on her cassette recorder. "She asked if I would mind being on a water bed Dennis Smith slept in," Williams said.

The third witness was Charles Richard Steddum of Collinsville, Okla.

Steddum testified that several days after the shooting, he and Mrs. Smith were in the office of Steddum's Restaurant in Pampa. During the meeting, he said he asked Mrs. Smith, "Did Dennis threaten you in any way?" He said Mrs. Smith answered, "No, Dick, he wouldn't hurt me in any way."

A story of sexual perversion, spouse abuse, drugs and drinking unfolded Thursday afternoon when Cathy Darlene Smith took the stand in her own defense.

With a quaking voice, the attractive 29-year-old woman — charged with first degree murder in the January shooting death of her husband, Dennis Lee Smith — told the jury Smith had an "abnormal obsession" with sex and sexual "things" and that he kept her prisoner in her home with veiled threats and bribes.

"For instance," she said, "movies... they had to be X-rated movies, he wouldn't take me to regular movies."

"He didn't want me to have any close friends or be close to my family," she testified. "He was afraid I would tell things."

"What 'things' were he afraid you would tell," her attorney, John White asked the defendant.

"Sometimes he would come home from work and I would have supper ready," she said, "but he (Smith) wouldn't eat. He said he would prefer a bath and a rubdown. Then I would have to take my clothes off and dance to music to excite him before he ate."

"Did he ever tie you to the bed?" White asked.

"Yes," she whispered.

"With your consent?"

"No."

After being tied to the bed, Mrs. Smith testified, she became a victim of perverted sexual abuse by her husband.

On many other occasions, she told the jury, she was used by her husband in a perverted sexual manner.

"Every day we had to smoke some marijuana and at noon we had to smoke (marijuana) and have a couple of drinks to be in the right frame of mind for these (X-rated) movies," she said.

"I was not allowed to go anywhere, at anytime, alone," she said.

The night of the shooting, Mrs. Smith said, she had told her husband she was going to leave him.

Looking at the jury, she said, he told her that as soon as the clean-up crew left the restaurant, they would "settle this once and for all."

"You are not going to leave me," she said he told her. "You are not going to humiliate me again."

When the clean-up crew left the restaurant, she said, her husband left the house.

On his return, she testified, Smith went directly to the dining room table where a gun was placed in the center of the table.

The room was dark, she said, lighted only by the light from the television in the adjoining living room.

"I jumped up and walked up to the table, he was standing at one end," she told the jury. Smith's back was to her, she added.

"He immediately drew his fist up. I was so afraid he would reach the gun... I pulled the gun off the table and he started towards me. I just fired," she said, staring at the floor.

"I didn't even see if he was looking at me."

"The gun flashed and I staggered down the steps."

"I didn't know what to expect and what he might do to me," she said, her voice breaking.

"I walked towards the step... the gun was still in my hand and it just slid out of my hand."

"I called the operator and said I needed the police."

The state ended its case shortly after the lunch recess, Thursday, with the testimony of Ron Rogers of Lubbock, a polygraph examiner for the Department of Public Safety.

Rogers told the jury that Mrs. Smith had given him a voluntary oral statement the afternoon of Feb. 4, 1980.

After refreshing his memory with his notes, Rogers said Mrs. Smith told him "at close range, she pointed and fired a pistol at him (the deceased), then stepped back and fired the pistol again. She said she could not remember if he was looking at her or not."

"Did she tell you why she did this?" Cornier asked.

"Yes sir," Rogers answered. "She did. She stated her husband was smothering her and would not let her out of the marriage."

In Cornier's cross examination of Mrs. Smith, he asked her if she made this statement to Rogers.

"I did not tell him that at all," she answered.

"You mean he (Rogers) is lying?" Cornier asked.

"No sir, I don't remember making any such statement," she said.

"If Dennis Smith came into the mobile home intending to continue the argument, to do you bodily harm, and walked directly over to the dining room table" the district attorney asked, "how do you account for his shoes being off and his pants unzipped?"

The shoes were slip-on type, she said, he could have kicked them off when he came in.

"I didn't look to see if his pants were unzipped," she answered.

Clayton denied due process rights?

FBI tactics under fire

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal judge says an FBI informant was apparently "unleashed" during the Briab investigation, a move that may have violated the due process rights of Texas House Speaker Billy Clayton.

U.S. District Judge Robert O'Connor, presiding over a pretrial hearing that came after defense attorneys filed motions for dismissal, questioned Thursday the tactics used by key informant Joseph Hauser during the 10-month investigation.

Clayton, Deer Park labor leader L.G. Moore and Austin attorneys Randall B. Wood and Donald W. Ray were all indicted June 12 on federal racketeering, fraud, conspiracy and extortion charges in connection with the investigation.

"It appears to me that what did was kind of unleash Mr. Hauser," O'Connor told FBI agent Michael F. Wacks, who had taken the stand for the government on the fourth day of the hearing.

O'Connor's questions came after Roy Minton, Clayton's attorney, had asked Wacks why the investigation of Clayton continued after Wacks acknowledged that no one had ever indicated Clayton would take a bribe.

"The problem I have," O'Connor said, "is why you have Mr. Hauser continually pushing money at people."

"Did it ever occur to you," he asked, "that perhaps you were violating the speaker's due process rights by going forward with the con.?"

Wacks replied that it did not, and again said "no" after O'Connor asked him "as a lawyer" in retrospect, if the question of possible constitutional violations bothered him.

"That doesn't bother you at all?" O'Connor asked. "The way you went about it (offering the bribe) to a politician — offering a campaign contribution."

"No, your honor," Wacks answered, "it doesn't."

Clayton received $5,000 from Moore Nov. 8 during a meeting in Clayton's office. The money had been supplied by Hauser, Clayton has said the money was a campaign contribution and that he intended to report it.

Water was reported spewing above power lines at noon yesterday directly South of the 1600 block of Fir. The sixteen inch main distribution line was accidentally pierced at the top by a private contractor. Workers located the necessary valves to depress the shooting water through the night. Repairs could not be possible until morning due to lighting and electricity needed for the dark hours. Workers have located the air relief device which will be opened to let water run down the pipe. This will enable the welder on the job to make repairs on the steel reinforced concrete line, once it is dried. City Manager, Mack Wofford, says this has caused no serious economic factors and he does not expect any customers to be out of service.

Judge postpones hearing on Oswald exhumation

FORT WORTH (AP) — A state district judge has put off indefinitely the decision of whether to allow the exhumation of the body of accused assassin Lee Harvey Oswald.

Judge James Wright, of Fort Worth, postponed a hearing on a lawsuit to block the exhumation after several motions were filed by an attorney for the accused presidential assassin's brother, Robert Oswald, and by the Dallas County medical examiner.

Oswald filed suit last week to block exhumation attempts by a British author who is trying to prove the body in the Fort Worth grave is that of a Russian impostor.

At that time, Wright issued an injunction against author Michael Eddowes, who claimed he had "legal authority" to exhume the body and have an autopsy performed.

A hearing on the motions by Dr. Charles Petty and Oswald's attorney Kenneth L. Campbell was set for Sept. 3.

Petty, a defendant in the suit, asked the judge to move the hearing on the suit from Fort Worth to Dallas. Last week, the medical examiner said he would perform the autopsy if Eddowes got the body.

Oswald's attorney said he would fight the medical examiner Petty's motion that the trial be moved to Dallas, on the contention that the trial should be held where the body is buried.

Campbell asked Wright to remove Marina Oswald Porter as a defendant in the suit because she is in agreement with her former brother-in-law, Robert Oswald.

Mrs. Porter earlier gave her consent for the exhumation of her late husband's body, but the attorney said, "she believes Lee is buried there."

Campbell also asked that County Judge Gary Webber, who signed the original exhumation order, be eliminated as a defendant because "it is no longer necessary."

In 1978, Eddowes attempted to obtain a court order allowing the exhumation, but his request was turned down by Wright, who ruled the Englishman did not have the same legal rights in this country as a United States citizen.

The British researcher says he has "persuasive" evidence to indicate the man in the grave is not Oswald.

He said he turned his findings over to medical examiners in Tarrant County, where the body is buried, and adjacent Dallas County, where the killing took place Nov. 22, 1963, seeking to have the remains exhumed and examined for positive identification.

Reports show consumer level inflation eased

WASHINGTON (AP) — Overall consumer prices did not rise at all in July, the first time that has happened in more than 13 years, the government said today. The sharp improvement was due almost exclusively to a rapid decline in home-financing costs.

Excluding mortgage costs and housing prices, consumer prices last month increased 0.6 percent, led by a 0.9 percent boost in the food and beverage category, the Labor Department said.

For the first seven months of this year, inflation at the consumer level has accelerated a 12.6 percent compound annual rate, the department said.

July's stable rate followed a 1 percent jump in June, but private economists predicted that last month's increase in food and beverage costs is only the beginning of a dramatic rise in this category.

The Labor Department reported last week that wholesale prices rose 1.7 percent in July, while food prices at this level jumped about 9 percent. It usually takes a month or two for food prices at the producer stage to work their way to the consumer level.

The 1 percent difference in the Consumer Price Index between June and July was "almost unprecedented," said Labor Department economist Patrick Jackman. Not since March 1967 has the CPI remained unchanged, and the index has not declined since August 1965, he said.

Before July, consumer prices had risen at least 0.9 percent for 18 straight months.

The Labor Department reported that: —Housing costs dropped 0.7 percent, after rising 1.5 percent and 1.8 percent in May and June, respectively. The reversal was due to a steep, 5.7-percent plunge in mortgage interest rates and a 0.5-percent decline in housing prices.

—Food and beverage prices, after going up only 0.8 percent in May and June combined, accelerated by 0.9 percent last month. Prices at grocery stores increased 1.2 percent, after rising only 1.5 percent during the first six months of this year.

Bush nixes liaison office in Taiwan during meeting

PEKING (AP) — GOP vice presidential nominee George Bush said today a Republican administration would have "no government relations in the diplomatic sense" with Taiwan.

He held what both sides called a "frank" meeting with Chinese Vice Premier Deng Xiaoping and later, when asked if he was able to convince Deng of his position, Bush answered, "Who knows? I don't know the answer."

Speaking before the American Club of Businessmen in Peking, Bush was asked by reporters if it would be possible to establish an official Liaison Office in Taiwan under the 1979 Taiwan Relations Act.

Bush replied, "No, if by official you mean governmental." The Act, Bush said, specifically rules out a "governmental office" on Taiwan.

"There will be no government relations in the diplomatic sense under the Taiwan Relations Act," Bush said. "That is the law of the land and we support it."

Severing official relations with Taiwan and turning the embassy there into an agency was a major condition for establishing diplomatic ties with the People's Republic of China on Jan. 1, 1979.

Weighing less than one pound, tiny baby girl clings to life

BALTIMORE (AP) — A baby girl born two months prematurely at a weight of less than 14 ounces was in critical condition today and fighting for her life, apparently one of the smallest premature infants ever to survive in the United States, hospital officials say.

Baby Girl Somerville, whose first name was not immediately known, is "only a handful" three days after birth, say nurses at City Hospitals here.

The infant measures just over 11½ inches and weighs 15½ ounces, "but that's with 1½ ounces of equipment on her. Her actual weight is under 14 ounces," said a nursing supervisor who asked not to be identified.

Nurses are keeping a "minute-by-minute" watch on the infant, the supervisor said. "It's all wait and see."

The girl was taken to the special intensive care nursery here about four hours after her 31-year-old mother gave birth by vaginal delivery Tuesday at 7:46 a.m. at St. Mary's Hospital in southern Maryland.

The parents, who have two other children, have asked not to be identified.

Drugs prostitution convictions net executions for six Iranians

Four men and two women were executed after being found guilty of heroin trafficking and "spreading prostitution" in the western Iranian city of Khorramabad, Tehran radio reported today.

The radio said the special court investigating drugs in Khorramabad found the six guilty of "corruption on Earth and waging war against God" and they were executed Thursday.

Since the Iranian revolution toppled Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi in February 1979, hundreds of Iranians found guilty of drug trafficking and prostitution have been executed. The number put to death has increased this year under special anti-narcotics courts presided over by revolutionary judge Sadegh Khalkhali.

In another development, the Iranian Foreign Ministry denied a Lebanese radio report today claiming five of the American hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran were killed while trying to escape.

"I have contacted the students at the embassy and I am authorized to say there is no truth in this report," Foreign Ministry spokesman A. Hashemi told The Associated Press when contacted by telephone from Nicosia, Cyprus.

The report of the hostage deaths was broadcast by the Voice of Lebanon, the Beirut radio station of the Lebanese Christian Phalange Party. Quoting unidentified "Arab diplomatic sources," it said five Americans chiseled a hole in a wall and then were shot to death as they tried to scale an outer wall.

In Washington, the State Department desk monitoring the hostage crisis said it had heard nothing of any such happening.

Switzerland, which handles American interests in Iran, said it received a formal denial of the radio report from the Iranian Foreign Ministry.

The Swiss Foreign Office spokesman in Bern, Othmar Uhl, said the Swiss Embassy in Tehran also confirmed the report was erroneous. He did not elaborate.

PRINCE REZA PAHLAVI

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass. (AP) — The son of the late shah of Iran may drop out of Williams College, a family spokesman says.

Prince Reza Pahlavi, who will assume his father's title in October, has been attending Williams since last September.

"The possibility exists that he will return, but he doesn't know yet, and we don't either," said Non Ferrari of the Armao Agency of New York, which handles public relations for the family.

The prince, 19, is in Egypt for the extensive period of mourning mandated by Moslem religious law, Ferrari said. The deposed shah died July 27 in Cairo.

Ferrari said a decision on whether the prince will return to school will be made later this month or early next month.

EVEL KNEIVEL

BUTTE, Mont. (AP) — A sprawling ranch-style house belonging to daredevil Evel Knievel has been sold at a mortgage foreclosure sale for $214,460, officials say.

The sale price was $5 more than the minimum asking price, a spokesman for Summit Valley Title Co. said Thursday. The house, situated on nine acres adjacent to a country club, was sold to Don Robinson, a Butte attorney, for a client he refused to identify.

A notice filed in court in April by the title insurance company said Knievel was behind on mortgage payments, which Knievel said in June were $4,000 a month.

Knievel said the house and land were assessed at $900,000.

Adventurer dreamed he found ship before trip

BOSTON (AP) — He explored Mexico looking for Pancho Villa's secret treasure. He searched for Noah's ark in Turkey. And now he has probed the ocean depths off Newfoundland for the Titanic.

Michael Harris, 44, a soft-spoken filmmaker from Tampa, Fla., is an adventurer extraordinaire.

"I know it sounds kind of corny, but I had a dream several years ago that I was on the ocean bottom and I found the Titanic," he said sheepishly Thursday after bringing to Boston his expedition, which he says may have located the sunken British luxury liner.

Harris, leader of the American crew of the H.J.W. Fay, said sonar scans taken in a 500-square mile area show images that appear to be the ship, which struck an iceberg and sank 68 years ago with 2,200 people aboard. Seven hundred survived.

Next spring or summer, Harris and his crew will return to the area accompanied by the deep-diving submarine Aluminatun to determine if the shadowy images are the Titanic — or rock formations.

If the presence of the Titanic is confirmed, the submarine will attempt to reach through open areas of the ship to locate the purser's safe, the ship's logs and its furnishings, Harris said.

The safe reportedly holds a shipment of diamonds. It may also contain the valuables of some of the Titanic's wealthy passengers.

Jokingly rubbing his hands with anticipation and greed, Harris said he'd be delighted to find the diamonds, but he said it was more realistic to expect to recover the log or other artifacts.

Harris, a slightly built man with sandy hair flecked with gray, wasn't always so adventurous. He said he was about to make a movie about a compulsive gambler several years ago when it fell through and he was left with nothing to do.

Then he met the late writer-producer Rod Serling, creator of "Twilight Zone," and made what he says is the first film about the effects of U.S. atom bomb experiments on the Marshall Islands.

Later, he filmed his hunt for the treasure reportedly hidden by Mexican revolutionary Pancho Villa. But when he reached the cave where the riches supposedly were hidden, "there were rotten boxes with metal linings and rattlesnakes, but somebody else had ripped off the loot."

His search for Noah's ark also ended in disappointment. The image that some researchers speculated was the biblical vessel turned out to be a rock.

Asked if he feared the Titanic search might also fail, Harris said, "We think we're in good shape on this one."

Details of the research conducted by the 39-member crew, including pictures of the sonar scans, will be released within two weeks, according to Jack Grimm, 55, the Texas oilman who is financing the expedition. Grimm said the search already has cost "in excess of $1 million" and he estimated it will require an additional $3 million.

But why spend all that time and money looking for the Titanic?

"It still has some strange fascination for man — I just can't fully describe it," said Grimm.

Childrens' deaths baffle Atlanta law enforcement

By WILLIAM SCHULZ
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta police don't know if they're looking for one "very sick person" or several killers. But six black children have been shot, strangled or stabbed to death in little more than a year, and the size of the task force investigating the slayings has been doubled.

The latest victim was 13-year-old Clifford Jones of Cleveland, who was visiting his grandmother here. He was found strangled Thursday.

Four other children from the area have disappeared. One was kidnapped from her home, but there was no demand for ransom.

"We have not been able to tell that the cases involve one person," said homicide Lt. B.L. Nelkirk. "We haven't solved the cases or determined the motive involved. But this is an abnormally large number of such cases since July (1979)."

One link, he said is that "all the cases involved young black people under the age of 15."

"Obviously, we've got a very sick person out there," Police Chief George Napper said during a news conference to announce that the task force investigating the deaths had been beefed up to 10 officers. Napper also said the city has asked the Georgia Bureau of Investigation and the FBI to step in.

"The police department has finally at this point decided to act in a responsible manner," said Camille Bell, chairwoman of The Committee to Stop Children's Murders, formed by several mothers of dead or missing children.

"I think the one thing we want to do is to create an interest in this in the police department,"

she said. "I'm sure they are working, but if they focus their attention, they can solve it."

The slayings began in July 1979, when Edward Hope Smith, 14, was found shot to death. Three months later, Yusef Bell, 9, was found strangled. Angela Lanier, 12, was found strangled March 10. Eric Middlebrooks, 15, was found stabbed and beaten to death in May. Anthony Bernard Carter, 9, was found stabbed to death in July.

In addition, the decomposed body of 14-year-old Milton Harvey of Atlanta was found in suburban East Point in November. Cause of death could not be determined.

Jones was strangled while hunting aluminum cans for pocket money Wednesday, officials said. Searchers found his body, clad only in his gym shorts, near a trash dumpster at 1 a.m. Thursday.

Airline charged with 12 'near misses'

DALLAS (AP) — Southwest Airlines has had 12 "near mid-air collisions" in the Dallas-Fort Worth area this year, The Dallas Times Herald reported today.

The newspaper said the "near misses" included instances when Boeing 737 jetliners came within 50, 100 and 200 feet of colliding with private planes.

On April 9, the FAA said, a Southwest jet came within 50 feet of a private plane. On May 30, a jetliner came within 200 feet of a small plane, according to the FAA. In another incident July 10 a Southwest jet came within 100 feet of a small plane.

Seven of the incidents are included in Federal Aviation Administration records and 6 incidents are discussed in a confidential memorandum written by the Chief of Facilities at Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport, the newspaper said. Only one was reported in writing to the FAA, the report said.

A Southwest Airlines spokesman said the airline did not consider the other incidents serious enough to require written reports to the FAA.

Don Ogden, vice president of flight operations for Southwest, said, "We didn't report them because our pilots didn't have to make violent maneuvers, didn't have to take evasive action, to get away."

FAA records, the newspaper said, do show that Southwest reported such incidents when the pilots did take "evasive action."

Ogden added that only one of the "near misses" took place recently.

"It's no different here than it is elsewhere in the country. Every now and then you do, sometimes, I suppose, get radar not pickin' up all targets and we occasionally get close to one," Ogden said.

Don Keneram, chief of facilities for the FAA at D-FW Airport, treated the incident as "serious" in the confidential memorandum obtained by the newspaper.

"Within the last two or three months we have had a number of near midair collision reports by Southwest Airlines which occurred in the east portion of our airspace at fairly low altitudes," Keneram wrote in the memorandum.

He said four of them were between 16 and 35 miles southeast of Love Field at 3,000 feet. "This has caused quite a bit of concern to ourselves and Southwest Airlines," he said.

Soviet reconciliation is Carter future aim

BOSTON (AP) —

President Carter said Thursday that resolving U.S. differences with the Soviet Union will be a major goal of his second term if re-elected, but that Russia must first resolve its situation in Afghanistan.

The president made his remarks in a 45-minute interview with the editorial board of The Boston Globe after addressing the American Legion convention

In a wide ranging discussion primarily on foreign policy matters, Carter said he did not want to be drawn into an arms race with the Soviet Union and rejected the notion of a limited nuclear war.

"Nobody thinks that you can have a little small nuclear war as a frivolous part of a conventional confrontation," Carter said, according to the newspaper.

VFW chief launches fight against the administration

CHICAGO (AP) — The Veterans of Foreign Wars' new commander in chief has attacked President Carter, the Congress, SALT II and U.S. immigration policies and called for resumption of the draft.

During his acceptance speech Thursday night, T.C. Selman told delegates to the VFW national convention that Carter's performance is one of "flutter, stutter, mumble and fumble." He accused the Carter administration of waging a "constant attack" on veterans programs.

The VFW has endorsed Republican Ronald Reagan for president.

Selman, of Freeport, Texas, criticized the Congress for allegedly following the "White House party line" on veterans legislation. He said lawmakers should "vote their conscience instead of their political beliefs."

"The SALT II treaty as written is a thinly veiled strategic surrender," Selman said. "It deserves to be killed and it will be killed."

Selman called for a resumption of conscription, saying it should be "loophole-free." "I say to all the thumb-sucking, poll-watching politicians: 'To heck with whether or not a loophole-free male draft is popular,'" he said.

"Not only will our armed forces be made more representative of the people they serve, short-term military service is just what many of our pampered, over-educated, under-motivated affluent youngsters need," Selman added.

He termed U.S. immigration policies "sieve-like" and recommended tighter restrictions on employers of aliens, and increased border patrols and deportations.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Bringing the FTC to heel

Reformers of another era are credited with having wrought agencies, like the Federal Trade Commission, though in fact many such bodies have been captives of the industries they were supposed to regulate. In recent years, however, a new breed of reformer has assumed control of the FTC and the like, and the result has been worse for consumers than when the business bigwigs called the shots.

A case in point could be the recent demand by the FTC that Sears, K mart and three other big retailers substantiate their advertising claims of "satisfaction guaranteed" on all purchases. Sears says fulfilling the request would entail securing from 3,500 locations nationwide the documentation relating to complaints and refunds. K mart says compliance would require 170,000 man-hours of labor. In both these cases and those of the other three stores as well, the expense would be considerable. And, retailing being an especially competitive business, there is little margin for absorbing the cost — it would be transferred to customers.

We got to wondering what the FTC's basis is for demanding such proof. The agency refuses to comment on cases under investigation, but from the general comments of the regulators and the regulated, we gather that the only criterion necessary for undertaking an inquiry is that the FTC consider it "in the public interest" to do so. No complaints from the public need even have been received. Apparently, affected companies can at some point in the appeal process request to know what prompted the FTC's action, and a court can later countermand the agency if it is found to have acted unreasonably. By that time, thousands of dollars in legal fees have been paid, and the firms are still at the mercy of human judgment.

Recently, Congress cracked down on the FTC with some procedural strictures for cases such as this one, including provisions designed to keep subpoenaed business records from falling into the hands of competitors. Also, for investigations initiated after passage of the new rules, Congress required bureaucrats to specify the fraudulent conduct they suspect occurred, rather than conduct fishing expeditions. Because of timing peculiarities, the applicability of that provision to Sears et al. is in dispute.

Partial credit for the enactment of these mitigating measures should go to another company that has been a target of the FTC: a mail order outfit called JS&A Group. Many firms have been wailing about the agency's meddling, but Joseph Sugarman, who heads the business that bears his initials, has fought the bureaucracy extraordinarily.

We recap part of his story May 27. As Sugarman tells it, the FTC descended on his Northbrook, Ill., operation in 1979, after it had been slow to fill several orders because of weather and computer calamities that winter. Some customers complained to the government of not receiving merchandise within 30 days. An investigator visited the plant and asked for some statements of company policy and sample delay notices and was given them. Shortly afterward, JS&A was notified it must pay a $100,000 fine.

Sugarman was shocked. He thought his firm had committed some honest mistakes but had made good on the complaints. He was willing to go further and compensate customers for any damages they could show the delays to have caused, but he wouldn't pay an exorbitant, arbitrary fine and allow the FTC to publicize its triumph and besmirch his company's good name.

The decision to fight didn't come easy. As Sugarman expressed it in a newspaper advertisement that constituted the first salvo in his public battle with the FTC, "Our attorneys advised us to settle. As one attorney said, 'It's like a bully pulling out a gun and saying, 'If you don't give me a nickel, I'll blow your knee caps off.' They advised us that the government will subpoena thousands of documents to harass us and cause us great inconvenience. They warned us that even if we went to court and won, we would end up spending more in legal fees than if we settled.'"

For those good reasons, most companies under the regulatory gun choose not to fight. But Sugarman has. The second stage of his war with Washington reached us recently: a 42-page illustrated account of what's happened to his firm. Undoubtedly, it's written with an eye toward defending the company, but it includes several admissions of failures and even features complaint letters from dissatisfied customers (as well as many more from satisfied ones).

Most interestingly, the report reprints letters to and from the bureaucracy, together with transcriptions of oral statements by the regulators. At one point, after Sugarman wonders to an FTC representative how he can demand that businesses react to orders within 30 days when the FTC's own responses often take several months, he is told, "Well, we don't have to follow the rules. You do."

Sugarman's fight continues, as do the quieter struggles of thousands of other business people. Among them, surely, are many unscrupulous operators whose investigation by somebody (even an inefficient and dangerously powerful bureaucracy) is probably of help to consumers, if only by exacting some punishment as justice. In the many other cases, however, where the wrong done the public is small or nonexistent, the costs of the FTC mount. Not only do these include the $72 million budget of the agency, but the psychic and monetary damage done enterprises large and small. These costs can be shifted directly to consumers, or they can lead promising business people to stay out of the marketplace in order to avoid the hassles — thus depriving buyers of choices.

The price of the FTC is too high. It's time for all of us to declare war.

By Don Graff

The figures coming out of Detroit these days would seem to have more in common with the national debt than with the bottom line of business operations.

Chrysler registered a loss of more than half a billion dollars for the second quarter of the year. Ford in the hole by almost as much; even mighty General Motors dropping in excess of $400 million. The aggregate loss of U.S. auto makers for 1980 so far is almost $2 billion and according to some expert estimates, they could very well be down close to $8 billion by the end of the year.

The figures are, in fact, much more than bottom lines. They measure the decline of an entire industry.

Worse, they are only part of the story. The sickness that is closing plants and has idled a third of the work force is not confined to the auto industry. It also affects steel, rubber, glass and more, the producers of the many components of a finished automobile.

Like the national debt, it is a national problem. Only much more pressing.

And it has led to pressures for assistance from the only quarter with resources commensurate with the need — government.

Aid has already materialized in the form of the $1.5 billion federal loan guarantee for Chrysler. But inevitably there are pressures for more. And inevitably in an election year they will intensify.

The Japanese lesson

They focus on aiding U.S. auto makers in meeting their most visible problem, competition from foreign imports. Which, for all practical purposes, means the Japanese whose products now account for almost a quarter of all autos sold in the United States.

What the various proposals, from import quotas to special dispensation for U.S. producers in meeting pollution and mileage standards, really come down to is a retreat into protectionism.

Which, as almost any economist will tell you, and most politicians know perfectly well but are reluctant to discuss publicly, is no way to solve the basic problem.

Protectionist measures have the effect of preserving rather than eliminating the weaknesses that created a problem. For an ominously apt example, the U.S. auto industry need look no further than the experience of its British counterpart, once number two in the world.

Protectionist policies in the cause of preserving British jobs did so for a time, but at the price of preventing the modernization of the British industry. To the end that it has been virtually eliminated as a factor in the world market. In the end, the jobs have been lost after all.

Rather than repeating the disastrous British experience, American auto makers would be much better advised to take a tip from their Japanese competition.

Criticism that Japan makes it excessively difficult for foreign products to penetrate its home market notwithstanding, the real secret of Japanese success is not a protected but a methodically pruned economy. Industries are constantly being surveyed and those adjudged to have a competitive future are encouraged to make use of the most modern and efficient production techniques available. Those that can't hack it are phased out as painlessly as possible.

This policy, not abundant cheap labor, has made the Japanese auto industry the most productive in the world. It is, in fact, by far the most highly automated, with the lowest workers-per-vehicle ratio and far higher standards of quality control than any other.

The surveying, encouragement and phasing out are the responsibility of the Ministry of International Trade and Industry (MITI), a government agency that has no exact counterpart in any other industrial power.

That does not mean, however, that there is no lesson in the Japanese experience for others. Government-industry cooperation can work to other ends than preservation of obsolete operations. Application to Detroit's crisis would not mean phasing out — but a thorough overhauling.

The result would be a much leaner industry, making maximum use of automated techniques often developed in this country but put to practical use by the Japanese. And, inevitably, fewer jobs.

That may appear hard to take at this point, but the alternative could be infinitely worse.

Today in history

Today is Friday, August 22, the 235th day of 1980. There are 131 days left in the year. Today's highlight in history:

On August 22, 1910, Korea was formally annexed by Japan.

On this date:
In 1485, King Richard III of England was killed in the Battle of Bosworth, ending the War of the Roses.

In 1654, Jacob Barsimson became the first Jewish emigrant to America when he landed in New Amsterdam.

In 1941, German forces reached the outskirts of the Soviet city of Leningrad during World War II. They didn't get much farther.

In 1968, Pope Paul VI launched the first papal visit to Latin America when he arrived in Bogota, Colombia.

Last year, President Carter said he had personally approved the sale of $47 million in kerosene fuel to Iran — despite the petroleum shortage in the United States. Carter said the amount was very tiny and the approval was on a one-time basis.

Today's birthdays: Labor secretary Ray Marshall is 52 years old, actress Valerie Harper is 40 and baseball's Carl Yastrzemski is 41.

Thought for today: Enough is enough, and too much spoils. — Italian proverb.

Abortion, the baby's view

by Paul Harvey

Abortion. We've been hearing the point of view of the Church, the State and the Court. It's still an option. While the Supreme Court has decreed no federal money to finance abortions for the poor, nine states and Washington, D.C., still do and others are considering it.

What if the unwanted baby had to vote? In 1978 in the United States there were an estimated 543,900 illegitimate births; babies whose parents were not married.

This was 16.3 percent of all births in the United States! That means that one in six babies is born illegitimate and most are unwanted.

That's a huge increase from the one in 10 the year before.

More than half of all illegitimate births are to black women; more significant, more than half of all births to black women are illegitimate. Of all unwed mothers, 45.8 percent are teen-agers.

These numbers would be much higher except for the million-plus legal abortions which are performed every year.

For every 1,000 illegitimate births there are 1,480 abortions.

So much for the cold "numbers." It is the grim legacy of illegitimacy that makes this a profound social problem; the chain reaction of so many unwanted babies, becoming abandoned or abused babies. And, if they survive the abuse, becoming angry adults.

Statistics tell us that the illegitimate baby is twice as likely to die before his or her first birthday.

For the unwanted baby, problems begin at birth and for most they never end. A study conducted for the National Center for Health Statistics reveals that illegitimacy and low birth weight are linked — even when other factors such as age, race, educational level and prenatal care are discounted.

More than 83 percent of the women who are unmarried in the delivery room subsequently do marry, but the Census Bureau finds their marriages "much less stable."

In New York City, nearly 70 percent of all illegitimate births last year were covered by Medicaid.

Starting now — with the recent Supreme Court decision — there will be no federal money and in most states no state money for abortions. Illegitimacy, inevitably, will become pandemic.

And the most babies will be born to the people least able to provide for them.

The National Urban League's 1980 report states, "A disproportionate amount of the increase in single-parent families was due to a sharp increase in out-of-wedlock births."

There are no easy panaceas for such problems.

Any lack of self-discipline eventually exacts a price; only in this instance the least guilty pay most — either with their lives or throughout their lives.

Dow-Jones is hopeful harbinger

By Oscar Cooley

A nice thing about the stock market is that it goes up when everything else is going down.

When you are sick and tired of reading how unemployment is rising, productivity falling, inflation continuing, and the delegates chafing under their obligations to vote for a certain candidate, turn to the next to the last page of The Wall Street Journal and note how that curve of the Dow-Jones Industrial average has been climbing, steadily and steeply, since last March. In four months, it has moved up from the 700's into the 900's.

Why is it so agreeably contrary? Because it lives in the future, and the future of America is always bright.

True, we have our times of slowdown, when we pause to get gas, but they are usually brief. Soon we are back on the highway, foot on accelerator. And it will be so again this time.

Is the recession over? I think fall will mark its nadir. Last spring the economy plunged, going down faster than anyone expected. It may recover just as rapidly.

What we are having is largely an automobile-plus-housing recession. When the Arabs jacked the price of oil, dire predictions of impending shortage were heard. Seeming to confirm these predictions, gasoline rose in price. People began to drive less. They also bought fewer cars, especially the gas guzzlers that Detroit continued to turn out.

But Detroit was geared to mass production. Even a moderate drop in sales put the auto makers in the loss column.

It never rains but it pours. At the very time gasoline threatened to become short, foreign cars became abundant. They were light and well built — born gas savers. Just what the American motorist ordered.

So the sales of American auto manufacturers dropped. They laid off workers by the thousands. The big three lost around a half billion dollars apiece in the second quarter of 1980, their worst in history.

As automobiles go, so goes steel. Not any too brisk to start with, the steel industry, deprived of auto demand, slumped still more. So did the many other industries that supply materials and parts for automobiles.

But the more painful the lesson, the quicker it is learned. Seeing that no halfway measures would do, the automobile makers redesigned their vehicles, retooled to make them, and any time now will be making life real interesting for the Japanese and Germans. As autos come back, so will their industrial fellow sufferers.

The threatened gasoline shortage has not materialized and apparently is not likely to. We have in Alaska vast reserves of untouched oil. The foreign car makers have no production secrets beyond the ken of American engineers. The American motorist is not about to get out and walk.

Home building, too, has been sadly depressed, largely because of the astronomical cost of borrowing money to build with, but interest rates nose-dived last spring, along with the economy, and one can borrow and build now without fearing his sanity will be questioned.

Conclusion: the auto-plus-housing recession will soon be an unpleasant memory.

Futurist Wall Street foresees a quick recovery for the automobile industry, accompanied and sustained by increasing building and a general economic recovery, which will be marked by rising corporate profits and dividends.

Designer says greenhouses, sun rooms are tax exempt

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — An architect says property tax assessors need to understand that big glass solar panels aren't the only form of solar installation.

Texas are entitled to property tax exemptions for solar installations, but some are taxed because assessors don't know what they are looking at, L.M. Holder of Austin told the state's Solar Advisory Committee on Thursday.

The committee, a branch of the Texas Energy and Natural Resources Advisory Council, held its last public hearing before issuing recommendations on Sept. 3.

Holder said certain types of rooms, including sun porches and greenhouses, are designed by architects to collect and distribute heat from the sun on winter days and should be tax exempt.

He suggested that once an architect certifies to taxing authorities that such a room is a solar unit, eligible for a tax break, the documentation should remain with the tax records of a building.

Bob Russell of Austin, executive secretary of College House, a university living cooperative, said state agencies should repeal rules that interfere with the use of solar energy for heating both water and living space.

He cited rules allowing gas companies to impose a minimum monthly charge no matter how little gas a customer uses.

"This eliminates our saving (from solar energy) yet we save the gas company a considerable volume of gas," Russell said.

Ralph Latta of the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation said a solar-powered unit to air condition living quarters at an MHMR unit in El Paso had proved far too costly for practical use.

He said the solar unit could not, by itself, keep temperatures within the 72-to-78-degree range required by federal rules for living quarters for the mentally handicapped.

Frank Kurzawa of Austin accused Gov. Bill Clements and Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace, who heads the solar committee, of being "small-minded" and overly skeptical about solar energy.

"As long as oil company executives continue to run the government, solar energy people might as well try to get the attention of a blind man with a flashlight," Kurzawa said.

Preliminary recommendations of the committee include:

— A bond-financed low-interest state loan program for purchase of solar equipment.

— Preferential treatment of buildings with solar equipment in issuing industrial development loans, veterans land loans and Texas Housing Agency loans.

— Greater state expenditures on solar research and development.

— State standards for testing solar collectors and state licensing of solar installers.

— Required use of solar heating, cooling, water heating and lighting in all state buildings constructed after Aug. 31, 1981.

— A licensing requirement that architects understand energy conservation and the use of solar power.

Shooting range is target of FAA

MONROE, La. (AP) — Lawyers were debating in Texas today whether Louisiana's only free public rifle range poses a danger to aircraft using Monroe Regional Airport.

"We don't believe it interferes with anything," said John Vines, vice president of the National Rifle Association's local chapter. "It's like that fellow who refused to cut down his tree. If a plane is low enough to hit a tree, then it's unsafe to start with."

But City Attorney Charles Patton was to meet with Federal Aviation Administration officials in Houston today on the FAA's recommendation that the E.L. "Pop" Warner

Memorial Rifle Range be closed.

The four-acre range is located less than a mile from the airport, which handles commercial airliners from Delta, Republic and Royal Airlines, as well as private traffic.

The range was created during World War II for use by the military. It is used now by local and area law enforcement agencies, hunters and shooting clubs, U.S. Army and U.S. Navy reservists, and ROTC cadets from Northeast Louisiana University.

"Never a complaint, never a problem," said Sheriff Laymond Godwin about his department's operation of the range for the past 20 years.

"FAA recommended it be closed as soon as possible because of hazardous possibilities that may occur," explained Mayor Bob Powell.

The city owns the airport and local FAA coordinator Roland E. Downhour said the recommendation probably resulted from Houston officials' evaluation of safety and security at the airfield.

Godwin said he never suspected the FAA would recommend closing the range, even though "the planes do come over the edge of the rifle range as they're circling, about two o'clock as you face the range."

Children poisoned by bright new 'toy'

DALLAS (AP) — The culprit in the worst case of mercury poisoning ever discovered in Dallas was a 12-ounce perfume bottle filled with a glittering silver liquid that was a surprise gift for several children.

Playing with the homemade "toy," the youngsters poured the substance into their hands and onto the carpet in their homes.

When the Hernandez and Gallegos children developed severe stomach cramps and rashes, their parents blamed a virus.

"When we first went out there to take a measurement on the mercury, it went completely off the scale," said John Hulla, an industrial hygienist with the Texas Department of Health.

"The last time we went out Aug. 9, the mercury content in the house was 14 times what is considered safe. We don't know how much longer this can go on."

But the children's parents refuse to leave their contaminated homes, even though they are aware of how lethal the poisoning can be.

Gerónimo Hernandez, 33, and his wife Maria, 28, do not speak English. Fernando Gallegos, 30, and his wife Lupe understand little English.

They say they did not realize the danger of mercury poisoning when health officials discovered it last month — almost three weeks after the liquid was brought as a gift to the Gallegos home.

If new readings show the mercury levels have not declined, the families may be forced to leave, Hulla said.

Christian participation urged by leaders of rally in Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — Political conservatives and fundamentalist preachers trying to rally their flock at the polls in November urged foot-stomping, hand-clapping Christians to "get a bar of soap, roll up their sleeves and make politics clean as it ought to be again."

An estimated 10,000 yelling, whistling people from at least 45 states packed flag-draped Reunion Arena on Thursday for the opening session of a two-day non-partisan conference aimed at getting Christians involved in politics.

The predominantly white, middle-class crowd shouted chorus after chorus of "amen," "hallelujah," and "Praise the Lord" to a barrage of blasts against the Equal Rights Amendment, abortion, homosexuality and America's deteriorating military might.

"Christians have ignored for too long the lack of leadership in this country," said the Rev. Jerry Falwell, of Lynchburg, Va. "But we can't blame the politicians for the condition of the country because it often reflects the spiritual condition of the church."

"People have got to get saved, get baptized and get registered to vote," said Falwell, founder of the weekly television program "Old Time Gospel Hour."

The conference, billed as the National Affairs Briefing, is sponsored by the Roundtable, a Washington, D.C.-based non-denominational, non-partisan organization that provides information on moral issues to church and business leaders.

Organizers of the conference have declined to publicly endorse any candidate, but have urged Christians to vote for conservative principles that would "turn the nation back to God."

However, Rep. Guy Vander Jagt, R-Mich., who delivered the keynote address at the Republican national convention last month, took the chance to urge support for GOP presidential nominee Ronald Reagan.

He characterized Reagan, who addresses the conference tonight, as a man tough on communism and a candidate who favors pro-family issues.

Vander Jagt also challenged Christians to become involved in government and to take a role in the political process.

"For too long Christians have been led to believe that politics is dirty. If that is the case then they should get a bar of soap, roll up their sleeves and make politics clean as it ought to be again," he said.

"It's time for Christians to move from the churches to the halls of Congress to help change the direction of our country."

The Rev. W.A. Criswell, pastor of the 20,000-member First Baptist Church of Dallas, attacked political party proposals that would give rights to homosexuals and cut off funds for candidates opposing the Equal Rights Amendment.

"Will our country continue to be prosperous or go down ... in shame? Is there a God of humanism, of homosexuality, of promiscuity, of degeneracy, of drug abuse and drunkenness?" Criswell asked.

"It is time for the nation to return to the God of our pilgrim fathers, to the faith of our praying mothers and to the principles that our nation was founded upon."

The Rev. E.V. Hill, pastor of a Baptist church in the Watts section of Los Angeles, brought the crowd roaring to its feet three times Thursday with a ringing call for Christians to speak out against moral decay.

"When a woman who is accused of lesbianism is given an honorable discharge (from the Navy), something should be said. In days when teachers look and smell worse than those they are teaching, something should be said. When we are told by those it's time to get rid of unemployment and then they double it, something should be said," he told the cheering crowd.

Phyllis Schlafly, national chairwoman of Stop ERA, continued the momentum by outlining the "destructive" elements of the proposed "sex amendment."

Mrs. Schlafly claimed that if approved, the ERA would erase the laws that say husbands must support wives and that husbands must be men and wives must be women.

"The devil is using one word, sex, to take away the rights of wives and give them to homosexuals. The ERA doesn't give women rights, it puts sex into the Constitution," she said.

Passage of the ERA would take 70 percent of the states' powers, including laws governing marriage, divorce, adoption and insurance, and place them in the hands of the federal government, she said.

Mrs. Schlafly also charged that such an amendment would send young women to the battle fronts.

"Of course they wouldn't be facing Soviet women because Soviet women don't fight." And retired Air Force Maj. Gen. George Keegan suggested someone might have to fight the Russians.

Rule unfair to Hispanics, leader says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the League of United Latin American Citizens says a proposal to exclude illegal aliens when congressional seats are reapportioned would cause a "massive discriminatory impact" on Hispanics.

"How do you determine in going back whether the brown skin you counted is citizen or non-citizen?" Ruben Bonilla said Thursday. "The administrative problem is obvious; you'd have an administrative nightmare."

He said Hispanics must make their top priority the defeat of an amendment to bar illegal aliens from being counted when congressional seats are reapportioned after the 1980 census.

The amendment sponsored by Rep. Joseph M. McDade, R-Pa., was sent to the Senate after it passed the House on Wednesday.

Bonilla, in a telephone interview from Detroit, said LULAC and other Hispanic groups will lobby senators for the amendment's defeat.

Carter okays federal aid for public hurricane loss

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — South Texas counties hardest hit by Hurricane Allen are getting a helping hand from "Uncle Sam" to the tune of $21 million for public damages, federal officials said.

President Carter signed authorization Thursday for federal assistance to counties for repairs of roads, water control projects, public buildings, certain private non-profit institutions and other public damages, said Bill McAda, spokesman for the Federal Emergency Management Association.

"Our survey shows about $28 million in public damages," McAda said. "Of that preliminary figure, the counties will pay 25 percent and the government will pick up 75 percent," he said.

The counties receiving federal aid will be Nueces, hardest hit with $11 million in damages, Cameron, with $8.1 million in damages, Kleberg, with $3.2 million in damages, Hidalgo, with $1.8 million in damages, Willacy, with $1.5 million in damages, Jim Wells, San Patricio, Brooks and Aransas.

McAda said the damage figures could easily increase when further surveys were completed.

The government will help the hurricane-stricken counties rebuild by paying contractors to begin the repairs or reimbursing counties that have had the work already done, the FEMA spokesman said.

"We have taken applications from 12 to 13 thousand individuals at the disaster service centers," McAda said. "We knew we had a lot of damage to private property. But this latest move shows that there was also quite a bit of damage to public facilities as well."

DEAR ABBY

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: They say "opposites attract." Well, my husband and I are the perfect example. I'm Irish and my husband is Swedish, and even though we love each other, we are miles apart when it comes to temperament.

We can't seem to settle our differences by talking things out as our counselor suggested. Whenever we disagree, we always end up in an argument, and he says, "All right, have it your way." Then he clams up and doesn't speak to me for days.

I finally have to tell him that he was right and I was wrong in order to coax him back into a good mood.

I would much rather have a good old Irish knock-down, drag-out argument than put up with his sulking and silent treatment.

So how do I get this stubborn Swede to blow his cork and get his resentment out in the open where he can deal with it?
LOUD-MOUTHED MICK

DEAR MICK: You can't, but the right therapist might be able to. Your husband needs to learn the importance of expressing his emotions and getting all that anger out of his system. Bottled-up resentment can cause stomach ulcers, high blood pressure, skin rashes and any number of physical ailments.

DEAR ABBY: I'm going with a 24-year-old fellow. Andy is a decent, likable, considerate person. There's only one thing wrong with him. He has an almost babyish attachment to his mother.

If he's going to be out after midnight, he always calls her to let her know, because he says she worries about him getting hurt in his car.

Andy will never make a date with me unless he checks with his mother first to be sure she has something to do. She's a widow, and he doesn't want her to be alone.

We can never make plans for Sunday afternoon because he reserves that time to take his mother to visit friends and relatives. (She's an invalid.)

Andy wants to marry me, but I'm afraid I will always play second fiddle to his mother. I need your advice.
RHONDA

DEAR RHONDA: Grab him. For a preview peek of how a man will treat his wife, take notice of the way he treats his mother.

DEAR ABBY: What is the difference between a wife and a mistress?

NEEDS TO KNOW

DEAR NEEDS: Night and day.

DEAR ABBY: Don't you have a wastepaper basket? If not, you surely need one for the crazy, asinine letter from that vulgar young man who proclaimed his love for fat ladies — and the fatter the better!

I am a 93-year-old woman, and never in all my life have I read anything so disgusting! I can't imagine anyone in his right mind writing such a foolish letter.

He said he was no weirdo, yet who but a weirdo would have described in such obscene detail the fat women whose bodies he "craved." That man was clearly out of his head. No wonder he asked you to withhold his name.

Had I been Dear Abby, I would have replied, "Dear Withhold: You ought to hang your head in shame!"
DECENT IN SPOKANE

Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How To Write Letters for All Occasions." College-bound students face increasing costs

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of four articles on planning for college, written for the Associated Press by the College Board, a non-profit educational association that sponsors programs to expand educational opportunity. This article deals with evaluating college costs.

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the most important concerns of college-bound students and their parents today is not how to get into college, but rather how to pay for it. The costs of college have gone up each year as fast as the skyrocketing inflation rate and have risen approximately 90 percent in the past decade.

According to the annual survey of more than 3,200 colleges conducted by the College Board's College Scholarship Service, total costs for resident students this fall will increase 10.3 percent at private four-year colleges and 8.1 percent at public four-year colleges. These increases will bring average total costs at these institutions to $6,082 and $5,363 a year respectively.

Students who attend public two-year colleges will have average expenses of $3,123 if they are resident students and $2,753 if they commute. These costs represent an increase of 16 to 20 percent over 1979.

It is important to know that these costs figures include all expenses — tuition and fees, room and board, books and supplies, transportation and personal expenses. While these costs may seem steep, especially if they are multiplied by two or four years of college, parents who pay the bills should remember that what a college costs is not always what they will have to pay.

According to Joe Paul Case, director of program administration for CSS, students and their parents pay, on the average, 56 percent of the college bill. The other 44 percent is provided by federal, state, institutional, and private financial aid programs and by other sources such as Social Security and Veterans' Administration benefits.

Families don't have to be poor to qualify for these sources of financial aid, but they do have to prove they need it. Need is the difference between what it costs to attend a particular college and what the family can contribute toward meeting these costs.

While costs at different colleges vary, what the family can contribute doesn't change. For example, if it is determined that a family can contribute $900 toward the cost of college, that family's financial need at a college costing $3,000 would be $2,100, but at a college costing $6,000, it would be $5,100. If aid is awarded to cover the full need at both colleges, the family would pay $900 whether the student decided to go to the higher- or lower-cost college. Families should not rule out any college, even the more expensive and selective private colleges, because of cost. Colleges have different policies toward awarding aid and have varying amounts of money available. A prestigious institution like Duke University awards financial aid to about a third of its students, for example. And Bucknell University, while unable to meet the financial aid needs of all needy students last year, was able to award aid to virtually all who applied this year.

Parents of high school juniors — or younger students — can plan ahead and get an early estimate of their eligibility for aid by participating in the College Board's Early Financial Aid Planning Service. This new service analyzes a family's financial aid information, offers tips on sources of aid, and provides an estimate of financial aid eligibility.

To obtain a free application form send a stamped, self-addressed business envelope to Financial Aid Planning, Box 1175, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Seniors who are planning to apply for aid now for the fall of 1981 can pick up a copy of "Meeting College Costs" from their high school guidance office. This free booklet, prepared by the College Board, has worksheets to help students estimate their eligibility.

Hairstyles serve as symbols of status

"MISS JUNIPER FOX" a 1777 engraving by Matthew Darly, from the permanent collection of the Cooper-Hewitt Museum, the Smithsonian Institution's National Museum of Design, currently in the exhibition, "Hair."

By Ellie Grossman

NEW YORK (NEA) — "...stuck a feather in his cap and called it macaroni."

And David McFadden knows why. Says the curator of decorative arts for New York's Cooper Hewitt Museum (the Smithsonian Institution's National Museum of Design), which recently staged an exhibition devoted to hair: "The term 'macaroni' comes from the fact that European aristocracy in the 18th century used flour and water as a glue to maintain their elaborate hairdos."

The ladies' curls were set, pasta-ed, looked over and then overlooked for "weeks and even months at a time," he says. "Since they did not wash often and since any protein material attracts bugs, some of the contemporary diaries record that when they had their hair redone, the amount of wildlife living in it was incredible."

Nevertheless, the grandes dames withstood the scurrying to show precisely where they stood.

"In any culture, hair is an immediate symbol of status and the role you fulfill," McFadden says. "Often, the more time and money you spend fixing your hair, the higher your status, and massive hair sculpturing goes in and out of style throughout history. During the late Roman period, for instance, matrons piled their curls on an enormous metal framework called an orbis. They also wore wigs which they could build on."

Ancient Egyptians wore wigs, too, after they shaved their heads to keep cool and to keep little visitors from making themselves at home in the hair. "But there again," he says, "the elaborateness of the wig indicated where you stood in society. Precious materials, various beads and other ornaments were incorporated in the hair."

For all the to-do's though, "It's not always true that elaborate hair indicates social status. In the 19th century, there was an emphasis on natural, sensual hair streaming down in folds. And in this country, in the '40s, you get people like Veronica Lake whose hair style (long, luxuriantly waved) was not elaborate, but the emphasis was still on hair. Again in the '60s women were ironing their hair to get it as straight as possible. It became fashionable and you were not considered uncombed if you wore your hair that way."

The young who first wore it that way, though, were taking a stand to show they stood apart from fashion and society as a whole. "Since hair can symbolize any position — sexual, economic, religious, political — when it's styled in response to general societal standards," he says, "you can make statements about rejecting or accepting society."

"It was absolutely shocking, for instance, in the '20s when Irene Castle bobbed her long hair. She did that in response to women working in factories during World War I who tied their hair back to get it out of the way. Therefore, what started out as functional became, with the bobbing, an early statement that women were indeed equal to men and short hair became identified with that."

These days, spikey, ragged hair blotched with furious color — "punk" hair — indicates "obvious rebellion and a certain amount of anger."

'Solo': an outstanding thriller

SOLO. By Jack Higgins. Stein & Day. 249 Pages. $11.95.

Thrillers are getting to be as numerous as grains of sand on the beaches where many of them are read.

The bulk of these novels have a sameness about them that makes them read as if they were written by a computer. A few, however, do stand out from the crowd and are worth taking the time to read. "Solo" is one of these.

Written by Jack Higgins, author of the smashingly good "The Eagle Has Landed," this new thriller deals with a subject that seems rather silly when first broached — a world-famous classical pianist who is also a top-notch assassin.

The double life led by John Mikali — aka "The Cretan Lover" — is a bit hard to take at first but Higgins is an old hand at this sort of thing and it isn't long before he makes the idea of a pianist-killer plausible.

Mikali learned all about killing during a stint in the French Foreign Legion. On discharge, he kills — at first — out of idealism. Only really bad guys get wiped out. But as time passes, Mikali loses the idealism and becomes a gun for hire — and a very good one. So good, that the police can't get near him.

Blue skies reflect gem's truth and beauty

True and blue. Those are the qualities of September's birthstone, the sapphire. It must be true, for tradition says that it was upon a sapphire that the Ten Commandments were engraved. Blue is the color that is most often associated with the sapphire, although there are many varieties of the mineral in many different colors, reports the Jewelry Industry Council.

Long ago, Orientals believed that wearing a sapphire could protect the wearer against poison and enemies. Ancient people claimed the sapphire had powers to extinguish fire due to its extreme coldness. Early Persians believed the sapphire was the reason the sky was blue. They believed that the earth rested on a great sapphire which reflected its color to the sky.

Today, the heavenly blue of the sapphire is treasured by the September-born and all those who wear it. Perhaps there is truth in the belief that the sapphire inspired wisdom and constancy. The star sapphire captures and reflects light in six rayed stars, and is the source of much fascination.

The sapphire is not just for the September-born, the Council declares — it is for everyone who enjoys the beauty of a lovely gemstone.

A bit of suburbia in the city

By CORINNE DEUTCH BALTIMORE (AP) — For many working couples, the ability to achieve the benefits of suburbia within the heart of a large urban center creates an ideal life style.

A Chinese couple has refined this way of life to a high degree. Five minutes by car — a bit longer on foot when the weather is good — and they are on the campus of Johns Hopkins University, where both are professors.

Ru-chih and P. C. Huang (he prefers to be called by the initials) live in a striking 12-room white stucco house on a three-quarter-acre lot. The house, shaped like a square "U" and with an inner courtyard dominated by a large mulberry tree, was the intriguing creation of a French architect in 1947 and has the feel of a Mediterranean villa. A flagstone walk is flanked by tall shrubbery. The courtyard is bounded on one side by a loggia that is perfect for entertaining in the summer months, with three beautiful brass lanterns covering the loggia lights.

The impression of tastefulness is carried through to the inside. An arched doorway opens into a spacious marble-floored foyer highlighted by a two-story skylight and balcony. To the immediate right of the foyer is a staircase leading to that balcony and the upstairs bedrooms. Six steps down are the first-floor rooms. The living room, to the left, forms a rough rectangle, with the wall at one end in a bowed effect. A large fireplace, built-in bookcases and French doors provide an appropriate background for the overall appearance of refinement.

In the 26-foot by 20-foot living room, the furniture shows a mixture of discernment and enterprise. Chinese antiques, including a Sung Dynasty finger bowl more than 1,000 years old and furnishings of rare woods and fabrics, are comfortable neighbors with slip-covered couches purchased in thrift shops. Books abound, with many on Oriental art, some on modern art, and a handsome bound set of antique volumes on herb medicine.

A marble fireplace and a large bay window are focal points in the dining room. To the side is a book-lined card room often used for informal dining. All the requirements for efficient cooking are in the eat-in kitchen, remodeled in 1979, five years after the Huangs purchased the house.

Between the kitchen and the dining room is a vanishing treasure — a pantry large enough to have shelves and drawers on one side and a sink on the other. What used to be a "maid's room" and two bathrooms complete the first floor.

There are six rooms upstairs, three of them bedrooms and three what might be called study-bedrooms. Two of the former are occupied by the couple's teenage children, a boy and a girl, when they are home from their universities. The other second-floor rooms are in almost continuous use by visiting students, relatives and colleagues. Guests, Dr. Huang smilingly pointed out, are expected to make their own beds.

A second staircase permits a door in the hallway to close off this area for privacy. Porthole-type windows are on the side of the hall that faces the courtyard.

Dr. Huang has skillfully blended the role of traditional Chinese housewife with her career as head of a biology department. Despite frequent professional trips, both domestic and foreign, she has no outside household help. A gourmet cook of her native dishes, she entertains a constant stream of visitors, many of them dignitaries in the educational and scientific field. Delectables, such as Peking duck, are always in order. And the vegetables are likely to have come from the garden cultivated by this former resident of Nanking, where she lived in equally high style. Her father was a college president.

In the heart of a big city, the Huangs have found a way to produce an atmosphere of serenity and graciousness.

SENIOR FULLBACK Clifford Anderson (24) is pushing hard for a starting job in Pampa High football workouts this season.

Harvesters don full gear to prepare for scrimmage

After four days of rigorous conditioning drills and learning fundamentals, the Pampa Harvesters shift the football season into full gear today when they pull on shoulder pads and helmets.

"The players have been put through a lot in the last four days and now they're anxious to get into pads," head coach Larry Gilbert said. "It was our long days for them."

Gilbert reported that the offense looked sharp during Thursday's session.

"I was real impressed with our end play," he added. "We've got a little bit of experience here."

Steve McDougall, Davin Cash, Bryan Wilborn and Andy Richardson are the leading candidates for the end positions.

Another bright spot in the offense is in the backfield where the competition remains keen.

"Fullback Leroy Kuhn has really caught my eye and James Borchart is doing a great job," Gilbert said.

Clifford Anderson is pushing Kuhn hard for the fullback job while Bobby Dorsey looks good every time he carries the ball, Gilbert added.

"There's a lot of competition in the backfield," Gilbert said. "That's really healthy for us."

Gilbert said Arthur Lee Williams and Mark Kotara have both been impressive and should be a real asset to the running game.

Clay Coffee, who is expected to start at strong safety, has entered the quarterback battle between Sam Edwards and Derek Bigham in more than just a backup role.

"Clay has really come on strong at quarterback," Gilbert said. "He's really improved a lot since spring."

Defensively the Harvesters are ahead of last year's pace, but there's still plenty of room for improvement.

Gilbert has received encouraging reports on the secondary from assistant coach Mike Brent.

Richardson at weak safety, Coffee at strong safety, Dorsey and Kuhn at the corners are the ones showing the most progress.

The Harvesters received bad news Thursday when starting linebacker Tam Bailey decided to quit football after a hernia operation.

"He just didn't want to risk another injury," Gilbert said. "It's quite a blow to us, but we'll be able to adjust."

John Schilling was shifted from defensive end to Bailey's linebacking spot.

"John's been looking like he was born to play linebacker, so we're not going to hurt there too much longer," Gilbert said.

Pampa has its first intrasquad scrimmage at 7 p.m. Saturday night.

"We're going to film the scrimmage and grade everyone individually," Gilbert said. "The coaches are anxious to see where they stand at this point."

American League roundup

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

If the New York Yankees aren't hearing footsteps behind them, they certainly must be aware of the flapping Oriole wings in the immediate vicinity of first place.

Playing more like the Bad News Bears, the Yankees handed Seattle four unearned runs in the first inning, then failed to score after loading the bases with none out in the ninth and dropped a 6-4 decision to the lowly Mariners.

Meanwhile, the high-flying Baltimore Orioles trounced California 7-1, giving them 11 consecutive regular-season victories over the Angels — 8-0 this year — plus a 3-1 edge in the 1979 AL playoffs.

New York's lead — on July 19 it was 9½ over Milwaukee, 10 over Baltimore — is down to a scant 1½ games for the first time since May 21 and George Steinbrenner's blood pressure must be boiling over.

In other action, the Cleveland Indians nipped the Kansas City Royals 4-3 — George Brett homered in four at-bats and is hitting .404 — the Detroit Tigers beat the Minnesota Twins 4-2 on Jack Morris' one-hitter after the Twins took the doubleheader opener 5-3, the Boston Red Sox downed the Oakland A's 5-1 and the Chicago White Sox defeated the Toronto Blue Jays 5-3. Milwaukee and Texas were not scheduled.

Seattle's Bruce Bochte, who singled home the tie-breaking run in the fifth inning — Julio Cruz homered in the seventh for an insurance run — helped settle reliever Shane Rawley down after the Yankees loaded the bases in the ninth on a walk and two singles, one a punt.

Rawley then struck out Eric Soderholm and Aurelio Rodriguez and retired Bucky Dent on a fly ball.

Orleans 7, Angels 1
Rich Dauer collected four hits, including a pair of doubles, and John Lowenstein added a home run while Scott McGregor pitched a tidy seven-hitter for his 15th victory and the Orioles' fifth consecutive triumph.

California scored first on a double by Dan Ford and Don Baylor's single in the fourth inning but Dauer erased that lead with a two-run double in the fifth. Al Bumbry's sacrifice fly made it 3-1. Lowenstein homered in the sixth and the Orioles tacked on three more runs in the seventh, two on a double by Rick Dempsey.

The Angels, who have lost six in a row, get a crack at the fading Yankees this weekend while the Orioles are in Oakland.

"Maybe the Angels can knock off the Yankees," said Dauer. "We won six of eight from New York to close the gap, but now we need some help. When we do catch them in the loss column, I think our pitching staff will carry us right past them."

Indians 4, Royals 3
Ron Hassey belted a three-run homer in the first inning and Rick Waits and two relievers combined on a six-hitter as Cleveland ended Kansas City's eight-game winning streak. Hassey connected off Steve Busby after Miguel Dilone's checked-swing double and a walk to Mike Hargrove. Brett homered in the fourth inning for his only hit.

Twins 5-2, Tigers 3-4
Minnesota's only hit in the nightcap was a one-out single by Rob Wilfong in the very first inning.

"Pitching is a mind game," said Morris, who allowed only three baserunners, all on walks, the rest of the way. "I've been struggling lately and searching for some comfort and ease. I think I found it tonight."

In the opener, Pete Mackanin hit a tie-breaking two-run homer for the Twins in the seventh inning and rookie Doug Corbett recorded his 14th save.

Red Sox 5, A's 1
Jim Rice hit his 15th homer in the second inning and Boston scored four unearned runs in the fourth to snap Rick Langford's nine-game winning streak. Despite the loss, Langford pitched his 18th consecutive complete game and 21st of the season. Boston rookie John Tudor was the winner, giving up six hits. The big hit in the Red Sox' four-run fourth was Glenn Hoffman's two-run single.

White Sox 5, Blue Jays 3
Jim Morrison drove in three runs with a double and a two-run single and Kevin Bell contributed a key triple in Chicago's four-run fifth inning. Winner Lamarr Hoyt pitched five hitless innings but needed seventh-inning help from Ed Farmer, who notched his 21st save. Morrison singled home the tying run in the fourth inning and rapped a two-run single an inning later.

Hughes to start

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Dallas Cowboys' free safety Randy Hughes, who suffered a dislocated shoulder during last weekend's game against the Los Angeles Rams, will be wearing a new shoulder harness Saturday night.

"This harness is supposed to keep the shoulder from popping out, but he's still going to need surgery sometime," said team spokesman Greg Aiello.

Hughes plans to start against the Houston Oilers in a National Football League exhibition contest at Texas Stadium, but if the shoulder is injured again "he will have no choice but to go ahead with the surgery this season," Aiello said.

Dennis Thurmond will take over the free safety slot if Hughes cannot play or reinjures the shoulder. Coach Tom Landry announced Thursday.

Benny Barnes will replace Charlie Waters as free safety in Saturday's game, Aiello said.

"Waters and offensive guard Herbert Scott, both with injured knees, decided not to risk it in just a pre-season game," Aiello added.

Missouri rookie Kurt Peterson will replace Scott at left guard, the spokesman said.

Coaches discuss their top-ranked teams

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Since last year's final associated Press Top Ten teams are expected to field strong units once again in 1980, what do the nine coaches who finished behind national champion Alabama think about their chances this season?

John Robinson, No. 2 Southern California: "If we're able to get off to a good start and keep improving, we could be a very good team by November."

Barry Switzer, No. 3 Alabama: "Oklahoma isn't as good as it's been in the past. I don't think we'll be as powerful. The defensive strength of our team won't allow it."

Earle Bruce, No. 4 Ohio State: "Our greatest asset will be our defense, but we have a number of other strengths. For example, we have great athletes at the skilled positions on offense, we have a very solid kicking game and we have excellent team speed."

Bill Yeoman, No. 5 Houston: "Just let us get out there three or four days into two-a-days and get it real warm and disagreeable, then I'll give you a better idea of just how desperately they want to be good. There never was any doubt in our minds that we could win, but now maybe there is less doubt in other people's minds."

Bobby Bowden, No. 6 Florida State: "Last year, we got great national exposure, so winning this year will be more difficult than ever. Last season, we were the No. 1 independent in the nation — I'm sure Pittsburgh will object to me saying that — and now we've got a lot to live up to. Our expectations will be higher after last year's record."

Jackie Sherrill, No. 7 Pitt: "The top five I'd pick right now would be Ohio State, Alabama, Oklahoma, Southern Cal and us...and not necessarily in that order."

Lou Holtz, No. 8 Arkansas: "We just have too many question marks going into the season to have any idea how good we can be. We have 15 starters back from last year but the headliners are gone. If everybody loses four or five games, we have a heck of a shot at the title."

Tom Osborne, No. 9 Nebraska: "We think we'll have a good football team. We have a lot of good athletes, probably as many as we've had in a long time. We've got a lot of guys with speed and strength, agility and good athletic talent. That doesn't guarantee anything, but it's sure a heck of a lot better than if you don't have it."

Jim Young, No. 10 Purdue: "Our offensive unit could be very, very productive. It could be the best group I've ever had a chance to coach. The defense is what concerns me. We lost five starters, including three-fifths of the line."

Finally, a word from Bear Bryant, whose Alabama team will be trying for an unprecedented third consecutive national championship.

"If our defense can hold up and our offense dedicates itself to getting better every day, then we'll have a chance to have a good football team. Otherwise, we won't have a chance to finish better than in the bottom half of the conference."

Since the AP poll began in 1936, seven teams have tried for three in a row, and seven teams have failed — Minnesota in 1942, Army in 1946, Notre Dame in 1948, Oklahoma in 1957, Alabama in 1966, Nebraska in 1972 and Oklahoma in 1976.

"We've won two straight national championships, but right now it would take a miracle to win a third," says Bryant. "We finished spring practice and didn't have a single interior lineman on offense that played like a winner in the Southeastern Conference. When you have that situation, you better worry about winning the conference."

The Crimson Tide will rely on an outstanding defense led by end E.J. Junior, linebacker Thomas Boyd and strong safety Tommy Wilcox — provided he doesn't have to play quarterback. The offense lost every starter except running backs Major Ogilvie and Billy Jackson.

Alabama's challengers for national honors are expected to be Auburn, Georgia and Tennessee in the SEC; Pitt and Penn State in the East; Ohio State, Michigan, Purdue and Indiana in the Big Ten; Oklahoma and Nebraska in the Big Eight; Houston, Arkansas and Texas in the Southwest Conference; Southern California, Washington and Stanford in the Pacific-10; Brigham Young and Utah in the Western Athletic Conference;

North Carolina in the Atlantic Coast Conference and Notre Dame and Florida State among the non-Eastern independents.

Southern Cal will count on a solid defense to hold the fort until the offense overcomes the loss of Heisman Trophy tailback Charles White, Lombardi Award guard Brad Budde and quarterback Paul McDonald.

For the first time in almost a decade, Oklahoma don't have a super running back to spark its wishbone. In fact, not only could Nebraska unseat the Sooners in the Big Eight, but the Cornhuskers have the league's top runner in Jarvis Redwine.

Like Alabama, Ohio State has eight returning starters on defense but the offense usually gets the lion's share of the headlines, especially quarterback Art Schlichter.

Houston is seeking its fourth Cotton Bowl trip in five years thanks to a pair of 270-pound defensive tackles in Hosea Taylor and Leonard Mitchell.

At air-minded Florida State, Rick Stockstill must replace the Jimmy Jordan-Wally Woodham passing duo. All-American nose guard Ron Simmons is the defensive leader.

Pampa hosts Coronado in volleyball twinbill

Pampa hosts Lubbock Coronado Saturday in a girls volleyball doubleheader in the Clarendon College-Pampa Center gym. The JV match begins at 4 p.m., followed by the varsity twinbill. After an easy 15-2, 15-3 win over Hereford to open the season Tuesday night, Harvesters coach Lynn Wolfe looks for a tougher row to hoe against Coronado.

"Coronado usually comes up with a pretty good team," Wolfe said. "It should be a good match."

Pampa capitalized on a similar weakness to defeat Hereford.

Worried McEnroe to defend U.S. Open tennis crown

NEW YORK (AP) — John McEnroe, a first-round loser in his last tournament and admittedly worried about his game, will begin defense of his U.S. Open tennis title against unheralded 23-year-old Christophe Roger-Vasselin of France.

McEnroe is seeded second for the Open, which carries total prize money of $664,082 and begins Tuesday at the National Tennis Center in Flushing Meadow. The No. 1 seed is five-time Wimbledon champion Bjorn Borg, who will start his quest for his first U.S. Open title against another unknown, Guillermo Aubone of Argentina.

Tracy Austin, the defending champion and top-seeded woman, drew Anne Smith as her first-round opponent, while second-seeded Martina Navratilova was paired against Lena Sandin of Sweden.

The Open pairings were announced Thursday, a day that saw the 21-year-old McEnroe still trying to pick up the pieces following his stunning first-round loss to John Austin in the $75,000 Atlanta Open Wednesday night.

"I've just got to get my head together," said McEnroe, who was beaten 7-6, 6-4. "I can't seem to get up for tournaments since Wimbledon (when McEnroe lost to Borg in a classic five-set final). I've played too many matches and I haven't practiced enough, and it's showing. Certainly, this won't help my confidence any in the Open."

Injuries could also play a role in the Open, which offers first prizes of $46,000 to the men's and women's singles champions. McEnroe has been bothered by a sprained right ankle, an injury that forced him to withdraw from the Canadian Open two weeks ago. But he said that ankle was no factor in his poor play at Atlanta.

"It was fine," he said. "I wish I could use that as an excuse, but I can't. I just played badly."

Borg also has an injury problem. He suffered a sprained right knee in practice for the Canadian Open, played well in reaching the final of that tournament, then had to withdraw from his match against Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia when the knee injury flared up. He is resting this week.

AGAINST A hilly background, the Miami Warriors practice on extra point conversions while head coach Gary Pinson searches for weak spots in the defense. The Warriors open the season Sept. 5 against White Deer. Miami is a member of District 1-A this season which also includes Booker, Claude, Follett, Groom and McLean.

National League roundup

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Houston Astros rained on the Pittsburgh Pirates' parade with a shower of runs Thursday night.

"They just beat our brains out," said Pirates shortstop Tim Lincecum after a 12-5 beating by the Astros in a battle of National League division leaders.

Unaccustomed to scoring runs in such big bunches, the West-leading Astros collected 18 hits as they completed a three-game sweep of the East front-runners.

The victory improved Houston's lead in the West to 1½ games over idle Cincinnati. Third-place Los Angeles defeated Montreal 5-4 in 10 innings and remained two games from the lead.

The Pirates' lead in the East, meanwhile, dropped to 1½ games after the Philadelphia Phillies stopped the San Diego Padres 9-8 in 17 innings.

In other NL action, the Atlanta Braves whipped the Chicago Cubs 6-4 and the New York Mets trimmed the San Francisco Giants 5-1.

Terry Puhl, Jose Cruz and Cesar Cedeno combined for nine hits and seven RBI in Houston's hitting spree. Joe Sambito provided strong relief pitching for the Astros, retiring all 10 batters he faced.

Dodgers 5, Expos 4
Steve Garvey's fourth hit of the game, a solo homer leading off the 10th, led Los Angeles over Montreal. Garvey, who had stroked three straight singles, belted the first pitch in the 10th from reliever Stan Bahnsen, 7-5, for his 22nd homer.

Steve Howe, 6-5, the third Dodger reliever, allowed one hit over three innings to earn the victory.

Phillies 9, Padres 8
Bake McBride's second triple of the game drove in the tie-breaking run in the 17th inning as Philadelphia defeated San Diego despite 9-1 strong innings of relief pitching from the Padres' Dennis Kinney.

Mike Schmidt singled with one out in the 17th and McBride followed with his game-winning hit, a drive to the right-center field fence at Veterans Stadium.

Kinney, who had never pitched more than 41-3 innings in his brief major league tenure covering 39 appearances, lost his fifth game in nine decisions. Kevin Saucier, 6-3, was the winner.

Braves 6, Cubs 4
Dale Murphy drove in four runs, including three with his 21st homer of the season, as Atlanta defeated Chicago. Murphy put the Braves ahead with a run-scoring grounder in the second inning and sent a drive over the left field fence at Atlanta Stadium with two men on base in the fourth, leading the Braves to their fourth straight victory and 11th in 14 games.

Phil Niekro, 11-14, picked up his second triumph in three days, having won in relief for the first time this season in the series opener Tuesday. Niekro struck out four before leaving the game in the sixth, pulling him into a tie with Tim Keefe for 14th place on the all-time major league list with 2,538 strikeouts.

Mets 5, Giants 4
Jerry Morales's two-run double keyed a four-run rally in the fifth as New York broke a seven-game losing streak by beating San Francisco. Left-hander Vida Blue, 11-7, was the victim of the Mets' rally.

Lee Mazzilli singled home the first run of the inning before Morales' key hit. Claudell Washington drove in the final run of the inning with a single that chased Blue.

Pete Falcone, 6-7, was the winning pitcher in relief of Craig Swan, who worked two innings before his shoulder tightened up in cold, drizzly weather.

Chargers have inside track in the AFC's balanced West

By the Associated Press

The American Football Conference's West Division had a new champion in 1979, and the title could be the first of many for the pass-crazy San Diego Chargers.

The division, however, is anything but San Diego's for the taking. Denver would appear much improved with the acquisition of quarterback Matt Robinson, and the surging Seattle Seahawks could finally make it to the top.

The Oakland Raiders might make a run at the title they owned for so long if newly arrived quarterback Dan Pastorini has a good season. Kansas City, also improving, was last in the AFC West in 1979, but had a 7-9 record and can't completely be counted out of the race.

The Chargers' potent air attack, with Dan Fouts emerging as one of the finest passers in the NFL, and a good defense took them to a 12-4 record last season. In the playoffs, however, San Diego stumbled and lost a 17-14 decision to Houston.

Fouts made the Chargers the league's top passing team, as he broke Joe Namath's NFL passing yardage mark by throwing for 4,082 yards. Fouts completed 332 of 530 attempts and hit 24 touchdowns passes.

Veteran Charlie Joiner and third-year man John Jefferson give Fouts a pair of extremely gifted receivers. Joiner had 72 receptions for 1,008 yards last season, while Jefferson caught 61 for 1,090. Tight end Bob Klein has retired, but young Kellen Winslow should prove a capable replacement.

Defensively, San Diego has three outstanding tackles in Wilbur Young, Louis Kelcher and Gary Johnson. Young played well after replacing the injured Kelcher last year. Cornerback is also a Charger strong suit, with Mike Williams and Willie Buchanan.

San Diego's weak spot again figures to be its rushing game, a category in which the Chargers finished next-to-last in the league in 1979. Newcomer John Cappelletti, a fullback acquired from the Los Angeles Rams, could help the ground attack, however.

At Denver, 10-6 last year, they're hoping Robinson can add spark to the team's plodding offense. Robinson, previously Richard Todd's backup with the New York Jets, will have Rick Upchurch and Haven Moses to throw to, as well as talented tight end Riley Odoms.

Defensively, the Broncos feature one of the league's best linebacking corps — Randy Gradishar, Tom Jackson, Joe Rizzo and Bob Swenson. All-Pro cornerback Louis Wright is the best of a good group in the secondary.

Among the Bronco draftees was defensive end Rulon Jones of Utah State, a second-round pick who might be able to help the team immediately.

Seattle, which won five of its last six games to finish 9-7 in 1979, resembles San Diego in its ability to generate offensive fireworks. But, unlike the Chargers, the Seahawks don't have a proven defense to go with it.

Quarterback Jim Zorn, coming off his best season, will again give defenses fits with his scrambling in the Seahawks' imaginative offense. He threw for 3,661 yards and 20 touchdowns last year.

Steve Largent, Sam McCullum and Steve Raible head a group of fine Seattle receivers.

The Seahawks' ground game will depend on Sherman Smith and Al Hunter, both explosive runners who have played second fiddle to the passing attack.

Seattle's defense must show much improvement if the Seahawks are to be a championship-caliber club, with tackles Manu Tuiaosopo and Robert Hardy standouts on what has been a mediocre unit.

Some wonderful opportunities which could prove quite profitable or beneficial in some manner will be coming your way this year. Take advantage of them. Don't be critical to the point where they're withdrawn.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Today is not the time to get reckless by making changes in procedures which have proven profitable and reliable. Don't mess around with a winner. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're exceptionally lucky today in most things which don't involve money. Stay away from gambling or speculation and you should remain fortunate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your generosity is likely to be imposed upon today by one to whom you'll offer a hand, but who won't be satisfied till he or she has your arm.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) An idea or plan that you have looks very promising on the surface, but there may be flaws that you can't see. Test it before putting it into practice.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Rewarding situations could fall into your lap today. However, you must manage your gains prudently or you're apt to blow the whole wad and have nothing to show for it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Things are going your way today, but you could wrongly think you have to repay this person by telling a sensitive secret.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Someone may do something exceptionally nice for you today, which he would be betraying another. Don't.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It would be a mistake today to ask someone who is friendly toward you to pull strings in an area in which he would be betraying another. Don't.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Others will willingly respond to your directives or requests, but only if you show them you'll reciprocate with the same consideration you're asking.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Others are drawn to you today because they like you, but you could quickly lose your popularity if you don't live up to your word or behave too unpredictably.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be forewarned today not to become too involved with a person of questionable reputation. He or she will spoil what you have going.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're extremely fortunate today when teamed up with a partner, provided your goals are in harmony. Teamwork is effective only when both pull together.

Alpert talks about 'Rise'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The wood-paneled office is spacious but dark, almost cave-like. Every square inch is cluttered with furniture, records, stereo equipment, trophies, photos and works of art.

And in the back of the room, the vice chairman of A&M Records sits at a grand piano, playing a lush chord progression.

It's certainly not your usual corporate suite, but then Herb Alpert is not your usual corporate executive.

Although he's headed A&M with co-founder Jerry Moskowitz for 18 years now, most people know him better as the handsome trumpet player who rattled off a string of hits with the Tijuana Brass in the late '60s — and who, after a decade of absence from the pop charts, staged one of the biggest musical comebacks ever with his 1979 smash, "Rise."

The disco-flavored instrumental, whose sophisticated synthesizer and piano lead-in to Alpert's solo horn contrast sharply with the simpler sound of his Tijuana Brass days, was a No. 1 chart hit. It sold more than a million singles and another million-plus albums and also won a best pop instrumental Grammy.

But the comeback aspect of the tune is the most interesting. Many musicians have had their hot streak and faded — but few of them then continue to spend much of their time in the studio as chief of a major record company. "I felt lonely," says Alpert, who has by now left the piano for the comfort of an armchair at another end of the office — which, incidentally, is housed along with the rest of A&M in a Hollywood cottage complex that was once Charlie Chaplin's studio.

HERB ALPERT, corporate vice chairman of A and M Records, relaxes recently in his office in Los Angeles. Known as the handsome trumpet player who rattled off a string of hits with the Tijuana Brass in the late '60s, Alpert, after a decade of absence from the pop charts, has staged one of the biggest musical comebacks with his 1979 smash, "Rise." The disco-flavored instrumental, which was a number one chart hit, sold more than a million singles and another million-plus albums and also won a best pop instrument Grammy.

Long-shelved movie will soon be aired

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "The Seduction of Miss Leona," which sat on the shelf for more than a year, arrives during the heat and reruns of summer.

The two-hour movie, telling the star-crossed love affair of a reclusive college teacher and a married college maintenance man, will be broadcast Tuesday on CBS.

Perhaps CBS thought no one would notice the movie during the heat wave or that among the reruns it might generate some interest. It is one of those unfortunate events which occur despite a fine cast, writer and director.

Joseph Hardy, who directed the film, said, "One person at CBS didn't like it. He never saw the entire film, but he didn't much care for it. He thought it was too soft for the regular season. I think he'll find out when the film goes on the air."

"The Seduction of Miss Leona" is a flawed film, but it's hard to pinpoint those flaws. Lynn Redgrave and Brian Dennehy deliver splendid performances as the couple, but the fault is really with the story.

There are little things which knock the story off its rotation and cause it to wobble. For instance, the affair begins when Dennehy agrees to repair Miss Redgrave's house. He rushes home to announce the wonderful news to his wife — he is going to get $3 an hour!

His wife dreams of a color TV and a washer and a dryer. Somebody ought to tell him that's not even the minimum wage and about 20 years out of date for construction work.

The movie originally was filmed with the title of "Bliss," but eventually ended up with the lurid — and misleading — title of "The Seduction of Miss Leona." No one is seduced.

Hardy said he was not unappreciative of the political moves behind the title change and the long delay in scheduling the movie. "I know it was a tight race for first place, but CBS also put on some things that didn't work."

Hardy has had long experience as a stage director, but it took him a while to be accepted as a film director. He said he feels that stage actors and directors should be allowed to do their plays on film.

"I directed 'Play It Again, Sam,' and helped create the production, along with Woody Allen," he said. "I was the one who discovered Diane Keaton at Orange Coast College."

He has a play running on Broadway now, Bernard Slade's "Romantic Comedy," and feels he should be allowed to take it from the stage and put it before the cameras.

Vatican approves married Anglicans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Married Anglican priests could become Roman Catholic priests and remain married under an offer extended Wednesday by the United States Catholic Conference.

The plan, approved by the Vatican, would allow Anglicans to enter the Roman Catholic Church under a "common identity" with their own liturgy.

Catholic Conference spokesman Russell Shaw said the phrase "common identity" indicates that the Anglicans could retain some of their customary liturgy.

In addition, he said, married Anglican priests could become Roman Catholic priests and remain married. They would not be allowed to remarry if widowed and could not become bishops, Shaw noted.

Many details remain to be worked out and the cases of priests will be reviewed on an individual basis, emphasized Archbishop John R. Quinn of San Francisco, president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops.

The plan was developed and proposed to the Vatican in response to requests from both individuals and groups of Anglican background who have been members of the Episcopal Church, according to the Catholic Conference.

Quinn said the decision applies only to persons who, while wishing to retain some elements of Anglican tradition, fully accept Roman Catholic doctrine and the authority of the pope and bishops.

KEVIN WALKER

Church agrees 'No Gays'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — For three months Kevin Walker played the organ for the 45 members of the First Orthodox Presbyterian Church in San Francisco's neat, middle-class Sunset district.

Church members didn't know he was gay. Walker neither flaunted nor hid his homosexuality, says Pastor Charles McIlhenny, but after a member discovered the fact, McIlhenny tried to convince the musician that homosexuality is "sinful."

"He would not conform to what the Scriptures said about homosexuality," McIlhenny recalled recently, adding that Walker had a "similarly Christian background" to others in the fundamentalist congregation. Walker, who wasn't a church member, was fired.

Gay advocates, a legal group which supports homosexual rights, took the church to court. The group claimed the 1978 firing violated San Francisco's ordinance banning discrimination in employment because of sexual preference.

A Superior Court judge sided with the church, which argued it used its First Amendment right to freedom of religion to dismiss Walker. Gay Advocates decided not to appeal the ruling.

"The judge recognized the church has a sphere of authority outside (its membership) and can exercise it even to non-members," McIlhenny said, explaining what he calls the "big significance" of the ruling.

Stephen Parrish, a Gay Advocates attorney, considers the case one of "conflicting rights" between church and state. Because the ruling was based on interpretation of the First Amendment, Parrish doesn't see it as a serious challenge to San Francisco's ordinance.

There was "quite a bit of publicity initially" about the case, Parrish said, but his office hasn't seen any national repercussions. One of the reasons the ruling wasn't appealed, Parrish said, is Walker's wish to avoid further publicity. Walker wasn't available for comment and neither was the attorney in the case, Mary Dunlap.

McIlhenny sees his church, which advertises itself as "Bible Believing," as a bastion safeguarding Christ's teaching, which he feels has been contorted to "conform to the age."

"I don't think churches have to worry about signs of the times," McIlhenny said. Yet, he has a harsh word for the certain Christians.

"I don't blame homosexuals (for increasing liberalism). I blame the church. Homosexuals are standing up for their rights. It's the Christians who are covering in the corner. I indict the Christians. It's onward Christians soldiers, but I think the Christians are scared silly."

McIlhenny looks hopefully to the "vocal minority" of evangelical groups to resist the currents of our times.

Says McIlhenny, "our 45 members just come to pray for Walker and the Gay Advocates," adding that Walker is welcome to return to the church anytime as a worshiper and that their legal opponents are, "invited to our Thanksgiving service."

"Thou wilt shew me the path of life. in thy presence is fulness of joy..."

PSALM 16-11

HERE IS THE PATH

MEN WORKING

This is the sign that should be lifted high in our beloved country — "Men Working." Men working with all they have and are, for a country that must show the world how to live in brotherhood and love and peace under God.

Let us resolve to dedicate anew our lives and our talents to our country and our God when we attend church

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

SPEAKING OF SOAPS

BY MARY ANN COOPER

Chandler Hill Harben plays Max Dekker, a member of the proud Dekker clan and a man with a hearty respect for the land, in NBC-TV's daytime drama, "Texas."

Spirits were riding high recently when NBC hosted a "down home party" at Rockefeller Center's Promenade Cafe to mark the premiere of the network's latest daytime hope "Texas." As discussed in an earlier column, "Texas" debuted August fourth as a spin-off of "Another World." But the celebration was not only focused on the western saga; the festivities also highlighted a general feeling of well-being on the part of NBC honchos about the entire NBC daytime schedule. The feelings of those directly involved in network projects was characterized by Linda Line, Vice-President Daytime Serial Programs as she remarked that "We're celebrating the leadership and innovation that characterizes NBC."

During the past two seasons, wholesale changes have occurred in the production values and staff of all NBC dramas and all attending the "Texas" celebration are hoping that these modifications will rejuvenate the sometimes sagging serials and make NBC as powerful a united network force as

ABC has developed to be in recent years. "Another World", trimmed neatly to a more realistic hour format, should begin to draw back the host of fans who found 90 minutes a bit too much to handle. "Days of Our Lives" has added a collection of new and exciting characters that may just take the sting out of the departure of the veteran performers who made a mass exodus from the head writer, Nina Laemmle and a new production team took over some months ago. Meanwhile at "The Doctors" executive producer Doris Quinlan has revamped the serial's standard format and inspired the creation of the most exciting storylines that has been seen on that drama in some time. In the opinion of Fred Silverman and others at the NBC fete, it should be only a matter of time before viewers discover the changes that have taken place and begin to respond to them. In all fairness to NBC, "Texas" will be up against stiff competition. It opposes "General Hospital" on ABC which, as reported last week, stunned all

Creative genius squelched by Hollywood schedule

HOLLYWOOD (AP) -- Director Buzz Kulik has learned a bitter truth about the movie business: "Being a genius and being creative equates with going over schedule."

Somehow Kulik's training in the tight budgets and fast schedules in early television doesn't allow him to overspend a studio's treasuries. He admits that his penchant for sane, economical filming has hampered his Hollywood career, depriving him of two projects he coveted.

The director's most ambitious movie so far is the summer release from Paramount, "The Hunter," starring Steve McQueen. Despite locations from here to Chicago and McQueen's $3-million fee, Kulik managed to deliver the film for $1.6 million.

Kulik, a handsome man with a high amount of controlled energy, admitted that he approached McQueen with trepidation -- and not because of any awe of superstardom. "I had directed him in a 'Climax' TV drama 23 years ago," the director recalled. "I thought he was a pain... and I am sure he felt the same way about me. We fought like cats and dogs."

"Steve and I were at arms length when we first met on 'The Hunter.' Then he said, 'You remember how we fought on 'Climax?'" I said, 'I sure do.' Immediately the tension was over."

"The Hunter" is based on the real-life career of Ralph "Papa" Thorsen, a modern-day bounty hunter who tracks down deadbeats and bail jumpers all over the country and returns them to Los Angeles. It's a curious circle for McQueen, who first achieved fame as an earlier bounty hunter in TV's "Wanted: Dead or Alive."

"Steve was concerned about the episodic nature of 'The Hunter,'" Kulik said. "It was a tough story to lick, because Thorsen goes out on missions and then returns to his pregnant girlfriend and the killer who is stalking him. We had many, many discussions and many, many rewrites."

Tootsie's is Texas two-step away from Grand Ole Opry

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) -- When urban cowboys get Saturday night fever in Music City U.S.A., they strut to Tootsie's Orchid Lounge where aspiring country music singers hype the hope that a dazzling career is only a step away.

Tootsie's is Nashville's most famous bar joint, just a Texas two-step from the former home of the Grand Ole Opry. It's where the starry-eyed singers and pickers get up and sing for tips, or for nothing, with the hope that a record executive or someone famous will bound out of the crowd, offer a contract and put them on the road to fame and fortune.

One recent Saturday night, the featured entertainer was Mark Brine. But when Brine took a break, Jack the Drifter and Jessie Fletcher took turns getting up and showing the folks what they can do.

Jack, a 60ish, slender fellow wear ug tie, didn't say where he was from, but told the 25 or so patrons he has known country music singer Webb Pierce for 30 years.

More Texas Adults with Incomes of $20,000 or more Read a Newspaper Yesterday than Watched Television

Most Texas adults read a newspaper yesterday, and most watched some television yesterday. However, almost one-half of all Texas adults with incomes of $20,000 or more -- that market with more spendable income -- read a newspaper yesterday, while only 38% watched some television.

A recent state-wide study, conducted by Belden Associates of Dallas, suggests that newspaper readership increases as income increases, whereas television viewing decreases as income increases.

Mr. Advertiser, for you to reach your full potential in the Texas market, the daily newspaper is your effective medium.

Food costs prominent in consumer price rise

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — When the government later this week releases figures showing how consumer prices stacked up in July, food costs will be a prominent item.

The figures will be included in the monthly Consumer Price Index, scheduled to be released on Friday by the Labor Department.

Food prices, as reflected in the report, are expected to show a sharp increase for July, compared to relatively mild gains in the first half of this year.

At the Agriculture Department, the figures to be released on Friday may not include many surprises. For the last five months, at least, USDA economists have said repeatedly that hefty increases in retail food prices were on tap by midyear.

A month ago, for example, Howard W. Hjort, the department's chief economist, said the Labor Department's consumer report for July probably would show a food-price increase of around 1.0 percent, about double the rate in June.

The trend has been largely related to seasonal and cyclical changes in production patterns, particularly for cattle, hogs and poultry. Producers, simply, have cut back because of previously sagging prices.

Drought and hot weather, which have reduced grain harvest prospects — most notably for corn — also have had a bearing on prices, including market psychology for the future.

Friday's report almost certainly will include figures showing that retail beef and pork prices gained substantially in July.

In fact, the Agriculture Department's own weekly surveys show that retail prices of U.S. Choice-grade beef in July averaged about 2.2 percent from June, while pork went up about 8 percent.

The figures are preliminary but do illustrate what is happening to a couple of the most important items in the retail food sector.

Beef prices, based on an all-cut average, rose to nearly $2.36 a pound in July from about $2.31 in June, according to USDA's figures.

Pork prices rose to an average of about $1.35 last month from less than $1.25 in June.

The preliminary figures, which are published each week by USDA, also showed that market prices of U.S. Choice-grade steers last month averaged $71.16 per 100 pounds of live weight, compared to $66.96 in June.

Hogs, based on market information, averaged $43.16 per 100 pounds against $35.06 in June.

Department economists say rising feed costs, partly due to weather losses this summer, will have some effect on how many cattle and hogs producers will turn out for the slaughter market the remainder of this year and in 1981.

Production of red meat — mostly beef and pork — was up 5 percent from a year earlier in the first quarter of 1980, and was up 8 percent in the second.

But in the third quarter, meat output is expected to be only 2 percent more than in July-September of last year and then decline about 1 percent from a year earlier in the fourth.

Farm scene

WASHINGTON (AP) — Let's hear it for pork, turkey, grapes, pears, purple plums, lemons, limes, raisins, prunes, peanuts, rice, dry beans, split peas and canned spinach.

Those items will be in "plentiful" supply next month, says the Agriculture Department.

But some other important foods will be in only "adequate" supply in September, the department's marketing specialists said Thursday.

The "adequate" list includes beef, broiler chickens, eggs, milk and dairy products, fresh peaches, nectarines, apples, fresh oranges, citrus juices, potatoes, onions, and canned and frozen vegetables.

According to USDA marketing specialists who size up the nation's food supply for the month ahead, when an item is plentiful the supply means "more than enough to meet requirements." And when it is rated adequate there is "enough to meet normal needs."

In other words, the two terms border on surplus and scarcity. But when something is really tight supply — meaning it can cost the proverbial arm and leg to buy — it is only considered in "light" supply.

The only item listed as in light supply for September is "other than purple plums," the report said.

HEALTHFUL HINTS

Most Often-Asked Questions on Nutrition By Katrina Bigham

Q. I am hypoglycemic and am in the process of changing my eating habits. I've been trying (for instance) to switch from white flour to soy flour, but my breads, pancakes, cakes, etc. come out just terrible this way. Maybe, if I mixed soy flour with some good whole wheat flour it would help. Any suggestions?

A. Yes, here is a recipe for a good, all-purpose "mix" that you can use for pancakes, waffles, biscuits, muffins, cookies, cakes, etc.

Measure without sifting; stir and then sift into large canister, bowl, or plastic bag:
6 cups stone-ground whole-wheat pastry flour
2 cups soy flour
2 scant tablespoons salt
1 cup non-instant powdered milk (NOT INSTANT)
1/3 cup double acting baking powder

And Mix Thoroughly
2 1/2 cups raw wheat germ

Keep part of this mix in a canister for immediate use and the remainder in a cool place, preferably the refrigerator or freezer.

This mix may be used in your favorite recipe merely by substituting it for the amount of flour called for and omitting the salt and baking powder or soda. Since flours vary considerably in moisture content, you may at times, find a batter too thin and will need to add a little more mix; other times, a little more liquid may be required--
