Norman Knox

Knox named hospital administrator

The Hospital Corporation of America today named Norman Knox, administrator of the HCA facility in Big Spring, as successor to Guy Hazelett, Highland General Hospital administrator.

Hazelett announced his resignation from the post Aug. 15 and will go to another Texas hospital Sept. 1.

Knox, a 20-year veteran in hospital administration, is currently overseeing the operations of the Malone-Hogan Hospital Inc. His resignation there will be effective Sept. 30, ending a 10-year career at the facility.

During his tenure as administrator at Big Spring, Knox negotiated the building of a new 153-bed hospital there, incorporated investor-owned concepts into hospital operations, and instituted recruitment programs for physicians.

He began his career in hospitals at Hendrick Memorial Hospital, as a student at Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene.

His first administrative position was as an assistant to the administrator at Cogdell Memorial Hospital in Snyder. Two years later he moved to Breckenridge, Texas, to become administrator at Stephens Memorial Hospital.

From there he came back to West Texas in 1962 to become administrator at Medical Arts Hospital in Lamesa, where he remained for seven years.

He went to Big Spring in July 1969 as administrator of Malone-Hogan Hospital.

Knox's career in Big Spring has been one of flexibility and change, according to hospital officials there.

With the Board of Trustees' decision in 1970 to build a new replacement facility, Knox began a search for funding the new facility. Failing to obtain Hill-Burton funds, and stopped by appeals filed by local groups opposing the founding of a tax-exempt hospital, Knox turned to a plan of private enterprise in the form of investor-owned hospital management companies which were offering funding for hospitals without taxing local communities.

Hospital Corporation of America purchased the Big Spring facility in 1973 and began building a new plant the same year.

Knox was overseer during this transition from non-profit to investor-owned hospital, during which time the staff more than doubled and services were multiplied.

Since its opening in 1975, the Big Spring facility has become a model hospital in area experiencing expansion problems.

An active physician recruiting program headed by the new administrator was successful in attracting two family practice physicians, two pediatricians, a pathologist, an orthopedist, a urologist, two internal medicine physicians, and a specialist in radiologic procedures.

Knox has indicated his feeling to show confidence and support to hospital employees, while holding a low profile in community civic circles.

However, Knox has assumed leadership roles in area and state organizations affecting health care, his primary goal.

He is a charter member of the Permian Basin Health System of Area 12 (PBSHA) and is a member of its Board of Directors. He is currently chairman of the Appropriations Review Committee of the PBHSA, and a member of the Project Review Committee.

At the state level, Knox is a member of the Board of Trustees, Texas Hospital Association (THA) and is chairman of the THA Committee on Investor Owned Hospitals. He is also a member of the THA Council on Construction and Plant Operation.

Governor Bill Clements this year appointed Knox to the Texas Statewide Health and Coordinating Council.

Born in Pampa, and graduated from Borger High School in 1955, Knox attended Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene.

He is married to the former Jane Roberts of Abilene, and they are the parents of three daughters, Kerrie Sue, 22, Jean Alice, 17 and Leslie Ann, 11.

A current building project constructing Pampa's new Coronado Community Hospital Inc., will be a major concern of the new administrator here.

Current HCA plans for Pampa include physician recruitment, expansion of health services and nursing services, hospital officials said.

Knox will also continue to oversee the Big Spring facility until a replacement is announced.

The new administrator is taking over the helm from Hazelett who was appointed to his position by Highland General Board of Managers on Nov. 22, 1976.

Hazelett told hospital staff and employees at the time of his resignation he believed positive changes had taken place recently at the facility, outlining collective and individual progress.

Besides opening the new facility, under construction north of Pampa Mall, Coronado Community Hospital Inc., has announced plans to recruit several new physicians and expand services.

Clements, Connally plead Reagan case

By Deborah Bridges
Staff Writer

Gov. Bill Clements and former Gov. John Connally extended an impassioned plea to Pampa voters Thursday night to lend support to the Ronald Reagan-George Bush campaign, as the two governors joined forces in a 23-city tour of the state to drum up votes for the 1980 Republican presidential candidates.

"Why we need to win this election in 1980 is because we have a decade of danger and a decade of decision ahead," Connally said to the 450 persons gathered in M. K. Brown Auditorium.

The danger was due to the Carter's lax administration, he said, by allowing the Soviets to "overtake" the United States in military prowess.

If elected, Connally said, Reagan would support the buildup of more weapon systems in order to maintain a balance of power between the U.S. and Russia.

The former state governor also expounded on the merits of free enterprise, saying Reagan would "promote competition in the market place."

"The decision was the voters', he said, to make a change in the present administration and "turn this country around."

Clements candidly said in his speech to the packed auditorium, that the purpose of his and Connally's tour was to "get out the vote."

The 23-city, month-long tour, he said, was intended to sway the Democratic and Independent voters, promote voter registration and bring in contributions to the Reagan-Bush campaign.

In a brief press conference before the barbeque and rally, Clements said he does not intend to quit the governorship to accept a post in Washington should Reagan be elected.

"I will not leave Texas to go to Washington to take any job up there," Clements said. "I told Reagan, 'Don't ask me, because I'm not going.'"

Clements once again voiced his support of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) program but seemed to think it will probably not be cut from the budget.

"Frankly, I don't think he's going to eliminate this program," he said. "I think he's going to cut it back some, but I think he's having second, third and fourth thoughts about eliminating it."

Asked how he felt about supporting Reagan for office when he ran against him in the primaries, Connally said, "I've always spent more time supporting candidates than I have being a candidate. I feel very natural."

"When I announced, I was not sure that Gov. Reagan was going to be a candidate," he said, and "accordingly" withdrew when it became obvious that Reagan was not going to be for the nomination.

"I don't feel bad about it all," he said. "In a sense, I feel relieved."

In answer to a question concerning U.S. Rep. Henry Gonzales, a San Antonio Democrat who said Texas will be carried by the Democratic party in November, Connally said, "Congressman Gonzales is not particularly noted as a very accurate political prognosticator, and I think this is one time he's going to be a very bad predictor."

Rita Clements and Nellie Connally accompanied their husbands in their three-city tour Thursday.

According to Associated Press reports, to the crowds gathered to hear the two governors on Thursday's campaign trail, Clements and Connally sympathized with the economic plight of rural Americans and hinted at a better life for West Texas farmers if they help elect a Republican president.

Before coming to Pampa, the two men toured a seed company and feed lot in Hereford and held a brief news conference in Amarillo.

Connally said he doesn't think the farm vote is a "shoe-in" for the Republicans, but he berated the Carter administration for punishing the "backbone of America," the agricultural community.

"I can't imagine any farmer defending Carter," Connally said in Hereford. "I'm going to be the last in the parade if all the government is going to do is punish the American farmer."

He said he did not believe Carter could carry the farm sector after allowing farmers to suffer through the Russian grain embargo and other ill-advised agricultural policies.

Both Connally and Clements said they supported the grain embargo after the Afghanistan invasion, but Clements added, "I want to embargo everything — not just grain."

During a press conference at the Hereford airport, Clements said the China controversy facing the Republican ticket was "not handled properly by Reagan."

"I'd rather see him attack Carter's policy. I want Reagan on the offense, not the defense," he added.

Connally attempted to defend the GOP candidate and said Reagan was only trying to point out how "America has lost its way under the Carter administration."

Clements told farmers he and Connally "have input to Reagan and his staff on farm problems."

"Agriculture is the foundation of our strength," the former treasury secretary said. "If we were without the ability to produce, this country would be in desperate shape. We are called an industrial nation, but agriculture has been the one to increase productivity."

He pointed out that Reagan, as governor of California, understands agriculture.

At an Amarillo press conference, Connally sharply criticized the Carter Administration's foreign policy.

"We have lost ground in foreign countries," he said. "The Soviet Union has moved into countries such as Afghanistan because it perceives a weakness in the United States."

The former Texas governor refused to comment on how Republican lack of support for the Equal Rights Amendment would affect the campaign.

"The Texas legislature has passed it — as far as I'm concerned it is a non-issue," he said.

A BRIEF PRESS CONFERENCE was conducted by Gov. Bill Clements and former Gov. John Connally in the Coronado Inn Thursday afternoon. Connally, left, listens while Clements, right, responds to reporters' questions. During the conference, Clements said that he would not go to Washington if Reagan was elected, and Connally commented that Democratic Congressman Henry Gonzales was "not a very accurate political prognosticator." Bomb explodes during disarming attempt STATERLINE, Nev. (AP) — A large bomb exploded Wednesday during attempts to disarm it and blew a two- to three-story hole in the side of a Lake Tahoe casino-hotel, just hours after an unsuccessful attempt to pay extortionists $3 million, the FBI said.

There were no injuries in the explosion at Harvey's Resort Hotel-Casino.

"The requests of the extortionists were met," FBI special agent Jerry Yablonsky said at a news conference. "However, they did not show up at a second location after a phone contact had been made to set up the payoff."

He said a helicopter pilot, with $3 million put up by club owner Harvey Gross, was supposed to meet the extortionists "within a 15-mile radius of the club, but (they) never showed." The money was returned to Gross.

Yablonsky said the helicopter pilot was "contacted by the extortionists at a specified location at 12:10 a.m. Wednesday and told to go to a second location."

He said the helicopter was to "receive a signal from the ground" but it never came. The aircraft "spent a good half hour trying to make contact, hovering over the meeting point."

The blast at 3:43 p.m. PDT ended a tense stalemate that began early Tuesday, when two people posing as computer technicians wheeled a large box into the casino-hotel and left a typewritten note with their demands for money and a helicopter.

The bomb reportedly contained 1,000 sticks of dynamite, which authorities said was capable of leveling a city block of lesser buildings. Its blast tore through more than 260,000 sandbags stacked around it, sprayed a sea of broken glass across an estimated 200 square feet of adjacent U.S. 50 and threw debris up to a block away.

Douglas County Sheriff John Maple said bomb squad members were trying to disarm it by remote-control when the explosion occurred.

It was a "highly sophisticated device," he said. "Bombs can built that cannot be rendered safe."

"It was the only thing we could do," Maple said. "Harvey Gross agreed with the decision."

Yablonsky said the bomb, packed inside an IBM carton, was two feet square and four feet high "with another small device on top, where all the mechanical switches were located." There was speculation that the 28 switches, flipped in a specific sequence, might have been the intended means of disarming the bomb once the $3 million was paid.

The bomb itself "was just a plain box of blue steel," Yablonsky said. "It was on a metal frame on eight heavy duty casters."

There was no timer and no immediate explanation how the extortionists would have detonated the bomb if the money had not been paid. Earlier, authorities had said the bomb was equipped with tilt switches and motion switches that could have detonated it if it was moved or tampered with.

The 3:45 p.m. explosion in the 25-room facility shook nearby casinos "like a sonic boom," said one bystander, rattling glass and drawing cheers from people crowded into nearby casinos. As the bomb exploded, the second and third floors on the building's south side bulged.

Police said the blast vicinity was expected to be closed to traffic for two days.

New immigration head favors work program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Texan nominated to head the Immigration and Naturalization Service says he would not object to a national work program.

State Rep. Matt Garcia of San Antonio spoke at his confirmation hearing Wednesday before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Supporters of the card idea have suggested it could be used to stop the flow of illegal aliens because penalties could be levied on employers who hired a worker without a card.

Garcia said he would not object to a work card program as long as the rights of persons who appeared to be undocumented were not abused. He said employer sanctions probably offer the best potential for reducing the number of illegal immigrants.

Hispanic groups have argued a national work card program could lead to discrimination, discouraging employers from hiring anyone of Hispanic appearance or prompting them to ask for extra identification.

The decision will have to be made by Congress, not by the INS, nor in all probability would the INS be the agency in charge of administering such a program if it were adopted.

The work card idea has stirred up a controversy on the Select Commission on Immigration and Refugee Policy, a top-level group preparing a report on ways to overhaul the nation's immigration laws.

Garcia told the judiciary committee he thought safeguards would have to be built in if any form of employer sanctions is adopted.

"Of course, it would have to be done with total recognition of the rights of employers and the rights of employees," he said.

Answering hypothetical questions from Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., Garcia also said he would not object to a guest worker program to let temporary immigrants fill jobs unwanted by Americans.

He added that safeguards would be needed to protect the rights of the participants if a guest worker program were adopted.

Garcia spent more than two hours before the committee, with most of the time devoted to complaints about his law practice and reports of late filings of tax returns and payments to the Internal Revenue Service.

Committee aides said the most likely time for a vote on the nomination would be the business meeting scheduled Sept. 9. The committee's approval and confirmation by the full Senate is required before Garcia could take the position.

Garcia said the number of complaints that clients filed with the Texas State Bar about his practice was not unusual. He said none of the complaints ended with the bar taking any disciplinary steps and many of those who complained remained his clients.

The nominee attributed most of his delays in filing tax returns and payments throughout the 1970s to a rearrangement of his business affairs prompted by a severe heart attack in 1970.

He said his latest physical this summer gave him a clean bill of health.

If confirmed, Garcia faces the possibility of spending only months as INS commissioner if President Carter is not elected in November to a second term.

David Crosland has served as acting INS commissioner since Leonel Castillo of Houston resigned last year.

One injured in hit-and-run

A Pampa man was treated and released at Highland General Hospital and a second man was arrested by city police after a hit-and-run accident in the 100 block of South Gray Street early today.

Accident victim Ricky Eugene Young, 29, of 207 Ward was released from the hospital's emergency room after treatment of minor injuries suffered in the mishap.

Driver David Lee Hale, 33, of 1005 Twiford is in the custody of Gray County authorities after being charged with failure to render aid at the scene of an accident and for driving while intoxicated.

Bail for Hale was set by Justice of the Peace Nat Lunsford at $1,000 for the failure to render aid — a felony offense — and $500 for driving while intoxicated. The man is in Gray County jail in lieu of bond.

Hale was arrested in the 100 block of South Gray by city police, according to the police report, after his vehicle, a 1970 Ford Fairlane, reportedly struck Young while backing from a bar parking lot.

After striking the pedestrian, police said, the Hale vehicle then left the scene.

Texas weather

By The Associated Press
Scattered showers and a few thunderstorms were forecast for most of Texas today.
Highs were to range from the 80s in the Panhandle upward to around and slightly above 100 in Central Texas. Most areas were to have highs in the 90s.
Widely scattered showers and a few thunderstorms were reported during the night in Northwest Texas and along middle and upper sections of the Texas coast. A few showers also dotted North Texas, including the Dallas area, during the night.
Most rainfall amounts were light with Amarillo's .06 of an inch being the most reported by early today.
Heavy thunderstorms were reported over East Texas Wednesday. The heaviest rain was reported at Bonham, in North Central Texas, where 1.20 inches fell. Another heavy thunderstorm was reported near Longview.
Mount Pleasant in Northeast Texas suffered about $100,000 damage when a thunderstorm with high winds and lightning whipped through town at mid-afternoon Monday, authorities said. Power was knocked out in some parts of town and in rural areas for up to six hours, authorities said. High winds demolished a circus tent set up for the Titus County fair, causing cancellation of the livestock show.
Lightning touched off five grass fires in 40 minutes and one inch of rain fell in a half hour. The temperature plummeted from 92 to 81.
Dallas was the state's hot spot Wednesday with 103.
Patchy fog was reported based today in Southeast Texas with visibility reduced to 1-3 miles, mainly around Houston and Lufkin.
Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 60s and 70s. Extremes ranged from 59 at Amarillo to 80 at Galveston.

Amarillo native designs Texas style board game

WASHINGTON (AP) - You show up at the Texas-Oklahoma football game while running for office in Texas and win 500 votes on election day.
Or, you're caught inside the Chicken Ranch and lose 20,000 votes from Texans who used to think you were respectable. You also lose $1,000 in pocket change and your pants.
That's just part of your run-of-the-mill day on the Texas campaign trail, as Carol Crain sees it in her new board game based on the foibles of the state's political history.
"I just started thinking about all the funny things that happened," Mrs. Crain said about her game, called Texas Politics. "It's all a take-off."
So you can lose a turn in the Sharpstown jail or get lost in the Big Thicket on the way to the statehouse.
The object of the game is to accumulate enough votes and campaign donations to win whatever state office you desire.
Mrs. Crain said she came up with the idea four years ago after her son was born, but then left the mock-up she drew on butcher paper sitting in a closet until last year.
Then she met an artist to design the board and took it from there.
The Amarillo native, who has public relations experience, said plans call for Texas Politics to be in stores this fall in time for the Christmas gift season.

Mrs. Crain said she based the game on her own experience as a campaign worker in Texas, plus observations of the state Legislature when her husband, Claiborn, worked there.
She moved to Washington in 1977 when her husband took a job with Rep. Jack Hightower, a Democrat from Vernon.
Mrs. Crain said she has learned the pitfalls of running a business from home, such as having her pre-schooler howl for cookies and milk while one of Texas' better-known retailers was on the line.
The whole project was run as her own small business, from arranging the printing of the "yes" and "no" cards to finding a marketing representative at the Dallas trade center.
"My family has always been in the retail business, so it wasn't totally obscure to me," she said.
With interest in Texas running high nationally as a result of "Dallas" and other television shows, Mrs. Crain said she hopes there might be a market outside the country for Texas Politics.
She said a newspaper would be added to explain the in-jokes if the game is sold outside of Texas.
Another possibility for expanding the business would be developing editions for other states.
"I'd like to do Louisiana and I might like to do Oklahoma, but you might not have as much business in other states - because everybody's interested in Texas," Mrs. Crain said.

Inmate doctor instrumental in preparation for concert

TYLER, Texas (AP) - An "inmate" doctor involved in a flap over a Willie Nelson concert once illegally dispensed drug prescriptions to Nelson and his celebrity friends, records show.
John Marcus Young, 41, an Athens radiologist, provided a wide variety of prescription pills to Nelson, his wife and several other country and western singers.
The popular physician quietly pleaded guilty to unlawful possession and dispensing "narcotic controlled substances" and was sentenced last January to three years in federal prison.
Sent to a minimum security facility in Big Spring, Young has become embroiled in a controversy swirling around a Nelson benefit scheduled there Sunday night.
Among the recipients of Young's prescriptions were country and western singers Wayne Jennings, Johnny Rodriguez and Sammi Smith, rock singer Steve Fromholz and Playboy Playmate Kelli Murphy.
A substantial portion of Young's medical records, including the reports of investigating officers, were obtained by The Associated Press and the Longview Morning Journal.
The semi-secret documents indicated also that Priscilla Davis, former wife of millionaire Fort Worth industrialist Cullen Davis, obtained 3,200 Percodan pills over a four-month period in 1978.
The prescribed dosage for Percodan, a narcotic painkiller, is one every six hours.
Sources within the U.S. Attorney's office here confirmed the validity of the documents but refused a newsman's request to examine the federal files.
To do so, the source said, could trigger the wrath of U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice, the tough, highly respected "Law East of the Trinity."
Last January, in an emotional appeal to escape prison, Young told Justice:
"I realize I've erred. I'm sorry I did it. I just ask forgiveness. It was not done maliciously or for personal gain."

Said Justice: "Your friends believe in you. I'm not certain that some of the people who had written me would have done so if they had known all that was in this report."
Justice did not order the records sealed but federal, state and local officials said he preferred that they remain secret.
The judge denied Young's appeal for leniency.
"Prisons can't be reserved for the poor, the uneducated or persons without standing in the community," he said. "In instances where it is merited, the rich, powerful, professional and others in positions of prestige must also withstand imprisonment."
Justice sent the once-bearded doctor to the federal minimum security camp in West Texas, where he played a key role in luring Nelson to Big Spring for Sunday night's concert before being pulled from the job Wednesday.
Prison officials denied the move by Superintendent John Allman was a result of the report, but a Jaycees spokesman said it was.
"They snatched him out of here today," said J.D. Gregory. "None of us had any knowledge of this deal with Nelson. We knew he knew him."
Jerry Edwards, assistant superintendent of the prison, said Young was removed from the job for "administrative reasons" and that the concert work was "pretty much over."
The performance, ticketed for the high school football stadium, has much of the local citizenry up in arms.
Allman confirmed earlier that Young contacted Nelson about the benefit and was probably responsible for his acceptance.
"But Mr. Young is not running the show," he insisted. "He is not making any money out of it. He is merely advising civilian Junior Chamber of Commerce members of things that need to be done."
He also insisted there is nothing irregular about Young working outside the prison.
"Permitting inmates to go into the community and work on such benefits is a good thing," he said.

Father wins cash settlement, Moonie daughter still negative

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) - A father who fought for five years to see his daughter - only to see her speak against him in court - has been awarded $30,000 after contending the Unification Church violated his rights as a parent in recruiting her.
A church official called the award unprecedented, but Don Kieffer said he would "give up everything" to get his daughter Jana back.
Kieffer had asked $1 million in damages, contending the church "deprived him of his natural parental right" by recruiting his daughter when she was a minor. He also contended the church "continued to exercise its mind control techniques" over Jana after recruiting her.
David Hager, legal director of the church - whose members are sometimes called Moonies - said the church had never before lost a suit over its recruitment or retention of members, "none that relate in any way to this type of issue."
Hager said he believed the U.S. District Court jury found the church responsible for violating the father's rights as a parent, not with controlling the young woman's mind. "If they found mind control, they would have socked us for a million bucks," Hager said.
The five-woman, two-man jury deliberated for five hours on Tuesday and Wednesday before deciding the suit after 15 days of testimony.
Hager, reached at the church's legal office in New York, called the decision "a token victory" for Kieffer. But he said the case would be appealed because it involved the issue of "religious liberty."
Kieffer said the award was a victory. But the father, who saw Jana for the first time in five years when she testified against him at the trial, said he would not be satisfied until she returned home.
"I feel good about the decision, but I still feel badly that Jana is not back with her family," Kieffer said. "I would give up everything to have her back."
Jana, now 21, was introduced by her mother to the church, which is led by the Rev. Sun Myung Moon, a Korean industrialist and evangelist. Her mother and Kieffer - who adopted Jana, a child of his wife's first marriage - are divorced.
Lawyers for the church argued church officials did not know that Jana was in the custody of her father, rather than her mother, when Jana joined her mother at the church's Barrytown, N.Y., center, in 1975.
Hager said the jury "felt that someone in the church knew, or should have known."
Kieffer said he filed the suit in 1977 to force the church to produce his daughter in court. He called that experience "devastating."
Kieffer said Jana refused to meet him in the past, and he hopes the meeting in court would help renew family ties. He said Jana's brother, sisters, grandmothers, aunts, uncles and cousins had attended the court hearings, but he conceded the family's hopes may be in vain.

The East African nations are traditional rivals in the strategic Horn of Africa. They fought a bloody war two years ago for control of the Ogaden Desert, with Somalia seeking to annex the semi-arid wilderness from Ethiopia because its population is primarily ethnic Somalis.
Somali rebels, natives of the Ogaden, backed by Somali troops and arms, made impressive gains through two years of fighting. But Ethiopia emerged the victor in 1978 with the aid of Cuban and Soviet military advisers and a massive airlift of sophisticated Soviet weapons to Ethiopia. State Department sources estimated the cost of the airlift at $1 billion.
The desert feud has continued to simmer since the war, with guerrillas of the government-backed Somali Liberation Front staging hit-and-run attacks on Ethiopian positions. Ethiopia has accused Somali of continuing to infiltrate regular army troops into the region.

Somali drives back invaders

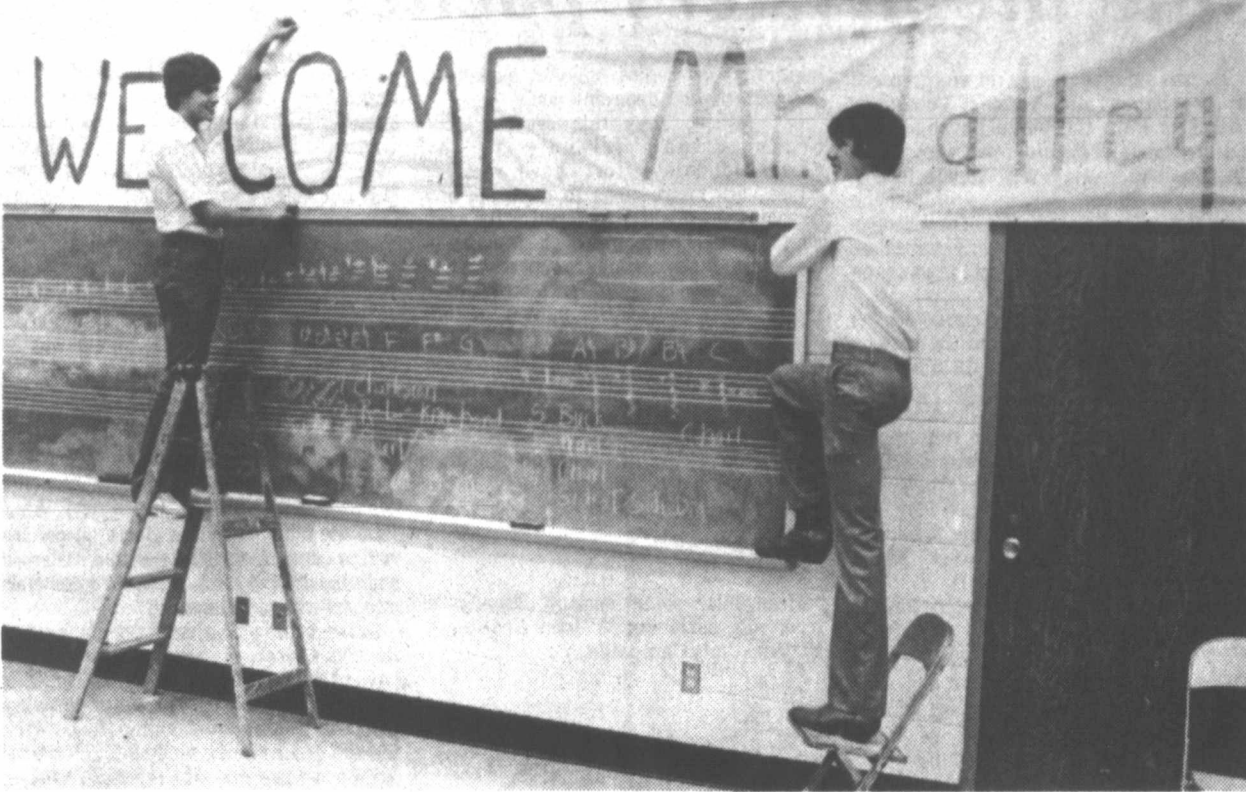

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) - Somali forces have driven Ethiopian invaders back across the border after a day of heavy fighting along a 27-mile stretch of Somalia's northwestern frontier, foreign diplomats said today quoting reports on Somali government radio.
The diplomats, contacted by telephone in the Somali capital of Mogadishu, quoted the radio as saying the Wednesday invasion had been thwarted.
There has been no independent confirmation of the Somali invasion claim or of the reported victory.
"The Somali government said that Ethiopian forces had attacked across the border and were driven back," said a Western diplomat, who requested anonymity. "We really don't know anything else and don't have enough information at this point to speculate on what is happening."
Somalia said the Ethiopians suffered heavy casualties in the fighting but it gave no figures, and issued no statements on Somali casualties.
The diplomats quoted the radio as saying fleeing Ethiopian troops abandoned massive quantities of equipment during their retreat.
Ethiopia has not commented on Somalia's claim that an Ethiopian invasion force of infantry and warplanes struck along the frontier, with the planes reportedly bombing at least five Somali frontier towns.

Prosecutors still want student newspaper photos

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Prosecutors headed back to a county courtroom today for another shot at getting their hands on a student newspaper's photographs of a campus speech that ended with the arrest of 24 Middle Eastern students.
County Court-at-Law Judge Jon Wisser on Wednesday threw out Assistant County Attorney Jeff Blackwelder's subpoena for unpublished photos from the Daily Texan. Blackwelder wants the photos to help in identifying some of the 16 students being tried on misdemeanor charges of disrupting former Iranian U.N. Ambassador Fereydoon Hoveyda's speech at the University of Texas on Jan. 31.
Wisser said the subpoena was too broad, but said a more specific subpoena probably would stand up in court. Blackwelder was ready, and immediately had revised subpoenas served in the courtroom on Texan Editor Mark McKinnon and his lawyer Jim George.
Sixteen of the students have been on trial on the misdemeanor charges since Monday.

Dallas city council seeks TIA flight ban

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas City Council plans to appeal any Civil Aeronautics Board decision permitting Texas International Airlines to serve Dallas Love Field.

The panel told City Attorney Lee Holt Wednesday to seek a stay in Washington federal court if the CAB gives its approval today to TIA's request to begin operations at Love Field Tuesday.

On Aug. 13, the council permitted the city to join the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport Board in protesting TIA's application before the CAB.

The airline plans to begin with flights to Houston, but officials have indicated they plan to go to other states as well.

The flights have been protested as detrimental to surrounding neighborhoods, as a possible violation of a federal law regulating Love Field and as a possible violation of TIA's agreement with other carriers to move its operations to the regional airport.

City Council member Joe Haggard, whose district includes Love Field, said a committee will develop a master plan to hold down noise at the airport.

Danny Bruce, Dallas director of aviation, said the goal will be to "make some differences immediately" in the amount of airplane noise at Love Field.

"We will try to do whatever we can voluntarily, so there can be an immediate effect," he said. "The (airport) tenants have indicated they are willing to help."

Council member Sid Stahl said it was imperative that the council act before TIA begins operations.

"Once they get in there and once they start flying, it'll be much more difficult to get them out," he said.

TIA senior vice president James O'Donnell said in Houston his airline would respect any restrictions at Love Field "as long as they're applied fairly."

"A unilateral suit against TIA only, ignoring other carriers at Love Field, seems not only unfair to Dallas area travelers, it's also unreasonable," he said.

DAVID LETTERMAN

NEW YORK (AP) — While actress Ann-Margret may blush over a nude photograph of her in High Society Celebrity Skin magazine, she didn't have such qualms when she appeared in the movie from which the picture was taken, a federal judge has said.

In dismissing the star's suit against the publication, U.S. District Judge Gerard L. Goettel said Wednesday the popular entertainer was a public figure, "a woman who has occupied the fantasies of many moviegoers over the years (and) chose to perform unclad in one of her films."

Thus, Goettel said, she could not sue the magazine for printing a picture of her naked from the waist up. The reproduction of the still photograph, taken from the 1978 movie "Magic," did not constitute an invasion of privacy, he said.

The judge called Ann-Margret "a woman of beauty, talent and courage." "It would appear, from her reaction to her inclusion in the...magazine, that she is also a woman of taste," the judge said, calling the magazine "lucky."

Late Shah's Son Leaves College
WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass. (AP) — Reza Pahlavi, son of the late shah of Iran, is giving up his academic career in Massachusetts to stay with relatives, according to officials of Williams College.

Pahlavi, 19, notified the school of his decision Wednesday, said officials at the four-year school.

Pahlavi's father, Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, fell from power in Iran in February 1979 and died in exile in Egypt in July.

India Issues Mother Teresa Stamp

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — Although nuns in her religious order shunned any celebration, the Indian government has observed Mother Teresa's 70th birthday by issuing a commemorative postage stamp in honor of Calcutta's "saint of the gutters."

The government postal department on Wednesday issued the stamp, bearing the likeness of the Yugoslav-born winner of the 1979 Nobel Peace Prize. Postal authorities also gave Mother Teresa a check for $280.

Letterman Show Catches Fire

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC-TV's "The David Letterman Show," struggling with viewer ratings since it first appeared last June, finally caught on fire in a recent telecast.

The show heated up — literally — at the end of Wednesday's live broadcast at Rockefeller Center when confetti tossed by guests celebrating the 30th wedding anniversary of Sam and Betty Cottenoff ignited on the stage.

A surprised Letterman ran about the stage, attempting to put the fire with his feet before a stage hand came to his assistance with a fire extinguisher. No injuries were reported and NBC officials said there was no damage to the stage.

Former Dallas Cowboy charged

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal grand jury has indicted three men — one of them an former Dallas Cowboys football player — in connection with an alleged scheme to sell $8 million in non-existent student loans.

Billy H. Howton, 49, president of the now-defunct First Financial Group of Texas Inc., Vining T. Reynolds Jr., 38, the firm's vice president and salesman Larry T. Lee were charged Wednesday with mail fraud, wire fraud and inducing interstate travel for fraudulent purposes.

Howton was a wide receiver with the Cowboys during the early 1960s.

The three men were charged in the 27-count indictment with selling bogus government-guaranteed loans to various financial institutions and promising to repurchase the loans at a later date.

Securities and Exchange Commission attorneys said

Wednesday the practice of selling loans is not unusual because it allows brokerage firms to increase profits by lending cash instead of investing directly in loans.

The SEC obtained a default judgment against Howton and Reynolds on March 10 in a suit to requested First Financial Group be placed in receivership and its assets frozen.

U.S. District Judge Ross N. Sterling also cited Howton and Reynolds for contempt during the March hearing and sentenced them to 10 days in jail because they failed to appear and give depositions on the SEC suit.

None of the three men charged Wednesday could be reached for comment.

The indictment alleges Lee received $200,000 for locating potential "victims" for First Financial.

The grand jury said the defendants would give false locations for the loans to prospective customers, then avoid repurchasing the bogus loans.

The indictment also charged that Lee lied to a federal panel May 12 when he told them he was not in Houston when the body of Robert Kahn, scheduled to testify about the alleged fraud, was found after Kahn had been shot in the chest.

Damage control late in Billy-Libyan affair

When faced with a potential scandal, the wise politician gets it out in the open as quickly as possible and thus tries to put the embarrassment behind him. But it appears late in the game for President Carter to follow that strategy of damage control in the Billy Carter-Libyan affair.

A special Senate committee is beginning an investigation of Billy's dealings with the Libyan government and how they touched the White House.

The committee's final report is due Oct. 4, only a month before the fall election. From the president's standpoint, the timing hardly could be worse. This seems to assure that the Billy Carter brushfire will continue to smoke and smolder throughout the coming campaign.

The smoke is thick enough already for Democratic and Republican leaders in the Senate to agree with remarkable unanimity on the format for a bipartisan investigation. While the nine-member committee is something less imposing than what the Senate organized to go after Watergate seven summers ago, for the president's sake and for the country's sake it is to be hoped that Billygate, or call it what you will, is an iceberg less threatening to the ship of state.

Billy Carter's deplorable judgment in getting involved with Libyans has been a burden for the president for more than a year. Jimmy Carter is not the first president faced with keeping a rein on an imprudent member of his family. What is coming into question now, however, is the judgment of the president himself and members of his official family in responding to an apparent attempt by the Libyan government to use Billy Carter as an agent with connections in the White House, and to reward him handsomely for his service.

Exactly what Moammar Khadafy and his oil-rich Libyan government wanted from its Carter connection, and what it got, is yet to be revealed. Why was the Justice Department so tardy in requiring Billy Carter to register as a foreign agent? Where does the president's brother fit into a series of White House meetings that brought the Libyan charge d'affaires together with national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski and, on one occasion, the president?

The White House contention that President Carter was interested in Libya's help in getting Iran to release the American hostages only adds to the mystery. Khadafy is fiercely anti-American, and a dedicated enemy of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, one of the best friends Carter has in the Middle East. Why court the Libyan dictator, of all people?

President Carter and his aides have had every reason to keep their distance from Libyan emissaries in the United States and from anything the president's brother was doing on behalf of a government hostile to our Middle East policy, whether it involved oil or a suspended shipment of military aircraft that Khadafy wants. What the public needs to know is whether they did indeed keep their distance.

President Carter's Monday press conference notwithstanding, the Billygate affair is far from concluded.

Government is not economy's nursemaid

"While the rest of the economy is suffering from a recession," says Sen. John Glenn, "Ohio's steel, auto and related industries are mired in a full-blown depression."

What's to be done about it? Like most politicians, Glenn sees "the government" as the savior that must come to the rescue.

"The federal government," says the Ohio Democrat, "must do what it can to restore growth to this vital American industry."

Have American industries, even the most vital ones, responded quickly and effectively to the challenges from their foreign competitors? Has steel modernized its blast furnaces? When the price of oil and therefore gasoline went steeply up, did General Motors, Ford and Chrysler promptly jettison their gas guzzlers? They did not. Heavy cars still are rolling off production lines. As a result, Honda and Toyota made inroads on the market.

Now, both owners and workers in the steel industry beg the government to rescue them from "dumping" — that is, underselling — by foreign steel mills. And in the auto industry, too, spokesmen for both management and workers urge Washington to do something about the competition from abroad. Only "government," we are told, can save two of this industrial nation's leading industries.

These industries, and many others, already are suffering from too much government salvation. If regulation does not hopelessly entangle them, paternalistic aid will stifle their initiative. What they need above all else is to be set free to paddle their own canoes.

Enterprise is not dead in America. It is just temporarily drugged. It suffers from nothing that self-reliance will not cure.

Senators and congressmen naturally want to help industries of their own constituencies. And their way of helping is political.

It would help far more if they would stay out of the economic bailiwick and say to those who beg for aid, "Our position is simply to keep order here. You business people must work out your problems in your own workshop, which is the marketplace."

By Robert J. Wagman
WASHINGTON (NEA) — The 15-page document has been arriving on the desks of reporters all over town in recent weeks. It comes in a plain brown envelope with no return address. Postage is paid by stamp rather than postal machine. There is no signature or anything else to indicate its author or origin.

This mystery packet purports to give the low-down on "The Real John Anderson." It summarizes the independent presidential hopeful's House voting record on issues like the B-1 bomber, gun control, the Kemp-Roth tax cut and funding for the Vietnam War. It depicts Anderson as anti-labor, anti-consumer and pro-nuclear power.

The document also contains quotes by and about Anderson as well as reprints of newspaper stories and a bulletin from COPE (the AFL-CIO's political arm) that portray Anderson as much more conservative than his current politics might indicate.

Inside the mystery packet

It turns out that the packet was prepared by the Democratic National Committee with help from the White House and the Carter-Mondale Presidential Committee. Its distribution may well violate federal campaign laws, which prohibit the preparation and distribution of any election material for or against any candidate without clear identification of the source on the material itself.

DNC spokesman Robert Neuman admits that the committee prepared the packets but denies that it distributed them. He says the material was intended "not for public release" but as "an internal document" to be used in briefing campaign staffers and others friendly to President Carter's re-election. Neuman blames the document's wide circulation on over-zealous supporters of the president. "We have no control over Xerox machines," he explains.

However, a source in the Carter-Mondale campaign admits that the president's government appointees have been given hundreds of copies of the packet to distribute in their departments.

In addition, says this source, labor organizations friendly to the Carter-Mondale effort have received copies with instructions to duplicate and distribute them where they will do the most good. It is likely that one of these unions is the source of the mailings to reporters.

Neuman says the DNC has instructed all those who received the packets not to distribute them. He adds that an "edited version with identification as to source" is being prepared and will be available to the public.

But to many observers, "The Real John Anderson" is only the first salvo in what will undoubtedly be an increasingly vicious campaign.

Meanwhile, some serious disunity is reportedly surfacing in John Anderson's National Unity Campaign.

Rather than assembling his own campaign staff for his independent presidential bid, Anderson turned to David Garth, the New York-based political media whiz. Garth and his staff of about 40 are not only in charge of campaign media but are also running the entire effort down to the most minor decisions.

Those who have worked for Anderson since the early Republican primaries — including some veterans of his House staff — view the Garth professionals as having little or no allegiance to Anderson personally or to the principles they believe he stands for. Instead, they see them as hired guns who are approaching the effort as almost an academic exercise in whether an independent can wage a national political campaign.

On the other side, the Garth people are said to be treating the long-time Anderson staffers with the disdain that professionals often show for amateurs.

So far, these pressures have not reached the upper levels of the campaign. Neither have they hurt the overall effort, which is currently moving at a rather leisurely pace. But the growing animosity between the two groups could well spell trouble for Anderson when the race reaches its hectic stage this fall. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

The 'in' place to be

by ART BUCHWALD

MARTHA'S VINEYARD, Mass. — There are certain people who, when they go on vacation, are never sure they're at the right place. It isn't a question of the facilities as much as whether it's the acceptable resort of the moment.

The "in" island at the present is Martha's Vineyard. Those of us who have been coming here over the years never planned it that way. As a matter of fact, many people fell in love with the island because it wasn't "in." We sailed, fished, clammed, and tended our lobster pots oblivious to the goings-on in such Gucci-ridden places as Southampton, East Hampton, Newport, Bar Harbor, and Malibu.

How did this all change? It dates back three years ago when a violent storm blew up off Cape Cod. A ship was sunk and one of the passengers, a reporter from Women's Wear Daily, was thrown up on the beach of Edgartown wet, bedraggled and exhausted.

She was washed up on a private beach and at first the owner wanted to call the police and have her arrested. But when he saw her condition he carried her up to the house where he decided to nurse her back to health before he pressed charges.

In a few days the WWD reporter was fit and her only problem was that she faced a deadline and had to phone a story into her paper by six o'clock.

Desperate for anything, she decided to write a piece about Martha's Vineyard, declaring that it was the new resort for the nouveau riche people.

The following week the beautiful people all over America were in a panic. No one had heard of the Vineyard or the people who spent their summers there, such as Walter Cronkite, Beverly Sills, Katherine Graham, Carly Simon, Lillian Helman, James Reston, Mike Wallace, Bill Styrone, Gerson Kanin and Ruth Gordon. But since the reporter put their names in the story, everyone assumed they were important.

WWD, who can make or ruin a person's summer vacation, declared that the Hamptons were finished and Newport was ready for urban development.

Then John Belushi, of "Saturday Night Live" and "Animal House," and the person whom the beautiful people look to, to set trends, purchased Robert McNamara's house. When Jackie Onassis heard Belushi had bought a place, she had no choice but to buy one of her own, to be near him.

In no time at all Martha's Vineyard became a household name and the "only" place to be in the summer. The National Enquirer, Town and Country, Harper's Bazaar, Vogue and People magazine all sent reporters to the island to keep the legend alive. It would be only a matter of time before the paperback publishers would discover the place.

They did this summer when Stan Hart, a local resident, wrote a book for Dell titled "The Martha's Vineyard Affair."
The copy on the cover displaying a nude man and woman clinched our reputation for us. It read "Scotch got them through the day ... sex got them through the night ... and money got them through every jam until ... 'The Martha's Vineyard Affair' ... An island paradise where anything can happen — even murder."

I am happy to report that, in spite of all the attention, those of us who have been coming here before Women's Wear Daily are the same simple people we always were. Of course, there is a lot more drinking and promiscuity, but we only do it when the tourists are in town.

We'd much rather go back to clammering and sailing than drinking and fooling around, but we have to think about real estate values first.

Marriage loses a round

By Don Graff

Angela and Peter Boyter had a great thing going there for a while, but now they've been presented with the bill: $3,135.34.

The Boyters are a Maryland couple with an off-and-on marriage who have been in and out of the news of late. Their problem is not the usual irreconcilable differences but federal tax law that nicks two-income married taxpayers more painfully than singles with the identical incomes but filing separately.

The law also considers taxpayers unmarried for the entire year if that is their status at the close of the tax year. Their reading of the fine print gave the Boyters the idea that divorce in December and remarriage in January would stifle the letter of the law and entitle them to file separate returns.

To nobody's surprise, including the Boyters', it was an idea that did not appeal to the IRS, which took them to tax court. The court, again to no surprise, has now decided in favor of the IRS, holding the Boyters 1975 and 1976 separations invalid for tax purposes because they "never intended to and never did physically separate from each other prior to or subsequent to either of the divorces."

The bottom line: Peter has been ordered to cough up $1,801.36 and Angela $1,333.98 in delinquent taxes.

This is, however, only one more development in the Boyters' challenge to the "marriage tax." Far from its conclusion, they are appealing. And since the decision dealt only with their first two divorces, that still leaves open their tax status following the last separation, in December, 1977, after which they did not remarry although they have continued to cohabit.

"What this is doing," says Angela Boyter, "is pointing out to Congress the current tax law gives people no option but to live together without getting married."

And that, considering the prominence that family and morality are assuming in the current campaign, is a point many congressmen may well find politically uncomfortable.

The Boyter decision, whatever the final outcome of the couple's personal legal tussle with the IRS, is likely to speed congressional action on revision of the existing provisions affecting returns of working married taxpayers. These, in turn, originated in 1969 tax reforms designed to correct then-existing inequities in the treatment of single taxpayers.

The Boyters and an estimated 19 million other two-income households — six out of every 10 marriages — can take some hope that they are soon to be delivered from the marriage tax. And it may even come to pass that this is accomplished without shifting the inequity to yet another taxpayer category.

On the other hand, in the light of experience to date with tax reforms designed to reform reforms...

The truth about television

Well, now we know why television continues to be unchallenging and uninviting despite continuing criticism that it is unchallenging and uninviting. Most viewers like it that way.

We have this from a University of Chicago behavioral scientist who surveyed the viewing habits of 104 Chicagoans, among whom television was the leading consumer of leisure time.

The study made several interesting points, such as that eating snacks while viewing generally increased "sociality, alertness and concentration." But the real meat was the discovery that for most adults viewing was a matter of "wanting to do" and they like what they see.

"Television," in its present form, may frequently be chosen for the very reason that it is unchallenging, relaxing and relatively uninviting," was the conclusion. "Much of its content will go unchanged because there will be continued demand for such experience."

The study was conducted by Prof. Mihaly Csikszentmihalyi, chairman of the Committee on Human Development in the Department of Behavioral Sciences and author of "Beyond Boredom and Anxiety." It figures. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Bentsen supporting Mennonite immigrants

By SOLL SUSSMAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen says he hopes final approval is approaching for his bill allowing a group of Mennonite immigrants to remain in Seminole, Texas.

The bill sponsored by the Texas Democrat cleared the House Judiciary Committee on Wednesday. The last steps remaining are approval by the full House and by the president.

"I am very hopeful that, with today's favorable action by the House Judiciary Committee, we can see the bill signed into law within the next few weeks," Bentsen said after the committee voted.

The bill grants permanent resident status to 653 members of the Spartan-like religious community.

The Mennonites faced deportation after they paid $2.6 million for 6,400 acres in arid West Texas only to learn that their purchase did not make them eligible for permanent residency.

The Immigration and Naturalization Service suspended deportation proceedings for the Mennonites, who came to the U.S. from Mexico, pending congressional action.

The Mennonites' land near Seminole was repossessed last year after the group ran into financial difficulties, but many of them have remained in the area.

Bob Clark, former mayor of the small town 70 southwest of Lubbock, said the Mennonites who remained in Gaines County were working to save money to buy land for a fresh start.

Bentsen's bill did not clear a House judiciary subcommittee after gaining Senate approval in the last session of Congress. The measure was re-introduced to start over again this term and has fared better, in May clearing the subcommittee that posed the roadblock last time.

"This legislation would have absolutely no value as a precedent for anyone other than this group of unfortunate immigrants, because only these people have made such extraordinary efforts to comply with American law," Bentsen said in a statement. "The unique situation they face applies to no others."

Charges dropped in death of baby girl

PALESTINE (AP) — A newborn girl died because of "ignorance and poverty," says a prosecutor who added that he has decided to drop charges against the child's parents.

The baby's father was charged with murder and the mother with injury to a child after a one and a half pound newborn was found in a jar containing a water-alcohol solution last week, officials said.

Guadalupe Lopez and his wife Marie, were arrested Aug. 21 at a Waco hospital after the dead child was found in a jar in the closet at the couple's rented home, police said.

District Attorney Melvin Whitaker said a Lufkin pathologist's autopsy report "does not bear out that the pair had any guilt in the death of the child."

"It boils down to just a case of ignorance and poverty," the report, from Dr. Jack Pruitt, stated the primary cause of death was premature birth.

"There is some possibility it might have lived if ... born in a hospital with immediate oxygen and resuscitation available. Although, at this age there is probably a better chance it would not have survived," Dr. Pruitt said in his report.

Lopez refused to take his wife to a Palestine hospital Aug. 19, after she complained of labor pains, because he said he owed the hospital money, police said.

The child will probably be buried at county expense, Whitaker said.

Former president convicted

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A jury of six men and six women has convicted Guadalupe Vela, the former board chairman of the Edgewood School District, on a charge of official misconduct on grounds he used school supplies during his 1978 re-election campaign.

District Judge Al Klein set the punishment phase of the trial for Sept. 3 after the jury returned the verdict Wednesday.

Vela could be sentenced to 2 to 10 years in prison and/or a $5,000 fine.

Prosecutors told the jury in their closing arguments that Vela conducted a political rally, using school supplies, as the "keystone to his re-election campaign to be King Vela another six years" in the school district, regarded as one of the poorest in the state.

Assistant District Attorney John Quinlan argued that Vela's defeat in 1978 touched off the investigation that led to Vela's indictment by a grand jury.

Drought rakes farm counties

By The Associated Press

Farmers and ranchers in 174 Texas counties can apply for federal disaster loan programs because of losses from the drought, floods and Hurricane Allen.

All but 80 of the state's 254 counties were declared eligible for federal disaster loans and many remaining counties are being processed for the programs, said Pat Sultenfuss, acting state director of the Farmers Home Administration in Temple.

Drought aid was approved for 140 counties, nine counties will receive assistance for hurricane damage and 25 — mostly in Central Texas — were approved for flood damage, Sultenfuss said Wednesday.

"Basically this is a program to help farmers and ranchers overcome losses they've had because of natural disasters," he said.

A farmer or rancher wanting to apply for a loan should contact the FHA office in the county he lives or where most of his land is located Sultenfuss said.

Those unable to get credit from other sources will be eligible for loans up to $50,000 at 5 percent interest and up to $1.5 million at 13 1/2 percent interest, depending on the amount of loss.

Counties approved for hurricane damage loans cannot be processed until copies of the regulations initiated July 2 reach the FHA offices, although farmers and ranchers in those counties may apply at any time, Sultenfuss said.

Some farmers reporting losses from the drought have been forced to wait for eligibility declarations until their crops are harvested, he added.

Corn, milo and cotton were crops most affected by the drought, especially in southwest Texas "where they haven't had any rain to speak of since last July or August."

Sultenfuss called the drought, the most "widespread and damaging" to Texas crops in years, adding that livestock in drought-ridden counties has suffered as well.

AT WIT'S END

By Erma Bombeck

In the wake of the popularity of the TV series "Dallas" comes a new one this fall called "Texas." I watched the teaser for it the other night as it warned, "There's only one state big enough to hold all this passion! Texas!" I don't like to make trouble among the states, but how do you think that makes the other 49 feel? Like a bride with a cold sore, that's how.

Frankly, I think it's a big mistake to single out the state as the Passion Capital of the world. Look what's happened to Dallas already...busloads of tourists converging on the city winking and tipping bellhops to send them a Ewing for a little action.

Or, if you're going to regionalize sin, let everyone have a shot at it. I was discussing this recently with a local TV programmer just to get a handle on his reaction.

"Assuming you're right," he said, "what state do you have in mind?"

"Look at history," I said. "Peyton Place already put New England on the map. Knots Landing has done for cul-de-sacs in the California suburbs what Mondays have done for dieters. Dallas bedrooms have made the country forget there's oil in the ground. Now it's the Midwest's turn. How about a sexy series called "CLEVELAND!"

My friend looked stunned for a moment.

"What's the matter with Cleveland?" I asked.

"Nothing, but it's so industrial. Besides, whenever I think of Cleveland, the only thing that comes to mind is William Howard Taft."

"That's because you don't know Cleveland," I said. "It's crawling with lust and passion."

"Do they have anything like the Dallas Cowgirls?"

"No, but the Cuyahoga River catches fire in the summer."

"Does Ohio have a Broadway play about it called, 'The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas'?"

"Maybe not, but Kenley is playing 'Sound of Music' in Warren, Ohio."

"Have there been any sexy novels about Ohio like Edna Ferber did with Texas in 'Giant'?"

"It wasn't exactly a saga, but I wrote, 'The Grass is Always Greener over the Septic Tank' about an Ohio suburb."

"And where are the sex symbols associated with Ohio—like say, Dan Rather, Texas?"

I played my ace. "Paul Newman is from Cleveland."

Watch for it, folks, soon in your TV listing... "CLEVELAND! the only city with enough industrial experience to produce enough sex to keep up with the demand."

'Nightwalker' dull rather than scary

THE NIGHTWALKER. By Thomas Tessier. Atheneum. 183 Pages. $9.95.

For many years the classic theme of man turned wolf had a prominent place, first in occult fiction and then in the movies. Its fans were legion. But today the monster rarely appears except in comic satires. People don't seem to scare as easily as they once did.

Now Thomas Tessier brings out the story of a young Vietnam veteran living in London on a disability pension who suddenly finds that he is turning into a werewolf. The story of the deterioration of this expatriate American is told well enough, but it is doubtful it will win many plaudits except from the most confirmed disciples of monster lore.

Ives embarks on his career of infamy by pushing his girl friend in front of a bus and is aghast at what he has done.

But as the curse gets a stronger hold, Ives becomes a night prowler. Werewolves always perform their deeds at night. And as he progresses, Ives' reaction to committing murder turns from remorse to exhilaration.

Soon he is following a pattern. As darkness falls, he roams through London's Hyde Park. Then the transformation occurs. Ives' hands become rock-hard, his fingernails grow into talons and his voice pitches down to a bestial growl.

One night, Ives tears a jogger to shreds. On another, he massacres a woman who happens to be walking by.

The people of London become terrified as they learn of these nocturnal forays and shun Hyde Park. Police, on the other hand, are swarming all over the place.

It's only a matter of time before Ives encounters two patrolling cops and he disposes of them in gruesome fashion.

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a "draft lawyer" from the Vietnam era, revving up for the new Selective Service registration. Based on telephone calls to me and statements I've read, I've become concerned about the young men born in 1960 and 1961 taking rash, ill-advised actions without being apprised of all the facts.

First of all, refusing to register is a federal felony, punishable by a maximum of five years' imprisonment and a $10,000 fine. If any of your readers, their sons or friends are planning on refusing to register, I urge you to suggest first obtaining draft advice and counseling from any of the reputable agencies throughout the country, such as CCO, with offices in Philadelphia and San Francisco.

Fleeing to Canada will not work, because Canada has closed its borders to draft resisters. Also, deferments for college students are no longer authorized.

Although a young man who acts from deeply held principles in, let's say, refusing to register or accept induction is entitled to respect for taking a stand which can result in severe penalties, I think you'll agree he should first be fully aware of the ramifications of his actions and the possible alternatives available to him.

DEAR MR. FOX: Amen.

DEAR ABBY: A woman who has been with the company for over 40 years announced last May that she was retiring in September. She is well over the age of retirement, but has always been in good health and is sharp as a tack. She once said she'd never retire.

Well, all her fellow-employees got together and bought her a beautiful set of matched luggage, which we presented at a farewell dinner.

Now she tells us she's changed her mind and she doesn't want to retire after all. Nobody knows how much longer she intends to continue working. Have you ever heard of anything so nutty? And what should we do about it?

 HER FELLOW-WORKERS

DEAR WORKERS: What's so nutty about a woman changing her mind? When she finally retires, just say "Goodbye."

DEAR ABBY: Our 4-year-old son has been calling my husband and me by our first names ever since he started talking. It has never bothered us, so we've never made an issue of it. The child is polite, respectful and loving.

Our problem is my mother-in-law, who thinks it "sounds" terrible. She says it shows a lack of respect, and we should teach our son to call us Mom and Dad, the way other children address their parents. I repeat, we don't see anything wrong with it, but my mother-in-law keeps harping on it.

What do you think?

SATISFIED MOTHER

DEAR SATISFIED: There is no need to change your way of doing anything you're comfortable with. If your mother-in-law isn't happy with it — that's her problem.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm 28 years of age and am thinking of having a tubal ligation. I've had three children and don't want any more for a long time. What aches and pains will I have after the operation? Will I be more likely to have cancer of the uterus? Will I have decreased hormone levels? If so, will I have hot flashes and swelling?

DEAR READER - If you have any pain, it will be strictly associated with the incision. It depends a lot on the method but some of the newer methods for tubal ligations are really quite simple.

Now remember when the tube is cut or tied or blocked in any way, that doesn't necessarily affect either the uterus or the ovary. The tube is just that - the tube through which the ovum that's released from your ovary descends to the uterus. So what you're left with is a mechanical blockage problem.

That means that there's no reason that you should have any increased chance of having cancer of the uterus just because you've had a tubal ligation. It means that your ovaries should continue to function normally for you the same way they would have, even if you had not had a tubal ligation.

A tubal ligation should not cause you to have any increased need for hormones, and it certainly wouldn't cause hot flashes and swelling. The latter symptoms are more likely to be associated with ovarian failure. This will occur if the ovaries are removed or the blood supply to the ovaries is damaged in such a way that they don't function properly. Or it occurs normally at the menopause when the ovaries stop functioning.

Many women are confused about the differences between a tubal ligation, having their uterus removed (hysterectomy) and having their ovaries removed. A hysterectomy doesn't mean that the ovaries have been bothered at all. To help sort this out for you, I'm sending you The Health Letter number 14-12, Hysterectomy, Cystocele and Rectocele. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Is hunger a good guide to use to control your weight?

DEAR READER - Unfortunately, hunger is one of the worst guides imaginable for weight control. Whether you're hungry is influenced by a lot of things such as the smell of fresh-baked bread, or the clock if you eat at a regular hour. One of the famous experiments in behavior related to habituating a dog to experience hunger and salivate every time he heard a metronome tick. Much overeating is related to conditioning you to be hungry in response to a lot of different stimuli.

If you've ever tried it, you'll know that if you pass your usual mealtime, usually about an hour later, the acute episode of hunger will disappear.

Altrusa meets

Altrusa Club of Pampa, Inc., met recently in the Coronado Inn, where it had its annual dinner for foreign born, executive and professional women of Pampa.

The dinner was highlighted with a fall fashion show in which Altrusans modeled fashions designed to take women from the office to the dinner hour.

The classic look was the star of the show - carefully tailored blazers coordinated with tweeds or striking plaid shirts, all accented with ruffles and delicate collar ties. Corduroy, suede and rich velours in deep, rich tones were the new textures used in both suits and dresses.

At a previous business meeting Altrusa increased its service budget to include two new service projects - a health clinic for children and expectant mothers and a drug abuse program.

The next meeting will be at 12 noon Sept. 8 in the Coronado Inn.

Astro-Graph

by bernice bede osol

August 29, 1980

Opportunities to learn many new things will be offered you this coming year. Some of the knowledge will have profitable applications, but you must be able to discern which is the most helpful.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The temptation to retort in a sharp manner to anyone who comes on a bit too strong might be more than you can handle today. Try not to lose control. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph, which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In any financial dealings today, make sure you are neither asking too much nor giving more than you should. A good balance serves the interests of all.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You could be a bit too short-tempered for your own good today, especially if you must pace yourself behind one who is slow or does things laboriously.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Trying to catch up with everything you should have been doing all week could find you in a dither today. Better slow up and at least do some things well.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Something someone says or does could be interpreted as a social slight by you today. A harsh reaction on your part could spoil the fun for everyone.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You could be unduly angered today if you think someone is being too pushy or dictatorial. Don't let your feathers get ruffled over anything unimportant.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) The tactless tongue of an acquaintance could cut you to the quick if you take this person's words to heart. Pass it off to immaturity.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) The way someone has handled a matter that cost you money may get you a trifle miffed today. Receipts or guarantees may be your only recourse.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A temperamental companion is in an argumentative mood today and could be looking for something to grumble about. Back off if you see the storm signals.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be realistic about what you can physically handle today. If you take on too much, the strain on your muscles may take a while to heal.

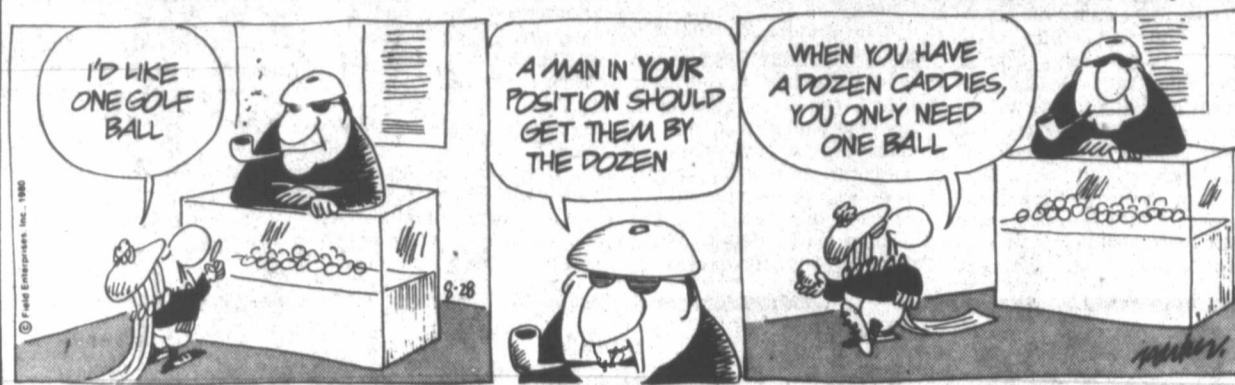

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Most people's bark is worse than their bite. You may encounter such an individual today. Don't overreact to this person's comments.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Bossy methods will meet with balky rebuttals today, so if there is something you want another to do for you, use only sweet words to gain cooperation.

Dave Winfield's other side

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Sports Writer

The lean, long-legged man sitting in front of locker No.31 in the visitors' clubhouse at Shea Stadium was leisurely preparing for another day's work when he was suddenly interrupted by an attendant.

"A man at the front door to see you, Dave," said the attendant. "Excuse me," said Dave Winfield to a couple of writers, raising his 6-foot-6 frame to full height. "I will be right back."

Moments later, he returned, reached in his locker for a brief case from which he extracted a checkbook.

"A little bill we owe for the kids in the pavilion last year," he explained, half under his breath. Then he proceeded to scrawl out a check for $1,255.

Thus was seen just one other side of the 28-year-old rightfielder of the last place San Diego Padres — team captain, inspirational leader, 300-plus hitter, Golden Glove fielder, base stealer, philanthropist and legitimate super star in search of identity.

"Nothing gives me greater pleasure than this," he added, referring to his contributions as chief architect and driving force behind the David M. Winfield Foundation, which spends hundreds of thousands of dollars a year in behalf of underprivileged kids.

When the Padres face the New York Mets tonight, a special section of Shea Stadium will be cordoned off for some 9,000 of these youngsters — guests of Winfield, all admissions paid in advance.

"This is only part of the program," says Winfield, with obvious pride. "We are heavy into nutrition, exercise, family relationships, education and self-care."

"We follow up on most of these kids. If they have medical or family problems, we provide the necessary help."

Winfield's program, which started with the $20,000 Winfield Pavilion in San Diego Stadium, has been spread to a dozen other cities.

The rangy All-Star athlete manages to carry on his humanitarian endeavors, which also includes a yearly college scholarship program, while battling to achieve what he considers his rightful place in the profession which is the source of his foundation's "hope chest."

"I feel I am a winner who has never been able to gain a winner's status," he said. "I led the league in runs-batted-in last year (118). I've been on the All-Star team the last four years."

"But nobody knows who I am. I have been scarred, banged-up, mired in mediocrity. It isn't money that is forcing me to rock my boat at this time. It's the realization that baseball life is short and I have never had the personal satisfaction that comes to a winner. "As someone said, you smell like what you are planted in."

Winfield, who came to the Padres directly from the University of Minnesota campus in 1973, is playing out his four-year $350,000-a-year contract after failing to gain a renewal from owner Ray Kroc, the hamburger king.

The towering flycatcher refuses to air his financial linen but reports are that he is seeking a contract for $10 to $13 million a year covering five to 10 years.

Atlanta continues jinx over world champions

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

You've got to hand it to the Atlanta Braves this season — the Pittsburgh Pirates have.

The defending World Champions have played tough against the rest of the National League, but simply roll over whenever they see Atlanta Blue.

The Braves continued their uncanny domination of the Pirates with a 7-4 decision Wednesday night, beating them for the eighth time in nine starts this year. And Pittsburgh Manager Chuck Tanner is frankly puzzled.

"I don't know why they've done so well, so consistently against us," said Tanner. "They have a team that scores a lot of runs and they have had great pitching in these games.

"We just have to pick ourselves up."

The victory was the Braves' ninth in their last 10 games and put them at .500 for the first time this year with a 63-63 record. They've been trying to get straightened out ever since a 1-9 start this season.

Despite the loss, the Pirates maintained a 1/2-game lead in the NL East over the Montreal Expos, who lost a 1-0 decision to the San Francisco Giants.

In other NL action, Philadelphia beat Los Angeles 4-3; St. Louis walloped Houston 10-2 and San Diego turned back New York 4-1.

Bob Horner drove in five runs with a homer and a double to lead the Atlanta offense. Horner slammed a three-run shot in the fourth off loser Don Robinson, 5-7. He drove in two more runs in the seventh inning with a double.

Rick Matula, 8-12, walked two and struck out four in 7-1/3 innings before needing relief help in the eighth from Larry Bradford and Rick Camp. Al Hrabosky pitched out of a two-out, two-on situation in the ninth to gain his third save.

Giants 1, Expos 0
Darrell Evans singled home a fourth-inning run and Ed Whitson combined with reliever Greg Minton on a two-hitter as San Francisco stopped Montreal in a game delayed almost two hours by rain.

Whitson, 9-9, allowed his only hit when Larry Parrish singled with two out in the fifth. Whitson

Rangers fall to Blue Jays

TORONTO (AP) — The Blue Jays are in last place but to hear some Toronto players talk, the team is in the thick of a baseball pennant race.

The Blue Jays are having their most productive season since joining the American League East Division four years ago and, says third baseman Roy Howell, the best is yet to come.

"You have to take a professional outlook," Howell said Wednesday after a 6-4 win over the Texas Rangers. "You go out there to win every game you play."

Toronto has won 52 games (against 73 defeats) and that's more than they've won in any previous season at this point in the schedule. But the Blue Jays still trail the division-leading New York Yankees by 23 games.

"We've got to play every game as if we're a half-game back of the first-place team," said Howell. "We're looking forward to New York and Baltimore."

Although not a contender themselves, the Blue Jays have an opportunity to play the spoiler. Of the 37 games they had left beginning with today's game against the Minnesota Twins, the Blue Jays play six against New York and seven against Baltimore.

"We're in a pennant race — regardless of where we are in the standings. We're sitting right in the middle of it," Howell said.

"There's a lot of money on the line. Usually, you play an inning at a time but at this stage in the season you play every out. Those teams fighting for the championship will be sending everything they have at us."

In Wednesday's game, Jim Clancy improved his record to 12-10, one victory short of Dave Lemanczyk's team single-season record.

"I'd like to be the first 20-game winner on this team," the 6-foot-4 Clancy said after going 7-3 in six innings and scattering eight hits. "That's my ultimate goal."

Mike Barlow relieved Clancy in the eighth inning and gave up one hit before Jerry Garvin came in to pitch the ninth and earn his eighth save of the season.

Doc Medich, 10-9, pulled from the game in the decisive fourth inning, was the loser. The Blue Jays had a total of 14 hits off Medich and relievers Sparky Lyle and Danny Darwin.

Shortstop Alfredo Griffin's two-run triple was the big blast in a three-run Toronto fourth that decided the game.

The Blue Jays took a 2-0 lead in the second inning on Garh Iorg's run-scoring grounder and Ernie Whit's RBI single.

The Rangers tied it in the third on Bump Willis' two-run homer, but the Blue Jays went ahead to stay in the bottom of the third when Otto Velez walked and scored on a double by John Mayberry.

The Blue Jays made it 6-2 in the fourth when Danny Ainge and Whit singled and Griffin lined a league-high 14th triple. Griffin then scored on a double by Howell.

The Rangers got their final two runs in the fifth on run-producing singles by Al Oliver and Buddy Bell.

Brett held hitless, but Royals win

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Fred Holdsworth, 10th man on the Milwaukee Brewers' 10-man pitching staff, did what his colleagues generally had failed to do.

Holdsworth stopped George Brett.

Well, sort of.

Holdsworth snapped Brett's streak of eight hits in as many official times at bat Wednesday night, but that mattered little to Brett or to the rest of the Kansas City Royals.

Brett's batting average dropped only a point to .406 with his 1-for-3 night, and the Royals as a team remain almost as untouchable. Willie Aikens knocked in two runs with a double and a sacrifice fly as the Royals defeated the Brewers 5-4 to open an 18-game lead over second place Oakland in the American League West.

The Royals have won their last five games and 13 of their last 15. The Brewers plunged to sixth place in the AL East with their fifth defeat in a row and eighth in their last nine games.

Elsewhere in the American League Wednesday, Cleveland beat Minnesota 4-1, Toronto defeated Texas 6-4 and Chicago beat Detroit 3-2 in 14 innings.

Brett singled off loser Paul Mitchell, 4-3 in the third inning as his 8-for-8 streak tied a Royals' record set by Amos Otis in 1970.

In the fifth, Brett slapped a Holdsworth pitch on the ground toward Brewers second baseman Paul Molitor, who threw the ball away for a two-base error. But the streak was over, and Brett fled out to deep left center in the seventh.

"When Brett went 5-for-5 last night, it put me in awe," Holdsworth said. "I figured if I got behind on him it makes him a .600 or .700 hitter, but I changed speeds well and got ahead of him. Heck, I'm just happy to get anybody out."

Brett was plunked in the knee by a soft curve by Mitchell in the first inning. However, Brett said he wasn't upset that it cost him a time at bat and possibly another hit.

The Royals took the lead to stay with a first inning run as Willie Wilson hit a bloop double, took third on a fly ball and scored on Aikens' sacrifice fly.

Gorman Thomas hit a two-run homer, his 31st, off winner Paul Spittorf, 10-9, in the fourth.

Blue Jays 6, Rangers 4
Alfredo Griffin tripled home two runs to highlight a three-run fourth inning that carried Toronto over Texas.

John Mayberry doubled in a run to give the Blue Jays a 3-2 lead in the third and upped it to 6-2 the following inning when Griffin knocked in two runs with his triple and scored on Roy Howell's double.

Bump Willis had a two-run homer for the Rangers.

Indians 4, Twins 1
Alan Bannister knocked in two runs and Len Barker won his 16th game of the season to lead Cleveland over Minnesota.

Barker, 16-8, struck out eight to give him 139 for the year, tops in the American League, in winning his ninth game in 10 decisions since the All-Star game.

Bannister singled in a run in the first inning and added an RBI-double in the seventh.

White Sox 3, Tigers 2
Lamar Johnson drove in three runs with two singles, including the game-winner in the 14th inning, to pace Chicago over Detroit.

It was Chicago's first victory in eight meetings with the Tigers this season and snapped a three-game Detroit winning streak.

Johnson's second hit followed singles by Leo Sutherland and Mike Squires. In the third inning, the White Sox took a 2-0

Top O' Texas Tournament tees off this weekend

After a Friday practice round, the Top O' Texas Golf Tournament will be set to begin for the 43rd time at Pampa Country Club.

Match play begins Saturday in 10 regular flights and stroke play in the first flight and championship flight.

Four survivors in each of the regular flights will meet in final-round stroke action Labor Day. First-flight entries will play 18 holes each day, whose players in the championship flight will play a total of 72 holes, including a 36-hole Labor Day final.

Richard Ellis, Plano, returns to defend the title he won last year with a four-round total of 277. Ellis is a former Pampa native.

Ellis also won the tournament title in 1969.

Former champions expected to return are Ladd Larsen, Tulsa, 1978; Jim Haren, Borger, 1977, and Steve LeCrone, 1966.

Three Pampans have won the title since the tournament started in 1938. They include C.F. McGinnis, 1945; Don Prigmore, 1958, and Les Howard, 1961.

Back-to-back winners have been Rex Baxter, Amarillo, 1953-54; Don Kaplan, Borger, 1955-56, and Lloyd Moody, 1971-72.

Healthy Connors beats former ballboy

NEW YORK (AP) — Jimmy Connors is one of the few favored players in the U.S. Open who came to the tournament completely healthy. Best of all, he says, is the shape of his game.

"I really moved well out there and I hit the ball well," said the third-seeded Connors after his 6-2, 6-2, 6-2 triumph Wednesday night over Marcel Freeman, a junior at UCLA who is ranked No. 203 in the world and was in way over his head against the three-time Open titlist. "Everybody supposedly has bad ankles (John McEnroe) and knees (Bjorn Borg). I'm fine, except for a skin infection."

Connors recalled that Freeman "was a ballboy for the final in '76," in which the left-hander beat Borg. Asked if that made him feel old, Connors snapped: "I never feel old."

Most of the top seeds who were idle Wednesday returned to the courts today, hopeful the 97-degree heat wouldn't return with them. Among the men, No. 1 Borg took on hard-serving John Sadri; No. 4 Guillermo Vilas played John Hayes; No. 5 Vitas Gerulaitis was to oppose Hank Pfister at night; No. 8 Eddie Dibbs had a tough matchup with Vijay Amritraj of India; No. 9 Peter Fleming played Johan Kriek of South Africa; No. 11 Roscoe Tanner pitted his blazing serves against Jimmy Arias; 14th-seed Wojtek Fibak of Poland battled Austrian Peter Feigl, and No. 15 Yannick Noah of France played Bruce Manson.

The women's schedule had No. 1 Tracy Austin against Rosie Casals; No. 3 Chris Evert Lloyd against Peanut Louie in a night match; No. 11 Kathy Jordan against Sharon Walsh; No. 12 Virginia Wade of Britain against Claudia Casabianca of Argentina; No. 13 Pam Shriver against Renee Blount; No. 14 Ivanna Madruga of Argentina against Kim Jones, and No. 16 Regina Marsikova of Czechoslovakia against JoAnne Russell.

Connors was satisfied with his performance against Freeman but said it was not vintage Connors...not yet. "You don't want to start off with your best now, you want to get better and better," he admitted. "You make it through a few rounds, improving each time and getting used to the weather and the conditions."

"I'm confident I can win. If I didn't think I would win, I would stay home."

No. 6 seed Gene Mayer and No. 12 Jose-Luis Clerc of Argentina were headed home after taking divergent routes to defeat. Mayer was leading Gianni Ocleppo of Italy 6-2, 6-1, 6-7, 2-4 when he re-injured a hamstring and was forced to withdraw.

Clerc managed to stay on court throughout his 3-hour, 23-minute encounter with Bernie Mitton of South Africa before falling 6-3, 6-2, 4-6, 2-6, 7-5.

Other men's seeds to advance were No. 7 Harold Solomon, a 6-2, 6-4, 6-4 winner over Jan Norback of Sweden; No. 10 Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia, 6-4, 6-3, 7-6 over Tim Mayotte; No. 13 Brian Gottfried, 6-7, 6-2, 6-1, 6-3 over David Carter of Australia, and No. 16 Vic Amaya, 6-4, 6-2, 7-6 over Larry Davidson.

The Nastase clowned his way past Patrice Dominguez of France 6-4, 6-1, 4-6, 6-2 on an outer court, then was fined $750 by the Grand Prix tournament supervisor for his actions — $250 for an obscene gesture directed at a linesman and $500 for batting a ball at another linesman.

"I think they made a couple of bad calls but I didn't complain so much," said the controversial Romanian. "I don't get as upset as I used to anymore."

Aside from those outbursts, Nastase was mostly playful, jibing with the crowd and twice dunking his head in a cooler filled with ice.

Second-seeded Martina Navratilova easily could have been upset in her opening match Wednesday night by unheralded Lena Sandin of Sweden. Navratilova, who has never won here, survived 6-4, 4-6, 6-2 despite several lapses.

"I had never seen her play before," said Navratilova. "Before last week, I'd never heard of her. Everybody said, 'No problem.' Ha!"

"She didn't give me anything. She hit so deep it was impossible for me to come in. I'll have to play a lot better against the top baseliners."

"I'm in great shape but I feel a little slow," noted Navratilova, who has been plagued with a bad back in recent weeks. "It was really hard to see the ball. I don't know if it was the lights but I would see the ball a split-second late or sometimes when it was passed me."

Also advancing ang seeded women were No. 6 Dianne Fromholtz of Australia, who struggled to beat Zina Garrison 6-3, 2-6, 6-4, and No. 10 Virginia Ruzici of Romania, who destroyed Nina Bohm of Sweden 6-0, 6-3.

Harvesters host Lubbock Estacado

Pampa may face one of its toughest foes of the season Thursday, but it won't really count.

Lubbock Estacado, top-ranked in pre-season Class 4A polls, will meet the Harvesters in a scrimmage game at 4:30 p.m. Thursday at Harvester Stadium.

Pampa JV's host Gruver at 3 p.m., prior to the varsity contest.

WACO, Texas (AP) — Grant Teaff has not always been blessed with quarterbacks, but this year the Baylor coach has three of them. Some say that in itself may not be a blessing.

But Teaff is convinced he will have some outstanding quarterbacking for years to come. Between now and Sept. 13 opener with Lamar, he'll pick between Jay Jeffrey, little brother of Neal Jeffrey who quarterbacked the 1974 Bears to the Cotton Bowl; David Mangrum, a classic-sized quarterback at 6-5 and 202; or Mike Brannan, a hero late last year as a freshman.

"If we had to play a game tonight, Jay Jeffrey would be our starting quarterback," Teaff told writers Wednesday on the SWC press tour. "But we don't have to play a game then."

If there was a game this Saturday, Teaff would have to pick between Jeffrey or Mangrum. Brannan had surgery on a knee following Baylor's Peach Bowl victory over Clemson and is still experiencing some soresness. Brannon took over for the injured Mickey Elam during the SMU game and the Bears won that one and four of their next six games.

Jeffrey is 6-0, 180-pound transfer from Missouri where he worked two years as the No. 2 quarterback. He ran Baylor's scout team last year and was a standout in spring drills. He's considered an above-average runner and a good passer.

"I felt I deserved the opportunity to play at Missouri and I wasn't getting it," Jeffrey said.

Teaff said Jeffrey has displayed the same leadership qualities brother Neal possessed.

But there's every indication that Baylor's quarterback for the immediate future will be Mangrum, who quarterback coach Cotton Davidson says "has a Bradshaw-type arm."

Mangrum was originally signed by Baylor in February 1978 but in June of that year he signed a pro baseball contract with the Kansas City organization. He pitched in the Florida Instructional League and then decided to switch back to football. He returned to Baylor last fall and rejoined the team for spring training.

Mangrum said he didn't quit baseball because he wasn't doing well.

"They (Kansas City) wanted me to play. I've had calls off an don for a year from them asking me to come back."

Besides those three, Teaff has yet another quarterback. That would be Alfred Anderson, the local product who was one of the most sought-after quarterback prospects in the nation this year. He broke a small bone in his right wrist this month at the Oil Bowl and cannot throw the football. But the cast doesn't prevent him from running so he's working out at the tailback position.

In addition to quarterbacks, Teaff has good talent at running back and receiver. What he doesn't have is a solid offensive line and the defense is questionable, although Mike Singletary is one of the country's premier linebackers.

Game of Sept. 1

Har-rumph! Alabama is No. 1 in '80

By Major Amos B. Hoople Peerless Prognosticator

Egad, friends, I'm back for 1980!

This old world of ours is spinning around at such a wild and dizzying pace these days that forecasting almost anything is almost impossible.

However, as sure as the sun will rise tomorrow morning, just as surely will Alabama and Ohio State be at the top of the polls when the final ratings are posted some four months hence. Yes, dear readers, the Crimson Tide and Ohio State's Buckeyes are loaded again, and ready to shoot down all foes!

And how about this for a switch to open the season? The Monday Night TV football show will feature those long-time collegiate powers of the Southwest Conference — Arkansas and Texas.

More on that classic later, but now to answer your annual requests for the Hoople assessment of the season's Top Ten.

Here is how we see 'em in '80: 1. Alabama. 2. Ohio State. 3. Oklahoma. 4. Arkansas. 5. Pittsburgh. 6. Stanford. 7. Southern California. 8. Notre Dame. 9. Florida State. 10. Houston.

Alabama, coming off a 12-0 season and winners of 21 in a row, is the Hoople choice to repeat as mythical national champ. 'Tis too bad we can't have a playoff for a real championship. Um-kumph!

Paul (Bear) Bryant starting his 23rd year as head man at his alma mater needs only 18 victories to top famed Amos Alanzo Stagg's all-time record of 314. A young 67 — heh-heh — the Bear is out to get most of them this year.

Giving Alabama a stiff battle for the top spot will be the bruising Buckeyes. Earle Bruce, 11-1-0 and Coach of the Year in his first season at his alma mater, had what all the experts agree was the "best recruiting year" in collegiate football. Who says the rich don't get richer — humph!

And the added talent Bruce didn't really need. Leading a host of returning vets is the incomparable junior quarterback Art Schlichter, whose passing and running accounted for 23 Buck TDs in 1979. 'Nuf said!

At Oklahoma, Billy Simms is gone. But J.C. Watts is back. Watts' presence, either throwing the ball or lugging it for large gains, means Oklahoma will have another top contender. The Sooners are big, tough and fast.

The Arkansas Razorbacks, with amateur magician and master of one-liners Lou Holtz directing activities from the sidelines, could well better last season's 10-2 record — which included a 24-9 loss to national champ Alabama in the Sugar Bowl. The Hogs running attack, lead by a trio of speedsters — Darryl Bowles, Thomas Brown and Gary Anderson — should be good enough to capture the SWC crown.

Pittsburgh's Panthers have all the requisites to be the top independent club in the nation and round out the top half of the Hoople Top Ten. Winners of their last 10 contests and with 50 returning lettermen, coach Jackie Sherrill's forces should sweep a moderately tough schedule. Florida State, Tennessee and Penn State are among the possible stumbling blocks.

The Hoople West Coast scouts look for a change in the turmoil-ridden Pacific Ten (or is that Five?) pecking order — with Stanford taking the loop title and Southern Cal (ineligible for the Rose Bowl) finishing second.

This would place them in the 6th and 7th spots in our Top Ten.

The quarterback post is the big difference in the two teams. Coach Paul Wiggin of the Cardinals has sophomore John Elway ready to go. At the Trojan practice field, coach John Robinson's biggest challenge is to find a replacement for All-America Paul McDonald. Not an enviable task!

Notre Dame's Irish should bounce back from a disappointing year. Gone is fantastic runner Vegas Ferguson. Back are three of the finest receivers in the country — Dean Maszrak, Tony Hunter and Pete Holoahan. In addition to a bevy of returning veterans, the Irish had a recruiting season just a notch below those of Ohio State and Alabama.

Bobby Bowden has a rebuilding job to do with the Florida State Seminoles. But any club with nose guard Ron Simmons on its roster is going to win a lot of games. If the Seminoles get their new offensive lineup clicking for their opener with rugged LSU, they will probably be undefeated when they take on powerful Pitt on Oct. 11.

Rounding out our Top Ten are the Houston Cougars. Bill Yeoman's clubs have represented the SWC in the Cotton Bowl in three of the last four years. And they well could be there again this New Year's Day — if QB Terry Elston and John Newhouse play up to their potential.

Capable of moving into the Top Ten before the season ends are North Carolina, which boasts the country's most explosive runner, Amos Lawrence; Purdue, whose quarterback, Mark Herrmann, is probably the best pure passer in the college ranks; Nebraska, led by another speedster, Jarvis Redwine; Auburn, where the running tandem of James Brooks and George Peoples figures to be just as good as Brooks and the graduated Joe Cribbs, who combined for a total of 2,328 yards and 24 TDs a year ago; and the potent Missouri Tigers, under the leadership of yet another fine field general, Phil Bradley, who won All-Big Eight honors in '79.

There you have it fans. A gold-plated Hoople assessment. Har-rumph!

Now to the season's first big contest — Arkansas vs. Texas, under the lights in the Longhorns' Memorial Stadium.

Overall, Texas holds a commanding 46-15-0 lead in the historic series with the Razorbacks. But in 16 of the last 21 renewals, the game has helped to settle the Southwest Conference race.

This year it will be more of the same, with Arkansas getting the Hoople nod to start off on the right foot. Fred Akers' Texas club — led by Jam Jones, who clips off yardage at a 100-plus rate — will give the Hogs an interesting night but nevertheless fall by a 21-17 count.

This one will be worth watching!

Just Ask

By Murray Olderman

Q. I noticed that in an All-Pro team picked for the 1970s, Joe DeLamielleure of Buffalo was picked for the first team and John Hannah of New England was placed on the second team. I always thought Hannah was regarded as the finest at the position. What's your pick between the two of them? — G.Y., Olean, N.Y.

For an authoritative answer, I deferred to Jim Ringo, the offensive line coach for the Patriots who also handled DeLam with the Bills. He said, "I couldn't make a choice. I'd want them both." He noted that DeLamielleure was more mobile, but Hannah was bigger, and that both were very intense players. Myself, I'd take Hannah because of his strength. That team, which was selected by the same polling group that votes players into the Pro Football Hall of Fame, chose Larry Little of Miami as the other guard.

Q. I am an avid Bart Starr fan and think he will be a winner in Green Bay eventually. What is your opinion why he has been a loser so far? — Joe Meyers, Marinette, Wis.

The former Packer quarterback great has had only one winning season in the five since he took over the team in 1975. Committed to the draft to rebuild, he just hasn't had scintillating results in his role as combination head coach and general manager. So, he has to take the blame. Losing top draftee Bruce Clark to Canada this year was a particularly tough blow. This has to be the year of decision for Starr, the quiet, intense man from Alabama. I can't see the Packers becoming a force in 1980, either, because, ironically, field leadership (which was Bart's forte) seems to be the biggest deficiency in the Packer arsenal. You might also say they've had bad luck with injuries, such as losing their top running backs last year, but all teams cope with that factor.

First grader nears record in hiking Appalachian Trail

By JERRY SCHWARTZ Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — When Michael Cogswell finishes a 2,100-mile trek along the Appalachian Trail — making meals, drinking spring water, hiking as far as 28 miles a day — he intends to start first grade.

Michael, 6, is halfway to becoming the youngest person ever to walk the entire trail, from Maine to Georgia. His mother and stepfather, Reina and Jeff Cogswell, are also looking beyond their Appalachian journey: they hope for a lifetime of romantic adventures.

Jeff Cogswell is 33, a beefy former yacht deliverer whose mustache serves as a lid for a broad smile. He says he's always had a penchant for adventure — bicycling cross-country, floating on a floatboat down the Mississippi, crossing the Pacific on a Polynesian canoe without food, water or navigational aids.

Michael, Reina's son by a previous marriage, or send him to stay with his grandmother in California. Michael made the decision: he wanted to go. Officials for the Appalachian Trail Conference say they believe the youngest "through-hiker" (one who hikes the whole trail) to have made the journey in one trip so far was 12.

"One day," said Cogswell, "Reina asked me how to spell 'relief.' Before I could say anything, Michael said, 'R-O-L-A-I-D-S.' I couldn't find a rope to string him up with, so I decided to take him along, where there would be no more TV."

"At first, I didn't know if Michael would be able to do it or not. I fully expected to have to send him home after a week," he said. And at first, Michael did have his problems. He tired easily and fell a lot — "584 times so far," said his mother. "We've been counting."

under his sleeping bag. "Even the Easter Bunny found him along the trail," Cogswell said. Right now, the family is surviving on money from the sale of their home and car. They hope to sell books and photos of their exploits and give lectures to make "enough money to survive. We don't want to be rich."

Cogswell said he hopes to take Michael along when on as many of the adventures as possible, teaching him with correspondence courses. He said he has met with some hostility from those who believe it is wrong to take a child along on a journey such as the trail hike.

He said this hostility gives way when they get to know the family. "They learn to respect him," Cogswell said. "I know I've learned to respect him, not only as my son but as a fellow through-hiker. And that's saying a lot."

Texas briefs

EASTLAND, Texas (AP) — The Dallas Taxpayers League must prove the city's new tax rolls will cause "substantial injury" to residential property owners to win class-action status for its lawsuit, a judge here ruled Tuesday.

Judge Austin McCloud of the 11th Civil Court of Appeals told attorneys federal courts have been reluctant to grant class-action status in such suits without evidence all residents have been harmed.

But league attorney Ed Cloutman contended solid proof exists that the tax rolls will cause homeowners to be taxed "millions and millions of dollars" more than necessary.

UNIVERSITY PARK, Texas (AP) — A police sergeant in this Dallas suburb has been demoted and suspended for 15 days in connection with a shooting incident.

Leon Holman fired his pistol and the bullet struck a pickup occupied by three men five months ago in the suburb of Richardson, said Police Chief David Beidelman.

Beidelman said Holman contended the weapon discharged accidentally.

The company had requested a hike of $4.94 million, but council members cut the figure to $2.74 million Tuesday.

Police free mayor's son

HOUSTON (AP) — Mayor Jim McConn's son was given "diplomatic immunity" when he was released after being arrested for failing to move from the scene of a traffic accident, says the Houston police chief.

B.K. Johnson said the release of Terry McConn, 22, was a "professional courtesy... kind of like diplomatic immunity."

Police said the younger McConn was taken into custody Aug. 3 after an officer repeatedly told him to move from the scene of an early-morning accident.

The younger McConn was released about two hours later after Johnson was contacted at his home by investigating officers.

Johnson said Tuesday at a news conference he "asked" the arresting officer that McConn be released, but did not order it.

"The mayor is the mayor," Johnson said. "He is number one, the leader of this city and we try to take care of the leader."

McConn's son could have been fined as much as $200 for the alleged municipal violation.

Johnson said a report of the incident raises doubts as to whether McConn's son should have been arrested. Johnson said he will probably recommend that the case be dropped after he meets with the mayor.

McConn is in Israel and could not be reached for comment.

"I think this is something that goes on in the United States and every place you go," he added, "and let's not bicker about that — it's just part of life."

Lubbock police in large drug dealer round-up

The Cascade Mountain Range of the western United States is peppered with volcanoes. Washington state's Mount St. Helens and California's Lassen Peak, which erupted from 1914-21, are the only two that have exploded this century in the 48 contiguous states. But Mounts Baker, Rainier, Hood, and Shasta also have erupted in the last few hundred years, according to National Geographic.

LUBBOCK (AP) — Police have begun a sweeping roundup of suspected drug dealers that they said could sharply curtail the supply of heroin in this South Plains city.

Officials said nine people were arrested Wednesday and five others were expected to be taken into custody before the roundup ends.

Police said the three-month-long undercover operation looking into heroin and cocaine trafficking in Lubbock already has resulted in the arrest of several suspected "major drug dealers."

Nine people were arraigned Wednesday afternoon before Justice of the Peace Wayne leCroy on charges of delivering heroin and cocaine, officials said.

Warrants were issued for the arrest of five others involved in the drug ring, leCroy said.

"These arrests should have a significant effect on the supply and sale of heroin in this city," said Bill Morgan, police department.

Cosme Tijerina, 50, was charged with two counts of delivery of a controlled substance and jailed on $200,000 bond, leCroy said.

Tijerina and two others arrested Wednesday were described as the "major targets" of the investigation, police said.

"There were 17 complaints filed on 14 individuals, five of whom are still at large," leCroy said.

Toddler object of search

SANDERSON (AP) — Searchers combed the rugged, remote West Texas terrain in an unsuccessful hunt for a 2-year-old boy who wandered away from an oil drilling rig two days ago, officials said.

Authorities said late Wednesday they planned to continue the search for Jackie Ferguson through the night.

"We're still searching for him. We've been combing ditches, holes, pits, everything," Terrell County Sheriff Dalton Hogg said late Wednesday night.

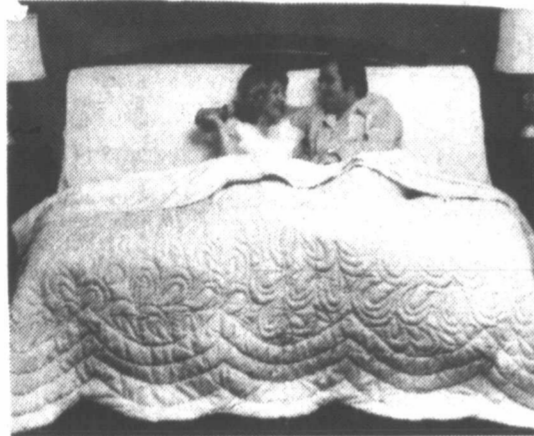

Searchers late Wednesday turned to dragging three slush pits and oil tanks near the rig after a fruitless search of the area by law officials, volunteers on foot and horseback, a state helicopter and private plane, Terrell County sheriff's officials said.

The boy apparently walked off late Tuesday night while his mother was visiting his father, O.L. Ferguson, a tool pusher working at the rig, said a spokesman for the Sitton Drilling Company of Lubbock.

The child and his parents are from Levelland.

About 50 persons — ranchers, oil well workers, deputies, and other volunteers — joined together in an effort to find the child, said Hogg.
