One dies in oil rig accident

BY DEBORAH BRIDGES
Staff Writer

LAKETON — An oil rig accident on the Baker and Taylor Rig No. 11, located three miles north and one mile south of Laketon, claimed the life of a Perryton man Tuesday afternoon. Another man injured in the mishap was sent to an Amarillo hospital.

The dead man was identified by company safety officials as James Wilborn Secrest, 38, of No. 9 N. Fordham, Perryton.

Safety personnel officer Bob Potts said a floorhand, Donald Foreman of Miami, was taken to Highland General Hospital emergency room. Suffering from a broken leg and lacerations, the injured man was later transferred to High Plains Baptist Hospital in Amarillo.

Foreman was listed in satisfactory condition early today by hospital officials.

Secrest was pronounced dead at the scene by Pampa Justice of the Peace Nat Lunsford. Three other workers on the rig were uninjured in the mishap.

According to witnesses at the scene of the accident, Secrest and Foreman reportedly were tying a cat line to a cat head on the floor of the rig when the line fouled and struck the two men.

Secrest, the rig's driller, appeared to have been struck on the left temple and left side of his body, Gray County Sheriff's deputies said. Two deputies from the Gray County Sheriff's Department, Kelly Rushing and Doug Davis, were called to investigate the rig accident.

Officials were unsure of the exact time of the accident. Lee Phillips, director of safety and personnel for Baker and Taylor, said he believed it occurred between 5 p.m. and 5:15 p.m.

Secrest's body was taken to Boxwell Brothers Funeral Directors of Perryton.

He is survived by his wife, Jean, of the home; one brother, Donald Secrest of Walker, La.; six sisters, Mrs. Margie Long, Mrs. Cheryl Snyder, Mrs. Judy Jones, Mrs. Bobby Sue Chamberlain, all of Pride, La.; Mrs. Carol Chaney, of Clinton, La.; and Mrs. Helen Paxton of Walker, La.

Services and burial will be in Denham Springs, La., under the direction of Seale Funeral Home.

Stalled Mideast talks to resume

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (AP) — President Carter and his Mideast negotiator Saul Linowitz today announced that the stalled Egyptian-Israeli talks on Palestinian autonomy would resume at an unspecified date.

Linowitz, here for two days of talks with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, made the announcement at about the same time that Carter told union leaders in Washington that Egypt and Israel have approved a "reconvening of the summit conference" on Mideast peace negotiations.

In Tel Aviv, an Israeli government spokesman said Israel had not yet been officially informed of any resumption of negotiations that were broken off by President Anwar Sadat of Egypt, displeased at Israel's declaration of a united Jerusalem as its capital.

But the spokesman said Prime Minister Menachem Begin might make a statement later today.

Carter said Egypt and Israel would "recommence negotiations for peace sometime within the next few weeks," but gave no further details. He did not specify if he meant a top-level Mideast summit involving the United States, Egypt and Israel, or a lower-level conference.

After his most recent suspension of the talks, Sadat proposed that a three-way summit meeting to get the talks moving again be held after the November U.S. presidential elections.

Linowitz, who arrived here after two days of talks with Begin, made the announcement after a 45-minute meeting with Sadat.

"I was delegated by Mr. Sadat and Mr. Begin to announce this," Linowitz said, adding that both sides had agreed to resume the talks within the framework of the Camp David agreement and "promised not to put difficulties in the way of peace."

When asked to comment on Linowitz's statement, Sadat replied: "You have to read the statement of my friend Mr. Linowitz."

The pledge to restart the talks, which Sadat called off on Aug. 3, provides a boost to Carter's re-election efforts. But the wording of the Linowitz statement, and the one-line remark by Sadat, suggests the sides might still be far apart.

Linowitz made no mention of Israel's claim to Jerusalem, including the Arab eastern sector, as its eternal capital. Sadat has said Israel must soften its position of Jerusalem before Egypt returns to the negotiating table.

Linowitz had no comment on his arrival here, but said before leaving Tel Aviv that he would return to Israel "if there should be developments" in Egypt requiring more meetings with Israeli leaders.

During the talks in Tel Aviv, Begin ruled out any relaxation of Israel's hold on Arab East Jerusalem and said he would accept Sadat's proposal for another summit meeting with Carter only after Egypt resumes autonomy negotiations with Israel.

Even so, Linowitz, Carter's special envoy for the Middle East, said before leaving Tel Aviv that the Israelis "agreed certain things will be done to improve the atmosphere" and he was taking "some suggestions" to Cairo.

Begin, without providing details, told reporters they "agreed on a certain document" which Linowitz would deliver to Sadat, "and we worked on another document which I believe can be acceptable to all partners."

But he again rejected any Israeli concessions on East Jerusalem, the predominantly Arab sector which Israel annexed after taking it from Jordan in the 1967 Arab-Israeli War.

"We are not obliged to make concessions and we did not make them," said Begin.

Sadat broke off the deadlocked autonomy talks after the Israeli Parliament adopted a law in late July formally declaring all of Jerusalem the eternal, indivisible capital of the Jewish state. Sadat then suggested that he, Begin and Carter meet after the U.S. presidential elections to get the talks going again.

"We agree to both resumption of the autonomy talks and consultation with President Carter about the possibility and place of summit talks," said Begin. "Any time, we don't object. But first of all we must resume our talks. It was also cool to the summit proposal. He said Carter was prepared to meet with Begin and Sadat any time he believed it would be helpful, but "a summit without adequate preparation, without groundwork to assure maximum prospects for success, would not be a well-advised move."

In Cairo, Foreign Minister Kamal Hassan Aly predicted failure for Linowitz's mission unless Israel repealed the Jerusalem law. He told the semi-official newspaper Al Ahram Israel must assure Egypt that the future of East Jerusalem can be negotiated within the framework of the Camp David accords.

The goal of the negotiations is a plan for self-rule for the 1.2 million Palestinians living on the West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip, which Israel captured in the 1967 war along with East Jerusalem. But Israel rejects the Arab contention that East Jerusalem is part of the West Bank, saying that its annexation reunited Israel's ancient capital and it is going to stay that way.

Hearing set for Cathy Smith

The hearing date on the new trial motion for Cathy Darlene Smith has been set by 31st District Judge Grainger McIlhenny, District Attorney Harold Comer said today.

The new trial hearing for Mrs. Smith is scheduled for 10 a.m. Sept. 16 in District Court in the Gray County Courthouse.

A ten-woman, two-man Lipscomb County jury recently convicted Mrs. Smith, 29, of voluntary manslaughter in connection with the Jan. 13 slaying of her husband, Dennis Lee Smith, 30, in a four-day trial in Lipscomb.

A five-year imprisonment in the Texas Department of Corrections was recommended by the jurists. The formal sentencing has not been conducted at this time, however.

Reagan blames Carter for flap over KKK

By LEE BYRD
Associated Press Writer

Ronald Reagan, buffeted by outraged southern governors, says he meant no harm by his wrongful claim that President Carter visited the birthplace of the Ku Klux Klan. But Reagan insists that it is the president, rather than himself, who should apologize "for using this issue."

Indeed, Reagan and other Republican leaders took the offensive Tuesday over his Labor Day gaffe, in which he chided the President, who appeared at a huge picnic in Tusculum, Ala., for "opening his campaign down in the city that gave birth to and is the parent body of the Ku Klux Klan."

Reagan found himself apologizing to the South, the state of Alabama, and to Tusculum. But not to Carter, who said in Missouri that "I resent very deeply what Ronald Reagan said...when he pointed out erroneously that I opened my campaign in the home of the Ku Klux Klan."

Carter declared that "anybody who resorts to slurs and innuendo against a whole region of the country, based on a false statement...is not doing the South or our nation good service."

With that, Reagan was back on the attack, saying Carter had "deliberately distorted the intent of my remarks," even though those remarks were false on their face and he has yet to spell out what his real purpose otherwise was in making specific reference to the Klan.

The flap cast a shadow over debate of the issues, though the president, while in Harry S. Truman's hometown of Independence, Mo., said he and Reagan differ "in almost every basic element of commitment and experience and promise to the American people."

Carter said Reagan is unlike other Republican leaders dating back to Dwight D. Eisenhower, in that they were committed to controlling nuclear weapons, and "not launching a nuclear arms race against the Soviet Union which no one could win."

Reagan, in Detroit, blamed Carter for allowing a huge deluge of foreign cars into the country. "The government has a responsibility it has shirked so far," he said. "That is to convince the Japanese that in one way or another...that deluge of their cars into the United States must be slowed while our industry gets back on its feet."

Independent challenger John B. Anderson also courted the Detroit area, but he, too, took Reagan to task for the Klan remark, saying it was typical of the "flip, off-hand" statements which have gotten Reagan into trouble.

At mid-afternoon, Reagan issued a two-page statement in which he said that the "Klan is not an issue in this campaign, although President Carter is attempting to make it one regardless of the embarrassment it causes the people of Tusculum."

While there, Carter denounced the Klan. But as half the world surely knows by now, Tusculum is not the birthplace nor the "parent body" of the racist organization, though one Klan faction did move its headquarters there only last month. It is the birthplace of Helen Keller, whose memory, according to Alabama Gov. Fob James, Reagan had demeaned with his remark.

Reagan did not acknowledge his error in his lengthy statement. According to his own recount of what he said the night before, he had said "that Mr. Carter was speaking in the locale of the Ku Klux Klan headquarters, which statement had been included in a network newscast the evening before."

That version hardly jibes with his choice of words Monday. In any case, Reagan said "I intended no inference that Mr. Carter was in any way sympathetic to the Klan and in no way did I intend to disparage the city of Tusculum or the state of Alabama."

Honesty in politics

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — When Ernie Alloy decided to run for re-election as chief constable in Tucson's First precinct, he had to fill out a form listing his campaign expenses and receipts.

Since he hadn't received or spent any money, he decided to attach an explanation.

"Used my old campaign signs from last election — 1976," he wrote.

Pima County Treasurer Jim Kirk didn't have that problem. He spent $59.89. And he didn't get very specific, either. In the column labeled "purpose," to show what he spent the money on, he wrote, "To win the election."

Strike agreement signed, 'Go with God'

JASTRZEBIE, Poland (AP) — Polish coal miners won their strike today and prepared to return to work Thursday, promising the end of the nationwide labor rebellion that wrung unprecedented concessions from a Soviet Bloc government.

Deputy Premier Aleksander Kopec and the miners' strike committee signed an agreement before dawn today promising the miners an end to weekend work shifts, other safety improvements and better pay as well as the social and political rights won last weekend by the strikers in northern Poland.

"It is an act of historical importance...Go with God," said Kopec after the pact was signed just before dawn in a smoky auditorium in this mining town near the Czechoslovak border.

"I declare the strike over," said Miroslaw Siemiewill, chairman of the strike committee. "We will resume work on the fourth of September and make up for losses suffered by the national economy."

Other members of the strike committee said some men would return to the mines this afternoon to resume maintenance work.

There were cheers and applause from the 500 members of the strike committee, and many hugged and kissed each other. On the wall a map showing the 17 countries to which Poland exports coal was draped with a black banner and red carnations, honoring eight miners killed in an underground accident on Monday.

The miners, Poland's most favored workers because their output is the country's chief export, did not strike until last Thursday, when the vast strike wave that began Aug. 14 at Gdansk, in the Baltic industrial region, was nearing its end in northern and central Poland.

Most of those strikers went back to work Monday, after the government in an agreement signed Sunday in Gdansk promised a new labor law giving the right to strike and organize free, independent trade unions. But by Tuesday, the miners' committee said, a total of 250,000 workers were on strike at 31 mines and 27 related industrial plants in Upper Silesia.

The miners said their key demand was an end to weekend work shifts, which they contended were a safety hazard because they prolonged the miner's work week. The agreement signed with them also promised other safety improvements, increases in wages and family allowances in line with increases in the cost of living, and the rights to strike and organize free and independent trade unions won by the other strikers.

In Moscow, articles in the Communist Party newspaper Pravda and the government newspaper Izvestia made clear the Kremlin was still angry and concerned about the situation in Poland. The Soviet news agency Tass denounced suggestions in the West that liberalization is now possible and warned the Poles they must be careful of "not only economic, but also other consequences" of the strike settlement.

Vietnam hero wins Republican nomination to Senate in Alabama

By The Associated Press

Vietnam war hero Jeremiah Denton has won the Republican nomination for the Senate in Alabama, while the Democratic incumbent, Donald Stewart, was forced into a primary runoff.

Meanwhile, in North Dakota, Bismarck lawyer Kent Johanneson won the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senate in Tuesday's voting and state Attorney General Allen Olson became the Republican candidate for governor.

The race for the Republican nomination for North Dakota's only seat in the U.S. House of Representatives was too close to call today.

With 87 percent of the ballot boxes reporting in the Democratic senatorial primary in Alabama, Stewart had 193,265 votes, or 49 percent, to 140,616, or 35 percent, for Jim Folsom Jr. State Sen. Finis St. John had 45,239, or 11 percent, while Margaret Stewart, no relation to the senator, had 17,019, or 4 percent.

Folsom, the son of ex-Gov. James E. "Big Jim" Folsom, will meet Stewart in a runoff Sept. 23.

Denton, who drew national recognition for his unswerving loyalty during more than seven years as a war prisoner in Vietnam, defeated Armistead Selden, a former Democratic congressman who changed parties, in the race for the Republican senate nomination. With 77 percent of the Republican ballot boxes reporting, Denton had 68,410, or 64 percent, to 38,160, or 36 percent, for Selden.

John Buchanan, an eight-term veteran from Birmingham who is also a Baptist minister, was defeated by Albert Lee Smith for the Republican nomination for the House of Representatives. Smith will face Democrat Pete Clifford of Birmingham in the general election.

With all boxes counted, Smith had 25,531, or 55 percent, to 20,691, or 45 percent, for Buchanan.

Rep. Bill Nichols of Sylacauga effectively won an eighth term in Congress by trouncing his opponent, Charles Baiker of Jacksonville, in the Democratic primary. Nichols is unopposed in the general election.

Buchanan and Nichols were the only two of the state's seven representatives who faced primary opposition.

In North Dakota, with 963 of 1,242 precincts reporting in the race for the Senate seat vacated by Milton Young, Johanneson had 24,182 to 7,154 for Mike Saba, a Bismarck businessman.

The Republican candidate is Rep. Mark Andrews, who is vacating his House seat.

With 967 of 1,242 precincts reporting in the race for the Republican congressional nomination, state Sen. James Snykowski, a farmer from Cayuga, had 32,696 to 29,885 for Dr. Lee Christoferson, a neurosurgeon from Fargo.

Tax Commissioner Byron Dorgan is the Democratic nominee. In the Republican gubernatorial contest, with 965 of 1,242 precincts reporting, Olson had 47,477 to 14,877 for Labor Commissioner Orville "Ike" Hagen.

police report

The Pampa Police Department responded to 35 calls during the 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. today. Investigations included a report of a burglary of a church and the theft of the church van (see related story) and other reports of theft.
 Mary Lee Van Kluyve, 2239 Duncan, reported the theft of her son's watch valued at $75. It was reported taken from the tennis locker room at Pampa High School sometime between 5:30 p.m. and 8 p.m. Monday.
 Doris Beem, 720 Lefors, reported the theft of two bicycles from her driveway sometime between 9 p.m. Monday and 7 a.m. Tuesday. Two juveniles were questioned by police in connection with the bicycle theft.
 A spokesperson for the City of Pampa reported the left side mirror of a 1978 Chevrolet pickup truck was cracked while the vehicle was parked at 1900 N. Banks.

Police continue search for stolen church van

City police are continuing an investigation of the burglary Tuesday of the First United Methodist Church and the theft of the church van.
 A spokesperson for the church located at Foster and Ballard streets reported to police Tuesday that someone had broken into the church office and taken $47 in cash and a dictaphone valued at $500.
 The white and blue Ford van belonging to the church was also reported missing. The vehicle was valued at $6,500.
 Police Chief J. J. Ryzman said detectives were "exploring the possibilities" the burglary and theft are connected to a similar burglary and theft of the Central Baptist Church which occurred earlier this year.
 "We have several suspects," he said.
 There was no damage to the church, Ryzman said, unlike the Central Baptist burglary in which there was a large amount of vandalism to the church property.

Florida police recover motorcycle stolen here

A 27-year-old man has been arrested by Florida authorities and charged with the theft of a motorcycle belonging to a Pampa man.
 City police were contacted by a representative of the Daytona Beach Police Department in Florida Tuesday notifying them that the 1977 Harley-Davidson motorcycle reported stolen on Aug. 8 by James Adams, 426 Finley.
 Bernard Challen Webber, no address given, was taken into custody in connection with the theft and is being held in the Daytona Beach jail pending extradition proceedings.
 "We don't know if he has waived extradition," Chief of Police J. J. Ryzman said.
 Florida police discovered the motorcycle had been stolen after routinely checking National Crime Information Center (N.C.I.C.) files.
 The motorcycle was valued at $3,000.

Senator denies knowledge of employee campaign methods

SENATOR APOLOGIZES. State Senator Gene Jones, Democrat, Houston, apologized and promised prompt repayment to the state for the actions of an "over zealous" state employee in behalf of Jones' re-election campaign. The apology came during a news conference Tuesday in Austin. (AP Laserphoto)

AUSTIN (AP) — Sen. Gene Jones, D-Houston, says he does not agree with an "over zealous" Senate employee who used four other state workers to solicit funds for Jones, but he hopes the employee involved still will join his staff.
 Jones apologized to a news conference Tuesday and his office said he repaid the state $1,625 for the time that state employees and equipment were used on his campaign endeavors.
 "I apologize. I did not condone nor authorize that activity," Jones said. "Despite the best intentions and understandable tendency of loyal staff members to be over zealous, it is not an acceptable course of action."
 Jones said Jeff Senter, chief committee clerk for the Senate Health and Welfare subcommittee that Jones heads, has been given a leave of absence without pay pending a full inquiry.
 Travis County District Attorney Ronnie Earle is investigating the incident, at the request of the campaign staff of Republican Mike Richards who is challenging Jones in the Houston district.
 Jones told the news conference that his own investigation showed that Senter had another employee of the Senate subcommittee spend about one-third of her time over a three-week period typing letters seeking money for Jones' re-election campaign. He said three other Senate employees were used for about a day and a half to address still other letters soliciting campaign funds.
 The Houston senator said Senter had been scheduled to go off the Senate payroll on Sept. 1 and join Jones' campaign staff in Houston as an assistant to Jones' wife, who is Jones' campaign manager.
 Jones said, after talking to Senter, he felt "it was a case of an over zealous employee wanting to do a good job.... He told me he wanted to get a head start in his job in raising money for the campaign. He is known in political circles as a good fundraiser. He is known to have one of the best contributor lists in the state."

Teacher strikes spreading

As teachers walked off their jobs in six other states, striking teachers in Rochester, N.Y., pledged to ignore an injunction prohibiting their walkout and remain on picket lines as schools reopened for 34,600 students today.
 In Philadelphia, contract talks resumed between striking teachers and the school board in an effort to settle a contract in time for the start of school Friday for 220,000 students.
 Teachers also were striking in Michigan, Illinois, Ohio, Arizona and Washington.
 Rochester, N.Y., school officials said they would staff classrooms today with substitute teachers and supervisors as children ended their summer holidays and returned to studies.
 Justice David C. Boehm of the state Supreme Court on Tuesday issued an injunction prohibiting the walkout by 2,300 teachers. But Elmer Henretta, president of the teachers' union, said, "We have no intention of pulling back until we have a settlement."

 The dispute focuses on wages.
 In Philadelphia, Common Pleas Judge David Savitt barred teachers from blocking entrances to the school administration building and limited pickets to six to a school after 500 teachers locked arms and ringed the administration building Tuesday.
 Some 770 other Pennsylvania teachers walked out in four school systems, and 1,200 others in three districts were scheduled to strike later this week.
 In Michigan, there were strikes by 3,900 teachers in 19 districts, giving teachers an extended summer break.
 Teacher union officials reported negotiations were at an impasse in nine other school districts where 1,150 teachers and 23,000 students were scheduled to start classes today.
 In Sierra Vista, Ariz., school officials planned to keep all six schools open today for 5,700 students despite a planned strike by about 300 teachers.
 Illinois teachers were on strike in 11 school districts today, but students returned to class following contract settlements in two districts.
 In Massachusetts, schools in 43 districts reopened Tuesday without teacher contracts, and teachers in 76 Indiana school corporations were working without contracts.
 At the University of Dubuque Seminary, a theologians' strike continued, but negotiations resumed and picket lines were cancelled. Classes for 140 students are to begin Thursday.
 A strike by Ohio Association of Public School Employees, which represents about 1,300 of 2,600 bus drivers, food service personnel, maintenance and clerical personnel, may interfere with the start of class Thursday at 139 Columbus schools.

Mayor says son will pay if guilty

HOUSTON (AP) — The officer who arrested Houston Mayor Jim McConn's son last month said he planned to file charges of loitering today against the 22-year-old man.
 Terry McConn was arrested Aug. 3 for allegedly failing to move from the scene of an automobile accident. The young man has said he and about 100 other people were watching a Life Flight helicopter remove a victim when an investigator asked him to leave.
 After being taken to the police station, young McConn was released and driven home in a police car at the request of Police Chief B. K. Johnson.
 The police chief said he made the request as a "professional courtesy." However, the incident was not reported until Aug. 24, after the mayor had left on a 12-day trip to Israel.
 Policeman S.E. Carr, who made the arrest, said young McConn had been released

Oswald exhumation issue moves back into courtroom

FORT WORTH (AP) — A state district judge will determine his own jurisdiction today in deciding whether to exhume the body in the grave of accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald.
 Judge James Wright will hear motions to move the lawsuit, brought by Oswald's brother Robert, to Dallas. Dallas County Medical Examiner Charles Petty and British author Michael Edlowes, who lives temporarily in Dallas, filed the motions for a change of venue as defendants in the case.
 Kenneth Campbell, Oswald's attorney, will argue against the motions on grounds the suit should be heard in the county where the body is buried.
 Wright also will hear Campbell's motions to remove as defendants Dallas County Judge Garry Weber and Marina Oswald Porter, Oswald's widow.
 If the judge retains jurisdiction, he has scheduled another hearing Friday on whether to exhume the body.
 Oswald brought the suit last month after Edlowes obtained permission from Mrs. Porter to exhume the body.
 Edlowes also obtained an order from Weber and a promise from Petty to examine the body.
 Edlowes contends the body buried in Rose Hill Cemetery on the city's east side is really that of a Russian agent, and that an examination will show marked physical differences.

Jury selection begins in ABSCAM trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — With one conviction on the books, the government is launching into the second Abscam trial as jury selection begins in the case of Rep. John Jenrette.
 The three-term South Carolina Democrat and his friend and co-defendant, businessman John Stowe, insist they are innocent of the federal charges. Jenrette was indicted on one count of conspiracy and two counts of bribery; Stowe was charged with conspiracy and with aiding and abetting bribery.
 Assistant U.S. Attorney John Kotely and defense attorneys were preparing to question about 100 prospective jurors. U.S. District Judge John Garret Penn, expecting to seat a jury today, scheduled the prosecution case to begin Thursday.
 For observers, the trial promises sharp contrasts between Kotely, considered cool and low-keyed in the courtroom, and Jenrette's attorney, Kenneth M. Robinson, a flamboyant South Carolina native whose emotion-packed arguments have led to acquittals in a string of tough cases.
 For Jenrette, the trial is a fight "for my political life and a great part of my other life." The 44-year-old congressman is seeking re-election after a narrow victory in the Democratic primary run-off vote in June.
 The trial is the second stemming from Abscam, the 14-month undercover investigation that has yielded indictments against six members of Congress and 13 others.
 The first Abscam trial, in federal court in New York City, ended Saturday, when jurors convicted Rep. Michael "Ozzie" Myers, D-Pa., and three other men of bribery and conspiracy. All four say they will appeal.
 Attorneys on both sides in the Jenrette case, and the others to follow, saw the Myers trial as a crucial test of jury reaction to the government's undercover tactics, its videotaped evidence and one of its key witnesses, convicted swindler Mel Weinberg, who helped FBI agents carry out the undercover "sting".
 As part of the investigation, codenamed Abscam for Abdul Enterprises, FBI agents posed as representatives of a fictitious Arab sheik willing to pay bribes for help with immigration problems and for other favors.

play grand jury proceedings in which McInnis invoked the Fifth Amendment when questioned about the alleged scheme.

McInnis' lawyer, Frank Maloney of Austin, asked Vela to delete portions showing his client invoked the Fifth Amendment.

McInnis thought he had been subpoenaed for a routine investigation when he showed up before the grand jury two years ago.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals threw out the federal indictment against McInnis, ruling prosecutors acted in bad faith by not informing him earlier he was being investigated.

The U.S. Supreme Court reinstated most of the indictment.

Germany, in June 1978, was charged in an eight-count indictment with allegedly accepting $3,868 from two manufacturing representatives from January 1976 to January 1978.

Baker's three-count indictment alleges he accepted gratuities totalling $1,400 from February 1976 and February 1978.

If convicted of the indictments, returned by the grand jury late Tuesday, each man could receive a $10,000 fine and two years in prison on each count.

percent of the weekend fires were caused by lightning. Sloat said lightning normally starts from 15 percent to 20 percent of the fires.

The worst fire of the weekend was in Wichita County, where a blaze believed started by arsonists blackened 8,000 acres before it was contained.

"It (the fire) jumped a highway and burned all that land" in less than three hours, Sloat said.

Ranchers in the Wichita County area have posted a $1,000 reward for the conviction of anyone caught setting fires, he added.

About 75 persons and 11 volunteer fire companies battled the blaze, which was finally brought under control when a firebreak was plowed by bulldozers.

Estes mansion bidder 'didn't get a bargain'

PECOS (AP) — The mansion and guest house where Billie Sol Estes lived in luxury during the 1960s was sold at auction for $61,000.

The complex, built while the convicted swindler was amassing a personal fortune, was damaged by vandals, scorched by fire, and ravaged by years of neglect since Estes moved to Abilene in 1963 after his financial empire collapsed in a flurry of federal fraud indictments.

It was bought Tuesday by a privately-sponsored home for women in trouble. The home has occupied the property for the past three years, providing a temporary residence for unwed mothers, battered or deserted wives, and other women suffering from personal trauma.

"It would take another $40,000 to $50,000 to repair it to anywhere close to what it was," said a Pecos building contractor who asked that his name not be used. "I wouldn't have bid more than $35,000 for it. They were lucky to sell it for what they did."

In Abilene, Estes' wife Patsy said she was pleased with the outcome of Tuesday's sale, held to pay back taxes owed by her husband.

"I'm glad. I'd rather see the house used by those girls than anything else," she said.

Mrs. Estes said she was surprised "in a way" that the home sold for only $61,000, but "I knew it was run down. I went through it a few months ago and it looks pretty sick."

But the women living there and backers of the home cheered when their bid went unchallenged as a crowd of about 75 spectators stood on the steps of the Reeves County Courthouse.

There were only two other bidders — a Pecos chiropractor and two partners who wanted to turn the mansion into a restaurant, and a retired contractor from Terrell who was considering moving here.

Lubbock officials detain pair after girl is slain

LUBBOCK (AP) — A man and a woman charged with murdering 18-year-old Eula Jean Lewis remained in county jail here today under $100,000 bond, police said.

Charles Everett Reynolds, 38, and Louise Ross, 23, both of Lubbock, were arraigned before Justice of the Peace L.J. Blalack Tuesday in connection with the death of the Lubbock woman.

A Department of Public Safety trooper found her body wrapped in a blanket in the back of the pair's car after they were spotted trying to avoid a routine drivers license check just east of Lubbock, said DPS

Capt. Billy Melton. Melton said the victim was wearing only red jogging shorts and had apparently been dead for about six hours.

Blalack said an autopsy has been performed, but the final results will not be known "for two or three days."

Two jailed after triple slaying in Waco vicinity

WACO, Texas (AP) — Two men remained jailed under $200,000 bond each here today after being charged with capital murder in the shooting deaths of two convenience store clerks, police said.

Carl E. Kelley, 20, and Thomas I. Graves, 18, both of Waco, were arraigned and charged with two counts of capital murder each.

The body of a third man, an unidentified transient, was found at the foot of a cliff with Waco clerk Steven Wade Pryor, 18, who was abducted from his store after a robbery about 4 a.m. Tuesday. Both had been shot in the head.

"Some change and a muscular dystrophy jar" were stolen in the holdup, officers said.

Witnesses said two or three men "paraded" Pryor to his late model Camaro and forced him inside. Police speculated the transient had been asleep inside the car.

Edward Anderson Traywick, 65, of Waco, was shot in the chest during a robbery of his store about 11 p.m. Monday. His 63-year-old wife Lillian and an unidentified woman also were shot, and remained hospitalized in stable condition.

Two handguns and about $100 were taken from the store, police said.

Graves was arrested in Hillsboro, north of Waco, when police stopped a car matching the description of Pryor's auto Tuesday.

1 teaspoon Imperial Granulated Sugar	1 cup hot water
3/4 cup shortening	3 eggs, beaten
	4 cups all-purpose flour (approx.)

Add 2 cups of the flour and beat well. Stir in another 2-2 1/2 cups of the flour to make a soft dough. Refrigerate covered dough in large mixing bowl overnight. Divide dough into three portions. Roll one portion of dough into circle 1/4" thick and cut with biscuit cutter into 2" diameter. Simmer sausages in covered pan about 5 minutes. Place a sausage in center of each circle of dough. Moisten edges of dough with a little water, lap one side of dough over sausage and press edges of dough together to seal. Repeat with remaining dough. EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

The plumber in President Carter

Popular history still paints Richard Nixon as the paradigmatic paranoid of politics, and there is no doubt as to his weaknesses on that score. We are fearful, however, that some perspective is lost in this mediated account. The fact is that politicians and presidents are, by the nature of the power they hold and seek, a suspicious and covetous sort.

Franklin Roosevelt was ruthless in dealing with wayward subordinates, but most people remember him fondly. Lyndon Johnson was much the same way, only equipped with more advanced means of monitoring dissent. Now Jimmy Carter, the born-again Baptist, is showing increasing signs of affliction with the same type of paramourty.

The New York Times last week reported that Carter, angry about leaks of foreign policy deliberations that seem to us more an embarrassment to him than an exposure of security-related matters, demanded that his aides swear they were not responsible.

According to the story, Carter dispatched investigators to obtain affidavits from Cabinet members and other senior officials assuring him that they were not the source for recent press reports that have unnerved him. His order reportedly is a first.

Justice Department (why is it called that?) officials say the inquiry is one of 15 currently examining publications of secret military or diplomatic information. Ten others were completed last year, including one that resulted in a dismissal of one State Department official and the resignations of others.

In one case, FBI agents questioned several high-and mid-level personnel who attended a briefing on military aid to Morocco. A Washington Post story following the meeting reported division within the administration over the matter, and this apparently incensed the president. The one attendee who refused to swear to his silence about what went on, then-State Department spokesman Hodding Carter III has since resigned.

According to one disputed account, the president has threatened to dismiss ranking officials if unauthorized disclosures were found to be coming from their areas of supervision. The message allegedly followed a CBS News report in February 1979 that American officials believed the Bakhtiar government in Iran would fall.

From the complete lack of any prosecutions resulting from these investigations, we can surmise that the Justice Department is being used by the president to do housecleaning within his official family. Indeed, according to the Times story, the inquiries "are a tool for intimidating people, not prosecuting them."

Certainly it can be argued that a president can legitimately request that some matters be kept secret, and can attempt to discern who is talking in defiance of that order. And some of the items that have been leaked can be construed to have national security implications — an electronic listening post in Norway to monitor Soviet arms-control compliance was one — although it is often the case that adversaries of the United States turn out to know much more than the American people about such matters, even before they hit the press.

The line between impaired security and political embarrassment can be blurred, though, and an indiscriminate obsession with secrecy is one of the surest symptoms we know of a president on the road to tyranny. The powers of that office to manipulate people and events being what they are, the presumption of right must be with disclosure and against a man who seeks to prevent it.

By Don Graff
Don't knock Gray Power. It has compelled the U.S. government to knuckle under — well, step back a bit — on a point that learned economists and eloquent editorialists have had singular lack of success in getting across.

The government — the Treasury Department, to be precise — has agreed to change the promotion for its Savings Bond program to reflect the real world somewhat more accurately.

Last year the Gray Panthers, a senior citizens organization, filed complaints with the Federal Trade Commission charging Treasury with deceptive advertising for touting the bonds as a good investment but neglecting to mention inflation's devastating effect on the returns on that investment.

The effect is apparent to anyone with the least interest in current interest rates. Paying a top seven percent, the bonds trail the inflation rate by several laps and for all practical purposes offer no better deal than an ordinary passbook savings account. And a considerably worse deal than money market certificates which, with a $10,000 minimum, are out of the league of most small savers who have long made up the bonds' principal market — or victims, as the case may be.

The result has been that many older buyers, who had purchased bonds over the years in good faith and hopes of increased retirement income, find they are no better off than if they had held on to the cash.

The complaints have been heard — amplified more than likely by recent bottom lines showing bond redemptions so far this year running at about five times the dollar volume of purchases.

The bond advertising program is being changed. No longer will the public be misled that Savings Bonds are "one sure way to make your dreams come true" and to "put your financial worries at rest."

Instead, the all-new 1980 campaign describes the bonds as "one of the best methods of forced savings" and "a sure way to save the dough that runs through your fingers."

Well, it's a change, but still a long way from the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

Gray Power clearly still has work cut out for it.

A trenchcoat is a trenchcoat is...

And speaking of advertising, generations of American males have been getting the message across that the heart of an adventurer beats within the outwardly ordinary man in the street by appearing in the streets clad in a trenchcoat.

You know — waterproof-drab, double-breasted, belted (but tied, never buckled, unless you want to blow the whole effect), brass rings, epaulets and all. There are trenchcoats and trenchcoats, but nothing to beat the real thing, manufactured in Britain where it was created to keep officers snug in the trenches of World War I.

But back to the epaulets, U.S. Customs is now questioning whether these are strictly necessary for the primary purpose of the trenchcoat — which is to provide protection, not dash. If not, the trenchcoat for import purposes may be reclassified as an "ornament garment" and subjected to a 35 percent duty, rather than the 8 percent levied on ordinary garments.

The British manufacturers admit the epaulets are rarely used these days to secure binocular straps, nor are the brass rings weighted with grenades, the original functions. But rather than remove them to retain the beneficial lower duty, it has been decided to fight the issue to the end on the principle the features are not ornamentation but what make a trenchcoat a trenchcoat.

Successfully, it is to be hoped. Otherwise, the private eye and foreign correspondent businesses may never be the same.

You can be more than you are

By Bob Beamon

Americans now living can remember confident, published predictions that "Man will never travel faster than 60 miles an hour; the wind would suck his breath away!"

Barney Oldfield did it; thereafter everybody did.

Half a century ago many physiologists were convinced that "no human would ever run a mile in four minutes" — so none did.

Until Roger Bannister — who didn't know any better — demonstrated that it could be done. Within two years, three others.

Today's professional golfers are breaking into the heretofore no man's land of "the fifties."

In 1934, University of California track coach Brutus Hamilton set forth "the absolute ultimate" to which track and field athletes could aspire. Most of those records were broken within 20 years and by now all have been.

Indeed, today's high school athletes are outperforming the Olympics champions of a generation ago.

Women swimmers are now eclipsing the men's Olympic records of 1964.

Is there no limit to how fast or far we can run, how high we can jump, how much we can lift?

Can you and I do more than we do, be more than we are?

In 1968 at the Olympic Stadium in Mexico

City, U.S. long-jumper Bob Beamon sucked in deep gulps of the thin air, fixed his gaze on the takeoff board more than 100 feet away — then moved.

Accelerating down the path he reached a speed of approximately 24 miles an hour. He hit the board perfectly, then converted his speed into an upward and outward thrust — the torque and force lifting his body 5 1/2 to 6 feet in the air.

Kicking his legs — running in space — and raising his knees into an awkward, froglike position, then stretching them forward, he hit the sand in the pit.

Until that day nobody had ever broad jumped 28 feet. His jump was 29 feet, 2 1/2 inches! Almost two feet more than any human had ever jumped before!

Houston sportswriter Jay Stuller, observing, was fascinated. What had happened? He began to research the new degree of human excellence, first by consulting with sports scientists.

Sports medicine is not a new science. Early Greek physicians were involved in all aspects of an athlete's training. Herodicus, teacher of Hippocrates, trained athletes.

Now the American College of Sports Medicine includes a wide range of medical specialists.

Dr. Marvin Clein, University of Denver, sees athletes improving in their ability to use oxygen, their ability to exert explosive force, and in developing body structure most advantageous for specific contests.

"The psychology of record breaking is inexact," concedes Dr. Clein, "but it is a terrible and sometimes frightening factor."

Dr. Bruce Ogilvie of San Jose State says, "The main mental interference is self-doubt. Sometimes the mental block is subconscious, but just as surely as we hear of some athlete 'on a winning streak,' we also note that failure begets failure."

Unfortunately, this has led many athletes to use drugs — steroids — if only because they know their competitors are doing it.

Dr. Ogilvie says the durable athletes will be those who develop self-confidence without pills.

How much more can we expect of ourselves? Dr. William Fink of the Human Performance Laboratory at Ball State says, "We really don't know."

Our superb athletes continue to surprise us.

During the Frank Leahy years at Notre Dame it was axiomatic that, if you ever wanted to beat Notre Dame, "Don't get ahead in the first half!"

Something magic happened in the locker room at halftime after which first-downs were piled on first-downs, touchdown after touchdown.

What happened at halftime? The Leahy pep talk went something like this: "Johnny Lujack, you were great that first half. You were as good as I have ever seen you. But it wasn't good enough. The second half, you're going to have to be 'better than Lujack.'"

That meant move quicker, hit harder, run faster — than yourself!

With each team member thus inspired to better his own effort the Irish became indomitable.

W. Clement Stone says you can outdo you — if you really want to.

Uniting the "Democrats"

By Robert J. Wagman
NEW YORK (NEA) — The seventh floor of the Democratic Convention's headquarters hotel was turned over to organizations representing various political and social causes. Walking down the incredibly crowded corridors — carefully stepping over the young environmentalists who pitched their sleeping bags at one end of a hallway — and contrasting the scene with that in Detroit last month, it was easy to see what differentiates Democrats from Republicans.

In one room after another were arranged the New Democratic Coalition, Democrats for U.N. Reform, Democrats for Solar Energy, Democrats Against the Draft, Gay Vote '80, Asian and Pacific Democratic Caucus, Democratic Socialist Committee Against the MX, the National Women's Political Caucus, the American Federation of Teachers, the Dellums for President Committee; the Coalition for Women's Rights, the National Organization for Women and — housed in adjoining rooms in an amazing display of logistical insensitivity — Democrats for Choice and Democrats for Pro-Life, the two most vehemently pro- and anti-abortion groups.

If you had asked the inhabitants of the corridors to label themselves, they would have said "blacks" or "women" or "gays" or "Hispanics" or "pro-lifers" or "environmentalists" or "unionists" or "Asians." What you would not have heard was the term "Democrats."

In fact, most delegates to the convention saw themselves primarily as representatives of one interest group or another. It was the goals and the programs of these groups, often different and conflicting, that were foremost in the minds of those who gathered in New York.

Contrast this scene with the Republican Convention. Virtually all the delegates in Detroit had come out of the same mold. With few exceptions they were college-educated, middle-aged, upper middle-class whites who shared the same conservative political philosophy.

Had you asked these delegates to label themselves, most would have answered "Republicans."

This difference will be the Democratic Party's biggest problem in the 1980 general election.

Over the past decade as the Republican Party has become an association of individuals with basically the same background, philosophy and goals, the Democratic Party has become a rather loose confederation of interest groups tied mainly by their shared belief that the Republicans are the main opposition to whatever cause they are individually promoting.

These groups often repeat the same phrases: "They (meaning the Democratic Party professionals) had better not take us for granted." Or, "If the party does not support our goals, it will self-destruct because our goals are shared by a majority of Democrats." (Virtually identical versions of this statement were voiced in back-to-back press conferences by the pro- and anti-abortion groups shortly before the platform debate on abortion funding.)

These "Democrats" are willing to work hard for the party in November — if the party is willing to advance their cause. If it is not, they say they will seek some other avenue of expression — this year that usually means John Anderson — or sit out the election.

So when Jimmy Carter and other Democratic officials speak of uniting their party, they are talking about a far more difficult job than simply bringing together the forces of Carter and Sen. Edward Kennedy. What they are talking about is trying to please an increasingly diverse group of special interests, many of which are in conflict with one another.

Given the short time until the election and given this year's three-man presidential race, "uniting the party" shapes up to be quite a job.

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Numerous organizations have been formed to protect women against sexual harassment by their supervisors, but to my knowledge none has been formed to protect us men.

As president of a large corporation and formerly holding numerous executive positions, I know that women are equally aggressive in offering their favors, but more subtle in their approach, i.e.:

"My husband is out of town, so why don't you come over and swim with me in our pool?"

Or, "I'm so tired. Will you buy me a drink after work?"

Or, "My car has broken down. I'll pour you a cool one if you'll drive me home."

I've had female employees lean down and brush my arm with their breasts, or sit unnecessarily close while taking dictation, exposing a leg up to the thigh through a slit skirt. I've had them tell me they admire my body. Some have even come right out and said they'd like to go to bed with me! Of course, a man who turns down a lady's favors hurls the ultimate insult.

I seriously question that any woman must submit to sexual overtures to hold her job. I suspect if she gets involved with her boss, it was her idea.

So how about an organization to protect men from aggressive female employees? This letter will never see print, but at least I got it off my chest.

HARRASSED IN GARLAND, TEXAS

DEAR HARRASSED: I'm all for equality. Why don't you round up other men who need protection against female harassment and form a protective society?

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for saying in your column that doctors can treat kids for VD without telling the kids' parents. I never knew that. I am a 16-year-old boy who has been worried about having VD for the past three months, but I was afraid to do anything about it.

After I read your column, I called our family doctor and asked him if he would see me without telling my folks. He said to come right down and everything would be confidential. I went and found out I had gonorrhea. That wonderful doctor treated me for it and didn't charge me anything. I'm saving my money, and come Christmas he's going to get a very fine present from me. Thank you, too, Abby.

WINNETKA READER

DEAR READER: If there are any other young readers out there who are afraid to see a doctor, telephone your county public health department (the number is in your telephone directory), level with them, and they will provide a confidential examination and treatment if necessary. If they refuse, write to me immediately, and I will tell you where you can get help.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter, who had four small children, passed away, and two years later our son-in-law married a widow with one child.

We were told that we may not have our four grandchildren visit us unless we take all five! Our son-in-law is bending over backward to show no preference for his own children over his stepchild, but we think he is going too far. What do you think?

GRANDPARENTS OF FOUR—NOT FIVE

DEAR GRANDPARENTS: Give him your fullest cooperation. He sounds like a wonderful person, deserving of all the help he can get.

Do you have questions about sex, love, drugs and the pain of growing up? Get Abby's new booklet: "What Every Teen-ager Ought To Know." Send $2 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Teen Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Log homes increasingly popular

By BARBARA MAYER AP Newsfeatures

What could be more historic than a log cabin?

The residence that young Abe Lincoln is said to have called home may be the stuff of history. But in this case, history is being made in the present, because log homes appear to be gaining converts at a rapid rate.

According to one manufacturer, at least 70,000 log homes will be built in the United States during 1980. Richard Considine, president of Lincoln Logs Ltd. of Chestertown, N.Y., said log home sales have increased industrywide 50 percent a year for each of the past two years.

Furthermore, log homes — which once seemed limited to the second home market in rural areas — now more often are built as year-round residences all over the United States.

A market also is developing in Western Europe. Considine said 80 percent of the 400 homes a year his company sells go to buyers who live in them year-round, often in suburban areas.

"The main reason for the success of log homes is cost," he noted. About two-thirds of the homes he sells are bought by do-it-yourselfers who put up all or part of their homes themselves.

Log homes are part of the growing stock of alternative housing — affordable because people do some of the construction themselves or because prefabrication or other low-cost methods have been used in production. The failure of mainstream housing methods to provide for moderate income families is fostering the market for such alternatives, Considine noted in an interview in New York.

Lincoln Logs Ltd. (there is no connection with the Lincoln Logs toy) is one of about 20 larger companies selling all the components for a home in an industry which now numbers about 200 suppliers.

Prices for a basic log home shell, excluding foundation, interior partitions and site preparation, run from about $9,000 to $30,000 for homes ranging in size from 700 square feet to 3,000 square feet. A mid-range model with 1,320 square feet is $13,000. And consumers can figure that the final cost will be about three times the cost of the shell, Considine added.

Besides cost, he said, other reasons for the appeal of log homes are their historic identification with America's past, the charm of natural wood components, ease of maintenance and energy efficiency.

Considine developed his company's product after working for a number of years as a land broker and observing the hunger of middle income individuals for a home of their own.

"It occurred to me to come up with a house that would cost less money, something these people could afford," he said. A number of companies sell log home packages and there are many others selling prepared logs and house plans. Considine suggested that consumers who wish to explore the feasibility of constructing a log home send for literature from a variety of manufacturers and compare the offerings.

Classic fall styles are easy to sew

PREPPIE LOOK includes (left) the classic shirtwaist with narrow lace at collar and cuffs and down the buttoned-front, and the classic piped-and-crested blazer (right). The latter is worn with Bermuda shorts or matching skirt. (Sketches by Christina Holmes, courtesy Sew Business) for some time in Ivy League, Brooks Brothers looks, but in recent decades was overshadowed by the ethnic outfits and the jeans craze.

A number of styles add up to the preppie look. On the must list are lace-trimmed shirtwaist dresses, plaid kilts with soft blouses, dark blazers with crests on the pockets, Shetland and Fair Isle sweaters, Bermuda shorts and knee socks, pleated skirts with matching sweaters. Penny loafers are back, too. But this generation's preppie look is done in clearer, brighter colors than previously. It can take advantage of new fabrics incorporating easy-care synthetics, and adds accessories such as lace collars, ribbon neckties and boldly patterned knee socks for pizzazz to investment dressing.

If you wore all this during your own school days, you'll want to check out the ways a career woman can wear the new classics. A sophisticated approach is the Chanel-type suit with pleated skirt and straight braid-trimmed jacket.

New sewing machines, new fabrics and new sewing aids make it easier than ever to sew the new looks. Lace or braid trim can be stitched on with one of the many fancy stitches offered on most machines. A new 1/8-inch ribbon, used to trim tailored shirts and shirt dresses, can be expertly applied with a twin needle. New iron-on interfacing speeds the construction of tailored jackets. Machine-made buttonholes are precise and much faster than bound buttonholes.

So pick out your classic-look fabrics, shop the pattern catalogs for the new patterns and get started on your investment sewing for fall. This look promises to be with us for some time, because it's easy to wear and flattering to most figures, so your sewing time will be well spent.

By Joanne Schreiber

The preppie look is the newest look for fashion-minded young women, and pattern catalogs are full of the newly classic styles.

The word comes from the kind of dressing expected of youngsters in upper-class preparatory schools. It's also used to describe a student at one of these schools. The look has been around

Marketing techniques are key to successful garage sales

You'll earn twice as much money on a garage sale if you use the marketing techniques of garage, tag and estate sale specialists. The following money-making tactics from the pros are selected from a Family Circle magazine feature, "Garage Sales: How to Double Your Money."

To begin with, says the article, think of your sale as "tag" rather than "garage," and separate your merchandise according to type and value. Items such as furniture, tableware, jewelry and clothing will sell best in the house itself, while pots and pans, appliances, old books and magazines, toys, tools and garden equipment should remain in the garage.

Advertise. Make signs on brightly colored oaktag and tack them onto trees and telephone poles, especially on main streets near your home. Make your message big, bold and brief (example: "TAG SALE, SAT.-SUN., 10-5, 1525 Oakland") and draw an arrow on the sign to point drivers in the right direction. (Decency requires you to take your signs down as soon as the sale is over.) Also pin up messages in your supermarket, library and bank. Use an eye-catching graphic, like a cardboard cutout of your house imprinted with your message.

Advertise in newspapers in your town and neighboring towns as well. It pays. Be specific in your ads. For example, don't say: "Garage sale, moving, appliances." Instead, say: "KitchenAid dishwasher, 7' refriger-freezer, lawn tractor like brand-new."

Display your merchandise with both sales appeal and security in mind. Arrange more-or-less valuable jewelry in a cabinet with shelves and a clear glass door. Or, in a pinch, cover a section with dark velvet and pin each item to it. Put small, valuable items on a windowsill or mantel behind a table where you'll be positioned. That way they're visible and safe — if a customer wants to examine a piece, he'll have to ask you to hand it over.

Naturally, setting the right price is essential. To find out what your more valuable pieces might go for, take them to a few antique dealers and try to sell them, anything you later get over the price(s) they offer you is pure gravy.

Last, and certainly not least, Family Circle recommends the following security measures:

Have at least one "guard" stationed in each room open to the public.

Rope off areas of your home not in use and post signs to that effect.

List your major items with their prices and keep this list near the cash box. This way the cashier can double-check each transaction.

Your material prospects for the coming year look good, but things may not happen as speedily as you'd like. Nevertheless, when the final tally is in you'll be ahead.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Others will respond to you today according to the way you see yourself. Think and act like a winner and it will discourage those who would offer you competition or opposition. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail $1 for each of Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Major accomplishments are possible today, but you might have to alter your plans a bit to get things done. Be flexible. Roll with the punches.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Enjoy your friends today for what they have to offer, even though you may spot some obvious faults in their behavior, which you'd like to correct.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Concentrate on collective ventures that have promising potential. If you were lucky in this area yesterday, you could be even luckier today.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't be afraid to change your mind today if you feel your initial judgment was incorrect. Others will think more of you, not less, when you admit mistakes.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) This is not a good day to try to tackle two important projects at the same time. You will be successful if your efforts are singular rather than spread out.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Go along with the will of the majority today, instead of trying to satisfy personal interests. Good things will happen if your attitude is democratic.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Business or social acquaintances you recently met and would like to get to know better could be impressed by your hospitality at home today. Put out the red carpet.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The old adage "variety is the spice of life" suits you today. Select activities that keep you loose and mobile.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're still under good money aspects, but not where gambling is concerned. Be prudent and practical. Play things close to the vest.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll be able to satisfactorily pull off ideas or plans that are large in scope today. A word of caution: Don't tip your hand in advance.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A gentle reminder today to one who is financially obligated to you might be all that is necessary to clear up this debt. Be tactful.

VENICE, Italy (AP) — Music-lovers paid up to 200,000 lire — $240 — for a ticket to hear a one-hour recital by Andres Segovia, the 86-year-old virtuoso guitarist.

Segovia, who performed at the ornate La Fenice theater Tuesday night, was given a welcomer by Rigouernm ;nitariPresident Amintore Fanfani waited outside the theater to greet Segovia.

Segovia, a Spaniard, was given the Grand Cross of Cavalry, one of Italy's highest civilian honors.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)

— Actress Goldie Hawn has been sued for divorce by her husband of four years, singer Bill Hudson.

The Superior Court suit was filed Aug. 15, court records show. Representatives of Miss Hawn or Hudson could not be reached for comment Tuesday.

The couple has two children. Miss Hawn, 34, rose to fame as the non-stop giggler on the 1960s television series "Laugh In" and won an Academy Award as best supporting actress in the 1969 film "Cactus Flower."

She makes her debut as executive producer in the forthcoming film "Private Benjamin," in which she also stars.

Hudson is a member of the Hudson Brothers singing group.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Betty Ford's battle against drinking and drug use has given her useful insight for her new position as a member of a state health care advisory committee, according to California's health director.

The former first lady, who was treated for an alcohol and drug problem in 1978, will serve on a committee on hospital care for people with similar problems. Health Director Beverlee Myers said Tuesday.

Mrs. Ford and her husband, former President Gerald Ford, live in Rancho Mirage, near Palm Springs.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — James Woods, the bad-guy actor in such films as "The Onion Field" and "In the Heat of the Night," has married model Kathy Greko.

Woods, 33, who just completed filming of his latest movie, "Fast-Walking," was married to Ms. Greko, 23, in Las Vegas, Nev., over the weekend, according to his agent, Mel Asch.

Woods, who played a killer in "The Onion Field," has his first romantic lead role in "Fast-Walking," in which he plays a prison guard opposite Kay Lenz.

He also played the doomed artist Carl, opposite Meryl Streep, in the television miniseries "Holocaust."

Student editor jailed in Austin

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Daily Texan Editor Mark McKinnon went to jail for almost two hours Tuesday rather than obey a judge's order to hand over unpublished photographic negatives of the alleged disruption of a former Iranian ambassador's speech.

"We are determined not to hand over the negatives," said McKinnon as a bailiff led him away to jail.

McKinnon, editor of the University of Texas student newspaper, was released on $1,000 bond, pending a hearing Thursday on his claim the contempt order was unconstitutional.

But the hearing probably will not take place because the issue will be moot if the trial of 16 Middle Eastern students accused of disrupting the speech has concluded by then, said Jim George, McKinnon's attorney.

STUDENT PAPER EDITOR FINGERPRINTED. Mark McKinnon, right, editor of The Daily Texan, student newspaper at the University of Texas, is fingerprinted by Travis County Deputy Keith Davis as he enters county jail Tuesday. McKinnon was sentenced to jail until he turns over photographic negatives taken Jan. 31 when Middle Eastern students allegedly disrupted a speech for a former Iranian official. He has refused to turn the negatives over to a county judge.

(AP Laserphoto)

The judge permitted one of the students, Mehran Ebrahimi, to speak for the defendants.

Ebrahimi claimed the United States was grooming Hoveyda and others for a takeover of Iran from the Ayatollah Khomeini and was sending them to college campuses to portray themselves as "a progressive anti-shah element."

He said Hoveyda represented "a regime that killed our brothers and sisters and destroyed our economy and, with that, our independence and freedom."

Bill Allison, attorney for the students, said their "passion" was similar to that of America's founding fathers, who felt "the same kind of rage when our country was being gutted and raped by Great Britain."

Allison said the state had failed to prove its case against any student because identifications were shaky and witnesses' accounts conflicted.

Jeff Blackwelder, assistant county attorney, said the state had proved its case and referred to the students as "intimidators" who had interfered with society's right to a "free flow of ideas."

"Our society has a very real interest in the free flow of ideas, but because of the de facto censorship engaged in by this small group of people, society's interest in the free flow of ideas was put in jeopardy," he said.

Blackwelder urged Wisser to convict all 16 and serve notice that "freedom of speech is going to be protected in Texas."

Through much of the trial, McKinnon's predicament got more attention than the case of the Iranian and Palestinian students.

George said a decision will be made later whether to appeal his $100 fine for contempt of court as a test of whether Texas judges can compel newspapers to produce unpublished photographs sought as evidence in criminal trials.

George said this might not be the best vehicle for a test case, however.

"There are lots of potential procedural problems that would not present the issue in as clear relief as would be best for the press generally," George told reporters.

McKinnon, 25, said, "I don't want to go to jail" but preferred that to handing over the negatives.

The young editor was fingerprinted and photographed, then placed in a "tank" with four other prisoners.

State District Judge Pete Lowry, recently appointed by President Carter to the federal bench, scheduled McKinnon's habeas corpus hearing after another judge, Tom Blackwell, ordered the editor's release on bail.

School must provide child's medical care

IRVING (AP) — An attorney for a family whose 5-year-old daughter requires daily catheterization says he will try to get a court hearing scheduled soon so the girl can attend school this year.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans overturned Tuesday a Dallas judge's ruling that the Irving Independent School District was not required to perform the procedure while she was at school.

Amber Tatro suffers from a birth defect that makes it impossible for her to empty her bladder voluntarily, and the procedure must be done every three to four hours.

Her parents, Henri and Mary Tatro of Irving, a Dallas suburb, sued after the school district refused to perform the catheterizations.

"We are happy for our daughter," Mrs. Tatro said after the ruling. "Our daughter has missed a whole year of school already and we want to get her back in school as soon as possible. It will be a relief for us if she can go to school."

The Tatro's attorney, Craig Enoch, said he would move ahead with the case as soon as he read the decision.

"We have a child who is not being educated ... for the second year," he said.

The court returned the case to State District Judge Patrick E. Higginbotham, saying it was similar to the case in which a deaf graduate student demanded that the University of Texas furnish him with a sign language interpreter.

The 5th Circuit upheld an order commanding Texas to provide the interpreter because failure to do so "amounted to the exclusion of plaintiff from the university's programs..."

"Analogously, Amber has been excluded from the school district's programs by the district's refusal to provide CIC," or "clean intermittent catheterization," the 5th Circuit said.

But Jim Deatherage, attorney for the Irving schools, said the catheterization process was "not something related to education such as an interpreter would be."

"The district will abide by whatever a federal court decides whenever it is final," he added.

Last year, Amber became eligible for the early childhood development program under the Education for All Handicapped Children Act of 1975.

An Irving school committee set up a program of physical and speech therapy for Amber, but refused to undertake the CIC each school day.

Higginbotham said a literal interpretation of the act would require a school to furnish whatever medical life support system was necessary.

But he said the Tatro's "cannot convert a statute prohibiting discrimination in certain governmental programs to a statute requiring, in essence, the setting up of governmental health care for people seeking to participate in such programs."

Chinese students to look over Texas ag

LUBBOCK — Eight agricultural scientists from the People's Republic of China will make Texas Tech University their first stop in a tour of four U.S. campuses in September.

The eight, specialists in range management, forestry and conservation from Gansu Agricultural University and other institutions, will be at Texas Tech September 6-10. While in Lubbock they will tour various programs in range management, soil conservation, and arid and semi-arid land studies.

Their visit to Texas Tech will be co-sponsored by the Department of Range and Wildlife Management and the International Center for Arid and Semi-Arid Land Studies (ICASALS).

Other stops on their U.S. visit, September 2-21, include Colorado State University, the University of Nebraska Panhandle Agricultural Research and Extension Center in Scottsbluff, and Utah State University.

Health officials announce spraying to begin soon

HOUSTON (AP) — Health officials say an intensified county-wide spraying program to control mosquitoes carrying St. Louis encephalitis will begin as soon as fogging equipment is delivered and workers are trained.

City and county officials estimate from 300 to 400 workers have been recruited to spray ditches containing stagnant water where the mosquitoes tend to breed.

A sixth confirmed case of SLE was reported Tuesday by health officials in Harris County. The latest confirmed case was a 56-year-old man, suspected earlier this year of carrying the virus causing sleeping sickness.

Last week, the County Commissioners authorized the purchase of 300 hand sprayers from a Pennsylvania firm. Officials hope to eliminate the possibility of the outbreak of SLE worsening before the end of the mosquito breeding season, usually in late October.

Frosh have size, quickness

With quickness to go along with size, the Pampa ninth grade football squad should enjoy a productive 1980 season. "Last year we had some big linemen, but we weren't all that quick," said freshman head coach Dickie Crockett. "Now we've got some quickness to add to our size."

Crockett has shelved a two-platoon system he employed last season because he's got several talented players who can go both ways.

"We've had youngsters who have come forth this year to prove they can do the job on both offense and defense," Crockett said. Quarterback Deven Cross and fullback Danny Sebastian are just two of the multi-talented youngsters.

"Deven is going to help us a lot this year," Crockett said. "He's a fine all-around athlete who can pass, punt and kick. Danny is another fine all-around player who will be going both ways."

Linemen Dennis Kempe, Charles Weese and David Parr will help give the frosh a strong, mobile line.

"It's really enjoyable to coach these kids," Crockett said. "They've got a real good attitude and they want to win."

Pampa opens the season at home Thursday, Sept. 11 against Hereford La Plata.

Pampa spikers rout Dumas

Pampa's Lady Harvesters ran their unbeaten string to 6-0 with 15-4, 15-9, wins over Dumas Tuesday night in volleyball action.

Hard-to-handle serves and a solid defense by Pampa baffled Dumas all night.

"Lena Young and Susan Richardson had several blocks at the net while Deanna Porter hit 13 of 13 serves," Pampa Coach Lynn Wolfe said. "We missed only three serves the entire match."

Pampa also won the junior varsity match, 15-4, 15-9.

Leading Pampa's strong service attack were Brandi Huff (19-30), Teresa Glover (10-10) and Sharolyn Salisbury (6-6).

In last weekend's match against Lubbock Monterey, doubleheader with Monterey JV, losing the first match, 15-8, 15-12, but winning the second, 15-11, 15-9.

Pampa enters the Berger Tournament this weekend, meeting at unnamed opponent at 10:30 a.m. Saturday in the first round.

Pampa's annual tournament has been canceled this season since the high school fieldhouse is undergoing remodeling and repairs.

The Harvesters' next home match is Tuesday, Sept. 9 against Hereford at Clarendon College-Pampa Center. The junior varsity match starts at 6:30 p.m.

Pampa's first District 3-5A match is with Amarillo Caprock on Oct. 4 there.

Fritsch receives probation

DALLAS (AP) — Houston Oilers kicker Toni Fritsch has been given an eight-year probation sentence following his guilty plea on a manslaughter charge in the death of a woman in an automobile accident.

Fritsch, 34, entered the plea Friday in the May 26 death of Neida K. Burks, 41, of Plano.

Officers said Mrs. Burks died after a car driven by the former Dallas Cowboys place-kicker went out of control on a Dallas expressway and overturned before being struck by oncoming traffic.

Persons who had been with Fritsch earlier the evening of the accident said he had been drinking, police said.

State District Judge Don Metcalfe set Fritsch's punishment at eight years probation and ordered him to pay $44 in court costs.

Fritsch also faces a civil suit filed against him by William Gerald Pillow, Mrs. Burks' son, who claims in the suit Fritsch's action caused his mother's death.

The Austrian-born kicker was hospitalized in Dallas several days following the accident.

Connors advances to quarterfinals

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Jimmy Connors didn't let thunder, lightning, rain, low-flying bats or some fine tennis by South African Bernie Mitton bother him Tuesday night.

The third-seeded Connors advanced to the quarterfinals of the U.S. Open with a 7-6, 6-4, 6-4 victory over Mitton under the lights at the National Tennis Center. The match also was played with lightning flashing above, strong winds whipping through the stadium, thunder and, with the second set tied 4-4, a drenching rainstorm that forced a 50-minute suspension of play.

"Considering the conditions, I thought we played some good tennis," said Connors. "It started to get so windy we couldn't time the balls well. Then at 4-4, I asked Mike (Blanchard, the tournament referee) to keep his eyes on the lightning, make sure it didn't get too close. With my (steel) racket, I'd get sizzled."

Instead, Connors sizzled after the rain delay, running out the set. Then, early in the third set, came another interruption.

Two objects swooped down to court level, then began flying around the stands.

Were they bats, Connors was asked?

"I don't know," he quipped. "I didn't get close enough to see."

In today's feature match, Roscoe Tanner was hoping to repeat his quarterfinal upset of top-seed Bjorn Borg of Sweden. Tanner scored a four-set triumph over Borg last year in a night match, but they were scheduled for an afternoon appearance this time.

The women's top seed and defending champion, Tracy Austin, opened today's proceedings against No. 13 Pam Shriver, providing a matchup of the teenage sensations of the last two Opens. Shriver, 18, reached the finals here two years ago, falling to Chris Evert Lloyd. Then Austin beat Lloyd for the title last year.

Lloyd, seeded third, battled Mima Jausovec of Yugoslavia and, in a night contest, No. 14 Wojtek Fibak of Poland played Johan Kriek of South Africa in the only other matches involving seeded players.

Connors felt he had fallen into some bad habits this week but, overall, was playing up to par.

"I shouldn't be in a position where I have to bear down for breaks, but I have been," he said. "I want to grind it out on my serve and make the other guy feel like he's playing catchup.

"I've played well but I want to play better in the next round and the next."

Among the women, No. 8 Andrea Jaeger stopped Renata Tomanova of Czechoslovakia 6-3, 6-0; No. 14 Ivanna Madruga bested Candy Reynolds 5-7, 6-3, 6-3, and unseeded Barbara Hallquist beat Lucia Romanov of Romania 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

"I played everything right," said Lendl, a 20-year-old two-time winner this year. "He beat me in Las Vegas 6-1, 6-1 but I didn't let him do anything today. I didn't have to do anything special to win. I just got to the balls."

Solomon agreed: "After about the second game, I couldn't move my feet. I didn't have any get-up-and-go so I got up and left."

Gottfried left the tournament mainly because Tetscher was plastering the lines with passing shots and serving bullets.

"The heat didn't bother me, only Eliot's passing shots did," said Gottfried, who could only shake his head each time Tetscher sent another blur past him.

"I can't remember when I passed so well," noted

Tetscher, the 18th-ranked player in the world and a winner at Atlanta prior to the Open. "I'm playing exceptionally well and haven't lost a set in nine matches. This is the furthest I've gotten in a major tournament."

The heat was at its worst during McEnroe's win, though it didn't bother the No. 2 seed.

"It was hot on the court," he admitted, "but I was playing solid games, my concentration was there. It's the best match I've played in the tournament; I've picked up a little each match."

Jaeger, too, felt things were picking up.

"At the beginning, she was playing well but I think she got tired in the second set," said the 15-year-old Jaeger, who next meets Madruga. "If I see somebody getting tired, I usually pick up my game a little."

Madruga struggled against Reynolds because "I was very nervous. I knew it would be difficult because Reynolds is a hard hitter. She kept me deep and kept coming to the net."

Madruga needn't worry about Jaeger attacking from the front court.

"Against Jaeger, I won't be so nervous," she said.

Trio arrested in Hogan trophies theft

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Three men were arrested at Fort Worth Tuesday after they allegedly attempted to sell trophies belonging to golfing great Ben Hogan to an undercover police officer.

The trophies, including four U.S. Open tournament gold medals and two Masters Tournament gold medals, were stolen last week from a display case at the Colonial Country Club.

Most of the trophies were recovered, according to police.

Officers said Detective Bill Steele went undercover Saturday, posing as a person who wanted to buy the items stolen from the country club.

Police Capt. Garland Geeslin said Steele made contact with the men and set up a meeting at a Fort Worth high school Tuesday night.

Steele agreed to pay about $35,000 for the trophies, Geeslin said.

He said Steele, Sgt. L.C. Henderson, Detective J.L. Terrell and Lt. S.D. Pruitt made arrangements for the meeting.

Three of the four men who met with police were arrested, but a fourth eluded officers and remained at large today, Geeslin said.

Geeslin said the trophies were recovered at an undisclosed location.

Most of the medals that were recovered were won by Hogan after he was injured seriously in 1949 in a bus-automobile accident. Doctors said Hogan might never walk again, but the Texan went on to win some of the biggest tournaments of his career.

Included among the trophies recovered were the prestigious 1953 Hickock Athlete of the year belt buckle, containing three pounds of gold and dozens of precious stones. The belt also was recovered, officers said.

Officers were elated at recovering the trophies, saying they had feared the thieves would melt the trophies down so they could not be recognized.

Phillies win

National League baseball roundup

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Vida Blue was tough — the Philadelphia Phillies were tougher.

"It took some grinding, but we did it," said Philadelphia Manager Dallas Green after his Phillies scored a hard-earned 2-1 victory over the San Francisco Giants in 13 innings Tuesday night.

Philadelphia managed to win despite a strong pitching performance by Blue, who allowed but two hits and one run to the Phillies over 10 innings.

"It was our best team effort of the year, by far," said Phillies reliever Warren Brusstar. "It took everybody to win it."

Brusstar created the most perilous situation of the game for the Phillies and pitched out of it in the 11th inning. The Giants loaded the bases with none out on a single, walk and bunt single. The next two batters, Milt May and Rennie Stennett, hit ground balls and the Phillies threw home for forceouts.

Brusstar fell behind 3-1 to pinch hitter Joe Strain. Strain took a pitch for a strike and fouled off three pitches before grounding out.

The victory kept the Phillies in first place in the National League East by percentage points over the Montreal Expos, 2-1 winners over San Diego.

In other NL action, Los Angeles beat New York 6-5; Atlanta whipped Chicago 10-5; and St. Louis stopped Cincinnati 12-4.

Manny Trillo started the Phillies' 13th with a double and later scored the winning run on Keith Moreland's sacrifice fly.

Blue retired 18 straight batters before Bob Boone, leading off the Philadelphia ninth, reached base on a throwing error by third baseman Darrell Evans. A sacrifice by Ramon Aviles, pinch hitting for Phillies starter Larry Christenson, sent pinch runner Jay Loviglio to second, and Lonnie Smith drove in the game's first run with a one-out single.

Dodgers 6, Mets 5
Derrel Thomas singled home the decisive run as Los Angeles scored three times in the sixth and held on to beat New York. The victory was the Dodgers' sixth straight and 13th in their last 15 games as they moved into a tie with idle Houston for first place in the NL West.

Dave Goltz, 7-7, Bobby Castillo and Don Stanhouse permitted only four New York hits. Stanhouse hurled the final two innings for his fourth save.

Braves 10, Cubs 5
Dale Murphy tripled with the bases loaded and Jerry Royster hit a pair of triples, leading Atlanta over Chicago for the surging Braves' 13th victory in 16 games.

Doyle Alexander, 13-7, was the winner, with Gene Garber working the last few innings. Mike Krukow, 8-14, was the loser.

Cardinals 12, Reds 4
Keith Hernandez smashed three hits, drove in three runs and scored four times and Ted Simmons collected two hits and knocked in four runs to lead St. Louis over Cincinnati.

Winner Bob Forsch, 11-7, scattered 11 hits in 7-1/3 innings before needing John Littlefield's relief help. The reliever gained his eighth save of the season.

Expos 2, Padres 1
Andre Dawson scored one run and drove in another and rookie right-hander Charlie Lea hurled seven innings of four-hit ball as Montreal defeated San Diego. Lea improved his record to 5-5 with relief help in the eighth from Woodie Fryman, who posted his 16th save.

Cowboys open against Redskins

DALLAS (AP) — Tom Landry says the noisy RPK Stadium crowd in Washington doesn't bother him, but the former defensive back quickly adds he doesn't have to suit up either.

The Dallas Cowboys have never beaten the Washington Redskins on a Monday night in Washington and that's the chore the defending National Conference Eastern Division champions face next week.

"There's just something electric about playing in that stadium," Landry said Tuesday at his weekly press luncheon. "It's a great experience."

Landry added "It doesn't intimidate me — but then I'm not out there on the field."

Landry said the National Football League opener for both teams was not exactly a make-or-break situation for the Cowboys.

"It's just important that we play well and will be a big plus if we win," said Landry. "We don't win too many times up there even when we are at the top of our game."

"I think we will get better as the season rolls on. We've got to get used to the offense under (quarterback) Danny White and our secondary needs to jell. Football is a confidence thing and we will be OK once we get the confidence factor going."

Landry rated Philadelphia and Washington ahead of his Cowboys right now in the NFC East but added "I think we are capable of winning the division. Of course, not many people agree with me on that."

Landry announced Tuesday that second-year man Ron Springs was the No. 1 fullback, replacing nine-year veteran Robert Newhouse.

"It was a tough decision to replace Newhouse," Landry said. "Newhouse is a tremendous team player ... but we had to go with Springs' ability to catch the ball and block. Both are excellent runners."

He continued "One of our priorities in camp was to get the fullback into our passing offense. Springs runs routes and catches the ball. Robert is a small target. Springs will add more to our offense."

Landry said tailback Tony Dorsett, who missed last week's exhibition loss to Pittsburgh, was recovering rapidly from an injured thigh and should be 100 percent for the Redskins.

American League baseball roundup

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

Mark "The Bird" Fidrych says he now can look forward to a future that many thought didn't exist as recently as one month ago.

Fidrych, the American League's top rookie in 1976, won his first game for Detroit in nearly 2 1/2 years Tuesday night, seven-hitting the Chicago White Sox for an 11-2 victory in the first game of a doubleheader. The Tigers swept the twinbill, 6-1, behind Milt Wilcox's eight-hitter in the nightcap.

"People were writing that I was finished, but I don't read the papers that much," Fidrych said. "I don't hold anything against those guys. That's part of life. They don't know what I was doing down in Evansville."

"This one moment just makes my year happier," Fidrych said. "I can't think about the past, now. I can only look to the future."

The 26-year-old Fidrych was with Evansville of the American Association when the 1980 season began, starting his fourth year on one of the longest comeback trails in baseball. He finally returned to the Tigers on Aug. 12, losing two decisions before the long drought came to an end.

"It really felt good to finally get a win. The guys have been working hard and scoring runs for me, but I haven't been doing my job," Fidrych said. "I haven't had any consistency at all. I don't know why. All I know is I like the way it came out tonight."

"It's been a long time since I've been able to satisfy the fans in Detroit," Fidrych said.

New York, meanwhile, defeated Oakland 6-1 and maintained a 1 1/2-game lead over Baltimore in the AL East. The Orioles thumped Seattle 10-4, Boston clobbered California 10-2, Texas edged Toronto 3-2 and Minnesota downed Cleveland 5-3.

The only well-hit ball off Fidrych was Harold Baines' two-run homer.

Champ Summers, Alan Trammell and Tim Corcoran hit homers for Detroit in the first game. The Tigers won the nightcap with four runs in the fifth inning, ignited by John Wockenfuss' two-run single.

Yankees 6, A's 1
Rudy May scattered six hits over eight innings, and Bobby Brown paced New York's 10-hit attack with a two-run homer.

May, who came out of the bullpen in midseason, earned his 12th victory with ninth-inning relief help from Rich Gossage. Gossage struck out two of the three hitters he faced. May lost his shutout when Tony Armas cracked his 28th homer in the seventh inning.

In addition to his homer, Brown scored two runs and stole a base to lead New York to its fifth victory in six games.

Orioles 10, Mariners 4
John Lowenstein and Dan Graham rapped consecutive homers in the first inning to get Baltimore started against the Mariners. Lowenstein's homer, only his third of the year, came with two aboard.

Graham, Rich Dauer and Kiko Garcia each drove in two runs to help Jim Palmer to his 15th victory of the season. Palmer won his sixth game in seven decisions with some relief help from Dave Ford.

SPORTS

Red Sox 10, Angels 2
Glenn Hoffman and Rick Burleson each drove in a pair of runs to pace Boston to its ninth victory in a row. The victory kept Boston 6 1/2 games behind the Yankees.

Carlton Fisk and Larry Wolfe hit consecutive homers in Boston's three-run eighth, and Dave Stapleton capped the inning with an RBI-double.

Rangers 3, Blue Jays 2
Ferguson Jenkins tossed a six-hitter, and Texas scored a pair of runs in the first inning on a single by Al Oliver and a sacrifice fly by Rusty Staub.

Mike Richardt's bases-loaded single scored what proved to be the winning run in the sixth before Toronto cut the lead to one with runs in the eighth and ninth innings.

Twins 5, Indians 3
Rick Sofield's two-run double in the sixth inning snapped a 3-3 tie and lifted Minnesota past Cleveland.

Darrell Jackson and Doug Corbett combined on a six-hitter for the Twins. Jackson, 8-8, struck out six before he yielded to :XXE& THE EIGHTH INNING. Corbett earned his 15th save after escaping a bases-loaded jam in the ninth.

South African troupe allowed to apply for visa extensions

HOUSTON (AP) — Members of a South African troupe embroiled in a heated contract dispute after refusing to perform its final show may apply today for visa changes or extensions, the Immigration and Naturalization Service said.

INS officials had said Tuesday the 23 cast members faced deportation because their visas expired Aug. 30.

"They may ask if they can stay here as students or continue dancing in this country under extended visas," said Robert Schultz, deputy director of the INS office in Houston. "We won't pick them up for deportation in the meantime. We know where they are."

The company's troubles began Sunday night after cast members refused to go on stage for the final performance of a six-week run at Houston's

Tower Theater. Members claimed the production company had failed to provide airline tickets back to Johannesburg.

Producer Don Hughes of La Jolla, Calif., claimed the all-black cast had renegotiated its contract a month ago and had opted for a substantial pay increase rather than airfare to South Africa.

The company of "Ipi-Tombi," a musical depicting the disillusionment of natives leaving their homes for the city, performed the matinee Sunday but refused to go on stage that evening, said Janet Spencer, general manager of the theater.

The performance was canceled and about $12,000 in refunds made, Ms. Spencer said.

Hughes charged the troupe resorted to "blackmail" by refusing to perform unless they had the plane tickets in hand.

"What other words could you use to describe what they did? This is not the first time either," Hughes said. "They should be able to buy their tickets. We doubled their salary."

Originally, the cast signed a contract that included a $240 a week salary for 10 shows, room, board and airfare home.

However, some cast members said they were told by friends here they were being underpaid.

In a contract renegotiated by an attorney hired by the cast, each member was to receive $500 a week for eight shows, Hughes said the new contract also allowed $60 a week for food and $60 for lodging, but did not include airfare.

The British company that initially produced the show had to give the South African government about $500 per cast member before they were allowed to leave the country for performances in Monte Carlo, Reno, Las Vegas and Houston, Hughes said.

Give the United Way.

THE NAME AND THE PLACE?

Distinguished Alumni named for Texas Tech

LUBBOCK — A former Texas Tech University athlete and state legislator, a home economics professor and two engineers have been named 1980 "Distinguished Alumni" by the Ex-Students Association.

They are Dr. Camille G. Bell, class of 1942, chairman of the Home Economics Education Department at Texas Tech; Hubert P. Bezner, '49, drilling manager of the South Texas Division of Exxon Company USA; Ray Butler, '49, president of Harkins & Company of Alice; and Elmer L. Tarbox, '39, outstanding Texas Tech athlete, state representative 10 years, businessman and farmer.

Bell and Tarbox live in Lubbock, Bezner in Corpus Christi and Butler in Alice. Until recently Bezner lived in Houston. The four will receive official recognition for their designation and medallions at the annual Distinguished Alumni dinner at 7 p.m., September 12 in the University Center Ballroom. Tickets are $6 each and are available by reservation from the office of the Ex-Students Association.

Announcement of recipients was made Wednesday by Dr. Bill Dean, executive director of the Ex-Students Association.

A pioneer in microteaching, Bell was the first to conduct experimental research on effects of microteaching skills using videotape equipment. Her report describing research on that subject has been requested by university graduate students and professors in the U.S. and 17 foreign countries. Results of work in videotaped simulated experiences commonly found in the classroom are widely used with both undergraduate and graduate students.

Professor Bell has received outside funding for research projects amounting to more than $1 million since 1969. She has been a member of the Texas Tech faculty since 1963. She received bachelor's and doctoral degrees from Texas Tech in home economics and education. She was named Home Economist of the Year by the Texas Home Economics Association in 1978.

Dad's Day Foundation will honor professor

LUBBOCK — Dr. David K. Northington is this year's recipient of the Texas Tech University Dads Association's Spencer A. Wells Faculty Award for teaching excellence.

Northington, an associate professor of biological sciences, will receive his award, which includes a $1,000 check, at the Dad's Association Membership Luncheon on Dad's Day, September 27. The award is made possible by a grant from the Hemphill-Wells Foundation.

This is the 15th year a Texas Tech professor will be recognized for teaching creativity and effectiveness.

Northington has been at Texas Tech since 1971 and is active in various campus-wide and community activities. He is faculty sponsor of the Saddle Tramps, student service-spirit organization, and the pompon squad.

Among his awards and honors are membership in Sigma Xi, national research honorary society; Omicron Delta Kappa, national student-faculty honorary based on academic, professional and leadership achievements; inclusion in the 1974-75 volume of "Outstanding Educators of America," and inclusion in "Who's Who in the South and Southwest," 1980 edition.

Northington was nominated by Omicron Delta Kappa as "Man of the Year" at Texas Tech in 1977 and received the Texas Tech Junior Panhellenic Association Award as one of the 15 outstanding faculty members for 1972.

He is a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science's Committee on Desert and Arid Zones Research, Southwestern and Rocky Mountain Division; American Society of Plant Taxonomists; Botanical Society of America; International Association for Plant Taxonomy; and the Southwestern Association of Naturalists, for whom he served as associate editor of botany for "The Southwestern Naturalist" from 1972 to 1977.

Northington was nominated for the Spencer A. Wells Award by Dr. Larry S. Roberts, chairman of the Department of Biological Sciences. Robert's nomination cited Northington's "very strong record of contributions to academics, activities, and citizenship" and his work on the department's Curriculum Study Committee.

Criteria for selection include addition to the university's teaching program and that the effects of the nominee's contribution should evidence itself in the strengthening, enhancing, extending and vitalizing in any of the areas in which the university demonstrates its interest in the student's growth academically or personally.

Nobel winner slated for Texas Tech series

LUBBOCK — Nobel Laureate J. Robert Schrieffer, professor of physics at the University of California, Santa Barbara, will be the first lecturer in the Haliburton Distinguished Lecture Series in Engineering this fall at Texas Tech University.

Schrieffer will speak at Texas Tech September 22. He will hold informal discussions with students beginning at 2 p.m. and will address faculty members, guests and the general public on "Exceptional States of Matter" at 4 p.m. in the Electrical Engineering Annex. A reception will follow at 5 p.m.

His talk will concern the properties of matter which do not obey normal and well-understood laws of physics.

Schrieffer's will be the first of four planned lectures in the Haliburton Distinguished Series in Engineering at Texas Tech during the 1980-81 academic year. The series is conducted by the College of Engineering and is sponsored by the Haliburton Foundation. The public lecture will be the first held in the new addition to the Electrical Engineering Building. There is no charge.

Schrieffer won the Nobel Prize for physics in 1972 for his work on superconductivity, researching the electrical properties of matter at low temperatures.

Schrieffer has a bachelor's degree from MIT and holds a master's and doctorate in physics from the University of Illinois. Among his honors have been a Guggenheim fellowship in 1967-68; the Oliver E. Buckley Solid State Physics Prize in 1968; the Comstock Prize from the National Academy of Science in 1968; and the John Ericsson Medal from the American Society of Swedish Engineers in 1976.

He is a fellow of the American Physical Society and holds memberships on the committee on US-USSR Cooperation in Physics, Advisory Committee on USSR and Eastern Europe of the Commission on International Relations, and the National Association for Science Committee on the Survey of Materials Science and Engineering.

Schrieffer has been a member of the American Academy of Sciences since 1970 and the National Academy of Science since 1971. He is a member of the Royal Danish Academy of Sciences and Letters.

Schrieffer was program coordinator on the US-USSR Joint Study Group in Condensed Matter Theory in Aspen, Colo., in 1977. He has served as chairman of the Executive Committee of the division of Solid State Physics, American Physical Society, 1971-72; on the Advisory Committee of the National Magnet Laboratory, 1969-71; on the National Science Foundation's Physics Advisory Panel, 1972-75; and on the Visiting Committee, Department of Physics at Harvard University, 1975-79.

He holds honorary degrees from several American universities plus the Technische Hochschule in Munich, Germany, and the University of Geneva in Switzerland. He had taught as a visiting professor at the University of Geneva and the University Institute for Theoretical Physics in Copenhagen, Denmark. Schrieffer has served on the faculties of the universities of Chicago, Illinois, Pennsylvania, and Stanford.
