Turkish government ousted in military coup

A BREATHALYZER RECERTIFICATION SCHOOL was conducted at the National Guard Armory Thursday for area law enforcement officers. Here, Pampa Patrolman Rod Bishop checks the breathalyzer equipment before taking the laboratory examination. Breathalyzer operators are required by state law to be recertified each year by passing a written and laboratory examination. Breathalyzer tests are used in driving while intoxicated arrests. ### Police recertify in use of breathalyzer

A breathalyzer recertification school, conducted Thursday by the Department of Public Safety in the National Guard Armory here, was attended by 33 area law enforcement officers — seven from the Pampa Police Department.

Officers from the Department of Public Safety (DPS), Perryton Police Department, Lipscomb Sheriff's Department and the Pampa Police Department attended the school to receive the state - required, annual recertification as a breathalyzer test operator.

Dottie Collins, technical supervisor for the DPS in this area, and Alvin Weathermon, assistant chemical test supervisor for the State Office of Scientific Directors, tested the officers.

In order to be recertified as a breathalyzer operator, Weathermon said, the officers had to pass a written and laboratory examination.

"The (recertification) tests are going on throughout the state," he said. "There are about 40 technical supervisors in Texas who will renew approximately 3,000 breath test operators during this month."

The breathalyzer test is used to determine the percentage of alcohol in a person's system. It is used as a technical back-up to an officer's opinion on whether a driver meets the criteria for being legally drunk. The breathalyzer is primarily used in "driving while intoxicated" arrests.

Derailment stalls traffic

Traffic on Texas Highway 60 was slowed for two hours Thursday night while Santa Fe Railroad workers cleared four derailed railroad cars from the train crossing six miles west of Pampa.

The derailment of the four empty chemical cars occurred at about 7:15 p.m. at the crossing near the Celene Chemical Plant west of the city, according to Gray County Sheriff's Deputy Doug Davis.

East and westbound traffic on the highway was rerouted by sheriff's deputies and Texas Highway Patrol troopers while Santa Fe employees worked to get the cars back on the railroad tracks.

The crossing was cleared at 9 p.m. There were no reports of damage to the cars or any traffic accidents as a result of the derailment, Davis said.

The crossing recently had been under construction to add new plates to smooth the crossing for autos.

Heist nets thieves $100,000 in jewels

PARIS, Texas (AP) — A neatly-planned heist involving a Dallas jewelry salesman who paid a call on a bogus client netted thieves about $100,000 in jewelry, according to police.

"It had all the appearances of being a well-planned job," Police Chief Charles Whitely said Thursday after thieves took a car belonging to Dallas jewelry salesman Kenneth Cottrell.

Whitely said the theft occurred about 1 p.m. Thursday after Cottrell had driven to Paris to meet a woman who made an appointment with him after telling him she owned a dress shop.

"He parked his car in front of the dress shop," Whitely said, "and went in and asked if the woman was there." Whitely said employees told Cottrell they had never heard of the woman.

Cottrell told police he turned around and saw his car being driven away by a young, white male. The vehicle was recovered about an hour later in a ravine off a dead-end road in Paris.

Whitely said the missing jewelry was taken from the trunk and back seat. He said police recovered about $30,000 in cash and jewels that the thieves missed.

Twilight driving safety urged

The Texas Department of Public Safety wishes to warn motorists that daylight hours will be getting shorter and that it is difficult to see a person on foot during the twilight hours.

Major C.W. Bell, regional commander of the Department of Public Safety, said, "Children will be attending school, and this will cause an increase in pedestrian traffic. Human life is the most precious commodity we have, more especially our school children's lives."

Suggestions offered by the DPS are:
—Look for the pedestrian and the big yellow school bus. It is easier to see something when you are looking for it.
—When you see a child in the street, expect him to do anything, and be ready to give him the right-of-way.
—Back-to-school time is a good time of the year. Let's make sure all the children enjoy it all year long!

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Turkey's military commanders ousted the civilian government early today in a bloodless coup aimed at restoring political stability to this violence-wracked, strategic NATO nation bordering on the Soviet Union.

The military leaders put the prime minister and two other major political leaders under house arrest, extended martial law and abolished the country's 19-year-old constitution.

The military chief of staff and coup leader, Gen. Kenan Evren, also announced on television that his ruling five-man National Security Committee would soon begin work drafting a new constitution paying particular attention to altering the nation's laws on elections and political parties.

Evren, a political moderate, gave no indication when elections would be held but he promised a return to civilian rule. He also said Turkey would maintain its pro-Western foreign policy and would remain loyal to all its commitments, including those to NATO.

The NATO military command announced in Brussels, Belgium, that maneuvers in Turkish Thrace by 3,000 soldiers from six NATO countries would go on as planned. The maneuvers scheduled later this month are aimed at testing alliance response to a possible attack on western Turkey from Warsaw Pact forces in neighboring Bulgaria.

NATO also depends on Turkey to maintain a strong military presence on the alliance's southern and eastern flanks. Turkey shares a 370-mile border with the Soviet Union and its 1,000-mile Black Sea coast is a short journey for the Soviet Union's largest fleet. Turkey also borders Iran, Iraq and Syria and is a country whose Shiite Moslems are closely aligned to those in Iran.

Violence, which has claimed 4,000 lives in the past five years, is both political and religious. The usually left-leaning Shiite Moslems at times have fought the conservative Sunni sect. About a dozen different groups — religious as well as political — have been fighting for power.

The United States has approximately 4,900 military personnel — mostly members of the Air Force — in Turkey. The State Department in Washington said its embassy in Ankara reported "there was no violence and no danger to Americans."

Helicopters clattered above the capital in the pre-dawn hours and hundreds of troops with armored personnel carriers and tanks cleared the streets. Sources said military buses rounded up deputies of the National Assembly. By dawn the city was deserted except for troops. By late morning, some Turks ventured out to army-supplied bread stores and long lines formed for food.

The commanders announced that the takeover, after five years of increasing political instability and violence in which more than 4,000 persons have died, was aimed at preventing "a possible civil war" in the NATO member country.

Some sporadic shooting was heard during the night in Ankara, the capital, but there were no reports of casualties.

The Ankara Martial Law Command said in a communique that Demirel, leader of the conservative Justice Party, and the main opposition leader, former Premier Bulent Ecevit, leader of the left-of-center Republican People's Party, "were interned" in their homes.

Necmettin Erbakan, chief of the Moslem fundamentalist National Salvation Party, was "under the protection and custody" of the military, the communique added.

A five-man National Security Council took over the government. It is headed by Gen. Kenan Evren, the chief of the general staff and a political moderate, and the commanders of the ground forces, air force, navy and gendarmerie.

It was the second time in 20 years the armed forces took over the southern anchor of the North Atlantic Alliance to try to enforce political stability. Evren and the other four military commanders in a statement nine months ago criticizing the political instability and violence indicated they were prepared to intervene again.

Running back shot to death

DENTON, Texas (AP) — North Texas State running back Bernard Jackson was shot to death early today in a shopping center parking lot near the school's campus, a school spokesman said.

Fred Graham, North Texas State sports information director, confirmed early today that Jackson, 21, of Dallas, was dead.

Graham said police told him Jackson was dead of gunshot wounds on arrival at Flow Memorial Hospital here about 2 a.m.

The attack occurred outside the Mean Green Inn, a disco-bar in the shopping center across the road from the athletic dormitory. The Mean Green is the college's nickname.

Denton police confirmed that they were investigating a fatal shooting but they would not confirm that the victim was Jackson. A police spokesman, who would not give his name, said he could not release any information.

Head Football Coach Jerry Moore said he was called to the hospital about 3:30 a.m. to identify the body.

"To know what happened at this point, nobody knows," Moore said. "The players are naturally upset, just like I am. We're in a state of shock. If there was a reason for it, I don't know what it is."

"It just doesn't make sense. He was a neat kid. He had some academic problems but those can happen to anybody. But this thing — there's no reason for it. It's just a tragedy... just a waste."

Jackson, a converted wide receiver who played in the backfield at North Texas State, holds the school's career net yards record with 2,202 yards on 421 carries.

In 1978, the 6-0, 178-pound Jackson was ranked sixth nationally with 1,453 yards on 269 carries. He ranked 10th nationally in all-purpose running that year.

His yardage fell off last year to 749 yards, but he ranked 20th nationally in kickoff returns and 28th in all-purpose running. His single-game record of 207 yards against Texas-Arlington in 1978 tied a school record set by Ray Renfro at North Texas State in 1951.

Jackson attended Dallas Carter High School and was considered a blue-chipper after his senior year. He dropped out of NTSU last spring to attend community colleges in Dallas in order to improve his grades. He re-enrolled at Denton this fall.

He was on the third offensive team this season, mainly because he missed spring practice. But under Moore's philosophy of rotating his running backs during a game, Jackson was expected to see his share of action this fall.

He was used sparingly in the team's opener last week at Texas-Arlington and was not scheduled to start in Saturday night's game at Texas Stadium against Southern Methodist University.

Diplomat's slaying part of anti-Castro effort

NEW YORK (AP) — The sniper slaying of an attaché to Cuba's mission to the United Nations is part of an effort to make Cuban diplomats "disappear from the face of New York," say anonymous callers claiming to represent the anti-Castro group Omega 7.

Feliz Garcia-Rodriguez was shot Thursday as he drove a red station wagon bearing diplomatic license plates in the borough of Queens. The shots may have come from a passing vehicle or the elevated ground of a nearby cemetery, police said.

Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie condemned the assassination, and officials promised "a vigorous investigation." Muskie said federal authorities would cooperate.

An anonymous man with a Hispanic accent called news agencies within minutes of the 6:20 p.m. shooting and said Omega 7 was responsible for "the execution."

The caller told The Associated Press: "He's a Communist. The next will be Raul Roa," Cuba's U.N. ambassador.

WCBS-radio also got a call from a man claiming to be from Omega 7 who said: "We eliminated the first one. We will continue until every single one disappears from the face of New York...we are going to make their life highly difficult."

Cuba's U.N. delegation consists of some 40 people, and police added an extra officer to the normal three-man guard detail.

Esther Perez, an administrative aide at the Cuban Mission here, said Garcia, about 38, had been in the United States for two years. Listed as the 20th ranking diplomat at the mission, he was mainly responsible for administrative duties.

Donald McHenry, the United States' U.N. ambassador, said, "I express my sincere regret for this cowardly act resulting in a tragic loss of life."

From Washington, Muskie said, "This is a nation of laws. We condemn terrorism in all its forms and are committed to its eradication."

Over the years, Omega 7 has claimed responsibility for more than a dozen politically related bombings in the city, including those at the Cuban mission here on Oct. 28 and Dec. 7 where four policemen were hurt.

On March 25, Omega 7 claimed responsibility for planting a plastic bomb under Roa's car. Police defused the bomb and no one was hurt.

James T. Sullivan, chief of detectives for the city police, said a Terrorist Task Force of city police and FBI agents was investigating Omega 7.

Gasohol plant in Dimmit planned

AMARILLO — Diamond Shamrock Corporation and the Amstar Corporation announced recently they have reached an agreement in principle relating to the production of fuel grade ethyl alcohol.

The agreement calls for Diamond Shamrock's Oil and Gas Unit to build, own and operate a 12.5 million gallon per year capacity ethyl alcohol plant in Dimmit, adjacent to Amstar's corn wet-milling plant.

The plant is the fourth such proposed gasohol plant in the Dumas-Dimmit area.

According to Mike Metcalf, Dumas attorney for the Northwest Texas Grain Producers Cooperative, "There are two plants proposed for Dumas, one for Dimmit and one for Muleshoe. We encourage any and all grain alcohol production. This area is rich in the raw materials needed for the production of alcohol."

Amstar will supply the Diamond Shamrock plant with dextrose feedstocks produced at the corn-milling plant for fermentation and distillation into alcohol. The transaction is subject to the negotiation of a definitive agreement between the parties.

Expected to begin operation in early 1982, the new plant will supply alcohol for the blending of gasohol, a premium quality motor fuel consisting of 90 percent unleaded gasoline and 10 percent alcohol.

Diamond Shamrock has been successfully test marketing gasohol in metropolitan Denver, Colo., and the Texas Panhandle. The company intends to extend gasohol distribution throughout its marketing area.

Amstar Corporation, with headquarters in New York, is engaged in cane sugar refining, beet sugar processing, corn sweetener production and industrial equipment manufacturing.

Amstar produces 42 percent high fructose corn syrup (HFCS) and starch at its Dimmit plant and recently announced plans to add the production of 55 percent HFCS there.

Diamond Shamrock Corporation, an energy and chemicals company headquartered in Dallas, markets motor fuels and refined petroleum products through jobbers and retailers throughout the Rocky Mountain and Southwestern states.

Raymond named president of local I-R subsidiary

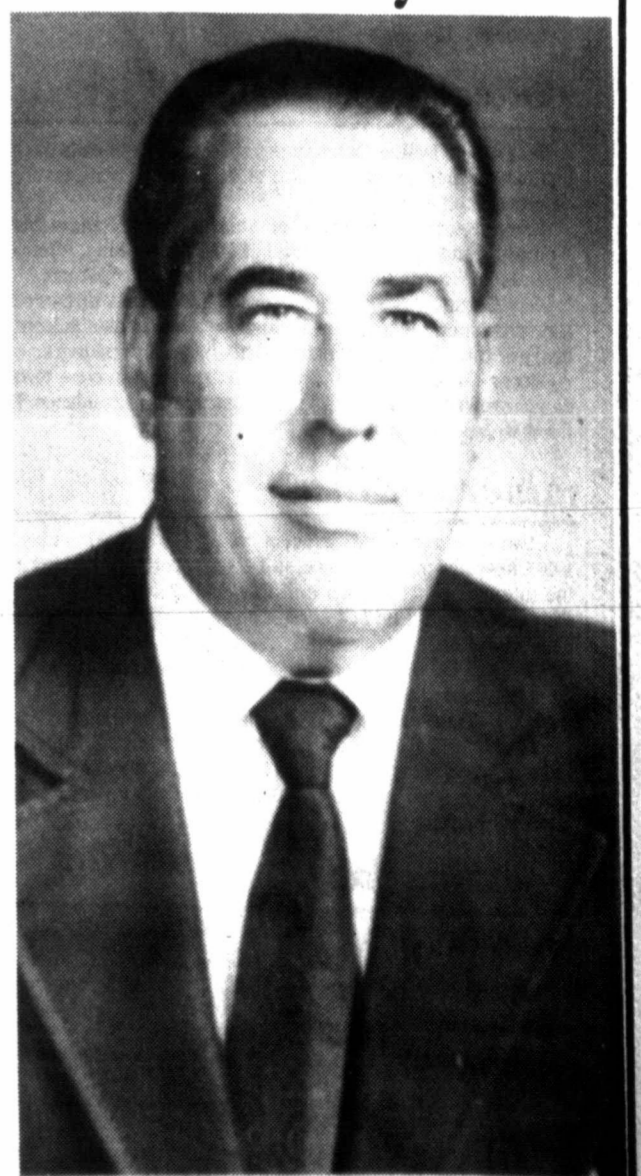

Victor P. Raymond has been named president of the Ingersoll-Rand Oilfield Products Company, a subsidiary of Ingersoll-Rand Company, according to William G. Mulligan, Ingersoll-Rand executive vice-president.

Oilfield Products Company, headquartered in Pampa, is the world's largest manufacturer of mobile oilfield drilling, workover and servicing rigs. In addition, it produces specialty alloy steels and forgings for the aircraft, mining, oilfield, power generation and chemical industries.

Vic was a vice-president of Cabot Corporation and general manager of its machinery division from March 1972 until the division's recent acquisition by Ingersoll-Rand.

He joined Cabot in 1966 and served as division and group controller. Earlier, he held positions in financial planning and analysis with Raytheon Corporation and Ford Motor Company.

Vic holds a Bachelor of Science degree in economics from the University of Pennsylvania and a Master's degree in business administration from Boston College. He and his wife, Alice, have three daughters, Lisa, Cynthia and Amy. They reside at 1912 Charles in Pampa.

Texas weather

By The Associated Press
 Clear to partly cloudy skies and very warm temperatures dominated the Texas weather scene today.

Forecasts called for clear skies over the northern half of the state and partly cloudy skies over southern and western sections.

Highs were to be mostly in the 90s, ranging from the 80s in the mountains of Southwest Texas to near 100 in Northeast Texas and in the Big Bend area of Southwest Texas.

Pre-dawn skies were mostly clear although some low cloudiness and fog was reported from the Hill Country southward into the Lower Rio Grande Valley and along the Texas coast.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 60s and 70s. Extremes ranged from 60 at Marfa and 64 at Dalhart to 78 at McAllen, Sann Antonio and Texarkana.

Texas forecasts

North Texas - Fair and hot through Saturday. Highs 97 to 100. Lows upper 60s to near 70.

South Texas - Partly cloudy and warm through Saturday with widely scattered showers and thundershowers extreme south. Highs 90s. Lows 70s.

West Texas - Partly cloudy and warm through Saturday with isolated thundershowers mountains. Highs 86 mountains and Panhandle to near 100 Big Bend. Lows near 60 mountains and north to 73 extreme south.

Port Arthur to Port O'Connor - Southerly winds near 10 knots this afternoon, becoming southeast 10 to 15 Saturday. Seas 1 to 3 feet. Isolated showers or thundershowers.

Port O'Connor to Brownsville - South to southeast winds 10 to 15 knots through Saturday. Winds stronger near shore afternoons. Seas 2 to 4 feet. Winds and seas higher in widely scattered showers or thundershowers.

National weather

Showers and occasional thundershowers were scattered across the upper Mississippi Valley into the upper Great Lakes region.

Scattered showers also were reported over the Dakotas, across Wyoming and southern Montana and into northern Utah and southern Idaho.

Rain fell in northern New England, with some isolated thundershowers on the Florida Peninsula and central Gulf Coast.

More scattered showers and thundershowers were expected from the northern Rockies across the northern Plains and the northern Mississippi Valley into the western and central Great Lakes and lower Ohio Valley.

Temperatures around the nation at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 43 degrees in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., to 84 degrees at Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi, Miss.

Here are some early morning temperatures and conditions around the nation:

Eastern U.S.: Atlanta 76, fair; Boston 66, fair; Cincinnati 57, fair; Cleveland 56, partly cloudy; Detroit 60, partly cloudy; Miami 74, fair; New York 70, fair; Philadelphia 65, fair.

Kremlin offers Polish government helping hand

MOSCOW (AP) - The Kremlin gave the Polish government a helping hand with its continuing labor crisis, promising increased shipments of food and manufactured goods to help meet the demands of restive workers demanding economic benefits in addition to labor union reforms promised them.

The official Soviet news agency Tass, reporting on a meeting Thursday between Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev and Polish Deputy Premier Mieczyslaw Jagielski, said that "in present circumstances" it was increasingly important to raise the efficiency of economic cooperation between the Soviet Union and the communist state on its western border.

Tass did not say what additional products would be delivered or in what quantity. According to Soviet trade figures, exports to Poland last year included grain, tea, sunflower oil, preserved fish and beverages.

The agency also attacked AFL-CIO president Lane Kirkland, accusing him of aiding "anti-socialist elements in Poland" by starting a fund to send financial contributions to the Polish strikers. "The trade union bosses of America are exerting every effort to support subversive, anti-social elements in Poland," said Tass.

The strike wave in Poland that turned into a national crisis in the last half of August started with demands for wage increases to offset increases in the government-subsidized price of meat. Strikers in the Gdansk industrial area on the Baltic coast injected political demands and forced Poland's communist leaders to promise a new labor law granting the right to strike and to form independent free trade unions. But a rash of local strikes for higher pay or improvements in working conditions continues.

During the strikes, the Soviet government agreed to give Poland new long-term credits to help pay the interest on the $20 billion it owes the West and to pay for increased foreign-imports, including sugar.

Imports continue to dominate fuel economy in car market

MARTIN CRUTSINGER

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - American automakers, despite offering their most fuel-efficient cars ever this fall, have yet to break the stranglehold held by the imports on fuel economy.

For the third straight year, the 10 cars getting the best mileage in the 1981 model year are all foreign-made, according to statistics released today by the Environmental Protection Agency.

And for the fourth straight year, Volkswagen's diesel-engined Rabbit is ranked No. 1, with a 42-mile-per-gallon estimate in city driving for its 1981 four-speed model.

While the Rabbit is assembled in Pennsylvania, it is listed by the EPA as an import because more than 20 percent of its parts are imported.

A new Toyota model, the Starlet, took second place with 39 mpg, followed by the five-speed version of the diesel VW Rabbit at 38 mpg.

But U.S. automakers, who have suffered through a disastrous year as fuel-efficient imports captured about one-fourth of total sales, are fighting back, introducing new small cars and putting mini-computers on old models to get better fuel mileage.

The best mileage a domestic car got in the EPA ratings in 1980 was 26 mpg by the Chevy Chevette. But nine 1981 models beat that mark.

The Chevrolet Chevette and a new Ford car, the Escort, tied for the top domestic spot with 30 mpg. The Escort also will be sold as the Mercury Lynx. Various versions of Chrysler's Dodge Omni and Plymouth Horizon scored 28 and 27 mpg.

Chrysler, being propped up by government-guaranteed loans, is pinning hopes for a resurgence on its new front-wheel-drive "K" cars - the Dodge Aries and Plymouth Reliant. They scored better than any of their competitors in the mid-size field, coming in at 25 mpg. The best mileage for GM's front-wheel-drive Citation was 22 mpg.

Three dead, one wounded in shooting spree aftermath

DALLAS (AP) - Two men broke into a North Dallas apartment Thursday night and raped and killed a woman. They then abducted and shot her two male companions, one of whom died, police said.

Robert Lee Matzig, 23, was in critical condition today from a bullet wound in the back of the neck at Parkland Hospital, police said.

Christopher Bates, 23, who shared the apartment with Matzig, was shot in the back of the head and killed while running from his abductors in a field in southwest Dallas.

Bates' 22-year-old girlfriend, Barbara K. Hoppe, was found dead in the bedroom of the men's apartment. Police said she had been bound and gagged and was nude from the waist down. The body was covered with a bed comforter.

Police spokesman Bob Worth said that she had two stab wounds in her chest, but police believe she was strangled before being stabbed.

Police searched for two white males, both in their 20s. One has short bushy brown hair, weighs about 140 pounds and is 5-foot-6. The other has long dark-brown hair and a moustache, weighs about 145 pounds and is six feet tall. Matzig was shot when he ignored an order to lie down in the field and ran from the suspects, Worth said, but managed to crawl about 30 yards where he attracted the two postal employees at a mail center.

The three victims were in the apartment when the two men knocked, then forced door open and brandished handguns, Matzig said in his statement to police.

He and Bates were ordered to lie down on the floor and were tied up, Matzig said, and Miss Hoppe was taken into the bedroom where he could hear the men assaulting her. He told police he believed her to be alive when the four left the apartment.

They were ordered at gunpoint into the assailants' International Scout registered to Management Computer Systems. Matzig said he and Bates were forced to cash small checks at all-night grocery stores in the North Dallas area, Matzig said. He said they also had Bates write a $1,000 check on his NorthPark Bank account.

Matzig said although the men then promised to release them, they instead drove them to the field.

Tarrant Utility gets rate hike

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The Texas Supreme Court refused today to vacate a district judge's order allowing Tarrant Utility Co. to charge its customers more than $750,000 a year more than the Public Utility Commission would allow.

Without writing an opinion, the court overruled a request filed by the commission and Attorney General Mark White for a writ of mandamus against State District Judge Hume Cofer of Austin.

Cofer issued a temporary order on Sept. 3 allowing Tarrant to collect $1,596,000 annually from its customers, far more than the PUC would allow.

The commission entered a rate order on June 13 allowing the company, owned by the O.P. Leonard Jr. family of Fort Worth, to collect revenue of $639,457.

Relying on an attorney general's opinion, the commission eliminated from the water company's rate base funds contributed by real estate developers - again the Leonard family - who later got the money back from the sale of homesites.

Tarrant Utility Co. serves about 3,300 customers in subdivisions in Tarrant, Parker, Johnson and Hood counties.

Intervenor before the PUC contended the water company kept rates low while its real estate development corporate cousin was selling homesites but tried to jack them up when the developments closed.

The attorney general had issued an opinion that a state law including funds contributed by real estate developers in a water utility's rate base was unconstitutional.

But Cofer held that White's opinion was incorrect. In appealing to the Supreme Court White said Cofer had usurped what was "strictly a legislative function" in attempting to set a utility's rates.

"A court may decide that 10 cents a pound is an unreasonably low price for potatoes. It cannot say that 50 cents a pound is the price to be charged," White said. But, he added, that essentially is what Cofer did.

Ex-boxer denies he knows anything of judge's death

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - Robert Thomas says he told a federal grand jury investigating the assassination of a federal judge he was not in the car used in the killing and knew nothing of the incident.

Thomas, 33, an ex-boxer, told reporters after appearing before the federal panel Thursday that he was questioned about the May 29, 1979, shooting death of U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr.

He said he also was asked whether he knew convicted Las Vegas gambler Jimmy Chagra, who has been the focus of much of the special grand jury's investigation.

Thomas, recovering from a gunshot wound he received July 1, said he told the grand jury he knew nothing about Wood's assassination, despite statements to government investigators by convicted murderer and drug dealer Robert F. Riojas.

Riojas, who is under federal protection, told the investigators four men, including Thomas, were in the car with Wood's assassin when the judge was gunned down outside his apartment.

Thomas said, "They asked me if I ever had any meetings, if I ever discussed killing Judge Wood. I told them we never had any meetings and never discussed killing the judge."

"They asked me if I knew the Chagras. I told them I met Lee (Chagra) one time at the fights in Las Vegas," he said. I never met Jimmy (Chagra)."

Lee Chagra, a noted El Paso defense attorney who was killed in his office in December 1978, was Jimmy Chagra's brother. Jimmy Chagra is serving a 30-year prison sentence for conducting a series of drug smuggling operations.

Wood was scheduled to preside at his trial.

Carter opponents attempt to pull out stops

By The Associated Press
While President Carter's opponents continue to pull out the stops over Carter's refusal to debate them, the president is pulling out the Cabinet in his effort to brand his two opponents as a like and dangerous quantity.

Republican Ronald Reagan on Thursday hit again at the debate issue, saying Carter was using independent presidential candidate John Anderson as "the excuse that he won't debate."
And Anderson said Carter, in trying to further his own re-election chances, is ignoring the right of voters to compare the three major White House aspirants in face-to-face confrontation.

Carter was at the White House on Thursday, but that didn't mean his campaign wasn't represented on the hustings.
Labor Secretary Ray

Marshall told some 250 union delegates in Cleveland that the labor philosophies of Anderson and Reagan are virtually the same.
Marshall continued the Carter administration's recent blast at Reagan and his positions on minimum wages, health and safety in the work place and unemployment insurance.

Marshall was the third major figure in the Carter administration to appear in the Ohio industrial city in the past two weeks. Vice President Walter Mondale visited on Labor Day and Transportation Secretary Neil Goldschmidt campaigned there last weekend.

Names in the news

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — The Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, president of the University of Notre Dame, has been given the sword.

The United States Military Academy awarded Hesburgh its 23rd annual Sylvanus Thayer Award — an engraved sabre — on Thursday.

In ceremonies following military exercises on The Plain, the parade grounds here, Hesburgh received the weapon from the academy's Association of Graduates for his work in education, civil rights and international development.

Named president of Notre Dame in 1962, Hesburgh came to prominence in the 1960s for his work with the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights.

Hesburgh was selected for the award — named after Col. Sylvanus Thayer, the academy's fifth superintendent — by an association committee that included its president and members of its board of trustees.

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — With camera in hand, Princess Grace of Monaco fit right into the college scene as she toured the Duke University campus here.

"She could pass for any other Duke mother," a student said as the former Grace Kelly asked one undergraduate to take her picture in front of Duke Chapel.

The princess, 51, an American who sacrificed her movie career nearly 25 years ago to become the wife of Prince Rainier, was at Duke on Wednesday to read poetry and prose selections from Ogdon Nash to William Shakespeare. She flavored the readings with accents from a Southern drawl to a Scottish brogue.

Princess Grace has not appeared on screen since her marriage in 1956.

During her tour of the campus, Princess Grace remarked on its beauty and at "how well dressed these Duke students are."

Father accuses authorities of cover-up of two murders

LONDON (AP) — A former detective charges that his daughter and her boyfriend were thrown to their deaths from a sixth-floor balcony during a cocktail party in Saudi Arabia for which the British hostess was sentenced to be flogged.

The ex-detective claims that his daughter, Helen Smith, was gang-raped by German guests at the party, and that her Dutch boyfriend, tugboat captain Johannes Otten, was murdered with her because he witnessed the rape and the assailants feared he would identify them to police.

British surgeon Richard Arnot, 39, and his 34-year-old wife, Penelope, were convicted by a Saudi court of serving drinks at the party in Jidda on night of May 19, 1979 in defiance of the Moslem nation's ban on alcohol. The court also said Mrs. Arnot made "contradictory" statements about what happened.

Mrs. Arnot escaped the lash and her husband a one-year jail term when they were granted clemency by King Khaled and deported. They returned to Britain on Aug. 8 and are reported vacationing in the country with their two children.

Ms. Smith, a 23-year-old British nurse, and Otten fell 70 feet to their deaths from the Arnots' balcony during the party. Miss Smith worked with Arnot at a privately-owned Saudi hospital.

The British Foreign Office says all evidence indicates Ms. Smith and Otten accidentally fell over a low balcony railing while embracing. But Ronald Smith, the 53-year-old father of the dead nurse, has accused the Foreign Office of mounting a massive coverup to protect the Arnots.

After flying to Saudi Arabia to investigate his daughter's death and claim her body, Smith accused British authorities of obstructing his inquiries because the British vice consul in Jidda, Gordon Kirby, was a close friend of Mrs. Arnot, an army colonel's daughter.

Smith says he is trying to prove his daughter was gang raped during the party by several drunken Germans, who threw her off the balcony and then did the same to Otten because he witnessed the rape.

The Foreign Office has denied there was a coverup and says Kirby and Mrs. Arnot had not met until after the party.

However, some Foreign Office officials admit privately to being embarrassed over the affair, which has hampered Britain's efforts to improve relations with Saudi Arabia. Those ties were frayed by a bitter controversy over the broadcast in Britain last April of a film called "Death of a Princess," depicting the execution of a Saudi princess convicted of adultery with a commoner.

Witness says information withheld by Arabs

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Crucial information about oil wells that Roy Carver and a partner wanted to drill in the Persian Gulf was withheld by Arabs, the former president of SEDCO Inc.'s consultant subsidiary testified Thursday.

Bob Smith testified in Carver's $42 million federal court suit against SEDCO.

Carver, the Muscatine founder of Bandag Inc., claims that SEDCO knew or should have known about the presence of poisonous gas in the wells because it had leased drilling equipment to the previous holders of the concession.

But Smith said the Qatari oil ministry refused to let him see all their information on the wells.

The SEDCO official admitted that if Carver had known of the presence of the hydrogen sulfide in the oil, it would have saved him money.

Smith denied under questioning that he deliberately colored his reports about the offshore concession to entice Carver into what turned out to be a financially disastrous partnership with Eugene Holley of Atlanta, Ga.

Smith said Holley had asked him to write a report on the potential of the two wells that a Japanese consortium had drilled with SEDCO equipment but had later given up.

"I wrote the report based on all available data in our office in Dallas, but that was not sufficient, and decided that I should go to Qatar and see the files in the government's oil ministry," Smith testified.

Smith said he produced a report for Holley and later went to Doha, the capital of Qatar, to look at government files on the wells.

"But Ali Jaidah, the government's oil minister, said that not all data would be made available to me," Smith said.

He testified that he informed Holley, but not Carver, that some information had been withheld.

"I had not yet met Mr. Carver," Smith said. Within months after drilling began in February, 1976, it was discovered that the oil had higher contents of hydrogen sulfide than expected and that costs to clean up the oil could rise as high as $40 million.

"I now know in hindsight that the hydrogen sulfide proved to be a far greater problem than we anticipated at the time," Smith said.

"But at no time did I represent in my reports that this was a sure deal and that Holley and Carver were guaranteed anything. We put warnings in our reports that said problems could arise."

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Hiring quotas wrong no matter the motive

If you want to sell goods to the federal government — and, considering the billions spent each year by the government, it is quite a buyer — you must employ a certain quota of women and blacks. Of "minorities," that is.

Now it may seem odd to you that a customer for your goods is so deeply interested in the kind of people you hire to make those goods. You are used to customers examining the goods themselves with care, but here is Uncle Sam engrossed in your employment practices. If you are not employing a certain number of women and blacks (the latter both women and men, presumably), he won't buy your goods regardless of how good, how well suited to his wants or how low priced they are. Is the guy crazy?

In Ohio, Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. is one that has run afoul of this practice. For not meeting the quota rule precisely, Akron-based Firestone stands to lose $40 million of government business yearly.

For years, firms selling to the government have been expected to hire women as well as men, blacks as well as whites, in approximately the same percentage as these classes make themselves available for hiring. Now the Department of Labor, it seems, has gone mathematical and is requiring such firms to hire exactly and precisely the proportionate numbers of these minorities (Just how these exact numbers are to be ascertained is unclear). If the number turns out to be fraction, would the employer be required to put half a person on the payroll?

Firestone, according to report had gotten under the rules as liberally interpreted, but evidently did not qualify under the new, more meticulous interpretation.

How, in this land supposedly blessed by common sense as well as freedom, has it come about that firms are ordered by the government to hire people because of their sex, or because of their color, rather than because they are capable of doing the job in hand?

It is good to do good, even to some particular class, but one wonders if good is really being done to people who are hired because they are women, or because they are black, rather than because of their ability.

How Firestone and other employers in like position will deal with the precision-minded politicians we are not informed. Faced with such an edict, our own reaction would be to cross Uncle Sam off our list of prospects and concentrate on doing business in a more permissive, more reasonable atmosphere.

A 'noble cause'

So Ronald Reagan told the Veterans of Foreign Wars last week that the Vietnam conflagration was a "noble cause." CBS made that remark its top-of-the-news story; liberal commentators were in conniptions; even Evans and Novak describe the comment as needlessly divisive, bemoaning the GOP candidate's propensity to speak his mind.

Here is how Reagan elaborated: "If we are forced to fight, we must have the means and the determination to prevail or we will not have what it takes to secure the peace. And while we are at it, let us tell those who fought in that war that we will never again ask young men to fight and possibly die in a war our government is afraid to let them win."

Is that the kind of stuff that Jimmy Carter calls warmongering? Reagan's digression — in another time the sentiment would have been the height of humanity — was simply inserted in an otherwise noncontroversial speech about the need to be militarily prepared. Indeed, within 48 hours Carter's Defense Secretary Harold Brown told another military-oriented audience that U.S. forces needed beefing up, effectively calling and raising Reagan.

Only in rhetoric the campaign dispute is how many more billions shall we spend, not whether we will spend. Reagan is probably ahead of Carter for the moment. But this is not the place for that controversy; we're intrigued by what Mary McGrory calls Reagan's reviving "the poisonous enmity of the years when the country was told by two presidents that U.S. peaceniks were stabbing our brave boys in the back and causing, in Dean Rusk's phrase, "joy in Hanoi."

Attagirl, Mary She'd have said the same, of course, about Churchill's ever-more-thunderous speeches about Chamberlain. And yet the tone of Reagan's remark, rather than saber-rattling, was solicitude for those upon whom the hideous weight of the politicians' little wars falls most heavily. Humanity requires that any endeavor, in peace or war, be carried out for some moral purpose; without such an object life degenerates into confusion, an infernal swirl.

In Vietnam our political leaders were irresolute when Americans wanted to go; our inner decisionmakers were cynical and ignoble when Americans wanted to save the Indochinese from the very plight they are now, in fact, experiencing. Perhaps it was the wrong war at the wrong time. Perhaps when John F. Kennedy was telling us we would "bear any burden, pay any price" his own strategists were captive of dark, immoral interests.

But it is impossible to think of a foreign war, the outset of which Americans were more altruistically mobilized. Take that away, as Reagan's detractors would, and we are profaned beyond the limits of liberalism. One more thing: It is Reagan's opponent who wants draft registration, betraying an understanding of young men as available cannon fodder.

Ronald Reagan may not be able to keep us out of war any better than Jimmy Carter, but let us not seize that remark and scrutinize the imagined inhumanity of it. It's a rarity that we get a political campaign and impulsive candor, too. Especially candor motivated by right reason.

Man against the missile

By Robert Walters
NEW YORK (NEA) - They say you can't fight city hall.

But "they" never met a 45-year-old lawyer from Portland, Ore., appropriately named Joe Smith.

At the recent Democratic National Convention here, Smith challenged not city hall but the White House — and forced the entire federal establishment to pay attention to his one-man crusade against the MX missile.

Smith's efforts eventually were repulsed, but only after the country's most powerful politicians and government officials mounted a counter-campaign of unparalleled scope to sway delegates who initially opposed the MX by an overwhelming margin. That campaign included:

— A hand-written letter penned by President Carter and distributed to every delegate at the convention.

— A hastily scheduled Washington-to-New York trip by Defense Secretary Harold Brown, personally summoned by the president to address the convention on the issue.

— A high-level Carter administration lobbying blitz that directly involved virtually every member of the president's cabinet.

— Elaborate briefings for hundreds of delegates conducted by White House Press Secretary Jody Powell and other senior aides to the president.

All of that energy was expended to turn back Smith's determined effort to insert in the Democratic party's 1980 platform a single paragraph that read:

"Our only objective in maintaining a credible, powerful strategic nuclear arsenal is to enhance security. We recognize that at some point increasing that arsenal becomes counter-productive by producing new risks which outweigh apparent military advantage. We therefore oppose deployment of the MX missile."

That view is shared by a number of leading authorities free to speak because they have retired from government service. Included in that category are Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; Lt. Gen. Daniel V. Graham, former director of the Defense Intelligence Agency; Paul C. Warnke, former chief SALT negotiator; and Herbert Scoville, former deputy director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Protagonists on both sides of the MX debate generally agree that the United States' land-based Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missiles will become increasingly vulnerable to the Soviet Union's ICBMs during the 1980s. But critics argue forcefully that less extravagant yet more efficient alternative systems can be designed and constructed as quickly as the extraordinarily expensive MX.

The flimsiness of the White House position is typified by the opening sentence of a four-page briefing paper on the issue distributed by Carter operatives at the convention: "The MX ICBM is needed to protect America from the threat of a nuclear Pearl Harbor."

When Brown was asked about that somewhat hysterical warning of a sneak nuclear attack, he promptly renounced it: "I did not imply and the president does not believe that the Soviets are necessarily planning an attack on the United States."

Smith, a typically somber attorney, is neither an ideological zealot nor a single-issue fanatic. He has long been active in politics in his home state of Oregon, was a delegate to the 1976 Democratic National Convention, was a firmly committed Carter delegate at this year's convention and has just been elected chairman of his state's Democratic party.

Earlier this year, he took his carefully researched anti-MX crusade to a subcommittee of the convention's platform committee, but lost there by the narrowest possible margin — 10 to 10.

The full platform committee rejected the proposal by a vote of 75 to 69.5, while the entire convention turned it aside on a rare call vote of 1,873.9 to 1,276.6.

Although Smith lost those battles, he eventually may win the war because the MX remains a troubled project. More importantly, he demonstrated that a single citizen can indeed force the politically powerful to take heed of his ideas.

When Johnny Carson 'hired a judge'

by Paul Harvey

Seven hundred fifty years ago in England, when litigants in a dispute often were left to "fight it out" with some kind of duel or ordeal, it was possible to purchase from the king a jury trial.

Because "public justice" was often unjust, those who could afford it purchased for themselves "a private trial."

It can still be done in California; Johnny Carson showed us how.

California has had a law since 1872 allowing anybody who wants to do so to settle a court case outside the court by "hiring a judge."

If both sides to the litigation agree, they can hire a retired or off-duty judge by the hour and get their case resolved in a hurry.

But nobody tried it until about four years ago and nobody paid any attention until Johnny Carson and NBC resolved their contract dispute that way.

Jointly, they hired a retired judge, Parks Stillwell. Both parties agreed to abide by his decision, and thus their dispute was settled in minimal time at minimal cost and in secrecy. Hiring a private judge for a quick, quiet trial is neither illegal nor shady.

This kind of deluxe justice is presently available only in California, but other state legislatures are thinking about it.

And it is a bonanza for retired judges. They, already on pension, can make themselves available for this extra work at $50 an hour or a flat $500 a day.

In a complex air pollution dispute, retired Judge Eugene Sax earned more than $40,000.

It was not until after Johnny Carson hired a judge that the Wall Street Journal became curious, decided to explore how widespread this practice of private justice has become.

Nobody knows. It's that private. The American Bar Association has no record. The state of California has no record.

We do know that the practice is expanding as lawyers learn that they can get more cases tried more promptly, and by a specialist judge selected for his understanding of some highly complex subjects.

Some of the cases growing out of efforts to police pollution are highly complicated, but a jurist experienced in this subject can condense a years'-long trial to a matter of days.

These judges - for - rent have power identical to that of a judge in a public court and their decisions are similarly subject to appeal. In most cases, however, litigants respect the competency of the judge or they would not have agreed in advance to his selection. Thus fewer decisions eventuate in appeals.

One California lawyer says he is sold on private judging; he has "two or three such cases going all the time, saving 80 percent of the delays, 80 percent of the legal fees and 80 percent of the aggravation encountered in public courts."

Doesn't the practice favor the rich who can afford to hire judges? In a sense, it does. But in the extent to which it relieves the backlog of public court cases, it benefits everybody.

The (so far) silent underclass

By Julian Bond

The deceptive quiet that characterized U.S. ghettos from the Kerner Commission Report of 1968 to the Miami fires of 1980 brought to a halt most positive dialogue on the problems of the black underclass. Liberty City's explosion has renewed the discussion, which is naturally focusing where the fire's heat was greatest — the teeming inner city.

Now a report from the Economics, Statistics and Cooperative Service of the U.S. Agriculture Department has uncovered a population even more deprived than its big-city cousins. It is the non-metro blacks.

About one-quarter of the nation's blacks fall into this category — meaning that they live outside metropolitan areas of 50,000 or more.

In the period preceding World War I, three-quarters of America's blacks were confined to the rural South. The mechanization of Southern agriculture and the rigid apartheid practiced uniformly throughout the region then combined to squeeze this population into the cities of the North. Their emigration continued until the 1970s, when, for the first time in 50 years, more blacks moved into rural areas than moved out of them.

The black-white ratios of most U.S. cities have remained fairly steady over the last 10 years. Blacks make up 40 percent of the urban population in the South, 11.5 percent in the West, 25.6 percent in the North Central states, and 22.3 percent in the Northeast.

But 90 percent of the nation's rural blacks live in the South, where discrimination and neglect have conspired to produce a population that is less likely to finish high school than its urban counterpart, three times more likely than urban blacks and five times more likely than urban whites to be functionally illiterate, less likely to hold jobs, and more likely to subsist below the poverty level.

Few non-metro blacks complete four years of college. In 1977, only 3.1 percent of rural black males and 5.2 percent of rural black females had graduated from four-year colleges. In contrast, about 10 percent of urban blacks had earned degrees from four-year colleges.

Rural blacks are also less likely than urban blacks to earn high school diplomas. In 1977, only 31.5 percent of non-metro blacks over 25 had completed high school. That contrasts with 47.9 percent of urban black males, 60 percent of non-metro white males, and 73.3 percent of suburban white males.

The illiteracy rate for rural black men stands at 22.5 percent, greater than that of city or suburban men of either race.

The incomes of one-third of all rural black heads of families fall below the poverty line, while only one-fourth of metro black family heads and less than 10 percent of white family heads live in poverty.

The conclusions reached by Frank A. Fratoe, author of the Agriculture Department's report, are hardly surprising: "Socio-economic disadvantage is greatest in the hundreds of non-metro counties, many predominantly black, lacking services and facilities. Chronic under-investment in human-community development has resulted in poor housing, inadequate health services, educational under-attainment and other forms of disadvantage which have persisted for decades."

Fratoe suggests a variety of cures for the pathology of racially induced rural poverty, including economic development, improved educational opportunity, increased career and vocational education, and employment training programs in the public and private sectors.

The charts and graphs illustrating his analysis should be adequate warning of the plight of a population that may soon learn what its city cousins have learned already — that disorder brings attention.

The Carter record

President's inner circle would probably be same

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a second Carter administration, most of the president's inner circle would probably be holdovers from the first. Voters will know exactly what they're getting. Major changes in the Cabinet or White House staff are unlikely if the president were re-elected, says White House press secretary Jody Powell.

However, some recent Carter favorites — such as Moon Landrieu, Neil Goldschmidt, Philip M. Klutznick and perhaps pollster Patrick Caddell — are likely to play increasingly visible roles in a second term.

The Carter administration had its shakeup almost a year ago, when all members of the Cabinet and the senior staff were asked to hand in their resignations. Five Cabinet secretaries were replaced; the other resignations were refused.

Powell said he did not know whether the president would seek mass resignations again, but he sounded doubtful, saying:

"There's a strong feeling on the part of the president that one of the things the country needs is some continuity — not just the president but also fundamental policies. That's why I would not anticipate any major shakeup."

Carter's presidential inner circle has several levels. He still relies on the same nucleus that accompanied him to the White House 3½ years ago, though the group has expanded slightly from the original corps of Georgians.

The Georgians include Powell, Hamilton Jordan, Rosalynn Carter and Charles Kirbo, who serve as general political advisers. Jack Watson, one of Kirbo's former Atlanta law partners, replaced Jordan as Carter's chief of staff when Jordan joined the re-election committee.

Powell said he expects to remain as press secretary "so long as the president wants me."

Jordan is expected to return to the White House if Carter wins re-election and Powell says Watson will also have a top post in the administration.

Kirbo has never worked in the Carter White House in any official capacity; he maintains his law practice in Atlanta and provides Carter with general advice and impressions. Recently, Kirbo was called in to advise Carter on how best to handle the affair concerning Carter's brother Billy.

The president's wife, Rosalynn, is considered to have perhaps the most influence of anyone on her husband.

A few non-Georgians have gained the president's confidence during his first term. They include Robert Strauss, Tim Kraft and Lloyd Cutler.

Strauss is a wealthy Texas lawyer who headed the Democratic National Committee prior to Carter's 1976 election. He has served as the president's trade negotiator, anti-inflation adviser and Middle East negotiator. Today he serves as chairman and spokesman for the Carter-Mondale re-election committee.

Kraft hooked up with Carter in the 1976 campaign and ended up as one of his most important political lieutenants. He worked for Jordan at the White House and was one of the first to join the re-election committee where he directs day-to-day organizational duties.

Cutler is a high-powered Washington lawyer who became presidential counsel after last year's staff shakeup. He quickly became involved in most of the main issues that cross the president's desk.

For policy advice, Carter relies on domestic aide Stuart Eizenstat; Treasury Secretary G. William Miller; national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski and Secretary of State Edmund Muskie.

Court ruling victory for retired Texas man

LAREDO, Texas (AP) — A federal judge says a provision of the Social Security Act that denied benefits to widowers who remarried before age 60 is archaic and unconstitutional.

The provision allowed widows who remarried before age 60 and whose second marriage ended in divorce or death to draw benefits on the record of the first husband. Widowers were given no such option.

U.S. District Judge George P. Kazen criticized the sex-based distinction as part of the "baggage of sexual stereotyping that presumes that all women are dependent housewives who rely on their husbands for support."

His ruling on Wednesday was a victory for a retired U.S. Postal Service worker, Wilbur H. Mertz, 68, of Brownsville, Texas.

Mertz filed for spouse's benefits in 1977 on the Social Security record of his first wife, Mary, to whom he was married from 1944 until her death in 1963. He remarried in 1967 and was divorced in 1975.

The Supreme Court and other courts previously have struck down most major gender-based distinctions in the Social Security law. A handful of minor ones still exist.

Mertz brought his suit as a class action. It technically covers all widowers who were denied benefits in the 60 days before Mertz filed the suit on June 29, 1979.

A clerk for the judge said, however, the ruling will have the impact of changing the law "for all widowers."

Kazen ordered Health and Human Services Secretary Patricia Roberts Harris to identify the eligible widowers and pay them benefits.

Kidnap suspect sought in Arkansas, Oklahoma

DALLAS (AP) — Law officers have expanded their search to Arkansas and Oklahoma for the suspect in the kidnapping of a 7-year-old North Dallas boy, according to police.

David Lee Summerville, 23, was charged with aggravated rape the day before the kidnapping of Matthew Mueller last Friday, police said Thursday.

The victim in the Aug. 30 assault was a 27-year-old Dallas nurse who remains hospitalized with a stab wound to the chest.

Police said Summerville also is being sought by Norman, Okla., authorities for questioning in the theft of an auto at knife-point from a Norman High School student, and by Little Rock police in connection with a theft case.

The boy was lured into a car last Friday by a man who displayed a small white dog and asked for help in finding the owner. Matthew untied himself and escaped from a van where he had been left 28 hours later.

His mother and stepfather, Beth and John K. Smith, frantically tried to keep up with the kidnapper's constantly changing directions for dropping the $20,000 ransom, but no one ever appeared to collect the money.

Appeals court may resolve law dispute

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A federal appeals court has decided that state courts in Texas may be able to resolve a dispute over whether a psychotherapist must tell if he had sex with patients.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals declined to address the question Thursday and canceled a decision made by a U.S. District Court in Austin that dismissed the plea filed by John M. Abell.

Abell had sought relief in federal courts after Texas courts agreed he had to answer, under oath, a series of written questions or be jailed for contempt.

The psychotherapist since has filed a state court case claiming confidentiality under a new Texas law and the three-judge federal panel says the Texas court could resolve the dispute.

Abell contends the Texas Legislature passed a privilege law that says mental health information may be deemed confidential and immune to legal prying.

The psychotherapist has been ordered to answer questions that include:

"Please state whether you have kissed, touched, hugged, fondled or had any sexual contact of any type, including sexual intercourse, with any other client or former patient you have undertaken to treat."

If so, the interrogatory wanted the who, where, when, how of each instance. The questions were posed as part of pretrial discovery in two damage suits filed against Abell by former patients.

Computer failure delays air traffic

DALLAS (AP) — Air traffic controllers were using a backup system today to control flights over a five-state area because a computer that controls their radar failed, according to the Federal Aviation Administration.

The FAA said the Air Route Traffic Control Center at D-FW had been using a backup system since shortly after 1 p.m. Thursday.

The statement said the "backup mode" is normally used by air traffic controllers only during scheduled

TRIO DISMISSES SUIT

HOUSTON (AP) — Three people who claimed they were tortured by Jacinto City police and forced to confess to the 1977 rape-slaying of a child asked a federal court to dismiss a $3 million lawsuit against former Police Chief Allan Jamail and two officers.

U.S. District Judge Carl O. Bue Jr. granted the plaintiffs' request Thursday.

Karl Walter Wise and John Michael Stafford alleged police beat them with an electric cattle prod to get a confession in the death of 10-year-old Ramona Abner. Pamela Jeanne Turner claimed police robbed her.

The three subsequently were released without charges. John Charles Zimmerman, the girl's uncle, was convicted and sentenced to death Oct. 3.

A federal jury acquitted Jamail and co-defendants Andrew Torres Jr. and Wayne Edward of criminal civil rights charges on June 30, 1979.

CASE ENDS IN MISTRIAL

HOUSTON (AP) — The case against a Beaumont man accused of raping a teen-ager who identified her attacker under hypnosis has ended in a mistrial.

State District Judge Jimmy James granted the mistrial Thursday after jurors deliberating the fate of James Doyle Parks failed to reach a verdict because of a "total lack" of physical evidence.

Two 16-year-old girls claimed last November a man in a car forced their vehicle off a Houston street and abducted one of them. Authorities said a composite drawing of the assailant was made after the "distracted" girls were hypnotized.

Parks was arrested last February in Beaumont. However, a job supervisor testified Parks was delivering newspapers in Beaumont at the time of the alleged incident.

Prosecutor Ray Fuchs refused to indicate whether he would retry Parks.

FOUR PLEAD GUILTY

HOUSTON (AP) — Four men allegedly involved in a three county trailer theft ring have pleaded guilty to receiving stolen property and received probated sentences and fines.

Louis Henry Galtz, 54, of Clearfield, was given a 10-year probated sentence and a $10,000 fine Thursday by State District Judge Jon Hughes.

James Clifford McGee, 43, of Trinity County, was assessed 5 years probation and a $2,500 penalty. James Ray Gilmore, 40, of Houston, received a similar sentence. Ernest Bo Payne, 54, also of Houston, was sentenced to 5 years probation and fined $3,500.

The four were indicted last June after the alleged theft ring was broken by Galena Park police and the Harris County Organized Crime Task Force.

Investigators said ring leaders hired thieves to steal trailers valued at $10,000 each from 19 dealers across the state. The vehicles then were sold for about $2,500 each or kept them for personal use.

MAN INDICTED FOR MURDER

DALLAS (AP) — A 31-year-old man was indicted Wednesday for attempted capital murder of a police officer and aggravated kidnapping of a cab driver during a destructive spree Aug. 11 near Northwest Highway in North Dallas.

Miguel Gregorio Culmer also is accused of running over a 16-year-old boy on Northwest Highway, where police and civilians joined a 20-minute chase.

Police said off-duty officer Marcia Miller Snowden, 28, was shot at twice as she pursued Culmer. The suspect also is accused of hijacking a cab driven by 41-year-old Jack Dempsey Marsh.

ATTORNEYS ATTEMPT TO BLOCK HEARING

DALLAS (AP) — State Fair of Texas attorneys Wednesday asked a federal judge to block an administrative hearing called by the Consumer Product Safety Commission in connection with its investigation of last year's fatal Swiss Skyride accident.

The attorneys told U.S. District Judge Patrick Higginbotham the sudden hearing plans were "a blatant effort to circumvent the judicial processes" that have been set in motion.

Higginbotham's ruling, which quashed a search warrant allowing the commission to inspect the site, has been before the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals since January.

The accident killed one man and injured 17 people when four of the gondola-like cars collided and two of them fell to the Midway on Oct. 21.

PAIR CHARGED IN DEATH OF WOMAN

KILLEEN (AP) — Gregory Winford Hoyle, 24, and Leslie Ray Maixner, 32, were charged with capital murder Wednesday in the death of an unidentified woman whose body was found here Tuesday.

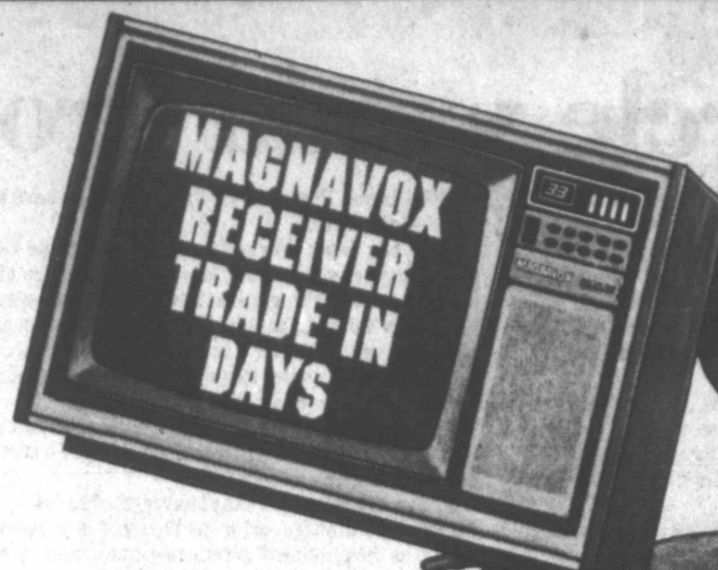

The pair was being held in Bell County Jail under $100,000 bond each.

The partially decomposed, nude body was discovered after police received an anonymous tip. Peace Justice Doyle Haradin, who arraigned the pair, said evidence indicated the woman was strangled.

WOMAN INDICTED FOR DEATH OF CHILD

DALLAS (AP) — A 29-year-old Garland woman was indicted on a murder charge Wednesday that accuses her of smothering her 5-year-old daughter, then slashing her throat and wrists.

Carol Jean Wood was arrested July 25 after police found the child's body at the woman's apartment.

Committee adopts recommendations to aid handicapped Texas citizens

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Senate committee has adopted recommendations that would make it easier for handicapped Texans to find jobs and homes and would wipe out for them the "last vestige of the old poll tax law."

The recommendations of the Committee on Human Resources also offer tax breaks, better health care and "barrier-free" access to public and private facilities for the handicapped.

The committee Thursday adopted 33 of 34 staff proposals, most of which applied to the handicapped. The proposals are almost certainly the most far-reaching recommendations ever approved for the handicapped by a legislative committee.

The only staff proposal the committee rejected was a recommendation that the 1981 Legislature consider amending the Texas Constitution to allow state supplemental payments to the poor and disabled receiving federal Supplemental Security Income.

"We're talking money, and there is going to be a financial crunch," said Sen. Betty Andujar, R-Fort Worth.

Staff information on supplemental payments, however, will be forwarded to legislators.

"I want to know who's going to carry this legislative package?" asked Sen. Ron Clower, D-Garland.

"We'll share the wealth," replied committee chairman Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena.

"We've recommended enough for a whole session," responded Clower.

"The staff has followed the general principle that it would be completely useless to recommend new programs as such, because there is not going to be any new money for additional programs," said Brooks.

"We're trying to help our (handicapped) people help themselves—that's really the bottom line," he said.

He said approximately one-third of the recommendations would require legislative approval.

A proposal that did not deal with the handicapped would raise the cost of a Texas marriage license from $7.50 to $12, with $4 of the increase being used to finance community centers for the protection of battered women and abused children and elderly persons. The extra 50 cents would be given to counties for administrative costs.

"Why sock it to those getting married?" asked Sen. Betty Andujar, R-Fort Worth. "How about divorces, too?"

"From personal experience I can tell you a divorce already is unbelievably expensive," said Brooks.

The staff report said a primary consideration in developing the recommendations was to make it possible for handicapped persons to live "as independently as possible."

It said the Department of Human Resources should make services "more readily available to younger severely disabled adults."

"This means the Department of Human Resources should use its resources a little more equitably in dealing with the younger population," said Brooks.

Committee recommendations included:

- Issuing dashboard placards so drivers giving a handicapped person a ride can park in places reserved for the handicapped.
- Implementation by the Merit System Council of an affirmative action job program for disabled persons.
- Requiring the Sunset Commission, in deciding if the life of an agency should be extended, to consider whether the agency hires handicapped persons.

- Encouraging the Real Estate Commission to support local boards of realtors in making available a comprehensive list of "barrier-free" homes that are for sale.
- Abolishing the requirement that a person desiring to vote absentee because of a disability must obtain a physician's affidavit. Brooks described the requirement as the "last vestige" of the poll tax, which was abolished by a vote of the people in 1966.
- Holding elections in barrier-free buildings if at all possible.
- Providing simplified election instructions in writing for deaf persons.
- Exempting from the state sales tax all medical devices prescribed by doctors.
- Exempting from the motor vehicle tax vehicles purchased by disabled persons who are not already exempt.
- Exempting from the state sales tax materials used to make residential and public facilities more accessible to the handicapped.
- Training public school educators and counselors how to deal with the handicapped.
- Classroom instruction on problems facing handicapped students and social acceptance of such students.
- Appropriation of sufficient funds for the Texas Commission for the Deaf to fulfill the duties assigned by the Legislature.
- Authorizing special treatment programs for autistic persons, with additional emphasis on training teachers to deal with autism and other emotional disturbances.

Dentist's dream becomes super weapon

AUSTIN (AP) — It was 1967 when Dr. Leo J. Windecker nosed his plastic plane into the West Texas skies. Now, the dentist's dream is the latest in bomber technology and hot political issues.

Windecker's vision gave rise to "stealth technology" and a super-secret bomber that the Austin American-Statesman reported has been tested in Nevada and Alaska for the past two years.

The newspaper reported that the aircraft is the prototype of a plastic, delta-shaped bomber able to slip undetected past enemy radar.

The newspaper said the stealth design virtually eliminates flat surfaces which produce radar returns and has a body made of plastic that absorbs radar impulses.

Presidential nominee Ronald Reagan and other Republicans have made release of stealth information a major political issue, claiming the material was leaked and then made public by the administration to offset charges that Democrats have weakened national security.

Former President Gerald Ford said in Houston Thursday that he was "absolutely dumbfounded" that Secretary of Defense Harold Brown released information about the program.

Ford said there was "no question in his mind that release of the stealth information was a political decision that unquestionably is harmful to our national security."

And Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., said the Senate Intelligence Committee plans to hold hearings on the release of classified information dealing with the project.

Windecker, who said he reaped no profits from his idea, gave up his dental practice in 1959 to start building plastic airplanes. With the aid of a Dow Chemical Co. grant, he designed and built a four-seat plastic airplane in 1967 called "The Eagle."

The Midland dentist said a company he formed to produce the "Eagle" had orders for 16 of the aircraft when the company's stock went public "for too little money" in 1971.

Dow owned many of the patents on the process that Windecker used and it wasn't until after his fledgling firm folded in 1971 that the Pentagon became interested in the Eagle for its radar-avoiding capabilities.

"Their entire interest was the Eagle's low radar signature," Windecker told the newspaper in an article published Thursday. He said with a few design modifications, the plane became "invisible to radar."

From the Eagle's military descendant, the YE-5, came the idea for the stealth bomber that the newspaper said has been tested secretly for the past two years.

Quoting sources "knowledgeable about the tests," the paper says the delta-winged bomber was built by Lockheed Aircraft Corp. using a Boeing Co. design and stealth technology.

School districts use drug dogs despite court ruling

HOUSTON (AP) — Despite a recent federal court ruling, about 25 Houston-area school districts continue to use specially-trained dogs to check lockers, hallways and cars for drugs.

Pasadena Assistant Superintendent Lonnie Renfrow insisted the dogs "have been instrumental in helping the district close down eliminating drugs from our campuses."

Last week, U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice issued a preliminary injunction banning use of the dogs in the Latexo School District of Houston County.

Using the dogs was tantamount to conducting a search without probable cause and random searches of a student or his personal property violated the "student's rights under the Fourth Amendment," Justice said.

The Latexo case arose after three high school students were suspended for three days after alleged drug paraphernalia was found in their possession.

A similar case is pending against the Goose Creek Independent School District of Baytown.

James Turner, attorney for the Latexo district, argued the ruling does not prohibit other schools from using the dogs because it was not a class action suit. However, he said, it eventually could have statewide implications.

School superintendents at Spring Branch, Spring and Humble reaffirmed Thursday they would continue to use the dogs.

Black group opposes Carter

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A conservative black organization says it will circulate 5 million copies of a pamphlet entitled "101 Reasons Why Blacks Should Not Vote For Jimmy Carter."

The pamphlet does not mention or endorse Republican Ronald Reagan, "it simply says don't vote for the guy who got us in the 'maelstrom of despair,'" said Clay Claiborne, treasurer of Black Voters for a Republican Congress and founder of a group called the Black Silent Majority Committee.

Claiborne, who publishes the National Crusader Newspaper, said 250,000 copies of the pamphlet were targeted for black communities of Dallas, San Antonio, Houston and other Texas cities, and "the ultimate objective is in excess of 5 million in 78 cities."

He said the pamphlet would be printed and distributed from San Antonio.

"In 1976 the black vote was a factor in the Carter victory," Claiborne said. "He won Akron by a bigger majority than the state and got Ohio's votes with a 5,000 margin. That means the black vote was a factor."

Claiborne said there was "tremendous disenchantment in the party and black leadership" with Carter's record and that the pamphlet mostly lists government statistics dealing with inflation, black unemployment, and other reasons why blacks should oppose Carter's re-election.

The pamphlet charges that Carter, "has utterly betrayed the confidence of 5.6 million black voters who blindly gave him 90 percent of their support in 1976."

Claiborne said black unemployment was the highest in the nation's history and even the decrease in house construction was a reason for blacks to oppose Carter.

"While blacks can't afford $50,000-plus houses, they certainly have jobs in helping to construct them," he said.

Everyone is welcome in the Pasadena concert band

PASADENA (AP) — Dr. Grady Hallman, a Houston heart surgeon, sits on the back row, blowing baritone blasts on his euphonium with a pager strapped to his belt in case he's needed at the hospital.

Bill Johnson, a satellite data analyst who hadn't touched the clarinet for 37 years, lets loose with "The One O'Clock Jump."

Then there's Teri Jones, an 18-year-old apprentice electrician and trumpet player, and Holden Mizell, 71, a retired telephone company engineer who plays a French horn.

These are all members of the Pasadena Municipal Concert Band.

Bob Zwick, 31, musical director for the hometown band, said, "We've got people who play at a professional level, people who are average and people who are mediocre. The thing is we are here to have a good time and do something for the community."

Bill Johnson said he played in a band in school as a kid and went professional for a while. "But after World War II, I put my horn down and didn't pick it up again until recently."

"I just took it out of the case one day and wanted to see if I could still read music. Then I came down here and joined the band."

Dr. Hallman said, "It's just something I like to do."

The hometown band has played several concerts in Houston's Hermann Park, appeared at some sporting events and at the Main Street Festival in Houston.

Texas counties checked for voting irregularities

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Attorney General Mark White said he is investigating alleged voting irregularities in Bexar, San Patricio and Prio counties at the request of Secretary of State George Strake.

Strake, the state's chief elections officer, said Thursday he had referred three cases of "serious allegations of absentee voting fraud" to the attorney general.

White's office said Thursday afternoon two assistant generals were in the three counties investigating the charges.

A spokesman for Strake said it was not thought any of the three incidents would change results of local races in the three counties, but are being pushed as violations of state election laws.

Strake said in a statement that "any attempt to impair, intimidate or infringe on the voting rights of any citizen is a serious threat to everyone's freedom, and must not be tolerated. We are dissatisfied with the unwarranted delays by local officials in pursuing these cases and feel it is time for vigorous action."

He said his general counsel and elections director personally delivered the files on the three cases to White on Monday, in the presence of a number of representatives of Mexican-American groups.

"I asked that he actively pursue all three of these cases by means of investigation, and if warranted, prosecution," Strake said.

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a man who is so macho that he flatly refuses to help his wife with anything connected with housework? He says, "Men do not do women's work."

We have no children, by choice, and we both work days, but he insists that I get up earlier than I ordinarily would in order to blow-dry his hair every morning. He also thinks it's a wife's duty to pick up after her husband, so he leaves his dirty socks and underwear all over the house. He says his mother was his father's "slave," and he expects me to be his. As a working wife, I contribute equally to the household expenses and think I should be treated as an equal, but I'm not. His old-world upbringing has given him the macho, male-supremacy attitude, and it's about to drive me to the divorce court. Any suggestions?

SLAVE

DEAR SLAVE: You're working full time, right? You contribute equally toward household expenses, right? You are a "slave" by your own definition, right?

Emerson said, "Slavery is an institution for converting men into monkeys." Well, that goes for women, too, right? So stop picking up after the male chauvinist, and tell him to use some of that hot air he's full of to blow-dry his own hair. (P.S. A counselor might be able to save your marriage, but I'm not optimistic about your chances of getting him there.)

DEAR ABBY: There is this snooty women's editor in our office who insists on opening and reading mail addressed to Dear Abby, in care of this newspaper, before she forwards it to your Los Angeles office.

Should we inform the postmaster general? What are your thoughts on people who open and read other people's mail?

NAME WITHHELD

DEAR NAME: My attorney tells me that it is a crime for a person to open mail addressed to another unless authorized to do so. The penalty for doing this is one year in prison or a fine of $500. After this hits print, I doubt that it will be necessary to inform anybody. If I am mistaken, please let me know.

DEAR ABBY: I am a church organist. Frequently I am asked to play for weddings of people I don't know. They pay me and also send me an invitation to the wedding, which includes the dinner.

Am I obligated to send a gift?

WITHHOLD MY NAME

DEAR WITHHOLD: You don't have to pull out all the stops. However, if you accept the invitation to the dinner, I think a small gift is in order.

DEAR READERS: I'm still getting responses to my survey. Here's one of my Spanish-speaking readers who disagrees with TIED.

"Estimada Abby: Estoy en total desacuerdo con CANSADA. Me apena que nunca haya disfrutado de algo tan maravilloso."

Versatile avocado gains popularity

By TOM HOGE
AP Wine And Food Writer

The avocado or alligator pear with its creamy texture and buttery taste is among the most versatile of fruits, and is winning new friends every day.

It is one of the few fruits that can be used as a key ingredient in appetizers, soups, main courses, salads and even desserts.

Bits of avocado are delicious in that raw fish dish known as seiche. And avocado halves can be filled with a wide variety of foods such as crab, shrimp and chicken. They can be eaten cold as a salad or baked in cream sauce.

It wasn't until recently that I learned the avocado with its nutty tang can be made into ice cream or sherbet. I have also sampled avocado lime pie and found it very tasty.

The avocado dates back to 1519 when the Spanish explorer Hernando Cortes found the fruit flourishing in the region now known as Mexico City.

By the early 19th century the avocado was being grown in Africa, Polynesia and Hawaii. Then, in 1833, horticulturist Henry Perrine brought specimens up from Mexico and introduced the avocado into Florida.

The fruit varies in appearance from the small round ball variety which is shiny green to the big pear-shaped, slightly russet-colored fruit.

The avocado ranges in weight from 5 ounces to as much as 3 pounds.

Here's an avocado lime pie recipe in which condensed milk supplies the sweetness.

- 1 ripe avocado, fairly large
- 1 can (14 ounces) sweetened condensed milk
- Rind of 1 lime, grated
- 1/4 cup fresh lime juice
- 2 egg yolks
- Dash of salt
- 1 baked 9-inch pie shell
- 1/4 cup chopped cashews

Mash avocado (there should be about 1 1/4 cups). Combine condensed milk, lime rind, lime juice, well-beaten egg yolks and salt. Stir till mixture is thickened. Fold in avocado puree, turn mixture into baked pastry shell and chill several hours. Sprinkle with chopped nuts. Serves 6-8.

Kidney Foundation campaign set

The Kidney Foundation of the Texas Panhandle will conduct a house-to-house campaign Monday to raise funds for the National Kidney Foundation. According to Georgia Mack, chairman of the Gray County Kidney Foundation, the campaign will be from 6 to 9 p.m.

The Kidney Foundation of the Texas Panhandle is one of 52 affiliates of the National Kidney Foundation. The volunteer health organization represents 44 counties in Texas. Through research, public information, public education, professional education, organ donor program, community service and patient service, the Foundation is working to eliminate America's number four killer.

The Kidney Foundation strives to keep residents of the Panhandle apprised of the many facets of kidney disease, its hazards and warning signs, as well as the progress in research, treatment and prevention and the news of medical advances.

Approximately eight million Americans suffer from more than 30 kidney-related diseases and about 58,000 die each year from terminal kidney disease. More than 50 persons in this area have kidney failure and must sustain life by the use of a kidney machine.

Many people believe that most kidney diseases are fatal. Not so, says the Kidney Foundation. Victims may be faced with a serious condition but not necessarily a hopeless one, especially if diagnosed early.

Those with chronic high blood pressure should be especially alert to the warning signs of kidney disease, since high blood pressure often leads to crippling kidney disease. Kidney disease can be controlled with proper treatment, however.

Approximately $5 million, one-fourth of the Foundation's funds, was spent on kidney research last year. Research has led to the development of the artificial kidney and the portable artificial kidney, new treatments for various kidney diseases and improved kidney transplant techniques.

Transplantation is now accepted therapy for kidney failure. More than 500 persons in Texas are in need of a kidney transplant. Of these, 100 are from West Texas. Wide spread distribution of the uniform donor card is a way to give end-stage renal patients another chance at life.

Fowl play

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — One fowl taste of the outside world apparently was enough to persuade a resident of the Indianapolis Zoo that freedom wasn't everything.

According to general curator Daniel Baffa, Jan, a 5-year-old pure white, Southeast Asian peacock, decided to take a closer look at the other side of the fence.

Soon after it landed next door in a park, a passerby saw a man get out of a car, throw a net or blanket over the 8-pound bird, pitch it into the trunk and drive away.

Baffa received a call from a man who wanted to know how much he'd pay to have his bird back. The peacock is worth about $150, but Baffa refused to pay a ransom. The man gave in and released the bird at an agreed spot.

The bird was back in its pen two hours after the crime was reported. He was unscathed physically but apparently got some psychological scars. "He's as far from people as he can possibly be," Baffa said.

Panhandle minister named Bishop

A former panhandle area minister has been elected to the post of Bishop of the Northwest Texas Episcopal Diocese. The Rev. Sam B. Hulseley, currently rector of Church of the Holy Trinity Episcopal in Midland, was elected to the position recently at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Lubbock.

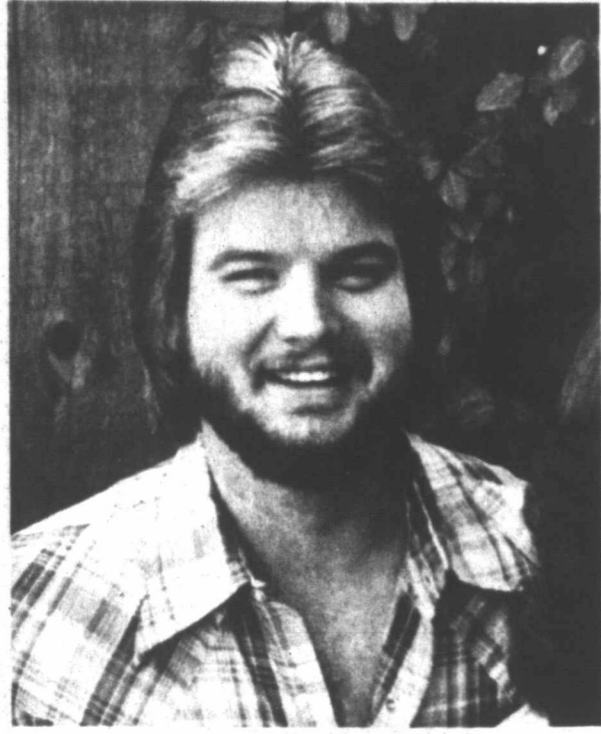

Nineteen priests were proposed for the nomination as bishop.

Vacancy in the office of Bishop was created by the April 26 resignation of the Rt. Rev. Willis R. Henton.

Rev. Hulseley attended public schools in Fort Worth and earned a degree at Washington and Lee University in Lexington, Va. He also did graduate work at St. Andrew's Scotland and earned a masters at Virginia Theological Seminary in Alexandria, Va.

He has served as curate and rector of St. John's in Corsicana, assistant and director of Christian Education at St. Michael and All Angels in Dallas, rector and day school headmaster at St. Matthew's in Pampa, priest-in-charge at All Saint's in Perryton, and rector at St. David's in Nashville, Tenn.

Hulseley has served as rector of Holy Trinity in Midland since 1978.

TIM SHEPPARD

Sheppard in concert

Everyone is invited to attend the free Tim Sheppard Concert which will be held on Saturday, Sept. 13, at 7 p.m. in the M.K. Brown Auditorium.

Sheppard will be performing some of his latest musical compositions.

Sheppard was named the Contemporary Gospel Singer and the Contemporary Gospel Song Writer of the year in 1975. He has appeared on the Ross Bagley Show, the 700 club and the PTL program.

The Tim Sheppard Concert is being sponsored by the New Life Rap raido program. The program is heard Friday at 6 p.m.

Unique country Gospel sound

Lamar Full Gospel Assembly, 1200 S. Sumner announce that the Rev. Eddie Hundley and his wife Jane will be ministering at the church Sept. 14-17 at 7 p.m. Sunday and 7:30 week nights.

The Rev. Gene Allen cordially invites the public to attend. Nursery will be provided.

Rev. Eddie Hundley of Dallas has been in full-time gospel ministry for 35 years, beginning as a boy preacher at age 15.

Rev. Hundley traveled for the first five years of his ministry with his two brothers, known as the Hundley Brothers Trio. He later attended Southwestern Bible Institute and Wayland Baptist College.

He has pastored several churches in Texas, however, most of his ministry has been spent in evangelism, preaching revivals, conventions and camp meetings throughout the United States and in several foreign countries. Rev. Hundley has been the guest speaker at a number of colleges for their religious emphasis weeks.

Rev. Hundley is joined by his wife, Jane, who has a lovely contralto voice. Together they have developed a unique and inspiring country gospel sound.

Weatherfords to sing

The Fellowship Baptist Church, 622 E. Francis, invites the congregation and community to hear the singing Weatherfords in concert Friday, Sept. 12, at 7:30 p.m.

Today's music has emerged as a force. A force that can shape minds, stir hearts, and challenge souls.

The Weatherfords recognized this over thirty years ago and are at the vanguard of this force presenting music with a difference.

How does music do this?

It gives the answer to the many questions people are asking today.

The Weatherfords, Steve, Lilly and Earl present a program of Gospel music that soothes and heals the troubled heart. It's music with the answer.

Bible study to begin

A program of disciplined Bible study for laymen emphasizing "Knowing what the Bible says as a basis for what it means" will begin September 14, at the First Christian Church, 18th and Nelson, on September 14, at 6:30 p.m.

"We believe the time is right for a systematic and thorough Bible study," Dr. Frank Warden, author of the new program said.

Normally studies are of individual books or portions of the Bible. Trinity Bible Study is comprised of surveys of the Old Testaments and eight further indepth studies. Each section will last ten weeks.

Pampa First Christian Church will lead the first portion of this study which will be the Old Testament Survey.

This course is open to all interested persons. The registration fee is $10 and can be made through the church office.

Pentecostal Revival continues

The First Pentecostal Holiness Church, 1700 Alcock, will present a special revival service which will be conducted each evening Sept. 10-14 at 7:30 p.m.

Guest evangelist for the revival is the Reverend Howard H. Baker of Pueblo, Colo.

Pastor of the First Pentecostal Holiness Church, Albert Maggard, with the church congregation, join in extending to the community an invitation to the services.

"Thou wilt shew me the path of life: in thy presence is fulness of joy..."
PSALM 16:11

HERE IS THE PATH

Be ever mindful and thankful to GOD for...

HEALTH and FOOD

In our nation today, the majority of us have so much to be thankful for. Sure we lose a tooth or two in growing up, as the one pictured here, but these will soon be replaced. Health and Happiness are generally ours, and through our abundance we should share with others who are less fortunate. God's word and the church encourage sharing with others. There are many areas of service to others within the churches, and these we should not neglect, but God has said that we should take advantage, as we are able, of all opportunities to give aid.

"As we have therefore opportunity, let us do good unto all men."

GALATIANS 6:10

THE CHURCH ENCOURAGES LOVE AND COMPASSION FOR OTHERS

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

That which you have gained from personal experience has helped strengthen the leadership qualities that you will put to good use in the months ahead. Where you were once a follower, you'll now take command.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Avoid all forms of pretense today. Friends will be able to see through the veneer. No one will be fooled except yourself. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't be disappointed today if the kindness you show is not fully appreciated or reciprocated. Everyone isn't as compassionate as you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Enjoy your friends today, but be wary of putting yourself in a position where you feel you are competing against them. Being top dog isn't that important.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You have everything it takes to be a winner today, but for some reason known only to yourself you might not put forth the proper effort. You could wind up in second place.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) As long as you maintain a philosophical attitude today you'll be able to handle whatever occurs in stride. Getting emotional is another story.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be very practical in commercial dealings today and try to keep your feelings out of the picture. Sentiment must not be permitted to overrule logic.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) In partnership situations today you may find it a bit difficult to play a subordinate role. Seek harmony. Pull together, rather than apart.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Although your intentions will be good today, the very persons you try to help may be harmed by or may misunderstand your actions. Don't butt in unless your help is sought.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In situations where team effort is required today, strive to hold up your end. Your interests could be elsewhere. There's a chance you won't do what's expected.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You may feel quite lucky today. This is justifiable, because you will be in most areas. However, don't expect another to do something you should handle.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Today you may be a bit more restless and aggressive than usual. This could cause you to act carelessly both with people and possessions. Be on guard.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In your material affairs you should be fortunate today, but you might ruffle the feathers of those you deal with in order to get what you're going after.

Pampa coaching staff concerned about Dumas

By L.D. STRATE
Pampa News Sports Editor
CONCERNED! Dictated with capital letters and ending with an exclamation point may be the best way to describe Pampa Head Coach Larry Gilbert when the Dumas Demons are mentioned. "I am concerned, and so is the rest of the coaching staff," Gilbert said. "Dumas has looked great the times we've seen them. They're disciplined and they've got a real fine attitude."

Sub-par practice sessions this week has caused Gilbert to be doubly concerned. "This hasn't been the best week of practice I've been around," he said. "If we play like we practice, we're going to be in trouble." Gilbert's concern about Dumas has focused in on a quick offensive line and a pair of backs that are like spontaneous combustion when mixed together. "Their line is real quick coming off the ball," he added. "One of their backs, Mike Mowery, has a lot of speed and their 210-pound fullback, Robert Norris, can't be brought down by arm-tackling. We're going to have to slow him down to win." Gilbert said the 145-pound Mowery is one of the best punt returners in the Panhandle area. "If he gets in the open nobody's going to catch him," Gilbert said. "He's just a little guy, but he can sure scoot. Because of this we've worked hard on our punt return coverage this week. Gilbert looks for Dumas to be vengeance-minded after last year's 28-7 pounding by the Harvesters. "They were down last year (3-7 record)," but I can guarantee you they're going to be out to whip us good, so we better be ready," he pointed out. Dumas routed Lamar (Colo.), 48-0, last week as Norris scored two touchdowns and rushed for 139 yards. Quarterback Richard Rodgers threw a pair of TD aeriels. "Rodgers can throw the ball real well," Gilbert said. "He likes to throw a lot of play action passes off their split-t. Pampa's lineup will remain the same as last week with the exception of strong safety where quarterback Sam Edwards will fill in for the injured Clay Coffee. However, Coffee, who sprained an ankle when he stepped on a broken water sprinkler head against Hereford, may see some action. "Clay started working out Wednesday, so there's a possibility he might play some. He's a tough competitor." Pampa's starting lineup is as follows: Offense—Cavin Coleman at tight end; Steve McDougall at split end; Gwinn Greenwood and Pat Langford at guards; Ted Hutto and Mike Graham at tackles; Billy Ward at center; Sam Edwards at quarterback; Arthur Lee Williams and Bobby Dorsey at halfbacks; Leroy Kuhn at fullback.

Defense—Harold Landers at noseguard; Robbie Leffel and John Schilling at linebackers; Ward and Ruben Ambrez at tackles; Clifford Anderson and James Borchardt at ends; Kuhn and Dorsey at cornerbacks; Andy Richardson or McDougall at weak safety; Edwards at strong safety. "The players are still a little bruised up from the Hereford game, but I feel everybody will be ready to go," Gilbert said. Pampa opened the season last week with a 20-7 win over Hereford. "We went against Hereford as the underdog, now we're going against Dumas as the favorite," Gilbert said. "It's going to be a test for them to see how they react to being the favorite, to see if they accept it maturely and go out and play their best." Kickoff is 7:30 p.m. tonight at Harvester Stadium. "It's nice to be playing on our own field, in front of the home crowd, but I don't believe the home field advantage is going to mean that much in this game," Gilbert said. "We just can't take Dumas lightly. We're not the type of team that can have an off-night and still win. We're just not that powerful." Concerned couldn't be a better word to describe Gilbert's feelings.

Tampa Bay slips past LA

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Momentum in a National Football League game is just about as uncertain as the weather. A team never knows whether it might go for or against them.

"Big Mo" was on the side of the Los Angeles Rams for 58 minutes Thursday night, but it suddenly swung to the Tampa Bay Buccaneers in the final two minutes of their NFL game and the result was a 10-9 Bucs victory.

"I heard they were laughing at us on the sidelines," said Tampa Bay tight end Jimmie Giles. "But the opera ain't over 'till the fat lady sings. And she's singing now."

The triumph gave the Bucs a 2-0 record, while Los Angeles, off to its worst start since 1963, dropped to 0-2.

The game was billed as a rematch of the defensive struggle the two teams endured in last season's National Football Conference championship game. It turned out to be just that.

Four field goals between them — three by Los Angeles' Frank Corral and one by Tampa Bay's Gary Yepremian — was all the scoring the teams could muster through 59 minutes.

Three seconds into the 60th minute, Bucs quarterback Doug Williams dove into the end zone from 1 yard out to cap a 6-play, 62-yard march. Yepremian then clinched the victory with the conversion.

The key play in the winning drive was a 41-yard pass interference penalty called on Los Angeles safety Ivory Sully, which gave the Bucs a first down at the Rams' 11 with 1:21 remaining. It changed the complexion of the game, and Sully and Rams head Coach Ray Malavasi both took exception to the call.

"I was going for the ball and things happened wrong. There were a lot of bad calls. The pass interference call was one." Two plays after the penalty, Williams scrambled for 10 yards and a first-and-goal situation at the 1-yard line. He scored the touchdown on the following play and Yepremian's conversion kick sealed the victory.

Braswell, 7-year-old Pampa youngster win Dalhart meet

A high school cross-country runner and a seven-year-old girl from Pampa were winners in the third annual Empty Saddle 5000-meter run held last weekend in Dalhart.

Neal Braswell, a member of the Harvesters' cross-country team, was clocked at 17:47 to win the 18 and under division.

Kelly Nall, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Nall, crossed the finish line ahead of two teenagers to win the women's 18 and under division. She was timed at 41:26.

Kelly's win was a stunning, but pleasant surprise for her parents. "She had never entered a marathon before and we didn't think she knew what she was getting into," Mrs. Nall said. "We told her she would have to use her own money if she was going to enter, so she went ahead and paid her own entry fee. We're very proud of her."

Kelly's father, David, who went to Wayland Baptist College on a track scholarship, finished fifth in the 30-39 division.

"David does a lot of jogging in the evenings and last year Kelly decided to start going with him," Mrs. Nall said.

The rest is history.

Kelly received a first-place trophy for her efforts.

"Today is show and tell at school, so she took her trophy," Mrs. Nall said.

Other Pampanos who placed in the Empty Saddle meet were Louis Allred, second, 30-39 division, and Roy Braswell, second, 40-49 division.

Frazier makes debut tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Marvis Frazier turned 20 today and turns pro tonight.

The son of Smokin' Joe Frazier, the former heavyweight champion, boxes one-time pro football player Roger Troupe of Los Angeles in a scheduled four-round heavyweight bout at Madison Square Garden's Felt Forum.

Managed by his father, Frazier begins his pro career under a one-year promotional contract with the Garden, reportedly worth $50,000, and under the shadow of a 21-second knockout loss to James Broad of the Marine Corps in the semifinals of the Olympic Trials last June.

Houston's Barry calls it quits

HOUSTON (AP) — Rick Barry has quietly announced his retirement after 14 years as a top star in the National Basketball Association.

Barry, 36, said Thursday he is confident he is still capable of playing but that he plans to seek a full-time career in television sports casting.

The former Golden State star signed a $1 million contract with the Houston Rockets in 1978 but became a free agent when the contract expired at the end of the 1979-80 season.

Pampa frosh win football opener

Pampa ninth graders took advantage of Herford LaPlata mistakes here Thursday afternoon for a 22-0 victory to open the 1980 football season for Coach Dick Crockett's junior high crew.

"Our defense played spectacular," Crockett said. "We intercepted three passes and recovered two fumbles."

Pampa received a "gift" from LaPlata early in the game when the visitors were forced to punt from their own 29 and the center snap sailed over punter Danny Martinez' head. Danny Sebastian tackled Martinez on the one and quarterback Deven Cross took it over on Pampa's first possession. Sebastian's conversion run made it 8-0.

Minutes later, David Fatheree made a diving catch in the end zone on Cross' 23-yard pass to make it 14-0 later. Jim Ontiveros put Pampa in good field position by recovering a fumble on Herford's 30.

Dennis Kuempel made the second of his two interceptions to set the stage for Pampa's final TD in the fourth quarter. Sebastian broke loose on a 45-yard scoring jaunt on Pampa's first play and Bobby Evans ran the extra points.

Pampa had its share of mistakes, but it wasn't as costly to them. "We had one long drive killed because of a penalty and one because of a fumble," Crockett said.

Sebastian was Pampa's top rusher with 86 yards on seven carries. Kuempel rushed for 41 yards on eight tries and Ricky Stout picked up 20 yards on five steps.

Cross completed two of four passes for 36 yards, one to Kuempel for 13 yards and the other to Fatheree for the 23-yard score.

Cross also picked off a Herford pass and Tracy Stroud recovered a fumble.

Cowboys to meet Denver

DENVER (AP) — The last time they met in a game which meant anything was Super Bowl XII in January 1978. The quarterbacks are different now, as are the place-kickers, and there are a number of other new faces on both rosters.

But there remain enough Denver Broncos — 26 in fact — who vividly remember the 27-10 Super Bowl loss to the Dallas Cowboys that Sunday's National Football League game here takes on a bit of added significance.

"I'm sure everybody on our team knows that Dallas is the team that beat us in the Super Bowl," said Denver Coach Red Miller.

"I looked at the Super Bowl film the other day. We were so close on some plays — a tipped pass that would have gone for a sure touchdown, a fumbled punt near the goal line that squirted away. As I watched that film, I wanted so much to go back and play the game over."

"But this is another game. All I know is that Denver has beaten Dallas only once, in the pre-season. We've never beaten them in a regular-season game, and I think it's time we did that. I don't like that kind of record."

The oddsmakers have installed Denver as a slight favorite in the game, which comes as a surprise to those who saw Dallas dismantle Washington 17-3 on Monday night and the Broncos get blitzed by Philadelphia 27-6 on Sunday.

The Cowboys were apprehensive about the 1980 season. After all, Danny White was replacing the retired Roger Staubach at quarterback, and the defense had to be rebuilt somewhat.

But there were no signs of weakness last week as the Cowboys, sticking mainly to the ground, generated 177 yards rushing and 107 passing. The defense, meanwhile, shut off Washington's ground game with just 58 yards and forced the Redskins into a desperation passing game.

Denver, on the other hand, suffered what Miller called an "embarrassing" loss to the Eagles. The Broncos had been touting their new controlled-passing offense as a cure for their lack of punch, but it wasn't evident last week. Quarterback Matt Robinson, who has wrestled the starting assignment from Craig Morton, had a rough debut, completing 18 of 41 passes for 178 yards with two interceptions.

The Denver defense was equally inept, yielding 421 total yards and allowing the Eagles four scoring marches of 70 yards or more.

"We'll have to play good team football to win Sunday," said Miller. "Our special teams play has been good, but we need our offense and defense to perform up to their capabilities."

It was a team effort, in fact, which played a major role in Dallas' triumph over Washington. "That was one of the best team efforts we've had in a long time," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "We knew we had to pull together because we had so many new people involved, and our players really came through. We need the same kind of performance this week."

Leader selection mad marathon for voters, candidates

By SAUL PETT

AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty-eight years ago, Adlai Stevenson, a candidate for president of the United States and a man not ideally suited by nature for bedlam, found himself jammed against the back of a crowded elevator with shrieking people and couldn't get out.

"This madness has got to stop!" he shouted. It didn't. It hasn't. I probably won't.

Secret Service men are available these days to liberate candidates from crowded elevators. But basically, the process by which the world's oldest democracy selects its exalted leader remains, in the opinion of those who've tried it, a mad marathon, an endurance contest on a continental rack, an irrelevant test of body and soul in which the fittest may not survive.

Accordingly, scattered through the halls of Congress, in governor's mansions and private homes around the country, there is a special group of men, varied in personality and ideology, who may still feel the sting of rejection at the polls but otherwise, to a man, feel relieved, liberated and born again not to be running any more.

"It feels so good when you stop," says Rep. Philip Crane of Illinois. "Everyone ought to try it once because every day after it's over is a good day."

The long process of selection — 36 primaries, an election every Tuesday and Saturday from January to June, endless creamed chicken in a blur of motels and airports, the steamy conventions, the more than two months of the general campaign — threatens to "bore us to death, work us to death and spend us to death," in the view of Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee, another recent survivor.

"The whole thing is sort of crazy," says Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas.

John Connally of Texas, intimates report, found it more like a footrace for sheriff than a campaign for president. Near the end of a long day, he'd find himself utterly numbed of mind, unable to think of another thing to say but facing two more hours in which to say it.

"It is a severe test of your stamina, your digestion, your marriage and your sense of humor," says Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona and the class of '76.

Most Americans receive candidate for president respectfully, if not always passionately, and most candidates find an exhilaration, a "refreshment," as Howard Baker puts it, in meeting the "peepul" across the land. Now and then, there are the ego busters.

Before a group of lawyers in Florida, Baker made his basic speech and invited questions from the floor.

"The first question was from somebody who stood by with a smirk and said, 'Senator Baker, do you have any idea how tired we get of these presidential candidates traipsing through Florida?' And before I could stop myself, I heard myself saying, 'Do you have any idea how tired we presidential candidates get of people like you?'"

On the day he announced for president, Morris Udall plunged exuberantly into New Hampshire. At the first stop, his car stuck in a snowbank and while it was being dug out he walked across the street, on the advice of local tacticians, to talk to an old barber and his clients. With the humility of a brand-new candidate, Udall stuck his head in the door, tentatively.

"Excuse me, sir, Mr. Udall of Arizona, running for president."

"Yeah, we know," said the barber. "We were laughing about it this morning."

The psychic bruises can be worse for those with the temerity to think that any red-blooded American boy can grow up to be president.

Encouraged by the fact that Jimmy Carter made it from obscurity, Phil Crane tried. He campaigned for 20 months (one day at home, 10 on the road), he hit 44 states and Puerto Rico, he covered 350,000 miles, he made 2,500 speeches, he spent $5 million.

For his trouble, he got three delegates (from his own state), a remaining debt of $200,000 and a personal pasting in two publications. The Manchester Union Leader of New Hampshire accused him of sexual excess and heavy drinking. Stern Magazine of West Germany said his wife had had sexual relations with "all members of Congress." (She is suing Stern for $9 million.)

"It was like terrorists throwing a bomb in a crowded restaurant," says Crane. "Inevitably, there are innocent victims. My children came home from school in tears."

Baker campaigned one year (part time), spent $1.2 million and got nine delegates. Connally campaigned 14 months (full time), spent more than $10 million and got one delegate. Gov. Jerry Brown of California campaigned five months (part time), spent $3.1 million and got one delegate.

Dole, his party's choice for vice president in 1976, campaigned 10 months (part time) last year and this, spent more than $1 million and, for all his trouble, which was considerable, for all his fleeting hope that party conservatives might turn to him if Ronald Reagan fizzled, got no delegates.

A man is left with rationalizations and explanations for his weak showing. Not enough time, not enough money, not enough media exposure. "But after all that," says Dole, "you can't help wondering, maybe I wasn't the best candidate."

Ed Muskie of Maine couldn't help wondering for years after the collapse of his campaign in 1972, which he began as the front-runner.

"It does something to you," he says. "It shakes your confidence. It isn't so much the losing but the feeling of inadequacy... a question of whether there was some flaw I hadn't known about before, something that emerged in that campaign, a weakness, a fundamental weakness. It shakes you."

Both Baker and Dole came out of the 1980 campaign persuaded that to have a real shot at the presidency a man must be unemployed. Both tried to campaign from the Senate and got nowhere.

Baker, the Republican leader in the Senate, fears that the present system of presidential selection demands qualities in a candidate different from those needed to run the country.

"With a system that requires you to be unemployed to be a successful candidate, you lock out virtually every person who has current information about the problems that confront the country. Every member of Congress, every member of the administration, most governors would be locked out of consideration because they simply can't take a year or two to campaign."

"What we've done is create a corps of professional candidates for president. And I think that's bad because it means they necessarily will be perennial outsiders. Outsiders are good for perspective but it doesn't add much to content."

It is widely agreed that if the institution of the presidential campaign is not to sink in a sea of tedium and exhaustion, for both candidates and voters, the length of the race will have to be radically shortened.

Various people suggest the primary track should be shortened to 60 to 90 days. Baker is contemplating legislation that would reduce the current carnival to four or five regional primaries.
