Sabotage probed in charter plane crash

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Federal investigators were investigating the possibility of sabotage Saturday after a chartered DC-3 carrying 34 people crashed just short of its Freeport, Bahamas, destination, said former astronaut Ed Mitchell, a spokesman for Florida Commuter Airlines.

The plane, which had 30 passengers and four crew members aboard, crashed during a raging storm Friday evening. Mitchell is a consultant for the airline which runs weekly flights to the gambling resort.

Rudy Kapustin, head of a National Transportation Safety Board investigation team, said he wasn't ready to speculate on the cause of the crash.

"Every time we have a crash like this, we get information about possible sabotage. We don't rule anything out," Kapustin said.

Coast Guard spokesman Paul Scotti said 16 bodies were recovered. He said there was no evidence of survivors.

Mitchell, partner in the airline's consulting firm, said National Transportation Safety Board investigators grounded the company's other two planes, a DC-3 and a Navajo, Saturday afternoon. Both were scheduled to fly on Monday, he said.

"So far there's no explanation for this accident. Weather seemed to be a leading factor, but they (the investigators) were asking a lot of funny questions," Mitchell said.

"There has been an allegation of foul play. It was brought to our attention by the authorities. All allegations are taken seriously. It certainly cannot be ignored, and the reason is that we don't have any other theory," Mitchell told The Associated Press.

The FBI refused to comment on Mitchell's statements. Mitchell wouldn't speculate on possible motives for sabotage.

Meanwhile, a fisherman who was in the crash area told Federal Aviation Administration investigators that the plane was on fire, "like a flaming meteorite." The Miami Herald reported.

"The airplane was a fine air machine and there is hardly any way it could be at 3,000 feet one minute and three or four seconds later be in the water," said Mitchell, who walked on the moon during the Apollo 14 flight.

The FAA said the plane aborted its first attempt to take off because of apparent minor engine trouble.

Sandy Thomas, airline chief of maintenance, said a wasp's nest had been found in the pilot's instrument panel, and the taxi run after the nest was removed showed the plane was running smoothly. He said the discovery of the nest was not unusual and said he checked the engines thoroughly Friday.

Wreckage from the plane and a life raft were spotted in the water late Friday about 50 miles east of West Palm Beach, according to Coast Guard Petty Officer 1st Class Carlos Martinez.

The dead were not immediately identified. The airline identified the chief pilot as Bill Selva of Palm Beach County, the co-pilot as Diana Leonard of Fort Lauderdale, and the flight attendants as Jennifer Kruger and Suzanne Payne of Palm Beach County. The passenger list indicated all were residents of Palm Beach County.

Freeport officials said regular "casino flights" arrive at the Grand Bahama Island resort each Friday evening, then return to Palm Beach about 1:30 a.m.

Employee count up after three Cabot moves

BY LYNN HUNTER
Managing Editor

The impact on Pampa of the moves of three Cabot Corporation divisions has perhaps been more psychological than actual in affecting Pampa's size, according to figures compiled this week, which indicate an overall increase over the past five years in the number of Cabot and Ingersoll-Rand employees here.

Along with the local employee count of the two corporations, Ingersoll-Rand has announced plans to construct a $1 million office building at its plant site west of Pampa, and Pampa businessmen Bill Arrington and Jim Campbell have announced the purchase of the Hughes Building from Cabot Corporation for more than $500,000.

The combined total employees of Cabot Corporation and Ingersoll-Rand Oilfield Products Company, formerly the Cabot Machinery Division, have increased by 69 over the past five years, according to figures compiled by Victor P. Raymond, president of Ingersoll-Rand Oilfield Products Company, and local Cabot officials.

The figures indicate that in 1975, while the three Cabot divisions were in place in Pampa and before the sale of the Machinery Division to Ingersoll-Rand, Cabot employees totaled 1,153.

Now, after the moves of the Oil and Gas Division to Houston, the Carbon Black Division headquarters to Atlanta, Ga., and the Engineering Division to St. Louis, Mo., Cabot employees and Ingersoll-Rand employees here total 1,222. This figure shows a net increase of 69 employees.

Figures show that in 1975, the Cabot Machinery Division employed 726 persons. Other Cabot operations at that time had a combined total of 427.

After the moves of the three divisions, there are now 263 Cabot employees remaining in the community. These persons are employed in the Oil and Gas Division, which includes Drilling and Production, headed by Bob Keagy, and the Kingsmill Gas Products Plant, headed by Plant Manager Junior Shelton; the Carbon Black Plant, headed by Plant Manager Stan Burnham; the Carbon Black Research and Development Division and Technical Services Division, headed by John Davenport; and employees representing other Cabot corporate staff functions.

With significant expansion, the Ingersoll-Rand Oilfield Products Company, formerly the Cabot Machinery Division, has increased its employment by 233 over the past five years to a current level of 969.

"I think the point here is that there are more people today in these two areas than there were five years ago," Raymond said. "Cabot is still a significant and continuing presence in Pampa."

The purchase of the Cabot Machinery Division by Ingersoll-Rand was finalized Aug. 25 at a cost of $130 million in cash and the assumption of certain liabilities.

W. G. "Bill" Mulligan of Wood Cliff Lake, N.J., executive vice-president of Ingersoll-Rand Company, in Pampa Wednesday presented local Ingersoll-Rand officials with a solid brass plaque to commemorate the date of the sale and the entry of Ingersoll-Rand into the Pampa community.

To move the downtown Ingersoll-Rand (formerly Machinery Division) employees to the Ingersoll-Rand plant site west of Pampa, Mulligan, Raymond and Walt McFatridge of Pampa, manager of Manufacturing Operations, conducted groundbreaking ceremonies Wednesday for the $1 million office building at the plant site.

The new building, to be completed in early 1981, will be a two-story structure with the design blending with that of the existing office buildings. The addition will provide about 26,000 square feet of floor space. The building will provide for the moving of the data processing computer facilities, the print shop and other administrative functions now being performed as a part of the Oilfield Products Company in the Hughes Building downtown.

The facility will also provide additional office space for other administrative functions of the company as a result of recent expansion and for the continued growth of the Oilfield Products Company.

"As far as the community is concerned, we're going to try to keep operating in the same way that we have in the past," Raymond said.

He said construction of an office building at the plant site had been considered while the division was still a part of Cabot.

"Ingersoll-Rand felt that it would be far more efficient and appropriate to have everyone out here. They are the ones who actually approved the expansion," Raymond said.

"We will stay there (in the Hughes Building) for a while till we get our new office built, but we hope to get all our people out here soon," Raymond said.

Tracing the history of Cabot Corporation in Pampa, Raymond said the Machinery Division has been in Pampa 50 years as an industry which evolved from carbon black.

"There were four divisions in Pampa, all of which had their basis in carbon black. The Oil and Gas Division, now located in Houston, came here to find natural gas with which to make carbon black. The Engineering Division, which has since moved to St. Louis, came here to design carbon black plants. Ingersoll-Rand, then Cabot, had as its main function to build carbon black plants. Then there was the carbon black production headquarters, which ran the domestic carbon black plants. Everything evolved from carbon black," Raymond said. "Carbon black was an industry that brought everything to Pampa."

In 1976, the Oil and Gas Division moved to Houston, Raymond said, to be located in the center of the nation's oil and gas industry.

In 1978, the Carbon Black Division moved its headquarters to Atlanta, Ga., to consolidate its management in one locale. Prior to this, Raymond said, carbon black management had been located "back East" and in Pampa.

As of this month, the move of the Engineering Division to St. Louis, Mo., is complete. The purpose of the move is to be centrally located to the industries it serves, to design and help build specialty steel products and to accomplish all job engineering for the Cabot Corporation.

Looking to the future of Ingersoll-Rand Oilfield Products Company, Raymond said, "Ingersoll-Rand is looking to us to build an oilfield products business using this facility, this company, as its base."

He said the Pampa facility is termed a "flagship" by corporate officials, marking their entry into the oilfield products production industry.

The Pampa company is now the world's largest manufacturer of mobile oilfield drilling, workover and servicing rigs, also producing specialty alloy steels and forgings for the aircraft, mining, oilfield, power generation and chemical industries.

Family mourns loss of second son to bullets

DENTON, Texas (AP) — The Herman Jackson family has grieved over the loss of one son for three years. But the weekend shooting death of another son, Bernard, has left them struggling to understand why they should lose two boys to bullets in such a short time span.

Bernard, a 21-year-old North Texas State University running back, was gunned down in a shopping center parking lot here early Friday. Police said they were searching for a 22-year-old Denton resident Saturday — one of two men seen outside the Mean Green Club with Jackson just before the 1:20 a.m. shooting.

In October of 1977, Bernard's older brother, Stanley, was shot to death on the balcony of a south Dallas apartment complex. The high school football star, known as the "Smiling Ghost" had received a 4-year scholarship to Southern Methodist University, but transferred to Arkansas State a short time later.

Police said Stanley was shot point-blank during an argument, they believe, over marijuana.

"It was just three years ago when we lost Stanley, and now Bernard is no longer with us, and the family is going through a very difficult time," said Herman Jackson, father of the slain young men.

"The family is taking it as best it can, and I'm perhaps taking it harder than anyone else because what I'm experiencing is very difficult to cope with."

The Jacksons have five other sons and four daughters.

NTSU's all-time leading rusher, Bernard Jackson wanted to play professional football after graduation, his father said.

"Bernard was the type of guy that he wouldn't back down from anybody," said his brother, Larry, 27. "That was his biggest fault."

Two employees at the Mean Green Club, a popular bar across the street from the athletic dorm, said Jackson had been asked to leave about 10:30 p.m. Thursday. He returned and was asked to leave again, the employees told police.

A short time later, Jackson was seen arguing with one man on the parking lot when another walked up and began hitting him on the head with a gun, the employees told investigators.

Jackson was heard to yell "two on one" and was then shot once in the chest with what police believe was a .38 caliber weapon.

Bleeding heavily, Jackson walked to one side of the building, but the two employees dragged him to the street to see how serious his wound was, police said.

Head Football Coach Jerry Moore said he was called to the hospital about 3:30 a.m. to identify the body.

"It's just a shame that a person's life is wiped out in a matter of seconds," Moore said in a statement.

"My primary feelings and concerns are for Bernard's family. Bernard came back this fall and really worked hard. He was expecting a great season and we were expecting it of him."

Funeral services for Jackson will be at 1 p.m. Monday in Dallas at the True Vine Baptist Church.

"A lot of the guys are in a daze and they just don't want to believe that BJ isn't with us anymore," said NTSU senior James Perry, Jackson's roommate and a Mean Green offensive guard. "We played football together for over 10 years. I grew up with BJ and he was an all right, down to earth guy who kept to himself."

Jackson, a converted wide receiver, holds the school's career net yardage record with 2,202 yards on 421 carries.

In 1978, the 6-0, 178-pound Jackson was ranked sixth nationally with 1,463 yards on 269 carries. He ranked 10th nationally in all-purpose running that year.

His yardage production fell off last year to 749 yards, but he ranked 20th nationally in kickoff returns and 28th in all-purpose running. His single game record of 207 yards against Texas-Arlington in 1978 tied a school record with Ray Renfro, who played at North Texas State in 1951.

Investigators say 'chance' the motive in grizzly Dallas murders

DALLAS (AP) — Investigators theorize it was only chance that led to a night of terror for two north Dallas men and a female companion — a night that left the woman and one of the men dead and the only survivor critically wounded.
Robert Lee Matzig, 23, his roommate Christopher Bates, also 23, and Barbara K. Hoppe, were watching a televised football game Thursday night when two men burst into the northside apartment.
Police said two white men in their 20s, both brandishing pistols, ordered the men on the floor and bound them. Ms. Hoppe, investigators said, was dragged to a bedroom and repeatedly raped, then strangled and stabbed twice in the chest.
"I think they (the assailants) just picked the apartment at random," said Homicide Sgt. Gus Rose. "That's the consensus of all of us working on the case."
Matzig, the only survivor of the brutal attack, was in critical condition Saturday in a Dallas hospital with a gunshot wound to the neck, said police spokesman Ed Spencer.

Houston, a close friend of Matzig. "You never expect it to happen to someone who is close."
Matzig, whose home is Del Rio, worked as a salesman for Management Computer Services of Dallas. Bates, a native of Tulsa, started work Aug. 4 as a marketing trainee at Crum & Foster Insurance Companies.
Rose said eight detectives have been assigned to the case, and from Matzig's description "the possibility looks really good (that the murders will be solved)."
"We're just real fortunate to have an eyewitness alive," he said.

It was Matzig who detailed a bloody night of terror for investigators.
Two hours after Ms. Hoppe was taken to an apartment bedroom by the assailants, Matzig and Bates were taken from the apartment and forced to cash $40 worth of checks, the survivor told police. The men's abductors then stopped the car and told the victims to walk into a heavily wooded area of South Dallas, police said.
Matzig said he and Bates were told to lie down, but tried to flee and were shot.
Bates died from a gunshot wound to the back of the head, authorities said.
Shot in the neck, Matzig crawled to a postal station about 30 yards away where he was spotted by two employees. He survived surgery and has been placed under guard in his hospital room, police said.
Investigators said the car used by the abductors had been stolen and that Bates had written a personal check for $1,000 and given it to one of the assailants.
Friends described the male victims as up-and-coming young executives who had been active in fraternities together at Texas Christian University.
"It leaves you with an empty feeling," said Dave DeFlaming of Turkish legislators detained, cities calm

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Turkey's new military rulers reportedly ordered political party headquarters searched and they detained legislators Saturday, but the cities were calm and for the first time in months no political murders were reported.
The new military rulers continued dismantling this NATO nation's political system, pledging to rebuild it and restore democracy — once political and economic stability is restored.
The pre-dawn coup Friday, bringing to a bloodless end the political infighting that had paralyzed the civilian government, prompted no apparent public dissent. The mood here and in Istanbul was one of relief.
Tanks and soldiers guarded major intersections, Turks jammed shops that had been closed in the takeover, and hurried home before the curfew went into effect.
The ruling five-man National Security Committee, headed by Gen. Kenan Evren, 62-year-old chief of staff and leader of the coup, restored international communications, reopened the airport to international traffic and announced banks would be operating Monday.

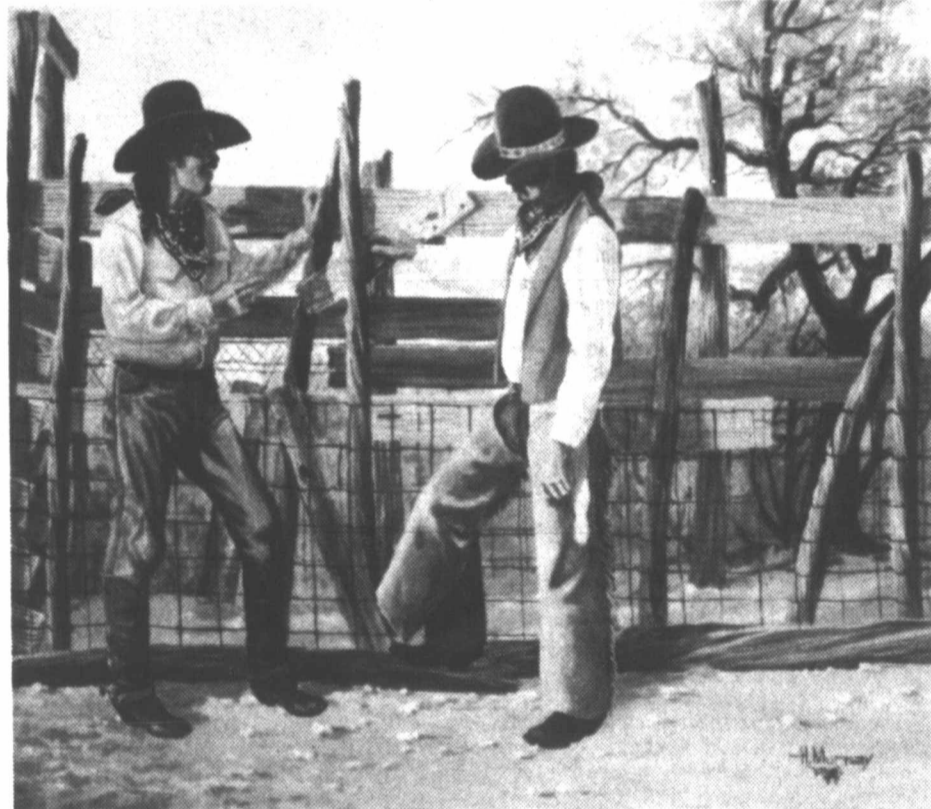

Murray to exhibit in Top O' Texas Festival

One of the many talented artists exhibiting at the fourth annual Top O' Texas Arts and Crafts Festival Oct. 11 and 12, at M.K. Brown Auditorium will be Harley Murray, a Granbury artist whose work reflects his love of the American West.
Murray was born on a farm in Eastland County, where his parents were share croppers. His parents later gave up share cropping and moved to New Mexico. His exposure to the farms, ranches and people of the southwest, provided Murray with material for his paintings.
Upon completion of high school, he entered the U.S. Navy. During his 20 years in the Navy, Murray painted and sold his works in virtually every corner of the U.S. and the Far East.

HARLEY MURRAY

After retirement from the Navy, Murray's interest in the American West prompted him to enroll in college as a history major. He intended to teach history, but fate led him to Laguna Beach, Calif., where the prompting and encouragement of Jim Settle sparked Murray to become a fine artist.
The artist sold his home and business and moved to the Texas Hill Country. He thought that if he couldn't make it as an artist he could always seek an honest job.
In October, 1978, Murray gathered together a group of Texas artists. The group, nicknamed "The Texas Wild Bunch," has been very successful. Murray's gallery affiliations include the Lazy 'H' Gallery in Granbury.

HARLEY MURRAY, a Granbury artist, will participate in the 14th annual Top O' Texas Arts and Crafts Show scheduled for Oct. 11-12 in M.K. Brown Auditorium. One of his western paintings is shown above. Murray is founder of "The Texas Wild Bunch," an artists' group based in the Texas Hill Country.

"We would hope to expand the business over the next few years, but I can't really say right now that any or all of that expansion will be here in Pampa," Raymond said.
"But it is the intent of the corporation that this facility as the headquarters would remain here in Pampa," he said.
Regarding the sale of the Hughes Building by Cabot Corporation to businessmen Bill Arrington and Jim Campbell, Arrington said Saturday the sale was finalized Monday, Sept. 8, at Cabot Corporation headquarters in Boston, Mass.
"We (Arrington and Campbell) have entered into an agreement to acquire all of the stock of Pampa Properties Inc., a fully owned subsidiary of Cabot," Arrington said.
"The only assets are the Hughes Building and parking lots and the annex," Arrington said.
"The actual transfer of the operations from Pampa Properties Inc. will be at the end of this month," he said. "The purchase has been consummated on both sides."
Although he would not give the exact purchase price, Arrington said the amount was "in the high six figures" and more than $500,000.
"We wanted it for two reasons really. We were interested in the building and wanted it to have local ownership, and the other reason is we wanted to see it kept in excellent repair and perfect cleanliness," he said.
Purchasing the building themselves, he said, "was the only way to see that it was done."
He said the building basically will continue to operate as it has in the past.
"It will be a challenge to try to make the building be a good thing for the community," he said.
He said "the building, which is the tallest structure in Pampa, has been here 32 years and "is a landmark in Pampa."

County court meets Monday

Gray County Commissioners will discuss approval of the 1979-80 tax roll and the delinquent tax roll from 1939-1978 during the regular commission meeting Monday.
The 1980 budget will also be on the agenda.
Airport business will include bids received for work at Perry-Lefors Field. A change order on the Airport Contract No. 1180 with G.W. James is slated for discussion by commissioners.
Election Judge and Assistant Election Judge for Precinct 4 will be appointed.
Commissioners will consider bills as approved by the county auditor and consider time deposits and transfers of Gray County funds.

Groups pursue purchase of Rock Island line

AMARILLO - An operator has been selected and mileage specified for public purchase of a portion of the Rock Island track in the Panhandle.
Requests for funding are being processed.
The Llano Estacado Water District is requesting funds to railbank the track from the Texas-New Mexico border to Adrian and to purchase for operation the track from Adrian to Bushland.
Pending an agreement between Ashland Chemical, located just east of Shamrock at Norrick and the operator, the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission (PRPC) is requesting funds to purchase the track from the east side of Amarillo to Norrick for operation, and from Norrick to the Oklahoma border for railbanking.
The Fort Worth and Denver Railway is negotiating for the purchase of the track between these two segments and is currently negotiating leases with both public bodies to provide service between Adrian and Norrick.
Funds have also been requested by the public bodies to rehabilitate the portions of the track they hope to purchase which are not to be railbanked.
Railbanking is a process by which track and right-of-way are purchased and kept so the track cannot be sold for scrap. The request for funds to railbank is being made so that if Oklahoma and New Mexico purchase track in their states, a hookup is possible.
The steps remaining in this process include finalizing the leases and agreement mentioned previously, getting approval for funding, and negotiating with the trustee. The trustee has been contacted.
It is the understanding of the PRPC that there is at least one offer of private purchase pending on the track from Eter to Liberal. Therefore, the PRPC is not at this time requesting funds for purchase of this track.

A different 'turkey coup'

WORTHINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Ruby Begonia was behaving like a perfect turkey Saturday.

Ruby, the entry of Cuero, Texas, in the annual Great Gobbler Gallop, pulled a coup and flew the coop — right onto the top of a building. She could not be persuaded to complete the race with arch-rival Paycheck, Worthington's official turkey in the annual beak-to-beak race.

Paycheck trotted to the finish line in 1:24.95, winning the first heat.

Judges tacked 30 seconds onto Paycheck's time for Ruby, giving her 1:54.95. Never before in the history of the race has a turkey staged such a roost-in.

U.S. Sen. John Tower, a Texas Republican, was the official starter in the race, started nine years ago by folks in the cities which both claim to be the Turkey Capital of the World.

The second heat will be Oct. 5 in Cuero. The bird who has the fastest combined time will win the Traveling Turkey Trophy of Tumultuous Triumph.

PLAQUE COMMEMORATES PURCHASE. William G. DUMAS, Texas (AP) — Railroad Commissioner James Nugent said Friday gasohol is not a solution to the energy crisis but "is a step in the right direction."

Nugent inspected a major blending facility operated by the Diamond Shamrock Corp. and met with leaders of the Northwest Texas Grain Producers Cooperative, which is putting together a major alcohol production facility.

Gasohol is 90 percent gasoline and 10 percent alcohol.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to seek its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Politicizing investments

Gov. Brown does a fine job of staying ahead of his time when spouting statist visions, and there was no shortage of them in his recent exhortation to the Democratic convention. One dealt with the looming might of pension funds to redirect the nation's capital stock toward "social investments." Brown could not have been more prescient.

The growth of the pension trusts is awesome. Their assets are estimated at $600 billion, and one study puts the holding of private plans alone at up to $3 trillion by 1995. Add the swelling public-employee retirement systems and the number becomes stupefying.

Wall Street knows what's coming. Already the pension funds own about a fourth of the cash value of publicly traded stocks. Esteemed management adviser Peter Drucker projects that percentage to rise to half by 1985 and to two-thirds a decade later.

With this much investment capital in the hands of pension fund managers, the economic health of the nation will ride on their strategies. That's why the idea being spread by Gov. Brown and others is so alarming.

"Social investment" has come to mean putting money in those endeavors that are perceived to work to the immediate benefit of the active workers who are paying into the pension. Auto workers' pensions, thus, would go to support Chrysler and other carmakers tottering on the edge of bankruptcy. Building trades unions would invest in the construction industry to counter slumps. Public employees would buy bonds to solidify the financial condition of their respective divisions of government. Unionists would avoid buying stock in non-union firms. And blacks and opponents of apartheid would withhold capital from corporations doing business in South Africa.

At first glance, we can't object to these sorts of self-interested or moral decisions by groups into which employees have contractually entered. In fact, we periodically point to the selective use of one's resources as the proper way to exert pressure in the marketplace. There's nothing wrong with a boycott, for example.

When we're talking about the potential redirection of vast quantities of America's working capital, however, something needs to be said. What the proponents of "social investment" suggest is a potent shift away from the profit motivation as the beacon of American capitalism. It would flout the lessons of classical economics, which tell us that a society's wealth (and hence, the standard of living of its people) is maximized by the constant pursuit of the highest return on investment. This concept is derived from the commonly accepted role of price and profit in determining the most efficient use of resources. Defiance of these economic axioms in order to correct perceived social injustices or to prop up dying industries is thought by economists like Milton Friedman to be far more debilitating than the use of transfer payments to achieve those same ends once the wealth has been created by the engines of a profit-hungry market.

Also, as Friedman has noted, the trend toward "social responsibility" in the approach of the business and investment communities imbues them with the values of the political world and leads them to become mere arms of the state. The state is a poor businessman.

In addition to the danger of stagnating the overall economy, the "social investment" craze is a threat to the pensioners themselves and, because of recent federal law, to the taxpayers.

An article in the Los Angeles Times this month detailed the financial woes confronting a number of pension plans in this country. Simply put, most are having difficulty keeping pace with inflation in their benefit payments, while the need to pay more and the growing number of retirees who must be paid is increasing the burden on companies and governments which must contribute to these employee packages. Reforms eyed to alleviate this crunch include an end to guaranteed benefit levels, which would mean retirees could count on only the yield that their pension fund is able to produce. If it weren't invested in the most profitable of enterprises, the strapped elderly who depend on the monthly checks would suffer.

What's more, the scary buildup of "unfunded liability" in the nation's private and public retirement plans (including, of course, Orange County government's system) is a forewarning of the danger to taxpayers if pension funds collapse under their own weight. Just this month, U.S. taxpayers became liable for multi-employer retirement plans that go broke. The immediate prospect of $1 billion owed by declining industries such as coal mining confronts us. Obviously, investment policies that damage the return on these funds' capital only worsen the peril to all who are subject to the taxes that will bail them out.

The success story of the American economy was one of constant change and low taxation. Pension investment policies that seek to perpetuate sluggish industries and prop up spendthrift governments are a deadly threat to both of the cornerstones of a system of commerce that is the envy of the world.

A DEM looks west for '84

By Robert Walters

NEW YORK (NEA) - The position of parliamentarian seldom is considered a springboard for advancement in most organizations — but the man holding that post at the Democratic National Convention could be an exception to that rule.

He is Rep. Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., whose quiet, self-effacing manner belies his standing as one of the most respected and influential members of the House of Representatives.

Foley has no designs on the presidency, but at least one astute Washington lawyer-lobbyist has prepared a confidential memo suggesting that the convention offers an ideal opportunity for the 51-year-old congressman to begin positioning himself for the 1984 presidential campaign.

That veteran Washington insider has requested anonymity, but he presents a compelling argument to support a theory that the Democrats must turn to Foley or an equally attractive political moderate from the West as their next presidential candidate.

In five of the six presidential elections held during the past two decades, the Republican nominee has been a westerner — an Arizonan in 1964 and a Californian in 1960, 1968, 1972 and 1980.

During the same period, the Democrats never have gone farther west for their nominee than Minnesota, South Dakota or Texas — and the price for ignoring one of the country's fastest growing regions may be a loss of support in the West.

In the 1976 presidential election, Democratic nominee Jimmy Carter failed to carry a single state in the Rockies and the West — even though the Republican candidate, Gerald R. Ford, was the only non-westerner endorsed by the GOP in the past 20 years.

"Only a moderate, articulate western Democrat can reclaim this territory, which is key to the survival of the Democratic party," says the unsolicited memo prepared for Foley.

His congressional district encompasses the eastern third of the state of Washington, with approximately 60 percent of its voters residing in Spokane and its suburbs. In recent years, Foley has twice faced — and overcome — strong Republican challenges in order to win re-election.

Foley's attributes are hardly limited to his home region. A veteran of eight terms in the House, he has rapidly ascended the leadership ladder and currently is chairman of both its Agriculture Committee and its Democratic Caucus.

The tall (6-feet-3), soft-spoken Foley was hand-picked as the convention's parliamentarian by Rep. Thomas P. (Tip) O'Neill, D-Mass., Speaker of the House and permanent chairman of the convention.

"Tip wanted him because of Tom's unique ability to mediate and resolve difficult issues in a manner that's both firm and fair," says one Foley booster. "When the House gets tangled in complex, emotional issues, Tip often will look for Tom and put him in the chair as presiding officer."

Occasional newspaper profiles of Foley during the past decade overflow with favorable adjectives offered by both Democratic and Republican colleagues: "Intelligent ... effective ... deliberate ... urbane ... practical ... articulate."

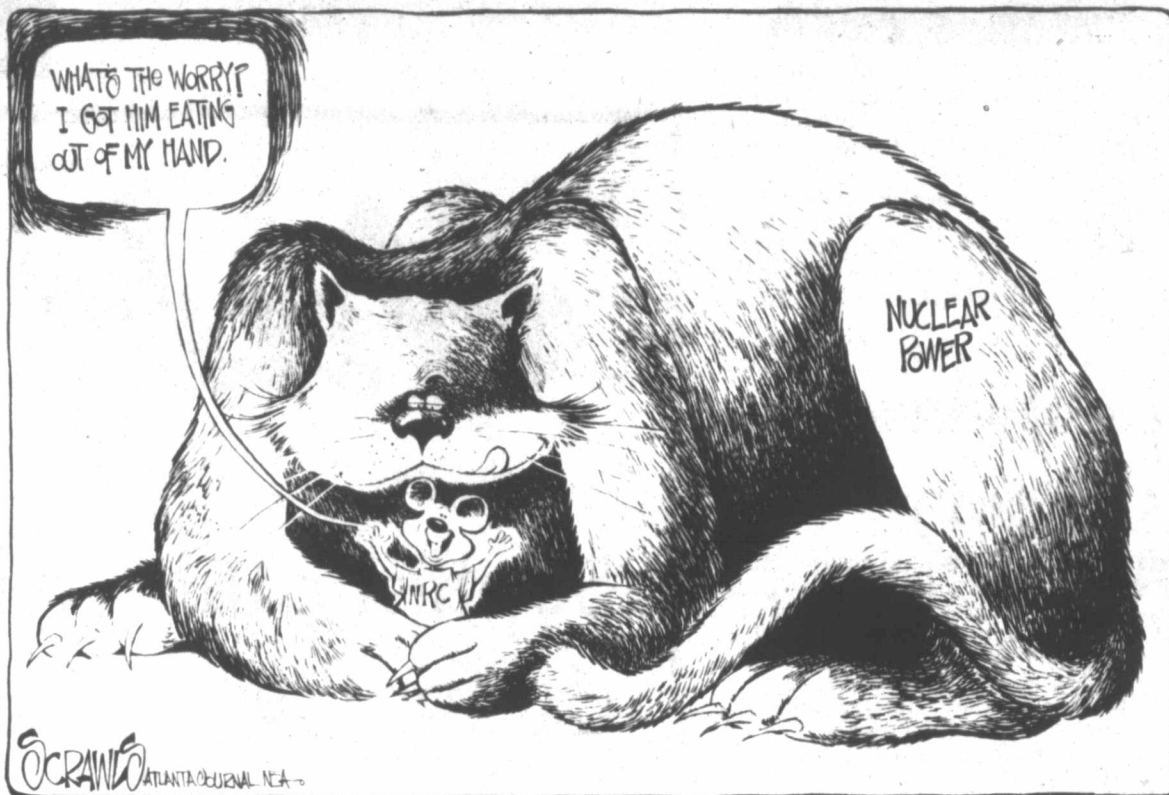

Although he can be classified as a liberal on most domestic issues, Foley has voted with conservatives on fiscal matters because of his increasing doubts about the effectiveness of government spending to resolve social problems.

"Tom's adherents are in all camps. He's frequently the major bridge between liberals and conservatives in the House," says one admirer. "His only liability — if it is one — is that he doesn't have the 'killer instinct' that's assumed to be necessary to run for national office."

Foley does have an imposing list of mentors. In addition to being close to O'Neill, he is a protégé of Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., one of the major powers in the Senate and the man who gave Foley his first job on Capitol Hill in 1961.

Because the Democratic convention is likely to be an unusually contentious affair, the parliamentarian's job could provide an exceptional vehicle for Foley to display his considerable skills — and perhaps gain a nationwide reputation.

Please, stick to the script

by ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON -- Even the most optimistic supporters of Ronald Reagan had to admit that he had a bad week.

They are now spending a lot of time with the candidate trying to get his campaign back on the track.

"Ronnie, tell us again exactly what happened."

"Weren't you guys there?"

"No, we were mending your fences from the week before. We thought it was safe to let you out of the hotel room by yourself on Labor Day."

"Well, I was making a speech at the Michigan State Fair and I was going along fine until I saw this fellow in a Carter mask in the audience. I got so darned mad, I ad-libbed that while I was in Michigan Carter was opening his campaign down in the city that gave birth to the Ku Klux Klan."

"You were talking about Tusculum, Alabama."

"I guess so. I heard somebody say it on the evening news."

"That wasn't very smart, Ronnie. We need to win the South. You got them all upset down there."

"I didn't, darn it. Carter did. He's trying to make a political issue of it."

"What other kind of issue would he make of it, Ronnie?"

"Well, I don't see why I can't ad-lib when I want to. It's no fun reading the same speech all the time."

"Ronnie, every time you ad-lib you put your foot in your mouth. That is why everything is written out for you."

"You mean when a guy wears a Carter mask at one of my political rallies. I have to keep my mouth shut?"

"Ronnie, remember when you used to make movies?"

"Yes, and I got the girl in many of them. Every time they write about my movie career they say I never got the girl."

"We know you got the girl. That's beside the point. The important thing was that you worked from a script, and in the movies you could only say what was in the script, right?"

"I don't know what you're driving at."

"We want you to stick to our script. We want you to pretend you're making a movie about campaigning for president of the United States, and we want you to read the lines just as they were written."

"I didn't say Carter was a member of the Ku Klux Klan."

"We know you didn't, Ronnie. But you gave Carter an opportunity to say you insulted the South. Seven governors have called in to protest your remarks. The Ku Klux Klan has nothing to do with the election in November. We've got to hit Carter hard on the recession."

"You mean the depression."

"It's not a depression, Ronnie. That's something else you said that wasn't in the script."

"If I'm going to be president of the United States, I should be able to think for myself."

"It's too dangerous, Ronnie. Everytime you think for yourself you lose votes. Let us do the thinking for you — at least until you get elected."

"So what do I do about the South?"

"We're working on the script now. We'll say your remarks were misinterpreted, and what you said about the Ku Klux Klan came out wrong, and Carter is trying to exploit the situation. Then we'll attack Andy Young and Patricia Harris for bringing up the Ku Klux Klan in the first place. Do you think you can do it without throwing in your own two cents?"

"I suppose so, but I sure would like to go on the attack instead of defending everything I say all the time."

"You can go on the attack, Ronnie, just as long as you stick to the script. If you don't like the lines, tell one of us and we'll change them for you. But no more surprises. Promise?"

"I guess I can do it, but it's not going to be fun."

"Okay, let's just test you. I'm going to put on a Jimmy Carter mask. Now what do you say?"

"Where's your dumb brother Billy?"

"No, Ronnie, that is not what you would say. Let's start all over again. Suppose you were making 'King's Row' and ..."

Character school

By George R. Plagenz

No one seems to agree on school prayer. Proponents think prayer is the best character-builder. They blame the school prayer ban for a whole host of our society's present troubles — including juvenile delinquency, crime, drug use and vandalism.

Actually, there is no evidence that school prayer can rid us of those things. Some say character cannot be taught, prayer or no prayer. Joseph Gauld, on the other hand, can point to Hyde School, which he founded in Bath, Maine, in 1966, to support his contention that character can indeed be taught in the schools.

Hyde School is so sure it can teach character that it offers a money-back guarantee to back up its claim. If a student or his parents do not feel the youth has profited from his experience at Hyde, the prep school will refund the entire $6300 annual tuition fee.

In the 14 years of the school's existence, Hyde has never had to make a refund.

Gauld, 52, who was headmaster at Hyde from 1966 until 1975 (he is still one of the school's trustees), is now encouraging public school systems to adopt the model he developed. Next month he will introduce the Hyde concept into the public schools in Cumberland County, Maine, for one year.

What is the Hyde concept? It is to bring out a student's "unique potential." This helps him to gain the confidence and the drive — what Gauld calls courage — to accomplish something with his life.

While other schools with a hard-line approach to discipline lay it on the line to the student as to what is expected of him, the Gauld approach is to first make a student aware of his potential and then insist he live up to that potential.

If not — well, sometimes at Hyde it meant that Gauld would come on like Genghis Khan to a troublesome student. He does not apologize for this. Gauld is convinced that our sentimentalist attitude in raising kids is at least partly responsible for the "assaults, rapes and murders which mark us as the most violent society in the world today."

Phil may not have been typical but he is an example of how Gauld often handled problem students when he was Hyde's headmaster.

Phil was caught smoking and over a period of several months he insulted several teachers and physically threatened another. When he was brought into Gauld's office, the headmaster said, "Phil, I'm not going to lecture you. It's too late for that. I simply want you to decide if you think you really need our help. If not, just leave and live your own life. But if you decide to stay, you are going to grow up."

Phil would have to box the teacher he threatened. He had to get a haircut "and begin to look like the boy you are." He had to dig a six-foot pit in which to figuratively bury his old image. "Finally," said Gauld, "you will work on the grounds and live by yourself until you are proven ready to join the Hyde community again."

Phil decided to stay and take his medicine.

"His bout in the ring taught him new respect for his teachers," says Gauld. "After getting a haircut, he got to work digging his pit. When it was finished, I went to inspect it. Phil, hands on his hips, smiled at me, sweat glistening on his face — sweat he proudly didn't wipe away."

Things at Hyde seldom get that far out of hand, however. When I visited Hyde in 1974, I talked with many of the students. Most of them had had a justment problems before coming to Hyde but they seemed to be flourishing in the Hyde environment.

A typical comment was this one by a 17-year-old senior boy: "I've grown at Hyde. For me, growth is when you do something you didn't think you could do."

Traveling Rapist -- Police need citizens' help

Editor's Note: He is cold, cunning, elusive and sick. He chooses his victims as one might a good dinner wine. He's called the Traveling Rapist, and he has struck in five Texas cities. Police want your help.

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer
WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — First at the Stardust night club, later at her apartment, a young woman received a series of cryptic notes.

They said:
"You know me — You'll know me a lot better when I'm through with you."

"Look around you. I'm watching you as you're reading this. I may even be close enough to touch you."

"I've been waiting. You look good...I want...you."

And finally: "When you least expect me, expect me."

On Nov. 9, 1979, at 3:16 a.m., a man wearing a dark ski mask and cotton gloves entered the woman's apartment. She was not home. But her sister, 19, was.

Sticking a knife at her throat, he said: "If you just keep quiet you won't get hurt."

He lied.

He stripped her of her pajamas and forced her into a variety of sex acts. Later, he ordered her into the shower, then permitted her to dress.

He was not through.

Demanding that she again remove her gown, he marched her through the apartment, searching for a broom and inquiring about her sister. He found a broom.

"You're bitchin' to have this," he said.

As he sexually molested her with the broomstick, he asked if she intended to call police.

"No," she said.

Go ahead, he shrugged. "They'll just give you a lot of hell."

That was only the beginning.

In the next nine months, the "ski mask rapist" struck at least 15 times. He did so in Fort Worth, Abilene, Wichita Falls, Amarillo and Lubbock.

He chose his victims carefully. All were young, white, attractive, and vulnerable, apartment dwellers who usually lived alone.

Although terrorized and traumatized, they told almost uniformly of a man kinky and cunning; smart, sick, muscular, cool, cruel and predictably unpredictable.

Until last month, few suspected a link between the attacks.

After an Aug. 7 assault in Abilene, investigators met in Lubbock.

"It kind of raised the hair on the back of your neck as you listened to this," recalled Bill Morgan of the Lubbock Police Department.

"I was skeptical as hell about a single rapist when I went in. But I wasn't when I came out."

As the officers read their respective offense reports, he said, others began to shuffle through their own records.

"It struck a responsive chord in everyone."

District Attorney John Montford of Lubbock said: "There were simply too many similarities to be coincidence."

He added: "I got dubs on prosecuting this son-of-a-bitch."

First they must catch him and no one suggests that will be easy.

"This guy's really got me confused," said Hal Hensley, chief administrator of the Lubbock DA's office. "Hell, not just me. Everybody."

"And when you start talking about his psychological profile you could really be asking for trouble. ... The guy's on a real ego trip."

Hensley and others are afraid that the rapist might one day kill his victims.

"At what point does he reach the brink and go over the edge? What does he do next? That's the disturbing thing," said Hensley, who is coordinating the five-city investigation.

Using Fort Worth, Lubbock and Amarillo as the tips of a triangle, the rapist has chosen victims along a route that stretches nearly 800 miles across West Texas.

"All of us came out of that Lubbock meeting in awe," said Hensley. "This is incredible."

Hensley and Montford opened their confidential files to The Associated Press, saying the publicity might lead to new information.

"I would be extremely surprised if these are the only rapes he's committed," said Hensley, 29. "We need as much information as possible to put together this puzzle."

"There may be somebody out there who knows something that could help us."

In Amarillo, Detective Capt. Jim Davis concurred.

"I don't know how to figure a guy like this," he said. "He's calculating. He marches to a different drummer than most folks who commit sex crimes."

He said "rabid dogs" should not be kept secret from the public.

"Police officers can't be everywhere at once. But you take 100,000 people and use their eyes and ears to look and listen and you can be most everywhere."

The master file, entitled "Traveling Rapist," offers an informative but chilling profile.

His ski mask is dark, with slits only for his eyes, concealing his nose, mouth and hair. His body hair is light, his skin pale, his physique muscular, his voice deep.

He is perhaps 25 to 30, stands 5-foot-10 to 6-0, weighs 160 to 180 pounds, wears cotton gloves, carries either a knife or pistol and always a flashlight.

He enters and leaves usually through sliding glass doors, prying them open if necessary. Then it gets eerie.

"The subject stalks his victims," said Davis. "He knows well in advance what he's going to do. He also establishes his escape route. He's familiar with police procedures and the techniques of medical investigators."

Hensley said, "He knows how to clean up his crime scene — and his victims. He takes the evidence with him."

He also takes money and jewelry.

On Aug. 1, the rapist invaded two Abilene apartments the same night. In the first, he forced a husband to watch as he attacked the wife frontally, anally and orally.

At the second, he ordered the victim to perform sex acts with her boyfriend, then attacked her himself.

Of the latter assault, an investigator observed:

"This ... can best be described as a power type rapist, who is very excited and aroused by having complete and dominating control over his victims."

The presence of the boyfriend, he said, "seemed to enhance his arousal and his excitement."

The rapist, he noted, "seemed to enjoy intimidating the victims with his gun ... placing the gun between their legs ... leading them to believe he was going to kill them."

In May and June, the intruder broke into Abilene and Lubbock apartments and forced female roommates to perform lesbian acts before raping and otherwise molesting them repeatedly.

Perhaps the strangest incident occurred July 28 in Fort Worth. The masked assailant stripped two female roommates, forced them into one bed and fondled them simultaneously.

"Go ahead and shoot me," pleaded one. "I'd rather die with dignity."

He struck her with his flashlight, arose, stepped back and stared menacingly at the young women.

"You are both ugly and not worth it," he grunted, then wheeled and strode out the door.

The same man, investigators believe, compelled a Fort Worth woman to submit to a multitude of deviate acts in May, then sneered:

"You have a fine body. ... I got two black friends that would like to get hold of it."

Said Hensley: "There doesn't seem to be any rhyme or reason to this. ... Except in two instances, there has been little or no violence. It's kind of a new twist, seeking dominance over males as well as females."

Likewise, Hensley thought it curious that the rapist seems "turned on" by male-female and female-female sex acts as well as his own attacks.

"What puzzles me also is that there has not been any recent activity. That's strange."

From July 9 until Aug. 7, the rapist struck eight times, at least once in each of the five target cities. "He may have changed his MO (method of operation), but it's a goddamn good one," Hensley said.

"But there is no such thing as a perfect crime. It's as trite as that sounds. Ultimately, it's going to catch up with him. How long can you sustain something like this without messing up?"

The American freighter Flying Enterprise sank off the coast of England in 1952 just minutes after her captain, Knut Carlsen, jumped into the sea and was rescued by the tug Turmoil. Carlsen had refused to abandon the ship until the last, remaining aboard for 16 days after it was first battered by a hurricane.

In Abilene, Police Lt. Ramon Portalatin tapped on a four-inch thick file and said: "This guy is nifty and confident and does not seem at all worried about being caught ... but he will be caught."

In Amarillo, Detective Davis noted that the "subject" is smart and elusive and "so far in left field that you really can't get into his head."

But, he said, "We'll get him, or somebody else will. Somewhere out there is someone who knows who the rapist is; someone who knows his name, rank and horsepower; someone who has performed the same acts upon."

"Oh, yes, we'll get him. We'll get him because he can't stop what he's doing. Once he started this kind of deal, he can't stop."

Forest service prepares for early drought fires

By LAWRENCE KILMAN
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — Firefighters from Texas to Virginia are preparing for a long and damaging forest fire season caused by dry weather, and work has already started in some states, according to the man in charge of coordinating the effort.

U.S. Forest Service firefighters have been working overtime in some southern states, and 20-man firefighting crews from western states have been brought in to assist them, said Wade Erwin, regional dispatcher for the forest service.

"It's almost going to take a hurricane to relieve the problem," Erwin said.

"Our normal fire season here in the Southeast starts somewhere in the neighborhood of the middle of October and runs through November," he said in a telephone interview Friday night. "We figure we're about two months ahead in some areas because of the drought. We're gearing up for that."

Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas appear to be the hardest hit, said James Montgomery, a spokesman for the Southern Forest Institute, the public relations arm of the forest industry.

Montgomery said the unusually damaging forest fires, coupled with widespread seedling deaths caused by the drought, will effect timber supplies "many years down the road."

"The foliage has been dying, the leaves falling, and it's just that much more on the ground available for fire earlier and longer," Erwin said. "It's going to be a long season."

Although the fires currently are centered in Arkansas, they are beginning to spread, Erwin said.

"It's starting to affect Alabama, and I would say the entire region, except not so much in Florida or the Virginias," he said.

Erwin, whose district includes Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, Florida, Kentucky, the Carolinas and the Virginias, said as many as 14 firefighting crews from the West have been battling fires in the South this summer.

Six of those crews remain, he said, and "We have the capability of getting more crews in six to seven hours."

HOUSTON (AP) — Novelist Arthur Haley was has been admitted to St. Luke Hospital for testing.

A hospital spokesman said on Friday: "We can't say anything else at this time. Perhaps we will have more information later."

Haley is the author of such best sellers as "Airport," "Wheels," "Hotel" and "Overload."

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) — Yellow ribbons abounded as this southern Colorado city celebrated Marine Cpl. Billy Gallegos' 22nd birthday. But in Iran, Gallegos, being held by militants, probably didn't know about it.

Someone in Tehran refused to take a message when Gallegos' parents put through a phone call to their son on Friday, the 314th day of captivity for Gallegos and 51 other Americans held since the U.S. Embassy was stormed Nov. 4.

Gallegos' parents, Dick and Theresa Gallegos, said they have not heard from their oldest son since a letter dated Aug. 13, in which he said he was "bloody fed up with it," his father said Friday.

The yellow ribbons and community birthday party helped, the elder Gallegos said.

CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor Jane Byrne's use of campaign funds for a 12-day European trip with 30 other people is getting the eye from a State Elections Board official.

Richard Anderson, the board's chief for campaign disclosure, said he would look over the record of the trip when it is filed next July. Those expenditures include nearly $50,000 for a trip to Paris and Rome and a $10,000 donation Mrs. Byrne gave Pope John Paul II for distribution to Poles.

Mrs. Byrne's husband and press secretary, Jay McMullen, said the trip bolstered the mayor's image at home and, therefore, was a campaign trip.

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — It was another big day for John Davis — the South Carolina prison system's oldest inmate.

He turned 104 on Friday. "All I need is a new body," he said as he hobbled toward the prison chapel to a birthday party a local beauty school holds each year for him.

Back in 1922, Davis was convicted in Dillon County of larceny and burglary — capital offenses in those days. He says he wanted a refund from a merchant for an ill-fitting suit. He says he got $5 and a watch.

After he was in jail for six years, he escaped, but was nabbed two months later. He broke out again in 1930, and stayed on the lam for a decade.

And for the past 40 years he's been behind bars, and it seems to suit the oldest just fine.

Schools doors open to aliens, but issue isn't closed

DALLAS (AP) — Thousands of children of illegal aliens, most of them from Mexico, begin their first full week in Texas' public schools on Monday, taking advantage of bitterly disputed court rulings granting them free education.

State officials are worried about who will pick up the tab, school administrators say they were overburdened anyway, and some citizens say the cause of the "problem" — an almost-open border — is not being addressed and may get worse.

But others say schools can successfully absorb the students, many of whom will need bilingual teachers. Gov. Bill Clements, who originally sided with those opposing admission of the children, reversed his position on Friday and said the pupils pose no hardship on local school systems.

Dallas public schools opened their doors to undocumented children Friday and ended the only remaining separate challenge to a Supreme Court justice's decision clearing the way for alien children to enroll.

Although there were many other challenges to Texas law on the subject of educating aliens, they were consolidated into one case decided by a federal judge in Houston two months ago. U.S. District Judge Woodrow Seals then struck down the Texas law prohibiting use of state funds to educate illegal alien children.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals stayed Seals' order last month, but Supreme Court Justice Lewis Powell set aside the stay Tuesday and left the original order intact.

The state has appealed Seals' ruling to the U.S. Supreme Court, but Powell's order requires Texas schools to admit the children in the meantime.

"The Justice Department is in charge of immigration laws, and its failure to enforce those laws has resulted in these people being here in the first place," Texas Attorney General Mark White said. "Now they're asking us to make up for their failure."

U.S. Gov. Billy Hobbie said he doubts the Legislature will reauthorize Saturday that Congress will return for a "lame-duck" session after the November elections.

A number of legislators, mostly Republicans, have criticized such a plan on two grounds: That it would allow Democrats to run for re-election before passing an unbalanced budget and that it would allow defeated senators and representatives to vote on issues without caring what their constituents think.

Byrd, D-W.Va., did not address those criticisms at his weekly news conference. He said there simply isn't enough time to get all the work done before Congress of West Palm Beach, said Coast Guard Petty Officer 1st Class Carlos Martinez.

Fifteen bodies had been recovered by Saturday afternoon as Coast Guard helicopters and rescue boats searched shark-infested waters churned by 6-foot seas and continuing squalls.

The dead were not immediately identified. Freeport officials said regular "casino flights" arrive at the Grand Bahama Island resort each Friday evening, then return to Palm Beach about 1:30 a.m.

The National Transportation Safety Board sent a three-member investigative team from Washington to the airport Saturday, said NTSB spokesman Bob Dunbar.

Leftists occupy consulate

HAMBURG, West Germany (AP) — About 40 Turkish leftists occupied the Turkish consulate here for several hours Saturday to protest the military coup in their homeland, police reported.

They said the invaders, who carried placards and draped the offices with political banners, left the building peacefully and there was no violence.

Leaders of the group delivered a petition to consular officials protesting the military takeover, demanded Turkey's withdrawal from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and calling for the banning of a right-wing Turkish group known as the Gray Wolves, a police spokesman said.

He told reporters the occupiers identified themselves as members of the leftist organizations Democratic Strength and The Revolutionary Way.

Hurricane victims frustrated after storm

By SUSAN STOLER
Associated Press Writer
PORT MANSFIELD, Texas (AP) — Carol and Rodney Sillings return to their damaged house every day just to check.
They shoo away the flies and mosquitoes that buzz through the gaping holes in their walls and roof — holes left there by Hurricane Allen as it crashed ashore five weeks ago.

Occasionally Mrs. Sillings, who is confined to a wheelchair, finds little knickknacks she had collected now buried under mud and debris in the front yard.
The Sillings' contractor estimates it will take $21,000 to return their modest, three-room house to its original condition.

But between their wind damage insurance and flood coverage, they can come up with only $11,800.
"I really wish I had come back to nothing," says Mrs. Sillings, 37. "That's the only way you can prove you lose something, it seems."

The Sillings are not alone in their wait for insurance settlements that they hope will help put their life back in order.

They were among the luckier ones who were able to find temporary housing nearby. They are renting a small apartment down the street.

"The federal disaster people told us they would have temporary housing out here. But it's a month later and nothing," she said.

However, the Federal Emergency Management Agency in Corpus Christi says no temporary housing in mobile homes will be set up in this small, fishing community.

"We cannot put a mobile home in a flood plain," said

Heather Schoen of the FEMA center in Corpus Christi. Most of the assistance we'll be providing will be limited home repair grants of $1,000 to $2,000."

Sillings, 33, is an electrician and says he's ready to wire houses whenever his neighbors can settle their insurance claims.

"You know what really gets you is that you pay for insurance all year long and now all anybody seems to want to do is get out of helping you," Mrs. Sillings said. Those who had no insurance face even bleaker prospects.

Janine and Don Tankersly lost their uninsured mobile home in the storm.

Thanks to the Red Cross, their first month's rent is paid at a local motel. Now, their future is as uncertain as it was 26 years ago when they married.

"We had everything paid for and didn't owe anything to anybody before the storm," said Mrs. Tankersly, 44. She and her husband, who is 47, operated two night fishing barges that took anglers to the Intracoastal Canal for speckled trout, pike and other catches.

Both barges were destroyed by the hurricane. One lies 300 yards up a sand dune and the other was blown 8 miles north of its mooring.

Tankersly had resigned as local port superintendent recently because the fishing business was so steady. Mrs. Tankersly says they are not sure what they'll do about starting over.

The Sillings house bears witness to Allen's fury, which packed peak winds of 138 mph when it hit here. A piece of their door frame penetrates a paneled wall, driven there during the storm.

A water line inside the home marks the high point of the flood that accompanied the deluge.

Sillings says some of the insurance problems revolve around question about where damage from the flood stopped and wind damage begins.

"We know what damaged the roof and what hurt the first two feet of the floor," he said. "But then we've got six feet inside the house that nobody wants to claim responsibility for."

The Sillings house is one row of homes away from the Laguna Madre, the inland bay between the mainland and Padre Island.

Across the street from their house, only the foundations remain of three houses swept away by raging waters and high winds. One family already is rebuilding with help from friends and relatives.

The bayfront used to have more than 30 piers extending out into the bay.

Only pilings remain from most of the piers, making them handy perches for seagulls.

Throughout the community, boards have been collected from debris and stored under garages for future rebuilding. Streets are once more passable.

Many of the house were second or vacation homes. Some of those are still boarded, appearing abandoned.

A group of 40 storm victims met last week with representatives of the Small Business Administration. The SBA can provide loans both to individuals and businesses hurt by the storm.

Residents learned they were given faulty information at a FEMA disaster center about how to apply for the aid. The SBA took down names and promised to expedite the applications.

Until their insurance checks arrive, the Sillings say they're at a standstill.

Meanwhile they can watch their neighbors across the way rebuild.

Ex-military grad becomes bishop

HOUSTON (AP) — The Rev. Maurice M. Benitez, a former Air Force officer who left the military to join the ministry, is to be installed today as bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Texas.

Benitez, 52, was elected on the eighth ballot during the June 14 meeting by representatives of the diocese extending from Houston to Austin.

A graduate of the U.S. Military Academy, Benitez entered the ministry at age 27 after serving six years in the Air Force.

Since 1974, Benitez has headed the Houston River Oaks St. John the Divine Church. He earlier served churches in Lake City, Jacksonville and Ocala, Fla., and Christ Episcopal in San Antonio.

Corporation found guilty of price fixing

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal court jury found Saturday that Mead Corp. of Dayton, Ohio, participated in a corrugated container price fixing conspiracy that caused $5 million in damages.

An attorney for the plaintiffs said that under federal anti-trust law provisions his clients would be entitled to three times the jury award.

"The jury's verdict amounts to about $350 million and under the anti-trust laws they could be entitled to three times that amount, which would put the amount over the $1 billion mark," said Houston attorney Steve Susman.

The six jurors determined Mead Corp. and 19 other companies participated in a conspiracy to fix the prices on corrugated containers between 1964 and 1975.

The other 19 companies jurors said participated in the agreement included Alton Box Board Co. Boise Cascade Corp., Consolidated Packaging Corp., Container Corp. of America, The Continental Group Inc., Crown Zellerbach Corp., Hoerner Waldorf Corp. (Champion International Corp.), Inland Container Corp., International Paper Co., Interstate Container Corp., MacMillan Bloedel Companies, Olin Corp., Owens-Illinois Inc., Packaging Corp. of America, St. Joe Paper Co., St. Regis Paper Co., Southwest Forest Industry Inc., Stone Container Corp. and Weyerhaeuser Co.

Jurors said they did not believe 14 of the original 34 defendants took part in the secret agreement.

The companies that jurors said did not participate included The Chesapeake Corp. of Virginia, Corco Inc., Diamond International Corp., Dura-Containers Inc., Fibreboard Corp., Georgia-Pacific Corp., Greenbay Packaging Inc., Longview Fibre Co., Menasha Corp., Potlatch Corp., Union Camp Corp., U.S. Corrugated Fibrebox Co., Western Kraft East Inc., and Willamette Industries Inc.

The jury said the plaintiffs were entitled to damages amounting to 5 percent of purchases applied to sales.

Susman estimated that amount would be about $350 million.

Mead Corp. officers and attorneys were not available for comment following the verdict.

Susman said he "fully expects Mead to appeal" to the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals.

Saturday's verdict brought an end to the trial that began June 9 in U.S. District Judge John V. Singleton's court. Jurors began deliberating about noon Thursday after lawyers completed final arguments.

The class action suit grew out of 60 separate cases nationwide against 34 defendants. The first suits were filed in March of 1977 and consolidated in Houston in December of 1977.

All but one of the original defendants, Mead Corp., settled out of court for amounts totaling more than $300 million.

Susman said the judgment was the largest ever rendered in Texas.

Indictments were returned in January of 1978 in a related case and all the defendants were acquitted of criminal charges following a three month trial.

Little known unit could influence war's outcome

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Nestled in a remote corner of Kelly Air Force Base stands the headquarters of an obscure, security-conscious military unit that could play an important role in who wins the next war, if there is one.

Flanked on all four corners by guard towers and surrounded by a eight-foot-high barbed wire fence, the three-story brick building housing the year-old Electronic Security Command is abuzz daily with 3,000 military and civilian workers.

Tape recorders and cameras are not permitted; identification is carefully checked; visitors are escorted in and out. Most of what goes on in the building located on "Security Hill" is classified.

From the command post at Kelly, the ESC directs a total of 12,000 people stationed at 80 secret locations in 10 countries throughout the world who constantly train to be electronically superior to any potential enemy, specifically the Soviet Union.

Essentially, electronic warfare as practiced by the ESC revolves around manipulation of the earth's electro-magnetic spectrum to jam enemy radars, send false signals to confuse enemy navigation and other electronic equipment or even pinpointing enemy electronic equipment operations for a military strike.

Targets of ESC activity would include radar, and other electronic signals from aircraft, ships, land vehicles, stationary radios and even satellites.

Although headquartered at Kelly, the command is separate from the air base and answers directly to the Chief of Staff in Washington. It participates in all joint chiefs of staff tactical operations and cooperates closely with electronic warfare experts in the Navy, including the Marines, and the Army.

Inside a briefing room, Norman Quigley, former head of the Air Force Electronic Warfare Center and now a civilian advisor, explains that ground forces dominated the wars of the 18th century, naval forces dominated warfare in the 19th century, and air power dominated military actions in the 20th century.

"We're looking for electronic warfare to be dominant in the 21st Century," said Quigley. "Should there be another war, the one who controls the electro-magnetic environment probably will win it."

The ESC was formed on Aug. 1, 1979, drawing upon the manpower and resources of the Air Force Security Service and several other Air Force units.

Beginning in World War II, Quigley said, electronic warfare has taken the form primarily of defensive actions — jamming enemy communications circuits, dropping bundles of chaff to confuse enemy radar scopes, and preventing enemy transmitters from jamming U.S. circuits.

But today, electronic warfare has become even more important and is considered an offensive weapon in the event of war, he said.

Personnel at the center deal in code names such as "Confy Coat," "Operation Red Flag," "MIJI" and "C-Cubed", but they provide little details because most of the operations are classified.

"C-Cubed is the crux of what electronic warfare is all about — protecting U.S. command, control and communications while fouling up an enemy's ability to coordinate its forces in a war that would be fought with sophisticated weaponry.

"Confy Coat" is the code name for ESC reports sent to crewmembers in the field, and Operation Red Flag is a full-dress exercise under simulated wartime conditions conducted four times a year at Nellis Air Force Base, Las Vegas, Nev., to continually update the armed services on advances in electronic warfare, both by the United States and its potential enemies. MIJI stands for meaconing (transmission of false navigation signals to divert aircraft from their missions), intrusion, jamming and interference.

Maj. Ray Moreau said ESC peacetime missions include making sure no classified information is leaked from Air Force communications (including monitoring telephone conversations of military and civilian personnel when warranted), and checking electronic equipment for "leaks," including the fleet of aircraft used by President Jimmy Carter.

Without going into any detail, Moreau said enemy listening and bugging devices have become very sophisticated.

"It's pretty scary that an enemy could be able to duplicate what a secretary is typing on a typewriter, but the state of the art is such that it can be done," he said.

Quigley said Soviet submarines had been suspected of monitoring microwave telephone conversations in the United States "and the Soviets have some surface vessels with very strange looking antennas.

"You would have to assume their (Russians) satellite systems are able to photograph and monitor certain radiations," he said, noting that the ESC responsibility also extends into space. "We can assume the Soviets are very active in monitoring the electro-magnetic environment." In the event of war, the ESC would attempt to disrupt communications between the elements of a Soviet offensive and throw it into disarray.

Education board asks grant

AUSTIN, Texas (A) — The State Board of Education Saturday gave the green light to solicitation of $709,396 in federal money to help teach basics in Texas schools.

The grant, through the Texas Education Agency, would support both state leadership activities and develop model programs in a number of schools districts to improve basic skills in reading, mathematics and written and oral communication.

"We will solicit proposals designed to develop more effective methods for coordinating all federal programs toward a single target — improving basic skills instructions throughout the state," Alton O. Bowen, state commissioner of education, told the board.

Linkletter son dies in mishap

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Robert Linkletter, 35-year-old son of entertainer Art Linkletter, has died of internal injuries suffered in a traffic accident in West Los Angeles, police said.

Linkletter died Friday at New Hospital, one hour after a car that had crossed the center divider slammed head-on into his vehicle, a hospital spokesman said.

The only passenger in Linkletter's car, 64-year-old attorney Charles Crozier, was listed in serious condition with rib and face injuries, the spokesman said.

Police said the driver of the other vehicle was treated at New Hospital and transferred to County-USC Medical Center.

The accident was under investigation and no charges have been filed, police said.

His son's death was the latest in a series of family tragedies for Art Linkletter who had five children. He had previously lost a 20-year-old daughter, Diane, when she leaped to her death in 1969 while under the influence of the drug LSD.

Three months earlier, the husband of another Linkletter daughter committed suicide.

Since the death of his daughter, Linkletter has devoted much of his time to speaking out against drugs on nationwide tours.

WHEAT VARIETY DEMONSTRATION

We have just gotten our supply of seed wheat for nine different wheat varieties to be used in our wheat variety demonstration. Farmers interested in having a dryland or irrigated variety demonstration this next year should give me a call at 669-7429, or come by the Gray County Extension Office. There are twenty pounds of each variety and we will assist the farmer in planting these.

INSECT SITUATION

Sorghum producers need to keep a watch on their maturing sorghum for headworms. Heavy infestations have been reported in a few locations over the Panhandle area. Early detection is the key and begin checking sorghum soon after flowering.

In commercial sorghum, an average of two headworms per head is considered the economic threshold, while in seed production fields and average of one headworm per head is considered the economic threshold.

Parasitism of greenbugs in sorghum has increased dramatically during the last week or two. Check your fields before deciding to spray if you have 20 percent parasitism of greenbugs (mummies) let the parasites do the controlling rather than spending money for insecticides. At 20 percent mummies, approximately 60 percent of the aphid population actually has been parasitized.

Beet armyworms are infesting cotton, soybeans and sunflowers over the Panhandle. These beet armyworms have been noticed moving into border areas of seedling wheat.

Any newly emerged wheat is going to need to be watched very closely for several insect pests that are likely to cause trouble this early fall - grasshoppers, greenbugs, fall armyworms, beet armyworms, army cutworms, and others.

Dr. William Berg, Soil Scientist, will outline the usefulness of legumes in improved grass stands "natural nitrogen fertilization" of productive new forage species.

Also on the morning program, Dr. Patrick Coyne, Plant Physiologist, will discuss and demonstrate new efforts in the selection of plant materials for the semi-arid regions. He will describe ways to determine drought tolerance, winter hardiness and how much qualities contribute to productivity and persistence of the imported Old World Bluestems and Eastern gamagrass plant materials.

After a noon barbecue, sponsored and served by area businessmen and ranchers, the Field Day will continue with a tour of the Southern Plains Experimental Range near Fort Supply.

Participants will see pastures of Old World Bluestems and hear a discussion of beef production. These pastures of Plains, Caucasian, H, L, and LL Old World Bluestems have been grazed for at least three years, and beef production on them has approached or exceeded 200 pounds per acre. This is four times more than well managed native range.

The visitors will also see a new herd of Angus-Hereford and Braman Hereford females. These cattle are part of a national study on the relationship of beef cow type to regional climate, vegetation and management practices. Phillip Sims, Research Leader at the Southern Plains Range Research Station will report on results of past research with Angus-Hereford cows and Brangus bulls. During the previous seven years, calves have been weaned averaging 710 pounds on a native-complementary annual forage program. Under this system - fall calving and weaning at 10 months with wheat and rye winter pasture and sudan or pearl millet summer pasture to complement native range - an extra 250-300 pounds of weaned calf is produced per cow-calf unit with only $20-30 of additional operating costs. Other topics to be discussed include sagebrush control, management and use of weeping lovegrass, winter supplementation programs, and the use of rumensin, and grazing systems. During the afternoon, visitors will have an opportunity to tour the historic tree and shrub plantings on the Woodward Station.

On Thursday, the judging will be held. A Fashion Show with participants will be held Thursday evening with the Fall Fashion by Christine Corkin. On Friday, the winners will be announced along with a buffet luncheon.

4-H FOOD PROJECT

Are you interested in learning more about the proper nutrition basic four food groups, preparing a delicious meal and much more? Well, it is time then to join a 4-H Foods and Nutrition Project group. Six meetings will be held and at the end of the project, you can enter the 4-H Food Show.

If you are interested in being in a foods group or being a foods project leader, contact the Gray County Extension Office.

WOODWARD FIELD DAY PLANNED

Ranchers, farmers, and agri-businessmen, in conjunction with USDA scientists at the Southern Plains Range Research Station, Woodward, Okla. have scheduled a Field Day on Thursday, Sept. 18.

The field day will start with registration between 9-10 a.m. Between 10 a.m. and 12 noon, participants will review plant materials research at the Field Station in Woodward and see an array of useful grasses called the Old World Bluestems. These grasses have produced over 200 pounds of beef to the acre in dryland conditions as compared to 50 pounds on native range.

Visitors will be able to view and discuss Eastern gamagrass which has produced as much as 10 tons dry matter per acre under irrigation at the Woodward Research Station. This tall grass has great future potential for grazing as well as a green chop forage when scientists develop planting and grazing management techniques, says Mr. Chet Dewald, Research Agronomist for the research station.

Producers who have been in the cattle business for any time at all know there's nothing harder to predict than the cattle market. Now that reporting systems for the total number of cows on pasture and cattle in feedlots are much more accurate it seems things would get easier. But then, you have a few other factors which come into play. High interest rates may change the projection of new cattle coming into feedlots. Prices of other meats may be drastically lowered because of oversupply. Also, consumers may get a big dose of misinformation on nutrition from beef. Inflation may shoot up beyond expectations causing family food budgets to be sharply scrutinized. Any one of these factors could make earlier projections worthless at any given time, but when they all happen in the same year it can drive all the predictors right back to coin flipping. What do you think? Heads or tails?

Pampa girls take third in West Texas Tournament

CANYON—Pampa's Lady Harvesters saw their winning streak come to an end, but still grabbed third place in the West Texas State Volleyball Tournament this past weekend.

After opening with a 15-7, 15-6 over Lubbock Monterey, the Harvesters fell to Amarillo Caprock, 15-9, 9-15, 10-15, in the semi-finals for their first loss after eleven wins in a row.

Caprock had disposed of Muleshoe, 15-7, 15-1, in its first match.

Pampa bounced back to defeat Borger, 10-15, 16-14, 15-12 for third place.

"We played good defense during the tournament, but we were just cold on our hitting," Pampa Coach Lynn Wolfe said.

Wolfe cited Susan Richardson for her service shots and Jeanette Britt for her blocking during the tournament.

"These two were our best players," Wolfe said. "We were kind of flat against Borger. I guess the girls were depressed about losing to Caprock. It was hard to take after winning so many games."

Amarillo Tascosa defeated Caprock in the finals.

The Harvesters host Perryton at 6:30 p.m. Monday night, before journeying to the Plainview Tournament next weekend. They meet Lubbock in first-round play Friday.

Bufs nip OSU, 20-19

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP)—Matt Patterson's passing arm and a stingy defense powered West Texas State to an upset 20-19 victory over Oklahoma State Saturday before a crowd of 48,400 here.

Patterson, a 6-4 junior from Sweetwater, Texas, who alternates with sophomore Ricky Davis as the Buffalo quarterback, completed 13 of 23 passes for 209 yards and one touchdown to keep West Texas out front from start to finish.

The Bufs scored the first three times they had the ball, kicking two field goals and getting a three-yard touchdown pass from Patterson to wide receiver Mark Tidwell to lead 13-0 after the first quarter.

OSU fought back for 11 second-quarter points on a 29-yard field goal by Colin Ankersen, a 5-yard touchdown pass from John Doerner to split end Mel Campbell and a 2-point conversion pass from Doerner to freshman tight end John Chesley.

But Patterson took the Bufs on a 54-yard touchdown drive that was culminated by Danny Clark's 1-yard plunge.

The victory evened West Texas' season record at 1-1 while the loss was the season opener for the Cowboys.

National Football League roundup

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Some of the faces have changed but the division, and the rivalry, is the same.

Oakland and San Diego have a history of shootouts dating back to the old American Football League. Last year was no different, each team winning at home (San Diego 30-10, Oakland 45-22).

The missing ingredient this year is Ken Stabler, the wily quarterback who, two seasons ago, engineered Oakland's famous "fumble touchdown" that beat the Chargers on the final play. Now the Raiders' signal-calling is done by Dan Pastorini, acquired in the offseason quarterback swap with Houston.

Most observers felt when the deal was made that the Oilers had pulled off a steal, that Oakland had been somehow taken.

It didn't turn out quite that way in the first Sunday of National Football League play. While Stabler was getting intercepted five times in Houston's 31-17 loss to Pittsburgh, Pastorini was passing the Raiders past Kansas City 27-14, hitting Bob Chandler for two touchdowns and combining with Arthur Whittington on a 52-yard pass play to set up a third TD.

Dan Fouts, the Chargers' record-shattering quarterback (4,082 passing yards last year to surpass Joe Namath's 4,007), was no slouch last Sunday. He unloaded four touchdown passes, two to John Jefferson, in San Diego's 34-13 romp over Seattle.

So unless coaching strategies change overnight, another shootout could erupt Sunday in San Diego.

The rest of the NFL's weekend games are Pittsburgh at Baltimore, Philadelphia at Minnesota, Detroit vs. Green Bay at Milwaukee, Seattle at Kansas City, Dallas at Denver, Washington at the New York Giants, Atlanta at New England, Cincinnati at Miami, St. Louis at San Francisco and New Orleans at Chicago and, on Monday night, Houston at Cleveland.

The Steelers now go to work on rejuvenated Bert Jones, the Baltimore quarterback who missed most of the past two seasons with shoulder injuries. Jones completed 24 of 42 passes for 257 yards and ran 12 yards for a touchdown against the Jets while Terry Bradshaw of the Steelers struck Houston with scoring strikes of 29 yards to Sidney Thornton and 50 yards to John Stallworth.

The Eagles-Vikings game also brings together two hot passers. Ron Jaworski of Philadelphia jolted Denver with three touchdown passes last week and Tommy Kramer did the same to Atlanta.

Philadelphia's towering wide receiver, Harold Carmichael, has caught a pass in 113 consecutive games.

Running back Billy Sims, the NFL's No. 1 pick in the draft last April 29, will have a hard time coming up with a performance against Green Bay to match his feat of a week ago, when he amassed 153 yards and scored three touchdowns in Detroit's 41-20 romp over Los Angeles.

Similarly, the New York Giants won't find it easy to match their explosive season opener at St. Louis, when Phil Simms, starting his first full season as their No. 1 quarterback

DOYLE (TEXAS DOLLY) Brunson, the world poker king, walks across the course in Nashville last weekend as he played in the Ted Rhodes Golf Tournament at Harpeth Hills Country Club. Las Vegas Golf Tournament just like playing poker

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Texas Dolly and a couple of other "good ol' boys" from Albuquerque were downing a few beers in their favorite Las Vegas saloon late this summer while watching the windup of a pro tour golf tournament on TV.

Tom Watson, Curtis Strange or maybe it was Lee Trevino lining up a 10-foot putt on the 72nd hole.

"Pressure? What's the big deal?" growled Doyle (Texas Dolly) Brunson, the world poker king. "If he makes it, he wins 50 grand. If he blows it, he grabs 30 grand. What if he was putting for his own dough?"

"You mean what if it was like poker?" said Jamie Thompson, a former basketball star at Wichita State.

"Or Red Dog or any kind of pot game where you got your own money on the line," replied Texas Dolly, a bespectacled, mammoth man of 290 pounds, just down from 326.

"A different ball game altogether," interposed Roland (Buddy) Othick, who used to coach at Wichita State. "Hey, that's a great idea for a golf tournament."

"You ain't just whistlin' Dixie," said Texas Dolly, a wild gleam coming into his eye.

A few weeks later flyers — 9,000 of them — were flooding country clubs and municipal courses all around the country and intriguing ads were popping up in the golf publications, which read:

"Doyle 'Texas Dolly' Brunson's $1 Million World Match Play Golf Championship. Dunes Hotel, Las Vegas, Nov. 11-16, 1980. Entry Fee: $5,000. First: 256 Entries Accepted."

Brunson, Thompson and Othick set themselves up as the corporate sponsors. Then Texas Dolly reached out and got his old hometown buddy from Sweetwater, Texas, Don Cherry, to serve as tournament director.

"The response has been fantastic," said Cherry, calling from Las Vegas. "A lot of guys on the pro tour — like Miller Barber, Grier Jones, Gay Brewer, Jeff Mitchell and Bobby Clampett — are interested. Some are seeking sponsors, others say they'll pay their own way."

"I called Jack Nicklaus and he said he'd love to play but Jack Jr. is in some kind of tournament in Florida at that time. Besides, this is aimed at appealing to the obscure, little guy who has dreamed of the big time but never got a shot."

Texas Dolly has become a legend. A former basketball player at Hardin-Simmons, he moved from hardwood court to the green velvet tables and became — along with Amarillo Slim Preston — one of the most celebrated poker players in the world.

Competing in the World Poker Championships at Binion's Horseshoe in Las Vegas, he won the $222,000 first prize in 1976, the $340,000 top purse in 1977 and was runner-up in 1978 to Stu Ungar of New York. "The guy hit an inside straight," Dolly complains.

The format of the tournament is 18 holes match play with single rounds the first three days, double rounds the last three. The prize money ranges from $250,000 first prize to $5,000 for the top 64 losers. Win two matches and you break even.

Mirabella wins TOT pigeon race

Birds, raced by Jerry Mirabella, dominated a Top O' Texas Racing Pigeon Club meet held last weekend.

Mirabella's silver cock pigeon took first in the 100-mile race from Boise City, Okla. to Pampa with an average speed of 1173.277 yards per minute. Two splash hens and a b.b. cock, raced by Mirabella, also won the next three places with times of 1171.256, 1163.936 and 1162.444.

B.B. cocks, raced by Jim Cantrell, took fifth (1154.457) and sixth (1151.046). Marion Waldrop's red splash hen was seventh with a time of 1110.170.

There were 69 pigeons entered in the race. Starting out the weather was calm and clear with a variable change down the home stretch.

Seven lofts were used.

Groom wins

WHITE DEER — Dwain Weller raced for three touchdowns to spark Groom to a 20-14 non-conference football victory over White Deer Friday night.

Weller scored on runs of three, three and seven yards. He added two extra points on a run following his second touchdown.

Winning tradition at Plano may be in jeopardy next season

By ALAN SAYRE Associated Press Writer
PLANO, Texas (AP) — Over the years, both fans and detractors of the sport have said "everything in Texas stops for football."

In this Dallas suburb, more than a few of the townfolk would be willing to modify that by saying "everything in Plano stops for Wildcat football."

Despite the city's rapid growth over the past 15 years and its ever-closer link to the vast metropolitan area to the immediate south, the local high school gridiron squad remains as popular as when Plano was a quiet town just up the freeway from Big D.

The Dallas Cowboys may be "America's team," but the Wildcats still are "Plano's team," as one wag put it.

Plano Athletic Director John Clark probably wouldn't argue the point.

Clark, who coached the Wildcats to six district championships and two state crowns during his tenure from 1966-75, says winning isn't the only factor that drives rabid fans to line up outside the school's ticket office the night before season tickets go on sale.

"Obviously they're not going to do it if the team is not winning," Clark said. "But, still, we have an unusual community. Other places have winning teams and don't have the kind of support we do."

But not many teams have won the way Plano has.

The Wildcats won Class 2A state championships in 1965 and 1967, captured the 3A crown in 1971 before moving up to Class 4A, where the team nailed down the top prize in 1978.

Plano has not suffered a losing season since 1964.

But Clark admitted it's not as easy to rally the city of 70,000 around the team as when he first arrived in 1965.

Back then, Plano had "about 10,000" people, Clark recalled.

"It's not the only game in town now for sure," he said. "It's harder now for everyone to know what you're doing."

Young athletes also have changed over the years, Clark said.

"Years ago, kids played so they didn't have to go home and go to work," he said. "That's not the case now. Today, you have to show them the benefits (of playing)."

Clark thinks Plano does a good job of selling its athletic program as part of "a total educational program."

"Once they understand the reason for it (the program), they play just as hard," Clark said. "In fact, they're more aggressive."

But the current era of Plano football is rapidly grinding to a close. Next year, fans will have to decide whether to root for Plano High School or a new, yet-to-be-named, school.

Some fans fear the split will end Plano's football "machine," but Clark isn't worried.

"It's going to be interesting," he said. "It (a new school) has happened in Odessa and it doesn't seem to bother (Odessa) Permian much."

"The program's the same, the community is there," Clark added. "There's no reason why both won't be successful."

Some Plano residents are arguing whether Plano High School, relocated from the east side of town to the west in 1976, or the new eastside school will retain the almost-sacred nickname "Wildcats."

"Some people who live over here (the east side) say 'We were the Wildcats first,'" Clark said, hinting he's glad the decision will fall on other shoulders.

"The school board will make that decision in the next few months," he said, with a slight smile.

Panhandle turns back Wellington

With the offense failing to produce the knockout punch, Panhandle fell back on its sturdy, big-play defense to carve out a 17-6 win over Wellington Friday night.

The game was closer than the score indicated as Panhandle took a 7-6 halftime lead on Tod Mayfield's 19-yard touchdown pass to Robert Broyles and Kevin Brown's PAT kick.

With 10:30 left to play in the second half, Scott Rusk and Kelly Arrington sacked Wellington quarterback Jody Coleman in the end zone for a safety.

Panhandle's offense, however, failed to produce when Wellington's Calvin Culpepper intercepted Mayfield's pass at the Panther 44 with only 9:39 left.

The Skyrockets moved to the Panhandle eight in eight plays, but the Panther defense rose up and sacked Coleman for an eight-yard loss, forcing the visitors into a fourth down situation.

The Skyrockets Lenny Archie has the Panhandle secondary beaten on a pass pattern, but Mayfield moved across the field from his linebacker position and knocked down Coleman's pass with 6:12 to go.

"Tod made the key play for us," Panhandle Coach Stocky Lamberson said. "That would have been a sure TD if he hadn't knocked down that pass."

Panhandle went on from there to score one more TD on Mayfield's seven-yard pass to Kevin Brown just before the final gun sounded.

Panhandle failed to convert other scoring opportunities due to turnovers.

"We threw three interceptions and lost one fumble," Lamberson said. "We lost the ball inside the five and again inside the ten. That really hurt us."

Despite throwing three interception, Mayfield still hit 50 percent (11-21) of his passes for 122 yards.

Lamberson praised linebackers Ralph Shermwell and James Whitt and noseguard Scott Rusk for their defensive work.

"Shermwell was our leading tackler and Rusk was the best looking of our linemen."

Georgia routs Aggies behind freshman whiz

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — A sellout crowd of 60,150 had to wait awhile, but they got what they came to see — a long touchdown run by freshman sensation Herschel Walker.

Walker scored three touchdowns, one on a 76-yard jaunt in the third quarter, as 12th-ranked Georgia buried Texas A&M 42-0 Saturday.

"The line opened such a big hole I knew I'd better score or I couldn't face them," Walker said. "Only one person barely touched me on the run."

Walker said the key to his performance was that quarterback Buck Belue established the passing game early and "they couldn't key on me."

Belue fired two touchdown passes to Anthony Arnold as the Bulldogs built a 28-0 halftime lead.

"I've seen a lot of good running backs, but never one as good that young, obviously," said Aggie Coach Tom Wilson. "It's plain and simple, we just got our tails kicked."

Coach Vince Dooley of Georgia said, "I'm amazed at our defensive play and our offensive play. I think we came to play and played a complete game."

Dooley also said he was pleased again with Walker's performance.

"He got the tough yardage around the goal line," Dooley said. "That's the value of Herschel — he's big and strong and can get that extra foot or yard that is the difference in scoring."

The United States won the pole vault in every modern Olympics until 1972 when Wolfgang Nordwig of East Germany triumphed at Munich.

Tech falls to Tar Heels

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Texas Tech had numerous scoring opportunities against 15th-ranked North Carolina before a regional television audience Saturday afternoon, but coach Rex Dockery said errors cost his team dearly.

"Our defense played well. They gave us every chance to win," Dockery said after North Carolina beat his Red Raiders 9-3. "We controlled the ball, but made too many errors inside their 20-yard line. I think most of our offensive breakdowns occurred because of our young offense. We should have tried to run right at them," Dockery said.

Rod Elkins' short pass to Kelvin Bryant, who turned the play into a 58-yard touchdown, gave the Tar Heels their winning points in the fourth quarter.

But after an interception, Tech was on the NC 2-yard line only minutes later. However, linebacker Lawrence Taylor mauled Tech receiver Greg Tyler, forcing a fumble that Taylor recovered on the 12.

At the start of the fourth quarter, Tech quarterback Ron Reeves aimed a pass for the end zone but NCU's Steve Streater intercepted, giving the Tar Heels momentum that resulted in the Elkins-Bryant TD pass three plays later.

"That interception hurt us. (Jamie) Harris ran a busted route and was supposed to be where the North Carolina defender was. We're not polished enough on offense yet," Dockery said.

Tar Heel coach Dick Crum said Reeves "did a great job in the first half," when he completed 10 of 17 passes for 121 yards.

SENIOR HALFBACK Arthur Williams finds a huge chunk of daylight on blocks thrown by teammates Leroy Kuhn (46) and Mike Graham (far right, on ground). Williams rushed for 49 yards on five attempts and scored a touchdown as Pampa upended Dumas, 40-22, Friday night. Pampa is now 2-0 for the season and will host Lawton High (Okla.) at 7:30 p.m. Friday night.

Harvesters make the most of opportunities to rout Dumas

By L.D. STRATE

Pampa News Sports Editor

Momentum is an unpredictable element in a football game.

Often it swings back and forth like a pendulum from one team to another. Sometimes just one big play can turn the entire game around.

That's the way in seemed Friday night when Senior halfback Bobby Dorsey's cross-country jaunt on a pass interception opened the floodgates for the Pampa Harvesters, who routed Dumas, 40-22, at Harvester Stadium.

The Harvesters were trailing, 8-7, late in the first quarter when Dumas stalled on Pampa's 14 and went into a field goal formation. A bit of trickery on a fake punt didn't pan out as Mike Mowrey tossed the ball right into waiting arms of Dorsey, who romped 88 yards down the sidelines untouched for the score.

After that Pampa quickly picked up steam and Dumas went into a downhill slide.

"Mentally, I'm sure that gave us a boost," Harvester Head Coach Larry Gilbert said. "Big plays like that are a part of football."

Pampa rolled up 275 yards total offense, 233 of it on the ground, but the Harvesters' hard-charging defense created their share of problems for the visitors. They forced Dumas into a half-dozen turnovers, four on fumbles and two on interceptions.

"After looking at the film, I saw where we caused every one of those turnovers," Gilbert said. "Defensively, we looked a little shabby technique-wise, but I was proud of them because we were still getting after them."

Dumas piled up more total yardage (327) than the Harvesters, but most of it came in the second half when the game's outcome was no longer in doubt.

It was Dorsey who set up Pampa's first

TD on the initial kickoff when he raced 58 yards to the Dumas 25. Four plays later Arthur Williams went across from the five. Cavin Coleman's boot made it 7-0.

Dumas, however, retaliated on its first possession also by marching 62 yards in seven plays with fullback Robert Norris bulldozing over from the one. Norris' conversion run made in Dumas' favor, 8-7, with 7:04 to go in the opening quarter.

Dumas appeared to have momentum on its side when a Sam Edwards aerial was intercepted with 6:16 to go in the first period.

Dumas was deflated eight plays later on Dorsey's pass pickoff.

"It may have looked like a lucky break for us, but James Borchardt caused the interception and LeRoy Kuhn threw a beautiful block to set Dorsey loose," Gilbert said.

The Harvesters rattled off two more touchdowns before halftime on Clifford Anderson's run and Dorsey's six-yard scamper to make it 27-8. Anderson's end sweep TD came about after Pampa's Joe Ryzman pounced on a fumble on Dumas' 20.

Pampa final TD before halftime came on its longest scoring drive of the night when quarterback Sam Edwards directed the Harvesters for 62 yards in 14 plays.

For good measure, Cavin Coleman added a 20-yard field goal just before intermission to extend Pampa's lead to 30-8.

Coleman tacked on a 37-yard field goal with 9:22 remaining in the third quarter after Anderson recovered a fumble on Dumas' 24 when teammate Robbie Leffel jarred the ball loose from tailback Kyle Helfenbein.

Pampa's final tally came with 5:01 left in the third period when Rick Hagerman scored from one-yard out after a 43-yard, seven-play drive engineered by reserve quarterback Derek Bigham.

The Demons managed to close the gap in the fourth quarter on Mowery's 28-yard run and Robert Norris' three-yard run with only 24 seconds showing on the clock.

Norris, a 210-pound fullback, was the game's top rusher with 108 yards on 19 carries.

"Norris was quicker than I thought he was," Gilbert said. "I just hope we don't have to play against many backs as big as he is."

Kuhn led the Harvesters with 65 yards on 13 carries. Dorsey picked up 59 yards on 10 tries while Williams added 49 yards on five steps.

"I thought all our backs ran well and they also blocked well for each other," Gilbert said. "Our offensive line executed well."

Edwards completed one of eight passes to split end Andy Richardson for eight yards while Bigham was a perfect two of two for 34 yards. Steve McDougall caught one pass for a 19-yard gain. Richie James had a 15-yard reception.

Pampa, now 2-0, hosts Lawton (Okla.) at 7:30 p.m. Friday night.

"Lawton is the best 0-2 team I've ever seen and I would go as far to say that they may be the best team we play all year," Gilbert said.

Lawton High was picked No. 1 in Oklahoma's pre-season Class 5A poll, but have since lost to Altus and Lawton MacArthur.

Dumas is now 1-1 for the season.

Canadian edges Stinnett

CANADIAN—Canadian tallied two second-half touchdowns to nudge Stinnett, 19-10, Friday night in a non-district football game.

The Wildcats, now 2-0, fell behind 7-0 when Stinnett's Tim Harris broke loose on a 52-yard run and Willie Dodd kicked the extra point in the first quarter.

Craig Young, who ground out 192 yards on 24 carries, got Canadian on the board when he scored on a three-yard run and two-point conversion before the first quarter came to an end.

Canadian took the lead for good in the third quarter when Bear Schafer hit Mkie Thompson with a 13-yard scoring pass.

With the score 13-7, Dodd booted a 23-yard field goal to close the gap to 13-10.

However, Young iced the victory for the Wildcats when he romped 46 yards for a TD in the final quarter.

Thompson complemented Young in the rushing department with 109 yards on eleven carries.

Canadian totaled 401 yards while Stinnett had 283. Canadian also led in first downs, 17-11.

Harris paced Stinnett with 119 yards on a dozen attempts.

Allan Hunt and Keith McIntire anchored Canadian's defensive line.

"Both of these players had real good games," Canadian mentor Charles Russell said. "They made some big plays for us."

Canadian hosts Panhandle, also 2-0, at 8 p.m. Friday night.

Sooners win

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Senior quarterback J.C. Watts shook off a leg injury to direct fourth-ranked Oklahoma to three fourth-quarter touchdowns as the Sooners finally subdued Kentucky 29-7 in an inter-sectional football game Saturday.

Kentucky, of the Southeastern Conference, quieted Oklahoma partisans by taking a 7-0 lead after a mistake-riddled first half.

Watts was helped off the field after he was hit at the end of an 11-yard run midway through the third period. Reserve quarterback Darrell Shepard came in and directed Oklahoma the rest of the way on an 80-yard scoring drive with halfback Chet Winters bolting 13 yards for the score to tie the score.

Watts set up Oklahoma's go-ahead score when he scrambled out of trouble, then passed 21 yards to Steve Rhodes to the Kentucky 3.

McLean defeated

McLEAN—Shamrock spoiled McLean's football opener with a 27-7 win Friday night.

After a scoreless first quarter, Terry Todd got McLean on the board first with a one-yard plunge in the second quarter; Billy Hambright kicked the extra point.

Then Shamrock's Carl Bennett took command.

He scored on runs of 20, 40 and 33 yards along with a 40-yard punt return. He kicked three PATs.

Rice drops season-opener to Clemson, 19-3

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) — Clemson quarterback Homer Jordan ran for one touchdown and threw for another and Obed Ariri kicked two field goals as the Tigers defeated Rice, 19-3, in a season-opening, inter-sectional college football game Saturday.

Jordan, a sophomore starting his first game, teamed with flanker Perry Tuttle on a 59-yard touchdown pass play late in the second period to put Clemson ahead for good.

Ariri's fourth quarter field goals of 33 and 28 yards were the Nigerian booter's 12th and 13th in a row. He added one extra point. Clemson failed to convert following Tuttle's TD when the snap was high and a desperation pass by holder Bo Blanton was incomplete.

Rice scored first on a 22-yard field goal by Kenneth Sam with 5½ minutes remaining in the opening quarter.

Fumbles by Owl quarterback Randy Hurtel and Clemson tailback Chuck

McSwain put an end to second period drives.

Clemson lined up in Rice territory only once in the first half. Following Hurtel's bobble, the Tigers drove from their six-yard line to the Rice 35, with Jordan keeping the ball four times for 34 yards.

But McSwain fumbled at the Rice 33, and the Owls' Mark Seguin recovered.

Clemson boosted its lead to 13-3 in the third period when Jordan scored on a four-yard keeper, ending a 71-yard drive.

Mavs open camp

DALLAS (AP) — The new Dallas Mavericks opened their first training camp Saturday without first-round draft pick Kiki Vandeweghe.

Fifteen veterans and four rookies were on hand, however, to train for the Mavs' first preseason game against Denver next Saturday in Norman, Okla.

Coach Dick Motta of the National Basketball Association team, asked about Vandeweghe's absence, said:

"The sun came up this morning. I'm sure it will go down tonight. I'll just coach the players that are here."

Miami crushes

Erick, 32-14

MIAMI—Junior halfback Keith Gray ran for 216 yards and scored three touchdowns as Miami crushed Erick, Okla., 32-14, Friday night.

Gray, who carried 31 times, scored twice on 20 and two-yard runs and David Haws added a 20-yard TD scamper to lead Miami to a 19-0 lead at halftime.

Gray and Richard Bean added one-yard TD plunges in the second half to round out Warrior scoring.

Erick clicked for a pair of scores in the second half on 35 and 40-yard passes from quarterback Ron Davis to Harold Hammond.

Miami totaled 419 yards compared to 312 for the losers. Defensive standout for Miami was senior linebacker Bill Burgoon, who blocked an extra point try and intercepted a pass.

"Bill did an outstanding job of covering the pitchouts on Erick veer," Miami Coach Gary Pinson said.

Miami chalked up 25 first downs while the visitors had seven.

The Warriors were flagged four times for 40 yards while Erick was penalized seven times for 65 yards.

The Warriors are now 1-1 for the season and will take a week off before hosting Vega at 8 p.m. Friday night.

Houston pair leads tourney

Jim Litzman and Henry Litzman of Houston shot a net score of 53 Saturday to take the first-round lead in the Lefty-Righty Tournament at Pampa Country Club.

There's a tie for second at 57 between Pampa's Steve McCullough-John Sparkman and Houston's Jim Litzman-Henry Litzman.

In fourth place at 58 is Pampa's Ralph Prock and Austin's Travis Brown.

Pampa's Joe Donaldson and Houston's Ken Aharens shot 59 and are tied with Conroy's Wendell Phillips and Kingsland's Fletcher French.

Each team consisted of a southpaw and righthander.

Golfers tee off at 9 a.m. today for the final 18 holes.

Yanks edge

Red Sox

BOSTON (AP) — Bucky Dent keyed a four-run fourth inning with a two-run single and veteran Tommy John earned his 21st victory Saturday in leading the New York Yankees to a 4-3 decision over the Boston Red Sox.

Dent and Rick Cerone had three hits apiece.

Boston starter Mike Torrez, 9-14, was the loser.

John, 21-7, blanked Boston on two hits before being nicked for a pair of runs in the fifth, and finished with a nine-hitter.

CAMPUS SCENE — INDIAN STYLE. Steven Baldy, a Hoopa Indian and president of DQ University, near Davis, Calif., walks near traditional sweat houses on the Indian college's campus. This is an isolated corner, set aside for meditation and cleansing, of the 640 acres occupied by DQU on the former Army base whose communication buildings the college took over in 1970. Traditional Indian theme dominates new university

By JENNIFER KERR, Associated Press Writer.

DAVIS, Calif. (AP) — A year ago, an Indian college created in discarded Army buildings and named for god-like figures with unpronounceable names seemed about to lose its nine-year struggle with the federal government.

But today, D-Q University is in its best shape ever.

The college is receiving $24,685 in long-delayed federal Indian college money. Its accreditation problems have improved. And when it begins classes in late September, D-Q will have its first full-time faculty and 200 students, 120 of them in a newly renovated dormitory with solar panels and a greenhouse.

"Compared to a year ago, things are really going well," says Steven Baldy, a Hoopa Indian and D-Q president.

"D-Q went through a tough year and a half," says American Indian Movement founder Dennis Banks, a Chippewa and chancellor. "Now, we're turning the corner."

Obstacles remain, however. D-Q must reapply to renew the federal grant, and it must demonstrate to the Western Association of Schools and Colleges that it will have money, students, faculty and its land in the future.

D-Q, originally named Deganwidah-Quetzalcoatl in 1971 but later shortened because of the sacredness of the Iroquois and Aztec names, has been investigated over the years by numerous branches of the federal government.

"We have been audited by every audit possible. They even audit the auditors," says David Risling, a Hoopa Indian and D-Q board member.

The idea for the school dates to 1970 when Risling, who heads the Native American Studies department at the nearby University of California at Davis, wanted education that would work for California Indians.

Standard education, he says, was trying to "mainstream" Indians, to change them into white men.

In 1970, Risling and others searched for federal surplus land and found the Army Communications Center site 10 miles west of Davis. It had been closed since 1956.

The Indian group, joined by a Mexican-American group, received a 30-year lease from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to use the land for a college, but only after a lawsuit and occupation of the land.

The fledgling two-year college received grants from private foundations and in its early years also got federal money.

The Indian and Mexican-American sections split in 1978 because of the passage of a federal law that required the college to have Indian board members and students.

Homey campaign theme sparkles for Dixy Ray

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — Her homey campaign literature trumpets Dixy as "the best four-letter word for candor, courage and common sense."

But as Washington's Gov. Dixy Lee Ray faces a showdown in her brief, flashy political career, her enemies and challengers have some not-so-nice four-letter words for Dixy herself.

Gov. Ray is beset with political problems as she tries to parlay her conservative, "sensible growth" politics into a second term.

Armed with a campaign treasury of more than $500,000 and assorted business and labor endorsements, she faces stiff primary opposition from fellow Democrat James McDermott of Seattle in the Sept. 16 primary.

McDermott, a psychiatrist, is a liberal state senator who was the overwhelming favorite of the state Democratic convention this summer.

Three of Washington's top Republicans, King County (Seattle) Executive John Spellman, House Speaker Duane Berenson and Secretary of State Bruce Chapman, are lining up for the primary.

Miss Ray, known nationally for her spirited defense of nuclear power, is considered the favorite for nomination, and Spellman is his party's frontrunner. That could mean a rerun of the 1976 race.

The campaign already has a sharp edge, with opponents calling her incompetent, a phony conservative and an abrasive woman who can't work with people.

Miss Ray, 65, has the advantage of incumbency, is popular with many senior citizens and rural Washingtonians, and has managed to get support from business and labor at the same time.

There have been no general tax hikes since she took office in 1977, as a neophyte politician who was Atomic Energy Commission chairman and an assistant secretary of state under Henry Kissinger.

Problems, gaffes and controversies have mounted, however.

— Miss Ray secretly offered state Senate Majority Leader Gordon Walgren the next vacant U.S. Senate seat, a move widely seen as dancing on the grave of the state's senior senator, Warren G. Magnuson, 75.

Magnuson, denounced the governor at his state Democratic convention, but now both Magnuson and Miss Ray say they have made up.

— Walgren and another potential Ray rival, House Democratic Speaker John Bagnariol, were indicted on federal racketeering and conspiracy charges. They accused the Ray administration of setting them up. Miss Ray said she knew about the undercover investigation all along, but wasn't "out to get" them.

Jobs and the economy, energy, taxes and prisons are the key issues thus far. But Dixy, as everyone calls her, is THE issue.

"The emotion of the election is almost solely pro-Dixy or anti-Dixy," concedes C. Montgomery Johnson, the former state Republican chairman who is her chief campaign strategist.

The governor says she has no intention of full-time campaigning.

"You can't stop being governor," she recently said. "So the campaigning I do will be pretty much on weekends and in the evenings."

Asked how she differs from her opponents, her answer is the same:

"I do not believe in campaigning on personalities. As a good friend of mine told me in 1976, 'Throwing dirt is only ground lost.'"

A SMILING DIXY RAY LEE, governor of Washington, greets a pupil at the Washington State School for the Deaf, Vancouver. All is not smiles in the governor's already sharp-edged campaign for re-election, however. Miss Ray is beset with political problems as she tries to parlay her conservative, "sensible growth" politics into a second term. (APN Illustration)

Israel admits disappointment with U.S.

By MARIE RIDDER
For The Associated Press

As the four specks grew larger in the Israeli sky, the crowd on the ground broke into applause and cheers. The newcomers included officials of the governments of the United States and Israel, one seeking to be regarded as a believable benefactor, the other slow to believe.

In a moment, four sleek new F-16 fighter planes nestled down on Israeli soil, ending 11½ hours of flight, a distance of 5,720 miles from Pease Air Force Base, New Hampshire, to Ramat David Air Base near Nazareth.

For Antonia Handler Chayes, undersecretary of the Air Force, the arrival of the fighters marked the start of an 11-day swing through the troubled Middle-East, a voyage replete with irony, tension, disappointment, moving and revealing moments, for such is the tightrope of diplomacy through weaponry in this part of the world.

The pilots unfolded from their cockpits and the planes were surrounded by a happy, laughing crowd.

Among its members were Maj. Gen. James Abramson, the American in charge of the F-16 program, proud that his birds and pilots had arrived on schedule; Israeli pilots trained in the United States; and Ezer Weizman, former Israeli defense minister.

But the holiday mood was quickly clouded. After a few words of welcome, Deputy Prime Minister Yigael Yadin said, "The United States is, of course, also giving weapons to others not involved with peace." He was referring to Saudi Arabia and Jordan.

A second later, Samuel Lewis, U.S. ambassador to Israel, was equally pointed. "The United States," he said to his Israeli hosts, "can project power in the cause of peace anywhere in the world, as much and as quickly as is needed... and for those who doubt that we live up to our commitments, I need only list the kinds of aid, both military and economic, currently being given Israel."

The undersecretary of the Air Force, a slim, blonde woman, was in Israel, she said at lunch the next day, because Secretary of Defense Harold Brown "thought it important for us to celebrate the presentation to the Israeli air force of the first four of 75 of our latest, most modern fighter planes."

She added: "There can be no question in Israel that the United States believes a strong Israel is crucial to peace, even though we have expressed necessary disappointment with the West Bank settlement policy."

The undersecretary's plane had brought over six American Jewish leaders as guests of the president of the United States.

During the flight from Washington to Tel Aviv, they were briefed by Maj. Gen. Richard Secord on the F-16s, and by Joseph Meis, deputy assistant secretary of the Air Force, on two air bases the United States is building in the Negev as substitutes for two in the Sinai that Israel will be giving up under the treaty with Egypt. The leaders seemed impressed with the briefing.

The next day some of them reportedly urged Israeli leaders to soften the government's stand concerning the West Bank.

After Israel, Mrs. Chayes was to go to Saudi Arabia to inspect bases being built by the Air Force and paid for by the Saudis.

Mrs. Chayes, who is Jewish, had been a proponent of supplying the Saudis with F-15s and she had been personally invited by Prince Bandar Sultan, a member of the royal family and son of the defense minister.

On her last night in Tel Aviv she learned that the trip had fallen through.

Conclusion: Mrs. Chayes had attended the rollout of the F-16s in Israel and consequently was no longer welcome in Saudi Arabia.

Flying over the desert toward Cairo on the next leg of the tour, several members were reminded of the ironies peculiar to Israel. The country is so small that pilots in training find the limited airspace claustrophobic. An Israeli fighter is barely aloft before it's over foreign territory.

Mrs. Chayes' job in Egypt was to review the American training and maintenance program for the Egyptians who would fly the 35 F-4s that had been delivered. And she was to be on hand for the arrival of 12 more F-4s on a friendship mission designed to show discouraged Egyptians that these complicated contraptions could be housebroken.

The U.S. Air Force has a thorny problem of tact in Egypt. President Anwar Sadat recently complained that the Israelis have received more aid on better terms.

So it's difficult to tell the Egyptian president, "Your air force can neither maintain nor fly a large number of the new, very complex planes." It's especially awkward as Egypt's new adversary, Saudi Arabia, is getting the most complex plane of all, the F-15.

The Egyptian fliers readily concede they're having problems maintaining the new F-4s.

On Mrs. Chayes' first day in Egypt, she was told that the 101 Americans detached to the Egyptians under Brig. Gen. Davis Rohr would not be able to complete their task of training Egyptian ground crews and pilots to maintain and fly the planes by Oct. 6. She has since proposed a U.S. grant to enhance the training program.

Contractor warns boom is short-lived

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Domestic oil and gas drilling operations are booming these days, but Ed McGhee says some drilling contractors are sounding a note of caution.

An Arkansas contractor, McGhee said, recently advised others to enjoy the boom while it lasts "because it won't be this good forever."

"This note of caution sums up the sentiments of his peers everywhere," said McGhee, executive vice president of the International Association of Drilling Contractors.

"Fresh in their minds is the downturn that began in late 1978 and persisted through the first half of 1979. Not forgotten is a disappointing 1976. And still haunting the industry's consciousness is the memory of the debilitating depression that began in 1957 and that didn't bottom out until 1971."

He said few contractors, however, question that the demand for drilling rigs will continue to grow.

"Most speak in terms of surpassing the previous all time high of 3,136 active rotary rigs before year end," he said.

"They envision the count reaching 3,500 by 1982 and 4,000 by 1985."

The record 3,136 weekly average for rotary drilling rigs making hole was set in late 1955. The next year, the industry completed a record 58,160 wells.

The two records, however, were followed by a prolonged drilling slump that, as McGhee said, did not bottom out until 1971 when active rotary rigs averaged only 975 and well completions totaled only 27,300.

Weekly active rig averages in 1971 ranged from a low of 814 to a high of only 1,189.

McGhee said one factor that now sobers contractors is the rate at which the supply of new rigs is mushrooming. Most contractors, he said, take it for granted the 1980 count of available rigs will show a net increase of 400 over 1979.

"Some believe the increase may even reach 450," he said. "This compares to additions of 331 last year and 389 the year before. Can anyone predict when the next rig oversupply will set in?"

McGhee said that for land units, no one offers a clue, but for marine units, Loran Sheffer of Offshore Rig Data Services proposes one yardstick.

"Sheffer says one of the indicators to watch is the lead time between delivery of the rig and the time the unit is contracted."

"Right now, it is about 12 to 15 months," Sheffer says. "When this lead time begins to shrink, watch out! It will mean the oil companies have filled their baskets, that they have locked in all the rigs they anticipate using for the next few years."

Area drilling rig goes three years without mishap

An area drilling rig, Rig No. 4 of E. W. Moran Brothers Inc., has operated three consecutive years without a lost-time accident.

Rig workers and their wives were honored by their employer E. W. Moran Brothers Inc. Wednesday night with a dinner at Dyer's and the presentation of watches and solid brass belt buckles to those employees who had worked on the rig at least nine months.

Mack McKethan of Wichita Falls, safety officer for the corporation, told the workers, "As you know, in this business, it is almost unheard of for a drilling rig to go three years without an accident."

He credited the accomplishment to the dedication of the workers and also to their wives.

"It's your wives who also deserve some credit for this — for telling you to come home safe and with all your limbs," McKethan said.

"Do this again next year, and we'll come up with something better," McKethan said.

Presented a special gold watch was rig manager Jackie Barnett of Pampa. Also presented watches were drillers J. A. Baker of Higgins; R. D. Henry of Arnett, Okla.; and Louis Rodrigues of Canadian.

Presented numbered one-of-a-kind belt buckles were K. A. Hubbard of Miami; D. R. Hale of Arnett, Okla.; R. G. Bruntmeyer of Allison; Cosme Velasquez of Canadian; D. R. Brown of Arnett, Okla.; John Albernaz of Canadian; C. E. Thorne of Higgins; and D. C. Scott of Miami.

The 15,000-foot rig is located about 30 miles north of Pampa and may be observed from the road west of U.S. 70.

Also present for the dinner was Moran Brothers drilling superintendent Burk McCurdy.

To be eligible for the awards, an employee must have served on the rig at least nine months.

New look for Girl Scouts

A newly designed uniform will soon be sported by the Cadette and Senior Girl Scouts.

The uniform was designed in keeping with the new look for the 1980's. A new program for Brownie Girl Scouts was implemented in 1977, and an adult uniform, designed by Halston, came out in 1978.

Girl Scouting is the largest voluntary organization for girls in the world, with a membership within the United States of more than three million persons. It is open to all girls, ages 6 through 17, or grades one through 12, who subscribe to its ideals, as stated in the Girl Scout Promise and Law.

Quivira Girl Scout Council, with headquarters in Pampa, is one of the 348 local units, chartered by the national organization, to administer and develop Girl Scouting within its jurisdiction. Quivira Council covers 10 counties in the Texas Panhandle.

Reaching a higher percentage of girls than the national average, Quivira Council serves one in every five girls. Its total girl membership is approximately 1,500, with 600 of these from Pampa.

The Girl Scout program, structured to meet the interest of girls today while preparing them for their future role as women, offers a wide choice of activities in such areas as homemaking, art, crafts, camping, singing, heritage study, vocational exploration and preservation of energy and of the environment.

Helping others is an integral part of Girl Scouting. Troops exemplify this principal in many ways, such as cleaning the city's alleys, remembering the forgotten elderly in nursing homes with gifts, parties and programs, making tray favors for the hospital, food baskets for the indigent, beautification of the city parks and doing yard work and running errands for shut-ins.

In addition to troop program, six or more council-wide events are held for troops within Quivira's 10 county jurisdiction, including two all-day camping events for Brownie Girl Scouts, a campcraft skills day for Junior Girl Scouts, a Cadette Camporee and a Senior Girl Scout trip.

Cadette and Senior Girl Scouts, junior high and senior high girls share their knowledge with their sister Girl Scouts by assisting Brownie and Junior troops in mastering Brownie achievements, Junior badge requirements and in learning camping skills. At the same time, they participate in their own exciting program that includes exploring auto maintenance, fashion - fitness - makeup or career awareness.

The council's well - rounded camping program includes troop camping at the council camps or other spots in the area, day camps, and three weeks of resident camp with a program of nature study, campcraft skills, crafts, swimming and canoeing.

Quivira's Council often sponsors girls' attendance at national events. In August, 15 girls and five adults from Quivira Council traveled to the National Girl Scout Center West at Ten Sleep, Wyoming, for a week of primitive camping with Girl Scouts from throughout the country, participating in a wide range of program activities, including backpacking, pioneer crafts, the study of Indian pictographs and horseback riding.

Quivira Council owns two campsites. Camp Mel Davis, near Lefors, covers approximately 16 acres and is used for troop camping, day camps, leader training sessions and district, neighborhood and council events. Camp Cibola, near Clarnedon, covers approximately 29 acres, and, although still under development, is used for resident camp, troop camping and for Council events.

Quivira Council provides many training opportunities for leaders and other adult volunteers to insure leader continuity and quality troop program. Courses offered include basic leadership, advanced leadership, basic outdoor, advanced outdoor, day camp staff training and resident camp staff training.

Workshops are given on specialized topics such as arts and crafts, songs, games, troop program, neighborhood service team responsibilities and board member and board committee functions.

Quivira Council employs a staff of four to service its 10-county area, which includes an executive director, two field executives and a secretary-register.

By Louise Pierce

Creative older mates are not easy to live with, I'm sure. If your spouse is an artist, a singer, a writer, a dancer, a professional speaker or a movie star, you have to share his trauma of never reaching all his goals — and your own annoyance at being second banana to a rising-and-falling career.

This applies to all of us in varying degree, I think. Every person believes that there is a special talent inside him somewhere and that it is his duty to himself to find and foster it. But most people don't make an issue of it. They don't let their secret hopes upset their domestic life.

It's the ones of us who were born with an urge to create painting or write books, to grace stages or sing operatic arias, who need understanding mates. If we have them, we should feel deep appreciation for their toleration and affection.

Since I am a writer, I know more about the woes of this profession than any other. A famous author once told me, "All writers have asthma or think they do."

The statement bothered me because I am positive that my asthmatic condition is real, not psychosomatic.

But I snifle a lot. I also sleep badly, type in the middle of the night and sometimes forget that dinner is cooking until it has burned up.

As I've told you many times, Otis is tolerant of all the hazards of being a writer's husband. But I've known mates who resented anything ever taking precedence over the double harness.

Much to my sorrow, some of my creative friends are divorced. There seem to be three main reasons for their failed marriages.

One of them is that the creative person is often gone from home for long periods of time. A singer goes on tour, an actor leaves home for six months on movie location, a speaker signs up to tour a country, a painter goes exhibiting.

Any of these situations can lead to extended loneliness or even permanent separation.

But a creative career need not part loving mates. I travel a lot as a writer and speaker, but I never stay overnight unless Otis goes along.

Another reason for a clash between public and private life is that the creative partner often becomes preoccupied with easel or typewriter and the spouse's presence is ignored. Being classed as a stick of furniture is never pleasing.

But again we can avoid this confrontation. We can work like fury on our own pursuits when we are alone — and devote ourselves to our mates when we are with them.

Incidentally — or perhaps I mean most importantly — it helps relieve your mate's tension if you make a little money in your personal pursuit. Otis used to tolerate my writing; now he cheers me on.

One thing the suffering spouse must endure is your devotion to your one talent, often to the exclusion of more mundane abilities. You can't practice piano all day and have spare time to sew or be a plumber's helper around the house.

Creativity is a gift, we believe. We just have to integrate it with our happy marriages. If the two ever force a show down in my life, my marriage will win every time.

DEAR LOUISE: I play the piano and I'm real good at it. I do concerts around my area and get paid well for them. My trouble is that my husband pouts if I'm gone more than one night a week. He says I'm neglecting him and we ought to spend our time together since he's retired. But I think I've got the right to do something I enjoy like I do music. What do you say? C.G.

DEAR C.G.: I say, yes, you do — unless your talent is making real trouble between you and your husband.

MRS. STEPHEN TEINERT

Youngblood-Teinert vows recited in Dallas

Viki Youngblood became the bride of Stephen Monroe Teinert in an afternoon ceremony in Our Redeemer Lutheran Church in Dallas. The Rev. Fredrick Mattil, pastor, officiated. Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Youngblood III, 1924 Dogwood.

The bride wore a Priscilla gown of candlelight chiffon overlain with ivory lace. The gown featured a chapel length train. A Juliet cap held the veil of candlelight illusion in place.

Attending the bride were Christi Youngblood of Pampa, Cindy Hinkle of Dallas, Peggy More of Houston, Mary Kay Hendrickson of Rockwall and Tomi Roan of Cooper.

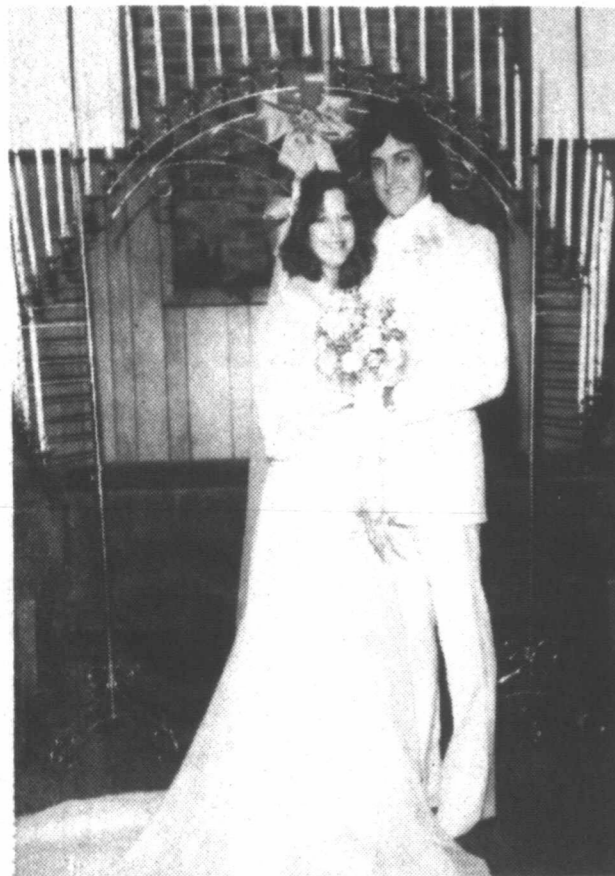

The bridegroom was attended by Mark Terelitsky of Ft. Worth, David Thomson and Robert Stallcup, both of Houston, David Reynolds of Kenner, La. and Charles Youngblood of Pampa.

Music was provided by Carl Rupprecht, organist. The couple was honored with a reception in the Monterey Room of the Doubletree Inn in Dallas.

Following a wedding trip to Europe, the couple will make their home in Dallas.

The bride has a bachelor of business administration degree from Texas Tech University, where she was a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority.

Teinert has a bachelor of business administration degree from Texas Tech where he was a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity. He is employed as a credit manager by Empire Bank in Dallas.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT ISHMAEL

Miss George, Ishmael exchange wedding vows

Amy Lynn George became the bride of Robert James Ishmael in an afternoon ceremony in the Abundant Life Assembly of God Church in Canadian. The Rev. Dwain Martin officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Eddie George and Mr. and Mrs. Lotis Ishmael, all of Canadian. The bride is the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ward, Johnny Crocker and Mr. and Mrs. Evert Goad, all of Pampa.

The bride's gown of white organza over taffeta featured a Queen Anne neckline, full bishop sleeves and a full bell skirt that extended into a chapel length train. The neckline, yoke, sleeves and skirt were accented with re-embroidered lace. The chapel length veil of sheer English net fell from a headpiece of organza and lace.

Maid of honor was Kim Turner of Amarillo. Mark Langley of Tyndall, S.D. was best man.

Flower girl was Kami Leonard of Canadian. Ring bearer was Richard Shook of Canadian. Holly George and Kelley Cooper, both of Canadian, were candlelighters. Ushers were Lee George and Steve Zybach. Stacy Ward of Pampa registered guests.

Music was provided by Pat Young, organist; and Lori and Julie Crow of Bethany, Okla., vocalists.

The couple was honored with a reception in the church fellowship hall. Assisting at the reception were Evelyn Meek of Briscoe, Pat Popham and Lynda Sansing, both of Canadian.

The bride's parents hosted a wedding rehearsal dinner in the church fellowship hall for members of the wedding party.

BRIDE OF THE WEEK

Lori Koenig, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Tim Koenig, is the bride to be of Jim Rebarchik.

SELECTIONS ARE AT THE-

Coronado Center Pampa, Texas 665-2001

PEEKING at PAMPA

Been hearing some P.S. comments on the Bowers-Juenger wedding. Seems the music was worthy of enthusiastic praise. Debbie's Grandfather Juenger of Houston played "Ave Maria" on the violin preceding the ceremony. A professional musician (all the Juengers seem qualified for that category), he played with the Houston Symphony Orchestra for years.

Heard that Rick Harris' rendition of "The Lord's Prayer" was impressive too (his wife, Cindy Cambren Harris was matron of honor). And then there was the wedding feast — exactly that, not just a sip and a snack but tables of delicious food.

Heard in walk-by in Pampa stores and cafes and on the street: "Eat your lunch, son. Daddy paid $1.75 for it!" "Mama, I want some candy. Come on, Mama. Just one piece of candy. Pretty please, Mama. Thank you, Mama!"

"Grandpa, hold me up to see the lobsters. I won't stick my finger in the tank like last time, honest I won't. Hold me up! Ooh, aren't they fierce!" "Wait'll that cowboy comes by. I want to see his red boots shine!" "My teacher says I gotta have six red pencils. Well, all right. She says I gotta have one red pencil. Okay, I'm the one that wants red pencils. So buy me one, huh?"

Don't know the names of these youngsters or their older relatives. But really enjoyed hearing what they had to say. May start a "Baby Said" paragraph or two in this column. Nobody quite as open or persuasive as the little ones.

Ever so many happy, sociable people in our town. Barbara Williams, Ray's wife, is always so smiling, so hospitable, so teenage-looking in spite of grown children. (Some say she even has grandchildren.) Wish I had her bright eyes and lilted welcome.

Bob Ousley is friendly, accommodating, able to remember everybody's name without apparent effort. Recall when his dad, Hansford, used to sing in barbershop quartets and probably still does. Must ask Bob if he sings too. Bet he could.

Sorry to hear that Herman and Gladys Jarrard have moved to Ardmore, Okla. Been residents here a long time, have countless friends. Going into business over there, I understand. Somebody said they are former Oklahoma residents and will doubtless enjoy being "back home."

Heard that Rena Johnson is building a new house out north somewhere, a duplex that she will share with her sister and husband. Wonder if she's taken the trip that she won a few months ago. Seems her contest prize was a trip to Las Vegas.

Charles and Sue Snyder always seem to have fun together. I like her upswept hair-do. And Charlie's good nature is a joy. Charming couple.

Bill Fry has the unusual ability to remember and to say something complimentary to everybody he meets. Remembers your names, your family, your special interests. Wish I could remember the names of the people I know well.

Lots of sister groups in Pampa. Think Mae Boston and Geneva Chapman must be among the happiest of the duos. Both look so well-groomed, as if they had their hair done every day or so. Until lately, they and their husbands, Jerry Boston and Frank Chapman, welcomed you to their partnership business. Jerry's always been a golf addict, you know. Understand he'd rather golf than eat. Best thing about retirement, so golfers tell me, is that you can play all the time.

Chamber of Commerce bulletin made comments about the Post Office flower garden. So went to take a look. It's really something. For you who don't get the C of C paper, be sure to give this beautiful spot an appreciative glance. Pink and white flowers back up the gorgeous green grass, a lovely sight in a conspicuous place in a corner of the city that most of us visit at least once a day.

Saw Dean and Donna Burget at the Pampa Club several times. Reminded me of their annual cal-fry party. Nothing like it in the area, people say. Big dinner, everything to eat that you could name. Then country music and dancing half the night. Scene of their Big Doings is their spacious barn, equipped with everything for enjoyment and fun. Really a treat to be invited, I hear. Neighbors pitch in with food and help.

Anybody for sea food? Hear that two of our leading night clubs now have shrimp peels regularly. Both the Pampa Club and the Country Club have these special treats scheduled for September.

Heard the local dancing has been most enjoyable lately. Seems Jay Perdue and Company of Lake Meredith (Company meaning wife, Vicki, and drummer, Gary) usually dedicate most of their selections to special people in their audiences. Always delights the crowd. Honored couple jumps up and takes to the floor for the first few bars before being joined by other dancers. Seems Jay knows everybody's favorite and matches them to each personality. Nice touch. See you around town. PAM.

I LOST 85 POUNDS

QUICKLY & SAFELY AT DIET CENTER

JoAnn Mack tells how Diet Center has changed her life . . .

"Diet Center worked for me"

I had tried every diet imaginable before coming to Diet Center. None of them had allowed me to lose weight fast enough to keep me excited and motivated to stay with it. Soon, I would lose interest, go off the diet and gain back what little weight I had lost. I was really fed up with the way I looked and I didn't feel like doing anything or going anywhere. One day, I was looking through the phone book for some kind of reducing program and came across an ad for Diet Center. The idea of private daily counseling and sound nutrition appealed to me so I gave them a call. That call was the start of a whole new life for me.

In the first 6 weeks, I lost 26 pounds and a total of 26 inches. I was really pleased with my accomplishment and already I was receiving a lot of compliments from my friends and family. I never even considered stopping short of my goal. I went on to lose a total of 85 pounds, and reduced my dress size from a snug 18 to a perfect 8. That was nine months ago, and since then I have taken up tennis and snow skiing and for the first time in 8 years I can get up on water skis! The Diet Center program is fantastic, I've never been happier or felt healthier and I know I'll never be heavy again!

JoAnn's story is typical of thousands of men and women all across the United States and Canada who have changed their lives at Diet Center. Call your local Diet Center counselor today, it could be the most important call you ever make!

Stolz trophy to be awarded

NEW YORK (AP) — The Philatelic Music Circle of Great Britain will award a new trophy for the best musical theme designed for a stamp, set of stamps or miniature sheet, Alan de Cadenet, consultant to the British Post Office said on a recent visit here.

The Robert Stolz Trophy for Music Philately is named for the late English composer, one of whose operettas, "Two Hearts in Three Quarter Time" was commemorated on an Austrian stamp in 1970.

Stamps with a musical theme will automatically be entered in the contest and entries will be judged by an international panel of music philatelists, De Cadenet said.

The first award will be made this year in conjunction with the centenary of Stolz's birth.

MRS. JESS WHITEHEAD

Anti-shoplifting program is under way

ATLANTA (AP) — The National Coalition To Prevent Shoplifting, with headquarters in Atlanta, is patterning after a Georgia anti-shoplifting program begun in 1976 and is the largest citizen-based crime prevention program in the United States.

Organized in 1979, it is funded by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration of the Department of Justice for the purposes of helping other states organize shoplifting prevention programs.

Education, particularly of young people to the point that shoplifting is a crime, is one of our big jobs," says Judi Rogers, director. "But we've also got a long way to go to get retailers, law enforcement agencies and the judiciary working together under uniform standards that will have a preventive effect."

Chiropractic for Health

Dr. Gerald O. York Jr.

Joggers, during the last few years, have become alerted to the stresses and strains pounding pavements and tracks have put on their spines. Many types of exercises are prone to cause some spinal dislocation and nerve stress. In fact, now that roller skating has grown so rapidly in popularity, people once again need to be apprised of the possible consequences of rolling along uneven pavements and bumps, not to mention actual spills. Smooth skating is not as smooth as imagined. There is a good chance for the spine to take a beating from roller skating. If you skate, visit your chiropractor regularly for the proverbial ounce of prevention.

Many athletic activities cause a great deal of stress to the spinal column. So it is a good idea, if you participate in athletics regularly to also visit your chiropractor regularly. In Pampa, see DR. GERALD O. YORK JR. for expert chiropractic treatment. My office is at 1121 S. Hobart, 665-1627. I'm available twenty-four hours a day.

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I enjoy your column thoroughly. It's one part of the newspaper I rarely skip. It's because of the influence you exercise that I'm moved to write.

Recently, the Richmond Times-Dispatch ran in your column the letter from "M. in Passaic," the railroad worker's widow who wished to marry religiously but not legally. You replied that if there were a compassionate minister in Passaic willing to bless a union of that sort, you "hope he contacts" you.

This is the second time within the past year that you've made the assumption that the minister would be a man.

Abby, there are several thousand dedicated women clergy among us, and we still face enormous discrimination in church employment. Fulfilling our calls to preach and administer the sacraments involves an often lonely and uphill battle against deep-rooted prejudices in favor of male clergy.

Please don't make our struggle for recognition any more difficult than it is by assuming that all pastors are men. Thank you for your consideration.

THE REV. ANITA J. BALEY (PASTOR),
ST. MATTHEW LUTHERAN CHURCH, RICHMOND, VA.

DEAR MS. BALEY: Thanks for the reminder. From now on it will be "A-men and A-women!"

...

DEAR ABBY: I have just learned a very important fact of life.

Marriage is not for every man. I was married for 12 years to one of the loveliest and prettiest women on earth, but that didn't stop me from being attracted to other women. We are no longer married for that reason, and I realize now I never should have been married in the first place. Some men are simply incapable of being faithful.

No conceit intended, but I am a very attractive man, and it is impossible for me to be around an attractive woman without coming on to her. Now that I am a bachelor I can do as I please without worrying about hurting anyone, because I confine my attentions to unmarried women exclusively.

INCURABLE FLIRT

DEAR INCURABLE: Boys flirt. Mature men prefer more meaningful and lasting relationships. No one is incapable of being faithful. But many are unwilling.

...

DEAR ABBY: Seeing as how I was new in town, I stopped a nice-looking man on the street and asked him for directions. He said it wasn't far, and since he was going that way he would walk me there. Before we parted he asked me if he could see me again and I said yes.

To make a long story short, Mike and I started going together and now, eight months later, we are very much in love and have even talked about marriage some time in the future.

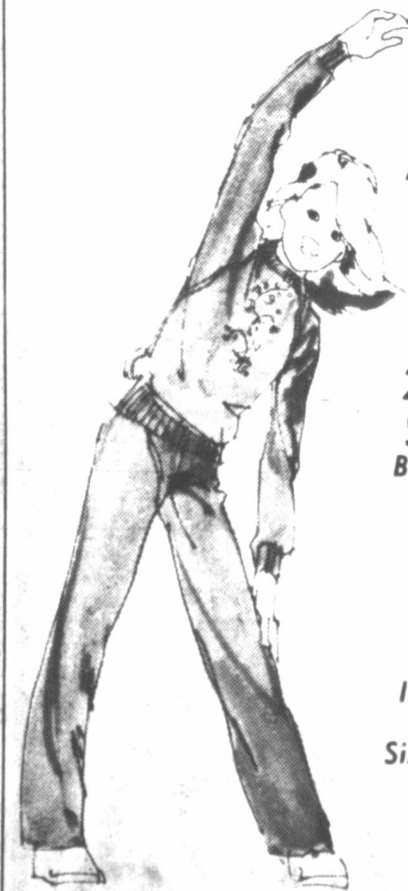

Abby, Mike never talks about his parents, his life or anything to do with his past. He says he has no friends or living relatives, no parents, no sisters or brothers. He doesn't talk about his job, either. He just says he "sells" for a living.

I am 30 and have never been married. Mike says he is 33 and has never been married either. He has been to my flat but I have never been to his. (I don't even know where he lives.)

Is it possible that he has no friends or living relatives?
CHARLENE

DEAR CHARLENE: Possible, but not probable. Before you invest more time in this mysterious character, find out what it is he "sells" and for whom. It could be a line you don't need.

This blueberry cobbler is easy to make

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
COME FOR DESSERT!
Blueberry Cobbler

Beverage
BLUEBERRY COBBLER
We've revised our version of a favorite recipe so it's easier than ever to make.

- 1 quart fresh blueberries
- Sugar
- 1 cup fork-stirred all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup cup butter
- 1/4 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 large egg
- 3 tablespoons milk

In a 1 1/2-quart oblong baking dish (10 by 6 by 2 inches) mix together blueberries and 2-3rds cup sugar. On wax paper stir together flour, baking powder and salt. In a medium bowl cream butter, 1/2 cup sugar and vanilla; beat in egg and milk; add flour mixture and stir only until moistened. Drop batter at intervals over blueberries; spread batter so it thinly covers berries. Bake in a pre-heated 375-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center of topping comes out clean — about 45 minutes. Serve warm with vanilla ice cream. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

No stopping Rocky Benton in bid for top

By JOE EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — He's blind, but the obstacle is not stopping Rocky Benton from making a name for himself in country music.

Benton, 30, of Houston, Tex., recently won $1,000 as a runnerup in a national search for undiscovered country music talent.

A self-taught harmonica player, drummer and pianist, he's currently a member of a five-piece band, "Denim and Lace," based in Houston.

Being blind, he said in a telephone interview from his home, is not necessarily a handicap.

"I don't believe in the business of feeling sorry for yourself," he said. "I was taught that the world doesn't owe you a living. If you want something out of life, you've got to work for it. The 'poor old me' attitude is not for me."

Benton has role models to follow. Pianist-singer Ronnie Milsap and guitarist-singer Doc Watson, both blind since birth, already are prominent country music stars. Another well known country pianist and musician, Hargus "Pig" Robbins, has been blind since the age of 4.

Benton, who is black, is attempting to make it, too, in an industry in which there is only one other established black singer — Charley Pride.

"You notice some (prejudice)," he acknowledged. "But as a whole, everything is OK. You'll have a few of 'rednecks pop off to you. But over-all, things have been good."

Benton, blind since birth, won his $1,000 in the contest finals in Columbia, Tenn., in June by performing "Orange Blossom Special," "Rollin' In My Sweet Baby's Arms" and "Farewell Party."

He plans to use the money for a recording session.

His ambition, he said, "is to either make it or die trying."

He taught himself how to play the drums first, then followed by learning the piano and harmonica.

"I took piano lessons but they didn't work out," he recalled. "I had my own ideas about things." So he taught himself.

He patterned his harmonica playing after blues records he enjoyed.

"I just kept after it and after it," he said.

He got his first job at age 11 playing a high school prom in Austin, Tex. "I made $5 and was glad to get it," he remembered.

After getting out of high school, he made a living tuning pianos in San Antonio while playing in clubs on weekends.

Finally, in 196, he decided to go on the road with a band called "Alabama Rain." Two years ago, he joined "Denim and Lace."

Astro-Graph

by bernice bede osol

September 15, 1980

Sturdier foundations may be laid this coming year because of what the past two years have brought you. Gains and achievements that weren't possible before can now become reality.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Take time to clear up matters of importance. This is one of your better problem-solving days. The answers become clear as you delve into the situations. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Something to which you've been denied or has been frustratingly delayed. It may now finally come through for you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) An older or more experienced person can be a great help to you today. He or she comes to your aid because of the diligence with which you work toward your goal.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) That little extra push can get you something on which you've spent a great deal of time. Today's not the time to let up. Give it your all.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) The way you view situations today can guide you to successful conclusions if you follow through on what you know to be right. Don't yield to pressure.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Worthwhile gains can come from shared involvements, if both parties are willing to give more of themselves. You set the example.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Seek the advice of an older or wiser person if you're not certain of how a situation should be handled. Experience is still the best guide.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Difficult situations involving work or career challenge you today, but it isn't likely they'll shake you up. You're more than a match for them.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Although you'll enjoy social encounters today you won't let them interfere with things that must get done, or with how efficiently you handle your tasks.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Today those dull, practical, domestic matters that usually bore you to tears shouldn't seem so difficult. Get them out of the way.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Duty may take precedence over frivolous activities today, but you'll take this in stride and feel very proud for doing what must be done.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your practical, no-nonsense approach makes this a good day to do the budgeting. If one can get blood from a turnip, you'll find the way.

Betty Hutton tapped for roll in 'Annie'

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Drama Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Betty Hutton says she was up in New England eight years ago, in a summer-stock production of "Anything Goes." She was desperately ill, hooked on pills. She had to quit the show.

Mid-August, 1980. Fully recovered, she's in Los Angeles, at her daughter's home. She's cooking breakfast for the grandchildren, getting ready for church. The phone rings. They want her for "Annie."

Her reply: "Tell you what. I'm going to Mass, I'll talk to the Boss. I'll come back and have a conference with my kids and let you know."

She says she didn't even know "Annie" was a hit Broadway musical.

She knows better now. Starting Sept. 17, she's in the "Annie" cast at the Alvin Theater here for three weeks, spelling Alice Ghostley as the mean old orphanage boss, Miss Hannigan.

"No, I don't consider this a comeback," says Miss Hutton, who was born in Battle Creek, Mich., and was just a tyke when she began performing, singing in beer halls.

Miss Hutton, known in the old days as "the incendiary blonde," "The Blonde Blitz" and such, is what they call a survivor. But she resembles a happy, healthy one, her personal demons now gone.

Her face is a little fuller now, with a few more lines, but her hazel eyes sparkle. Much of the old exuberance and vitality remains.

She hit the big time when she was still a teen-ager, singing with Vincent Lopez' band here. She achieved stardom with her first film, a hit movie musical, "The Fleet's In," nearly 40 years ago.

She's lived the star's life in Hollywood and Las Vegas, but with it came four busted marriages and a 20-year drug addiction.

"Uppers, downers, inners, outers, I took everything I could get my hands on," she says, grinning, trying not to make it sound like a tear-jerker suitable for framing as a mawkish TV movie.

She attempted to commit suicide. She quit acting in summer stock in 1972, she says, when she was completely hooked on drugs "and I was trying to kill myself at this time."

While in a drug-treatment program, she met a Catholic priest, the Rev. Peter Maguire, of St. Anthony's Church in Portsmouth, R.I. He turned her life around, she says.

"He brought in this drunken dame — he works with Alcoholics Anonymous people — and I couldn't help noticing him," she says. "So gentle, so marvelous, the way he did things."

She had another bout with drugs, but she said, the good padre stuck with her all the way.

Rush stars in new film

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Filmmaker Richard Rush has lived with his movie "The Stunt Man" for nine years, and for much of that time all he heard was bad news. The good news arrived in a bunch, all over one weekend:

1. "The Stunt Man" won top prize at the Montreal World Film Festival, together with the Italian "Fontamara."

2. "The Stunt Man," in its first regional release, was the biggest grossing attraction in the Los Angeles area.

3. Twentieth Century-Fox agreed to distribute the orphaned film in the United States and Canada.

No wonder Dick Rush was smiling. He had endured enough neglect and abuse to make an ordinary director seek work on a used car lot.

Tall and bushy-haired, Rush resembles the comic Dick Shawn and admits he is "turning 50 and not adjusted to the concept yet."

His dedication to "The Stunt Man" is well nigh legendary, resembling Sam Fuller's long quest to make "The Big Red One." Like that film, "The Stunt Man" is highly personal.

Steve Railsback plays an escaped con who stumbles into a movie company and is enlisted as stunt man by the demagogical director, Peter O'Toole.

"It's a very intricate and demanding film," Rush admits. "I think the failure of so many important films this summer proves that audiences want something out of the ordinary to draw them away from the fast-food entertainment they can get at home. If they're going to pay $5 for admission, they want something more stimulating and exciting."

(ABC) SUNDAY NIGHT MOVIE: 8:00 PM E.D.T., P.D.T. - 7:00 PM C.D.T., M.D.T.
 "The Women's Room" 1980 Lee Remick, Patty Duke Astin. The drama explores how the wives of the fifties became the women of the seventies, concentrating particularly on the evolution of Mira's transformation from girl-wife to an independent woman at age 38.

(NBC) SUNDAY BIG EVENT: 9:00 PM E.D.T., P.D.T. - 8:00 PM C.D.T., M.D.T.

THE WOMEN'S ROOM

"The Women's Room" traces Lee Remick's evolution from a puzzled and put-upon 'housewife' in the 50s (top) to her emergence as an independent, creative woman seeking her own goals in the '70s in the three-hour presentation on "The ABC Sunday Night Movie," SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 14. The suburban coffee-katch (top) is composed of (left to right) Lee Remick, Kathryn Harrold, Patty Duke Astin, Heidi Vaughn and Tyne Daly. Miss Remick's new on-campus world, when she returns to college, includes (bottom, left to right) her new, sophisticated self, Tovah Feldshuh, Mare Winghamam, Colleen Dewhurst and Lisa Pelikan.

SHOGUN

Blackthorne (Richard Chamberlain, center), an English navigator shipwrecked in the fascinating—and often terrifying—world of 17th century Japan, fights off a band of samurai warriors under the command of the fanatical Father Sebastio (Leon Lissek) in Part One of James Clavell's "Shogun," NBC-TV's epic 12-hour mini-series based on the best-selling novel about feudal Japan. MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 15.

"Shogun" will be broadcast over five consecutive nights beginning with a three-hour presentation.

LYNDA CARTER ENCORE

"Lynda Carter Encore," an hour-long music-variety special in which the versatile title star demonstrates her musical talents along with guest star Merle Haggard and special guest star Tom Jones, will be broadcast on CBS-TV, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 16.

Also featured in Miss Carter's second prime-time special—her first was "Lynda Carter's Special," presented on the network last season—are jazz virtuoso John Phillips and 12-year-old classical pianist Donald Yung.

In "Lynda Carter Encore" Miss Carter sings seven songs and joins in duets with guest stars Jones and Haggard, who also perform solo.

Volcker's penny-pinching ways may put Carter out of a job

WASHINGTON (AP) — Paul A. Volcker smokes 20-cent cigars, has been known to make a suit last 20 years, and once chided a colleague for shelling out $8 in Paris for a piece of melon and a slice of ham.

These days Volcker, to combat inflation, practices his parsimony on the American people, pinching their wallets as well as his own pennies.

Volcker was sworn in a year ago as chairman of the Federal Reserve System. He is a little-known, powerful man in a little-understood, powerful job.

Since taking office, Volcker has put the economy through a ringer.

His handiwork sent interest rates, for a time, to levels they hadn't reached since Confederate troops threatened to march on Washington. With the Carter administration's encouragement, he helped make credit scarce and costly. The Federal Reserve, some economists say, turned an economic dip into a severe recession — and knew what it was doing when it did it.

And if America is still feeling the adverse effects in November, without seeing clear benefits, he may have put Jimmy Carter out of his job.

Paul Volcker wasn't Carter's first choice for chairman of the Fed. In January, 1977, Carter considered Volcker but chose instead G. William Miller, chairman of Textron.

Miller, like every chairman before him, viewed inflation as a corrupting public enemy and pledged to use the Federal Reserve to combat it.

But he felt that inflation is not well fought by creating recessions. He thought the Federal Reserve should tighten money slowly, over five to six years, squeezing out inflationary pressures while the rest of the government moved toward a balanced budget and the economy adjusted to new conditions.

It didn't work and inflation got worse.

Inflation was one of the problems Carter took to the hilltop last July when he went to Camp David, Md., for 11 days of soul-searching.

In the spirit of a new start, he asked for resignations from all members of his Cabinet and accepted five of them. He moved team player Miller from the Federal Reserve to the Treasury.

The world's financiers reacted with alarm. Miller was seen as incapable of halting inflation at the Federal Reserve and capable of making it more severe at the Treasury.

The money markets panicked and Carter had to do something reassuring.

The president chose Volcker.

At his swearing in, Volcker hinted that the soft-on-inflation days would end. "We are face to face with economic difficulties really unique in our experience," he said.

Although Volcker, 53, is nominally a Democrat, the undersecretary's post at the Treasury Department went to him in the Nixon Administration. That's where he made his reputation.

He is known as the only person in history who engineered two devaluations of the U.S. dollar. He arranged the first at an international currency conference in Washington in 1971.

In 1973, with the dollar again in deep trouble, he took a secret 31,000-mile trip to the capitals of Europe and Japan to negotiate the second U.S. devaluation and floating exchange rates.

Floating rates were to have ushered in a period of currency stability, but stability never came, largely because of the upheaval in the price of oil and American and worldwide inflation.

What Volcker achieved was technically stunning, but its long-term value remains a matter of debate.

At the time of his appointment, he was president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

The Federal Reserve has exclusive authority to control the amount of money available to consumers and business.

Volcker seems to see the Federal Reserve as a catalyst of inflation.

He says: "Inflation can only persist over a long period of time with excessive monetary growth... We must control the money supply and reduce its growth."

A few months after he took office, Volcker went to Europe to confer with his counterparts. He came home shaken.

America's inflation rate had taken off — it was running at an annual rate of 18 percent.

Volcker summoned his fellow governors to a Saturday meeting around the mahogany conference table in the Federal Reserve's board room.

The board increased the bank lending rate to a record high and ordered banks to set more of their deposits aside in cash reserves that cannot be lent out. Consumer credit controls, advocated by the White House and implemented by the Federal Reserve, followed.

In short, Volcker had decided to attack inflation by making money both expensive and scarce — and to do it as a recession was imminent.

The move grieved, economist Otto Eckstein said, "but the truth is we need it."

The costs were quickly felt. While inflation rates declined slightly, unemployment rose sharply.

Liberal economist Kenneth Galbraith called the Volcker policy "incredibly dubious." Lane Kirkland, soon to become president of the AFL-CIO, called it the wrong move at the wrong time.

Volcker, the low-profile, smoked his 20-cent cigars and said nothing.

Tension continues, federal aid uncertain in riot-torn Miami

By ANNE S. CROWLEY
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI (AP) — Children play in the blackened rubble of looted businesses where fading paint proclaims "Fire Sale." The jobsless while away the days swapping tales on doorsteps and street corners.

Last May, these northwest Miami neighborhoods of Liberty City and Overtown exploded in three days of looting, burning and killing.

Tensions that flamed then still simmer, and belief grows among residents that promises of help made in the riot's wake won't be kept.

"What's been done for Liberty City since the riot? Absolutely nothing," said Ray Fauntroy, leader of the local Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Riot-zone residents complain that the $90 million President Carter promised in federal aid shrank to $70 million, and they suspect most of that will never make it into Liberty City.

"A lot of promises were made by congressmen and various government representatives," Dick Hite, associate director of the Office of Management and Budget, said during a recent visit to Miami. "We don't have a set of figures right now that we can back up."

Federal officials say they've spent $7 million in Liberty City so far, but the figures that matter to residents are 18 lives ended, $100 million in property damage, 2,000 jobs lost.

"The one good thing that's come out of this is that there's a lot of interest in doing something and it has been kept up," said Carrie Meek, the area's delegate to the Florida House of Representatives.

Ms. Meek recalled that blacks were promised government help after 1968 racial violence; she said it never materialized.

"I'm having visions. I've heard all this before — it's deja vu. I hope... the mistakes of 1968 are not repeated," Ms. Meek recently told a riot revitalization board appointed by the governor to oversee recovery in Liberty City.

"We keep hearing the same promises over and over and over again," said the Rev. C.E. Jenkins, pastor of the Mount Herman A.M.E. Church. "We never see the money or any results from it."

Blacks say more than the money, they want to see changes in the criminal justice system and Dade County law enforcement.

It was the acquittal of four white former Dade County officers by an all-white jury in the beating death of black businessman Arthur McDuffie that sparked the May 17-19 riot.

Immediately after the riot, blacks clamored for the ouster of State Attorney Janet Reno. They said she prosecutes black-against-white offenders more vigorously than white-against-black. But Ms. Reno denies the allegations and is running unopposed for re-election.

Relations between Liberty City residents and Dade County officers remain tense.

In July, rock-throwing and sniper fire broke out at the James Scott housing project when three plainclothes officers spotted black youths robbing a white motorist. Two blacks recently severely beat a white Metro officer while a group of other blacks stood and watched.

"They're still throwing rocks and bottles in the Scott project," said Hugh Peebles, president of the Dade County police union. "And the officers have to ride two to a car to ensure their safety."

In hopes of easing the tension, the county Public Safety Department plans to work on minority recruitment, crime prevention, community feedback, help for juveniles before they commit serious crimes and screening officers and applicants to weed out those who may not be suited to police work. Some $3 million in federal funds has been set aside for those programs, officials said.

Exact figures aren't available, but much of the $90 million promised by President Carter was committed to Dade County before the riot. Some of it — like funds for mass transportation and Cuban and Haitian refugees — has no connection to the civil disturbance.

The biggest lump of federal help, an estimated $30 million in Small Business Administration loans, is only for restoration and can't be used to improve the pre-riot condition of a business.

"This fund is solely for victims," said Pat Williams, SBA manager here. "If the money isn't applied for, it won't be spent."

Through the end of last month, only 10 disaster aid checks totaling $127,123 had been mailed to Liberty City merchants, Ms. Williams said. Loans for $5.9 million have been approved from a total of $35.9 million in applications, she said.

There are some positive signs, though.

Federal grants of $400,000 have been announced to help minority contractors win contracts. The grants are to be matched by $100,000 each from the county and the City of Miami.

The federal government funded 1,000 temporary jobs after the riot.

The Chamber of Commerce listed 900 openings with the Miami area's 300 largest employers, but it's not known how many were filled or whether the positions were taken by blacks.

The Miami Herald raised $155,186.72 from its readers to fund six weeks of summer vocational training for 334 teen-agers. Sixty-nine of the youths trained in the "I Want To Help" campaign were placed in jobs, while another 12 found their own positions, according to Dade County school officials.

And the state Legislature passed a $6.25 million economic incentive package aimed at helping rebuild depressed areas throughout the state.

Some blacks say all the money in the world will not ease the tension.

"The feeling before the riots was that there's just no hope left. I don't think that's changed substantially," said Clyde Pettway, assistant director of the James E. Scott Community Association.

"You can put money in a community, but until you really begin to change attitudes, you're still dealing with the same thing."
