Exhumation denied

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A judge today blocked exhumation of the body that lies in the grave of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

State District Judge James Wright, in granting a temporary injunction, said "no necessity or compelling reason for the threatened exhumation or autopsy are shown in this record. In short, rumors, speculative theory, conjecture, and public curiosity will not suffice."

Lawyers for British author Michael Eddowes, who tried to have the body dug up, said they were studying the ruling and would decide later whether to appeal.

The dispute started when Eddowes received permission from Oswald's widow, Marina Oswald Porter, to have the body removed and an autopsy held to determine if Oswald or a Russian spy were buried there.

Oswald's brother Robert filed suit to stop the exhumation. He said today at his office in Wichita Falls he would have no comment until he's had time to study the ruling.

One of his attorneys, Craig Fowler, said there probably will be a request by Eddowes lawyers for a full hearing to decide whether the injunction should be made permanent.

However, Fowler said he had no idea when such a hearing might be requested. And, Fowler said, Eddowes still could appeal today's ruling.

"The law's not going to change, the facts are not going to change. There are several fundamental legal reasons that are not going to change," Fowler said.

"There is no necessity or compelling reason, other than some people's morbid curiosity, to dig up the grave."

Asked if this case will ever die, he said: "I think eventually it will."

But Fowler said he expects the issue to remain before the courts for several years. "Marina can pursue it," he said. "Her children can pursue it. But the law is not going to change."

Wright rejected Eddowes' argument that Mrs. Porter's consent to exhume the body was a controlling factor.

That "is not a correct view of the law," Wright said. The judge also held Eddowes "mistakenly asserts the point" that Robert Oswald should not be heard in the matter.

"It is the opinion of this court that the plaintiff (Robert Oswald) has shown a probable right and a probable injury," Wright said. "Therefore, the plaintiff's application for temporary injunction as to the defendant Eddowes should be and it is hereby granted."

The judge denied Oswald's application for an injunction against Rose Hill Burial Park on the city's east side, where Lee Harvey Oswald is buried.

"With regard to the injunction sought against the defendant Rose Hill cemetery, there has been no showing in this case that the cemetery has taken, or intends to take, any action concerning the disinterment... It is therefore the opinion of this court that plaintiff's application for a temporary injunction as to the defendant Rose Hill cemetery should be, and it is, hereby denied."

In the ruling, Wright said, "The defendant Eddowes desires to disinter and re-autopsy the body in the grave marked 'Oswald' in Rose Hill cemetery. On the face of this record, however, there is no evidence justifying such action."

"Marina Oswald Porter, the surviving widow, expresses a fear that she, and consequently her children, may not be United States citizens in the event Mr. Eddowes' 'spy theory' is correct. There is no evidence before this court, however, that the United States government has or will question her citizenship."

Mrs. Porter had testified during the hearings that she feared she would be declared an illegal alien if the man in the grave later was found to be a Russian spy.

Regarding the identity of the man buried in Oswald's grave, Fowler said: "The U.S. government investigated thoroughly at the time. They checked fingerprints. They did a handwriting analysis. There was a photo analysis done by an anthropologist on pictures taken before Oswald went to Russia and after he came back. All three tests conclusively showed that this (the man buried in Oswald's grave) was the same man who was raised in this part of the country, who joined the Marine Corps, and who defected to the Soviet Union."

"There isn't any question about who it was," Fowler also discounted Eddowes' spy theory.

The House Committee on Assassinations reopened the investigation into President Kennedy's death. They were made aware of Mr. Eddowes' claim, and they felt his theory was so preposterous and ridiculous that they didn't even invite him to testify."

Titan missile silo explodes, 22 workers injured

DAMASCUS, Ark. (AP) — A fiery explosion that lit the night sky "like daylight" rocked an underground Titan II missile silo early today, injuring at least 22 maintenance workers, the Air Force said. The Strategic Air Command would not say whether the missile carried a nuclear warhead or whether any radiation leaked.

Authorities evacuated the area within a five-mile radius, routing about 1,000 people mostly in the tiny towns of Damascus, Bee Branch and Gravesville. Physicists from the state health department were sent to the scene to check radiation levels.

Tom Mahr, a public information officer at SAC headquarters in Omaha, Neb., said his latest information was that 22 people were injured, 18 of them seriously enough to be hospitalized.

Sources at the Pentagon said the missile contained a single nuclear warhead, that it was not damaged and that no radiation was leaking.

Gov. Bill Clinton said Air Force officials told him that no nuclear explosion had occurred and that none could have occurred in the silo housing the 103-foot-long intercontinental ballistic missile which is capable of delivering this nation's largest hydrogen bomb to a target 6,300 miles away.

Maj. Lew Lambert at SAC headquarters said the explosion scattered debris around the surrounding area and that Arkansas officials reported some foliage caught fire. By midmorning, he said, the fire had subsided.

It was not immediately known whether the missile itself or only fuel exploded. The silo, covered by concrete doors, was "just a big rubble inside" after the blast, Clinton said.

The explosion occurred as a maintenance crew tried to neutralize a fuel leak in the first-stage of the missile, said SAC spokesman Col. Richard Kline.

Air Force Secretary Hans Mark in Washington said the missile had been undergoing maintenance Thursday night when a three-pound wrench socket fell 70 feet, bounced off a thrust mount, and struck the missile, puncturing the first stage fuel tank holding about 10,000 gallons of fuel. About 24 minutes later, the maintenance crew reported indications of a fire, Mark said, and flooded the silo with water. Civilian authorities were advised to evacuate the area.

It was the second accident this week involving sophisticated Air Force weaponry. On Monday, a B-52 bomber caught fire at Grand Forks Air Force Base in North Dakota. State disaster officials said an intercepted Air Force message indicated the plane may have been carrying nuclear weapons, but SAC refused to confirm that was so.

The explosion occurred about 3 a.m., hours after Air Force officials discovered the fuel leak and spotted "smoke" billowing from the silo, an Air Force spokesman said.

The explosion occurred as a maintenance crew tried to neutralize a fuel leak in the first-stage of the missile, said SAC spokesman Col. Richard Kline.

The fuel tank had been punctured by "some form of human error, apparently" and 10,000 gallons of fuel began leaking, according to Clinton.

The Air Force said at least 10 workers were injured. Six were taken to Conway Memorial Hospital, most suffering from burns, said hospital administrator Bill Langford. He said four would be admitted in good condition and the others treated and released.

Three workers were taken to Baptist Medical Center in Little Rock, 52 miles away, where one was reported in critical condition, one in serious condition and the third in fair condition. It was not immediately known where the 10th injured person was treated.

Kline said he would "neither confirm nor deny the presence of nuclear weapons" on the missile.

The explosion shook the ground and the area "lit up like daylight," said Tommy Graham, an official of the state Office of Emergency Services, who lives in the area.

"There was a big flash of light, then it was followed by a shock wave a few seconds later," said Tom Scott, a newspaper reporter for the Log Cabin Democrat at Conway. He said there was an acrid odor in the air after the blast and a "large billowing cloud of reddish-orange smoke and flame that lasted about 10 seconds." Small pebbles fell to the ground, he added.

The explosion occurred about 3 a.m. CDT, several hours after Air Force officials discovered the fuel leak and spotted "smoke" billowing from the silo, the officer said.

About 100 people living within one mile of the silo in this sparsely populated area of central Arkansas had been evacuated Thursday night after the "smoke," thought to be vapor from leaking fuel, was discovered.

The four-member silo crew had been evacuated by helicopter Thursday night and taken to the Little Rock Air Force Base, about 40 miles away, said Air Force Capt. Tom Mahr.

The maintenance crew had suited up to enter the silo only 30 minutes before the blast. It was not immediately known whether they were inside the silo at the time of the explosion. The Air Force had flooded part of the silo with water, officials said.

The leaking fuel, identified as Aerozine 50, was not as volatile as the oxidizer that must be mixed with it to form propellant for the missile, Kline said.

Initially, there were reports of a fire in the silo. But Kline later said a disaster response team reported "preliminary indications that there was no fire."

The silo is located between the tiny towns of Damascus and Bee Branch. Traffic in the area was blocked.

Evacuation centers were set up at a high school gymnasium and a church in nearby Clinton, and "almost everybody in the area" left their homes, said Jackie Griffin of the Office of Emergency Services.

Air Force officials contacted state emergency officials at 6:47 p.m. Thursday with news of a "possible fire and leak" and advised the evacuation.

A fuel leak in 1978 resulted in hospitalization of several people after exposure to toxic nitrogen tetroxide fumes. Nitrogen tetroxide is a component of the fuel for the Titan II missile.

Motel, DPS plats approved

City zoning board members gave preliminary approval of the final plat on the proposed Department of Public Safety building and approved the final plat for a new motel to be built at the intersection of North Hobart and 29th Streets.

Jim Rittenberry, representative of the Department of Public Safety, explained the plans were in the mail but would be delivered to the board members as soon as it arrived. Ken Fields, representing John A. Jones, said their plat was included with the Department of Public Safety plat and would also be presented as soon as it arrived.

The board approved the two plats subject to the receipt of the plans.

Rittenberry and Fields assured board members that they had agreed on splitting the city's cost of extending 29th and building a cul-de-sac between the two buildings.

The final plat for the Kentucky Acres Addition was also approved by the board.

Three public hearings on zoning changes of city property were conducted during the meeting.

After the hearing, board members voted to recommend to the city commission to change the zoning of an area of land located on East Harvester from single-family residences to multi-family, to change the zoning of a tract of land on Hobart bordered by Rhum to allow for commercial businesses, and to zone a portion of the Summer Place addition from agriculture to single-family residences.

James Winkleblack, 1000 Sirroco, asked a date be set for proposed zoning change to permit a beauty shop to be built on his property at the corner of Primrose and Sirroco streets. Board members took no action on the request.

Winkleblack was advised by City Building Inspector Steve Vaughn to have his attorney consult City Attorney Don Lane on the legality of having the business on the property.

Board members tabled a request by Fred Palmer, 907 Fisher, for a specific use permit for the former grocery store on Browning, south of Woodrow Wilson Elementary School.

Palmer told the board he proposed to use the property for his furniture repair and upholstery business.

Vaughn said he believed the specific use permit would not be necessary and advised Palmer to check the requirements for "home occupation" to see if it was applicable.

Canadian welder dies in mishap

PERRYTON — A Canadian man was found dead near his wrecked welding truck in a ravine 24 miles south of Perryton on U. S. 83 about 8:30 a.m. Thursday.

The dead man was identified by Texas Highway Patrol officers as Julian Sanchez Rodriguez Jr., 34, of Canadian. His body was discovered by two farmers feeding cattle in the area.

Texas Highway Patrol Trooper Ken Donahue said the 1980 Chevrolet one-ton welding truck driven by Rodriguez was traveling south on U. S. 83 when it crossed the center stripe and ran off the road to the left, narrowly missing a guard rail.

The vehicle traveled along the left shoulder for several feet before overturning and rolling into a deep ravine, Donahue said.

The trooper said he believed Rodriguez was thrown through the windshield of the vehicle.

Donahue said the vehicle did not appear to be traveling "excessively fast" but was going "at least the speed limit."

Rodriguez was pronounced dead at 9:30 a.m. Thursday at the scene of the accident by Ochiltree County Judge Howard Stone.

Officials do not know what time the accident occurred.

"We know he (Rodriguez) left Baker and Taylor Drilling Company in Spearman where he was doing some welding at 6:30 the evening before and he wasn't found until 8:30 Thursday morning," Donahue said.

"I suspect it happened early yesterday evening some time," he said.

The deep ravine where the body was discovered is difficult to see from the roadway, the trooper said.

Rodriguez, a resident of Canadian for two years, was a self-employed welder.

Services for Rodriguez will be conducted at 10 a.m. Saturday in the Sacred Heart Catholic Church of Spearman with the Rev. Raymond Crosier officiating.

Burial will be in Hansford Cemetery under the direction of Boxwell Brothers Funeral Directors.

A former resident of Spearman, Rodriguez was born in Los Fresnos on Nov. 14, 1945. He was a member of the Sacred Heart Catholic Church. He was married to Lydia Rodriguez on April 17, 1971, in Spearman.

Rodriguez is survived by his wife; two sons, David and Gabriel, and one daughter, Marissa Lee, all of the home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Rodriguez of Dimmitt; three brothers, Juan Rodriguez and Ramon Rodriguez of Dimmitt and Marcelino Rodriguez of Hereford; and six sisters, Faviana Samora of Pampa; Elida Samora of Denver, Colo.; Moncie Lopez and Elouisa Leal, both of Dimmitt; and Gregoria Lopez and Martina Lopez, both of Turkey.

Second senior citizens center eyed

Representatives of the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission (PRPC) were in Pampa Tuesday for a meeting with Pampa citizens interested in establishing a second senior citizens center in Pampa.

"This preliminary meeting between the PRPC and representatives from the community is simply to open discussion on the feasibility of a second senior citizens center," Mike McQueen, PRPC representative and director of the Area Agency on Aging, said.

The 20 senior citizens and other interested persons who attended the meeting at the Marcus Sanders Community Center agreed with the PRPC representative that a second senior center was needed in the community.

McQueen was surprised when he asked, "How many of you have been to a senior citizens center?"

No one in the group indicated they had ever been to the facilities offered by a senior citizens center.

McQueen then explained to the group what help the organizations he represented would offer if it was decided that a facility was necessary. "We will seek funds from all sources if it is shown that a center would be well received and well used in this area."

"It is the people of the community who will organize, administer and make the center successful," McQueen said.

Another representative from PRPC, Sara Presley, brought a slide presentation to the meeting to show those attending just what a senior center could offer.

"We previously offered mainly recreational activities in the centers. We have found through research that they can be much more," Presley said.

"The centers now can be organized to offer meals through a nutrition program, craft classes, transportation to shopping centers and medical facilities, library facilities, employment programs, home repair programs, homemaker care programs, volunteer services and physical exercise programs," Ms. Presley said.

The fact that there is already one senior citizen center in Pampa would have no bearing on the feasibility of a second center.

McQueen explained that the one center was not large enough to care for all the senior citizens of the community.

The present center has a membership of 1,500 and serves approximately 150 to 200 meals per day, according to Director Joye Puckett.

The senior citizens present for the meeting were asked to go out and inform others in their area of the proposed center. "See what others think of the idea," McQueen said. "If there is a good response, we are on our way to the second step."

The second step will include another meeting with community members and the PRPC representatives, to promote the idea and to select various committee members.

"We want them to understand that there are things senior citizens like to do and things they must do," McQueen said. "Centers can be a place where persons can come and learn to take better care of themselves."

"The centers actually offer the companionship that many older citizens lack. They become happier people and therefore often times healthier people," McQueen said.

With the help of Alice Grays of the Gray County Community Action Center, a second meeting is set for Sept. 25 in the Marcus Sanders Community Center to further discuss the proposed senior citizen center.

'Frontiers of Achievement' series to begin Sunday

The Pampa News Sunday will publish the first in a series of features called "Frontiers of Achievement." The series will spotlight graduates of Pampa High School who have pursued careers in various fields and have gone on to receive national or international recognition for their accomplishments.

The features, which will appear intermittently, are authored by Mrs. Elaine Ledbetter, who retired last year after 29 years of teaching chemistry at Pampa High School.

Mrs. Ledbetter herself is distinguished in her field.

In addition to teaching, she has written the chemistry textbook used in the regular classes at Pampa High School and other schools throughout the nation. She writes questions for both the ACT and College Board of Achievement tests and serves as a consultant to Science Research Associates for the revision of science test questions.

In 1972-73, she served as national president of the National Science Teachers Association. During that year, she was granted a leave of absence by the local board of education to visit 2,000 science classrooms in 25 states.

Her most recent publication, "The Year of Impact," appeared in May and focuses on her classroom visits and the status of science education at that time.

In March she was awarded the National Science Teachers Association Distinguished Service Citation for Science Education.

She also is a member of the American Chemical Society and the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Texas weather

By The Associated Press
 Severe thunderstorms moved through Central Texas early today only hours after a severe thunderstorm raked Longview in Northeast Texas with lightning, hail, high winds and heavy rain.
 Winds gusted to 66 mph at Lake Travis near Austin and to 41 mph at the Austin airport as the thunderstorm moved through four Central Texas Counties.
 Travis, Burnet, Hays and Blanco counties were under a severe thunderstorm warning for about an hour early today.
 The roof of an apartment building was torn off at Longview, trees and power lines were downed, streets and underpasses were flooded and lightning touched off fires at an oil tank storage farm and at a Longview home.
 The Longview storm was accompanied by winds of 35-40 mph and sleet and hail.

Extended

Sunday Through Tuesday
 North Texas: Partly cloudy and continued warm. Lowest temperatures ranging from the mid 60s northwest to the lower 70s southeast. Highest in the lower 90s.

South Texas: Continued partly cloudy with hot afternoons and warm nights. Widely scattered showers southeast Texas becoming more numerous Tuesday. Lows in the 70s and highs in the 90s.

West Texas: Partly cloudy. Cooler Sunday. Lows upper 50s mountains 60s north to low 70s Big Bend valleys. Highs mid 80s mountains and north to near 100 Big Bend.

IT IS INCREDIBLE! Strange as it may seem, twin girls born to Terri and Robert Plompen of Algoma, Wis., don't share the same birthdate. Robyn, held by her mother, was born prematurely on August 13. Not wishing to take up time needed for her sister's special care, Renee, held by her father, waited until Sept. 11, four weeks and one day later, to make her appearance. The babies, both doing well, were born in different hospitals. (AP Laserphoto)

Grim reminders litter Ethiopian landscape

WARDER, Ethiopia (AP) — Charred tanks, spent shells and rotting bodies litter the landscape around this tiny oasis, symbols of what Ethiopia claims is its ongoing war with ethnic Somali rebels and Somali regular troops fighting for control of the Ogaden wilderness.
 Warder, a community of 1,300 dwellings, boasts one of the few water sources in the sprawling Ogaden wasteland. It was a major battleground in the 1977-78 Ogaden war between Ethiopia and Somalia.
 Ethiopia won the war, with the help of Soviet aid and Cuban troops, but it claims this oasis and other towns and military strongpoints in the Ogaden remain targets of rebels of the Western Somali Liberation Front.
 Ethiopia also says regular Somali troops mounted at least one major incursion since the end of the war, a charge denied by the Somali government.
 The Ogaden, ceded to Ethiopia at the turn of the century by the withdrawing European colonial powers, is inhabited primarily by ethnic Somali nomads whose culture, language and religion makes them kin to the natives of Somalia.

 Guerrillas of the Western Somali Liberation Front claim the Ethiopians are colonial oppressors, and they demand independence or a merger with Somalia. Somalia supports this claim.
 Ethiopia says the Ogaden, which makes up nearly one-third of its 395,000 square mile land mass, belongs to it — a claim recognized by the Organization of African Unity.
 Earlier this week, the Ethiopian government in an apparent effort to prove its claim of Somali involvement in the continuing Ogaden fighting, invited 29 Western and Eastern bloc reporters to visit the territory. The Westerners were the first non-Communist journalists to tour the area from the Ethiopian side in nearly three years.
 Lt. Fanetah Temtimeh, operations officer for the Ethiopian garrison at Warder, said about 14,000 Somali regulars besieged the town in June and July.
 There was no independent confirmation of his claim.

Soviet commandos attack aimed at Moslem rebels

LONDON (AP) — Soviet military commanders in Afghanistan are launching helicopter-borne commando raids against Moslem rebels in a major tactical shift from previous large-scale ground operations, the Times of London reported today.
 In a front-page report from Kabul, the Afghan capital, the British newspaper said officers commanding the 80,000-man Soviet occupation force in Afghanistan have called in Cuban and Vietnamese counter-insurgency experts for help in dealing with the rebellion by anti-Communist guerrillas.
 Karan Tharpar, the Times' correspondent in Kabul, quoted unidentified "military observers" as saying the Soviets also are bringing in "older and more experienced" troops to replace the young and largely inexperienced draftees, who make up the bulk of the occupation army.
 According to the Times, the Soviets are shifting away from the widespread use of tanks and other armored vehicles and large formations of troops, which are difficult to maneuver in the mountainous terrain favored by the guerrillas as bases for their hit-and-run attacks.

 Instead, the Soviets are using helicopter-borne commandos, backed by columns of motorized infantry, to strike at the fast-moving rebels, the Times said, adding that Soviet fighter-bombers are often used to soften up guerrilla targets ahead of the commando strikes.
 The newspaper said Soviet forces and the Afghan government troops control Kabul, the main provincial cities and some of the surrounding countryside, while the guerrillas hold much of the nation's rugged mountain terrain and appear to have widespread support among the population.

Hiss returns to courtroom site to set history currents straight

NEW YORK (AP) — Elderly and frail but still adamant about his innocence, Alger Hiss today is returning to the courthouse where he was found guilty 30 years ago of lying about being a Communist in the famed "Pumpkin Papers" case.
 Hiss said he wanted to set straight "whole currents of history."
 Hiss, 75, served three years and eight months in prison in the early 1950s for his conviction. He had been accused of lying about charges that he was a secret Communist in the Roosevelt administration and gave government information to the Soviet Union.
 Hiss says he'll use material from more than 60,000 government files that he got through the 1975 Freedom of Information Act to prove he didn't get a fair trial in 1949 and that his constitutional rights were violated.
 "I have been struggling for more than 25 years to correct the injustice that was done," he said Thursday.
 "Anybody who has been wrongfully charged would naturally feel a great sense of accomplishment to correct the record."
 "But my interest goes beyond the personal, because my conviction has been used to confuse the whole currents of history. I think my effort to correct the injustice is important quite apart from my personal interest."

 Hiss, a former State Department official who had accompanied Roosevelt to the Yalta Conference near the end of World War II, was indicted in 1948 following grand jury testimony by ex-Time magazine editor Whittaker Chambers. Chambers was a former espionage courier for Soviet agents in the United States and testified he and Hiss had been part of the same Communist cell in the 1930s.
 The trial came at the outset of the Cold War and helped launch the political career of Richard M. Nixon, then a 36-year-old member of the House Un-American Activities Committee.
 Hiss said he had never met Chambers, but Nixon arranged a meeting of the two men at a New York hotel and later announced that Hiss had admitted knowing Chambers years earlier, but still denied charges of Communist activity.
 Nixon also went to Chambers' Maryland farm to disclose finding the famous "Pumpkin Papers," documents which allegedly incriminated Hiss and were so named because they were hidden in a pumpkin patch.

ACORN members confront Southwestern Bell official

AUSTIN (AP) — ACORN members incensed about Southwestern Bell's massive rate hike request came into the hearing room noisily, demanded to talk with a Bell official, and then walked out after two heated hours with him.
 The phone company is asking for $326 million in rate increases. The hearing was into its fourth day Thursday — with Bell trying to keep trade secrets from getting in the record — when about 50 members of the Association of Community Organizations for Reform Now marched in.
 Spokeswoman Savannah Edwards said ACORN demanded to meet with a Bell official.
 "Until Southwestern Bell will speak directly to us we'll just wait around," she said.
 Paul Roth, Bell vice president for revenues and public affairs in Texas, agreed to meet with them. He later said he did it to prevent further delays in the cumbersome hearing that will take about six weeks.
 The ACORN members came in complaining about Bell and the PUC process which will determine how much of an increase, if any, the phone company will get. Spokeswoman Ruth Martin charged the rates are set in closed-door meetings, not during the hearing process at which ACORN is represented by two lawyers.

 An eight-member committee selected by ACORN followed Roth into a nearby room. The rest of the ACORN members filed in.
 Roth tried to explain the PUC system and Bell's need for $326 million.
 "The numbers in this rate case seem quite large to you, I know, that's because Southwestern Bell has a large responsibility," he said before the questions started flying.
 There were specific and general complaints about phone service. One woman had to wait on long lines. Another was paying push-button rates for a dial phone. The general complaints included Bell's donations to charity and proposed changes in so-called lifeline service.
 Lifeline is aimed at providing low-cost service to customers who make few calls per month. Bell wants to change the system that now allows 25 calls for a flat monthly rate and then charges eight cents for additional calls.
 Under the proposed change, the calls would be measured for time and distance. A monthly flat fee would cover $1.85 worth of calls. Additional calls would be measured and billed.

Store travels to the people in West Virginia mountains

By BRYNA BRENNAN
Associated Press Writer

RENICK, W.Va. (AP) — Hale Arbuckle's journey begins shortly before daybreak, when his traveling store lurches onto the winding roads that will carry him through the hills and hollows of Greenbrier County.

For 31 years, Arbuckle has sold his wares — groceries, meat, fruit, feed, produce and hardware — from the back of a converted two-ton truck, to residents who depend on his weekly trip.

"It's a service that I just sort of stumbled onto" the 53-year-old Arbuckle said. "My father-in-law, he started it back in 1938 when he saw a traveling store somewhere. And it never did stop."

The trips take him up Droop Mountain, Butler Mountain and Spring Creek, places where homes sit a mile in from the mailbox, nine or more miles from the valley floor.

On one recent day, a woman in hair curlers flanked by two children and a dog waited in front of a big gray farmhouse, watching as Arbuckle maneuvered his unmarked truck to the side of the road.

"I've known some of these people 20, maybe 30 years," he said, as he edged from the driver's seat and ambled to the back to open his store for business. He unlatched the sliding doors and pulled himself up inside.

"Good morning," Arbuckle greeted the woman as she reached up and handed him a handwritten shopping list. She watched as he juggled the cardboard boxes and crates with ease, bending and reaching for the goods.

As the items — dog food, snuff, soft drinks, cookies — were packed, Arbuckle peered over his glasses and rang each on an adding machine sitting on a built-in counter.

He handed her a receipt. "Most of the people that I trade with run a credit business and pay by the end of the month," Arbuckle said as he turned the truck up a hill toward the next stop.

The scene is repeated 30 or so times, three times a week, along three different routes that take him about 90 miles from his Lewisburg home, north into Pocahontas County.

His store is packed with the usual food staples, and he keeps a book filled with customer requests, such as out-of-state newspapers, particular cuts of meat or a special type of feed or fertilizer.

"I don't know what we'd do without you, Hale," one customer said as Arbuckle unloaded the week's supplies.

The slightly stout man with graying hair has become something of a hero in the lush rolling hills of eastern West Virginia, but he doesn't see it that way. He says he's just following his calling.

"I'm a Christian and I serve the Lord," Arbuckle said, stroking the stubble of a new beard. "I don't see myself as a businessman. As long as the Lord gives me the health and the finances, well, I'll do it."

The hours are long, maybe 14 a day "by the time you get the book work done," he said. "I'm not concerned with making money. To some people it may seem silly, maybe stupid."

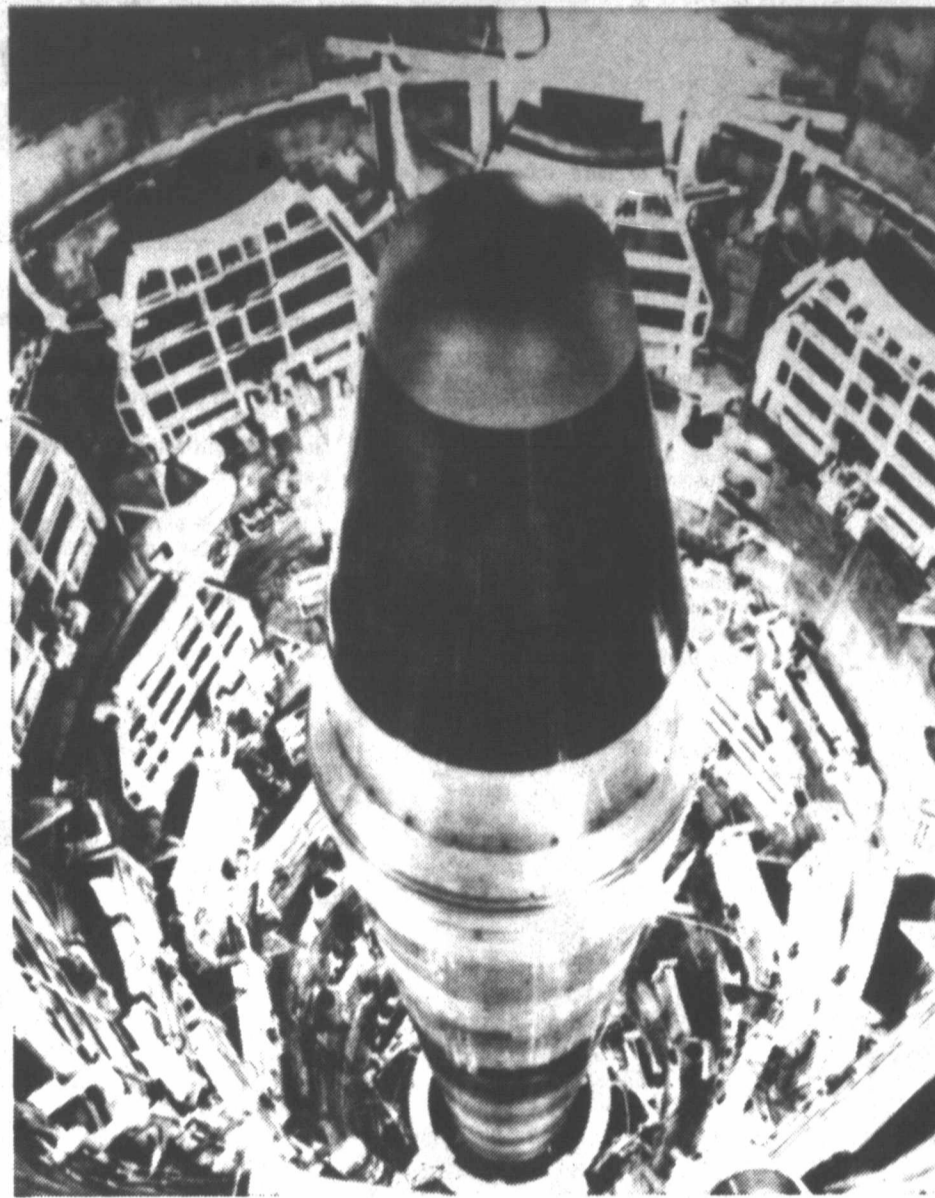

"I get up at 4 a.m. People depend on me. I can't be sick. If I feel bad I go anyway. I've gone sometimes when I feel terrible."

And save for a flood and some bad snows years back, Arbuckle said he's never missed a trip.

He drove to the next stop, where a wheelbarrow holding a cardboard box sat along an isolated narrow road. Inside the box was a shopping list. Arbuckle filled the order and placed the box laden with goods back in the wheelbarrow.

At the next stop, he hoisted a box of goods onto his shoulder and carried it to the door of an elderly woman.

Over the years, Arbuckle has become part of the lives of his customers.

Carter favors India purchase of uranium

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is lobbying hard to persuade the Senate to overrule the House and permit India to buy 38 tons of U.S. reactor-grade uranium despite that nation's refusal to renounce the development of nuclear weapons.

The House voted 298-98 Thursday to disapprove the shipments of nuclear fuel for the India energy-producing reactor at Tarapur near Bombay.

Although the result was expected, it was a setback for President Carter, who personally overruled a unanimous decision by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission in ordering the sale.

Disapproval by both the House and the Senate is needed to override the president's decision.

The Senate vote, which is scheduled for Tuesday after a debate that could run as long as 10 hours, is expected to be close.

Influential Sens. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., and Sam Nunn, D-Ga., support the sale, and Secretary of State Edmund Muskie is calling on his 20 years' experience in the Senate in leading the administration's campaign.

Despite Muskie's efforts last week, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee recommended disapproval by a one-vote margin.

House opponents Thursday said the export of nuclear fuel to India would be a threat to U.S. nuclear non-proliferation policies because of India's refusal to allow international inspection of all its nuclear facilities.

Supporters said refusing the sale actually might increase the risk of nuclear proliferation by relieving India of existing obligations to safeguard nuclear materials. They also said not shipping the fuel would send India elsewhere, perhaps to the Soviet Union, for uranium and alienate the government of Indira Gandhi at a time when the United States is seeking closer relations because of the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan.

Summer census drops border apprehensions

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Frustrated Border Patrol agents complain they can't perform their duties in Texas because they have been handcuffed by a Justice Department ban on illegal alien searches.

"Nobody is concerned about enforcing the law anymore. We're just trying to keep our sanity," fumed Richard Casillas, INS district director in the 81-county San Antonio area.

Apprehensions of illegal aliens along the 900-mile Texas-Mexico border dropped sharply this summer after the Justice Department curtailed searches of businesses, ranches and farms during the census count.

Declines in arrests at all five main Border Patrol stations ranged from 34 percent in El Paso to 66 percent throughout the Panhandle. In all, government records show 9,254 fewer aliens were arrested in the five sectors last month than during August 1979.

Initially the Justice Department ordered Border Patrol and Immigration and Naturalization Service agents to stop searching for aliens from April 1 to July 1.

But Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti and Acting INS Commissioner David Crosland have extended the search restrictions indefinitely, causing widespread frustration among field agents.

"I just completed a trip through the various stations and there is really a sense of frustration," said Deputy Chief James H. Selbe of the Border Patrol Headquarters at McAllen.

"They're frustrated because they're paid to do a job and the law provides for them to do a job, but policy from the department through the attorney general has frustrated them," he continued. "It's just that one area, the census frustration problem."

Selbe said alien apprehensions in his area were down 1,000 a month since the restrictions began, with 2,177 aliens caught during August compared to 3,564 during August 1979.

Casillas said his office was undermanned, morale was low and alien arrests had dropped to 25 percent of last year's figures.

The 10 Border Patrol stations in the 77-county Marfa District of West Texas caught 1,040 aliens during August, a 44 percent drop from a year earlier. But officer Charles Elmore said the drop was even more severe in the Amarillo-Lubbock-Big Spring area, where apprehensions were averaging about one-third of normal.

INS spokesman Verne Jarvis said in Washington that the search restriction was extended because discussions are underway between the Justice Department and INS over the entire enforcement policy, not just business sweeps.

At Laredo, Deputy Chief Delbert Guy reported 2,957 aliens were caught by the Border Patrol during August, less than half the 4,582 caught in August 1979.

Names in the news

CHICAGO (AP) — The "impeccable taste" of Egyptian president Anwar Sadat and President Carter's campaign manager Robert Strauss landed them on the list of best dressed men of 1980, according to the Men's Fashion Guild of America.

They vied with 300 candidates, suggested by custom tailors here and abroad, for the top 10 spots, said guild president Fred Mazzei.

"These are men with impeccable taste in their attire who wear their clothes tastefully," he said Thursday.

Others on the list include actors Forrest Tucker and Patrick McNeel; Chicago Sun-Times columnist Irv Kupcinet; John L. Montgomery of the Chicago accounting firm Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co., and Andrew A. Athens, president of Metron Steel Corp. of Chicago.

Also, Vito Pascucci, president of G. LeBlanc Corp. of Kenosha, Wis.; Mel Boldt, head of Mel Boldt and Associates of Mt. Prospect, Ill.; and Burr Gray, head of Gray Mobile Homes, Muskegon, Mich.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — In honor of Chet Atkins' fame on the Grand Ole Opry stage, his guitar is doing a solo in the Smithsonian Institute in Washington.

The guitar, made for Atkins by a Kentucky man, was being handed over for posterity today in a brief ceremony at the Smithsonian's National Museum of History and Technology, according to Miriam Longino, a spokeswoman for RCA Records here.

The guitar will be displayed in the museum's Musical Instruments Hall. Atkins, a member of the Grand Ole Opry since 1950, has appeared with the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra and at the Newport Jazz Festival.

BOSTON (AP) — Retired Gen. William C.

Westmoreland says Americans must reawaken their sense of patriotism and the way to begin is in the schools.

"That spark of patriotism that has faded must be rekindled," the former Army chief of staff said in an interview Thursday before a session of the Fourth Annual Great American Achievements Program.

The program, sponsored by the Bicentennial Council of the Thirteen Original States Fund Inc., features scholarly papers and discussions at its two-day meetings. Study kits focusing on the U.S. Constitution are later made available to interested schools or individuals.

Westmoreland is currently forming an advisory committee to promote the education materials. Among those on the committee are ABC News commentator Howard K. Smith, several U.S. senators and former ambassador Elliott Richardson.

Trial begins in teenager's death

EL PASO (AP) — An eyewitness says a teen-ager slain by a sheriff's deputy in January 1978 showed the officer's shotgun away but never grabbed the barrel as the deputy claims.

The testimony contradicts previous statements made by Deputy Sergio Guzman concerning the shooting death of Danny Vasquez, 17.

Jose Zaragoza, 21, testified Thursday that he was leaning against Guzman's squad car and saw the deputy shoot the teen-ager with a 12-gauge shotgun at point-blank range.

Guzman said the gun went off accidentally after Vasquez grabbed the barrel, and the death was ruled accidental.

Zaragoza testified for the "Danny Vasquez Justice Committee" on the first day of testimony in a $1 million civil lawsuit filed in U.S. District Court here against Guzman and the county.

The shooting occurred during a party after officers were called to quell a disturbance and took Zaragoza into custody.

Both sides agree that Vasquez was shot after he approached Guzman, protested that Zaragoza was innocent and demanded the deputy free him. But accounts differ from that point.

Zaragoza said Vasquez was standing about two feet in front of the muzzle of the gun when he was shot.

Trustees approve sex education

DALLAS (AP) A sex education program was approved by a majority of Dallas school trustees Thursday after numerous arguments that the program would lead to increased promiscuity among teen-agers.

The trustees, acting as the school board's evaluation committee, sifted through the several hours of the public's sometimes emotional advice before making their decision.

The action still must be ratified by the full school board next week before being implemented in the 1981-82 school year.

Dallas Independent School District Superintendent Linus Wright cited the high pregnancy rate and increase in venereal disease among Dallas teen-agers, telling trustees and the 75 people at the meeting he recommended the program as a last resort.

"I would prefer that this be handled in the home and church, but it's not," he said. "We need to address this problem because nobody else is."

He said a DISD survey shows 80 percent of the district's parents favor the program.

As currently proposed, the three-week parenting and sex education program would be incorporated into health and home economics courses in the fifth and seventh grades and high school level.

Any parent who objected to the material could pull his child out of class during those three weeks, but would have to provide the instruction at home. Materials for home instruction have been developed.

At the fifth- and seventh-grade levels, the courses would be called "Human Growth and Development," with materials on sexuality added at the high school level.

High school students would be taught about birth control and responsibilities of parenthood, but topics such as venereal disease and birth control would be discussed briefly.

About 30 people addressed Wright's comments — 10 favored the program and 20 opposed it.

Dave Haigler, an attorney specializing in family matters, referred to teen-agers' involvement in sex, saying, "If they already know how to do it, do we need to give them more information? Let's not present them with a smorgasbord of attractive food."

One parent, Donna Hagler, said critics of the program were unrealistic.

"I don't know how we can deny our children are getting a sex education every day," she said. "They get sex education every time they turn on the radio; they get sex education every time they watch TV; they get sex education when they look at some bumper stickers."

OPINION PAGE

Helping Polish workers - person to person

Congratulations to the AFL-CIO for setting up a special fund to help Poland's emerging independent trade union movement. It is a constructive move, especially gutsy since the State Department apparently made it clear that it wasn't exactly endorsing the idea. According to spokesman John Trattner, Secretary of State Edmund Muskie told union president Lane Kirkland that the "planned action by the AFL-CIO could be deliberately misinterpreted."

We hope that what has Muskie trembling about "misinterpretation" is in fact a correct interpretation. We hope the AFL-CIO, whether it's saying so or not, hopes this aid will contribute, eventually, to a toppling of the communist regime in Poland, or at least to such drastic changes that the government will no longer be recognizably communist or part of the Soviet sphere. The AFL-CIO has long been considerably more anticommunist than the State Department.

It puzzles us that some news reports suggested that this move is an intrusion "in one of the most sensitive foreign policy issues faced by the Carter administration." The Carter administration never faced this issue. It trembled in its bunker, hoping it would go away or calm down before there was any real pressure to do anything. And, while we might have liked to hear some different rhetoric, its action (or non-action) was just about the right thing to do. We doubt if there would have been much support for a military action on behalf of the Polish workers, or the tactical ability to carry it off short of a major U.S. - Soviet confrontation. U.S. military intervention would probably not have been appropriate, welcome or effective.

However, while U.S. military action would have been a mistake, the AFL-CIO decision shows that U.S. citizens don't need government action or a government policy to express their support of efforts to throw off the yoke of tyranny in other countries. If we're free people, we can act on our own. What is inappropriate for the government may be singularly appropriate for private citizens — and it will almost certainly be more effective.

We have but one compunction about the big labor organization's spirited mobilization for Poland, and it may be of not inconsiderable magnitude. That is the extent to which the fund grew out of the involuntary union dues of American workers. All union dues, of course, are not involuntary, and we've no way of knowing how much of the Poland kitty was raised in such an objectionable manner. Were this detail more thoroughgoing than we suspect it is, the sorrowful irony would be the very resemblance the Polish workers protested. Still, the effort is incalculably more commendable than any action of the infinitely more coercive American government could ever be.

The AFL-CIO action, combined with reports that the United Auto Workers and other unions both in the U.S. and Western Europe have been quietly sending money to Polish workers, shows that the spirit of solidarity against repression is still alive in the United States. But it doesn't have to be just labor groups that participate. Polish-American ethnic groups can help, and we're sure they are. Religious organizations and church congregations can take special collections to help their Polish brothers and sisters. If you don't fit into these categories, and still want to help, you can start your own group, or contribute to the AFL-CIO efforts, which will gladly take outside contributions.

Cure is worse than disease

By Julian Bond
"Trying to cure inflation by budget cutting is like trying to lose weight by chopping off your legs. You'll weigh less, but you won't solve your real problem and you will create painful new ones."

So says the Blueprint for a Working America, an economic prescription for the United States prepared by the Full Employment Action Council, a coalition of dozens of labor, civil - rights and religious groups.

Just as amputation is an extreme solution to the common problem of extra poundage, cutting programs that create jobs for the unemployed or rebuild decaying cities or feed hungry children produces more misery than the inflation it was designed to cure.

Nearly everyone agrees that something must be done about the persistent inflation in our economy. But they cannot agree on what to do.

So far, the winners of this debate have been those in government who have insisted that artificially induced recession can halt inflation.

The losers are the growing numbers of unemployed who are learning harshly what generations of black Americans have always known. Joblessness is no way to improve your economic condition.

The theory has been that increased unemployment will force down prices and wages. But like so many economic theories, this one is absolutely wrong.

More than 80 percent of today's inflation is concentrated in four sectors of the economy that none of us can do without: food, housing, energy and health care. The combined costs of these four necessities increased at a rate of 18.2 percent in 1979, while the combined costs of everything else rose by less than 7 percent.

But as costs of these necessities went up, real take-home pay went down by 5.2 percent last year and by another 2 percent in the measurable portion of this year. That's one reason 60 percent of U.S. households are now drawing two paychecks — and still struggling to keep up with inflation.

The decline in the American family's ability to maintain itself makes one wonder why the popular solution has been to make things even harder. When there is budget cutting to be done, most of the money seems to come from those least able to enforce their claims to it. This bitter medicine, explain the budget cutters, helps more than it hurts.

But no one has proved that spending cuts reduce the inflation rate by more than 5 percent. In fact, the Congressional Budget Office estimates that cuts almost twice as high as those requested by the administration earlier this year would reduce the inflation rate by only 3 percent.

Compare that with the 62.7 percent by which fuel costs increased last year. Those increases were due to the greed and selfishness of OPEC, and the big oil companies, not of the American consumer. A contrived recession won't convince OPEC to lower oil prices.

Real estate prices have doubled in the last 10 years. That wasn't because greedy carpenters, electricians and plumbers demanded more money; their share of home construction costs went down 8 percent in the first seven years of the 1970s. But the finance and land share of the price of a new home increased by more than a third.

In those same seven years, food prices went up 67 percent. That's a frightening rise — but hardly as frightening as the 150 percent increase in after-tax profits earned by the food - marketing industry. There's no selfish farmer in this equation; for every $1 you spend on bread, he gets only 3 cents.

Ten years ago, a typical hospital bed cost $50. Today the price is closer to $200. Don't blame nurses or other hospital workers; in the two decades from 1955 to 1975, the labor share of hospital costs dropped 14 percent.

But how about the drug companies that spend $5,000 per doctor to advertise their wares while fighting to keep the consumer from comparing drug prices? And what about the insurance companies that have become doctors' collection agencies — even collecting billions for unnecessary surgery?

There ARE means to combat these real causes of our economic woes. But none of them lie in putting more people out of work. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Today in history

Today is Friday, Sept. 19, the 263rd day of 1980. There are 103 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On Sept. 19, 1861, President James Garfield died of wounds inflicted by an assassin in Baltimore, on July 2.

On this date: In 1777, American soldiers in the Revolutionary War won the first battle of Saratoga in New York.

In 1934, Bruno Hauptmann was arrested in New York and charged with the kidnapping of Charles Lindbergh's baby son.

In 1955, President Juan Peron of Argentina was ousted from office in a revolt by the Army and Navy.

In 1974, former President Nixon was subpoenaed by special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski to appear at the Watergate cover-up trial.

Ten years ago, Palestine Liberation Army reinforcements entered Jordan from Syria to fight against King Hussein's army.

Five years ago, a U.S. District judge in California denied bail to Patricia Hearst. Last year, the State Department said it opposed any intervention in Afghanistan's internal affairs, following confirmation that the United States had noticed Soviet army activity near the Afghan border.

Today's birthdays: Defense Secretary Harold Brown is 53 years old. British actress Rosemary Harris is 50.

Manhunt for draft evaders ... but not for illegal immigrants?

by Paul Harvey

Young Americans are assured by their political leaders that the draft registration is "not really a draft." All it is a symbolic gesture intended to frighten the Soviets.

Really, young Americans, there is no prospect you will be called for military duty — but —

You'd sure enough better register or Uncle Sam will have his bloodhounds after you!

Not after illegal immigrants — but after you!

The Selective Service System wants it known that it plans to track down and prosecute and imprison young men who do not register for the military draft.

Computers will be used for "tracking" and federal prosecutors for prosecuting and those who don't register and get caught can go to prison for five years and pay a $10,000 fine.

But while all this federal effort and taxpayer money will be diverted to seeking and catching and punishing a fugitive from a non-draft...

Uncle Sam professes helplessness to do anything about the millions of illegal immigrants in the United States and the hordes more still coming in.

Labor Secretary Marshall says illegal aliens are taking jobs from millions of Americans; that without these our unemployment would be less than four percent.

They are everywhere a burden on welfare resources.

Congressional seats this year will be gained or lost according to the number of illegal immigrants who get counted but not prosecuted.

Faced with an endless stream of refugees across our borders the United States has suspended immigration rules.

The Navy and the Coast Guard have stopped fining smugglers. We are breaking rules and remaking rules to accommodate an influx which our government says it is helpless to prevent.

Two uninvented Cuban families who have been in Westchester County, N.Y. for one month — receiving "emergency assistance," eating on food stamps — are suing the country for $25,000, demanding more welfare!

Young Americans have seen so much hypocrisy in one generation it's little wonder that the draft-registration in some areas is only 30 percent effective and that up to 50 percent of those who do register identify themselves as "conscientious objectors."

Hear this quote, please: "Why not postpone the next war until the cause is so popular that everybody would know what he is fighting for, then you'd not have to draft anybody?"

Will Rogers said that in November, 1926. (c) 1980, Los Angeles Times Syndicate

He'd run economy by tax juggling

By Oscar Cooley

Perusing Carter's new economic plan, one is struck by the President's belief that he must control the entire economy of the United States and his ingenious plans to do this by manipulating taxes.

If he would do something about taxes that would be most helpful, I suggest he propose that they all be repealed and that the government finance itself honestly, as its citizens do, by sale of services to willing buyers.

Arch - politician though he is, Carter does not propose to lighten our tax burden noticeably. He says, "Now — in the heat of an election year — is not the time to seek votes with ill - considered tax cuts that would steal back in inflation the few dollars the average American would get ... I will not accept a pre - election bill to cut taxes."

We have to give the man credit. He does not take advantage of his office to promise enactment of big tax cuts if people will only reelect him. That an incumbent president can do this while an outsider like Reagan, seeking the office, cannot, is a flaw in our system. It could be corrected by amending the Constitution to allow the president to serve but one term. He would then never be tempted to spend public money to buy his reelection, because he would not be eligible for reelection.

Carter's plan is designed to spur business rather than to subsidize consumers. Fifty-five percent of his tax cuts would be to aid business. He would give $15 billion to business in the form of faster tax write-offs, investment tax credits, and offsets against the already scheduled increase in Social Security taxes. Encourage firms to buy new machines and plants, says Carter, and they will expand, modernize, become more productive and employ more people.

He foresees his plan resulting in a half million more workers being hired in 1981 and a million more over the next two years. He may be over - sanguine, but for favoring a reduction in the tax load on business firms — which has to be borne by consumers — he should be applauded.

Carter even proposes some negative taxation, that is, cash payments by the government to taxpayers. He would have the government make such payments to money - losing firms IF they would continue to buy more machinery and plants. The steel and auto companies would probably qualify for this.

This would impose cost on the Treasury, but Carter thinks it would be a good way to spend public money because it would prevent firms from falling and would reward them for adding to their capital equipment and expanding their production.

Already, the government makes cash payments to taxpayers whose incomes are too low to be taxed. It is 10 percent of their earnings, provided the earnings are not over $5,000 a year. Carter would increase this cash dole from 10 percent on the first $5,000 of earnings to 12 percent on the first $7,000.

But these low earning firms would have to show their ambition to grow, or no cash payments. Carter thinks this stimulus would cause the nation's economic growth rate to increase by 2 percent per year.

The federal income tax is graduated, that is, as one's dollar income rises, the percentage of it which he pays in tax also rises, so one person may pay 5 percent, another 50. As inflation boosts everybody's dollar income, they find themselves in ever higher tax brackets. Thus the government profits from inflation.

Carter knows this but proposes no effective remedy. Of course the simple remedy would be to tax everybody by the same percentage. If it is just for the government to seize any part of a person's income, surely it would be just to take the same proportion of each person's income.

Then there is the penalty for being married that working couples pay in tax. Carter would at least partially erase this by allowing working couples to deduct from their taxable income 10 percent of the income of husband or of wife, whichever is lower.

Most of these changes seem desirable as far as they go, but they do not go very far. They would reduce the government's revenue and so would force the Treasury to borrow more, adding to the inflation, or to spend less. I don't have to say which of these is more likely. Carter's aides are saying inflation will shrink by 0.2 percent if the plan goes through. I would look for it to increase.

But the fact about Carter's economic plan that would amaze Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, and even Woodrow Wilson, is the extent to which the chief executive assumes that his government, not the American entrepreneur, is responsible for the performance of the U.S. economy.

Infected birds killed

Disease could devastate poultry

HOUSTON (AP) — Discovery of an exotic disease has forced a Houston pet shop owner to kill all 552 birds to help the Department of Agriculture prevent the spread of an infection that could be "devastating" to the country's poultry business.

Gary Henderson, owner of Pet Shop and Bird Inc., said USDA veterinarians destroyed all his birds, "including the tiniest little finch." Wednesday night after officials confirmed one of his parrots had Exotic Newcastle Disease.

"It was bad enough that I had to watch them kill them," Henderson said. The birds were placed in sealed boxes and fumigated with carbon monoxide, a USDA spokesman said.

Other Houston pet stores reportedly purchased the exotic birds from Pet Farm Inc., of Miami, said Karen Warlick of the USDA regional office in Dallas.

Tests were being run at several shops in Brownsville, San Antonio, Harlingen, Dallas, El Paso, Lubbock, New Caney and Wichita Falls, she said.

Confirmed cases also have been found in other states, and officials fear the disease may have spread to Canada, the Bahamas and the Netherlands Antilles, she said.

USDA officials have taken responsibility for allowing infected birds to enter the country through its Miami inspection station.

"When you buy birds through the proper channels you expect to get good healthy birds," Henderson said. "Normally you expect to find this kind of thing only in birds that are smuggled into the country."

Ms. Warlick said the infection could be "devastating" to the country's poultry business and cause higher prices for eggs and poultry in supermarkets.

Foreign birds are immune to the virus. However, domestic chickens are "particularly vulnerable" to the disease spread through direct contact or the bird's feces.

"Sometimes they also appear to have black eyes and have fluid running from their eyes," Ms. Warlick said. A vaccine can be given to combat the disease, she said.

An outbreak of the exotic virus spread through Southern California in the early 1970s after a shipment of tropical birds was imported into the country.

Officials said 12 million laying hens either died or had to be destroyed and cost poultry farmers about $56 million.

Desegregation programs out of money in Houston area

HOUSTON (AP) — Five non-profit organizations have lost federal funds used to finance programs designed to help integrate a troubled Houston Independent Schools District already pressed to step up its desegregation efforts.

Federal officials have insisted the cutoffs were necessary because of federal budget cuts and shifts in allocation procedures. However, officials in Houston questioned the timing of the cuts.

"Why, all of a sudden, when we are about to embark on a major desegregation effort, is the money that has been there the last seven years not there?" asked Doris Smallwood, coordinator of the National Association for Non-Profit Organizations.

HISD officials and the Justice Department currently are embroiled in a 24-year-old desegregation suit in Houston federal court. A decision is expected by Oct. 1.

The Houston school district is receiving about $1.8 million this year from the Emergency School Aid Act, the same amount it allocated during the past seven years.

Congress had allocated more than $17 million annually in emergency funds to about 175 non-profit organizations nationwide since 1973.

However, lawmakers reduced the amount this year to about $5 million for only 35 such programs, said Jesse Jordan, director of program operations for the U.S. Department of Education in Washington.

Jordan said congressional committees believed many of the programs operated by the non-profit organizations duplicated those offered by school districts.

Five Houston organizations received more than $500,000 last year from the school aid act.

However, following the cutoff of federal funds, four of the five organizations could not find funding elsewhere and were forced to drop their programs.

"These programs were working, they were having an impact," said Ms. Smallwood, whose organization represents 250 other organizations in 41 states.

The organizations that lost their federal funding included the HOPE Development Corp., which got $100,000 a year to work with more than 500 students in the city's predominantly-black 5th ward; and The Panel of American Women, which got $65,000 in funds to operate a program aimed at educating students in their cultural backgrounds.

The list also included The Urban League, which got $135,000 to work with students whose background and records indicated they would become dropouts.

Counselor says Davis sons need money

DALLAS (AP) — The sons of Cullen Davis are embarrassed and frustrated because they often lack the money to keep up with social demands of their peers at Highland Park High School, according to a family counselor.

Testimony by Joe Caldwell, a family counselor, came Thursday at a hearing involving a request that the Fort Worth millionaire industrialist be ordered to increase his child support payments to $12,000 per month.

Mrs. Sandra Davis, Davis' first wife, also says she wants their children to be able to live in a "million-dollar house."

Davis' attorney called the request "bull" and claims the millionaire already is doing enough for his children and former wife.

The original divorce decree, in 1968, ordered Davis to pay his first wife $2,000 a month and required $150 a month in child support payments for his two natural sons, Thomas Cullen, 17, and Brian, 15, lawyers said.

Lawyer William Koons admitted Davis has voluntarily increased child support payments by $1,000 a month but Mrs. Davis is demanding the payments be upped to $12,000 a month.

Koons argued that Davis spends much more money on his current wife than on his original family.

Caldwell testified that both sons "are concerned about their mother's efforts to raise money so they can live in a lifestyle similar to their peers."

The counselor noted that both boys are bright and popular, but said, "Their biggest problem is their lack of funds by which to pursue social activities to keep up with their peers."

Davis' lawyers noted that Davis voluntarily pays his sons' medical and clothing expenses, bought his first wife a home in the exclusive Dallas suburb of Highland Park, often takes the boys on trips and pays about $50,000 annually for country club fees, automobiles and other miscellaneous expenses.

Clements reveals anti-crime plan

DALLAS (AP) — Texas legislators will be asked again next year to adopt an anti-crime legislative package proposed by Gov. Bill Clements that includes legalized wiretapping and strong penalties for those who assault children.

Clements unveiled his latest anti-crime package in remarks to the Texas District and County Attorneys Association, meeting here Thursday. After his 1978 election, Clements asked the legislature to enact a comprehensive anti-crime package but the measure did not pass.

He told the prosecutors' association he wants court costs doubled to raise $18 million a year to finance state and local criminal justice projects.

"We have always had to walk a fine line in balancing the rights of both the accused and the victims, and I agree that all people's rights must at all times be protected," Clements said in prepared remarks.

"But in recent years, I think we have seen an imbalance occur — in favor of the criminals — and I say to you that it's high time we restore this balance and restore full protection of the laws to the victims of crime," he said.

Clements said his wiretap proposal is patterned after the 1968 federal statute and "would be limited to felony narcotics cases and would contain strict safeguards to protect the right of privacy of law-abiding citizens."

Illegal wiretapping, he said, would be a third-degree felony, punishable by up to 10 years in prison and a $5,000 fine. The governor's bill also provides civil penalties of $100 a day or $1,000, whichever is higher.

Other parts of Clements' anti-crime package include proposals to:

— Allow the introduction of a defendant's oral confession into evidence at trial when the accused has waived his rights.

— Permit the jury to be instructed on parole laws in considering sentences.

— Close loopholes in the "shock probation" law.

— Make it clear that money seized in a drug search is to be used to enforce drug laws.

— Increase penalties for rape, sexual abuse, injury to a child or indecency with a child.

— Tighten the aggravated rape statute.

— Designate the "chiefs" of the State Board of Pardons and Paroles and "bring accountability to the board" while "delineating the duties of its primary employees."

New McInnis trial date set

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — After two weeks of trial testimony and four days of jury deliberations, former prosecutor Oscar McInnis learned he will have to sit through the entire process again.

A federal court jury here could not reach a verdict on a five-count perjury indictment brought against the former Hidalgo County District Attorney and U.S. District Judge Filemon Vela officially declared a mistrial. The jurors acquitted McInnis' co-defendant, Patricia Parada.

Assistant U.S. Attorney George Kelt of Houston, chief prosecutor in the case, said the government would retry McInnis. Vela set Oct. 16 to hear pretrial arguments and Oct. 27 to begin jury selection for the retrial.

McInnis declined all comment, referring questions to his attorney, Frank Maloney, who said, "We're disappointed they didn't reach a verdict of acquittal."

Ms. Parada's attorney, Ramon Garcia, said, "We're very pleased, very happy. It's been a two and a half year ordeal."

McInnis and Ms. Parada were accused of lying to a grand jury here in 1978 concerning an alleged plot to kidnap and kill the woman's ex-husband.

Testimony consumed two weeks and the case went to the jury Monday. On Wednesday, jurors said they had reached a decision in one of the cases but did not say which one, and reported they were deadlocked in the other case.

Vela then told them to continue deliberating until they had decided both cases. He ordered the mistrial Thursday after another 24 hours' work proved fruitless.

McInnis had pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to the charge. McInnis' lawyers argued he was a sick man whose life was in disarray because of job pressures and his involvement with Ms. Parada.

Typhoid cases traced to camp

Texas (AP) — Eleven cases of typhoid fever have been confirmed in an outbreak that the Texas Department of Health says has been traced to YMCA Camp Grady Spruce on the shores of Possum Kingdom Lake in Palo Pinto County.

The department said Thursday 26 other summer campers have had "symptoms compatible with a typhoid infection."

The department said the confirmed cases included 10 campers and one nurse who had attended the Aug. 5-19 camp session. Ten of the cases — nine campers and the nurse — occurred at the main camp.

The other confirmed case occurred at another camp.

The department said it has made telephone contact with 101 of the 130 persons who attended the main camp during the mid-August session.

Of those, the department said, "50 campers are well, 14 have had symptoms clearly not related to a typhoid infection, 26 campers had symptoms compatible with a typhoid infection, nine campers have been confirmed as having typhoid fever, and two suspected cases proved to be negative."

The department said its investigation is still going on, and parents of children who attended camp July 22-Aug. 5, as well as the later session, also are being informed of the situation.

"All campers who develop symptoms such as fever, lethargy — feeling tired or weak — abdominal pain, constipation or diarrhea, or headache are being advised to contact their personal physicians for evaluation," the department said.

Bentsen eyes federal funds to offset alien education costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen has asked the Department of Education to study whether Texas is eligible for federal aid to offset the expense of providing free education to illegal alien children.

"In this instance, it is the failure of the federal government to adopt a workable immigration policy that has exacerbated the illegal alien situation and will have a direct effect on school financing in my state," the Texas

Democrat wrote in a letter to Education Secretary Shirley Hufstader.

Bentsen said Thursday, however, that illegal alien children apparently are not flooding into Texas schools this year despite a federal court order that prohibits their exclusion.

He said the full impact will not be clear until more complete figures become available.

"We've had considerable concern expressed by a number of school administrators in Texas," Bentsen said at a news conference. "We have to get more positive numbers to understand the magnitude of the problem.... If it becomes of the magnitude that some fear, then we're going to need some assistance."

The senator said federal aid would not be in order unless warranted by the numbers.

New Hope Crusade planned

Luis Torres, New Hope Crusade evangelist, will be the speaker in services to be held at the First Assembly of God Church 7:30 p.m. nightly from Sept. 21-24.

Luis Torres, who has been seen of the PTL Club and the 700 Club, has been a speaker for conferences and conventions throughout the United States.

Luis, a former drug addict and fugitive from the law, entered the Teen Challenge rehabilitation program in October, 1970. Torres had been a heroin addict for almost five years and this caused him to spend time in and out of jails, break into homes, steal from his parents, and doing everything a drug addict has to do to support his habit.

Then a minister from Teen Challenge came to the jail where Torres was being detained and told him of Christ's changing power. Luis' life was changed.

Today much in demand, Luis makes his way to high schools, churches, college campuses, camps and conventions, telling people about his New Hope in Christ.

Torres' pulpit ministry of the Word is ever changing young and old alike to a greater knowledge of Jesus Christ and his power to change.

The New Hope Team will lift you up with their music, as Randy Lynn, Gail and Luis Torres, move with the Spirit of God in their music ministry.

Don't miss coming to one of the New Hope Crusade services while this young crusader and his team are in our area. It will be one service you will always remember.

Linda and Cliff Rogers

Guests preach through song

The Calvary Assembly of God located on the corner of Crawford and Love Streets announce a special Sunday service, Sept. 21 at 10:45 a.m. and at 7 p.m. featuring Linda and Cliff Rogers from Wichita, Kan.

Linda and Cliff Rogers are outstanding in ministering the word through song. They have been used as special guests in state youth retreats, banquets, District Councils and many other places.

You will enjoy their anointed singing and preaching as they are able to adapt their music to any age group.

Pastor Mike Benson gives a warm invitation to everyone to attend these services.

Amarillo man named to post

Roy Britain, Amarillo realtor, has been named an Associate Chairman for the 40th interfaith National Bible Week, Nov. 23-30. Britain, a native of the Texas Panhandle Plains area had devoted his career to local, state, and national real estate in Amarillo and the Southwest.

He is a member of the Polk Street United Methodist Church and an Honorary Life Member of the American Bible Society.

Britain is the author of the book "Spiritual Gates" which features biblical truths that permeate everyday problems. He belongs to a number of youth boards and civic organizations and has played a key role in organizing Bible Week activities in the Boy Scouts and other groups in the Amarillo area.

The Bible societies and many faith groups, including Catholic, Eastern Orthodox, Jewish and Protestant as well as Christian Scientists, Mormons and many others cooperate with the Committee in execution of National Bible Week.

Religion roundup

NEW YORK (AP) — A church film producer and critic says "movies these days reflect almost every aspect of life and death but seldom do they deal with an experience common to millions in every age — religious faith," except to spoof it.

The Rev. Robert Lee, film producer for the Lutheran Council in the U.S.A. and film reviewer for a radio series sponsored by the council and the Episcopal Church, says most Americans believe in God and pray, especially in situations of fear or extremity but he adds:

"Movies censor out this reflection of real life more often than no."

GOSPEL MEETING TO BEGIN

A Gospel meeting is to begin at Central Church of Christ Sunday, September 21, and continue through Friday night, September 26th. The guest speaker for this occasion will be Jack L. Holt of Memphis, Tennessee. The public is cordially invited to attend all services. Come and bring your Bibles, please. No collections will be taken. Time of services is 7:30 each evening.

"Thou wilt shew me the path of life, in thy presence is fulness of joy..."
PSALM 16-11

HERE IS THE PATH

★ Be ever mindful and thankful to GOD for...

HEALTH and FOOD

In our nation today, the majority of us have so much to be thankful for. Sure we lose a tooth or two in growing up, as the one pictured here, but these will soon be replaced. Health and Happiness are generally ours, and through our abundance we should share with others who are less fortunate. God's word and the church encourage sharing with others. There are many areas of service to others within the churches, and these we should not neglect, but God has said that we should take advantage, as we are able, of all opportunities to give aid.

"As we have therefore opportunity, let us do good unto all men."

GALATIANS 6:10

THE CHURCH ENCOURAGES
LOVE AND COMPASSION
FOR OTHERS

Coleman Adv. Serv.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I hope and pray that you will print this letter, as this problem has plagued my friends and me for many years.

I'm a 19-year-old girl, living with my parents and attending a very strict Baptist college. My parents are paying for my education.

Abby, I've been listening to rock music for over eight years without my parents' knowledge. They found the tapes and were crushed. They say they can no longer trust me. I apologized for having kept it from them, but explained that I didn't tell them because I knew rock music is against their beliefs. They say that rock music destroys young people and that I cannot keep the tapes in the house. I told them that I have developed my own convictions, and as long as I don't disturb anyone with my music I should be allowed to keep the tapes and listen to them.

Who is right? Must I get rid of the tapes and turn my radio dial to the religious station? Or should I be allowed to make my own choice of music as long as I don't bother anybody?
ME IN SOUTH CAROLINA

DEAR ME: As long as you live in your parents' home and they are paying for your education, you must follow their rules. Once you are on your own, you may do as you please.

DEAR ABBY: I live in Pearl City, Hawaii, and I'm shocked and appalled at the ignorance of some of our fellow Americans who still think Hawaii is a "foreign country."

When I travel to the mainland, I am amazed at the number of people who say, "I'd love to go to Hawaii someday; I've never been out of the United States." I'm also asked, "Is this your first trip to America?"

I've even been asked, "Do you have running water, being that you're so isolated from everything? And how does life in America compare to Hawaii?" The list goes on and on. Will you please inform people that Hawaii is now one of the 50 states of the union? Also, we no longer live in little grass shacks. Thank you!
ALIVE AND WELL IN AMERICA

DEAR ALIVE: You can bet your ukulele. Let it be known that on Aug. 21, 1959, Hawaii became the 50th state to join the union, and has been a part of America ever since!

DEAR ABBY: With the changing times (and less emphasis on the more formal aspects of a wedding), my wife and I are often faced with an embarrassing dilemma. We are both pastors who officiate at many weddings. We are seldom invited in advance to the rehearsal dinner or the wedding reception, but when we start to leave, the bride says, "Please stay. We thought you knew you were invited."

We never presume that we are invited unless we have received an invitation beforehand. Abby, we have small children and must make arrangements for having them looked after, just as all the other invited guests who have been officially invited.

Please remind your readers that if the officiating pastor(s) is expected to stay for the rehearsal dinner and reception, an invitation should be sent.
ASSOCIATE PASTORS IN ILLINOIS

DEAR PASTORS: Consider it done.

CONFIDENTIAL TO A CONVICTED FELON WHO HAS SERVED HIS TIME IN CALIFORNIA: You may vote if your offense did not relate to any violation of the voting laws, and you are not on parole.

Before registering, you will be asked:
1. Are you 18 years old or over?
2. Are you an American citizen?
3. Have you lived in the county 29 days before the election you want to vote in?
4. Are you on parole for a felony?
If you have any further questions concerning voting, call your registrar-recorder's office.

Savory chicken makes delicious dinner to serve to company

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

SAVORY CHICKEN

The sauce should be a slightly ruddy amber color.

3 1/2 to 3 3/4-pound roasting chicken

1 teaspoon salt

1/4 teaspoon pepper

1/4 cup butter

1 medium onion, finely chopped (1/2 cup)

2 tablespoons flour

1 tablespoon tomato paste

1 tablespoon Dijon mustard

2 cups degreased, clear, unsalted chicken broth

2 tablespoons medium sherry

Cut up chicken so there are 2 wings, 2 breast halves, 2 thighs and 2 drumsticks; freeze bony backs for some other use.

Sprinkle chicken with salt and pepper. In a 12-inch skillet over high heat melt butter and when it sizzles add chicken pieces, skins down; reduce heat to medium and fry until browned — about 15 minutes. Turn and continue frying over medium heat until undersides are browned and chicken is tender — 15 minutes. Remove chicken and keep hot in a low oven. To drippings in skillet add onion and cook gently, stirring often, until wilted; stir in flour, tomato paste and mustard; stir in broth and sherry. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thickened and bubbling; spoon sauce over chicken or pass separately. There will be 1 1/2 cups sauce — plenty for accompanying noodles. Makes 4 servings.

Fountain to be dedicated to Canadian couple

CANYON — The kinetic water fountain by George Baker, an internationally known sculptor, will be dedicated in honor of Iris and Malouf Abraham Sr. of Canadian Sept. 28 in front of Mary Moody Northern Hall on the West Texas State University campus.

"Iris and Malouf Abraham have made an impact not only on their hometown Canadian, but on the entire Panhandle region," said Dr. Hugh Sanders, dean of WTSU School of Fine Arts.

The Abraham children, who are honoring their parents with the dramatic fountain to WTSU, include Dr. and Mrs. Malouf Abraham Jr. and Mrs. and Mrs. Mert Cooper, all of Canadian, and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Ed Abraham of Dallas.

According to Sanders, WTSU and the Friends of Fine Arts also are responsible for funds for the fountain. Upon completion, the fountain will cost $40,000.

The site of the water fountain is accessible by pedestrian walks as well as motor traffic from Interstate 27 (Texas Highway 87) and Loop 217. Benches will be added on the lawn area near the sculpture.

"The site offers the possibility of study for the students of WTSU as well as casual viewing by highway traffic and tourists," said Sanders.

The central standing shape of the sculpture is made of stainless steel and rises about 4 1/2 feet above the water in an enclosed pool area at the west side of Northern Hall. It is fixed to a large shape which is on two sides slightly covered by two fixed shapes. From these shapes, hollow shafts rise almost vertically and support two shapes which rotate fully by jets beneath their surfaces, which push against a series of vanes. The rotation also can be caused by wind.

On one side of the vertical shape is a single elliptical shape with an elliptical hole at its pivot point. On the opposite side of the vertical shape are two smaller elliptical shapes. These three shapes operate in an up-and-down motion which will be caused by wind and water. The water will flow outward from the pivot points.

"The shapes will be balanced on the short end by sheet lead with enough accuracy that as little as a quart of water will cause the shape to dip downward until the water has run off. At this point, balance will cause the shape to move upward," explained Baker.

"Water also will be discharged from the edge of the upper half of the standing shape," he said. "This will cause a slight mist and general wetting of the upper surfaces of the various shapes."

The fountain has five moving shapes. Their movements will depend on wind and water action. The water action will not be continuous as there will be two pumps and each will be time-controlled. There will be periods in which parts of the fountain will be controlled by wind.

"The exact programming will be determined after installation as will the final balance of the three elliptical shapes," according to Baker.

Baker also said that lights will illuminate the fountain from the three corners of the pool from just above the water level and will be shielded so as to be as unobtrusive as possible.

"It is intended that the water will be slightly heated to allow year-round operation," said Baker. "Water flow will be automatically reduced as wind velocity increases so as to contain the spray within the pool."

Baker is a resident of Altadena, Calif., and is a member of the faculty of Occidental College in Los Angeles.

On one side of the vertical shape is a single traumatic. The modern dentist is more concerned with preventive than corrective dentistry."

Robertson says some basic tooth facts made him concerned about the need for early childhood dental education:

— The average child has two decayed teeth by the time he enters school.

— About 68 percent of the 12- to 17-year-olds have visible gum disease.

— The average 20-year-old has 14 decayed, missing or filled teeth.

One member of Robertson's dental-health team is dental hygienist Jan Ehrman. She uses a big set of plastic teeth and a huge tooth brush to demonstrate the proper way to floss and brush.

She recommends that young children be taught to floss with generous lengths of floss and that flossing come before brushing to dislodge tiny particles ("cookie bugs") that hide between teeth, which a brush can never reach.

"For very young children, parents should do the flossing. It's individual attention that will pay big dividends," Ms. Ehrman says.

The third member of the team is a consulting nutritionist, Lori D. Valencic, who helps discover reasons why some patients' teeth are rapidly decaying.

Cellophane tape notes 50th year

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Invented by Richard Drew, a man who preferred to call himself a "kitchen cook" instead of a chemist, Scotch cellophane tape is celebrating its 50th anniversary this year.

When it was introduced in 1930, the product was used primarily by grocers and bakers to seal cellophane bags containing food. But after a heat-seal method of closing packages was invented, the tape became obsolete in the area for which it was designed.

However, thrifty Americans quickly discovered other uses for it during the Depression, mending books, curtains, clothing and toys to extend their life, 3M company officials recall.

In the early years, the firm sponsored "tape-it" contests to learn about some of the innovative ways the fledgling product could be used and answers poured in from all over the world.

Among some of the more unusual applications were covering cracks in the soft shell of fertilized pigeon eggs, which later hatched, and attaching labels to horses to be auctioned.

Astro-Graph

by bernice bede osol

September 20, 1980

This could be a very busy year, work or careerwise. Additional duties and responsibilities are likely, but the compensation for them will be greater.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Others may seek frivolous activities to provide them with enjoyment today, but you won't be content unless your time is spent productively. Satisfy your urges. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph, which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're a take-charge type today, but you are able to be so by ingratiating yourself rather than by irritating others. Hail to the chief.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Initially, involvements important to you may appear to be going awry today. This impression is erroneous. The final tally will please you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Strive to communicate with persons today who have been on your mind of late, but with whom you have not been in touch. Something unexpectedly advantageous could result.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) This is a good day to expend your efforts on things to enhance your security or material foundation. Substantial improvement can now be made in these areas.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Situations on which you put your personal stamp today should work out to your satisfaction. Don't delegate things you can better do yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You don't have to be around a lot of people today in order to be happy. In fact, some solitude to sort out your thoughts will do you a world of good.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Activities today challenging your inventive or innovative abilities will be the ones you most enjoy and perform the best, especially if pals are involved.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Recognition for past efforts you felt were overlooked will be forthcoming today. Accept compliments from admirers with modesty and gratitude.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You grasp the essence of new ideas or concepts very quickly today, and you will find ways to apply them which can advance your self-interests.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) There is a strong possibility you can profit today from something for which another has already done most of the spadework. What you'll add is worthwhile.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Being No. 1 won't be that important to you today. This will please your companions. Your efforts will be spent making them feel like stars.

College football roundup

National television spotlights Ohio State

By DICK BRINSTER
AP Sports Writer

When Earle Bruce replaced the legendary Woody Hayes at Ohio State many conversant with college football figured the Buckeyes would attract less attention nationally.

And it would be hard to argue that they didn't when the pollsters forgot to rank Ohio State in the Top Twenty last season. With the temperamental Hayes cooling his heels not far from the giant horseshoe where he rose to fame in Columbus, Ohio, the Buckeyes quietly rose from obscurity to an eventual No. 4 ranking.

Under Bruce no sideline markers were fractured, no officials grabbed and no linebackers punched out in the heat of battle. He had managed to make the coach anything but the center of controversy.

A year later Ohio State, 11-1 last season, attracted enough attention to grab the top spot in the preseason national rankings. But don't blame Bruce. He's doing his best to focus that attention elsewhere.

On Saturday his second-ranked Buckeyes, 1-0 after a come-from-behind, 31-21 victory over Syracuse, entertain Big Ten foe Minnesota, 1-0. And Bruce has managed to turn the spotlight on the opposition.

"He broke every recruiting rule — car use, things of that nature," Bruce said of Gopher Coach Joe Salem. "But I don't think we can call him on that."

The reason simply put is that Salem has housed and supported his starting quarterback since the lad — his son Tim — was in diapers.

And with one week gone in the 1980 season it seems the investment has paid off handsomely. Salem, who will go on display Saturday before a national television audience, scored his team's first touchdown in Minnesota's opening-game victory and completed 13 of 16 passes for 162 yards and a touchdown.

He sparked the Gophers to a 38-14 victory over Ohio University — not to be confused with Ohio State University. And no danger of Joe Salem mistaking the two Ohio schools.

"We don't match up to them man-to-man," he said. "Can Minnesota win? Salem was asked.

"We need the breaks, a perfect game with no fumbles and no interceptions," he said in painting a dismal picture. "And even then we'll need some mistakes by them."

Elsewhere on Saturday, top-ranked Alabama travels to Mississippi and No. 4 Southern California entertains No. 20. South Carolina in night games, fifth-ranked Pittsburgh visits Kansas, No. 6 Nebraska hosts Iowa, No. 7 Texas meets Utah State under the lights, eighth-ranked Notre Dame hosts No. 14 Michigan, No. 9 Florida State entertains East Carolina at night and 10th-ranked Georgia hosts Clemson.

Also, No. 11 Stanford visits Boston College while No. 12 Penn State is at Texas A&M in night games; No. 15 Missouri entertains Illinois, 16th-ranked Washington hosts Auburn; No. 17 Arkansas entertains Oklahoma State while No. 18 Houston is home against Miami, (Fla.) in night games and 19-ranked Auburn hosts Duke.

Third-ranked Oklahoma and No. 13 North Carolina are idle.

Bruce's light-hearted approach to the encounter with the Salem family is one Clemson Coach Danny Ford would like to duplicate. But his Tigers, 1-0, have a perplexing problem in the presence of Georgia's sensational freshman running back Herschel Walker.

"Walker's effect on the Clemson defense cannot be measured only in statistics," Ford said of the 6-foot-2, 215-pounder from Wrightsville, Ga., who has scored five touchdowns and rushed for 229 yards in two games despite sitting out a total of 40 minutes for the Bulldogs, 2-0.

"He is capable of making big plays himself (as evidenced by a 76-yard touchdown run against Texas A&M)," said Ford, who was among the finalists in recruiting battle for Walker's services. That hardly has gone unnoticed among Clemson fans, who must be ranked first in the nation in bumper stickers.

Their latest reads: "Herschel Who?" They may know by Saturday night.

The battle of the USC's (Southern California and South Carolina) is expected to attract attention. The Southern Cal Trojans, 1-0, must stop Geroge Rogers and the offense of the Gamecocks, 2-0, who rolled over Wichita State 73-0 last Saturday.

Pittsburgh, 1-0, dropped a couple of notches last week after sweating out an error-filled, 14-6 victory over Boston College. Jackie Sherill's Panthers must drastically reduce their nine-turnover performance when they play Kansas.

The Notre Dame-Michigan battle in South Bend has Coach Dan Devine of the Irish, 1-0, wondering what Bo Schembechler of Michigan, 1-0, will offer in the way of surprises. Devine said Schembechler ran 10 different sets against the Irish last season after showing little against Northwestern, which Schembechler repeated in the Wolverine opener.

The other Top Ten teams, led by Alabama, are expected to have little trouble Saturday. Crimson Tide Coach Bear Bryant will be after career victory No. 298 when Alabama, 1-0, opposes Ole Miss, 1-0, coached by former Bama quarterback Steve Sloan.

SPORTS

Pistol match scheduled Sunday

The Pampa Rifle and Pistol Club will host a pistol metallic match and combat shoot Sunday at the shooting range six miles west of Pampa on 23rd Street.

Entry fee is seven dollars per person for the 40-round metallic match, which begins at 1 p.m.

Handgunners will shoot at metal silhouettes of chickens, pigs, turkeys and rams at 25, 50, 75 and 100 meters respectively.

The combat match starts at 9 a.m. and combines physical endurance and accuracy. Contestants are limited to using a Colt .45 automatic pistol.

Harvesters 66th in Harris Ratings

The Pampa Harvesters stand 66th in the latest Harris high school football ratings.

Holding down the No. 1 spot in Class 5A is Temple with 185 points.

The Harvesters have the highest rating among District 3-5A opponents with 153 points. Amarillo High is 115th, Tascosa, 154; Palo Duro, 175, and Caprock, 218.

Defending state champion Wheeler is ranked 15th in Class 2A while Panhandle is 57th and White Deer 104.

Waskom is the top-rated Class 2A team.

Ranked Class 1A area teams are Groom, 51; McLean, 93, and Miami, 96.

Falls City is atop the Class 1A chart.

Gainesville and Breckenridge are No. 1 in Class 4A and Class 3A respectively.

Harvester spikers defeat Borger

BORGER—Pampa's spikers extended their record to 14-1 Thursday with a 15-4, 7-13, 14-12 win over Borger in a non-district volleyball match.

However, Borger won the JV match, 6-15, 13-7 and 14-12.

Pampa enters the Plainview Tournament today, meeting the host team this morning in the first round of the single-elimination 16-team tournament.

Saturday, the second-round games start at 9 a.m. with the consolation championship set for 7 p.m. and the championship to follow at 8:15 p.m.

Tascosa, Pampa's District 3-5A foe, took its 12th victory against one loss and its 11th consecutive win Thursday night, defeating Lubbock

Monterey, 15-3, 15-10.

Pampa meets Borger again in its next home match Friday, Sept. 26. The Harvesters play Peryton there Monday night.

Pampa freshmen defeated by Hereford

Hereford Stanton defeated Pampa, 16-4, Thursday in a ninth-grade football game at Hereford.

The loss evened Pampa's record at 1-1.

"We just did not go to Hereford ready to play," Pampa Coach Dick Crockett said. "They outplayed us the whole game."

Hereford led, 8-6, at the end of the first quarter and then added a second score in the third quarter.

Crockett said his team made too many mistakes to win the game.

"I think we have a pretty good ballclub, but we need to work hard this week so we can represent Pampa a little better," he added.

Pampa hosts Amarillo Bonham at 4:30 p.m. Thursday.

Pampa defeated Hereford LaPlata, 22-0, in the season opener.

Houston, A&M have key players injured

By The Associated Press
Two Southwest Conference football teams prepare for home openers against major intersectional foes this weekend with key performers on the sidelines.
Houston has lost starting defensive lineman Mike Black because of a knee strain suffered in practice while Texas A&M will have three of last year's starters on the bench with injuries.
The Aggies lost senior safety John Dawson to a knee injury against Mississippi in the season opener, offensive guard Bryan Dausin to a knee injury in practice and linebacker Cal Pevelto to a knee injury in last week's loss to Georgia.

Pevelto will be out for "a few weeks," according to A&M athletic officials while the other two players have had surgery and will miss the rest of the season.
Black will be out of action for a week, Houston officials said.
A&M hosts Penn State at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, while Houston plays Miami in the AstroDome.

Spinal Curvature Often Mistaken For Bad Posture

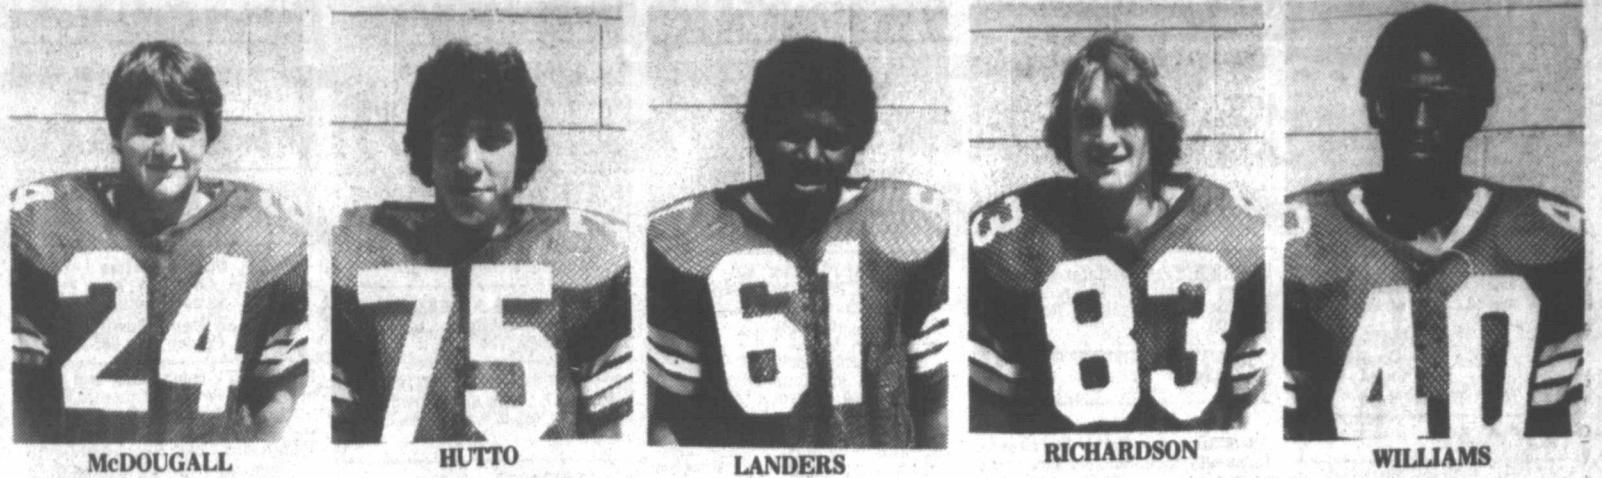

"Scoliosis" is the term used to describe lateral curvature of the spine, and it has been a medical enigma since ancient times. Science News in May of 1979 reported that, "Recent findings suggest that perhaps as many as 10 percent of the children in that age group (10-13) have scoliosis."

Serious spinal curvature detracts from appearance, can produce psychological stress, and extensive physical consequences like degenerative arthritis of the spine, with increasingly severe back pain and disability. As scoliosis stresses the spine, it may lead to disk disease and sciatica. Preventing the permanent deformity and disability caused by scoliosis is largely dependent upon early detection. Early signs of scoliosis include obvious spinal curvature, one shoulder higher than the other, prominence of one hip and/or shoulder blades, one leg shorter than the other, and body trunk shifted out of balance.

Scoliosis screening tests are quick and simple and highly recommended for children in their formative years. In fact, scoliosis screening tests are required for school-aged children in New York, Florida, Minnesota, New Jersey, and Washington.

From September 15th to September 27th, this office will provide scoliosis screening tests to the public without charge as a public service in conjunction with the Texas Chiropractic Association's state wide screening program.

Harvesters host tough Lawton tonight

By L.D. STRATE
Pampa News Sports Editor

Press clippings on Lawton High quarterback Ronnie Douglass have made him sound so dangerous it's a wonder opponents haven't made a citizens' arrest before he entered the football stadium.

Douglass and company invade Pampa to meet the Harvesters at 7:30 p.m. tonight.

Douglass is a swift, muscular 190-pounder that reminds followers of ex-Oklahoma University quarterback Thomas Lott. He passed for 632 yards and rushed for 600 more from his quarterback position last season. Douglass is off to a slow start this season, even though he's scored twice in the Wolverines' two losses to Oklahoma powerhouses Lawton McArthur and Altus.

Oklahoma media has still billed him as the state's top schoolboy recruit.

But Pampa Head Coach Larry Gilbert is well-aware that Douglass isn't a one-man team.

"Douglass is a super wishbone quarterback, but we can't just key on him," Gilbert said. "Their fullback, Chris Jolley, is as big as Dumas' Robert Norris and he's faster. And you saw what he did to us."

Norris, a 210-pound fullback, rushed for 108 yards and scored two touchdowns in Dumas' 40-22 loss to the Harvesters last week.

"My main concern about Lawton is their size and quickness," Gilbert said. "They're just as big as Hereford (Pampa's first opponent) and much quicker."

Gilbert hopes to employ a ball-control strategy against Lawton.

"We've got to keep the ball away from their dangerous runners," Gilbert said. "It's an absolute must that we move the ball against Lawton. Hereford shut us down pretty good, except for our big plays, and Lawton is a better team."

Pampa opened the season with a 20-7 win over Hereford, then came the lopsided win over Dumas. Now Gilbert is worried about a "third-game" jinx that stops many teams.

"I can't explain it, but I've seen some 2-0 teams lose that third game and then go downhill the rest of the season," Gilbert said. "This is without a doubt the biggest game of the year for us. I see this game as the key to what we do the rest of the year as far as our record goes."

As if reading Gilbert's mind, the Harvesters have enjoyed one of their best practice sessions of the season this week.

"I've been really impressed with the total team effort this week," Gilbert said. "The coaches have been working a little bit harder and it's rubbed off on the players. Everyone realizes how good Lawton is."

Gilbert reported that Pampa's lineup will be a full strength tonight. Strong safety Clay Coffee, who injured his ankle in the opener, will start after missing part of last week's game with Dumas.

"We were going to evaluate his condition before gametime to see how much he could play, but he played about as much as he wanted to against Dumas anyway," Gilbert said.

Offense—Cavin Coleman, 180-pound junior, at tight end; Gwyn Greenwood, 190-pound senior, and Pat Langford, 190-pound senior, at guards; Ted Hutto, 190-pound senior, and Mike Graham, 190-pound senior, at tackles; Billy Ward, 190-pound senior, at center; Steve McDougall, 160-pound senior, at split end; Sam Edwards, 150-pound senior, at quarterback; Arthur Williams, 160-pound senior, and Bobby Dorsey, 180-pound senior, at halfbacks; Leroy Kuhn, 180-pound senior, at fullback.

American League baseball roundup

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Toronto Blue Jays are playing the role of "spoilers" these days — but the only thing they spoiled Thursday night was Manager Bobby Mattick's appetite.

"All he had to do was get three outs," Mattick said of Dave Stieb, who was trying to protect a four-run lead in the 10th inning over the New York Yankees, "but sometimes that's hard to do."

It was not only hard for Stieb, it was impossible. He let the never-say-die Yankees catch up with four runs. Then, New York's finest went on to beat the Blue Jays 8-7 in 13 innings.

The dramatic Yankee comeback came in the completion of a game that was suspended by rain Wednesday night and preceded a 2-1 loss to the Blue Jays in the regularly-scheduled game.

The split left the American League East leaders with a five-game lead over Baltimore after the Orioles defeated the Detroit Tigers 7-3.

Elsewhere in the AL, Boston beat Cleveland 8-3; Kansas City downed California 5-2; Texas outscored Oakland 10-6; Milwaukee beat Minnesota twice, 9-8 and 5-0, and Chicago edged Seattle 5-4.

Willie Randolph's three-run triple capped New York's four-run rally in the 10th against Stieb. Then the Yankees won the game two innings later when Bucky Dent doubled home Johnny Oates from first base with two out.

The game had been halted by rain the night before after Toronto scored two runs in the top of the 10th off Ron Davis on a third-inning passed ball by catcher Rick Cerone, Ernie Whitt's single and a three-base error on the play by right fielder Reggie Jackson.

When play resumed Thursday night, the Blue Jays added two more runs on Roy Howell's two-run, inside-the-park homer.

The Blue Jays won the regularly-scheduled game behind the two-hit pitching of rookie Luis Leal, who was a last-minute replacement for Stieb. Mattick had originally counted on Stieb to start the regular game, but changed his plans after the pitcher was roughed up by the Yankees.

The loss was only the second for the Yankees in 17 games this month.

Orioles 7, Tigers 3
Dan Graham pulled Baltimore into a tie with a leadoff home run in the seventh inning and then Ken Singleton's two-run single put the Orioles ahead of Detroit for good.

Scott McGregor, 19-7, allowed 11 hits but won his fifth game in a row with 11-3 innings of relief help from Tim Stoddard. Stoddard notched his 23rd save after fanning pinch hitter Champ Summers with two runners aboard in the eighth.

Red Sox 8, Indians 3
Jim Rice drove in a four runs with a double and a single and Gary Hancock belted a two-run homer, powering Boston over Cleveland.

Right-hander Steve Crawford, just called up from the minors, pitched a complete game for the Red Sox in his first major league start. Crawford, who was rewarded with a starting berth after two fine relief performances, allowed 12 hits but bailed out of one-out, bases-loaded jams without allowing a run in the first and the sixth.

Royals 5, Angels 2
Willie Wilson set an AL record for consecutive stolen bases and George Brett rapped two hits to raise his average to .398 as Kansas City beat California.

Wilson followed his run-scoring single in the second inning by stealing second and third base to run his consecutive stolen-base string to 28 and erase the old mark of 27 set by Ron LeFlore in 1978 with Detroit. Wilson, who finished the game with two singles, has 70 stolen bases for the season.

Rangers 10, A's 6
Mickey Rivers went 4-for-6, setting a club record for hits in a season, to lead Texas past Oakland behind Danny Darwin's strong relief pitching.

Rivers, who had 184 hits twice for the New York Yankees, raised his season total to 204. His two hits Wednesday night had tied the Ranger record of 200 set last year by Buddy Bell. Rivers' average climbed three points to .331, also his highest ever.

Brewers 9-5, Twins 8-0
Gorman Thomas lined a two-run homer with two out in the ninth inning to rally Milwaukee over Minnesota in the first game of their doubleheader.

Ben Oglivie hit a two-run homer and Larry Sorensen scattered six hits to lead Milwaukee's second-game victory.

White Sox 5, Mariners 4
Chet Lemon scored the winning run in the ninth on a grounder by Harold Baines as Chicago edged Seattle.

Lemon walked with one out and was doubled to third by pinch hitter Rusty Kuntz. Baines then hit a bounce to second baseman Julio Cruz, but his throw to the plate wasn't in time to get Lemon.

Mike Proly, 4-9, was the winner with relief help from Guy Hoffman.

Transplanted quarterbacks make home debuts Sunday

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

They are familiar faces in unfamiliar places. They belong to Danny White, Ken Stabler and Dan Pastorini, and they'd love to be able to show the homefolks a thing or two.

White, Roger Staubach's successor as quarterback of the Dallas Cowboys, makes his regular-season home debut Sunday in Texas Stadium — and if he'd had the chance the odds are he couldn't have come up with a tougher National Conference team against which to do it.

Tampa Bay, the NFC's premier defensive team in 1979, ranks third overall in 1980, behind only Chicago and Philadelphia — but that includes the best pass defense in the league. On offense, though, the Bucs are dead last in the league.

Despite this, they're 2-0, coming off their emotional 10-0 victory over Los Angeles on Sept. 11 while the Cowboys, having won an equally emotional game 17-3 in Washington under White's low-key quarterbacking, are trying to shut aside the memories of last Sunday's 41-20 debacle in Denver.

"I think we will know more about our team after Sunday's game," said Coach Tom Landry. "We're somewhere in between the Washington win and the Denver loss."

Stabler, traded by Oakland to Houston in a straight-up swap for Pastorini, has been hot and cold in his first two games with the Oilers. In the opener, in Pittsburgh, he was intercepted five times in a 31-17 loss. But last Monday night in Cleveland he was surgeon-precise as his passing and ball-control signal-calling beat the Browns 16-7. On Sunday against visiting Baltimore he has a chance to personally show the Oilers' fans what he's got.

Pastorini, too, has had an inconsistent start with his new team. After throwing for 317 yards and two touchdowns in the Raiders' season-opening 27-14 victory in Kansas City, he was intercepted three times in San Diego last week and had to leave the game with a bruised knee in the final minute of regulation play. It took a TD pass by his replacement, Jim Plunkett, to force overtime, then Pastorini returned and the Raiders lost 30-24 in the extra period. Now they take on the visiting Redskins.

Sunday's other games are Miami at Atlanta, Green Bay at Los Angeles, Pittsburgh at Cincinnati, San Francisco at the New York Jets, St. Louis at Detroit, Minnesota at Chicago, Kansas City at Cleveland, Buffalo at New Orleans, New England at Seattle and San Diego at Denver. On Monday night it's the New York Giants at Philadelphia.

Don Strock will be making his first start of the season at quarterback for Miami, replacing Bob Griese. Coach Don Shula, looking for a way to get the Dolphins' offense moving (it ranks 12th overall and 13th in passing in the American Conference), has benched his 14-year veteran in favor of the strong-armed Strock, who has spent most of his seven years in the NFL riding the bench.

Vince Ferragamo, last year's Hollywood hero in Los Angeles when he replaced injured Pat Haden in midseason and quarterbacked the Rams to the Super Bowl, is using a different script this year. Haden won his job back at the start of this season, but was hurt again midway in the Rams' 41-20 loss to Detroit.

SELECT A CELICA AND BE A SPORT.

THE 1980 TOYOTA CELICAS

Select any Celica. You can't go wrong. These are the original sporty cars. The ones that proved that sporty doesn't have to mean temperamental, or expensive.

Celica Supra
Luxury that's almost unbelievable. With standard features like air conditioning, AM/FM stereo radio. And performance to match. A 2.6 liter, 6-cylinder fuel-injected engine, 5-speed overdrive transmission. Even a 4-speed automatic overdrive transmission and cruise control you can order. Celica Supra... the ultimate Celica.

Celica GT Liftback
Pure Celica excitement. The Celica GT Liftback is lean, clean, and a little bit mean. 2.2 liters of overhead cam engine powers it. And a 5-speed overdrive transmission handles that power superbly. Even tungsten halogen high beam headlights are standard.

Celica GT Sport Coupe
The Celica to select if you prefer your car with a trunk. And a European profile that's turning on car buffs everywhere. Celica GT Coupe standard features include reclining front bucket seats. And full instrumentation.

Celica ST Sport Coupe
At $5,879, it's the lowest sticker-priced Celica. Manufacturer's suggested retail price. Actual retail price may vary. Price does not include tax, license, transportation, Calif. emissions or optional or regionally required equipment. The Celica ST. It's a lot of car... for less.

The Celicas. Looks that are already classic. Exciting performance with total economy. And dependable as only a Toyota can be. Why wait? Go in to your Toyota dealer. He'll show you how easy it is to be a sport.
