Remains hopeful of hostage return

U.S. rejects Iranian demand to recall planes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration, skeptical yet hopeful that Iran is near a decision on the hostage question, apparently is rejecting an Iranian call that U.S. radar planes be withdrawn from the Persian Gulf to remove "obstacles" to the Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie said Sunday the AWACS reconnaissance planes were deployed at Saudi Arabia's request to protect its territorial integrity during the Iran-Iraq war. He said they have no offensive capabilities and denied they are being used to pass intelligence information to Iraq

At the same time, Muskie reaffirmed the U.S. position of impartiality in the war, but added without elaborating: "That position may have to be adjusted as circumstances develop

Muskie said the war is a separate issue from the hostages Iran's Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai suggested Saturday that the United States could improve prospects for releasing the 52 hostages, now in their 352nd day of captivity, by removing the aircraft and keeping Jordan from aiding Iraq during the war. He called the planes "obstacles to solving the hostage question."

Rajai, while in New York to address the United Nations, also predicted that the parliament's decision on conditions for freeing the hostages was "not far away.

We've heard statements like that so many times over the recent weeks that we've learned not to raise our expectations," Muskie said on ABC's "Issues and Answers.

"I hope it (the parliament) does act soon and there're some indications that it may." he added Vice President Walter Mondale, campaigning in Hartford, Conn.

backed Muskie's assessment, saying: "I see no reason to be unduly optimistic or unduly pessimistic. Iranian lawmakers, meanwhile, gave conflicting assessments

A hardline legislator, Assadollah Bayat, said consideration of the hostages will have to wait until the Iran-Iraq war is over. Reached by telephone from Beirut, Lebanon, Bayat said the Parliament is to meet on Tuesday, but that the hostage issue is still in the hands of a seven-member committee and there are no immediate plans for a

But the speaker of the 270-seat Parliament, Avatollah Hashemi Rafsanjani, was quoted in an interview with a Swedish radio correspondent as saying the conditions for the hostages' release would be decided "by the end of this week at the latest.

In a telephone interview today with The Associated Press in Beirut, Lebanon, Rafsanjani said the decision would be made "in the next two to three days.

He also said that the conditions probably would be the same as those enunciated last month by Iranian religious leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini: return of the late shah's wealth, cancellation of U.S. financial claims against Iran, release of Iranian funds in the United States and U.S. guarantees of non-interference in Iran.

Rajai said at his news conference in New York it would be easy to resolve Iran's previous demand for an official apology for American interference in Iranian affairs during the rule of the late Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi

President Carter has insisted the United States will not apologize, but Rajai said the administration already has done so in practice. although he did not say what form it had taken or who had relayed it. "All it needs is probably to put something on paper." he said.

Muskie said he considered Rajai's statement about the AWACS and Jordan an expression of concern rather than new conditions. We consider our decision to deploy AWACS as being in our national interest ... consistent with impartiality" in the Iran-Iraq conflict, he added

That position appeared to draw support Sunday from the camp of Republican presidential nominee Ronald Reagan

Former President Gerald R. Ford, interviewed on CBS "Face the Nation," said withdrawing the radar planes would be a Company says fight not over

Union cracks tough Stevens Company after 17-year battle

ROANOKE RAPIDS, N.C. (AP) — Organized labor has won a battle in its bitter 17-year fight with J.P. Stevens & Co. Inc. over unionization at some plants, but the company's chairman says the war is not over yet.

Union members in seven Stevens plants here voted unanimously Sunday to accept a contract with the company, the first union agreement Stevens has ever signed. The dispute had become a symbol of industry's efforts to keep organized labor out of the South and the vote was greeted by cheers from 750 union workers who met

But Whitney Stevens, chairman and chief executive of the nation's second-largest textile concern, said Stevens would remain opposed to unionization at nearly all of its 70 other plants The company continues to be openly and strongly opposed to unions in its non-union plants," Stevens said in a news conference at the company's headquarters in New York.

The union however agreed to call off a four-year consumer beycott of Stevens products and end an anti-Stevens publicity

Sunday's vote came more than six years after the Amalgamated Clothing and Textile Workers Union won the right to represent Stevens workers. The union had been unable to obtain a contract from the company

Clyde Bush, a union organizer who has worked in Roanoke Rapids for five years, expressed doubt that the contract would mean good relations with Stevens.

It's a victory for Roanoke Rapids and a victory for the South.

that's for sure," Bush said. "But we've had war with this company for 17 years. I'm not expecting it to roll over and die tomorrow. I expect to still have problems with this company

The contract gives 3.000 Stevens workers in Roanoke Rapids about $3 million in back pay, with each worker getting about $1,300.

The back pay includes two retroactive pay increases that Stevens granted during the past two years to some 30,000 workers at its 70 non-union plants, but not to those in Roanoke Rapids. They include an 8.5 percent raise retroactive to July 1979 and a raise of about 10 percent that became effective in July of this year. It would be the first pay increase since July 1978 for Stevens workers in Roanoke Rapids, who earn an average of $4.36 an hour. The company has agreed to use the Roanoke Rapids contract as a pattern for agreements at other small Southern plants recently organized by the union at High Point, N.C., Allendale, S.C., and

The fight between Stevens and the union was the basis for the movie "Norma Rae." starring Sally Field, who won an Oscar for the role The character of Norma Rae was based on Crystal Lee Sutton, whose organizing efforts in 1974 ended in her dismissal from Stevens' Burlington plant. Asked before the vote what she thought of the settlement, Ms. Sutton said. "I always have my hopes up, but I always think it could be another dirty trick. I won't believe it until I see it. Ms. Sutton now works for the AFL-CIO.

In Philippine bombing

Blast sends Yanks to local airports

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Hundreds of U.S. travel agents ammed an airline counter today to book flights out of the Philippines after their convention was cancelled when a bomb blast injured seven Americans and about 13 others shortly after an address by President Ferdinand E. Marcos.

Marcos was not hurt and none of the injured was in serious condition. The April 6 Liberation Movement, which opposes Marcos and his government by martial law, had warned the travel agents not to come to Manila and claimed responsibility for the bombing

Marcos condemned the bombing as a "heinous act of terrorism" and vowed "vigorous action shall be taken to seek exemplary justice and punishment for all those responsible." He ordered 30 people arrested for alleged links to the April 6 group, but did not directly tie any of them to Sunday's bombing.

The delegates mobbed an airline counter beside the lobby of the convention center. But many of them took advantage of free sightseeing tours offered by the Association of Philippine Travel Agents, and most said they were leaving early not out of fear but because cancellation of the American Society of Travel Agents' 50th anniversary congress left them with little to do

The bomb exploded during the opening session of the ASTA congress. About 5,000 people were in the seaside convention center, and Marcos had just finished a speech in which he told them:

You come to the Philippines perhaps for the first time and you are warned that the Philippines is under martial law, raising fear and apprehension that you come to visit a country where bloodshed is rife, kidnapping, arson, murder, pillage and destruction commonplace.

But this is a nightmare which we hope is past and gone The bomb went off during a slide film depicting the U.S. naval bombardment of Spanish ships in Manila Bay in 1898. Marcos was seated 20 rows from the explosion, and his guards immediately surrounded him. Many in the audience dropped to the floor of the auditorium. Hundreds fled through the smoke and dust Investigators said several of the travel agents saw two people leave seats in the balcony moments before the explosion.

Tourism Minister Jose D. Aspiras said the bomb exploded in a section of seats occupied by U.S. and Brazilian delegates, and that it was placed in a delegate's bag atop a seat. He said the bomb was similar to those used in other recent bombings in Manila and was believed imported from the United States.

The U.S. Embassy said the injured Americans were Mr. and Mrs Clifford Archer of Glendale, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Cooper of Aiken, S.C., Roberta Fisher of Arlington Heights, Ill., and Joseph Hofrichter of Loveland, Ohio. Hospital sources said June C. Breen of Washington, D.C., also was injured.

The hospitals said the other injured were a Korean, a Swiss, a

Iraq claims 'airtight' seige of key locations

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iraq said its infantry and armor consolidated an "airtight siege" of Abadan and Khorramshahr as the Persian Gulf war entered its fifth week today. But Iran said Abadan's defenders prevented Iraqi tanks from penetrating the city's defenses and that house-to-house fighting raged in Khorramshahr for the fourth straight day.

Iran also announced it renamed Khorramshahr — which means fertile city in Farsi — to Khuninshar, which means "city of blood." It said the name change was in tribute to the "epic resistance" put up against the invading Iraqis by diehard Islamic revolutionary guardsmen in the port, which is 10 miles from the refinery city of Iran's leader Avatollah Ruhollah Khomeini agreed to allow a mediation commission of Islamic heads of state to go to Tehran but said its task was to be confined to "investigating the criminal invasion" ordered by Iraqi President Saddam Hussein, Tehran Radio reported.

The broadcast, monitored here, said the patriarch of Iran's Islamic revolution gave the statement in response to a plea for a negotiated settlement of the war made by Habib Chatti Tunisian secretary-general of the 40-nation Islamic Conference.

The leaders of both Iran and Iraq ignored appeals from other Moslem nations for a four-day cease-fire during Islam's holiest holiday, the feast of id el-Adha, which began

Farmers Home Administration refuses confirmation

Senator's farming operation status remains a question

BY SHEILA ECCLES STAFF WRITER AND ALETHA DAVIS CITY EDITOR

Bill Pieratt, Bell County, state director for the Farmers Home Administration, said today he had not seen any agency letter which would recommend foreclosure by that unit on property owned by Senator Bob Price, Gray County farmer and rancher In a copyright story a Dallas newspaper stated a confidential government report labeled Price's farm operation as a "disaster.

Hell, they (farming operations) are all disasters. It was a disaster loan." Pieratt said

The reported recommendation for foreclosure would come unless Price can meet loan payments due this year, the Dallas publication

According to the report, Price has loans in the amounts of $724,000 and $64,000. However Piratt would not confirm these

'It's a bad situation." Piratt, speaking from his Temple office said. "But all the farmers are in the same situation. But Price could

said today in the State of Texas no foreclosure could be executed in less than a required 21 - day public notice, and then only on a first Tuesday of any month. Chance requested any question concerning the issue should be written and submitted to his office before any comment would be made. However, Chance said the Dallas newspaper had not submitted any questions to his office. Bill Hopper, chief of the agency's farmer programs was not available for comment early today. A spokesperson in his office said he was engaged in a "telephone conversation with Washington" and it could be a long while before he could be reached by telephone. In an Associated Press story for morning papers today, Chance was quoted as saying. "We are not just dealing with money, we are dealing with a family's life. I haven't given foreclosure a whole lot of thought, and I haven't discussed it with my supervisors. The newspaper reportedly mentioned another confidential report from the same agency saying Price's "whole operation is a disaster, the applicant's management ability is questionable and his farmland ... is of poor quality This could not be confirmed today.

Price defeated Bob Simpson in a 1977 special eletgion to fill the vacancy created by the appointment of former Senator Max Sherman to the post of presdient of West Texas State Univesity. Price will face Democrat Bill Sarpalius in the November election

Senator Price was attending a meeting of Texas Cattle Feeders Association early today and could not be reached for comment. He will appear Tuesday for a reception at Citizens Bank Hospitality Room.

Influence - peddling charge defense attorneys wind down

Defense attorneys today prepared to wind down their case in the Texas Brilab trial of Texas House Speaker Billy Clayton and two co-defendants accused in an alleged influence-peddling

Clayton and Austin law partners Donald Ray and Randall Wood are being tried on charges of extortion, bribery, racketeering and conspiracy, after a 10-month investigation by undercover FBI agents into allegations of corruption among political and labor leaders

Prosecutors also planned to call one rebuttal witness after final defense testimony. The jury will begin deliberations after closing arguments and U.S. District Judge Robert Then Clayton, a 20-year veteran of the Legislature who is seeking an unprecedented fourth term as speaker, will await a decision that could scuttle his political career.

Prosecutors have relied heavily on tapes secretly recorded by undercover agents posing as Prudential Insurance Co representatives to back up charges that Clayton accepted $5,000, and got a promise for an additional $500,000 a year from a Deer Park union official to reopen bids on a lucrative state employees' insurance contract. The union official, L.G. Moore, was indicted with Clayton, Wood and Ray last June, but will be tried later.

Clayton spent two days on the stand and insisted he never took a bribe

Wood and Ray are accused of agreeing to accept money to use their influence with state leaders to see that Prudential was awarded the $82 million-a-year contract. FBI informant Joseph Hauser posed as an insurance representative and offered kickbacks to several political and labor leaders in connection with the insurance contracts. Clayton testified last week he had "never cut a deal with anyone during my years in the Legislature ... never made a commitment to any legislator during my three terms as speaker . never done anything illegal and never will.

Women learn assertive reactions in workshop designed for coping

MADISON, Wis. (AP) - She is Any Woman, and as she walks along a city street - any street - a man makes an offensive remark about her body

She has three basic options. She can fix her gaze on the sidewalk and rush on, pretending she hasn't heard. She can spit out her own obscene remark or gesture. Or she can walk up to the man, look him in the eye and - in a voice loud enough for bystanders to hear - deliver a stock response she learned in Nanci Newton's street assertiveness workshop:

"I don't like the remark you made. You are trying to degrade me. I want you to stop it.

Men who make remarks about women's faces or legs or breasts or hips often defend their comments as terms of appreciation. Many women regard such remarks - and stronger, obscene comments - as public harassment, and the course Ms. Newton is devising at the Dane County Project on Rape is designed to deal

Response to her first workshop in October 1979 surprised her. Almost 40 women attended and scores inquired about future

One year and six workshops later, she is expanding the two-hour workshops to a full-fledged course of three to six weeks' duration which she will inaugurate next spring. She is also devising a curriculum so others can teach the techniques

"For too long, women have had to walk on streets as if they were walking through enemy territory. It's like a war zone," she said. "For a woman to be assertive, she has to believe (harassment) has got to stop. It's a way of fighting back in a way that's non-violent and (makes) you feel good about yourself. She said she believes street harassment will drop dramatically if women respond assertively and men can no longer count on women

Ms. Newton first learned about street assertiveness a year ago at an Ohio workshop led by a group called Columbus Women Against Rape and sponsored by the National Coalition Against Sexual

It isn't easy to learn. Women aren't used to being assertive. Especially on public streets, toward strange men.

A woman harassed in public has a choice of three responses, she said: aggressive, timid or assertive. An aggressive response - name-calling or an obscene gesture could backfire, turning an insult into violence. But a timid response - hurrying away in embarrassment - may be as bad. Either

"A lot of people say, 'Why say anything? Why not just hurry on, do what you've always done?' That doesn't necessarily protect you," Ms. Newton said. "You're giving 'victim signals.' You've just given him a lot of signals you may be easy prey. There are a lot of rapists who walk around looking for a victim, testing out a victim."

Street assertiveness includes gauging potential violence in a situation and walking away if necessary, she said. But basically, she added, an assertive response delivered in a strong voice and backed up with a confident stance shows the woman is willing to defend her territory and makes the man publicly accountable for

"You've embarrassed him. I've been in situations where nearby people applauded," she said.

Women reinforce what they learn in class on "practice walks" around the city. They also memorize a list of "stock answers that just leap to your mind" when they are needed, she said.

The street assertiveness instruction also encourages a woman to trust to instinct and not worry that she might offend a man who seems to be following her by telling him to keep his distance. Women are altogether too polite, she said.

"I think one of the greatest dangers to women are the rules of etiquette. We're so polite....It's not terrible to misjudge a man,"

A woman who thinks she's being followed can cross the street or step into the gutter, face him and tell him to back off.

'Sure, he's going to think you're a strange lady, but who cares?" she said. "If he is a threat, you're facing him." Ms. Newton's course teaches-omen to meet men's eyes briefly as they walk. This gives women an air of confidence — but it's often the toughest part of the course. Most women, Ms. Newton said,

The course also teaches women confident body movements (a brisk walk, for instance, with head held up and eyes looking ahead, not down) and facial expressions (observant, not smiling at every think that looking at a man, however briefly, will be interpreted as passing man) that will not be misinterpreted. "We smile and smile and smile. When we're nervous, we smile. When we're terrified, we smile," Ms. Newton said. "It's not going to work if you're smiling while you tell a man to leave you alone.

Court leaves Laetrile ruling intact

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court gave federal regulators a major victory today by turning away arguments that terminal cancer victims have a constitutional right to use Laetrile. The justices, without comment, left intact a federal appeals court ban the controversial substance Today's action was not a definitive ruling. It is conceivable, though not likely, that the high court could at some later date agree to study the issue in depth.

ruling that because no such right exists the government is free to

But for now the practical effect is just as momentous. Cancer victims determined to get Laetrile without leaving the United States must do so illegally. The Laetrile controversy has been an emotional one because of modern medicine's failure thus far to conquer cancer A number of physicians advocate the use of Laetrile, an apricot-pit derivitive, for cancer victims. Others in medicine and science discount its effectiveness, portraying its use as medical

By a unanimous vote in 1979, the Supreme Court upheld a federal ban on the interstate shipment of Laetrile. But that 1979 decision

The 1979 ruling also did not resolve whether Laetrile is eligible for a "grandfather" exemption to the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act of 1962 that required proof of safety and effectiveness before a drug is marketed. Last Feb. 19, the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals answered both questions in favor of the government The Food and Drug Administration does not concede that Laetrile is non-toxic. But it has given the National Cancer Institute permission to conduct clinical tests of Laetrile on cancer patients.

Many states allow Laetrile's use or manufacture, but the laws have little practical value because the federal law says no ingredient or component of Laetrile may be moved across state

The Supreme Court appeal acted on today was filed on behalf of all terminal cancer patients who seek to use Laetrile. In part, the appeal stems from a 1975 lawsuit filed by Glenn Rutherford, a 63-year-old Conway Springs, Kan., cancer victim.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration today formally proposed that a warning label be put on all brands of tampons to warn women that tampons have been linked to the rare but deadly disease Toxic Shock Syndrome

FDA will then decide whether to make the rule final. Toxic Shock Syndrome has struck more than 400 persons and has been blamed for at least 40 deaths since 1975. Most of the cases were reported this year to the Center for Disease Control

The FDA said it is caused by a bacterium from the Staphylocccus aureus family and that while some men and boys have contracted the disease, most of the victims have been women under 30 who use tampons during their menstrual periods.

Researchers do not know why tampons increase the risk of Toxic Shock Syndrome, the agency said.

Meanwhile, the City Council was meeting to consider imposing an 11c m, curfew for children under 15 and a $20,000 appropriation to a reward fund that already totals more than $50,000 in state and private contributions.

The body of the 10th victim — a 7-year-old girl - was found Saturday in a vacant lot by volunteers who signed up to kick through weeds and brambles in search of bodies and clues. Organizers of the search said the biracial effort by hundreds of blacks and whites had helped ease racial tensions produced by the slayings.

Four other children are missing. The volunteer searches are to continue each Saturday, while the daily door-to-door canvass is assigned to uniformed police officers. Homes missed by police will be visited by firefighters.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Guess what crime will be like in 2005

Crime continues because criminals are smarter than their pursuers, or so it sometimes seems

A study group, a subsidiary of the Governor's Crime Commission, was needed to come up with this vital information:

Compared to their 1980 counterparts, typical criminals in the year 2005 will be more sophisticated, more business - oriented, older and smarter. They also might be - and probably will be - skilled in accounting or computors.

That profile of future crooks was distilled from the opinions of criminologists, sociologists, historians, psychologists and other specialists contacted by the special state committee.

A public personality, especially the head of state, shouldn't need a battalion of specialists and special committees to know that criminals will be smarter, adept in computer technology and accomplished in accounting. A glance at escalating white collar crime statistics discloses an already rising intelligence level among crooks.

If crime stats aren't convincing evidence, talk to grade school children and look at present - day academic curriculum. Students learn more sophisticated material in this generation than those past. That's one of the basics in the evolution of civilization — humankind advances intellectually and technologically. And as crooks begin as ordinary children who go through ordinary educational processes, it can be assumed they, too, will advance intellectually and technologically.

If Gov. Hunt requires an investigative committee to paint by number a profile of tomorrow's criminal, he operates somewhere outside the normal evolutionary process.

Astounding is the time the committee has taken to issue its preliminary report: Members began operation in the spring of 1979 and only now are able to start drafting a final report, due by year's end.

As for now, all committee members have managed to impart is what criminals have been demonstrating for about two decades: Crime in the year 2005 will pose far greater challenges to law enforcement, the judiciary and correction systems, the committee predicts. "We believe crime will be much more sophisticated, much more white - collar, business - oriented. There will be much greater demands put on the system to fight this kind of crime.

Based on these disclosures to date, the report adds up to an as - vet undisclosed waste of the taxpayer's money. The information could have been gleaned by talking to any cop on any beat.

Bragging that the committee report might be considered too futuristic for politicians, some were worried that gubernatorial candidates might reject it. "A guy doesn't get elected because he's thinking 25 years ahead.

Perhaps not. What we would like to see is someone who doesn't get elected because he wastes tax money on useless projects.

A successful watch

One of the most effective weapons against crime is the neighborhood

People looking after their neighbor's property when the neighbor is

Housewives checking the streets with a curious eye as they do the

Husbands walking noiselessly along the sidewalks, ears and eyes cocked, after the sun has gone down.

Children reporting to their parents any unusual activity in the One day this week, a woman saw what she thought was a familiar figure near a home that had been burglarized before. She had seen the man come out of the house on another occasion but he got away before the police arrived. At that time, he had taken guns.

This time, the woman, who understandably didn't want to be identified, called to her neighbor (also a member of the community watch group) to call police. She then positioned herself behind a tree to observe the actions of the young man.

When the police came, they went to the window of the house that had been raised for entry. Inside, they found a 20 - year - old man casually walking through the house

He admitted on the scene that he had been involved in two other break-ins at the house.

Neighborhoods that don't have watch groups would do well to organize them. And those that do have them should do everything possible to keep the interest up.

The best way to stamp out neighborhood crime is for neighbors to get together in a combined effort.

Congressional power: an untapped reservoir

By Reverend Claude Bunzel (Reverend Bunzel is a distinguished scholar specializing in America's Colonial and Revolutionary War periods. He is also former Director of Research for Americanism Educational League.)

The United States of America is a Constitutional Republic. This nation was brought into being in 1789, when "We, the People" ordained and established the newly ratified Constitution "for the United States of America.

Legally and historically, the United States has a republican form of government: government by elected representatives, rather than government by the people directly.

The founders of this Constitutional Republic considered numerous forms of government during their deliberations. Democracy was one form of government which was examined. In studying its history and application, they realized that democracy -- direct participation in government by all of the people -- was cumbersome and impractical

The Founding Fathers further realized that the pure majority rule that is democracy, while sounding noble, can degenerate into the most brutal of all tyrannies: the many enforcing their will upon the few, without regard to the inherent rights that every individual

The Constitution as "supreme law of the land" has given America the most finely balanced governmental system ever devised by mortal man. Leading statesmen of other nations have acknowledged this to

This Constitutional Republic provides for a separation of powers into legislative, executive and judicial branches of government. Congress is the legislative branch of the national government, and is delegated the power to make laws based on the Constitution. The executive branch is headed by the President, whose chief responsibility is to administer the laws of Congress. The judicial branch consists of the Supreme Court, and such "inferior courts" as Congress ordains and establishes. The purpose of these courts is to adjudicate actual cases that arise under the Constitution, or laws based on the Constitution

The Constitution provides numerous checks and balances within its framework, each branch against the other two, so that We, the People" may be protected from tyrannical government. The only authority that each branch of government has is delegated authority - delegated by "We, the People" as the true source of political

The provisions of the 9th and 10th Amendments stress this point in crystal-clear fashion. The 9th states that 'The enumeration in the Constitution of certain rights shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the

The 10th Amendment says simply and clearly that "The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states respectively, or to the people." The Constitution is written in words that eighth grade students can easily understand. Yet few adults have taken the time to read this vital document since they ended their formal education. Therefore, most of us are unaware of the dominant role which the Constitution gives to

In the words of one Federal judge: "The Constitutional remedy for every ill flowing from Washington can be found in the Congress of the United States ... Our recourse is in Congress, and we will not restore a free and independent American constitutional republic until the people elect Congressmen and Senators dedicated to that ideal.

What about that Washington "ill" known as high taxes? The Constitution specifies that Congress can levy taxes - but for only three purposes: (1) to pay the debt of the United States; (2) to provide for the common defense; and (3) to provide for the general welfare.

The "general welfare" clause of the Constitution is constantly being abused, because "general welfare" is now interpreted to mean material welfare bestowed upon individual citizens, rather than the well - being of the entire nation. This current interpretation is, however, in direct conflict with the meaning intended by the Founding Fathers.

In 'The Federalist', James Madison and Alexander Hamilton both stated that the term "general Welfare" was explained by the particular powers enumerated in Article I, Section 8, of the Constitution

There is no constitutional justification for using the tax payer's money to support one segment of the population at the expense of another segment. There is no constitutional justification for using tax money to support foreign governments -- and this, in reality, is what "foreign aid" is!

Nor is there any constitutional justification for special domestic subsidies. In fact, Alexander Hamilton, in Essay No. 17 of 'The Federalist', pointed out that "the supervision of agriculture" was among those things which should not be handled at the national level.

Congress can correct such unconstitutional activities, because the sanction for both foreign and domestic programs either originates with Congress, or with a department or agency established

The final Clause of Article I, Section 8, of the Constitution gives Congress power "To make all Laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into Execution the foregoing Powers, and all other Powers vested by this Constitution in the Government of the United States...

The power to make laws also includes the power to rescind laws that are out of date, or laws that usurp local or state authority, or laws that should not have been passed in the first place. During recent years the Constitution has passed more laws to check the many abuses that keep arising under previous laws. This is a vicious circle that congress can correct -- whenever there is the will to do so!

The runaway courts

By Jenkin Lloyd Jones Pierre Elliott Trudeau's effort to get some agreement among 10 Canadian provincial prime ministers over the proposed new Canadian constitution ended in failure on Sept. 12. It had been anticipated that the provinces, jealous of their high degree of autonomy as compared to the American states, would be wary of Trudeau's attempt to strengthen the national government. But the provincial leaders also feared what would seem to be the most desirable and innocent part of the new constitution, namely a hill of rights The obsolete British North America Act of 1867, which is the closest thing Canada has to a constitution, contains no guarantees of liberties like those set forth in the first 10 amendments to our Constitution.

But the provincial prime ministers. citing actions of the federal courts in the United States, wondered if a bill of rights would be used to give judges of the national court system of Canada the power to impose their wills upon the provinces, regardless of the sentiments of the people. As Saskatchewan Premier Allan Blakeney put it, the courts could overrule local laws prohibiting "sale of smut" on the newsstands or the closing of stores on Christmas Day

The Canadian ministers have put their fingers on an American dilemma. How do we preserve and defend rights somewhat vaguely enumerated in the U.S. Constitution without bowing to judicial interpretations of those rights that may outrage the majority of citizens?

Not until the advent of "activist" federal judges, beginning with the Franklin Roosevelt regime, did this become an issue. The courts had generally followed precedent unless new laws mandated a change, and exercised sparingly the striking down of the acts of popularly elected legislatures as unconstitutional.

As the activist philosophy spread through the federal bench, novel interpretations were made of the Constitution, chiefly in regard to the First, Sixth and 14th Amendments

Under the First Amendment, "freedom of speech" decisions were carried to the point where almost any degree of pornography and scatology seemed to have judicial protection. School prayers were outlawed, citing the separation of church and state, although there were few communities in which referenda would not have shown popular support for them. Under the Sixth Amendment protections set down by the Warren Court in the Mallory, Miranda and Escobedo decisions. the difficulty facing peace officers in making valid arrests was compounded. even as crime rates soared. Happily, some restrictions have since been modified. Interpretations of the 14th Amendment proceeded through judicial demands for colorblindness and equal opportunity, as set foth in the landmark case of Brown vs. Board of Education, to color consciousness, forced racial mixing and, finally, quotas. It is doubtful if any of the latter measures would survive a popular opinion poll anywhere in the nation.

Someone or some authority has to interpret the Constitution, and John Marshall seized this function for the new Supreme Court in 1803.

But the dictum, "the law is what the Supreme Court says it is," could have the makings of dictatorship by the unelected and the undismissable. Federal judges, chosen by presidential appointment and serving for life, have come perilously close to turning themselves into super legislators.

When the Founding Fathers invented the separation of powers between the legislative, executive and judicial branches, they exempted federal judges from the necessity of seeking political favor from the people on the theory that this would make for steadier and wiser law. The theory remained sound as long as judges did not seriously invade the prerogatives of the other two branches which do have to subject themselves periodically to voter approval.

But if the courts should decide that anything they dislike is unconstitutional, then government of, by and for the people would go by the board and we would develop a system of government by judicial fiat. We already have this in a small way in those school districts operated, not by an elected school board, but under the direct orders of a federal judge. Dean Roscoe Pound, before his death in 1964, warned of "absolutism" in U.S. courts, i.e., the pursuit of a good idea to

Consumers advised to watch insurance rates

By LOUISE COOK Associated Press Writer

The Federal Trade Commission has been forced to stop its efforts to regulate the sale of life insurance. But consumers can regulate their own purchases to get the most for their premium dollars.

The FTC had proposed that state insurance commissions require companies to provide more information about the cost and rate of return on different types of policies. The proposal died when Congress passed legislation reaffirming its policy of leaving insurance regulation solely up to the states. and ordering the FTC to study insurance only if it is asked to do so by committess of the House or Senate.

The congressional action followed an FTC staff report which was sharply critical of the industry. Insurance companies challenged the report and accused the FTC of basing its study on false assumptions

At the center of the controversy is the argument over term insurance versus whole-life policies. Each has advantages and disadvantages.

Term insurance provides a fixed amount of protection for a fixed period. After the term expires, you have no more protection unless you get another policy. Premiums are relatively low when you are young, but increase as you get older.

Whole-life policies provide protection for as long as you live. They also build up cash values. You can borrow against them and, if you decide you no longer want the insurance, you can discontinue the policy and take the accumulated cash. Premiums for whole-life policies generally are higher than those for term insurance, but they are fixed and do not increase as you

The FTC described whole-life policies as a combination of insurance and savings and it said the average rate of return on the savings portion of most policies was under 2 percent a year.

The American Council of Life Insurance said the FTC calculations were wrong. It said the average rate of return was closer to 6 percent. The council also said that whole-life policies are NOT savings or investments.

John H. Filer, chairman of the board of Aetna Life & Casualty of Hartford, Conn., summed up the council's position when he testified before the Senate Commerce Committee last October. "Whole-life insurance is not partially insurance and partially savings," he said. "It is wholly insurance. It is not designed to provide for the possibility of economic gain in return for a risked sum of money. That's an investment. Nor is it designed to accumulate deposits of money building toward an individual or family goal so long as the depositor remains alive to make the deposits. That's a savings

The Better Business Bureau's "Guide to Wis Buying" says that no matter which type of insurance you choose, it is important to shop around. "Comparthe cost of similar policies offered by a number of firms. Premiums vary substantially," says the BBB.

Ask how long it will take you to build up cash value it a whole-life policy. The FTC said that 45 percent of the people who buy whole-life policies drop them within 16 years and many of them lose money.

Four hospitalized in crash

MOUNTAIN HOME, Ark. (AP) - Four Texans remained hospitalized early today with injuries they received Sunday when a light plane clipped an electrical transmission cable and crashed at a north-central Arkansas resort, authorities said.

Taken to a Bull Shoals hospital were Joe Kemp, 61, the pilot; his wife Maxine, 58, both of Grapevine, Texas; and Bill and Teka Davis, both 60, of Roanoke, Texas. They were treated for cuts and bruises and were reported in stable

State police trooper Bill Carver said Kemp took off from Gaston's Resort on the White River at about 10:45 a.m. Sunday in a 1955 model 170 Cessna. Gaston's is about three miles southeast of Bull Shoals Dam, near the Baxter-Marion

The grisly murder ignited national interest shortly after the bloodied body of Betty Gore was found in her Wylie home June 13. Mrs. Montgomery, described as an active church member, a devoted mother and a friend of the victim, surrendered to police two weeks later.

Ryan assumed jurisdiction in the case and almost immediately slapped a gag order on all participants, promising to enforce the order with a contempt of court citation for anyone who talked to reporters.

He also drew criticism from attorneys when he refused a motion for a change of venue and opted to keep the trial here in Collin County.

"It doesn't surprise me when someone calls me a petty dictator," Ryan said on the eve of the trial. "I could care less.

NEW YORK (AP) - Christiaan Barnard, the surgeon who prolonged some lives with pioneering heart transplants, says he believes suicide may be the best form of treatment for some terminally ill patients.

"Death is not the enemy. Often it is good medical treatment," Barnard says in his forthcoming book, "Good Life-Good Death."

Barnard is planning to arrive in New York next month to promote the book and campaign for acceptance of euthanasia, the Daily News said

"I feel that society is ready to take a giant step toward a better understanding of the dignity of death - and in the attainment of that dignity, if necessary, through the acceptance of euthanasia and suicide." Barnard said

THE BORN LOSER

ABBY: My 60-year-old husband has emphysema so bad he can hardly draw a deep breath or laugh without coughing. His doctor said he absolutely had to quit smoking, so he saw a hypnotist a few times, came home and announced that he was "cured." I knew he was lying because whenever he'd come in from the outside he'd smell of smoke. He thinks he's fooling me, but I keep finding cigarettes stashed all over the house.

Abby, I feel like I'm living with a dope addict. Should I throw the cigarettes out when I find them? It's bad enough to live with a man who's killing himself because he isn't man enough to quit smoking, but to know that he's a liar and a cheat hurts even more. I really love him, but I feel so helpless. Please tell me what to do.

HEARTSICK WIFE

DEAR WIFE: First, I'll tell you what not to do. Don't tell him that if he were a "man" he could quit smoking. He hates his habit as much (or more) than you, but he's hooked. His craving for nicotine is as real as a heroin addict's need for a fix. Don't throw away the cigarettes he's stashed. It will only make him feel guiltier, and Lord knows, he already feels guilty enough.

If you love him, tell him! He needs to hear it to help him conquer the habit.

I've heard from literally hundreds of smokers who have been as hooked as he, but managed to quit. Some used the tapering-off method; others said "cold turkey" was the only way. Many recommended behavior modification. Some credited prayer. But of all the programs for which people pay, according to my readers, the most successful by far is Smokenders. (For information, the toll-free number is 1-800-227-2334. In California it's 1-800-642-4772.)

Your man may have to try several methods before finding the one that works for him. But with your love and support, his chances for quitting are infinitely better.

DEAR ABBY: A writer asked whether it was proper to ask "Who else is coming?" after receiving an invitation to a party. Your reply, "It's not considered good manners," prompts this letter.

Recently we drove 20 miles to a party only to find that our neighbors had done the same thing. Our "good manners" in not inquiring who else was coming was both wasteful and expensive.

I suggest that hostesses consider this, and offer information that would promote sharing a ride. Or perhaps a guest might properly inquire as to whether he could give any other guests a ride.

WARSON WOODS, MO.

DEAR WOODS: Asking "Who else will be there?" out of curiosity is tacky. Offering to provide transportation to other guests is thoughtful.

DEAR ABBY: Many of your readers may get the wrong impression from ANONYMOUS, who said, "I was married to a Christian Scientist who wished to return to the celibate life — married, but no sex. Then I suddenly came to my senses, divorced him, and now I am married to a normal

Japanese are master pearl farmers YORK (NEA) — The shells shipped to Japan from the oyster's mantle, as many ton or flannel cloth in the

NEW YORK (NEA) — The next time a pebble in your shoe stops you in your tracks, be grateful you're not an oyster.

That poor mollusk can't untie its shell and shake when an irritant filters in among the plankton. It's stuck wth the intruder for life. So to make life bearable, the oyster coats the object with an iridescent secretion called nacre, alias mother-of-pearl. After a couple of years' secretion, you wouldn't recognize the object for what it was.

You'd recognize it as a "natural" pearl, produced and found by chance. That's no foundation for a business, of course, which is why the "cultured" pearl industry arose around 50 years ago: to produce pearls regularly and deliberately.

By and large, it's a Japanese endeavor because the Japanese know what to do with them. According to Albert Asher, president of Schiff-Asher, a New York firm which imports cultured pearls from the South Seas and Japan, "The Japanese discovered a way to cultivate fully rounded pearls, which are the most desirable, and they won't give that secret

The rudiments of pearl production, however, are public. Japanese oyster farmers start with millions of baby oysters in rearing tanks situated in the bays along the southwest coast of Japan.

When the babies reach three years of age, they're hauled up and into surgery. Says Ernest Reuter, president of Leys, Christie, another New York cultured pearl importing firm, "They put the oyster in a solution that relaxes it, wedge open the shell, slit the body and insert a nucleus or tiny-beebe that's made from clamshells shipped to Japan from the Mississippi river area. The limestone underlying the Mississippi gets into the water and causes these clams to have a very pure strain of calcium carbonate in their shells, and that makes the pearls

Along with the nucleus, shaped various ways to produce various shaped pearls, the farmers insert a tiny amount of tissue snipped from the oyster's "mantle" or outer skin. Then the oysters are put back in the bay, in baskets suspended from rafts, and two or three times a year, for the next couple of years, the farmers pull them up, clean off the barnacles and parasites, tag them and sit back and wait.

"Cultivators have some idea of the size of the pearls they'll get because of the size of the oysters and the nucleus, but there's no guarantee," Reuter says. "Most regular cultured pearls are from one-tenth to one-fifth of an inch in diameter."

You have to wait for them in any case, and the longer you do the better. "The oyster can only make so much nacre so the longer you wait, the more coatings it distributes on the nucleus."

In the South Seas, where oysters grow to be the size of ashtrays, they wait and pray for pearls that can reach three-quarters of an inch.

In the freshwater lakes of Japan (and China), they wait for something different, produced differently and commonly called Biwa pearls after Japan's Biwa Lake.

"Instead of inserting one solid nucleus into the oyster (or mussel)," says Asher, "they only introduce pieces of the oyster's mantle, as many as each oyster will hold. The resulting freshwater pearls are usually eggshaped and designers use them in rope necklaces."

"Seed" pearls, also freshwater, are cultivated in a variety of small shapes — like grains of rice or M&M's — and also used in "ropes."

Before any of them get around your neck that way, however, they must be harvested and sorted by hand according to color and size, then strung unknotted on silk threads to be sold to wholesalers.

"Depending on shape, smoothness, color and luster, the same size pearls can be $300 per strand wholesale or $3,000," says Reuter. "The value drops down 50 percent for baroque pearls, which are irregularly shaped, even if the color and luster are good. Round pearls are still the most desirable."

To be perfectly perfect, all pearls should have a "creamy rose hue," says Reuter, "and a good orient, which means the color seems to come from inside like moonlight."

But whatever you pay for whatever you buy — $1,000 for a "nice quality" matineelength necklace (18 to 22 inches); $3,000 for "gem quality," or $60,000 for one perfect South Seas pearl, treat it right.

Says Reuter, "Pearls are often soft so store them in cot-

A message to users of Rely tampons from Procter & Gamble.

Women who use Rely∞ tampons should stop using them and return the unused product to Procter & Gamble for a refund.

Government studies show that tampons are associated with an increased risk of Toxic Shock Syndrome (TSS). This is a newly-discovered disease that affects mainly women who use tampons during their periods.

Toxic Shock Syndrome can be very serious and is believed to be responsible for a number of deaths. Almost all women who have had the disease have recovered.

Some recent studies indicate that Rely was apparently involved with Toxic Shock Syndrome to a greater extent than other tampon brands.

Toxic Shock Syndrome was first reported in November 1978. It is believed to be caused by a toxin produced by a bacterial infection (Staphylococcus aureus). In June 1980, the U.S. Center for Disease Control (CDC) first linked it to tampon use. No one yet knows how or why tampons are associated with this disease.

In June, based on research conducted up to that point, CDC said that tampon use alone was not sufficient to cause the disease. CDC also said that no particular brand of tampon was more involved than others.

But on September 15, CDC announced, a new study. It compared women who had Toxic Shock Syndrome with women who did not. The study confirmed that Toxic Shock Syndrome was associated with tampon use. It also indicated that Rely was apparently involved with more cases than any other brand. Here are the key data available to date:

On September 21, P&G convened a scientific advisory group to review all known data relating to TSS. The group concluded that the available data were still fragmentary, but advised that the results of the latest CDC study should not be ignored.

Therefore, on September 22, Procter & Gamble announced it was suspending sales of Rely and that it would refund money to consumers who had Rely in their homes.

The Food and Drug Administration offers this advice to consumers:

"The current evidence indicates that women should stop using Rely. Women who want to reduce their risk of toxic shock even further may want to consider not using any tampons at all, or using napkins part of the time during their periods.

"Women using tampons who develop a high fever and vomiting or diarrhea during their periods should stop using tampons and see their doctors right away."

The FDA and CDC have said they will continue studying Toxic Shock Syndrome to find out what causes it and why it is associated with tampons. Procter & Gamble will participate with the government in this important effort.

In the meantime, Procter & Gamble advises women not to use Rely tampons and to return unused Rely for a refund.

You should know these symptoms of Toxic Shock Syndrome:

High Fever (102°) and Vomiting or diarrhea

If you have these symptoms during your menstrual period, discontinue use of tampons and see your doctor at once.

How to return Rely and obtain refund:

Send your unused Rely tampons with your name and address to:

P.O. Box PM006,

El Paso, Texas 79966.
And you will receive a refund including cost of mailing.

NOTE: You may see Rely advertisements in the November issues of various women's magazines. Unfortunately, these issues were already printed when the decision to suspend sales of Rely was made on September 22, 1980.

Steelers meet Raiders tonight

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers may be forced to battle the Oakland Raiders tonight without a key offensive weapon, running back Franco

Harris, who strained ligaments in his left knee in last week's loss to Cincinatti, was listed as "doubtful" for the nationally televised game.

If Harris is sidelined, he'll be replaced in the starting lineup by Rocky Bleier or Russell Davis. Harris is just 63 yards shy of becoming the third player in National Football League history to rush for 9,000

The Pittsburgh-Oakland series, considered one of the most intense in professional football, dates to 1970. The Raiders hold a 6-5 edge in season and post-season play, but the Steelers have won three of the five games played at home. Are the Raiders the arch enemy of the Steelers, or just another football team? "Nothing special," says Steeler Coach Chuck Noll 'All we're concerned with is playing one game," he said. "They all count one."

Not so long ago, the Steelers ended the decade with four Super Bowl trophies, Oakland with one, and players on both teams with a headful of vivid memories.

Not Noll, who says he's forgotten the biggest rivalry of the 1970s, when Pittsburgh won three of five consecutive post-season contests from 1972 to 1976.

"I can't even remember what our team was like when we played the Raiders last," he said. Seriously? "Seriously!

But for some members of the Steeler squad, forgetting isn't easy.

When you think of the Oakland Raiders, you think of Darth Vader," says Pittsburgh running back Rocky Bleier. "It doesn't change, even though we haven't played each other since 1977.

Others, including Steeler center Mike Webster, downplay the hostilities. "I don't get into that stuff," Webster said. "Any two teams that play each other sure aren't going to be cordial. Oakland was a special case, though, for Steeler safety Mike Wagner. "We really didn't like those guys at all," he said. "We felt that a few of their players were not playing the game like it should be played. And I'm sure a few of those players had similar feelings. Wagner reflected, "But then again," "there was a general good feeling for some of the Raiders. We had some evenings out in Oakland that were a lot of fun. It was more a question of individual personalities. 'We still don't like the image of the Oakland Raiders," Wagner said. "So there's still that feeling among some of the veterans who experienced those years."

Perhaps least cordial were the feelings between Raider defensive back George Atkinson and Steeler wide receiver Lynn Swann. He suffered concussions from Atkinson's hits in two games, the second one giving rise to Noll's comment that there was a "criminal element" in the Atkinson's $2 million lawsuit against Noll provided one of the "distractions" of the enters the game with a 4-2 record. Steelers' disappointing 1977 season, the last year that the two teams met.

order to hamper Oakland's passing game. No one called foul play, but people still marvel at Harris' ''Immaculate Reception" of Terry Bradshaw's deflected pass that gave Pittsburgh a 1972 playoff win over the Raiders.

Their last meeting was Sept. 25, 1977 in a regular-season game won by Oakland.

That day the Oakland Raiders were as good as they have ever been. But after that game we really were never quite the same again. It was a big, big win and we paid a big, big price for it," Davis said. "We came away with so many injuries that we never really recovered. Never.'

Of the 22 players who started for the Raiders in that game, seven remain on the active roster, Cliff Branch, Art Shell, Gene Upshaw, Dave Dalby, Mark van Eeghen, John Matuszak and Ted Hendricks Oakland, which last week upset San Diego, enters tonight's game at 3-3. Quarterback Dan Pastorini, newly acquired from Houston, is out with leg injuries. Backup Jim Plunkett will make his first start since 1977.

"Tell the Steelers to take it easy on us," Davis said. "We are not the same Raiders.

Unbeaten teams face stiff challenges

AP Sports Writer

There are still seven teams in The Associated Press Top Twenty with perfect records but the road ahead isn't easy for any of them.

Top-rated Alabama, a 27-0 winner over Tennessee, has a Nov. 15 date with fifth-ranked Notre Dame, which trimmed Army 30-3 ... and don't overlook Bama's game next week against unbeaten - but thus far unranked - Southern Mississippi.

Notre Dame has a date with second-ranked Southern California on Dec. 6.

Sixth-ranked Georgia kept on rolling by thumping Vanderbilt 41-0 as freshman sensation Herschel Walker rushed for a school record 283 yards and three touchdowns. The Bulldogs must play South Carolina. Florida and Auburn on successive November Saturdays.

Eighth-rated North Carolina, which ovewhelmed North Carolina State 28-8, has road dates with Oklahoma and Clemson early next month. And No.13 Baylor, which clobbered Texas A&M 46-7, must still meet the likes of Texas and Arkansas

Third-ranked Texas and No.4 UCLA, the other Top Twenty unbeatens, had the weekend off. If they cared to look ahead, Texas would have seen Southern Methodist, Houston, Baylor and Texas A&M among and Southern Cal.

USC was the only one of the top 17 teams to fall on its face over the weekend. The Trojans 7-7 tie by Oregon.

Elsewhere, No.11 Pitt mauled West Virginia 42-14, No.12 Penn State turned back Syracuse 24-7. No.15 South Carolina Missouri trimmed Colorado 45-7 and No.17 Oklahoma downed Kansas State 35-21.

But No.18 Miami, Fla., fell to Mississippi State 34-31, No.19 Iowa State bowed to Kansas 28-17 and No. 20 Stanford lost to Washington 27-24. Arkansas, ranked 14th, was idle.

Both Alabama and Georgia teams have 3-0 Southeastern Conference records — as does unranked Louisiana State, a 17-10 winner over Kentucky but they don't meet each other. If they wind up with 6-0 SEC marks, Georgia will go to the Sugar Bowl.

And Walker would be quite an attraction in New Orleans. The 218-pound rookie shattered Charlie Trippi's 35-year-old rushing record by carrying 23 times for 283 yards, including touchdown runs of 60, 48 and 53.

"Herschel Walker was the difference," said Vandy Coach George MacIntyre. "He's as good as any back I've ever seen. It takes about six guys to bring him down out there. Meanwhile, Alabama did it with defense, limiting explosive Tennessee to a total of 59 yards in what Bear Bryant called "one of the best defensive games we've ever played." Alabama held the Vols without its future foes while UCLA has a first down and to minus 2 to play Oregon, Arizona State yards in the first half in beating arch-rival Tennessee for the 10th year in a row. Calvin Murray rushed for 224 yards - fourth best in Ohio State history - and two touchdowns to lead the Buckeyes past Indiana for the 17th straight time. Craig Johnson, subbing for injured Jarvis Redwine, ran for three touchdowns as Nebraska overwhelmed Oklahoma State.

Rick Trocano switched to offense from his safety position after quarterback Dan Marino was hurt and threw two scoring passes as Pitt whipped West Virginia. Curt Warner scored twice and Booker Moore rushed for 100 yards as Penn State beat Syracuse.

Quarterback Garry Harper scored twice and George Rogers rushed for 128 yards in South Carolina's rout of Cincinnati. Terry Hill ran for two scores and caught a Phil Bradley pass for another as Missouri thrashed Colorado.

The guys in the striped shirts agreed with Young, and the Philadelphia Eagles' 17-10 National Football League victory Sunday was secure. And so was their position as sole occupants of first place in the National Conference East with a 6-1 record, one game ahead of Dallas.

The play was the last of the game by the Cowboys, coming with 45 seconds to go and Philadelphia already ahead by a touchdown, thanks to Ron Jaworski's second TD pass of the game, a 15-yarder to Charles Smith with 4:27 remaining.

After that score, set up by middle guard Charlie Johnson's interception, James Jones ran the kickoff back 41 yards to the Dallas 40 and White marched the Cowboys to the Philadelphia 8-yard line. Then, on fourth-and-goal, he looped a pass to Hill at So did Young, who batted the ball away.

"As I went up for the ball my left hand was restricted because he was on my back and kept me from getting my arm up," Hill fumed later. "I complained to the referee that it was interference, that it (just waving incomplete) was a pretty terrible. call ... Sure, it was pass interference. It was a sure TD. We should've won the Young, of course, saw things differently. 'There was contact,' he admitted, "but I was going for the ball. And the defensive man has the right to go for it in that kind of situation. I have a clear conscience on that play ... I think I had an opportunity to intercept it, but I just wanted to knock it down. I felt relieved when I saw the ball just lying on the ground there."

Before that, the game hinged on the third of White's intercepted passes. With six minutes to play he tried to force a pass to Jones, a rookie playing because Tony Dorsett had left the game with cracked ribs. Linebacker John Bunting deflected the left edge of the end zone. Hill jumped. the ball and Johnson made a diving interception.

Two running plays by Louie Giammona (playing because Wilbert Montgomery had a hyperextended left knee) gained 5 yards to the Dallas 15, then Jaworski threaded the ball to Smith. "It was a pretty gutsy call," the quarterback said of the play sent in by his coach, Dick Vermeil. "I was hoping at least for a field goal. I wasn't even thinking TD."

Jaworski also passed for the other TD, 5 vards to Harold Carmichael in the second period two plays after his rollout pass to Billy Campfield wound up as a 50-yard gainer to the Dallas 7.

The Cowboys' only TD, in the first period, belonged to the defense. Jaworski, blind-sided by Randy White, fumbled, the ball rolled 10 yards into the end zone and linebacker Mike Hegman fell on it.

"We got beat because we had a bad offense," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "We turned the ball over enough times to

Oilers snap two-game losing streak

Houston Oilers' two-tight-end offense was a much discussed topic after Sunday's 20-14 victory over Tampa Bay. But it was the quarterback and running back who made it work. Quarterback Ken Stabler artfully combined the Oilers' attack and Earl Campbell banged out a career-high 203 vards rushing on 33 carries as the Oilers ended a two-game losing streak.

The Oilers obtained All-Pro ight end Dave Casper from the Oakland Raiders last and immediately installed him in starting lineup opposite incumbent Mike Barber. And the change got immediate

"I think the two-tight-end offense helped us today," Campbell said. "It made it seem like we had more men on the field.'

Stabler completed 19 of 26 passes for 242 yards, hitting Barber for a 17-yard touchdown pass in the second quarter and handing off to Rob Carpenter for a gutsy 10-yard touchdown run in the third period.

"Houston's system isn't really that much different from what we had at Oakland. Everybody helps everybody out there. So if they yell at me just a little bit, I'll be satisfied with my performance today."

Oilers kicker Toni Fritsch booted field goals of 21 and 33 yards to start Houston's scoring, but missed a 49-yard attempt in the fourth quarter, ending a string of 10 straight field goals this season.

The Buccaneers, who dropped to a 2-4-1 record, would have been pleased to run any kind of offensive formation. But the Oilers' ball control tactics allowed Tampa Bay only 20:34 minutes of offensive time, while Houston hogged 39:26.

But even when the Buc offense was on the field, Coach John McKay didn't like much of what he saw.

"Our offense made some idiotic mistakes," McKay said. "We couldn't seem to keep from lining up in illegal formations. You'd expect that from rookies, but our veterans were doing it.

Scientists have now identified 40-45 substances as essential nutrients - substances that are essential to good health. Many of these nutrients were discovered when a group of people whose diet was lacking in one certain substance developed uniform symptoms. Then when the substance was added to the diet, the symptoms disappeared. Several vitamins were discovered this way. Scientists have devoted a great deal of research to finding out how much of each nutrient the body needs. Based on that research, the National Academy of Sciences has issued a list of Recommended Daily Allowances (RDA), believed to meet the needs of 95-97 percent of the population. Unfortunately, many people consume a diet that falls short of the RDA. Particularly inadequate are many fad diets designed for rapid weight loss. When such diets are followed for a long period of time, serious nutrient deficiencies can result. Diet Center has proven that rapid weight loss is possible without depriving dieters of complete nutrition. If you have been considering weight loss, call your local Diet Center and learn about the diet which meets all RDA and the seven U.S. Dietary Goals.

The Royals bounced back with a run in the fifth. U.L. Washington singled, and Willie Wilson followed with an infield hit. White sacrificed the runners ahead, and Washington scored on a grounder by Brett, who had just one hit in five Otis led off the Royals sixth with a solo homer, his third of the Series and 11th hit, two short of the World Series record. Clint Hurdle and Darrell Porter followed with singles, chasing Bystrom, and Washington drove in Hurdle with a sacrifice fly to make it 3-2 Kansas City.

'We very easily could have been 0-for-3 in Kansas City, Schmidt said. "As I said yesterday, I felt if we went back to Philadelphia with an advantage, it would put us in a good position.

Now, we have their backs against the wall. They have to win two in our place, and it's not going to be easy." Schmidt said. The Royals not only face a must situation Tuesday night. they face it against Carlton, a Carlton is making his second Series start. He went eight innings to win the second game. Still, he yielded three earned runs on 10 hits. "It's always tough when you see a guy the first time," Brett said. "Maybe it won't be as tough now that we've seen

Carlton. Gale also will be making his second start of the Series. He started Game Three with no decision in 41-3 innings

"I said before that we were going to have to beat Steve Carlton to win this thing," Gale said. "Now, we're at that point. We either beat Carlton, or we lose it in six.

And Royals Manager Jim Frey has an interesting statistic to consider. In the 28 World Series that have been tied 2-2. the winner of Game Five has gone on to win 20 times

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP) - Six students were injured and about 200 were evacuated when fire broke out in a high-rise dormitory at Colorado State University, authorities said. All of the injured suffered from smoke inhalation and two of them had to be hospitalized, authorities said.

Fort Collins assistant fire chief Neal Carpenter said the fire broke out about 3:45 a.m. Sunday in room 204 of Durward Hall and caused heavy damage to the room. University officials said they believed the blaze was accidental.

WILLIAMSPORT, Md. (AP) — Thieves made off with seven tons of copper wire during a raid on a Potomac Edison Co. warehouse, state police said

The thieves apparently used a fork lift, which was also stolen, to load the 200-pound rolls of copper onto a company-owned truck. They then drove away in the truck, police said.

Utility officials told police the stolen property was worth about $39,000. Police said the wire was worth between $1.19 and $1.39 a pound. The theft, which was discovered early Sunday, apparently occurred Saturday, officials said.

RICHMOND, Va. - Two weekend bus crashes - one involving a high school band and the other a group of tourists - killed one person and injured 45, authorities said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional study predicts that by 1985, conventional U.S. oil production could drop by as much as 3 million barrels a day from its current level of about 10.2 million

The study released Sunday says that to maintain current levels of oil production, the country would have to rely more heavily on "unconventional" sources such as oil shale and synthesis from

Assessment also says that conventional world oil production will probably show little or no increase over the next two decades, while U.S. conventional production could slip to between 4 million to 7 million barrels a day by the year 2000.
