

Murder suspect jailed

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — The day a slain state trooper was laid to rest here, the suspect who had eluded police throughout Texas was apprehended and arrested in a rural Kansas town.

Texas and Kansas authorities were negotiating Tuesday night to transport Billy Wayne Alexander Jr. back to Texas after he waived extradition.

The suspect, wanted in the shooting death of Jerry Don Davis, offered no resistance and was unarmed when he was arrested early Tuesday evening in Liberal, Kan., Department of Public Safety officials said.

Alexander, 21, had been named in a capital murder warrant issued Monday morning by a justice of the peace in Lubbock.

A couple from Lowell, Kan., was in the car with Alexander at the time of arrest. DPS officials said, but said the couple had not been charged. Police withheld all other information.

Davis, 25, was found slumped over the wheel of his squad car in Slaton, near here, Sunday night with a bullet wound in his head. His service revolver was still in his holster.

One of the two ministers delivering the eulogy in the small Lubbock church packed with hundreds of mourners quoted scriptures supporting capital punishment for the trooper's "assassin."

Law enforcement officers from Texas, Oklahoma and new Mexico attended the service. One-third of the seats were reserved for DPS officers.

Davis' mother was presented with the United States flag that had been draped over her son's coffin. A seven-man honor guard fired a 21-gun salute and a lone trumpeter played taps.

Authorities had combed the state for two days and issued a tri-state bulletin looking for Alexander, whose drivers license was found in Davis' car. DPS officials said.

Davis had notified his dispatcher by radio that he had stopped a vehicle for speeding, and "that was the last contact," Todd said.

The trooper had radioed in the license plate of the stopped vehicle, a car with stolen plates later found abandoned by DPS officers.

Two witnesses to the shooting were located by other identification found in Davis' car, said a Lubbock County District Attorney's office spokesman. The two men were questioned and released on material witness bond, he said.

DPS Director James Adams traveled here from Austin Monday to coordinate the search.

Friends and relatives of Davis, who had never married, said he had been obsessed with becoming a highway patrolman, even as a 12-year-old boy.

SILLO DOOR. The remains of the 758-ton door to a Titan II missile silo in Damascus, Ark., lies some 300 yards from the missile site. The door was blown onto private property nearby in the Sept. 19 explosion.

Reporters were allowed near the site Tuesday, as Air Force personnel began cleaning up debris from the explosion.

Some cruise passengers were 'an hour from death'

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Some elderly passengers from the burning cruise ship Prinsendam were less than an hour from death before they were taken from lifeboats after hours on the chilly Gulf of Alaska, says the doctor who first treated them.

"We expected someone to die," Air Force surgeon Capt. Don Hudson said Tuesday. "We were sitting on a loaded time bomb, waiting for it to go off."

"It didn't," he said. "I don't know why."

Exposure and hypothermia were the foremost dangers, but a full range of geriatric infirmities confronted Hudson and his makeshift medical staff aboard the 1,000-foot tanker Williamsburgh that rescued 383 passengers.

All 533 passengers and Prinsendam crew abandoned ship Saturday after a fire that broke out in the engine room roared out of control. They spent up to 20 hours in lifeboats, tossed in 40-foot seas and drenched by icy waves before being rescued by Coast Guard helicopters, a cutter and the Williamsburgh. All eventually were flown to Seattle.

"Eight hours later, a few hundred miles farther from the mainland, we would have lost half of them," said Master Sgt. E. L. Nardi, a pararescue medic.

"If the tanker hadn't been there with the helicopter pad and fresh stores and unlimited hot water, they would have been dead."

Nardi and fellow medics described the survivors' ordeal: "Take off all your clothes and put on a little nylon nightgown. Stand here for hours barefooted, wedged into a lifeboat. The 20 to 30 mile-an-hour winds are constantly covering you with salt spray. Wind chill in the low 30s.

"You're seasick. And you're 80 years old. Now you have an idea what it was like."

The passengers' ages, however, did contribute to a smooth and orderly operation, Hudson added.

"If we were dealing with people 35 or under, there would have been more panic," he said. "These older people had things in perspective. They were resigned to their fate."

Six or seven passengers were in advanced stages of hypothermia, so cold they had stopped shivering — the body's way of keeping warm, Hudson said.

"We're talking about rectal temperatures of 90 degrees," he said. "I was sure someone was going to die."

Today, the Prinsendam was under tow toward the Alaska coast, and officials said the blaze was burning itself out. Several firefighters who were aboard the ship reported no raging fires, and said only furniture and woodwork seemed to be burning. The port to which the liner would be brought had not yet been determined.

The fire that forced some 553 passengers and crew to flee the luxury liner Prinsendam in lifeboats has put the spotlight on safety at sea, but the chief of the merchant vessel inspection division of the U.S. Coast Guard says most cruise ships are not dangerous.

"It's safe to get on a ship," said Capt. John DeCarteret. "My wife and I take cruises."

DeCarteret has some advice for would-be passengers. "I would basically say, if they're going to take a cruise, use a vessel that operates out of the United States and has been looked at by the Coast Guard," he said.

The Prinsendam fell in that category. The Coast Guard regularly inspects cruise ships and other vessels that operate from U.S. ports. That includes the Prinsendam, although its port of departure for its latest cruise was Vancouver, British Columbia.

DeCarteret said the Coast Guard had "inspectors aboard it on May 25, 1980, and at the time there were no comments in the inspection book to show that the vessel wasn't meeting the minimum safety requirements at the time she sailed."

Robert Natt, a spokesman for the ship's operator, Holland America Cruises, has said the Prinsendam passed not only a Coast Guard check but also met safety standards of the Dutch Shipping Inspectorate and Lloyd's Classification Society.

Some of the passengers on the Prinsendam, which caught fire over the weekend in the Gulf of Alaska, complained lifeboats were not properly equipped or manned.

DeCarteret had no information on the situation aboard the Prinsendam, but a spokesman for Holland America denied the accusations, saying all lifeboats were fully equipped and manned.

DeCarteret said between 35 and 65 cruise ships regularly operate out of the United States, most from Miami. "We do a control verification examination on them once a year and then they are given a quick reinspection, usually on a quarterly basis," he said.

The original examination includes a check of what international standards the ship was built under and an inspection to make sure it complies with safety regulations. "You would check fire screen doors, draft stops, fire extinguishers. And then normally would conduct a fire and boat drill to see that the crew was exercised and knew how to lower the boats."

The reinspections are "normally done in a period of three or four hours where the inspector walks around and spot checks to see that the vessel is being maintained."

Perryton business closed for back taxes

PERRYTON — A Perryton photography studio was seized and closed Tuesday by tax officers of the State Comptroller's Office for non-compliance with the state sales tax law.

Claudia Stravato, field manager of the Comptroller's Amarillo Office, said the business of Leo Leland Shuler of Perryton was padlocked about mid-morning for $9,898.17 in back state sales taxes.

Shuler's tax liability covers business operations from the third quarter of 1975 through the second quarter of 1979.

Representatives of Ochiltree County Sheriff's Office and the State Comptroller's Office inventoried the business following the seizure.

In addition to the tax liability, records indicate the Shuler has refused to allow auditors for the comptroller to examine business records to verify the accuracy of tax returns.

Retail business records are subject to state inspection at reasonable times, according to Texas tax laws, the Amarillo spokesman said.

Failure to settle the delinquent taxes can result in the business and its inventory being sold at public auction to satisfy the state's tax lien, according to Mrs. Stravato.

Shuler is listed as sole proprietor of the photography business, which has operated in Perryton for 17 years.

Militant says hostages 'all right'

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The 52 American hostages in Iran are "all right," a militant student at the occupied U.S. Embassy in Tehran said today, but he refused to say if the Iran-Iraq war posed a danger to them.

Asked about the psychological state of the hostages, now in their 340th day of captivity, he said, "I suggest you ask questions about the martyrs [Iranian soldiers killed in the war] and the condition of Iranian captives held in Iraq."

He accused Western news media of ignoring such topics and added: "But when a number of Americans are held here immediately the whole world starts asking, 'how is their mental state, are they receiving medicine and so on?'"

The militant was telephoned by The Associated Press in Beirut. The AP also phoned Iranian officials in Tehran Tuesday, and they reported then that the hostages were safe.

Iran's official Pars news agency said, meanwhile, that the special committee of the Iranian Parliament studying the issue of the hostages had its third session Tuesday.

Pars said the seven-man committee "took certain decisions after discussing some introductory matters and postponed further investigation until its next meeting."

The agency did not give details on what was discussed or the time of the next meeting.

The Iranian parliamentary committee was appointed shortly before the war with Iraq broke Sept. 22.

U.S. pledges military hardware to neutral Persian Gulf nations

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Iraq and Iran carried on relentlessly today their ground and air war while pro-Western North Yemen was reported to have joined Jordan in expressing support for Iraq.

The United States has pledged to supply military hardware to neutral Persian Gulf nations that feel threatened by the Iraq-Iran war.

Iraq was reported to have received five shiploads of Soviet-made military spare parts and ammunition through Jordan's Aqaba port since the outbreak of the war 17 days ago. The Soviet Union denied offering military aid to Iraq.

Iraq claimed to have inflicted heavy losses on Iranian forces on the ground while the air war concentrated on supply lines.

Iraqi forces have stepped up air and artillery attacks on Abadan and battled holdouts in the port of Khorramshahr, seeking to complete their conquest of the Iranian side of Iraq's waterway to the gulf.

Iran sent air strikes for the second straight day against the Iraqi oil center of Kirkuk, 200 miles north of Baghdad, and the southeastern Iraqi city of Al Amarah, which controls the supply lines of Iraq's invasion force in the oil-rich section of southwestern Iran.

Iran's military command claimed to have downed three Iraqi MiG jets, two near Dezful and one near Ahwaz in the southern sector of the 300-mile-long battlefield on the 17th day of the war. Iraq acknowledged the loss of two MiGs.

The Iranian communique reported by Tehran Radio said Iraqi forces concentrated an attack on Dezful's key military base and Shushar, 20 miles to the southeast on the road to Ahwaz, capital of Khuzestan province.

Jordanian officials in Amman said King Hussein and President Abdullah Saleh of North Yemen, in a telephone conversation, affirmed their countries' "Pan-Arab support of the Iraqi people in their efforts to regain their rights over their territories and waters." Iraq, Jordan and North Yemen are Arab nations while Iran is non-Arab Persian.

The Beirut sources said five ships flying Iraqi or Jordanian flags and loaded with cargoes from the Soviet stockpiles in Marxist-governed South Yemen and Ethiopia have docked at Aqaba. The sources said the supplies were carried by truck to the Iraqi border.

In Moscow, a Foreign Ministry spokesman termed "slandering and false" a Tehran Radio report that the Soviet Union had offered arms to Iran.

In a major policy speech in Boston, Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher said the United States will honor "requests for assistance from non-belligerent friends in the (Persian Gulf) area who feel threatened by the convent war from expanding in ways that threaten the security of the region."

Iraq said its jet fighter-bombers destroyed the television station and fuel depots at Abadan, near the mouth of the Shatt al-Arab estuary. Iraqi artillery to the west and northwest of Khorramshahr, 10 miles to the west, were firing at regular intervals on Iranian positions near Abadan, Associated Press correspondent Jeffrey Ulbrich reported from the Iranian port city.

An Iraqi major in command of the Khorramshahr port area said Iraqi armor had driven around that city and cut the supply highway between Abadan and Ahwaz, the capital of oil-rich Khuzestan Province 70 miles to the north. But Iranian sniper fire prevented independent confirmation of this claim.

The capture of Khorramshahr and Abadan would give Iraq full control of the Shatt al-Arab, the 120-mile waterway that forms the southern part of the boundary between Iraq and Iran and has been a major source of contention between the Arabs in what is now Iraq and the non-Arab Persians of Iran for much of the 20th century.

Control of the estuary is vital to both countries because it is the waterway to their chief ports, Iraqi Basra and Iranian Khorramshahr.

Clayton attorneys request a directed verdict of innocence

HOUSTON (AP) — Attorneys for Texas House Speaker Billy Clayton filed a motion today asking for a directed verdict of innocence in the Brilab trial.

A similar motion was to be filed later for two other defendants in the trial. Austin attorneys Donald Ray and Randall Wood.

The Clayton motion cited what it called "improper government activity." The defense attorneys claimed the speaker was entrapped by FBI undercover agents and "any crime which might have been committed was created and manufactured by the government."

"No witnesses called by the government testified that Clayton had a reputation for accepting bribes," the motion stated.

The defense team also said that Clayton had been tricked and deceived by the Brilab agents.

Clayton, Wood, Ray and labor leader L.G. Moore were indicted June 12 by a federal grand jury for extortion, bribery, conspiracy and racketeering, charges arising from an alleged insurance kickback scheme.

Moore, regional director of the International Operating Engineers Union, will be tried later.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Ron Woods, the chief prosecutor in the case, concluded his testimony by reading a section of the Texas standard of conduct for legislators and officeholders to the five-man, seven-woman jury.

Woods told jurors the code says no legislator or public official should accept or solicit any gift that would influence his official conduct or interfere with his freedom of judgement on any issue.

A former state official testified Tuesday that he believed Clayton had been "boxed-in" when labor leader Moore offered a $5,000 campaign contribution.

Under cross-examination, Bob Johnson said that Moore had put Clayton in an impossible position because "he needed labor support and there is no way, knowing the speaker, that he was going to keep that money."

Johnson is a former legislator and during the Brilab investigation was a member of the Texas Employees Retirement Board, the agency that awards lucrative health insurance contract for state employees.

Johnson said if Clayton had wanted to influence the awarding of the multimillion dollar-a-year insurance policy, "he would have contacted other members of the retirement system board."

There are six members of the board, three elected by the various state agencies and three appointed. Johnson was named to the board by Clayton.

The government claims Clayton accepted a $5,000 bribe, with a promise of $500,000-a-year more, if the bids were reopened and the contract went to Prudential Insurance Co.

Joseph Hauser, an FBI informant, had posed during the Brilab investigation as a representative of Prudential and offered kickbacks to various political and labor officials.

The speaker acknowledged he received $5,000 from Moore during a Nov. 8, 1979, meeting but thought it was a campaign contribution and planned to return it later.

Secret FBI tapes made during the meeting revealed that Hauser had counted out the money, given it to Moore, who passed it along to the speaker.

Johnson was asked, as a four-term member of the legislature, if he would have turned down the offer.

He answered, "No way, especially when you may need labor support. There is no way the speaker was going to keep that money. There is no way the speaker would accept any illegal money from anyone."

Much of the taped conversation among Moore, Ray, Wood and Hauser, said Johnson, "was puff, was bull."

Widening of Perryton Parkway recommended to city council

The city traffic commission voted to make recommendations to the city commission concerning handicapped parking and the widening of Perryton Parkway during their regular session at noon Tuesday.

Commissioner T. R. Kelly said, "I spoke recently with A. L. McKee (district engineer for the state highway department), and he mentioned with money getting as tight as it is, the city commission better get on with the widening of State Highway 70 (Perryton Parkway)."

Commissioner Floyd Sackett agreed, saying, "I think we should go on the record as recommending the commission take action or have another bond issue with each issue voted on separately."

After some discussion, commissioners unanimously agreed to recommend that the commission look into taking care of the widening of Perryton Parkway in some manner.

An ordinance creating parking for the handicapped in city streets was the second item the traffic commission agreed to recommend to the city commission.

In their recommendation, the commission included that parking spaces be created in each block of the downtown area, that ramps be built in the alleys for wheelchairs and that each person parking in the space must have a sticker identifying him as being handicapped.

Kelly suggested that the commission contact James Moss, district maintenance engineer for the state highway department, for the procedure in identifying the handicapped with stickers.

In other business, chairman Pernal Scoggins reported to the commission that the 1300 block of Christine was now officially closed to parking during the weekdays.

R. B. Cooke, director of public works, said no bids had been let on a traffic light for the intersection of Decatur and Hobart street.

"The engineering firm is working up the specs (specifications), and there is some lapse in communication there. They want us to provide a traffic count, which the state has just run. We're trying to get them to use that data," he said.

To the chagrin of the commission members, Scoggins reported the traffic signal at Foster and Somerville had not been brought before the city commission.

"What's our use if the commission does not act on our recommendations?" Sackett said.

Scoggins said, "I just want them to make a decision on it, yes or no. I feel like on everything we recommend to them we should have a yes or no answer."

The recommendation that the city pave the west end of Somerville Street has not been considered by the city fathers, either, Scoggins reported.

"I had a talk with Mack (City Manager Mack Wofford) about it," Scoggins said. "He is aware of it and that it will have to be done before too long."

police report

The Pampa Police Department responded to 38 calls during the 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. today involving an arrest for driving while intoxicated and reports of theft, criminal mischief and burglary.

Officers responding to an alarm at Montgomery Ward's, Coronado Shopping Center, at 6:35 p.m. Tuesday discovered the east bay door to the automobile section of the business had been broken and a glass pane was missing. Nothing inside the store has been found missing. Chief of Police J. J. Ryzman said. A witness told police that a vehicle described as a black Pontiac Trans-Am had struck the door and two persons had entered the building and left when the alarm sounded. The suspects are described as being two white males, 18 to 20 years old. Both are slim with blonde hair. No one has been arrested in connection with the incident early today, Ryzman said.

A spokesperson for Pampa Family Services, 100 N. Somerville, reported criminal mischief to the window of the business. The damage was estimated at $175.

Robert Ross, 1144 N. Starkweather, reported someone had removed 11 checks from his bank book inside his vehicle. The theft reportedly occurred a month ago.

Kevin Dale Murray, 21, Pampa Motel, No. 17, was arrested in the 200 block of West Foster for driving while intoxicated.

Larry Dean, 610 1/2 N. Frost, reported someone had burglarized his residence and removed a stereo system and albums. Value of the items was not given at the time of the report.

Iranian asset lawsuits blocked

NEW YORK (AP) — With supporting documentation from Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie, the federal government has launched legal action to block lawsuits by American banks and corporations seeking billions of dollars that Iran owes them.

The Carter administration also has appealed a federal judge's refusal to delay the suits, saying they could be a "serious risk" to negotiations for the safe return of the 52 Americans held hostage in Iran.

The administration filed its motions Tuesday in U.S. District Court before Judge Thomas Kevin Duffy.

The government said it wants to participate in the commercial litigation and asked the judge to certify his Sept. 26 order denying a State Department request for an indefinite delay in the 96 lawsuits.

Federal lawyers also asked Duffy to stay his denial of a delay until an appeals court has reviewed his decision.

"A stay of judgment proceedings would best serve the vital foreign policy interests of the United States in resolving the present crisis successfully," said Muskie in a statement accompanying the government's motions.

The bank and corporate suits were filed to recover losses on defaulted bank loans, business contracts and property losses resulting from nationalization in Iran.

The plaintiffs must win court attachments of Iranian assets, once the Carter Administration unfreezes them.

Last Jan. 4, Duffy granted a State Department request for a 60-day delay in proceedings because of delicate hostage negotiations.

WALK ACROSS RUSSIA. Radio journalist Yuri Shumitsky, 37, has walked across Russia — 8,000 miles. He stopped off in Moscow long enough to cover the Olympics for his station, then continued his trek to Kalingrad where he arrived Monday. The journey, the first by a pedestrian, took 14 months.

Children diagnosed after 14 years

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) — Something terrible was happening to Mary White's children, one by one, something with no name.

Danny was the first. That was 14 years ago and he was only 2. "I noticed he started holding his hands over his ears like he couldn't stand noise," she said.

Then George started acting the same way. "Mrs. White took the boys to a doctor, who diagnosed them as retarded. Social agencies said they had behavioral problems. School officials told her the boys were hyperactive and undisciplined."

"It was a nightmare," she said. "I kept saying something's wrong, something's medically wrong with my boys. You could see it by looking at them...but people acted like I should be quiet."

Paul was next, then Michael. Her children were running around the house, slamming into walls, screaming at things that were invisible.

Six months ago, she found her youngest, 2-year-old David Wayne, under a table screaming at things nobody else could see.

Then, in August, a routine screening of welfare mothers by the McLean County Health Department found out what was wrong — lead poisoning.

Subsequent testing revealed that eight of Frank and Mary White's 13 children had dangerously high levels of lead in their blood. At least four — Danny, George, Paul and Michael — were irreversibly damaged. Somehow, nobody in 14 years had tested them.

The Whites are poor and they are black. In 17 years since moving here from Chicago, the family has lived in old houses painted with lead-based paint. The children chewed on the woodwork or ate paint chipping from walls, and one by one they poisoned themselves irreparably.

Ben Boyd, county health director, called it "a terrible tragedy" and acknowledged that had the discovery been made years ago, the family could have been moved to safe housing — as is now being done — and the younger children likely could have been saved.

"I tend to blame the agency system," said Boyd. "Somehow when the children were seen, nobody asked the question why."

Boyd said agencies tend to think of psychological or genetic reasons for problems in children, not medical reasons. And, he added, doctors simply just didn't expect to find lead poisoning — a familiar problem in urban ghettos — in a middle-sized Midwestern city surrounded by cornfields and fresh air.

"It never really occurred to us that this could be a problem," said Dr. C.B. Saksena, a Bloomington pediatrician and one of several doctors who examined the White children over the years.

Lead-based paint was used in houses constructed generally before 1950. Thousands still stand, in big cities and small.

A study published in the Journal of the American Medical Association in 1972 found lead in the blood of almost 19 percent of the children examined in 14 Illinois cities with populations ranging from 10,000 to 150,000.

Hussein believes Iraqi victory would help Jordan

By NICOLAS B. TATRO
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Jordan's growing involvement in the Iraqi war effort against Iran appears rooted in economic necessity and King Hussein's belief that an Iraqi victory will have a stabilizing influence on the region, diplomats here say.

The 44-year-old Jordanian monarch is the only Arab leader to throw his support openly behind President Saddam Hussein of Iraq.

He has provided air bases to shelter Iraqi planes, mobilized trucks to carry supplies from the Jordanian port of Aqaba to Baghdad and offered any military assistance Iraq may need.

A Kuwaiti newspaper reported Tuesday that 40,000 Jordanian soldiers were poised on the Iraqi border awaiting orders to march to Baghdad's aid, if necessary. Sources in London said the British and U.S. governments urged Hussein to stay out of the fight so that the conflict would not embroil the rest of the Middle East.

An Arab diplomat, who declined to be identified by name or nationality, suggested the king believed an Iraqi victory would be best for the vital Persian Gulf area — Jordan's main source of financial aid.

"The Iraqis are better businessmen and politicians than the Iranians," he said. "They honor their signature to anything. We have to take a stand, and a strong Iraq would do a lot to stabilize the whole region."

The diplomat also suggested that Hussein was able to declare his support openly while Persian Gulf states could not because Jordan is geographically removed from Iran and does not have a large Shiite Moslem community that could be influenced by the revolutionary doctrines of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

Another factor in Hussein's decision, a Western diplomat said, was worsening relations between Jordan and Syria, which has been feuding for a long time with the rival Baath Socialist regime in Baghdad. Good relations with Saudi Arabia and Iraq are therefore a counter-balance to the oil wealth and military power of Syria and Libya, whose radical positions on Middle East peace are opposed by the moderate monarch, the diplomat said.

The bottom line, however, appears to be economic necessity. The oil-poor desert kingdom needs massive infusions of aid to offset its balance of payments deficit — $300 million in exports versus an import bill of nearly $2 billion.

Iraq has been paying $186 million of a pan-Arab annual subsidy of $1.25 billion pledged to Jordan by a 1978 Baghdad summit of Arab leaders, in which Jordan joined in condemning the U.S.-mediated Palestinian autonomy talks between Egypt and Israel.

Laborer wins tractor suit

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court today upheld a $252,991 product liability judgment for a laborer who hurt his back when he slipped on a muddy step on a Caterpillar tractor.

Without writing an opinion, the court said it could find "no reversible error" in decisions by a San Antonio jury and the El Paso court of civil appeals.

Santiago Gonzales, an employee of Frio County, sued Caterpillar after the Sept. 1, 1973, accident, claiming the step was defectively designed to allow mud to accumulate on it.

He was dismounting from the machine when he slipped and fell. Back surgery resulted in the removal of two discs and Gonzales was able to hold only sedentary jobs.

Caterpillar said Gonzales voluntarily assumed the risk but the appeals court disagreed.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Covering Commandment.

Guaranteeing success

By Anthony Harrigan
As the election campaign becomes more intense, the Carter administration is more active in throwing money at groups that call for federal assistance.
Well - publicized is the administration's assistance to the Chrysler Corp. It isn't the only beneficiary, however. Money is being poured out for those whose businesses have been hurt by bad weather. Businesses that suffered by the administration's boycott of the Olympics will be allowed to borrow money at eight and three - fourths percent.

The money is being loaned by the Small Business Administration under its natural disaster program. The euphemism employed is "economic dislocation funds."
There's very little criticism of this latest wave of government handouts. One incisive critic of the giveaways is Stewart Alsop II, senior editor of INC., a business journal published in Boston.

Mr. Alsop writes: "Most people would agree that government should guarantee everyone the opportunity to risk failure or experience success. But is it government's role to protect everyone from failure, even to guarantee success?"

Mr. Alsop adds: "That's beginning to happen. Government is beginning to say, 'Gee, we're sorry that you took the risk and failed. So we'll lend you real cheap money and help you recover.'"

Mr. Alsop notes that this is only a short step from government saying "We'll make sure you succeed."

To many people, government is compassionate when it provides cheap money to businesses that are in trouble. It's no such thing.

The point to bear in mind, as economist Milton Friedman has said, is that there is no such thing as a free lunch. If the Carter administration makes money available to selected businesses at 8 percent, someone has to pay the difference between that interest figure and the real cost of the money. That someone is the taxpayer. Other businesses are penalized by the administration.

Americans have become so accustomed to federal aid in one form or another that many of them forget that the government doesn't have any money. The only money the administration has is money that is taken from the people in the form of taxes. Every government give-away is a cost to the productive, self-reliant element in our population. The administration can't do a favor for one politically influential group or another without being unfair to other groups in the nation. The politician who promises to help the "people" is planning to use someone else's money. He is planning to steal from one class of citizens to give to another. Robin Hood government always results in tyranny.

Briefly noted

By Don Graff
A new Congress will be elected Nov. 4, but we aren't going to be quite finished yet with the old one.

Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd is calling a special post-election session of the outgoing 96th Congress beginning Nov. 12. The West Virginia Democrat says there is too much unfinished business before both houses to be taken care of before the scheduled election recess this month.

Since Congress habitually runs late, there is no question but that he has a point. But according to other quarters on Capitol Hill, he is missing several others.

Critics of the Republican persuasion see postponement until the special session of voting on the administration's latent budget as a calculated election assist for Democrats seeking re-election. It enables them to go to the voters without first having to go on record on an unbalanced budget that is itself a campaign issue.

Possibly worse, defeated senators and representatives returning for the lame-duck session will be able to vote on the budget and other hold-over issues without serious considerations of their constituents' real interests.
And what else is new?

OPINION PAGE

Capitol Hill fraud

The wily denizens of the Congress, or at least the Democratic variety, are preparing to pull the wool over the eyes of American voters again. They're going to get out of session while the getting's good — without putting their official stamp on a huge budget deficit for the new fiscal year that starts soon.

The leadership on the Hill has decided to flee town early for the elections, leaving the painful acknowledgement of another year of profligacy to a lame-duck session after Nov. 4. In the meantime, the people who are responsible for most of the mess in Washington can come home and tell their constituents what tightwads they've been in the last session.

The facts tell a somewhat different story. The record shows that the governing majority in Congress — Democrats for the most part — have engaged in largely meaningless posturing when it comes to holding spending in check, voting for the easy bills and turning tail when real proposed cuts threaten the interest groups that live off federal tax money and keep these candy men in office. For this brand of elected official, spending our money for us is a career; his conscious decisions have transformed a supposedly balanced 1981 budget into one that will eventually show a $30 billion, $40 billion, perhaps even a $60 billion deficit at a time when consumer prices born of inflation are on their way up again. Washington has proven what we should have always known: that President Carter's promise of a budget surplus last winter was a sham, and that Congress's own balanced-budget resolution last spring was equally outright fraud.

One of the most blatant dodges occurred earlier this month when the House voted 223 - 153 to continue funding activities of the federal government into fiscal 1981 at this year's level pending approval of a formal budget after the election. This allowed representatives to escape for now the approval of a deficit.

Go back earlier this month, to the House debate on what is called "reconciliation." You will hear much about reconciliation during the coming campaign. It is a process mandated under the budget-control procedure adopted by Congress in 1974 (subsequent to which, by the way, we've had the biggest deficits in peacetime history). It supposedly forces the lawmakers to get control of runaway spending programs which threaten the target figures adopted early in the year-long budget debate. Congress likes to spread the word that it has just reconciled — it says "cut" — $10 billion from the 1981 total; and, indeed, we've repeated that claim on our pages. It is worth a closer look.

The Senate and House decisions on reconciliation differed by a few billion dollars, and a conference committee is working on a compromise that should be out early this week. Basically, however, what each chamber did was combine about six parts spending limitations with four parts tax increases to come to the $10 billion total. Despite cries that the reconciliation process envisioned in 1974 was intended to cut expenditures, not to raise taxes, the majority approved billions in increased levies on business and other, smaller hikes.

Admirably, the representatives did put a lid on several burgeoning expenditures. But while they were at it, the House majority used the occasion actually to INCREASE Medicare and Medicaid funding by $3.1 billion over a three-year period.

Other interest groups were battling to protect their turf, and the result in one case was not strictly partisan. In fact, it was Rep. Robert Bauman, R-Md., normally one of the most frugal members of the House, who moved to save the twice-a-year recomputation of federal retiree benefits to account for inflation. The reconciliation measure was to include a shift to once-a-year recalculation, which would have saved about $747 million. But the federal pensioner lobby was so strong that Bauman's amendment passed 300 - 72. Even Ron Paul of Texas, the closest thing to a libertarian in the place, voted for it, saying he wanted to keep military retirees comfortable in order to provide an incentive for volunteers instead of conscripts in the armed forces.

There can be no doubt that the causes of our spending problem in the Congress during this session and over the last half century have been people like these. If there is an effective means to control the U.S. government and restore some stability to the framework of our economy through the ballot — and we have our doubts — it should be obvious where such an effort must begin.

Taxpayers must hold officials accountable

A U.S. attorney who successfully prosecuted three sheriffs in East Texas says he believes that an alarming number of sheriffs become corrupt in office because of the broad powers that are granted to them.

The attorney, John Hannah, said people don't realize how tremendously powerful the sheriff is. And, he said, there is "absolutely no one in the world" who can tell a sheriff what to do.

It is that power, he said, which invariably leads to trouble, and he paraphrased Lord Acton's axiom when he said, "When you get absolute authority, it tends to corrupt absolutely."

Hannah believes that in a county of 50,000 people a crooked sheriff could make $30,000 to $40,000 a year without raising an eyebrow. The greatest possibility for making money, he said, would be in "condoning narcotics traffic."

Supporting Hannah's views was veteran FBI agent Bill Hinshaw who investigated allegations of corruption in one of the East Texas counties. Hinshaw thinks at least half the state's 254 sheriffs "are on the take."

That's a distressingly high percentage, of course, and whether it is true or not, we don't know. In any case, it is terribly unfortunate that there is any corruption at all in public office, because it casts a shadow of suspicion over all public servants, the honest as well as the dishonest.

Texas sheriffs are not the only ones who often succumb to the intoxicants of their own power. District attorneys also wield enormous power, far too much for their own good or for the good of those they are supposed to serve. Judges for the most part don't answer to anyone, either. Except for an occasional reversal by a higher court, they're virtually unaccountable. The lawyers who practice in their courts and thus are in a position to evaluate their performance don't dare criticize them for fear of incurring the judges' wrath.

The fact is, any time public officials are entrusted with great powers over other people without any effective degree of accountability, there almost certainly will be corruption or abuse, or both.

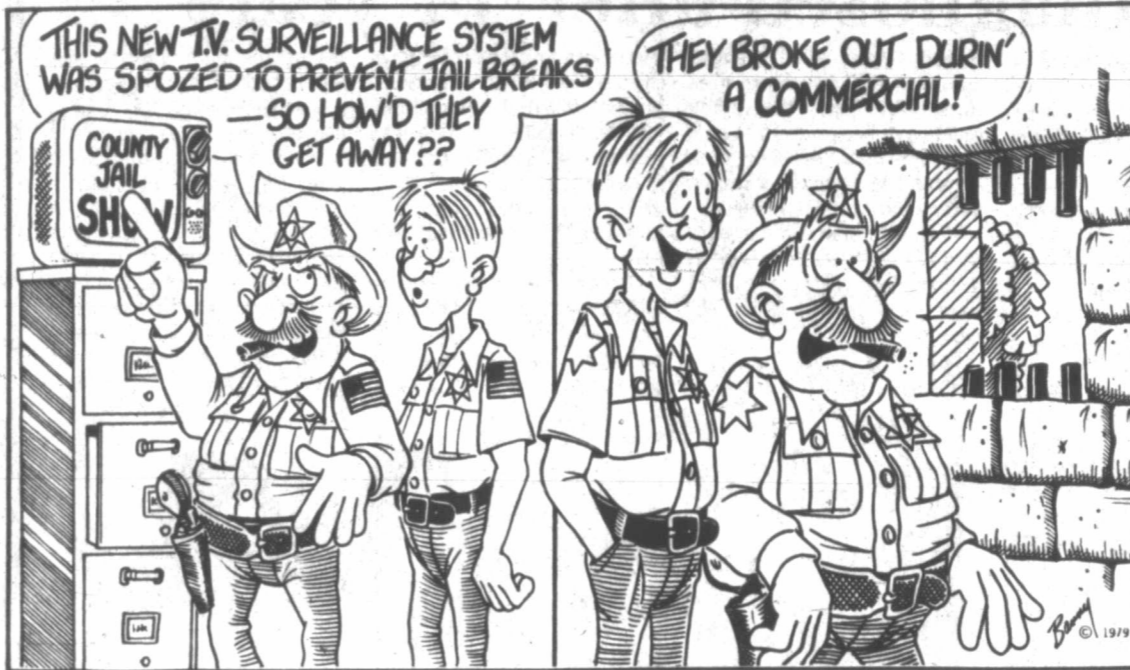

Hannah hopes the Texas Department of Public Safety and Texas Rangers will begin keeping a closer eye on Texas sheriffs, but that may not be the solution. It's not always easy to find a law enforcement agency that is anxious to investigate another. Besides, who's going to watch the DPS and the Rangers?

It is important to every citizen for the powers of government to be carefully measured, and all public officials must be held strictly accountable for their actions. Trust is easily misplaced in government because of the overwhelming opportunities for servants to become masters.

That is why the taxpayers must make it their business to know what those in government are doing. To turn a public official loose with enormous powers without a strict accounting is like asking the fox to guard the henhouse.

The FDA's phony letter

by Paul Harvey

In the official magazine of the Food and Drug Administration there is a feature article entitled, "Letter to a Young Saccharin User."

It purports to be a letter from one Terry Jacobs which says, "I am 21 years old and drink at least two cans of diet soda a day. I don't particularly want to drop dead on my 22nd birthday. Could you please send me information about recent rumors regarding saccharin?"

Then follows a two-page personal response from the commissioner of the FDA, Jere Goyan, in which the commissioner explains that, despite the disagreement among scientists, the FDA believes saccharin might cause cancer, that Terry may be "flirting with trouble." There is no Terry Jacobs. He was invented by the FDA to dramatize the commissioner's point of view.

The FDA defends this fiction by insisting that similar letters have been received — but some spokesmen for soft drink companies are understandably indignant.

The FDA persists in trying to get Congress to ban saccharin from all foods and drinks, but Congress, noting conflicting scientific opinions, has so far refused.

Now we come to cyclamates — another artificial sweetener disallowed by the FDA.

After an astronomically costly seven-year fuss with the FDA, Abbott Laboratories has given up and will make no further effort to market cyclamates in the United States.

Here's why: The FDA asked the National Cancer Institute to evaluate whether cyclamates cause cancer. The NCI reported no evidence in the lab or in the clinic that cyclamates do, in fact, increase the risk of cancer.

The NCI said that to try to remove all doubt would require tests involving hundreds of thousands of rodents — 51,000 each species — and that even these tests might require repetition.

In all the world there is no laboratory available for such a gigantic undertaking; if there were there are not enough pathologists and toxicologists to properly conduct and evaluate such an experiment.

Nonetheless, the FDA's last recommendation to Congress was that such testing be required — or no cyclamates be allowed in the United States.

Abbott laboratories is not the loser. Abbott continues to market cyclamates in Canada and West Germany and Sweden and Norway and France and most Latin American nations. And the total cyclamate market is comparatively infinitesimal.

If the United States market were opened, all pharmaceutical houses could make and market cyclamates because the patent expired years ago.

So Abbott is not the loser. We are — dieters who want a sugar substitute and diabetics who need it.

Vote is supremely important

By Robert Walters

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Two members of the U.S. Supreme Court celebrate their birthdays this month — and behind those seemingly inconsequential rituals lies the tale of one of the most important issues of the current presidential campaign.

Although the stakes are exceptionally high, none of the candidates is likely publicly to discuss the issue because it involves a pair of especially delicate subjects — the failing health and advancing age of five of the court's nine justices.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger became 70 on Sept. 17 and Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. reached the same age two days later, on Sept. 19. Less than two months later, on Nov. 12, Justice Harry A. Blackmun will turn 72.

The two other members of the court also in their 70s marked their birthdays earlier in the year. Justice William J. Brennan Jr. is 74 and Justice Thurgood Marshall is 72.

Three of the four other justices are in their 60s: Justice Potter Stewart is 65, Justice Byron R. White is 63 and Justice John Paul Stevens is 60. The "youngster" on the court is Justice William H. Rehnquist, who became 56 on Oct. 1.

In recent years, all five of the over-70 justices have encountered medical difficulties, ranging from heart attack and gastro-intestinal complications to chronic back problems.

Finally, there is the extraordinarily long interval since any vacancy was created on the high tribunal. Stevens, the last justice to be named to the court, was nominated by President Gerald R. Ford in late 1975, almost five years ago.

That gap has deprived President Carter of the opportunity to select anyone for service on the court — and a vacant seat now probably would remain unfilled until after the election because the Senate must confirm the president's nomination and Congress is scheduled to adjourn for the year in mid-October.

(If Carter is defeated in November and leaves office without nominating a Supreme Court justice, he will be the first president not to do so since Andrew Johnson, who served in the late 1860s.)

Although health and longevity are inherently unpredictable, all of the factors lead to an inescapable conclusion: The man elected president this autumn could, in the following four years, fill as many as five Supreme Court vacancies caused by death, disability or retirement.

The significance of that opportunity is illustrated by a compelling new analysis of the current court, prepared by Gayle Binion of the University of California at Santa Barbara, which concludes that it "has been largely and progressively less responsive" to appeals on behalf of disadvantaged citizens than was the court of Burger's predecessor, Earl Warren.

Identifying 96 cases involving the interests of the disadvantaged decided by the court between 1969 (when Burger became chief justice) and 1979, Ms. Binion found that only half of those cases produced egalitarian decisions.

The current court's rulings have been unfavorable not only to the indigent and to welfare recipients but also to the "working poor" and to low- and middle-income citizens.

The court refused to waive judicial filing fees for those seeking to declare bankruptcy or challenge a reduction of welfare benefits and it repeatedly has emphasized "the privileged status of property owners," noted Ms. Binion. For example, individuals who rent their living quarters rather than own their homes or other property twice have been ruled ineligible to participate in elections to authorize the issuance of general obligation municipal bonds.

The current court also has upheld a state law favoring landlords, prohibiting tenants evicted for non-payment of rent from citing contract violations as part of their legal defense.

Republican presidential nominee Ronald Reagan presumably would seek to continue that approach by appointing conservative justices. The judges appointed by Carter to the lower federal courts, on the other hand, generally have been liberals.

As a result, the outcome of the presidential election is likely to directly affect the philosophical and ideological thrust of the nation's most important court for decades to come.

Today in history

Today is Wednesday, Oct. 8, the 282nd day of 1980. There are 84 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On Oct. 8, 1776, the Spanish founded a mission in San Francisco.

On this date:

In 1871, the Great Chicago Fire was touched off in a barn.

In 1903, the U.S. and China signed a commercial treaty.

In 1939, Germany incorporated western Poland into the Third Reich.

And in 1945, then-President Harry Truman announced that America's atomic secrets would be shared only with Britain and Canada.

Ten years ago, Soviet author Alexander Solzhenitsyn was awarded the Nobel Prize for literature.

Five years ago, heavy fighting in Beirut and northern Lebanon took at least 25 lives and shattered the latest truce between warring Christians and Moslems.

One year ago, Secretary of Defense Harold Brown said America had "neutralized" the presence of Soviet troops in Cuba by revitalizing the naval air station in Key West, Fla.

Today's birthdays: Civil rights leader Jesse Jackson is 39 years old. Rock singer Johnny Ramone is 29.

Thought for today: I believe in the discipline of silence and can talk for hours about it — George Bernard Shaw, English playwright (1856-1950).

Bush denounces Carter 'campaign rhetoric'

PLANO, Texas (AP) — Flashing anger and indignation as he skipped across Texas, Republican vice-presidential nominee George Bush denounced President Carter for what he called "irresponsible... and overheated campaign rhetoric."

Bush opened his attack Tuesday in Midland, revised it in Plano and polished it up in his hometown of Houston, where he spent the night.

Quoting Carter as saying "the election of Ronald Reagan would cause racial and religious alienations throughout the country," Bush declared:

"That is Carterism at its worst — rhetoric aimed for narrow political gain and insinuating hatred and division among Americans."

The former CIA director made those statements before a luncheon audience of 1,100 at Midland, where he was met by his son, George, and Texas Gov. Bill Clements.

Clements, the first Republican governor in Texas since Reconstruction, flew on to Dallas with Bush for the dedication of a municipal building in suburban Plano — a nucleus of Texas conservatism.

The younger Bush is an independent oil and gas operator in Midland, where his father launched his own business career 32 years ago.

Bush hammered at a more positive GOP theme of financial responsibility and competent leadership at the outdoor dedication ceremony, but continued to criticize Carter for what he called "disruptive and and devisive rhetoric."

He said Carter's statements reflected a "certain desperation" and dismissed them as "scare" tactics.

In Houston, where he met with black community, business and church leaders, Bush accused Carter of "talking down" to minorities. He said a Reagan presidency would "offer a real economic opportunity" to minorities with "more jobs, lower interest rates, a sounder economy, lower inflation... tax credits and less regulation of business."

Afghans mutilate Soviet bodies

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Some 25 Russian corpses, many of them deliberately mutilated by Afghans, leave Kabul's military morgue each week, a nurse who recently worked there said today.

The nurse, Nili Rahim Panchiri, also told reporters that the Soviet forces have set up at least one cemetery near the Afghan capital for burial of their dead.

Miss Panchiri, 26, said she had worked for more than a year in the Armed Forces Medical Science Academy Hospital in Kabul, which includes the central military morgue. She was able to see much of what went on and had close contacts with Russian nurses assigned exclusively to treat Soviet patients and with her supervisor, a Soviet neurologist, Dr. Malatkov, she said.

Names in the news

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Muhammad Ali claims an overdose of thyroid medicine made him "physically unfit" to face Larry Holmes in their heavyweight title fight last week in Las Vegas.

Holmes, 30, kept his crown when Ali didn't answer the bell for the 11th round.

Speaking at UCLA Medical Center on Tuesday, Ali said he doubled a daily dose of Thyrolar prescribed by his doctor to control a thyroid condition.

Ali, 38, underwent tests at the center, and doctors said the fighter suffered "no residual damage" from the fight. Dr. Dennis Cope said the Thyrolar overdose "results in fatigue, weakness, and a waste of energy. Six grains is much more than should be normally taken."

Ali said he took two pills a day, because a regular dose had increased his vitality and because "all of my vitamins, I always take one extra."

defendants to use their "extraordinary creative talents" in a national anti-drug education program.

"I look forward to the challenge," Evans told reporters outside the courthouse Tuesday. The producer, sentenced to one year's probation, said it was "a great challenge to do something constructive to show the wrongness of drugs."

Sentenced with Evans, whose films include "The Godfather" and "Love Story," were his brother, Charles, a construction magnate; and the brother's partner, Michael Shure. All three pleaded guilty July 31 to possessing five ounces of cocaine. The maximum penalty would have been a year in prison on the misdemeanor charge.

AMERICUS, Ga. (AP) — For the first time since she suffered a broken hip last week, Lillian Carter received solid food, hospital officials have said.

The president's 82-year-old mother broke her right hip Thursday when she tripped on a rug while getting up to turn on a television set at her home in nearby Plains.

Mrs. Carter was in "excellent spirits" Tuesday, said James

Griffith, administrator of Americus-Sumter County Hospital. "During the day she sat up two times, for over one-hour duration on each occasion."

Mrs. Carter still is receiving visits from her daughter, Gloria Carter Spann, and the children of her younger son, Billy. On Tuesday, she also watched soap operas, read cards and letters and received more flowers, Griffith said.

Doctors estimate Mrs. Carter will be hospitalized about three weeks and should walk again in about three months.

Vietnam hurt by 35 years of war

EDITOR'S NOTE — Peter Arnett, who reported from Vietnam for The Associated Press from 1962 to 1975 and won the Pulitzer Prize, interviewed Vietnam's foreign minister, Nguyen Co Thach, on Tuesday.

By PETER ARNETT AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — Olive branch extended, Vietnamese Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach moved purposefully along the corridors of this year's United Nations General Assembly.

His country was in its 35th year of continuing war, at odds with weather that has buffeted rich rice lands with two devastating typhoons in a recent month, and isolated politically from much of the world.

He had come on an annual mission to seek accord with former enemies, and peace with the present ones.

But there were few takers. "We are prepared to proceed with normalization of relations (with the United States), without conditions," he said.

Nearly six years ago, the United States ended its Vietnam involvement by snatching from the rooftops the last of its embassy staff as Saigon was collapsing to victorious North Vietnamese troops.

Vietnam was once the central focus of American concern but it has been bumped into the political backwaters by the flood of worry over militant Islam and endangered oil supplies. In an interview with The Associated Press, Foreign Minister Thach lamented the indifference.

"Normalization with America is important to us and for security in Southeast Asia. The less volatile the situation the better," Thach said. But American officials charge that Vietnam's aggressive designs are unsettling the region, and will not meet with the Vietnamese official during his visit or reopen long-collapsed talks (on normalizing relations).

The foreign minister described the situation as "a vicious circle" of diplomatic conspiracy centered on China. "The United States is playing its China card. It does not want to displease China," he charged. China invaded Vietnam for several weeks early in 1979 after years of border clashes that culminated in the expulsion of many Chinese inhabitants.

"As long as America plays its China card we are not in the game," the Vietnamese official said.

"Password" host suffers stroke

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — Television personality Allen Ludden, longtime host of the television game show "Password," suffered a massive stroke and was in a coma today at Community Hospital here, officials said.

Ludden, 62, was in critical condition. He was brought to the hospital Tuesday morning, and his condition had not changed since then, said spokeswoman Marge Peterson.

Ludden's wife, actress Betty White, was with him Tuesday. The couple had been vacationing in the Monterey area.

The "Password" television series, with Ludden as master of ceremonies, was broadcast on CBS for six years beginning in 1961. It returned to the air in the early 1970s as a syndicated show.

Ludden was born in Miner, Wis., and began teaching high school English in Austin, Texas, in 1941, after receiving his bachelor's and master's degrees in English at the University of Texas.

He worked briefly at radio station KEYS in Corpus Christi, Texas, before entering the Army in 1942, where he produced and directed 40 shows in the Pacific. After World War II, he became the personal manager of Shakespearean actor Maurice Evans.

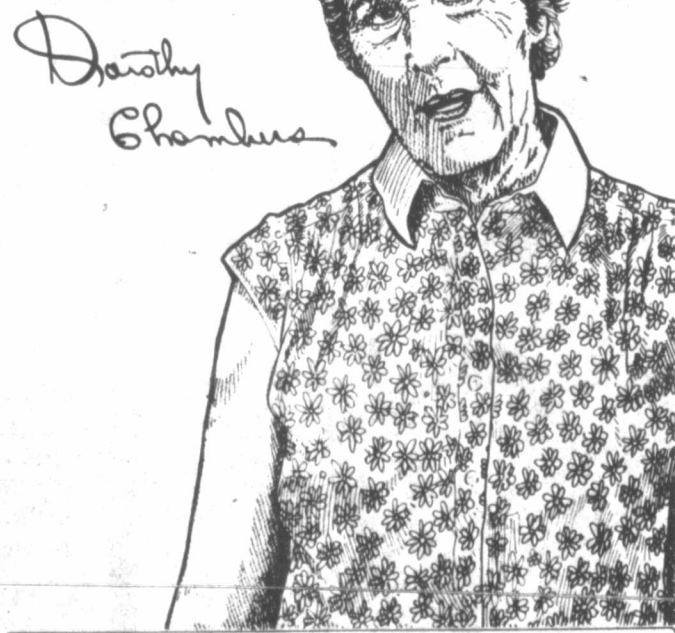

In 1947, Ludden began working on the staff of a playhouse in Connecticut and at radio station WTIC in Hartford, Conn.

Ludden's career blossomed in 1953 when he became moderator of the radio forerunner of "G-E College Bowl." In January 1959, he began nearly four years as moderator of the television version of that show on CBS-TV.

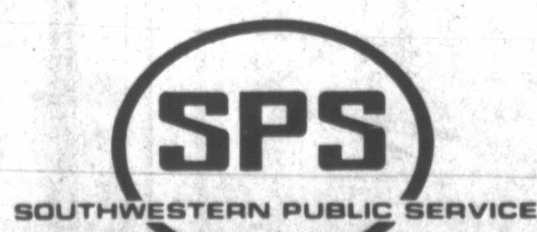

Ludden and Miss White married in 1963, one year after his first wife died. He has three children, David, Martha and Sarah. Miss White and Ludden first co-starred in summer theater circuits after they met, and later appeared together on television.

Update consumer hotline list

Update your consumer "hotline" list during Consumer Education Week Oct. 5-11, since hotline numbers can help consumers solve problems without spending a dime.

Here are some "latest" hotline numbers to include in your collection:

Department of Energy (DOE) — 1-800-424-9246. Consumers can report possible pricing violations by retail and wholesale petroleum firms.

International Fabricare Institute — 1-800-638-2627. Call this number for information on dry cleaning problems which involve dry cleaners who are members of the International Fabricare Institute.

Mainstream Inc. — 1-800-424-9089. This non-profit organization provides confidential answers to questions about laws relating to the handicapped, particularly those questions concerning employment.

Renolds Aluminum Recycling Company — 1-800-228-2525. Call this number for the location of the aluminum collection point nearest you.

Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) — 1-800-424-5488. Call this number if you have a complaint concerning a bank insured by the FDIC.

Commodity Futures Trading Commission — 1-800-424-9838. Call this number to find out whether a firm or sales representative is registered as required by law and whether any administrative or judicial action has been taken against the firm.

Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) — 1-800-638-3826. Report a potentially dangerous product or a product-related injury, and request free fact sheets on a wide range of products. CPSC investigates anything from toothpicks to tricycles but does not regulate safety of cars, boats, airplanes, food, cosmetics or drugs.

Auto Safety Hot-Line — 1-800-424-9393. Call this number to find out whether a car has ever been recalled because of safety defects. Use this number to report hazardous aspects of a car, and ask for free brochures and fact sheets. This hotline is staffed by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

Solar Hot-Line — 1-800-523-2929. Staffed by the National Solar Heating and Cooling Information Center, they provide information and brochures on solar heating and cooling.

Housing Discrimination Hot-Line — 1-800-424-8590. This number is provided by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. They investigate charges of housing discrimination based on race, color, sex and national origin. However, they can't help if the discrimination is based on marital status.

Lawyer Referral Service — 1-800-252-9690. Call this number, provided by the State Bar of Texas, for the name of a local attorney who specializes in a particular problem.

Education Hot-Line — 1-800-638-6700. For information on federal grants for undergraduate college students, call this number. This hot-line is staffed by the Department of Education.

Operation Venus — 1-800-227-8922. Call this number for information about venereal disease. They will give the name of a local free testing clinic.

Hearing-Aid Help-Line — 1-800-424-8576. For information on hearing disabilities, call this number. It is staffed by the Better Hearing Institute. They will refer you to local doctors, clinics and hearing-aid dealers.

Texas Mother of the Year sought

FORT WORTH — The search for the Mother of the Year for Texas for 1981 is under way. The Texas Mothers Committee needs your help to find mothers who have devoted their lives to their families, church, community and nation. Women so honored are a blessing and inspiration to all young families.

Any group or individual may nominate a mother whose life is representative of the best in Texas' mothers and whose children's achievements prove her abilities to inspire motivation. If chosen Mother of the Year she would become eligible to be chosen National Mother of the Year. Each nominee becomes a Merit Mother.

Texas Mothers Committee, an affiliate of American Mothers Inc., New York City, seeks to lift the spiritual and moral quality of home life in America by publicizing stories of successful mothers. Another way is in furnishing materials for the training of mothers of pre-school children, under the direction of a member of the Texas Mothers Committee. This organization is inter-racial and non-sectarian.

If you know of some qualified mother, whose youngest child is at least 15 years of age; a successful mother and homemaker, as evidenced by the character and achievements of her individual children in the religious, educational, civic, governmental or business world; who embodies characteristics highly regarded in mothers, such as love, courage, cheerfulness, patience, compassion, understanding and homemaking skills; a member of a religious body; a participant in community, state, national and/or international activities, please contact the Texas Mothers Committee for an application and instructions for nomination.

For an application, contact Mrs. Kenneth Wickett, president, Texas Mothers Committee, 2461 Ridgmar Plaza, Ft. Worth, Texas 76116 (817) 737-3413.

Loss of identity papers brings years of trouble

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service questioned him about non-payment of taxes; the state revoked his driver's license for violations he hadn't committed; and a finance company dunned him for payments on a car he hadn't bought.

Israel Navarro Gonzalez has had one hassle like that after another since someone stole his wallet and identification papers eight years ago.

Income from a 1974 foundry job in Los Angeles showed up on his Social Security number, making the IRS wonder why Gonzalez hadn't included that income on his tax return. His employer, Producers Cotton Oil Co., had to send the IRS a letter saying he had worked here throughout that year.

Someone using Gonzalez' old driver's license was involved in several hit-run and drunken-driving cases in Southern California, resulting in revocation of the license in 1976. He's still driving without a valid license.

And Gonzalez homesteaded his house at nearby Eaton after a finance company claimed he was in arrears in paying for a car purchased in the Los Angeles area 200 miles south of here.

Investigators believe Gonzalez' Social Security card, driver's license and baptismal certificate proving he is a United States citizen may have been sold on the black market to illegal aliens from Mexico.

It's been only recently that anyone in authority paid much attention to his complaint that at least one person and probably more have used his identification papers, Gonzalez contends.

"They all (told) me they can't do anything," Gonzalez said. "They said, 'why do you care?' The man is putting more money into your Social Security and disability."

But Social Security and state Employment Development Department officials are now trying to clear the real Gonzalez records.

Officials have found that income-tax returns bearing Gonzalez' name and seeking refunds have been filed the past two years, and someone in Los Angeles drew $2,704, in unemployment insurance on Gonzalez' account.

Efforts to find the person or persons who made those filings have failed so far.

The Social Security Administration plans to issue Gonzalez a new number which will require re-feeding information on his background into computers, said Pat L. Petty, assistant district manager.

But after eight years of problems, Gonzalez is worried that a new Social Security number will just cause more problems sometime in the future.

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a mother of a 17-year-old girl who would rent a motel room for her daughter and the girl's boyfriend so they could have a lovely "first night" experience together?

This boy is my son, also 17. (I will call him John.) John and this girl (I'll call her Jane) are both in high school. They became madly infatuated in just two weeks' time during the summer. Jane told her mother of her desire to go all the way with John, so the mother had a long talk with them, and the three of them planned this all-night session for the two young lovers.

When John told me of these plans, I couldn't believe it, so I phoned Jane's mother and she admitted she had made all the arrangements. She said she liked John and wanted her daughter to be comfortable for her first sexual experience. Can you believe this, Abby?

I told John that I was very disappointed that he was allowing Jane's mother to run interference for him. We then discussed the various methods of birth control and the seriousness of his commitment to this girl. He said he was not "in love" with her — it was just a summer romance. When John left for this date I told him I wanted him home at a reasonable hour. Well, he stayed out all night, and needless to say there has been a great deal of tenseness between us ever since.

I'd appreciate your comments. And have you heard of this before?

SHOCKED IN SAN DIEGO

DEAR SHOCKED: No, this is a first. However, what's done is done, and perpetuating the tenseness for something your son did with your permission makes no sense to me. As I understand it, you approved of his having sex with the girl, but demanded that he come home "at a reasonable hour."

It's commendable that your son was open and honest with you and that you were able to discuss methods of birth control with him, but he is a minor and so is the girl, and as a responsible parent you should have urged self-control.

Jane's mother deserves high marks for having built an open and honest relationship with her daughter, but as a responsible parent she should not have condoned and arranged for this weddingless wedding night.

4-H'ers honored at awards banquet

The annual Gray County 4-H awards banquet took place recently at the McLean Country Club to honor outstanding 4-H members and leaders in Gray County. Top honors went to Penny Miller and Amy Brainard, both of Pampa, who were named Gold Star winners for 1980. The Gold Star award is presented annually to two 4-H members who have achieved high standards of excellence. Penny has been in 4-H for seven years and has completed many projects, including foods and nutrition, clothing, method demonstrations, records books and the bake show. She participated on the state level in method demonstrations and with her clothing record book. She has served as president and is currently secretary of the Top O' Texas 4-H Club. She is also secretary of the Gray County 4-H Council. She has been a junior leader in foods and nutrition, clothing and method demonstration.

Amy has been active in 4-H for nine years in Gray County and has completed projects in foods and nutrition, clothing, livestock, method demonstrations and record books. She has served as a junior leader in foods and nutrition and in clothing. She has served as vice-president of the Top O' Texas 4-H Club and is now serving her second term as first chairman of the Gray County 4-H Council. She has also attended the District 1 Electric Camp in Cloudcroft, N.M. and the National 4-H Citizenship Shortcourse and Heritage Tour in Washington, D.C.

David and Fern Woods of McLean and Roselle Collingworth of Pampa were honored as outstanding leaders. Mrs. G.C. Davis received the "Friend of 4-H" award.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I met a new couple through our children who go to school together, play together, etc. This family (I'll call them the Smiths) began pushing for a closer relationship, and being new in town, we welcomed their friendship.

Soon another factor entered the picture. The Smiths are distributors for a line of products. Soon after we met, they invited us to join them for some sales meetings. Then they started pitching us to become distributors. Abby, we like the Smiths and we like the products, but we have no interest whatsoever in being distributors.

Our question is, how can we tell whether the Smiths have cultivated our friendship because they really like us or for business reasons?

US IN COLORADO

DEAR US: Make it perfectly clear that you have absolutely no interest in becoming distributors, and if the friendship cools, you'll know it wasn't so hot in the first place.

DEAR ABBY: After I began donating regularly to a couple of charities, I realized they were spending a lot of money in postage, stationery and clerical help in order to acknowledge my contribution and thank me for making it. Now when I send a check for a charity, I enclose a note saying that an acknowledgment is not necessary. My canceled check is all I need for income tax purposes.

If others would do this, more of the money would go to the causes we care for.

L.K., PASADENA, TEXAS

DEAR L.K.: Thanks for a good idea.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple, "do-your-own-thing" ceremony, get Abby's new booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to: Abby's Wedding Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Cookbook offers easy gourmet recipes

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

DEAR CECILY: So many gourmet recipes call for chicken stock. Can you give a recipe for it? I've never seen canned chicken soup labeled "Stock."

— MIDWEST

DEAR MIDWEST: There's a recipe for homemade chicken stock in the new "Better Homes and Gardens Gourmet Recipes Made Easy" (Meredith, $4.95). After the stock is clarified, it is called chicken consommé. The book gives directions for making both stock and consommé and their recipes follow.

For quick substitutes for homemade chicken stock, "Gourmet Recipes Made Easy" suggests: "Consider canned chicken broth used straight from the can or condensed chicken broth, which must be diluted according to can directions. Instant chicken bouillon granules dissolved in water work fine, too."

Because you are a Midwesterner, you may be interested to know that this cookbook is published in Des Moines, Iowa.

CHICKEN STOCK
Bony chicken pieces (backs, necks and wings) from 2 chickens
2 cups sliced leeks, white parts only
3 large but pale-color inner ribs celery with leaves, chopped
1 carrot, pared and quartered

2 bay leaves
1½ teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon whole black peppercorns, cracked
3 whole cloves
6 cups water

In a Dutch oven or large saucepot bring all the ingredients to boiling. Cover and simmer for 1 hour or until chicken is tender. Remove chicken and refrigerate for some other use. Strain stock through a sieve lined with a layer of cheesecloth. Chill stock and remove fat that has solidified at top. May be stored for several days in the refrigerator; for longer storage, freeze. Makes 4 to 5 cups.

CHICKEN CONSOMME
Clarify Chicken Stock: stir together ¼ cup cold water, 1 egg white and 1 crushed eggshell; add to Chicken Stock; bring to boiling. Remove from heat and let stand 5 minutes. Strain through a sieve lined with 2 layers of cheesecloth. May be stored for several days in the refrigerator; for longer storage, freeze. Makes 4 to 5 cups. These recipes (slightly adapted) are from "Better Homes and Gardens Gourmet Recipes Made Easy."

Astro-Graph

by bernice bede osol

October 9, 1980

This coming year you may seek ways to improve or make changes in important personal areas. This may, from time to time, even make you a bit of a loner. You'll want time to work things out.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Normally you're able to see the other guy's point of view, but today you could get upset if anyone tries to do something by methods other than yours. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You may be a trifle too sensitive today, and take offense at things others say or do where no offense was intended. Be careful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Things you do on your own today you're apt to be rather ho-hum about, but when it comes to group activities you become a real take-charge type.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Being first will be very important to you today. This will become quite apparent to others if they get involved with you in a competitive situation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Not only are you extremely observant today, you're also capable of soaking up knowledge like a sponge. Even small details won't escape you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A member of the opposite sex who is already attached may find you more appealing today than he or she should. It's best you mind your p's and q's.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Someone you team up with may serve as a source of strength today. This may help you revitalize something you've been down on.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If a job you must do has become boring, today is the time to try to create a new twist to it. You should find you will be quite successful.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You may find, beginning today, that a familiar relationship might begin a transformation. How well you'll like this will depend upon how much you desire a change.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be careful at home today that you don't throw your weight around too much. If you begin to come on too strong, it could stir up the entire household.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your powers of concentration are extremely pronounced today. This is a good time to work on mental "jawbreakers." You'll not quit until things are resolved.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's OK to look out for your self-interests today, but try not to become too emotional over material things. You could do something you'll regret.

Suspect bear not believed to be killer

WEST GLACIER, Mont. (AP) — Preliminary autopsy results on the carcass of a slain 378-pound male grizzly bear didn't "show much of anything," according to acting Glacier National Park superintendent Joe Shellenberger.

So, he said Park Service rangers on foot and in a helicopter would continue their search today for a bear that mauled a Texan to death.

Shellenberger said that final autopsy results on the bear would take some time, so he decided Tuesday that the upper portion of the Belly River drainage should be searched again for other grizzlies that may have attacked Laurence Gordon, 33, of Dallas.

The body of Gordon was found last Friday near the shore of Elizabeth Lake in the mountainous northeast corner of Glacier about 10 miles south of the Canadian border.

A search for the bear that killed him — possibly the same animal that treed three other hikers last week and broke into ranger facilities nearby — was launched on Saturday. The suspect bear was killed Sunday morning about six miles from where Gordon's body was found and partially eaten body was found.

Shellenberger said the preliminary autopsy showed only that the bear "was six to eight years old."

He said about 10 rangers were sent back into the rugged drainage where the mauling occurred to look for other bears and "we'll probably call on" rangers from Waterton Lakes National Park in Canada for assistance.

He said the rangers would search from the passes at the top of the drainage down toward where Gordon was camped.

The slain bear was shot from a helicopter in the same area after rangers found bear droppings containing "what looked like human tissue and boot samples." Ranger Bob Frauson said the boot fragments appeared to match the boots worn by Gordon. Gordon was the sixth person killed by grizzlies in the 71-year history of the Glacier Park. But he was the third victim of 1980, the worst year ever in the park for fatal attacks by grizzlies.

Chip Carter defends father's campaigning

DALLAS (AP) — Chip Carter defended re-election tactics of his president father against Republican allegations of running a "campaign of inuendo" by saying that "dad hasn't slung anymore mud" than Ronald Reagan has.

It is difficult to have a "nice campaign" because President Carter and Reagan "totally disagree" on most issues, said Carter.

The president's son made a campaign stop at the Community School Action Center in south Dallas. There he told about 150 supporters that Texas, New York, California and Illinois were four crucial states in the president's re-election bid.

He said Reagan's election would be "detrimental to our country" and he called the Republican economic policies "sugar-coated poisons."

Republican vice presidential nominee George Bush said in Midland Tuesday criticized the president for his "irresponsible use of divisive rhetoric in this campaign" and Reagan charged Tuesday that the president's campaign was "reaching a point of hysteria."

Reagan was referring to comment by the president on Monday that Reagan's election could result in separating "black from white, Jew from Christian, north from south, rural from urban."

But Carter, 30, said Tuesday that his dad was trying only to say that Reagan as president would be "divisive" for the nation.

"You can't endorse and have the endorsement of the Moral Majority and be president of all the people," said Carter.

He said his father's greatest accomplishment has been "four years of peace." And Carter said that Reagan is "more likely to get us into a war than my dad is."

The president's son also told cheering blacks that his dad had appointed more black, Hispanic and women judges than all previous presidents combined.

Dallas Transit System not through firing

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Transit System, crippled by a massive job action that resulted in the firing of several hundred employees Wednesday, is now "back to business as normal," says the DTS general manager.

Cliff Franklin said Tuesday he considered the work stoppage "ended" with the mailing of several hundred termination letters to the remainder of the DTS employees who walked out last week and did not return to their jobs by Tuesday night.

About 600 DTS employees walked out protesting pay and benefits last Wednesday. Leaders of the Amalgamated Transit Union said it was not a strike but a series of individual job actions, since public employees are prohibited by law from striking in Texas.

Transit union leader B.J. Simmons disagreed sharply with Franklin, saying DTS will have to deal with the worker's demands "sooner or later."

He said the city council ultimately will have to deal with the employees' problems, rather than siding with DTS management.

"Sooner or later, the city council is going to come out here and see what's going on," Simmons said. "When that happens they are going to find out we are right."

"There is going to be a time coming when they are going to have to answer to the taxpayers and voters why in the hell they haven't done anything," he said.

Franklin said more employees could be fired in the next three weeks because they were on vacation or other excused leave when the walkout occurred.

The transit system will not know which employees to fire until they return to work and their excuses can be evaluated, officials said.

DTS said five workers were fired Monday and 31 more were purged from the payroll Tuesday, further complicating operation of the city's only mass transit system.

Franklin told a news conference it would take the city bus system "from six months to two years" to recover from the strike, which has cut the number of rolling buses by almost 80 percent.

Koch funds fatten Libertarian coffers

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the spring of 1979, David Koch, a manufacturer of pollution control equipment, wrote out a check for $1,000 to the campaign of Ed Clark, who was seeking to become the presidential candidate of the fledgling Libertarian Party.

Five months later, Clark won the nomination — and chose Koch as his running mate.

Since then, Koch has returned the favor, giving the Clark campaign — and his own — three out of every four dollars it has reported collecting, or over $1 million.

Specifically: On Oct. 15, 1979, Koch gave the Clark-Koch campaign $20,000. On Nov. 29, he gave $35,000. On Jan. 10, he gave $35,000.

On Jan. 15, he gave $100,000. On April 3, he gave $100,000.

On May 8, he gave $100,000. On June 9, he gave $100,000. On July 2, he gave $125,000.

On Aug. 1, he gave $300,000. On Aug. 15, he gave $125,000. On Aug. 28, he gave $125,000.

To total it all up, records on file at the Federal Election Commission show that through Aug. 31, Koch has given the ticket $1,165,000.

Under federal law, individuals may give only $1,000 to a candidate for federal office. But candidates may give any amount to their own campaign, as long as they don't accept federal campaign funds.

So, unless the Libertarians had nominated Koch for office, they could not have accepted his contributions.

Ed Crane, communications director of the party, recalls that at the Libertarian Party convention in Los Angeles in September 1979, Koch circulated an open letter saying he was seeking the vice presidential nomination "because he was disturbed the law denies independent parties the opportunity to raise substantial amounts."

But Crane and presidential nominee Clark say Koch was not picked as Clark's running mate because of his pledge in the letter to give a substantial amount — "several hundred thousand dollars," as Clark recalls.

Koch and his brother, Charles, of Wichita, Kan., are heirs to a large oil and industrial fortune.

The Libertarians believe in minimal government. They advocate laissez faire economics, a fortress America foreign policy and individual liberties — a mixture that brings together in common cause extreme conservatives, proponents of alternative lifestyles, ex-hippies and rugged individualists.

David Koch could not be reached for comment, but Clark, campaigning in Las Vegas, Nev., said Koch's promise to support the ticket financially had nothing to do with his selection as Libertarian vice presidential nominee.

"He was clearly the best candidate," Clark says. "He would have been nominated anyway."

Bird disease reaches epidemic stage

HOUSTON (AP) — The U.S. Department of Agriculture has enlisted the aid of 25 animal doctors and specialists to help combat an exotic disease among pet birds authorities fear has reached "epidemic" proportions in 20 states.

The call for help came Tuesday after USDA tests revealed about 5,500 pet birds at Exotex, a Houston bird wholesaler, had the highly-contagious Newcastle disease and must be destroyed.

Among the birds were 3,500 finches, 1,100 small parakeets, 300 canaries, 200 lovebirds, 100 parrots, 60 rare Australian parakeets and 10 breeder parrots.

"It's like cutting a fire break around a forest fire," said USDA information officer Don Nielson. "You just have to remove all the fuel."

The birds probably will be destroyed by placing them in sealed boxes and forcing carbon dioxide gas into the containers, he said.

Officials estimated about 9,500 birds were killed here last month. Nielson estimated the epidemic had infected about 15,000 birds in the Houston area and about 22,000 pet birds in 20 states.

The federal agency already has spent more than $942,000 in the south-central region of the country to buy infected birds and destroy them.

On Tuesday, the USDA discovered evidence of Newcastle disease in two groups of birds, imported from Taiwan and South Africa, being sold in the Los Angeles area.

Nielson, however, did not identify the other 18 states officials said were affected by the outbreak.

The virus is not considered dangerous to humans, but officials fear the disease could be "devastating" to the country's poultry business.

Cocaine found in golf bag

HOUSTON (AP) — Inspectors at Houston Intercontinental Airport have seized about five pounds of high-grade cocaine stashed in the false bottom of a golf bag carried by a Colombian woman.

The cocaine, valued at $1.5 million, was found Tuesday night at the airport's U.S. Customs-Immigration and Naturalization checkpoint, inspectors said.

The suspect, who arrived on a flight from Cancun, Mexico, told authorities the cocaine was to be delivered to a Houston dealer, said Customs spokesman Charles Conroy.

City protests hike

HOUSTON (AP) — City officials have vowed to challenge a $134.4 million rate increase approved for Houston Lighting & Power Co., citing inequities in rates charged.

Officials said Tuesday they planned to contest the increase a hearing before the Public Utility Commission. A date for the proceeding has not been scheduled.

Bob Gillespie, a PUC hearing examiner, recommended Monday the rate increase be instituted pending the hearing on the utility's appeal of City Council vote to set lower rates.

Declining death rate proves medical advance

NEW YORK (AP) — The death rate among very old Americans — those 85 and up — declined dramatically in the last decade, an indication that medical advances mean longer, healthier lives for the elderly, researchers say.

A new study by three University of Pennsylvania researchers shows that health advances, which have extended lives generally, are beginning to have an impact among the small group of Americans who live to a very advanced age.

"Without doubt, the steep downward trend in mortality among the extreme aged is a real phenomenon rather than a statistical artifact," they said in the October issue of American Journal of Public Health.

"In the past, this group had shown the least change in death rate. There was a general feeling that beyond a certain age you couldn't expect much improvement in mortality," research specialist Ira Rosenwaike said in a telephone interview.

"But in the past decade or so, there has been a real improvement... This might mean a generally healthier population at that age," he added.

Rosenwaike and Nurit Yaffe of the university's School of Medicine and Philip Sagi, a sociology professor, studied data from the Center for Health Statistics, the Census Bureau and Medicare.

They found that while death rates dropped sharply for younger adults from 1933 to 1966 — the largest gain was among 25- to 34-year-olds, whose death rate went down 63.4 percent — the decline in death rate for persons over 85 was only 10.1 percent.

The big improvement at younger ages came because of medical advances — such as antibiotics — against infectious disease, they said.

But from 1966 to 1977, the situation reversed itself. Those over 85 had the largest drop in death rate — 26.3 percent — while the mortality of 25- to 34-year-olds declined 6.7 percent.

In absolute numbers, yearly deaths fell from about 200 per 1,000 persons over age 85 in 1966 to 147 per 1,000 in 1977, they said.

Few injuries reported in airborne troop jump

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A few injuries, none of them serious, were reported in an assault exercise in which 300 soldiers of the 82nd Airborne Division parachuted into Camp Bullis northwest of the city.

"We've had a few injuries reported, ankles and backs," an Army spokesman said after the parachutists plummeted to earth about 4 p.m. Tuesday in an Emergency Deployment Readiness Exercise.

The troops, now engaged in three days of war games, were transported from Fort Bragg, N.C., in Air Force C-130 aircraft to conduct a parachute assault against opposing forces comprised of Security Police trainees from Lackland Air Force Base.

Included were members of the 307th Medical Battalion who set up three field medical clearing stations to stage a simulated combat mass casualty exercise, and an infantry rifle company that was taking part in the war games.

The exercise was scheduled to conclude on Friday, with the troops returning to Fort Bragg on Saturday.

Purpose of the exercise was to test the unit's reaction time, its ability to deploy rapidly and to conduct operations in a simulated combat zone, the Army said.

Bentsen favors Mennonite permanent residence status

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen says it would be a "serious injustice" to deny permanent resident status to Mennonites because Americans have always welcomed refugees.

Bentsen sponsored a bill approved by Congress last week granting permanent resident status to 653 Mennonites settled in the West Texas town of Seminole.

The bill now is awaiting President Carter's signature, but a national Hispanic leader wants the bill vetoed until all immigration problems are solved.

"It would be a serious mistake if he (Carter) were to veto the bill," said the Democratic lawmaker.

"They (the Mennonites) had their land expropriated in Mexico, they thought they came to this country properly, their land was foreclosed — these are poor, hardworking people," Bentsen told a news conference here Tuesday.

"This country has opened its doors to so many refugees — the Vietnamese, the Cubans, the Haitians — it would be a serious injustice to veto that bill."

Ruben Bonilla, president of the League of United Latin American Citizens said Monday the problems of illegal Mexican immigrants should take precedence over the plight of the Mennonites.

"If people support the Mennonites, why don't they support the Mexicans?" Bonilla said in a telephone interview from his Corpus Christi home. "Is it because they (Mexican immigrants) don't speak English?"

"What's good enough for the Mennonites is good enough for the Mexicans. The legislature is premature and favors the economic well-to-do at the expense of the poor and unrepresented," Bonilla said. "If we're going to grant amnesty to the Mennonites, then we should consider a general form of amnesty for the undocumented workers (from Mexico)."

The Spartan-like religious group moved from Mexico and settled in West Texas without government permission. The group lost all its farmland through foreclosure and faced deportation until Bentsen arranged for them to have special resident status until his bill was considered.

The Mennonites first ran into trouble in 1977 after paying $2.6 million for 6,400 acres in Gaines County. They did not learn until later that the purchase did not make them eligible for permanent resident status.

Bentsen's bill failed to clear a House subcommittee in 1978 and was re-introduced for the 96th Congress and passed by the Senate last year. It was approved by the House last Thursday.

Fair will generate 'a lot of trash'

DALLAS (AP) — Not everyone would want Steve Moore's job. He and his crew of about 600 temporary workers clean the sprawling State Fair of Texas fairgrounds daily — after more than 250,000 people have trampled the midway from dawn to dusk.

If all the paper napkins, candy-apple cores, corn cobs, corn dog sticks and other trash discarded during the two-week fair were stacked on the floor of the Cotton Bowl, he says, it would make a pile 10 feet deep.

The man who deduced that somewhat unsavory statistic has contracted for the fair cleanup job for the past 19 years. State Fair officials estimated they will spend about $300,000 this year paying Moore and his army to clean up after the three million litterbugs expected to stroll the grounds from now until Oct. 19.

The hardest job, Moore said, is cleaning the midway where the rides and games are located and where pedestrian traffic is always the heaviest.

Crowds make broom-handling difficult and driving the mobile trash carts impossible, he said.

But cleaning the midway puts the brigade — armed with everything from brooms and dustpans to golf-cart sized pickups — only midway through the spic-and-span operation.

The livestock barns, which generate thousands of pounds of manure daily, must be cleaned and readied for the herds of cows and hordes of fairgoers.

Former professor files suit over losing job

HOUSTON (AP) — A former associate professor at the University of Texas Medical School who claims he was illegally fired and "blackballed" in 1976 has sought $8 million in damages from former members of the UT Board of Regents.

Dr. Said A. Assaf, who now lives on the West Bank of the Jordan River, filed suit Monday in State District Court.

Assaf has charged he was not given any reason why he was fired and was "blackballed" by the defendants from getting another job at an American medical school.

Named in the suit were former regents Allan Shivers, Dan Williams, Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson and Charles A. LeMaistre, former chancellor of the UT system.

Charles A. Berry, former president of the UT Health Science Center in Houston, and Joel L. Moake, former director of the hematology division at the medical school, also were included in the suit.

The suit seeks $6 million from the defendants for "disparaging (his) professional and personal reputation" and $2 million in punitive damages.

Following Assaf's dismissal in 1976, the American Association of University Professors censured the school for alleged breach of academic freedom.

Assaf sued for reinstatement, and a federal judge ruled several of the University's dismissal rules were unconstitutional.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled the case moot because Assaf had been take off the payroll but refused to vacate the ruling on employment regulations.

At the university's request, the U.S. Supreme Court agreed in April 1978 to have the judgment vacated.

Braniff board chairman takes 20 percent cut

DALLAS (AP) — The board chairman of Braniff International says he will take a 20 percent pay cut to help the airline struggle through its worst losses in history.

Harding Lawrence announced his decision after discussing pay cuts with leaders of the unions representing most of Braniff's employees.

The union leaders proposed a 10 percent, six-month pay cut for all union employees — except flight attendants — to help the company reduce its massive losses, which reached $47.7 million in the first quarter of this year.

"We've got a good contract with the company and we want to see the company survive through deregulation," said Teamsters local president Marvin Schlinke.

The payout proposal would not be binding unless approved by all the unions. Machinists local president Lanny Rogers said his rank-and-file would vote on the proposal this week.

The airline also has announced further route cutbacks and salary reduction talks in an attempt to get the company back into a "position of profitability" as soon as possible.

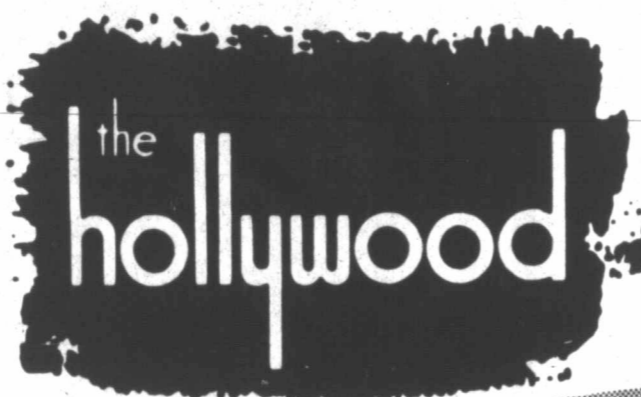

As part of the airline's overall effort to cut expenses, officials have announced the temporary — and in some case, indefinite — suspension of some flights. Earlier, the company had cancelled routes to Singapore and Guam.

Braniff spokesman Michael Kaeser said Tuesday that high fuel costs and increased competition in the trans-Pacific routes made the economics

"unsatisfactory" at this time. Braniff, long a major carrier between North and South America, began expanding into Europe and the Pacific in the last two years. Analysts have recently cited the long Pacific flights as a major drain on the company's resources at a time when the recession has hurt the airline business in general.

In another move this week, Braniff announced special discounts on 11 routes to increase traffic. The one-way fare is as low as $26 on a Portland to Seattle route and represents discounts of between 30 and 53 percent, depending on the flight, a company spokesman said.

Harvesters victorious over Palo Duro

Pampa took command of first place in the District 3-5A volleyball race Tuesday night with a 15-11, 15-4 victory over Palo Duro in Clarendon College-Pampa Center.

Led by Jeannette Britt, the Harvesters had to rally from an 8-1 deficit to win the opener.

Palo Duro had problems getting its offense organized in the second game while Pampa in the meantime ran up a big lead.

Britt found several holes in the Dons' defense with her spikes and dinks.

Pampa is now 2-0 in district and 21-2 overall. Palo Duro is 10-8 overall and 0-2 in district play.

In junior varsity action, Pampa fell to Palo Duro, 13-11, 15-7.

The Harvesters play Tascosa there at 6:30 p.m. Saturday in another district volleyball matchup.

Pampa won't play at home again until Oct. 18 when the Amarillo Sandies come to town for a 6:30 p.m. Saturday game at Pampa Center.

In between the Harvesters travel to Dumas Oct. 14 for a non-district clash.

In other district play, Amarillo High downed Tascosa, 15-4, 16-14.

Pampa to host coaches clinic

A basketball clinic for area coaches will be held at 9 a.m. Saturday in the Clarendon College-Pampa Center.

Guest speakers include Lonnie Nichols, head coach at Cameron State University, 1980 NAIA national champions;

Robert McPherson, assistant coach, Cameron; Robert Evans, assistant coach, Texas Tech; Dennis Aye, head coach, Panhandle State; Garland Nichols, head coach, Pampa High School, and Mark Nixon, head coach, Clarendon College.

Following the clinic, there will be a scrimmage between Cameron and Panhandle State at 2:30 p.m. Saturday at the White Deer High School gymnasium.

The public is invited to attend the scrimmage free of charge.

Switzer feels OU will be underdog

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Although the oddsmakers have rated the game as a near tossup, Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer evidently feels his team will be a decided underdog when it faces Texas in the Cotton Bowl Saturday.

Switzer began his weekly press luncheon Tuesday by tagging the Longhorns as the No. 1 team in the country at this point in the season.

"I think Texas is the best football team in the United States today," the Sooner coach said at the risk of disgruntling fans at Alabama and Southern Cal, ranked No. 1 and No. 2 in this week's Associated Press poll.

He said the third-ranked Longhorns "are in great position to win them all if they beat us."

Switzer ticked off several reasons for his appraisal of the Longhorns, including improvement at running back with A. J. Jones and

Ali blames loss on drugs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Muhammad Ali said he had been feeling tired and weak for days before his heavyweight title fight against Larry Holmes in Las Vegas, Nev. last week — and he believes he knows why.

"I jogged three days before (the fight) and I couldn't even pick up my legs," the former champion said at a news conference at UCLA Medical Center at which he revealed he had been taking medication for a thyroid condition.

"When I took one tablet I felt fine," he said, but he said he doubled the dosage against doctor's orders, and that apparently sapped his strength and contributed to his loss to Holmes.

Holmes, 30, retained his World Boxing Council crown when the exhausted and soundly beaten Ali, 38, could not answer the bell for the 11th round.

All said he had doubled a daily dose of Thyrolar prescribed by his doctor two weeks before the bout, increasing the prescribed amount because a regular dose had increased his vitality and "all of my vitamins, I always take one extra."

Ali's doctor, Dr. Charles Lee Williams Sr., said in Chicago that he prescribed the Thyrolar for what he diagnosed as a thyroid imbalance, but he did not say how he came to that conclusion.

Ali underwent tests at the UCLA center Monday and Tuesday and was given a clean bill of health by doctors, who said the fighter suffered "no residual damage" from the fight.

However, the three-time champion also said he may check into the Mayo Clinic for an examination soon. Then he plans to step into the ring to determine whether the medicine did affect him during the fight or whether he is "washed up."

Tiger League football roundup

The Colts defeated the Raiders, 14-6, in Tiger League football action Tuesday night at Optimist Park.

The Colts opened the scoring in the second quarter on Danny Samuels 30-yard run. Rodney Kelly's conversion run made it 7-0. (No extra points are kicked in pee-wee football).

The Raiders rallied in the third quarter when Kevin Buntan intercepted a Colts pass and ran it back 70 yards for a score. But the extra point failed to keep the Colts in front, 7-6.

The Colts added one more score after a long drive in the fourth quarter when Neal Gardner rambled 12 yards for a TD. Samuels ran across the extra point.

In the second game of the night, the Rams downed the Redskins, 12-6, as Clint Allen scored both TDs for the winners on 45 and 28-yard runs.

Rubin Ramirez scored the Redskins only TD on a 45-yard run.

Rams defenders Dusty Parks and Glen Pruett gave the Redskins offense trouble the entire game.

Kirk Kerbo booted four punts for a 33-yard average that kept the Redskins in the hole.

Eric Phetteplace played outstanding defense for the Redskins.

Next Tiger League action is Tuesday night when the Packers meet the Rams at 6 p.m. and the Raiders tangle with the Redskins at 7:30 p.m.

Landry: Promises plenty of thrills

DALLAS (AP) — If you were bored watching last Sunday's Bull New York Giant-Dallas game, then Cowboys' Coach Tom Landry promises you plenty of thrills this weekend.

"It will be very exciting this Sunday," promised Landry. "I know we'll be excited."

The San Francisco 49ers and their control passing game will be on hand for the 1 p.m. kickoff.

"They use passes to their backs like we use running plays," said Landry. "It will be a big test for us. They'll probably throw the ball 40 to 45 times. Our young secondary will get a workout."

Expected to be available for backup duty will be veteran Benny Barnes, making his first appearance since he underwent an emergency appendectomy five weeks ago before Dallas' opener against the Washington Redskins.

"We will work Benny back into the lineup slow," said

Landry. "He will backup (strong safety) Charlie Waters and (cornerback) Steve Wilson. We also hope to work him on the kicking team."

"We might get Benny in there on passing downs. He could have a conditioning problem although he is in good shape."

Richard to undergo additional surgery

NEW YORK (AP) — Houston Astros' pitcher J.R. Richard, whose life was threatened by a stroke less than three months ago, will undergo additional surgery early next week in an undisclosed California hospital.

Tom Reich, his agent, said Tuesday night. "This is an important step in J.R.'s recovery," Reich said in a telephone interview from his home in Pittsburgh. "He still has a clot remaining in his shoulder and the surgery will be to correct that problem," Reich added.

Richard collapsed during a workout at the Astrodome on July 30. He was rushed into emergency surgery later that day and surgeons removed a blood clot in a neck artery.

At the time, a hospital spokesman said the blood clot could have been "a life and death situation" had it been dislodged.

Surgeons who removed the clot later said "there were apparent signs of neurological symptoms indicating impairment of circulation to the brain that would be suggestive of a stroke."

Reich said next week's surgery was not being forced by new complications.

"This one (the surgery) is planned," he said.

Phillies defeat Astros in NL opener

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The first 64 years are always the toughest. If you don't believe that axiom ask the Philadelphia Phillies.

Greg Luzinski's two-run homer in the sixth inning triggered the Phillies' first post-season victory at home since Grover Cleveland Alexander beat the Boston Red Sox in the 1915 World Series.

The Phillies beat the Houston Astros 3-1 Tuesday night in the first game of their best-of-five National League Championship series.

The Phillies had lost 10 straight post-season games at home, including two in that 1915 Series, two in the 1950 World Series to the New York Yankees and six in divisional playoffs in 1976, 1977 and 1978.

Steve Carlton, the Phillies' 24-game winner, was credited with the victory although he wasn't as overpowering as during the regular season. Still, Carlton worked seven innings and allowed just one run.

Manager Dallas Green lifted Carlton for a pinch hitter in the seventh despite a 2-1 lead. The Phillies had a runner on third and two out.

The reliever was Tug McGraw, who had four wins and three saves in September and one victory and two saves this month in the Phillies' drive to the NL East title.

McGraw came in and retired six of seven batters to save the game for Philadelphia. Luzinski's home run came on a 3-2 pitch and landed high in the first tier of seats in left field. It was the only hit of the game for the outfielder who has struggled most of the season.

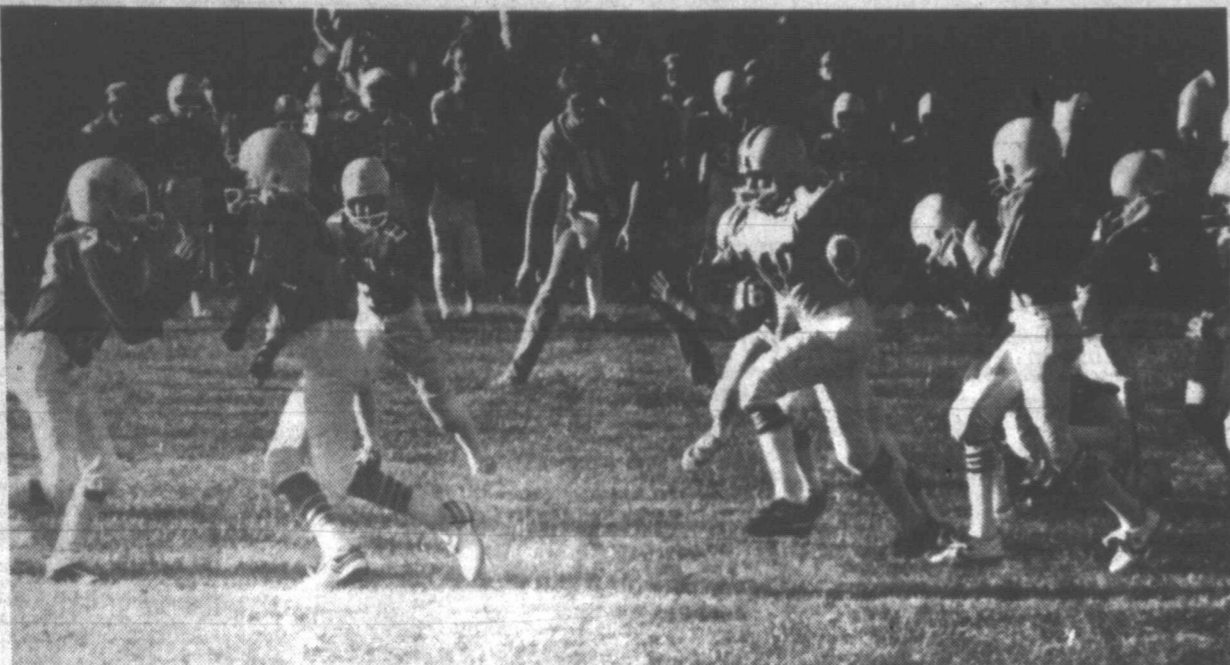

The Astros took a 1-0 lead in the third inning on singles by Jose Cruz, Cesar Cedeno, and a two-out base hit under the glove of second baseman Manny Trillo by rookie Gary Woods.

Astros' pitcher Ken Forsch held onto the slim lead until the sixth when Pete Rose, opened with an infield single. Bake McBride struck out and Mike Schmidt flied out.

Forsch then went to 3-2 on Luzinski and boom. The ball flew out of the ball park for a 2-1 Phillies' lead. The Phillies added an insurance run in the seventh on Garry Maddox' single, a sacrifice bunt from Larry Bowa, Maddox' steal of third and a slicing single to left by pinch hitter Greg Gross, who was batting for Carlton.

The disconsolate Forsch went the distance, allowing eight hits, striking out five and walking just one.

RAIDERS RUNNING back Jon Roe (40) finds daylight right up the middle during a Tiger League football game Tuesday night against the Colts. The Colts won the game, 16-6, by scoring touchdowns in the second and fourth quarters. The Raiders scored in the third quarter.

Lakers expected to repeat as NBA champs

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Not since the Boston Celtics of 1968-69 has the National Basketball Association had a repeat champion, which would seem to indicate the Los Angeles Lakers can be automatically written off.

In this case, though, don't count on it. The Lakers, who open defense of their title in Seattle Friday night before a national television audience, retain all the key players from last year's club. Age should not be a problem and the experience gained in the championship run can only benefit guards Magic Johnson and Michael Cooper and Coach Paul Westhead, who won as rookies last year.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar is coming off one of his finest seasons, when he played with a verve that had been missing in recent years and won Most Valuable Player honors for the sixth time in his career.

The peerless center keyed the Lakers' fastbreak, their most effective weapon last year, with his rebounding and outlet passing. On offense he was the hub, the safety valve, the man who inevitably got the ball when other things didn't work, and he rediscovered a soft turnaround jumper to complement the famous sky hook. On defense he hung back in the lane and anchored what often bordered on a zone, picking up anyone who had the audacity to try and drive to the basket. And off the court he was the leader, the man the other looked to for guidance and stability.

"Kareem is The Man on this team," said Johnson. "I'm just happy to play on the same side."

No matter how much Abdul-Jabbar denies it, Johnson's natural ebullience had to be a factor in his own renewed enthusiasm. Magic's joyous attitude is infectious, and no club needed it more than the old, blasé, laid-back Lakers.

Can they repeat as champions? Two of their toughest rivals are right there in the Pacific Division — the Seattle SuperSonics and Phoenix Suns. Those clubs made a stunning off-season swap of all-time whiz Paul Westphal going to Seattle and defensive standout Dennis Johnson moving to Phoenix. The trade alters the character of both teams, but it will be several months before any true evaluation can be made.

The expansion Dallas team enters the Midwest Division and is joined by Texas rivals Houston and San Antonio, who replaced Milwaukee and Chicago in the realignment. Six of the 12 teams in the conference make the playoffs.

Here is a team-by-team look at the NBA West, with clubs listed in alphabetical order: MIDWEST DIVISION Dallas Mavericks

The Mavericks chose to go with youth in the expansion draft, passing up big-name veterans for kids who will play hard every night. It's a wise strategy, since hustle can translate into a surprising number of victories. The most familiar name is Coach Dick Motta, who had the Mavs diving and scrambling in preseason. Center Tom LaGarde, a starter at Seattle two years ago before injuring a knee, is a steal if he's healthy and could help Dallas win a respectable 25 games.

Denver Nuggets
A healthy, happy David Thompson is essential for a Denver team that won just 30 games last year. Dan Issel led the Nuggets with 23.8 points and 8.8 rebounds per game last season, but the 6-9 center will be 32 later this month and may wear down. Much is expected of rookie power forward James Ray, and much is needed if Denver is to make the playoffs. T.R. Dunn, formerly of Portland, will see considerable action at guard.

Houston Rockets
Center Moses Malone is a great inside scorer and unparalleled offensive rebounder, but passing is not among his talents. Lee Johnson, the 6-11 No. 1 choice who played in Europe last year, may help under the boards. With Rick Barry having retired, Robert Reid should finally come into his own and could, with guard Allen Leavell, help Houston shake its reputation as the slowest team in the league.

Kansas City Kings
How far the Kings go could depend on how much they get from 32-year-old center Sam Lacey, whose forte is passing. Guards Phil Ford and Otis Birdsong are first-rate, small forward Scott Wedman is a good one and second-year man Reggie King is coming on at power forward. Three newcomers provide depth — veterans Leon Douglas and Jo Jo White and rookie Hawkeye Whitney.

San Antonio Spurs
George Johnson, a shot-blocking center, was signed as a free agent, giving the Spurs at least one defensive-minded player. He may be the only one. Three-time scoring champion George Gervin should get his 30-35 points per game, but losing forward Larry Kenon as a free agent could muffle the fireworks show. Two playoff keys — guard James Silas staying healthy and power forward Mark Olberding improving.

Utah Jazz
At best, Ben Poquette is a backup forward. At Utah, he's a starting center. Enough said about the center position. The addition of Dr. Dunkenstein, Louisville guard Darrell Griffith, should liven things.

Crop production estimates may confirm damage by heat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Later this week the Agriculture Department will release new 1980 crop production estimates, which should help nail down how much corn and some other key commodities the United States will have available in the coming year.

The estimates will be particularly watched for corn and soybeans. The wheat crop has virtually all been harvested and is a record. But the other grains are led by corn and — although they are actually harvested — soybeans, which are still some weeks away from farmers' bins.

The department's Crop Reporting Board will issue its new production estimates after 3 p.m. EDT on Friday.

For months, including previous official estimates by the government, it has been apparent 1980 output of some of the most important crops, including corn, soybeans and cotton, would be down sharply from last year because of summer heat and drought.

But the report on Friday, which will be based on surveys made around the first of this month, should help provide further authenticity to the U.S. supply outlook for the coming year.

Naturally, the closer one is to the end of a crop season, the easier it is to predict yields.

Thus, every scrap of information is used to help determine crop supplies and demands, including daily and weekly weather reports.

A weekly report issued by the government on Tuesday is an example. It said farmers generally have had a run of good weather lately and that harvests have progressed accordingly.

Drought and hot weather earlier reduced yields sharply in much of the country, but crops that were able to survive and even prosper seem to be maturing well ahead of killing frosts.

The Joint Agricultural Weather Facility, which is operated by the departments of Commerce and Agriculture, said that while most American farmers enjoyed "excellent harvest conditions" during the week of Sept. 29-Oct. 5, rain continued to hamper harvests in some areas.

"The warm weather in the West and cool temperatures in the East aided the harvest and fall field work in most regions," the report said. "In the Southeast, however, rainfall totals of 1 to 3 inches slowed harvest activity from eastern Texas to the Carolinas."

"This rain benefited fall pastures and helped counter the soil moisture deficit."

In the major corn states, the corn crop was reported to be 96 percent mature, 10 percent points ahead of a year ago. Further, the report said, about 29 percent of corn has been harvested, compared to about 12 percent a year ago.

Soybeans and cotton also were reported to be maturing well ahead of a year ago, with the harvest progressing in all major producing states.

WASHINGTON (AP) — As part of National Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 6-10, as proclaimed by President Carter, the Agriculture Department dutifully held a fire drill Tuesday.

Written alerts had been forwarded to all employees by the office of Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland, warning them that the fire drill would be held at 11 a.m. Oct. 7. Instructions were provided on how to evacuate the department's complex.

But the bells started ringing at 10 a.m. in the department's largest building, across the street from where Bergland has his office. The government watchdog in charge of such things immediately shut down the elevators that serve Bergland's offices.

Power was restored after it was determined the bell had begun ringing an hour early. But then it was time for the real thing, the drill at 11 a.m. Bells, many of them sounding weak, sounded again and the employees poured outside.

Except in a newsroom in which The Associated Press and other news services have offices. A couple of reporters, knowing it was a drill, continued to work.

Two officials, "checking on laggards, unsuccessfully ordered the reporters out and said they would be reported to "the secretary" for refusing to go along with the drill.

But workers in Bergland's office said "the secretary" was in a meeting in his office during the fire drill and, like the reporters, also ignored the bells. And no one threatened him.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department's 57th annual outlook conference will be held here next month and "promises to be a stimulating event," say its sponsors.

In addition to the topics generally covered at the conference, there will be a day's worth of discussion devoted to the directions for U.S. agricultural policy in the 1980s.

The conference will be held Nov. 17-20.

British comedy swamps off - network television

LOS ANGELES (AP) — American off-network television has been swamped by a wave of British comedy, a circumstance to be welcomed or loathed, depending upon how you feel about anatomical jokes and guys in drag.

The crusader of British TV comedy is one Benny Hill, a round, innocent-looking pudgy whose humor is singularly off-color (and sexist, some insist), relying heavily on cleavage shots and puns employing the word "arse."

"The Benny Hill Show" has been surprisingly successful since its export to America three years ago, a phenomenon that the British television industry doesn't pretend to understand. "Benny's so English," says an executive of Thames Television, which produces "Benny."

Actually, viewers here don't really have to listen to Benny's jokes to get a chuckle out of the show. There is something about an Englishman doing silly things that strikes the American funny bone. And apparently, cleavage and short skirts still have their lure.

One of Hill's standard routines is a skit set on a beach in France. The doors to the men's and women's changing rooms, marked Hommes and Femmes, are positioned in such a way that Benny thinks he's going into the men's room when he's really walking in on the ladies. There's a scream, and Benny runs out with a dozen half-dressed women in pursuit.

When you think about it, comedic genius is not heavily present in that skit. But such has worked so far for Hill. Hill's success has inspired other exports from

Britain's TV comedy mainstream, "Dave Allen at Large" and, this season, "The Morecambe and Wise Show."

"Morecambe and Wise" has long been Britain's favorite comedy team, a 20-year hit on the BBC. Recently, Eric Morecambe and Ernie Wise left the BBC for the Independent Television Network, and sold their old BBC shows to Time-Life Television for syndication in America.

Time-Life seems to be marketing "Morecambe-Wise" as a "Benny Hill" lookalike, a tactic deplored by Ernie Wise.

"Benny's blue, and we're not," Wise says with a faint scowl. "Eric and I are much more family oriented. It is much more American, too, only it's done in an English way."

Polls give Reagan the nod, but leave Carter in reach

WASHINGTON (AP) — The numbers, the polls, the states — they all come out Ronald Reagan's way. But President Carter is within reach of a re-election comeback, if the issues and the big states break his way.

And the only safe election bet, with a scant month to go, is hedged.

Republican Reagan is well ahead in the column that counts, rated the leader in 25 states with 236 electoral votes. National surveys of public opinion give him the edge; the latest AP-NBC News poll shows Reagan favored by a seven-point margin.

Carter's South is likely to crack; Reagan's West is more secure.

The two biggest states seem true to form, but Reagan aide James A. Baker says the candidate is in more solid command in California, for 45 electoral votes, than Carter is in New York, for 41.

Independent John B. Anderson threatens to lure away votes that could be vital to Carter in such states as Pennsylvania, Michigan, Wisconsin, Connecticut and Oregon.

An Associated Press survey of the campaign situation state by state showed Reagan rated the leader for 236 electoral votes and Carter for 141, with 171 in states now considered too close to forecast.

But those appraisals are based on polls and the soundings of state politicians one month before the balloting. If incumbency has put Carter on the defensive in a time of economic trouble, it also makes him the candidate with the power to influence events; Reagan says he is bracing himself in case of an "October surprise."

Furthermore, such pivotal states as Texas, Illinois, Pennsylvania and Florida are rated among the tossup states in the AP survey. So is Massachusetts, although the trend there appears to be toward Carter. Among them, they have 110 electoral votes.

Reagan now is rated the leader in Michigan and New Jersey, both Republican states in 1976, and in Ohio, which Carter won in the last election. Those states have another 63 electoral votes.

Carter is going to need most of those states to win a second term.

Carter won his first term with 297 electoral votes, just 27 more than he had to have. It was the narrowest electoral vote margin in 60 years. Now a dozen of the 23 states he carried last time are rated as tossups or as leaning toward Reagan. Five states that went Republican in 1976 are considered too close to project.

The AP-NBC poll, completed Sept. 24, showed 42 percent of likely voters favored Reagan at that point, 33 percent Carter and 13 percent Anderson, with the rest scattered or undecided. The margin of error was 4 percent, which could make it a deadlock in popular support.

"Playing for Time" helps CBS cop first

NEW YORK (AP) — More people watched CBS' controversial film "Playing for Time" than any other prime-time TV show in the week ending Oct. 5, and that helped the network end NBC's two-week run as the No. 1 network, figures from the A. C. Nielsen Co. showed.

CBS, which listed four of the week's 10 highest-rated shows, including "Playing for Time," ended a two-week stand of its own in third place.

"Playing for Time," based on the concentration camp memoirs of Fania Fenelon, was criticized by some Jewish organizations for casting Vanessa Redgrave, an outspoken supporter of the Palestinian cause, in the lead.

The week ending Sept. 21 would have been the start of the 1980-81 season, had not the actors' strike delayed production on most shows. NBC chose that week to broadcast the miniseries "Shogun," and compiled the highest weekly rating in the network's history. Since then, NBC's numbers have fallen off, though the network has maintained its competitive posture in the three-way race.

NBC's rating in the most recent Nielsen survey, for the week ending Oct. 5, was 17.4, compared to 17.5 for

No. 1 CBS and 16.1 for ABC in third place. The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 17.5 percent of the homes in the country with TV were tuned to CBS.

Weekly averages compiled by CBS and NBC differ slightly from those calculated by ABC. ABC does not include paid political announcements in its prime-time tally, though the other two networks do.

The rating for "Playing for Time" was 26.2. Nielsen says that means of all the nation's TV-equipped homes, 26.2 percent saw at least part of the three-hour production.

'Numbers are as fallible as those behind them'

NEW YORK (AP) — Does it really matter to know that producer prices of finished goods rose 0.4 percent rather than fell 0.2 percent last month, as measured in the traditional way?

It does when you consider the election is but a month away, that numbers often are accepted these days without question, and that the "improvement" was claimed as proof of economic leadership.

But, as some people now know, the methodology was changed from other months and other years by including, for the first time, data on cash rebates given to dealers by American automobile manufacturers.

Because of this data, which make today's producer price index noncomparable with that of previous months, the administration was able to say that a 4½-year string of rising prices had been broken.

The Labor Department maintained that the change in methodology and the nearness to the election was mere coincidence, and that its mission had not been undermined by politics.

But the Bureau's integrity needn't be involved at all for you to be wary of numbers. In this, the computer age, we often accept the numbers as absolute, and sometimes substitute them for hard thinking.

To do so is to risk being misled, because the numbers are as fallible as those behind them, and exploitable.

Not too long ago, the Federal Reserve misstated the weekly money supply figures because it believed the computer. Later it found a massive clerical error at one of its reporting member banks.

When the U.S. Commerce Department was touting the approach of a trillion dollar economy, it erected a display calculator in its lobby that measured every gain in Gross National Product. There was a celebration when the day came; there should have been none.

OPEC prices give domestic incentives

By KEN SINER
Associated Press Writer

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — "Thank God for OPEC!" Robert Parker, chairman of Parker Drilling Co. of Tulsa told the Oklahoma Petroleum Council annual banquet Tuesday.

He said the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries "provided our incentives with their prices. They are doing for us what we can't do for ourselves politically."

"It's the prices of OPEC that make us go after more oil and gas, and our shortages have become surpluses," he said.

Parker cited a quote from the New York Times, saying the United States only had six years' supply of oil. The article was printed in 1926.

"When they predict that we're running out of oil, what they're saying is that they've found all they know how to find. The North Sea had 51 dry holes before any oil was found. The North Slope had 36 dry holes before the discovery well was drilled. "Don't lose faith in the magic of incentives and the free enterprise system," Parker told the audience of oil and gas industry executives.

He presented William S. Martin of Bartlesville, Chairman of the Board of Phillips Petroleum Co., with the Oklahoma Oil Man of the Year award.

Robert C. Moore, vice president, public affairs, for Cities Service Co., Tulsa, was elected president of the council, succeeding Warren L. Jensen, vice president of Conoco, Inc., Ponca City.

Earlier, the council heard from he president of the American Arab Chamber of Commerce.

"Why would we be beaten back in trade by nations whom we defeated in war and pulled out of destruction, such as Japan, Germany, Italy and South Korea?" asked Dr. Atef Gamal-Eldin, of Houston.

"There is no doubt that our technology is superior to everyone else; our manufactured goods are the best and our prices are equal, if not lower, because of the depressed exchange price of the dollar," he said.

"What are the problems which plague U.S. contractors bidding on projects in the Arab world and handicap U.S. suppliers in the area?" he asked.

He cited lack of government supports for U.S. businessmen abroad, U.S. tax laws that increase the burden on companies operating overseas and citizens working abroad, and the Foreign Corrupt Practice Act of 1977.

He said the 1977 statute is "based on the moralistic idealism which we would honestly hope would be the basis of transactions all over the globe," he said.

"In fact, this law has in many cases hindered the abilities of U.S. companies to acquire foreign contracts worth billions of dollars.
