Devastating earthquakes ravage Italian villages

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — A series of devastating earthquakes battered Southern Italy Sunday, killing at least 773 people in cities, towns and villages, and injuring more than 1,000, officials reported today.

Thousands were homeless after shivering through a foggy, freezing night outside their collapsed homes. The Italian government declared a day of national mourning and dispatched 10,000 troops to the area.

Rescue efforts were hampered by damage to roads and rail lines. One of the worst catastrophes hit the small town of Balvano, 60 miles east of Naples, where the walls of the church of Santa Maria Assunta collapsed on an evening Mass filled with children. More than 50 bodies were removed from the rubble, half of them children.

Firemen were able to save a two-year-old boy, still holding a toy car, from the church rubble. Next to him, his grandparents had been crushed to death under the stones.

But fragmentary reports from the town of Sant' Angelo dei Lombardi in Avellino province indicated 300 persons perished in that town. Pescopagano, another poverty-stricken small town in the province of Avellino, reported 70 bodies had been recovered from the debris.

The quake, measuring 6.8 on the Richter scale, destroyed hundreds of buildings, including a 10-story apartment house in Naples.

Casualty totals increased as more reports were received from the 29 cities, towns and villages that suffered the most damage in the Naples-Salerno area of southern Italy.

"We have only our eyes left to cry," said the mayor of San Mango, a town of 1,800 in Avellino province. "My house, my car, everything is gone. There is no one left up there."

The quake was felt from Sicily to the Alps, but the hardest hit area was northeast of the bay of Salerno. More than 100 deaths were reported in the provinces of Salerno and Avellino, while the mountainous province of Potenza reported more than 150 deaths.

Premier Arnaldo Forlani called an emergency Cabinet meeting, which proclaimed a day of national mourning, then flew south with Italian President Sandro Pertini to visit the stricken area.

Pope John Paul II sent a telegram to the Cardinal of Naples expressing his "shock" for the "unspeakable suffering" of the population, and named a bishop to coordinate church relief efforts.

"I saw the buildings move like waves of the sea," said Luigi Iannone, who was driving near Salerno when the first quake hit at 7:34 p.m. Sunday (1:34 p.m. EST). "It was something terrible."

Aftershocks continued in the night. Countless thousands spent the night in the open. Doctors canceled a nationwide strike scheduled for today and reported to their hospitals or rushed to the disaster area.

Seismologists said the quake was centered at Eboli, 17 miles southeast of Salerno. Officials said at least 11 people were killed there.

Shooting victim dies in Amarillo

Two separate shootings during the weekend resulted in the death of a Pampa man and the hospitalization of a second, and an unrelated incident involving a knife-wielding man in the Pampa Mall parking lot remains under investigation by the Pampa Police Department today.

Johnny Rush Fish, 25, died this morning shortly before 8 a.m. at Northwest Texas Hospital of Amarillo from an apparent gunshot wound to the head.

This morning at 12:08 a.m., officers responded to a shooting report at 305 E. Browning. They found Fish lying on a couch in the residence suffering from a single gunshot to his head. The injured man was taken to Highland General Hospital by Metropolitan Ambulance, and was transferred to Northwest Texas where he died today.

An autopsy was ordered by Lunsford to be performed at 1 p.m. today by Amarillo pathologist Jose Esquivel-Diaz.

Police are continuing to investigate the shooting death, and no arrests had been made at press time today.

Saturday night at 11:38 p.m., city officers responded to a report of a shooting at the National Guard Armory where Cristobal Moreno Perez, 27, 1064 Prairie, was discovered, suffering from a single gunshot wound to the hip.

Police reports say the wound apparently was made by a weapon about the size of a .22-caliber. The weapon had not been located at press time. A wedding dance was taking place at the time of the incident. A witness told police that a female was involved in the shooting, and there were two shots fired. Investigation of the incident is continuing, and no arrests had been made at press time.

Perez was reported in good condition earlier today by a Highland General Hospital spokesperson. He was taken from the Intensive Care Unit today, she said.

MGM hedges on safety questions

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — As gawkers photographed the charred wreckage of the deadly fire at the MGM Grand hotel and guards stood by to fend off looters, operators of the hotel said it would reopen in seven months with all its former glitter.

But Fred Benninger, chairman of the board of MGM Grand Hotels Inc., wouldn't say Sunday whether the new MGM Grand would include smoke detectors or sprinklers in all rooms.

The hotel had sprinklers only on the first two floors and the 26th floor and guests said they heard no alarms before choking black smoke filled the 26-story building Friday. The fire, the second worst ever in an American hotel, killed 83 people and injured more than 500.

Clark County Coroner Otto Ravenholt said he did not expect that any more bodies would turn up.

"It may have been a blessing in disguise" that the alarm system did not go off at the MGM Grand, Benninger said. "A lot of guests would have gone into the hallways and suffocated from the smoke. Staying in their rooms may have saved them," Benninger contended.

Fire officials said they would close their investigation of the blaze today.

"We may have some officials from Washington and elsewhere going in there to observe what happened," said Capt. Ralph Dinsman.

COMING THROUGH THE RYE, a contemporary bronze casting from a 1902 original by famed Western artist Frederic Remington, was presented to the city of Pampa Sunday by Mrs. Nonna D. Payne, center, in memory of her late husband David D. Payne. On hand for presentation ceremonies were Gray County Judge Carl Kennedy, left; Pampa Mayor H. R. "Ray" Thompson, behind Mrs. Payne; and Dean Krakel, executive vice-president of the Oklahoma City Cowboy Hall of Fame. The sculpture sits on a specially constructed pedestal at M. K. Brown Auditorium where it will be on permanent display.

City officials disheartened by preliminary census of 21,000

By DEBORAH BRIDGES

Preliminary reports from the United States Census Bureau are not encouraging, despite efforts of city officials to bring federal notice to a 6,000 person discrepancy in Pampa's population count.

A mailgram from the federal bureau listing the preliminary results of Pampa's 1980 population as 21,414 was received by City Manager Mack Wofford Friday. The number is 312 persons less than the 1970 census count. The city's figures for 1980 indicate Pampa has 27,206 citizens.

"The only thing positive about this (the mailgram) is that last paragraph," Wofford said.

The final paragraph of the letter stated: "Census Bureau is continuing to investigate some questions you raised. Any corrections resulting from this investigation will be reflected in the final counts." It was signed by Vincent P. Barabba, Director of Bureau of Census.

When asked what the city will do now, Wofford answered, "At this point, we'll just have to wait and see. The man tells us they're going to continue to investigate this."

Wofford said no plans have been made to file suit against the federal government regarding the census count.

"Legal action would not be appropriate when you have a telegram in your hand saying they are still going to investigate the counts," he said.

"We're hopeful the letter means what it says," he said. Chamber of Commerce Manager Floyd Sackett said, "I guess we'll have to wait until the final count and cry or do something about it."

Block grant hopeful, PRPC says

Panhandle Regional Planning Commission officials say chances are good that Pampa will receive as much as $2.25 million in federal funding from the Community Development Block Grant offered by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

"Traditionally, applications ranking 11th and 12th on the list for the block grant year, are successful the next," Wayne Hughes of the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission (PRPC) said today.

"During the 1979 round of pre-applications, Pampa's request was rated number 11 by the Dallas HUD panel. That could be a good news for this year's efforts," Hughes said.

Pampa citizens will have an opportunity to help decide how the funds from HUD will be used in the city during two public hearings to be conducted at 7 p.m. Tuesday and at 9:30 a.m. Dec. 9, both to be held in the city commission room of city hall.

"The city commission and representatives of the city staff will be taking suggestions from the general public on projects they would like to see funded," Hughes said.

Also, Gary Pitner, PRPC regional planner from Amarillo, will be on hand at the hearings to answer questions from interested persons.

Borger is in a similar situation, Hughes said. The neighboring city came in behind Pampa last year, he said. Borger also intends to renew its efforts this year, he said.

Hughes explained the money is usually applied to categories such as land acquisition, property rehabilitation, public facilities, citizen centers, street and drain improvements, sewer upgrades, parks, playgrounds, building code enforcement activities, demolition and clearance.

"A maximum of $2.25 million can go to a participating city," he said. The grants apply to cities of 50,000 and less population in the HUD-Dallas office area of responsibility.

Pampa was unsuccessful in four previous pre-applications for the government funding. Last year, HUD granted funding to 10 Texas cities.

Reno fire, deja vu of MGM

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Operations at Harrah's Club are nearly back to normal today after a kitchen fire Sunday forced about 1,500 patrons to flee the club in a reminder of the MGM Grand Hotel's fatal fire in Las Vegas.

No injuries were reported in the fire that broke out at 10:19 PST Sunday in a kitchen at the 25-story, 324-room hotel-casino, authorities said.

The fire was extinguished in 10 minutes with most damage limited to the kitchen of the Steakhouse Restaurant in hotel's basement, said Reno Fire Department Battalion Chief Jim Neil.

About 500 lodgers and 1,000 gambling guests were evacuated from the building 15 minutes after the fire started, said hotel spokeswoman Candy Pearce. By this morning, all guests had returned to the hotel, she added.

Friday's fire at the MGM Grand killed 83 people and injured more than 500.

"The smoke was pretty well funneled outside," Neil said. "There was some smoke in the building but nothing that represented any danger."

But John Weiss of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., in his room on the 18th floor, said he felt threatened and that there was no warning.

"A buddy of mine down the hall heard people screaming," Weiss said. "He banged on my door for about five minutes until I woke up. There was no fire but the smoke was in the hall."

Guests huddled in robes and slippers in the freezing cold outside the hotel.

Eithel Shelton of St. Maries, Idaho, in the ground floor cabaret when the fire occurred, said patrons left the hotel calmly.

"It makes you kind of worried after thinking about the MGM in Las Vegas," she said. "When this happened, we thought, 'Oh boy, here we go again.'"

Harrah's Club was built before Nevada fire codes required sprinkler systems. The building's only sprinklers are on the ground floor, Neil said.

However, according to Ms. Pearce, each room has a smoke detection alarm and the fire protection system functioned properly.

"The problem was that we'd pretty well contained it before the alarms went off," said Neil about guests' complaints of not being warned.

Arabs seek Reagan-Hussein meet

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — The prospect of a meeting between Ronald Reagan and King Hussein of Jordan is uppermost in the minds of Arab leaders opening the Arab League's 11th summit conference in Amman Tuesday. Arab diplomatic sources report.

"Reagan's stated intention to hold talks with King Hussein is certainly a positive step," said a diplomat from the United Arab Emirates. "The summit is expected to give the king an open mandate to talk to Reagan on behalf of all Arab states."

An Iraqi diplomat said the meeting would vote a joint mandate to the Jordanian monarch and a representative of the Palestine Liberation Organization to discuss the Arab-Israeli conflict with the new U.S. leader.

Reagan suggested in a post-election statement that he would give priority after taking office Jan. 20 to a meeting with King Hussein. But he rejected any dealings with the PLO, saying it is a terrorist organization.

"The crux of Jordan-U.S. contacts, if they are approved by the summit, will be to talk Reagan into scrapping the Camp David peace process and its concept of autonomy for the Palestinians," one Kuwaiti diplomat said.

He contended that the Camp David peace drive which the United States fostered between Egypt and Israel has reached a dead end, and "no Palestinian autonomy is likely to come out of it."

Another diplomat from the Arabian peninsula said Reagan "can move the Middle East impasse into a decisive phase... by lending his support to the concept of a comprehensive peace in the Middle East rather than fragmented arrangements between individual Arab states and Israel."

At least 16 of the 22 Arab League members were expected to attend the summit, but Syria was trying to organize a rival meeting of hardliners attended by Libya, South Yemen, Algeria and the PLO to demonstrate "veto power" against any action adopted by the moderates in Amman.

The Lebanese government also was expected to boycott the Amman meeting because of the 22,000 Syrian troops in Lebanon.

The Syrian drive for what one source called a "sorehead summit" put PLO chief Yasser Arafat in a dilemma.

PLO sources said if he sides with the hardliners, he risks loss of the badly needed financial support he gets from Saudi Arabia and other conservative Persian Gulf oil states. But siding with the moderates would expose him to the wrath of the Syrians who control the territory on which his guerrillas are based.

"Arafat is in the embarrassing position of having to choose between the gold and the sword," one Arab diplomat said.

Underground leader negotiates

By JOHN DOWLING
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Bernardine Dohrn was smart, attractive and impatient — "too smart to be the all-American girl," said one friend. After a few days at the center of a violent storm of protest against the Vietnam war, she became one of the FBI's most-wanted fugitives.

Now, after more than a decade of life underground, Miss Dohrn and another former leader of the radical Weather Underground reportedly are seeking to come home.

Miss Dohrn and William Ayers, son of former Commonwealth Edison Co. Board Chairman Thomas G. Ayers, have contacted authorities through an attorney asking for leniency in exchange for their surrender, according to Gregory Ginex, head of felony trial division of the Cook County states' attorney's office.

A fellow member of the Weather Underground, Cathlyn Platt Wilkerson, who was also on the most wanted list, surrendered to authorities earlier this year and was sentenced to one to three years in prison.

For Miss Dohrn, 38, surrender would end an 11-year underground odyssey. She was an avowed communist whose stated support of terrorist bombings to achieve political ends stood in sharp contrast to her upbringing in an affluent, suburban Milwaukee home.

Born in Chicago, Ms. Dohrn spent much of her childhood in Whitefish Bay, Wis., where she was a Girl Scout and one of the top graduates in her high school class.

While a student at the University of Chicago Law School, Ms. Dohrn worked among the poor in the ghettos of Chicago's South Side.

"She wanted to help people, but all she ran up against was red tape," a friend recalled. "Bern saw the system working against everything she wanted to do for people."

After she earned her law degree in 1967, Miss Dohrn joined the militant Weather Underground and became a leader of the group.

She was named in a host of local charges and federal charges of conspiracy and violation of anti-riot laws after she allegedly battled Chicago police during a violent anti-war rally in October 1969, during the "Days of Rage."

She went into hiding and in 1970, she made the FBI's most wanted list. The Justice Department dropped charges against Weather Underground leaders in 1979 and FBI officials say their computers no longer show any outstanding federal warrants against Miss Dohrn and Ayers.

A local felony charge of aggravated battery and two misdemeanor charges of mob action stemming from the Days of Rage are pending against Miss Dohrn, the state attorney's office said.

No local charges remain against Ayers, 35. It was not clear why he remained a fugitive after the charges were dropped.

Ginex said any decision on a surrender deal probably would have to wait until newly elected State's Attorney Richard M. Daley takes office Dec. 1.

Minister lauds magnificent minority in Sunday service

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Rev. Donn D. Moomaw, microphone in hand, descended upon the sanctuary of the Bel Air Presbyterian Church as if it were a stage.

"Are you happy this morning?" he shouted in the style of an entertainer warming up his audience, which included the president-elect of the United States.

The members of the congregation, many in casual clothes, replied with a long chorus of "Yeah's."

From that moment, it was clear: Going to church with Ronald Reagan is nothing like the Sunday morning ritual of Jimmy Carter.

Carter's churches are filled with often-solemn Baptists. The service Reagan attended Sunday featured applause for the choir, giggles at the minister's jokes and the general style of casualness for which California is famous. Someone likened it to a Broadway production.

From their seats near the rear, Reagan; his wife, Nancy; and several Secret Service agents watched as Moomaw, a husky ex-All America football center for UCLA, paced in his gray robe.

"We just had a marvelous weekend — some of us — I know," he said into his microphone, his sardonic tone drawing laughs and giggles. Then he promised: "We have a wonderful worship service. We are so glad you came."

The audience suitably warmed up, Moomaw began with a prayer. A blue-robed choir filed in, singing hymns arranged with a pop flair.

Then, in unison, the congregation recited the Lord's Prayer, and went on to the "Prayer of Thanksgiving," the words to which were printed in their programs:

"Thank you for the wet leaves," it began, "which touch me with your constant care. Thank you for wet cheeks... thank you for death, which sets a limit to pride of nation, religion, position... thank you for life, which offers me days never lived before..."

In the soaring modernistic church overlooking the San Fernando Valley, Moomaw began his sermon with what appeared to be an explanation of his informal style. Four years ago, he said, a couple complained to him that the service was too pessimistic, too down-beat. He became defensive, thought of "popping them in the nose," but later decided they had a point.

And his message Sunday — four days before Thanksgiving — was to give thanks for everything that happens, good and bad, and to "develop a style of life that we live on the positive side." He called it, "thanks-living."

"We have all heard of the moral majority," Moomaw said. "Well, there is a magnificent minority who lead thankful lives." He asked the audience to "be thankful in all circumstances — and that's difficult, people."

Outside the church, as Reagan shook hands with the waiting crowd, his press spokesman, Lyn Nofziger, explained that the president-elect isn't actually a Presbyterian, but a disciple of the Christ of Christ.

Two unions reach settlement

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Two local copper unions whose ongoing negotiations were holding up a return to work at Asarco, Inc., reached settlements Sunday, paving the way for a return to work in five states, officials said.

Some workers could be back to work today, they said.

Members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers in Hayden, Ariz. and Amarillo, Texas, resolved local issues that had blocked ratification of a general contract approved earlier this month, when Asarco became the last struck copper company to settle with a coalition of unions.

The nationwide strike that began June 30 involved 11 companies and an estimated 40,000 workers at its peak, including 17,700 in Arizona.

The general contract covered wages and other major economic issues at all Asarco properties, but the unions agreed to stay on strike until local issues were settled separately at each plant.

The 21-week strike at Asarco idled 1,500 Arizona employees at mines near Sahuarita and Silver Bell, and at a smelter in Hayden, along with another 2,500 or so workers in Texas, New Jersey, New Mexico and Washington.

Bob Guadiana, a representative for the United Steelworkers of America here, said plant managers were being notified of the final settlement Sunday night.

"It's been an extremely unusual, frustrating negotiation with Asarco," he said.

The general manager of the Western Mining Department for Asarco, C.W. Campbell, said that because the company's Arizona divisions have remained open, everyone returning to work today will be put to work immediately.

About 60 members of the electricians' Hayden Local 314 were expected to ratify the pact today after approving a settlement over work conditions and a promotion policy, and are expected to ratify the pact this morning.

Youths taught death tactics paper claims

HOUSTON (AP) — A Southeast Texas paramilitary camp run by a Ku Klux Klan adviser and a convicted felon is teaching Boy Scouts and Civil Air Patrol cadets how to kill, a newspaper here has reported.

From 12 to 30 Explorer Scouts and CAP cadets have learned how to strangle people, decapitate enemies with a machete and fire semi-automatic weapons, the Houston Chronicle reported Sunday.

"We're not teaching these boys how to snipe," contended John Bryant, who was convicted of illegal sale of automatic weapons last January in Memphis. "They only shoot a few rounds, not proficiently by any means."

Bryant's probated sentence does not allow him to handle guns, probation officer Rick Espinosa told the Chronicle.

Partner Joe Bogart, a Klan member for two years, said he choked other Marines into unconsciousness during boot camp training.

But "we didn't have the boys choke each other. We just showed them how to do it," he said.

The youths come from the CAP unit at Ellington Air Force Base and Explorers Scout Post 2125 at the base.

The paramilitary training is provided at Camp Puller near Anahuac, operated by Robert J. Siente of Deer Park and Louis Beam of Pasadena, Grand Dragon of the Texas KKK. Siente has denied any connection with the Klan.

Siente was removed as a leader of the La Porte, Texas, CAP squadron Oct. 20 after officials learned of the paramilitary training, said CAP Maj. Paul Renfro.

Renfro said Bryant asked

Bogart the same day to form the Explorer troop.

Several parents said their sons told them Bryant and Bogart made frequent racial slurs and frequently lectured on guerrilla warfare, the Chronicle said.

Man believed crash victim found alive

SALT FLAT, Texas (AP) — A man believed killed in a weekend West Texas airplane crash has been found alive Sunday in California, leaving investigators unsure about the death toll from the wreck.

"One of the men tentatively identified as dead has been located by his parents in California," Department of Public Safety spokesman Bill Carter said Sunday, adding that "all the other identifications remain tentative."

Carter said initial reports indicated four people were aboard an Air Commander 560 that broke up in flight, crashed nose down and exploded about six miles west of Salt Flat in Hudspeth County.

Identification papers were found at the site for George H. Riley, 30; Felix Gomez Jr., 31; Julio Hernandez Guerrero, 32, a Mexican national living in Parker, Ariz.; and George Edwin Cuenca, 54, of Tampa, Fla.

Carter said Riley was reported alive Sunday in California. Officers at the scene said they could not find enough remains to account for four dead in the violent crash.

A large amount of currency and pieces of the wreckage were scattered over a half mile of the sparsely populated desert, Carter said.

Two appear before tribunal in Gang of Four trial

PEKING (AP) — Two members of the "Gang of Four" went before the special court in Peking today to admit their part in helping to wreck China's economy, plotting to usurp power and persecuting tens of thousands of their countrymen, including the wily political survivor who now leads the nation.

The Foreign Ministry announced that the show trial of the radical leaders of the Cultural Revolution resumed with the interrogation of Wang Hongwen, a former vice chairman of the Chinese Communist Party, and Yao Wenyuan, another former member of the party Politburo, before an audience of about 600 people.

They were reported to have confessed to the charges against them.

The other two radical leaders in the Gang of Four, Mao Tse-tung's widow Jiang Qing and former Vice Premier Zhang Chunqiao, are on trial with them on the same charges. But foreign observers said their testimony was delayed because they refused to cooperate and confess.

The radical Gang of Four, which put revolution ahead of modernization, is accused among other things of denouncing Communist Party Vice Chairman Deng Xiaoping, the architect of the present regime's modernization program and the most influential member of the regime, as a "counterrevolutionary double-dealer," a "capitalist roader" and a "representative of the comprador bourgeoisie." Before the revolution, a comprador was a Chinese who represented a foreign business in China.

The defendants today also faced charges of trying to frame the late Premier Chou En-lai, Deng's mentor who tried to temper the excesses of the 1966-76 Cultural Revolution.

In 1974, the indictment says, the foursome told Mao that Deng, Chou and others were plotting to seize power. Deng was purged from the party in 1976 and rehabilitated in 1977 following Mao's death and the arrest of the four radical leaders.

Washington town ralleys to put treasury in black

GOLD BAR, Wash. (AP)— Old clothes and fresh pies have pulled this river town of 620 from the edge of fiscal peril. Now civic leaders are planning a barbecue to get Gold Bar completely out of hock.

"One fellow said the city of New York should take a lesson," a happy mayor said Sunday after a weekend rummage and bake sale raised about $4,000 toward eliminating a $9,000 municipal debt, $3,000 of which was incurred in a heated recall election earlier this year.

Thousands of visitors poured into town and the sale was halted a couple of hours early because townspeople couldn't keep up with the demand for baked goods. Eventually, there was nothing left to rummage, either, said Mayor Ed Grant.

"Most everything is just picked completely dry. There's nothing left," he said. "We just finally made punch. We gave it away."

"It's really nice to know there's still folks out there like that," Grant said. "People have come from all over the state and even outside the state...from Oregon and Idaho."

Cars lined side roads and were parked along U.S. 2, said Patrolman Larry Strauff of the Gold Bar police department.

The unusual municipal fund-raiser was the brainchild of the Citizens Group of Gold Bar. Robert Marshall, a member of the group in this town 50 miles northeast of Seattle, said he was cheered by the community spirit after so much recent bickering.

"The girls all baked for three straight days," Marshall said. "We do care. We care a darned lot about every one of us in this town."

Troubles in the scenic town on the Skykomish River began April 1 when the three-member police force quit because of criticism from town council members over such expenditures as $72 for brakes on one of the two patrol cars.

That flap resulted in a recall election last July, when three of the five council members got the heave-ho. More trouble developed when a school levy and property-tax levy to retire the town's debt narrowly failed, the latter by nine votes on Nov. 4.

Dave Cotterill, one of the two remaining council members, opposed the recall move and quit last month. He said the latest levy rejection showed the old divisions were far from forgotten.

As the first $3,000 poured in Saturday, however, Grant said the town's troubles had been left behind.

"We don't talk much about it any more," the mayor said. "I think this represents all of the people...they have done a tremendous job rebuilding and getting the town together."

Gold Bar isn't out of the woods yet, however.

In one economy move, Marshall said, "Our city (street) lights are going out the first of the year."

He said the citizens group was planning a Thanksgiving party for senior citizens and would conduct another fund-raiser for the town kiddy "the first nice day we get" next spring.

"We're going to have a great big barbecue," he said. "We're going to buy a big fat steer...and charge about $6 a head."

Charges filed in two stabbings

KERMIT (AP)— Bond has been denied for a 19-year-old man charged with capital murder in the brutal stabbing death of two women who apparently surprised an intruder in their home.

Victor Velasquez, of Kermit, was also charged with one count of attempted capital murder, police said. He was arrested Friday night in Odessa for a traffic violation and transferred to Kermit Saturday, where he was arraigned before Peace Justice Lee Rutledge.

Velasquez was charged with two counts of capital murder and one count of attempted capital murder. Rutledge set bond on the attempted murder count at $50,000.

Police said the man, who once worked for one of the victim's husbands, was charged with capital murder because the killings occurred during a burglary.

Jeannie Marie Pardue, 51, and her daughter, Lee Ann Wallace, 15, died Nov. 15 after being stabbed repeatedly by a man who broke into the home of Mrs. Pardue's son, Carey Wallace.

Wallace's wife, Molly, was also wounded during the attack. Four other children in the house were unharmed.

Police say the suspect apparently panicked when he found out how many people were in the home and "started cutting people."

Four arrested for Austin girl's death

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)— Three 17-year-olds and a 15-year-old boy have been arrested in connection with the rape-slaying of a 16-year-old girl whose body was found six weeks after she disappeared earlier this year.

Assistant District Attorney Nate Stark said the four suspects, all from Austin, were arrested Sunday in connection with the death of Elaine McCouston, who was last seen June 27 riding her bicycle near her home.

Her nude body was found six weeks later off Interstate 35 near Waco. Stark said the girl had been raped and shot in the head with a .38-caliber pistol.

He also said the four suspects knew the victim. A witness reportedly saw the victim in a car with the four suspects.

Children's art shows unawareness of impending death

MANCHESTER, England (AP) — Before trucking them to the gas chambers of Auschwitz in 1944, the Nazis gave hundreds of children a chance to record their impressions in crayon.

Most of the young artists died. But their drawings survived and are on display here for the first time in the West, gay and brightly colored testimony to their enduring innocence.

The drawings of sunrises, butterflies, children playing in fields of flowers — along with a selection of nightmarish black and white pictures painted by adult inmates — are from the Central Jewish Museum set up by the Nazis in Czechoslovakia as an anthropological "relic of an extinct race."

The museum remains in Prague, a reminder of what the exhibit's compiler calls "the twisted way Hitler's mind worked, not only to destroy a race but to set up a monument" to it.

"People ask me to put a price on the collection, and I say '6 million lives,'" said Reginald Dodwell, who brought the 300 works to the Whitworth Gallery for their only showing in the West.

"I selected the pictures to show the contrast," Dodwell said in an interview. "On one side of the room are the adult pictures, and you see the camp as it was, an evil, inhuman place out of Dante's Inferno."

"What leaves me quite amazed is that when you turn to the children's drawings, it's an art of unknowingness, of total innocence. It's just like what your kid or my kid would draw."

More than 15,000 children were among the Jews who passed through the concentration camp at Theresienstadt, in northern Bohemia, intended by Hitler as a model camp to be shown to outsiders, where musicians were permitted to form an orchestra and children to join art classes.

Many of the pictures carry the names of the young artists and three dates: the date of birth, the date of internment in Theresienstadt and the date of deportation to Auschwitz.

Parachutist dies trying stunt

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Veteran parachutist Kenneth Swyers, who landed atop the 630-foot Gateway Arch and then fell to his death, meant only to glide between the legs of the monument but may have been foiled by wind, his wife says.

"He wanted a picture of himself as he came down, getting the Arch in the background while he was under full canopy," said Millie Swyers, who was watching from below when the accident occurred Saturday.

"All I saw was his canopy collapse. I thought, 'He must be holding on to something up there. I knew something was wrong, but it didn't hit me until I saw people start running,'" she said. "All I can think of was that it might have been the wind — he might have got caught as he started to make a turn."

Mrs. Swyers said her 33-year-old husband, an employee of Westinghouse Electric Co. and veteran of more than 1,600 jumps, had planned the jump for two weeks.

"Kenny was not a hot dog, daredevil skydiver," Mrs. Swyers said, adding that "the closest thing he ever did to a stunt" was to make nine successful jumps into Busch Stadium for events such as the

If eating were something people did only when their bodies needed nourishment, there would be no obesity. But to most people food has an emotional value as well as a physiological value. Most people find eating a comforting experience from the time they are born. It can alleviate tension and anxiety. For some people, eating becomes a way of coping with emotions such as frustration, tension, boredom, depression and loneliness. Such people can easily become addicted to food, just as a drinker who drowns his problems in alcohol becomes an alcoholic.

Some people develop a habit of eating whenever they are engaged in certain activities such as watching television and movies. Often they are not hungry, but they eat because they want something to do. Eating can be triggered by daily routines as well. People who are accustomed to eating at noon will begin to feel hungry just prior to that time whether or not their stomachs are empty. If you want to learn how to identify your reactions to food and change them for the rest of your life, call your local Diet Center.

Names in the news

NEW YORK (AP) — When singer Kenny Rogers looks at himself in the mirror, what he sees is "a 42-year-old married man with a gray beard and a potbelly." So he says he is somewhat mystified by his new status as a sex symbol.

Women fling lingerie at him at performances and he requires police protection to get through crowds of adoring fans.

"It's ridiculous," Rogers says in the current issue of People magazine.

Actually, Rogers says, he tries to lead a quiet, almost businessman-like existence when he is on the road. He says he doesn't drink or take drugs and spends his free time playing tennis with members of his band.

1978 for "The Deer Hunter," says in the current issue of Newsweek that he's learned something from the panning of the movie, which was withdrawn from circulation. Cimino says he intends to recut the 3½-hour Western for release "during the first half of 1981."

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer Linda Ronstadt and musician Maynard Ferguson will join Mickey Mouse, Smokey the Bear and Superman in a stroll down Broadway in the annual Macy's Thanksgiving Day parade.

Superman will be making his debut as a balloon in Thursday's parade. The balloon will be 104 feet long, 35 feet wide and will weigh 550 pounds.

Other giant balloons include Mickey, Smokey, Kermit the Frog, Snoopy and Bullwinkle Moose. More than 2,000 employees of Macy's, a New York department store, will be costumed as clowns and other colorful characters during the 3½-hour nationally televised parade.

Planning saves grief, money

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Most people don't like to think about death, but planning for the inevitable can save you grief and money.

A 1979 fact-sheet from the Consumer Federation of America said that people spend $5.4 billion a year on funerals — more than they spend for anything else except houses or cars. The average price of a traditional funeral is more than $2,000.

You can help yourself by learning in advance what is involved in a funeral and burial. Don't wait until a death occurs and you have to make arrangements for a family member or friend at a time of sadness and stress.

The Continental Association of Funeral and Memorial Societies, Inc., a group of non-profit organizations which help members obtain simple and economical funerals, has started a campaign to teach people about funeral costs, alternatives and laws. There are 200 societies across the country. Membership usually costs $10 to $25. Information is available from Suite 1100, 1828 L St. N.W., Washington, D.C., 20036.

The first step in funeral planning, says the association, is to decide whether you prefer burial, cremation or bequeathal.

Burial is the most common choice. The price usually depends on the cost of the casket, the services included and the cemetery charges. Contrary to popular belief, embalming is not required by state law in most cases. Cremation is simple and usually is less expensive than burial. Ashes may be scattered, stored in an urn or buried. Caskets are not required by law for cremation.

Bequeathal of your body — or specific organs — to a medical school is economical, but you make arrangements with the school in advance. You also must make alternate plans in case the circumstances of death make bequeathal impossible. For further information, contact the Living Bank, P.O. Box 6725, Houston, Texas, 77005. The Living Bank is a non-profit registry which coordinates anatomical gifts, supplies "Uniform Donor Cards" for people to carry and keeps records of potential donors.

There are several things to keep in mind when shopping for a funeral. Among them:

—Be prepared to talk about price. Ask for an itemized price list. A handful of states require such a list, but in most places, you are on your own. Find out exactly what is included. If the standard package covers items you do not want, ask for a simpler arrangement.

—Be ready for "extras." Additional limousines, burial clothing, a grave liner, flowers and newspaper death announcements all contribute to the cost of a funeral.

—Call the cemetery and check its charges. These fees are not included in the price of the funeral and they can be substantial.

Clean Up TV

During the past few months a massive nation-wide "Clean Up Television" Campaign has been initiated by thousands of churches from every state in the Union and is now spreading rapidly across the nation. Every morally decent person is being encouraged to take part.

This effort is based upon the conviction that something simply must be done to curb the alarming increase in filth, immorality, and sexual perversion now being shown on television.

The purpose of the Campaign is not to take programs off the air, but to insist that they be cleaned up so that they are no longer an insult to decency and negative influence on our young people. Specifically, companies are being asked to refuse to sponsor programs which depict scenes of adultery, sexual perversion, or incest, or which treat immorality in a joking or otherwise favorable light. Concern is also being expressed regarding excessive violence and profanity.

The Campaign has already met with almost unbelievable success. Within only three months over 6,000 churches and nearly half a million people from a wide variety of backgrounds have already definitely agreed to take part and the list is growing daily. The total potential number staggers the imagination.

Almost all of the companies who sponsor offensive material depend heavily upon millions of decent people to buy their products. Our money is then used by these companies to sponsor programs presenting the very material we oppose. The idea that there is nothing decent people can do about such immoral broadcasting is, therefore, sheer nonsense.

All that is needed to be effective is for all of us nation-wide to massively refuse to buy the products of the same specific sponsors at the same time, thereby creating a gigantic nation-wide tidal wave of opposition to such immoral broadcasting. This is clearly not censorship but simply responsible action since companies remain free to sponsor any programs they choose. We are simply controlling our own money.

If you are concerned about the future of our young people, here's how you can help. Use the blank below to request enough free forms and products lists to give one to each adult and teenager in your family, as well as to all of your friends and church acquaintances.

If you attend any group meetings, request permission to give a copy to every person present. These forms are provided free by participating churches, so please request only the number you will actually use. If you ever plan to speak up for decency, now is the time while hundreds of thousands of others are moving in the same direction. Your help is urgently needed.

Leahy field goal gives NY Jets overtime win

NEW YORK (AP) — Field goal kickers rarely have it easy. Nobody knows that better than Pat Leahy, who earlier this season survived a "Kick better or else" ultimatum from New York Jets Coach Walt Michaels.

"All kickers are under great pressure," observed Leahy. "That's part of the game. If you can't cope with pressure, you shouldn't be kicking."

Leahy's 38-yard field goal 3:58 into overtime gave the Jets a wild 31-28 upset of the Houston Oilers Sunday as New York neutralized Earl Campbell, the National Football League's rushing leader, and survived a brilliant four-touchdown, fourth-quarter aerial barrage from Oilers quarterback Ken Stabler.

The loss dropped Houston, 8-4, into a tie with Cleveland for the lead in the American Conference's Central Division. The two clubs meet next Sunday in Houston, but Oilers Coach Bum Phillips insisted his team hadn't looked past the Jets.

"You can't look ahead in this league," said Phillips. "If you do, you're in trouble. The Jets really played tough football, the kind of football I had expected of them all season."

The Jets, 3-9, who had tried and failed to sit on a 21-0 halftime lead, won despite a missed 36-yard field goal attempt by Leahy that would have won the game with two seconds left in regulation.

"When you win, you have to be happy," said Michaels, roundly booed by the crowd of 52,358 for the Jets' conservative strategy.

About Leahy's miss, Michaels said, "All I could think of was, 'Let's go out there and give him a second chance.'"

The Jets gave the Oilers a second chance with their play-it-safe strategy.

New York had capitalized on three Oakland turnovers, Ken Schroy returning an interception 82 yards for the first touchdown and Richard Todd and Kevin Long scoring on 1-yard runs following a fumble recovery by Kenny Lewis and an interception by Ron Crosby.

Meanwhile, Campbell was being thoroughly contained. He finished the day with 60 yards on 15 carries, the first time in seven weeks he's failed to gain 100 yards. He limped to the sidelines in the third quarter after aggravating a knee injury, returned to action for one play, then stayed on the sideline as the Oilers took to the air in playing catch-up.

And if you have to play catch-up, it's nice to have Stabler on your side. He completed 33 of 51 passes for a career-high 388 yards and four touchdowns, including a 68-yard bomb to ex-Jet Rich Caster that tied the score 21-21 with 5½ minutes to play. Todd put New York back in front with a 45-yarder to Bruce Harper, then Stabler tied it again with a 5-yard pass to Caster with 1:31 left.

New York won the crucial coin toss to start the overtime and made the most of the opportunity, driving 40 yards — including the Jets' only third-down conversion of the game — in nine plays to set up Leahy's second chance.

"Yes sir, I was hoping for another chance," said Leahy. "When I kicked it I knew I had made it. But I thought I had made the first one, too, so..."

So he waited for the officials' signal. But this time, he didn't need another chance. His kick split the uprights and the Jets were winners.

ONE YARD TOO MANY. Scott Dierking (25) of the NY Jets dives from one yard out during the first quarter against the Houston Oilers' Daryl Hunter (50) and Jack Tatum (far right). Dierking could not score in the air but quarterback Richard Todd took it in from the same distance on the next play from the ground Sunday at New York's Shea Stadium. (AP Laserphoto)

Cowboys' 'Hulk' makes winning score

IRVING, Texas (AP) — It has been more than a decade since Larry Cole has haunted the Washington Redskins.

Back in the 1960s, the 13-year veteran defensive tackle victimized the nation's capital more times than fiction.

He carried his 6-foot-5, 252-pound hulk across the Washington goal for three times for touchdowns in 1968 and 1969, twice with fumble returns and once with an interception, to help insure Dallas wins.

Redskins Coach George Allen said he feared Cole more than he did former Cowboy quarterbacks Don Meredith, Craig Morton or Roger Staubach.

Cole struck again Sunday after a decade of pest-free play against Washington.

This time it was a 43-yard interception return on a ball that caromed off his face mask into his heavily-taped hands for the touchdown, giving the Dallas Cowboys a vital 14-10 victory over the struggling Redskins, who are now 3-9 in the midst of their worst season since 1963.

"I've been waiting for that play 11 years," said Cole, who plays mostly on pass-rush downs.

Cole steamed into view like a humpback ghost just as fellow defensive tackle Randy White mashed backup Redskin quarterback Mike Kruzcek. The ball fluttered into the air as Kruzcek tried desperately to throw and bounced off Cole's face mask.

He leaped the fallen Kruzcek and thundered toward the Redskin goal with a convoy of Cowboys for protection.

"I really had an eerie feeling all day that I was going to score, and as it turned out it was as good a time as any to do it," said the 33-year-old former 16th round draft pick from Hawaii.

"The pass came to my helmet. Anytime like that, the first thing you have to do is get the helmet on it and then get a handle on it."

Cole paused in his story at this juncture for effect. "When I started running with it," he continued, "I got to the 15 and I said to myself 'Could it be?' And when I got to the 10, I don't think anybody could have stopped me."

"Of course, I'm right-handed but I just felt I hadn't done anything dramatic enough the other times I scored against Washington. I had to spike it...I really hadn't shown much class on my other celebrations...I had to shove a lot of people out of the way to get room to spike it."

Cole has never scored a touchdown against any other National Football League team except Washington.

"Amazing...just amazing," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry, shaking his head about the performance of his personal Washington albatross. "Four career touchdowns and all of them against the Redskins...just amazing. And did we need it."

The NFL's highest-scoring offense was stuck on self-destruct against the Redskins, who pirated four Danny White passes and recovered two fumbles.

Dallas' Tony Dorsett scored on a three-yard run for the Cowboys' only offensive-produced touchdown.

Washington, although it gained only four first downs by intermission, trailed only 7-3 after Mark Moseley's 34-yard field goal.

Washington scored a touchdown in the final two minutes of the game on Wilbur Jackson's 8-yard touchdown run.

The victory kept Dallas at 9-3 and two games behind Philadelphia in the National Conference Eastern Division. It assured Landry of his 15th consecutive winning season.

"The game was decided on one big play," said an unbelieving Kruzcek, who had entered the game in the second quarter after starter Joe Theismann's pulled hamstring acted up.

"I didn't know what happened. I was looking at Ricky Thompson and didn't see anybody coming. I can't believe we didn't win that game. Our defense played great...just one lousy play by that Cole."

Redskin Coach Jack Pardee, who has yet to get a vote of confidence for next year from the owners, said "We are a decent football team...we don't quit...we just had a lot of things go wrong for us."

Cole was what went wrong and he's shown up like a bad relative before.

"Gosh, I haven't had this much attention in a long time," said the mop-haired blonde. "I wish I had the talent to enjoy all this. I'm just a dog out there picking up scraps."

And "the dog" bit Washington again where it hurt Sunday.

Players puzzled in Astros squabble

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros players who are unsigned for next season are having a difficult time contending with the ownership squabble between general partner John McMullen and a group of limited partners.

Players and their agents are concerned they will have difficulty negotiating under the unsettled conditions, especially if the limited partners get their wish.

The limited partners, who last week voted to dissolve the arrangement, went into federal court today seeking a temporary injunction to keep McMullen from conducting business and to have a receiver appointed to oversee the Astros.

"When you're dealing with a receiver of a professional ball club, you're really not doing business," said Tom Reich, who represents several Astros players. "While this dispute is going on, it will be difficult to have any business dealings with the club."

Pitcher Vern Ruhle, a key factor in Houston's drive to the National League Western Division title, is unsigned for 1981 and the ownership situation concerns his agent, Randy Hendricks.

"If the team is placed into receivership and if whoever ends up in power is a caretaker, unwilling to make serious decisions, this team will have serious problems," Hendricks said.

McMullen created a maelstrom Oct. 27 when he unexpectedly fired president and general manager Tal Smith and replaced him with Al Rosen.

Limited partners who were already unhappy with other decisions by McMullen, considered it the last straw and vowed to unseat the New York shipping executive as a general partner.

The limited partners hired well known Houston claims attorney Joe Jamail and last week the group voted to dissolve the partnership.

They also asked McMullen to resign as general partner and, when he refused, Jamail filed suit charging McMullen with mismanaging the Astros and damaging the limited partners' investment.

TCU students flee dorm fire

FORT WORTH (AP) — More than 100 Texas Christian University women students, some clad only in nightgowns, fled into a cold, pre-dawn drizzle when a three-alarm fire struck their dormitory.

"I couldn't see because my eyes were burning, but I saw some flames coming out of the room. Everybody was perfectly calm," Kristen Anderson, a senior from Chicago said after fire struck the Mary Libscomb Wiggins hall on the TCU campus early Sunday.

There were no injuries and college officials said an orderly evacuation by the students plus quick work by firemen prevented a disaster.

"We got the building evacuated in a minute and a half," said Anne Walton, dormitory director for the hall, the newest dorm on campus.

Firemen said the blaze apparently was caused by a cigarette dropped on a mattress in the third-floor room of students Shelly Ashley of San Antonio and Susie Bradbury of Colorado.

As Fire Lt. Scott Robnett's truck was leaving the fire station, he said he could see flames "coming out the window and leaping up the walls" of the dorm, and his fire captain called additional alarms while still enroute.

Fire officials estimated property loss at $55,000 and said the fire was confined to the room where it started, but other rooms on the third and second floors sustained smoke, heat and water damage.

TCU Housing Director Don Mills said the university regularly conducts dormitory fire drills, and had last called a Wiggins Hall drill in late October.

Some of the dorm's 152 residents were away for the weekend, said Ms. Walton. Mills said most of the 50 women left homeless by the fire would be put in other dormitories.

The dorm, built in 1972, has both smoke and fire detectors, and the university is in the process of installing similar equipment in each of its residence halls, said deputy fire chief Don Peacock.

"We're pleased with what TCU has done (for fire safety)," he said.

Once the women reached safety, their main concern was keeping warm as they stood in 40-degree drizzle clad in their nightclothes. Many of the students huddled together for warmth as their dormitory burned.

Oil threatens water fowl refuge

PILOT TOWN, La. (AP) — Cleanup crews continued working today on a 1.3 million gallons of spilled crude oil threatening a waterfowl refuge at the mouth of the Mississippi River.

"It is pretty well far reaching and it is going into the marsh area down there," Coast Guard Lt. Michael Selavka said Sunday night.

Cleanup crews had boomed off a wide area near Southwest Pass at the mouth of the Gulf of Mexico and were trying to keep the oil out of the marshes.

Selavka said federal and state game officials were expected on the scene today since it was feared the spill would harm waterfowl and other wildlife in the area.

"Being this is duck season, we anticipate some problems in that area," Selavka said.

The oil poured into the Mississippi River near the Delta Migratory Water Fowl Refuge on Saturday when the Norwegian tanker Georgia ran over its own anchor chain.

The spill also was in the vicinity of the Pass A Loutre Game and Fish Preserve at the mouth of the river.

Selavka said the 65,000-ton Georgia apparently was moving too fast when its anchor was dropped.

Accused killer gets stay of execution

HOUSTON (AP) — A man convicted of shooting a Montgomery County juvenile probation officer to death during a burglary has received a stay of execution.

U.S. District Judge Ross Sterling granted an indefinite stay to Joseph Blaine Starvaggi, 27, scheduled to die Tuesday by lethal injection in the Texas Department of Corrections at Huntsville.

Starvaggi was convicted of killing John Denson, 43, during a burglary at Denson's Magnolia home on Nov. 19, 1976.

Anthony P. Griffin, Starvaggi's attorney, says he will argue that the jury in the original trial was improper because of the questioning of jurors about the death penalty.

Griffin said he also will argue that Starvaggi's attorney at the time erred because he failed to object to the manner of jury selection.

Sterling, who granted the stay Friday, may grant Starvaggi a new trial, set aside the death sentence and impose a life sentence or order his execution.

Denson was shot three times in the chest — twice in the heart — according to testimony at the trial. His daughter testified during the trial that her father pleaded for mercy after he was shot once, saying "I beg of you, don't do this."

Starvaggi appealed the conviction, but the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals upheld the decision in June, 1979 and the Supreme Court later refused to hear the case.
