'Imagination the limit' in response to invasion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration, declaring that the United States is not weakened just because it is changing presidents, is warning the Soviet Union that an invasion of Poland would cause "the most serious" deterioration of East-West and U.S.-Soviet relations.

The statement drew strong support from President-elect Ronald Reagan's senior foreign policy adviser, Richard V. Allen, who said "the imagination would undoubtedly be the limit" in calculating how the United States might respond to a military strike against Poland.

White House press secretary Jody Powell, speaking with reporters Tuesday, refused to say what specific steps the United States might take.

But he said: "An intervention or invasion of Poland would be most serious and adverse, both for East-West relations in general and in particular for relationships between the United States and the Soviet Union."

His statement came amid escalating labor strife in Poland and reports that Soviet army divisions have been mobilized on the Polish border.

Reagan, talking to reporters in Los Angeles Tuesday night, said the reports of Soviet movements represent "a very tense moment for the Free World."

Powell said President Carter has discussed the situation by telephone with key European leaders over the last few days and Reagan has been kept informed.

"I think it would be a serious mistake for any government under any circumstances to assume that in a period of transition between one administration and the next that the American government would lack either the will or the ability to respond," Powell said.

He added: "It's a situation that's being watched closely and with concern."

Carter, it was learned, had spoken with the leaders of Britain, West Germany and France.

Allen, in an interview Tuesday night with ABC News, said a Soviet invasion of Poland would have "grave overtones for our new administration. It would be one that would set the tone for a long time to come. It would be one from which the world would be a long time recovering, if indeed it would recover."

Asked what the new administration might do to retaliate, Allen replied: "I don't think it would be productive to speculate on specific policy measures, but the imagination would undoubtedly be the limit in terms of a reaction."

Powell refused to say whether warnings have been sent to Moscow via diplomatic channels, although it was disclosed earlier that Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin was called to the State Department Monday night to discuss the situation.

Jail to meet standards by spring

Plans for renovations to the Gray County Jail are underway, but Sheriff Rufe Jordan says it may be next spring before the jail is in compliance with the Texas Commission on Jail Standards.

Gray County Commissioners agreed in their Dec. 1 meeting to advertise for bids on a new locking system for the jail. Bids will be opened at the Dec. 12 meeting of the county commission.

Jordan said new locks will be installed on each of the jail cells and plumbing fixture doors. The job will include the revamping of the locking levers for the felony tanks, he said. The current locking devices are 21 years old, the sheriff said.

"It will be quite a little chore," Jordan commented.

He said he expected the work to be started sometime in March. The estimated cost of the new system will be about $9,500, he said.

Jordan said he is also making plans to update the elevator used to transport prisoners from the sheriff's office on the first floor of the court house to the jail, located on the third floor of the building.

Plans include new control switches, adjustments to the hoist brake and replacing worn out parts, if necessary, he said.

"I hope to get it all shaped up by spring," Jordan said.

The sheriff said the renovations will help the jail meet state's jail standards.

In August of this year, the Gray County Jail was notified by the state commission on jail standards that it was non-compliant with 14 of the jail requirements.

State requirements included installation of a sound communication system; a secure visiting area for prisoners and outside visitors; insurance of variable light levels for observation and custodial functions; illumination of exits; emergency lighting system; lighted exit signs; a check list to be used with fire prevention plan; portable fire extinguisher documentation from the fire department; maintenance of records for life safety plans, drills and equipment inspection; proper records on inmate property signed by the receiving officer and inmate; and initiation of procedures to record prisoner's classification information.

Jordan said at the time of the notification, many of the state requirements had already been met, and that he had applied for some variances to the requirements.

Earlier Jordan had said, "We don't want to molly-coddle our prisoners, but we want them to live like human beings."

Father obsessed with the family he killed

DALLAS (AP) — Thomas Ray Walker Jr. was so obsessed with his children he often accompanied them to school and sat for hours in the back of their classrooms.

That obsession, the fear his family could not survive after his planned suicide, led him to kill the children, enticing them to their deaths with the promise of a "surprise."

And in the hours Monday after he shot his wife, Linda Jo, and children — Traci, 13, Tammi, 11, Tommy Joe, 9, and Nicholas, 8, he tried to describe his motives and his agony to a local television reporter during a series of disjointed phone conversations.

Tortured by what he had done, Walker drove from phone booth to phone booth until — as police rushed in with weapons drawn — he burst from one booth screaming, "Shoot me! Shoot me!"

As Walker reached for his back pocket, three officers opened fire, and he fell mortally wounded on a supermarket parking lot. He died an hour later.

"I've got a story, and it's a bad story. I need to tell it," Walker told KDFW-TV reporter Tom Steyer during one of many conversations Monday afternoon and evening. "I'm potentially dangerous. I'm armed. I'm mentally ill — obviously. I'm not joking."

"I've killed my wife, and I've killed my four kids," the 36-year-old self-employed paint contractor told Steyer. "I want the world to know I know now it wasn't right. I know I was wrong — I love them. I loved them more than anything in the world. But I couldn't cope with it anymore."

During the rambling, tape-recorded conversations — first with KDFW executive producer Kenny Boles and later with Steyer — Walker described a grisly, day-long killing spree at his southeast Dallas home.

He said he watched his wife, Linda Jo, shower Monday morning and as she began to wash her face, he stepped up on the toilet and fired over the shower stall, striking her in the back. He fired again, he said, hitting her between the eyes.

Next he went to Rylie Intermediate School and took Tammi from her Talented and Gifted class, telling school officials he was taking his family on a trip.

"I shook hands with him and talked with him when he came to get Tammi," Rylie principal Richard Allen said Tuesday. "I saw nothing to be alarmed about."

Tammi's teachers said Walker attended classes with his daughter "two to three times a week" in the months before the slayings.

Walker told Steyer when he and Tammi got home, he told her to turn around and close her eyes because he had a surprise for her. When she did, he fired a single bullet into the back of her head.

It was the same with his two sons, who closed their eyes and were shot in the head, he told Steyer.

The hardest one, he said, was his oldest daughter, Traci. When she came home from school Monday afternoon, he gave her $5 and told her to go buy some candy. Watching through a window, he waited until she walked back into the living room, he lept from the dining room and shot her in the head.

She let out a little scream, he said, and he fired again to make sure she was dead.

"He killed those kids because he loved them," Walker's grieving mother, Mrs. T.R. Walker said Tuesday. "My son had lost hope. That's all."

Neighbors said Walker was broke and recently had moved from a home he owned in suburban Balch Springs to a rented house. He became "paranoid" about his children and refused to let them play outside unless he was with them, said Mrs. James A. Williams, who lived across the street.

He rarely left his house, except to see his children at school, where he was almost a daily visitor, school officials said.

His paint contracting business began to go downhill, but neighbors and teachers all said the family was very close-knit and "spent a lot of time together."

Reagan cabinet possibles listed member of Reagan's inner circle of advisers. He is chairman of Reagan's transition operation.

A spokeswoman for Wriston said he would have no comment, and a spokesman for Haig said the retired four-star general had not been offered the State Department post as of Tuesday night.

It was not clear if Reagan had made up his mind on all 15 Cabinet-level jobs, but sources listed the following as top candidates:

OFFICE OF MANAGEMENT AND BUDGET: Rep. David Stockman, R-Mich., and Paul O'Neill, deputy budget director during the Ford administration, head the list of candidates. Stockman, 34, had been mentioned as a possible energy secretary, but said Tuesday it was his understanding Reagan had picked someone else for the job. Stockman said he did not know who.

INTERIOR: Former Wyoming Sen. Clifford P. Hansen was Reagan's choice for the post, but one source said Hansen had taken himself out of the running 48 hours before the job was to be offered him. In an interview published Tuesday in the Arizona Republic, Hansen said he had been offered the post by aides to Reagan but would not respond unless the president-elect personally asks him.

COMMERCE: Republican National Chairman Bill Brock remains a leading candidate, although he also has expressed interest in other economic or foreign policy positions.

TRANSPORTATION: Drew Lewis, Brock's deputy and a rail and trucking executive, was listed as the leading candidate.

LABOR: Ray Donovan, a construction company executive who headed the Reagan campaign in New Jersey, has emerged unexpectedly as a serious candidate. Some sources said Mrs. Murphy was another strong candidate, but one source said flatly that she would not get the job.

AGRICULTURE: Illinois's agriculture director, John Block, is the top candidate and enjoys strong congressional support.

HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT: Thomas Sowell, an economist working for the conservative Hoover Institute, is described as a leading candidate along with Mrs. Dole. He is one of the few blacks under consideration for a Cabinet post.

Dismembered mother's children may go to welfare officials

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Child welfare officials may take custody today of the two young children of an Amarillo woman whose dismembered body was discovered at a auto junkyard in this Panhandle city, authorities said.

Potter County officials tentatively identified the dead woman Tuesday as Linda Sue Baker, who was reported missing on Nov. 17.

An emergency hearing was scheduled today in state district court to determine if child welfare officials should take custody of the woman's two children, ages 5 and 7.

Sheriff T.L. Baker said the children knew that their mother was dead.

A man was being held in Potter County jail late Tuesday night for investigation of murder, but no charges had been filed.

An attendant at the auto wrecking yard, located less than a mile from the dead woman's residence, said he was waiting on a customer when the customer's son saw the dog dragging a severed head onto the driveway.

The lower torso and legs were found a short time later in a search by deputies and Amarillo police officers using the city's canine corps. Two human forearm bones were found at another nearby location Tuesday afternoon. Potter County sheriff's deputies said.

"There is no doubt in my mind that it is Linda Baker," said Roy Byrd, Potter County justice of the peace and acting coroner. He said he compared the severed head with a picture of the woman, and "it was evident it was Linda Baker."

U.S. Congressman Jack Hightower and State Representative Foster Whaley will be present at the event, along with representatives from the city.

The sheriff said the woman had been brutally beaten and later dismembered, while still fully clothed, with a sharp instrument. Byrd said an identification technician told him the woman's skull was crushed all to thunder.

Investigators said the lack of blood at the scene indicated the woman probably was slain and dismembered at another location.

Sheriff's investigators Tuesday sought a warrant to search the woman's mobile home for a shovel and a brown rug. However, Lt. Jimmy Boydston would not comment Tuesday on evidence in the case.

API annual banquet

W. L. Calahan of Houston will be the featured speaker at the 48th annual American Petroleum Institute (API) banquet scheduled for 7 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 6, in Celanese's PamCel Hall.

Vice-president of Texas exploration and production, Calahan is also chairman of the API general production committee.

Other special guests at the banquet include A. R. McDaniel, Midland Division Manager for Texaco; G. F. Clarke, assistant division manager; L. A. Hamann, general superintendent of Midland; J. V. Gannon, district superintendent for Hobbs.

U.S. Congressman Jack Hightower and State Representative Foster Whaley will be present at the event, along with representatives from the city.

police notes

Officers of the Pampa Police Department responded to 15 calls during the 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. today involving reports of burglary, auto theft and the theft of such items as kegs of beer and feather hat bands.

Donna Keel, 715 E. Locust, reported her 1980 Chevrolet Monte Carlo missing. The vehicle was recovered in Beaver, Okla. at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday night. A 15-year-old boy was detained in connection with the incident and referred to juvenile authorities.

A police officer discovered a window had been broken at Anderson's Western Wear, 123 E. Kingsmill. No one was found in the store. Ten feather hat bands and hat pins were reported missing. Damage to the window was estimated at $100.

Mike Bowlin reported for Budweiser Company that someone had forcibly entered the building and took six kegs of beer. The kegs were valued at $45 each.

Maurine Pierce, 716 N. Frost, reported someone had taken a plain gold ring valued at $350 from her residence.

Cynthia Ann Prentiss, 19, 624 S. Somerville, was taken into police custody at 8:14 p.m. Tuesday night in connection with two outstanding warrants for check forgery. Prentiss was recently indicted for forgery by the Gray County Grand Jury. Bond for Prentiss was to be set early today, police said.

Jose Louis Martinez, 33, 1032 Neel Road was arrested for driving while intoxicated after he was involved in a collision with a parked flatbed trailer.

minor accidents

7:50 a.m. — A hit-and-run accident occurred at the intersection of Hobart and Somerville streets when a vehicle came into collision with the rear of a 1976 Cadillac driven by Sandra Andrews, 1811 Lynn. The Andrews vehicle was reportedly stopped in the southbound lane at the intersection.

6:34 p.m. — A 1977 Pontiac driven by Kimberly Rae Gentry, 19, 617 Yeager came into collision with a 1979 International truck driven by Johnny Irby, 36, of 110 Willow, Borger. Both vehicles were reported traveling west on Brown attempting to turn onto Hobart when the mishap occurred.

time unknown — A 1973 Ford driven by Jose Louis Martinez, 33, 1032 Neel Road, came into collision with a 1976 flatbed trailer parked on Thut. The trailer was owned by Robert Greg, address not given. Martinez was arrested for driving while intoxicated and cited for failure to control speed.

Texas weather

By The Associated Press

Cloudy skies and cool temperatures dominated Texas' weather today after a cold front finished its trek across the state late Tuesday.

Skies over West Texas were to be mostly fair and it was windy in the Panhandle. Highs were to be in the 50s and 60s with a few readings reaching into the 70s in Southwest Texas.

Some light drizzle was reported along the lower coast early today and low clouds covered the southeastern third of the state.

Early morning temperatures ranged from the 20s and 30s in Northwest Texas to the 40s and 50s in Southeast Texas. Extremes ranged from 25 at Childress to 62 at Brownsville.

Texas forecasts

North Texas — Cloudy southeast, increasing cloudiness west and north and cool today. Mostly cloudy and warmer tonight and Thursday. Highs 45 northwest to 55 southeast. Lows 40s. Highs Thursday 60s.

South Texas — Mostly cloudy and cool through tonight, becoming partly cloudy and warmer Thursday. Highs 50s north, 60s elsewhere. Lows 30s north, 40s central and southeast, 50s south. Highs Thursday 60s and 70s.

West Texas — Fair and warmer through Thursday. Windy Panhandle. Highs 50s except 70s southwest. Lows 30s. Highs Thursday 60s and 70s.

Port Arthur to Brownsville — Small craft advisory in effect. Northeast winds 10 to 15 knots through Thursday. Seas 3 to 5 feet.

Iranian doctors licensed by Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — A state board voted 8-4 Tuesday to grant licenses to three Iranian doctors to practice medicine in Texas despite difficulties arising from the closing of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran and the taking of the American hostages.

The Texas State Board of Medical Examiners requires foreign doctors to have the signature of their medical schools' deans verified by the American consulate in their country.

"That is impossible because basically the American Embassy is non-existent in Iran," said Dr. Ali Esfahani, an Iranian who has become an American citizen and practices cardiovascular surgery in Flint, Mich.

Each of the three applicants is licensed to practice medicine in another state.

Dr. Jack Welty urged his fellow board members to waive the verification requirement, but Dr. Carlos Godinez responded, "We don't know if these guys are who they say they are. We don't know if the dean who signed the signature on the diploma-verification form) is who he says he is."

Dr. James Winn, another board member, argued for the waiver, stating, "If we refuse, we're going to have to say why. Is it because of what the Iranians did over there or because this is an extremely valuable requirement?"

Esfahani and Dr. John Akhavan, a pediatrician from the Pittsburgh, Pa., area, said their wives wanted to come to Texas because of its warmer climate.

said he wanted to stay in Dallas where he is doing psychiatric research at the University of Texas Health Science Center.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property, and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

OPINION PAGE

Authentic spy story

Most of what we know about spies and spying comes from fiction — Ian Fleming's romanticized James Bond or the more credible characters in the works of John Le Carre and Graham Greene. Since secrecy is the name of the game, authentic spy stories are relatively rare.

But we have just heard one — or part of one — with the arrest of former CIA agent David H. Barnett for selling secrets to the Russians. The Justice Department has let Barnett plead guilty to one charge of espionage to avoid a trial on the multiple charges that could have been filed.

This will avoid revelations in court which could compound the damage already done to U.S. intelligence operations.

Barnett is said to have given the Soviet KGB details of "numerous" operations by the Central Intelligence Agency and to have exposed the identities of at least 30 covert CIA agents. He faces a maximum sentence of life imprisonment.

In the real world, as in fiction, there are "double agents," and one aspect of the Barnett case should be as disconcerting to the U.S. Congress as it is to the Central Intelligence Agency. Barnett, who had been working in recent years as a part-time employee of the CIA, was urged by his Soviet contacts to try to get closer to sources of U.S. intelligence information — by hiring on as a staff member of the House or Senate intelligence committees.

He wasn't hired, but the KGB obviously recognizes that the congressional demand for more oversight of secret intelligence work — a legacy of the Vietnam and Watergate traumas — has created new opportunities for espionage. This was one of the warnings issued by U.S. intelligence agencies when Congress voted in 1974 to involve eight different committees in oversight of covert operations.

That mistake is only now being rectified. A bill just signed by the president backs off from the reckless reaction of 1974 and limits oversight responsibility to one committee in each house of Congress. Moscow's instructions to double-agent Barnett are a reminder that having too many intelligence watchdogs can be as dangerous as not having enough.

The good ole boys are costing plenty

If you have tightened your belt and find it difficult to have enough funds to complete buying all that's on your grocery list, you ought to take a look at who's not worrying about that — the U.S. Congress.

That outfit is squandering your dollars.

Tax Foundation reported the cost of Congress has reached $1.3 billion this year, and the share of one U.S. Senator in all that big spending is now $2.4 million a year.

You get the feeling that your friendly senator — we have two of them in Texas, just like other states do — may be a good ole boy, but is he worth $2.4 million?

We want to put it this way. Those fellows are doing a job for us, sometimes, and that is a thing for which many of them receive little thanks, all too often; but now that we've expressed our appreciation for whatever good they have done and are doing for us, we would like to add that the share of one good ole boy representing us in the House, out of that big $1.3 billion, is $745 thousand a year. You sort of get the feeling that instead of doing a great job for us, that ole boy is doing a job on us.

Here's what the Tax Foundation reported:

"Be glad you're not getting all the government you're paying for, the late Will Rogers is supposed to have quipped. However much government they're getting, U.S. taxpayers are paying a great deal for it, according to Tax foundation economists. The cost of operating the Legislative Branch of the Federal government in 1980, they report, will top $1 billion for the third year in a row."

"The tab for the Senate, the House of Representatives, and related agencies first broke the $1 billion mark in 1978 when the Legislative Branch cost taxpayers $1.08 billion. Tax Foundation researchers had cautioned about the exploding costs of supporting the Federal legislators in 1976, when the Foundation published 'The Legislative Branch - the Next Billion Dollar Bureaucracy.'

"Preliminary figures for fiscal year 1980 show that taxpayers will shell out over $1.3 billion to finance Congress. Of this, about $627 million will be appropriated for the Senate, the House and joint activities of the two legislative bodies. The remaining $702 million will go for a broad range of support agencies as indicated on the accompanying table."

"The growth in the cost of running the U.S. Senate has greatly outpaced that for the lower chamber, jumping nearly tenfold from 1960, when the Senate cost only $25.2 million, to almost $242 million in 1980, an average of $2.4 million per U.S. Senator. Paying, quartering, and providing staff and support services for the 435 members of the House comes to just under $324 million, about $745 thousand per Representative, and an eight-fold increase over the past two decades."

"With two exceptions, the budgets of the legislative agencies also show a steady upward trend over the years. Declines have been registered since 1975 in the budgets for the Cost Accounting Standards Board (from $1.39 million to $1.28 million) and the Government Printing Office (from $121.4 million to $111.7 million). The Botanic Garden, charged, among other things, with provided legislators with potted plants and furnishing fresh-cut flowers for Congressional functions, cost more than $1.5 million in fiscal 1980, making a bunch of senatorial posies nearly five times more expensive this year than in 1960."

Lessons learned in foreign policy

By George Marotta

The election of a new president is a good time to review what we have learned from the four years' leadership of a president who tried some new approaches to U.S. foreign policy.

Leadership of the free Western industrialized world was thrust on the United States only since World War II. Our allies should be tolerant of U.S. performance. We are learning, albeit slowly.

The following are ten lessons we should have learned from President Carter's administration:

1. Military strength comes first. This administration's attempt to reduce arms spending to encourage the U.S.S.R. to likewise was a total failure. While we have pursued a policy of detente, U.S. military spending has plunged to less than 5 percent of gross national product while Soviet spending roars along at over 13 percent, nearly doubling in absolute terms since 1963.

2. Effective foreign policy needs a strong domestic economy. The funds required for a strengthened defense and for anything else for that matter depend on U.S. productivity. Removing restraints on that productivity and lowering inflation are the first order of business for the new administration. The strength of the U.S. dollar against other currencies is one barometer indicating whether U.S. allies have confidence in the U.S. economy and free world leadership.

3. Human rights cannot be the centerpiece for U.S. foreign policy. Other national security goals are sometimes more important than human rights in key countries. For example, Carter's pursuit of human rights goals, rather than reforming the Shah, may have accelerated his demise. Poor intelligence left the U.S. without viable alternative leadership to support.

4. Let's return to a single secretary of state. Carter, Ford and Nixon have all used the national security council assistant as a negotiator-spokesman-advisor in foreign affairs. This has caused confusion for enemies, friends and the U.S. public.

Brezin's views have differed from those of the Secretary of State, even causing Vance's resignation over the abortive hostage rescue attempt. President Reagan could rectify this by appointing a strong Secretary of State and restoring the National Security Council assistant's role to a behind-the-scenes coordinator.

5. We must reduce dependence on foreign oil. Our foreign policy is hostage to U.S. dependence of OPEC oil and a cut-off of Persian Gulf oil could be extremely serious. We must accelerate rewards for domestic production of all forms of energy to restore freedom of action. Reduced U.S. demand for OPEC oil and a leveling off or reduction in world oil prices would do more for the Third World countries than foreign aid.

6. U.S. foreign aid policy should be bipartisan. Current U.S. foreign problems are too urgent for business-as-usual. President Reagan should use all former presidents, including Carter, to help resolve key world problems. Bi-partisan foreign policy statesmen are sorely needed in the Senate and the House.

7. Our allies deserve closer consultation. We have too often acted first and informed our friends later. They have more stake in Persian Gulf oil than we do. We need to do a better job in identifying the congruence in our interests.

8. Our word should not be lightly given. Nothing can erode confidence in U.S. leadership faster than going back on our word. We should not say "Soviet brigades in Cuba will not be tolerated," unless we are prepared to do something about it. Similarly, we should not have misled the Germans about deployment of the neutron bomb.

9. U.S. power should be used to enhance national security interests. The U.S. cannot be policeman to the world and get involved in every dispute or conflict. However, since Vietnam we may have gone too far in the other direction. The Carter administration's inaction seems to be based on a feeling that it is immoral to use U.S. power. Given our world position, it is folly not to use power to advance our interests — hopefully on a careful, selective basis.

10. The public must understand foreign policy goals. Long-term pursuit of national objectives requires public understanding. The new administration through the state department should articulate better both a world view and what we are working towards in our foreign policy.

George Marotta, senior research fellow at Stanford's Hoover Institution on War, Revolution and Peace, served on the staff of the National Security Council, the Department of State and Defense, and the Agency for International Development.

Letter to the editor

Dear Editor:

I have lived in Pampa for almost two and a half years. The most impressive quality of our town is the concern of its people for others. This is evidenced by the letter you printed from Linda A. Davis on Dec. 2, about the lady and children she picked up who were stranded in Pampa. She was concerned because "The Salvation Army refused ALL help." Every story like this has two sides.

When I was contacted by the lady who was stranded, she told me she had left her home in Oklahoma City to visit friends in Pampa. When she arrived here, she found her friends no longer lived here. She took her children and went to a movie while waiting on a bus. While at the theatre, she lost her purse and all her money. When she left the theatre, she did not know where to go or what to do. That is when Linda Davis found her.

I explained to the stranded lady when she called me at home that we have made arrangements with the Pampa Police Department to take care of problems like this when our office is closed. They would find arrangements for her at a local motel for the night. I asked her to contact me the next morning, after she had rested, about bus tickets back to Oklahoma City. She assured me that the lady she was with would take her to the police station. I never heard from her again. It is obvious that what I told her and what she told Linda Davis are not the same.

The Salvation Army in Pampa does not have a lodge to house people for a night's sleep. It would be too expensive to operate with the light transient traffic in Pampa. When we put someone up for the night, it must be in a local motel. We are only able to give a night's lodging if a room is available. We will make every effort to find a room. As for putting someone in our building for the night, this cannot be done because of insurance restrictions, due to the large possibility of theft or personal injury. I have not talked to any other pastors about this, but I seriously doubt if any responsible church would allow anyone to walk in off the street and spend a night in their church unless they had taken the proper precautions and had the proper facilities.

Whenever the Salvation Army or any other agency provides transportation for someone there are requirements that should be met. These basically are that there must be a home or job waiting and the need for the transportation must be valid. Transportation must not be given just to get someone out of Pampa. There can be many legal problems involved when someone is sent to another place with no means of support.

I felt that this lady was tired, upset and scared after what had happened to her and that a good night's rest for her and her children would help very much. On Monday morning we could work out a solution to her problem when she was rested. She never contacted me.

The Salvation Army did not refuse to help her. She refused the help the Salvation Army offered.

Linda Davis says she will question what the Salvation Army does with the money it receives. If she or anyone else has any questions about where their money goes, they should feel free to contact me. The Salvation Army has nothing to hide.

The Salvation Army believes and practices that helping others is a part of the ministry of the Gospel of Jesus Christ. As the head of the Salvation Army in Pampa, it is my responsibility to do this to the best of my ability. The Salvation Army has been serving Pampa since 1929. We will continue to serve as long as there is need for our services.

May God bless you.

Sincerely,

Lt. David P. Craddock
Commanding Officer

Salute the home-front missionary

by Paul Harvey

But there is a related movement of perhaps greater significance from a "social gospel" to a "spiritual gospel."

For decades our nation's elected leadership has worshipped at the shrine of a "social gospel." The three messiahs of that gospel were education, science and politics.

We were told that if we would feed and finance these three they would guarantee heaven on earth.

This assumed that men are animals: feed them, clothe them, shelter and entertain them and they will be healthy, happy and productive.

Instead, they became fat and lazy, smart and miserable.

Now if the moral majority in our nation wants a worthy challenge it should be to re-teach the spiritual gospel.

It will be less inspiring for missionaries who prefer exotic outposts, but the urgent need is for the moral, social, cultural and economic regeneration of our own nation.

America's missionaries have preferred preaching and teaching on faraway islands and in remote jungles to the neglect of the asphalt jungles in our own cities.

Seminary graduates prefer world travel.

Foreign cultures are exotic, romantic.

The prospective missionary is willing to tolerate poor living conditions in a foreign situation, is proud to have his parents and in-laws visit his deprivation in the bush.

The skid-row missionary, at home or on station, is without status, is more pitied than applauded.

And he is in much more physical danger.

The apostle Paul always went to the cities, expecting his ministry to expand from there. He went to Athens, to Rome — even when it meant to be imprisoned among the servants of the emperor.

When Jonah knew that the time was short he rushed to Nineveh, the capital of Assyria, to warn the most people first.

We'll have to try to learn to salute and support the homefront missionary.

He will try to take the do-unto-others gospel into the midst of our own unwashed, unprincipled, undisciplined natives.

If he succeeds, we might again become a lighthouse for the world.

(c) 1980, Los Angeles Times Syndicate

The slides he brings back fascinate and enthrall the stay-at-homes. Dollars flow readily to such ministries.

It will be less an ego trip for the homefront missionary.

Any slides he might bring home from city slums would tend to depress.

There are no cobra skins, no elephant tusks, no flint-tipped spears to show-and-tell.

The skid-row missionary, at home or on station, is without status, is more pitied than applauded.

And he is in much more physical danger.

The apostle Paul always went to the cities, expecting his ministry to expand from there. He went to Athens, to Rome — even when it meant to be imprisoned among the servants of the emperor.

Novelist dies from gunshot

PARIS (AP) — Despondent over the death of ex-wife Seberg, French novelist Romain Gary died of a gunshot in his apartment.

The body of the 66-year-old writer was found in his apartment in the Left Bank Tuesday with one bullet wound in the head, police said.

Close friends said Gary had been depressed since the discovery of Miss Seberg's body in the trunk of her car on Sept. 8, 1979. Medical examiners said the 44-year-old actress died of a combination of alcohol and barbiturates.

Gary charged Miss Seberg was driven to suicide as a result of news item planted by the FBI in 1970 saying the blonde, Iowa-born film star was pregnant by a member of the American Black Panther Party.

The FBI later released a memorandum showing that the Los Angeles office of the bureau suggested planting such a story.

Millionaire files $100 million suit claiming slander

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston millionaire contends he has been slandered by the courtroom statements of lawyers for his former mistress and has filed a $100 million suit against attorneys Percy Foreman, Dick DeGuerin and their law firm.

Richard Minns, 51, filed the suit Tuesday in state district court claiming the attorneys had slandered him as part of their defense of Barbara Piotrowski, a 27-year-old California model.

Mrs. Piotrowski, who has been charged with felony theft for allegedly stealing $200,000 in property from Minns' townhouse, was shot four times outside a Houston doughnut shop on Oct. 20 and left partially paralyzed.

Two men, Nathaniel Ivory and Patrick Steen, both of Riverside, Calif., have been indicted on charges of attempted murder in connection with the shooting.

Minns claimed in the suit that DeGuerin embarked on a campaign to "destroy" Minns publicly, psychologically and financially by "spreading false information and lies."

The suit alleges that DeGuerin accused Minns of "hiring the assassins" to fire upon Mrs. Piotrowski and that DeGuerin used the courtroom to make statements to shield himself from actions of slander under the cover of judicial immunity.

Minns, 51, has not been questioned or accused by any law enforcement officer or member of the district attorney's office in connection with the shooting, Minns said in the suit.

Foreman was included in the suit because he is partner in the same law firm with DeGuerin.

Neither DeGuerin or Foreman would comment on the suit.

The suit also claims that DeGuerin caused the "libelous, inflammatory and sensational material" to become known to the press and that information spread "like an inferno of sensational and irrational hate" across the nation.

Officer shoots woman during arrest attempt

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — An off-duty police officers says he shot a Lubbock woman to death after she pulled a pistol from her coat and threatened to "blow his head off" for trying to arrest her son.

Vannoy Dotton, 39, was shot once in the chest. She was pronounced dead at Lubbock General Hospital shortly after the Tuesday night shooting, said police information officer Bill Morgan.

Mark Kirkpatrick, 27, a two-year veteran of the force, said he shot the woman after she pulled a loaded .22 caliber pistol from her coat and tried to point it at him during a struggle.

Police said Kirkpatrick, who was working at his off-duty job at a Lubbock supermarket, had taken the woman's son to a storage room, questioned him and placed him under arrest for criminal trespass. Kirkpatrick then requested an on-duty officer to transport the man to city jail.

Kirkpatrick said while he was talking to the man, the woman came into the room and demanded her son be freed. He said when he tried to explain while her son had been arrested the woman became angry and began hitting him on the head with a broken ashtray.

Witnesses told police the man took the ash tray away from his mother, but she continued to battle with the officer.

Two sought in robbery, rape spree

TYLER, Texas (AP) — Two men who wear ski masks and brandish pistols are being sought in connection with four rape-robberies that have occurred over a four-week period, officials say.

The attacks, which Tyler police and Smith County Sheriff's investigators say began Nov. 7 with the abduction and rape of a Franksen woman, were tied together by law officers after a man and a woman were abducted Sunday.

"There are similar patterns in all the cases," Tyler Detective Capt. Bob Bond said. "We are working jointly with the sheriff's office, pooling our information to see if the suspects are going to be the same."

Disgruntled artist disrupts art meet

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A disgruntled local artist, unable to get a meeting at the Fort Worth Art Museum by threatening the crowd with a jug of gasoline and what looked like a pistol, witnesses told police.

The man, identified by neighbors and fellow artists as Bill McLean, 51, entered the museum auditorium about 20 minutes after the start of a Tuesday night panel discussion. Museum officials told officers there were approximately 150 artists and gallery owners in attendance.

McLean, witnesses said, slowly walked to the front of the room and pulled a gallon jug filled with gasoline out of a large, red rucksack he carried.

He loudly declared that he thought the discussion was nonsense and when a spectator grabbed for the jug of gas, McLean pulled what appeared to be a pistol out of the sack and said, "If you do that, I'll level you," police were told.

When McLean produced two glass jars stoppered with cotton and filled with a clear liquid, the crowd began to rush toward the exits, witnesses said. Two people fell but nobody was injured, police said later.

McLean was booked for investigation of making a terroristic threat and spent the night in city jail.

Negligence case against welfare worker dropped

PASO (AP) — Welfare workers formerly accused of criminal neglect in an alleged child abuse death say they want a new law exempting state employees from criminal prosecution in such cases.

Indictments against three Department of Human Resources workers were thrown out Tuesday by State District Judge Edwin Berliner. The workers had been accused of neglect in the case of a girl who died at home nine months after a child abuse investigation.

The three defendants, Charles Gembinski Jr., director of the welfare department here; Kay Helton, a department supervisor; and Ophelia Tse, a caseworker, had been scheduled to go on trial Jan. 5.

Helton, 51, said he was glad the case was thrown out, but "I wouldn't want to think this could happen to me again next month, or next year. We're looking for legislation to be introduced in the coming session that would protect state workers acting in good faith from being criminally indicted for the actions of their clients."

Gembinski, 34, said he was relieved "more than you can know" but added, "I was pretty confident" of the outcome had the case gone to trial.

"I had thoughts about it, but I'm not quitting," he said. Mrs. Tse was not available for comment.

Attorneys for the three had filed motions for dismissal last week, arguing the indictments were not specific and did not comply with "constitutional notions of due process." Berliner granted the motions without comment.

The three workers were arraigned in September on three 18-count indictments accusing them of neglect for failing to remove 14-month-old Angelica Priego from her parents.

The girl was hospitalized in September 1979 with scalded buttocks. Child abuse charges were filed against her mother, but were later dropped. Welfare workers investigated the case and decided to let the girl remain with her parents.

The youngster died June 23.

Medical Examiner Juan Contín said the child had bruises on her head, chest and abdomen, was undernourished and had cuts on her body, but he said the exact cause of death could not be determined.

The girl's mother, Virginia Priego, 21, told police her baby must have suffocated under a blanket. New charges of child abuse were filed against her, and the case is pending.

Assistant District Attorney William Moody said no effort would be made to re-indict the welfare workers.

Farmer fails, actor may star in peanut future

ASHINGTON (AP) — The only country in the world with a nut farmer at its helm is on the verge of a peanut famine. And it may take Ronald Reagan, an actor to whom peanuts are peanuts, to bail out the peanut industry and save the day. In a nutshell, here's the problem:

Because of drought in Georgia and searing heat in other nut-growing regions, farmers harvested only about half as many peanuts this summer as the country needs.

But a Depression-era law, pushed through by agricultural interests, limits imports of peanuts to 1.7 million pounds — little more than a thousandth of what Americans eat.

The result: food manufacturers are paying up to four times last year's prices for American-grown nuts, and still can't get all they need.

The price of peanuts, peanut butter and candy made with peanuts is expected to shoot up early in 1981.

And still the shortage is so severe that manufacturers of peanut foods are curtailing production.

Planters Peanuts laid off 500 of its 2,000 employees at Suffolk, Va., and the maker of Brach brand candy says it has only 4 percent of the peanuts it will need over the next 10 months. Brach halted production of candies containing peanuts, laid off 150 workers and stands to lose $40 million in sales.

Trade sources say President Carter may act in a day or so to bring temporary relief, but it probably will be up to Reagan to decide whether Americans will eat their usual quantities of peanuts next year.

Opposition came from some Virginia and Georgia peanut growers — and presumably from warehousers who haven't sold their supplies yet and stand to profit with every rise in the price.

Even if the ITC acts fast, it cannot get a recommendation to the White House until Jan. 13, a week before Carter leaves.

Names in the news

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Miss Alaska, forbidden to make public appearances last month when her weight crept up to 139½ pounds, is ready to take up the burdens of the crown again.

Sandra Lashbrook now tips the scales at 133, and the Miss Alaska Scholarship Pageant board members lifted the appearance ban.

The pageant's executive director, Carol Beck, had said Miss Alaska also had an attitude problem, and told Miss Lashbrook to change her attitude and lose weight.

Miss Lashbrook said she was "pretty meek" in some of her dealings with the pageant board.

"When I got angry and said what I felt, then I had an attitude problem," she said. "I don't think I have an attitude problem."

What she does have is a financial problem, said Miss Lashbrook. She depends on fees for official appearances for her income.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — British actress Juliet Mills married an actor 18 years her junior in a chilly dawn ceremony on a Malibu bluff overlooking the Pacific Ocean.

Miss Mills, 39, married 21-year-old Max Caulfield on Tuesday in a private, 6:30 a.m. ceremony.

They met this year while playing leading roles in a theatrical production of "The Elephant Man." They are now appearing in a Stephen Poliakoff play, "Hitting Town," in West Hollywood.

Miss Mills, daughter of actor Sir John Mills and sister of actress Hayley Mills, said her family approved of the marriage.

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Liv Ullmann, the U.N. Children's Fund's first woman goodwill ambassador, plans to visit drought victims and war refugees in the Horn of Africa.

The Norwegian-born actress wants to look into the needs of children and mothers who are victims of a drought and the Somali-Ethiopian war in the Ogaden Desert, so she can tell the world about them.

PURVIS, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi's governor, worried about education problems in his state, got a good look at school conditions when he taught three classes at rural Oak Grove High School.

Gov. William Winter, who said he would teach at several schools across the state this month, ran classes in U.S. history and U.S. and state government on Tuesday.

Wood probe continues

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — An El Paso woman who reportedly employed convicted hit man Charles Harrelson as a bodyguard spent two hours with a grand jury investigating the 1979 assassination of federal judge before she was whisked away by her attorney.

Virginia Farah, widowed sister-in-law of El Paso clothing magnate Willie Farah, would not comment on what she discussed during the Tuesday session.

Harrelson, 42, appeared in a line-up of suspects in the massive assassination investigation last month. The Department of Public Safety has confirmed that he was working as a bodyguard for Mrs. Farah when he was arrested in Van Horn on Sept. 1 for jumping bail in Houston.

Mrs. Farah, wearing dark glasses and carrying a handkerchief, confirmed her identity to three reporters as she left for the noon recess Tuesday.

However, neither Mrs. Farah nor her attorney, Bill Rosch, would comment on the report from the DPS office in El Paso.

DPS officials reported that a trooper drove Mrs. Farah from El Paso to Van Horn, where Harrelson had placed a .44 magnum pistol to his head and threatened to kill himself during a standoff with officers. Mrs. Farah persuaded Harrelson to surrender, a DPS spokesman said.

Harrelson appeared in police line-up in the Wood investigation at Houston on Nov. 20. A source later told the San Antonio Express that witnesses had identified Harrelson as the man they saw outside U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr.'s townhouse complex shortly before the jurist was gunned down on May 29, 1979.

Rosch said his client knew nothing about Wood's killing or the Nov. 21, 1978, attempted assassination of then-Assistant U.S. Attorney James Kerr.

When asked about Mrs. Farah's relationship with Harrelson, he replied, "Federal rules disallow me from commenting on it."

The only other apparent witness Tuesday was a bearded man who identified himself as George Edward Kay, an employee of a small business at Huntsville.

Federal officers kept a hall door closed to prevent news reporters from viewing persons who entered the grand jury room on the third floor of the federal courthouse. The grand jury session was adjourned until Thursday.

Kay, accompanied by his Houston attorney Jim Moore, declined to say if he is acquainted with Harrelson, but did say he does not know Mrs. Farah.

Harrelson has been held without bond at Houston since he was returned from Van Horn. At the time of his arrest, he was a fugitive from Harris County where he failed to appear at a July hearing on narcotics and gambling paraphernalia charges.

On Monday, District Judge Thomas Routh in Houston postponed Harrelson's trial until Jan. 19.

Harrelson was convicted in 1973 of the July 6, 1968 execution-style slaying of Hearne grain dealer Sam Degelia Jr. He was sentenced to 15 years in prison and was paroled in 1978.

School told to obtain cooling estimate

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Local school district officials have 10 days to tell a Texas Education Agency hearing officer how much it would cost to air-condition the classroom of a 7-year-old boy who spends part of the school year confined to a plexiglass box.

Raul Espino cannot control his body temperature because of an automobile accident. During warm weather in this South Texas city, he must sit in the box during school.

His parents say the box is too restrictive and their son often cannot hear the teacher while inside. They contend the entire classroom should be air-conditioned.

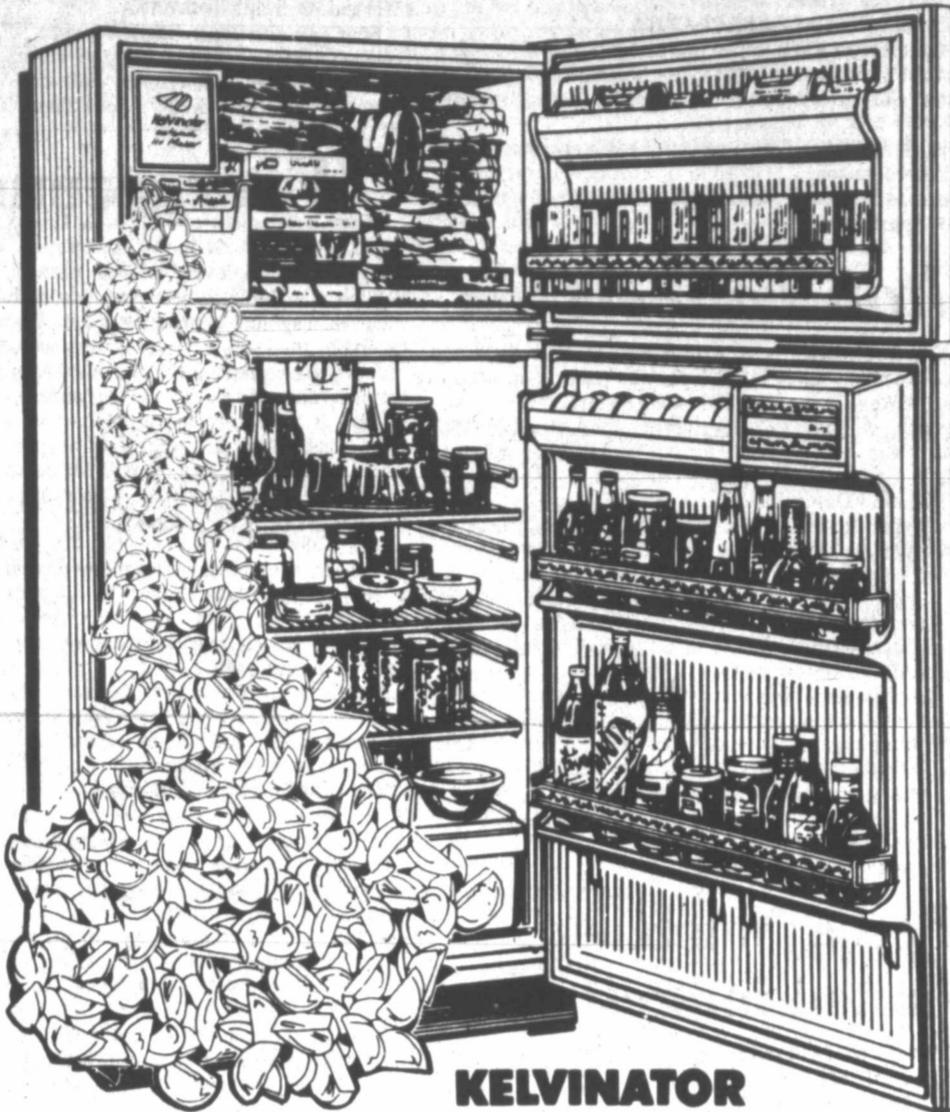

J.P. Williams of the TEA conducted a hearing Tuesday in the case and said he would make a decision three weeks after receiving the report from Brownsville Independent School District officials.

Raul attended a special education school last year but was transferred to a regular campus because of the bright student.

The school district built him a plexiglass box with an air conditioning unit for warm days.

Dalton concert set

CANYON — The Academy of Country Music's most promising new female vocalist, Lacy J. Dalton, will perform at 8 p.m. Saturday in the West Texas State University Fieldhouse.

Also appearing will be Ray Wiley Hubbard who visited the WTSU campus last year as an opener for the Don Williams concert. Hubbard is known for such songs as "Redneck Mother" and "A West Texas Country Dance Band."

Dalton has opened shows for artists ranging from Christopher Cross to Johnny Paycheck and has appeared on the "Today Show," "Tomorrow," "Sha Na Na," "Dinah" and "Mike Douglas."

Her debut single, "Crazy Blue Eyes," made top 20 on the country charts early last summer. Her current hit is "Tennessee Waltz."

Dalton has been heralded as the Janis Joplin of country music. She calls herself a "progressive country" singer.

She and her six-piece band, the Dalton Gang, have several successful releases to their credit including "Losing Kind of Love," "Late Night Kind of Love," "Honky Tonk Man," "Turn My Head Around," "Are There Cowboys Left (In The Good Ol' U.S.A.)?" "High Like An Angel" and "Carolina Come On."

The concert is sponsored by the WTSU Student Activities Council-Student Programming.

Tickets are available at the Activities Center.

'Rebecca Notebook' of limited interest

THE REBECCA NOTEBOOK & OTHER MEMORIES. By Daphne du Maurier. Doubleday. 305 Pages. $12.95.

It was more than 40 years ago that Daphne du Maurier began "Rebecca," which has been called a minor classic, the "Jane Eyre" of our time.

Although she has written several other fine works, Miss du Maurier's reputation is based on her Gothic suspense best seller. This book acknowledges that by bringing into print the author's notebook for the novel, and its original epilogue — along with several pieces of early fiction, memoirs and poems.

The notebook — which, in truth, must be of interest only to devoted du Maurier aficionados and literary historians — played a somewhat suspenseful role by itself.

In the 1940s, after Alfred Hitchcock had made "Rebecca" into a film, a plagiarism suit was brought.

The attraction in this book, however, is not Rebecca of Manderley. Rather, it is Dame Daphne in her non-fiction. Some of her prose, such as "Death and Widower" and "Moving House" have the same vividness of her fiction, but with added depth.

Presidents keep country in tune

METTE, Ill. (AP) — If Jefferson visited the White House today, he'd probably spend more time with his daughter than with her present dad when he discovered he and Amy shared an interest — playing the piano.

Though Jefferson was perhaps the most musical president, American Music Conference research shows that every president has had interest in keeping America musical, whether as a personal musician or as an advocate of the arts in this country.

Person was certainly the resident to inject music into the heart of America, although George Washington, reportedly played flute and began the tradition of the White House.

Person was a skilled violinist once wrote, "Music is the favorite passion of soul," and he reported playing no less than three a day before the Revolution.

Saying that Europeans far surpass Americans in the appreciation and understanding of music, Jefferson formed a double orchestra of his own by only European workers and played musical instruments for his Monticello estate.

third president liked best with others, often joining duets with Patrick Henry John Tyler, father of president Tyler.

never, the senior Tyler as musically romantic as chief executive son, Presidents Tyler and Jefferson legend has it, both won overides through their musical prowess. Jefferson's rivals reportedly threw in their "courting towels" after hearing Tom and Martha playing together — he on violin and cello and she on harpsichord and piano.

Tyler, stories say, stole the heart of his second wife, Julia Gardiner, with his original composition, "Sweet Lady, Awake."

Even "Honest Abe" Lincoln had a few songs up his sleeve. He wrote an eight-verse musical composition, dedicated to his sister's wedding, and although he had no formal music training, Lincoln's harmonica-playing ability became a factor in his run for the presidency.

While Stephen A. Douglas campaigned with a real band during the historical Lincoln-Douglas debates, the Great Emancipator toted and touted his "little brass band," to the delight of his followers and to the irritation of his opponent.

All of the musical presidents, Harry S. Truman and Richard M. Nixon were probably the most avid pianists. Truman learned to play the piano as a child and often joined in duets with his daughter, Margaret. He entertained many a White House guest with his piano playing, particularly with his rendering of the "Missouri Waltz," which he made famous.

Possibly the first president-vice president duet was played by Richard Nixon and Spiro Agnew. Both play the piano well and were often known to treat White House guests to a song or two.

Each president brought his own musical fondness to the nation's capital, and to the entire country, sometimes making history with music.

"Hail to the Chief" was first played for John Quincy Adams on July 4, 1828. Adams played the flute, and was followed by such music-making presidents as Chester A. Arthur (piano), Warren G. Harding (trombone, clarinet and other instruments), and Calvin "Silent Cal" Coolidge and Dwight D. Eisenhower (harmonica).

Smith family has reunion

The family of J.E. Smith recently had a reunion in the recreation room of the Pam Apartments of Pampa. The family visited, reminisced and played games. The Smith family is the first to have a reunion at the Pam Apartments.

In 1928, J.E. and Beulah Smith and their six children came to the Panhandle from East Texas in a 1925 Model T Ford truck. Mrs. Smith died in 1950 and Mr. Smith died in 1954.

Four generations, including four of the couple's children, attended the reunion. In attendance were Ovie Tipton, Ruth and Perry Franklin and Henry Kolb, all of Pampa; Melba and Leroy Sargent of Casper, Wyo.; Dilynn and Neal Short, Jerrod and Yancey of Stinnett; Norman Sargent and Brandon of Stinnett and Donna and Nathan Sargent, Misty and Dusty of Stinnett.

Other family members present were Judy Conaway, Darell, Jody and Shelly of Panhandle; Glen Smith of Groom; Donna Marie and Tom Wagner, Angela, Audra and Brandi of Groom; Janece and Ray Purgason, Ramona, Matthew, David and Heather of Houston; Jean Franklin, Glenda and Curt Rhynehan and J.R., all of Amarillo and Irma Ray and Cliff Rutherford and Janet Rutherford, all of Van Horn.

Evergreens add festivity between two and four inches a year.

Cuttings from each of these evergreens can be used in a variety of ways. For instance, boughs from a Monde pine and a Colorado blue spruce can be woven around a coat hanger, attached with thin wire and then accented with fruit or chile and used as a decoration for the front door.

If you happen to be very ambitious, you can use evergreen cuttings in swags and ropes to wind around porch pillars, to outline doors and/or to drape over banisters.

If you have access to several kinds of evergreens, you can combine two or more of them and create unusual effects of color and texture. For instance, try twining holly through a cutting from either a White fir or a Japanese black pine. Or you can place small clusters of short needed fir along a cutting from the longer needed Monde and Aleppo pines.

To further enhance any of your Christmas evergreens add ribbons, fruits, nuts, red chile or other seasonal trimmings.

One word of caution — remember to exercise fire safety precautions. Because dry evergreens ignite easily, soak them in water before you use them. One way to prevent your evergreens from drying out, and thereby increasing the risk of fire, is to put the cut stems in water and then set them in the coolest part of the house or garage.

Every few days change the water and cut the stems back an inch or so. Cutting the stems allows the branch to take in water and lengthens its life.

Once the cuttings are in use, keep them away from heat.

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My 15½-year-old grandson is nearly 6 feet tall and looks like a full-grown man, but he has two years of high school left. I'll call him Billy. Billy has always been a good boy and never gave his mother (my daughter) any trouble. Now it turns out that Billy has been seeing a friend of his mother's. She's a 30-year-old divorcee with two children. She claims she's 4 months pregnant with Billy's child!

My daughter says that this divorced woman has had several affairs with other high school boys, but she's blaming this pregnancy on Billy. He admitted he had been skipping his first class at school every day and going up to this woman's place to have sex with her. He says he will quit school and marry her if that's what she wants. Abby, he is only a child himself, and this would ruin his life.

I know there's a law against having sex with a minor girl. How about sex with a minor boy? Can't this woman go to jail? And isn't there some way to find out if the baby is really Billy's?

Can you see a way out of this mess? And how can I help Billy?

BILLY'S NAMAW

DEAR NAMAW: Having sex with a minor — girl or boy — is punishable by law. Billy needs legal advice and counsel. The best present you can give your grandson is a competent lawyer to represent him.

DEAR ABBY: I just had to respond to FAT, FEMALE AND MISERABLE, as my lovely wife is also overweight. I am 6-4, she is 5-4, and we weigh about the same, but I wouldn't trade my darling for a dozen size 9's.

We've been married over 15 years and she has given me two beautiful children and more happiness than one man deserves in a lifetime.

They say there is someone for everyone in this world. I thank God that I have found someone special, and FAT, FEMALE AND MISERABLE will find hers, too. Not everyone measures people by the size of their waistline.

CAROLE'S JERRY

DEAR JERRY: What a lovely man you are. You should be cloned.

Christmas open house set at WTSU museum

CANYON — An "Old-Fashioned Christmas" open house will be celebrated from 7-9 p.m. Thursday and Friday in the Pioneer Village of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum located on the West Texas State University campus.

Santa Claus will be on hand with area civic leaders playing roles of settlers the early 1900s in the buildings of Pioneer Village.

Dr. Duane Guy, professor and head of the history department; Dr. Dan White, professor of education and Dr. Thomas MacOwan, associate professor of education, are among the WTSU faculty members participating.

Randall County Sheriff Cliff Longest, Dr. Joe Dale Chitwood, State Representative Bob Simpson and Don Max Vars of Canyon's First National Bank are among the community leaders participating.

Decorations for the village will include yarn dolls, candy canes, popcorn and cranberry garlands.

A photography area will be set up by junior historians of Canyon Junior High School and turn-of-the-century backgrounds will be provided.

Special music will be provided each evening during the open house by various area organizations. Included in the entertainment will be the Austin Junior High School choir of Amarillo, Sweet Adelines of Canyon and Amarillo, Amarillo High School Jazz Band and the Sundown Singers of Sundown Lane Elementary.

Gingerbread cookies and hot cider will be served to all visitors and no admission will be charged.

DEAR ABBY: Boy, did you ever blow it with your answer to CONFUSED, whose fiance wanted to keep his possessions in his name for the first five years of their marriage.

As a self-employed, hardworking man of 25 who has owned his own business for the last three years, owns a house, a nice car, is negotiating on an apartment building and has a comfortable little nest egg in the five-figure area, I would not share my acquired assets with the woman I marry for at least five years either.

Nowadays, with divorce so easily obtainable, I'd be a fool to let a woman walk into my life and claim half of what I've amassed alone through hard work.

In this day of women's lib, my approach is simple. If a man finds a woman he thinks is for him, before discussing religion, future children or anything else, they should agree that what's mine is mine, what's yours is yours, and what we build together during our years of marriage is ours — to be split 50-50 in case of divorce. That's fair, simple and easy. And the woman who is unwilling to accept it is clearly after a man's money — not his love.

Toys important in learning process

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Child's play is serious work, says pediatrician Dr. Lendon Smith, who has served as a consultant in the field of toy design. Parents should view time spent in game playing as a learning experience because children learn the skills of adults through play, he adds.

Recently four universities, under the auspices of the Armcro Student Design program, built prototype games and teaching aids that incorporate the principle of active learning, reports Smith, who served as consultant on the project.

For the past 15 years, Armcro has been bringing together industrial design students with experts in industry and government to consider needed products. In the past, the design program has generated aids for the handicapped, protective clothing for firefighters and designs for health care.

The program is not a competition in the sense that there is a winner. Professional business people offer their comments to students on the practicality and validity of their designs in the marketplace.

This year's program topic, "Products That Teach," produced a variety of outstanding designs for young children, Smith notes. Each design involved complex ideas in an easy-to-learn mode.

"Probe Struc," designed by students from the Rochester Institute of Technology, uses huge, brightly colored building pieces to teach architectural concepts. The flexible and rigid pieces help solve the problem of building things to sit on, live in and walk over.

San Jose State contributed an "Eye Can Draw Box." The project helps children improve their visual perception by tracing an inverted picture projected on a Plexiglas screen.

Learning about three-dimensional volumes was the idea behind the University of Illinois' design. Large blue and three-dimensional cubes, apart to reveal a sphere, a cylinder, and a cone.

Traditional toys can be new learning tools, too, Si says. The University of Armcro used a jigsaw puzzle forms to teach colors, sizes and sym-

Smith feels that children never too young to experience these adult concepts.

"Children," he says, "are capable of learning many sophisticated principles. The key: active involvement in an competitive environment."

Projects like those designed for the Armcro program let children work individually, Si explains. They receive immediate feedback because they see what they can build what problem they can solve.

"This is especially important for those children who are quick to master a task," says.

Be sure to specify birth date.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your sex appeal is a bit more pronounced than usual today. Members of the opposite gender will be watching your every move and, what's more, they'll like what they see.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Success is likely today because your objectives will be clearly defined. Although you will be assertive, you will win your way with diplomacy and tact.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Your kind words today will have great emotional impact and not be quickly forgotten. Friends need to hear them said and none can articulate them better than you.

ARIES (March 21-April 18) Be supportive of the one you love today. Your thoughtfulness will not be readily forgotten. Put your needs in the background temporarily.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Forego the crowds today. Spend as much time as possible alone with the one you love. Outside interests pale beside what you can offer one another.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Tasks which are labors of love will prove enjoyable today and will also help freshen your outlook for other projects. Give them top priority.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you are presently unattached, this could be an exciting day romantically. Seek out places where you'll have the opportunity to meet new people.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're extremely adept today at doing things which can add fresh charm to your surroundings, even if it's only rearranging the furniture.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Someone whose respect you've been anxious for will be greatly impressed by the way you conduct yourself today. Let your pleasant personality shine forth.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Persons with whom you have strong emotional ties could be fortunate for you today in financial or material ways. Make your wants known.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) Don't be too surprised today if you receive a compliment from a member of the opposite sex you thought never noticed you. This person is more than just casually interested.

Gardening by moon signs

By Lois Boyington

The moon will be decreasing: 1-6; from 12 noon the 21st through the 31st. The moon will be increasing: from the 8th until 12 noon the 21st.

The fruitful signs are: from 2 p.m. the 3rd through the 5th (Scorpio); 13-14 (Pices); from 12 noon until 3:30 p.m. the 23rd (Cancer); 31 (Scorpio).

The semi-fruitful signs are: 1 until 2 p.m. the 3rd (Libra); from 12 noon the 8th through 10th (Capricorn); 17-18 (Taurus); 31 (Scorpio).

The barren signs are: 6 through 8th until 12 noon (Sagittarius); 11-12 (Aquarius); 15-16 (Aries); from 11 a.m. the 19th until 12 noon the 21st (Gemini); 24-25 (Leo); 26-27 (Virgo).

The Water Signs are: Cancer, Scorpio, and Pisces. These are the best signs for irrigating.

The Barren Signs are used when destroying noxious growths. Weeds destroyed when the Moon is decreasing and when in a Barren Sign do not reappear quickly, and if the process is repeated several times the most persistent growths are finally eradicated.

The gardener can now take things easier than during almost any other month, giving more time for all the activities that Christmas brings.

This is also a good time to catch up on horticultural reading. Enjoy your garden library. Acquaint yourself with the new books on the market. Visit the public library and look over their stock of garden books.

Are you subscribing to at least one garden magazine? If not, give yourself a subscription for Christmas. This is also a good suggestion for a Christmas gift for a friend who is horticulturally minded.

The Christmas season is at hand, and now is the time to consider whether it is to be a live Christmas tree this year. You may be able to find a white or Scotch pine, spruce or fir tree balled and burlapped. These do well here. They will not be much more than the price of some tree cut and imported from the north country.

If you do purchase a live tree, wrap the ball in a wet bath towel and set it in a large pan of water. A quart of water a day poured on the towel should keep the tree going for about two weeks.

Plant outdoors as soon as possible, in a hole 6-8 inches wider than the ball. After setting the tree in place at the same depth it was planted previously, fill in with a mixture of the original soil and a good potting soil. Buy a couple of bags of good potting soil if needed. The tree warrants such care. Do not allow it to dry out all winter. Mound up leaves over the soil around the trunk. Let the planting of the tree be a family project. It will be a nice memory for your family in years to come.

In buying a cut tree for you Christmas tree, a good test for freshness: grab hold of some of the needles and pull. If they stay on the branch, the tree has been freshly cut.

The first thing to do after getting the tree home is cut off about two or three inches from the base of the trunk. This will expose fresh cells so they will be able to absorb the water sufficiently. It will help it to stay fresh longer. Keep water in the pan at all times.

Holly is best planted anytime from now until May. For years we have longed for an English holly, but all attempts have failed.

We do have two of the new "Boule Hollies" (Ilexx Meserveae). They are supposed to adapt well to almost all climates and soil conditions, and be extremely hardy. They have survived last winter, which was a good test. Remember in buying hollies, they are dioecious, that is they have male and female flowers on separate plants, only the female plant will have berries. We purchase our plants from Wayside Gardens, Mentor, Ohio. The female plant had a few berries this year.

There are several ways of reusing an old Christmas tree. It can be planted in a large plastic pot held in place with stones and sand and used to decorate a doorstop or patio. By adding water to the pot occasionally it may remain in excellent condition until the weather warms up in the spring.

Old Christmas trees can also be used in the yard tied to a fence to provide shelter for the birds.

Cut branches of old Christmas trees make an excellent mulch over bulb plantings that may be a little ahead, by pushing through the ground too soon.

Finish planting tulip bulbs the 13th and 14th. Even though it is late, other hardy bulbs still may be planted. At least they are better in the ground than on a shelf drying out. They should always be planted. If you find they have already sprouted, be very careful in planting them and do not break the new sprouts.

Last fall is the best time to plant lilies. Unlike other bulbs, they should be planted at once. If they are shriveled, which can happen in shipping, pack them in damp peat moss for a week or two to restore their quality before planting.

Christmas is a time of giving and a time of receiving. Why not give your garden a gift this year? What about a sundial or a piece of statuary set in a small bed of herbs. Choose plants that stay near. Thyme, sweet marjoram and oregano should be easy to control. Chives and parsley are on the desired snipping.

Pines, yews, spruces and other needled evergreens will drop a few leaves every fall. This is a natural occurrence, as the plants are continually putting out new foliage every spring. Some species of evergreens will retain their foliage for one or two years, while others hold their foliage for as many as four years. This discarded foliage builds up at the base of the evergreen to make a soft mulch which holds soil moisture and prevents weed growth. It should never be removed.

Seeds of grapefruit or orange sown in well-drained pots of sandy soil as they are taken from the fresh fruit without drying, soon produce attractive green leaved plants. This is a good project for the junior gardener.

Community Nutrition Institute takes gripe to court

By BOB FICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Advocates of eliminating government rules that keep up the retail price of low-cost reconstituted milk are escalating their drive for a public hearing on the issue.

Claiming the Agriculture Department has refused to deal with its complaint for more than a year, the Community Nutrition Institute has gone to federal court to have the regulations invalidated.

"It is the only way that consumers will ever gain access to the benefits of a more competitive dairy marketplace," said Ellen Haas, director of a nonprofit group that sued Agriculture Secretary

Bob Bergland in U.S. District Court Tuesday.

"If the USDA holds a hearing," added institute spokesman Tom Smith, "we'll probably withdraw the suit. But this seems to be the only way to bring the issue to a head."

A year ago, Bergland called for public comments on whether a hearing should be held on the institute's August 1979, petition to end the price restraints. But a decision was never formally announced. Last month the department issued an economic analysis of the request and is seeking public comment on it until Jan. 2. The analysis does not make a recommendation on whether a hearing should be held.

"The history of this issue at USDA has been one delay after another," Ms. Haas said. "Direct legal action is the only way to cure this paralysis."

Farmbelt members of Congress, dairy producers and their cooperatives have opposed changes that would allow reconstituted milk a price advantage over the regular kind, and it now seems almost certain there will be no administrative action on the proposal until after President-elect Ronald Reagan's farm policy administrators take over Jan. 20.

OFFICER WOUNDS "RAMPAGE" SUSPECT

LIBERTY (AP) — A 28-year-old man was hospitalized in stable condition Tuesday after a law officer shot and wounded him, ending a two-hour siege in which the man held seven hostages at gunpoint, said Liberty County Sheriff C.L. "Buck" Eckols.

The man faces charges of kidnapping and assault on a peace officer, sheriff said.

Eckols said the situation began Monday when deputies received three separate telephone calls, one each from the man's mother, sister and wife, saying the man had been "on a rampage" threatening family members with a gun.

By the time deputies arrived the man's hostages had grown to seven, including the man's mother, five friends and a tradesman who had come to fix her car, according to the sheriff.

Eckols said the man came out of the house, using one of the hostages as a shield, and took the service revolver and a knife from one of the deputies, then opened fire on the other deputy. The man missed but the deputy returned fire, striking the man in the chest and hip, said Eckols.

He said the man had a history of family disturbances, "but it never got this bad before. We all knew him, and that's why he

MARIJUANA RAID NETS LARGE CONFISCATION

LIBERTY (AP) — Law officers made two arrests and confiscated more than 4,000 pounds of marijuana — worth $1.2 million — in a raid on a rural home near here, Liberty County Sheriff C.L. "Buck" Eckols said Tuesday.

The two men, both of Rio Grande City, were being held in the county jail under $100,000 bond, Eckols said.

Sheriff's deputies and Department of Public Safety narcotics officers conducted the raid early Monday, he said, after getting a tip from a man arrested Sunday in Houston with 100 pounds of marijuana in his car.

Police found the weed after stopping the man for an alleged traffic violation, and he told officers exactly where in Liberty County he had bought it, the sheriff said.

Eckols said an aerial search confirmed the location, a house near the small community of Dayton.

"We had been keeping our eye on it for a long time," the sheriff said.

Nine officers conducted the raid, seized the marijuana and made the arrests, said Eckols.

who added that the suspects offered no resistance.

DPS narcotics officer Jack Curtis estimated the worth of the drug, said the sheriff.

SMOKE DETECTORS ORDINANCE READY FOR COUNCIL

HOUSTON (AP) — The City Council will be asked Thursday to require that all existing residential structures have smoke detectors.

An ordinance approved last year required such detectors only for new residential buildings.

Ernest M. Brinkmann, chief inspector for the city fire marshal, said the proposed amendment would broaden the requirement to cover all single family dwellings, apartments, hotels, motels, and dormitories.

He acknowledged that enforcement of the single family aspect would be very difficult.

Brinkmann said Houston had been working on the amendment but that the recent MGM Grand Hotel fire that killed 84 persons in Las Vegas expedited completion of the study.

PORT HOUSTON FIREFIGHTERS WANT MORE MONEY

HOUSTON (AP) — Port Houston firefighters are seeking a 15 percent pay hike.

Isiah Hunt, president of the International Association of Fire Fighters, told port commissioners the firemen now receive from $1,500 to $1,600 a month but are not on a par with the port's hourly employees.

Hunt said the Houston firemen make more than those at the Port of New Orleans but receive less than those in New York and Los Angeles.

REBOUND BATTLE erupts between Pampa's Ray Condo (50) and Jay Henson (20) and Plainview's Ritchie Norrell during Tuesday night's game in Harvester Fieldhouse. Pampa upped its record to 4-0 with a 67-57 victory.

Harvesters hold off Plainview for fourth consecutive victory

By L.D. STRATE

Pampa News Sports Editor
Confronted by a rigid fourth-quarter challenge, the unbeaten Pampa Harvesters rose to the occasion to bounce the Plainview Bulldogs, 67-57, Tuesday night in Harvester Fieldhouse.

Pampa, now 4-0, had the cold-shooting visitors on the ropes throughout the game, but let them slip away when faced with the Bulldogs' fullcourt press.

"It was a win. That's about all I can say about it," Pampa coach Garland Nichols said. "We just couldn't handle their press and we've worked on it everyday. Right now I just don't know what to do about it. Maybe it's my fault. It could be poor thinking and substituting at the wrong time."

The Harvesters saw a 15-point lead (46-31) in the second half evaporate to three (53-50) with 5:23 remaining before outscoring Plainview, 11-1, in a three-minute span.

Sophomore guard Mike Nelson, who led all scorers with 17 points, got six of those markers down the stretch when the Harvesters needed it most. Nelson hit eight of 10 shots from the floor while Pampa shot 46.1 percent (24-52) as a team.

Pampa cut down the smaller Bulldogs on the boards, building a whopping 45-20 rebounding advantage. It blocked out so well on the boards that Plainview rarely had a second shot.

Charles Nelson, who had 13 points, just four below his team-leading 15.4 ppg average, made his presence felt on the boards by ripping off 14 rebounds. Both Nelson and Terry Faggins, who also contributed 13 points, hit five of nine floor shots. Nelson (Mike), who fouled out in the final minute of play, collected nine rebounds.

Plainview, which downed only 26.4 percent (21-72) of its shots from the floor and 55.5 percent (15-27) from the charity stripe, was still effective enough with the press to overcome any shooting deficiencies.

"I'm still waiting for that game where we get a team down good and bury them," Nichols said. "We just don't have that killer instinct, but they're too early in the season yet."

Pampa led by six (17-11) at the end of the first quarter and extended that margin to 10 (27-17) when Plainview's press forced four consecutive turnovers, three resulting directly in buckets.

Pampa maintained a 33-28 halftime edge and never trailed in the game except for a brief moment early in the first quarter.

Plainview also had three players in double figures, led by Ritchie Norrell's 16 points. Lee Carter and Alton Jackson had 15 and 14 points respectively.

Ed Guerra and Kirt Crouch added nine and six points respectively for the Harvesters. Another big man on the Pampa boards was Jimmy Barker, who picked off seven rebounds to go with his three points.

Nichols expects the Harvesters to face their toughest test of the young

Rogers, Green head AP All-American team

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Defensive end Hugh Green of Pittsburgh and safety Kenny Easley of UCLA were named to The Associated Press All-America 1980 college football team today for the third year in a row, joined by running backs George Rogers of South Carolina, the Heisman Trophy winner, and super freshman Herschel Walker of Georgia.

Rogers also is a repeater from the 1979 team, as are wide receiver Ken Margerum of Stanford and linebacker Mike Singletary of Baylor. Tight end Dave Young of Purdue and outside linebacker E.J. Junior of Alabama moved up from last year's second team.

College football's most prestigious All-American team also includes quarterback Mark Herrmann of Purdue, sophomore wide receiver Anthony Carter of Michigan and offensive tackle Mark May of Pitt, winner of the Outland Trophy as the nation's top interior lineman.

The rest of the offensive unit consists of tackle Keith Van Horne of Southern California, guards Frank Ditta of Baylor and Randy Schleusener of Nebraska and center John Scully of Notre Dame.

Joining Green, Easley and Singletary on the star-studded defensive unit are end Scott Zettek of Notre Dame, tackles Leonard Mitchell and Kenneth Sims of Texas, inside linebacker David Little of Florida, outside linebacker Lawrence Taylor of North Carolina and deep backs Ronnie Lott of Southern Cal and John Simmons of Southern Methodist.

The AP All-America squad will be featured on the Bob Hope Christmas Show on NBC-TV, Dec. 16 from 8-9 p.m. EST.

From the first game of his freshman year, when he made 11 tackles, two quarterback sacks and blocked a punt against a Notre Dame team that went on to win the national championship, Green has been a defensive terror. He made more than 100 tackles in each of his four seasons at Pitt, making second-team All-America as a freshman and first-team in each of the last three years. Earlier this week, he finished second in the Heisman balloting, a level reached by only two other linemen who didn't double as pass-catching ends.

Easley finished second on the UCLA team with more than 100 tackles and broke the school's interception before the end of his junior year. Houston Coach Bill Yeoman calls him "one of the most dominant figures in college football."

On the offensive side of the ball, Rogers is the nation's leading rusher with 1,781 yards, an average of 161.9 yards per game. He ranks as the fourth leading rusher in history with 4,958 yards, trailing only Tony Dorsett, Charles White and Archie Griffin. He will carry a string of 21 consecutive 100-yard games into the

Grid Banquet set

The annual Pampa High football banquet is scheduled for 7 p.m. Dec. 18.

Tickets are sale now at Citizens Bank, First National and the Athletic Business Office on Decatur Street.

In junior varsity action last night, Pampa B teamers fell to Plainview, 71-60. Paul Prentice had 23 points for the Shockers, followed by Romerell Dougherty with 17.

Gator Bowl against Pitt and he holds South Carolina's career total offense mark without ever having thrown a pass.

"If I were going into the NFL and I had to draft a back, the first person that I would take would be George Rogers," says Southern Cal Coach John Robinson. "I think he probably had his best game ever against us (26 carries for 141 yards). The reason I say that is that he took the beating of a lifetime and still when we gave him an inch he took it all the way. My God, he took some hits. A back that gets hit over and over again and still comes back strong is a very special person."

Walker smashed Dorsett's all-time NCAA freshman rushing record by gaining 1,616 yards. He finished third in the Heisman voting — best ever by a rookie — and became the first freshman since Dorsett in 1973 to make the first-team All-America squad. He also helped Georgia to its first perfect regular season in 34 years.

Herrmann, the All-America quarterback, finished second nationally in total offense and set major college career standards by completing 717 of 1,218 passes for 9,188 yards. "No one can hold a light to him," says Iowa Coach Hayden Fry. During the 1980 campaign, Herrmann completed 220 of 340 passes for 2,923 yards and 19 touchdowns, despite missing one game with an injury.

Young led the nation in receiving, a rarity for a tight end. He caught 67 passes for 917 yards.

Margerum caught 44 passes for 691 yards and 11 touchdowns and set Pacific-10 Conference career records with 32 touchdown catches and 2,517 reception yards. He ranks third on the Pac-10 receiving list with 146 catches.

Before the halfway point of his college career, Carter had forced a revision of the Michigan record books. In 1980, he caught 46 passes for 750 yards and set school records for touchdowm receptions in a season and career, as well as establishing a mark for career kickoff return yardage. "He's the best receiver I've ever had," says Coach Bo Schembechler.

"I said before the season started, that for Baylor to have any success at all, Mike Singletary would have to have a better year than any he's previously had at Baylor," says Coach Grant Teaff. "And he has." Singletary helped the Bears to a 10-1 record, their best ever, and the Southwest Conference championship.

Walker and Carter are the only underclassmen on the offensive unit. The defense consists of 10 seniors and Sims, Texas' junior tackler.

Baylor, Notre Dame, Pitt, Purdue and Southern Cal were the only schools to place more than one player on The AP All-America first team. Each had two representatives.

College basketball roundup

By The Associated Press

It was a blowout of the worst order, and forward Ernest Graham of the fourth-ranked Maryland Terrapins explained why.

"I think we pretty much came together tonight," Graham said. "You can see we're progressing."

"When we play teams like that, we have to beat up on them to get ready for teams like Syracuse and Louisville," said Graham, who scored 21 points and grabbed 13 rebounds to pace Maryland to a 95-65 victory over American.

"I saw a couple of teams on television who shouldn't be ranked ahead of us: Louisville (8), Notre Dame (13), DePaul (14),

(1) and UCLA (3), if they are in front of us. I use that as a crutch to get up for these games," Graham said.

The Terps' 2-3 zone and the tenacious defense of Albert King held American's Boo Bowers, one of the nation's top scorers, to just nine points, snapping a string of 51 games in which he has scored in double figures.

"It really doesn't mean much," Bowers said of the streak. "I would have liked to have kept the game close."

"Now people will probably say I made the right choice in going to American," he said.

"They'll say I'm not on the same level as King and (Buck) Williams, but I think I belong in that category. I think if I was playing with King and Williams, they'd make me play better. From that aspect, tonight was very frustrating."

King added 13 points and Williams 19 points and 13 rebounds for Maryland, 2-0. The Terps ran off to a 46-25 lead at the halftime in handing American its second loss of the young season.

There were three other games involving ranked teams Tuesday night. No. 10 North Carolina downed Mercer 89-74. 13th-ranked Notre Dame defeated Montana State 89-68 and 14th-ranked Texas A&M beat Texas Southern 61-50.

NBA roundupDrew lifts Hawks past 76ersBy ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

John Drew has never been one of Atlanta Coach Hubie Brown's favorite players. In fact, because of what Brown considers to be spotty defense and a lack of concentration, Drew has been in and out of the doghouse more times than Snoopy.

But Tuesday night, all was forgiven. Drew was Brown's favorite.

"It was one of his best games ever since I've been Atlanta Hawk coach," Brown said after Drew scored 39 points, including five in overtime, to lead the Hawks to a hard-fought 112-108 victory over Philadelphia that snapped the 76ers' National Basketball Association winning streak at 10 games.

"Considering the night he had, I was glad that John Drew hit the two free throws in overtime," said Brown, referring to the final two points that nailed down the victory.

In other NBA games, the Phoenix Suns beat the San Antonio Spurs 122-107, the Indiana Pacers topped the New York Knicks 113-96, the Washington Bullets defeated the Kansas City Kings 107-103, the Boston Celtics downed the Detroit Pistons 94-85, the Milwaukee Bucks outscored the Utah Jazz 119-108, the Cleveland Cavaliers trimmed the Dallas Mavericks 109-102, the Chicago Bulls defeated the Denver Nuggets 129-124 and the New Jersey Nets beat the Portland Trail Blazers 118-105.

Atlanta ran off bursts of 16 and 8 unanswered points to take a 28-5 lead with 5:39 to go in the first quarter before Philadelphia got untracked. But the Sixers outscored the Hawks 37-23 in the second quarter to close the halftime deficit to seven, and the rest of the game was a struggle.

The Sixers had a chance to win in regulation when they set up Julius Erving for the last shot, but as he drove to the basket he was triple-teamed and his off-balance jumper bounced off the rim. A similar situation arose in overtime with the Hawks leading 110-108, and this time Erving's driving shot rolled off the rim. Drew grabbed the rebound, was fouled and made both free throws to ice the victory.

Erving led the Sixers with 35 points.

Suns 122, Spurs 107

Phoenix hit 71 percent from the field in the first quarter to jump out to a 35-27 lead and never trailed. Walter Davis scored 22 points for Phoenix, which has won six in a row and is now tied with Philadelphia for the best record in the NBA, 23-4.

Bucks 119, Jazz 108

Milwaukee won its sixth game in the last seven starts as Marques Johnson scored 21 points and Quinn Buckner added 20. The Bucks won even though Brian Winters and Junior Bridgeman didn't play because of injury.

Pacers 107, Kings 103

Kevin Grevey scored nine straight points in the fourth quarter to break a 91-91 tie and lead Washington to its eighth victory in the last nine home games despite a season-high 39 points by Kansas City's Otis Birdsong.

Pacers 113, Knicks 96

Indiana fell behind 24-6 in the first 7½ minutes, then totally outplayed the Knicks to win going away. Billy Knight came off the bench to ignite the Pacers' surge with 30 points in just 27 minutes. Center Bill Cartwright shot 12-for-14 and led New York with 31 points.

Bulls 129, Nuggets 124

Denver rallied from a 14-point deficit and pulled in front 121-120 with 1:51 to play before baskets by Ricky Sobers, Larry Kenon and Reggie Theus put Chicago back in control. Theus led the Bulls with 26 points.

Celtics 94, Pistons 85

Rookie Kevin McHale scored 21 points, his NBA high, as Boston beat Detroit. McHale, who started in place of Cedric Maxwell, had nine points in the third period as the Celtics built a 67-56 lead en route to their 13th victory in the last 17 games.

Cavaliers 109, Mavericks 102

Cleveland snapped an eight-game road losing streak and dealt Dallas its eighth consecutive loss as forward Mike Mitchell scored 22 points and guard Randy Smith added 13 of his 21 points in the final period, when the Cavs outscored Dallas 31-24.

Nets 118, Blazers 105

Ex-Portland star Maurice Lucas scored eight points in the first quarter to help Portland to a 26-19 lead and the Nets never trailed.

Pampa entered in Deaf Smith Tourney

Pampa's Lady Harvesters will meet Lubbock Estacado at 12 noon Thursday in the opening round of the Deaf Smith County Basketball Tournament at Hereford.

The winner meets the Tascosa-Dimmitt winner at 4:30 p.m. Friday while the losers meet at 10:30 a.m. Friday in the consolation bracket.

The championship finals are slated for 6:30 p.m. Saturday.

Rogers' coach may have violated NCAA rules

NEW YORK (AP) — George Rogers of South Carolina, winner of the 1980 Heisman Trophy, says he has an oral agreement to be represented in future pro football negotiations by his coach, a violation of two NCAA rules. The New York Daily News reported Tuesday in a copyrighted story.

The News said it had a taperecorded interview with Rogers, a senior running back, in which Rogers said his coach, Jim Carlen, had asked to represent him. Carlen confirmed the offer in a telephone interview from Columbia, S.C. The News said.

Such an agreement may be in violation of NCAA rules that prohibit student athletes from making agreements, oral or written, with agents while they still are eligible to

Other first-round games Thursday include Dunbar vs. Borger at 3 p.m. and El Paso Jefferson vs. Hereford at 6 p.m.

Pampa's remaining schedule is as follows:

December

9-Lubbock High, 7:45 p.m. here; 11-Clovis Tournament; 16-Dumas, 6 p.m. there; 19-Liberal (Kansas), 8 p.m. there; 29-Dumas, 7:45 p.m. here.

January

2-Borger, 7:45 p.m. here; 6-Lubbock Coronado, 8 p.m. there; 9-Liberal, 7:45 p.m. here; 16-Caprock, 7:45 p.m. there; 20-Tascosa, 7:45 p.m. here; 23-Palo Duro, 7:45 p.m. there; 27-Amarillo High, 7:45 p.m. here.

February

3-Caprock, 7:45 p.m. here; 5-Tascosa, 7:45 p.m. there; 9-Palo Duro, 7:45 p.m. here; 12-Amarillo High, 7:45 p.m. there.

Rogers said he was unaware of the rules, and Carlen was quoted as saying Monday: "...I saw the NCAA rule on this for the first time today, and I've got to be careful. I may have to get an attorney here in town to do the negotiating for me. And he'll do it for free."

Asked if Carlen had offered to negotiate his contract, Rogers told The News: "Yeah. And I told him that I'd let him do it. Coach Carlen is the only guy I know absolutely that I can trust. Plus, you know, he's doing it free. And I don't think I can beat that."

Carlen said that since he had become aware of the possible infractions, "...I may have to orchestrate his signing without me dealing directly with a pro team. I have to make sure I do it by the NCAA rules."

"I'm probably on the fringe of (violating) that rule," he added. "But I don't think any NCAA rules have been violated. I don't think this is cheating. I think it's asinine to have a rule like that, anyway. I'll live by the NCAA rules. But, why shouldn't I help this youngster so he won't have to pay 10 percent to some agent?"

Rogers led the nation in rushing in 1980 with 1,781 yards. The News said the NCAA was expected to investigate the matter. If the NCAA found its rules had been violated, it could declare Rogers ineligible for the Gator Bowl Dec. 29 against Pittsburgh.

DePaul climbs to No. 1 in AP cage poll

NEW YORK (AP) — DePaul, an impressive winner over defending national champion Louisville two weeks ago, took over the No. 1 position in the Associated Press college basketball poll Tuesday as preseason favorite Kentucky slipped to second after the first week of regular-season play.

The Blue Demons, who were ranked No. 1 in the majority of last season and No. 2 in this year's preseason poll, collected 38 first-place votes and 1,171 points in the balloting by a nationwide panel of 60 sports writers and sports broadcasters. The Wildcats, who failed to live up to their preseason billing in squeaking past unheralded East Tennessee State 62-57 last Saturday, garnered 15 first-place votes and 1,085 points.

In the preseason poll, Kentucky held a 30-18 margin in first-place votes and had 1,131 total points compared with DePaul's 1,072.

UCLA, runnerup to Louisville last season, jumped from No. 6 to third following its 94-81 triumph over arch-rival and then 10th-ranked Notre Dame. The Bruins were tabbed No. 1 on four ballots and received 1,002 points.

Arkansas, which brought up the Seco 10 in the preseason, but surprised a lot of people in finishing second to North Carolina in the Anchorage tournament headed the Second 10. Iowa was 12, followed by Notre Dame, Texas A&M, Louisiana State, St. John's, N.Y., Missouri, Syracuse, Brigham Young and Georgetown, D.C.

Last week's Second 10 was Missouri, Louisiana State, North Carolina, Iowa, Texas A&M, Georgetown, D.C., St. John's, N.Y., Brigham Young, Syracuse and Arkansas.

Big test awaits Danny White

Landry. "But you don't see him worry...or panic. He's not pressing."

Landry said White, playing his first full year as the Dallas No. 1 quarterback, still makes big mistakes like "throwing into a crowd."

He's had 23 touchdown passes and 21 interceptions.

But most of all, according to Dallas Cowboys' Coach Tom Landry, he's had poise.

"Danny has sort of come into the valley, and now he's working through it," said

Landry. "The Cowboys are at Oakland Sunday then return to the West Coast for a Monday night meeting with Los Angeles. They close the regular season at home Dec. 21 against the Eagles.

Dallas trails the Eagles by a game and on the unfavorable side of the tie-breaker. Landry watched the Raiders defeat Denver 9-3 Monday night and said "Oakland plays defense as good as anybody in the National Football League. And they are always especially tough Oakland."

Landry said "overall we haven't played top team since we played Philadelphia at Denver. Now, we get three in a row...team that can make it to the Super Bowl."

oy to receive $19.5 million for fire injuries

OUSTON (AP) — Coastal States Gas and three oil companies agreed to pay $19.5 million to a 14-year-old Bellville boy severely burned in a farmhouse fire three years ago.

Cate District Judge Reagan Cartwright approved the settlement today for Steve Herzog. The teen-ager was injured in a 1977 fire that killed two brothers and his maternal grandparents.

The youth's family turned down a $6.5 million lump sum in favor of an extended payout of $19.5 million from Coastal States. Mobil, Texaco and Atlantic Richfield, said Nick Nichols, the family's attorney.

According to the agreement Herzog receives an initial $1.7 million and then $6,000 a month.

A different payment schedule begins at age 25 and the payments go to the parents or guardian should Herzog not live to be 65.

The parents, Charles and Betty Herzog, and an uncle, Donald Monk, are to receive about $1 million for pain and suffering in the names of the three relatives.

Young Herzog and his brothers were visiting at the home of the grandparents between Bellville and Sealy when a propane gas fire swept through the house.

Dudley Oldham, Coastal States attorney, said Coastal sold the propane gas, part of which came from a field partially owned by Mobil, Texaco and ARCO.

State law requires such gas be odorized and the lawsuit alleged at escaping gas ignited by a water heater had not been odorized at the time of the fire.

Daniel Hyde, Mobil attorney, said none of the defendants admitted any fault. Oldham said the settlement was a compromise designed to avoid a lengthy, costly trial.

Temple's holy implements

(Second of 12 parts)

And thou shalt set upon the table showbread before Me always. And thou shall make a candlestick of pure gold: of beaten work shall the candlestick be made.... And thou shall make the lamps thereof, seven... (Exodus 25:30, 31, 37)

This coin of Mattathias Antigonus is the only ancient coin that portrays the sacred Temple implements. Antigonus, who reigned from 40 B.C. to 37 B.C., was the last of the Maccabean kings. He was succeeded by Herod the Great, a client of Rome.

Since these bronze coins were made more than 100 years before the fall of Jerusalem and the destruction of its Temple, it is probable that the artist-designer actually had seen the implements he depicted.

Since it was forbidden to represent these objects artistically, one must search for a reason why it was done.

Antigonus was engaged in a struggle for survival against Herod, who was backed by Roman troops. Thus, the Maccabean king may have been looking for ways to excite the patriotic fervor of his followers.

Perhaps Antigonus depicted the candelabra and showbread table on his coins both to encourage his supporters and to remind the people of their duty to preserve the sanctity of the Temple from the foreigners.

When the Jerusalem Temple fell in 70 A.D., Titus carried the sacred candelabra, and perhaps the table, to Rome as booty. The candelabra itself is shown in the reliefs of the Arch of Titus in Rome that portray Titus's triumphal march.
