HIGHWAY BILL MAJOR EVENT DURING WEEK

THOUSAND MEASURES ARE IN HOPPER FOR CONSIDERATION
THIRTY-FOUR MORE DAYS

Extra session may be demanded to finish work on hand

Major Act

The major accomplishment of the week was regarded as engrossment by the senate of the constitutional amendment resolution to permit the state to issue bonds to construct state highways and reimburse counties for funds expended on the state system. Numerous members were skeptical that it would receive the necessary two thirds vote in the senate. The fight will continue when the resolution comes up for final action.

At the end of the week, the number of bills introduced in the house totaled 1,007 and 579 in the senate. The number of house joint resolutions was 45 and the number of senate joint resolutions 20. The remainder of the session will be devoted largely to consideration of bills of a controversial nature, many of them expected to consume much time.

Month to Go

The legislature had 34 more working days to go before the end of the 120 day limit set by the constitution. Several members believe it would be necessary to extend the session two or three weeks to clear up the mass of work. If the legislators remained more than 120 days they would receive only $5 per day.

Many figured that unless the appropriation bill were passed, Governor E. S. Sterling would be forced to call a special session. The governor had not indicated his attitude toward a special session but was generally believed to be opposed to the proposition.

The house fought back and forth bitterly from Monday morning to yesterday afternoon on the truck bill. The first would place all trucks operated for hire under the railroad commission and make more stringent regulations governing commercial highway traffic. The second would limit loads to 7,000 pounds; width to nine inches; length to 30 feet and height to 11 feet. Combination trucks and trailers would be limited to 35 feet in length.

The Petch public utility bill, favored by Governor Sterling as the best method of regulating public utilities, was voted out unfavorably by the house state affairs committee. Efforts will be made next week to have the bill printed in minority report. It would give the cities original jurisdiction in rate making with the commission acting as a court of appeal.

While the house committee took unfavorable action of the Petch bill, the senate state affairs committee made a favorable report on the utility bill by Senator Holbrook of Galveston. Holbrook's bill would give a state utility commission original jurisdiction in rate cases. Doubt was expressed that it would be passed, since several cities have indicated they would guard with jealousy their rights to fix the rates.

BODIES OF QUAKE VICTIMS ARE BEING BURNED

Thunder Drums Begin Rites Of Yaqui Indians

PHOENIX, Ariz., April 4. (AP)—Roll of Yaqui thunder drums sounded as taps for the setting sun tonight in the hill villages of Arizona and Sonora as the Indian worshippers commenced their night-long Christian-ateant Easter festival of dance and pantomime.

Not until the new born sun peeps over the mountains on Easter morn will the fanatical fever be stilled. During the darkest hours before dawn, the drums, the gourd rattles and the shrill piping voices will rise in fantastic crescendo, to the accompanying thud and shuffle of bare feet in the dust, as the Yaquis follow with the strangely alien song and gesture of their pre-historic paganism, Christ's white cross-marked via Dolorosa.

The age old, and now half Christianized rites, as revised according to the fundamental teachings of the old Spanish Padres, have called the southwest's Yaquis from arid fields to all the sun-baked villages.

Throughout the scattered hills of Sonora, along the Yaqui river, at Pueblo Belin, near Tucson, and Guadalupe, the clustered Yaqui village in the vicinity of Phoenix, the worshippers have foregathered during the past week, with practice chants and preliminary dances.

The sturdy braves of the far flung tribe carry the burden of the exhausting all night expedition. Faces grossly smeared with mud, bronze bodies streaked with paint, they sway and leap in their individual villages, each dancing group surrounded by a compact mass of the tribe's old men and women, and the ever-present, half-naked children.

At the end of the week, the number of bills introduced in the house totaled 1,007 and 579 in the senate. The number of house joint resolutions was 45 and the number of senate joint resolutions 20. The remainder of the session will be devoted largely to consideration of bills of a controversial nature, many of them expected to consume much time.

SCHOOL HEADS ARE SELECTED

RETURN HUNKAPILLAR WITH DAUGHTERY FOR ORIGIN

J. M. Daugherty of Hoover and C. T. Hunkapillar yesterday were returned as trustees of the Pampa Independent school district for a period of three years. Mr. Daugherty led the vote with 202. Mr. Hunkapillar was second high man with 197 votes. J. G. Christy, the other candidate, polled 20 votes.

A total of 212 votes were polled. Last year only 150 persons exercised the right to vote. The election was held in the Board of City Development rooms in the city hall. A. A. Tieman was judge and Chas. I. Hughes and Roy Sewell were clerks.

Both Mr. Daugherty and Mr. Hunkapillar have been members of the board for several years. Mr. Hunkapillar has been president for the last four years.

Due to a change in the law passed recently the new trustees will serve three years instead of two years as previously.

WELFARE BOARD IS PROBING CARE OF COUNTY'S STRICKEN

Investigation of the county government's consistent refusal to provide medical attention and hospitalization for destitute persons of this community who are seriously ill was underway last night by the Welfare board and the American Legion.

A tense situation which has existed for several weeks between the county commissioners and the Welfare board came to a head yesterday afternoon when local Legionnaires and members of the board asked Judge S. D. Stennis to provide medical attention and hospitalization at the county's expense for an ill and poverty-stricken man who has been under the care of the board. Judge Stennis informed them they would have to get an order for hospitalization from Dr. V. E. von Brunow, county physician.

COUNTY FAIR WILL CONTAIN DAIRY EXHIBIT

CASH AWARDS WILL BE GIVEN TO WINNERS IN LOCAL SHOW

By ARCHER FULLINGIM

There is no reason why a good dairy show should not be held in connection with the Gray county fair here, Sept. 10-12, and the B. C. D. agriculture committee is making plans to that end. Another feature of the fair will be a wheat show in which $15 prize will be given for the best gallon of wheat grown in the Panhandle.

Members of the agriculture committee, whose chairman is C. H. Walker, pointed out at a recent meeting in Geo. W. Briggs office that breeders of dairy cattle on the north plains and north-east Panhandle have never had an opportunity to exhibit their aristocratic animals. Only a few of them, if any, are ever taken to the Panhandle-Plains Dairy show at Plainview. Fewer still are exhibited at the Tri-State fair, each fall at Amarillo. Gray county breeders and dairy farmers have never had an opportunity to exhibit their best animals.

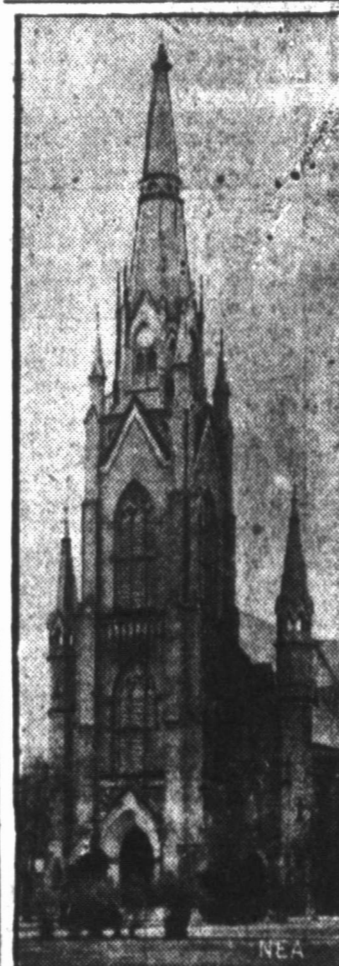

Cash Prizes

It will pay them to do so this year for the B. C. D. is planning to offer handsome cash awards to winners. At present lack of funds compels the B. C. D. to offer premiums for a limited number of classes but agriculture committee members are making plans to raise money to offer as premiums in additional classes. Gray county has never had the reputation of being a dairying county. Many who have analyzed the situation know that the industry is well advanced in this community, even though breeders have not decided to feature any particular breed.

The fact that dairy farmers from Groom, White Deer, Panhandle and Miami communities sell milk and cream in Pampa will probably surprise many Pampa citizens. This milk comes from herds of diverse breeds—herds which contain many fine animals. Jersey and Holstein milk comes from the Pampa, Lakeview, and Wheeler county communities, while Guernsey milk is brought into Pampa by dairy farmers and breeders from the Panhandle. White Deer and Groom communities. If the best animals from herds which supply Pampa with milk were exhibited at the Fair dairy show, Pampans and visitors would see a collection of sires and dams which for quality could not be excelled.

KIDDIES HAVE BIG EGG HUNT

THOUSANDS SEARCH IN PARK FOR COLORED EASTER EGGS

Thousands of Pampa children under the age of 12 years yesterday afternoon searched Harvest park for easter eggs and found practically everyone hidden by members of the club and Boy Scouts. Four of the lucky children found gold colored eggs and immediately left the park without giving their names. They will be given $2.50 deposits at a local bank.

The children were entertained by a clown while Kwanians and Scouts hid the eggs, in trees around the park, under boards, in the snow, around the fence and every conceivable place imaginable. With a shout that could be heard in the city, the children streamed from the park and the hunt was on.

Mud, fences, ditches failed to deter the progress of the hunt and in less than an hour the hunt was over and tired but happy children left for town. Merchants were soon besieged by children who came for prizes offered by the various merchants whose names appeared on the eggs.

The theaters of the city had 75 free tickets in the eggs.

Glenn Mordy was chairman of the Kiwanis club hunt. Other members of the committee were Lee Waggoner, Mark Long, and R. W. Lane.

FRUIT AND PRODUCE TO BE SOLD BY NEW FIRM

Pampa Fruits & Produce store is among the most recently established businesses here. It is located at the intersection of South Cuyler and Barnes.

In the city six months and in the county a year.

They claimed that Pampa should have a county hospital or some means of taking care of persons seriously ill and those with contagious diseases. They said there were many cases of smallpox outside the city limits that have not been quarantined. Some are not under the care of a physician.

Members of the board, the American Legion and interested citizens will visit the county commissioners at their next meeting and present the situation to them for the third time this year. It was stated last night.

FLIER RETURNS TO TELL ABOUT WRECKED CITY

NATIVES ARE DAZED IN MANY EARTHQUAKES IN MANAGUA

2,000 LIVES ARE LOST

WEALTHY PERSONS OF TOWN NOW SLEEP ON GROUND

BULLETIN

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 4. (AP)—Sergeant W. H. Piggs, U. S. M. C. was shot and killed by a member of the Nicaraguan National guard this afternoon. It was unofficially reported that he had lost his mind under the strain of rescue work and had threatened the guardsman.

The name of the guardsman was not disclosed.

Colonel Frederic Bradman, Marine commander, said an investigation of the shooting already was under way but no particulars had been added.

By JACK RUTLEDGE

BROWNSVILLE, April 4. (AP)—Tales of disaster and gruesome were brought back to Brownsville today by Harold Gray of Brownsville, pilot for the Pan American Airways, who flew the first mercy ship to Managua, Nicaragua, after the earthquake that devastated the city.

In the city of more than 60,000 population, Gray said the loss was well over 2,000 lives and hundreds of dead are being collected every day, thrown in trenches and burned during the night.

Small Bodies

The aviator said bodies were located principally by the sense of smell. Nicaraguan soldiers are doing the actual work of collecting victims, with United States marines supervising.

Gray said several hundred prisoners looked in the Managua jail were trapped in their cells and perished, with wardens and guards behind locked doors.

Sleep on Ground

Wealthy men and women who lived in mansions and who had many servants to order about now slept on the bare ground and own nothing but the clothes they wear.

First word of the disaster trickled into Salvador by means of a hastily repaired radio set in Managua. At 6:30 o'clock last Wednesday morning, Gray, accompanied by Pilot Oleson in a large tri-motored ship and George Greger of Brownsville and Sig Verain, in a second tri-motored plane, left Salvador for Managua. They carried the maximum allowable load of food, water and medical supplies and American Minister Hanna.

Water Destroyed

"At first, we were puzzled as to why they needed water," Gray said, "we found the quake had crumbled the water plant and twisted water mains."

The two planes flew between columns of smoke issuing from four volcanoes. One crater, Momotomba, was sending up heavy clouds of ashly smoke but no lava was seen.

"From the air, the city did not at first appear so badly damaged, but when we drew closer we could see it was destroyed. Streets were no longer streets but mere paths, lined with debris. Smoke and dust covered a large portion of the town," the flier related.

"They said a person couldn't see ten feet ahead and that natives were running about blindly, right under falling walls."

"It is true that fire broke out and has done great damage," he said, "but I don't believe there were any buildings left standing. I walked over the entire city and the only things over three feet in height were scattered walls. They were swaying and toppling to the ground."

While Gray was in Managua, slight tremors occurred. "It feels as though someone is pulling a rug from under your feet," he explained. "You stagger, your arms wave as you try to regain your balance, then you fall."

"Persons who lived through the quake wear a dazed, uncomprehending expression," he continued, "they go about with a faraway look in their eyes, as though they didn't know what it was all about."

U. S. OFFICIALS AID QUAKE VICTIMS

On the shoulders of these Americans falls the responsibility of directing relief work in Managua, Nicaragua, where an earthquake and fire took toll of 10,000 dead and thousands injured. Matthew E. Hanna, upper left, United States minister to Nicaragua, is co-ordinating all American relief activities until the arrival of Ernest J. Swift, lower left, of the Red Cross, who left Washington by plane. Colonel Irving A. Lindbergh, lower right, resident high commissioner, was in the national palace when the walls came tumbling down, but escaped and immediately began relief work.

KNUTE ROCKNE LAID TO REST WITH BEAUTIFUL CEREMONY AT LITTLE CHAPEL AT NOTRE DAME

FOOTBALL HEROES CRY AS CASKET LOWERS INTO GRAVE

By PAUL MICKELSON

Associated Press Sports Writer

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 4. (AP)—Beneath the spreading branches of Old Council oak, a sentinel of peace for centuries, Knute Kenneth Rockne slept tonight.

As the setting sun died in the wester sky, streaming its shadows like on last salute to the famous golden dome of Notre Dame, all that was mortal of the greatest fighter of the "fighting Irish" was lowered into the grave.

It was a simple farewell that the world of sport, the boys who fought for him, and the holy fathers with whom he worked and worshipped, gave him today. Yet, it was impressive. It tugged the heart strings not only of Notre Dame, the Nation, and his rivals in life, but it saddened a world that was represented at his crypt and at the services today.

Rockne, the immortal Viking, was carried to his final resting place in Highland cemetery by the same group of "boys" who carried on for him on the football fields of glory. Firm of step, but heavy of heart, these boys—Tommy Conley, Tommy Yarr, Marchmont Schwartz, Frank Carrico, Marty Brillard, Larry Mullins—tenderly took their chief to his last earthly home and wept as they watched, with the multitude of thousands, the descent into the grave.

In its life span of more than 60 years, the picturesque Gothic church of the Sacred Heart, has been the scene of services for loved men of Notre Dame, but never did any approach that given Knute Rockne today in impressiveness, sadness and sorrow.

As the cortege, weaving its mournful journey from the Rockne home accompanied by the man of des-

MOUNTAIN MEN SHOT DOWN ON LONELY ROAD

THIRTY BULLETS ARE FIRED AT GROUP IN ARKANSAS

BROTHER WALKS TO AID

FRACAS TAKES PLACE NEAR MISSOURI STATE LINE

YELLVILLE, Ark., April 4. (AP)—One man was killed, two were wounded slightly, and a fourth escaped from an ambush 12 miles north of here early today to report that more than 30 bullets were fired at them while they walked along a lonely mountain road.

George Long, 38, was killed and his son, Manford, 17, received a scalp wound. El Jones, 37, received a bullet in his wrist.

The fourth member of the party, Joe Long, 40, brother of the slain man, escaped and walked to Yellville through the woods fearing another attack. He said the bullets came from a clump of bushes and that he saw his brother fall as the others fled in several directions. He said he ran into the forest with bullets whistling about him.

Sheriff C. A. Willingham and a posse returned here tonight unable to make arrests. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of "death at the hands of persons unknown." A number of discharged rifle shells were found at the scene.

Joe Long advanced no motive for the attack. He said the four were walking to Yellville, where they were to appear in court in a suit to restrain closing of a community road. The scene of the shooting was in the mountains near the Missouri-Arkansas line.

JULIAN FACES MORE CHARGES

TWO FIREARMS COUNTS PLACED AGAINST OKLAHOMAN

LAREDO, April 4. (AP)—Bond for C. C. Julian, charged with kidnaping and attempting to rob L. S. Bolling of San Antonio, was set at $15,000 tonight by Justice of the Peace Leopold Villegas. An impromptu hearing was held after the grand jury investigating the charges had recessed until Monday. Julian made the bond and was released.

Two additional charges were filed against the widely known oil man tonight: assault with a prohibited weapon and unlawful carrying of arms. District Attorney John Valls said the grand jury would probably return indictments against Julian and his companion, C. G. Boren, early Monday. Julian tonight admitted his identity for the first time since his arrest.

The district attorney in a brief session before Judge J. F. Mullally read the new Texas law on kidnaping, which makes it a capital offense. All the offenses with which Julian was charged were also charged to Boren and to Clay Mann, who had before been held only as a material witness. Valls said that, should the kidnaping indictment be returned Monday—as he was sure it would be—Julian would be the first person tried in Texas under the new law.

PLAN TO ISSUE HIGHWAY BONDS

WILL DECIDE AT NEXT MEETING OF COURT ON ISSUANCE

Preliminary plans for issuing road bonds in the amount of $2,250,000 engaged the attention of county commissioners yesterday. All members of the court except H. G. McClesky of precinct No. 3 were present at a called session.

It was decided to set a date for issuing the bonds at a meeting of the court, April 14. C. M. Smith of Brown & Crummer, bond house of Wichita Falls and Dallas, and W. E. Van Antwerp of the A. L. Steck company of Austin, manufacturing stationers, met with the commissioners yesterday. Both men discussed proposals with the court to assume responsibility for legal proceedings which are necessary before the bonds can be issued. This would include making legal arrangements to take up road district bonds that have already been issued.

AN ARRANGED MARRIAGE

by LAURA LOU BROOKMAN Author of HEART HUNGRY, etc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Gypsy McBride, 19-year-old typist, meets the boat on which Alan Crosby returns from a year and a half in Paris. They are not engaged but there has been an "understanding" between them. Gypsy sees a beautiful woman on the pier whom Crosby identifies as Mrs. Langley, a ship's acquaintance. Two nights later he breaks an engagement with Gypsy on a plea of business. She goes to the theater alone and encounters him with Mrs. Langley. There is a scene. Mrs. Langley drives away alone. Gypsy and Crosby go home in a cab, discussing all the way. Next day Crosby attempts to apologize and Gypsy refers to their romance as a boy and girl affair, now outgrown. Gypsy is crushed.

When she is criticized for carelessness at the office she resigns her job. To forget her misery she accepts an invitation from her wealthy cousin, Anne Trowbridge, to take the place of another dinner guest. The dinner is boresome and when the others are playing bridge Gypsy escapes, determined to go home. She hears a noise in another room, opens the door and sees a man climbing in the window. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER X

Gypsy's heart seemed to stop beating. The man in the window stared back at her. One of his knees rested on the windowsill. Another move and he would have been inside.

"You'd better go away," the girl warned, "or I'll scream!" The man continued to stare. The gray hat brim shaded his face, half-concealing his features. He was wearing an overcoat and in his crowded pockets he must have been most uncomfortable. Still he did not move.

"You'd better go," Gypsy repeated, "if I scream you'll be arrested!" Apparently the stranger had found his voice.

"You—you live here?" he asked. "Yes, No—I mean why don't you leave?" Gypsy had been too startled to be afraid. Suddenly it occurred to her that the burglar might have looted a half-dozen apartments in the building. It was foolish! Let him get away. Before he could answer she reversed her orders.

"Come on in! Here—s—and over there," she pointed to a spot near the center of the room. Slowly, clumsily, the man climbed over the ledge. He stood up and she saw that he was tall and broad shouldered. His dark overcoat was a good one. There was nothing about his appearance to conform with Gypsy's idea of a thief. He did not even wear a mask.

Obliquely he walked to the spot toward which she pointed. It was a ridiculous scene. Gypsy was five feet three. In her chiffon evening gown and foolish high-heeled slippers she was certainly no figure to confront a burglar. Yet the stranger accepted her commands. He looked more alarmed than the girl.

Gypsy edged her way between the burglar and the window. "You're a fine looking fellow to be climbing into people's windows," she flouted. Now let's see what you've stolen. Empty your pockets and put the things on the bed!"

"Say, listen—" for the first time she noticed his bass drawl was agreeable. "My dear young lady, if you'll let me explain—" "You can explain to the police!" "Good Lord—say whose apartment is this?"

"Are you so particular whose things you take?" "Now wait a minute! Give me a chance! I haven't the slightest idea in the world who you may be and I don't blame you for thinking I'm a thief, but you've got to believe what I'm going to say. I thought this was Phil Trowbridge's apartment—" "What?" "I said I thought this was Phil Trowbridge's apartment."

The burglar gave her a searching look. "Then what are you doing here?" he demanded. "I don't see what difference that makes—" "Don't you though? It can make a lot. For instance it might make you, young woman, the unlawful prowler instead of myself. It means I won't have to spend the night in jail." He took a quick glance about the room. "This is Trowbridge's place! Sure, I recognize it now."

It was all a trick of course. He was trying to make her believe he knew Phil, that he had a right to be here. "Not so fast!" the girl snapped. "There's still a law against house-breaking. I can testify I saw you climbing through that window!" Their eyes met in silent duel. Then the stranger eased his position, slipping his hands into his pockets.

"Have you got a gun?" the girl's voice wavered. "I wish I had," he scowled. "Seem to be useful when you're arguing with women. Now, for God's sake, will you listen to me for two minutes?" "Well—" The man pointed to an object in the corner of the room. "See that traveling bag?" he said. "There's a leather tag on the handle with a name and address on it. Look at it!"

Suddenly their positions had changed. The girl obeyed meekly. The heavy pliskan bag bore the name James R. Wallace. Gypsy read it aloud. The address was a town called Forest City. "Commanded," Gypsy repeated. "Now look at this," the man commanded. "Oh, take it—you don't have to be afraid!"

It was a card that he held out. In plain Roman letters was the same name, James R. Wallace. The girl's face showed she did not understand. "All right," the bass voice was continuing. "Probably you won't believe that's my name and my traveling bag. Then there's nothing else to do but get hold of Phil—" He had started toward the door. "Wait a minute," exclaimed Gypsy. "You mean—you mean you're James Wallace and you know Phil—?"

"That's the impression I've been trying to convey. Let me add that I don't know who you are but for the time being this is my room. I'm staying here. Have been since last night."

"Then why aren't you at the party?" "Because I don't like parties. Now if I've convinced you there's no need to call in the police perhaps you won't mind if I take off this overcoat. It's really quite warm. May I ask why you aren't at the party yourself? I suppose that's what you're here for."

"I don't like parties either," said the girl. "I was running away from this one." "That so? Interesting. My unusual mode of entrance" (he waved toward the window) "was prompted by the same idea."

Gypsy had sunk into a chair. "Is it really true?" she asked "that you're a friend of Phil's and that you're stopping here? Anne didn't say anything about having a house guest."

"Anne didn't know I was in town. She thought I was having dinner with some people out on Long Island. Then I—changed my plans and didn't want to take a chance on running into her dinner party gang. Happened to know I could go to the floor above and come down the fire escape. Wait a minute—maybe this'll convince you I'm not lying."

He pulled a collection of letters and papers from his inner coat pocket, hastily searching through the pile. "Here—saved it for the address." The young man held toward her a letter on Phil Trowbridge's office stationery. Gypsy read it hastily, saw the signature.

The girl smiled uncertainly. "I'm convinced," she said. "Excuse me for mistaking you for a burglar." She paused, then added, "Maybe I ought to introduce myself. I'm Wallace had been leaning against a chest of drawers. Now he pulled a chair toward him and sat down. "I'll tell you," he said slowly. "Maybe you'll get a laugh. I'm going to celebrate because the girl I expected to marry has just informed me she's made a better catch. Marry me?—why should she when she can have the Phillips millions? Why, indeed. Well—why don't you laugh?"

Wallace laughed coldly. "I suppose you've been jilted too," he suggested dryly. The girl nodded her head. "That's what I was trying to forget about," she said. "You mean that?" Wallace asked, and when he saw she was serious, he added, "Say—I'm sorry! Maybe it's not so bad as you think." Gypsy shook her head. "It's final," she said. "No doubt about it."

"Quarrel?" "Well—not exactly. Maybe it's something like your case. The other person—found someone, he like better. She's got lots of money too."

Wallace laughed shortly. It was not a pleasant laugh. "That's funny!" he declared. "That's a good one. Well, why don't you find somebody else? Show him you don't care? Celebrate—" "But I don't want anybody else."

She paused, then continued, "You see, I'm Anne's cousin, but I really don't belong here. This isn't even my dress—it's Anne's. Anne just asked me because someone else couldn't come. I work—" Suddenly she stopped, smiling ruefully. "I mean I did work," Gypsy corrected herself. "I'm a typist but I threw up my job this afternoon."

"What are you going to do now?" "I don't know. Look for something else I suppose. I haven't thought about it."

Wallace leaned forward. "Don't do it," he said. "I've got a better idea. Let's get married!" (To Be Continued)

six-cylinder trucks for low first-cost and unsurpassed economy

The economy of using Chevrolet six-cylinder trucks is an actual dollars-and-cents economy that shows up, month after month, on the balance sheet. It starts with a purchase price that is one of the lowest in the market for a complete unit. It continues throughout Chevrolet's long life with an operating cost that is unsurpassed!

Consider, for example, the cost-records of leading national organizations who use large fleets of Chevrolets. They prove (1) That the six-cylinder truck can operate on just as little gasoline as the four. (2) That no other trucks of equal capacity give any better gasoline, oil or tire mileage than Chevrolet. (3) That the cost of keeping a Chevrolet in satisfactory running order is unusually low. (4) That Chevrolet trucks are exceptionally reliable and long-lived.

Today, Chevrolet's proved economy is available to buyers in every truck-using field. For Chevrolet's new line of quality bodies includes a type for every hauling need.

This insurance has been recommended by the insurance commissioner at Austin. I. W. H. Rodgers, have operated a mutual for more than eight years without having to call on the trustee to settle a single claim. This mutual was known as the E. K. Progress Mutual Life and Accident, of which I paid $3,000 for copyright and they notified me to change the name of my mutual. As I had to change the name I decided to change the main office to Pampa, Texas, as Clarendon had 5 mutuals and Pampa none.

I am transferring 500 members from Clarendon Mutual to Pampa. I have my policies printed for Pampa Mutual but have given myself 90 days from the 15th day of March if needed to wind up the unfinished business in Clarendon Mutual and issue policies in the Panhandle Pampa Mutual. During this time we will take members in as charter members at reduced rates. We would like to have 50 agents working for us. We have the 16 northwest counties of the Panhandle, the healthiest part of the state. That means lots for mutual insurance. If you do not have any death you do not have to pay out your money outside the $1.50 semi-annual dues. You are only helping someone that are poor and not able to carry old line insurance. Get in now as charter member. So far, we have not charged more than $1.50 per member. By the time our 90 days are up we expect to have our full membership. Our agents that are now at work are D. P. Sizs and Earl Chism of Miami, Earl Taylor in the Pampa National bank building, Pampa; Charlie Rice, Wynne building, Pampa; and A. G. Seitz, White Deer. See them for membership or write W. H. Rodgers at Clarendon, Texas, for agency. If hard times have caused you to drop your old line insurance try a mutual.

Get a Chrysler and you get the most for your money. We don't have to prove it—the cars themselves prove it!

Drive a CHRYSLER EIGHT

—Learn about Dual High Performance

As distinctive as the Chrysler Eights are in design, they are even more distinguished in the field of performance.

It is safe to say that you will enjoy a Chrysler Eight more, and be prouder of it, and drive it often—and longer—than any other motor car you have ever owned.

You'll like it more, simply because the Chrysler Eight is so sweepingly different from other cars. Not mere surface differences, but differences in basic engineering and construction.

Like nothing else in its results is the exclusive Multi-Range 4-speed transmission with Dual High gears and a quick, silent gear shift. One high gear is designed for hair-trigger pick-up and sprinting in city driving—the other is for the open road, giving higher car speeds with a marvelous smoothness due to reduced engine speeds.

This Multi-Range transmission with Dual High gears was one of the important factors that enabled the Chrysler Imperial Eight to win, within a few days, twelve A.A.A. Contest Board stock car speed records for one to five miles.

For a real treat, drive a Chrysler—any Chrysler. After all, performance is the test of automobile value—and Chrysler has the performance.

About 24 persons were present, including two Red Cross representatives from McLean who were introduced by Miss Myrtle Miller.

SPRING RECITAL IS GIVEN MUCH PRAISE

Music lovers of the city who attended the spring recital of the Pampa College of Music Tuesday afternoon and evening at the First Methodist church have much praise for the pleasing performance.

Two Baldwin grand pianos were placed in a setting of ferns and cut flowers. The formal evening attire adopted by the youthful performers, displaying the new shoulder and wrist corsages, added beauty and inspiration to the occasion.

Capable facility and technical understanding were shown by the junior department. Especially pleasing were the numbers given by Josef Hodge, who won first in the contest in Amarillo; Betty Lou Batten, who also played highest in the Amarillo contest; Olga Twiford, who played Schubert's Knight Rupert; Gerald Brown and Roger Patisy will showed individuality of style in their difficult numbers.

In the evening, an enjoyable performance was given by high school girls and adults. Worthy of commendation were numbers by Eloise Lane, Daphna Lansford, Louie Smith, and Dorothy Stilling. Eleanor Frey pleased the audience with her rendition of Adoration, and another excellent number was by the talented young baritone, Malcolm Carr, who sang Duna, by McGill.

All artist pupil, Mrs. Thelma Perkins, rendered pleasingly Poincise Americaine by Carpenter and The Maid at the Well. She will be heard in recital in late spring. Mrs. Ramon Wilson, well known in local musical circles, played LeMare's Andantino in D-flat on the organ—an excellent rendition.

The climax of the evening was the ensemble overture to Ruy Blas (Mendelssohn), played by Mrs. Carr, Mrs. Perkins, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. H. G. Twiford, Miss Louis Barton, and Mrs. L. M. Batten.

Mrs. Carr, dean of the college, is a musician of wide professional experience and is an enthusiastic devotee of the teaching art.

Egg Coloring Is Very Old Custom

In coloring Easter eggs for the children, do we ever think of who originated the idea?

There is a story of a German duchess who took refuge among simple forest folk at the time of a medieval war and at Easter wished to make the children happy. Having nothing at her command to give them but a few eggs, she hit upon the idea of coloring these brightly with dyes from roots and mosses, and so the custom of coloring eggs was begun. However, even earlier references to eggs of glorious hues can be found, and nobody knows where the first one was colored. Nature set the style of making the eggs of many birds brilliant and beautiful. "Robin's-egg blue" is most familiar. The goose that laid the golden eggs, of course, lived very long ago.

Egg rolling is another custom that we get from many and may go back to old pagan times. The most famous celebration of it in this country is on the White House lawn at Washington every Easter Monday. Children rich and poor, white and black, come with their baskets of gay colored eggs for the annual celebration.

INTERESTING SLEEVES TO BE USED ON COATS

By DIANA MERWIN, Associated Press Fashion Editor

PARIS, April 4. (AP)—Dressy coats for fashionable femininity will be known by their sleeves this spring.

The wraps which smart women will wear to informal evening functions and formal afternoon affairs have sleeves varying from short capelike designs to wrist-length models with wide draped cuffs.

Some of the dressy coats have shoulder caps attached to long semi-tight sleeves, while others accent the arm by having no sleeves at all. Dark fabrics, both shiny and dull, designed in wrap-around lines and often combined with white or light colors, are favorites.

Full-length black crepe de chine coats with elbow-length cape sleeves will be worn with short-sleeved frocks and long black suede gloves. Three-quarter length black satin coats, designed with shirred smawl collars of white satin, will accompany black satin frocks with intricate bodices of white satin.

Wraps of black faille with wide deeply-cuffed sleeves of white or chartreuse green faille will be seen with light frocks which match the color of the sleeves.

Three-quarter length black satin coats, designed with sleeves puffed at the elbow or richly furled at the cuff. Black, brown, green and marine blue pebbly-weave wools with semi-fitted waistlines are the favorites. Many of these models have cow collar lined with light monotone or dark shadow plaid silk, while others have deep collars banded in lynx or silver fox.

PAMPA HARVESTER TRACK TEAM BEATS AMARILLO MEN

LOWE COUNTER PARTS SCORES IN FIELD MEET

PLAINVIEW WINS THIRD PLACE AT INVITE TOURNAMENT

By HARRY HOARE
News-Post Sports Editor

The Pampa high school track and field team yesterday afternoon won the Amarillo Invitation track and field meet, defeating the Amarillo Sandies by one point. Pampa scored 62 points, Amarillo followed with 61 points and Plainview was third scoring 29 points. LaBock failed to arrive until late in the afternoon and only participated in two events, winning one point.

Join Ayres, Pampa, was high point man of the day making 21 points. The elongated Pampa star won three firsts, and two seconds. He was first in the 120-yard high hurdles, high jump, pole vault and took second place in the low hurdles and the broad jump.

Albert Lard, sensational sprinter, won the 100-yard dash but came up second in the 440-yard losing to Bufkin on a slow track. The time was 52.00 much slower than Lard's time at McLean. Floyd Collins, diminutive hurdler, won the low hurdles event, defeating Jim Ayres.

The Harvesters were not at their best due to a hard football game Friday afternoon. The game particularly affected Joe Kahl, Sam Kleth, Durwood Martindale, and Harley Kennedy, track men, and Lloyd Moore, and Jim Pool, weight men. L. Morris of Amarillo, beat Moore out in the weight events.

No records were broken, due largely to a slow field and a tricky wind. Lubbock failed to arrive due to a snowstorm encountered immediately after leaving that city. Car trouble then interfered and some of the team failed to reach Amarillo.

Next Saturday the Mitchell crew will go to Lubbock where they will enter the Texas Tech track and field meet. The following Saturday the team will be in Amarillo at the Amarillo Globe-News event which they won last year.

FORMER NEBRASKA GRIDSTER PROFESSIONAL WRESTLING RING

Ray Richards, former University of Nebraska tackle, is the latest of the grid boys to join pro wrestling ranks. Richards, a protege of Joe Stecher, hopes to confound the butting Savoldis and McMillens with Stecher's celebrated scissors hold.

DODGE, Neb. (AP)—Nebraska's latest contribution to the revival of professional wrestling is Ray Richards, former Cornhusker gridiron star and protege of the brothers Stecher—Anton and Joe, old-line grapplers themselves.

Anton, who is Richards' manager and trainer, thinks the 215-pound ex-collegian is a coming champion. Joe, former world's titlist, is teaching the youngster once famed and feared scissors hold.

Richards went into professional football after three years as a tackle on the University of Nebraska teams and only recently took up the "grunt and growl" game. He has been successful in his first three starts, and now, he says, he is particularly eager to get a match with another ex-collegian, Joe Savoldi, once of Notre Dame.

TEXAS AGGIES TAKE TRACK MEET HONORS

AUSTIN, April 4. (AP)—Texas Aggies carried off the honors in a triangular track meet here today with the University of Texas and Abilene Christian college. Texas placed second and the Christians third.

Although they trailed in the total number of points, Abilene copied more first places than any other school in the meet, its athletes coming in ahead in six events. A. and M. placed first in five events and Texas took first honors in four events.

A. and M. scored 71 points; Texas 53½, and Abilene Christian 46½.

FREDERICKSBURG, April 4. (AP)—The Hill country baseball league will begin its second season tomorrow. Fredericksburg plays Kerrville; Pontotoc, Comfort; and Mason, Junction. The league's first season last year was a decided success.

BEN LYON IS MALE STAR IN STATE SHOW

Can you take a beautiful wild creature and acclimate her to the effete atmosphere of riches and society? Can you put a gorgeous Bird of Paradise in a gilded cage without breaking its gallant spirit?

"Alcha," the Tiffany special production featuring Ben Lyon, Raquel Torres and all-star cast today at the State Theater, tells the story of a wealthy young American who marries a tropical beauty and takes her to his aristocratic San Francisco home.

But Alchu was only half native. The white strain of her father made her feel superior to the members of her mother's race, who were darker skinned than she. And when she went among her husband's people all the courage and spunk in her wanted to be like his friends, but it was so hard to understand their ways.

For instance, why must she wear a hat that hurt her ears? Or shoes that pinched her feet, or even stockings on her legs that had never been covered? Or why, above all things, wear those things called girdles with their garters that hurt and marred you when you sat down?

ROOKIES WALK PLANK IN BIG LEAGUE CLUBS

ST. LOUIS CARDINALS AND ATHLETICS FAVORITES

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor
NEW YORK, April 4. (AP)—With rookies walking the plank at a somewhat rapid rate, major league baseball clubs have trimmed their squads homeward, still leaving the experts very much mystified as to the prospects for the 1931 pennant races.

The Philadelphia Athletics and St. Louis Cardinals, 1930 winners, remain the pre-season favorites, with the opening games only ten days away, but the feeling of uncertainty as to the relative strength of the contending clubs is widely manifest.

It is reflected not only in the rapidly shifting developments of the training camps, conducted from Florida to California, but in the broad range of opinion filed so far by the war correspondents in the annual pennant consensus of the Associated Press.

Twenty-five of the thirty-eight experts who have reported favor the Athletics to make it three straight. Nine have picked the Washington Senators, who appear to be gaining support rapidly. Two each named the New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians as probable

MALE salesmen may have their PAULTS, but one never holds up A NUMBER 42 suit and CALLS it a "sweet little thing".

Mr. J. W. King, formerly of Paris, Texas, and Dallas, but for the last year a resident of Pampa, has joined our organization. Mr. King is a hardware man of many years' experience, and couldn't feel right out a hardware store. We believe you will find him easy to do business with.

Frank Allison gives us the cheering information that if a girl says she doesn't want a single thing to eat, the bill won't be more than $8.70.

Here's some cheering news for which you may thank us; Our stock of lawn mowers, lawn hose and garden tools is complete, and at the best prices ever. See that special 16-in. four blade ball bearing lawn mower with 10-in. wheel at $9.75. It's the best value we ever saw in anybody's store.

Mystery Solved
Two can live as cheaply as one—but not the same two.

Another hot price this spring is on garden hose. We offer 50 feet (600 inches) of corrugated, braided hose, full 1/2-in. that weighs 24 pounds per hundred feet, complete with couplings and nozzle for only $4.50.

Flapper (in car)—"Are my dimmers on?"
Cop (blushing)—"Lady, I wasn't even looking."

If you are looking for anything in the hardware line come right to headquarters, Pampa Hardware & Implement Co.

These are the days when a City man buys a quart of onion sets and considers himself a farmer.

J. W. Condo has been having plenty of fun. His well broke down, and he bought a new Dempster No. 12 windmill from us just before the storm, and of course couldn't get it up. Trying to keep a bunch of cows watered when you have to take them to it is no little job in that kind of weather. We can assure him, however, that his water troubles are over for a long time.

Oh Boy!
Dandelions are here, which means a charge of greens without additional expense.

Some fellow said, "The only people who can afford to be perfectly candid are those who don't care whether they have any friends or not."

But he was off his base, because we are perfectly candid about the merits of Eureka vacuum cleaners and they're making new friends for us every day.

Even if you don't think your town's a world beater go out and do a little horn tootin' occasionally.

pennant winners in the American league.
In the National, the Cardinals show 18 votes thus far, with nine cast for the Chicago Cubs, eight for the Brooklyn Robins, four for the New York Giants and one for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

In making these predictions, the critics have discarded some of the sign posts of the conditioning season, either as too confusing or inconclusive, and based their views on past performances.

A month ago, the Cardinals looked like the best club training in Florida. But since then the Redbirds have been unable to consolidate their outfield, with Chick Hafey a persistent holdout, and enthusiasm for the prospects of two pitching recruits, Dean and Derringer, has lessened.

On the other hand, neither the Cubs nor Pirates, training on the West Coast, have shown enough to prompt any flights to the superlatives.

The Giants perhaps have been the most impressive of National league contenders. Manager John McGraw apparently is satisfied with his noble experiment of inserting the rookie, Johnny Vesper, at third, and keeping Freddy Lindstrom in the outfield. Brooklyn, with Dazzy Vance's holdout seige ended, is breathing defiance.

The Athletics, already at home, have come along slowly but they can't be expected to look like champions until Al Simmons and George Earnshaw are on deck, ready for duty.

The world's champions will have an early test of strength, for they open the season April 14 in Washington against their strongest rival. The two surprise teams may be the Boston Braves and Chicago White Sox. The Braves have demonstrated they can exchange solid wallops with any team in the grapefruit circuit. The White Sox, with Lu Blue obtained for base duty and two star newcomers in the lineup, applying at short and Simmons in the outfield, look much stronger.

Wheat farmers near Burely, Ia., killed more than 1,000 chickens in a few hours by laying out poisoned alfalfa. The chickens, about half the size of a porcupine, had caused heavy losses.

"SIT TIGHT" COMES TO LA NORA TODAY

La Nora theater audiences today will welcome "Sit Tight," Warner Bros. latest comedy, presenting Joe E. Brown and Winnie Lightner, most judicious and lovable clowns of the talking screen.
Joe E. Brown and Winnie Lightner can set a crowd goofy with ad lib fun, and with no story to speak of—but "Sit Tight" is the work of a master of comedy-making, Edw. Taylor, and the dialogue of William K. Wells is as peppy as O. Henry could have made it. It is in the vernacular of the ring and the medical, too, for what are the two funny-folks but a female doctor and her male assistant.
Winnie is the slap-'em-down-

and-leave-'em-lay physician health resort—heaven help patients—and Joe is Jojo the hero (to hear him tell it) of fistic encounters—and an ac of beauty as the lady inmate testifies.

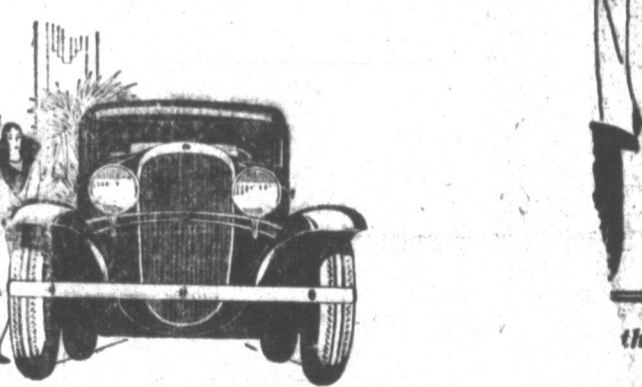

In the same building is the of a middle-aged millionaire, Jay, who has a pretty daughter, who through her dad, gets better job for Tom Weston she loves. Tom won't take it because he hasn't earned it, and Sally quarrel and part. He sees him coming, recognizes his Adonis form the white hop whom she has been looking him on the spot, and has him, gun trapping for the champ.

Sally hires a thug to beat him and discourage him. The hands on Jojo instead, with results to all but Jojo. Sally

ANALYZE THE VALUE

- 1 Weigh, in your own mind, the importance of grace and beauty in a motor car. Then consider, one after another, the various factors which are responsible for the new Oldsmobile's striking appearance . . . its smart and distinctive new front end design—its long, low, fleet-looking lines—its tastefully appointed and luxuriously finished bodies by Fisher.
- 2 Consider, next, the desirability of capable all-round performance. Then take the new Oldsmobile's wheel. Experience the thrilling getaway—the brilliant speed—the increased power and smoothness of this great new car. Test, too, its remarkable ease of control—in starting, shifting, steering, and braking—comparable with that of the highest priced cars.
- 3 When you have defined your requirements on these points, and applied them to Oldsmobile, consider the importance of a third great factor—dependability. With all its important new features, the 1931 Oldsmobile gives you the same proved fundamentals which have won the praise of nearly a quarter of a million owners during the past three years.
- 4 Finally, consider the importance of price in relation to all these things. Then analyze Oldsmobile's value in terms of what you get for what you pay. You will find that the new Oldsmobile is not only finer than ever in quality, but that it is also lower in price. And lower price plus finer quality makes the new Oldsmobile's value doubly impressive.

PAMPA HARVESTER TRACK TEAM BEATS AMARILLO MEN

LONE COUNTER PARTS SCORES IN FIELD MEET

PLAINVIEW WINS THIRD PLACE AT INVITE TOURNAMENT

By HARRY HOARE
News-Post Sports Editor

The Pampa high school track and field team yesterday afternoon won the Amarillo Invitation track and field meet, defeating the Amarillo Sandies by one point. Pampa scored 63 points. Amarillo followed with 61 points and Plainview was third scoring 29 points. LaBock failed to arrive until late in the afternoon and only participated in two events, winning one point.

John Ayres, Pampa, was high point man of the day making 21 points. The elongated Pampa star won three firsts, and two seconds. He was first in the 120-yard high hurdles, high jump, pole vault and took second place in the low hurdles and the broad jump.

Albert Lard, sensational sprinter, won the 100-yard dash but came up second in the 440-yard loosing to Bufkin on a slow track. The time was 52.09 much slower than Lard's time at McLean. Floyd Collins, diminutive hurdler, won the low hurdles event, defeating Jim Ayres.

The Harvesters were not at their best due to a hard football game Friday afternoon. The game particularly affected Joe Kahl, Sam Kiah, Durwood Martindale, and Harley Kennedy, track men, and Lloyd Moore, and Jim Pool, weight men. L. Morris of Amarillo beat Moore out in the weight events.

No records were broken, due largely to a slow field and a tricky wind. LaBock failed to arrive due to a snowstorm encountered immediately after leaving that city. Car trouble then interfered and some of the team failed to reach Amarillo.

Next Saturday the Mitchell crew will go to Lubbock where they will enter the Texas Tech track and field meet. The following Saturday the team will be in Amarillo at the Amarillo Globe-News event which they won last year.

FORMER NEBRASKA GRIDSTER PROFESSIONAL WRESTLING RING

Ray Richards, former University of Nebraska tackle, is the latest of the grid boys to join pro wrestling ranks. Richards, a protégé of Joe Stecher, hopes to confound the butting Savoldis and McMillens with Stecher's celebrated scissors hold.

DODGE, Neb. (AP)—Nebraska's latest contribution to the revival of professional wrestling is Ray Richards, former Cornhusker gridiron star and protégé of the brothers Stecher—Anton and Joe, old-line grapplers themselves.

Anton, who is Richards' manager and trainer, thinks the 215-pound ex-collegian is a coming champion. Joe, former world's titlist, is coach in the youngster once famed and feared scissor hold.

Richards went into professional football after three years as a tackle on the University of Nebraska teams and only recently took up the "grunt and growl" game.

He has been successful in his first three starts, and now, he says, he is particularly eager to get a match with another ex-collegian, Joe Savoldi, once of Notre Dame.

TEXAS AGGIES TAKE TRACK MEET HONORS

AUSTIN, April 4. (AP)—Texas Aggies carried off the honors in a triangular track meet here today with the University of Texas and Abilene Christian college. Texas placed second and the Christians third.

Although they trailed in the total number of points, Abilene copped more first places than any other school in the meet, its athletes coming in ahead in six events. A. and M. placed first in five events and Texas took first honors in four events.

A. and M. scored 71 points; Texas 53 1/2, and Abilene Christian 46 1/2.

FREDERICKSBURG, April 4. (AP)—The 1931 country baseball league will begin its second season tomorrow. Fredericksburg plays Kerrville; Pontotoc, Comfort; and Mason, Junction. The loop's first season last year was a decided success.

ford, Pampa; Fennemore, Burrow, and Kilgour, all of Amarillo. Distance 10 feet.

1-mile relay—Amarillo (Glass, Buntin, Davis, Bufkin); Pampa, (Kahl, James, Kiehl, Lard); Plainview. Time 3:42 minutes.

GIANTS BEAT MEMPHIS CREW FIFTEEN - ONE

CHICAGO WHITE SOX ARE VICTORS OVER LITTLE ROCK

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 4. (AP)—Hitting hard behind the superb pitching of Berley and Hubbell, the Giants today crushed the Memphis Chickashaws, 15 to 1, to win their ninth victory in 13 exhibition games. New York (N) 213 440 101—15 20 0 Memphis (SA) 000 000 100—1 2 0 Berry, Hubbell and Hogan, Healey; Griffin, Gates and Moss.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 4. (AP)—Hal McKain became the first Chicago White Sox pitcher to go the whole distance this spring and came up today with a 4 to 2 victory over the Little Rock Travelers of the Southern association. Chicago (A) 002 100 103—4 10 0 Little Rock 000 010 100—2 8 0 McKain and Tate; Nugent, Eckert and Hamby, Tipton.

PHILADELPHIA, April 4. (AP)—A home run by outfielder Hal Lee in the 13th inning gave the Phillies a 3 to 2 victory over the Athletics today in the second game of the annual inter-city series.

Lil Stoner, Texas league recruit, started for the winners and was invincible, as was Ray Bengue, who relieved him in the seventh.

PHILADELPHIA, April 4. (AP)—Manager Connie Mack, of the Philadelphia Athletics, announced today that Al Simmons, hard hitting outfielder, and Pitcher George Earnshaw, would report to the team at Shibe park next Friday.

Simmons and Earnshaw have been training at Hot Springs, Ark., the last few months, both players working out daily with the Minneapolis club of the American association.

"I was in touch with both players," said Manager Mack.

"Earnshaw told me he is in good health."

Only a few days ago Babe Ruth, home run clouter of the Yankees, was supposed to have said Earnshaw is "all washed up," and intimated that Mack's right hand pitching ace is in poor health.

"I don't know whether Ruth ever said it," remarked Manager Mack. "But if the Babe did make that statement he will learn to his sorrow that Earnshaw is as good as ever."

MAY PLAY GAME KANSAS CITY, April 4. (AP)—The coming spring has been kept a dark secret from the St. Louis Browns, whose scheduled exhibition games have been either washed or frozen out four times in the last five days.

The weather man promised fair and warmer weather tomorrow for the twice postponed tilt with the Kansas City Blues.

TO MEET CAL

Tiny Simmons, above, will get his longed-for chance at Cal Farley in a match here Thursday evening at the Majestic. He is the little man Otis Clingman failed to throw in 15 minutes some time ago. He's a flash.

BEN LYON IS MALE STAR IN STATE SHOW

Can you take a beautiful wild creature and acclimate her to the effete atmosphere of richer and society? Can you put a gorgeous Bird of Paradise in a gilded cage without breaking its gallant spirit?

"Alcha," the Tiffany special production featuring Ben Lyon, Raquel Torres and all-star cast today at the State Theater, tells the story of a wealthy young American who marries a tropical beauty and takes her to his aristocratic San Francisco home.

But Ilanu was only half native. The white strain of her father made her feel superior to the members of her mother's race, who were darker skinned than she. And when she went among her husband's people all the courage and spunk in her wanted to be like his friends, but it was so hard to understand their ways.

For instance, why must she wear a hat that hurt her ears? Or shoes that pinched her feet, or even stockings on her legs that had never been covered? Or why, above all things, wear these things called girdles with their garters that hurt and marred you when you sat down?

In the National, the Cardinals show 18 votes thus far, with nine cast for the Chicago Cubs, eight for the Brooklyn Robins, four for the New York Giants and one for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

In making these predictions, the critics have discarded some of the sign posts of the conditioning season, either as too confusing or inconclusive, and based their views on past performances.

A month ago, the Cardinals looked like the best club training in Florida. But since then the Redbirds have been unable to consolidate their outfield, with Chick Hafey a persistent holdout, and enthusiasm for the prospects of two pitching recruits, Dean and Derringer, has lessened.

On the other hand, neither the Cubs nor Pirates, training on the West Coast, have shown enough to prompt any flights to the superlative.

The Giants perhaps have been the most impressive of National league contenders. Manager John McGraw apparently is satisfied with his noble experiment of inserting the rookie, Johnny Verge, at third, and keeping Freddy Lindstrom in the outfield. Brooklyn, with Dazzy Vance's holdout seige ended, is breathing defiance.

The Athletics, already at home, have come along slowly but they can't be expected to look like champions until Al Simmons and George Earnshaw are on deck, ready for duty.

The world's champions will have an early test of strength, for they open the season April 14 in Washington against their strongest rival. The two surprise teams may be the Boston Braves and Chicago White Sox. The Braves have demonstrated they can exchange solid wallops with any team in the grapefruit circuit. The White Sox, with La Bibe obtained for first base duty and two star newcomers in the lineup, applying at short and Simons in the outfield, look much stronger.

Wheat farmers near Burley, Ia., killed more than 1,000 chicks in a few hours by laying out poisoned alfalfa. The chicks, about half the size of a porcupine, had caused heavy losses.

'SIT TIGHT' COMES TO LA NORA TODAY

La Nora theater audiences today will welcome "Sit Tight," Warner Bros. latest comedy, presenting Joe E. Brown and Winnie Lightner, most ludicrous and lovable clowns of the talking screen.

Joey E. and Wild Winnie can set a crowd goofy with ad lib fun, and with no story to speak of—but "Sit Tight" is the work of a master of comedy-making! Felix Taylor, and the dialogue of William K. Wells is as peppy as O. Henry could have made it. It is in the vernacular of the ring and the medics, too, for what are the two funny-folks but a female doctor and her male assistant.

Winnie is the slap-'em-down-

and-leave-'em-lay physician health resort—heaven help patients—and Joe is Jojo the hero (to hear him tell it) of fistic encounters—and an ad of beauty as the lady inmate testify.

In the same building is the of a middle-aged millionaire, hap, who has a pretty daughter, who, through her dad, gets better job for Tom Weston she loves. Tom won't take it because he hasn't carried it, and Sally quarrel and part. He sees him coming, recognizing his Adams form the white hop whom she has been looking him on the spot, and has him gin training for the champ.

Sally hires a thug to beat him and discourage him. The hands lands on Jojo instead, with results to all but Jojo. Sally

A column of news and views for Pampa people and our farmer friends.

MALE salesmen may have their PAULTS, but one never holds up A NUMBER 42 trout suit and CALLS it a "sweet little thing".

Mr. J. W. King, formerly of Paris, Texas, and Dallas, but for the last year a resident of Pampa, has joined our organization. Mr. King is a hardware man of many years' experience, and couldn't feel right out a hardware store. We believe you will find him easy to do business with.

Frank Allison gives us the cheering information that if a girl says she doesn't want a single thing to eat the bill won't be more than $6.70.

Thank you, Frank.

Here's some cheering news for which you may thank us: Our stock of lawn mowers, lawn hose and garden tools is complete, and at the best prices ever. See that special 16-in. four blade, ball bearing lawn mower with 10-in. wheel at $9.75. It's the best value we ever saw in anybody's store.

Mystery Solved
Two can live as cheaply as one—but no the same two.

Another hot price this spring is on garden hose. We offer 50 feet (600 inches) of corrugated, braided hose, full 3/4-in. that weighs 24 pounds per hundred feet, complete with couplings and nozzle for only $4.50.

Flapper (in car)—"Are my dimmers on?"
Cop (blushing)—"Lady, I wasn't even looking."

If you are looking for anything in the hardware line come right to headquarters, Pampa Hardware & Implement Co.

These are the days when a City man buys a quart of onion sets and considers himself a farmer.

J. W. Condo has been having plenty of fun. His well broke down, and he bought a new Dempster No. 12 windmill from us just before the storm, and of course couldn't get it up. Trying to keep a bunch of cows watered when you have to take them to it is no little job in that kind of weather. We can assure him, however, that his water troubles are over for a long time.

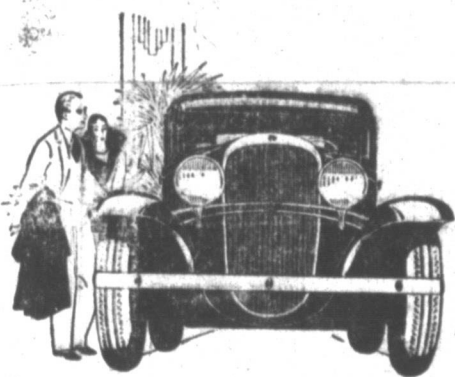

Oh Boy!
Dandelions are here, which means a change of greens without additional expense.

Some fellow said, "The only people who can afford to be perfectly candid are those who don't care whether they have any friends or not."

But he was off his base, because we are perfectly candid about the merits of Eureka vacuum cleaners and they're making new friends for us every day.

Even if you don't think your town's a world beater go out and do a little horn tootin' occasionally.

ANALYZE THE VALUE

- 1 Weigh, in your own mind, the importance of grace and beauty in a motor car. Then consider, one after another, the various factors which are responsible for the new Oldsmobile's striking appearance... its smart and distinctive new front end design—its long, low, fleet-looking lines—its tastefully appointed and luxuriously finished bodies by Fisher.
- 2 Consider, next, the desirability of capable all-round performance. Then take the new Oldsmobile's wheel. Experience the thrilling getaway—the brilliant speed—the increased power and smoothness of this great new car. Test, too, its remarkable ease of control—in starting, shifting, steering, and braking—comparable with that of the highest priced cars.
- 3 When you have defined your requirements on these points, and applied them to Oldsmobile, consider the importance of a third great factor—dependability. With all its important new features, the 1931 Oldsmobile gives you the same proved fundamentals which have won the praise of nearly a quarter of a million owners during the past three years.
- 4 Finally, consider the importance of price in relation to all these things. Then analyze Oldsmobile's value in terms of what you get for what you pay. You will find that the new Oldsmobile is not only finer than ever in quality, but that it is also lower in price. And lower price plus finer quality makes the new Oldsmobile's value doubly impressive.

ROCKNE

...his 72-year-old mother and a host of children and a host of friends, came to the church there to the beloved football player. Thousands, forced to forego admission to the church because of the room, bared and bowed their heads in silent testimony. Inside the church, where his family and of his friends knelt in prayer, another tribute from the man probably knew him better than of the rest—the Rev. Father L. O'Donnell, C. S. C., president of Notre Dame university, before the hushed congregation, O'Donnell said Rockne was not a man who made use of the methods of modern activity essentially not modern at all; quite elementary, humanly Christian, giving himself, spending himself like water, not for himself but for others. He concluded his eulogy with the words, "may his soul and the souls of all the faithful departed, through the mercy of God, rest in peace". As the last word dropped from Father O'Donnell's lips, Notre Dame's football heroes cracked and cried. There was hard-boiled "Hunk" Anderson, Rockne's first assistant coach; Roger Kiley, Gus Durais, Eddie Anderson, and the "Four Horsemen"—Crowley, Stuhldreher, Layden and Miller, and others, whose emotion could not be restrained. As the body was blessed and taken out to the chants of 40 choirmasters, an angelus bell in the belfry of the church tolled its mournful chimed, while overhead, with a touch of irony but meant with the spirit of deepest sympathy, several airplanes saluted. The services in the church, were conducted from an altar before which Romans stood and worshiped 350 years ago. At 4 p.m., the cortege of 50 limousines escorted by a squadron of nine motorcycle policemen, began its final journey to the cemetery.

MYSTERIOUS WAYE

SYNOPSIS: Mr. James dies from a drink of poison he had prepared to kill Marjorie Landreth, and, in the ensuing confusion at Dr. Charters' nursing home, John Wayne, with Sister Wilford's help, gets the girl out of the place. Confronted with the tragic developments, Charters admits James is his son, as emphatically "We've told" him that Schultz, Depont and James have gone and that he, Charters, is being saved for the last. Wayne decides to accompany Marjorie to India where she is to wed her fiancé, Captain Landreth. But when, at his request, Sister Wilford hands his passport in the case he had worn on the day he first came to the home, it is missing. He obtains another and sets out for India with Marjorie.

Chapter 27 TWO CONCLUSIONS

"You absolutely insist on going back at once?" said Marjorie, studying the face of her dear friend, sympathetically, a little sadly.

"Yes, Marjorie. I'm going back," he said.

Around them was the shrill turmoil of the Great Indian Peninsula Railway terminus at Bombay, a noise unheard by John Wayne as he held Marjorie's hand and said "Good-by."

He had refused to take his farewell of her elsewhere than in this most public of places, after having given her away, before the altar of Bombay Cathedral.

"You do like Reggie, don't you?" asked Marjorie, glancing to where her husband of an hour was superintending his orderly bestowal of hand-luggage, bedding, hampers and other impedimenta in the big reserved compartment of the train that was to bear them across the plains of India.

"I approve of Reggie. I pass him. I leave you in his hands without a doubt or a fear. He strikes me as a splendid specimen of a fine type of man—your Indian Army Officer."

"I'm so glad, dear John," said Marjorie, flushing warmly.

"How can I thank you? How can I ever begin to thank you?"

"By being happy," John Wayne patted the hand he held. "Happy as the day is long."

"I shall be there," replied the girl. "But you, John? Will you write me a nice long, long letter—all about yourself? All that you care to tell me, that is."

"I was going to do that anyway, Marjorie. To let you know how and why I became a criminal and a convict, and came to England with the firm intention of committing at least four murders. I want

"Come on, Marjorie," called Captain Landreth, jumping down from the carriage-door and seizing her arm. "All aboard."

"I say, Sir," he continued, "what on earth can I say, to give you some idea of what I feel? I'm not good at it. . . . But I never heard of such kindness. . . . Sit right out and back again, just to hand her over. And you saved her life too. Well, I mean to say. . . . The young man wrong John Wayne's hand."

"Good - by, dearest John," said you're John Wayne," was the non-committal reply.

"Of course I am," replied Charters impatiently. "Who else do you think I am?"

"I don't think you're anybody else," was the answer.

From his dispatch-case, Dr. Charters produced John Wayne's passport.

"Photo's a bad one," he said, "and taken a good many years ago at that."

"Good enough," replied the detective. "Quite O. K. Fine. You're John Wayne, all right. . . . And now, John, if you'll come along with us, we'll soon put you right where you can finish that life-sentence you walked away from. Coming quietly?"

Dr. Theodore Charters went quietly and indeed from him no sound has since been heard out of the shadows of the prison house across the gulf that separates the bond from the free.

For the mantle of John Wayne, about his shoulders, inevitably conceals his identity. For life, unless the real John Wayne were discovered or declared himself.

"Not" that dignity said first. "By that foolishness? I never heard of it!"

Now Eddie can't sing or dance, but he took his punishment and went on his way to hits and new glory in pictures for other studios.

Studios have ways and means of bringing employes to terms, and Eddie, probably for discipline's sake, was placed in a supporting role in the musical "Mile. Modiste."

The Best Dollar You Will Ever Spend!

Q THERE are coins of many nationalities, and as many denominations, but the best coin you will ever spend is the money that goes into a home for yourself and family. Rent receipts can not be used to pay for the home you so much desire; they only show that you are buying property for your landlord.

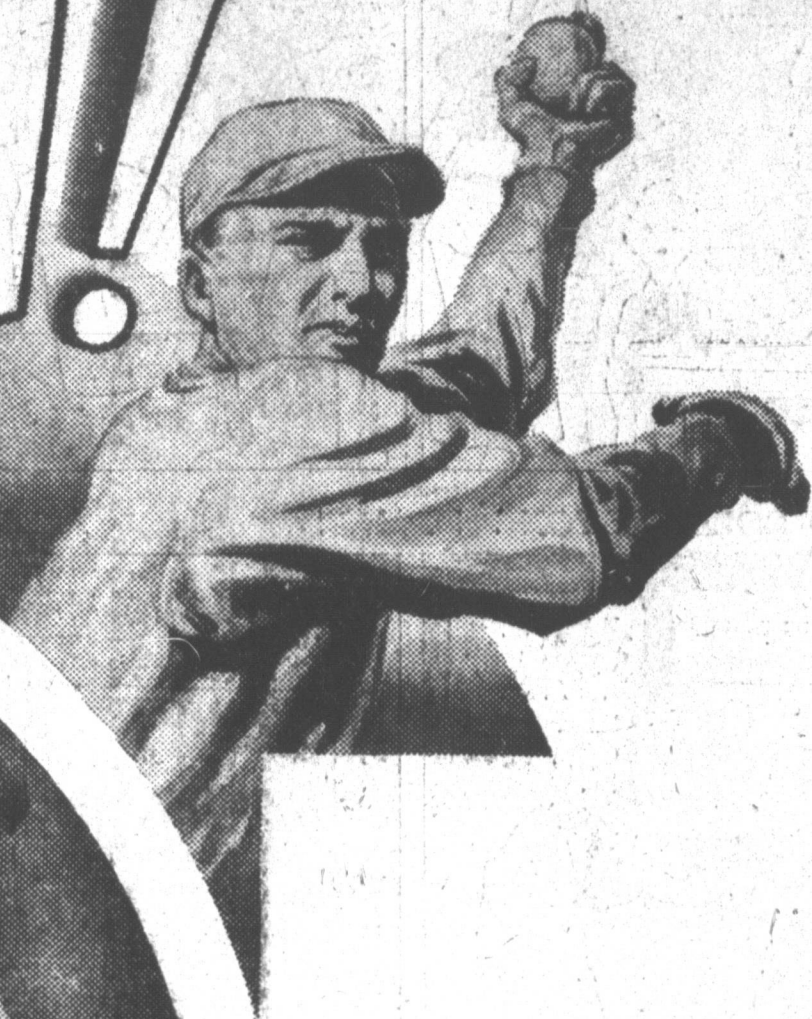

Q INSTEAD of dropping money into the pockets of some other person, why not call on any one of the Hoo-Hoo affiliated yards and arrange to own your own home? Pampa lumbermen have faith in Pampa; they want to see you living in your own home, and will be glad to co-operate with you to that end. Don't wait; your dollars will go further now!

RADIO DAY BY DAY

by C. E. BUTTERFIELD (Time is Eastern Standard)

NEW YORK, April 4.—Special programs in observance of Easter, including sunrise services on both coasts, services at Arlington cemetery, Washington, and a sermon from overseas, will come to listeners tomorrow.

Practically every feature of the day is to be devoted to sacred music, and special sermons will be delivered during the weekly religious periods. Included in the programs will be the closing concert of this season's radio series by the Philadelphia orchestra, Leopold Stokowrather than increased effectiveness of the play. Hans Chlubner, the author, was an Austrian army officer, and he came from a military family. So increased did he become at so much war that he wrote "Miracle at Verdun" as an indictment of all those who seek to begin again the roll of battle drums.

Back to Life In Verdun he has the dead soldiers rise from their graves again and start for the homes they once knew. Thirteen million dead men come to life and seek out their accustomed places in the world, places which have disappeared or have been filled by others.

They return to life to find that they must remain dead men. They are not wanted, spurned by their families, their churches and their governments. And they come back to find that the war to end all wars has been forgotten and that even now hostile nations are preparing for new conflicts.

It is a tremendously virile play, an indictment which cannot be ignored in the halls of nations. But that is an hour that belongs to the author. It is to his greater credit that his play is powerful enough for the most part to plunge through the merry-go-round of novel effects which hamper its presentation.

Talks To Parents

THE TODDLER'S PLAY (By Alice Judson Feale)

One young father confided to me his worries about his two-year-old son. "He treats his wooly dog and his boat and his blocks all as if they were exactly alike," he said. "He never makes up any games about them, and he doesn't have the remotest idea what the boat represents. He just carries them around and piles them up in corners or dumps them in and out of his wagon."

"I've tried to show him how to build with his blocks, but all he wants to do is to knock them down. I really don't think he is quite bright."

Unless one knows what to expect of a two-year-old, one is very likely to come to some such conclusion after watching him at his play.

The fact is the two-year-old is so engrossed with the mere excitement of walking and handling and discovering that he does very little else.

Merely emptying objects from one container into another, dragging his blocks about the nursery in his little wagon, making his pull toys go, lifting, climbing, and endlessly trotting back and forth and round and about within the confines of his small world, are all absorbing, new and highly satisfying occupations.

Such activity should assure the parent that his child is developing in an entirely normal and desirable way. The background of experience and the imagination to use such experience in games of make-believe will not be his normally even in its crudest form for about another year. It is a mistake, therefore, to urge him to a kind of play for which he is not yet ready. A parent who would play with his two-year-old must do so on the child's own level.

ABOUT NEW YORK

(By Richard Massock)

NEW YORK—The king and queen of Siam will live at Ophir Hall, the country estate of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, when they visit America in April.

There they will see one of the most remarkable horticultural rarities in the United States—a private bed of orchids.

Sixteen years ago Mrs. Reid began to collect Calanthe hybrids, or terrestrial orchids, beginning with about 300 plants. Now her collection is one of the finest in America, numbering more than 5,000.

When Mrs. Reid gives a dinner in her Madison avenue mansion the table is decorated with home-grown flowers worth, at the market price, several thousand dollars. Good way to get orchids—get an invitation.

Michael Gold, a radical author, is having to pay $1,000 to a man in London whom he never has met.

It seems the man's name is Kid Lewis. One of the habits of an east side dive in Gold's book, "Jews Without Money," also is given the name Kid Lewis.

The book was published in England after an American success, and, the English libel laws being what they are, Gold is giving up a share of his royalties to the London Kid.

Evidence that New Yorkers don't know so much about their town are the restaurant guides in newspapers and magazines read almost exclusively by residents.

People who have convivial friends who are in the habit of telephoning at 3 a. m. to say they are coming over through the dial 'phones would be a break for them. They were happy in the belief the dial would confuse their friends at that stage of all-night parties.

Now they find they get about as many calls from sky-larkers as formerly. But now these are mostly wrong-number calls, dialed by fingers unsteady but untiring, trying to get some other Ed or Mabel.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS THINK

INDIVIDUALITY COUNTS

In spite of the many platitudes voiced to the effect that there is no prescribed course to success, it is interesting still to read the stories of successful careers in some of the popular magazines and consider the characteristics that made for success in each individual case. It is interesting to note that the policies which men of achievement lay down for the aspiring young person to follow are frequently diametrically opposed.

One saves money to the point of parsimony. The other says spend liberally on anything that will contribute to the general understanding.

One says studiously avoid details and acquire the habit of ignoring all the inconsequential matters that clutter up the mind and make for confusion in thought. Another admonishes the youth to pay close attention to the details as he goes along, declaring one can never know too much about the work which he sometime expects to supervise.

One prescribes precision, punctuality, and regularity in hours. Another has found that he accomplishes most when he permits his brain to function with as little regard as possible for extraneous matters.

All this conflicting advice need not be confusing to the young man. Instead it should serve to impress him with the necessity of studying himself and determining what methods are most adaptable to his own temperament and habits of thought. After all if there was a set formula for successful achievement all would be standardized. Individuality must still be expressed by every human being, and one who attempts to ape others without regard to his individual traits is inviting difficulties.—Vernon Record.

UNAUTHORIZED C. O. D. PARCELS

A Dallas merchandiser has adopted the old scheme of sending merchandise, hosiery, but c. o. d. to persons who have not ordered it. At least one Plainview firm has received such a package. This firm is not in the habit of receiving merchandise c. o. d., but the person calling for the mail paid the package out, thinking that some member of the firm might have ordered something from some house with which the firm had not arranged a credit account.

Such abuse of the privilege of the postoffice department and annoyance to the public is not only a nuisance, but can lead to abuses much more serious.

It is to be hoped that the postoffice department will make thorough investigation of this case, and unless shipment to the Plainview addressee was merely inadvertent, deal with this case summarily.—Plainview Herald.

WHAT DO YOU THINK OF YOUR PREACHER?

How do you regard your preacher? Does he mean anything more to you than your other friends, associates and acquaintances? Does his life, his actions and his deportment mean any more to you than that of your other associates and friends?

Preachers, it seems, sometimes see far behind the scenes. They have a wide contact with every class of humanity and they usually are so constituted that they look at the real source rather than the apparent one. They look to the good in a man rather than to the evil.

A man was telling his minister the other day that he did not think it fair that people should so severely criticize a preacher for doing things that would draw very little or no censure to an ordinary layman.

"You know that I appreciate that," the preacher declared, "I appreciate it because it shows that people believe their preachers are the best men in the community—that they represent the highest profession, the highest business and that they do not want it smudged or sullied. They are willing to let laymen do as they please but they want the preacher to keep clean," he stated.

The other contended he had always regarded this trait a very human one that tends to deny the other fellow what one will arrogate to himself. There are undoubtedly cases in which this latter idea is the correct one but it is equally true that the former conception often applies.

There is much good in the worst of us. The preacher represents the highest and best in the world and as that representative it is true that most people, regardless of what they may be, would like to see the Ambassador of God keep clean.—Dalhart Texan.

THE BANDIT

We cannot say that we are exactly in favor of repealing the law prohibiting concealed weapons. Such action may not be as far wrong as we might think. There would be considerable less hi-jacking, in fact it would almost abolish it, if the hi-jacker was of the opinion that the man he was robbing was prepared to defend himself.

From newspaper reports it seems that many of the bad bandits are getting away with some of their easy hauls with big guns pointed in the face of unarmed civilian. The average civilian is fast getting to the point where he feels that the shooting down of a bandit is a mere necessity for the protection of his home and business and society in general. This is good protection of society as against the bandits, but after all it may be an indication that society is weakening. Disregard by the average citizen for human life of any sort cannot be a thing to be very proud of. At least it is one step backward toward savagery.—Perryton Vanguard.

Sometimes we think it wouldn't be such a bad idea if train announcers changed stations with radio announcers.

Chicago news is good and bad. Just before Brothers was sentenced for the murder of Jake Lingle, Al Capone was freed of a vagrancy charge "because no policeman could be found intimate enough with the gang chief to testify as to his vagrancy." And all the time we had thought there were many Chicago cops intimate with the hoodlums.

The legislature has been having a hectic time with the thousand bills which have been presented for its study, approval, or disapproval. These are abnormal times. The bills suited for immediate relief will be obsolete in a few years—many by the time the next legislature meets. This fact must be kept in mind. No bills can be killed without some thought, and many cannot be given the ax without prolonged hearings. The people need relief, but some of that relief is from the very deluge of measures wished upon a hard-working legislature.

The current legislature is not the most brilliant to assemble in Austin, but it gives signs of being about as sincere as any recent body of lawmakers. Therefore, a special session, regrettable as it would be, would not be without reason.

Lieut.-Gov. Edgar Witt recently wrote that remarkable work was done in introducing bills and holding hearings. The time is here for passage of bills, and in this there has seemingly been a let-down in the speed with which the legislature voted its debut. The people of Texas voted for the amendment to reorganize the lawmaking body in the belief that the official action could be speeded up and a substantial saving of time, money, and energy effected. It will be regrettable if politics, individual ambitions, and filibustering tactics of minorities jam things at this vital moment. Only the best kind of cooperation can enable the body to finish its task before the deadline. It is with good cause that Governor Sterling and others are discouraging talk of a special session and subsequent slowing of legislative machinery.

Texas is confronted with problems that manifestly cannot be solved in a single session. Some of the solutions will have to wait. Judicious selection of the vital measures appears necessary. What Texas needs and what Texas can afford at this moment are widely divergent.

People of non-oil communities are prone to believe that all one has to do to become wealthy is to drill for oil. It is a too-little known fact that one-third of all the wells drilled are practically worthless. This means that the industry is annually absorbing an enormous loss. Moreover, this loss is especially heavy upon the wildcaters, the independent who have contributed so largely to the development of Texas and who are menaced by present conditions. Oil is, and probably always will be, a gamble. Its appeal to its hardy followers is no less intense because of the danger involved. Oil lore is full of stories of men who have lost every dollar, once or many times, and who have come back. Its records also contain many references to those who get badly burned once and thereafter stay away from petroleum and its elusive riches. The oil game is not a sure-fire road to fortune and legislators especially need to know it.

NEW YORK—Evidence of the spirit of Associated Press reporters is shown by a message that has been received from William H. Ewing, Associated Press bureau chief at Panama, who flew to Managua to aid Correspondent Frisell and others who cooperated with the Associated Press to cover the news of the earthquake. Ewing's message read: "We are working as rapidly as possible with great help from Tropical radio out many difficulties. Transportationless, no sleep, sometimes hungry but without cheerful."

"CASH REGISTER" MACHINE PRINTS PREPAID POSTAGE

WASHINGTON, April 4.—(AP)—A machine for printing and cancelling prepaid postage that works much like a cash register has been adopted by the United States postoffice department.

It is designed for establishments sending out large quantities of mail of various denominations and classifications. The machine prints in one operation the date, weight, class of postage, insurance notation, special delivery, special handling, C. O. D., amount of postage, serial number, machine and permit number. It can be set to cover any amount of prepaid postage, and when this amount is exhausted, automatically locks.

WASHINGTON—Stimulated by the scarcity of jobs and supported by increasing appropriations, the department of labor is making steadily larger inroads on about 100,000 illegally entered aliens in this country who are thought to be deportable.

The drive will continue as long as the increased forces of the immigration service can find aliens whose presence here is not protected by law, according to Assistant Secretary of Labor W. W. Husband, a specialist in immigration.

About 18,500 aliens will have been expelled when this fiscal year ends with June, Husband estimates. There were 16,631 deportations in 1930 and nearly 13,000 in 1929. Plan Drive on Gangsters

Special attention is being given to gangsters and communists, but no spectacular progress is reported in either effort because only small proportions of these groups appear to be deportable.

Most of the deportees are picked up and sent away because they entered the country illegally or because they came for stipulated periods and overstayed.

Just to give an idea of what type of people are being expelled, among last year's crop were about 6,000 who were here without proper visas, 2,000 who stayed longer than permitted, 2,700 who were over 16 and unable to read, 1,700 criminals, 700 persons held to be immoral because of connection with the business of prostitution, 650 who had entered after being deported or debarred, about 1,000 who had become public charges through mental or physical causes and 300 who were likely to become public charges. 50 Per Cent Are Mexicans

About half the deportees are Mexicans and some 1,250 of them were deported last year as criminal or immoral. In the latter group were 241 English, 156 French, 133 Italians and 125 Irish. About 8,500 of the less than 17,000 total of deported aliens were sent to Mexico, 4,500 to Europe and 2,600 to Canada.

Husband estimates the average cost of a deportation—including allowance for personnel salaries—at about $100. The increase in deportations for the last two years, he says, may be attributed to especially intensive work of the immigration service with a force made larger by increased appropriations from congress. The last session of congress gave the bureau $500,000 more for the rest of this fiscal year and that of 1932 largely for extension of deportation activities during the period of unemployment.

The bulk of the deportees should not be classed as "undesirable" aliens, Husband says. Many of them probably would make desirable citizens. They are deported because they are here in violation of the law.

Crossed in Rowboat

"Here's a young woman from eastern Europe who emigrated to Canada and then paid a man $100 to row her over to the United States," the assistant secretary says, pointing to a file. She was picked up and now she must go back to her home country. She has been employed as a domestic and from what we learn, she's a fine young woman.

Here's a fellow from Johannesburg, South Africa, intelligent, speaking good English and 24 years old. He went to the consulate there, applied for a visa and found that he couldn't get within the quota for three or four years. So he went to England, transhipped to Canada and after less than three days there tried to break over the border into Vermont. The border patrol picked him up and took him to St. Albans. He faces trial for illegal entry and may serve a few months in jail, after which he will be deported to South Africa. That's the law.

WASHINGTON—In a queer-shaped brick building on Nineteenth street in the capital, in the neighborhood of the home of the late Chief Justice Taft, a quiet, distinguished, ed States.

Not much is heard of Dr. Wu in Washington. Rarely soft-spoken diplomat may be found.

He is Dr. ChoaChu Wu, Chinese minister to the United States and his legation figure in the news.

But taking with him, one gets the impression that behind that modest exterior is a man of firm purpose and power. And if the conversation swings to that topic perhaps closest his heart—a change in the exercise of extra-territorial powers by the United States in China—one becomes convinced.

For he has set as his diplomatic goal the bringing about of such a change. Accomplishment of it he cherishes above everything he might do as Chinese minister to the United States.

A reason for his interest in this subject is that he regards himself almost as much American as Chinese.

It was not so many years ago that he sat as a boy in a public school of the capital. His father was then China's minister to Washington.

Archie and Quentin Roosevelt, sons of the president, were there at the same time. "Pickles" they called him, and took delight in pulling the queue that hung down the back of his oriental costume.

There are many in Washington who remember the Wu of those days—a short, stocky, bespectacled lad. His fists were respected, his ability to shoot marbles envied, his knack of getting good grades well known. He entered the third grade, but within a year had jumped to the sixth. He was in high school a good deal ahead of his classmates.

In high school he exchanged his silk coat and trousers for a blue military uniform. And he is proud that on March 4, 1901, as a cadet of Company H, he marched in the McKinley inaugural parade up Pennsylvania avenue from the capitol to the White House.

The best eye-opener, according to Prohibition Pete, is the alarm clock.

No, Dorothy, a hoax is not a garden tool used for chopping purposes.
