Man charged in wife's death

By DEBORAH BRIDGES

Staff Writer Preston Wayne Maynard, 45, of the Pampa Mobile Home Park has been charged with first degree murder in connection with the shooting death of his wife Shirley Louise, Gray County Sheriff Rufe Jordan said today. Maynard is in satisfactory condition today in an Amarillo hospital, suffering from a gunshot wound he received in the incident.

The murder charges were filed with the District Attorney's office at about 4 p.m. Thursday, Assistant District Attorney Penny Burt said.

Jordan said a warrant was issued at the time the

NATO threatens end of detente

ministers, declaring "Poland should be free to decide its own future" warned today they would react if the Soviet Union intervened in Poland, but did not specify what their governments would do

Soviet intervention would mean the end of East-West detente, they said. But it was generally accepted at the meeting that direct NATO military action would be undesirable and probably touch of a world war.

A communique issued by the foreign ministers at the end of their annual winter meeting underscored the "great concern" felt by the allies at "the menace which hangs over Poland.

The declaration said in part: "Poland should be free to decide its own future. The allies respect the principle of non-intervention and strongly urge others to do likewise. Any intervention would fundamentally alter the entire international situation. The allies will be compelled to react in the manner which the gravity of this development would require.

"Therefore the council will keep the situation in close

Soviet efforts to restore the confidence necessary will meet with a ready response from the allies.

The communique set the Polish crisis against the background of the year-old Soviet intervention in Afghanistan and what was described as Moscow's "continuing military buildup.

The Soviets, the allies said, have used force in breach of the principles of the U.N. charter and international

"Detente has brought appreciable benefits to East-West cooperation," their declaration went on. But it has been seriously damaged by Soviet actions. It could not survive if the Soviet Union were again to violate the basic rights of any state, its territorial integrity and independence

Foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Alliance winding up their annual winter meeting today, agreed that Soviet intervention could take varying forms. ranging from a military strike to a regime of repression by a puppet government in Warsaw.

The ministers also agreed that different forms of intervention would require different responses. So they ordered their permanent NATO representatives in Brussels to continue preparing for every conceivable set of circumstances. And they agreed on arrangements to ensure speedy response to any Soviet

Secretary of State Edmund Muskie said he and his colleagues at their first day-long meeting Thursday expressed "very strong, positive, unanimous expressions of points of view on the Polish situation." He told reporters any sort of Soviet intervention would be "the gravest sort of development, one that would call for the most serious kinds of responses.

But he refused to specify any likely responses, and said: "Given the possible scenarios, I doubt that the ingenuity of man could construct an automatic response

The French, who traditionally take a mayerick stance within the alliance, also emphasized the unanimity of the allies.

Women assaulted after local PTA meeting

Police are continuing their search for two men in connection with the assault of two Pampa women as they left a PTA meeting at Baker Elementary School Thursday night.

According to Pampa Police Department reports, a 31 - year - old Pampa woman and a 35 - year - old Pampa woman were assaulted by two white males as the women walked to a car parked outside the elementary school on South Barnes Street after a Parent Teacher's Association meeting.

Police reports said one suspect was described as being about $5\,$ feet. 8 inches tall, the second 5 feet tall

The assailants reportedly began cursing at the women, who asked them to leave. The two males approached the vehicle, cursing the children, the report said. The taller suspect reportedly threatened to cut one of the children's throats.

As one mother ran up to the suspect, he hit the woman on the left arm and "stomped" her foot, the report said. The report said the suspect then turned and struck the other woman in the face. After the assault, both suspects reportedly fled from the scene on

Chief of Police J. J. Ryzman said no one had been arrested in connection with the incident. He said he did not know if the suspects were juveniles.

A mother in her early 30s must handle the responsibility of providing for her three children alone. One of the children is a teenager. The other two are in elementary school. The family lives in their grandmother's house but must pay the utilities. The mother works cleaning houses, whenever possible, but it is not steady employment. They receive no government assistance and are trying to survive on what she can make each week.

Gas prices to soar due to Persian war

 $WASHINGTON\ (AP) = Gasoline\ prices\ could\ climb$ 10 to 45 cents a gallon by next summer due the Iran-Iraq war, a new congressional analysis predicts.

Such an increase could occur even if the conflict ends by spring and the two Persian Gulf nations begin rebuilding their oil empires, said the analysis by the Congressional Research Service of the Library of

Tighter supplies will be a major cause of the price increase, not only in higher prices for crude oil but also in refiners taking advantage of the tight market to recoup profits lost during this year's gasoline glut, said the study released Thursday

In addition, the study said, refiners are unlikely to put their inventories on the market - the historical practice, and one that helps hold down prices because the war has convinced the industry that *stockpiles are valuable assets and should be

"Gasoline prices might rise by 40 to 45 cents per gallon between now and mid-1981 if all the components of this increase are realized," the study concluded.

Before their war. Iran and Iraq were exporting a total of 4 million barrels of oil a day. But those sales have virtually stopped.

While the report estimated that the actual impact on global oil markets of the war is somewhat less -400,000 to 1.4 million barrels a day — nevertheless higher world oil prices will likely result in the aftermath of the war, even if it ends within the next few

The world oil price was about $32.50 per barrel before the Iran-Iraq war and had been expected to climb $2 per barrel next month. But the report said that, "rather than this modest increase, a notably sharper one should be anticipated ... in a market where countries previously dependent on Iran and Iraq scramble to make up supplies on the spot market. The analysis said an "informed, best-guess reaction to the present situation" would put world crude oil prices at $38 to $40 a barrel next year. The analysis said such price increases would add 26

Reagan Cabinet members favor tax, budget cuts into the shape Reagan wants, noted that during the campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) - Ronald Reagan's first eight Cabinet choices - all white, male and Republican - are speaking up quickly in favor of the president-elect's plans to reduce taxes, cut the federal budget and strengthen national defense

Still to come after presentation of the first group Thursday. Reagan's decision on a secretary of state, an important foreign policy post that retired Gen. Alexander Haig seems increasingly likely to fill

The first eight selections included New York financier Donald T. Regan as treasury secretary. Reagan confidant Caspar Weinberger as defense secretary and his personal lawyer, William

French Smith, as attorney general. There were no surprises as Reagan's aides also introduced Rep. , David A. Stockman of Michigan as budget director, Reagan

Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., as secretary of health and human services. Connecticut industrialist Malcolm Baldrige as commerce secretary and deputy Republican Party chairman Drew Lewis as transportation secretary

Regan, chairman of Merrill Lynch & Co., the nation's largest brokerage firm, joined Baldrige in labeling inflation the nation's No.1 problem

Both tax cuts and budget cuts are needed to fight inflation and stimulate productivity, said Regan, whose appointment gives the Cabinet roster an economic spokesman the Reagan team hopes will be respected in both Congress and in financial circles.

Stockman, who will inherit the job of molding the federal budget

Reagan promised at least a 2 percent cut, "and I think there's no indication that we will back off from that.

Weinberger, who won the nickname "Cap the Knife" for his budget-cutting work in former President Richard M. Nixon's administration, was asked about his plans now for national defense He refused to be specific but said. "I support a strong American military force wherever it is in our best interest to do so.

Reagan still must name seven more Cabinet-level appointees. and various sources say he will move quickly to nominate Haig as secretary of state — perhaps by this weekend.

All the appointments are subject to Senate confirmation, and there have been reports Haig could face Democratic opposition because of his role in the Watergate scandal as Nixon's last chief of

However, Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., who will take over as majority leader in January, said Thursday he expects Haig to be appointed by Reagan and confirmed by the Senate

Other unfilled Cabinet posts include the secretaries of labor, agriculture, interior, education, energy and housing and urban development. The budget and CIA directors are accorded the same status as the 13 department heads who formally comprise the

Reagan selection method unlike past procedure

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — President-elect Ronald Reagan's prepared announcements and press releases rather than in person. style in filling Cabinet-level jobs, although different from recent national tradition, is similar to method he used as California's governor-elect 14 years ago.

On Thursday, Reagan named eight people to key posts, but stayed away from a formal announcement. He prefered instead to issue a prepared statement saying those selected "bring a common dedication to be true" to the American people.

Reagan's style was departure from previous announcements of Cabinet appointees - the president-elect did not appear before reporters with his choices in a group to formally introduce them to the public.

Also, Reagan's choices were named somewhat piecemeal. Still to be decided, among others, are his selections for the top Cabinet post of secretary of state and secretary of the interior.

In California, during December 1966, Governor-elect Reagan often announced his choices for key state positions through

For example, his decision to name Thomas Reed to appointments secretary - a key post with the responsibility of sifting Reagan's choices for state jobs - was made by prepared statement. And first word that Edwin Meese III, then a deputy district attorney in Alameda County and now a key Reagan aide, had been appointed as clemency case secretary came from an aide to the

Likewise, the decision to retain temporarily two key prison officials from the outgoing administration of Edmund G. "Pat" Brown were made through Reed.

Candidates for key positions were sifted by screening committees set up by Reagan's transition team, in the same fashion Reagan's transition team is now culling candidates for Cabinet-level posts.

And the governor-elect's first appointee, Los Angeles attorney Philip Battaglia to executive secretary or chief of staff, supervised much of the selection process.

Abuse allegation filed by panel checking mental facility

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) — A former worker's allegations of ranging in age from 10 to 50. abuse at a state mental retardation center has led to the unpaid suspensions of seven employees

The workers were suspended Dec. 5, a day after state officials heard about alleged incidents at the Rio Grande State Center for Mental Health and Mental Retardation, Director Blas Cantu said Thursday.

Cantu said an internal investigating panel has been interviewing other employees about the alleged incidents. The complaints ranged from verbal abuse to negligence that led to a resident hurting himself

The committee probably will announce its findings today or Monday, he added.

The employees all worked directly with mentally retarded boys who require 24-hour care, Cantu said. "The allegations were made by a former employee when he learned there was no possiblity of being reinstated to his former post," Cantu said. "He said he thought there were some things going on we should know about." The director would not release names of the employees being investigated. An outside panel drawn from the community is conducting a separate investigation, he added.

The allegations against each employee are different and cover a four-month period ending last month, Cantu said.

In one incident, a worker failed to restrain a resident who cut his head by hitting it against the wall and later required stitches, he

Union trying to influence appointment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Teamsters Union, the only major labor group to endorse Ronald Reagan for president, is using all its political muscle to block a leading candidate for labor secretary in favor of its "one choice," labor lawyer Betty S. Murphy

An intensified drive by the nation's largest union to influence Reagan's choice for the Labor Department post follows reports that the president-elect was leaning toward New Jersey construction executive Ray Donovan for the job.

Jackie Presser, an influential vice president of the 2 million-member union, told Reagan's top adviser, Edwin Meese III. Wednesday that the union wanted "to make perfectly clear we have only one choice and that is Betty Murphy," said Teamsters spokesman Duke Zeller.

Teamsters President Frank Fitzsimmons called Reagan on Thursday to re-emphasize the union's position, and although he

Troop movement indicates Poles may be on standby

WASHINGTON (AP) - Army readiness in eastern Poland has been increased in what U.S. analysts describe as the first concrete indication that Poles - not Soviets - might be used to suppress popular unrest

The report by U.S. intelligence sources came Thursday after Poland's army newspaper repeatedly warned the country's independent labor movement against any actions that would threaten the communist hold there. The paper hinted Poland's armed forces might take a direct hand to suppress dissent.

According to reports reaching here, all of Poland's army divisions assigned to eastern part of the country have been ordered to an 80 percent level of readiness. U.S. specialists said this is considerably higher than normal. The sketchy reports did not specify whether the increased readiness orders came from Polish government civilian leaders, Polish generals or Soviet military officials. Poland is a member of the Warsaw Pact, which is dominated by the Soviet military.

Although the Polish army newspaper backed Communist Party leaders and warned dissidents, U.S. specialists on Eastern Europe say they doubt that Polish soldiers could be relied upon to suppress their countrymen violently.

could not get through immediately to the president-elect, he was told Reagan would get back to him, said Zeller.

Indeed, one transition source said the message may be getting through. Until Wednesday, Donovan seemed assured of being picked, but "the Teamsters waded in with Murphy and opened that decision again," said the source, who did not want to be named. Another transition source said he did not believe Reagan had ever made a firm decision on Donovan. But he added of the union's renewed appeal on behalf of Mrs. Murphy: "I can't believe it won't have an impact Presser, head of the Ohio Conference of Teamsters, is one of the union's most politically active officers and is considered a possible

Presser, who visited the Reagan transition office Wednesday, is being designated a "senior adviser" to Stanton Anderson, who heads up the transition's economic issues department. An announcement was expected today.

Mrs. Murphy, a former chairwoman of the National Labor Relations Board, was a labor adviser to Reagan during the campaign and helped bring the Teamsters into the Republican fold during the campaign In endorsing Reagan, the union broke with the mainstream of the labor movement, which lined up almost solidly behind President Carter for re-election. The only other national union to back Reagan was the 35,000-member National Maritime Union.

PPOA to sponsor Jubilee

The Pampa Police Officers Association is sponsoring the "Ozarks Country Jubilee" at 7:30 p.m., Jan. 29 in M. K. Brown Auditorium. The show consists of a group of talented persons from Missouri who blend country music, bluegrass and gospel with a smattering of mountain comedy

Proceeds from the program will go to buying equipment for the Pampa Police Department's Special Weapons and Tactics force, Chief of Police J. J. Ryzman said.

The Ozarks Country Jubilee was voted the fourth best theatre show in the nation by Cash Box Magazine.

The Jubilee is presently filming a 26 - week television series in their theatre in Springfield, Mo. to bee seen nationwide weekly in the near future.

AUSTIN (AP) — The business of selecting Texans for federal jobs and appointments will no longer be the exclusive privilege of senior Sen. John Tower, the Republican lawmaker says.

Tower told a news conference Thursday that two other key Texas Republicans — Vice President George Bush and Gov. Bill Clements — will share appointment duties in the Reagan administration.

"I will still primarily consider the appointment of "judges because that is part of the (Senate) confirmation process," Tower said.

 Historically, the ranking senator of the party in "power - Tower - would be responsible for recommending Texans for federal appointments and

Committee, said the "tripartite" would consider all applicants in a "collective decision-making process."

'During the last Republican administration I was the only Republican representative from Texas. Now I am delighted to share the responsibility," he said. The Texas Republican Party will provide research background, funded by the Texas Victory Committee, an arm of the state GOP party, he said. "If any one of the three principals feel strongly about an appointee, I'm sure that will prevail," he said. We're not going to run over anybody on this. He said the agreement would apply primarily to federal employment under the new administration. Almost 3,000 Texans have applied for jobs.

Tower said he talked with President-elect Ronald Reagan Thursday morning and told him that a Senate committee confirmation hearing on Caspar W Weinberger, Reagan's selection for secretary of defense, would be held at "the earliest possible moment.

Tower said he saw no serious difficulty in Senate confirmation of any of the eight cabinet selections named Thursday Earlier in Houston, Tower said he felt "no

Had he been offered the post, he would have "considered it very carefully," although it would have removed him from the powerful Senate Armed Services chairmanship, Tower told reporters in Austin.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

It's a time for healing

Now that the political shouting has died down, all of us can heave a sigh and lower our voices. It is a time for thought, for reas sessment and for consideration

Those who have won public office, like Ronald Reagan, need to think in terms of representing all the people, not merely the most vocal or most influential partisans.

And the voters need to think in terms of coming together in support of the new leadership. Campaign antagonisms ought to be put aside. The period from election day until inauguration day should be a period of healing. Respite from incessant political harangues is welcome. Let's make the most of it.

Unbashful Bush an asset

George Bush may make his own mark during the coming Ronald Reagan administration.

Although an unswerving supporter of the top man on the Republican ticket, Bush has given notice that he is also his own man.

In emphasizing that the president - elect is not a captive of any pressure group, Bush declared that he would not be intimidated by warnings from some of the more extreme organizations that he hew the Acknowledging differences with the Reagan position on abortion, the Equal Rights Amendment and school prayer, Bush stated that he never made any secret of his views and will not be influenced by threats of political retaliation.

But he defended the right of those religious groups concerned with the strength of family and patriotism to defend and advance their views. And he noted that "nobody got all excited" about long - standing political activities on "the more liberal side" of the spectrum.

Bush earlier projected an image of firmness and fairness in his pursuit of the presidency. The qualities likely will serve him - and Reagan — well during the next four years.

Soak-the-rich won't work

Supply - side tax cut proposals are often criticized as a costly break for the rich at the expense of the poor. A study by the Washington based Tax Foundation sheds some light on that argument.

Using 1977 Treasury data (latest available), the foundation calculates that if the tax rate that year had been 100 percent on all earnings now taxed at rates above 50 percent, the government would have gained only $6.97 billion in extra revenue — enough to pay federal bills for less than one week.

Taxable income as low as $34,200 put a single taxpayer above the 50 percent bracket in 1977, the foundation reports.

Only half of what you see

TV viewers can recall about half the stories they see on national news, a team from Cleveland State University's communication department found. More than half of those interviewed could identify the central point of the recalled stories, but details were fuzzy

About one - fourth could provide the main point of a story and add several correct details. The opening and closing stories had the highest recall as did stories shorter than 30 seconds.

A big problem with understanding TV news, the researchers said, is that people do not give it their undivided attention. Two - thirds of the viewers were doing something else while watching, the investigators discovered

Mighty sweet news

This might be merely a blip on the TV screen of inflation, but ... did you notice what M&M-MARS is doing?

It is increasing the weight of its major candy bars and packs without raising prices.

Now how about that? Let's hear three cheers for Three Musketeers! Maybe they ll adopt a new slogan for M&Ms ... something like More &

The news came in recently and had just the right ring to get the weekend off on a sweet note.

The weight increases range from a low of seven percent on Snickers Bars - from 1.69 to 1.8 ounces - to a high of 13 percent on Milky Way Bars -from 1.69 to 1.91 ounces. Other products with higher weights include 3 Musketeers, Mars Bars, Twix Cookie Bars and M&M's Plain and Peanut Chocolate Candies.

All over town, you go in stores and note that prices have increased since you were in there last. That favorite brand of pickles is up. Cheese that you want for Christmas gifts is up. Toys? If you have to ask the price, then you can't afford them.

We haven't checked the price of toothpaste, but you can bet your bottom molar that it is up, too. And now that we'll be eating more candy with more of it for the same price, we'll be needing more toothpaste. And more attention from the dentist! Gotcha coming and going.

But it is nice to know that there is SOMEBODY trying to break the inflation cycle. Those Mars folks are mighty sweet!

How to de-federalize welfare

By Robert J. Wagman WASHINGTON (NEA) - One of Ronald Reagan's chief campaign promises was to 'slash welfare fraud" and return the administration of welfare programs to the states. It's easy to dismiss this pledge as campaign rhetoric given the size of the federal welfare bureaucracy.

But close advisers insist that the president - elect is very serious about returning welfare to the states - and already has a blueprint for doing so.

In June 1979, Rep. John Rousselot, a conservative Republican from California, introduced a welfare bill (HR-4460) considered so far out that it received little attention. Now that legislation is being examined closely, for it details how the Reagan administration hopes to reform the welfare system.

In fact, the real author of the Rousselot bill was Robert Carleson, California welfare director under Reagan and head of the Reagan transition team on welfare.

Under HR-4460, welfare reform would occur in two stages. First would come the reduction of fraud and waste, then the

Critics assert, however, that the

As for returning welfare programs to the states, Reagan would start by changing the way the federal government pays for AFDC. Instead of simply receiving unlimited matching funds, each state would be determined by such factors as the state's previous welfare payments, population changes, economic conditions and unemployment. These "modifiers" would be substantially more restrictive then the current system, which bases increases in funding on the ever-rising consumer price index.

At first, federal formulas would be used in the distribution of these block-grant monies to the poor. But states could also impose their own conditions (such as work requirements) tempered only by a few overriding federal guidelines (such as not requiring mothers with pre-school children to hold paying jobs.)

Meanwhile, demonstration programs would give several states sole authority over their eligibility requirements and disbursement formulas. The most successful programs would become models for other states.

After about five years, the block grants to the states would begin to be reduced by a set percentage yearly while some of the taxing sources would be returned to the states. The goal would be for the states to eventually raise and distribute welfare money without interference from Washington.

If the states succeed in taking over AFDC, food stamps and Medicaid would probably be next.

Critics point out that states would be merely allowed — not required — to finance and administer this aid to the poor. So, states could slash the hearts out of their welfare programs, with the possible result being a return to the migrations of the poor 20 and more years ago from the South, where welfare payments were inadequate to those Northern states where payments were high.

Nevertheless, Reagan and his closest advisers do not doubt that welfare can be successfully defederalized. So, look for the prompt reintroduction of Rousselot's bill in the next Congress with administration support. Welfare "reform" will likely be one of the first major issues to face the newly elected Senate and House. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

You'd better not count on welfare

By Oscar Cooley We are being warned that Social Security is going broke. The security it promises is

The wage and salary earners of the nation are paying large Social Security taxes - "contributors." the government facetiously calls them -- and are told that this money is invested, much as an insurance company invests the premiums you pay, and at 65 you will be able to retire and start getting the money back, with interest, in monthly "benefits.

But now it seems this is not sure to happen. When you retire at 65 you may not be able to get the benefit payments, or get all of them, because the money just is not there. Why isn't it there? What has become

Well, it has been, and is being, spent. It has not really been saved for you, the 'contributor." but has been paid out in benefits to others and maybe to meet other government obligations for all we know. Social Security is not insurance, after all.

Social Security is a tax, plus a promise. both by the federal government. Earners are taxed on their earnings. They may retire at 65 (often they are required to by their employer) and claim a monthly check from bureaucrats in Washington, who determine the amount to be paid and for

Moral: Don't depend on the government to take care of you in your old age, or at any other time. Save independently during your earning years and invest your savings carefully so they will earn more savings for Further: Don't plan on retiring at 65, or at any other particular age. Continue to work as long as you wish; it will be good for your health as well as your wealth. If your employer retires you from one job, get another. Or be your own employer. That everyone should retire at 65 was not such a bright idea And don't depend on Social Security or on any other form of government welfare to take care of you and yours, either now or later. If you are a wage-earner, don't trust that when you are laid off unemployment compensation will support you. While working and earning, budget and save. Then, unemployed, live on your savings and hoard your "unemployment" for some special extravagance such as a trip to the Bahamas

A child may depend on his parents to care for him because they love him, but the government loves nobody. It consists of politicians who serve people, not for love but for votes.

Once, every American boy and girl realized he grew up to take care of himself and the family he founded. He looked to no one else, and definitely not to the government. The only government refuge was the county poor farm, and to go there was considered a major misfortune if not a disgrace, though it wasn't

Times have changed. Government at various levels has offered people "welfare" of various kinds, and many have accepted. In fact if one does not, he is considered slightly cracked.

Today, workers count on receiving unemployment as soon as they are laid off, regardless of how much they have been earning. In some cases, the unemployment pay is almost as big as the work pay. People who become in want but are not eligible for unemployment expect to go on welfare. Both groups reach for food

Once, the American farmer took his chance in a free market for farm products. Today, he expects the government to support the prices of those products.

Businessmen and industrialists have their kinds of welfare. Phil Caldwell, chairman of Ford Motor Company, is highly miffed because the government demurs at limiting the auto imports that are competing with his company

Once, we all took self - dependence and responsibility for granted. Now we are indignant if our dole is less than we think adequate.

But I repeat -- don't count on the dole. All these "transfer payments" are transferred from the taxpayers to the recipients and the taxpayers are getting restless. Self dependence is rough, but it is more reliable than dole - dependence.

WACO (AP) - Two brothers have been arraigned on federal charges in connection with last weekend's telephone calls to a grocery chain that demanded $60,000 in cash in exchange for the location of groceries that supposedly had been laced with U.S. Magistrate Roy Rutland set the bond of Steven Van Howard, 24, and David Wayne Howard, 21, at $100,000 Thursday on charges of interference with interstate commerce. Police Chief Larry Scott said state charges of attempted theft of more than $10,000 were being prepared against them.

Two other men have been accused of participating with them in the plot, in which a telephone caller said food had been poisoned in three of the chain's six Waco stores.

Officials of the HEB grocery chain said they considered the poisoning claim a hoax, but closed six Waco stores for 31/2 days and replaced 680 tons of food rather than take the chance

Federal charges also were prepared against Daniel Ray Glenn, 23, but he remained hospitalized Thursday for treatment of a diabetic condition. *A fourth man, David Lloyd Foster, 19, was arrested Wednesday night and arraigned on the state charge. Peace Justice John Cabaniss set Foster's bond Wednesday at $100,000.

Greg Rampton, an FBI agent from Austin, said he agreed with H E B officials that the extortion call was a hoax.

"There is no indication that there was any poison in the food at any time," Rampton said. The federal charge carries a possible $10,000 fine and 20 years in prison, and the state charge a maximum penalty of ten years and a $5,000 fine.

Police say 'Over the Hill Gang' in Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - The "Over The Hill Gang" that has been robbing supermarkets in the Dallas area is the same group responsible for several robberies in Oklahoma this past year, Oklahoma City police said Thursday.

The gang's first robbery may actually have taken place at a northwest Oklahoma City pharmacy in October 1979 before the group graduated to specializing in supermarket heists, Police Sgt. Jim Woodie said.

Earlier this week, Woodie and another Oklahoma City investigator returned from Dallas where law officers from Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana compared notes on holdups in

The group was tagged "The Over The Hill Gang" because two members are believed to be in their 50s and 60s and one reportedly wears a hearing aid. Two others members are believed to be between 35 and 40 years old.

. Woodie said the "exact method of operation" was used in robberies in Oklahoma City and Texas over the past year and the descriptions of the robbers are the same. "We have concluded that the robberies did start in Oklahoma City in 1979," the detective said.

He said the last Oklahoma robbery the gang is believed to have been involved in was at a Skaggs Alpha Beta supermarket in southwest Oklahoma City in October of this year. Since then, he said the gang has concentrated on the Dallas area.

Missing crew search halted

ARANSAS PASS, Texas (AP) - Chances are slim a missing crewman survived Wednesday's collision between a tanker and a fishing boat between the jetties at Aransas Pass, a Coast Guard

One man was killed and another was injured, but the search for the missing crewman was called off about 5 a.m. Thursday, the spokesman said.

between the tanker Texa co Anna Cortez and the Gulf King No. 62. Crewman John Pierotti was trapped for three to four minutes in the submerged wheelhouse of the fishing boat, officials said, but escaped by smashing a window Pierotti was listed in stable condition Thursday in Lyman Roberts Hospital.

The Gulf King had a large hole in its side and was sitting in about 45 feet of water, the Coast Guard said. The tanker was not

Peanut butter will have to be thin this year

DALLAS (AP) - Peanut butter - that beloved American diet staple, that gooey substance just perfect for spreading, that wonderful brown gunk that goes so well with chocolate and bananas - is suddenly in short supply

It seems peanut butter has fallen victim to the Heat Wave of 1980. Scorching temperatures wilted peanut crops across the country and this year's harvest was a whopping 42 percent lower than last

Subsequently, supplies are spread thinner and thinner and prices are getting higher and higher. "Please don't take my peanut butter," cried one distraught Plano housewife after vainly searching several supermarkets for the large, economy jar of the delectable glop.

"I've got two teenagers and they're eating me out of house and home. Peanut butter is the last bastion," she moaned.

Local supermarket managers surveyed this week said there is no danger that peanut butter will disappear from the shelves, but they estimate they are getting only 80 percent of last year's supplies. Some stores have imposed a limit, but one manager said the restriction only fueled the peanut butter fire.

"They (shoppers) buy whatever the limit is," said the manager. who asked not to be named. "If the limit is three, they buy three instead of the one they came after."

Lynn Trammel, a buyer for Tom Thumb Page Supermarkets, said the case price of peanut butter jumped to $18 last year to $20 in October, then shot to the current level of $30.

"The 40-ounce peanut butter, the largest jar we carry, costs almost $4." she said.

She said she is limiting the amount of peanut butter each store can order "so they won't hoard it."

Mrs. Trammel predicted current prices will hold until the end of the year, but will be on the rise early in 1981. "The price of peanut butter could double what it was before the shortage," Mrs. Trammel said, adding that the peanut butter crisis will last for a whole year.

A local peanut broker disagrees. He figures the crisis could last for two years or longer. "I'm not really too optimistic for next year," said Ellis Buckley.

Seed peanuts will be so high it might be a couple of years before we can work our way out of this. Their predictions bode ill for future generations, those American kids who could be doomed to a childhood without peanut butter. It's not a pretty thought

Firefighters battle blazes, each other

GRANTS PASS, Ore. (AP) -Two family-run private fire companies are battling each other for the right to battle blazes in a 200-square-mile rural area around this southwestern Oregon city.

There is no government-provided firefighting service outside the city itself, and so the Grants Pass Rural Fire Department and the Valley Fire Department vie for contracts to protect homes and businesses. Often, they both turn up at the same headed by Bertha Miller, who had no competition for 20 years. The Valley Fire operation is run by the Turnbulls — brothers Phil, 24, and Mike, 28, - who opened their business about 21/2 years ago. "It has worked very well," says Mike Turnbull, a builder.

We have had very little problem with the competition." give her age, but is in her late which had the contract for fire shouting distance of one of

> There have been arguments. The two departments met at a fire in a cabinet shop earlier this year, a few blocks from one of Mrs. Miller's Rural stations.

Valley reached the fire first and the Turnbulls claimed they could have saved one-third of the building, which ultimately Mrs. Miller, who refuses to was entirely gutted. Rural, protection, arrived later and waved Valley off the fire. "We really didn't have a choice," said Phil Turnbull, Valley's chief. "We would have been in big trouble if we hadn't backed off

Mrs. Miller denounced the Turnbull's version. One of her firefighters, Jack Talley, said he did not call Valley off.

The two companies also differ over what happened at a grass fire that threatened a house and commercial building within

Talley said he and other firefighters helped save their competitor's station as the fire crept near the structure. Their tanker was still sitting in there (the station) warming up when I got there," said

The Turnbulls deny the story, saying their men were out in the field fighting alongside other firefighters. Phil said two Valley rigs were already working when Rural pulled up. The Turnbulls built new stations and crammed them with new fire trucks and communications systems and instituted new training techniques, gleaned from other departments in the state. "We wanted to go first class," said Mike Turnbull. "We felt we had to be a cut above what was here, to be quite blunt."

Valley even has a fire dog - a frisky Dalmation named Beauty, at its south station.

The Turnbulls also valuation; the fee averages out to about $60 per house. Rural charges a flat, $40 fee.

Mrs. Miller, who started the department with her late husband and carries on with the help of her children, bristles at charges that her equipment, which includes a 1953 pumper, is tired and outdated.

DALLAS (AP) - Dallas police today were investigating what they say was a double murder and suicide at a home in north Dallas late Thursday.

Officers said Jerry Allen Coker, 50, shot his wife and step-daughter with a shotgun and then shot himself with a .22 caliber pistol.

Police identified his wife as Lucy G. Coker, 57, and the step-daughter as Leslie Geibel Coker, 27. A police spokesman said the shootings occurred just before midnight, only a four hours after another Dallas man shot and critcally wounded two of his daughters and then shot

The man remains in critical condition early today at Parkland Hospital. The two daughters were also hospitalized and underwent surgery Thursday, police said.

Reagan advisors blamed in nuns deaths and ambassador's danger

Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) + Comments by Reagan foreign policy advisers endangered the life of the U.S. ambassador to El Salvador and contributed to the murders of American nuns in that strife-torn country, a high-ranking State Department official charges.

Patricia M. Derian, assistant secretary of state for human rights, accused Reagan transition team members of making ''imprudent statements" that played down U.S. support for human rights and thus encouraged increased brutality by right-wing forces.

In an interview with The Associated Press on Thursday, Ms. Derian particularly criticized one transition team member for indicating that the U.S. ambassador to El Salvador, Robert E. White, might be fired because he supported economic reforms in that country.

OBERLIN, Ohio (AP) - Oberlin College, where names like Liszt and Leinsdorf are revered, has gotten a windfall from a different kind of musician

The Liberace Foundation of Las Vegas, Nev., recently told the private northeast Ohio school it would donate $10,000 a year to the college. The foundation was set up by the popular pianist Liberace, who dazzles audiences with candelabras, glittering jackets and keyboard acrobatics.

Oberlin officials said they were delighted with the money, which will go toward scholarships for students of the performing

George Liberace, the pianist's brother, said the foundation chose five schools to receive such grants. The others are Marquette University in Milwaukee, the University of Nevada, Peabody Conservatory in Baltimore and the Young Musicians Foundation in Los Angeles.

"Oberlin people should realize that Liberace has a serious musical and pianistic background," said Emil C. Danenberg, head of Oberlin's conservatory. "We find it appropriate that his foundation should choose to encourage college students who are developing their skills in the arts.

Court kicks out charge of fraud against woman

EVERETT, Wash. (AP) - Nancy Ann Ermert was once convicted of welfare fraud because she was too thrifty with the money she received.

Now the state's high court has ruled that was no crime. But she learned a discouraging lesson about welfare checks - "spend every cent.

The 28-year-old mother of three was convicted in 1977 of felony welfare fraud because she saved $1,400 while on public assistance and used it as a down payment on a new Toyota Her conviction was reversed unanimously Thursday by the state

Supreme Court Despite the victory, Ms. Ermert said she feels "beaten down" by the entire affair. Now she's training for a supervisory position in a Lynnwood supermarket and her welfare payments have been reduced to a day-care supplement. She hopes soon to be off welfare completely.

Ms. Ermert and her children began drawing public assistance in 1971, receiving about $300 a month and paying $165 in monthly rent. In 1973, she entered beauticians' school and began receiving an additional $100 under an incentive program. At the same time, the family moved into low-income, subsidized housing where their rent dropped to $28 a month. So with nearly $240 a month more, Ms. Ermert found that "saving $100 every two months was no problem.

She set up a trust account for her son to make it difficult to withdraw funds and encourage her savings habit. And by 1975, there was just under $1,400 in the account.

HOUSTON (AP) - Two tape recorders planted in a Harris County jail visiting room used by convicted hit man Charles V. Harrelson were authorized by a federal judge, according to a

The order, which expired Thursday, permitted authorities to secretly record conversations by Harrelson, the source told The Associated Press. However, the source, who asked not to be identifed, refused to disclose which judge signed the order or the date it was signed. FBI agents. Harris County deputies and the Harris County District Attorney's Office declined Thursday to discuss the court order or the use of the recorders.

Johnny Holmes, county district attorney, said officials who comment on the matter could be found in contempt of court.

Harrelson, 42, a professional gambler who was questioned recently in the May 29, 1979 assassination of U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr., discovered two recorders running as he talked with his stepdaughter Wednesday in the the visiting room.

"He was shocked," said Harrelson's attorney. Robert Tarrant. "But what else could he really Tarrant said sheriff's deputies refused to allow him to listen to the tapes.

"I know what was said on those tapes," Tarrant said, maintaining he and Harrelson "baited" the recordings after he suspected authorities were eavesdropping on their conversations.

Tarrant said his suspicions were reinforced after grand jurors asked his client's stepdaughter, Teresa Jasper, about information he had discussed only with Harrelson and only in the visiting room.

U.S. District Judge William Sessions, who empaneled the grand jury investigating the slaving, was unavailable for comment Thursday. Earlier Sessions sealed all orders pertaining to

"There is no law anywhere, anytime, anyplace in this country that allows anyone for any purpose to listen in on a conversation between a lawyer and his client," Tarrant said.

"There is no one that can abridge this right. It's a flagrant violation of the Constitution. And if a federal judge was the one who signed the order allowing it to be done, then I want to see him to go the penitentiary," Tarrant said.

He said his client accidentally discovered a recorder taped beneath the counter in the visiting room as he chatted Wednesday with Ms. Jasper, who found another recorder under the counter on her side of a glass barrier. Tarrant said Harrelson ripped the recorder loose and tried to remove the tape. However, he said, his client only managed to remove the batteries before deputies confiscated the Harrelson goes to trial Jan. 19 on

The indictment came after several hours of testimony by Waldhauser, his estranged wife, and Markham Duff-Smith, 33, of Houston.

Assistant District Attorney Bill Eggleston said the indictment alleges Janecka "actively pulled the trigger" and killed the three for "renumeration, or the promise of renumeration, namely money.

The indictment against Waldhauser, a Houston real estate broker, charges he was party to the July 6, 1979, slaying by hiring Janecka to kill the family.

Both men were jailed without bond, authorities said.

Harris County Medical Examiner Joseph Jachimczyk ruled last February that Diana Wanstrath, 35, shot and killed her husband, John, 35, and adopted son Kevin with a .22-caliber pistol and then turned the weapon on herself in the family's suburban Houston home

Jachimczyk ruled Wanstrath and the child were shot in the back of head. Mrs. Wanstrath, however, was shot in the right temple, a "classic suicide wound," he said.

Police detectives, skeptical of the ruling because no weapon was found at the Wanstrath house, continued their investigation of the shootings. Detective Johnny Bonds said Thursday that police "have the weapon" and ballistics tests confirmed is the same gun used in the killings. Bonds said hollow-point bullets were used in the shootings and although they usually shatter on impact, a bullet was recovered intact from the baby's head. Jachimczyk said he has not changed his rulings in the deaths, but has received new evidence from

Duff-Smith, the adopted brother of Mrs. Wanstrath, inherited more than half of the couple's $800,000 estate. He told the Houston Chronicle on Thursday that Bonds had hounded him and was carrying out a 'personal vendetta' because the detective believed

Stock market plays see-saw with rates

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - Since the stock market often plays seesaw with interest rates, it has landed with a disturbing bump several times in recent days, shaking the wits and confidence of investors. Seahawks winless at home this season

By BRUCE LOWITT

AP Sports Writer As it turns out, the Seattle Seahawks' first game game this year was an omen.

They opened the season at home against San Diego. Everything but the Kingdome roof fell in on them. The Chargers' quarterback, Dan Fouts, beginning a new season after a record-smashing 1979 campaign, battered Seattle's secondary with four touchdown passes in a 34-13 victory.

It was the first loss at home for the Seahawks. They're 0-7 there now, 0-7 in the past seven weeks overall, 0-6 since they started playing San Diego in 1977 and are destined to finish last in the American Conference's Western Division this year.

And the numbers get worse.

Now, perhaps mercifully, they're on the road - but the road takes them to San Diego on Saturday, where the Chargers are gunning for a National Football League playoff berth, either as the AFC West champion or as a conference wild-card, depending on how they and Oakland finish. Going into Saturday's game, San Diego and the Raiders are tied for first place with 9-5 records.

In another Saturday game, the New York Giants visit the Washington Redskins, a matchup of two teams tied for fourth place in the five-team National Conference East, each at 4-10. The loser will inherit sole possession of the cellar. The Redskins won this season's first close encounter 23-21 on Mark Moseley's 45-yard field goal with 1:55 to play.

Sunday's games are Oakland at Denver, Buffalo at New England, San Francisco at Atlanta, Cleveland at Minnesota, New Orleans at the New York Jets, Tampa Bay at Detroit, Houston at Green Bay, Kansas City at Pittsburgh, St. Louis at Philadelphia, Cincinnati at Chicago and Miami at Baltimore. Monday night's game is Dallas at Los Angeles.

Another of those numbers that make the Seahawks-Chargers game even more interesting is 4,068 - the number of passing yards accumulated by Fouts this year. That's only 14 below the single-season record he established a year ago.

If Fouts happens to complete, say, a 15-yard pass to Charlie Joiner to start the game, they can smash two NFL records on one play. Not only would it enable Fouts to surpass his own record, it would give Joiner more than 1,000 receiving yards and make the Chargers the first team in NFL history to have three 1,000-yard receivers in the same season. Joiner has 993 going into the game, tight end Kellen Winslow has 1,062 and John Jefferson 1,181. Together, they have caught 25 of Fouts' 29 touchdown passes.

And even more numbers surface. If the Chargers and Raiders both win their final two games to finish at 11-5, the division title will be decided by the best net points (those scored minus those allowed) in division games. Right now the Chargers are 19 points ahead of Oakland in that category. But San Diego Coach Don Coryell insists: "We're not going to worry about the points .. We're only concerned about winning the game.'

Rogers hoed long road to

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

NEW YORK (AP) - "If you only knew what it took for me to get here," George Rogers said last week when he was announced as the 1980 Heisman Trophy

Rogers was referring to his childhood, coming from a rough Atlanta ghetto and then bouncing from one Georgia town to another, his parents separated and his father later jailed for almost eight years for fatally shooting a woman.

Thursday night, South Carolina's star running back and the nation's leading rusher was formally presented with the Heisman Trophy and modestly said it "should be awarded to the team instead of me.'

Besides Gov. Richard W. Riley, university President Dr. James B. Holderman and Coach Jim Carlen, a number of South Carolina faculty members were on hand for the annual Heisman dinner, including Mrs. Sandra Wertz, a professor of communications in the College of General Studies and Rogers' academic adviser since his sophomore year. They painted a picture of a 6-foot-2, 225-pound running back who does more than just be at his chest and run over people.

"George's biggest problem was studying," Mrs. Wertz said. "He never got organized in high school. He didn't know how to take notes or how to study for exams. We worked on a lot of basics with George. But it's not true that he wouldn't have gotten into college without football. He had a projected 2.0 grade point

"He's an intelligent young man. The main thing he had to overcome was a lack of self-confidence in academics. He was very shy and introverted when it came to academics, just the opposite of football.

"In class, there was no eye contact. He'd always look down at his feet. But, gradually, those two people became the same person. He's no different now from the young man on the football field. He doesn't panic when he sees an academic adviser any more.

"In terms of his basic personality he hasn't changed much. He's always been open, kind, upright. He can do more than just play football and he knows that now." Franklin Ashley, another professor in the College of General Studies, taught Rogers a creative writing course with an emphasis on scripts during his sophomore year.

"We set up a whole production company and George was chairman of the script-writing group," Ashley said. "He has the capacity to make people follow him." After the script was finished, he starred in a 30-minute video tape drama.

"He played the good guy, an athlete who was suckered into a bank robbery by another athlete. He had to memorize 15 pages. All the kids in the class tried out and the student director selected George to play that part.

'There's so much hype about athletes in America, but George is one of the sweetest students I've ever known. George is without guile, and that's hard to

Top college stars

By Murray Olderman

SAN FRANCISCO (NEA) The 1980 All-America college football team announced by Newspaper Enterprise Association is a tribute to that phenomenal modern species the running back.

The abilities of George Rogers of South Carolina have een well documented. He has been a brilliant ball-carrier for four years and will quite likely be the first man tapped by the pros.

But how about freshman Herschel Walker? This sensational 18-year-old has been the physical force of the undefeated Georgia Bulldogs, No. 1 team in the nation. He is already being touted as the best running back of all time.

The NEA All-America team is assembled from consultations with leading college coaches, writers and scouts from all sections of the country. The emphasis is on varsity exploits.

Georgia, Notre Dame and Southern California, all finishing successful seasons, each placed two men on the 1980 NEA team.

There is a strong Southern cast to the team, with eight selections from that part of the country - led, of course, by Walker and Rogers.

That doesn't mean the NFL will overlook this All-America defensive lineup. Ends such as Hugh Green of Pittsburgh and E.J. Junior of Alabama are premium types. Leonard Mitchell of Houston and Ken Sims of Texas are prototypal

Lefors cagers take third in Skellytown Tournament

Lefors junior high basketball teams captured third place in the the recent Skellytown Tournament by downing both the boys' and girls' teams from Borger.

Lefors girls, led by Jennifer Hill's 12 points, outscored Borger, 28-16. Sheri Stanley added 10 points for the winners.

The win came after an opening-round loss to Skellytown, 22-21. Stanley and Tammie Gee scored 13 and six points respectively in the losing effort.

"Our free shots killed us in our first game, said Lefors coach Peggy Terrell. "We played well against Borger playing as a team. If we keep improving we should be able to beat some teams, but we still need a lot of work on the basics.

In the boys' game, John Winegeart led Lefors with 14 points as the Bandits downed Borger, 26-22. Preston West added six points and Skeeter Gifford three for the winners.

Lefors' win came after an opening-round loss to Skellytown, 39-24. West scored 15 points to lead Lefors scorers while teammate Ronny Alderson

"I was very pleased with our overall play in the tournament," said coach Dave Adams. "We're improving steadily now and are really beginning to work as a team. We still need to work on offensive rebounding and our ballhandling though."

'We've made quite an improvement," Pampa coach Jerry Johnson said. "They beat us by 53 and 42 points the first two times they played us.'

Pampa was still in the game going into the second half after trailing by only nine, 36-27, at intermission. A combination of turnovers and fouls did the Lady Harvesters in the fourth quarter. "We played them a decent game for three quarters, but mistakes and fouls hurt us the fourth quarter," The Lady Harvesters lost two starters-Jeanette Britt and Debbie Young-to fouls in the fourth quarter.

Bobbi Skaggs led Pampa scorers with 13 points while Britt added 10. Keva Richardson, who came up from the JV ranks to play in the tournament, responded with seven points in the fourth quarter.

"Keva came in a did a good job for us," Johnson said. Pampa meets El Paso Bowie in consolation play at 3:30 p.m.

It was terribly cold; it snowed and was already almost dark, and evening came on, the last evening of the year. In the cold and gloom a poor little girl, bareheaded and barefoot, was walking through the streets.

Shivering with cold and hunger, she crept along, a picture of misery, poor little girl! The snowflakes covered her long fair hair. which fell in pretty curls over her neck; but she did not think of that now. In all the windows lights were shining, and there was a glorious smell of roast goose,

It was a pleasant thing to see Mr. Pickwick in the centre of the group, now pulled this way, and then that, and first kissed on the chin, and then on the nose, and then on the spectacles: and to hear the peals of laughter which were raised on every side; but is was a still more pleasant thing to see Mr. Pickwick, blinded shortly

The poor relations caught the people who they thought would like it, and, when the game flagged, got caught themselves. When they were all tired of blind-man's buff, there was a great game at snapdragon, and when fingers enough were burned with that, and all the raisins were gone, they sat down by the huge fire of blazing logs to a substantial supper, and a mighty bowl of wassail, something smaller than an ordinary wash-house cop-

Stretch space by merging rooms DEAR ABBY

THE GREAT Room, designed by Louisa Cowan, is appropriate for today - the way we are and the way we live. The room's "greatness" lies in the use of its space, not the size of it. When needed, the room divider expands to become a dining area or a den.

LANCASTER, Pa. - Today's inflation, recession and ricocheting interest rates are forcing homeowners to consider remodeling rather than relocating

To create a feeling of spaciousness without the expense of actual expansion, many couples are merging two or three small rooms into one larger all-purpose area.

Because a "Great Room" provides a less structured, more informal living area, it actually appears to stretch space by uniting several smaller rooms The current issue of "Good Ideas for Decorating' magazine illustrates in full color an example of the Great Room concept with additional rooms that literally come out of a closet - how a dining room and den, when not needed, serve as a bona fide room divider. The idea is the brainstorm of Armstrong interior designer Louisa Cowan whose creativity has produced an ingenious solution to storage and function problems for today's lifestyles.

A case of "matter over mind," this boxed-in wall system successfully harbors the fantasy and flair of a multifunction area that emerges at beck and call.

To tie her Great Room together, Louisa Cowan chose Norwalk Marble - an easy-to-care-for Solarian Supreme no-wax floor. The designer decorated the room in natural earth tones with a mountain-gray area rug. She felt that upholstery on the cushioned dining stools resembled speckled birds' eggs, and the sofa fabric - in soft grays and browns - are a compatible muted coloration in a larger scale feather-like print.

The rattan cocktail table and functional wall units are from Founders Keepers II. (Wicker's greatest attraction may be its practicality. Lightweight pieces can be moved easily and do not scratch or require waxing or building the closeted unit are in the current issues of "Good Ideas for Decorating.'

Though the project looks complicated, it is designed for between the doors when the easy construction with the minimum of tricky cuts or joints. The main body is the simplest of the five major parts, and also the most important.

From the kitchen view, the door on the left holds bar supplies. Shallow drawers are handy for bottle openers, stirrers, and cocktail napkins; door on right puts recipe boss at reading level, and herbs, spices, and kitchen tools within easy reach The family-room view discloses cubbyholes for hobbies or display of collections. When all four doors are flung open and both table leaves are up, the dining room is ready for family meals or for

PEOPLE

DEAR ABBY: My neighbor was married for many years to a man who finally died of cancer after suffering for over a year. They both knew he was terminal. At his funeral she cried and carried on, telling everyone she didn't think she could live without her beloved husband.

Well, three months later, this "grieving" widow is dating. Last evening a man called for her at 7 p.m. They left together and returned at 10:10 p.m. and his car stood in front of her house until 4 a.m.!

Don't you think for a grieving widow she is rushing things a little? I was always under the impression that the official mourning period was one year. Or is that a thing of

DEAR DALLAS: People handle their grief in their own ways. There is no official mourning period. For some it begins when the "terminal" verdict is handed down. The grieving widow has my sympathy. Not only does her beloved husband die a lingering death with cancer, she's spied upon by a nosy, suspicious, uncharitable neighbor.

DEAR ABBY: I am Jewish and my husband is Catholic We have two daughters. One is being raised Catholic and the other Jewish. (We gave them their choice.) No problem. Our household celebrates the Jewish holidays and Catholic

Every year I have sent Christmas cards from "our family," but this year I was going to skip it because I work and am taking some classes at the "U." I was just too busy. My 13-year-old daughter who is Catholic offered to address and sign the cards, which was fine except that I had to spell all the names for her and give her the addresses, plus mail them, which was time consuming. Before my daughter addressed the cards, which my husband had bought, I went through them and pulled out all the overly religious ones with Jesus, Mary and the Three My husband said I had no right to do that - that it is his

DEAR MIXED: Since the Christmas cards were from "the whole family," if you had a preference as to what kind of cards you wanted sent, you should have taken the time to help in their selection and expressed your objection to the "overly religious" ones. But since you didn't, you should not have screened and censored them.

The role of educator is one of several roles assumed by the primary care physician. He also may be a family friend, counselor or community leader. The primary care physician engages in family practice, pediatrics, obstetrics and gynecology or general internal medicine.

Texas needs more primary care physicians, especially in the rural areas. Inner-city neighborhoods, too, such as Houston's fourth and fifth wards, often lack family physicians, said Dr. Sam A. Nixon, professor of family practice at the UT Medical School. Nixon also is president of the American Academy of Family Physicians and chairman of the Texas State Rural Medical Education Board (SRMEB)

The primary care physician is in a position to be of great service to human beings, Nixon said. The physician can become influential through continued and personal involvement with his

'The public first demanded there be more family physicians. People want a personal type of doctor they can get to know and consul with on all sorts of problems," said Dr. Jack Haley, professor of family practice at the Medical School. Haley also was appointed by the Texas Academy of Family Physicians to be the statewide coordinator of preceptorship

A family physician is educated in breadth, touching the entire spectrum of health care, Haley said. Family physicians are trained to handle everything from childhood diseases to pregnancies to counseling patients for mental and emotional stress.

The cause of increasing primary care physicians recently received a boost with the publicaiton of the federal government's Graduate Medical Education Advisory Committee's (GMENAC) recommendations to the federal Health and Human Services agency, · formerly Health, Education and Welfare.

The committee recommends that medical students be "strongly encouraged" to enter specialties where a shortage is predicted or to enter general pediatrics, general internal medicine or family practice. Continued support of family practice residency training programs is urged, as is broad-based clinical experience, focusing on the generalist clinical fields.

Special purpose grants for teaching institutions for primary care training in family medicine, general internal medicine and general pediatrics are recommended for continuation.

GMENAC proposes a 17 percent decrease in medical school enrollment based on a predicted national doctor surplus by 1990. However, there are still 27 counties in west Texas which don't have a physician, and with Texas' population Increasing so rapidly, a physician surplus in the forseeable future is unlikely, Webber said. If anything. Texas still has a severe shortage, though the condition is improving.

Throughout the report are proposals encouraging rural area practice. The methods to achieve more interest in serving rural areas are continuing rural preceptorships and government loans and scholarships for medical students who want to practice in rural or urban underserved

The Texas State Rural Medical Education Board (SRMEB), chaired by Nixon, is a state agency which contracts with medical students for five years of physician service in a rural area, defined as a Texas county with a population of less than 25,000 residents. In return, the student receives financial aid based John Weaver, a first-year student at the Medical School, is one of the 172 contract-holders with the SRMEB. One is already practicing in Luling, while another is serving the Rockdale area. There are presently 57 contract-holders in residency programs.

Weaver decided to apply for the grant because he wished to practice in the hill country.

"I decided on family practice in a rural area because of the high level of community involvement and the relaxed atmosphere. Weaver said. "I want to get to know the families

Weaver, who grew up in Montgomery, graduated from The University of Texas at Austin with a B.S. in geology and a B.A. in biology. During his last year at school he worked as a volunteer in the emergency room at Brackenridge Hospital in Austin.

The SRMEB grant is for four years of medical school. The contract-holder is expected to complete his residency within four years of graduation from medical shool. At the end of the four years the contract-holder's commitment to rural service begins.

Should a contract-holder desire, he may pay the balance plus interest after two years of rural service. Each of the two years served will compensate for 20 percent of the loan amount.

Primary care physician service also is encouraged at the UT Medical School. Family Practice Students Association consists of more than 400 students, including Weaver. Once a month the association sponsors a guest speaker on primary care, Webber said. This allows the student to participate in and observe medical care outside of the hospital and urban environment.

The preceptorship in family practice has become popular at UT Medical School. The result of this emphasis on family practice is that 18-25 percent of the graduates over the past four years have entered family practice, Webber

Not only is the number of graduates entering family practice increasing, but so is the number of family practice residency programs in Texas. Haley said. There are currently 20 active family practice residency programs in Texas, and in 1981 there will be six new programs. The number of family practice residents has risen from 231 in 1977 to 319 today. In 1981 there will be 48 new positions in family practice residencies, which is a 35 percent increase.

"There is still a great need for family physicians," said Halye, "and that service is the most rewarding type in the world.'

Religion in the news

NEW YORK (AP) — Religious affiliation apparently is an asset nowadays in winning a seat in the U.S. Congress. Indications are it usually has been, at least in the past for Protestants, but this time the figures suggest it across-the-board.

In the new 97th Congress, both Roman Catholics and Jews increased their share of seats, as they have generally over the last decade. Both now hold a slightly greater share of seats than their proportion of the population.

So also do Protestants, but shrinkingly and only as compared to active membership.

In short, the situation now is that for Catholics and Jews as well as Protestants, a bigger percentage of winners claim religious affiliation than is recorded for the population, implying a plus factor about it now in all three cases in gaining office. While Protestants still strongly predominate in the incoming Congress, it's to a steadily lesser degree. They hold 355 or nearly 67 percent of the 535 seats.

But their proportion gradually has declined for the past decade, dropping from a total of about 400 seats, or 74 percent of them, in that period, and down this time a fraction of a percent through loss of nine seats.

In contrast through that period, Roman Catholics and Jews have increased their seats. With their gains this fall, Roman Catholics now hold an all-time high of 135 seats, or 25 percent of the total. This is up by 3 percent — 20 seats — over the decade, up six seats this

The number of Jews has more than doubled in a decade to a record 33 seats, about 6 percent of the total, with three additional seats won this time.

The breakdown of religious affiliation was compiled by the evangelical fortnightly, Christianity Today, which in recent years has regularly kept tab on the religious balance in Congress.

Religion roundup

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — United Methodists are being urged to get "simplicity and clarity of purpose" back into celebrating Christmas and to avoid letting it be swamped in commercialism.

"This year Americans will surrender over $12 billion in excess retail sales to commercial interests during the annual shopping spree," says a brochure mailed to all the denomination's pastors.

"The celebration of the birth of Jesus Christ is transformed into a family oriented orgy of self-indulgence. Meanwhile a myriad of critical and social needs go unmet.

Suggestions were made for recovering the true meaning and integrity of Christmas by putting priority on Jesus, his message and contributing to projects for the poor.

NEW YORK (AP) — A week of ceremonies marked the opening of Park Avenue Synagogue's new, five-story school building, dedicated to the memory of a million Jewish children who perished in the Nazi holocaust.

BOSTON (AP) — Two centuries ago; Lemuel Haynes, the first black man in America to be ordained a minister, was unanimously called to serve the Congregational Church at Middle Granville, Mass., a white congregation.

The 200th anniversary of his licensing is being marked by the United Church of Christ, a 1957 merger including Congregationalists.

Haynes, a veteran of the American Revolution, was licensed Nov. 29, 1780, ordained in 1785 and became a popular preacher in New England. One of his most famous sermons, "Universal Salvation," was reprinted some 40 times. He also served congregations in Torrington, Conn., and Rutland.

As part of the anniversary, the Congregational Library in Boston is issuing one of his previously unpublished sermons. "The Presence of the Lord." NEW YORK (AP) - The Seventh-day Adventist Church, which advocates a vegetarian diet, has opened a small restaurant called the "Appleseed" two blocks south of the World Trade Center. Its aim is not to make money but to promote a healthier, happier lifestyle, officials say. It features health and inspirational literature along with its meatless menu.

"Thou wilt shew me the path of life: in thy presence is fulness of Joy ..."

PSALM 16-11

It is fun to get out and romp with our children, to share in their joy. Sometimes it is even work to pull them on a sled. Afterwards you may be tired and bones and muscles ache, but you think fondly of the laughter, and squeals of delight and the love that shines in a child's eyes. Then you think it's all worth the effort, for they won't be young forever, and someday you will only have memories. The pull and They won't be young forever and now is the time that they need a pull in the direction toward God. Now is the time that you can lead and share in the joys of their worship. Take your children to Church The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) -Thirteen years after winning two Grammy awards for "Gentle on My Mind," John Hartford remains puzzled over the song's message

"I can't describe the message," the slender, soft-spoken Hartford said in an interview. Songs like that are supposed to mean different things to different people. Dinah Shore said it was the most chauvinistic song she ever

The song is a vivid, sensual story of fond remembrance. Inspired by the movie "Dr Zhivago," Hartford wrote the song in 20 minutes and won Grammy awards in 1967 for best the United States turn to agencies on aging for volunteers. Some help children in local schools. Some are ombudsmen — or ombudswomen — who help residents of nursing homes and adult 1 homes.

Where should the senior seek volunteer opportunities? You might start with those agencies that provide services to our brother and sister seniors. Older volunteers far outnumber paid workers at nutrition sites that served 155 million meals last year.

Another impressive number of seniors does volunteer work at 586 area agencies on aging. The Veterans Administration places great reliance on older volunteers for one-toone services in its homes and hospitals. And some of us serve on the boards of directors of organizations providing various special services. The nation's major_volun-

All three are administered by the federal ACTION agency. Its publication is "Prime Times," whose managing editor is John Herbert.

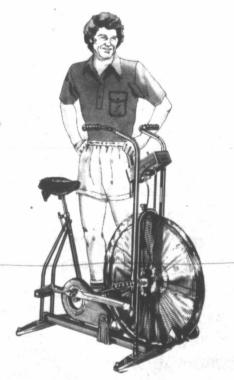

Write to him at ACTION 806 Connecticut Ave. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20525. Or phone your local office on aging and ask, "How can you use my talents as a volunteer?" Learn how good it feels to be needed!

December 13, 1980

Several changes in your basic lifestyle are likely this coming year. Some of these you will initiate yourself, others may be forced upon you. Regardless of how they occur, all will work out to your liking.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)

Don't attempt to do more today than you know from experience you can manage. You'll perform well if you don't spread yourself too thin. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Yield to your compassionate impulses today where another needs your help and you're in the position to do so. Your good deeds will make you feel great.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Talking prematurely about something which could either make or save you money might prove unwise, especially if a friend is involved who doesn't want it discussed. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't become discouraged today if that which you attempt is not accomplished with your first effort. Victory will be yours if you keep plugging.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Situations requiring an imaginative touch will be the ones at which you can excel today. However, you may wind up sitting on your bright ideas rather than acting on them.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

Friends today are likely to talk to you about things which they will not discuss with others. You could even receive a tip on something profitable.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) When others offer you sound counseltoday be a good listener, but ideas in the process. Blending the two spells success.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Unless you are careful today, the tomorrow syndrome may overtake you. You could come up with plausible reasons to put off

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A tempting proposal for quick gain today may be more fluff than substance. Investigate thoroughly before jumping in.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Being too indecisive could create prob-lems for you today. Something be left undone. Face up to difficult decisions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Tasks which do not require too much physical effort you will accomplish with ease today. Projects where you have to exert yourself may be overlooked. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)

You're likely to be quite lucky today materially, provided no risks or gambles are required. Where you expect something for nothing, the reverse will be true.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Dog owners who had their pets vaccinated against parvovirus in the spring or summer should consult their veterinarians about a booster, says the Texas

Veterinary Medical Foundation.

"Parvovirus continues to be a deadly problem," said Dr. Robert Emmett of Houston, foundation president

Vaccines are credited with curbing the Texas epidemic of the killer disease, but field reports indicate that immunity to the virus might be shorter than researchers had hoped.

"Recent reports from veterinarians throughout the state indicate that the new viral disease is still endemic and boosters are being called for," Emmett said.

Parvovirus was unknown before 1978 but reached epidemic proportions this year. Symptoms include depression and loss of appetite, followed by vomiting and diarrhea. Death sometimes can come in one day because of the loss of body fluids.

While stocks of vaccine ran short earlier this year. Emmett said the supply appears to be adequate now

REAL ESTATE FUND USED AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Attorney General Mark White said Thursday a judge in McAllen has ordered payment of $40,000 from the state's Real Estate Recovery Fund to persons who allegedly were misled when they bought lots in the Holly Beach Development north of Port

The fund, operated by the Texas Real Estate Commission, comes from fees collected from licensed real estate brokers and agents.

White said State District Court Judge Joe B. Evins entered the order directing payment from the fund.

The action came as a result of White's deceptive trade practices suit against Holly Beach Co. Inc. and broker-developer Bobby E.

Evins ruled that 330 consumers were misled repeatedly by sales practices of Holly Beach Co.

White said payment to the consumers from the Real Estate Recovery Fund automatically results in the revocation of Deighton's real estate
