Area towns prepare July 4th celebrations

By SHERRY CROMARTIE
Staff Writer

Yes, there will be fireworks popping in Panhandle skies on July 4.

Pyrotechnic displays will be held in Pampa, Wheeler and area lakes on Independence Day evening.

About 9:30 p.m. at Pampa's Recreation Park Lake a fireworks display will be set up on the northwest side, said Bill Hildebrandt, the city's director of community services.

"The show will be visible for long distances," he said.

Hildebrandt said parking is available in the rodeo arena parking lots, and the aerial show will be visible from there.

Other than fireworks, Pampans will enjoy many activities during the day's celebration.

July Fourth activities begin at 1 p.m. in Recreation Park, said Gary Turley, coordinator of field events.

The events are to be hosted by Operations Management International.

Field games for all ages will be held in the rodeo arena, including tug-of-war, potato sack races, 40-yard dash and a human wheelbarrow race. Turley said groups will be divided by ages 2 to 4; 5 to 8; 9 to 12; and adults.

"Prizes will be given for the basketball toss and bean bag toss and children entering games will receive ribbons. And there will be no preregistration, and no fees charged to play. Just show up and pick out which event is most challenging to you," he said.

Independence Day parades, rodeos, outdoor games, arts and crafts sales, fishing, boating and water sports are happening in nearby Panhandle towns and recreation parks.

Traditional Fourth of July rodeos are scheduled for Clarendon and Canadian, starting Thursday through Saturday.

Georgia King, executive director of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, claims Canadian is one of the oldest towns to sponsor July 4 rodeos.

"Rodeo performances start at 7 p.m. in the newly constructed rodeo arena in the Hemphill County Recreation Complex," she said.

The recreation complex is located on US 60.

Prizes sponsored by the chamber of commerce will be given at rodeo performances Friday and Saturday nights.

King reported daytime events begin at 9 a.m. Thursday with the Veterans of Foreign Wars memorial dedication in the Edith Ford Cemetery. The parade begins at 10 a.m. At noon, Canadian Old Timers Association will host its annual barbecue on the court house lawn. The old-timers who traveled the farthest and the oldest present will be recognized.

A Fourth of July fireworks display that evening will be at the recreation complex, said King.

All Day Fun Day in the Park is the theme for the July Fourth celebration in Wheeler, according to Beth Alvey, executive director of Wheeler Chamber of Commerce.

A pancake breakfast starts the day, at 6:30 a.m. Thursday, sponsored by the Masonic Lodge.

"There's no charge for breakfast, but the lodge members will appreciate donations," said

Alvey. "And, after breakfast, at 8 a.m. there's a two-mile walk in City Park."

Wheeler chamber activities for children include Shetland pony races, turtle races, swim meets, volleyball and dunking games. Live musical groups feature local musicians. At dusk the fireworks show in the park will be conducted by the Wheeler Fire Department and Wheeler County Sheriff's deputies. And late evening there's a street dance after the fireworks, until 1 a.m., Alvey said.

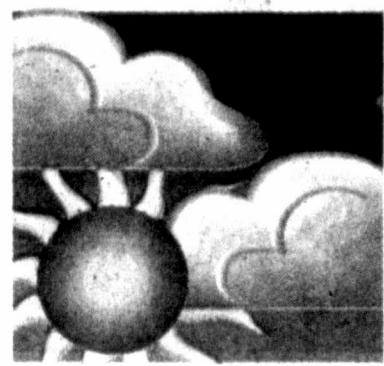

Many visitors are expected at Lakes McClellan, Greenbelt and Meredith for fishing and water sports during the July 4 holiday week end. Lake levels at McClellan and Greenbelt are lower than normal, but Meredith retained its normal depth at 81 feet, according to reports. All three lakes are recording normal temperatures between 70 to 76 degrees.

Venita Roland, concessionaire at Lake McClellan, said the park area has over 500 acres for bikers and hikers and picnickers. In certain areas motor bikes are allowed, she said.

"Families will have available use of a recreational vehicle park area and a community building, where children and adults play sand volleyball and pitch horseshoes. Some beaches will be okay for swimming," Roland said.

On Saturday, July 6, after dark, McClellan's annual fireworks show will be exhibited from the lake island. Campers and visitors to the lake should be able to see the fireworks from any location, Roland said.

PAMPA — Distribution of the 1996-97 Southwestern Bell directory for the Pampa area will begin on July 9. Approximately 14,500 copies of the directory will be delivered to area homes, businesses and government offices.

The directory also includes listings for Skellytown and Lefors. A total of more than 10,500 residence and business listings are included in the directory.

The cover of the new directory, which contains combined White Pages and Yellow Pages, features a photo of Palo Duro Canyon State Park and its 200-million-year-old geological formation.

Included in the new directories are feature bold listings, logos and information on how to reach Southwestern Bill.

PAMPA — The City of Pampa municipal landfill will be closed on July 4 in observance of Independence Day. Residential and commercial trash collection routes will not be run on that day, according to Rick Stone, solid waste superintendent.

The Thursday grass route (Ward 4) will be run on Friday, July 5.

The Recycle Center in Hobart Street Park will be open from 12 p.m. to 6 p.m. on Thursday, July 4.

The landfill and route drivers will resume regular hours on Friday, July 5.

AUSTIN (AP) — Heeding Gov. George W. Bush's call to get involved in his effort to boost literacy in Texas, Boy Scout Erik Wofford delivered more than 1,000 books to an elementary school Friday.

"I read an article in the newspaper about Governor Bush's campaign about literacy and the need for every child to be able to read. This gave me the idea of collecting books for you," Wofford, 17, told children at Harris Elementary on Friday. "Over the past two months, I've collected over a thousand books just for you because reading is so important to education. I hope that all of you will enjoy these books and learn how important reading is."

Bush and Texas First Lady Laura Bush began their campaign to increase literacy in Texas earlier this year. The governor said he was happy to see the effort produce such a resounding response.

"I'm proud of Erik," Bush said. "In order to solve the literacy problem in the state of Texas, it is going to take all of us getting involved."

U.S. Rep. Mac Thornberry, left, answers questions from an audience Saturday morning at a town hall meeting held at Coronado Inn.

Thornberry answers questions on Social Security, Medicare

Concerns about Medicare, Medicaid and Social Security dominated discussion at Saturday's town hall meeting with U.S. Rep. William "Mac" Thornberry (R-Amarillo).

Thornberry eschewed a stumping speech, instead throwing the meeting open to questions from the about 50-member audience. In brief opening remarks, the representative commented on recent government findings that the Medicare trust fund will be bankrupt by the year 2001, a year earlier than previously expected.

The audience — many of them retirees — returned frequently to those remarks as they formed their questions during the 90-minute meeting at Coronado Inn.

To fix the Medicare problem, Thornberry said Congress should stop the fast-rising spending, allow citizens a choice between Medicare and private health insurance and cut out fraudulent claims.

"The longer you wait, the harder it is to save it," he said.

The representative also commented in his opening remarks that the government report said Social Security would bankrupt in 2015.

He added that a bill had been introduced last month that would place the Social Security trust fund into real assets, such as treasury bonds, that would stave off depletion for another 10-15 years.

Other audience members shared fears about the United Nations and what they alluded to as the threat of a "one-world government."

"I don't think that tomorrow we're going to turn around and the U.N. is going to be in control," Thornberry said, though he added that he was concerned about some "steps toward" that problem, including American forces under U.N. control in Bosnia.

One audience member expressed concerns that the Republican party might be becoming "too intolerant."

"There's not much place for moderates," she said.

Thornberry asserted the party was big enough for divergent views, saying "I have no doubt I do not believe in everything that's in the Republican party platform."

Thornberry is up for re-election in the fall, facing Amarillo patent attorney Samuel Silverman as his Democratic opponent.

Experts search through bombing clues

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Hundreds of parts of an exploded truck bomb lay spread out on long plastic sheets at a devastated U.S. military complex Saturday, among them key clues that investigators hope will lead to attackers who killed 19 Americans.

The chassis of the deadly fuel truck — complete with serial number — were among the parts FBI agents have discovered. Saudi authorities reportedly have the license plate number and plan soon to release composite sketches of two suspects.

U.S. Defense Secretary William J. Perry flew in for a brief tour of the bomb site Saturday and revealed that security had been stepped up prior to Tuesday's blast due to suspicions that people were scouting out the complex that houses some 2,000 American servicemen.

Since the bombing, which injured hundreds of people, additional security measures taken include moving perimeter barriers to 400 feet from the building — four times farther out than before. Perry acknowledged that U.S. officials must assume another attack is possible.

"We have to take that vulnerability very seriously," he said. "We are making our security plans as if there were other threats."

But the commander of the U.S. Air Force in Dhahran, Brig. Gen. Terry Schwalier, said that Saudi officials twice refused requests in March to allow the concrete-and-wire barrier to be moved out to the 400-foot line.

"We asked them to move it to the outside of the parking lot," Schwalier told a small group of reporters. "The answer was, 'Not at this time.'"

He explained their refusal by saying "the pace is different" in the kingdom. "We did as much as we could, given the environment," he said.

Schwalier said that after a November bomb attack that killed five Americans and two Indians in the Saudi capital Riyadh, Dhahran base officials conducted a "vulnerability assessment" and identified 40 necessary measures for beefing up security — including moving the perimeter.

Measures taken included moving the main gate; erecting barriers to slow vehicles approaching the entrance; stringing a second tier of concertina wire around parts of the perimeter fence; and increasing patrols.

President Clinton, in France for an economic summit, on Saturday assigned retired Army Gen. Wayne A. Downing to assess the bombing and security at other military installations.

Persian Gulf newspapers quoted Saudi officials as saying that investigators had the fuel truck's license number. Three leading newspapers said that witnesses gave Saudi investigators a "good description" of the two men who parked the truck, and the government would release composite sketches shortly.

Pampa teacher selected for university program on changing German culture

AMHERST, Mass. — Local German teacher Raye Stucker is among 25 teachers selected nationally to attend a four-week summer program at the University of Massachusetts to explore the changing cultural landscape of unified Germany.

Stucker recently completed her second year of teaching at Pampa High School.

"Post-Wall Germany: Integrating Post-Unification German Culture into the High School Curriculum" will be hosted by the department of Germanic languages and literatures and will take place on the UMass campus July 8 through Aug. 2. The program is funded by a $155,000 grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

The focus of the institute, to be conducted entirely in German, will be on issues currently in the forefront of German public discussion, including Germany's present and past, the changing relationship between women and men and the status of various minority groups in German society. Particular emphasis will be placed on the development of classroom materials using contemporary literary and journalistic texts, video and film, news media and current technology such as the Internet.

The funding for the institute is one of the largest NEH grants ever to be administered by UMass. In making the award, the NEH cited the university's resources and recommended the program be expanded to recruit participants nationwide.

The NEH further said "the project would support current efforts to raise standards in the teaching of foreign languages and that the focus on cultural diversity in a German context would provide a unique perspective on the challenges currently facing the United States."

"It's gratifying," said Barton Byg, associate professor of German languages and literature at UMass and director of the institute, "that we were asked to expand our program from the regional to the national level, given the reductions faced by the NEH in Washington. We see that as confirmation of the need for U.S. teachers and students to understand the unified Germany and as recognition of the contribution UMass can make to this field."

The 25 participants accepted into the program receive a travel allowance, room and board, course instruction and materials, plus a stipend. The program also offers graduate credit and professional development points toward re-certification.

Jury awards millions in harassment case

DALLAS (AP) — A jury has awarded nearly $4.9 million to a Brinker International Inc. employee who said she was sexually harassed by a company executive and then retaliated against when she complained.
 Julie Reid, who worked in research and development, contended that company officials retaliated against her after she complained to management about alleged sexual harassment by one of Brinker's executive officers, Douglas Bates.
 Ms. Reid sued both the company that owns Chili's, On The Border and other chain restaurants and Bates, senior vice president in charge of food and beverage. However, the court excused Bates from the suit on grounds that Texas law did not allow him to be held individually liable.
 A call by The Associated Press to Bates' residence was returned by company spokesman Harry Day.
 The company's investigation found no sexual harassment "and that was also the finding of the court," Day said Saturday.
 "The ruling addressed the way the company handled the situation, that the company was not responsive, and we think the ruling was wrong," Day said.
 "We will appeal, and we are confident the finding will be reversed," he said. "Our immediate transfer of Ms. Reid to another supervisor, with the same position, addressed her concerns and was the appropriate action for the company to take."
 The jury in state District Judge Bill Rhea's court on Friday awarded Ms. Reid $540,600 for mental anguish and lost income and $4,350,000 in punitive damages, to be paid by the company.
 "I think the size of this verdict tells large companies and small companies alike that if an employee complains to you about retaliation or discrimination in the workplace, you'd better take them seriously," said Edward J. Westmoreland, Ms. Reid's attorney.

Dole: Clinton's defense policy needs change

DALLAS (AP) — In a speech nostalgic for his own military days, Bob Dole suggested Saturday that President Clinton's defense policies had "turned off the porch light" and left Americans vulnerable to terrorist attacks like last week's bombing in Saudi Arabia.

The Republican presidential challenger also contended that the bombing proved the need for beefed-up military spending and a missile defense.

In side-by-side national radio broadcasts, both Dole and Clinton condemned the "cowardly" bombing of a U.S. military housing complex in Saudi Arabia that killed 19 Americans. And both took the tragedy as an opportunity to make some political points.

Clinton, who was headed to memorial services in Florida for the victims, said he has "directed our senior officials to come together as soon as possible to discuss additional steps to intensify the worldwide fight against terrorism."

Clinton, speaking in Lyon, France, at the end of an economic summit of world leaders, cited his administration's record in fighting terrorism and building a strong economy. When he came into office, Clinton said, "the United States was not in a strong position to lead."

Now, he said, the worldwide fight "against terrorist, international crime, drug trafficking and the spread of weapons of mass destruction are part of a campaign America has been leading for three years now. Without our leadership, the job will not get done."

Dole, confined to the campaign trail, called for a united American front against terrorism, saying that "when tragedies like this occur we're not Democrats, we're not Republicans — we're Americans."

Yet, both his brief radio broadcast — which was aired as the GOP response to the president's address — and a speech to the Texas state convention of Veterans of Foreign Wars echoed earlier criticism of Clinton as "naïve and naive in foreign policy."

Family reunion at Lake McClellan

Hugs from campers already set up at Lake McClellan greet those arriving Friday afternoon for the Trout Family reunion, an annual gathering for the family members. More than 100 are expected for this week's reunion, including members from the Pampa, Lefors and McLean area as well as Amarillo, Burk Burnett, Wichita Falls, Coperas Cove and other areas. Family gatherings and reunions are often held around the July 4th holiday.

Hurricane Boris hits Mexico's Pacific coast

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP) — Hurricane Boris walloped Mexico's Pacific coast with 90-mph winds on Saturday, flooding the lobbies of seafront hotels and tossing fishing boats against the seawall in this popular resort city.

A 6-year-old boy was killed when a roof collapsed in a working-class neighborhood, the Red Cross said. There were no other reports of casualties, although the storm rendered at least 100 people in the city homeless, authorities said.

The hurricane — the second in less than a week to slam Mexico's Pacific coast — downed trees and blew business signs into streets that were hunched in water.

The U.S. National Hurricane Center said Boris hit the coast about 60 miles northwest of Acapulco, about midway to Ixtapa, shortly before 10 a.m. Sheets of water blew off the ocean across Acapulco's seafront Costera Boulevard. Hotel employees with long-handled squeegees worked frantically to push seawater out of the open-air lobbies of luxury hotels.

Hurricane-force winds extended 25 miles from the storm's center and tropical-storm-force winds for 115 miles. Five to 10 inches of rain were predicted, posing the risk of flash floods and mudslides.

The speed of the hurricane's winds had doubled since Friday afternoon, but the storm weakened slightly Saturday as it drifted northwest along the coast at 12 mph.

A hurricane warning was in effect from Punta Maldonado to Manzanillo. A tropical storm warning was in effect from Puerto Escondido to just east of Punta Maldonado.

Earlier this week, Hurricane Alma, with 100-mph winds, hit near the port of Ciudad Lazaro

Cardenas, about 170 miles northwest of here.

It destroyed scores of flimsy houses and killed at least three people before heading back out to sea and weakening.

While causing havoc along the Pacific, the storms were welcomed in rain-starved northern Mexico, where a four-year-old drought has decimated cattle and grazing land, and been blamed for the malnutrition deaths of scores of children.

"The negative panorama that the area faced a week ago has changed radically, especially for the season's agriculture, for which there is now enough humidity to save the (growth) cycle," Chihuahua state agricultural official Octavio Legarreta Guerrero said.

Speaking to the government's Notimex news agency, he said the area needs three or four years of good rains to recover from the drought.

'TEXAS' adds new lightning effects to musical drama

CANYON — The people of the Panhandle area have been wishing for rain, and the TEXAS musical drama is now creating bigger and brighter thunderstorms.

Visitors can experience a startling new lightning effect in the Palo Duro Canyon State Park where TEXAS plays through Aug. 24.

Each evening the show dazzles its audiences with sound and light special effects that create a Texas size thunder and lightning storm. TEXAS has been able to take the reality of the storm to new heights with the use of a new lightning technology that will leave audience members wondering if they rolled up their car windows.

This upgrade to the show was made possible through the generous donations of Amarillo Coca Cola Bottling Company and the Credit Bureau of Amarillo and the Panhandle. TEXAS has long been known for its gigantic lightning bolt that crashes down the 600 foot canyon wall, strikes a tree and splits it in half. This year the dramatic scene will be even more realistic due to a new technology known as "Lightning Strikes!"

TEXAS uses two 70,000 watt "Lightning Strikes!" effects units. These special effects units are a television, film and concert tour industry favorite for recreating realistic lightning flashes. "Lightning Strikes!" technology can most recently be seen in the film Mission Impossible.

Melvin Isley, manager of the Credit Bureau of Amarillo and the Panhandle, was surprised at the far reaching effect of the lightning the first time he saw it. "Lightning Strikes!" is a major additional effect that demonstrates what the show is all about, and the audience can really visualize that part of nature," Isley said.

"Lightning Strikes!" makes some audience members reach for their umbrellas and occasionally run for cover. It's a wonderful addition to an already exciting scene. We feel a great amount of gratitude to our contributors," Patty Bryant, president of TEXAS, said.

The new "Lightning Strikes!" effect can be seen nightly except Sundays in the Palo Duro Canyon State Park near Amarillo and Canyon. A professional cast of 80 singers, dancers, actors and musicians tell the colorful story of pioneer life on the Texas high plains.

In addition to "Lightning Strikes!" special effects thrill audiences with an array of colorful fireworks during the finale. State-of-the-art digital sound makes even the crickets wonder what's real and what's simulated.

Pulitzer prize winning author Paul Green wrote TEXAS specifically for the Palo Duro Canyon State Park setting. Since its beginning in 1966, the popularity of TEXAS has continued to grow, and 2.6 million people have enjoyed this rough and tumble tale. Each summer visitors come from every state in the nation and almost 100 foreign countries.

Tickets for the 31st season of TEXAS range in price from $7 to $16. An optional barbecue dinner is also available for an additional $6.50. For more information call TEXAS at (806) 655-2181.

FREEDOM FROM SIN

"Jesus therefore said to those Jews that had believed Him, If ye abide in my word, then are ye truly my disciples; and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." (Jn. 8:31-32.) When those Jews responded that they had never been in bondage to any man, Jesus told them that everyone who committed sin is the bondservant of sin (Jn. 8:33-34.) Therefore, we know that Jesus was speaking of being made free from the servitude of sin.

Paul explained how the truth frees from sin, when he wrote: "But thanks be to God, that, whereas ye were servants of sin, ye became obedient from the heart to that form of teaching whereunto ye were delivered; and being made free from sin, ye became servants of righteousness." (Rom. 6:17-18.)

Obviously, the "form of teaching" that Paul was speaking of, is the truth of which Jesus spoke. The releasing of one from the servitude of sin occurs when one obeys from the heart the truth of the gospel. This involves believing the gospel and then rendering obedience, by faith, to the commands of the gospel.

To be made free from sin one must believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God (Jn. 20:30-31.) One must repent of their sins (Acts 17:30.) One must confess one's belief that Jesus Christ is the Son of God (Rom. 10:9-10.) One must be baptized for the remission of sins (Acts 2:38.) After one has been released from the servitude of sin, one must truly be a servant of righteousness by faithfully worshipping and serving God every day. As with all freedoms, freedom from sin involves responsibility. But this freedom guarantees eternal life.

July 4th

On Thursday the rodeo activities begin at 7:45 p.m. at the Clarendon Rodeo Arena, off U.S. 287 south of downtown, followed by outdoor dancing until 1 a.m. Music is provided by Single Tree all three nights, said Pat Archuleta of the Clarendon Chamber of Commerce. To inquire about rodeo tickets or the Saint's Roust activities, contact the Clarendon Chamber of Commerce office, (806) 874-2421.

From July 4-6, beginning at 9 a.m. Thursday, Clarendon's Saint's Roust celebration of the history of Donley County will entertain guests from all over the area, Archuleta said.

Highlights of the activities are the Shriner's barbecue at 12 noon, and traditional parade at 2 p.m. There will be games, music, crafts and food booths on the county courthouse square all day Thursday, and continue Friday and Saturday in the downtown area, according to Archuleta.

From 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Thursday old-timers register for the Old Settler's Reunion on the courthouse lawn.

Friday and Saturday there's a carnival and other chamber-sponsored activities including a children's bicycle parade at 10 a.m., all-day dog patty bingo and a turtle race, Archuleta said. A depression luncheon will be served at noon, in front of the Masonic Lodge on Kearney Street.

Greenbelt Lake, near Clarendon and Howardwick, offers a place for family gatherings.

"The fishing is good," said Chad, an employee at Greenbelt Marina.

He said water activities include boating, skiing and jet skis; and certain beach areas are okay for swimming and some can use hiking trails. Also there spaces for camping and picnicking.

Fireworks are not allowed this year at Greenbelt Lake, Chad said.

The Lake Meredith Aquatic Museum celebrates its 20th anniversary, Friday and Saturday, July 5-6, said Janet Roberts, a volunteer at the museum.

Starting at 6 p.m. Friday a barbecue cookout, open to the public, will be at the Lake Meredith Aquatic Museum area.

From 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday a public reception will be at the aquatic museum. Donations are accepted at either event, which will help defray expenses.

After dark, July 6, fireworks professionals will shoot off aerials over the water from Meredith's Arrow Head Island. Individual use of fireworks is not allowed this year, said George Surles, manager of the Lake Meredith Marina at Sanford.

"Fishing is great at Lake Meredith," Surles said.

He reminds the public to use caution around water and wear life jackets. He said park rangers will enforce park and recreation area rules.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Restructuring NATO yields NATO Lite

NATO foreign ministers have agreed to a potentially historic restructuring that would allow European members of the 16-nation alliance to undertake their own military operations and, therefore, assume a greater role in defense of their continent.

Anybody here order a NATO Lite? As described by diplomats, the plan serves everyone's tastes.

Europeans get a flexible approach to low-level conflict and peacekeeping within the mighty NATO structure. America remains at the table, a full member in actions to quell crises threatening shared interests - but able to opt out of missions that fail to fire the passions of an increasingly isolationist electorate.

Specifically, the agreement allows NATO's European members to carry out operations without U.S. participation, although Pentagon equipment, logistical support and intelligence might be required. On paper at least, European members of NATO would supply troops and equipment to the ten nation Western European Union, described in diplomatic shorthand as the defensive arm of the European Union, but which is, in reality, less than a shell; it is a concept hardly visible in the muscular outline of NATO's giant shadow.

Actions taken by this downsized NATO-within-NATO would require the unanimous approval of all alliance members - which gives the United States a veto, of course. And the ultimate military authority over operations would remain with NATO's supreme commander, a post always filled by an American.

This step toward European self-sufficiency in common defense was a partial victory for France, but a victory nonetheless for the one European power that possesses a clear world view about its growing international role. The program approved by NATO foreign ministers was a compromise version of an original French plan giving Europeans much more liberty to undertake military operations free from American approval, participation and control.

Secretary of State Warren Christopher inadvertently flagged both the strengths and the weaknesses of a new NATO Lite when he said the arrangements create an alliance "in which the Europeans can take greater responsibility if they want to."

A decision on whether "they want to" can be expected in December, when U.S. troops are scheduled to pull out of a Bosnia that is far from a civil, pacified state. If the Europeans believe that only continued NATO policing will prolong a fragile peace, then perhaps a European-only force - NATO Lite - will remain past the deadline set by the Dayton Accords.

Are you a political extremist?

Congressional Democrats and the news media love to label certain Americans as extremists. Usually the victim of their appellation is the American who demands that government respect both the letter and spirit of the United States Constitution.

The Gun Owners of America and the National Rifle Association are extremists because they fight the government encroachments on our Second Amendment guarantee to bear arms. In that regard, there are some other extremists who should be identified. Patrick Henry warned, "The militia, sir, is our ultimate safety ... The great object is that every man be armed ... everyone who is able may have a gun." Richard Henry Lee said, "To preserve liberty, it is essential that the whole body of the people always possess arms and be taught alike, especially when young, how to use them."

The framers gave us the Second Amendment not so we could go deer or duck hunting but to give us a modicum of protection against congressional tyranny.

The Fifth Amendment says: "(N)or shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation." There's nothing complicated about those 12 words. You tell me: Which of those words permits the Fish & Wildlife Service to come upon your property, find a red-cockaded woodpecker and then prohibit you from using 1,000 acres, resulting in a $1.8 million loss of value, as in the case of a North Carolina farmer?

Americans shouldn't passively comply with tyrannical acts like this. Of course, politicians and the news media would label me an extremist. But I'm proud to be in good company. Thomas Jefferson's seal said, "Rebellion to tyrants is obedience to God." And, if you're like many and think I'm too critical and suspicious of government, there's another with similar suspicions. George Washington said, "Government is not reason, it is not eloquence. It is force. Like fire, it is a dangerous servant and a fearsome master."

Liberals and the news media are constitutional extremists in one way. They revere the First Amendment that says, "Congress shall make no law ... abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press." If you don't believe they have an "extremist" vision of the First Amendment, ask them in what ways Congress should regulate the press "in the public interest." They'll say none. Try to tell them that freedom of the press is an anachronistic, simplistic idea inconsistent with a complex, dynamic society. They still won't accept any government regulation of what they print and broadcast.

Why is it that news media people and liberals are so "extremist" when it comes to First Amendment guarantees and can easily find justification for government restriction on other liberties? The simple answer is people love freedom for themselves but not for others. But of greater explanatory worth is the fact that free speech is critical to a tyrant's pursuit of tyranny. Once a tyrant has accomplished that goal, free speech becomes a thing of the past as well. That was surely the pattern of 20th century tyrants like Hitler, Stalin, Castro and Mao.

An extremist like Thomas Paine warned, "Those who expect to reap the blessings of freedom must, like men, undergo the fatigue of supporting it." We can't rest on the fact that the framers gave us the world's greatest Constitution. In 1789, Benjamin Franklin admonished, "Our new Constitution is now established, and has an appearance that promises permanency; but in this world, nothing can be said to be certain, except death and taxes."

Do you think Clinton should enact an executive order banning Fourth of July celebrations? After all, why honor a bunch of anti-government extremists?

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, June 30, the 182nd day of 1996. There are 184 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

Twenty-five years ago, on June 30, 1971, the 26th Amendment to the Constitution, lowering the minimum voting age to 18, was ratified as Ohio became the 38th state to approve it.

On this date:

In 1834, the Indian Territory was created by Congress.

In 1859, French acrobat Blondin (born Jean Francois Gravelet) crossed Niagara Falls on a tightrope as 5,000 spectators watched.

In 1870, Ada H. Kepley of Effingham, Ill., became America's first female law school graduate.

In 1906, the Pure Food and Drug Act and the Meat Inspection Act became law.

In 1921, President Harding appointed former President Taft chief justice of the United States.

In 1934, Adolf Hitler began his "blood purge" of political and military leaders in Germany. Among those killed was one-time Hitler ally Ernst Roehm, leader of the Nazi stormtroopers.

Netanyahu risks peace process

The peace process is dead. Newly elected Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu will have announced his government by the time you read this. I can predict as I write this there won't be any peace process fans in the bunch.

Very likely in one capacity or another you'll find Ariel Sharon, architect of the 1982 invasion of Lebanon that resulted in, among other things, the infamous Shatila and Sabra massacres. As housing minister, Sharon instituted the heavy settlement activity in the West Bank, which today is the principle stumbling block for peace. Netanyahu has pledged to continue expanding the settlements. That alone will kill peace.

A tough U.S. president might be able to exert a moderating influence on Netanyahu. After all, with the annual billions of financial support and with the United States wielding its U.N. veto to protect Israel from the international community, an American leader ought to have some leverage in Israel.

But Bill Clinton acts as if he were deputy prime minister of Israel rather than president of the United States. The Jell-O Congress is as scared as a cat in an elephant stampede of the U.S. Israeli lobby. Don't hold your breath in expectation of either acting in the interests of the United States or of peace. In the last days of the American empire, there are no statesmen on the Potomac.

It would be a terrible irony if the success of the

Charley Reese

Israeli lobby ended up harming Israel by having emasculated American politicians just when American influence might be the only factor that can save the peace process.

And it would be a further irony - and tragedy - if a Likud government, dominated by religious extremists, so despoils Israel's reputation that its diaspora supporters are also discredited.

Unfortunately, in their last election the Israelis chose by a narrow margin the short term security of the iron fist over the long term security of the open hand of friendship with their neighbors. If indeed this is the end of the peace process, then I believe Yehoshafat Harkabi, former head of military intelligence, was correct when he said some years ago that the alternative to peace is national suicide for Israel.

That's too bad. Israelis and Palestinians alike deserve a better future than that. But that's the tragedy of the human race: People always do what they think is the right thing to do - but often it isn't.

Looking at the long view, once early Zionists decided on the Middle East, the die was cast - either reach accommodation with the Arabs or perish. No Jewish (or any other non-Arab) outpost in a sea of a 160 million Arabs can last indefinitely in a state of siege and hostility. General Birthrate always conquers. Ask the white South Africans.

And the key to that accommodation and peace remains what it always has been: a just settlement with the Palestinians.

What makes the bad turn of events especially poignant is that Palestinian realism had at last made peace possible. Palestinians are willing to cede most of their country to Israel in exchange for the West Bank, Gaza and joint sovereignty in Jerusalem. That's only about 18 percent of Palestine. Harkabi points out that in the modern age with current technology, giving up this ground will present no security risks to Israel.

But right-wing Israelis, perhaps grown arrogant with money and power, perhaps overconfident of the American Israeli lobby's power, think they can take it all and are unwilling to grant even that pittance.

That is, to put it mildly, a serious miscalculation. Reneging on agreements with the Palestinians will almost certainly sour world opinion. It was Ben Gurion, Israel's pioneer, who said, "Without sympathy among the nations, the army itself cannot guarantee Israel's peace."

Perpetual conflict, even low intensity conflict, can bleed any country to death, much less one as small as Israel. If Netanyahu turns Israel away from peace, he will be turning it toward oblivion.

The Fantasy President's entourage

alibi whole. Eleanor Clift, playing make believe Walter Lippmann on the weekly McLaughlin shouting match, pronounced the White House's possession of confidential files a matter of negligible importance. Actually, anyone familiar with federal standards for processing federal security files knows this "completely honest snafu" is an impossibility. It is another of the Fantasy President's implausible lies and a grave breach of government procedure.

The federal government's standard for security clearance determinations has been established by the CIA for years. It is used throughout the federal government. A candidate for a White House security clearance, fills out an FBI background form. The FBI then does a background investigation on the candidate. The resulting file must be handled with the utmost confidentiality, for it will contain what is called "raw" intelligence. Everything that turns up on the candidate appears in the file. It could include outlandish charges from neighbors and disloyal friends, along with other unsubstantiated charges. The file is then sent to the White House's director of personnel security. It is in this office that an "adjudication" is performed on the file. That means the raw intelligence is reviewed, and either a "favorable" or an "unfavorable" judgment is made on the candidate's security clearance.

After that, the file is returned to an FBI vault, from which it is to be removed only every five years for reviews that take into account the file subject's changed conditions. The grade of the subject's security clearance is kept on a Secret Service roster, which also records the subject's employment in the White House with an "A" for active or "I" for inactive. The "Update Project" is nonsense. The White House hack who called the FBI for personnel files clearly broke the law - as did the source at the FBI who responded to this clearly illegal call. The Clintons wanted political intelligence on their opponents. If some unsavory claim about, say, former Secretary of State James Baker or former White House speechwriter Andrew Ferguson (now a Washington journalist) turned up, it might be leaked at the appropriate time. Say, when Ferguson writes a blockbuster about Hillary's latest tantrum or Baker challenges a Clinton crony for office.

Back in Arkansas, such ambushes of the Clintons' opponents were known to happen. Former Clinton bodyguard Larry Patterson reported in David Brock's Troopergate story in 1993 that Clinton often broke the law by asking his troopers to dig up dirt on opponents. A promising Clinton opponent, Steve Clark, had his expense records leaked to the press by Webb Hubbell, killing his chances to challenge Clinton. What the Senate's Whitewater report and the pilfering of White House personnel files demonstrate is that the Clintons' Arkansas morals followed them into the White House. Those of us who have given their White House our undivided attention have been trying to point that out. Now, the criminal justice process will. Keep an eye on the fate of White House operative Livingstone - and now Bruce Lindsey.

Letters to the editor

Take time to compliment

To the editor:

Has everyone noticed how pretty the grounds of the Pampa schools look lately? Take time to tell Denver Bruner, manager of Environmental Services of Pampa I.S.D., and his crew how much it is appreciated.

Also, the parks around town look so well kept and every thing is so green. We can thank the Parks and Recreation Department of Pampa for the great job they are doing.

Downtown area looks so pretty with the trees and flowers, looks like a town with pride and an inviting place to live.

We are sometimes quick to criticize, but take time to compliment and encourage the ones who are trying to improve Pampa.

Doris Smith
Manager of Pampa Mall

Support postal carriers

To the editor:

A few days ago, on June 19, Pampa letter carriers delivered an important message to the citizens of our community — a message critical to protecting the future of quality mail delivery in our city and the very viability of the U.S. Postal Service as a great American institution.

As you know, we weren't just out on our postal routes that day. We also walked an informational picket line in front of the post office to let the public know that they may soon experience a deterioration in mail delivery because of ill advised decisions and actions by postal management.

Members of Branch 3094 of the National Association of Letter Carriers (AFL-CIO) don't want that to happen.

We're all proud to be letter carriers, and we know that the U.S. Postal Service is the best in the world, delivering more mail to more people over greater distances and at a lower cost than any other in the world.

But all is not well inside the Postal Service.

An autocratic and increasingly militarist management, fueled by short-sighted and misguided directives from Post Service headquarters in Washington, wants to take the word "Service" out of the Postal Service.

We are determined they will not succeed, but we need your help. Letter carriers in Pampa pledge to our postal customers that we will continue to provide you with the best service possible, and we will fight those in management who would sacrifice the service you receive just to make some points with the postal bureaucracy in Washington.

The demonstration we have just conducted is only the beginning. We ask for your support and encouragement as we strive to convince postal management that you — our postal customers — deserve nothing short of the very best service.

Charlie Burke
President Branch 3094

Veterans can use help

To the editor:

Two situations in the veteran community currently exist that need to be brought to the attention of the citizenry of Pampa. The Freedom Museum USA has been offered what is purported to be the last remaining building from the Panhandle frontier military installation known as Fort Elliott. The museum board of directors committed to the city commission that the building would be moved onto city property across from the museum only when the restoration funds, $7,000, were secured and in hand. To date, we have a pledge of $1,000 contingent on acquiring the remaining funds.

If this irreplaceable piece of Panhandle history is to be preserved, we must raise the funds almost immediately. We are asking anyone who might view this as a beneficial project to step forward with the necessary assistance. If the funds cannot be raised, the property owner will be forced to dispose of the building as he is in need of the land currently occupied by same.

All contributions can be directed to the Freedom Museum USA located at 600 N. Hobart. Your help will be appreciated.

Also, concerning the museum, in the past several months there have been several acts of vandalism committed against some of the items located outside the building. Things have been stolen and items have been damaged for sheer meanness. If anyone has any information concerning these criminal acts, please contact me at 669-8040 or call the museum at 669-6066. If an arrest and conviction can be obtained, a reward will be paid.

The Pampa VFW Post is currently operating its Sunday bingo games very short-handed. We have a membership of over 225 members, but unfortunately, the same six to eight members are doing all the work. Surely some of you members who are retired can come out on Sundays and lend a hand.

The money derived from our bingo operation goes toward our college scholarship program, our Optimist Baseball team sponsorship, our Christmas food basket program and many other community projects we take pride in participating in. If the bingo ceases, so to will our ability to contribute to these worthwhile projects.

Our commander, Tommy Adams, requests that the membership get involved for the good of the post as well as the community.

Why isn't road fixed?

To the editor:

For the past 3 1/2 years, I have been asking the commissioner of Precinct 2 to fix my road to the farm. The county has calched one and one-half miles of the road, but left 50 yards right in the middle unimproved with dirt and clay.

This is dangerous when wet. If I had another fire at my farm, there is no way that a fire truck could get there. Last year, I hit some dry ruts in the road and knocked a ball joint out on my pickup. This cost me $948.

Every time that I or my wife asks the commissioner to fix the road, he has some catty or smart-aleck remark to make about fixing the road. One day last week, I stopped in the Precinct 2 office at 9:30 a.m. to see the commissioner or road supervisor, but neither had shown up for work yet. Four county employees had been sitting in their easy chairs since 8 a.m., and you know they take off on Fridays to change oil in their vehicles.

If they do not do anything during the week, why do they need to change the oil? I am not surprised that my road has not been fixed.

Ag representatives discuss farm law

LUBBOCK (AP) — Federal regulators need to have the use of the same kind of "flexibility and common sense" the new farm policy expects of producers, Texas' top agricultural official told a conference Friday.

State Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry closed the state Agriculture Summit here by challenging farmers, ranchers, business leaders and government officials to abandon outmoded ways of doing things.

As an example, Perry cited the regulations that forced farmers to plant cotton this spring with full knowledge that the plants could never survive in the parched ground, cracking under the weight of a persistent drought.

"Why in the world would a producer have to crank up a tractor and plant seeds to be eligible for insurance?" Perry asked. He said that true freedom to farm means "freedom from regulations that cost millions, billions a year."

Industry participants and experts met in brainstorming sessions Thursday and Friday to come up with issues and goals for agriculture as it enters an era of lessened government participation.

Improvement of environmental and banking regulatory procedures seemed to rank high on everyone's list of immediate targets.

Federal banking officials shouldn't force banks to clamp down automatically on drought-stricken farmers who fall behind on loans, said Terry Dane, president of the San Angelo-based Production Credit Association.

"Under particular circumstances, it may not be appropriate for 'one time and you're out,' particularly in a disaster situation," he said.

Perry sympathized. "We don't have to lose one producer because of the drought if (banking regulators) would have flexibility and common sense," said Perry, who noted that few policy makers from the last major drought in the 1950s are available to lend their expertise in the 1990s.

One disaster remedy lies within the new farm law, Deputy U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Richard Rominger said. The policy prescribes a declining scale of fixed payments over the next seven years, regardless of crop success or failure.

American farmers will collect around $8 billion this year if all apply for early benefits. That money, however, replaces the old safety nets of disaster relief that have disappeared from national policy after 60 years.

"While the temptation may be to use the cash for a new car or a family vacation, farmers may want to sock it away," Rominger, an ex-farmer himself, said.

There's a blue moon due out tonight

MIAMI (AP) — Just before midnight Sunday, sky watchers across this country will see an event that is notable because of the quirks of the manmade calendar and happens, well, just once in a blue moon.

Few experts agree on why a blue moon — a second full moon in one month — is called a "blue moon." It has nothing to do with its color.

"Blue moons are the Hula Hoops of the heavens," says Jack Horkheimer, director of the Miami planetarium and host of the PBS astronomy show Star Hustler. "They're kind of silly, but they're a lot of fun."

Blue moons have become part of our culture, largely remembered from the popular Rodgers and Hart standard: "Blue Moon, you saw me standing alone, without a dream in my heart, without a love of my own."

That song was recently encored by the singing mice in the movie Babe.

Blue moons occur once every 2.7 years, and come about because the modern calendar's 12 months do not coincide with the moon's 29-day cycles.

The origin of the term itself is obscure.

"It's interesting tracking it down. We'll never know for sure," said Terence Dickinson, editor of the Canadian astronomy magazine Sky News.

Dickinson, by the way, prefers actual events like the even rarer occurrence of a moon that really is tinted blue, when something in the atmosphere blocks the red component of sunlight.

A blue-tinted moon was seen over much of the world after the 1991 eruption of Mount Pinatubo in the Philippines, Horkheimer noted.

When the last two-in-a-month, untinted blue moon was visible in this country, in September 1993, Horkheimer had a contest to find the origin of the term.

"Several thousand sent in responses," he recalled. "Some did phenomenal amounts of research."

Horkheimer particularly liked one explanation that linked "blue moon" to the old English word "belewe" which meant "to betray." According to that theory, the second moon in one month betrays the count of one full moon in one month.

Another said it may have come from the French word for double. Others argue it came from ancient cultures in Egypt or Crete and was a symbol of good fortune.

Johnny Doan

Pampa man chosen as surveyor intern by state surveying board

The Texas Board of Professional Land Surveying has recently notified Johnny Doan, supervisor of field operations for Topographic Land Surveyors in Pampa, that he has been recognized as a surveyor intern upon successfully completing an eight hour examination in Austin pertaining to fundamentals of land surveying.

To become a registered professional land surveyor, Doan must complete an additional two years in responsible charge of land surveying, attend several Land Surveyors conferences and seminars and pass another eight hour exam.

In addition to being recognized as a surveyor intern, Doan completed a 40-hour class in Herndon, Va., on the global positioning system, a class presented by leading manufacturer of global positioning equipment Trimble Navigation.

Doan has been employed by Topographic Land Surveyors for the past eight years. He and his wife Michelle, have two children and live in Skellytown.

Enron negotiates pipeline with Bolivia

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Enron Corp. has agreed to a revised contract with the Bolivian government, paving the way for the construction of an $1.8 billion natural gas pipeline between Bolivia and Brazil.

The Houston-based company had originally negotiated an agreement with the state petroleum company YPFB two years ago, but opposition groups claimed it was unfavorable to Bolivia's interests and called for a revision of the contract.

Under the deal, the conditions which Enron will participate in the pipeline construction have been altered.

Minding your own Business
 By Don Taylor

Investing in your future

According to the book, Famous First Facts, the Boston "News-Letter" contained the first print advertisements used in the United States. In May, 1704 the paper ran three classified ads.

Nearly 170 years later, Mark Twain was editor of a small newspaper in Buffalo, N.Y. One day, a subscriber wrote that he had found a spider in his paper. He asked Twain if finding the spider was good or bad luck. Twain answered, "Finding a spider in your paper is neither good luck nor bad. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant was not advertising, so that he could go to that store, spin his web across the door and lead a life of undisturbed peace afterward."

Advertising has changed significantly over the years, but Twain's point is still valid today. If you want people to know about your business, you have to tell them. Advertising is one of the fastest ways to create awareness of your products and services.

Many small business owners feel that advertising is an expense they can't afford. This is an excellent way to stay small. However, if you want your business to grow and prosper, it may be time to take a new look at advertising.

Investing in future business
 Advertising is an investment in future business. Although it shows up as an expense on the income statement, it really isn't an expense. With proper planning and execution, advertising will be effective and bring in profitable business. Spending money to make money is not an expense; it is an investment.

Every year, business owners unwisely invest a significant portion of their advertising budget. The advertising dollars you direct at the wrong audience are thrown away. If your ads aren't read, heard or seen, your effort is wasted.

Effective advertising begins with good planning. Good planning includes setting aside a specific amount of your business budget for advertising. You may plan to spend a certain amount each month or simply use a percentage of sales as your budget. The actual amount is not as important as the commitment to budget the funds regularly.

The next step is to identify a target for your advertising. Who do you want your ads to reach? Who are your most likely customers: men, women, families, senior citizens or young people? Send a message

Once you identify your target customers, begin to focus on the message. What do you want to tell them? What are the benefits of your products and services? What makes your business unique? Why would anyone want to do business with you?

After you focus on the selected consumers and lay out the message, begin to examine the various advertising alternatives. Which one will provide the lowest cost to deliver your message effectively to the target customers?

For example, if you want to provide fairly complex information to your target customers, a newspaper ad may be the ticket. If your customers can be identified easily by zip code, a direct mail approach may get good results. If you want to demonstrate a unique product, television will put you in front of a large audience. Radio has the advantage of going with potential customers wherever they go — at home, at work and in the car.

I find that many business owners get good results with a blend of various media. For best results, advertise different items or code your ads so you'll know which medium is getting the best results.

For information on creating better ads, getting more results from your ad budget and list of books that offer good reading on the topic, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to: Ad Tips, c/o Don Taylor, P.O. Box 67, Amarillo, TX 79105.

Judge OKs lawsuit against insurers

AUSTIN (AP) — A Zavala County Judge has certified a $109 million class action lawsuit against Allstate and Farmers Insurance companies.

As many as 4 million Texans could be part of the case, according to one lawyer.

Six South Texas drivers covered by the insurance companies pursued the combined lawsuit earlier this year. They say the insurers miscalculated premiums and overcharged customers by millions of dollars over the last 10 years.

Portraits of Olympic Excellence

1995 Senior National Champion Dominique Moceanu does the floor exercise as part of the women's compulsories at the 1995 World Team Trials in Austin, Texas in this Sept. 8, 1995 photo.

THE COUNTDOWN IS ON as the Olympic torch wends its way to Atlanta. Soon the world will be riveted to the faces and forms of athletes who have trained for years for the precious few moments to be the best in their field. Here's an introduction to some of them.

MICHAEL JOHNSON

He looks like God's own vision of a sprinter — sleek, muscular, serious, confident and fast. Oh, so fast. No flash. Lots of dash. If Olympic immortality comes to Michael Johnson this summer, it will come without flamboyance. "That's not the time for me to be flamboyant or put on a show," Johnson said. "It's time to do my job." And his job is formidable; his Olympic goal is unprecedented. He wants to become the first man to win the gold medal in both the 200 and 400 meters, two very different races, one a rush of sheer speed, the other a crushing challenge of sprint endurance. Johnson first accomplished the double at last year's world championships. To do it in the Olympics, at age 28 and with his abilities at their apex, seemed a natural progression, he said. "It makes it more fun, more of a challenge to do something that hasn't been done before," he said. "Every four years, there's going to be an Olympic gold medalist in the 400 and in the 200. We all want to do something special."

DOMINIQUE MOCEANU

A bit of Mary Lou and a lot of Nadia is how Dominique Moceanu is usually described. All that was supposed to be left for coach Bela Karolyi's latest gymnastics prodigy was showing up in Atlanta to receive her Olympic medal. But five weeks before the games, Moceanu received devastating news: the pain in her right leg was more than inflammation. It was a 4-inch stress fracture. Moceanu reacted like any 14-year-old. She cried. And cried some more.

Karolyi refused to let her feel sorry for herself. Instead, he told her to take inspiration from — who else? — Mary Lou Retton and Nadia Comaneci.

"Mary Lou competed five weeks after knee surgery. Nadia went into the Olympics after very badly spraining her ankle six weeks before," Karolyi said. "I think (Moceanu) can do it."

A year's worth of publicity since her surprising national crown at age 13 last year built Moceanu (pronounced Mo-chee-AH-no) into the expected darling of the Atlanta Games.

The 4-foot-6, 72-pound Moceanu was quickly dubbed "the next Nadia" because of her strong resemblance to the young Comaneci. It's her sparkling smile, however, that recalls Retton, the darling of the 1984 Games.

"I've never really compared myself to either of them," Moceanu said. "It would be fantastic if I could achieve the level of success those two athletes had."

MARTY NOTHSTEIN

Marty Notthstein, the top U.S. sprint cyclist, has a competitive streak just like his great-grandfather, who raced big-wheeled bicycles and earned his room and board with bare-knuckled prizefights a century ago.

"There's a bit of that old man in him," said Marty's father, Wayne.

A bit of the athlete and a bit of the fighter. Notthstein's journey as seven-time national champion, two-time world champion and gold medal favorite in the 200-meter sprint at the Atlanta Olympics began in 1987 when he was 15.

Although he wasn't built like other cyclists — the strapping 6-foot-2, 215-pounder starred in football, baseball and wrestling in high school — Notthstein quickly discovered this was his calling.

"I would have liked to keep playing other sports, but I am one of the best cyclists in the world," Notthstein said.

He served as an alternate at the 1992 Barcelona Olympics before winning his first national sprint title in 1993, and he won two gold medals at the 1994 World Championships, the best performance ever for a U.S. rider.

"He likes thrills, he likes excitement," said Wayne Notthstein. "He always seemed to want to race, whether it was a foot race or whatever. He wanted to be a racer."

MARY SLANEY

Mary Slaney, America's leader among women middle-distance runners since the age of 13, always has had a running obsession. It's carried her to greatness — and to great pain.

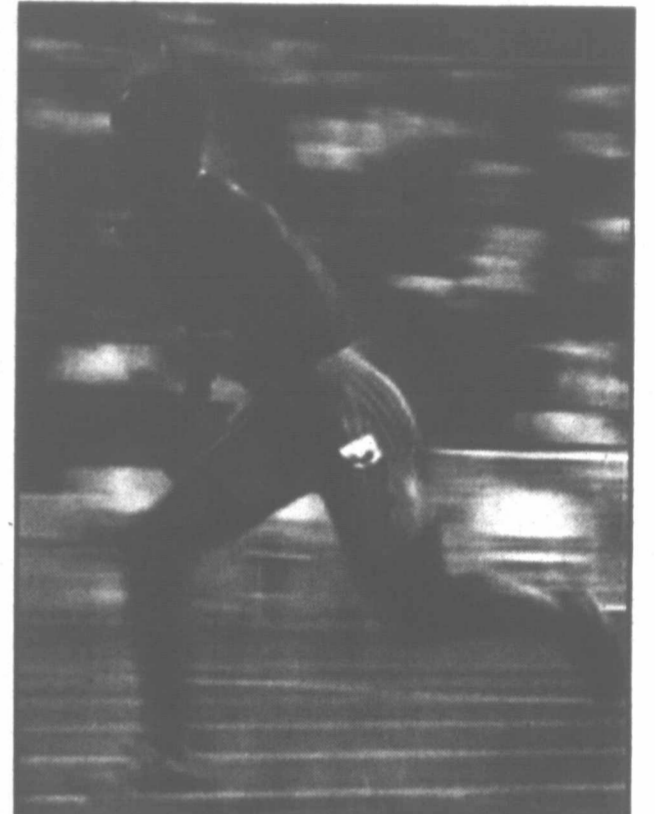

Now 37, she holds five U.S. records from 800 meters to 3,000 meters, all of which have stood for more than a decade. She was nearly unbeatable in her prime.

But it all came at a price. Her passion for running often was too much for her legs, leading in part to at least 18 operations.

Slaney qualified for the Olympic 5,000-meter race in dramatic fashion.

In fifth place with less than two laps to go, she pulled back among the leaders. On the final lap, her legs became entangled for an instant with Amy Rudolph, and she stumbled.

But, unlike in the 1984 Los Angeles Olympics when she was left lying on the infield in pain after a collision with Zola Budd in the 3,000-meter final, Slaney kept her feet.

Michael Johnson of Boulder, Colo., runs to victory in his heat of the second round of the men's 400 meter run during the Olympic track trials in Atlanta, Sunday, June 16, 1996.

"I thought, 'I hope I'm not falling.' For an instant there, I thought I was going down," said Slaney, who didn't think about the Budd incident but did momentarily flash through her many comebacks.

She regained her momentum and finished just behind Lynn Jennings. By qualifying, Slaney gets another shot at the Olympics that have been so cruel to her over the years.

"I think you look at difficulties as hurdles," she said of her many comebacks. "Each time you have a difficulty, you try to find the best and quickest way to get back to where you want to be, and for me that's running."

GOLF

PAMPA - Jerry Dorman of Pampa had a hole-in one Thursday at Hidden Hills. He used a 6-iron to ace the No. 15, 164-yard, par 3 hole. Witnesses were Loyd Waters, Chunky Leonard and Kerrick Duffy.

After 40 years of playing golf, Dorman said it was his first hole-in-one.

FOOTBALL

IRVING, Texas (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys and Houston Oilers will play an Aug. 8 exhibition game in El Paso.

Kickoff is at 7:30 p.m. at the 52,000-seat Sun Bowl. A full pregame show featuring the Dallas Cowboys Cheerleaders will take place at 7 p.m.

"We're excited about coming to El Paso," Cowboys owner Jerry Jones said Thursday.

"This will also be a productive experience for our team from the standpoint of preparation," Jones said. "We have always believed that we've had more productive training camp work when we're sharing the field with another team."

The Cowboys and Oilers scrimmaged twice during the training camp sessions of 1990, 1991 and 1992 and once in 1993, 1994 and 1995. Dallas had joint practice sessions with the Raiders in 1992, 1993 and 1995.

BASKETBALL

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) - The Portland Trail Blazers acquired the draft rights to Jason Sasser from the Sacramento Kings Thursday in exchange for undisclosed future considerations.

Sasser, a 6-foot-7 forward from Texas Tech, was selected by the Kings in the second round of Wednesday's NBA draft. He was the No. 31 selection overall.

Sasser averaged 19.5 points and 7.8 rebounds per game as a senior in four years at Texas Tech. He averaged 17.7 points and 7.5 rebounds.

Sasser, the Southwest Conference player of the year, was a third-team All-America selection and is second on the all-time Texas Tech scoring list. He helped the Red Raiders to a 30-2 record last season and the quarterfinals of the NCAA Tournament.

The Blazers on Wednesday drafted 17-year-old Jermaine O'Neal, a 6-foot-11 high school player from Columbia, S.C., with their first-round pick, the No. 17 selection overall. They chose guard Marcus Brown of Murray State in the second round.

VOLLEYBALL

PLAINVIEW - The Wayland Baptist University Volleyball Program will be holding a volleyball camp in Pampa this summer July 15-July 18.

The camp will be held at Pampa High School and will run each night from 6:30 to 9:30. The camp is for girls who will be in the 9th-12th grade next year. Wayland Head Coach Brad Borden will direct the camp which will feature coaching from the WBU players and local club volleyball coaches.

If you would like to attend or you would like more information contact Brad Borden at 296-4739.

BASEBALL

HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston Astros on Saturday placed outfielder Brian Hunter on the 15-day disabled list with a strained right rib cage. Outfielder Ray Montgomery was called up from Class AAA Tucson to take his place.

Hunter, 25, injured himself while running the bases in the sixth inning of Friday night's 7-2 loss to the New York Mets. For the year, he's hitting .271 in 77 games with two home runs and 22 RBIs.

For Hunter to go on the 15-day DL, Houston moved righthanded pitcher Doug Brocail onto the 60-day disabled list, retroactive to May 11.

Montgomery was to join the big leagues for the first time on Saturday night.

Pampa connection continues on road to 1996 Olympics

By L.D. STRATE Sports Writer

PAMPA - The Pampa connection to the 1996 Olympics continues on the long, winding, road to Atlanta.

Last month, Kristi Hughes-Fatheree of Pampa carried the Olympic Flame from the Stockyards to the West End Marketplace in Fort Worth. On Saturday, former Pampan Charles Warren will be the torch bearer in the Birmingham, Alabama area.

Warren, a 1960 PHS graduate, was selected to carry the torch because of his work with the inter-city youth of Birmingham.

The 53-year-old Warren has been an evangelist and missionary for the past 18 years. Since arriving in Birmingham from California two years ago, he quickly made his mark in Loveman's Village, one of the poorer sections of the city.

"We have a 'Jesus is Lord' ministry and we meet with the poor, underprivileged youth on a weekly basis. We try to keep them off drugs and out of trouble while teaching them about Jesus," he said.

Warren is also involved in the real estate and fast foods business, which he uses to support his ministry. Warren's wife, Durinda, is a registered nurse and a native of Edgewater, Ala. They combine their paychecks to buy food, candy, cookies and soft drinks for the needy.

After graduating from Pampa High School, Warren attended UTEP in El Paso and the University of Texas on an athletic scholarship.

"I've got two brothers and we all played football and ran track for the Harvesters. My older brother, Bob, went to Baylor on a track scholarship and my younger brother, Mark, attended North Texas," he said.

Their parents were longtime Pampa residents: Their mother, Helen, now lives in Odessa. Her husband, Robert, died in 1980.

Charles Warren has also authored a book entitled, "Victory in Jesus," which he distributes to prisons across the United States. Copies have recently been mailed to the Rufe Jordan Unit east of Pampa.

Warren was one of 60 Birmingham residents chosen to carry the Olympic Flame. His route covered around a half-mile on the north end of the city.

"It's not much of an athletic feat, but I'm honored to be able to do it," he said.

United Way of Central Alabama, along with local United Way officials in Birmingham, was in charge of the selection process. Worthy individuals such as Warren were nominated with 100-word essays that explained why they should be considered a community hero. Qualities sought by the 28-member judging team included outstanding volunteer work, leadership as a role model or mentor, demonstration of acts of kindness, generosity, extraordinary feats or accomplishments.

Earlier this year, The Birmingham News featured an article about Warren with the headline, "Olympic mission for heroes."

The Olympics begin July 19 and end Aug. 4. After the 84-day cross country run, which started April 27 in Los Angeles, the 3 1/2-pound torch will be extinguished during the closing ceremony in Atlanta.

Texas Tech's challenge: Keep the faith without Bockrath

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Texas Tech got a little reminder this month that you can take the school out of the Southwest Conference, but it's going to take time to take the SWC out of the school.

Athletic Director Bob Bockrath's departure for the same job at Alabama gave the school perspective on where it stands in the national sporting pecking order and where it aspires to be.

Despite unprecedented success in almost every sport recently, it will take more than leaving the weak SWC for the Big 12 to join the ranks of Alabama, Texas, Nebraska and other traditional powers.

Who can blame Alabama for plucking talent from this state? Back when A&M was a fringe power like Tech is today, the Crimson Tide found a football coach in College Station.

College football changed when Bear Bryant arrived in Tuscaloosa. Anyone who thought Bockrath was here to grow roots probably will be surprised to learn the truth behind the Tooth Fairy and "no-hassle" car buying, too. He never said he wanted to end his career at Tech, but he has made that promise at Bama.

"This is an opportunity I never thought I'd have - to be on this campus, in this atmosphere, with all this tradition," he said.

This isn't a slight against Texas Tech. There's always another checkbook waiting for quality talent. For $15 million, a perennial NBA bottom feeder like the New Jersey Nets can have a first-class coach like John Calipari, who left Massachusetts for the pros.

Bockrath opened Tech's wallet to make sure its top coaches would stay, though men's basketball coach James Dickey can cheaply buy out his contract once greener grass awaits itself.

Dickey is so popular that boosters handed over reportedly as much as $100,000, simply out of gratitude for last year's season. The donations that could have funded research, food banks or other charities instead are earmarked for winning.

Tech owns elite status as a women's basketball stronghold, and it's fast becoming a baseball school. Yet, the school still can't sell out a football game unless a historical power like Nebraska or Texas comes to town.

Texas angler is Big Bass Jr. leader

TULSA, OKLA. - Travis Lee Hibben of Alba is the current Texas leader in the 1996 Plano Big Bass Junior Championship.

Hibben's 7.77-pound large-mouth bass was taken from Lake Fork with a Berkley Power Worm.

If Hibben continues to hold the top spot through August 15, he will win the title of State Champion, $250 cash and be eligible to win a $10,000 college scholarship.

The BBJC officially began January 1, 1996.

In this unique, nationwide fishing competition, junior anglers can fish on their own time and in their favorite bass waters. Anyone 10 through 17 is eligible for the BBJC.

A one-time $10 entry fee and an entry form completed by an adult sponsor are all that's required.

To enter by credit card or to obtain an entry form, call toll-free: 1-800-348-2642.

Rangers bounce back to beat Mariners

SEATTLE (AP) - Kevin Elster drove in four runs and Juan Gonzalez homered twice as the Texas Rangers bounced back from an 11-run defeat a night earlier with a 9-5 victory over Seattle on Saturday.

The Rangers, who lost 19-8 on Friday night, hit four home runs, giving them 101 in 79 games. Elster, who set a career single-season high with 56 RBIs, had his 13th homer. Gonzalez hit his 16th and 17th home runs, and Ivan Rodriguez added his 10th.

Darren Oliver (7-2) allowed four runs on four hits and five walks in 6 2-3 innings as Texas ended a six-game losing streak in the Kingdom.

Oliver won his fourth straight decision since May 18 in Cleveland. His win came after a game in which four Texas pitchers gave up 22 hits to the Mariners. Seattle had only six hits Saturday.

The victory put Texas six games in front of Seattle in the AL West, where the Rangers have been in the lead for the past 72 days.

Championship finals scheduled today in Major Bambino tourney

PAMPA — John Braddock came sliding home head first in the bottom of the seventh inning, scoring all the way from first base on a triple by Randy Tice to provide Glo-Valve with a 4-3 win over Hoechst Celanese Chemical Plant Friday. Glo-Valve remains undefeated in the Pampa Optimist Major Bambino City Tournament. The final game in the winner's bracket lived up to its billing as the game came down to the wire for the third time this year. Glo-Valve defeated Hoechst Celanese earlier in the year, 3-1, stranding the tying runs on base at the end of the game. Hoechst Celanese returned the favor with a 2-1 win in which Glo-Valve left the tying run on second.

Glo-Valve will meet the survivor of the loser's bracket at 2 p.m. today for the City Tournament Championship. If they lose, a second game will follow 30 minutes later. Hoechst Celanese opened the scoring in the second inning on Thursday in a game that was resumed Friday after a rain delay. Adam Jones singled and went to second on a passed ball. He scored on an error on a ball hit by A.J. Smith. Carlos Solis was hit by a pitched ball. Matt Driscoll then made a sensational catch of a line drive hit by Tristan Brown to end the inning and prevent two more runs from scoring.

Glo-Valve evened the score in the third inning on a home run by Nathanael Hill, his third of the year. Then came the rain. The game was resumed in the bottom of the third inning with two outs. Jones, the starting pitcher for Hoechst Celanese, completed striking out the batter from the day before. A Glo-Valve defense that was averaging less than one error per game fell apart in the fourth inning as Hoechst Celanese scored two runs without a base hit. There were four Glo-Valve errors in the inning. Daniel Williams opened the inning with a walk. He was cut down on a spectacular double play when Ryan Zemanek caught a line shot at third base and fired to Driscoll at first, who scooped the ball out of the dirt. Glo-Valve then did its imitation of the Bad News Bears as Daniel Heuston, the leading hitter for Hoechst Celanese with two hits, and Kyle Francis both reached base and scored on Glo-Valve miscues. Hoechst Celanese handed the two unearned runs back in the bottom of the fifth. Braddock walked and went to second when Tice was safe on an error. Hill then drove in both runners with a triple to knot the score.

Both teams went out in order in the sixth inning. Williams led off the Hoechst Celanese seventh inning with a single, but was stranded as winning pitcher Driscoll fought off the attempt at a rally, striking out two of the next three batters with the other batter popping out to a sliding Hill, who made the catch on his knees. With one out in the bottom of the seventh, Braddock stroked a single to left. One out later, Tice took a 2-2 pitch down the first base line for a triple, which scored Braddock with the game winner.

Driscoll upped his season record to 6-0. He gave up no runs and only two hits in three innings pitched. He struck out six and walked one. Tice allowed one unearned run in two innings pitched. He struck out three, walked none, but hit a batter. Waggoner pitched two innings and was charged with two unearned runs and no hits. He walked two and struck out one. Francis pitched three innings for Celanese. Glo-Valve collected only one earned run and three hits off Francis. He struck out five and walked one. Glo-Valve raised its season record to 16-1. Celanese is 12-5.

Roethlisberger wins Trials in ugly night

BOSTON (AP) — Spills, skids and face plants — not exactly a promising start for the men's Olympic gymnastics team. John Roethlisberger scored a 9.375 in the vault, his final event, to seal first place and a spot on his second Olympic squad Saturday. The usually low-key Roethlisberger jumped into the arms of his father and coach, Fred Roethlisberger, and grinned as he ran off the platform. Roethlisberger, who started the night with a 1.2-point lead, finished with 228.873 points. Blaine Wilson was second with 228.159. The remaining five members of the Olympic team — Mihai Bagiu, Jair Lynch, John Macready, Kip Simons and Chainey Umphrey — fell into place — literally. There were 15 spills throughout the night, as well as countless bobbles and hops.

Peter Kormann, the Olympic coach, said he wouldn't make too much out of the mishaps. The men fared even worse in last year's World Championship trials, then finished third in the compulsories, he said. "When I competed in the Olympic trials, I did horribly. And when I competed in the Olympics, I hit every routine," said Kormann, whose bronze in the floor exercise in 1976 was the first medal by an American man since 1932. Bagiu, the first competitor, set the tone for the night when he stepped out of bounds on his first tumbling pass in the floor exercise, good for a .10 deduction. He also skidded on an aerial tumbling pass, and took a big hop on his dismount, earning an 8.725.

The worst came from Lynch, who finished sixth despite two face plants off the high bar within 30 seconds. Lynch, the youngest member of the 1992 squad at 20, lost his grip on a release move midway through his routine, dropping to his hands and knees. He got back up, but as he sailed over the bar on his next release move, he missed and plummeted to the floor, falling flat on his chest. After finally finishing the routine, he ripped off his wrist guards in disgust. He scored an 8.1, the lowest mark of the night, and dropped from fourth to seventh. "When I took off my grips after high bar, high bar was done," Lynch said. "I had four more events to go and I put it behind me."

Upsets continue in Wimbledon's winter of discontent

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Defending champions Pete Sampras and Steffi Graf dodged the tumult of upsets, freak injuries and illness Saturday as an Arctic blast closed out a wacky first week in Wimbledon's winter of discontent. Never in the 69 years since Wimbledon began seeding players have 19 seeds — a record 11 men and a record-tying eight women — departed before the middle Sunday break. The way things are going, everyone could use a day off. Fans bundled up in blankets and players shivered in their shorts as chilly winds gusted up to 35 mph after a session virtually gutted by rain. "It's all part of our rich tapestry of weather," said a meteorologist for the London Weather Service. "This front came in from over Iceland." The best news came from second-seeded Boris Becker, who said he merely ruptured a tendon and didn't break any bones when he snapped his wrist on a shot that knocked him out of the tournament Friday. As serious as the injury still is, Becker looked forward to healing in time to play in the U.S. Open in late August. "I mustn't play for a month but will definitely be 100 percent fit for the U.S. Open," said Becker, who feared he had chipped a bone in his wrist and might have had a career-threatening injury. Sampras, seeking a fourth straight Wimbledon title that would give him one more than Becker, struggled unexpectedly against No. 107 Karol Kucera of Slovakia before prevailing 6-4, 6-1, 6-7 (7-5), 7-6 (7-3). "It was very cool and gusty, so my form didn't seem like it was as good as it has been the last couple of matches," Sampras said. "I got through it, but it wasn't pretty." This Wimbledon has been so strange. All the upsets, and then Boris hurting his wrist yesterday. I thought I might be the next casualty. Graf, going for her seventh title in nine years, waited and waited for Sampras to finish, then lost the first nine points against Nicole Arendt before crushing her 6-2, 6-1. "I don't think it ever happened to me, that somebody cheered when I finally made a point," Graf said of the crowd's reaction to her slow start. "It was extremely cold. Because of Pete's match, I warmed up quite a few times, but maybe not enough." Graf didn't limp or look any less fleet than usual, although she sported a white bandage the size of a large Band-Aid just below the left kneecap she injured in an exhibition two weeks ago. "It keeps my knee a little bit better together," Graf said. German compatriot Anke Huber, the women's No. 5 seed, became the latest victim of bad luck in the tournament as she suffered a stomach illness and had to take a break because of dizziness during a 7-6 (7-3), 6-1 loss to Ai Sugiyama of Japan. "I never had something like this," Huber said. "I was very dizzy and it was black in front of my eyes. I had to take the break. I was so happy to sit for a few minutes. It went away in the second set, but I just had no feeling for the ball." In other women's matches, No. 6 Jana Novotna beat Ruxandra Dragomir 6-3, 6-1; No. 12 Kimiko Date downed Kristie Boogert 2-6, 6-4, 6-2; and No. 16 Martina Hingis beat Linda Wild 6-3, 2-6, 6-1.

With Marceca mum, agent raises questions of veracity

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the Army detailee who gathered hundreds of FBI files for the Clinton White House refusing to say any more publicly, a Secret Service agent is raising questions about the veracity of testimony by the man's boss.

Craig Livingstone, the former White House personnel security chief, testified to two congressional panels last week that he had known nothing about Anthony Marceca's getting background files of former Secretary of State James A. Baker III and more than 400 other Republican appointees.

"I was mortified" earlier this month "once it became apparent what we had," Livingstone told the Senate Judiciary Committee at a hearing Friday.

"I never thought we had 300 to 400 files that were not part of" the Clinton administration, said Livingstone, who resigned Wednesday at a House hearing on the controversy.

Livingstone's statements were in line with the position of the White House, which is portraying the improper file-gathering solely as a bureaucratic mistake.

But Secret Service special agent Arnold Cole, who had supervised the service's White House control operations, testified separately at Friday's hearing that Livingstone admitted privately earlier this month that the White House was at fault in collecting the FBI files.

According to Cole, Livingstone met with him on June 7 — the day news of the file-gathering surfaced — and acknowledged that the White House had relied on an outdated Secret Service list of names to get the FBI files.

"We just wanted you guys to know that we weren't blaming the Secret Service. Using the old list was our fault," Cole said Livingstone told him.

Cole quoted Livingstone as saying, "We had the current list you guys gave us. I don't know what happened."

Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, the Judiciary Committee's chairman, told reporters later that Cole's testimony "blows away the theory" that the files affair was an innocent mistake. "At the least, it is gross incompetence, and it may be something much more sinister than that," he said.

As the hearing began, the crowded room was stunned by Hatch's announcement that Marceca was invoking his Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination and refusing to testify to the Senate.

The sudden silence on the part of Marceca, who had testified at length two days before at a House committee hearing, caused dismay at the White House. Republicans suggested he was being made the scapegoat in the affair.

The turnaround by Marceca — who, like Livingstone, had a background as a low-level political operative and was brought by him to the White House from the Army Criminal Investigation Division — signifies that "this investigation is getting somewhere," said Hatch.

Panel says CIA agents linked to human rights abuses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several CIA agents were involved in serious human rights abuses in Guatemala after 1984, and credible evidence exists that the agency knew of the activities at the time they occurred, a presidential panel says.

The Intelligence Oversight Board said in a 53-page study released Friday that the CIA did not keep Congress adequately informed of its activities in Guatemala and was insensitive to human rights abuses there.

The report said "several CIA assets (agents) were credibly alleged to have ordered, planned, or participated in serious human rights violations such as assassination, extrajudicial execution, torture or kidnapping while they were assets — and that the CIA was contemporaneously aware of many of the allegations."

All of these agents have since severed their ties with the CIA, the study said.

In Guatemala, human rights advocates welcomed the report but said they doubted that it would help clear up any individual cases.

"It's symbolic and it's significant because it's coming from the Clinton administration, but it probably won't bring about any justice in specific cases," said Edgar Gutierrez of the Myrna Mack Foundation, a group working for reforms of Guatemala's security forces and judiciary.

President Clinton ordered the panel to conduct an investigation after allegations were made last year that the CIA may have engaged in improper activities in Guatemala.

The probe began after the killings in Guatemala of an American innkeeper, Michael Devine, in 1990, and a Guatemalan guerrilla leader, Efraim Bamaca, who was married to an American lawyer.

The panel found no evidence that CIA agents ordered or had prior knowledge of Devine's death. It was unable to determine who was responsible for Bamaca's death in 1992 after his capture by a Guatemalan military unit.

In both cases, a Guatemalan colonel, Julio Roberto Alpirez, had been linked to the deaths.

Rep. Robert Torricelli, D-N.J., a member of the House Intelligence Committee, said last year that Alpirez was responsible for the murders of Devine and Bamaca, and he accused the CIA of covering up the colonel's involvement with the agency.

In a statement Friday, Torricelli said it was "not credible" for the board to conclude, as it did, that Alpirez had no knowledge of military plans to capture and murder Devine in the military zone he commanded.

As for Bamaca, Torricelli said Alpirez was in charge of the guerrilla leader's "brutal interrogation" after his capture "and there is also no reason to believe he was not also involved in his murder."

CIA officials have said that intelligence gathering sometimes requires reliance on disreputable sources. The oversight board's chairman, Anthony Harrington, told reporters that the CIA should work to strike a balance between the reliability of its informants and their propensity for uncivil behavior.

The CIA inspector general had undertaken an earlier probe and, like the intelligence board, found fault with CIA communications to Congress and with the agency's attention to human rights questions.

Commenting on the board report, CIA Director John Deutch said in a statement: "I take these findings extremely seriously, and last year directed the CIA to put corrective measures in place. The CIA has done this, and I note the IOB report recognizes this fact."

IF YOU NEED FURNITURE AND LIKE WHAT WE HAVE IN STOCK, YOUR BANK ACCOUNT IS IN FOR A TREAT. IN OTHER WORDS THE PRICES ARE RIGHT. LISTED BELOW IS A PARTIAL LIST OF FURNITURE BARGAINS.

ABSOLUTELY THE MOST ATROCIOUS LOOKING SOFA AND LOVE SEAT TO EVER BE SHIPPED INTO TEXAS.

Why did it have to be our store! I guess because my darling wife "THE SELF APPOINTED FASHION DESIGNER OF THE FURNITURE INDUSTRY" bought it over 18 months ago. Last month I advertised it as the ugliest sofa and love seat ever made and put a price of $599 for both pieces. It was sold, however when we tried to deliver it we couldn't get it into the area the customer wanted it in! There for, it's back and I want it gone. I am now calling the sofa and love seat atrocious.

AND CUTTING THE PRICE ANOTHER $100

If you have the nerve you can purchase this sofa & love seat for only $499 cash & carry.

MY WIFE SAID TO ME, "WHO WOULD EVER BUY THAT BEDROOM SET." POINTING AT A SET KNOWING VERY WELL THAT I WAS THE ONE WHO HAD PURCHASED IT.

I immediately answered it's only been here six months. Before I could say another word, she raised her voice and said honestly, Larry, It looks like a bedroom suite that belongs in a house of ill repute with all those mirrors. She then spun on her heels and yelled, GET RID OF IT. I grumbled under my breath because it's not wise to talk back when Tall Clara spins on her heels. Really! It's not a suggestive bedroom set at all. It's a traditional bedroom set by Impact, a division of Bassett and it consists of a door dresser, door chest, night stand, mirrored bar headboard and a storage unit to go at the foot of your bed. The finish is a cherry finish and some stores sell this 6 pc. suite for $2559. We had it marked at $1539, but now with the wrath of Tall Clara the price is now $999 for all six pieces, cash & carry.

BASSETT COMPUTER WORKS STATION. A LARGE ARMOIRE WITH A DROP DOWN DESK. WE'RE REDUCING THIS ALMOST 60%.

The home computer work station provides for your function, storage and work space needs. And once the doors are closed, all you see is a beautiful armoire. Some stores sell this for $1719. We normally ask $979, but for 3 days only this set is yours for $699.

DO YOU HAVE NEED FOR A SOFA AND MATCHING LOVE SEAT? IF YOU DO, WE HAVE ON OUR FLOOR SOME OF OUR BEST SELLERS THAT HAVE BEEN DISCONTINUED BY THE FACTORY. AT GIVE AWAY PRICES. FOR THE QUALITY MINDED CUSTOMER.

Klaussner sofa and love seat upholstered in a navy blue stripe. This is an outstanding looking upholstered group some stores retail it for $2099. We use to sell it for $1199, but now for 3 days it can be yours for the low, low price of $899 for both pieces.

Klaussner sofa & love seat that has coil spring construction both in the base and the cushions, and it's upholstered in one of the longest wearing covers that you'll ever see. This outstanding group sells in some stores for $2799. And we use to sell this group for $1599, but it's going on the chopping block for only $1199 for both the sofa & love seat.

This Klaussner sofa & love seat has always been one of my favorites to show on T.V. commercials, because it's good looking. Its traditional styling with big rolled arms and it's upholstered in a award winning print with multiple colors. Some stores sell this group for $1929. We have sold it numerous times for $1099, but for the next 3 days it's your for only $799 for both sofa & love seat.

ROWE! Traditional sofa and love seat with 8-way hand tied coil spring construction. This sofa & love seat is upholstered in a decorator chevron stripes of navy blue and a variety of analogies and complimentary colors. Some stores sell this for $2729 for sofa and love seat. We have sold it for $1659, but now for the next 3 days, it's being offered to you for the unbelievable price of $1199 for the sofa & love seat.

There's nothing like a Shelby Mustang that has a 1966 Thunderbird for a classic car. The classic car first belonged to her father, and finally she and her husband.

At the top, a Volkswagen Cabriolet with teen son Stephanie Stowers, daughter of Arlington, Field. The car was bought on an Oklahoma City car lot. Next then she Mrs. Field's husband, Lyndon. She has party.

4-H Futures & Features

"Batter Up!" pancake workshop
 If you like to cook, eat or both - then the 4-H breads workshops are for you. It's not too late to sign up for the fun!
 Batter Up! pancakes workshop is set for 9 to 11 a.m. Tuesday, July 2. Cost is $1. Participants will make a variety of pancakes, learn about quick breads and sample what they make. Register by calling the Extension Office by noon Monday.

Washington D.C. here we come
 4-H members who are currently ages 12 through sophomores in high school are eligible to join a special interest group of 4-H members who plan to travel to Washington D.C. in mid-July, 1998. Between now and then, 4-

H members will plan and participate in fund raisers to secure the necessary funds. Plans are for 4-H members to raise the money for their trip by the summer of 1998. This will be a great experience to provide youth with an outstanding citizenship experience while learning team work, responsibility and problem solving while planning and raising money for the trip.
 • Do you want to be a part of this great 4-H experience? If so, call our office and sign up now. The deadline is July 12.

4-H recordbook time
 Yes, it is that time again for 4-H recordbooks. We hope you have started or better yet, finished your 4-H recordbook for this year.

Why do a recordbook?
 • If you are a new 4-H member, it is important to record all you have done in 4-H during the year to see how much you have accomplished and learned. In addition, you will receive a special 4-H award medal at the 4-H banquet this fall. The earlier you start doing a recordbook, the easier it is!
 • Experienced 4-H members have the above benefits plus a chance as a senior 4-H member to compete for state recordbook recognition and maybe even a trip to Washington D.C.
 It's not too late to start! Let us know how we can help you.
 Recordbooks are due in our office by 5 p.m. July 15.

Recordbook judges needed
 Two judging opportunities are available for 4-H parents and/or leaders.
 • Judge Randall County records - We are again planning to swap recordbook judging with Randall County this year on July 16 in Amarillo. We need three to five to judge, if possible. If you have helped 4-H members do recordbooks, then you are qualified to judge. It is a great learning experience.
 • District recordbook judging - This is another wonderful learning experience. This judging opportunity will be Tuesday, July 23 in Amarillo. Please let us know if you can help.

Agriculture

The Market Forecaster

By George Kleinman

WHEAT - (BULL)

Outlook: Seasonal pressures [in other words, the harvest] could keep the wheat market under raps for another week or so. As discussed last week, however, I believe the market is setting up for another big rally even though prices are still historically high.

Reasoning as follows: a) global supplies remain tight and U.S. stocks are just about the smallest on record; b) prices $1.50 off the highs should stimulate export demand; c) the market has still not heard from Iraq (granted the oil arrangement); d) the narrow wheat/corn spread should stimulate wheat feeding; and e) seasonally wheat generally bottoms when the harvest is half over [we're close].

Massive fund and speculative selling has been the norm over the past weeks. We believe the funds are now short - this will be the fuel. At some point, look for massive fund buying as they cover shorts and go long. Just be patient, they will come.

Strategy: Hedgers: Winter wheat farmers who bought the July $5.60 puts to hedge anticipated new crop production [a previous recommendation] were able to cash these in at a profit last week. Use this profit to raise your ultimate sale price. No additional protection is recommended at this time. I would hold cash wheat if storage is an option. Spring wheat farmers are partially hedged using the September $6 puts. Hold.

Traders: Roll our long July Chicago [purchased under $5] to the December. Our stop is 30¢/bushel, and our profit objective is for a move back up minimum 70 cents.

CORN - (BULL/BEAR)

Outlook: I still think we could see what's commonly know as a

"squeeze" in the old crop [July] corn futures. A squeeze occurs when the shorts [who are obligated to deliver, or alternatively buy their contracts back] are unable to find supplies to meet their obligations. If a short cannot find corn to deliver, he will have to buy his contracts back. If there are enough shorts, and not enough corn to go around, this type of action could feed on itself.

As we enter the first possible delivery day at the end of this month, open interest [the numbers of outstanding contracts] should still be above 300 million bushels. There is no way I can see the shorts coming up with the corn necessary.

Sometime in the month of July, I look for July futures to trade at or above $5.25. This is where the May went off the board. December [new crop] is its own distinct animal, however, and will trade up or down based on growing conditions and weather.

Strategy: Hedgers: Old crop: Our July $5 calls expired worthless last week. These cost about 15 cents and were purchased as the final chapter in our old crop strategy. The strategy involved the simultaneous purchase of call options with the sale of cash corn months ago. We rolled options up a number of times to assure profits.

If you followed the strategies to the letter in this column since harvest time, you should have been able to realize additional profits, this is over and above your sale price, in the neighborhood of $1.50/bushel.

New crop: Based on previous recommendations, we're now about 75 percent hedged in the December with an average price above $3.36. No additional coverage is recommended at this time.

Should the market close again above $3.60, buy 360 call options for protection.

Traders: We are short December futures just under the $3.50 support level, and own the December 360 calls instead of a stop. Leave the profit objective open at this time.

CATTLE - (BULL)

Outlook: With placements of cattle into feedlots down 15 percent or more, the supply of cattle looks to be tight longer term. Demand appears to be increasing seasonally. These are the price positives.

One potential price negative could be weaker pork prices [I believe hog prices have topped for now] which will cut into the advantage beef has enjoyed recently versus pork. Higher cow numbers coming to market could also hurt prices, but on balance the worst is over for this market, and it should be trending higher into year end.

Our ultimate price objective remains in the seventies, but this price may not be reached until late summer or early fall.

Strategy: Feeders: We own August 63 puts for price protection and have not expanded our price insurance program over the past few months since the trend of the market appears to be up. Unlike our June puts, these very well could expire worthless. However, this is the type of problem as a feeder you want to have. Worthless put options mean higher cash prices and better profitability.

Cow/calf operators: Last week, you were easily able to buy at the money put options, or sell futures [whichever you're most comfortable with] at our recommended levels - $60 or above basis the August through October. This is insurance against lower prices brought about higher feed costs. Selective hedgers cover these positions should the market trade above 62.

Traders: We recommend the purchase of December futures at 63 or less. This will be longer term, hopefully high potential trade. If filled, be prepared to risk to a close under 6000 for an eventual objective with a "7."

Parasite outbreak plagues strawberries

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) - Scientists remain baffled by the rare parasite that has contaminated some California strawberries, making dozens of berry-lovers ill in Toronto and Houston.

Researchers have examined every aspect of the strawberry industry from harvest to food handling, searching unsuccessfully for a link. Not a single cyclospora parasite was found on the strawberries.

"It's a very baffling situation," Stuart Richardson, a spokesman for the state Health Department, said. "It goes from being able to find a sure connection to running into dead ends."

Cyclospora, which first appeared in the United States in 1990, shows up several days to a week after ingestion, causing diarrhea, stomach cramps, nausea, vomiting and fatigue. Treated with antibiotics, cyclospora is easily cured and is not considered deadly.

Fifty-five confirmed cases and 96 suspected cases of cyclospora-related illnesses cropped up in Texas last month, all believed caused by infected strawberries. Texas is the only state which has statistically linked the illness to California berries.

Nearly 70 diners in Toronto reported cyclospora infections, some after eating strawberries, and the parasite is blamed for illnesses in Florida, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Massachusetts, Illinois and South Carolina.

Strawberries are not the only possible source health officials are studying.

"In some cases, we have been ruled out completely," said Teresa Thorne, a spokeswoman for the Watsonville-based California Strawberry Commission. "In fact, we weren't even near the dinner table."

Most puzzling, officials said, was that no cases were reported in California, where most of the strawberries originate this time of year.

Researchers haven't found the parasite on California berries, either, after combing fields, trucks, warehouses and even restaurants.

The outbreaks may have been contained to one batch, since strawberries usually make their way from the fields to dessert plates in less than two weeks, Richardson said.

He noted that no outbreaks have been reported for several weeks.

Thorne said growers were dismayed that reports have focused on strawberries, despite a lack of evidence connecting cyclospora to the berry.

"This is not a strawberry issue," she said. "There are other outbreaks in other states that we are not linked to."

Farmers liquidating cattle herds at high rate

WASHINGTON (AP) - Bad weather and poor grazing conditions are prompting farmers to liquidate their cattle herds at what could be the highest rate since 1978.

There is no certainty that hay stocks can be replenished, especially in the drought-stricken Southwest, although recent rains have improved grazing conditions in some areas, the Agriculture Department says.

"The same rains that are improving the forage outlook are increasing the uncertainty for replenishing grain stocks this year," USDA's Economic Research Service reported.

"Without some relief from high grain prices, even with improved forage supplies, many cattle producers will be forced to cull more cows from the herd as feeder-cattle prices will remain under pressure," the report said.

Cow slaughter in the second quarter, which ends next week, is expected to be the largest since 1966. Unless slaughter slowed dramatically in the past several days, the second-quarter kill-off could be the largest since 1978.

The picture adds up to likely losses for producers until at least the second half of 1997, USDA said.

The increased slaughter, marketing of fed cattle and heavy animal weights mean beef production in the second quarter is estimated at 5.5 percent above a year ago.

Fear Of 'Coming Out' Kept Son In Unnecessary Pain

DEAR ABBY: I wrote you some time ago, asking for your help because a girl I had been dating was pressuring me to introduce her to my father as my girlfriend. Actually, it was a little more complicated than that. I am bisexual, and she wasn't the only person I had been seeing. I had been wanting to tell my father about my bisexuality, but I was afraid I would lose him if I came out to him. Two days before your letter arrived, my girlfriend broke up with me because I wouldn't make the introduction.

Thank you for your very sound advice. I took it and called PFLAG. I explained what was happening in my life and my fear about what would happen if my father found out I was "bi." Well, a counselor talked to me at length about what happened when his son came out to him. He told me that because of the closeness my father and I share, I had nothing to fear. He advised me to come out to my father as soon as possible. I took the advice and had a little talk with Dad, and you know what? The counselor was right; my father had known I was bisexual since I was 13.

If I had just talked with Dad years ago instead of running away, it would have saved me a lot of pain and heartache.

Please print my letter along with PFLAG's phone number and address. My experience could be very helpful to some other young

ROBIN

DEAR ROBIN: I'm pleased to print your letter. I'm gratified not only that PFLAG was helpful to you, but also that I'm able to remind readers about this worthwhile organization.

PFLAG (Parents, Families and Friends of Lesbians and Gays) was founded in 1981. Since then, its affiliates have grown to include chapters in more than 390 communities and all 50 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and 11 foreign countries. Its mission: To promote the health and well-being of gays, lesbians and bisexual persons, their families and friends through support, education and advocacy — to end discrimination and secure equal civil rights. PFLAG provides opportunity for dialogue about sexual orientation and acts to create a society that is healthy and respectful of human diversity.

PFLAG chapters provide the welcoming support of families and friends at local meetings, quarterly newsletters, invitations to local, regional and national events and conferences, opportunities to act against homophobia, and up-to-date information.

PFLAG is a tax-exempt, non-profit 501(c)3 organization that is not affiliated with any political or religious institution. For information about a chapter in your area, write to PFLAG, 1101 14th St. N.W., Suite 1030, Washington, D.C. 20005; or call 1-202-638-4200.

PFLAG has my unqualified endorsement.

DEAR ABBY: In response to "Call Me William," I wish to quote the following verse that my husband, Bill, was told by his father:

"My mother calls me William,
"My father calls me Will,
"My sister calls me Willie,
"And my friends all call me Bill."
My husband quoted this verse many times when new acquaintances asked him how he preferred to be addressed.

Supreme Court strikes down federal law on cable TV indecency programs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court Friday struck down a federal law aimed at restricting children's exposure to indecent programs on some cable television channels.

In a splintered decision that produced six separate opinions, the justices said the heart of the never-enforced 1992 law would violate free-speech rights. The court voted 6-3 and 5-4 to strike down those parts of the statute, which was Congress' first venture into fighting smut on cable TV.

The decision, although focusing only on cable channels leased to local groups or set aside for public access, appears to bolster legal challenges to a new law aimed at keeping indecent materials away from minors on the Internet.

In other decisions, the court: — Upheld a key part of a new law sharply restricting federal appeals by death row inmates and other state prisoners.

The ruling should quickly end what has amounted to a moratorium on executions in effect across the nation since early May, when the court agreed to study the case.

The court, voting unanimously in a Georgia death row inmate's case, ruled that Congress failed to achieve its goal of trying to limit state prisoners to one appeal in federal court.

The ruling should quickly end what has amounted to a moratorium on executions in effect across the nation since early May, when the court agreed to study the case. Only two death row inmates have been put to death since then, and both men chose to call off their appeals.

Tough-on-crime politics and frustration with the speed of executions sparked Congress to pass the law and President Clinton to sign it. And similar sentiments may explain why the nation's highest court put the case on a fast track last month.

Friday, the justices said, state prison inmates still are free to file any number of appeals directly with the Supreme Court.

— Ruled that independent contractors who do business with local, state and federal governments cannot be dropped for political disloyalty or expressing their opinions on public issues.

The court, by a 7-2 vote, ruled that a trash hauler may sue a rural Kansas county for terminating its contracts with him. He says the county was retaliating for his past criticisms on a variety of subjects.

In a separate case from Illinois, the court ruled 7-2 for a tow-truck operator who says he lost some government work after refusing to contribute to the re-election campaign of a Chicago suburb's mayor.

— The rulings come 20 years after the nation's highest court began dismantling political patronage by protecting government employees' jobs.

A series of past rulings focused on public employees' constitutionally protected freedom of association, and Friday the court expanded the rulings to cover government contractors as well.

The ruling on the cable indecency law drew swift praise from a lawyer who represented public-access cable producers who challenged the law.

"It's a sweeping victory for legitimate First Amendment expression," said Michael Greenberger. "The court clearly made Congress think carefully about the way it tries to control what is called indecency over cable TV."

The decision "makes clear that Congress can only deal with things that concern hard-core pornography," Greenberger said. "Any attempt to give sweeping regulatory control for censorship has been struck down."

A Philadelphia-based federal appeals court earlier this month blocked enforcement of the Internet indecency law, ruling that it violates free-speech rights.

In each case, defenders of free and diverse speech have been pitted against children's advocates concerned about what minors see on television or computer communications networks.

In Friday's decision, the court struck down provisions of the 1992 Cable Act that require local cable companies to either ban indecent shows from appearing on leased or access channels or place all programs deemed indecent on a single channel and block it.

Those provisions violate free-speech rights, the court said.

The court said Congress lawfully can permit cable operators to choose not to broadcast such programs on leased access channels.

"The difference," Justice John Paul Stevens said in one of the court's opinions, "is the difference between a permit and a prohibition."

In the court's main opinion, Justice Stephen G. Breyer said, "We conclude that the first provision — that permits the operator to decide whether or not to broadcast such programs on leased access channels — is consistent with the First Amendment."

He added: "The second provision, that requires leased channel operators to segregate and to block that programming, and the third provision, applicable to public, educational and governmental channels, violates the First Amendment for they are not appropriately tailored to achieve the basic, legitimate objective of protecting children from exposure to patently offensive material."

There were three distinct votes. The court split 7-2 in upholding the first provision in the law. The justices voted 6-3 to strike down the leased-channels provision and 5-4 to strike down the public-access channels provision.

The law defines indecency as programs that depict or describe "sexual or excretory activities or organs in a patently offensive manner."

Unlike obscene material, indecent material is protected by the Constitution's free-speech guarantees. Opponents argued that programs on AIDS, abortion and child birth could be banned or blocked as indecent.

The provisions, added to the cable legislation by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., just before its passage, do not apply to commercial cable channels such as MTV and HBO.

Local cable companies have total discretion to decide what commercial channels they will offer, but Congress in 1984 took away their editorial power over public-access and certain leased channels.

Since 1984, cable companies have provided lock boxes so subscribers could block out channels they did not want to see.

OSHA updates safety warnings on handling of carbon dioxide

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration has issued updated safety warnings concerning the dangers of handling carbon dioxide following the death of a Midwest delivery driver.

The driver was overcome by carbon dioxide as he dispensed the gas from his tractor trailer to a restaurant carbon dioxide system. The accident prompted OSHA, the federal agency charged with protecting workers, to issue a Hazard Information Bulletin.

In the HIB, OSHA cautions that high concentrations of carbon dioxide, an odorless, colorless gas which displaces oxygen, can cause death. Carbon dioxide is denser than air, and high concentrations can occur in open pits and other areas below grade.

Depending on strength of concentration and length of exposure, lower concentrations may cause symptoms such as headache, sweating, rapid breathing, increased heart beat, shortness of breath, dizziness, mental depression, visual disturbances or shaking.

Asphyxiation can occur when the gas, dispensed from tank cars and portable containers to stationary low pressure carbon dioxide systems at consumer sites, leaks in unventilated work areas. Systems requiring the use of carbon dioxide include carbonated beverage systems, greenhouses and welding fabricators, to name a few. OSHA recommends that the gas be treated as a material with poor warning properties.

In the Midwest incident, the worker connected a hose from his delivery truck to a restaurant bulk carbon dioxide system through a fill station located on a wall below ground level, just outside the door to the basement.

After a half hour, restaurant employees found him lying unconscious at the bottom of the stairwell. Paramedics were unable to revive him. The accident apparently resulted from a leak where the delivery hose did not completely seal to the restaurant fill connection. Because the area was below grade, the carbon dioxide accumulated.

OSHA recommends the following procedures when handling carbon dioxide:

- Know the hazards.
- Inspect and maintain all piping, tubing, hoses and fittings at regular intervals and maintain the system in accordance with manufacturer's instructions.
- Make sure of adequate ventilation even when carbon dioxide is delivered in enclosed areas or below grade locations that are not confined spaces.
- Develop and implement procedures to monitor the gas in the atmosphere and provide local ventilation where levels may exceed the permissible exposure limit.
- Place appropriate warning signs outside areas where high concentrations of the gas can accumulate.
- Provide proper lighting to enable workers to work safely.
- Install new carbon dioxide receptacles at ground level in an open area. If possible, relocate existing fill stations to above grade locations. When relocation is not feasible, employers should follow the OSHA permit required confined space standard.

The HIB is being distributed to all area OSHA offices, state plans and consultation programs and is being made available to appropriate local labor and industrial associations.

For further information on workplace safety and health issues, contact an OSHA office near you or call OSHA's Office of Information and Consumer Affairs at (202) 219-8151. The Compressed Gas Association Inc., 1235 Jefferson Davis Highway, Arlington, VA 22202, phone (703) 979-0900, also offers several pamphlets for individuals wanting more information on handling carbon dioxide.

HIBs are issued to provide relevant information on unrecognized or misunderstood health hazards, inadequacies of materials, devices, techniques and safety engineering controls. HIBs are initiated based on information provided by field staff, studies, reports and concerns expressed by safety and health professionals, employers and the public.

Government reports more evidence of accelerating economic growth rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economy was growing moderately earlier this year, but some analysts say accelerating momentum since then could force the Federal Reserve to raise interest rates soon to prevent overheating.

The gross domestic product grew at a 2.2 percent annual rate during the January-March quarter, the Commerce Department reported Friday. It was more than four times the anemic 0.5 percent growth rate from October through December.

The report had little impact on financial markets, where trading remained cautious as money managers focused on end-of-quarter portfolio revisions and investors awaited next week's Fed meeting.

At midday, the Dow Jones industrial average was up 12.56, at 5,690.09.

Recent signs, including job growth and consumer spending, suggest the economy grew even faster this quarter, many analysts say. The GDP measures the total output of goods and services produced in the United States.

Thus, it's just a matter of when the central bank moves to slow the economy and pre-empt any burst of inflation, they contend. Fed policy-makers next meet on Tuesday and Wednesday.

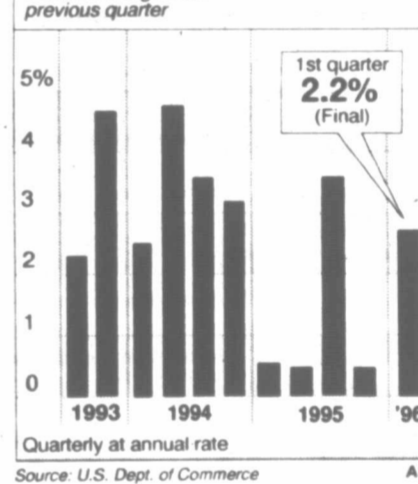

"The question is whether they have enough information to move now, or do they wait to see if the economy is going to slow down before the next meeting in August?" said Lynn Reaser, chief economist at Barnett Banks Inc. in Jacksonville, Fla.

"It's pretty clear now that the

Gross domestic product

The GDP measures all the goods and services produced by workers and capital located in the United States, regardless of ownership.

Percent change from previous quarter economy is not getting overheated," explained William Dunkelberg of the National Federation of Independent Business and economics professor at Temple University in Philadelphia. "That means the Fed is under no compunction to raise rates."

The Commerce Department said the 2.2 percent revised growth rate in the first quarter was slower than earlier estimates of 2.8 percent in April and 2.3 percent in May.

The latest revision was due in part to an $18.6 billion decline in business inventories, rather than the $22.2 billion drop reported earlier. It was the first inventory decline in four years.

While a decline subtracts from the GDP, it sets the stage for faster growth, especially if consumer sales are rising, as manufacturers step up production to meet higher demand.

Economist David Jones of Aurbey G. Lanston & Co., a New York government securities firm, said the inventory correction that was "a major drag on the economy" has ended.

He added businesses are now restocking their shelves and backlogs, which "has led to new orders and growth in employment and will boost third-quarter growth as well."

Four volunteers sealed in chamber

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Four people who have been sealed inside a giant can for more than two weeks as part of a NASA study must record every drop of water they use and are limited to one 30-second shower per day.

Body odor is sometimes a problem, but otherwise everything is fine and the accommodations are quite plush, the occupants said Friday.

The three aerospace engineers and one scientist are recycling all their air and water, including urine, in a demonstration of life-support equipment that might one day be used on moon bases or trips to Mars.

They plan to spend one month cooped up like this — nearly twice as long as the seven astronauts circling Earth aboard space shuttle Columbia.

"I'd like to offer a friendly challenge to you," Pat O'Rear, the project's electrical engineer, told the astronauts in a radio hookup Friday. "See which one of us can stay inside the longest here."

"I think you're going to win that one hands down," replied shuttle commander Terence "Tom" Henricks.

NASA is expected to decide Saturday whether to add a 17th day to Columbia's medical-research mission, which would make it the longest flight in space shuttle history.

The confinement study at Johnson Space Center in Houston is the second of four planned through next year. One person spent two weeks in another chamber last summer and grew wheat plants to recycle his air.

About the only thing not being recycled this time is solid body waste. NASA hopes the technology will improve enough so that feces can be incinerated during a 90-day test next year and changed into water and carbon dioxide.

Like Columbia's crew, the chamber occupants spend much of their time trying to fix balky equipment. Air leakage is a scant 4 percent a day in the chamber, which is 20 feet in diameter and divided into three levels.

The three men and one woman get Sundays off and spend their spare time surfing the Internet, playing games or watching movies on video. Friends and relatives visit but must stay outside and talk through portholes or glass walls. All meals are microwaved, and the occupants have separate bedrooms.

They said the recycled air and water are good, although they can taste the iodine used for purification. And because colognes and deodorants are banned and showers are short, "body odor does become a factor after 24 hours and you're due up to go in and take your 2-gallon shower," O'Rear said.

Association offers tips for safe use of fireworks

AUSTIN (AP) — Fireworks tips recommended by state fire safety officials and the Texas Pyrotechnic Association:

- Contact local fire department or law enforcement regarding fireworks rules in their communities.
- Buy fireworks only from licensed retail outlets displaying safety instructions.
- Get permission from property owner before using fireworks.
- Keep a bucket of water, wet towels and a garden hose nearby.
- Follow directions carefully — with close adult supervision for minors.

- Light one firework at a time — then move away quickly.
- Never shoot fireworks from metal or glass containers.
- Never carry fireworks in your pocket.
- Never point or throw fireworks at people or animals.
- Never experiment with homemade fireworks.

ORDINANCE NO. 1289

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF PAMPA, TEXAS, PROVIDING THAT THE CODE OF ORDINANCES, CITY OF PAMPA, TEXAS, BE AMENDED BY ADDING A SECTION TO BE NUMBERED SEC. 4-63 PROVIDING FOR PERMITTED EXCEPTIONS TO ARTICLE III OF CHAPTER 4 OF SAID CODE, AND PROVIDING FOR AN EFFECTIVE DATE BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY OF PAMPA, TEXAS.

Section 1.

That the Code of Ordinances of the City of Pampa, Texas, be amended by adding a section to be numbered 4-63, to read as follows:

"Sec. 4-63. Permitted Exceptions. "The housing or enclosure of animals, fowls or livestock, including, but not limited to, cattle, swine (excluding potbellied pigs), sheep, goats, is allowed for educational projects through such organization as the Future Farmers of America and 4-H upon the granting of a permit by the Director of Community Services in the following location only, to-wit:

A tract of approximately .2984 acres located approximately 60 feet east of the Hereford Breeder's Barn and approximately 100 feet north of the indoor shooting range at the City's Recreation Park.

"The time period for the housing or enclosure of such animals and livestock shall not exceed ten (10) months during any consecutive twelve-month period. The permit shall specify that such premises shall be maintained so that they will not be detrimental to public health and shall be maintained to reduce to a minimum odor, flies and other insect infestation.

"Any violation of the permit shall result in its cancellation and such animals, fowls, or livestock shall be removed within ten (10) days of its cancellation. Written notice of such cancellation shall be given to the owner of the animal, fowl or livestock by certified mail, return receipt requested or by personal service. Failure of the owner of such animal, fowls or livestock to remove such animals, fowls, or livestock shall constitute a Class C misdemeanor and each day such animals, fowls or livestock remain shall constitute a separate offense.

Section 2.

This ordinance shall be effective upon its final reading and passage as provided by law and enforceable ten (10) days after its publication.

PASSED AND APPROVED on its first reading this the 11th day of June, 1996.

Businesses participate in wage, salary survey

The fifth annual Texas Wage and Salary Survey is now underway. The Quorum Group, a Texas based consulting firm, is collecting pay data through the month of July, and the 1996 survey is scheduled for publication in early October.

"This comprehensive survey covers more than 100 positions, which are common to most businesses throughout Texas," stated John Brau, marketing director of the Quorum Group. "The 1995 survey had more than 140 participating employers reporting on jobs covering almost 24,000 employees from a diversified group of Texas businesses."

In 1995, the submission kit was completely redesigned to simplify completion of the data. Quorum offers the option of submitting data on a computer diskette and is working on additional economical submission methods including E-mail file transfer.

The survey positions include hourly maintenance and production, nonexempt office and clerical, first line supervisors and selected managerial and professional jobs and encompasses computer programming, engineering, purchasing and other important positions requested by participants. For 1996, the following positions will be added: code welder, plant production manager, payroll manager and selected oil/gas industry and medical industry positions.

"The survey data is very important to business owners, managers and human resources professionals who need accurate and timely information to properly plan labor costs," continued Brau. "Participation is open to all companies doing business in Texas."

The confidential survey contains detailed job-by-job tabular analysis that shows the level of job matching; actual wages paid by each company (by coded confidential number); and wage ranges for each position. The survey also assures that the information reported is reliable, timely and geographically useful. It provides a summary of pay practices based upon company size and geographical location.

"Every geographic area of Texas is included, and this is the only survey we know of that covers this depth of information for the entire state," Brau stated.

Data is summarized and compared for each of five regional reports: Central, Gulf Coast, Dallas/Fort Worth, North/East and West. Accompanying each of the five regional reports is a statewide summary report comparing regional results.

Businesses who participate and submit information in the survey will receive the Survey Report at a discounted price. "We are trying to make the survey attractive to the widest range of companies, so they can and will participate," Brau said.

"Participation is easy," he added. "Each company simply matches their positions to the survey job descriptions, noting the degree of match in job content and providing wage/salary and other pay related information for each job."

For those organizations doing business in Oklahoma, a separate survey is held with the State Chamber, Oklahoma's Association of Business and Industry. More information on the Oklahoma Survey can be obtained via Internet site: <http://www.jbrau.com/osc-1.html>

For more information on participating in either the 1996 Texas Wage and Salary Survey or the State Chamber of Survey in Oklahoma, contact the Quorum Group at (713) 393-1100; fax (713) 393-3100; or E-mail to quorum@jbrou.com. Additional information can also be obtained from the Quorum web site: <http://www.jbrau.com/qg-3.html>

Atlanta world's busiest airport

GENEVA (AP) — Atlanta's Hartsfield Airport has overtaken Chicago's O'Hare as the world's busiest airport, even before next month's Summer Olympics brings a new onslaught of travelers, a world airport council said.

Dallas-Fort Worth ranks fourth in the latest report by the Airports Council International.

Atlanta handled 15.6 million passengers in the first three months of this year, an 18 percent increase over the same period a year earlier, the council said.

Chicago had 15.4 million passengers in the first quarter of 1996, a 3 percent increase over the previous year.

The council, which represents more than 1,000 airports in more than 140 countries, reported in March that Chicago's O'Hare continued to be the busiest in 1995, with 67 million passengers for the year.

Atlanta was second with 58 million passengers, and London's Heathrow was third with 54 million passengers.

The latest reports rank Los Angeles third with 13.3 million, Dallas-Fort Worth fourth at 13 million and London Heathrow fifth at 12.5 million.

Filling out the top 10 were Tokyo at 11 million; Miami, 8.8 million; San Francisco, 8.75 million; Frankfurt, 8.4 million; and Seoul, South Korea, 8.2 million.
