Subs Sighted Near Boston And Alaska

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP)—President Roosevelt disclosed today that submarines, which he said were not identified, had been sighted in the waters off Southern Alaska and off Boston.
The Maritime commission, the chief executive told reporters, had been informed of the presence of the two unknown craft by the U.S. Navy.
The submarines were not American, Mr. Roosevelt said, and they were sighted by ships at sea. He said the source of the government's information was perfectly reliable.
The submarines, he said, were off the southern boundary of Alaska, where it joins Canadian territory.
That in the Atlantic, he said, was 50 to 75 miles from the southern tip of Nova Scotia, half-way between there and Nantucket Shoals.
Asked whether the underwater ships were in the territorial waters of this country, he replied he would stand on his recent definition of territorial waters which was to the effect that they extended as far as American interests extended.

Women's Council Compliments State Officer At Lunch

A luncheon honoring Miss Bessie Hart of Fort Worth, state secretary of Women's Council of Christian churches, was given by the local council at the First Christian church this week.

After Miss Hart conducted a round-table discussion of the problems of the local society, an executive board meeting was presided over by Mrs. W. L. Parker, second vice-president. During the luncheon guests from Amarillo were introduced. They were the Rev. and Mrs. Fidel Reyes and daughter, Concha, Miss Edith Ellis, Mrs. H. B. Jones, and Mrs. A. B. McAfee.

A regular council meeting was held with group five presenting the program. Following a talk on "Jesus Calls Us," and a discussion of the five-year program of advance by Miss Hart, Rev. Reyes sang, "Society," in Spanish with Ernest Jones playing the accompaniment. Mrs. Reyes gave three readings, "The Touch of the Master's Hand," "If I Had Time," and "The House By the Side of the Road," after which Mr. Reyes spoke on "Religious Conditions of Old Mexico."

Miss Hart appointed Mrs. Charles Medaris as district secretary over 17 towns of this area.

Sixty-four members and guests attended the luncheon.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By ALICIA HART
NEA Section Staff Writer

Along with the clear, true red shades of makeup which fashionables have been wearing these past few weeks, handsome, rosy copper tones now make their appearance.

To wear with the new roses and olive greens and the dark amber and darker browns that are so much in the spotlight, rosy copper lipstick and rouge are perfect. With black of course, copper makeup is as "high fashion" as black and brown combined in an ensemble.

As the season progresses, it becomes obvious that one lipstick and a matching rouge are quite inadequate for the woman who realizes the wide variety of effects which can be achieved by makeup alone.

For instance, she knows that a simple black dress, worn with solid jewelry and rosy copper makeup looks not at all as it did the day before when she wore pearls and bright red lipstick and rouge.

When she's feeling gay she likes carlet lipstick and nail polish with her moss green dress. When she's not, copper lipstick and nail laquer suit her perfectly.

FINGER-NAIL VERSATILITY
She likes dusty pink makeup, in a graded although not sandy, sandy with her stone blue tweeds. But now and then she switches to scarlet or to rosy copper—both equally nice with stone blue.

Naturally, her love of variety has made her nervous, but she has learned to apply nail polish skillfully. She has practiced until she can change her laquer in no time at all. This year, she is covering the tips or else leaving only a hairline of unpainted nail at each tip. Sometimes she does not laquer over the little half-moons. More often than not, however, she does.

Meals Will Be Planned, Served By Mrs. French

With the events in Europe making history almost with each passing day, is there any wonder that the modern woman is ever seeking new and improved methods by which to run her home? Life is lived at a very high tempo today, therefore, the question of keeping healthy is a vital factor in every family.

Little as one may think the health of a family of a nation begins in the kitchen of the home. This may seem strange, but true nevertheless and to help the women of this community keep their families physically fit day in and day out, we are presenting Mrs. A. D. French, who for many years has studied the importance of diet, the relation of foods to one another, and who sees a great deal of time working out budgets that will enable all home-makers to plan, cook and serve foods that will keep the family healthy.

Mrs. French will tell you that there is no guess work in preparing a well-balanced meal. It takes study and careful thinking. So, during the Happy Kitchen Cooking School, each woman will be enlightened on new methods of how to plan meals, short cuts to economy and various phases of home problems.

A very interesting feature of the Happy Kitchen Cooking School is the "Question Box." There, you may place questions on the subject or phases of home-management you most desire to know about. During the session each day, these questions will be answered. There will be a wealth of entertainment as well as instructions on how to make your home a more enjoyable place to live. And, too, a number of new recipes will be given, which will be an instant success and will put new pep into old menus. We are most anxious for all the women to attend each day. Admission is free and we are certain that the time spent at the Happy Kitchen Cooking School will be held on Oct. 2, 3, and 4 in the LaNora theater will be most enjoyable.

Wayside HD Club Has Discussion On Making Of Quilts

Wayside Home Demonstration Club held a regular meeting recently in the home of Mrs. L. R. Taylor with Mrs. A. B. Carruth as leader.

"Choose carefully material for quilt making to be sure that the material used will justify the amount of work on the quilt. For example, use materials of the same quality and texture for all of the quilt, then it will wear more evenly and last longer," Mrs. Carruth stated.

"Quilts for warmth should be soft, clinging and of medium weight," Mrs. W. F. Tinsley said. She showed several quilts and blankets and told of the different methods to be used in making the quilts.

Mrs. Felix Stalls gave a report of her trip to the state home demonstration association convention which was held at Lubbock.

Refreshments of ice cream and angel food cake were served. Meses. W. A. Greene, W. F. Taylor, A. B. Carruth, Felix Stalls, S. J. Mead, Jr., J. S. Fugus, Wood Osborne, W. C. Moseley, and the hostess.

City Council Of P-TA Members Meet This Week

At a called meeting of City Council of Parent-Teacher Association in the office of Superintendent L. L. Sone this week plans for the year's work were made.

Mrs. T. F. Morton, president, presided over the session in which seven recommendations were voted upon. They are that the city council issue a monthly bulletin, that local study groups make scrap books, that locals have pre-school discussion groups, that an endowment fund be started by the council, that motion picture chairman be appointed, that a health chairman be appointed, and that a chairman for censorship of newsstand magazines be appointed.

Four recommendations accepted were that the council account for the number of publications read, that a committee sponsor vocational aid for high school students, that a chairman of hobbies be appointed, and that physical education be taught in each school.

Committee chairmen appointed by Mrs. Morton are Mrs. Roy McMullen, publications; Mrs. W. L. Campbell, Mother's Day; and Mrs. Burt Graham, summer round-up.

In discussing physical education in the school system, Superintendent Sone stated that usually the child who is slow in his school work is usually an unhealthy child. He pointed out that the school system is specializing on health this year by teaching proper posture, cleanliness, health building, and sickness prevention.

Nazis Guide U. S. Ship Through Mine

The German destroyer 75, photographed from the American liner Scanyork, which it stopped off Denmark. An officer from the destroyer boarded the U. S. vessel and guided it, at full speed, on a sharply twisting course through a mine-infested area between Sweden and Denmark.

The wedding trip of Capt. Hans Hansen of the American liner Scanyork and Mrs. Hansen, postponed ten years, proved an exciting one. They are pictured after returning to New York from a voyage into the Baltic war zone, where the Scanyork picked up 204 war refugees and was stopped by German warships. A Nazi destroyer escorted the U. S. ship through mine fields off Denmark, forcing it to steam full-speed along a narrow, twisting channel.

8 Iron Guardists Executed Where Premier Was Killed

By LLOYD LEHRBAS
 RICHMOND, Sept. 22 (AP)—A virtual military dictatorship ruled Rumania today as the president's neutral corner of Europe trembled over the possible international aftermath of the assassination of Premier Armand Calinescu.

Calinescu, advocate of closer Rumanian economic cooperation with Great Britain and France, was shot to death in his automobile by a masked band, allegedly members of the pro-Nazi Iron Guard, on a main Bucharest street yesterday.

Eight Iron guardists, whose outlawed organization Calinescu fought, were executed publicly as a consequence of the assassination and King Carol has taken swift, extreme measures to thwart any possibility of a coup.

All night long, morbidly curious crowds swarmed in the street where the bodies lay sprawled on the bloody pavement.

The eight of them lay just where they had fallen from a firing squad's bullets—at the exact spot where the premier was slain.

A short time after what an official announcement called a "public example" to all who would follow "the Iron Guard," police tossed into the macabre scene the bodies of two others who were said to have committed suicide.

Hundreds Arrested

As dawn cast a eerie light over the death spot, the crowd turned toward the Rumanian Athenaeum where the body of Calinescu will lie in state until an impressive funeral Sunday.

Meanwhile, hundreds of arrests were made throughout Rumania in a widespread series of raids aimed to crush the Iron Guard, at whose door officials laid full responsibility for the slaying.

King Carol named a new government within eight hours, mindful of the massed armies of Soviet Russia.

Bulgaria and Hungary at his frontier and of the army of Germany not so far away in southern Poland.

Bulgaria, Rumania and Russia turned over territory to Russia after the World War and the return of some of it has been demanded.

Germany seeks more Rumanian oil, thus far unsuccessfully. A mission here has been told the oil already is pledged to British, French and American companies.

General George Argesanu, 56, one of Rumania's outstanding soldiers and known as a "tough disciplinarian," became the new premier.

The ministry of interior, in charge of the nation's police, was given to General Ion Ilesu, a close personal friend of the king. General Gabriel Marinescu, known as a bitter opponent of the Iron Guard and as a friend of France and Great Britain, took over the vital post of war minister.

All other cabinet ministers remained as they were under Calinescu.

Officials issued a list of those killed in the plot. It was headed by the name of Dumitro Dumitrescu, a lawyer who was said to have succeeded Corneliu Zelea Codreanu as Iron Guard leader after Codreanu was killed last Dec. 1 in what officials said was an attempted break from Rumania-Berlin prison.

Dumitrescu, the announcement said, carefully planned the killing of the premier and led the shooting himself.

Although a communique said "foreign complications" had been found in the plot, Rumanians nervously watched the frontiers. Troops were held to barracks throughout the country and frontier guards were strengthened.

Police halted automobiles, demanding identification of passengers in their search for Iron Guard officers. Thousands of persons were searched on the streets for weapons.

Reality Will Be Sermon Subject

"Reality" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, September 24.

The golden text is: "Since the beginning of the world men have not heard, nor perceived by the ear, neither hath the eye seen, O God, beside thee, what he hath prepared for him that waiteth for him" (Isaiah 64:4).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "For the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even His eternal power and Godhead" (Romans 1:20).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Life, Truth, and Love are the realities of Divine Science. They dawn in faith and glow full-orbed in spiritual understanding" (page 298).

French Army Has Occupied Eighty Towns

BASEL, Switzerland, Sept. 22 (AP)—French army units striking a wedge toward the heavily-manned Siegfried line—were said today to have occupied more than 80 German towns and villages in the Saar-Moselle triangle northeast of French-German-Luxembourg border junction.

A German "buffer line" in front of the west wall defense was reported doggedly resisting the methodical advance of French troops into the apex of the Saar-Moselle triangle.

French pressure along the Moselle, which separates Luxembourg and Germany, was being increased, Word reaching Babel indicated the German defenders had been forced back from the key rock-anchored strategic pinacle on the western bank of the Saar river.

The rock was fortified as an advance unit of the Siegfried line—a watchdog over smaller defense works in the Saarburg forest.

Meanwhile observers in Switzerland watched news of artillery action.

Artillery in the Sierck fort— ahead of the Maginot main line near where the Moselle river flows across the border into Germany— were said to have shelled small German forts in the Moselle valley.

There were accounts, too, that the French big guns in forest forts at Buzonville, Bulay, Stavold and Barreguemines—along a 20-mile front—hammered at Germany's west wall between Saarlautern and Saarbrücken.

East of Bitch, toward the Rhine valley, French long range guns were said to have blasted pillboxes, trenches and minefields in front of the west wall forts between Pirmasens and Zweibrücken and shelled railways and highways linking this section to the key town of Kaiserslautern, behind the forts.

Further east, the Maginot guns were reported concentrating on large sections of the Heardt front where Germans were believed to have laid mine fields and stretched a tangle of barbed wire.

Old Balkan Powder Keg May Explode

John Evans saw service in many cities of the world before returning to New York in 1926 to become foreign news editor of the Associated Press.

Since joining the AP staff in 1914, Evans worked along the Mexican border, handled various important assignments in Europe, and directed news coverage in Rome and in Paris for a number of years.

He was born in Des Moines, Ia., and started his newspaper career on the old Des Moines Capital.

By JOHN EVANS Associated Press Foreign News Editor

Bullets that killed Rumania's anti-Nazi "strong man" premier today may be signals for the old Balkan powder keg to explode again.

Armand Calinescu long had tried to hold off the spreading wave of German domination through South-eastern Europe. He was King Carol's choice to prevent the rise of the "Iron Guard" pro-Nazi Fascists whom the government often said had German Nazi support, whether official or unofficial.

Germany today showed her strong hand when Rumania interned the fleeing Polish leaders, whom France and Britain asked her to allow free passage to them.

President Iancu M. S. K. Marshal Edward Smiley-Kydz, and Foreign Minister Josef Beck out of the war.

The 1914 war started in the Balkans with the assassination of the Archduke Francis Ferdinand.

The 1939 war is well started, but the Balkans are the great big unknown quantity in the issue between Hitler and Germany's old enemies, Britain and France.

Na-i Movement Rumbles The killing of the premier in broad daylight as he was driven along a main Bucharest street comes with the suppressed Iron Guard Nazi movement rumbling inside the country and the massive old enemy Russia at her borders.

Rumania seething inside, is under the direct pressure of Germany, Russia and Hungary with a none too friendly Bulgaria at her back.

Germany naturally looks toward the great Rumanian oil fields and her rich wheat harvests.

Russia never has taken her eyes from Bessarabia, taken from weakened Russia after the last war and given to Rumania by the allies. Bessarabia is one-seventh of the country.

Hungary looks hungrily at the territory of Transylvania, one-fifth of Rumania, taken from the once great rich Magyar country.

Bulgaria, small and poor, lost 8,000 square miles to Rumania. Altogether Rumania got two-fifths her territory from the allies' war victory. She has long been nervous

Senate Bloc Plans Battle For Embargo

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP)—Two determined senatorial factions began digging in today for a conclusive battle over President Roosevelt's renewed appeal to scrap the arms embargo and substitute a "cash and carry" system under international law.

Led by 75-year-old Hiram Johnson (R-Calif.), 24 senators quickly organized a bloc to oppose the sale of arms to warring nations, on the grounds it would be likely to force the United States into the European conflict.

Senator LaFollette (Prof-Wis.), speaking for the group, said it would fight repeal of the embargo "from hell to breakfast." Senator McCarran (D-Nev.) added the opponents believed they now could muster 35 or 37 votes and hoped to increase their strength during debate.

On the other hand, confidence of ultimate victory was expressed by supporters of the President, who included some Republicans and "old line" Democrats as well as New Dealers.

Hailing Mr. Roosevelt's solemn speech to Congress yesterday as charting the safest course for the nation in the present emergency, they arranged strategy conferences at the White House and Capitol.

Their aim, leaders said, is to limit the session to neutrality revision, chain action in two or three weeks, and adjourn. Senate and House leaders of both parties would stay here, at the president's request, to consult with him on policy until the regular session begins in January.

Senator Glass (D-Va.), who sometimes has opposed administration policies, gave his support to the neutrality act and that Congress should keep out of war—aid Mr. Roosevelt with applause from all sides.

left the House chamber after Mr. Roosevelt's address yesterday when 15 Republican senators, six Democrats, and two farmer-laborites and the sole Progressive discussed opposition strategy in the office of the veteran Hiram Johnson, where 20 years ago the fight against American entrance into the League of Nations was planned.

Johnson Breathes Fire The group was reported to have found no fault with the Roosevelt program except on the question of repealing the embargo. Johnson, still breathing some of the fire of the old league battle, said he had not the "slightest hesitancy in saying that the country is behind our position."

With the Senate and House in recess until Monday, the Senate foreign relations committee will begin a study of the President's recommendations tomorrow. Democratic members asked Chairman Pittman (D-Nev.) and Connally (D-Tex.) and Thomas (D-Utah) to prepare a bill to repeal the embargo and cancel the six points of the administration program.

These points embrace the "cash and carry" system requiring belligerents to pay cash here for all commodities and take them away in their own ships; restrict American merchant vessels entering war zones; prevent American citizens from traveling on belligerent ships; bar war credits to warring nations; regulate collection of funds in the United States for belligerents; and maintain a licensing system for arms transactions.

If Duce Keeps On Asking 'Useless War' Be Stopped

ROME, Sept. 22 (AP)—Germany's non-belligerent axis partner, Italy, redoubled her insistence today that "useless war" be limited before it sweeps beyond control.

Premier Mussolini's Milan newspaper, Il Popolo d'Italia, said if France and England did not make war against Soviet Russia for invading Poland, they had no right to war against Germany.

It said in an editorial that France and Britain would have to face Russia if they succeeded in breaking the Siegfried line and advancing through Germany.

For that, the editorial added, France would need a new Napoleon, much luckier and a greater genius than the last.

Il Popolo di Roma declared the present war would only leave a new desire for vengeance by the defeated side, thus bringing still another war.

Poles Tried To Fight Tanks With Bare Hands, Writer Told

(Elmer W. Peterson, correspondent-veteran of three wars, was assigned to the Warsaw bureau of the Associated Press in July when it became evident that the Polish capital would be a center of European conflict. Before seeing journalistic service in the European war, he had covered the Spanish civil war and the Japanese-Chinese war. He was born in Duluth, Minn., in 1893, is unmarried, and has traveled for six years in many parts of the world in quest of news for the Associated Press.)

By ELMER W. PETERSON MUNIKACS, Hungary, Sept. 22 (AP)—Soviet Russian troops were reported only 15 miles from the Hungarian border today in their sweep across Eastern Poland, moving forward without interruption on the heels of thousands of Polish soldiers and civilians.

The miserable human flood preceding the Red army continued to pour into Hungary, seeking sanctuary in the Carpathian mountains. It was estimated more than 30,000 Poles had reached Hungarian soil and still they came.

Traveling over 50 miles of muddy and rain-puddled highways and roads branching through three mountain passes, I witnessed the immigration. Hungary was the only southern refuge left, now that Russian troops have blockaded the Rumanian border.

I saw small children, some half-naked and all of them hungry. Some of them, separated from their parents, had been taken in hand by Hungarian peasant women. Crown men went at the sight of these youngsters weeping along in the mud.

I saw blood-spattered trains, bullet-torn automobils, and damaged military trucks—Polish military momentary. I saw women whose faces were white with fatigue.

Three weeks ago in Warsaw I saw the Polish army gathering in confident readiness to fight. Yesterday, after a 1,500-mile roundabout journey from the Polish capital, I saw a part of that same army in bedraggled retreat into a neutral country.

Many of the Polish troops I saw

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (AP)—The stock market was boom filtered today after a gloomy period in which gains ran to 10 on more points.

Grain and other war stocks, but at he get-away, were among the first to retreat. Utilities then stepped out and some minerals to emerge with modest improvement.

Subsequent cooling of bullish ardor was attributed partly to second thoughts of the neutrality measure night men; stiff opposition in the senate and doubt in possible temporary market reversions, to any the least.

Battles In Air Avoided, Says Denver Visitor

If the full strength of their air forces were brought into use in the present European war, the air strength of the belligerent would be exhausted within 90 days.

Mr. Halpin is in Pampa to conduct the ground school and to be one of the officials of the Pampa Air Show to be held here Saturday and Sunday. He is a former inspector with the United States Department of Commerce Bureau of Aeronautics.

Exploration was made of the government plan to make air training at universities and colleges a type of "testing ground" for fliers, in order that the government might eliminate the expensive training it had to underwrite in the past.

Music was furnished by the Stark quintet, playing a baritone, trombone, two trumpets and an accordion. Attendance at the meeting was 70, including W. O. Boatright, Noel Dalton, J. Crutchfield, the principal speaker, and pilots.

Berlin Still Persists With Peace Talk

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Allies and Germans are all set for action on the western front—so well set, in fact, that either would be courting disaster by employing undue haste in initiating a major offensive.

Hence, the comparative inactivity so far.

There's no call for rush at this juncture. The crushing of Poland removes the necessity of an immediate allied attack to relieve pressure on the Poles. The Nazis still haven't broken away from Hitler's policy of not fighting the allies unless forced, on their own terms isn't entirely no quarrel with France and England.

Curiously enough, despite the fact that the spirit of peace-on-my-terms olive which Hitler held out from Danzig was tossed back at him by the allies, Berlin still persists with peace propaganda. Yesterday there was another striking gesture of friendship toward France in a military funeral to French Lieutenant Louis Deschanel who was killed in action.

Alt-raids In Offing

Evidently German hope of peace on their own terms isn't entirely dead. But the moment it becomes certain the war must continue—look out for fire-tricks.

Once the gloves are off it will be a nasty war. The horrors of modern warfare—the world's awful nightmare—are in the offing.

British Premier Chamberlain nailed the imperial standard to the mast yesterday when he laid down England's war aims before his House of Commons. He reiterated the determination to pay the allied debt of honor to Poland, but the thing cut a lot deeper than that.

"Our general purpose in this struggle is well known," he said. "It is to redeem Europe from the perpetual and recurring fear of German aggression and enable the peoples of Europe to preserve their independence and liberties."

That's plain language and it covers more ground than a man would want to plow in a day. But it is a long way from telling the entire story.

Empire On Spot

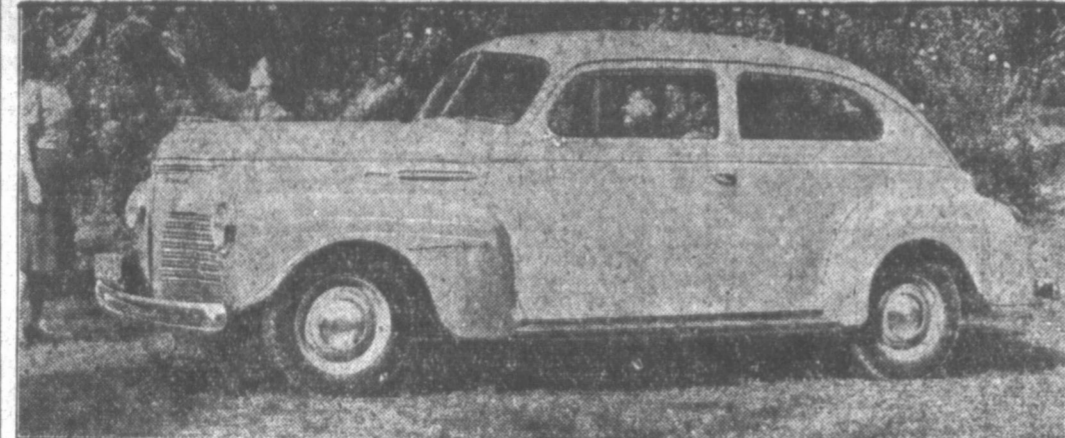

It becomes increasingly clear that the British Empire has been put on the spot.

Not only is Britain Herr Hitler's chief target, but it is being potted at by other countries as well. France, of course, is sharing England's trials, but the prize scalp sought is John Bull's. The boys have ganged on him.

So far as concerns Europe, the main engagement is between Germany and Britain. Or, to be more

New Plymouth For 1940 Features 'Luxury Ride'

Completely new from bumper to bumper is this 1940 Plymouth just announced, presenting a new concept of size and luxury obtainable in cars for the lowest price field. As these pictures show, stronger "eye appeal" is a feature of the new design, while the new 117-inch wheelbase permits a longer, wider, lower body containing much more passenger room. All passengers sit farther forward for a new kind of "luxury ride", gained by redistributing weight.

Running boards are optional on all body styles. Other Plymouth highlights this year: improved steering post gearshift standard on "Roadking" as well as Deluxe; much better vision through larger windshield and windows; new "Sealed-Beam" headlights; new design transmission and clutch for quicker, easier shifting, and big Floating Power engine with vital parts Superfinished for greater smoothness, longer life. Shown above is the "Roadking" 2-Door Sedan.

accurate, it is between Britain and Hitler, the individual together with the Hitlerian doctrine which we know as Nazism.

One naturally doesn't mean to disassociate France from all this. The French empire and European influence also has been challenged, and she stands with England. But we are talking about the one the gang is gunning for in particular—John Bull.

England's troubles are confined to Hitler, Russia's new-born brotherhood (or is it?) with Germany, and the cooperation between these two great powers, have in effect been a heavy blow to Britain, and to France as well.

Small Nations Exclusive

This Nazi-Communist cloud-burst has driven all the smaller nations of Eastern Europe and the Balkans scurrying to cover. They are afraid of Germany, or of Russia, or of both. England's efforts to put her finger on small friends is like trying to catch a flea.

Agate—until the Polish crisis got hot, Mussolini was challenging Britain's domination of the Mediterranean and the Suez Canal—lifeline of the British Empire—and Hitler himself had been quietly reaching for the Mediterranean.

The Berlin-Rome axis also was striking heavily at British influence in the Near East, especially among the Arab peoples, and in Africa.

Out in the Far East, where England has been a power for long generations, Japan is driving hard to cut the British from their position of vast influence in China. Britain's war commitments in Europe and helping Nippon.

In short the whole British Empire is on the firing line.

A significant suggestion of this position cropped up the first of the week when the German radio repeatedly made the following remarkable assertion:

"The peoples of Africa and Asia now dominated by England wait the day of final settlement of their score with the British Empire."

cent more road light; improved steering post gearshift now standard on the low-priced "Roadking" as well as Deluxe; big, economical Floating Power engine with vital parts now superfinished for greater smoothness and longer life; new design transmission and clutch for quicker, easier shifting; reminder safety signals on all instruments, and a score of other improvements in below-the-surface ruggedness, driving comfort and safety in addition to the bigger, wider, sound-proofed bodies and longer wheelbase.

Set low on this year's longer, heavier frame is a bigger body—much wider and longer as well as lower than before—that now flares outward at the bottom instead of curving in at the base. All body

New Plymouth Also Has Plenty Of 'Eye Appeal'

Completely new from bumper to bumper—much larger and more luxurious in every respect—new 1940 Plymouth "Roadking" and Deluxe models were formally presented to Pampa motorists by local Plymouth dealers here today.

Yards of colorful bunting and gallons of fresh paint decorate the local showrooms in readiness for the gala event, as the nation's Plymouth dealers present the 1940 designs. These are said to wipe out all previous concepts of car size and motoring luxury possible for vehicles in the lowest price class.

Greater "eye appeal," as well as larger size, is evident at once in the ample display of new Plymouth body styles ready for unveiling here by the local dealers, Martins Motor Co., and the Pampa Brake and Electric Co.

In appearance, added richness is gained by the fresh chrome treatment of grille and cat-walk louvers. Luxury keynotes the style of new, massive fenders and the larger body—which, by actual measurement, contains 12 cubic feet more space inside.

Running Boards Optional

Matching this wholesale increase in size, the new Plymouth presents for 1940 a new "luxury ride," gained through complete redistribution of weight; wider vision through new safety glass that also reduces eye-fatigue; new "Sealed-Beam" headlights that give 50 to 66 per

French Begin Drive Against Saarbruecken

PARIS, Sept. 22 (AP)—A new drive against the German industrial city of Saarbruecken was reported today by the French general staff.

A military communiqué which gave few details indicated a recent lull had been shattered by new styles this year for the first time come with or without running boards. There are replaced; if so desired, by smart fender guards and a chrome decorated moulding beneath the doors to emphasize the bottom flare.

New 'Unit' Design

Body lines flow in continuous curves to include the new fenders, hood and radiator shell—all now essentially part of the new "unit" design—and end at the back in a beautiful new streamlined rear deck that slopes back at 45 degrees. The new streamlined rear end completely conceals this year's larger trunk, that is lighted at night by two tail lamps.

For 1940, the whole front end is completely new although it bears Plymouth's unmistakable identity. This year's grille is more nearly a solid section in body color, broken only by a bright metal center strip and three decorative louvers at either side, high and close to the chromium belt.

The lower grille, however, is much bigger, with larger ventilating sections and fresh chrome treatment on the cat-walk louvers between the fenders. These provide 270 square inches of added ventilating surface for air intake to the radiator core.

Larger, more massive fenders, front and rear, match the bigger proportions of the new automobile. Both front and rear fenders are higher at the crown, and lengthen out over all four wheels to add horizontal emphasis to the car. This style theme is repeated in two parallel speed lines on each fender, directly over the wheel.

French maneuvers and advance guard skirmishes.

Artillery on both sides, the communiqué said, was active along the entire front from the Moselle river along the Luxembourg-Germany frontier to the Rhine river, which becomes the boundary between Germany and France 100 miles to the southeast.

The French empire's black Senegalese troops were reported en route to the western front in the war which Premier Daladier would end German attempts at "world domination."

Observers saw indications in Daladier's world broadcast speech last night that France and Britain may wage a "defensive" war—at least on land.

The premier's speech accepting Adolf Hitler's statements at Danzig as a challenge for a fight to the finish pictured allied commanders as profiting from World War experience with mass attacks.

He said the commanders "have known how to avoid unconsidered and murderous offensives."

This was taken by some to indicate large scale offensives of the World War "pig-push" type would not be launched and that emphasis would be laid on airplanes and a naval blockade to sap Germany's strength gradually.

Some military experts have said this form of warfare fitted modern conditions and that "steam roller" tactics are out of date.

French dispatches described the army as digging in solidly on positions captured along the 100-mile front.

Such entrenchment would be in anticipation of a major German drive, awaited since reinforcement of the German defensive line with troops shifted from Poland.

The dispatches said French pilots brought down several German bombing planes.

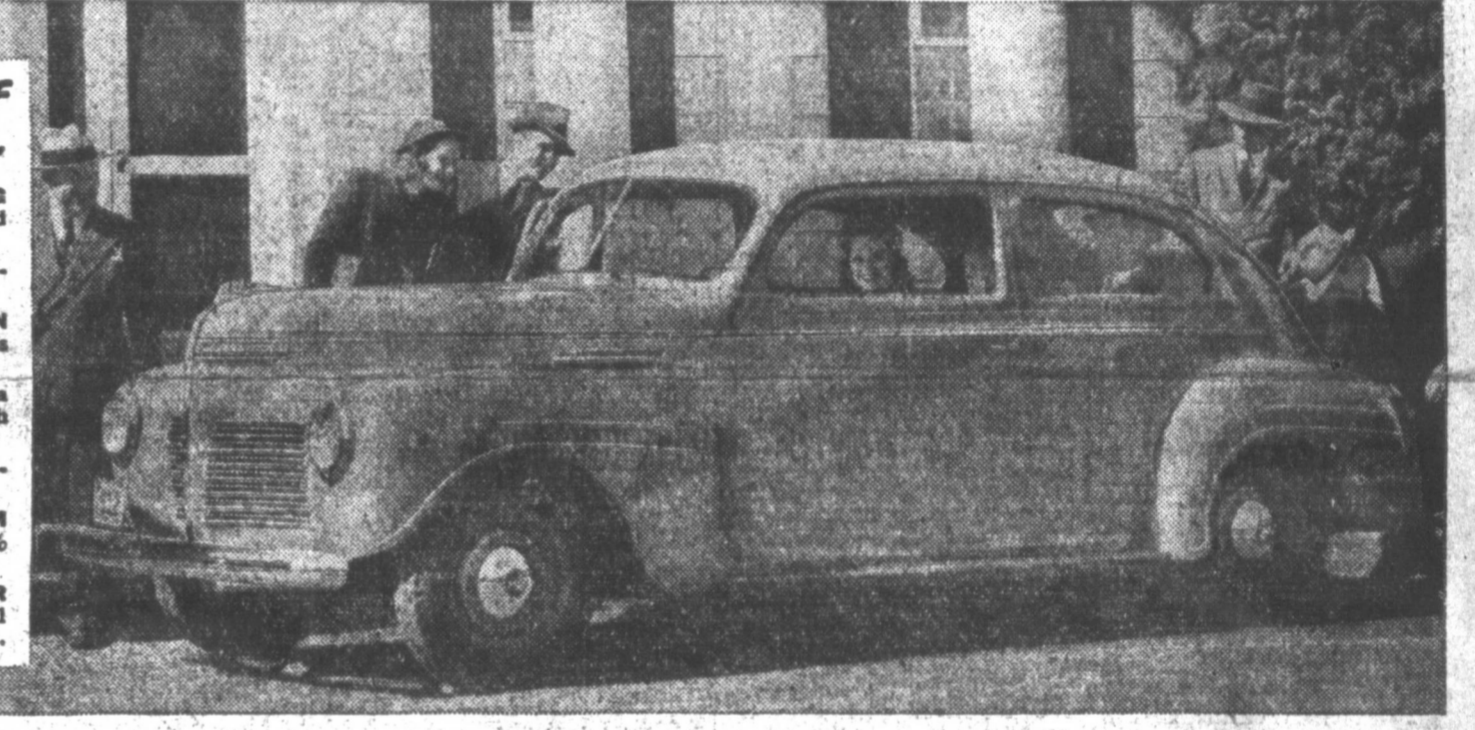

Daladier said "the generous efforts of the highest moral and political authorities of the United States and Europe" had failed to prevent the German invasion of Poland.

Fort Worth Captures Texas League Flag

Dixie Series Will Open In Texas Sunday

By FELIX R. McKNIGHT
FORT WORTH, Sept. 22 (AP)—Fort Worth, Texas, barely a week in the Dixie Series play, tucked the Texas League pennant away today and cleared the decks for its ninth Dixie series.

Sunday, the amazing Panthers, a combination of old men and hustling youngsters, start the Dixie games against either Nashville or Atlanta, with the opening tilt set for Fort Worth, Nashville and Atlanta are tied at three-all in their Southern Association playoff.

Last night the home town idols sewed things up before 8,029 fans with a 9-7 defeat of Dallas, giving them a four-to-one edge in the championship series.

Secretary Milton Price of the Texas league agreed with Major Triamuel Scott, president of the Southern Association, in a telephone conversation last night that the Dixie series should start in Fort Worth Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock regardless of which team won the Southern play-off.

The Cats had to lean on heavy hitting after shutting out Dallas in three previous games, the Rebels finally finding their batting eye and making it tough in the money game.

Fred Marberry didn't have his stuff, and after the Panthers had given him a three-run lead in the second, finally went out before a Dallas battering that produced five runs in the third. He was one of eight pitchers who finally worked.

Two singles, a wild pitch, three walks and Marberry's squeeze bunt gave Fort Worth three in the second.

Dallas came back in the third with doubles by Cronin, Lee and Rigby, Demoran's single, Rigby's stolen base, and walks to Lovey and Pucinelli. Marberry went out during the assault and Corbett took over, after five runs were in.

Home Clouted.
Cazen doubled, Mehta walked and Cazen was forced at third in the Fort Worth third, but Kearse doubled Mehta across.

Fort Worth settled down to winning a pennant in the fourth. Sal Gilatto was hurling for Dallas and Kots and McD-well sent him to the showers with singles. Chatham sacrificed them and Johnny Stoneham drove a triple to deep right, scoring both. Overman hurried to the hill and Walter Cazen picked out a choice curve and parked it over the fence.

Ironically, a fire truck rushed over on the third base line at this moment—not to extinguish the Cats, but a bleacher blaze. Stebbins

Arkansas And Texas Aggies Favored To Win Saturday

By FELIX R. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Two of the southwest conference's mild favorites—the Texas Aggies and Arkansas—rushed the season a bit in early opens Saturday against enemies expected to give them a hard time.

Not until next weekend does firing become general—the other five clubs joining in inter-sectional warfare.

The Aggies, possessed of power that has spread over the edges of their practice field in scrimmaging over at College Station, are due for a five or six touchdown walkover of the Oklahoma Aggies at Oklahoma City Saturday while Arkansas, huge and experienced, is expected to manhandle Central Oklahoma Teachers at Fayetteville.

The answers to Aggie problems should start cropping out at Oklahoma City, the first and most important, being:

Can sophomore Derrace Moser lay down a punch from the tailback position?
He's in the starting lineup, this only first-year man so listed. Years without a kicker in the regular lineup, a weakness that has cost them ball games, the Farmers will Experience will surround him in the Cadet backfield. Jerry John Kimbrough, the battering fullback; veteran Jim Thomason, blocking back, and either Marland Jeffrey or Marion Pugh, busy frontbacks, will start. Bill Duncan, regular end, will give away to short but aggressive Herb Smith at left end. Duncan has a bad eye injury.

Arkansas, touted as a team that could wreck the conference with its power and passing, comes back with almost the same team. Last season developed a "last minute" losing complex that just kept it from being a winner, even in its green sooty stage.

The sophomores have grown into juniors now and have learned lessons about winning. After a period of attacks, Triple Threaters Kay Eakin, an extremely dangerous fellow who went out in mid-season last year with a fractured shoulder, is back to lead the Red forces.

Veterans Joe Seals, Ray Cole, Ralph Arden and Lee Anderson, the most conservative estimates say averages 215 pounds. Fine, and a necessity for passing play, are available.

Next week-end Texas Christian plays O. C. A. at Lehigh, Arkansas Southern Methodist meets Oklahoma at Norman, Okla., Rice meets Tulsa at Houston against an apparently feeble Vanderbilt team; the Aggies return to College Station to meet Central; Arkansas goes to Memphis to meet Mississippi State; Baylor opens against Southwestern at Waco and Texas kicks off against Florida at Austin.

Five District Grid Teams To Play Tonight

Guerrillas To Open Grid Season In Pampa Tonight

The 1939 high school football season will be officially ushered in here tonight at 8 o'clock when the Guerrillas of Coach J. C. Prejean meet the Stinson Rattlers of Floyd Murray. The 1938 Rattlers won from the Guerrillas in the closing game of the season and several of those starters will be in tonight's lineup while the Guerrillas will have a complete new team.

Lack of weight will be a Guerrilla handicap, the starting eleven boys averaging about 145 pounds. Lack of experience will also be noticeable only three or four of the boys having played last year on the Junior high Reapers.

No information has been received from the Rattler den, excepting that Murray has hopes of coming up with a winning team.

Only experienced boys in the Guerrilla backfield will be Bob Bray, former Reaps, who will be at left halfback, Frank Daugherty will be his running mate. E. L. Edmondson, small but fast, will be calling signals. Lefty Peniston will be the fullback according to Coach Prejean.

In the line, experience will be on the shoulders of Leslie Berge, center, Max Grossman, guard, and Earl Snider, tackle. Other starters will probably be Arthur Meyer, guard, Pat Flanagan, tackle, and Jack Thompson, end.

No admission will be charged and football fans are urged to see the future Harvesters in action.

642 Texas Teams To Play Football Under League Rules

(By The Associated Press)
Six hundred and forty-two schools will play football under the Texas Intercollegiate league banner this season.

Athletic Director R. J. Kidd announced today the official participation list. The time for enrolling for football is now up.

The total announced does not include more than 100 schools that will play six-man football.

The Class A division, which plays through a state championship, lists 201 teams.

The Class B, which decides bi-district championships, has 289 schools enrolled.

Included in the latter are five schools that organized a district late to be eligible to play for bi-district honors. This district is composed of Crandall, Cap, Iredell, Kopper, Walnut Springs and Meridian.

Six-man football plays to district championships only.

The championship campaign begins in Class AA tonight with El Paso-high playing 49-0 in a district A conference game.

Sixty-one games are scheduled tonight and tomorrow night with 39 of them inter-district or inter-sectional clashes.

Three games were played last night, Forest (Dallas) defeating McKinney 10-0 and Ranger downing San Antonio Tech 13-0 in inter-district-515 and 525, a Class A team winning over Class AA Athens 6-0.

Conn Still Mad Over Prediction Made By Betting

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 22 (AP)—Light heavyweight king Billy Conn made it plain today his defense against Melio Bettina here Monday night will be a grudge affair.

All because of a harmless appearing radio interview in which both took part. The former champ from Beacon, N. Y., upset the apparent when he predicted after the fight would knock out Billy. The Pittsburgh Irishman, sitting alongside the Italian in the studio, almost fell off his chair.

The remark made Billy red hot, and he's still mad.

'Moose' Hartman Makes Bid For Conference Laurels

Lubbock Works Over Oklahoma City 6-2

HOUSTON, Sept. 22—Rice Institute football supporters look forward to brilliant seasons for three young men in the center of the blue-and-gray line.

What promises to be the strongest trio in Rice history will take the field, barring accident. When the Owls of Coach Jimmy Kitts open with Vanderbilt here the night of Sept. 30, Rice plays Fordham in New York, Nov. 4.

Capt. Ed Singletary at left guard, Ken Whitlow at center and Fred (Mo-se) Hartman at right guard, make up this three-way bid for all-Southwest conference laurels. They're talented, fast, big, rough and powerful. All three are letter-men. Singletary having won two and Hartman and Whitlow, one each.

Singletary was moved from tackle to guard in spring practice to take advantage of his exceptional speed for a 210-pounder. He was a fine tackle, but appears to have found his exact position at guard. Asle and Whitlow are six-foot, two-inch Owl leaders back to pulling out of the line on offense from the first day of practice. That was all the Rice coaches wanted to know. His defensive work never has caused them any worry.

Whitlow received considerable recognition as a center last year, although the incomparable Kl Aldrich of T. C. U. dominated center acclaim in this and other conferences. Ken weighs 185 and is fast enough that Rice coaches often wished they could use him in the backfield. Whitlow excels on pass defense, is a deadly tackler from his line-backing post and a smooth passer on offense. His defensive work is good enough that he may be moved back to halfback when Eddie Lairy is in the game, with Lairy coming up as a line-backer.

Hartman, perhaps the most colorful personality on the Rice squad, may be the greatest of the trio. Moose, who wears a size 14 1/2 EE shoe and dearly loves his hillbilly

Reds Face Trial By Fire In Two Pirate Battles

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
Cincinnati's championship club is going to get a two-day test in 4-pitches fired by the Pittsburgh Pirates today and tomorrow, a pre-heating process that will have a lot to do with the temperature of that series next week against the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Reds have got to win or move aside, because it looks like nothing but a miracle can stop St. Louis.

The Cardinals collided with Brooklyn this week when the Dodgers were hot on a five-game winning streak and cooled them off. They finished sweeping the series yesterday by rallying with three singles and a double for two runs after two were out in the ninth inning to win 6-4.

Derringer produced his 22nd triumph of the campaign as the Reds routed the Phillies, 8-3.

Out of the race and battling to hold third, the Chicago Cubs claimed a 3-3 decision from the New York Giants yesterday.

The Pirates sent two rookies against the Boston Bees and Long Johnny Gee struck out 11 to win one game, 6-4, and Oedie Swigart pitched stoutly to win the other, 7-0.

The world champion Yankees completed their comeback by defeating Chicago White Sox with a 5-2 triumph. It was Rookie Martin Russo's seventh straight pitching victory.

Boston's Red Sox took the deciding game of their series with the St. Louis Browns, 2-1. Cleveland defeated Washington, 5-3.

Rudy York hit a homer in the eighth and single with the base loaded in the ninth to give the Detroit Tigers a 7-6 advantage over the Philadelphia Athletics.

Is Coffee A Munition Of War? Perhaps . . .

Man is an ingenious sort of cuss, especially when he is fighting for his life. Now it wants to be remembered that men in war are not fighting for marbles or cigaret pictures. They are fighting for their lives. A nation at war is basically just a large number of people fighting for their lives. Under those circumstances they become very ingenious indeed.

It may be fairly assumed that whatever restrictions ingenuity may contrive to prevent American goods reaching the fighting nations, equal ingenuity will step in to frustrate the plan. No positive, air-tight, fool-proof, 100 per cent safe and just neutrality plan can be made. The best that can be hoped for is an approximation.

For instance: The New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange was startled the other day when a bid came in from the Russian government in Moscow for a huge but undisclosed amount of coffee. Transportation was to be in Russian ships, to Leningrad. All perfectly legal.

The odd part of this is that Russia has never been a large coffee buyer in New York or even in South America. Russia is in general a tea-drinking country. Why this sudden rush for coffee? The simplest explanation is that the coffee is going to Leningrad, and from there straight to Germany, a great coffee-drinking country which has been restive under a shortage of it even before war was declared.

One hears other stories, unverified but interesting: tales of great shipments of automobile parts, so ingeniously designed that when they are received a simple, simple machine operation converts them into airplanes parts. There are always small neutral countries in a position to trans-ship to belligerents without any way to check up on or prove their activities.

Suppose Germany does get coffee through Russia. Is coffee a munition of war? Not directly. But certain veterans in muddy khaki, coming back from a tour in the lines around Thiaucourt on a September morning in 1918 could have told you that it helps. Are automobile parts, convertible or non-convertible, munitions? The Poles, with their transports all snarled up, and truck after truck out of action, could tell you.

Whatever arrangements are made on a neutrality policy might as well be made on the basis that practically anything helps a country at war, that practically anything may be at any moment declared contraband, and that no conceivable law can entirely prevent any kind of neutral goods getting to fighting nations.

Hence it might be best not to concentrate too fully on means of securing some sort of hypothetical balance called neutrality, with the needs of the fighting powers in mind, but on means of keeping the United States away from the sort of incident that inflames opinion here.

In the long run, it is public opinion that decides whether a democratic country goes to war. Unless and until events persuade most of the American people that it is in their interest to fight, no one would dare try to lead them to do so.

The Nation's Press

THE CHARACTER OF THIS WAR By Walter Lippmann

The Russian mobilization is almost certainly a sign that we shall soon begin to see some of the deeper consequences of the Hitler-Stalin pact. It is already reasonably certain that this secret arrangement between Moscow and Berlin was the immediate and deciding factor of the war.

The speeches of Hitler and Goering have made it clear that the reason they refused to regard their claims against Poland as negotiable was that the arrangement with Russia had made the war a good gamble.

Stalin had agreed to give Hitler a position where he could strike down Poland with impunity and then endure the slow effects of the Anglo-French blockade. So after pretending for years that he was concerned to prevent war by deterring Hitler against the chief risks of war.

As long as Nazism and Communism were opposed to one another, the one revolution could be regarded by the rest of the world as in some degree the antidote of the other. As long as they were physically separated by Poland, the Baltic states, Rumania, both revolutions were in some measure isolated and self-contained.

But the Hitler-Stalin pact destroyed the ideological barrier between the revolutions; the conquest and probable partitioning of Poland and Rumania will destroy the geographical barrier. The meeting of the two revolutions on common ground, and as participants in a common crime, makes them neighbors and partners, and in the end it will probably make them comrades.

We have to face the fact that there is a terrible but inexorable logic which drives Hitler and Stalin together, and that each commitment they make compels them to make more commitments. First they had to scrap their ideological quarrel. Then they had to agree to the destruction of Poland. Next, they will perhaps partition Poland. Thereafter, they will begin to integrate their resources, and perhaps later their military power.

Whereas until last month the democracies were arranging to resist external aggression, the situation is now such that they are confronted with the menace of a general European revolution. The transformation of the anti-Comintern pact into a Berlin-Moscow axis, the prospect of a union of the two revolutions, with the German military machine as their offensive weapon and the Russian continent as their reserves, places Europe in a peril such as it has rarely in all its history had to face before.

of peace with a Hitler who has Stalin for an ally. For if they made an armistice now, and then demobilized and opened their frontiers, they would have to meet the combined, the parallel and the unrelenting revolutionary movement conducted by the Berlin-Moscow axis. They would moreover, have to meet it as defeated nations, as nations not only defeated but humiliated, and all historical experience shows that nations in such a state of mind are peculiarly vulnerable to revolutionary agitation.

Sharing The Comforts Of Life

By R. C. Holles IS THE TOWNSEND PLAN CHRISTIAN?

A Townsend contributor contends that those who oppose the Townsend Plan should put up something better or shut up. Now, one wonders what the contributor means by putting up something better. Does he mean a better way of getting something for nothing? Or does he mean a better way for people to get what they produce and have better times?

Of course, there is no man with experience who would undertake to do something that can not be done. The Townsends contend that you can eat a cake and have a larger cake, you can lift yourself by your own boot straps, you can live without work and love your fellowman. Then, when people with experience say this cannot be done, the Townsend people, New Dealers, and Ham and Eggers say, "suggest something better".

There is no way of magically producing wealth, neither can the Townsend people magically produce wealth and benefit the producers by eating up what they consume.

Test The Plan by Reversing It Now the men have nerve enough to contend that the Townsend Plan is Christian. The Bible most assuredly said that man should live by the sweat of his brow; and, loving your neighbor meant that you should be willing to give him equal rights to those you are demanding. If the Townsend people think their plan is so Christian and others should be so charitable, why do they not reverse the situation and permit the other people to get the pensions and let the Townsends do the work and get the great benefit they claim will result to the producers. It is a poor rule that will not work both ways. No, it is not Christian. It is the antithesis of what Jesus taught. Jesus did not teach any special privilege for any class. He did teach respect for other people's equal rights. For the Townsends, New Dealers and the Ham and Eggers to demand a law be passed by voting majority to take from the producers in order that they may live in idleness on the fat of the land, is a form of force and coercion and, therefore, not in harmony with Jesus' teaching. It is hard to conceive how anybody can understand the teachings of Jesus and still believe that the Townsend Plan, the Ham and Eggers, or the New Deal are in harmony with the philosophy of Jesus.

The Townsendite contends that because 16 Congressmen, out of 20, in California voted for the plan, is evidence that it is not a crack-pot idea. No, this is not evidence at all that it is not crack-pot. It is simply evidence that these men were automatons. They were not legislators. They only voted what they thought would keep them in office.

These Congressmen will not stand up and debate and explain how the Townsend Plan will work. They know they would be made to look ridiculous. If the Townsend Plan wants a better plan for prosperity than their scheme for something for nothing, it has been repeatedly suggested in this column; that is, a free market for labor and commodities, a sound banking system that does not permit rapid expansion and contraction of credit and a taxing system that does not rob one worker to benefit a non-worker, as the Townsend plan promises. This would be a better plan for the return to prosperity.

There is no better plan than the Townsend Plan to get something for nothing. And that is all the plan is. I have given a better plan for prosperity and equal rules for all and that is all any Christian should expect from any government.

INSURANCE AGAINST OLD AGE

The following was mailed to the writer of this column by an unknown party and simply marked, "from a friend."

And it is a friend—to pass on such timely and beautiful expressions. The quotation was written by William Lyon Phelps. It is as follows: "The best insurance against old age and disability is an interesting mind. In my life of professional teaching, I have never endeavored to make young men more efficient; I have tried to make them more interesting. I like to hang pictures on the walls of the mind; I like to make it possible for a man to live with himself, so that he will not be bored with himself."

It has been said that the best thing in the world is to have a new idea and the next best thing is to pass on a new and beautiful idea. Would that more people followed this practice!

Behind The News Of The Day

By BRUCE CATTON Pampa News Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22—A Washington resident called the Federal Bureau of Investigation the other day and implored the G-Men to have a gander at queer goings-on in the flat next door to his, in a rather tony down-town apartment building.

"There are lights on in that flat until 3 o'clock and after, almost every night," he announced. "Whoever's in there talks German all the time. Must be a bunch of spies. You people ought to look into it."

The FBI sighed and went forth to check up. In the end, it found—as it had anticipated—no cause for alarm. The flat, it developed, was occupied by a gentleman of German birth who was very fond of card games—penny ante, pinocchio, and what-not. He had a number of like-minded cronies, also of German ancestry.

Four or five nights a week they would come in and play cards, eat liverwurst sandwiches, and maybe drink a little beer. They talked in German because that was the lan-

Around Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 22—Like a piece of literature, a motion picture must show continuity and must be properly punctuated and accented. Like news copy, it must go across an editor's desk before it reaches the customers. The film editor gets the picture as assembled by the cutter, on whose famous f-i-r or have wound up a potential star's first screenings. The editor checks each scene for screen grammar, characterization, tempo and structure. With cuts, closeups, fadeouts, dissolves and wipes, he molds the picture until it flows smoothly to the desired climax.

The film editor's job, as Arthur Hilton explains it, is making a picture look as though there are no cuts except where they are needed. Hilton is a cutter and editor, who has just finished clipping and pasting "Everything's On Ice" for Sol Lesser.

"A western may have as many as 175 cuts per thousand feet, and a dramatic picture has as few as 50," Hilton says. "Only exceptions are when we use a pause for emphasis. For instance, a man tells his boy of directors he's going to marry a chorus girl regardless of the effect on the film's reputation, and strides from the room slamming the door. The slammed door puts a period to the scene and provides emphasis."

The strength of a character in a movie often depends on how he is fitted in by the film editor. Every player's actions must be accented. If the editor overlooks the scene where the heroine marries, her living with the hero later might bring a squawk from the censors.

"In my job," Hilton explains, "I have to be a musician, a dramatist, and a psychologist. I must keep the correct tempo in the picture, make it dramatic and see that it attains the right influence on the minds and emotions of the audience."

He says the best way to shock an audience is to break into the middle of a scene without beginning or end. A woman is shown driving a

It begins to look like our favorite football teams this year are going to be the Guerrillas and the Junior High Pee-wees—what with Lefty Pendleton pitching footballs with his left hand from the fullback slot and Pat Flanagan, gangling new kid from Arkansas City, Kans., holding down a tackle berth, and that upstanding boy Leslie Burke at the center position.

Mrs. Williams, director of the fireman's play, says that in her opinion Caroline Burratt is already as good as most professional. This summer Caroline took speech and acting at Northwestern University, the alma mater of her teacher, Mr. Kenneth Carman.

The school is beginning to think they got their money's worth in Terrell Davis who coaches out at Woodrow Wilson and Dick Livingston who coaches at Baker. These two young men were graduates from Texas Wesleyan college at Fort Worth last year and were outstanding students on the campus, being prominent in both athletics and school activities.

Those two young fellows have a sense of humor which every one including school teachers needs, and they've already made a hit with a lot of people. . . .

This last day of summer which was yesterday had that warmth and that coolness and that scent which every one including school teachers needs, and they've already made a hit with a lot of people. . . .

Finally came the hushed and cool twilight and the swift sun sinking burning in the west and the shadows lying still across the grass. . . . It was a day to remember.

CLOSEUPS SHOW PLAYER'S REACTIONS

Film editors use closeups to play up a character's reactions. For rapid-fire changes of dialog, they cut in a "two-shot," showing two players in the picture. Psychological effects are gained in films by quick flashes, such as a man firing a gun, people running or a police car siren.

"You should never deceive the audience except in mystery films or fringe they grew up with; but the most careful investigation failed to show that any of them were anything but good Americans or that anything any more sinister than a little friendly card playing and beer drinking was hatched there.

This is just a sample of the sort of thing the FBI is getting these days. As the nation's first line of defense against foreign espionage, it is getting a perfect flood of complaints from the citizenry. As a matter of duty, it runs each one down; as a matter of policy, it doesn't go around telling everyone what it learns. But a huge percentage of the complaints are pretty woody.

FBI is in good shape to fight any genuine spies that may appear. It now has a force of 800, soon to be increased by 150.

In addition, it has what practically amounts to a "G-Man Reserve Corps," consisting of slightly less than 500 men who have been graduated from the three-month training courses which the bureau conducts.

Practically all of these graduates are members of the police forces in different American cities. The FBI keeps in touch with them, keeps them informed about what is going on—and knows that in case of need it has, in all of these different cities, regular police officers, trained in FBI methods and with the FBI, who can go into action if needed.

SPY ROUTE FOR PERSONAL GRUDGES The bureau checks all complaints thoroughly, even if it is morally certain in advance that everything is okay.

It is a trifle disturbed at the number of people who seem to be willing to work off personal grudges by trying to turn in innocent people as spy suspects, but it takes no chances.

Right now it is keeping a watchful eye on all persons known to have overseas connections, and is bending every effort to prevent any recurrence of the sabotage cases of the last war.

Incidentally, its cases don't often land in court—or haven't so far, anyhow. Six times, in the last three years, have its cases resulted in actual convictions in court for violation of the espionage statutes. More often, it has been found that court trials were not necessary.

Instead, the evidence is simply turned over to the State Department, which quietly gets in touch with the representatives of the foreign nation involved. The man who has been doing the spying is called home, and that ends it. Now with an actual war on, of course, things are apt to be a trifle tougher.

Tex's Topics

By Tex DeWeese

IN THE midst of death there is life. The experience of 1914-1918 showed us that despite all the horror of war's slaughter, life goes on. People remain even after most of them are soldiers. . . . The human spirit can absorb only so much punishment. After the cup runs over, it can hold no more. Yesterday's horror becomes the accepted routine of today.

The imminent threat of war has been so long over Europe, that war itself scarcely causes any revolution. The gas mask has become a common place of daily life. Result: a fashionable London specialty shop is now offering gas masks with vanity cases attached. After all, a woman living under the daily threat of sudden death is still a woman, and not a white less so because the next hour she may be a mangled body lying in the gutter.

PERHAPS in the end here it will have an influence in ending war. . . . From now on, generals may die in bed, but it will not be the peaceful death of which they were assured in the old days. The bombs can seek them out in their beds just as they will seek out little 4-year-old girls and little boys of 10.

When the bombers roar over London, the Chamberlains and the Churchills will have to duck with the rest. When bombs scream down over Berlin, the Hitlers and Goebbels will have to scurry for the cellars. And when steel strikes down on Rome, the Mussolinis and the Cianos will have to scramble for shelter with every Tony and Marie. . . . When those who make war are subjected to something of the dangers and hardships as those who have to fight, it may exercise a restraining influence at last.

JUDGE in a minor Montreal court has been reported as giving prisoners convicted of small offenses the choice of enlisting in the army or going to jail. . . . Does that seem a serious case of administrative justice? Perhaps, but it differs not at all from many things that were done when the United States went into the World War in 1917. The same sort of thing happened here time and time again, and it always happens when a nation goes to war. . . . When war comes storming in the door, reason flies out the window. On the one hand, the bird is shy and very hard to entice back in again.

The Family Doctor

Dr Morris Fishbein

Children's hearts beat faster than those of adults. Heart rates of children also vary more easily than those of adults and respond promptly to all sorts of emotions and to exercise or to other factors.

Two Cincinnati physicians made a special study of 10 children who had rapid heart rates to determine the basis for this condition. Other investigators found that 72 out of about 2,000 children between 6 and 14 years of age had rates which were above 110 heart beats per minute. These rates persisted even when these children were relatively quiet.

Only two out of these 72 children had signs of any real heart disease. Another investigator found the heart rate varies more in children who are nervous and excitable than those who are calm. One little girl 11 years old had a heart rate in the early morning while asleep that was 20 beats per minute less than it was in the afternoon when she was playing actively. In the cases of several young girls, the rates dropped nearer to normal after the time when the periodic functions usually occurring in women began to appear.

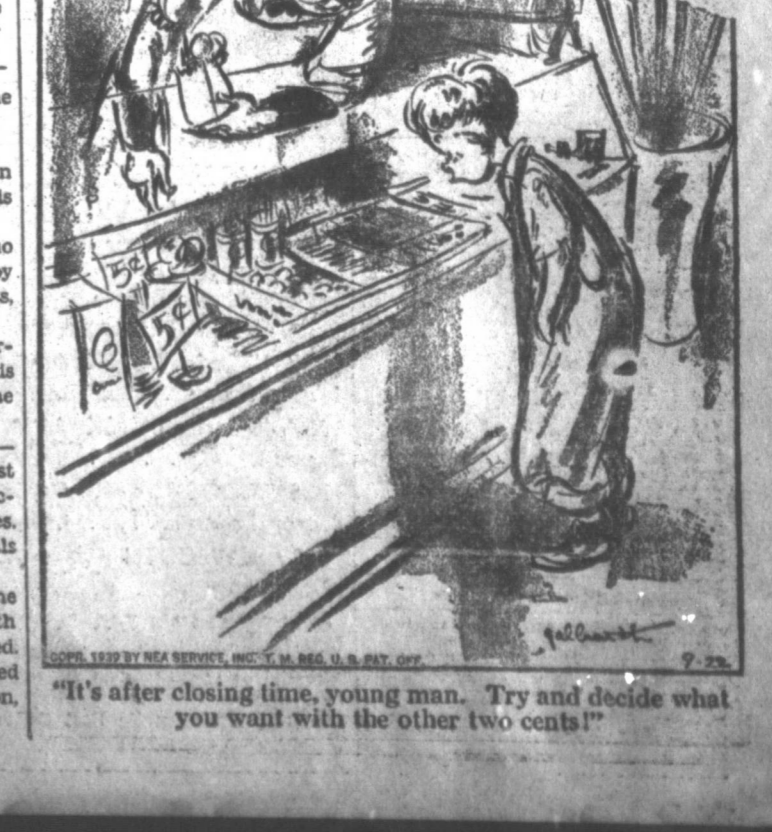

In all of the cases of rapid hearts or rapid heart rates, rest was prescribed for 11 or 12 hours during every 24. Children affected were forbidden to participate in vigorous sports like swimming, racing and basketball. Even though no real signs of heart disease could be found, it was considered desirable that such children avoid these sports until their physical capacity could be definitely determined.

In the cases of those who were especially nervous and excitable, it was found that the heart rates slowed just as so to as the elements of fear and excitement were removed.

Several of the young girls had symptoms of mild disease of the thyroid gland. Observations of cases of children over long periods of time showed that rapid hearts in children, between 10 and 14 years of age, were not associated with any disease of the heart, and did not interfere with normal growth and nutrition. They are not associated with any symptoms of pain or weakness, and usually disappear when the period of childhood has passed.

Louis Is Not Slipping Says Jim Braddock

By GAYLE TALBOT
DETROIT, Sept. 22 (AP)—The man has told me in the past 24 hours that Louis was slipping, and that life is no longer in the Arm and that he is slipping, and that he has been a year ago, then there has been a dozen.
 Some of them must be classed as expert observers of fighting men—if there is any such animal.
 They say they saw the symptoms in the course of the negro's fight with Bob Pastor night before last. "They don't think the 'old' Louis would have hit any man survive five knockdowns in the first four minutes of fighting and then stick around until the 11th stanza before going down for good."
 So I asked Jim Braddock, Big popular Jim the man from whom Louis won the title a little over two years ago. He should have a pretty good idea. Does Louis qualify as a truly great fighter, I asked him, and has he lost his peak?
 "Get this," said the former champion. "He is the greatest fighter who ever entered the ring. He is the greatest fighter who will ever see in your life. He is as good as he was the night he fought me. Why should he be slipping at 27?
 "No, I saw his mind working. When Pastor survived those first two rounds Louis decided to wait and wait until after the third round he took a good punch. And he's tough to hit because he can move both ways. So Joe didn't waste any punches. He just waited, and the third time he hit Pastor that was the end of it."
 Braddock's opinion is good enough for me. I think Louis is the greatest fighter I'll ever see. I will get some pictures at the start of each fight, when the bell chimes and Joe comes alighting but after his mind. Other say they get the same feeling, as if something terrible were about to happen.
 I was afraid for Pastor, even in the later rounds. I think he was coming back. Sooner or later, I felt, Louis would hit him again. Jimmy Johnson, Pastor's manager, was at my elbow screaming: "Whoa! Let out! Move around!" Jimmy felt the same way.

Dallas Woman Has Fun Being Whole Show In 'The Drunkard'

By DALLAS KEAVY
HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 22 (AP)—It is easy to write about a lady who has so much fun doing her work that she doesn't consider it work at all. Jane Duggan of Texas is the lady.
 If you happen to be one of the half million here who has seen that theatrical curiosity called "The Drunkard," now nearly as old and as well known as Shirley Temple, Mike Duggan needs no introduction. Or perhaps you've seen her in one or more of 50-odd pictures.
 The secret of the success of this play is that everybody cast, too, has fun, particularly the audience. (The management admits to one or two exceptions, undoubtedly surpluses on a line diet at the time of their attendance.) In case you had not heard, "The Drunkard" is the seventh consecutive year and unless a major catastrophe interferes, it probably will run that much longer.
 Jane Duggan has considerable to do with this phenomenon. No one can say just how much is due to her apparent enjoyment of her part in it. To her, perhaps, more than to any of her fellow clowns, it represents a personal triumph. Her friends, you see, didn't think she had it in her.
 Miss Duggan was socially somebody in Dallas. She had been active as a voice teacher before her marriage to Eugene Duggan, but the routine—that's the word—of her marriage and opera and such didn't match her scheme. Her husband finally suggested she might devote some of her spare time to amateur theatricals.
 "I discovered in these plays that I had a sense of comedy," she recalls. "That was too unfortunate. It gave me the idea I'd like to do on the stage, and at my age, too, or maybe try Hollywood. But I knew my husband would never listen to anything like that, so I forgot my ambitions for awhile.
 "And then the well known depression came along and hit us weren't exactly down and out. I convulsed myself, and I thought I should be earning a little something."
 "I decided to come to Hollywood. I was certain I wouldn't have any trouble at all getting into pictures. Some confidence, eh? Little did I know that there were hundreds of able people already here with the same aspirations. My friends in Dallas were sure I'd be back in a few weeks. They felt sorry for me.
 "It was in town two days when a friend asked me to join up Gail Bell, a producer who was putting on a little show that might run for three or four weeks. The play, provided I got into it, would give me some much needed professional experience and, if might, possibly, lead to the movies.
 "That 'little show' was the record-breaker.
 "The first question members of the cast of 'The Drunkard' are asked is, 'How can you do the same thing, night after night after night?' Miss Duggan, the 'miss,' says she, sounds more professional than I might. I should be hearing to anything like that, so I forgot my ambitions for awhile.
 "They have fun and we have fun. Only, I think we have more fun than they do. This play has become such a part of our lives that we feel it and live it every minute. And despite the regimen, I feel better and look better than ever before in my life. Even my husband says so."
 "The Drunkard" is a play broadly depicting the evils of drink. It contains subplots, either dialogue or acting. In fact, as possible. Producer Bell has his people carry out their parts just as P. T. Barnum did his shows when he gave us a play in 1823. The difference is, Barnum just happened. He served best, true, to his customers.
 "It isn't the bear that makes the audience like us," believes Miss Duggan. "It's that we have non-drinkers who are just as enthusiastic."

Southwest Clubs Ready To Lean On Soph Footballers

DALLAS, Sept. 21 (AP)—Not unlike any other season, the veteran and experienced Southwest Conference clubs are ready to lean on the fresh crop of sophomore sophomores.
 Seven clubs, banded with juniors and seniors, are more or less dependent upon backfield sophomores for the spark that ignites.
 For the Texas A&M, Derrance Foster, a Stephenville lad who triple threats in sport of a colossal way, is openly their hope for a big year. His long range and quick kicking is what they have needed for years. He is mentioned as being a runner who has made him a terror in scrimmage. Right behind him comes Marshall Spivey, formerly of Lutkin, who was one of the most feared schoolboy ball carriers.
 The University of Texas spent a year telling the folks to be patient until Jack Crain and R. B. Patrick, a couple of nifty backs, came of varsity age. They are present now and were well accounted for in past games. But the surprise they didn't tell you about is Pete Layden of Dallas, quite a passer and kicker and a good hand at running. And then there is Raymond (Wildhorse) Mayes, the untamed line ripper of Amarillo.
 Baylor will be sporting what many contended is the outstanding third-year player of the league—his Jack Wilson, a swell runner, kicker and passer. Just behind him is the tall back position will be Dwight Parks, nimble 150-pounder who throws good passes and runs the well wisp style.
 The newest thing to Bobby Wilson's Southern Methodist could arrange is Danny Dick Miller, a 145-pound humber who was on Longview High school's championship couple of seasons back. The boys were a spot-out in their return and broken fielding. But the really big business at S. M. U. is Preston Johnson of Newcastle—a tremendous kicker, sturdy runner and defensive star. Quite a player.
 No sophomore is in the starting Texas Christian lineup, but one who will be damaging when he appears is Jack Herring, 185-pound, six foot four of Hillboro. Herring has been wearing Hillback Logan Wilson's number. He is a runner, a lefthander who reminds of Bill Wallace with his running and kicking, and Bob Brumley, a powerful boy who performs just in back of him. Arkansas had his sophomore year backfield with a spot-out in the talk of the place, Darryl Cato, a center. Coach Fred Thomson hints he will be a starter, one that will take over the place left by Lloyd Woodell, the boy who played second fiddle to Al Aldrich of TCU for two seasons in the Southwest.

SERIAL STORY WORKING WIVES

BY LOUISE HOLMES

Yesterday Dan is about as... MARIAN opened her eyes and looked dazedly about. She was lying on the red leather couch in Mr. Fellows' conference room. How had she come there? Miss Harrod was leaning over her, sympathy in her pale eyes. She was holding a bit of gold wet gauze to Marian's temple. Sally was looking down at her. Was there a hopeful gleam behind the corners in her eyes? Mr. Fellows was also there, his face a conglomeration of wrinkles, written large upon his face. Marian tried to sit up and weakly dropped back. "Well, for goodness sake," she said, half laughing. "What ever is the matter with me?" "Shall I call the doctor, Mr. Fellows?" Sally asked breathlessly. "She's terribly white, she looks sick," Marian had the feeling that Sally was making the most of the incident. He hesitated and Marian caught at Sally's hand. "Don't send for the doctor," she said firmly. "I'm all right." Struggling, she sat up. "What's a faint among friends?" "It isn't like it," Mr. Fellows growled. "I don't like it at all. You've never fainted, Marian."

had brought her back, instinct made her chin go up, squared her shoulders. Sally Blake was sitting at Marian's desk. She got up hurriedly. "Mr. Fellows said you might not come back this afternoon," she explained. "He said I could do your work. I sat down at your desk—just because I wanted to see how it would feel to be important." Her laugh was a conscious little tinkle. Marian asked thickly, "Has Mr. Harriess phoned?" "No, I've been right here." Marian put her hat in the transparent box, she looked in the mirror, startled that her face was the same. Doctors made mistakes, she kept telling herself, they didn't always know. It wasn't true. Dan didn't want a child, there was no place for a child in the well-arranged pattern of her life. She'd go on believing that it wasn't true, and it wouldn't be. Sally had vacated her desk and she sat down. Ridden by protesting nerves, numb with shock, she threw herself into work. Mr. Fellows had suggested a set of statistical charts, tiresome and requiring considerable research. She'd get it at that afternoon. It would fill all her spare moments for weeks to come. MR. FELLOWS came in to find her almost hidden behind ledgers and filing cards. "What goes on?" he asked. "I told you to take a rest." She glanced up brightly. "I went to see Dr. Moss this noon," she told him. "I can't be cluttering up the office with my prostate body." She was making a joke of it and he grinned. "What did he say?" "He gave me a nasty nerve tonic," wrinkling her straight little nose. "He said I was just about the 'wellest' person it had ever been his privilege to meet." The doctor had said something like that. He had said, "You are in excellent condition, Mrs. Harriess. There's no reason why the young man's coming should disturb you much." Without thinking, she had said, "But it must be a girl." The doctor had roared. She loathed him for being so horribly cheerful. "Well, hope and pray," he had said. "I guess you'll take whatever comes." So the young man's coming wouldn't disturb her much—so she'd take what the gods sent—Marian bit her lip until pain broke across her thoughts. It would disturb her—and she wouldn't take it—life couldn't do that to her. (To Be Continued)

Crew Of Torpedoed Vessel Rescued By Two Flying Boats

LONDON, Sept. 22 (AP)—The British government announced today two Royal Air Force flying patrol boats had rescued the crew of 34 of the steamship Kensington Court, which sent out SOS after being attacked by a submarine. A ministry of information announcement said the rescue, somewhere in the Atlantic ocean, was the first case in which an entire ship's crew had been picked up at sea by flying boats. The Kensington Court was a 4,303-ton vessel, owned by the Court Line, London, was her port of registry. The ministry's announcement said the flying boats, responding to an SOS, arrived at bedside a lifeboat from the Kensington Court 10 minutes before the steamer sank. The announcement added: "The pilots saw a tiny boat crowded with men while others were in the sea clinging to the sides. While one flying boat kept watch from the air the other came down on the water alongside the overloaded lifeboat. Fourteen of the men, some in a desperate condition, were pulled into the aircraft. When it had taken off with the heavy load, the other aircraft descended and picked up 20 more men. The two aircraft made a quick search for the attacking submarine but it was not located. The steamer crew said one of the lifeboats had capsized and the other was in danger of sinking."

Bureau Estimates Demand For Crude

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP)—The Bureau of Mines today estimated the October daily average domestic market demand for crude oil at 3,590,000 barrels. This was 79,000 barrels a day more than the September estimated demand and 3.5 per cent more than the actual October demand last year. The October domestic motor fuel demand was placed at 48,900,000 barrels for the month or about 6 per cent more than the actual demand last October. Motor fuel exports, it was said, likely would reach 4,500,000 more than the forecast of September exports. Finished gas-line stocks, officials said, probably will show a decline of 1,000 barrels to October. Stocks as of August 31, the report stated, totalled approximately 7,500,000 barrels. The European war, so far, did not appear to have had heavy claim on American petroleum and its products. Crude oil exports, it was added, might reach 6,700,000 barrels compared with 6,400,000 barrels for September and an actual October export of 6,700,000 in 1938.

Texas Rates High In News At Washington

By L. T. EASLEY Associated Press Staff

(Editor's Note: One of the 90 staff reporters maintained in Washington by The Associated Press is assigned to Texas regularly on a rotating basis. He is L. T. Easley, who has returned to the national office for the special session of Congress, after being attached to the AP staff in Texas.)

Texans in Washington make news.

From Vice President John N. Garner, the nation's No. 2 man, to Landley Beckworth, 26, the baby of Congress, Texans make news for the nation and their home state.

The state's twenty-one representatives and two senators are the primary source of Texas news in the nation's capital. Then, too, there are Texans in high government posts—such as Jesse H. Jones of Houston, head of the new Federal Lending Agency.

Important, too, as a source of Texas news in Washington are the persons from the Lone Star state who are there temporarily, in the interest of pending legislation, or seeking financial aid on a project back home. It is the work of the Texas Associated Press correspondent to check these sources daily.

One hour, he may be in Garner's office or attending a committee hearing quest of a story, the next in a government department or at a private residence interviewing some individual who has just arrived in the city from Texas.

Filed over the Associated Press wires—generally over the AP teletype machines in the capitol itself, stories appear in Texas Associated Press newspapers a matter of minutes after the news has broken. If it is of sufficient importance, the story is dictated over the nearest telephone—usually in the congressman's office, into the AP headquarters in the Washington Evening Star building a mile away.

The missions on which Texans come to Washington are many and varied. It may be about oil, cotton or cattle, or the shrimp industry off the Gulf Coast. It may be about a flood control reservoir in the Panhandle near Berger or Pampa, or about improvements for the Louisiana-Texas intracoastal canal near Corpus Christi. Perhaps about the Big Bend park project.

Frequently, high ranking officials, concerned over legislation passed or proposed that would effect everyone between the Red River and the Rio Grande, appear in Washington. In the past two years numerous such executives have visited the capital, including Railroad Commissioner Lon A. Smith, Jerry Sadler and Ernest O. Thompson, Federal Judge James V. Alford while he was governor and a host of others.

Committee hearings must draw most of them.

For example, one particular bill introduced during the last and previous sessions of Congress has accounted for the presence in Washington of several state officials at once. It would give to the government title to submerged coastal lands. Such a law would deprive Texas public schools of an important source of revenue, since some of the Gulf basin produces oil.

The measure is directed primarily at California. However, Texas would surely find itself with a long and expensive court fight to prove that the law, if it passes, did not belong to this state. The claims for exemption from terms of the proposed law are based on a provision in the treaty of annexation by which Texas specifically retained title to such lands.

Some hearings or conferences are held in closed or "executive" sessions. A reporter must wait, then question those who attended when the meeting is over. He generally waits the first time the congressman from the particular Texas district most concerned.

A large project, such as a flood control and power dam, may necessitate much journeying between Texas and Washington. Such trips have been made numerous times by A. J. Wirtz of the Lower Colorado River Authority, John Norris and John McCall of the Brazos River Reclamation and Conservation district and others.

From Big Spring, Lubbock, Vernon, Tyler, Beaumont and dozens of other Texas cities come mayors and other municipal authorities to testify on radio applications, proposed air mail routes, street paving projects and the like.

Through his close association with the Texas congressmen, the Texas AP correspondent usually knows when they intend to speak on the House or Senate floors and is on hand to report their remarks. However, the course of a debate may prompt extemporaneous statements. Some Associated Press staff men are always on hand when either house is in session, however, and will fill in for the Texas reporter if the news is of purely state interest. If it is of broader scope it is immediately filled over AP wires for dissemination throughout the country.

Many a story is unfolded the first time over a cup of coffee or in a hotel suite. Texans who come to Washington frequently register at the same hotel, and are looked up as soon as word is received of their arrival. Increasingly Texans on business trips east use the air lanes. So swift is this means they can spend a day in Washington, or only a few hours, just as at Austin.

It isn't always legislative proceedings that make the news. Seldom a week passes but some happy, convention-bound delegation of Texans arrives from the Red River to Statuary Hall, where stand marble likenesses of Stephen F. Austin and Sam Houston.

Frequently they come garbed in cowboy and cowgirl regalia, erupting enthusiasm and "yippees" that echo from the Rotunda to Statuary Hall, where stand marble likenesses of Stephen F. Austin and Sam Houston.

Six New Series Included In Choice To Be Given Buyers

Six new series of automobiles for 1940, on wheelbases ranging from 121 to 140 inches and affording extended market coverage from just above the lowest price field, are announced today in Flint, Mich., by the Buick division of General Motors Corporation. The Tex Evans Buick Co. is the local Buick agency.

With production going forward at an accelerated pace and stocks of cars already in the hands of dealers, public introduction of the new models is taking place on a nationwide basis through special displays in the show-rooms of more than 2,800 distributors.

Featuring the Buick line for 1940 are two completely new series of cars of ultra modern styling and new standards of quality and performance in the lower and medium price fields. They are the series 50 Super and the Series 70 Roadmaster, constructed on entirely new chassis of 121 and 126-inch wheelbase, respectively.

Completing the Buick group for next year are the popular series 40 Special, on a 121-inch wheelbase; the Series 60 Century, on a 126-inch wheelbase, and the Series 80 and 90 Limiteds, on 131-inch and 140-inch wheelbases, respectively.

Throughout the model range the 1940 Buicks have been stepped up to new highs of style, quality and performance. Bold and artistic treatment in front end styling has provided a distinctive Buick hood representing pronounced change and improvement over previous years. Underneath the attractive exteriors are chassis held to be the sturdiest ever produced by this manufacturer, and, at the same time, the most advanced.

The Series 40 and 50 cars are powered by valve-in-head straight eight engines of 248 cu. in. displacement developing 107 horsepower at 3,400 r. p. m. Engines of identical design, but with 329.2 cu. in. displacement and developing 141 horsepower at 3,600 r. p. m., are used in the Series 60, 70, 80 and 90 cars.

Outstanding structural and design features, including such important items as improved torque tube drive, independent front wheel suspension, ride stabilization fore and aft, more powerful hydraulic brakes, and improved lighting and electrical equipment, are incorporated in the cars. In addition, more than 70 new features representing detailed change and improvement are listed in the engineers' description of the models.

The 1940 cars have improved front and rear direction signals, foamtex rubber seat cushions, engine turned instrument panels, sealed beam safety headlights, entirely new frames, new engine mountings, new carburetor, addition of oil filters on all engines, better direct steering linkage, improved hand-shift gear control, marked improvement in shock absorber equipment, new safety tree reeling inside rear door handles, windshield wiper boosters, an improved system of tire changing, and a host of other refinements marking them as complete and luxuriously equipped automobiles.

Hill Country Of State In Grip Of Fall

By FRED GIPSON (Written For The Associated Press)

Fall is fixing to take hold in the hill country of Texas.

In the late afternoons now a blue haze fills the deeper draws and canyons on the upper reaches of the Llano Rivers and the San Saba. The cloud shadows drifting across the limestone ridges are blacker, and here and there the gumrah berries are turning red. The clms in the bottoms are taking on a burnt orange hue. In the morning the air is fresh and keen.

Rain came at last to drought-stricken old Oakville, down in South Texas. And now the mesquites, still raved from the privation they've endured all summer, the rain lilies are blooming—millions upon millions of them, white-starred promises that the grass will grow long in Live Oak county this fall.

The Pecos river is without a doubt the crookiest stream that ever flowed water here.

bad, N. M., is some 90 miles, by highway. And from Pecos to Carlsbad, following the course of the river, is a distance of little more than 700 miles.

Possibly Buck Jackson of Pecos is stretching the blanket some, but he says the Forty-Niners were responsible for the awful crooks in the Pecos river.

According to Buck, the Forty-Niners would drive off into the river with their wagons and bog-down. And to get their wagons out in a hurry, so they could rush on to the California gold fields, they'd hitch on a couple or three more teams of oxen. All these oxen giving one big yank at the same time, not only pulled the wagon out of the mud, but jerked a crook in the river at the same time.

Miss Virginia Duncan, sheepherding school teacher of San Angelo, who's been about Chicago and New York this summer, claims you can put on a pair of boots in the Big Town and say "Howdy" to everybody, and New York will just naturally tumble right into your lap.

R. L. Parker, Toyah ranchman, who's been crippling around on a bruised leg lately, claims his one ambition in life is to breed the kick out of the quarter horses he's raising.

Happy Walker and his wife, who operate the Hi-Way cafe at Eden, are thinking of changing the name of their place to "Matrimonial Bureau Cafe." Just recently, they married off the 12th waitress in their place in the last 12 years.

"They followed me like pore shoats following a bucket of slop to the pig trough," says Uncle Hes Ray of Lake View, old Pecos river cowboy, recalling the day, some 57 years ago, when he stalked down the streets of Chicago wearing his Texas cowboy rigging and a pair of spurs with two jingling bells attached to each spur shank.

Most pet goats are pests, but Leon Alexander, Mason county farmer, has one that's a right useful animal. Lon's goat ranges with his turkey flock, never leaving them, sleeping on top of the hen house at night when the gobblers fly up into the nearby roost. Anytime Lon's turkeys range off into the brush and Lon can't find them, all he has to do is call his goat. The goat bleats an answer, and Lon can find his turkey flock.

Pies Williamson, Santa Anna farmer, keeps a special club for killing rattlesnakes around the farm. It's a peeled wild chinaberry pole. He used it the other day to club a 13-rattle diamondback. His wife, however, prefers the old shotgun for her snake-killing. A rattlesnake has not got much chance around the Williamson farm.
