Congress Heads Into Adjournment Rush

FDR Critics Hail Lending Bill's Death

Roosevelt Forces Try To Balk Thrust At Wage-Hour Law

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—The sudden death of the President's lending bill at the hands of house-urgent sent congress pell-mell into an adjournment rush today, with confused administration forces trying to stage off a final thrust at the wage-hour law.

As a week-end windup of the seven months' session appeared certain, Rep. Rayburn of Texas, democratic floor leader, said he expected "indefinite from some quarters" for a house vote on wage-hour amendments. The administration is fighting most of these proposed changes.

President Comments. While Roosevelt critics hailed the house refusal to debate the senate-approved lending measure yesterday as one of the biggest New Deal defeats since collapse of the Supreme Court bill, the President calmly told reporters industry, the unemployed and the taxpayer would be damaged by the action.

He said taxpayers would have to pay a good many hundreds of millions of dollars because industry would not absorb as many relief workers as it would have done under the lending program.

Making it clear that he was not criticizing the house for action it had a right to take, Mr. Roosevelt said those affected had a right to know where the responsibility lay.

He agreed there was no way of See CONGRESS, Page 8

Woman Bludgeoned To Death, Husband Beaten Unconscious

HOUSTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—Physicians today tried to revive G. W. Treadway, 32, so he could tell police the story of the bludgeoning to death of his wife, Mrs. Viola Treadway, 29, in an automobile trailer Monday.

Treadway, beaten about the head with a hammer, was in a critical condition and had not regained consciousness since the attack.

City Begging For Paving To Provide Jobs

Residents Urged To File Applications On Street Work

Unless Pampa residents living on unpaved streets make application for paving, and deposit the required amount of money, the 100 men assigned to the city-wide street paving program by the Works Progress Administration will be out of work, City Manager W. T. Williamson revealed today.

"We need many more blocks of paving to keep the men at work," the city manager said. "We are nearing the end of the present program and unless we receive more applications we will have to close down the project."

Early this year the city received WPA aid amounting to more than $100,000 for a street paving program. With that amount available, the city was able to pave a 36-foot wide street at a cost of only $125 per front foot to the property owner.

Nearly 40 blocks have been paved and some of the money is still available. It, however, must be matched by residents who desire paving in their blocks. Under the plan, an entire block, must be paved. No gaps may be left in a block.

All that is required to secure a block of paving is for each owner of property on a block to sign a petition and deposit to the city's account in the First National Bank an amount of $125 per front foot.

Topping of two blocks on North Ward street is scheduled to begin Friday. Also, widening of South Barnes street from five-points to the Fort Worth & Denver railroad underpass is scheduled to begin on that day. Barnes street will be widened to 40 feet and curb and gutter placed. At present there is no curb and gutter and the paving is only 24 feet wide.

WPA To Cut Off 11,000 Employees

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—WPA officials have informed Congress they intend to cut about 11,000 administrative employes off the rolls in the next two or three months.

Dallas Dort, assistant WAP commissioner, told a House appropriations subcommittee in testimony made public today the Work Projects administration's administrative personnel would be cut from 35,000 to about 20,000 by the end of September.

Dort furnished this information in requesting authority for the WPA to use an additional $2,000,000 for the purpose of terminating employees their accrued annual leave.

He furnished a table showing the number to be dropped in each state between July 1 and Sept. 30. It includes 340 in Texas.

Wave Of Strikes Still Continues

(By The Associated Press.) Strike sieges in four states continued under arms-enforced quiet today in the wake of bloody rioting and emergency police measures to combat violence.

In Cleveland, O., scene of a strike by the CIO-United Auto Workers union at the huge Fisher body plant, union spokesmen bitterly protested establishment of a 500-yard "strike zone" around the plant.

Strikers picketed in front of workers' homes, but there was no recurrence of the strife that sent 46 persons to the hospital Monday.

At Green Mountain Dam, C. I. O. deputized workers who crashed picket lines with the air of embattled citizens at the $4,000,000 dam, went about their jobs with guns handy today.

Five AFL unions called the strike July 12 to gain recognition as collective bargaining agents. In Detroit, renewed bloodshed and fears of further violence in the prolonged General Motors strike forced police on extra duty.

Measure Bars Job Holders From Politics

President Says It's 'Step In Right Direction'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—President Roosevelt today signed the Hatch bill regulating political activity of most federal job holders and told Congress in a special message that if administered "in accord with its spirit" it would serve the purpose intended by Congress.

Taking the unusual step of informing Congress why he had approved the measure, the President said questions of constitutionality had been resolved in favor of the bill.

Mr. Roosevelt pointed to many of the board provisions of the measure as involving difficulty of interpretation, but said: "It is because for so many years I have striven in public life and in private life for decency in political campaigns, both on the part of government servants, of candidates, of newspapers, of corporations and of individuals that I regard this new legislation as at least a step in the right direction."

His Federal Job Holders. The act, sought by Senator Hatch (D, N. M.) for nearly two years, prohibits all federal job holders except policy-making officials from participating in politics in any way except to vote, on threat of removal from office. This will apply particularly to United States attorneys, marshals, customs and revenue collectors who in the past have been delegates to presidential nominating conventions.

Among other things, the sweeping measure also forbids solicitation of campaign contributions from persons on relief and prohibits use of relief funds to influence persons in voting.

Violators could be fined $500 and imprisoned for a year. Cabinet officers and other policy making officials, as well as members See HATCH BILL, Page 8

Women Forced To Disrobe By Japs

PEIPING, Aug. 2 (AP)—Two British women missionaries who arrived at Peiping today reported they were forced to strip in the presence of a man while being detained by Japanese soldiers at Kaifeng.

The women came from Sian, capital of Shensi province in China's northwest, with a man missionary. They said they were held at Kaifeng for two days and questioned for four hours July 24 and two hours July 25.

The man in whose presence they were forced to strip, they asserted, was either a Japanese or Korean. At Peiping, directors of the anti-British campaign opened a new drive by adopting tactics which have driven a number of Britons out of inland cities. Servants in British households were told to quit or face "final action."

Warning letters were known to have been delivered to 518 individual servants, some of whom left their jobs in panic.

Nazis Invulnerable In Mock Air Battles

MUENSTER, Germany, Aug. 2 (AP)—Defense lines proved unbreakable, an official report said today, in what was described as heavy "butting" in northwestern Germany's air maneuvers.

Authorities said a theoretical war zone of 15,000 square miles was defended successfully yesterday against "invaders" from a "red" state. The maneuvers, which began yesterday and had been described as local, were given greater significance when DNB, official German news agency, disclosed their scope.

Their specific aim was to test Germany's anti-aircraft equipment which, DNB said, "attained a high degree of efficiency."

Sunshine HD Club Has Program On Insects Recently

SKELLYTOWN, Aug. 2.—"Insect Study" was the program topic of the Sunshine Home Demonstration club of Skellytown when members of the club met at the library for a demonstration given by Miss Bernice Westbrook, county home demonstration agent of Panhandle.

Roll call was answered with "Some Insect Problems I Have," Mrs. W. N. Adams, president, presided at the short business meeting in which plans were made to entertain the Friendship Circle of Panhandle on Aug. 22. Committees were appointed and are as follows: Mrs. Lonnie Feigenbaum and Mrs. Nicholas, program and display; Mrs. E. R. Donald, Mrs. L. B. Fulton and Mrs. W. W. Hughes, refreshments.

The meeting was turned over to Miss Westbrook, who gave recipes on how to make insect poison and are as follows: For grasshopper and cut worms, 25 pounds wheat, one white arsenic or paris green, one pound lemons or oranges or onions, six of either, low grade cane or sorghum syrup 2 quarts, one gallon water. Grind fruit or onion and mix with syrup and water, mix arsenic and bran then mix with liquid until just moist. Scatter this mixture up and down rows. It will kill insects.

This insecticide is poisonous to insects but not harmful to people. Miss Westbrook said in pointing out that the secret in combating insects is starting in time and not wait until the insects are mature and have deposited millions of eggs. This recipe will also kill cut worms and should be sprinkled in the garden rows before planting.

The group returned to the library lawn where a demonstration of the proper way of using magnetic rotenone dusts and sprays was given on the shrubbery. By using a spray that turns upward one is able to spray the underside of each leaf and kill the eggs as well as the insects, continued Miss Westbrook. She also demonstrated a home-made duster, which takes a little longer and wastes more powder but will do the job.

Pamphlets on "It's Tomato Time in Texas" were passed to each member as well as recipes for serving tomatoes a different way every day.

The following recipe of fly killer was given by Miss Westbrook: one-half cup sweet milk, 1/2 cup water, 1 teaspoon hydrated lime, 1 teaspoon brown sugar, 2 teaspoons ordinary commercial formaldehyde. Mix in tin lid. Place a piece of bread in lid. This gives flies a place to light. The bread soaks up poison and flies eat it.

If you are bothered with red ants, just locate the queen ant bed and dig a hole in center of bed. Then take garden hose and run three or four gallons of water into the hole. With the last water run in add two tablespoons of carbon disulfide, or high life. Let this wash into the already soaked bed. Cover the hole with dirt and press down. This will form a gas and kill the ants.

After the meeting adjourned the group went to Ike's drug store where refreshments were served to Mrs. Lonnie Feigenbaum, Mrs. H. R. Donald, Mrs. W. N. Adams, Mrs. L. B. Fulton, Billie Joyce Adams, Miss Imogene Hughes, and Mrs. W. W. Hughes.

ADJOURNMENT MUST BE IN SIGHT

Though John L. Lewis may have lost a blast at Vice-President Garner, it isn't going to interfere with Mrs. Garner's vacation plans at bit. In fact she's even getting the jump on official Washington by doing her packing early so she and her husband can leave the minute Congress adjourns.

O'Daniel Won't Call Legislators Back To Austin

BY RAY NEUMAN
 AUSTIN, Aug. 2—Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel repeatedly has intimated he will not call Texas' 181 lawmakers back to the capital for a special session during the remainder of his first term which expires in January, 1941.

If he doesn't change his mind, he will be the first governor since the turn of the century who has not convened an extra convocation within one more than 18 months between regular sessions.

James S. Hogg, the state's first Texas-born chief executive and regarded by some historians as its greatest, was the last governor to get by without a special session and even he had to call one his first term.

It was during his second term, from 1893 to 1895, that Gov. Hogg managed to conduct the affairs of state government without the help of the Legislature.

Gov. O'Daniel is an admirer of Gov. Hogg and that may have a bearing on his determination not to bring the lawmakers to Austin the remainder of this year and all of next.

In his spectacular inaugural, O'Daniel lauded the "immortal Jim Hogg" as a man of fine ideals and high courage. He even quoted much of one of Hogg's inaugural addresses in his own.

But state government has undergone many changes since the Maule decade. With all sorts of problems, expected and unexpected, popping up, the odds are against the governor in his hope there will be no need of an extraordinary session until 1941.

The records show every governor since Hogg has called at least one special session a term and Gov. Dan Moody, who served from 1927 to 1931, hung up a record by summoning the 41st legislature into five extra convocations.

Gov. Ross Sterling had four called sessions from 1931 to 1933; his successor, Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson called four between 1933 and 1935, and James V. Allred, O'Daniel's predecessor, proclaimed three in his first term and two during his second.

Governmental problems in Jim Hogg's day were relatively few compared to today's social, industrial and agricultural complexities.

In recent years, history shows, it has been virtually impossible to administer the state's business for long without calling in the legislature to alter laws or create new ones for emergencies.

The greatest problem facing O'Daniel—and one that will bring terrific pressure before it is over—is the lack of tax money to pay building old age pension rolls.

The governor recommended the legislature pass a drastic 16 per cent transactions tax.

The legislature abandoned that proposal, but he has not indicated what he would do if another problem arises that demands legislative attention.

While some believe he would not convene the lawmakers in any event, others thought he might summon the legislature and, since it could act only on what matter he submitted, place two subjects before it—the emergency and pension taxes.

If and when the governor convenes a special session, consensus is it probably would pass a sales tax rather than increase current levies for support of expanded pensions.

The minority bloc which killed the sales tax at the recent session opposed it on various grounds. The chief objection was to establishing it in the form of a constitutional amendment and thereby locking into a document from which it would be hard to remove.

There remained, however, lots of sentiment among lawmakers that a sales tax would hit the poor much harder than the wealthy.

DRAMATIC RESCUE OF 209 FAR AT SEA

Packed so full of humanity that children had to be tucked under the seats, these lifeboats were picked up by the oil tanker, Associated, which answered an SOS about 4000 miles west of San Francisco. The lifeboats contained 209 Japanese and Hindu passengers and crew from the Japanese steamer Bokuyo Maru which burned, exploded and sank in the Pacific en route to Yokohama.

Mrs. Little Is After Big Fish

Mrs. Lawson Little is as expert with a fly rod as her famous husband is with golf clubs. Barefooted she fishes for trout in lower falls of Ammonooncoo river at Bretton Woods, N. H.

She is seen here with her fishing gear. The fish she has caught are shown in the foreground.

Remember the hide-out six miles northeast of Oklahoma City on the North Canadian river? Remember the one by the Frisco tracks before the courthouse was built which was such a favorite spot at night?

Madeline shook her head. Branson read letters dated July 8 and July 17, 1937. In the first, Madeline asked for a trip to Mexico; in the second, she suggested a divorce.

"What caused you to change your mind?"

"Judge Thomas H. Owen," (late Oklahoma Supreme Court justice) said it was a shame a woman of my character had to put up with you."

Before Mrs. Branson rested, her attorneys introduced depositions to show Branson as late as June, 1938, transferred stock to his former wife, Mrs. Eula Branson.

Recently the two were doing a bit of floundering at the mouth of the Rio Grande and helped two other fishermen land a 20-foot sawfish weighing about 600 pounds.

The fish had a four and one-half foot saw and was carrying two pilot fish each about two feet in length.

Ex-Justice Fires Questions At His Wife In Lawsuit

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 2 (AP)—A former Oklahoma Supreme Court justice pleaded today to have his one-time stenographer's maintenance suit thrown out of court after she firmly denied she had kept frequent love trysts with him before their purported marriage.

"It's true, isn't it, that you used to pick me up at the capitol and that the by-roads of Oklahoma county were as familiar to you as the furniture in your room?" demanded white-haired Fred P. Branson.

"No," firmly replied Madeline Braniff Branson, 47, his former sweetheart-secretary.

She is demanding $500 monthly and court recognition of their 1930 marriage at Tarrytown, N. Y. Branson asserted the marriage was void because six months had not elapsed since a divorce from his first wife.

Of their romance from 1922, when she became his secretary, until 1929 he asked:

"Remember the hide-out six miles northeast of Oklahoma City on the North Canadian river? Remember the one by the Frisco tracks before the courthouse was built which was such a favorite spot at night?"

Madeline shook her head. Branson read letters dated July 8 and July 17, 1937. In the first, Madeline asked for a trip to Mexico; in the second, she suggested a divorce.

"What caused you to change your mind?"

"Judge Thomas H. Owen," (late Oklahoma Supreme Court justice) said it was a shame a woman of my character had to put up with you."

600-Pound Sawfish Landed By Four Men

HARLINGEN, Aug. 2 (AP)—If you can't catch a big fish yourself it is nice to help someone else do it. At least that is how Cameron County Attorney Jack Weigh and Assistant County School Superintendent Ellis Perry feel about it.

Recently the two were doing a bit of floundering at the mouth of the Rio Grande and helped two other fishermen land a 20-foot sawfish weighing about 600 pounds.

The fish had a four and one-half foot saw and was carrying two pilot fish each about two feet in length.

Outlook Good In Oil Industry In Spite Of Clouds

AUSTIN, Aug. 2 (AP)—The oil industry enters the last half of the summer with tremendous consumption of gasoline and other oil products offsetting large production of crude, but even extreme optimists can see a few black clouds.

The future of production in the vast East Texas field is blurred. The state railroad commission's 1939 program in that sector began with a decision by Federal District Judge R. J. McMillan of San Antonio in the Rowan & Nichols case. While the commission has not yet altered its policies as a consequence of that decision, the companies, including several of the larger operators, are clamoring for it to do so.

The Humble company, largest producer in the field, went into federal court in a direct attempt to obtain greater production allowance, and a hearing before a three-judge tribunal is scheduled at San Antonio one week from tomorrow.

Aside from the East Texas uncertainty, the current large output of both crude oil and gasoline over the nation is worrying the industry. Gasoline stocks are greater than one year ago, when they were considered several million barrels too high. Consumption of the motor fuel has risen substantially but refinery operations have advanced even more.

Demand for gasoline and other oil products continues highly satisfactory. It has been so good crude oil stocks were trimmed to their lowest level in 17 years despite heavy production.

Judge McMillan held in the Rowan & Nichols suit that the state commission must consider acreage in dividing the East Texas allowable among various leases. He also said Rowan & Nichols, a comparatively small operator, could produce additional oil while the case was being taken through the higher courts.

The increased production allowance to Rowan & Nichols did not in itself shake the East Texas application for one to the Humble company, which wants 17,000 more barrels of oil production each day, might upset it.

The revived possibility of federal oil control precipitated considerable discussion in the industry. Texas Railroad Commissioner Jerry Sadler issued a statement urging residents of this state to lead the fight against a bill offered in congress with backing of President Roosevelt. Enactment of the measure, Sadler contended, would lead to federal control of oil production. It won't come up for action until next year but a national house committee may take a searching look at the oil picture in the meantime.

Encouraging to all men in states other than Louisiana was that state's action in reducing its allowed production of 22,583 barrels a day. Output in Illinois, however, remains far above recommendations of the United States Bureau of Mines.

Flights Mark U. S. Air Corps 30th Birthday

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—The army air corps celebrated its thirtieth birthday anniversary today with mass flights throughout the United States, defense exercises over 1,500 miles of the west coast.

Amid these evidences of aviation progress in one generation, the air corps announced its second world record this week. "Flying Fortress" yesterday left Wright field at Dayton, Ohio, and streaked 625 miles at 259,398 miles an hour carrying a load of 11,023 pounds. Earlier, a similar plane reached an altitude of 8,200 feet with a payload of 15 1/2 tons.

The record-breaking craft, being developed in the $300,000,000 air corps expansion program, bear little resemblance to the first American military airplane which a war department board accepted formally from Wilbur and Orville Wright 30 years ago.

It had made a successful trial flight from Fort Myer, across the Potomac from Washington, to Alexandria, Va., about five miles away, at a little more than 42 miles an hour. It returned at a little more than 47 miles an hour.

Today it could put on, at Wright field, the first public demonstration of the air corps' new radio-controlled planes, which could be taken off, put through flight maneuvers, flown back to its base and landed through the operation from the ground of radio-actuated controls, without anyone in it.

Simultaneously it could send out squadrons of all planes over American cities and towns from nine air stations, with President Roosevelt giving the signal for their departure. The flights were listed from Langley field, Hampton, Va.; Mitchell field, N. Y.; Selfridge field, Mt. Clemens, Mich.; Bolling field, Silver Spring, Md.; the air corps training center, Randolph field, Texas; Maxwell field, Montgomery, Ala.; Chanute field, Rantoul, Ill.; Scott field, Belleville, Ill.; and Lowery field, Dayton, Ohio.

The national demonstration centered on Wright field. Performance trials of standard army combat airplanes, flights by tactical squadrons and a reunion of military and commercial aviation pilots of World War I date-backing 1912 were on the program.

27 Blind Persons Run News Stands In Public Places

LUBBOCK, Aug. 2 (AP)—Texas has 27 blind persons who operate news stands in either federal or state buildings, said Miss Vera Pike, a placement agent for the state commission for the blind, here recently.

"We have 14 stands in post-offices or federal buildings," Miss Pike said. "One is in Lubbock, operated by Miss Coyle Prosser. She is increasing her business all the time."

One has a stand in a federal Marine hospital at Galveston. In Ft. Worth it is planned soon to open a stand in the new federal courthouse.

Besides the Lubbock stand one is operated in the Brownfield post-office. Both stands are operated by young women sponsored by the Lions clubs of the two cities.

Darrell Webb has conducted a stand in the new Amarillo postoffice since the first of the year.

"The state has five 'lightheousers' where the blind are taught trades so they can earn a living," the placement agent said. "They are located at Dallas, Houston, Austin, Fort Worth and El Paso."

"It is the objective of the state commission to teach these people how to earn a living. The work is voluntary. They are taught broom making, mop making and the like. Attendance is not compulsory, so that a student may stay in training as long as he or she likes."

'HUMAN BOMB' GETS 35 YEARS

LEAVENWORTH, Kas., Aug. 2 (AP)—Thirty-five years in prison is the price John Thornburg, 26, must pay for his "human bomb" holdup of the First National Bank of Chanute, Kas., March 27. He pleaded guilty yesterday and said he spent the $4,800 loot on fast living, fast cars and women in the East and South and had violated the Mann Act by taking girls across state lines. Thornburg, is shown above (right) as he was arraigned on a federal indictment in Kansas City, Mo.

Californian Wins Borden Science Award

CLEVELAND, Aug. 2 (AP)—Three contributions to advancement of the poultry industry put the Borden award for scientific accomplishment—a gold medal and a $1,000 check—in the hands of a gray-haired, bespectacled California educator.

Dr. Herman J. Almquist, associate professor of poultry husbandry at the University of California College of Agriculture, received the award at the annual banquet of the World's Poultry Science association.

His methods of determining egg quality for the market, independent discovery of vitamin K to prevent a bleeding disease in chicks, and determination of the quality of protein concentrates used in feeding farm animals brought him the award.

Long Traffic Safety Record Is Broken

Every record has to fall some time. Every unbeaten football team gets it in the neck some day, and the very moment the new champion knocks out the old, he is merely opening the way for the day when he, too, will be knocked over.

The long traffic safety improvement record has been broken. Beginning in November of 1937, every succeeding month showed an improvement over the same months a year before. Now at last this inspiring series of rounds won from death has come to an end.

Revised figures for the second quarter of 1939 now show that traffic deaths are almost exactly equal to those in 1938.

The June death total was 2330—just 20 more than in June a year ago. So the tide has reversed at last. Death has halted in his retreat and is again advancing on the highways.

It is true that increased traffic in 1939 is giving him considerable help. Five months' figures on gasoline consumption show a good 5 per cent increase over last year.

So there is no immediate reason to be discouraged in the fight. In fact, big cities, where concerted drives on traffic deaths are being conducted, nearly all showed further decreases. But the rural areas, covered now with speeding vacationists, showed the increase that spoiled the record.

Nevertheless, 6782 lives have been saved since death first began to be driven back in 1927, and that is worth doing. That means the equivalent of a sizeable little town, existing in the United States today which would not be in existence if the fight on traffic deaths had not been so relentlessly pressed.

The vacation season is on; business is improving; both elements mean more miles traveled on the roads. And that in turn means that every person planning an automobile vacation ought to take one minute as he gets behind the wheel to begin the tour to say to himself "I will be careful!"

Improved roads, improved signs, improved traffic direction will help, but in the long run the question of again beating death back off the highways rests squarely with the man at the wheel.

Let's resume, individually and collectively, the attack on death which will at last make our highways reasonably safe.

Canada To The Fore

Once again the increasing importance of Canada in the scheme of the British Empire is brought out. Great Britain is about to establish large wheat reserves in that country.

Having filled all available storage space on the "right little island," Halifax and St. John will be utilized to pile up even greater reserves.

This not only helps to alleviate Canada's surplus wheat situation, which is like that of the United States, but it further secures Britain against wartime emergency. The ports chosen are those closest to Britain itself, making the grain quickly available at any time so long as command of the sea is not lost.

It has been speculated for some time that Canada was destined to play a more important role in Empire affairs than heretofore. Certain airplane production and other munitions work has already been brought to Canada, and more will follow.

The United States is happy to see these moves, which strengthen the New World and lengthen the shadow of the Western Hemisphere in world affairs.

The Nation's Press

WHAT ARE THE FACTS? (New York Times) On June 15 the Building Trades Employers' Association recommended to the House Committee on Appropriations that because of the inefficiency and excessive cost of WPA work compared with contract work WPA should not be authorized to work on structures costing more than $25,000.

The House was impressed by the contention and put into its limitation of $52,000 in Federal funds was finally building. After the Senate had enlarged the figure, a limitation of $52,000 in Federal funds was finally put on any future building erected under WPA.

Under this new clause, no more projects like the North Beach Airport hangars can be authorized under WPA. But the question of the comparative costs of WPA and contract work has not for that reason become a merely academic one. The $52,000 limitation exists only on buildings and not on other projects; and it remains important at least to know how costs of relief and private work compare, even if such comparisons cannot be the sole factor in determining our policy with regard to future work-relief.

The Building Trades Employers' Association declares that work authorized to date at the North Beach Airport calls for the expenditure of $39,057,000, of which the city has contributed $15,389,000, whereas "a very liberal total estimate" of the cost of the entire project under contract would be $19,000,000. Citing Colonel Somervell's estimate of the cost of buildings at North Beach at 50 cents a cubic foot, the association declares this figure to be "exceedingly high," comparing with a cost of 19.7 cents a cubic foot for the recently completed Rhode Island State hangar and official preliminary figures of less than 20 cents a cubic foot for the new Washington airport.

It is no answer for WPA administrators to dismiss these comparisons as "absurd," and it is certainly no answer for Mayor LaGuardia to say that many of the contractors in the association "were friends and former associates of Brindell." The public has a right to know as nearly as possible how WPA and contract construction costs compare. If the figures of the Building Trades Employers' Association are absurd, their absurdity should be demonstrated by analysis and a proper comparison made. It has been charged at various times, with specific examples cited, that WPA costs have ranged from 60 to more than 300 per cent greater on certain projects than the cost of private work would have been for the same jobs. Instead of dismissing such charges as they are made, they ought to be carefully sifted. Some cities might conceivably find that it might have been cheaper for them to undertake some projects under contract, even with the larger percentage contribution they would have had to make, than to have made a much smaller percentage contribution for a WPA project.

Sharing The Comforts Of Life

By R. C. Hoiles

MY SELFISH, MERCENARY NATURE

A contributor says I endeavor to excuse my everyday actions by my interpretation of God's laws, which would expose my selfish, mercenary nature. The interpretation to which the contributor takes exception, is my statement that one of God's laws is the intense desire of every individual for the right to be free to make selections. If this is a selfish and mercenary desire, I plead guilty. If the desire for each and every individual to have the greatest possible freedom of selection is not a worthy aspiration of society and humanity, I have no conception of the purpose of life. Of course, this does not give any individual the right to interfere with another's equal right. It certainly does give him, however, the right to use his conscience with the least possible interference with due regard for other people's equal rights.

God certainly gave Adam and Eve the right to eat of the forbidden fruit. God did not make decisions for the individual. Certainly He recognized that mankind would best develop by having the right to make decisions, by having the right to learn by making mistakes, so long as these mistakes did not interfere with the rights of others. Jesus was the greatest advocate of the rights to make decisions without interference by force from others.

If the contributor will read the Thomas Jefferson Bible, he will find that Jefferson was advocating exactly what Jesus was advocating—the greatest possible liberty for each individual. Jefferson even went through the Bible and selected the passages from the first four gospels that substantiated the rights of the individual to make selections with the least possible coercion.

Man's Laws Our Trouble The contributor is certainly right that our trouble is the result of man's laws. These laws of man that interfered with men of creative ideas from having the right to be stewards of their talents and to use their judgment in selecting people to associate with them and to use the fruits of their energy, have been so interfered with by man's laws that rich men even of the best of good will are not able to be of much assistance to the poor.

I think this conception of the right of an individual to make decisions with the least possible coercion was expressed by Jesus, as quoted from Matthew: "Judge not that ye be not judged." "Blessed are the meek for they shall inherit the earth. Blessed are they which hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled." In other words, those people who have respect for other people's rights are those who are happy or blessed. And when people as a whole come to have respect for other people's equal rights and give others the right to make decisions in harmony with nature's laws without coercing, then the initiative, stewardship and talents of the salt of the earth can be used to benefit mankind as a whole.

It is because the Constitution of the United States gave people more liberty to make decisions than any other government in all the world that the salt of the earth were able to make it possible for the workers to have the highest standard of living of all the world.

It is this interference with the rights to make decisions of others by the force of the majority in the United States that has caused us to have the worst depression in all our history. Moreover, if this tendency cannot be checked, we will travel farther and farther from the teachings of Jesus and lose more and more of our rights to make decisions.

I still stand on my belief that one of the fundamental laws of God is the right of each and every man to make decisions with due respect for other people's equal rights with the least possible interference from others; that this is really what Jesus was teaching, although it is difficult to recognize it from many of the interpretations of so-called orthodox Christians.

WARS NOW CIVIL WARS

All wars are now more or less civil wars. Instead of international wars as they were years ago. This is true because people become so in the habit of exchanging goods and service that any war which interferes with exchanging goods between nations greatly impoverishes the nations not in war. It requires those people who are engaged in exporting goods to adjust their labor and capital so as to produce a service for local consumption, or supply other nations.

This fact that all wars are more or less civil wars and interfere with exchanges is the reason why stocks so rapidly decline when wars in other nations break out. It interferes with free exchanges, thus reducing production and the wealth of the nations. This reduction in production reduces earning power and, thus, the value of stocks. This decline in dollar values is usually checked by a later expansion of bank credit. The real value, however, of all commodities is reduced by war. The increased price of a thing recorded by increased credit, does not truly measure the value of the commodities in a country not engaged directly in war.

Behind The News Of The Day

BY BRUCE CATTON Pampa News Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2—The Hatch bill outlawing "pernicious political activities," as its printed title expresses it, has a neat surprise package in it which practically everybody overlooked while it was being passed.

Its opening sentence states that it shall be unlawful for "any person" to intimidate, threaten or coerce any other person for the purpose of influencing that person's vote in a presidential or congressional election.

Because of its phrasing, this—according to Senator Hatch, its author—applies not only to politicians, but also to employers of labor. It means that any employer who threatens his workers with a shutdown if so-and-so isn't elected, is liable to a $1000 fine or a year's imprisonment.

Nobody paid the least attention to this while the bill was pending, although Senator Hatch says he tried his best to point out that this paragraph was intended to apply to employers as well as to politicians.

"I just couldn't get anybody to listen to me," he says. "Two senators got the point, and two correct-

THE WORK OF THE 76th CONGRESS

Around Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — The United States Senate chamber has been invaded only once by a motion picture camera. Some years ago a writer of educational books decided to make some educational films showing government at work. He received permission to "set up" in the sacred precincts.

That was the end as well as the beginning of the chamber's appearance on film. And yet Frank Capra and crew spent four weeks there, shooting to hearts' content, right here in Hollywood.

At first the senate sequences were scheduled for 10 days. The set—for "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington"—revealed expanding possibilities, or else Columbia wanted more of its money's-worth from the expenditure of approximately $85,000 on transplanting an authentic bit of Washington. Capra and crew lingered. And now any movie fan can see the senate on celluloid.

James Preston, the veteran press gallery superintendent, is gone now that the film is finished. Preston, the man who looks like Neville Chamberlain, saw that right was done by the senate chamber and all things thereunto appertaining. Capra himself, before the picture began, took a still man to Washington and photographed the chamber minutely.

The result was as nearly an authentic reproduction as denizens of Capitol Hill could wish. It was not perfect, although photographically it is. Example of cheating: the moulding around the top of the chamber is duplicated, actually, at the top of the balcony. It is, actually, done in slight relief. In the set, because the camera didn't care, that balcony moulding was done in—sh—hi—stencil.

In this painstakingly accurate reproduction of the senate and its seats, the men who filled them as the movie's senators were chosen with equal pains—to insure no resemblance to actual characters living or dead, as the forewords always say.

The president of the senate is Harry Carey, hearty and bluff and "suggesting" John Rance Garner but not "resembling" him. Technical adviser Preston looked over 450 actors and selected 30 or 40 "senatorial types" for the main action on the senate floor. Principals "senators" in the cast: Claude Rains, white-haired, distinguished, authoritative, who plays James Stewart's senior senator; Porter Hall, who is rather the "heavy"; H. B. Warner, who is one of Capra's

Favorite Characters: Grant Mitchell, benign, mild-looking, dignified. Selecting page boys was simpler. Preston thumbed through available actors, ages 12 to 14, said: "Practically any of these will do." He was more particular about the news men—insisted on substantial, dignified types, as far as possible from the typical movie reporter who drinks and swears his way to journalistic fame.

Last seating arrangements indicated identities by inference, those have been changed to resemble not the least the line-up in the present Congress.

A BID FOR A SMILE

TRUTH AT LAST The street corner orator was anti-Irish.

"Show me an Irishman," he yelled, "and I'll show you a coward."

A big Irishman stepped forward inquiring, "What did you say?" The orator was frightened but held to his guns and repeated his remark.

"I'm an Irishman," said the big man and clenched his fist. "And I'm a coward," said the smart orator and went on with his speech.

MIND OVER MATTER

As women will, the members of the club were discussing the short comings of their husbands and how to cure them. One wife remarked that her husband had been a confirmed smoker when she had married him a year ago but that now he never smoked.

"It takes a strong will to do that," one of her auditors remarked.

"That's the kind of will I've got," said the bride of a year grimly.

mediation rather than through strikes seems to be growing, and a fair number of cities have set up local boards of conciliation and mediation. Latest tabulation at the Department of Labor shows that during the last year such boards have been in existence in Seattle, Minneapolis, Sioux Falls, Milwaukee, Toledo, Philadelphia, Sheboygan, Newark and Ventura, Calif.

Most famous of these, of course, is the Toledo Industrial Peace Board, which—operating throughout on a purely voluntary basis—was at the first of this year credited with having handled 215 disputes involving 35,000 employees. Included were the settling of 37 strikes and the averting of 36.

In some cities, according to officials of the Labor Department's Conciliation Service, such boards are short-lived, coming into existence solely at the instance of the mayor and dying when he leaves office or loses interest. In others, however, they have made a definite place for themselves and have rendered the community a lot of service.

In general, the Conciliation Service is inclined to think that a conciliator from a state or federal agency is apt to have more success, simply because he comes from out of town, isn't involved in any local relationships, and may carry a bit more prestige than a local man would carry. But they like the idea of city boards of this kind and hope the trend continues.

For many years now the house fly has been under suspicion as being not only an annoying insect but also one capable of menacing health. Flies which come in contact with food or drink after having been bred in filth are, obviously, a menace to health.

The common house fly got its name because that is where it is most commonly seen. One investigator collected more than 23,000 flies in dining rooms in different parts of the United States. Ninety-eight per cent of those which he collected were of one variety—namely, the common house fly. When the flies were examined they averaged about equally between the two sexes, although 64 to 37 per cent were females in contrast to 43 to 46 per cent of males.

The life of the fly is not a long one. It passes through a number of stages: the egg stage, the larva or maggot stage, the pupa, adult or fully winged insect. In summer the egg stage requires about 30 hours; the larval stage, five days; the pupa stage about four days, which makes a total of about 10 days from the appearance of the egg to the development of the adult fly. That means that there can be from 10 to 12 generations of one fly family in one season.

A female fly lays from 75 to 150 eggs at a time and can indulge in several such layings at intervals of three or four days. A female fly can begin laying eggs from nine to 12 days after emerging from the pupa stage. The records indicate that a female fly may lay as many as 160 eggs in one batch, that large batches can be deposited at intervals of 36 hours and that one female fly during her lifetime may lay 21 batches or a total of 3,360 eggs in 31 days after she emerges.

Flies prefer filth. The favorite material on which eggs are deposited and on which fly larvae feed is excrement, especially of horses. Other suitable materials are garbage, the refuse from kitchens, and decomposing material from animals. In rural areas 95 per cent of house flies are bred in manure.

Obviously the condition for the development and promulgation of house flies are generally available and it is not surprising to know that they multiply at a terrific rate. It has been estimated that a pair of flies beginning operations in April may be the progenitors—if all were to live—191,000,000,000,000,000,000 flies by August. If each fly occupied one cubic inch and if all of them lived, the number would cover the earth 47 feet deep.

THERE'S only one thing about the convention to be held out in Soquel, Calif., next week that would strike you as odd—nobody will be wearing clothes.

It will be a meeting of the American Sunbathing Association, which has for its object the fostering of that "commonplace, normal and delightful way of living—social nudism."

NO clothing won't be strictly true, however. Most nudists still have to wear shoes; it's the rags on whose feet are so tough he can travel barefoot. And the women make a concession to the world of normalcy: When the sun is very bright they guard their facials by wearing big straw hats.

A special feature of this convention will be an exhibition of members' hobbies: photographs, novies, paintings, park, wrought iron and examples of such collectors' items as cactuses and colts.

"It seems natural that nudism and such intercession serving together," said the exhibit's chairman. "Those who step forth without clothing gain a spiritual freedom from self gratification by means of money display, such as in cars, and automobiles. This fits in naturally with creative forms of self expression."

Nearly all the 40 camps, in many parts of the United States, which are members of the association, will be represented. Officers say attendance will run into the hundreds, but will not reach a thousand. Presiding will be portly Louis P. Clark, successful manufacturer, ordained minister, and now in his retired life the head of American nudism.

Host camp is the Sun Tanners, a thriving organization serving the San Francisco bay area. It has a large, heavily wooded acreage at the end of a road in the Santa Cruz mountains, with large dining and social halls, a swimming pool, tennis and badminton courts and many cabins. James F. Curt is manager.

All persons in the camp are addressed by their first names, but this does not imply undue familiarity. The rule is intended merely to protect anyone who may prefer not to link nudism and his full name. . . . Actually, officers say, very few members are touchy on the subject.

STORIES IN STAMPS

French Revolution Began on Tennis Court

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY years ago mobs marched through Paris streets, chanting the "Marseillaise" crushed the defenses of the Bastille, watched the razor-edged blade of the guillotine end the domination of the French feudal system.

The spark that fired this conflagration, that was to sweep away the country's monarchist institutions and ultimately affect the destiny of all Europe, was struck in the simple surroundings of a tennis court.

When Louis XVI came to the throne, in 1774, France was almost bankrupt. Part of the taxes were paid by the commons—the nobles and clergy were exempt from such levies. All of the country's revenue went to the king, who spent it as he wished.

Louis made a feeble gesture of economy and, in 1787, when he was unable to float additional loans, acceded to demand for the calling of representatives of all parts of the country into a general assembly consisting of three divisions: the nobles, the clergy and the commons.

Louis planned that the three units should meet separately, grant him financial relief and go home. But the commonsers disented. When, after five weeks of discussion, they gathered in a tennis court, swore that "they cease together whenever circumstances may dictate until the constitution of the Kingdom be established."

The "Tennis Court Oath" is shown on the French stamp, above, blue, first of a series commemorating the revolution.

THE W. F. A. STRIKE

The W. F. A. strike is bad for everybody. It is particularly bad for the A. F. of L., with which building trades are affiliated, for a lot of good will which it has been building up is now at hazard.

The President is right: "You cannot strike against the government." Hot-heads in labor should listen to the cool-heads, and do it now. The strike must end.

At the moment, however, all the facts are not known. For that reason the fair thing is to suspend judgment before a wave of resentment puts the wrong people in the doghouse.

Many people dislike President Roosevelt's advisers, and what they say and do, and yet do not blame the Administration all that is said and done. It is equally illogical and unfair to attack President William Green and the responsible leadership of the A. F. of L. for the action of some of their men.

For example, Mr. John L. Lewis and the C.I.O. are, for the present, sitting in the shade drinking lemonade while Mr. Green and the A. F. of L. are seen in close proximity to the hornet's nest. But considering the positions taken by the leaders of the two organizations on various matters in other years, one begins to ask—how come?

Who, for instance, started and defended the sit-down? The C.I.O. Who condemned the sit-down? The A. F. of L. Who wants some changes made in the Labor Act to give management and investors a better break? The A. F. of L. Who is opposed to any change whatever in the Labor Act? The C.I.O. Who has asked for a tax structure under which capital might be encouraged to employ more men? William Green. Who opposed it? John Lewis. Who favored the dictatorial reorganization bill in 1938? The C.I.O. Who opposed it? The A. F. of L. Who has always fought against labor becoming a communist catspaw? The A. F. of L. What organization is infiltrated with Communists? The C.I.O.

Now, none of this assumes that all C.I.O. or Communist sympathizers believe in violence and sit-downs. Only a small minority do, in fact. Nor does this argue that all members of the A. F. of L. affiliates are Little Lord Fauntleroy. They have their bad eggs also.

But—with respect to this strike against the government, enough has been said to cause a fair-minded person to ask himself why, with this known record, the A. F. of L. finds itself or has been pushed into a position wholly out of character, while the C.I.O. is on the cool spot.

It is known that the C.I.O. is the fair-haired boy of the Administration. It is known that it took a half-million-dollar mortgage on legislation. It is said that it will support Mr. Roosevelt for a third term. It is known that the President through Paris streets, chanting the "Marseillaise" crushed the defenses of the Bastille, watched the razor-edged blade of the guillotine end the domination of the French feudal system.

WAR AND A WOMAN BY BETTY WALLACE

Yesterday, Jimmy confessed that he no longer loves Marcia...

CHAPTER VI

SHE hadn't meant to blurt it out like that. His eyes, stunned and stricken, were like holes in his face...

She mustn't think about Jimmy—mustn't think about what he was going through now. At last she saw Marcia heading for the porch...

"No. I'll be all right."

THE telephone rang. Mrs. King rose to answer it. She came back quickly.

George! Linda experienced a surge of thanksgiving. George had not written because he was so busy getting ready to leave...

"Hello, George." How good it was to hear his voice! Just the sound of it brought back Queensville and Daddy and home.

"George, you're coming down, aren't you?" she cried eagerly. "Oh, I'm so glad! When will you be here?"

"Nothing's the matter. I just missed you and I—I thought it would be nice if you could come and I—oh, George, surely you can leave the laboratory just for once!

"But why do you need me, Linda?" She had forgotten how matter-of-fact George could be. Forgotten the solid common sense which always motivated him.

"I miss you. I—miss you. I'm lonely here. I—I wanted to go back, but Marcia wouldn't let me. Please come down, George."

"Linda!" he cried. "Linda, there is something wrong! You're not yourself."

"Oh, I'm myself, all right," she replied swiftly.

get along." She took a deep breath, urged on by some malevolent impulse she did not fully understand herself.

WHEN Marcia came in, hours later, Linda pretended to be asleep. She heard the other girl rap softly on her door.

In the morning, Marcia's mother told her over the breakfast table, "That long distance call came through again last night. But you didn't answer when we called you."

Linda crumbled her toast. "Did it?" There had been nothing further to say. George wasn't coming, and any excuses would only make matters worse.

"What ailed you last night?" Marcia wanted to know. "Peter said you had a headache and asked him to take you home."

"No. I'll be all right." There was the sound of the telephone again. "That's Jimmy, I guess," Marcia smiled.

"Listen, George, if all you want to say is—" "Linda!" George's voice was excited, different.

"I got in through the back way. He was in the study. He'd had a heart attack!" "Heart attack?" she echoed dully.

"How—how is he now, George?" "They can't tell yet, Linda. You'd better come straight home."

Deficit At LSU Heads For Still Higher Brackets

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 2 (AP)—The Louisiana State University deficit seemed headed for still higher brackets today while in another phase of Louisiana's many-sided political scandal, there was a plain statement from the Federal government it could start digging into oil-and settled-income tax evasion charges.

Simple arithmetic showed the deficit incurred at the University during the indicted Dr. James Monroe Smith's last year as president might reach $1,250,000.

Elmer Trey, chief of the internal revenue department's intelligence unit, said in New Orleans today under a 6-year statute of limitations the government could prosecute on income tax evasions as far back as 1933.

In 1936 Seymour Weiss, hotel president and one of the state's top politicians, settled with the government on his income taxes after criminal charges were withdrawn.

Weiss is now under mail fraud indictment together with Smith and three other men well-known throughout Louisiana.

Meanwhile word was awaited from Gov. Earl K. Long on his political machine's alleged system of deducting 5 per cent from the monthly salary of state employees.

Recently the executive said he would make an announcement Aug. 1 on "de-ducts" that would "please" the people of Louisiana.

HATCH BILL

and employees of Congress are exempted from the measure.

The President said he was confident the purpose of the proponents of this legislation was that the new law be administered so that "the right of free speech will remain, even to those who serve their government; and that the government itself shall have full right to place its bills in its possession before the public."

"If some future administration should undertake to administer this legislation to the detriment of these rights," he said, "such action would be contrary to the purpose of the act itself and might well infringe the constitutional rights of citizens. I trust that public vigilance will for all time prevent this."

The President said Attorney General Murphy had called his attention to a practical difficulty which should be corrected by additional legislation as soon as possible.

"For many years," the message said, "there has been an exception to the civil service regulation whereby employees permanently residing in the District of Columbia or in municipalities adjacent thereto may become candidates for or hold municipal office in their municipalities. This and a few similar exceptions should, I believe, be maintained."

"The other question," Mr. Roosevelt continued, "relates to the fact that the bill does not in any way cover the multitude of state and local employees who greatly outnumber federal employees and who may continue to take part in elections in which there are candidates for federal office on the same ballot with candidates for state and local office."

"It is held by many who have examined the constitutional question, under the constitution, may maintain the integrity of federal elections. It has the power to extend the objectives of this bill to cover state and local government employees who participate actively in federal elections."

"This is at least worth the study of the Congress at its next session and therefore before the next federal election."

The President explained the reason he was sending a message making "certain observations" was because there had been "so many misrepresentations, some unwarranted, some deliberate," in regard to his attitude on the bill.

He said the genesis of the legislation lay in his relief message of January 5, 1939, in which he expressed belief "in proper political practices can be eliminated only by the imposition of rigid statutory regulations and penalties by the Congress, and that this should be done."

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (AP)—Led by the utilities the stock market rallied from a poor start today and leading issues registered gains of fractions to as much as 2 points at their best.

Steels, motors and specialties joined the utility bloc on the upside as the session wore on.

Elimination of the administration's lending bill from further consideration at this session of congress was one of the factors in including commitments on the long side, brokers said.

Congress Ready To Launch New Series Of Probes

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—A half dozen congressional investigations—perennial recess activity of the House and Senate—appeared likely to be started as soon as the adjournment gavel falls.

Three of the principal inquiries have been authorized by the House: A study of the National Labor Relations board by a special committee, a Ways and Means Committee review of proposed changes in the tax structure and the Dies Committee investigation of un-American activities.

Another which will be carried into its second year is under direction of the Federal Monopoly committee, composed of senators, representatives, and officials from the executive departments.

Administration supporters brought pressure to bear in an effort to obtain favorable senate action today on a resolution to give the LaFollette Civil Liberties committee an additional $100,000 with which to continue its investigation of employers' labor relations.

President Roosevelt singled out for comment, expressing hope it would get the additional funds.

The Chief Executive said new evidence had been uncovered which committee members indicated civil liberties violations.

The House voted yesterday to appropriate $50,000 for the labor board investigation.

The House also approved a $15,000 expenditure for a Merchant Marine committee investigation of Alaskan fishing conditions and voted $5,000 for the tax inquiry.

The House previously had voted $100,000 for the Dies committee, which will resume hearings in about two weeks.

ICC Plans To Overhaul U. S. Freight Rates

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—A general overhauling of the nation's complicated freight rate structure is planned by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The ICC announced last yesterday it would investigate class rates and classifications with a view to revising and simplifying them.

The work may require several years, covering class rates in all parts of the country except mountain Pacific territory and rates applying on transcontinental traffic.

Class rates are the basic freight rates. They apply on all traffic which does not move in sufficient volume to justify a so-called commodity rate. Commodity rates apply on such commodities as coal, ore, grain and certain forest products, while the class rates apply to the traffic of often-called merchandise.

The Commission's investigation will include class rates and classifications between various sections of the country, as well as those applying within the various territories.

Some officials said considerable attention probably would be given to the class rates from the south to the north, the south center and the present structure is unfair to it. The general investigation, however, is not expected to delay a decision by the commission on a pending case wherein the south is asking more favorable rates on certain manufactured goods.

Woman Asks Body Of Man Dead Nine Years
HOUSTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—Pettie Mrs. Inez Dupree Floyd of Birmingham, Ala., threatened to take legal steps, if necessary, today to get the body of Harry O. Floyd, 45, a suicide victim, she said she married nine years ago.

The Alabama woman arrived here last night, a short time after Floyd had released on her own recognition, Mrs. Reba Lee Floyd of Memphis, Tenn., who produced a marriage certificate showing she married Floyd, a magazine salesman, at Cleveland, Tenn., on May 19.

Floyd jumped from a fifth floor police station window after he had been fingerprinted on a charge of passing a forged $750 check. Mrs. Reba Lee Floyd was charged with forging the check. The charge yesterday was reduced to misdemeanor swindling.

Both opponents and foes of the $800,000,000 housing bill were agreed too, that this companion piece to the lending measure was dead for this session. Opponents claimed even more votes against it than they held in defeat of the lending bill.

Pending decision on considering wage-hour amendments, house leaders called up a deficiency appropriation bill—always one of the last items of a session.

The only other pre-adjournment business would develop in event of agreement by a senate-house committee on changes in the social security law. The group has been deadlocked for weeks over differences in senate and house legislation.

FDR Won't Imitate What Coolidge Said 12 Years Ago Today

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—Twelve years ago today Calvin Coolidge made his famous "I do not choose to run" statement, but the anniversary brought no intimation from President Roosevelt as to his own plans for 1940.

Mr. Roosevelt joked and laughed loudly yesterday when a reporter asked whether he would say something in connection with the Coolidge statement. The president asked if the reporter was suggesting that he spend his summer holidays in the Black Hills of South Dakota.

It was while vacationing there that Mr. Coolidge called in reporters and handed them typed copies of the terse statement: "I do not choose to run for president in 1928."

At that time he was nearing the end of his elected term in the White House, having previously served the unexpired portion of Warren G. Harding's term.

Stock Market On Rise Today

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (AP)—The Wall Street stock market took an upward slant today after wavering at the start while traders tried to appraise the meaning of the administration's setback on spending. Some shares, recovering minor early losses, moved ahead for gains ranging to more than $1. Minor gains supplanted losses in most issues on the buying flurry. Trading increased on the upturn.

Contrasting with the surface indifference of the market around the opening was a ferment of discussion in broker's boardrooms and business circles over implications of the administration's setback on spending, rated by many the most important aspect of government activities under the New Deal from the business standpoint.
