Tense Prison Photoplay Opens At LaNora

Cagney, Raft Head Cast Of Warner Film

Each Dawn I Die (Warner Brothers) prison melodrama, showing today through Wednesday, is a tense, emotionally exhausting photoplay, convincingly acted and directed with virility and sustained suspense.

There is much stress on the sadism of prison guards, vicious plottings, and revenge motives. The dialogue is laden with the friendship and aid of a notorious murderer who sacrifices his life to help his friend.

Leo Forbstein's musical direction sometimes is haunting, sometimes stirring, but always in the mood of the action on the screen.

Cagney, George Raft, Jane Bryan, George Bancroft, and Maxie Rosenbloom have the leading roles. "They Shall Have Music," a Samuel Goldwyn-United Artists production, provides a rare treat in cinema entertainment and also a special treat for the devotee of fine music, highlighted by the ingratiating personality and brilliant genius of Jascha Heifetz.

Incorporated into the story is concert music and the introduction of the youthful, talented members of the Peter Meremblum California Junior Symphony orchestra.

Alfred Newman deserves much credit for his unusual handling of the entire scoring.

A delinquent boy of the slums is rehabilitated when he hears great music, and when he is given an opportunity to develop his talent finds a way of assisting his benefactors in an hour of need.

Heifetz, Andrea Leeds, Joel McCrea, Gene Reynolds, Walter Brennan, have the leading roles, showing Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

PRISON DRAMA AT LA NORA

James Cagney and George Raft are shown here in a scene from Warner Brothers' prison melodrama, "Each Dawn I Die," showing today through Wednesday at the LaNora theater. It's a story of a reporter who wins the friendship and aid of a murderer who gives his life to help his friend.

Pert Ginger Rogers is the sole star of REKO Radio's "Fifth Avenue Girl," opening a five-day run today at the Crown theater. Rogers Attacks Communazi Group In United States

Biggest worry the United States has in connection with the war in Europe lies within its own boundaries. City Attorney Walter Rogers told members of the Pampa Kiwanis club at their regular weekly luncheon in Hotel Schneider Friday afternoon.

"And that worry," Mr. Rogers said, "comes from Nazi bands, the Fascist groups, and all their various allied organizations who have as their sole purpose the boring of us within to tear down the American form of government."

The speaker declared it was his opinion that everyone of the leaders of these groups should be driven from the country or imprisoned for treason.

"The right of free speech and free press as set up under our Constitution and the Bill of Rights does not extend to the extreme to which the exponents of these various 'isms' now flourishing in the United States have carried it.

"There is no room for that kind of stuff in the United States and the sooner we clean it out the better we'll be," the city attorney said.

Mr. Rogers stated that there was little to fear from an attack on this country by foreign nations.

Members of the club also were entertained by members of the cast of "Mystery at Midnight," benefit show which was presented in the city auditorium Friday night, under auspices of the Pampa fire department.

This portion of the program was presented by Fire Chief Ben White.

A group of 12 or 15 Pampa Kiwanians will go to Amarillo Monday noon where they will present a program for the Amarillo Kiwanis club in the Amarillo hotel.

The Pampa Kiwanis golf team also will make the trip to engage in a match with Amarillo civic club golfers Monday afternoon at the Amarillo Country club.

James Will Head Sale Of Xmas Seals

Officers were elected and plans for the sale of Christmas seals outlined when the Gray County Tuberculosis association held its first meeting of 1939-40 at 10 o'clock yesterday morning in the district courtroom.

County Treasurer W. E. James of Pampa was elected president, succeeding W. B. Weathered, county superintendent, Pampa, who takes the new office of treasurer of the association. Mrs. Harold Rippey of McLean was named vice-president, and Mrs. Claude Lard, Pampa, was elected secretary.

Miss Helen Le Lacheur, of the Texas Tuberculosis association, Austin, met with the county group Saturday morning and discussed the state program and its advantages. She told of the first sale of Christmas seals in the state in 1911, the association's means of financing its work. In that year the sales totaled only $100; last year the sum obtained by the sale of Christmas seals was $103,000.

$270 Obtained Last Year
In Gray county $270 was raised in the 1938 Christmas seal sale for the use of the county association. This amount represented 50 per cent of the total sum secured. Letters and seals in the campaign last year were mailed from the state office; this year it was planned to handle the mailing expense locally, thereby increasing the county association's share of the total raised in Gray county to 60 per cent, according to the secretary of the county association. This year the sale of Christmas seals is to start November 23 in Gray county.

Miss Le Lacheur complimented the Gray county group for its tuberculosis tests given Gray county school children in 1938-39, saying it was one of the best campaigns in the state and one of the best executed.

LeFors, McLean Represented
Attending the meeting Saturday were W. E. James, W. B. Weathered, L. L. Some, superintendent of the Independent School district, Frank Monroe, principal of Junior High school, J. A. Meek, principal of B. M. Baker school; H. D. Waters, Mrs. E. L. Anderson, president of Woodrow Wilson Parent-Teachers association; Mrs. H. H. Boynton, president of the Junior High school.

but on the other hand, with a conservative senate, it probably will not be increased appreciably. "There were signs in the general session of the legislature of the way the wind was blowing. Appropriations were cut. Later Governor O'Daniel vetoed more appropriations. "It was inconsistent for the legislature to liberalize one law, old age assistance, and at the same time cut expenses, but the net effect of the session on finances was a saving. Worley commented on a postal card received in Austin by another representative. Written in pencil and signed by a husband and wife who gave the ages of 76 and 73, it was addressed to "any senator or congressman. "Please keep us out of war," the card read. "We do not want to be shot down like our sons were a few years ago. We do not want our children slaughtered. We are praying. The legislator pondered. "No, the demagogue will not go very far in the next campaign," he said. "His stuff won't register. Novelty won't be so hot. The people are going to be looking for and listening to the candidate with something on the ball. "If we had to have a war, it has come at a good time. It has made us take a new inventory."

AIR SHOW

Shaw second for the $10 award, and Lewis, flying a Cub, third, $5. These three were the only pilots in the race.

Stiva Makes Expert Leap
Wilson Stiva of Wichita, Kas., who makes parachute jumping a sideline incidental to his employment by Beechcraft, thrilled the crowd with a 10,000-foot, delayed parachute jump from the Cessna plane piloted by Carl D. Winstead of Oklahoma City.

Winstead took Stiva aloft the required distance, then Stiva leaped, marking the course of his fall with flour. He dropped about 2,000 feet before he pulled the rip cord, releasing his parachute, although a high wind swayed him back and forth, he managed to maneuver a landing on the field.

Interviewed by Dick Martin of Amarillo, aviation editor of the Amarillo News-Globe who is announcer at the meet, Stiva before going up on the flight, said he had made 150 parachute jumps.

Prop and Prop Finish
Les Bowman of Dallas, flying a Stinson 105, and Art Chase of Lubbock, in a Beechcraft, gave the crowd a thrilling "prop and prop" finish in the race for ships of 75 horsepower, flying a 25-mile course. Bowman finished first to take the $25 prize, with Chase second at $15, and Frank Shaw third, winner of $10. B. O. Lafferty of Borger, flying a Rearwin, was another contestant.

Pampam Wins Landing Event
Wesley Lewis of Pampa proved his ability to land a ship in the spot landing race, when he put down the wheels of his Cub within 20 feet and 2 inches of a mark in the center of the field. Carl D. Winstead, flying his Cessna, came out second with a mark of 45 feet 9 inches, Burrell Tibbs of Fort Worth, in a Luscombe, third at 63 feet 9 inches, and Roy Taylor of Kilgore, in an Aeronca, fourth with 80 feet 2 inches. Awards of $5 each went to the first and second place winners. The landings were made after ships had attained an altitude of 1,000 feet, then glided down to the field.

Cowtown Pilot Best Bomber
In the fourth event of the day's program, bomb dropping, from a height of 300 feet, Tibbs finished first, dropping a bomb of flour within 29 feet and six inches of a ring in the field, in which a group of negro boys was placed. Lewis finished second, coming within 84 feet and 10 inches of the center of the ring. Breedlove was third, at 119 feet, 5 inches. Stiva fourth at 133 feet 5 inches. A $10 award went to the first place winner and a $5 award to second.

Lewis Wins Another
Lewis won the prize of $5 awarded the winner in the paper cutting contest, in which pilots were judged on their time in cutting rolls of paper released from another plane three times with the propellers their planes. The Pampam did the job in 29 seconds, nosing out Breedlove and Chase who tied for second place in 30 seconds. Tibbs finished third at 36 seconds, Taylor fourth in 40.

Spartan Biggest Plane
Biggest of the score of ships at the field was the all-metal low wing cabin Spartan Executive plane of the Rock Glycerine Torpedo company of Tulsa, powered with a 450 horsepower Pratt & Whitney Wasp motor. The ship was of a beautiful silver color, striped with brown. Don Teel of Pampa and Odessa was the pilot. He gave the crowd a thrill as he arrived at the field and put the ship through its speed. A brilliant picture was presented in the line of bright-hued planes lining the field, there being the silvery Luscombes, the scarlet biplane of the Texas company, the ed at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the First Methodist church by the Rev. W. M. Pearce, pastor. Burial followed in Miami cemetery under direction of Duenk-Carmichael Funeral home.

Palbearers will be C. P. Buckler, Charlie Thut, H. H. Hicks, Mel B. Davis, Clyde Patherese, Clarence Barrett, Lynn Boyd, Clinton Henry.

The body will lie at rest at the family home, 1003 Mary Ellen street, until 2 p. m. The coffin will not be opened at the church.

Mr. Faulkner was opposed to any procedure that placed a country "head over heels" in debt, and this maxim was carefully observed while he had anything to do with directing the affairs of the county in an official capacity. Not until 1917 did the county go into debt. This occurred when precinct No. 4, around McLean, voted $18,000 worth of county warrants to grade what is highway 66.

Mr. Faulkner was born at Jamesfort, Davis county, Missouri, on a farm Jan. 1, 1876. He came to Texas in 1890 and for about eight years lived in Swiss county. While there he worked as a cowboy for his brothers and for himself. His next move was into the Indian Territory in the Chickasaw country, where he and his brothers had a string of cattle.

Arrived in 1900
His attention was first directed to Gray county when his brother, F. M. Faulkner, purchased what is now the Sam Morse ranch from C. J. Minor. He came to Gray county in 1900 and for the next two years was a cowboy working for Perry LeFors, J. W. Davidson and other.

In the spring of 1902, George Tyng, then agent for the White Deer Land and Cattle company, circulated a petition for the organization of Gray county. It was then attached to Roberts county, previously it had been attached to Wheeler county. The Roberts county commissioners ordered the first election of officers, and Mr. Faulkner was elected county and district clerk and served until 1910.

The first courthouse was completed at LeFors in November, 1902. It was a frame building of two stories. In 1910 the site of the present courthouse was acquired by the county. The county had no debts for 10 years and was operated on a cash basis until after 1916. There was a total of 13 votes in precinct No. 2 in 1902, and about 150 votes in the entire county. Of the 13 votes in this precinct, about six all Matador ranch cowboys, left the day after the election. The four voting places were at the John Henry farm near Laketon, the O. S. Fritze farm home in the south part of the county and at Alanreed. The county was organized May 27, 1902.

The residence of Henry Thut at LeFors was headquarters for citizens who attended court while the courthouse was located at LeFors. The body of the late Mr. Fred Hobart was moved to the new courthouse there until a few years ago when he moved to offices in the Combs-Worley building.

Mr. Faulkner had been chairman of the Democratic party in Gray county since the year after its organization about 1916. He was also chairman of the Gray County school board since its organization about 1918.

Had Oil Interests
Mr. Faulkner had extensive interests in Gray county, and many an oil gusher that was brought in during the intensive oil development in the south part of the county bore his name. The "Cook-Faulkner" wells were among the best producers.

The Faulkner moved to Pampa in 1926, two years before Pampa became the county seat of Gray county. When the new courthouse was constructed, Mr. Faulkner was given an office in the building, and he operated his abstract company there until a few years ago when he moved to offices in the Combs-Worley building.

Mr. Faulkner had been chairman of the Democratic party in Gray county since the year after its organization about 1916. He was also chairman of the Gray County school board since its organization about 1918.

Medical Technicians To Hold Convention

Hill of Dallas will discuss "New advances in laboratory technique with special reference to the Lymphocyte process and blood bank."

HITLER'S BEST GENERAL SLAIN AT WARSAW

By MELVIN K. WHITELEATHER
BERLIN, Sept. 23. (AP) — The German army mourned tonight for its former commander-in-chief, Colonel General Baron Werner Von Fritsch, killed in action before Warsaw in a role far below his former eminence.

He became the first German general to die in this war when he was struck down yesterday "while carrying out a dangerous reconnoitering operation."

These were the words used by the present commander-in-chief, Colonel General Walther Von Brauchitsch, in an announcement declaring that the German army stood "in deep mourning, yet filled with great pride," at Von Fritsch's death.

The army meanwhile declared in a communique that the war in Poland was over, despite the continued resistance of Warsaw, where Von Fritsch fell in action.

On Adolf Hitler's orders a state funeral will be given the 50-year-old general who played an outstanding role in revival of the German land forces before his failure to keep in step with the Fuehrer led to his resignation in February, 1938.

Before the death announcement most Germans believed Von Fritsch was still in retirement. It was known, however, that he had volunteered.

Von Fritsch relinquished the army command at the time of the resignation of Field Marshal Werner Von Blomberg as minister of war.

He often was spoken of as one of Germany's best World War military strategists whose shrewdness was being held in reserve in case activities on the western front became livelier.

News of his death was printed on inside pages of all newspapers but Von Brauchitsch caused to be published a large death notice heavily bordered in black, in the name of the entire army.

Funeral services for Mrs. C. R. Nelson, 41, were conducted Friday afternoon in the First Methodist church by the Rev. W. M. Pearce, pastor. Burial followed in Miami cemetery under direction of Duenk-Carmichael Funeral Home of Miami assisting the Rev. Pearce.

Mrs. Nelson, an outstanding church member, Sunday School and Parent-Teachers association leader, died at the family home on the Humble Oil company's Merten lease south of Pampa Thursday afternoon after an illness of two years.

She was the first and last president of the Merten Parent-Teachers association and was a member and active worker in the high school P-TA until ill health forced her to retire. She was active until two years ago in the junior department of the Methodist Sunday School, teaching a class. Missionary society and Boy Scout and Girl Scout troops were also numbered among her activities.

The Kniscn's resided in Pampa during 1918 and 1917, moving from here to Corsicana. They returned to Pampa 13 years ago. Mr. Nelson has been with the Humble company for 17 years.

Surviving are the husband, two daughters, Virginia and Quebel, one son, Kenneth, all at home; her mother, Mrs. D. J. Glover, Hollywood, Calif., two sisters, Mrs. Eunice Runyon, Oklahoma City, and Mrs. Jack Baggett, Corsicana; three half-sisters, Mrs. Earl Harvey, Hollywood, Mrs. Charles Delvin, Paris, and Miss Alva Crafton, Galveston; and a half-brother, Henry Glover, Hollywood.

Attending services from out-of-town were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sloan, Wichita Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Murry Watts, Mrs. Glen Randall and daughter, Glen Madeline, Miss Joyce Knox, Mrs. Bernice Reed, Mrs. Irene Snyder, Miss Lillian Dalton and John Nelson, all of Amarillo.

icans," young, old, lean and fat, commercial and private fliers. "There were no accidents on the trip and the weather was good for flying," he said.

Eight Low-Number Pilots
Pilots with license numbers lower than 10,000, indicating they were pioneers in obtaining licenses under the USDC ruling enacted in 1926, were called to stand. There were eight in the low-number bracket, license being 196, 908, 1208, 1663, 5383, 8637 and the lowest of all, 6, possessed by Joe Shumate of Dallas, one of the CAA officials here for the air meet.

Cities and towns represented at the banquet were Dallas, Spearman, Oklahoma City, Austin, Lubbock, Odessa, Plainview, Borger, San Antonio, Shamrock, Dumas, Clovis, N. M., Electra, Lawton, Okla., Wichita, Kas., Ponca City, Okla., and Standardville, Utah, and Pampa.

Following the banquet, the aviators were entertained with a dance at the Southern club.

This Was, Indeed, A 'Crying Shame'
OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 23. (AP)—When a fight fan broke through a police cordon to strike a wrestler, the police took him to the station.

Some 200 boozing sympathizers milled around the station door. To break up the demonstration, the police tossed out a tear gas bomb.

But the wind was blowing the wrong way, and the tear gas breezed back into the station. The police fled to the city hall pressroom to escape the fumes.

But an electric fan sucked the gas from the police station into the pressroom and the police had to run again.

The event was put down on the blotter as a "crying shame."

Wreck, Highline, Fence Fire, Water Cause Death

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 23. (AP)—R. M. W. Cody, 45, was electrocuted on his farm following this sequence of events:

- 1—Steering gear of a truck broke on a hilltop in front of the Cody home. Rolling 250 feet down the hill, out of control, the truck crashed into a 4,000-volt highline pole.
- 2—One of the wires fell on a metal roadside sign 200 feet away.
- 3—The sign carried a barbed wire fence.
- 4—The fence set fire to a patch of grass near the Cody home.
- 5—A pall of water which Cody threw at the blaze hit the fence and conducted the electricity to his body.

3 Old Men To Hurl Against Dixie Champs

By FELIX R. MCKNIGHT
 FORT WORTH, Sept. 23 (AP)—Three old men, invincible when they feel up to it, tomorrow carry tired pitching arms into Fort Worth's ninth Dixie series in the past 19 years—seven of which they won.

The Texas League champions, who bounced from a final standing fourth place to sweep through the Shaughnessy playoff, play Nashville's Vols of the Southern Association, third place team of their circuit.

Tomorrow, in the matinee opener, Fred (Firpo) Marberry, once the king of major league relief pitchers and still serving up slowballs that tantalize youthful sluggers, starts on the mound for Fort Worth. He shut out the Dallas Rebels, 3-0, in a playoff appearance, using maddening flitters that went just where he aimed.

For Nashville, Manager Larry Gillert may send either George Jeroft or Martynik to the hill. Marberry, 35 seasons in the big time, is one of Fort Worth's pitching triumvirate. A Nashville castoff, Ray Starr, heading for his 40th, and Ed (Beardie) Greer, 22-game winner, complete the staff, insofar as starters are concerned.

Nashville has its hurling star, column Sam Nahem, bespectacled Brooklyn lawyer who put them into the Dixie series with a great job of relief hurling in the final game against Atlanta last night—and preceded that with earlier victories. Fort Worth hurling, barring knockouts, will go along Marberry, Greer, Starr, Marberry, etc. lines.

Fort Worth, once within two outs of going out of the playoff by three straight games in the opening round running to win the pennant. Singles were stretched into doubles, base runners advanced two bases on sacrifices and batters hit in the pinches to drive home runs. Winner of the final Dallas series four games to one, the Panthers three times shut out Dallas.

Marberry, Greer and Starr did the blanking.

Evangelist Will Speak On "The Call Of The Cross" Today

In connection with the revival meeting being conducted in Calvary Baptist church, special plans are being made for an all-time high attendance in Sunday school this morning.

The evangelist, Rev. J. C. Slesmore, pastor of Buchanan Street Baptist church of Amarillo, is to preach this morning on "The Call of the Cross." Tonight he will speak on the question, "What Must I Do to Be Saved?"

Monday night has been designated "family night." The evangelist is asking the people to come by families, with every member of each family present and sitting together by families. A special message will be delivered on the family and the home.

The meeting will continue through next week with services a 10 A. M. and 7:30 P. M., the pastor, Rev. E. M. Dunsforth, announced.

Champions Of Oklahoma To Arrive Friday

The Central High school Cardinals of Oklahoma City will be in Pampa Friday night to meet the Pampa Harvesters in their opening home game of the season. Game time will be 8 o'clock at Harvester field.

Coch Dale Arbuckle's Cardinals were mythical champions of Oklahoma last year and their chances of repeating are exceptionally bright following a 26 to 6 win over Wellington, Kan., 1938 Kansas State champions, on Friday night.

The Cardinals will present a semi-five-man bucketful according to Coach Arbuckle. It must be something new in football and it has fans wondering if Arbuckle plans to use 12 men against the Harvesters as well as having an age advantage of three years for his boys. In Oklahoma the boys can play until they are 20 years of age.

Besides having 11 lettermen available, the Cardinals have secured two former Classen stars.

The Harvesters will return home tonight from Casper, Wyo., where they dropped their second game of the season Friday night, 18 to 6. Coaches will work their charges at top speed on offense, it is believed. The Harvester defense was fairly good but the offense bogged at inopportune times.

Another Butler Field Tradition 'Gone With Wind'

Another Butler Field tradition has "Gone with the Wind." The wind which blew the lid of the Amarillo Sandstorm record of not having lost a game on Butler Field, to a Texas team, in 10 years was furnished by a little team from Austin High school of El Paso. The score was 7 to 6. El Paso scored two more touchdowns but they were called back by Gib Jackson, Rue Parcells and Mill Honey, the official scorers.

The Butler field tradition originated a few years ago when it was figured up that not a single team had defeated a Sandstorm team on Butler field in many years.

But Norman, Okla., shattered the tradition a few years ago. Suddenly another tradition cracked up. It was to the effect that no Texas team had ever defeated the Sandies on Butler field. Now that tradition is shot.

A Pampa way yesterday remarked that the next tradition might be that not a team has ever defeated the Sandies on Butler field in July. Anyway, a 150-pound chunk of dynamite named Sammy Klirk led his team to a 7 to 6 win over the Sandstorm in a nip and tuck gridiron drama played before 7,000 stumped fans.

Amarillo's giant first string was pushed all over the field and it wasn't until Coach Howard Lynch put in his second or light string that Amarillo scored. Austin being penalized on their own one yard line to help the count.

Pampa dropped an 18 to 6 decision in far off Casper, Wyoming, but the game showed that the Harvesters possessed a strong defense, fairly good ground attack but not much pass offense or defense.

Lubbock, the defending district champion, dropped a 13 to 6 game to Capitol Hill.

Hollis, Oklahoma, swamped Borger's Bulldogs, 27 to 6.

Plainview played to a 6-6 tie with Fort Worth Technical.

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (AP)—The stock market was boom fever cooled further today and, in the most sluggish session since the outbreak of European hostilities, leading issues finished the week with indecisive trends.

The continuing bright business picture was the principal hobnobbing influence, bankers said, and boardrooms, while watching overseas bulletins closely, seemed to view happenings abroad with a somewhat greater degree of equanimity.

The list got off to a hesitant start and slipped and rallied at intervals during the remainder of the proceedings.

The Associated Press average of 66 issues was unchanged at $23.75, but was up 1/2 of a point on the week, the third consecutive advance. Transfers amounted to 62,466 shares, smallest turnover since Aug. 26, compared with 1,042,280 last Saturday. The week's volume of around 9,000,000 shares was a sharp contraction from about 17,000,000 in the previous week.

Gains of fractions to a point or so on the day were retained by Westinghouse, Airfrak, Pullman, Loaf, Sears, Roebuck, Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Saini P. N. Y. Central, Boeing, Westinghouse, Post, Union Carbide, Eastman Kodak and J. C. Penney.

Finishing under water were U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Anacosta, Johnsonville, U. S. Gypsum, Western Union, American Smelting, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry and Consolidated Edison.

Foreign dollar loans recovered briskly in the bond department, and U. S. governments inclined to revive. Corporate bonds were selectively improved.

CHICAGO GRAIN
 CHICAGO, Sept. 23 (AP)—An easier tone prevailed in the wheat pit here today and prices declined nearly a cent a bushel before rallying.

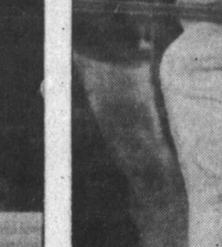

Trade, however, was very light, and the downward trend early in the session reflected only scattered, small selling and lack of any important buying.

Contributing to the downturn here was weakness in Wintlers, where prices declined about 2 cents a bushel and finished near the lows. Other U. S. markets were

Pension Slash In County To Total $1,680

Reduction of $6 in old age pension checks, ordered Friday by the Texas Public Welfare board, will mean a loss to Gray county clients of the Texas Old Age Assistance commission totaling $1,680.

The slash becomes effective on October checks. Checks for September have already been distributed. In Gray county there are 280 persons on the old age pension rolls, and the total amount paid in this county has amounted to approximately $5,000 a month.

Pension checks in Gray county range from $10 to $27. The reduction effective on next month's checks will mean that pension checks in this county in October will range from $4 to $21.

There are 350 on the pension rolls in Wheeler county and 30 in Roberts. Each of these two counties, along with Gray, is under the supervision of the Pampa office, in charge of John B. Hessey. Figures on the total amount of pensions paid monthly in Roberts and Wheeler counties were not available here for the reason that the TOAAC office here does not keep records of total payments.

Senators Failed To Pass Bill
 Reduction in the amount of pension checks, which is state-wide, grew out of the failure of the legislature to provide additional revenues after a House minority blocked passage of an O'Daniel tax amendment. Austin being penalized on their own one yard line to help the count.

Explaining the board's drastic action in making the flat $6 reduction, Director Adam R. Johnson said: "Since there was insufficient money, the board had no alternative than to impose the flat reduction."

October repayments, beginning with $130,000 plus interest in October, will continue at $200,000 thereafter for several months. Since pension checks are matched by the federal government, it will mean, roughly, the loss of $400,000 a month for the needy aged in Texas.

September checks were mailed 121,136 oldsters.

The reductions were expected to remain in force until and unless more old age assistance revenue was provided by the legislature. The governor has intimated he would not call a special session for that purpose.

Panhandle Above State Average

Italy To Avoid Fighting, Says Duce In Warning

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK
 ROME, Sept. 23 (AP)—Premier Mussolini broke his self-imposed silence today to reaffirm Italy's war policy—avoidance of hostilities, but military preparations for any eventuality, and support of every peace effort.

In a forceful speech at the Palazzo Venezia to Fascist leaders from Bologna, Il Duce declared: "In a situation like the present, full of many unknowns, the watchword has sprung spontaneously among the masses of authentic Italian people—prepare in a military way to meet any eventuality, support every possible peace effort and work vigilantly in silence."

He said this stand conformed to Italy's treaty of military alliance with Germany.

Il Duce advised Great Britain and France it was "a vain illusion" to try to reconstruct Poland. Realization of this, he said, could avert a clash between the armies of Germany, Britain and France.

That must be and is the style of the Italian people.

In underlining the present as "a stormy moment which again brings into play not only the map of Europe, but perhaps that of continents," Mussolini said the Italian decision to refrain from any military initiative stood without change nevertheless, even after the liquidation of Poland.

17 Millions In Loans Made Texans

Loans aggregating $17,114,276 have been made to 8,567 Texas home owners since January 1 by the 121 insured savings and loan associations in the state. Approximately one half of the funds loaned were used by Texans to build new homes, according to the report of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Little Rock which serves the home financing institutions in this area.

During August the association loaned $2,117,981, which was a half million dollar increase over the volume of lending done in August 1938. Month by month, the Bank reported, the lending volume of the Texas associations has been steadily growing, and the first eight months of this year shows an increase of $3,428,000 as compared with the same period a year ago. Included in the review prepared by the bank are the figures of the Security Federal Savings and Loan Association of Pampa by which the local area is served.

Polish Army Interned In Hungary Picture 'Butchery' In Carpathians

By ELMER W. PETERSON
VERECKE, Hungary (At the Polish Frontier), Sept. 23 (AP)—The final internment of thousands of Polish soldiers and officers, routed by the German and Soviet Russian invasions, was started today here on Hungarian soil.

Meanwhile, German units consolidated their occupation of frontier points. As fleeing Poles moved down one side of the Carpathians, the conquerors of Poland climbed the other toward the strategic border passes.

Long processions of Polish infantrymen and cavalrymen, with their guns and supply carts, moved through darkened frontier villages before dawn, enroute to internment camps. Silently the tired men and their weary animals slugged through the mud.

Ukrainians Ran Wild
Refugees coming through the Carpathian passes brought tales of wild rule over a small section of Poland by roving bands of Ukrainians, whose signal for action apparently was the start last Sunday of the Russian occupation.

There were stories of day-long battles between Ukrainians and Polish police, of Poles and Jews alike killed in a wave of looting and destruction which completed the havoc started by German bombing planes. Entire villages were said to have been burned.

Polish officers arriving on Hungarian soil told of escaping from between the closing jaws of the German-Russian vise only to come upon small villages which "dripped with blood" from the activities of the terrorist bands.

How the terrorists obtained their arms and ammunition was a mystery. A young cavalry officer told of flight from the Lwow district only two hours before arrival of the Russians.

"Between Lwow and Stry, to the south," he said, "we found the entrance to the village of Mikolajow barred by an enormous sign reading: 'Heil Hitler! Hail Ukrainian Republic!'"

"In this village we found savage butchery of racial Poles and Jews—men, women and children alike. "We found the proprietor of the hotel with his throat cut. "We restored order as best we could, shooting all terrorists we could find before continuing on. It was a terrible scene of death and destruction. "During the night as we rode south we passed several flaming villages, obviously fired by the terrorists."

Dealer Enthused Over Oldsmobile Models For 1940

Highly enthusiastic over the new Oldsmobiles for 1940, J. C. Christopher, of the Christopher Motor Co., Oldsmobile dealer in Pampa, returned Friday from the dealer preview meeting held in Oklahoma City, Okla. He was accompanied by members of his sales organization, who were likewise gladdened over the cars that Olds is to offer for the coming season.

"It's hard to imagine how they can make so many improvements each year," said Mr. Christopher Saturday. "The new Oldsmobiles are bigger and better looking in every detail and with front end design that is by far the most attractive I have ever seen. The interiors, too, are the last word in good looks, luxury and comfort."

"More than that, this year Oldsmobile has introduced a revolutionary new mechanical advancement that is destined to be the greatest forward step in driving ease, convenience and safety since the invention of the self-starter. It represents the final culmination of over eight years of research and testing on the part of Oldsmobile and General Motors engineers."

"Oldsmobile executives are planning one of the most aggressive sales campaigns in the company's history and from what I have seen of the new models, I am confident that we will enjoy one of the biggest sales years in our history."

"The factory assembly lines at Lansing are running now and we already have received two cars which are on display for the people of Pampa in advance of the national announcement."

Miami Methodists Hear Bishop Holt

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS.
MIAMI, Sept. 23.—A large congregation of people gathered at 2:15 o'clock Friday afternoon in the auditorium of the First Methodist church to hear Bishop Ivan Lee Holt. Bishop Holt was accompanied by Dr. W. C. House, district superintendent of the Amarillo district, and they are making a tour of this district.

The bishop spoke at a breakfast Friday morning in Claude honoring him after which he went to Panhandle, White Deer, and on into Miami before going to Canadian and Higgins. After the tour of this district he will board a Santa Fe train for Kansas City.

Bishop Holt has just recently returned from a very extended tour of Europe.

Oil Reserves To Be Topic At Meeting

Discussion of crude oil reserves in Texas and their bearing upon future tax values in local and state government will hold the attention of oil men from every state when they assemble on October 3-7 in Houston for the twentieth annual convention of the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association, according to Lynn Boyd, vice president of the organization, and president of the Panhandle Producers & Royalty Owners Association.

Panhandle oil operators will be much interested in hearing this subject discussed, Boyd asserted, because this district now occupies one of the most advantageous positions in the state from the standpoint of future oil supplies. He urged that every oil man attend.

"Engineers estimate that the ultimate recovery from the huge Panhandle oil producing areas will amount to approximately one billion dollars," he said, "with about 700,000,000 barrels yet to be produced. At present rates of withdrawal, this supply will last for the next 20 years. This, of course, does not take into account the development of more efficient methods of production, which may prolong the life of every field. Nor does it consider the possibility of future discoveries in the area, a possibility which is a virtual certainty because of the continuous exploration of new territory which is now being carried on."

At the present time, well spacing in the Panhandle averages about 75 acres of proven area to each well, Boyd pointed out. Should the eventual density of drilling in the known

Senator Tydings Gets Women Told

The Maryland senator was accosted in a senate office building corridor by the delegation, numbering about 50 and consisting mostly of women.

Solon Urges U. S. To Build Separate Fleet For Atlantic

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 (AP)—The European war demonstrated more clearly than ever, Rep. Maas (R-Minn.) declared today, that the United States should lose no time in building a separate fleet for the Atlantic ocean.

"Such a fleet would cost $5,000,000,000 ultimately," said Maas, senior Republican member of the house naval committee, "but that would be only a two per cent insurance premium, because the last war cost us $50,000,000,000 and the depression that followed it $200,000,000,000."

First Institute Of P-TA District Held In Spearman

By KATHERINE SIMMONS
The first of seven institutes to be held in Eighth District of the State Congress of Parents and Teachers convened in the high school auditorium at Spearman, September 16.

Officiating was Mrs. M. W. McCloy of Morse, fourth vice-president. In attendance from the three counties of Hansford, Hutchinson, and Ochiltree were 60 delegates: three school superintendents, three principals, 15 teachers, three county council presidents, and 40 other members, many of them officers and chairmen of committees.

At noon a luncheon was served in the home economics department by the Methodist women of Spearman. Beginning the afternoon session Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar, of Pampa, president of the Eighth district, reviewed the National convention which met May 1-4 in Cincinnati, Ohio.

A panel led by Roger A. Burgess of Perryton on "Ways a P-T-A May Become a Liability to the School" followed. Superintendents and principals contributing were R. A. McCullum, Gruber; W. A. McIntosh, Borger; J. B. McComb, Fringie; W. K. Finley, Spearman; W. A. Gillispie, Morse. Other teachers and parents spoke impromptu.

Eugene Mann, publicity chairman of Eighth district, accepted a position in the Demonstration School of the Teachers college in Gunnison, Colorado.

Miss Katherine Simmons, a Pampa faculty member, succeeds Mr. Mann as district publicity chairman.

R. A. Selby, formerly supervisor of instruction in Pampa schools for several years, accepted a similar position in the Amarillo system.

Mrs. H. E. Symonds, president of Baker P-T-A, Pampa, presided at the first meeting of the organization, Tuesday, September 12. Byron St. Clair, highway patrolman, gave a safety talk on the three E's of traffic: Engineering, the building of highways; enforcement, laws enforced by highway patrol organized by legislation; and education, through drivers license laws.

Flower Growers Asked To Enter Exhibits In Show

Members of Pampa Garden club have asked that all residents of Pampa and those living in nearby camps give their flowers necessary and proper care in order to have them at their best and in full bloom by October 13 when the annual flower show will be held in the annex of the First Presbyterian church.

The cool weather and a reasonable amount of attention will help the plants. It has been pointed out by Garden club workers.

Everyone growing flowers is urged to exhibit a display in the show. The schedule will appear in The Pampa News in a few days and it should be carefully examined to determine where the individual flowers and arrangements will fit. Flowers arranged according to specification and placed in their proper classification will have a better chance of being a winner.

Flower growers will not want to miss the show and those who do not have flowers are especially urged to attend as it will serve as an inspiration to urge them to grow flowers next year.

Several changes are being planned for this year's show and it is hoped to be the best ever held in Pampa. Mrs. R. J. Hagan is in charge of arrangements.

Anniversary Of Rebekah Lodge Observed Here

Rebekah lodge, the woman's branch of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, entertained with a social event this week in the I. O. O. F. hall to celebrate the 84th anniversary of the admission of women to the I. O. O. F.

The order was founded by Schuler Colfax, later vice-president of the United States. Colfax had a difficult time getting his fellow members to admit women because feminine quality in 1851 was unheard of, but today the Rebekah degree is one of the most active branches of the I. O. O. F. with nearly 65,000 members in our country.

Following the regular lodge meeting with Etta Crisler in charge, a burlesque of a lodge meeting in the form of a radio broadcast was conducted with Mrs. Jess Clay as the announcer and Elsie Cane as program chairman. Taking part were little Ellen Kretzmeier, the youngest Rebekah; Pearl Casika, a piano player; Dorothy Volter and Gertrude Sullivan, who were interviewed by a man on the street; and Messrs. Nice, W. A. Spoonemere, Dickerson, and Wiley, a men's quartet directed by John Hall.

A scooter race was featured between little Ellen Kretzmeier and Grandma Leona Burrows. Six hula dancers, Hub Burrows, Roy Kretzmeier, Dewey Vyles, Jess Clay, Alva Phillips and John Hall, were accompanied by Daphne Baser on the piano and V. J. Casika on the violin.

Mrs. Alva Gant gave the history of the Pampa lodge after which a square dance was held with Hub Burrows calling. Refreshments were served to the group.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By ALICIA HART

At twenty-five, the average woman should plan simple but regular beauty routine to ward off signs of approaching age—ways to maintain youthful dimensions, a smooth throat line and unwrinkled areas around the eyes. At thirty-five she should begin corrective treatments to eliminate signs which have appeared in spite of her efforts.

From thirty-five on, closer attention to caloric content of foods and a reasonable amount of exercise, and slightly more complicated skin treatments are very much in order. A weekly mask treatment takes on importance. Night cream should be patted and massaged into the skin—not simply smothered on with quick, light strokes.

Any signaling of chronic tiredness should be discussed with the family doctor. It's a mistake to put off glasses if a reputable eye specialist advises them. An annual complete physical examination is advisable. Experts agree that many of the diseases of old age can be prevented if they are diagnosed in time.

MUSCLES ARE KEPT STRONG THROUGH USE

Keep in mind that muscles which are never exercised will become flabby—there are no exceptions about it. Also that hair which is brushed every single night probably isn't as likely to turn gray at an early age as hair which receives no attention at all.

Criminals, too, should become more complicated as one gets older. Only the very, very young can get away with windblown coiffures or makeup which obviously was applied hurriedly. And not even youth can compensate for wrinkles in a dress, a sagging neckline or anything but pristine freshness of blouse, gloves and collars.

BRIGHT EYES ADD BEAUTY TO THE PLAINEST FACE

Using the eyes in poor light is the surest way to make them dull and listless. Frowns and wrinkles are another result of eyestrain.

Scientists agree that eyestrain—whether it be due to insufficient light or to uncorrected eye defects—is one of the principal causes of fatigue; not only of the eyes, but of the entire body. Headaches, nervousness, even indigestion, are often traced directly to the eyes.

Eyestrain is insidious. You may not be conscious of it until the harm is done. That is why it is so important to have your eyes examined and to have your lighting checked by an expert.

Let one of our lighting specialists measure your light and recommend the simple changes that are needed for better seeing. It's a free service—just phone the time most convenient for you.

Siler Faulkner, Sr.

There comes occasionally to every city or community a severing of the bonds of friendship and esteem by a death that seems particularly poignant as marking not only the passing of an individual, but of an era.

Such was the untimely death Friday evening of Siler Faulkner, Sr., who died in a Borger hospital from injuries received in an automobile crash on an unpaved road northwest of Spearman.

Siler Faulkner was a human tradition in Gray county and the Panhandle of Texas. He had been a resident of the county for half a century. His name was known everywhere in Texas politics. As chairman of the Gray county Democratic executive committee for more than 30 years, he was his party's leader until the day of his death.

And, now even that he is gone, his guiding spirit will continue to motivate his party's actions in Gray county for years to come.

Freshmen studying the tenets of the Democratic party sought the advice of Mr. Faulkner through the years, and many of those who have gone through the school of public service were graduated with honors because they heeded the counsel of the "Daddy of Gray county politics."

His death is a distinct shock, not only to Pampa, but to his legion of friends and acquaintances throughout the county and state.

Mr. Faulkner was charitable. His was the silent kind of charity. The good he did was accomplished quietly and without any fanfare. That was the way he desired it to be.

It mattered not whether you agreed with all of Mr. Faulkner's political policies. You, at least, respected him for his conviction that he was doing what was right. And, he was ultra-liberal in his views that others had the right to their own opinions so long as there was sincerity of purpose in those opinions.

Mr. Faulkner played the game fairly, and he gave no quarter when he was defending a principle he believed to be right. He was a good businessman, and his private interests stand as a monument to his good judgment.

His was one of those natures, quiet on the surface but reaching to unexplored depths, that will be keenly missed by all with whom he came in contact.

AERIAL DISARMAMENT (New York Times) Great Britain has been told that with the advent of the airplane she has lost her old isolation. Mr. H. E. Wimperis, a distinguished aeronautical engineer, reassured her in an address which he delivered before the British Association for the Advancement of Science. "Britain, an island in the sea, will become an island in the air." How? Speed has its limits both for civil and military machines—economic in the one case, mechanical in the other. And anti-aircraft artillery has been so far developed that bombers may no longer drop explosives with quite the old impunity even from great heights.

The technical evolution of flying has made it possible, thinks Mr. Wimperis, to call a kind of Washington conference for the limitation of destructive aircraft. Fifteen years ago such a proposal would have been preposterous because passenger planes could easily have been converted into bomb-droppers. Because they must pay, the commercial planes of today have speeds that rarely exceed 200 miles an hour, which is slow even for a bomber. Statesmen who speak of "parity in the air" (as if 100 bombers plus 2,000 interceptors are the equivalent of 100 interceptors and 2,000 bombers) forget this. Mr. Wimperis sees no more reason for limiting the construction of interceptors than for limiting the installation of anti-aircraft artillery or searchlights. It is the bombers that are to be feared by civilian populations, whether or not they can be reached by anti-aircraft fire.

S. T. Fossony in his "Tomorrow's War" estimates that the next conflict will be fought on fronts totaling over 3,000 miles, that 70,000 bombers and 130,000 airplanes of other types will be required, that the monthly loss in these will be 30 per cent (some place it as high as 50 per cent), and that no state will be able to man at one time more than 20,000 planes and tanks because of the difficulty of training men of the right type rapidly enough. If this forecast is correct, the future competition for the limitation of bombers all the more forceful. When the world has returned to its senses again, Mr. Wimperis's constructive proposal ought to be put down as item No. 1 on the agenda of an international peace conference.

SAFETY IN STEEL (Cincinnati Enquirer) In guessing what is the most hazardous occupation many a layman—mindful of the steel industry's huge, white-hot ingots and bucketsful of molten metal swinging overhead, fiery blast furnaces, and mammoth forges—would select the steelmaker's. He would be wrong.

Thanks to continual emphasis upon safety in a conspicuously dangerous occupation, the steel industry now is rated as the third safest of the thirty leading industries, topped only by the tobacco and cement industries. The frequency of accidents in the steel industry has been reduced about 90 per cent in the past thirty years, and last year its showing was nearly 50 per cent better than the general average for major industries.

Four years ago steel was rated as the twelfth safest industry, ranking below tobacco, laundry, printing, cement, rubber, machinery, textile, glass, chemical, nonferrous metal, and the public utility industries. In the succeeding years it climbed to seventh, sixth, fifth, and third. Last year, for every million man-hours worked in steel mills, there were only 6.6 accidents, while in industrial plants generally there were 12.2 accidents.

Most industries in recent years have effected marked improvement of their safety records, although none to the extent of the steel industry. And all can be made very much less so by constant effort. That is the moral of the steel industry's new safety record.

Sharing The Comforts Of Life

THE CAUSES OF THE WAR There seems to be a pretty general conclusion among people that we had no part in causing the war. I just read an editorial and a sermon that would give one that impression. The editorial contended that the war was nothing of our making and the sermon expressed the opinion that we should "Forgive them, for they know not what they do." The preacher seemed perfectly satisfied that it was not necessary to analyze our own acts to determine whether we were guiltless. He assumed the attitude that we should forgive others, but correcting our own transgressions did not seem to dawn upon him.

This holler-than-thou attitude is such a pleasant illusion. It is so satisfying to those people who have such a splendid opinion of themselves. Here we are in the United States with probably as many natural resources as any other country in the world and we expect those countries, that have very limited natural resources, to be satisfied with their economic lot and make no protest no matter how high we build tariff walls around our country to make it difficult for other people. And then we contend that these people, whom we oppress, should not fight and are depraved when they protest such treatment.

There are more ways than bombs or shells of killing people. They can be starved to death gradually. And when we contend that people have no right to propagate and multiply, because we see fit to deprive them of the substance to support an increased population, we are dogmatic, arbitrary un-Christian and un-democratic.

It seems to me the last group of people in the world who should be condemning the Germans for war and wanting to forgive them and thinking nothing of our own transgressions, is the preacher. The only charitable way of looking at the preachers on this subject is to realize that they have made no study of economics and government and they simply do not understand the causes of war.

As this column has reported before, it takes about 2 1/2 acres of productive land to support a person in health. Here in the United States, we have 3.3 acres, while in Germany they have 1.12 acres; in Japan they have only .36 of an acre.

The United States has been one of the most serious offenders in establishing tariff walls and immigration laws, so we are not in a position to criticize those nations for resenting and fighting to correct this injustice. It is not a Christian attitude for any people to grab natural resources and not permit these natural resources to be exchanged freely with all peoples of the earth. To do this, is a primary cause of war. War is a natural result.

Before we should condemn those in war, we should thoroughly analyze our own deeds and our own actions and see what a large factor we have been in bringing about wars. We have plenty of need for self-analysis and correction.

GETTING THE FACTS It is difficult in peace times to get the facts as to what is going on in governments but, now with the war censorship in the leading countries, it becomes impossible. Nothing now can be dispatched out of the countries engaged in war, except what is passed by the censorship. This, of course, only gives the side that would create the impression desired. Countries in war do not hesitate to use propaganda of any kind to win support.

It might be well to remember that during the last war we were made the victims of the worst kind of propaganda. As an example, the British contended that the Lusitania did not contain war supplies. It took us some 15 years later to learn that it did contain war supplies. The British deliberately misrepresented in order to influence the public opinion of American people.

We cannot be too slow to draw conclusions from what we read in newspapers from the censured dispatches. They are not intended to inform impartially, but to create emotion.

Behind The News Of The Day

By BRUCE CATTON

PAMPA NEWS Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON—The Wage and Hour Administration will get a tough, efficient, and thoroughly "liberal" boss when and if Col. Philip Fleming of the army engineer corps replaces Elmer F. Andrews as its administrator.

News of the administration's plan to hand the job to Col. Fleming started two contradictory interpretations going around the capital. Some people figured that the White House was taking cognizance of the current rumors of poor enforcement of the wage-hour law and was putting a tough guy in to make things hum; some thought that Andrews had stepped on the toes of the influential southern "cotton bloc," and others, and was being replaced as a species of business-appeasement strategy.

Whatever may be the case about the first interpretation, it seems tolerably certain that the second one is all wet. FORMER BOSSES LIKED HIM Col. Fleming worked under Rexford Tugwell in the old Resettlement Administration, and Tugwell thought he was ace. He was Secretary Ickes' right-hand man in PWA, and Ickes swears by him. Men who worked with him in both organizations insist he is the last man in the world to put into a job if a little calculated punch-pulling is what is wanted.

Administrator Andrews has had his troubles in the wage-hour post, and it is only fair to say that most of them were not of his own making. He had to spend his first months getting his outfit organized and putting on an educational campaign. Complaints about violations of the act piled up until, early this summer, there were some 22,000 on file. Only in the last two months has he been able to hire enough investigators and legal assistants to handle these complaints, and even then he had to start from scratch and train his men as he went along.

The worst of it is over, now. Half of the 22,000 complaints have been weeded out as invalid; the remainder are being disposed of faster than new ones are coming in, and the prospects are that the administration will have caught up with itself by winter.

Nevertheless, there has been some substance to the reports that the wage-hour division was not functioning properly. There has been some internal dissension, and there have been instances of lack of cooperation.

On his record, Col. Fleming is a good man to handle a situation like that, too. As its executive officer, he helped organize PWA; a year later he became its deputy administrator.

In the spring of 1935, he was detached and sent to take charge of the famous Passamaquoddy tide-harnessing project; as an engineer and an organizer he did a superb job there, whatever may be the verdict as to the value of the "Quoddy project itself. A little later he was loaned to Tugwell, whose

ASH-CAN ROW

Around Hollywood

By BILL PORTER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 23—The movie star, for all his big earnings and gay parties, leads a hard life at times even as you and I.

Take, to begin with, his income tax. The more he earns, the bigger the government's percentage of slice will be. And if he doesn't pay up promptly, the movie star gets his name in the wrong kind of headlines as FBI agents overrun the film capital.

The matinee idol can't go to an ordinary movie, a public dance hall or a municipal beach. Of course, he has his own private projection room and swimming pool, but those take a big chunk of his pay to build. At more expense, he can dine and dance at exclusive night clubs, but even there he isn't safe from the autograph hounds.

At all times he must flash a brilliant smile for reporters and make witty remarks. The latter are supplied by his press agent, who comes in for 10 per cent of that weekly salary. Other representatives, relatives and miscellaneous parasites chew off one or two of those four figures each week.

His working hours are usually such that he earns every dollar he's paid. The movie star often spends half the night learning a script, then gets up in the middle of it at 6 A. M. to report for 10 to 12 hours shooting at the studio.

Studios Worry About Stars Studios handle their stars with such kid-glove care that rarely can an actor or actress enter into the more vigorous or dangerous sports. Take Cary Cooper. He spent most of his youth learning to be a cowboy in Montana. But Director Bill Wellman wouldn't let him ride a bronco in the Yuma rodeo when they were over there filming "Beau Geste."

Like most teen-age youngsters, Jackie Cooper has a yen for driving fast automobiles. He geared up and supercharged a sport model for the speed trials at Muroc Dry Lake. But the studio, considering, perhaps, more their investment in Mr. Cooper than his own personal neck, said Jackie stick to driving on Hollywood Boulevard. Even then he would be taking a big chance.

Barbara Stanwyck has six brood mares and four stallions. She breeds some of the best horses in California. But it's a long time between rides when she's working in pictures over on the Paramount lot, for the studio can risk no delayed shooting schedules because of broken or bruised limbs.

Virginia Dale is both air minded and light (blonde) headed. She had been taking gliding lessons from Harvey Stephens and was considering soloing. This was before Paramount heard about it and decided she'd better finish "Federal Offense" first while she was still in one piece.

No Speed Boat for Lamour "Typhoon" went over to Catalina on location and Bob Preston and Dorothy Lamour decided to make the most of their sea-going opportunities. The ordered a speed boat and aquaplane to while away idle moments while Miss Lamour wasn't swimming in her lava, the new abbreviated sarong. These were promptly confiscated by the business manager, Don Robb, who was taking no chances.

Hedy Lamour, Loretta Young or a situation like that, too. As its executive officer, he helped organize PWA; a year later he became its deputy administrator.

In the spring of 1935, he was detached and sent to take charge of the famous Passamaquoddy tide-harnessing project; as an engineer and an organizer he did a superb job there, whatever may be the verdict as to the value of the "Quoddy project itself. A little later he was loaned to Tugwell, whose

People You Know

By Archer Fullingim

Several years ago a graduate of Pampa High school wanted to go to college, but he had no money and no job. Besides that, he was a new-comer, but the steady look in the youth's eyes was not new to Siler Faulkner who, being a keen judge of character, could spot honesty in a face in one penetrating glance, and Mr. Faulkner promptly lent him the money. He was confident that he had judged the boy correctly, and he hid, because the youth paid back the money after he got out of college.

But this is just an isolated instance, for in the Book of Life are credited many acts of philanthropy and charity to Siler Faulkner. . . . But Mr. Faulkner's Democracy was a force that you noticed and felt. Ask W. J. Ball of Alanreed, George Thut, or Marvin Jones, or Bob Underwood of Amarillo, or Reno Stinson. For 30 years, by example, Mr. Faulkner taught Gray county citizens how to be Democrats. He voted for the best man and the best man was always a Democrat, in his opinion.

And once Siler Faulkner voted for a man he stuck behind him to the end. He stuck with the administration and the party. He was the granite personification of Democracy in Gray county. He didn't wear a tie before he became wealthy and he didn't wear one afterward. He dressed the same, talked the same and lived as frugally and as simply. He kept on the same intimate terms with his old friends, and made new friends.

It is doubtful if Siler Faulkner ever lost a friend. . . . In the eyes of many Gray county men, he was the greatest Democrat of there was another Democrat of Siler's size and caliber several years ago, and it is likely that Siler and dear old Charlie Cook are doing a lot of handshaking and making over each other as they enjoy each other's company in the Promised Land of The Sweet Bye and Bye.

Bette Davis could hardly go walking down Hollywood Boulevard in slacks that cost $1.98. They'd have to appear in silk slacks purchased at the smartest Los Angeles shops.

When Claudette Colbert was working in "Midnight" she had a bit of trouble over some skirt shooting. The makeup man told her she'd have to stop it because the recoil of the shotgun bruised her shoulder. She decided things had reached a fine state when one couldn't go out and get bruised without the studio's permission.

Buster Crabbe trained until he became a champ swimmer and got a job in the movies. Now the studio won't let him paddle from the mainland to Catalina, a 20-mile swim, and insist he confine his aquatics to pools or well-guarded beaches.

And it's rare that an actress is allowed a real church wedding with all the fixings. The studio and press agents prefer that she elope by plane to Yuma, where photographers and reporters are on hand to see she gets proper publicity.

Yes, there are tribulations as well as tributes for the movie star.

Resettlement Administration was having trouble in its construction division. Materials weren't being delivered promptly, building jobs weren't going smoothly, plans weren't turning out right. Fleming straightened out the mess and co-ordinated all the RSA's architectural and engineering projects.

The general verdict is that the wage-hour law will get enforced right up to the hilt when the coalition gets his hands on it.

Experts estimate that 500,000 persons in the United States are exposed constantly to silica dust in the various industries in which they are employed.

Miners and stone cutters are chief sufferers. In 17 states, and the District of Columbia, laws have been passed providing that the workmen's compensation plan now covers this industrial disease.

Much experimentation has been done with regard to controlling this industrial hazard. Adequate ventilation, using water to keep the dust down, reduces the total amount so greatly that silicosis is much less a danger than it used to be.

Investigators in Canada found that the addition of metallic aluminum dust to the silica dust would help to control the problem. American investigators do not recommend this technique because they feel the addition of a still further impurity is not the way to meet this problem.

A new industry with a silica hazard has just been brought to light by an investigation carried out among dental technicians who polish artificial dentures with a cloth wheel using a pumice powder. They may develop conditions of the lungs like silicosis. Pumice dust is included in the list of harmful dusts of silica-like character along with quartz, sand, granite and slate.

The pumice used in the United States comes from the Lipari Islands. Here mill workers grind the lump pumice into a fine powder. They apparently work in dense clouds of pumice dust.

An investigation made among workers in this industry by an Italian industrial physician showed that almost all of them suffer from silicosis. Chemical analyses show that pumice dust contains approximately 75 per cent of silica.

An examination of the pumice used in the dental laboratory to polish artificial dentures showed that it contains 48 per cent of silica.

In many places pumice has been replaced by a compound called "pummy," which is also a silica sand, ground to a much greater degree of fineness. Therefore, it is more easily inhaled and is likely to produce silicosis than is pumice itself. Dental laboratories can equip polishing apparatus with exhaust hoods.

Silicosis is usually first diagnosed by the use of the X-ray. The X-ray pictures of the lungs reveals scarring and fibrous changes, which are due to the action of the silica dust on the delicate tissue of the lungs.

TOWNSFOLK OF Perryton were a little agog last week over the publicity being given to one of their former townsmen in two widely circulated national magazines. . . . The man who has attracted the widespread attention is Joe McWilliams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abe McWilliams of Perryton. . . . He broke into Life magazine week before last and drew four full pages of attention in last week's Look. . . . He's lined up, backing the roaring, spellbinding Father Coughlin and Fritz Kuhn, Nazi bund leader in the U. S.

Young McWilliams, who has spent most of the past seven or eight years in the East and was back in Perryton for a visit only last spring, is the handsome young head of an organization known as the Christian Mobilizers. . . . He is typically outspoken. . . . The former Perryton youth, who now has a brother playing on the Perryton High football team, is rated a full page picture in Look and about three additional pages of descriptive matter about his activities.

LOOK MAGAZINE quotes him as follows: . . . "Father Coughlin says plenty, but we say more." . . . To his New York audiences he says this: "I believe in fighting communistic Jews. I believe he would like to fight the other kind." . . . McWilliams rants and raves, according to Look, and he strikes dramatic poses, conscious of his eloquence and his good looks. His army of "Mobilizers" which he began organizing in July is the fastest growing of the Coughlin-inspired anti-Semitic organizations.

"We have the equipment to stage the greatest program in history," he shouts, but adds, "I am not inciting anyone here to riot. I'm just saying that if they start anything, we're ready for them." . . . Admitting his campaign is Coughlin-inspired, McWilliams also admits his Mobilizers are hand-in-glove with foreign groups. . . . "The German-American Bund was the first organization in this country to expose Jewish communism and we owe them a debt of gratitude," he tells his hearers in Ebling's Casino, New York City. . . . In Perryton, McWilliams was not known as an out-standing student where he attended school. . . . Rather he was checked out for his bad, radical views. . . . In a comparatively short time he has catapulted himself into the leadership of a large group of persons who cheer his threats against President Roosevelt and Mayor LaGuardia of New York whom he calls war mongers. . . . Then he lauds Hitler. . . . Perryton has little comment to make on McWilliams. . . . His home-town newspaper ignores him.

THREE HUNDRED years ago, to be exact on Sept. 25, 1639, the first printing press was set up in what is now the United States. STAMP NEWS

ISSUANCE of a U. S. 3-cent stamp, purple, to commemorate the 300th anniversary of printing in America has been authorized by Postmaster General James A. Farley. Announcement of the date and place of first-day sales will be made later. It is probable, however, that the stamp will be released on Sept. 25, at the opening of an exhibition of Graphic Arts in New York City. The stamp honors Stephen Daye, who introduced printing in America. In 1639, on a press imported from England, Daye printed the "Freeman's Oath." No copies of this pamphlet are known to exist today.

Petitions for U. S. stamp issues commemorating the golden jubilee of Idaho and Wyoming, in 1940, have been filed with the Postoffice Department.

Complete new issues of all classes of stamps is forecast for Siam, which will be known as "Muang Thai," which means "land of freemen."

Designs for the new set of four airmails to be issued by Honduras include a map of the Americas, portraits of Bolivar, Morazan, Valle and Washington. Flags of United States and Honduras also will be shown.

New issues: Spain, three values in Cleria autogyro design; Nicaragua, two airmail commemorative sets honoring President Somoza.

SERIAL STORY

WORKING WIVES

BY LOUISE HOLMES

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday's Marian reviews, this morning she calls Dan but he is in conference with the president of his company. Later she goes to the doctor, she is going to have a baby!

CHAPTER XVII

MARIAN worked furiously, running through ledger pages sorting financial data. Gradually she regained composure. Early in May was so far away, so much a part of the distant future, that it could be ignored. The thing to do was to forget what Dr. Moss had said, to live each day and let May answer its own riddles.

Working on a chart, she mentally laid the first brick in a wall behind which she would keep her secret, behind which even all would never look. The wall was to be made up of such capable endeavor that Mr. Fellows would look upon her as an absolute necessity to the office. She would work for a new understanding with Dan, take more interest in outside things, parties, lectures, picture shows—she'd start tomorrow night by going to dinner with Dolly and Randy.

There was to be no more irritability. A cheerful, happy manner would make her feel cheerful and happy. Some day she would go to Dr. Moss, she would laugh and say, "You were mistaken in your diagnosis. The more she thought about it, the more certain she became. She relaxed in the belief that the kind fates would clear the muddle if she but let them do it.

At 4 o'clock Dan called. "Want something, Marian?" "No—I feel badly about last night." "I guess we've been heading toward last night for a long time. See you at 5." A distinct click said that he had hung up the receiver. The click bothered her for a moment, then she turned back to her work.

Mr. Fellows came to look over her shoulder. "Sweet," he said enthusiastically. "These charts will be invaluable as time goes on. You're leaving space for the next 10 years. Yep—that's swell!"

So everything was all right. Dan would be waiting at 5, Mr. Fellows was pleased, the wall was steadily amazingly secure. She'd let the game. It was not the before she need think of the doctor's verdict again. Anything might happen before she need think of that.

Above everything else, Dan must not know what the doctor had said. If she told Dan it might be real. Dan's ignorance in itself, from strain, she grew might-hearted. It was the emotional pendulum on its upward swing.

It must swing back, but, for the moment, it was enough to be released from torment.

SHE got into Dan's car, saying in a little rush, "I'm glad to see you, mister."

He said, "Thanks," not looking at her. He was still a little grim, Marian noticed the tight muscle in his jaw.

"It's a good girl now," she said. "You forget about last night?" "No," he answered, "but let's not go into it again."

She was determined to be pleasant. "All right," she said lightly. "Anyway, I'm sorry."

He nodded briefly. Then, "Did you see Dolly this morning? How is she and Randy Means make it?"

He wanted to hurdle the late pleasantness and she fell in with him. "Oh, they had a wonderful time," imitating Dolly. "At least from Dolly's standpoint it was marvelous."

Dan's jaw relaxed a bit. "From Randy's, too, I guess."

"Did you see him today?" "Yeah—had lunch with him—his completely sold—sort of imitate—you know how people do."

"You don't mean—" She left a surmise unfinished, ready to laugh.

"I think it's the real thing." "Not really?" "Sure—and I'm glad for both of them. They're two swell people and I'm glad to see them get together."

"Oh, I think you're crossing our bridges before you get to them."

"Time will tell. He asked us to have dinner with them in nonow night at the Medina Club."

"Yes, Dolly told me. I wish I could fix her up a little, Dan. She's so naive in appearance."

"Say, you leave that girl alone. Her personality wasn't made out of plastic wood, it hasn't gone dry and hard."

Marian glanced at him. Yesterday she would have taken exception to that remark, yet she let it go. "I'm not talking about her personality, it's her clothes."

"Just take my advice and leave Dolly alone," Dan was saying. He did not add, "You might spoil her, but the inference was plainly there."

Marian mused, "It'd be a joke on us if Dolly married Randy Means. I'm afraid she wouldn't be cleaning our apartment any more." It was really something of a thought. Who would take care of them if Dolly—?

THEY stopped at the market. They'd been steaks, a glass of preserved figs. Dan loved preserved figs and cream cheese. Marian was deliberately trying to up to Dan that night. There were cold potatoes in the refrigerator. She'd fry them crisp for Dan.

Reaching the apartment, she ran up the stairs ahead of Dan. The blow had fallen and it had crushed her. She was the same, exactly the same. Dr. Moss' news had already taken on the form of a bad dream from which she had awakened.

She took great pains with the dinner, rushing into the bedroom at the last minute to change to a new, and very fetching, house coat. It was pink and orchid taffeta, the colors blending together. It had a lovely metal belt and tiny flower buttons. It swished delightfully. It had cost too much—much too much. Even on a half-price sale, it had been definitely beyond Marian's clothes allowance. She felt a trifle annoyed when Dan did not notice the house coat.

He always cleared the table, rinsing the dishes and stacking them in neat piles for Dolly to wash in the morning. While he worked, Marian hung around the kitchen. Usually he whistled through his teeth. That evening he was frowningly silent.

"What were you doing in Mr. Turner's office this morning?" Marian asked.

He said nothing for a moment, then, "He called me in to ask if I thought he was managing the business with the greatest possible efficiency." He had his back to her, she could not see his face.

"You're spoofing." "That could happen, couldn't it?"

"Not to you." She hadn't meant to say that. Pointed reproinders had been coming too readily to her lips.

Dan washed his hands and turned. Marian stood in the kitchen door. "I wish you'd kiss me, Dan," she said wistfully.

Putting a finger under her chin, he raised her eyes. "Isn't it too bad, Marian?" he said slowly.

"Isn't what too bad?" she asked. He was so strange. He might be looking at her face for the first time—or the last.

"That we muffed it—that we had such a God-given chance and muffed it."

"Do you hate me, Dan?" He nodded gravely. "I hate you because you have made me hate myself," he said gently. "I used to have pride in myself—believe it's all gone."

He turned away. He had not kissed her.

Three German Ships Sail From Brazil

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, Sept. 23 (AP)—Three German ships, including the fast Hamburg-South American liner Cap Norte, have sailed from Pernambuco, carrying large cargoes of foodstuffs and petroleum products.

Their destinations were not announced, but shipping circles understood they would try to reach Vladivostok, Soviet Russia's far eastern port. Such an attempt could be made either via the Panama canal or around Cape Horn.

Local companies declined to supply the ships with fine fuel oils such as are used by submarines. However, the Cap Norte carried about 2,500 tons of crude oil. The vessel carried only German seamen.

Besides the 13,615-ton Cap Norte the vessels are the 5,918-ton Tijuca and the 4,935-ton Curitiba.
