RENCH REPORT HEAVY GERMAN CASUALTIES

Church Drive Will Feature School Pupils

Go-To-Church Group Maps Plans For Observance Here To focus the attention of Pampans on a basic part of community life and to re-establish habits and to form building of Christian character habits, a committee of laymen and of ministers representing the churches of Pampa last night laid the foundation for Pampa's third annual Go-To-Church Sunday, October 15. Dr. C. H. Schulkey is chairman of the committee.

This year's campaign will direct special efforts toward the participation of pupils of Pampa schools in the movement, which is to be city-wide, for all ages, and to include all creeds. Not One-Day Appeal Purpose of the annual call for renewed interest of Pampans in spiritual endeavor is not merely to build a record attendance at the churches of the city for one day alone, but to encourage persons to actively engage in church work.

Rev. W. M. Pearce, one of those attending the committee meeting, held at 8 o'clock last night in the city commission room at the city hall, said that due to the shifting of persons about in the course of their employment, especially in oil field work, many lost the habit of regular church attendance. Rev. John O. Scott, said he believed the increased observance of the Sabbath was breaking down the morale of the people and that one of the reasons God was punishing the people of the world at this time was for their violation of not keeping one day of the week as it should be.

Seek City-Wide Response While the committee would naturally like to have every business house in Pampa closed all day on Go-To-Church Sunday, and will work toward that end, Dr. Schulkey said the observance of the day should at least extend toward making it possible for everyone who desires, to attend church. He suggested that businesses might operate on reduced forces, if they could not close, so that church attendance of all employees could be made possible.

Stickers To Be Distributed October 7, eight days before Go-To-Church Sunday, will mark the beginning of an intensive drive in the campaign, when automobile windshield stickers are to be distributed. See CHURCH DRIVE, Page 8

U. S. Foreign Trade Expected To Gain

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—The commerce department told today of a gain in United States merchandise exports in August, the month before the start of European war which officials expect to enhance United States foreign trade still further. August figures, available today, showed that exports increased 9 per cent over July while imports increased only 4 per cent. August exports totaling $250,839,000 were $75,083,000 in excess of the $175,756,000 imports for the month. This brought the excess of exports over imports for the first eight months of the year to $457,136,000, compared with $781,832,000 in the same period last year.

Stamp Collectors School Opens Here

First session of a school of instruction for stamp collectors will be held in the civil service room in the basement of the postoffice this evening between 7 and 8 o'clock. C. C. Sauer will be in charge.

War Flashes

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

(By The Associated Press) Sept. 26, 1914—Germans captured St. Quentin, but are repulsed north of the Aisne. Malines bombarded by Germans. MOSCOW, Sept. 26 (AP)—The intentions of Soviet Russia toward Bessarabia, taken from her by Rumania after the World War, and toward Estonia on the Gulf of Finland aroused intense speculation in foreign quarters today as the Red Army of occupation in Poland reached the demarcation lines arranged with Germany. It was understood a number of Soviet troops were marching toward the recently increased frontier with Rumania.

The Rumanian legation denied this border was closed, as reported in unofficial advice last night. Intourist, the Soviet travel agency, said trains were running from Moscow direct to Bucharest. Intourist also denied reports the Russian Black Sea port of Odessa had been closed, and offered to sell steamship tickets from Odessa to Istanbul, Turkey.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26 (AP)—The American Legion marched to a rendezvous with youth today in a cold rain which recalled some of the A. E. F.'s worst days in France and Belgium. At starting time of the annual parade this morning it had been raining nearly 10 hours, and weather forecasters said there was little prospect of the skies clearing during the day.

The veterans decided, however, to carry out the plans for the advance down Michigan Avenue. MOSCOW, Sept. 26 (AP)—Tass, the official Russian news agency, announced today that Joachim Von Ribbentrop, German Foreign Minister, would arrive in Moscow tomorrow "to discuss with the government of the Soviet Union the problems connected with developments in Poland."

BUCHAREST, Sept. 26 (AP)—Polish air force losses during 19 days of warfare with Germany are estimated in an unofficial survey at between 600 and 700 planes. At the beginning of the war Sept. 1, Poland was reported to have 800 planes.

'All's Well,' Says Estonian-Fainly TALLINN, Estonia, Sept. 26 (by telephone to Copenhagen) (AP)—Premier Kaarel Eenpalu declared today through his secretary he was confident Soviet Russia would respect Estonia's declaration of neutrality.

The spokesman declined to discuss reports that conversations with Russia over possible trade and non-aggression pacts were not going well. Nor would he discuss the reasons for the sudden return of Estonian Foreign Minister Karl Selter from Moscow yesterday.

Meager reports reaching Copenhagen from Estonia, Russian-ruled before the Soviet revolution of 1917, indicated friendship and commercial negotiations between Tallinn and Moscow were not going well. Reports, not officially confirmed, said the root of the trouble was the escape of a Polish submarine from Tallinn last week. The Polish craft had been interned there.

Both Allies And Germans Seeking 'Peace With Honor'

By DEWITT MacKENZIE The further Europe proceeds with its mad-hatter war, the more apparent it becomes both sides are discreetly inclined to hope there may be an easier road to victory—or shall we employ the revised version of "peace with honor"—than through a bleak and bloody hell torn in the German west wall or the French Maginot line. True, artillery duels and costly local engagements are proceeding on the west front. They did last night. A major offensive presumably will develop in due course. That's an unofficial advice last night. Psychological effect if nothing else. An army, like a dictator, has to keep itself in the limelight if it is to hold its following. You'd be surprised to know how many times big attacks are made on orders from the home government with the idea of providing propaganda to buck up the civilian morale, or for use abroad.

Britain Ahead In Sub War, Says Churchill

LONDON, Sept. 26 (AP)—The British war cabinet announced to Parliament today the defensive arming of many merchant ships and the seizure of more German goods since the war started than Great Britain has lost in submarine attacks. Winston Churchill, first Lord of the admiralty, made this disclosure in the House of Commons after Prime Minister Chamberlain in his fourth war report, had announced complete agreement with France on procedure for coordinating and perfecting munitions and supplies. Churchill, after saying the British convoy system now was in full operation and merchant ships all over the world were being armed to fight off submarines and airplanes, declared: "So far as the submarine is concerned the British Empire and all its friends in every quarter of the globe will be able to develop their immeasurable latent forces, and their man power can be concentrated in ever growing intensity on the task we have in hand, in which task we have only to persevere to conquer."

He was cheered loudly on this statement. Asserting Britain had "seized and converted to our own use 67,000 tons more of German merchandise than has been sunk in our own ships," Churchill added: "We have got more supplies in this country this afternoon than we should have had if no war had been declared." See SUB WAR, Page 8

Paderewski May Be Polish Pre-ident BUCHAREST, Rumania, Sept. 26 (AP)—Authoritative Polish sources said today Ignace Jan Paderewski, world famous pianist and former Polish premier, was a likely choice for president of Poland to succeed Ignace Moscicki. This was learned as refugee Polish political leaders negotiating to reconstruct the government—whose leaders are now held in Rumania—were reported near a successful completion of their plans. Informed sources reported the election of a new president had narrowed down to a choice between Paderewski and August Zaleski, former foreign minister. Paderewski is believed to be in Switzerland, Zaleski in Paris. Final decision on Moscicki's resignation and the appointment of a successor was expected later today or tomorrow.

Air Show Nets $200 Profit For Jaycees

A profit of $200 was reported by the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce on the Top O' Texas Air Show, sponsored by the Jaycees and held here on Saturday and Sunday. Announcement of the net receipts was made today by Bert A. Howell, general chairman of the show, following meetings of the finance committee, headed by Jimmie Dodge, held on Sunday and Monday nights and this morning. Proceeds are to be used to pay debts of the Pampa Jaycees. While disappointed in the small percentage of planes entered in the meet that actually were on hand, Howell said the pilots coming here were pleased with the show and the program presented. There were 120 planes that had been entered, Howell said, but cancelling of army leaves eliminated several. Only four planes of the Texas Air Tour arrived in Pampa. This eliminated 36 others. Ponca City was supposed to have been represented by eight planes, and Oklahoma City by six. Only one Oklahoma City plane was here for the show.

Actually on the flying field were only a fourth of the planes that had been entered. The pilot coming the longest distance to the show was Harry Hamill of Austin. He was awarded a $15 prize. The youngest pilot was the 16-year-old son of Carl D. Winstead of Oklahoma City, stunting ace, also an award winner. No pilot appeared to claim the oldest pilot title. Howell expressed appreciation to the following who aided in presenting the sky rodeo: visiting and local pilots, Llano Construction company, E. M. Keller, Fox Rig and Reel company, Pampa Independent School district, Pampa Airport corporation, those who provided courtesy cars, Atlas Tank company, county and city officers and Texas Highway patrol, Boy Scouts, Tarpuley Music store, the BCD, merchants who cooperated by giving discounts on merchandise sold for the show, Dick Martin, announcer of Amarillo, the press and radio.

A ROOSEVELT FOR ENGLAND

One of the most familiar names in American politics and government finds a place in Great Britain's wartime administration with the naming of Kermit Roosevelt, above, son of Theodore Roosevelt, as an official in the British Ministry of Shipping.

Stewart came to Pampa from LePore in 1933. He was a reserve on the Pampa Harvester football team in 1934 and was first string fullback on the big 1935 team. He left school the following year and until a short time ago was employed in the oilfield here.

Raymond Glasco pleaded innocent today on charges of murdering Alvin Andrew (Chub) Stewart, 24, and seriously wounding Stewart's wife. The 45-year-old Granite reformator guard waived a preliminary hearing before Justice Peace J. Thiel who ordered him held for district court trial.

Smith Hester, McClean county attorney, said Glasco made no formal statement. Mrs. Stewart was the widow of Glasco, Ted, before her second marriage. Ted was slain several months ago in a beer tavern altercation. Austin R. Deaton, then Pontotoc county state representative, was acquitted of a murder charge after pleading self-defense in that killing. He claimed he stepped between young Glasco and an acquaintance when they quarreled.

Stewart was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Stewart. First Snow Falls In New York State ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 26 (AP)—The fall's first snow whirled across Northern New York and parts of New England today, falling communication lines and impeding motor travel.

Three inches of snow fell in Malone in Northern New York, where telephone and power lines snapped and highway travel was hindered. Temperatures dropped overnight from the high seventies to near freezing. In Northern Vermont, heavy rain gave way to snowflakes in the early morning and the storm increased in intensity during the forenoon. St. Johnsbury, Me., also reported a heavy snowfall.

Sweden Expected To Settle With Hitler On Her Sea Trade COPENHAGEN, Sept. 26 (AP)—Sweden, holding as a basis for argument ore products desired by Germany, was expected by informed Danish circles today to take prompt steps to settle with Berlin the future of her sea trade. German submarines are reported to have sunk two Swedish and two Finnish ships in less than a week. The captain of the Silesia, Swedish freighter sunk yesterday, said the submarine which torpedoed his ship apparently was directed by planes. Crewmen were given 20 minutes to take to lifeboats. They were rescued by another Swedish steamer.

Allies Also Lose Many Soldiers In Siegfried Battle

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ, JR. BASIL, Switzerland, Sept. 26 (AP)—French troops were reported today to have repulsed with heavy losses a counter-attack launched during the night by Germany's Siegfried line forces in an effort to relieve pressure on key forts near Zweibrücken. The German drive, the reports declared, was caught in a heavy cross-fire from French advance posts and met by a wave of French forces on both flanks. The Nazis were said to have withdrawn into fortifications near Mittelbach, leaving hundreds of dead and many wounded.

The French themselves, the dispatches added, sustained heavy losses during the night in the sector between the Saar river and Blies creek, where they were reported attempting to hold newly-won positions under machine gun fire and a bombardment. The French advance along the road leading to Zweibrücken was said to have passed beyond the little hamlet of Altherbach. Further east the French were reported to have almost surrounded German forts at Fischbach and Ludwigswinkel, Siegfried line outposts.

A German force estimated at several thousand was said, however, to have remained in the vicinity of Fischbach, still linked with the rear by a secondary forest highway. The French advance was delayed frequently by minefields and barbed wire. Neither side has given official or semi-official estimates of losses during the past two days, but reports reaching Basel said French casualties numbered more than a thousand for the period beginning Sunday and ending at noon Monday.

Military observers here said this estimate seemed low for attacking forces on such a wide front, although the French were known to have relied mainly on small patrols for their assaults. Until today's counterattack south of Zweibrücken, the German losses were reported low. French artillery was said to have taken a heavy toll during Monday's barrage, which continued today in some sectors. Despite frequent reports of air battles, including a raid Sunday on German airplane factories at Friederichshafen, neither side seemed anxious to make extensive use of the air arm.

The French planes were reported reversing the bulk of their bombers and fighting planes for swift, concentrated action against French and British land troops in event of a mass attack on the main Siegfried line. In full view from Basel a French observation plane flew over the Rhine today and drew such heavy fire from German anti-aircraft batteries that a squadron of French planes took to the air to rescue it. The French planes wheeled back to French territory before any German planes had risen to meet them.

Davis Appointed To Succeed Teer AUSTIN, Sept. 26 (AP)—Frank Davis, business man of Dallas, is the choice of Governor W. Lee O'Daniel to fill the vacancy on the board of control created by the recent death of Gland D. Teer. A grocery merchant, member of the city council and 37 years old, Davis late yesterday was appointed to the three-member board, which purchases supplies for state departments and manages Texas' far-flung clemency system. The job pays $7,000 a year.

Reds Win First CINCINNATI, Sept. 26 (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds, playing the St. Louis Cardinals in a series that will decide the National League title, won the first game of a double header 5-1 today as Gene Thompson hurled nine-hit ball. Sweetwater Legion Drum And Bugle Corps Wins 7th At Convention CHICAGO, Sept. 26 (AP)—The "Jersey Sketeers" from Hackensack, N. J., ranked today as the best American Legion drum and bugle corps in the land. The "Sketeers" captured the championship last night at Soldier Field. The 55 members of the corps scored 93,499 points in the senior contest. Mustan's Post, Sweetwater, Tex., with 75.90 points, won seventh.

A 'Disciplined' Press Versus A Free Press There is a certain fascination about the speeches of Adolf Hitler. To take one of these speeches and read it carefully, sentence by sentence, is always absorbing, especially if one has previously heard the speech delivered in that hysterical, emotional voice, tuned with such Thespian precision to produce the desired effects.

The Danzig speech, aimed obviously at shaking British and French determination as well as at convincing his own people that any general war would be forced on him by British and French relentlessness, was about the best conceivable statement of Hitler's case. Its general phrases have already been commented upon. But here is a passage that really deserves special attention:

"In democracies one may agitate for war, there foreign regimes, statesmen, and heads of state may be attacked, slandered and vilified, for there freedom of speech and press reign.

"In authoritarian states one may not offer resistance against that, for there discipline rules, and only in states without discipline is it accordingly permissible to agitate for war."

If these statements were true, it would certainly make a powerful case for a "disciplined press." Perhaps as they were shouted in a rapid-fire and hysterical voice, they sounded plausible enough. Certainly the responsibility of agitating for war should not be assumed lightly.

But the moment you read them in cold print, you realize that these words not only are untrue, but the precise opposite is the case.

There is certainly some truth in the charge that the press in democratic countries has often, with some violence, criticized the totalitarian regimes and their leaders. But they have never done so with one-tenth the vigor with which the German press assailed Soviet Russia for 10 years, taking their cue from Hitler's present-day, "We must never forget that the regents of present-day Russia are common blood-stained criminals; that here is the scum of humanity, which, favored by conditions in a tragic hour, butchered and rooted out millions of its leading intellects with savage bloodthirstiness. . . . a nation which combines a rare mixture of bestial horror with an inconceivable gift for lying. . . . And they never have done so with the unanimity compulsory to the German press.

Agitation for war? It is too short a time ago to have forgotten the uniform and simultaneous campaigns of the Gorman press against "oppression of Germans" in Austria, in Czechoslovakia, in Poland, and against the leadership of each country in each case the campaign was obviously staged to whip up enthusiasm for the invasion which promptly followed.

No, it won't do. Under freedom, unquestioned abuses do happen. But under "discipline," when an entire country's press is simply a great pipe organ on which the ruler plays a war theme whenever he wishes, the possibilities and the actual performance of the press as an "agitator for war" is infinitely greater.

On our responsibility in the World War, Rustgard has this to say: "Our misconception of economic forces has made us criminals. Economic education is a most persuasive moral argument for friendly cooperation. Nature did not make human massacres either necessary or advantageous. Obedience to Nature's laws is obedience to the moral code. But this principle is still to be learned."

"Our refusal to exchange the products of our soil was a contributing cause of the World War. Tariff barriers to international trade are the principal causes of present international animosity, armament races, and the Drang nach Osten as well as the Drang nach Westen. Germany must find a place where she can exchange her man-power for wheat and cotton and beef. If we suffer now from wars and threats of wars in other countries, our tariff policy is very largely responsible for the affliction. These facts must be taken into consideration when we weigh the pros and cons of any industrial policy."

The cause of freedom is the cause of God. W. L. Bowles nations will be drawn into a continued war between Germany and France and Great Britain is to be expected. The Italian people, who undoubtedly want to remain out, might be sent in by Mussolini's commitments. That would bring in Turkey on the allied side if the undertakings of the Turkish government are honored. The thought and prospect of the prolonged period of a greater war must still fill many people with the hope that some miracle can yet occur although it seems to be a hope of the faintest kind imaginable.

"EXPERIENCE AND EDUCATION"

Due to the kindness of a school principal, I have had the pleasure of reading John Dewey's book, "Experience and Education." While Dewey makes some statements which seem to be just words, he has drawn some good conclusions, as follows:

"Any experience is miseducative that have the effect of arresting or distorting the growth of further experience. An experience may be such as to engender callousness; it may produce lack of sensitivity and of responsiveness. Then the possibilities of having richer experience in the future are restricted. Again, a given experience may increase a person's automatic skill in a particular direction and yet tend to land him in a groove or rut; the effect again is to narrow the field of further experience. An experience may be immediately enjoyable and yet promote the formation of a slack and careless attitude; this attitude then operates to modify the quality of subsequent experiences so as to prevent a person from getting out of them what they have to give. Again, experiences may be so disconnected from one another that, while each is agreeable or even exciting in itself, they are not linked cumulatively to one another. Energy is then dissipated and a person becomes scatterbrained. Each experience may be lively, vivid, and 'interesting,' and yet their disconnectedness may artificially generate dispersive, disintegrated, centrifugal habits. The consequence of formation of such habits is inability, to control future experiences. They are then taken, either by way of enjoyment or of discontent and revolt, just as they come. Under such circumstances, it is idle to talk of self-control. . . ."

"Hence the central problem of an education based upon experience is to select the kind of present experiences that live fruitfully and creatively in subsequent experiences."

The only qualification, it seems, to the above statement is that these experiences must have respect for other people's equal rights. To attempt to have more experience for the individual himself, that would reduce other people's experiences, certainly is not the proper aim of education.

With this explanation, it seems to me that these are very sound principles to be followed. This, it would seem, would indicate that a combination of work and continued attempt on the part of the student to come in contact with experiences of the past, so as to broaden his viewpoint, would be an ideal approach to the practical education.

I am under obligation to the school man for the loan of the book.

CRIMINALS ON A BIG SCALA As we see the war in Europe, we shudder at the consequence but fail to analyze the part that we have taken in contributing to this war.

On this subject, I have never read a more timely and informative small book than "International Vagaries" by John Rustgard. Those who talk the most against war, invariably are those who know the least as to how they are contributing to the cause of wars. I wish some church would have an intelligent sermon or discussion on the causes of war. All I have ever heard have been vague generalities.

On our responsibility in the World War, Rustgard has this to say: "Our misconception of economic forces has made us criminals. Economic education is a most persuasive moral argument for friendly cooperation. Nature did not make human massacres either necessary or advantageous. Obedience to Nature's laws is obedience to the moral code. But this principle is still to be learned."

"Our refusal to exchange the products of our soil was a contributing cause of the World War. Behind The News Of The Day

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—Although President Roosevelt suggested that this session of Congress need not bother about anything besides neutrality legislation, there is a good chance that it will turn serious attention to the proposition that war and profits ought to be divorced.

Pending on the calendar as carry-overs from the last session are two bills designed to achieve that end—the famous war-taxation bill, introduced by Senator Bone of Washington and sponsored by 49 other senators, and a war finance bill brought in by Senator Lee of Oklahoma.

Senator Lee says flatly that he proposes to bring these two bills to the Senate's attention before the neutrality bill is passed, with the idea that the neutrality issue can be handled most intelligently if Congress first makes it clear to all parties that war would not mean profit to any American.

WANTS PROFIT MOTIVE REMOVED "We're not in a fair position to deal with this question (neutrality) until we remove the motive of self interest," says Senator Lee. "With these two bills enacted, that would be notice to the United States that we'd have no opportunity to profiteer in time of war. Then, I think, we could approach the question of neutrality without the profit motive entering our consideration."

Hordes of fans cheer-movie stars—instead of departing troops. Hordes of humbly confident that the piercing beams from the revolving arcs would reveal nothing deadlier in the air than a high fog. . . .

Weeks when movie people abroad, who went there de luxe and super-super, were glad to get a ride—any kind—just so it was pointed west. Days when the only glamor—years ago when airplanes zoomed overhead bombing the crowds—with gardens. . . . Hordes of fans cheer-movie stars—instead of departing troops. Hordes of humbly confident that the piercing beams from the revolving arcs would reveal nothing deadlier in the air than a high fog. . . .

Days when, practically without precedent, it was actually a tough job to get anybody to talk about motion pictures—because everybody wanted to talk about. . . . headlines. . . .

Days when the war-talk became so habitual that the associate producers set ultimatums instead of starting dates. . . . And David Niven, the Scotsman who went to Sandhurst and was to be called when the British got in, was just one of the actors who paced the walls, waiting, waiting, waiting. . . .

Wonder what Frances Lederer, the peace-advocate and one-time Czech whose country was Munich-ed, thinks about it all. . . . Days when even the vacant-stare, peroxide blonde chorine I saw today, actually reading the front page in stead of the movie chatter and the racing form, can spell D-A-N-T-Z-I-G—and doesn't think it's what Zorina, Astaire and Eleanor Powell do for a living. . . .

Days of trial and we for the movie press agents. . . . Imagine how they're felt trying to interest city editors in yarns about Priscilla Lane's favorite foods or Ann Sheridan's "comph" at the moment—apply sleepily graduated income taxes in time of war. These would start at three per cent on $2000 of net income and would run up to 9.9 per cent on $10,000,000 incomes.

It is based pretty largely on the revelations the famous Senate munitions committee made a few years ago about World War profits. Senator Nye, who had a hand in putting it together, admits that it is an extremely drastic bill and says grimly, "We intended it to be."

In effect, its aim would be to confiscate all war profits.

Senator Lee's bill, commonly called the "draft capital bill," would pick up any loose change that the Bone bill chanced to miss. In its essentials, it would do these things:

People You Know

By Archer Fullingim

Concerning boats, the Lard and Hinger houses, Ginger Rogers. . . . Customers of Jim and Francis Green who carry the News to oil field and Wheeler county readers will be interested to know that the Green boys recovered their outboard motor at Lake Pauline Sunday, a week to the very hour after it dropped off the boat while Mrs. Green was steering it. When Jim lost it, he offered a $15 reward for the return of the motor and people have been diving for it all week without success.

Before Jim and Francis went back Sunday they devised an iron rake that got the job done in about an hour. They found it in 12 feet of water at a spot where they took it the water was 22 feet deep. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lard have made their place on the highway east of the edge of the town one of the prettiest places in the country. Recently they finished remodeling their house which is built of native rock brought from near Wellington. They got the idea to build their house out of the rock from Bill Francis' fence. The Lard house is set a nice distance back from the highway in a grove of trees. The grass lawn is also a beauty, and the house is now the right size for the lawn. . . . And that reminds us of Oscar Hinger, Guerilla coach, who built his own house this summer on East Twiford. It has four rooms and a bath and Oscar built every stick of it, they say. Oscar, you will remember, married last Christmas. . . . There are no vulgar, Esquith cracks in the picture, but "Fifth Avenue Girl," starring Ginger Rogers, now at the Crown, has more good laughs in it than anything you have seen since her "Bachelor Mother."

When even a synthetic feed (like the B. Davis-M. Hopkins thing for "The Old Maid") doesn't get a nod. . . . And for a Hopkins divorce trip to Reno, even accompanied by Kay Francis, matrimony bent, gets a couple of inches of space. . . . Lean pickings. . . . say when a p. a. leased at this desk, just long enough to inquire, "How does it feel, fella, to be writing something really important now—like Hollywood stuff?" . . . Today when—huh? What did that guy say?

The bonds would not be tax-exempt, and would pay 1 per cent interest. Senator Lee remarks that the Bone bill would take the profits made in war time by commerce and industry, and that his bill would take the profits formerly made by financiers.

While Senator Lee prepares to bring both measures to the Senate's attention, the Senate isolationists who are fighting the President's neutrality program are reserving their fire—with the Bone bill held in reserve.

If it develops that the neutrality revision urged by the President is sure to pass, or if it actually does pass, then the plan now is to push for passage of the Bone bill—the theory that, if selling munitions to France and England should make American entrance into the war more likely, this measure would make war so obviously unprofitable that the danger would decrease.

Just incidentally, it might be remembered that the Bone bill was formerly sponsored by 50 senators, a clear majority—so that unless some of them have changed their minds since last March, it would be practically certain to pass. It also has strong support in the House.

The Family Doctor

In predicting that influenza is almost certain to be widespread again in this new war, Dr. Thomas M. Rivers of Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research points out that we have not as yet any effective weapon either for the prevention or treatment of this plague.

Sensational writers talk about the possibility of the use of germs and bacteria by invading armies as a means of killing off the population in invaded countries. The epidemic diseases require no distribution by invading forces; they follow as a matter of course upon the movements as death comes by the explosion of a hand grenade.

The picture of the epidemics in wars has changed constantly from the great wars of earlier days to the world conflicts of our modern times. Changes have been brought about by new medical discoveries which have made possible the control of certain forms of infection. Germs like man—change constantly, however, and even the old diseases are replaced by new diseases.

Typhoid fever, once the greatest of plagues among troops in camp and on the march, is now controlled by the sanitation method, provision of safe water supplies and the use of antityphoid inoculations. Venereal diseases, which used to devastate troops, are now controlled by strict regulations relative to the action of men on leave, by the provision of prophylactic stations and by modern scientific treatment with newly discovered drugs.

In the last World War pneumonia killed many hundreds of thousands among all the warring nations. The lives of these soldiers might have been saved had we used at that time the newly discovered sulfanilamide and sulfapyridine and specific anti-pneumonia serums. For influenza sulfanilamide is not a specific and sulfapyridine apparently will not bring about control.

In the last war gas gangrene destroyed the life of many a soldier. Today there are new drugs for preventing and controlling that condition.

Germs will not be used by the warring nations in order to bring about disease and consternation among the civilian population. Scientists of all nations know that an epidemic started in one area may spread promptly to other areas in the same country and across borders into the land responsible for initiating this type of warfare. An epidemic once begun is likely to be far more devastating to masses of men assembled in camps than it is to the civilian population.

Cards And Reds Play Doubleheader Today

Bucky Walter To Hur! For Wonder Team

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 26 (AP)—Down go the chips and you may know who's the better man when darkness settles over the Smoky Hill Creek valley tonight.

Everything is set. The weatherman has promised to hold off on rain. The field is perfect. The crowd likely will be 32,000 men, women, and children.

All they have to do now is play the game. The first-place Cincinnati Reds, Bill McKechnie's 20-year wonder meets the second-place St. Louis Cardinals, just 3½ games behind, in a doubleheader that means more to Cincinnati than any world series.

And if those Reds, who just two years ago were a band of cast-offs from McKechnie to the batboy, can pack away both of today's games, it's the end and bring on your Yankees.

There are but five games left for both teams after today and a double win would give the Reds a 5½-game lead, which, as mathematics goes, would be enough.

McKechnie is depending on one of baseball's great pitchers for one of his best.

Grover Austin Wins Perryton Golf Tourney

Special To The NEWS
PERRYTON, Sept. 24.—Grover Austin, Pampa's ace golfer, kept up his winning ways here Sunday by winning the Perryton invitation tournament over 50 crack golfers. V. Price of Shattuck, Oklahoma, was runner-up and Jim Bradford won the consolation in the championship flight.

J. E. Gunn of Spearman defeated M. N. Davis, Canadian, in an extra session to take the "A" flight after the two had tied on the medal play. C. F. McGinnis, Pampa, turned in a neat 36 to take consolation in this flight.

Zade Watkins of Pampa won the "B" flight with Dick Swartwood of Canadian as runner-up. In the "C" flight the winnings were purely a Spearman affair. J. B. Cook took top honors in this session with R. Russell runner-up. Bill McClellan made it a city affair by taking consolation honor. Canadian, Spearman and Pampa had the largest out of town delegations.

The meet was run off in expert fashion and proved a success in every way. Many compliments were passed on the sporty course, which is conceded to be one of the best in the southwest.

Four Pampa Elevens Will Play Friday

Four Pampa football teams will be in action Friday, two at night and two in the afternoon—the Harvesters, Guerillas, Reapers and Pee-wees.

Headline attraction will be the game between the Pampa Harvesters and the Central Cardinals of Oklahoma City to be called at 8 o'clock under the lights at Harvesters park. The Harvesters will take the field in good shape, not a single boy receiving a serious injury in the Casper, Wyo., game last Friday night.

Offense was stressed in yesterday's long workout with blocking a major factor. Pass defense was also in the order of business.

The line got a real working over from Coach J. C. Frejman. It was five forward wall that caused most of the trouble in Casper, coaches reported yesterday. The Casper backs roared through huge holes in the center of the Pampa line for nearly three quarters, the coaches reminded their charges.

Receivers practicing Pass receivers are scheduled to get a working over today. At least 12 of the 19 passes hurled Friday night should have been completed. Once Heiskell let a ball drop thru his arms while standing unmolested behind the Casper goal line. Again Green let one get completely away while in scoring position. Several others that should have been caught without much effort, sailed away.

Most improvement since the Vernon game was noticed in Co-Captain Glen Nichols, end, coaches said. Nichols played a good defensive game and was smoother on offense.

Central High will present 11 lettermen against the Harvesters. They will not only have experience on their side, but will have weight and size. Oklahoma having the 20-year age limit.

First Home Game Although, labeled the underdogs, the Harvesters have decided that it would be much better to upset, a heavy favorite than to win their first game from an underdog or an equal. Also, it will be the first home appearance for the Harvesters this season.

The Guerillas of Coach Oscar Hinger will meet the Class A Canadian Wildcats in Canadian Friday night at 8 o'clock. The Guerillas made an excellent showing against Smettern here last Friday night, although losing 6 to 0.

Coach C. P. McWright and his Junior High Reapers will play Sam Houston junior high in Amarillo. It will be an afternoon game and a league meeting.

The Junior High Pee-wees of Coach Jack Davis will play the Panhandle Pee-wees in the afternoon, place to be decided.

8 Pitchers Hurl As Vols Square Dixie Series 9-8

Two Millions Spent For Texas Grid Fields In Last 2 Years

By FELIX R. MCKNIGHT
FORT WORTH, Sept. 26 (AP)—Square at a game piece after a fantastic 10-inning demonstration last night, Fort Worth and Nashville today travelled to the lair of the Southern Association champions to resume their Dixie Series struggle.

Nashville powered and finessed its way to a 9-8 decision in a game that had 29 players—including eight pitchers—on a merry-go-round of 26 base hits, four errors and lead juggling.

Both clubs have used just about all their pitching talent in the first two games, but after the day of rest it was expected George Jeffcoat, who finished last night in good style for Nashville, and Fred (Fip) Marberry would be the chunkeys for the Wednesday night opener at Nashville.

Two aces, silent Sam Nahem of Nashville and Fort Worth's Ed Greer, who had won 26 games this season until last night's game, were tagged freely.

Hard working Lee Stebbins, Fort Worth first sacker, gambled on a double play in the tenth inning, threw the ball away and sent Chas. Gilbert, Nashville runner, all the way from first to third to set up Nashville's winning run. Chapman drove a sacrifice fly deep to centerfield and Gilbert trotted in. Stebbins had speared an attempted buff off Williams' bat when he wheeled and threw into right field trying to double Gilbert off first.

Fort Worth shaved off a 3-2 lead Nashville held through their half of the fifth with a five-run splurge in their turn at the plate. Chapman singled, stole second and Stoneham walked. Nahem bobbled Cazen's bunt and all were safe. Frank Metha, who drove in three runs, singled across Chatham and Stoneham and then stole second. Cazen was forced out at the plate on Stebbins' grounder but Kearse singled across Metha. Kott's single scored Stebbins and Kearse. Greer was massaged for three runs in the seventh, Gilbert opening with a bunt and scoring on Chapman's home run drive into the right field stands. Haas doubled and came in on George's two-baser.

The Giants counted twice in the ninth on Haas' infield hit, Rodica's single and Rospond's twisting single to center. Metha, who had reached base on a forcout, scored when McDowell threw in to second base after retrieving the ball.

Fort Worth knotted it in the ninth when Stoneham opened with a terrific double against left field. He went out at third on Cazen's sacrifice bunt, but Metha tripled to right, scoring Cazen.

game today, probably the opener. The fellow is William Henry Walters, known as Bucky, who has won 27, including the last six straight. He is also depending on a yearling who is no lamb, Gene Thompson, who has an 11-5 record.

Manager Ray Blades of the Cards is calling on Curt Davis and Morton Cooper. Curt has beaten the Reds four or five times. Mort carried Paul Derringer to a 3-all tie last month.

The burden of proof is on the Cards, whom the Reds ousted from first place 'way back in May with four straight victories.

The strange thing about this Card set is that people make more of it than of the possibility of the World Series. Around the barber shops and slippery spoon joints you hear, "I'd rather see the St. Louis games. They'll be more fun."

Perryton Alleys Will Open Oct. 2

Special To The NEWS
PERRYTON, Sept. 26.—The formal opening of Ranger bowling alleys will be held next Monday evening, Oct. 2, and work is being rushed to have all the alleys completed by that time. Some of the painting will have to be done at night in order to be ready for the opening.

A special program is being arranged and neighboring towns will be invited to send their crack bowlers here for the formal opening, according to T. D. "Doc" Moss, manager.

There is lots of interest being shown in the opening of the new alleys here. A number of business firms have already signified their intention of entering teams in the league which Mr. Moss plans to organize. A number of ladies teams will be organized according to plans.

Reds Favored To Win First Game In Series With Cards

By BILL WHITE
Associated Press Sports Writer

The road that is paved with good intentions is no more heavily trafficked today than the road that leads to Cincinnati's Crosley field.

For at the end of that concrete rainbow is the handsomest pot of gold any baseball fan could ask. And on the result of today's doubleheader may depend the hopes for a National League championship of the Radiant Reds or the Courageous Cardinals of St. Louis.

A split in the four-game series will not be good enough for the Cardinals. They must win all four, and even then the Reds can slip into the world series. A pair of victories now would give Cincinnati its first pennant in 20 years.

The standings as they go into their four game series:
Cincinnati 93 54 . . . 7
St. Louis 89 57 3½ 7 (x)
(x) One game with New York cancelled.

The Reds, playing at home and with Bucky Walters on the mound, are favored to win the first game. One betting commissioner has the odds 5 to 8 on Cincinnati and 7 to 5 against the Cardinals, although with any other pitcher working for the Reds, the price is 5 to 6 and take your choice.

High School And Kiwanis Golfers Lose In Amarillo

Bill Miskimins, Jr., won his match with a 68. Roy Ray shot even par and Maurice Ray was four over par and both lost.

Yesterday's Kiwanis club matches, Amarillo players listed first, follow:

SERIAL STORY

WORKING WIVES

BY LOUISE HOLMES

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday Marian blamed Dan's lack of ambition for the failure of their marriage. When she began with Dolly about her own life...

CHAPTER XIX
WITHOUT speaking to Dan, Marian went back to her own apartment and prepared for bed. It was a rite and she never neglected one detail.

The next morning she awoke to cold reality. The fortifying wall had crumbled during the night and with difficulty she erected it again.

"We haven't much except each other," Dan said. "He answered brusquely, 'We lost such other a long time ago.'"

"How?" fearfully. "He scowled. 'I wouldn't know. We haven't hung together. We haven't had the same interests.'"

"Is it too late for us to go back and try again?" "It's afraid so. The thread which held us together has stretched and stretched and finally snapped. I think it snapped last Sunday night."

Frantically, she asked, "Couldn't we find the ends and tie them together again? It might not be just the same, but better than this, Dan, I need you."

His laugh jarred on her overwrought sensibilities. "Think it over, Marian, and you'll find that you don't need me at all, not in any way."

MARIAN got from the car at the building entrance. Without a word, she hurried through the revolving doors. She was furious. She had humbled herself to Dan Harkness for the last time.

Turning to the mirror, she looked into terrified eyes and the anger rolled away, leaving her shaken and filled with dread. What if the doctor had been right? Why had Dan stopped loving her now—oh, why? She needed him, never had she needed him so desperately.

A little voice whispered, "He's always failed you. What did you expect?"

With tightly compressed lips, she went to her desk, lifted the paper knife and began going through the mail.

The morning passed on leaden feet of duty. Marian felt Mr. Fellows' eyes upon her, speculative, somehow regretful.

By finding a new job for herself, she had again defeated her purpose. With Sally constantly at Mr. Fellows' elbow, it meant that Marian lost intimate touch with office affairs.

It meant that, more and more, Sally would be consulted, that she would know the answers. Making the charts was a routine task; any one of the girls, with a little help, could have done it.

Why had she let herself in for such a tragic miscarriage of plans? SHORTLY before noon Carmo called. Marian was in no mood for Carmo.

"How about lunch today?" she asked. "I'm so sorry," Marian lied. "I have an engagement today."

There was a little disappointed silence, then, "I wanted to ask a favor of you."

"I'll do anything, Carmo." "I thought you might see Randy Means—I have a feeling that he's interested in Dolly. Am I right or wrong?" trying to be flippant.

"More or less right." "I thought so. Wouldn't you know it, Marian? Men are such fools, a pretty baby stare—the 'little woman' complex—"

There was a weary, bewildered bitterness in her voice. "Listen, Carmo—I'm supposed to be working."

"Oh, yes—sorry. This is what I wanted to say. I just learned that the girl Pete married—Julie—the name on her lips had a twisted sound—"

"was Randy's secretary." "I know." "Find out about her, will you, Marian? How old is she? Where did she come from? Are they happy or—"

she had not told Carmo that. No use keeping the thing alive. The sooner she found a life of her own, a life in which Pete and his wife did not exist, the happier she would be.

Carmo pounced. "Where are you going to see her?" "I don't know just where we are going," Marian hedged. "Randy is having a little dinner—"

"Oh, Randy—he lives at the Medinah Club, he always entertains there—he said the food was the finest in Chicago—hm-m."

Although they were miles apart, Marian could read her thoughts. "Is it a party, Marian?"

"Randy is taking Dolly, Dan, and me. He included Pete and—"

and Julie. "I see. Tomorrow, then," Carmo sounded hurried.

MARIAN fretted over the situation. She considered asking Randy to change the location of his dinner. Finally, assuring herself that Carmo had too much poise and dignity to do anything melodramatic, she forgot her.

Marian left the office early. At the beauty parlor, her own special operator combed her hair and changed the polish on her nails. Dan picked her up and they drove home in a nerve-destraining silence.

Later, dressed in the new Eisenberg, Marian might have stepped from the cover of a fashion magazine. Even her face might have belonged to the pictured girl, lifeless, carefully expressionless.

She and Dan went to Dolly's apartment to await Randy's coming. Dolly's attire, aided and abetted by Marian, was above reproach.

There was a beautiful sheen to her amber-colored hair, the little pancake hat sat cunningly over one eye. The black suit fitted her round, pretty figure snugly, her white gloves were new, not a sign of a handkerchief was visible.

Inner radiance softened her eyes and sweetly curved her lips. Dan looked from her to Marian and back again.

Randy came and Marian was amazed at Dolly's easy, charming manner. They drove to the club in Randy's car, long and low, streamlined as a torpedo.

Marian and Dan sat in the wide back seat, far apart, an eternity apart in spirit. Weariness dragged at Marian. The evening had become a test of endurance.

At the club, going with Dolly to the ladies' lounge, Marian's heart skipped a beat. Had she seen Carmo at the top of the steps which led to the bar? It couldn't have been Carmo. She had been mistaken. In spite of herself, she had a chilled sense of foreboding.

That woman going down to the bar—she had only seen her back—dark purple gown—rich furs—had Carmo mentioned a purple ensemble? (To Be Continued)

Oil In Hands Of 20 Companies, Federal Questioners Told

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—The federal monopoly committee's investigation of the oil industry began today with a statement from its economic adviser that conditions of modern warfare made it imperative for state and federal governments to do more toward conserving petroleum resources.

Dr. John Lee of the University of Kansas, the adviser, told the committee that America's oil resources were vast but not unlimited and that within a time which is short in the life of a nation a decline in production might begin.

"Some of our states," he said, "have gone far in their recognition of the public aspects of oil exploitation, and in their efforts to prevent the wasting of natural resources. There is little doubt that they must go much farther, and that the federal government will have to render much more help than it has hitherto been able to offer."

He told Chairman O'Mahoney and the other committee members that the oil business was largely in the hands of 20 large integrated companies and that "in various respects the industry presents a picture suggestive of monopoly."

Ex-Soldier Given 5 Years In Slaying

HOLBROOK, Ariz., Sept. 26 (AP)—Superior Judge John P. Clark sentenced Leland King, 22-year-old former soldier of Post, Tex., to five to seven years in the Arizona prison today for the fatal beating of Walter Dickson, Spur, Tex., merchant, near here July 15.

King, a hitchhiker who caught a ride with Dickson across New Mexico, was convicted by a jury Saturday of manslaughter, which carries a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison.

There was no indication the defense would appeal. Sheriff Dan Dreibuss left at noon to take King to the prison at Florence.

Dickson, 64, was found July 17, unconscious and suffering from exposure, two days after he and King fought on U. S. highway 86, immediately east of here. King said they argued over Dickson's loss of $50 in a dice game, and that Dickson finally drew a gun on him. He took the gun away from Dickson, he said, and clubbed the aged man over the head.

King was arrested in Portales, N. M., several days later.
