13 Locations Staked In Panhandle Field

County Leads Entire Area In Activity

Activity in the Panhandle oilfield became normal again last week for the first time since the state-wide shutdown. Ten oil wells were gauged and given an overflow potential of 3,778 barrels, two gas wells were gauged for 47,497,000 cubic feet and 13 new locations were staked.

Gray county once more led all activity, reporting six of the new oil wells with a potential of 1,913 barrels and five of the new locations. Hutchinson county reported two completions and four new locations—chiefs Carson county had two new wells and two locations. The other two first intentions filed were in the gas area of Moore county.

The Skelly Oil company staked a location for its 100th oil well on the vast Schafer ranch in Carson and Gray counties. The company's No. 59 Schafer ranch was completed last week for 515 barrels which proves the area holding up exceptionally well.

Stanolind Oil & Gas company staked four new locations during the week, three in Hutchinson county and one in Gray county.

The Panhandle's most interesting wildcat, the E. J. Dunigan Trustee No. 1 Ledrick in Roberts county, was reported plunging back to test a pay. Depth could not be learned.

Completions, by counties, follow:

IN GRAY COUNTY

Magnolia Petroleum Co., No. 4. W. C. Archer, section 139, block 3, I&GN survey, gauged 123 barrels with lime formation between 3,185 and 3,217 feet.

Magnolia Petroleum Co., No. C-1, J. S. Morse, section 68, block 25, H&GN survey, tested 253 barrels. Pay was in granite wash formation from 2,590 to 2,656 feet.

Shell Petroleum Corp., No. 12 T. B. Haggard, section 112, block 3, I&GN survey, gauged 393 barrels with pay between 3,215 and 3,295 feet in lime.

Shell Petroleum Corp., No. 13 T. B. Haggard, section 112, block 3, I&GN survey, tested 395 barrels. Pay was in lime from 3,225 to 3,295 feet.

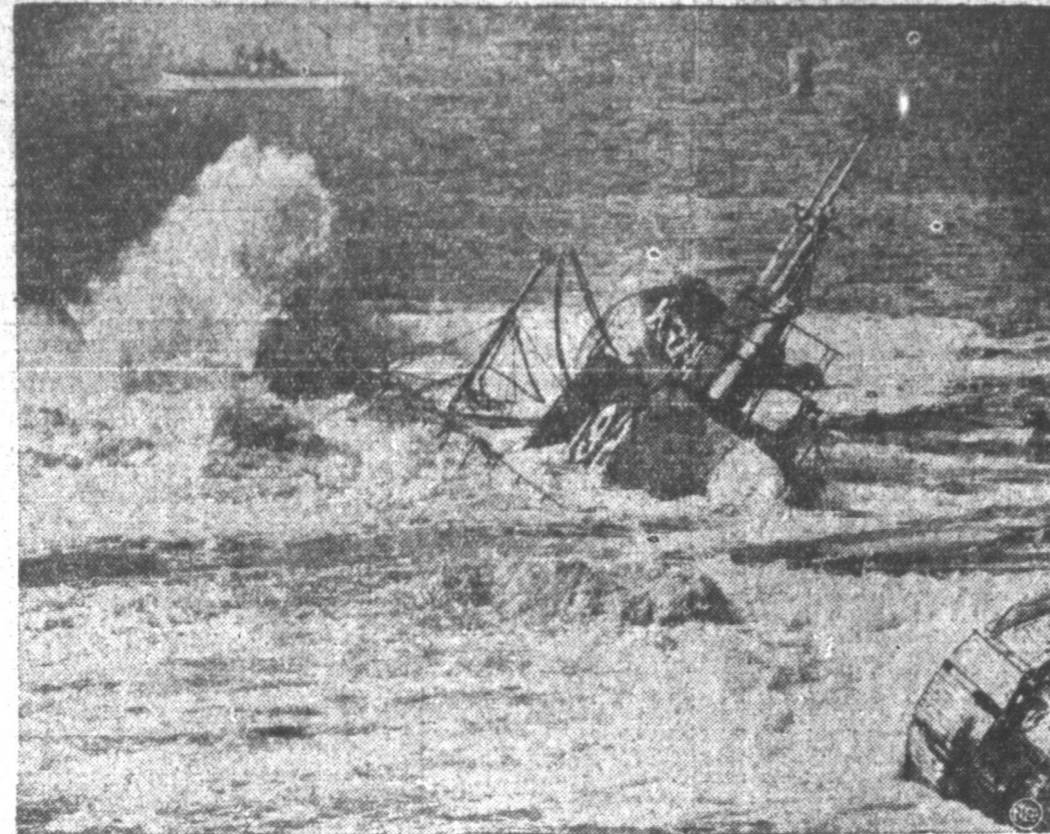

Stanolind Oil & Gas Co., No. 11 Kinzer, section 148, block 3, I&GN survey, gauged 314 barrels with lime pay from 3,301 to 3,314 feet.

Stanolind Oil & Gas Co., No. 7 Merton, section 87, block 3, I&GN survey, tested 433 barrels with pay from 3,227 to 3,252 feet in lime.

IN CARSON COUNTY

Skelly Oil Co., No. 89 Schafer, section 193, block 3, I&GN survey, was

England Likely To Get Air Assignment In War Against Hitler, And France Army

France's Gamelin, extreme left, pictured on a recent visit to Aldershot, English training camp. Gamelin is slated for command of joint Anglo-French armies.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—As the old allies of 1914-'18—England and France—settle down again to the prosecution of a new war upon Germany, General Marie Gustave Gamelin will in all probability have supreme command of the combined armies and air forces of the combined air forces.

The reason is obvious. France has the largest army in the line-up of the democracies and England has the biggest industrial plant for creation of more air-planes.

French Don't Know Their Greatest Soldier

Gamelin is a paradox. He has been invested with more power by his country than any man since Napoleon. Foch was merely made a marshal, but Gamelin is commander-in-chief of all the French armed forces. The paradox is that this quiet, capable, good-looking, hard-working man is not well known to his countrymen and has up to now not captured their imagination as did Joffre and Foch.

He comes from a military family. He of course attended the famous French West Point—St. Cyr Academy. He was the most brilliant graduate of his year. His teacher was Foch. By the time he was 24 he was a lieutenant who had done fine military survey work in Algeria and Tunis. In the great war he served directly under Joffre.

The war over, he went on a military mission to Brazil in 1923. In 1925 he put down the Druse 1912 graduated as a pilot. In 1913 he joined the Royal Air Force.

In the World War he served in France and then came back to London as Deputy Director General of Military Aeronautics. In January, 1918, he became Director General. In 1922 he commanded the Royal Air Force in the Middle East, and in 1923 was made head of the air force in India.

Later he became Chief of Air Defense of Britain. In 1929 he became Air Marshal and in January of this year Air Chief Marshal. He has traveled in Canada, Australia, Palestine and Malta, inspecting the empire's air forces.

There were only 700 inhabitants until the oil rush began and four rail lines started a race to see which would be first to reach the rich metropolis. Three were being built from the south—Ranger, Eastland and Cisco—and one from the north, out of Graham. No such race had ever been seen in the history of rail-roading.

Breckenridge Saw Greatest Railroad Race In History

BRACKENRIDGE, Sept. 16.—With a population of 20,000 during its great oil boom of 20 years ago, Breckenridge had the distinction of being the biggest town in the United States without a railroad. J. D. Sanderfer, Jr., general chairman of the homecoming, reminisced today. The celebration—highlighted by a parade and a football game between Abilene and Breckenridge high schools—will be held Sept. 22 and 23.

Horres and mules were kings of the transportation world until the advent of the "iron horse." Thousands of teams were used to haul the heavy boilers and other oil field equipment, as well as all kinds of supplies. Even ox teams were in service. Many trucks likewise were used but frequent rains made the unpaved roads heavy going in those days.

It is recalled that a man paid $30 as the fare for himself and a friend to a service car driver who set out from Cisco for Breckenridge, a distance of 30 miles, with the expectation of completing the journey in six hours. After bogging down several times, the automobile finally was abandoned by the two passengers who spent the night in a farm-house, paid $5 for bed and breakfast, then induced the farmer, for $12, to hitch his horses to the car.

Envoy Lange To Preach At Two Churches

Envoy Frederick M. Lange of Dallas, state public relations secretary of the Salvation Army, will preach at two Pampa churches today.

This morning he will occupy the pulpit at the First Christian church, speaking on the topic "Pure Hearts." Tonight, he will appear at the First Methodist church to preach on the subject "Which Way?"

Envoy Lange arrived in Pampa Friday morning. In the afternoon he conferred with members of the local Salvation Army advisory board, of which Arthur M. Teed is chairman.

With members of the board and with Captain Herman C. Lambrecht the envoy discussed plans for the coming year. Envoy Lange has conducted the Army's financial efforts here for the past two years.

From Pampa Envoy Lange will go to Washington, D. C., and will then accompany Brigadier W. G. Gilks to the Legion's national convention in Chicago. The convention dates are September 25-28.

The Salvation Army brigadier, who has been in Pampa several times, is also state chaplain of the American Legion, and has been mentioned as a candidate for the office of national chaplain.

After the trip to the convention, Envoy Lange will return to Pampa the first of October.

between 5,000 and 6,000 feet" Mr. Dunigan said yesterday.

The test was the third to be drilled in the area during the past six years. All three tests showed oil pay, but none apparently in producing quantity.

Many Pampans still feel that there is oil northeast of Pampa and other tests may be drilled.

Harvesters Look Strong On Defense

By HARRY E. HOARE
Sports Editor, The Pampa News

VERNON, Sept. 16.—Pat Gerald, Vernon Lions, 1938 District 2 champion, showed plenty of reason why they are expected to repeat this year when they beat the Pampa Harvesters 13 to 7 here Friday night. Both teams displayed hot and cold football as they scuffled under better than 80-degree temperature without a breeze strong enough to blow a feather.

The Harvesters got most of the breaks of the game and they took advantage of one to score a touchdown. Little Grover Heiskell, who led the Harvesters attack, scooted 20 yards across the pay line almost on his own. He penetrated the Vernon line on a quick-opening play and then cut out, side-stepping and jumping over tacklers to cross the goal line standing up. Pete Dunaway added the extra point from placement.

It was a fumble that paved the way for Vernon's first touchdown but it was Heiskell's ball fumble that made the touchdown possible when Wilson skirted the end on a tricky reverse that fooled the Harvesters' defense. Shovel passes, short ones from Judd to a teammate behind the line, fooled the Harvesters and gave Vernon the winning touchdown. Wilson again scored, pacing 18 yards through a flock of Harvesters tacklers who were unable to stop him although he was thrown off balance several times.

Harvesters Show Promise
The Harvesters showed plenty of possibilities although at times they were ragged and disorganized. Defense was a highlight. Dunaway, playing with a sprained ankle, was unable to function properly on offense but his defensive work was outstanding.

When Nickls had to move to end in place of the injured Terrell, who suffered a twisted knee that will probably keep him on the sidelines for two weeks, the Harvesters forward wall was temporarily disrupted but the boys soon settled down to business. Maynard, who replaced Nichols at center, played an effective game backing up the line.

Greatest improvement was noted in the work of G. Candie who played much of the game in the Vernon backfield despite his size. Oldens and Face showed great possibilities at the guard positions while Roland Phillips was a good punting mate for Candie. Clemmons injured a leg and had to be replaced by Mullings who came up with several fine plays. Montgomery, Cox, Giles and Bailey substituted effectively.

To Casper This Week
The Harvesters will leave Wednesday morning for Casper, Wyo. where they play Friday night. Before then, however, Coach Oden Mitchell and J. C. Prejan plan to do a lot of work on pass offense and defense and other weaknesses which showed up Friday night.

Dilbeck Hurls Oilers To 5-1 Win Over Lubbock

Play Hard for Softball Spectre

Lefty Rex Dilbeck pitched one of the best games of his career here Friday night to give the Pampa Oilers their first game of the Shaugnessy playoff series with the Lubbock Hubbers, 5 to 1. Dilbeck limited the slugger Hubbers to six well scattered blows but five of the six hits were doubles.

Lubbock needed the win to clinch the title, now held by them, while they also needed the win to stay in the running. Manager Saker Parker sent Bridwell to the mound but he gave up nine hits and walked four. Dilbeck's support was wakened with Joe Saporito making three putouts and six assists without an error and Bob Bailey and Joe Phillips coming up with diamond studded plays at critical times.

The Oilers scored first in the third inning on consecutive singles by Saporito, Phillips and Selts after Jordan's single, a walk to Bailey and Beavers' timely single added one to the Oiler score in the next inning.

Then came the fifth. Saporito opened with a single and Phillips was safe on a sacrifice when Saker for Saporito at second failed. Selts flied out but Summers came through with a single and runs came across on fielders choices by Malvia and Jordan.

Manager Saker pulled Mosel, his first baseman, in the fifth after he had made great plays on wild heaves by Bridwell. Both errors were charged against Mosel, and not against Mosel, who was never even get near the ball.

After the kickoff Crooks intercepted a Dunaway pass and raced for a touchdown but the play was called back. A minute later the Harvesters recovered a fumble on the Vernon 20 and Heiskell raced off tackle on a quick-opening play and scored. Dunaway added the extra point at the whistle.

Fourth Quarter
Carlie dropped Wilson for a 9-yard loss to open the final quarter. Heiskell followed by intercepting a pass from Wilson. When he saw he was surrounded, he threw a lateral to Mathews, who had replaced Green, and Mathews loped 18 yards before being halted. Heiskell and Carlie made two first downs in a row to put the ball on the Vernon 20. Carlie made eight paces but three drives straight into the line failed to pick up a first down and the ball went over on the Vernon 11 yard line. It was then that Maxon booted the ball 75 yards and Heiskell was able to return only 14 yards after chasing the ball nearly to his goal line.

SERIAL STORY

WORKING WIVES

BY LOUISE HOLMES

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, Marian's guests arrived for the anniversary party...

CHAPTER XI

They dined informally and with much gaiety, Dan serving...

"Friends and fellow citizens," he began ceremoniously, and Marian gazed at him with pride in her eyes...

"We are gathered together..."

"Well, listen to it, my good woman, and mend your ways..."

"Dan thundered, 'May I have your attention?'"

"All eyes turned back to him..."

"We are gathered together in celebration of an event, the greatest event of my life..."

"There was an instant of silence around the table..."

"The nod seemed to say that their agreement had been fulfilled..."

"Dan threw back his head. He laughed, his voice lightened..."

"FURIOUS tears burned behind Marian's eyes, but her lips did not relax their smile..."

So he was to provide, was he? Well, why hadn't he? And she was to keep his house...

They left the table and a girl appeared from somewhere to whisk the dishes into the kitchen...

"I can't be 12 years since I saw you," Marian began...

"I hate to think of our last meeting," Amy Ellen laughed...

"I don't mind telling you that it got a lot worse before it got better..."

"We moved into one room, we scarcely had enough to eat..."

"I don't know—I never was hungry," No, the only hunger Marian had ever known was for imported gowns...

"The worst day was when Bill sold my engagement ring..."

"Only for the baby. He was ours, Bill's and mine..."

"Tell me about it," Marian said urgently. She must find the intervening pictures...

"The money got down to $5—then $2..."

"Why didn't you go to work, Amy Ellen? Girls can always get something to do..."

"I remember—you spoke of oranges and cod liver oil..."

to the question. I want to understand your side..."

"I had to let Bill do it," Amy Ellen said. "My mother went out and got a job when the going was hard for Father..."

"Did Bill feel that way, too? When the money gave out didn't he want you to help him—for the baby?"

"Just a little one at first. I'll never forget the first Saturday night. He brought his pay check home and put it in my lap..."

"He had done it himself—without help. When he's an old man he can always remember that he took care of his family..."

"Marian looked at Bill, his head bent over a book..."

"He has to be," Amy Ellen laughed. "With a wife and four children..."

"Four children—think of it," "They're cute, Marian," Her eyes shone, her smile was soft and sweet...

"When each baby came along, Bill had to do better. I suppose it is just a coincidence, but with every baby Bill went up another step..."

"Will he stop now—if there are no more babies?"

"Goodness, no. He wants me to have more help, he's thinking about college and a house with six bedrooms..."

"Marian clasped and unclasped her hands while her eyes looked into Amy Ellen's life. The joys it held—the richness. She said, "Thank you for telling me, Amy Ellen, and I went to the hall. Randy and Dolly were dancing together. They weren't talking nor laughing, just dancing. There was something in the way he held her. Dan and Carmo romped past and Marian caught at Carmo's arm..."

"Cut, please," she said. "I want to dance with my husband." (To Be Continued)

Germany Should Be Well-Supplied For TNT Raw Materials

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—A harmless-looking powder resembling maple sugar, trinitrotoluene (TNT), discovered in 1863, is still the standard high explosive of the world's armies.

Germany, as a major manufacturer of dyestuffs, should be well supplied with TNT raw materials derived from dyes. France may still be using some picric acid, dangerous as it is, while the British again may be employing amatol.

Some military observers believe that no valuable new explosive has been invented since the World War, though combinations of the old ones have been made. Information on such novelties as Spain's "liquid air" bombs is incomplete.

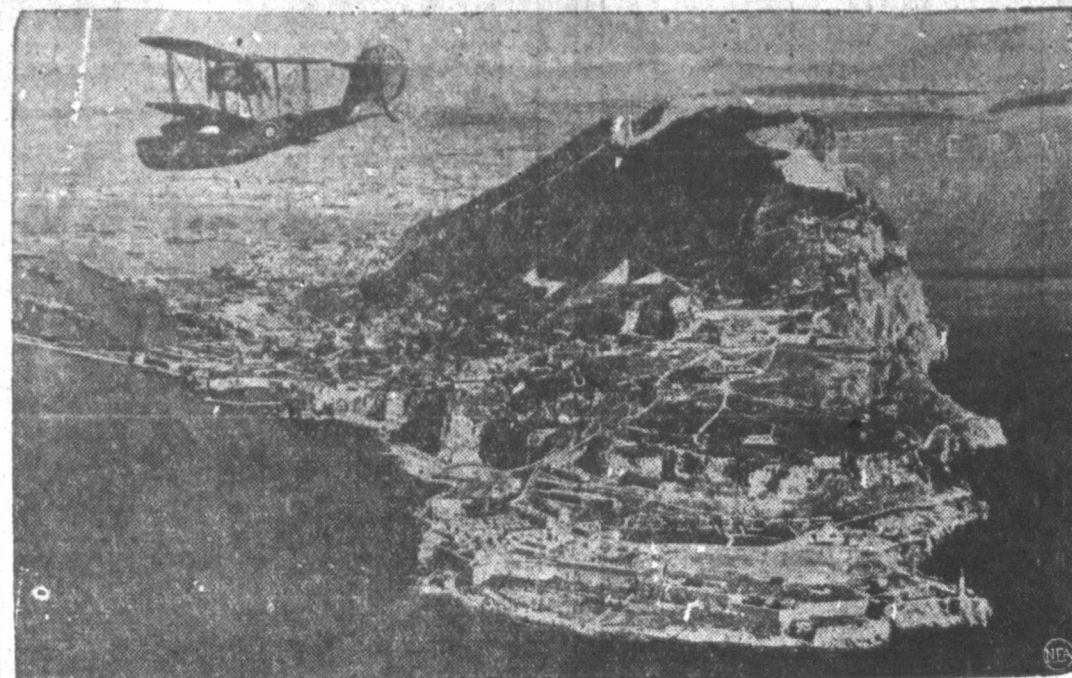

Experts say that comparatively few substances can be employed as military high explosives because not only their strength but other properties must be considered, such as sensitivity, stability, and action on metals. Liquid air, for example, deteriorates quickly.

Panhandle Band Increased By 13

Special To The NEWS
PANHANDLE, Sept. 16—The Panhandle High school band boasts of eleven new members and two twirlers. New members are: Georgia Sue Milton, Barbara Skaggs, Lloyd Waldron, Jr., John Murray, Mary Lou Smith, Willard Carroll, Billy Parr, Evelyn Pingleton, and Virginia Biega, Mary Earl Davidson and Peggy Lou McNeill are the new twirlers.

From all accounts, Director W. S. Dickerson thinks the band will be better this year than last. On Wednesday, Panhandle day, the band will go to Amarillo to play over the radio at the Tri-State fair. Cash prizes will be given the bands having the largest number from their city to register. As school will close for the day, Mr. Dickerson hopes a large number will attend and register for the band. The first prize will be $100; second $50 and third $25.

Europe's Neutrals May Decide Outcome Of War

It is likely that any attempt to violate Swiss neutrality would cost the aggressor more than the results would warrant. Above an artillery crew on guard in a Swiss mountain pass, background by the towering crags that make the terrain a military hazard.

Spain's neutrality is a serious blow to Nazi hopes. Gibraltar, Britain's guardian gate to the Mediterranean, is free from threat of hostile Spanish forces behind it and those in Spanish Morocco in front of it.

What price neutrality? For the neutrals and the fighting nations? Famed military expert George Fielding Eliot, in the following exclusive dispatch called to NEA Service and The Pampa News describes the potential role of Europe's neutrals in the present conflict.

By GEORGE FIELDING ELIOT (Written for NEA Service)

LONDON, Sept. 16—Europe's neutrals loom large as factors for defeat or victory in the German campaign. Spain's neutrality is a serious blow to Nazi hopes, as Spanish bases essential to German submarine and surface operations against British trade routes and the Mediterranean and Atlantic sea routes between France and her African colonies.

A hostile Spain also would force France to guard the Pyrenees border against an expert and war-hardened Spanish army.

With Britain's Gibraltar free from Spanish threat and a neutral Spanish Morocco removing any threat against French North Africa, time and resources would not be wasted in cleaning up these outlying positions.

BELGIUM STRONGER TODAY THAN IN '14

Neutral Belgium is much more strongly fortified than in 1914 with strong fortifications along Albert canal and the Meuse river. It has a capable air force which includes only planes for defensive fighting and few bombers.

For Germany to attack Belgium would add considerably to forces opposing Hitler in the west without markedly improving the Nazi strategic position. On the other hand Belgium would be of little help in the launching of a French attack against Germany since the Belgian frontier with Germany is very short, and German western fortifications cover Belgium and Luxembourg as well as the French border.

Neutral Netherlands is another matter. It is much more exposed to German attack, although provisions for inundation between fortifications might prove a formidable obstacle, at least delaying any German onslaught.

The Dutch army is trained on a short service basis and is neither as strong nor as well equipped as the Belgian military. But Holland does offer an advantageous geographical position to the allies from its position on the right bank of the Rhine.

On the other hand, the Belgian-Dutch neutrality, from the point of view of air attacks probably offers a greater advantage to Germany than to Britain as it protects Germany to some extent from direct attack from English bases.

SWITZERLAND IN KEY POSITION

Historically neutral Switzerland occupies a key position between Germany, France and Italy. Its army also is trained on a short-term basis.

The Swiss terrain is most difficult, the mountain passes are well fortified and the people are determined to defend desperately their traditional neutrality. It is likely that any attempt to violate this neutrality would cost the aggressor more than the results would warrant.

Strategically important Denmark, commanding the entrance to the Baltic Sea, is in an extremely exposed position, with a very small and poorly-equipped army and a navy that could not seriously resist a German thrust.

Norway is very important to Germany because of its supply of high grade iron ore, and its munition works. But Sweden, by far the most formidable, in a military sense, of the Scandinavian countries, has a good army, equipped to the teeth, and an excellent although small navy, including small battleships, cruisers, destroyers and submarines.

Finland is in a bad position because of her long frontier with Soviet Russia, always uncertain neighbor. The Baltic states could not long resist attack either from Germany or Russia. If forced to choose, they would prefer Germans to Russians any day.

PORTUGAL IS STRATEGIC

Portugal has declared her neutrality, though asserting fidelity to the British alliance. She is not important while Spain remains neutral but would be a vitally important British fleet base if Spain made Gibraltar untenable.

There remain then only the neutrals of southeast Europe and the Balkans which will be discussed in a succeeding dispatch. It is important to remember that

Here's Why England, France Have Not Sent Warplanes To Poland

By DEVON FRANCIS
Associated Press Aviation Editor

The inherent limitation of the airplane as a war weapon, in spite of the impressive performance of German aviation units as reported in censored dispatches from German sources, has prevented the British and French from helping the hard-pressed Poles in the air.

Also a factor was the evident desire of the British and French high commands to keep their warplanes at home until they discovered which way the wind would blow on the question of mass bombing raids.

Like all motorized war equipment, warplanes must have repair shops and ready fuel supplies. Moreover—and perhaps this was the most telling point—they must have airbases from which to operate.

An initial objective of any warring nation's air fleet is an enemy's airbases. Poland had few, if any, secret bases for its planes. From all available accounts, the Germans made short shrift of Polish landing fields.

From the standpoint of straight-away flight, British and French because of the major character of this crisis these small neutrals may join or be forced to join sides in the war and may have a decisive influence on the outcome.

The "propaganda" war continues unabated and will be intensified as the war proceeds and each side seeks to win neutrals to its cause.

help for the Polish air force would have been highly feasible. The distance from either England or France to interior Poland is less than 900 miles, the Anglo-French allies have bit-motored bombing planes capable of much longer non-stop flights.

But once there, the supplemental air force instantly would have been faced with a lack of protective pursuit planes from their own forces. Neither British nor French pursuits are built for the long-range flights common in our own air corps.

Before the war began the British talked of a bomber "shuttle service" across Germany, with planes refueling and replenishing their bomb loads in Poland in the east and in France or England in the west.

The tactic never developed. The results of the Allies' decision not to bolster the Polish air force can be read in daily communiques.

Much of the rapid advance of the German armies can be attributed to a near-perfect intelligence service on Polish troop movements. That, in turn, has been due almost entirely to freedom of action by German reconnaissance planes.

Buying for a family isn't a part-time job. It's a day-in-and-day-out task, requiring a knowledge of what local stores are offering. Like a court of law, every family has its judge and jury, responsible for making decisions before any purchase is made.

Yet, imagine what it would be like if information had to be secured directly from the seller. Facts about sizes. . . quality. . . price. Imagine walking from store to store seeking out those quoting the lowest prices on similar merchandise.

Of course, this is not necessary! The ads in the News enable you to make wise decisions about all the things you need. You have all the facts before you to arrive at a conclusion without even stepping out of your parlor!
