Poles Capture German 'Suicide' Jumpers FDR CALLS SPECIAL SESSION OF CONGRESS

BRITAIN VOWS TO END 'HITLERISM' 'ONCE AND FOR ALL'

LONDON, Sept. 13 (AP)—Great Britain's wartime parliament echoed today with solemn government assurance of unified French-British determination to end "once and for all" the pressure of Nazism.

A stern warning was given that Britain would not tie her hands on aerial bombing if Adolf Hitler breaks his pledge on that same score.

Prime Minister Chamberlain, spruce and confident after his first supreme war council on French soil, almost hissed the words as he told the House of Commons that both France and Britain would fight until they had banished "the intolerable strain of living under the perpetual threat of Nazi aggression."

Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax simultaneously told the House of Lords Great Britain's pledges of restraint in bombing operations were based on conditions of similar restraint by Germany.

He said the British would "hold themselves completely free to take such action as they may deem appropriate" if Nazi planes are turned loose without discrimination on Polish civilians.

This statement was prompted by a German army announcement today which said the German army henceforth would "use all means at its disposal" to break Polish resistance in open towns and villages.

BUDAPEST, Sept. 13 (AP)—A German "suicide corps," dropping silently from the skies by parachute, is making desperate efforts over a wide-spread territory to expedite the Nazi advance across Poland, it was reported here today.

Poles reported several of the Germans, after being captured, revealed they had been assigned to discover the locations of Polish headquarters, airports, war supplies, factories and warehouses, and to cut communication lines ahead of the advancing German columns.

The number captured indicated the Germans were introducing the technique on a wholesale basis far exceeding similar experimental efforts in the world war.

In each instance Polish soldiers and peasants rushed to seize the parachute jumper.

Confirmation of the parachute descents and the capture of the Germans was given by several foreigners.

The Warsaw radio broadcast, a warning score of men were believed to have been dropped with parachutes and instructed townspeople and peasants to keep the closest watch.

It asked every effort be made to capture the men alive, adding some of those dropped wore Polish uniforms and others were disguised as Polish peasants.

One misjudged his jump outside Warsaw, it was reported, and landed in one of the main streets where he almost was mobbed before Polish rescued him.

Another, coming down outside Warsaw, was declared to have pulled out a revolver and killed himself while he still was struggling over a squad of Polish soldiers.

Still another was said to have landed and been captured in a garden near the temporary American embassy at Naleczow.

While driving from Warsaw to the Rumanian border, the writer heard of four others who, it was

Board Either To Cut Rolls Or Pensions

AUSTIN, Sept. 13 (AP)—Decision on a slash in the October old age pension rolls, either by eliminating a large number receiving small monthly payments or imposing a rate cut on the entire 121,000 recipients, faced the newly-created state public welfare board here today.

The board, composed of Chairman Beaman Strong of Beaumont, Rev. M. E. Sadler of Austin and Marvin Leonard of Fort Worth, conferred with Director Adam R. Johnson and other officials of the new department.

Johnson said the board would consider a method of reducing pension costs because, beginning next month, the board, under the law, must start repaying an old loan of $2,300,000 to a Dallas bank.

Estimates indicate pensions may be cut up to $6 each month. September payments, for which federal matching money had been received, totaled 121,136, an increase of 2,152 over August, and averaged $14.24 each.

British Enter Action, French Advices Claim

PARIS, Sept. 13. (AP)—British troops were reported in French military dispatches this afternoon to have entered action with the French against the Germans on the western front for the first time in the 1939 European war.

French advices said a "great number of well-equipped British troops are participating in combat."

French infantrymen were reported in dispatches reaching Paris as continuing to edge forward in German territory toward the Siegfried line at several points along a 100-mile front between the Rhine and Moselle rivers.

While rival fighters clashed in the air and the big guns of both sides pounded enemy territory, military advices said French forces east of Saarbruecken had made a "substantial" advance.

Fleet French tanks and armored cars earlier were reported to have reached the outskirts of Saarbruecken, railroad junction and industrial heart of the rich Saar basin, yesterday and to have thrust immediately into the suburbs.

In the Warndt forest west of Saarbruecken, where the Germans have been counterattacking, the French asserted they still held two-thirds of the woods and the situation was unchanged since they first advanced.

Military observers commented that in the second week of operations the campaign nevertheless still remained in the preliminary phase with a major offensive believed foreshadowed by yesterday's first meeting of the allied supreme war council not yet in evidence.

Reports said three German planes were brought down while the French suffered "very small losses."

Recreation Project Discontinued Here

Pampa's WPA recreation project, started on November 2, 1938, ended today as equipment from the playgrounds was checked in at the project office, located in the basement of the city hall building.

Due to a lack of sufficient qualified leaders, the district WPA office at Amarillo has decided to suspend the project and workers have been transferred to other WPA jobs.

Mrs. Rosemary Roach, project superintendent, will leave tomorrow to a position assisting her husband, superintendent of WPA district 17, that has headquarters at Lubbock. Mrs. Roach has been head of the recreation project here since it was started. She will start her new work on September 18.

At a meeting of the advisory board, held Monday afternoon in the city manager's office, a report was made on the project and on the summer recreation program. The board expressed a vote of thanks to Mrs. Roach in appreciation for her work during the project here since it was started. She will start her new work on September 18.

There have been from 12 to 16 workers employed on the project since it started last November, including unit at McLean.

Sheriff Urges Plan To Help Delinquents

A "big brother" plan to aid Pampa juveniles was projected today by Sheriff Cal Rose who proposes to seek the aid of four civic clubs in the formation of committees to counsel with boys who need friendly advice.

It is the sheriff's plan to ask the Kiwanis, Lions, Junior Chamber of Commerce, and Rotary clubs each to name a committee of six members to work with him in keeping down juvenile delinquency in Pampa.

"I believe that a plan of that sort would work wonders in creating friendships among young boys," the sheriff said, "and to those who need that sort of companionship it would let them know that the people of the city really are interested in their welfare."

The sheriff also said that he hoped to be able, through these committees, to create a new attitude among boys about the relationship of a law enforcement officer to young people.

"We want the children of Pampa to know that officers of the law are their friends and not some sort of bugaboo from which they should cringe in fear every time the word 'officer' is mentioned," the sheriff said.

The sheriff stated that juvenile delinquency was at its lowest period in Pampa history during the period when interest was high in the Pampa News-Lions Club Soap Box Derby.

"Projects of that type," the sheriff said, "hold the interests of hundreds of boys throughout several months of the year when the race cars are under construction and being tested."

The sheriff stated that from the time the Soap Box Derby got underway there was not a single case of

Installation Of Officers In WMS For Year Held

Eighty-one members of Woman's Missionary society of First Baptist church attended the luncheon and installation of officers at the church this week.

Following the luncheon, new members and visitors were introduced with Mrs. T. L. Anderson, president, presiding over the session which was opened with group singing led by Arthur Nelson with Mrs. T. F. Morton at the piano.

In presenting the devotional on "Touching the Hem of His Garment," Mrs. C. Gordon Bayless pointed out that today we are permitted to touch the hem of His garment by rendering service to Jesus, the church, and those about us in need. Climaxing the discussion was a vocal solo, "Touch the Hem of His Garment," by Mrs. Merl Cody with Mrs. Joe Foster at the piano.

The installation of officers for the new year was in charge of Mrs. J. C. McKenize of Amarillo, associational president of W. M. S. who carried out the idea of an airplane trip on the W. M. U. line with Mrs. A. L. Prigmore, new president, as pilot and Mrs. Ira Westbrook, Mrs. O. C. Brandon, Mrs. G. L. McKinney, and Mrs. R. H. Jordan, circle chairmen, as co-pilots.

Stewardesses, who were represented by the standing committees, included Mrs. R. W. Tucker, corresponding secretary; Mrs. S. T. Beathany, recording secretary; Mrs. W. C. Wilkie, social chairman; Mrs. Ella Brake, Bible study; Mrs. C. R. Wasson, personal service; Mrs. O. A. Davis, benevolence; Mrs. H. T. Cox, periodicals; Mrs. C. Gordon Bayless, education; Mrs. T. Alford, publicity; Mrs. Arthur Nelson, chorister; and Mrs. Calvin Whitley, pianist.

During the installation Mrs. McKenize explained that the machinery used on this line is the very best and that it can be compared with the new methods in W. M. U. work. She added that the accuracy and sureness of the pilot never loses sight of the main line due to the knowledge of the chart which is the standard of excellence in the society.

Following the installation, a response was made by Mrs. Prigmore, incoming president, in which she informed the members of the usefulness of a line and equipment without paying passengers or active members in the W. M. U.

Mrs. R. W. Tucker presented a gift from the group to Mrs. Anderson, outgoing president, after which Mrs. H. L. Wyatt of Amarillo spoke on missions Group singing and the benediction by Mrs. Flora Mitchell of Amarillo concluded the program.

FDR Assured Of Neutrality Modification

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP)—President Roosevelt appeared assured today of majority support within the Senate for his proposed modification of the neutrality act.

A letter to an unnamed constituent, Senator Van Nuys (D-Calif.) announced he would support a "cash and carry" plan for arms sales, if it were properly safeguarded.

Van Nuys is one of the committee members who, by a vote of 12 to 11 at the last session of Congress, delayed consideration of proposals to revise the arms embargo provision of the neutrality act and otherwise revise that statute.

"The announcement today was regarded generally as assuring that the committee would place the issue before the Senate at the forthcoming special session."

"My sympathies, of course, are with the democracies of Europe," Van Nuys wrote. "I anticipate that the chief point of discussion will be a cash and carry plan, I shall study all such proposals with sympathetic interest."

Byrnes Favors Plan

"I shall not support any legislation of alliances which may result in again sending American soldiers overseas, but I will favor a cash and carry plan properly safeguarded."

"The 'cash and carry' is generally speaking, that purchasers be required to pay cash and to transport business purchases in other than American ships."

Senator Byrnes (D-SC) also announced support yesterday of a cash and carry plan of arms sales, saying failure to adopt such a policy would aid an aggressor nation that has accumulated war reserves and punish "the peaceful nation that does not spend its resources in accumulating weapons of war."

On the other hand, the Washington Evening Star said Senator Vandenberg opposed repeal on the grounds that "you can't become an arsenal for one belligerent without ultimately becoming a target for the other."

There was some discussion within general congressional circles, meanwhile, of the possibility that a compromise might be offered calling for repeal of the neutrality act and a return to independence on international law.

The President told his press conference yesterday he would have an announcement "soon" about the proposed special session.

On Monroe Doctrine

The chief executive, in response to questions, then entered into a discussion of the application of the Monroe Doctrine, alluding to the recent British interpretation of his speech at Kingston, Ont., last year in which he said the United States would not sit idly by if domination of the British domain were threatened by any other empire.

Mr. Roosevelt declared his comment at Kingston was not a new statement of the Monroe Doctrine but a restatement of it which applied not only to Canada but to all of the Americas.

"The President's remarks were accepted generally as indirect but definite notice that the United States would not permit Germany to take over any British or French territory this side of the Atlantic."

Garner Publicity Bureau Putting On Chain Letter Drive

By L. T. EASLEY

DALLAS, Sept. 13 (AP)—The men down here in Texas who hope to see Vice President John N. Garner in the White House are making the most of Big Jim Farley's postal service.

Under the supervision of a veteran publicity man they quietly but energetically putting on a large chain letter publicity campaign, soliciting pledges of support from voters in every precinct in every state of the union.

In charge of the campaign is Garfield Crawford, a former Texas and California newspaper man. He says he handled publicity for Texas Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel last year.

"The 'Garner for President' campaign headquarters are located in a large downtown Dallas hotel.

A dozen girls type and stuff envelopes with cards and literature citing Garner's qualifications for the presidency.

Several weeks ago the Garner campaign obtained mailing lists from Democratic leaders in every state.

Whenever one of these persons replies he receives a personal answer from campaign headquarters, accompanied by five blank pledge cards which are to be passed on to friends. About 2,000 letters are received daily from all over the United States, Crawford estimated some containing funds.

Crawford is assisted by Richard Tullis, a relative of Mrs. Garner, and Dale Miller. Sometime assisting the group, when he is in the city, is Roy Miller of Corpus Christi, father of Dale Miller and a close personal friend of the Vice President.

Roy Miller was active in the organization of the Garner movement here.

Lack Of Anti-Knock Gas To Lose War For Hitler, Says Chemist

BOSTON, Sept. 13 (AP)—Germany will lose the current European war because she lacks "anti-knock" gasoline for her fighting planes, a nationally known chemist said today.

"Not the guns of France, or Great Britain, or Poland, but the 'knock-knock' of her airplane motors will tell the doom of Germany in this war," declared Dr. Gustav Egloff, director of research of the Universal Oil Products company, Chicago, in an interview.

It Looks Like Somebody's Going Back Down Here

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP)—If and when President Roosevelt calls a special session of Congress, he's going to create a difficult parking problem.

It's going to involve the attorney general and the vice president.

Both officials use the same side door and go to work at approximately the same time. There is only one place for their cars to park.

This space is 45 feet long. The attorney general's car is 21 feet long.

The vice president's is 25 feet, six inches.

The total car length—supposing the chauffeurs park them bumper to bumper—is 46 feet, six inches.

That means 13 inches of official transportation hanging over into a no-parking-this-means-you space.

To the casual observer the problem might be solved by lengthening the parking space.

But at one end of the space is a fire plug. Expansion in that direction is out.

At the other end the parking meter section begins. A nickel a morning is a nickel a morning, even to a vice president or attorney general.

Mexico Drilling Booms

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 13 (AP)—President Lazaro Cardenas took steps today to increase oil production by ordering the government-controlled administration of Petroleos Mexicanos to drill ten oil wells in the Poza Rica region.

There are 64 streets, squares, etc. in London named "Albert," in honor of Queen Victoria's husband.

Canada Will Vote Increased Taxes

OTTAWA, Sept. 13 (Canadian Press)—Canada's parliament reassembled today to give final approval to a war-time program calling for increased taxes on incomes, luxuries and excess profits.

The program will increase income taxes 20 per cent. Present exemptions and graduations of personal income taxes remain unchanged.

All businesses will pay taxes ranging from 10 to 60 per cent of profits in excess of five per cent of capital, or an alternative tax of 50 per cent on all profits in excess of the average for the past four years.

The house passed a bill providing for a department of munitions and supplies with sweeping powers to mobilize industry for government service.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning! It's So Good!

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. One blast up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks lumpy.

A new bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those poor, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel up and up. What Is The World To Be Like After War?

Is it silly to begin to wonder, even now, what the world is to be like after the European War? The fighting has scarcely commenced, and, except in Poland, there really hasn't been any on a large scale. And yet, even at this stage of the game, it may be wise to begin fixing our eyes on the world that is to be afterward. This war, like all wars, must end some time. The world will go on. What will have been accomplished?

It depends, of course, on who wins, if anybody can be said to win a modern war. It is more than possible that nobody will win in the sense of the elimination of whole races and peoples. All the root-problems of Europe will remain to be solved. Up to now, neither side has published official summaries of "war aims" in the sense of a program it hopes to accomplish after the war. The British White Paper and its German counterpart are simply the usual efforts to say, in involved diplomatic language, "He started it" and "No, he didn't!"

The ifs and might-have-beens are all past now. It has started, and the world is where it is. The British-French position is simply that a world is intolerable in which there is no international law and only naked force and the threat of it govern the relations between nations. The Germans' position is that they were unjustly oppressed after the World War, denied their natural position in the world, and that they are going to achieve it by whatever force is necessary.

Behind these high-sounding statements lies the simple fact that the Germans and the French-British alliance are rivals for the control of Europe, and that neither will be satisfied until the other is eliminated.

Does either side extend even a valid promise that after peace comes it will help to construct a peaceful Europe run on a sane system, in which justice will be available to every country without fighting for it? Not that we have seen this far.

It is probably too early for that. Yet it is a thing not to be forgotten. The men who settle this war must do better than Versailles. There is something to the German contention that after Versailles they could get no justice from the League of Nations because of British-French domination. Neither is there anything in German policy during the past 10 years which promises Europe and the world anything better than a continual international dog-fight.

It is certainly clear that Europe must be reorganized after this war. Is it to be done by a victorious Germany to suit itself? Or by a victorious British-French coalition to suit themselves? An example of the second alternative has been seen since 1919, and it hasn't worked very well. An example of the first could scarcely fail to be even worse.

If the people of Europe, let alone peoples across the seas, are to be expected to support a long war, they must be offered something better—something very much better. So far no such hope has been offered by either side.

SHUTTLECOCK (Washington Evening Star) Almost completely overshadowed by the European game of diplomacy is a minor but fascinating game of international shuttlecock and shuttlecock now being played on this side of the Atlantic. The shuttlecocks are the immigration bureaus of the United States and of Cuba, and the shuttlecock is a certain Haim Flukman, refused entry into either country and shuttled back and forth between both of them until he is dizzy. The moment he lands he is locked up and told to make himself comfortable until the authorities decide what to do with him.

The trouble started in 1933 when Flukman carelessly allowed himself to be caught among a band of aliens being smuggled into the Florida Keys. When it was learned that he had a wife and four children in Cuba he was returned there. It was pretty hard to get away from the fact that he had almost stay and ordered to pack up his belongings and go on board. So he grabs his toothbrush and again departs, only to encounter the same routine at the other end.

Sharing The Comforts Of Life

DEMOCRACY AND FREE WILL

One of the causes that constantly get so-called democracies into trouble is that they fail to recognize one of the very fundamental principles of democracy. They fail to realize that democracies are government by the consent of the governed, by the free choice of the governed. This, of course, means that if the government is to be operated with the free will of the governed, it does not mean the majority but it means of all the people governed. It must be the free will of not only 51 per cent, but of 100 per cent. This means of course, that the government can only do the things that are axiomatic; that are self-evident truths; that no one objects to. This, of course, limits the government very materially.

Stanley Baldwin, for years Prime Minister of Great Britain, recently explained this principle very aptly before the Congress of Education for Democracy. Baldwin pointed out at this meeting, from his own experience, the dangers that beset democracy in the world today. He stressed the fact that democracy cannot survive if those who live in democracy do not have faith in democracy. He might well have said that if the people who live in democracies want to coerce and make laws to compel other people to live as they want them to live and do not have faith in the persuading power and goodness of man and want to educate by force, sooner or later, democracies cease to be democracies and become dictatorships.

Of course, this is a high ideal and very difficult to accomplish. It was well expressed by Baldwin, when he said: "We have to show the world that we have ideals, no less than the rulers of the totalitarian states; that our ideals are harder of accomplishment because they are far higher; they involve the co-operation of men of their own free will endeavoring to work with God Himself in the raising of mankind. In a totalitarian state the will must be surrendered, surrendered to the will of one fallible man. And no man is fitted for absolute power over the wills of his fellow men." This is the reason democracy that grants the greatest possible equal liberty for all the people is worth striving to preserve.

THE PREVAILING WAGE FRAUD

There are few beliefs that have cost this country more in misery, suffering, unemployment, loss of liberty than the prevailing wage theory or the theory that the majority of workers can establish the wages they are to receive. This seems to be the belief of most people who have made no careful study of how wages are paid. Those that advocate this theory of wages usually do not attempt to explain how it works but are content to call those who question its practicability as selfish and smug and Tories.

When analyzed, however, it is easy to see that since wages are paid out of production and all business is simply a trade of one service for another service, when the prevailing wage in one line of work is out of line with another so that it does not benefit one of the two parties to an exchange, then there ceases to be jobs for those who have their wages arbitrarily established. But the politicians, the theorists, the smug people who only find fault and will not attempt to put their theories into practice themselves still contend that wages can be established by wish or by force or by law.

The results of this are that the workers as a whole are defrauded. They are out of work and have to be supported by those who have jobs. So they must do without things they want and need and could have if those who pose as their friends would not continue to mislead them into believing that wages need not be natural and established on a free market.

The prevailing wage or the collective bargaining wage is a most serious fraud perpetrated on the American workman. It has been encouraged and advocated both by Hoover and Roosevelt and it does not work. It is a hoax. It probably has cost each workman in the U. S. five hundred to a thousand dollars a year for the last eight years.

BRIDGE'S BELIEF

Harry Bridges denies very emphatically that he is a Communist or an advocate of direct action in destroying the Government. It makes no difference whether Bridges is a Communist or a Fascist or belonging to some organization. He advocates the same things that Fascists and Communists advocate, and by the law that things that are equal to the same thing are equal to each other, Harry Bridges becomes a most dangerous, subversive, undesirable alien and should be deported.

THREE EQUALS TWO

Possibly Roosevelt figures that if he should have a third term he would, in reality, have only two terms because he has taken so many vacations that his three terms would, in reality, equal only two terms when his vacations are eliminated.

Behind The News Of The Day

WASHINGTON—The only blitzkrieg so far in the war has been visited upon the United States. With lightning-flash rapidity the nation ran smack into a stack of problems growing out of the war, each sparking hot. They were met last war in a way that led us directly into it. Yet nobody can say for sure that a different handling this year will keep us out or even sustain an honorable neutrality.

First task was to bring back thousands of wandering American citizens caught either in the war zone or so far from home that they had to travel through war zones to get here. The state department sent money over to Europe at once to care for stranded Yankees. Last war it took a lot of cabling to convince Washington authorities that stranded Americans have to be brought home at government expense and no fiddling about technicalities of repayment.

Helping The British The United States has had to take over British and French interests in Germany while those two nations fought the war. It means only taking charge of the embassies and other physical properties, but also the immensely difficult job of getting stranded Englishmen and Frenchmen home.

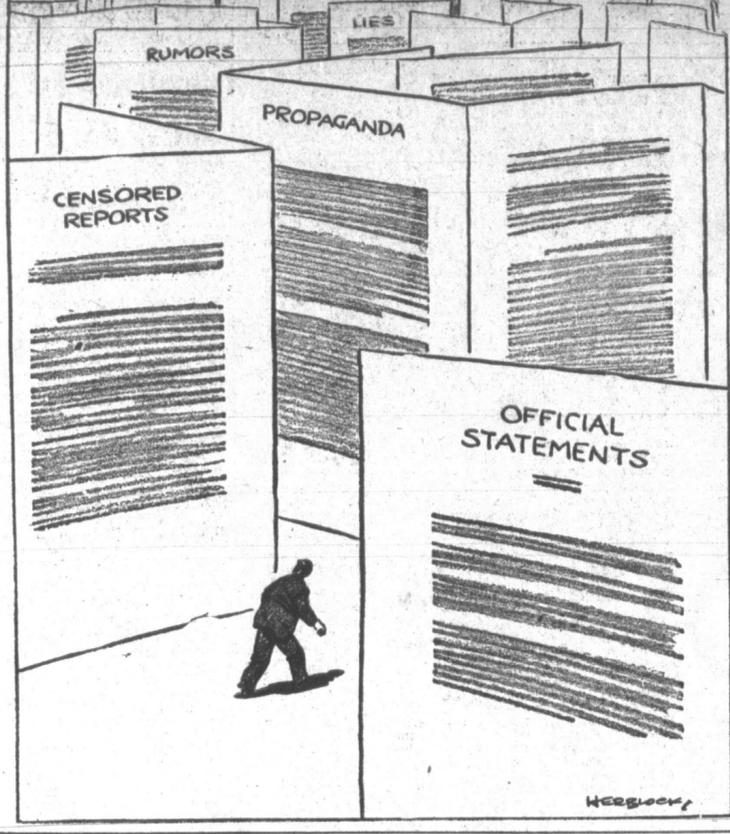

The state department and its staff in Germany must work out, in conjunction with the Germans, some convention for treatment of prisoners. The embassy must see to it that British and French prisoners get treatment in compliance with international law.

A lot of technicalities have to be worked out to permit participation of the Red Cross in relief and hospital work. The American Red Cross is a semi-official agency in the United States and must be strictly impartial in extending aid.

But such are these minor problems. Big ones are yet to be solved. How far shall the United States insist upon its rights as a neutral? Last war President Wilson refused to let U. S. citizens be deprived of the right to travel on belligerent vessels in the war zone. The Lusitania carried down 124 Americans enjoying that right. That business has been stopped already this time.

Now What? At one point last time this country was almost at the point of a diplomatic break with England over diversion of our ships. We would ship supplies to Scandinavian countries, knowing of course, that they were trans-shipped to Germany. England said that

LABYRINTH

Around Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—it'll be disillusioning to all the little working girls who think of heaven as marriage to a millionaire and endless leisure and travel, but Lillian Bond says very firmly that leisure and travel, at least, aren't all they might be. Lillian is back before the cameras. She left when she married Sidney Smith, the wealthy man-about-the-world, and the screen lost one of its prettiest brunette glammer gals. "I never meant to quit working," said Lillian Bond Smith, who says she has separated from her husband. "I thought we'd settle down in New York and I could go on the stage if I wanted to. But all I did was travel."

"We couldn't stay put. By train, plane, boat we were always on the go. We'd arrive somewhere, and then we'd be off again. I feel as if I'd seen the world—but the way I'd see it on a series of penny postcards; a quick glimpse of many places, no opportunity to explore or get acquainted with any of them. Get to London, and we've got to be off to see somebody in Wales. Arrive in Vienna, and there's a party must attend in the south of France. Go, go, go."

"I'm not panning the life of leisure—except that I found it wasn't for me. It's all right for people who have known nothing else but leisure and amusement-seeking, but I've been a worker most of my life and I have to work or I'm not happy. "I've settled down in a real house—I lived in an apartment before—and I think I won't travel for a long time. Excuse me—they're calling me back to the set."

So I watched her go back to work. She got into an automobile beside Kent Taylor, and together (with the assistance of a couple of workers jiggling the vehicle out of camera range) they "traveled away" but for a scene in "Sued for Libel."

Jane Withers' screen name in "High School" is Jane Wallace—a fact for Withers' fans. It means she can add her "movie riding boots, gamuets, and several dresses, monogrammed J. Other two members of the Trio, Mrs. May Carr, pianist, and Herbert Miller violinist, are still here.

Of course if a flutist could be located that would be fine, but one is more likely to find a cellist. An effort to revive the Trio will be made, so if you can play a flute well, or a cello please report to Mrs. Carr.

wouldn't do, and seized our ships, taking them into British prize courts. How could she starve Germany down if Yankee food poured through by way of Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Holland? And yet, as a neutral, this country has a right to the trade. Shall the U. S. insist on the right this time? If Germany says, "Keep your ships out of English waters as that is a war zone and they may be sunk by submarines," what shall we do? If England is entitled to enforce a long-distance blockade of Germany with her surface navy, should Germany be allowed to enforce a blockade with her submarines? Already England has ordered her merchant vessels to be armed. Should they be treated like ordinary unarmed merchant vessels or should they be treated in part like ships of war and made to leave American ports within 24 hours after arrival? Finally, shall the United States repeal the munitions embargo and open our industrial power to the allies? All these problems and more have been thrust upon the United States all at once. The making or breaking of our much desired peace is in the hands of the gods, the state department, President Roosevelt, and the congress.

The Family Doctor

Dr. Morris Fishbein

In football, the knees, ankles and shoulders are most frequently injured. The thighs are most likely to be bruised. Weak ankles should always be strapped with elastic or with adhesive tape before practice, and certainly before any game in which the player may be subject to injury. In bandaging an ankle to support it, the tape is wrapped like a figure eight over the ankle and around the bottom of the foot. An elastic or gauze bandage may be reinforced with adhesive plaster. Football players suffer with slipping of the cartilages in the knee. The best type of bandage for the knee is one with an X strapping above and below the kneecap. This, also, should be reinforced with adhesive plaster.

Football trainers always have trouble deciding the amount of bandaging and padding that should be allowed to a player. The modern game is very fast and is not a contest between men of bulk exclusively. Too much strapping and too heavy padding interferes with speed. Sporting goods establishments provide all sorts of special pads and braces for the injuries that are associated with football. Any athlete subject to frequent injuries should have the full protection of these devices. Most serious of all injuries in football are those affecting the brain and the skull. A concussion of the brain means that the tissue of this vital organ has actually been bruised. The first sign of an injury is a loss of memory for recent events. A person who has had a concussion may not remember what has happened during the previous hour or two.

The least important symptom is slight dizziness, but coaches and trainers should not be unimpressed when a player comes out of sudden impact with another player and seems to be dizzy or dazed. The player should immediately be put at rest and the extent of the injury determined. Whenever a player has had a head injury, he should be put flat on his back. He should be questioned as to headache and dizziness and given a simple test for his memory of recent events. If he cannot remember the names of his opponents, who is on the offense, the score or similar matters, it is not safe for him to play again.

If he is merely dizzy, he should be permitted to stand and move about to determine whether or not he has any signs of loss of balance. Such symptoms are serious and the player should be removed immediately from the context to a hospital bed for an examination. Many players under the excitement of the game toss away the headgear. This may be a magnificent gesture, but a coach should never permit a player to play without a helmet. There have been far too many cases of concussion of the brain and even fracture of the skull to take a chance without adequate head protection.

No MORE FISCAL FAIRYLAND FOR CONGRESS

By HARLEY L. LUTZ

Professor of Public Finance, Princeton University

Rejection of the lending-spending bill by the House, after the original program had been cut in half by the Senate, is a most encouraging sign. It indicates that there is beginning to develop a recognition of the folly to which the country has been committed for six long years. It indicates, also, a realization that this folly shall be ended. The program was based on deceptive and misleading arguments. The most threadbare argument advanced was that this time it would end the depression. The people have tolerated the previous credit excesses in the belief, or the hope, that the spenders really knew what they were about. From the outset it has been obvious to some that they did not know what the answer was, and at last both Congress and the people appear to have reached this conclusion. Evidently, if the spending of more than 25 billions would not produce prosperity, the spending of another 3 or 4 billions would not do it. The approach through public spending has been the wrong one, and no degree of lavishness could ever produce more than a temporary response.

It was also said that the proposed borrowing would not increase the government's debt, since the bonds were to be issued by federal credit agencies. While technically correct, the implication was false, for the bonds were to be fully guaranteed by the government. In commenting on the House action, Mr. Roosevelt is reported to have said that the result would be a heavier burden on taxpayers. But neither he nor his advisers had told the people what they might have expected in heavier taxes had the program been adopted. Instead, it was glossed over by the misleading statements about self-liquidation.

The self-liquidation argument was the joker in the program. It was expected that Congress and the people would take this bait easily, but they did not. The results of experience are no longer hidden from the people. The Senate's claims covered too much territory. It is well known, for example, that most publicly owned enterprises are not self-liquidating. In the sense that they are earning enough, above operating expenses, to retire the capital debt, experience shows that they are not self-liquidating. It is not possible to operate even a private enterprise on a self-supporting basis. Some concerns are certain to lose money. Yet the administration was so confident of its own plan that it could pick winners to the extent of more than 3 billions of self-liquidating projects. The proposition was based on the same kind of deceptive and misleading arguments. The program was based on deceptive and misleading arguments. The most threadbare argument advanced was that this time it would end the depression. The people have tolerated the previous credit excesses in the belief, or the hope, that the spenders really knew what they were about. From the outset it has been obvious to some that they did not know what the answer was, and at last both Congress and the people appear to have reached this conclusion. Lubbock Wins First Game Of Series 3 To 2

Fans May 'See' Second Game Here Tonight

More than 200 Pampa baseball fans "saw" the Lubbock Hubbers down the Pampa Oilers 3 to 2 last night in the opening game of the Shaughnessy playoff series for the championship of the West Texas-New Mexico league. Although the game was played in Lubbock, the fans saw it on an electric scoreboard in the city auditorium, play by play, just as the play happened on the diamond.

Tonight's game also in Lubbock will be presented on the scoreboard beginning at 8 o'clock sharp. Admission will be 25 cents and all proceeds after wire expenses have been deducted will be put in the players' appreciation fund being raised by a group of fans.

Tomorrow night the Oilers and Hubbers will come to Pampa for the first of three games unless the Hubbers win four straight. Game time tomorrow night will be 8 o'clock and preceding the game there'll be a very special attraction, "Happy" Frank McKewon, the armless baseball player, will be in the city and will give an exhibition of prowess without arms and also a clown act. He's one of the outstanding attractions of the baseball world.

Tickets Now on Sale
Tickets for the home game will be available in advance so that fans won't have to stand in line at the box office. The tickets, at 40 cents, regular admission price, now are available at the Court House Cafe and the Champlin Service station. Both places are open 24 hours daily. Persons buying tickets in advance will be allowed to enter the park at the east gate, near the concession stand, where cushions will also be available. All persons not having tickets must enter the main entrance.

An error by Joe Phillips put the Hubbers one up in the fourth last night. Parker filed to left but Phillips dropped the ball and Parker went to second. Watkins singled to right. Pharr singled and Parker scored.

The Oilers evened things in the fifth when Jerry Jordan hit one over the fence. Hallbourg singled and then Separito labelled one over the right field fence but Pharr stepped on the bottom step and scattered the ball as it sailed over.

It was Lubbock's turn to go ahead in the last of the fifth when Zorko opened the inning by drawing a walk. Carr forced Zorko but went to third on Taylor's single and scored on Miller's infield hit. Parker opened the eighth for Lubbock with a double, went to third on a sacrifice and scored when Carr lined out to Summers.

Lubbock fans had chills in the ninth when the Oilers scored. Summers singled to left and Malvica doubled after Beavers had fanned although he had three balls and no strikes on him. Malvica came up with a double, sending Summers to third. Jordan went out, second to first, but Summers scored. Bailey stole. Dilbeck went in to hit for Hallbourg and Malvica attempted to steal home but was caught at the plate to retire the side.

Hallbourg pitched great ball, allowing the Hubbers only seven hits but he walked five. Another limited the Oilers to six bingles and walked only one.

Lain And Cordell Make Rice Dangerous Again

By FELIX R. McKNIGHT
I. JUSTON, Sept. 13 (AP)—Big Ernie Lain's shirltail is out again and Olie Cordell's shoulder has mended into cement.

Add it up and you get the general idea—Rice Institute. The champion today of 1938, is to be respected nationally and almost certainly is the team to beat out for the Southwest Conference title.

Cenah Jimmy Kitts is a sombre fellow, recalling the avalanche of advance predictions for his injury-plagued Ows last year, but even his long face can't hide the talent scattered all over the practice field.

Lain, the 226-pound huskie whose fluttering shirltail two years ago was the most dangerous flag they waved in the Southwest, is in prime shape. Cordell, his rangy 190-pound partner and kicking marvel, has shaken off last season's pesky shoulder hurt.

"But we're still weak in some spots, groaned Kitts. "We shifted a guard to blocking back and can't tell yet about results. And my ends... We just must have good end play. We concentrated on our ends in spring drill and I believe we will be just about the same on the wings as we were last year."

One of his scheduled starting ends, Dick Brannon, an aggressive letterman, who laid out of spring work due to injuries, is having troubles again and can't be relied upon for heavy duty.

Fatletic Last Year
The case of Rice was one of the most pathetic in football last year. Injuries started piling up in the first game, one they dropped to Oklahoma, and finally, death claimed the spring of all fortune. Pullback Jack Vestal, considered one of the most valuable men in the conference, died in mid-season.

"Our attitude is different this year," said Kitts. "My boys are driving hard in practice and it could be a much different story."
Lain, a burly boy who isn't too plump at 228 pounds but still isn't exactly a sprint man in the backfield, stood on the grass and whistled 30 and 35 yard projectiles downfield that hit the mark consistently. His passing, if anything, is perhaps a little deadlier. And he's learning to kick as sort of an added attraction to confuse the enemy. No one doubts his prowess at shredding the line.

Most pronounced improvement of all, however, is the addition of two guards who may stack up as the country's bulkiest. Capt. Ed Singletary, an erstwhile tackle, stands six feet, two inches and weighs in at about 318. On his right will be FRED (MOOSE) HARTMAN, another six-foot two boy who shakes the scales at 222. Both are veterans—and fast.

One of the veteran tackles, J. R. GREEN, a mountainous man, is temporarily laid up with scrimmage harts, but he is expected to come around and team with Reinhart Stanzel, 212 pounds. Starting ends should be two towering giants of plus six feet, Harold Palmer and Bob Brandon, although Sophomore Dewoody is a constant.

Homers Win For Pennant Contenders

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer
Way back in the good old days, the old professor once said pitching is 80 percent of baseball, but the big league managers will tell you today there's nothing so handy as the home run to prove it.

For it was a set of four-base knocks yesterday which cashed in on elegant pitching all around the tilts involving the leaders in the majors, breaking up every game and leaving the situation: (1) Cincinnati's Reds still 3 1/2 games in front of the National League; (2) the Yankees' American League edge trimmed to 16 games; (3) the St. Louis Cardinals still in the thick of the senior circuit fight, and (4) the Cubs with a slightly tighter grip on third place.

Not enough Class B and Class C sponsors were represented to start plans in those divisions. Another meeting will be held after sponsors have time to line up their players.

League play will start late this month.

Shamrock To Play Borger Friday Night

Special To The NEWS
SHAMROCK, Sept. 13—The Shamrock Irishmen will meet the class AA Borger Bulldogs on the local field Friday night in a non-conference tilt. Coaches Forrest Kline and Scott McCall began work Monday afternoon ironing out the weaknesses disclosed in the season's opener with Canadian last Friday night. The coaches are working especially hard to try to develop a credible passing attack for the Irish.

Little is known of the Borger team for the season and Friday night's game will be the opener for them. They are entered in the interscholastic league race in Class AA while the Irishmen are in Class A. The Borger boys gave the strong Amarillo team one of its hardest fights last season but have lost a number of last-season players and from reports will have to mold an almost entirely new team.

Several Borger players were in the stands Friday night, along with a scout, and no doubt will be well prepared to watch the Irish have to offer.

The game will be called at 8:15 and will be played on Denver field.

Bits About Bowling
Alex Schneider was re-elected president of the Pampa Bowling Congress and six teams entered the Class A bowling league at a meeting last night in the Schneider Hotel.

Not enough Class B and Class C sponsors were represented to start plans in those divisions. Another meeting will be held after sponsors have time to line up their players.

League play will start late this month.

Alice Marble Cinch To Win Net Title
NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP)—Alice Marble's vast superiority over the best of the other tennis girls has knocked about all the interest out of the ladies' league in the national championships, now in the seventh day at Forest Hills.

If you don't read much about the girls, that's the reason. The pretty Los Angeles bomber is considered a mortal cinch to win here as easily as she won at Wimbledon. It's only a question, really, of whether Helen Jacobs or Kay Stammers will be offered up as the sacrifice in the finals.

Some of the critics who have been watching them all for upwards of ten years think Alice, in her present form, could have trimmed Susanne Langien or Helen Willis Moody in their prime.

No one any longer bets whether Alice will win, but only on how many points her opponents will get. Yesterday she took a 6-0, 6-2 victory over Betty Nuthall.

Harvesters Unimpressive In Scrimmage With Bucks

Pampa's high school Harvesters were still unimpressive yesterday afternoon when they scrimmaged the White Deer Bucks on the practice field here. They scored three times on the Bucks who crossed the Harvester goal line once.

A change that may strengthen the team was made yesterday when Co-Captain Glen Nichols went to center and Ed Terrell changed over to right end, a switch in playing positions. Nichols showed plenty of power in stepping plays after snapping the ball and his work backing up the line was a bright spot in an otherwise not too impressive workout.

While Deer has another good team in this making. Coach Gene McCollum presented seven lettermen, four of them regulars from last year. However, three youngsters who had never played football were in the lineup.

In Hawkins and Russell the Bucks have two of the best looking driving ball toters seen here in a long, long time. The pair split the big Harvester forward wall several times for long gains before they could be ganged. The Bucks' line is light in the center.

Russell drew first blood for the Bucks in the opening push after the ball had been put in play on the center stripe. Several second string Harvesters were in the lineup at the time.

Carlisle showed power and fight in scoring for the Harvesters when he crashed six yards after Dunaway and Green had made a couple of nice advances. Dunaway sprained an ankle on the play and had to be taken to the team physician for treatment. He may be able to play in Vernon Friday night. LeRoy Giles replaced Dunaway and his ground

Novo Favorite To Win Over Galento

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13. (AP)—Lou Nova is a 2 to 1 favorite over Tony Galento for their 15-round heavyweight fight Friday—but he wishes it were the other way around.

work left nothing to be desired. His passing, however, was erratic, despite two completions. Green added another touchdown when he went four yards after taking a 15-yard pass from Giles. The same combination worked for another touchdown, Giles passing 10 yards to Green who raced 20 yards.

The Harvesters were ragged most of the time, principally from lack of experience. The line is fairly big and the backfield is heavier than in recent years.

The Harvesters open the season in Vernon Friday night at 8 o'clock. White Deer lined up with Potter and W. Green at ends; McCreary and Gores at tackles; Guernsey and Tomlin, guards; Hinkle, center; Hawkins, quarter; Stalls and Bryant, halves; Russell, full.

No one any longer bets whether Alice will win, but only on how many points her opponents will get. Yesterday she took a 6-0, 6-2 victory over Betty Nuthall.

So that's why all the interest is wrapped up in the men's division. Bobby Riggs, the Wimbledon champion, and Adrian Quist of Australia are about equal favorites to win.

"LIFE ENDS AT 40" ... AT THE WHEEL

Motor vehicle accidents in the United States during 1938 caused 32,400 deaths, 1,150,000 personal injuries, and an economic loss of $1,500,000,000.

Every fifteen minutes someone was killed in a motor vehicle accident; every half minute someone was injured.

Motor vehicle accidents caused more deaths than diabetes, twice as many as syphilis, ten times as many as diphtheria.

The death toll in 1938 was equivalent to the destruction of Tucson, Arizona; the injury total exceeded Cleveland's population.

SERIAL STORY

WORKING WIVES

BY LOUISE HOLMES
COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday's irritable and peevish Marian realized she and Dan are growing farther apart. They have little in common. She has more happiness in Dan's home than in his, and she knows that Marian knows and resents.

CHAPTER VIII

TEN days passed, days in which Marian was forced to put a continuous curb on her nervous irritability. Once she had felt satisfaction in her work, once pride of achievement had lent color to the long hours. Now the days dragged, accented by disturbing occurrences, harassed by ever-increasing doubts and worries. Dan was morose, quick-tempered, not at all himself. Marian had accustomed herself to using him as a blotter to absorb her moods. Of late her irritability had bounded back to seethe and add to her unrest.

The days were filled with trying incidents. Marian felt a cockiness about Sally Blake which she knew should be curtailed. She called the girl to her desk, pointing out several errors in a typewritten letter. "Mr. Fellows expects perfection, Sally," she said crisply. "I've worked for him a long time and I know that he won't put up with mistakes."

"I'm sorry, Mrs. Harkness," the girl said contritely. "I'll do the letter again."

It was difficult to discipline one so humbly willing. "And, Sally," Marian went on, "your place is in the outer office. You will only endanger your chances for advancement by finding too many errands in this office."

Sally smiled, a wise little smile. "Mr. Fellows sends for me when I don't come," she said. "He's teaching me to be a secretary."

"Whose secretary, if I may ask?"

"His," Sally answered calmly.

Marian nervously tapped her desk. "I'm sure you are mistaken," she observed coldly. "You are allowing your wishes to get the better of your good sense."

The girl said sweetly, "I only hope that some day I may be as wonderful a secretary as you are, Mrs. Harkness. I watch you all the time, trying to learn."

Marian looked her straight in the eye. If Sally could be frank, so could she. "What makes you think that my position will be open?" she asked.

Sally's smile was disarming. "I don't think so, really. But you have a husband, a very nice, handsome husband—I've seen him at the building entrance—some day you may want to keep house for him."

"I do keep house for him," Marian answered harshly.

"Yes, well anyway—it does me no harm to prepare myself. Naturally, I don't want to be a stenographer all my life."

Marian was desperate. "Listen, Sally," she said confidentially, "you are clever and ambitious, of course you want to go up the ladder. Let me see if I can't get you a secretarial position in some other office. I know a great many business men, I could give you a letter."

Sally shook her bright head. "I like it here, Mrs. Harkness. Thank you just the same. I'll be right back to her typewriter and Marian continued to nervously tap the desk. Mr. Fellows strode in.

"Did you answer the Allen letter?" he asked abruptly.

"What you give the letter to me, to Sally?" Marian asked, catching at a hope. If Sally's inefficiency could be proved—

"How can I tell?" peevishly. "I dictate the letters and expect them to be written and mailed. It certainly isn't my duty to check up on the mail each day."

"Certainly not," Marian rushed on indiscreetly. "When several persons try to handle the same job, Mr. Fellows, there's bound to be confusion."

"Never mind that. Find the Allen letter and get it off." About to call Sally for a check-up of her shorthand book, Marian leaped through her own. There it was, B. T. Allen, National Bank Building, Grinnell, Iowa. It had not been checked off. How had she missed it? Mr. Fellows was eyeing her.

"Found it, did you?" "Yes—I'm sorry—I'll send it special."

"Humph," he growled.

INCIDENTS like that, discouraging, annoying, kept happening. One day Mr. Fellows remarked tersely, "If you must snap someone's head off, Marian, please don't pick on mine." Another day he roared, "Take the afternoon off. You're as flighty as a witch. What's the matter with everybody?"

And Carma continued to be a trial, the luncheon meetings with her something to be dreaded. She was bitter about Pete's marriage, disinclined, after the first agonized regret, to blame herself. She spoke of herself as a scorned, deserted woman and vaguely threatened all manner of reprisal. Her face had become hard and embittered. While pitying her, Marian began to avoid her.

One night Dan and Marian quarreled hotly. The cause was slight, something about the morning paper being discontinued. The disagreement grew in proportions until it became a pitched battle, reinforcements being commandeered by both sides from the past, present, and future.

Starting with Dan's casual inquiry as to the whereabouts of the morning paper, it worked up by rapid degrees to his shout, "You know I enjoy the morning paper, I only have a chance to scan the headlines at breakfast. Is that why you discontinued it?"

And Marian's angry retort, "I have no time to read it. If you're so crazy for the paper, why don't you pay the boy once in a while?"

"I have always paid the boy."

"How about these receipts in my desk?" jerking a drawer open. "I pay everything. If it weren't for me—"

"Cut it. Perhaps I will not here once or twice. I shall certainly reimburse you." He flung a dollar bill on the table. "Marian, you're selfish to the bone, worse than selfish, deliberately small and cruel."

She laughed, it was a nasty imitation of a laugh. "You can talk of being cruel, you, who can't provide a home for your wife, who never have been able to provide. I can grow old and tired, working my fingers to the bone so that you may live in a nice home, so that you can have your morning paper—"

"Let me see your fingers—let me see the bones." He caught her hand, a soft, beautiful hand with manicured nails and cool skin. "Bah," he said, dropping it. "I'd rather it was red and rough with keeping house." Clenching his fist, he shook it. "It was your idea to work your fingers to the bone, not mine. If I'd had the backbone of a canary—"

"Yes, but you hadn't—you haven't now!"

THEY had forgotten the newspaper, it had been put in the vehicle for a swift ride to ruin. The quarrel left Marian exhausted and mentally ill. Again and again, she assured herself that Dan was contemptible, that she hated him. Contradictorily, she longed for the feel of his arms about her. It had been a long time since they had cared enough to quarrel. While despising Dan, it roused her old love for him. But, for the first time in their married life, there was no reconciliation. The antagonism gradually wore itself away.

And then, to add to the general upheaval, Dolly went to the country for the week-end. Beds had to be made, dishes washed. The apartment was stuffy and uncomfortable. Sunday was a day of dark moods, sketchy meals, and simmering discontent.

New Kind Of Medical Magic Cures Insanity

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH
Associated Press Science Writer
CLEVELAND, Sept. 13 — A new kind of medical magic which corrects seemingly hopeless cases of insanity was reported today to the American Congress of Obstetrics and Gynecology.

The insanity comes at the time of life when the secretions of the body's glands suddenly "go haywire" and refuse to function in their normal relationship. The result in both men and women is a terrific psychological upset with severe headaches, melancholy feelings, excitability and depression in quick succession, sudden crying spells and frequent attempts at suicide.

Dr. August A. Werner, of the St. Louis University School of Medicine, told the congress the injection of hormones will in a great many cases restore these patients to normal activity.

He administers theelin, one of the female sex hormones, to women to restore their normal glandular activity, and testosterone, a male sex hormone, to men.

Dr. J. D. Love of Ysleta, Texas, described to the congress his combination hospital-ambulance delivery room which he uses in delivering mothers in isolated regions. It is a new type automobile trailer.

It is completely equipped to carry the hospital to the patient, having two full beds, lights, sterilizer for instruments, a refrigerator for medical supplies, an operating table, oxygen equipment, an X-ray machine, air conditioning, and a complete drug store.

Dam Will Have To Be Built, Says FDR

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13. (AP)—President Roosevelt says the Denison dam hydro-electric project on Red river between Texas and Oklahoma will have to be built if Congress decrees it.

He said at his press conference yesterday, however, he had referred to the war, agriculture and interior departments a letter written Saturday by Governor Leon C. Phillips of Oklahoma asking him to stop construction of the project on the ground it would destroy 100,000 acres of Oklahoma farm land, obliterate 50 miles of boundary line and cause other damage.

Told that Secretary Woodring recently had advised the governor he planned to go ahead with the project because Congress had ordered it in flood control authorization and appropriation bills, the President said if Congress directed it be constructed it would have to be built.

Several southern states are experimenting with the use of cotton fabric in road construction.

Former LeFors Youth Dies Of Gasoline Burns

Death yesterday afternoon claimed a prominent young Panhandle Boy Scout and former LeFors Pirate football star when burns caused the death of Elmer Lee Husband, 19, in an Amarillo hospital.

Young Husband, an employee of a construction firm at Sunray, was washing grease from his body with gasoline when it ignited. He rushed from his room in the Plains hotel where the tragedy occurred, beating flames out with his hands. He was taken to an Amarillo hospital but was so badly burned that death followed.

The youth moved to Sunray two years ago and until a week ago was employed by the Continental Crown Carbon company. He played football for LeFors high school during the seasons of 1936 and 1937. He was an outstanding Boy Scout, having received the Silver Palm and had only two ranks to go before reaching the highest rank in Scoutdom. After leaving LeFors where he was a member of Troop 19, he helped to organize a troop at Sunray in which he was active.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. C. A. Robbins, of Sunray; two brothers, Earl and Carroll; two half brothers, Earl and Carroll; and a half brother, James Robbins; his father, B. H. Husband, Oklahoma City, and his grandmother, Mrs. Nellie Midlock, Shawnee, Okla.

Funeral services were to be at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the First Baptist church in LeFors, with Rev. Lawrence officiating. Burial will be in the Pampa cemetery.

French reports said the enemy forces broke apart after several planes from both sides came spinning out of the sky to crash to earth.

A fresh squadron of French pursuit planes flew low over Paris this morning, racing east apparently to carry on combat.

The war ministry communique for this morning reported a "continuation of reaction of the artillery in the course of the night." The communique referred briefly to "great activity here and there" by the air forces of both sides.

French sources said their army had advanced only a few thousand yards a day in some sectors where violent fighting marked every action.

The advance on Saarbruecken was said to have hammered a wedge in the Siegfried line at its strongest point.

To the northwest of the city, in a pocket formed by the Luxembourg and German borders, the French were said to be meeting fierce resistance.

A dispatch from Basel, Switzerland, described the artillery warfare near Luxembourg as one of the greatest duels in history.

The main Siegfried line positions lie some seven miles behind Saarbruecken, and apparently the heavy German shellfire came from them. The French fire in this district was laid down along a two-mile front through the eastern suburbs of the city to the aviation field, which had been a German military air base.

The first meeting of the allied supreme war council yesterday "somewhere in France" was considered the forerunner of a big offensive of the combined French and British land forces.

Daladier and Chamberlain again pledged use of all British-French resources for the relief of Poland.

The commentator, Ferninax, writing in L'Ouvrier, declared the communique definitely scuttled German statements that "the western front hostilities are only a vain manifestation designed to save the face of Paris and London ministers."

French leaders and the press insisted both nations intend to "crush Hitlerism" regardless of the immediate fate of Poland.

L'Ordre summarized this attitude when it said, "Germany will be beaten without pity."

Underpass on Program

Pampa's part in securing favorable action of nearby counties in pooling tax refunds to be matched with state highway funds for construction of Highway 18, north and south, was discussed by Jim Collins, chairman of the BCD highway committee. He introduced Jim Douglas of Amarillo, division engineer for the state highway department, who said that the Cuyler street underpass was on the 1941 program. He said that approval of the underpass at Clarion might mean that Highway 18 would be favorably reported out by the commission.

The air show to be staged here September 22 and 23 was discussed by Bert Howell who said that teachers of Gray county might be guests of Pampa merchants at the air show instead of at a banquet.

Metz Gibson of Alameda invited everyone to attend the Alameda fair Friday and Saturday.

Entertainment was presented by Happy Frank McKeown, armless baseball player.

"If the civic clubs of the city look favorably upon the plan to form these committees," the sheriff said, "I believe juvenile delinquency in Pampa can be practically wiped out."

The sheriff stated that he is working out details of the plan and hopes to present it formally to each of the clubs in the near future.

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP)—The stock market followed an erratic course today with some favored shares up 1 to 3 points higher and their best and others slipping with little support about the same margin.

Stocks were subjected to realigning on the opening and while they managed some improvement, were not given sufficient support for a lift. All times motors and aircrafts were bid up a little.

German armies attacking Warsaw were reported to have been hurried back six miles in action which definitely put the invaders "on the run."

The officers of the Polish capital, an official broadcast from Warsaw declared, were manning new defense positions with fresh vigor wherever the Germans had been ousted.

German bombing planes appeared over the city only three times; artillery fire continued but the damage was comparatively light, and Polish military casualties, the radio reported, numbered only one colonel, two other officers and 13 soldiers, although the number of wounded was considerably larger.

An unidentified station, meanwhile, reported an actual march in progress in the west. The announcer said two Polish divisions that had been cut off near the German-Polish border were fighting a running battle in an effort to break through the German lines and relieve Warsaw.

Mass Installation Of Legion Officers To Be At Dimmitt

For the first time in departmental history, a mass installation of officers of American Legion posts and auxiliary units of an entire district will be held at Dimmitt tomorrow night.

Lou J. Roberts of Borger, newly elected department commander, will conduct the installation and be present when auxiliary unit officers are installed in a ceremony over which Mrs. John Deaver of Memphis, district auxiliary president, will be in charge.

Champions attending the installation are to meet at 5:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Buckingham's Service station, 120 South Cuyler.

The mass installation will be held in the Castro county post's Legion hall, a building dedicated four months ago in a ceremony attended by Brigadier W. G. Gilks of Dallas, Salvation Army official who is also state chairman of the American Legion. Brigadier Gilks went from Pampa to Dimmitt for the dedication.

A "feed" and a dance will follow the mass installation.

BERLIN, Sept. 13 (AP)—Adolf Hitler today took a second trip to the Polish war front north of Lodz where, according to German accounts, between 50,000 and 60,000 Poles have been trying for four days to break through German encirclement.

(By The Associated Press)

Torpedo mine and shell have sunk 27 ships of six nations in 11 days of sea combat, with Britain suffering more than half the losses.

At least 181 persons were known to have perished.

Casualties to date:

Belligerents — Britain 16 ships, France 1, Germany 6. Three other German vessels were reported to have been run aground. Their exact fate is unreported.

Neutrals — Netherlands 2 ships, Greece 1, Finland 1.

The toll still was less than the figures for a similar period in the first days of unrestricted German submarine warfare in the World War. Ten days after the German high command gave the order for "unlimited" submarine warfare in 1917, the loss was 82 ships and known tonnage of ships sunk, 172,902.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP)—Women and children screamed on the darkened, listing decks of the doomed liner Athenia and an officer ordered a few panicky stewards to "get the hell out of these lifeboats," the first survivor of the Athenia sinking to reach New York said today. Damon Boynton, 31, a member of the Cornell University faculty at Ithaca, N. Y., told the story today when he returned on the liner Cameronia.

LWOW, Poland, Sept. 13 (Polish Telegraphic agency, via Stockholm)—The enemy continues bombarding civilian population and evacuation trains. German air planes bombed Lwow yesterday 12 times, alarms sounding with interruption for eight hours. The Germans dropped bombs also on Luck and Lublin doing great damage in the latter city. An evacuation train running from Warsaw to Lwow had to stop 72 times to permit the passengers to get off to avoid bombing.

In spite of German radio announcements to the contrary, Gydina remains in Polish hands.

LONDON, Sept. 13 (AP)—The ministry of information in a bulletin today said it had been reported that Germany "already" had drafted into her landwehr (second line troops for home defense) men from 41 to 55 years old.
