AUSTIN, July 11 (AP)—Governor W. Lee O'Daniel today signed a bill returning to all counties half the ad valorem taxes collected within their borders for the state's general fund.

The remissions, which would start in 1941 and extend over a five-year period, are expected to take around $2,500,000 a year from the general fund, which already has an $18,000,000 deficit.

At the time of the bill's passage, legislative opponents contended it would make a general sales tax inevitable. During the recent session, O'Daniel supported without avail proposals of constitutional amendments containing a 2 per cent sales tax.

Action on the general remission proposal cleared the governor's desk of virtually all important legislation except appropriation bills. They must be acted on by tomorrow midnight and the governor has intimated there may be substantial slashing.

The money returned to the counties could be used for unemployment relief, flood control soil conservation, internal road building, reduction of county property tax rates or any other constitutional purposes.

O'Daniel said the principle of remitting taxes was "questionable" but legislators for years had authorized remissions to individual counties and that with a few exceptions one county was about as much entitled to a remission as another.

Opposes Property Tax. The governor, in a statement in connection with approval of the general remission bill, again called attention to the fact he favors abolition of the state property tax.

Britain Says Coup Would Be Resisted

'Inside' Revolt Condemned By Prime Minister

LONDON, July 10 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain told Germany in effect today Great Britain would resist any attempt to bring Danzig back into the Reich. He made a carefully-worded statement, which had the advance approval of both Poland and France, in the House of Commons in an effort to remove any doubts which Hitler or other German leaders might have concerning Britain's position.

Recent occurrences in the free city, the prime minister asserted, had aroused fears that an attempt might be made to change its status by "unilateral action organized by superstitious methods" and present Poland and other powers with a "fait accompli."

"In such circumstances," he said, "any action taken by Poland to restore the situation would be resisted, be represented as an act of aggression on her part and if action were supported by other powers they would be accused of aiding and abetting her in the use of force."

BERLIN, July 10 (AP)—A "reasonable solution" of the Danzig problem is possible, some Nazi sources said today after British Prime Minister Chamberlain's statement in the House of Commons on the Danzig situation. The newspaper Deutsche Allgemeine meanwhile saw in the House of Commons questions for which the Chamberlain statement provided the answer, a "spirit which looks for trouble, a spirit of challenge."

WARSAW, July 10 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain's statement in London today was warmly welcomed, warning that cannot go unheeded by responsible Polish circles. They left no doubt Poland appreciated the British attitude but it was stated Chamberlain's words should be carefully weighed before any official comment could be given.

LONDON, July 10 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain declared today an attempt to settle Danzig's future by unilateral action would threaten Poland's independence which Britain is pledged to help maintain. Chamberlain said while the present status of the free city was "neither basically unjust or illogical" it could be improved by "reasonable" means and that "it may be that, in a clearer atmosphere, possible improvements could be discussed."

Recent occurrences in Danzig, Chamberlain said, had caused fears "that it may be attempted by unilateral action organized by superstitious methods." "If the sequence of events should be in fact such as is contemplated in this hypothesis, the members will resist it that the issue could not be considered as a purely local matter involving the rights and liberties of the Danzigers, but will at once raise graver issues affecting Polish existence and independence," Chamberlain said.

He then declared "we have guaranteed to give our assistance to Poland in the case of a clear threat to her independence which she considers it vital to resist with her national forces and we are firmly resolved to carry out this undertaking."

Dispel Doubts. Chamberlain's statement was intended to dispel any doubts in minds of German officials that Britain would stand by her pledge to Poland in the case of Danzig, and it was See BRITON, Page 3

Big Spring Youth Named As Hijacker

BIG SPRING, July 10 (AP)—Jesse B. Karnes, Big Spring youth, was held under bond of $2,000 today, on a charge of robbery in connection with the hijacking Sunday of R. L. Karnes was apprehended in Colorado City Sunday afternoon, reported to officers he was held up by a youth he had picked up on the highway. He was forced to drive off on a country road, he said, where he was left stranded as the youth took his money and car.

A special venire of 100 jurymen has been summoned to appear in district court Wednesday morning at which time a jury will be selected to hear the trial of Mrs. Garrison.

Last Head Of Spain's Old Regime Sentenced

MADRID, July 10 (AP)—Professor Julian Besteiro, who was convicted by a military tribunal of helping prolong the Spanish civil war, was sentenced today to 30 years imprisonment. He was the last head of the Spanish republican regime.

Besteiro, a socialist leader and professor of philosophy, headed the Madrid defense council which surrendered the city to the nationalists last March 28, after which Generalissimo Francisco Franco's forces entered without firing a shot.

He was tried Saturday by a military tribunal of four generals and two lieutenant colonels on charges of "aiding rebellion." The government prosecutor, Cecilio Colunga, former student of the defendant, demanded the death penalty.

Late News

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—A strong hint President Roosevelt might announce tomorrow the selection of Paul V. McNutt to head the new Federal Security Administration came today from well-informed officials. McNutt, for whom friends have conducted an active campaign for the 1940 Democratic presidential nomination, called on Mr. Roosevelt today. He declined to discuss the appointment, aside from saying legal technicalities would require him to resign his position as Philippine high commissioner for another month in order to sign official papers.

NEW YORK, July 10 (AP)—William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor, said today the AFL would use all of its economic strength to compel Congress to restore the old wage rates on WPA projects. Failure, he added, would mean "strikes and strikes." Green addressed the 32d convention of the International Longshoremen's association at the Hotel Commodore.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 10 (AP)—Harry Bridges, west coast CIO labor leader, denied from the witness stand at his deportation hearing today that he was, or ever had been, a member of the Communist party.

Death Takes Movie Pioneer At Dallas

DALLAS, July 10 (AP)—William P. Felton, 78, who took motion pictures into the northern Panhandle died here yesterday.

Felton opened a grocery store, coal and grain business and drug store at Dalhart in the Panhandle when the town was springing up along the railroad tracks in 1902.

He later built an opera house where troupes bound south from Denver and west from Kansas City played. In 1907, he opened Dalhart's first movie.

He moved to Dallas in 1918. Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Clyde Vinson of San Angelo.

The headquarters office is in Dallas. Twitty said Houston, San Antonio, Austin, San Angelo and Lubbock had been named, and that two other points would be chosen. One of these will be Pampa or Amarillo, and the other Tyler or Longview.

City Arrests 7 On Charges Of Intoxication

City police officers had a busy week-end, especially Saturday night and early Saturday morning when they arrested seven persons on charges of intoxication. Fines were assessed Sunday morning in special courts conducted by Judge W. M. Craven.

Ray Dudley, new traffic officer, investigated his first traffic accident this morning when a truck belonging to the Consumers Oil company and a Boston Cleaner truck were in collision at the corner of Browling and Carr. No one was injured but both trucks were damaged.

Woman Confesses Amarillo Slaying

LOS ANGELES, July 10 (AP)—Mrs. Mary Johnson, 28, former circus trapeze artist, walked into a police station, raised her right hand and said, "I want to confess a murder."

Detective Lieutenant Aldo Corsini, who booked her today on suspicion of murder, said she claimed she was involved in a grocer holdup-killing at Amarillo, Texas, in 1928.

She was accompanied to the station by her husband, Leslie Johnson, the officer said, and told this story:

"My maiden name was Mary Janzen. I was only 17 at the time and living at Amarillo, Texas. One night I was driving with two young men.

"The boys jumped out and tried to hold up a grocer whose name I believe was McCormack. I heard some shots. They said the grocer had pulled a gun."

"The next day I read in the newspapers that the grocer died—and that he didn't have a gun.

"The boys threatened me with death if I told police. One of the boys was killed during a robbery a few weeks later."

Sizzling Heat Over Nation Decreases

(By The Associated Press.) Cooling winds and scattered rains gave most of the nation a breathing spell today after the most torrid weather of the year.

The sizzling heat began to fade yesterday but it was not enough to show the mercury over the century mark in some cities and above 90 in scores of communities.

Heat dispersing breezes moved over the northern lake region yesterday and were expected to penetrate other sections tonight.

Two deaths were attributed to the heat in Detroit yesterday, bringing the death toll for five days to more than 50. There were heat victims in at least 17 states.

The mercury climbed to 112 yesterday at Yuma and Phoenix, Ariz. It was within a degree of the hottest July 9 at Phoenix since establishment of the weather bureau there 44 years ago. Maxima in Texas included 107 at San Antonio, 107 at Brownsville and 106 at Austin.

25 Cars Wheat Shipped Over Last Week-End

Price of wheat locally remained at 56 cents a bushel today with little good grain being received as a result of recent heavy rains. Elevator men reported. About 25 car loads were shipped over the week-end.

Cutting is in full swing again and more than half of the crop has been harvested, it is estimated. The wheat being delivered is testing between 48 and 55 with much of it containing weeds.

This section would have had plenty of No. 1 wheat but for the rains, elevator men report.

Japs Claim Soviet Planes Shot Down

TOKYO, July 10 (AP)—Domei (Japanese) news agency said today Japanese had reported 50 Soviet Russian airplanes shot down in a new battle over the Khalka river, along the disputed border between outer Mongolia and Manchoukuo.

Japanese acknowledged loss of one plane, the agency said. They asserted they had captured 50 tanks and an undisclosed number of armored cars, field artillery and heavy machine-guns when they took Balashan Heights, leaving "hundreds" of the enemy dead.

Two Arrested As War Against Drunken Driving Here Continues

The Gray county sheriff's department, working with state highway patrolmen and a Pampa man enforcement officers, continued over the weekend to push its campaign against drunken automobile drivers and liquor law violators.

Drunken driving charges were placed against a Miami man and a Pampa woman and a Pampa man was charged with selling liquor without a license as a result of arrests made Saturday night and early Sunday morning.

R. B. Dial of Miami, arrested in Pampa shortly before midnight Saturday, was out under $1,000 bond today awaiting action of the grand jury, scheduled to reconvene July 24.

Dial was arrested by Sheriff Cal Rose and Deputy George Pope, State Liquor Agent Sam Fort, and Highway Patrolman Byron St. Clair following a report that the car he was driving had been in collision with a gasoline truck on Frederick street.

Mrs. Billie Harmon, Pampa, was taken into custody at 1 a. m. Sunday when she was driving in her car on Brown street. Arresting officers included Chief Deputy Pope, State Agent Fort, and Highway Patrolmen St. Clair and W. A. Robertson. She was released under $1,000 bond.

A. W. Honsinger, charged with selling liquor without a license, was arrested at 6 a. m. Sunday by Sheriff Rose and Deputy George Pope, Control Board officer. The arrest was made at the Delphi rooming house on the South Side.

New School Buses May Be Purchased

The Pampa school board will meet at 8:30 o'clock tonight to discuss purchase of new school buses. Some of the present buses are so old that board members feel that new ones should be bought if suitable terms can be arranged.

Late meeting time has been set during the summer months so that members of the board living on farms will not have to stop harvesting and plowing to attend the meetings.

Jimmy Saunders 'Phones For Worms From Walsenburg

When J. M. Saunders, long-time Pampa resident, goes fishing in the mountain lakes and streams he has to have old-fashioned equipment or his vacation is ruined.

Mr. Saunders spent nearly $2 on a long distance phone call from Walsenburg, Colo., early this morning to get a can of fish'n' worms.

Mr. and Mrs. Saunders are at Walsenburg, en route to Pearl Lakes, high in the Rockies, where Mr. Saunders has a summer vacation retreat.

They will be joined there the middle of this week by Judge and Mrs. B. S. Via and their son, Buster Wilkins, of Pampa.

The phone call was placed to Mr. Via, who was amazed at Mr. Saunders' long distance request.

"I'm bringing plenty of equipment and we'll want to use flies," said the judge over the phone.

"Never mind that," came Mr. Saunders' voice from Walsenburg, "go out to the place and tell one of the boys to give you that can of worms I forgot. I came from Louisiana, and I've got to have worms to fish with if I'm going to have a good time."

Judge Via is planning to leave for Colorado Tuesday morning—and in his luggage will be a can of leed fishing worms.

Bids For Pump Station To Be Opened July 27

Sealed proposals for erection of a pump station on the city's Ward street property will be received at the office of the city secretary until 10 a. m., July 27, 1939, and then publicly opened and read aloud.

The city expects to have approximately $16,000 available for the building which will house the pumping units for the three North Pampa wells which are now housed in small individual buildings. The new structure will be of brick and steel construction.

A cashier's check or certified or acceptable bidder's bond, payable to the city, in an amount not less than five per cent of the total bid submitted must accompany each bid.

Plans and specifications prepared by H. N. Richards, water engineer, Lubbock may be secured from Mr. Roberts upon deposit of $15. Plans and specifications may be examined free of charge in the office of the city secretary in the city hall here.

Building of the central plant was approved by Public Works Administration after the large extension program was completed. Now the city has adequate water supply and when the new pump house is completed the system will be one of the best in the state.

County Begins Tax Hearings

Feel like your taxes are too high—or, possibly too low? The Gray county commissioners' court went into session today, sitting in the county board of equalization, to hear any and all county taxpayers who believe there should be adjustments, and to equalize county property valuations upon which the new tax rate will be based for 1940.

The board, meeting in the county courtroom, expects to take up the greater portion of the week with its hearings.

Representatives of various oil companies with holdings in Gray county made up the group which was heard by the equalization board on the opening day.

From the valuation figures arrived at during the current hearing will be developed by the county's 1940 tax rate, officials stated.

U. S. Attorney Told To Keep Facts Secret

NEW ORLEANS, July 10 (AP)—United States District Attorney Rene A. Viosea announced today Attorney General Frank Murphy had instructed him not to turn over any evidence or information gathered by the federal grand jury here, investigating ramifications of the university scandal, to any state official or to anyone else.

Last night State Attorney General Mack Wilson announced in Baton Rouge that Murphy had refused his direct telegraphic request for evidence of state law violations uncovered by the federal grand jury.

Viosea announced no reasons for the order. He said it left no loopholes.

The federal grand jury was called here two weeks ago to examine charges against the WPA at Louisiana State university. Three arrests already have been made on

WPA Workers Going Back To Their Jobs

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—A back-to-work movement by the Workers Security Federation developed today in the wide-spread walkouts of WPA laborers in protest against the new 130-hour month. Officials of the federation, recently organized from local unions of WPA workers and the unemployed, advised those of its members who had quit work to return to their jobs. They urged the men, however, to continue to protest against the hours provision by holding night mass meetings and participating in demonstrations.

J. Clark Waldron, publicity chairman of the federation, estimated 32,000 members had joined in the walkouts, but said their only purpose had been to make "an effective protest."

In New York, Col. Breton Somervell, city WPA administrator, said he would meet 90 per cent of metropolitan WPA projects by moving men from job to job.

The CIO and the AFL, divided on many labor issues, stood side by side in their opposition to the new requirements which have the effect, by imposing a longer work month, of reducing the hourly WPA wages.

Hot? Well, Don't Blame It On Heat - - It's The Humidity!

Somebody once said, "it's not the heat—it's the humidity." That's the way with the weather in and around this section of the Panhandle for the past few days.

Almost everyone seemed to think today was a record-breaker for heat. Well, the reading at the U. S. Weather Bureau at 1 p. m. today was only 89 degrees.

Sunday's maximum was 91 degrees at 4:30 p. m. The 1939 summer record in Pampa was 109 degrees on June 14.

Radio announcers thought it was at least 110 as they were broadcasting Sunday afternoon's Pampa-Borger game from Borger. Actually at the same hour it was less than 90 degrees in Pampa.

Miss Stanley And Francis Parker Marry On Sunday

The marriage of Miss Samantha Ann Stanley of Pampa and Francis H. Parker of Lubbock was solemnized Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the First Presbyterian church with the Rev. Robert Boshen, minister, and the Rev. W. A. Erwin of McLean officiating.

Wedding music included "Indian Love Call," a vocal solo, by Miss Arlen Reynolds of Wheeler, who was accompanied by Mrs. Travis Stokes of McLean. Mrs. Stokes played Lohengrin's wedding March as the bridal party entered the church and the Bridal Chorus from Mendelssohn was played as the recessional. During the ceremony Mrs. Stokes played "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" with Miss Helen Poots at the violin.

The bride was attractive in a gown of white chiffon with short puffed sleeves, v-shaped neckline, shirred waist, and full skirt. She wore a circular fingertip veil which was held with a coronet of tiny orange blossoms and carried an arm bouquet of red roses, cornflowers, and bridal wreath.

Attending the couple were Mrs. Thurman Adkins of Shamrock, sister of the bride, and Jack W. Parker of Abilene, brother of the bridegroom. Ushers were Dick Stanley of McLean and Tommie Stanley of Colorado Springs.

A reception in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thut followed the service. Miss Helen Houston of Pampa presided at the punch bowl while Mrs. Spencer Sitter of McLean and Mrs. Dick Stanley of McLean served the cake. At the registry was Miss Gloria Stanley of Shamrock.

The couple left after the reception for Colorado where they will visit before returning to Lubbock to make their home.

The bride has been employed in the office of Charlie Thut, county clerk. Mr. Parker is connected with the Retail Credit Association at Lubbock.

Don't Be Taken Aback If Fall Dress Sprouts A Bustle

By MARIAN YOUNG
NEW YORK—There's no doubt about it—New York and Paris designers are flirting with the idea of getting women back into bustles. Early summer collections hint at back fullness. The sashes on a great many summer evening gowns lie in huge bows at the back. Peplums—narrow in front, wide and flaring in back—are prevalent on both evening and day dresses. Tiered effects are stressed.

As a matter of fact, a few couturiers are hinting at the idea of reviving the bustle. Alix, for instance, has in her current collection a rose and black striped moire evening gown with an honest-to-goodness bustle back. Schiaparelli puts an out-and-out bustle on a long black dinner suit with long, pointed jacket.

In New York, Sally Milgrim's recent fashion showing in the Pershing Room at the Plaza featured the bustle silhouette in every conceivable manner, from high bustle arrangements to low-down bustle fullness, achieved by shirring the skirt-back beneath a smooth-fitting shield or yoke. Between these extremes were tiered bouffes, perky peplums and all types of back bows.

Among the smartest costumes in this fashion show was a black silk chiffon apron dress with its bustle suggested by a bouffant bow and ends.

A formal black silk taffeta evening gown with huge bustle bow in back was covered from hipline to hemline with rows of tiny white lace ruffles. A dawn-gray organza gown, hand-painted in white helter-

First Fall Hats Have Substantially Different Look

By ADELAIDE HERR
The first fall hats have a decidedly different look.

They have backs as well as fronts, for a change. They are designed of rich fabrics in restrained hues which make a striking contrast with the black, little girl's shawls and tiny peplum effects. (Yes, the bustle silhouette has invaded the fur coat especially where caracul is concerned.)

While sapphire brown sealskin, beaver, nutria, fitch, mink, baum marlen, sable brown and black Persian, ercaul and sheared raccoon are the lighter, skunk, squirrel, gray disklike, ocelot and leopard cat get some attention.

For evening, long, fitted coats of silver fox or ermine or combinations of these two perennial favorites are stressed. One particularly stunning model of alternating sections of ermine and handsome silver fox has a quite suggestion of a train and, quite unexpectedly, very short sleeves. Also for evening, silver fox, white fox, mink, sable, baum marlen and silver-red-fox (bleached) jackets are important.

Sleeve treatments include puffed shoulders, tapering down to narrow wristbands; Gibson-girl; leg-o-mutton; flowing mandarin or monk; straight; with the skins worked in spiral effects; convertible muff types and, for evening, short versions. The majority of fur coats are collarless. The necklines of the others are finished with narrow, upstanding bands or with tiny, standing collars.

Fur Fashion Picture Is Study In Brown For Autumn Buyers

By MARIAN YOUNG
NEW YORK—Brown furs are the big news in midsummer sales of coats for winter 1939 and 1940. Gray and black are in the picture, of course, but safari brown Alaska sealskin, sable-dyed fitch, sheared beaver, sheared raccoon, mink, blended muskrat, nutria, and, in the luxury class, mink, beaver, marlen and sable, are the headlines.

Just as brown is the news, variety is the keynote of every collection—variety in pelts used, variety in silhouettes, variety in sleeve, collar and hemline treatments. Silhouettes range from short-and-boxy to fitted-and-flared, with all manner of casual, swinging and straight-hanging types in between.

At the recent Annual Fur Fashion Show, sponsored by all manufacturers of fur coats and fur trimmings in this country, impressive was the fact that American processes and craftsmanship have made it possible for the designer of fur coats to express himself as freely and imaginatively in fur as he can in silk and wool materials.

What handlers of furs for women's coats have done in the way of processing pelts is nothing short of miraculous. Modern beauty treatments of even the heaviest, stiffest varieties have made them supple as fabric.

Almost every fur now can be draped, pleated, even shirred. Heavy, long-haired pelts, such as raccoon, have been shorn of their bulk by effective reducing treatments which make them marvelously light-weight, yet as warm as formerly.

Furthermore, if you are furnished at all, this is indeed the summer to buy. Those right at the source of the fur industry agree that prices of all kinds of pelts are considerably lower than they have been in many a season.

Consider seriously sapphire brown Alaska sealskin, fashion's favorite of the hour. And, by the way, it's an excellent example of how skins have been treated to achieve lightness and pliability. Grandmother loved Alaska sealskin, as you know, in straight-hanging refecters, broad-shouldered, swinging swagers in every length and in fitted-and-flared versions.

Caracul is being used in all sorts of daring ways. There are fitted caracul with butterfly bows in the back, little girl's shawls and tiny peplum effects. (Yes, the bustle silhouette has invaded the fur coat especially where caracul is concerned.)

Mind Your Manners

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Should a hostess be concerned only with making her guests have a good time, and not with impressing them?
2. Does a good hostess do as much as possible toward preparing the food before the guests arrive?
3. Would it be better to have small servings of an expensive food, or plenty of an inexpensive kind at an informal party?
4. Should a hostess take less pains preparing for friends than she does for acquaintances?
5. Does a good hostess remember to inquire about her guests' pet interests?

You and your husband have just been entertained by new friends and wish to return their hospitality and continue the friendship. Would you—

- (a) Try to entertain much more elaborately than your new friends did?
- (b) Give exactly the same type entertainment as your friends gave you?
- (c) Entertain them a bit differently, but observe about the same degree of formality?

The Means of Danzig Settlement Are At Hand

Whether the Danzig affair comes to crisis and war, no one yet knows. But if it does, it is just as well for the world to remember that there is not the faintest excuse for his happening. The means of a peaceful Danzig settlement are at hand. Danzig is an artificial political creation of the Versailles Treaty, whose administration is in the hands of the League of Nations.

The League's commissioner, Dr. Karl Burckhardt, is on hand in that city. He is a Swiss, and therefore neutral in the Danzig controversy. He is a scholarly man, devoted to peace and justice.

Let it be granted that the league is not what it ought to be, nor even what it was. Let it be granted that Germany is no longer a member of the league, and therefore no longer bound by it.

Nevertheless, not enough is being said about the fact that the Danzig situation can be peacefully settled. If it is not, it will be because somebody doesn't want to settle it peacefully.

Both Germany and Poland have claims in Danzig. The Germans have a claim to the city based on the fact that most of its people are German and presumably would like to come under the German system. The Poles have a claim based on the fact that their country must have free access to the Baltic.

Very well. Are these claims mutually exclusive? Is there no way in which Germany could have Danzig, yet Poland be assured of a free outlet to the Baltic for its growing commerce? There must be such a way, given the merest shred of the will to find it.

The Poles have developed their own port city of Gdynia on the Baltic. What they need is assurance of the use of that port, equal assurance with Germany that they can use the Vistula basin which runs up through the neutralized corridor to the open Baltic and the world's trade. The Poles have in large part abandoned Danzig anyway, as a shipping point. Germany claims it wishes only to restore Germans to the Reich.

What a silly thing to have a world war about! Here are two neighbor nations at daggers drawn over the kind of question that sensible, sane men are settling every day all over the world. And here a neutral referee is ready, willing, and anxious to cooperate in finding a solution which will give each party most of what he wants.

Failure to make use of the league commissioner on the spot at Danzig will show the world that what is desired is not a just solution, but an excuse for doing something else that has nothing to do with the actual needs or rights of the parties involved.

A poll indicates that one-fourth of U. S. voters don't know they pay taxes. Wake up, America!

The Nation's Press

TWO QUESTIONS FOR THE HOUSE, GOLD AND SILVER (New York Times) After the extraordinary session of the Senate in which the Administration's forces were twice defeated, it is useful to take stock of what has happened to the new monetary bill. If the House now concurs in the changes which the Senate has adopted, we shall have this curious situation:

So far as gold is concerned the President will lose (after June 30) the power which he now enjoys to alter, solely at his own discretion, the gold content of the dollar. That power resides in Section 12 of the Gold Reserve Act of 1934, a section which expires automatically on Friday unless it is renewed by Congress. This the Senate has refused to do.

At the same time, under Section 8 of the Gold Reserve Act—a section which remains in effect until repealed—the President will continue to have power to "purchase gold in any amounts, at home or abroad" * * * at such rates and upon such terms and conditions as he may deem most advantageous to the public interest.

The curious result of this is that the President, while losing power to devalue or revalue the dollar, will retain power to drive the value of the dollar down or up in terms of gold—simply by fixing a higher or lower price for that metal.

What he cannot do, on his own account and at his own discretion, is to change legally the gold content of the dollar. With the House concurring in the Senate amendments, this would again become the prerogative of Congress—as it always was, from the founding of the Republic down to the days of the "crisis legislation" enacted by the New Deal.

Sharing The Comforts Of Life

By R. C. Holles

WHAT IS LIBERTY? This week, we celebrate the signing of the Declaration of Independence by which our forefathers attempted to establish a country that would permit the greatest possible freedom and liberty for each and every individual. They desired to make it so that each man had equal rights to the pursuit of happiness. They realized that if a man did not get what he produced, or have the right to sell his services or his product to the world's highest bidder, he was not free and did not have liberty.

The men establishing the government, the men fighting for liberty had a very advanced vision of what constituted liberty, freedom and democracy. They realized that liberty, democracy and freedom, and the philosophy that Jesus Christ taught were practically one and the same thing.

It seems that we have strayed far from the principles set down by the Declaration of Independence and, later, by the Constitution of the United States. It is this misunderstanding of what liberty and freedom are that has caused the United States to have the worst and longest depression in its history.

WHY THE '37 DEPRESSION

The New Dealers are making every conceivable apology for the reduction in production and employment during '37 and '38. Few people really realize how rapid this decline in production was.

The National Association of Manufacturers Committee, on the study of depressions, points out that the rate of decline in industrial production from the Spring of '37 to the Spring of '38, was at the rate of 3 per cent a month; this, compares with a decline at the rate of 2 per cent a month for the first year of the July '29 to July '30 depression. From July '29 to July '32, the average rate of decline was 1.5 per cent a month.

No other country had any similar decline as the '37-'38 decline of 3 per cent a month. The New Dealers claim it was due to the fact that we did not spend enough. But these same New Dealers admit they cannot stop spending, so that a recovery that is based on continued borrowing means eventually a collapse of the money system. This, history shows, works great hardships on all honest thrifty people. It discourages the accumulation of tools and, thus, reduces the inability of workers to produce for themselves a decent living.

Undoubtedly, the major factors of this most rapid decline in industries in the history of our country, was due to the government's interference with the enterprise's right to select his own help and place the help in a position he believed they were most efficient, and the penalizing taxing system adopted by the government against those people who furnished employment.

It will be remembered that the Wagner Act, which made it impossible for the employer to select his own help, was not declared constitutional until April '37 and a year after that the country had had the greatest decline in production in any time in its history.

I do not believe this is a coincidence. I believe the Wagner act was one of the primary causes of the most rapid decline in our history.

MEANING OF GOVERNMENT BY LAW

Nowadays, we often hear the expression that we have a government by men, not a government by law. This statement means nothing, unless it is explained. It would be impossible to have government by law without men. What is undoubtedly meant by this statement is that there are certain immutable laws of nature and of God that cannot be changed by men through a government.

We have been spreading the idea, through the schools and the press and the politicians, that the people have the ability and the right to make any law they see fit. What most people fail to realize is that no matter how large the majority may be, no law that is contrary to God's law or natural law, can be instituted because of the size of the majority and work to the benefit of mankind. Majorities have nothing to say, nothing to do, no power, no way of changing natural laws. It is the government that makes laws in harmony with God's law and natural laws that is the government by law and that works great blessings to mankind.

We have foolishly come to believe that democracy can make any law it wants by majorities without consideration of whether it violates the laws of life, the laws of liberty, the laws of God or not. Man-made majority-rule laws that are out of harmony with natural laws, mean only poverty, misery and suffering if continued.

COLLEGE STUDENTS' IDEA OF EDUCATION

The college students are now back home. We get a little conception of their understanding by talking to them. In conversation with a couple of college students, I find that they believe there can be too many educated people. There is no room, they say, for so many educated people.

Of course, these college students have little conception of what education is. They seem to think that going to college is synonymous with education. Or, possibly, they believe education is becoming trained along certain definite lines. They do not seem to comprehend that there never was a time in our history that there was as much need for educated people as there is at present. The demand cannot be filled. By educated people, we mean those people who have had their wills trained to desire to put themselves in harmony with natural laws.

It is because the colleges do not train people to do this that the most of the college students believe there is not room for so many educated people.

When a man finds no peace within himself it is useless to seek it elsewhere.—La Rochefoucauld

The President's power under the expiring Section 12 of the Gold Reserve Act with repeal of the still continuing power in Section 8 of that same legislation—leaving the Administration with only its present power (under Section 10) to steady the dollar in terms of foreign currencies, through the operations of its Exchange Stabilization Fund.

Again, if the Senate really wished to put an end to the silver folly that has piled high in the Treasury's vaults a tremendous board of a metal for which this country has no earthly use, it would have discontinued mandatory purchases of domestic silver as well as purchases of foreign silver which other countries are only too glad to dump on us at inflated prices.

THREE-GUN MAN

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON

HOLLYWOOD, July 10. — With the idea of bolstering the movie's prestige and, of course, boxoffice receipts, the industry is figuring on a Golden Jubilee Celebration of the flickers.

Last year a lot of money was wasted and numerous customers were antagonized by a promotion campaign called "Motion Pictures Are Your Best Entertainment." That embarrassing fiasco has so dampened the spirits of potential celebrants that 1939 is no longer an "infant industry" but an art form with history and traditions.

If nothing in the way of formal observance is whipped up for this autumn and winter, plenty of time still remains and 1940 may be chosen as the half-century year. The date is almost wholly subject to arbitrary selection, in the same way that movie players who want local publicity often toss two or three parties a year to mark such milestones as their arrival here, their first job, or their first divorce.

Almost as reasonably, Hollywood might now be celebrating the 18th century of the discovery of the "optical lag" or "persistence of vision" which makes movies possible. The first actual moving pictures employing the illusion were shown by a Joseph Plateau in 1828. The figures were drawn on a revolving disc. The magic lantern or stereopticon had been invented a few years back in 1840, and by 1853 somebody named Uchatius had figured how to combine the two gadgets. He projected revolving-disc images on a screen.

In 1861 actual photographs were used in Philadelphia, Coleman Sellers on a sort of paddle wheel machine called a Kinetoscope. Nine years later a fellow named Henry Heyl used a Phasmatrope to project Kinetoscopic action on a screen. His projector had a shutter, too, and he put on the first public showing of movies under that Philadelphia Academy of Music.

The first unposed movies, forerunner of today's scientific short, were crudely made in 1877. Gov. Leland Stanford of California got into an argument—and a $2,500 suit—about how horses should be paced and single-footed. To settle the bet, a row of 24 still cameras was arranged with strings across the track by which the horse would trip the camera shutters at regular intervals.

The experiment wasn't a great success because the strings frightened the horse, but the pictures were all right and were projected by a contraption called a Praxinoscope. About 500,000 places were used, and Stanford finally won his bet, which specifically was that a running horse lifted all four feet off the ground at once.

THE GREAT 100-kilowatt short-wave radio station at Schenectady for broadcasting to South America is ready. The United States enters this game too late, but it has the advantage of the experience of European governments which have been for several years blanketing South America with radio programs.

This is what has been learned: South Americans are smart. Like Hamlet, when the wind is from a hand saw. The German and Italian radio propaganda has backfired badly. Outright propaganda, biased news, hatred of others, envy and deliberate falsification, have made a radio diet on which South America first gagged, then choked, and finally sickened.

THE BEST use of the American radio facilities can be found in disseminating good music, cultural material, and news that is straight, true, and later upheld by events. The good will that will result from that will far outmatch any propaganda.

The east, averred this lady, is against isolation, but she adds that "informed socialism here (the east) is better than middlewestern moralism." These are harsh words, m'lady, and scarcely of the most diplomatic. For good middlewestern blood was also shed in France in 1918, and we had no welcome, we were told, even in London.

BUT LET IT pass, let it pass. It is only to be expected that every country will have its moans. The only difference is in the degree of relative distinction they achieve. In some countries, it would appear, such modest mental status is not even a bar to titles of honor and distinction.

Book A Day

By JOHN SELBY

"MOSES AND MONOTHEISM," by Sigmund Freud (Knopf: $2). Dr. Sigmund Freud's "Moses and Monotheism" has been staring at the writer for two or three weeks, demanding that something be done about it. It being human to postpone unpleasant confessions, we have done so. Now the truth must out—the writer does not know what he thinks about this disturbing book. Neither, to judge from most of the reviewers so far, do many other people.

In a sense, "Moses and Monotheism" is a study of the Jewish Psyche in the light of a somewhat unusual reconstruction of the Moses story and particularly in the light of a reconsideration of Robertson Smith's theories regarding the totemistic history of the human clan. It was Smith who suggested, among other things, the correspondence between the yearly totem feast and the father-murder which is presumed to have broken down the patriarchal clan into a fraternal clan, and later a matriarchy. And (of course) the similarity between the feast at which the normally sacrosanct totem is eaten, and the Christian communion.

But two things make it difficult to express what Dr. Freud means.

They ought to be a law again these technical historical snipers, that's making it their life's work to try and prove that all our old traditions is just so much old traditions bank on account of that's where you get your ideas from in the first place to help you regulate your own life.

From them old chivalric episodes, Perinance, ever since I kin remember, us kids was told about how George Washington'd rather take a licking than to tell a lie, and that used to kind of make us ashamed to do too much lying, besides not being very sure of our old man like George was. Anyways it was a good influence fer years 'til some snooper comes along and proves that George never took no hack at that cherry tree, on the technical grounds that they wasn't no hacks in them days on account of everybody riding horseback. And now I was jest reading about another one of them iconoclasts that says he folloed some clues clear down to the bottom, and he found out that that they wasn't no Barbara Fritchie in the first place, and nay only that but she wasn't old and grey-headed anyways but was a beautiful young blonde, and that's probably the reason why that British officer wouldn't let his men shoot her. Well all got to say is, it was a better story the way I heard it, and if these here ideal-busters keep on, the next thing we know they'll be claiming that Simon Legree couldn't be chased Eliza across the ice with 'his blood on account of it was Summer time and too far south fer ice.

JUDD. P. S.—What I mean is, a ideal is a good thing to have, but grey-haired-ones is better'n blonds, on account of they's safer.—J.

BOOTS FOR NEW ARMY. LONDON (AP)—The bookmakers are smiling. War office orders totaling 1,000,000 pairs of boots for militiamen and territorials have been placed since Britain's conscription program was introduced.

One is his own diffidence; he is of the scientific turn of mind which demands no final conclusion and dogmatic statements which can be quoted outside their context are few. The other is his rather curious shyness when it comes to religious matters. He did not, indeed, intend to publish this book at all when first it was written, and it is possible he may have softened a good deal of it when, after being driven to England, he changed his mind.

Certain it is that Freud does a good deal of damage to the Moses story as we know it. Moses is not a Jew at all, as the distinguished Viennese reconstructs the matter, but a high-born Egyptian. He led his flock until, as flocks do, it turned on him and killed him. And from these events grew two religions, one of which acknowledged its murder of God (as Freud expresses it), and the other of which does not. The latter group is, of course, the Jews and in their denial of the God-murder lies the secret of their separateness and their troubles.

One must read this book a good many times to be sure just how much of it is to be read literally and how much is to be accepted as suggestive only. Quite frankly, because of some things suggested above and some others which any reader will recognize in a glance, it might have been as well for the distinguished psychoanalyst's reputation had he kept "Moses and Monotheism" in his personal archives as he intended in the first place.

SERIAL STORY

GHOST DETOUR

BY OREN ARNOLD

COPYRIGHT, 1938, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday Dick agrees to help Rosalee and Christine start their ghost detour venture. Meanwhile, he hits the mysterious money sack with paper, prepares to hide the rest in a safe somewhere. The girls are already swamped with adventure.

CHAPTER IV

BEFORE 8 o'clock next morning Rosalee and Christine were back at their ghost town twisting up the rough main street in Rosalee's coupe. The sun had already dispelled any ghosts that had lurked in evening shadows, but the picturesque quality of the place impressed both girls now. "It's darling!" Christine exclaimed, staring again at the ramshackle buildings.

"We're going to have ourselves a time!" Rosalee predicted. "To their surprise they found not only Dick Bancroft, but Franklin Larraway as well. Franklin had first surprised his buddy by arriving the previous midnight, hours ahead of schedule.

"I almost shot him for a ghost or a robber," Dick grinned, after introductions. "He came rattling in, calling me names. But he's sick on the ghost detour idea. I'd of broken his long neck if he hadn't been, see?"

"Do you break many necks, Mr. Bancroft?" Christine inquired, loftily.

"Stop quarreling," Rosalee ordered. "I own this place. I am also your boss. Get to work. All of you. Us, I mean. Now listen—"

She had many plans. She and Christine had talked until a late hour themselves. This was already July, and the highway two miles away was zooming with passengers, people with money in their pockets and adventure in their hearts, people who would gladly pay a dollar each to inspect a genuine ghost town.

Rosalee talked a lot, and it swelled to a discussion. Everybody had ideas. Franklin caught the contagion of interest in the project. He had worked on the school papers and edited the yearbook, he knew a lot about promotion and advertising. "Okay then, Mr. Larraway, you and Christine take over the job of contacting the travel agencies and making a deal with them."

"And I know how to wrangle some help from the highway maintenance crew. I can get the old dirt road from the highway cleared of shrubs and Joshua growth and opened up for cars again," said Dick.

"That's ducky, and I have hired Mrs. Hogan to come and cook for us and maybe cook for any guests who want meals in the Ace High Hotel," Rosalee put in. "Who is Mrs. Hogan? She's a middle-aged widow who has been a prospector in the hills, and who has often worked for dad. She'll be here today."

"I think we ought to have some prospectors and Indians and cowboys around for atmosphere," Christine added, "so I'll see to it, and I'll handle the bookkeeping and the records and do anything else you say."

THE powwow was extremely serious—nobody on earth can be more serious, when the mood strikes them, than ordinarily gay and ebullient college youths. And these four were still collegians at heart. They hadn't been out of school a month.

"You are not too disappointed, Mr. Larraway?" Rosalee inquired, after the conference had ended. "At our breaking up your summer plans, I mean?"

"I am delighted! I had no definite plans."

"Do you want any—references? Or anything? I—I never had anybody working for me before!"

"There'll be labor trouble," Franklin predicted, gravely. "I am thinking of going on strike unless I get Saturday night off. I wish to take another of your employees to a dance."

"Who? What dance?"

"Miss Palmer, here. Surely there's a dance somewhere?"

"There's not any 'where' around here! This is isolated. It's a short run of 94 miles to Boulder Dam, if that helps!"

"Besides that, you haven't asked me!" Christine snapped, pretending anger. "We haven't even met socially!"

Franklin sighed heavily, still acting. "Ah me, I might have known it. Nothing is perfect any more, however sweet the promise. I briefly foresaw an idyllic summer, with adventure, money, romance, love—all the things of abundant living served to me in reckless abundance. But now—alas!"

"Alas, my foot!" Rosalee grimaced at him, breaking his play-acting spell. "I'll fire you at once if you don't get to work. I intend to be hard-boiled."

They all had to laugh at her then. If anybody in christendom looked the opposite of hardness and meanness, it was dainty little Rosalee Dale. She came almost to Franklin's shoulder. She looked slightly plumpish, as if she might be Dick's baby sister. She had a dimple that was as elusive as light, flashing beautifully when you least expected, gone when you didn't want it to be.

"Correct," Franklin turned serious now. "What's first?"

"The money!" said Dick.

"Oh. That's right. I had become so interested in making money out of Goldcrest that I forgot we already had $12,000!" Rosalee looked alarmed, without immediate cause. "Shouldn't we take it in to the sheriff, Dick?"

SHE never realized that she turned automatically to him for advice in that significant moment. It was a precedent that she was to follow more and more.

"Glor-ree, no! The sheriff's a half day's run from here. Besides, what's he got that I haven't got? My weight fluctuates, madam, between 200 and 201 pounds. I'd like a chance of capturing a robber, if robber it is."

"Suppose it isn't a robber?" Christine said. "Suppose it's—"

"Well, there you are," said Franklin Larraway. "We don't know whose money it is. Dick's right. A sheriff might just ball up the works. So let's figure out something to trap the man or men who put the money there. Meantime, of course, the money should be hidden."

"We agreed to bury it," Rosalee exclaimed. "Let's go do it now!"

"In the old mine shaft," Dick suggested.

They made an expedition of it, all four walking a hundred yards down into the sloping gullet of the long abandoned Goldcrest mine, guided by Dick's pocket flashlight. The place was earthy of smell, eerie to see, almost frightening. "Nothing more dangerous down here than maybe a scorpion or two," Dick declared, confidently. "I've already explored it."

They found a spot behind an old 8x8 inch post that supported some of the loose rock on the mine shaft ceiling and wall. The shaft was about eight feet high, and perhaps six wide, a mere hallway of intense darkness leading into the mountain. Dick's flashlight was as impotent as it had been at the bank vault the night before.

Dick had a rusted miner's pick they had found outside, a thing with a weak and broken handle, but conceivably of some value still. He gave the flashlight to Franklin, raised his stubby-handled pick to start digging a hole.

Crack!

In the poor light Dick misjudged the ceiling height. His pick scraped a rock, was deflected so that it hit the supporting post of wood.

Instantly there was a crash and a deafening roar.

"Look out!" Dick yelled.

He jumped back, striking Franklin as he did so. The flashlight fell from Franklin's hands, and the roaring ended in a high-pitched feminine scream.

Judge Rules On Gas Rate Refunds

SHERMAN, July 10 (AP)—U. S. Judge Randolph Bryant reversed decision today on the question of interest payment on a refund of $247,000 in impounded Texarkana gas rates. He allowed Ben E. Carter, member of the Arkansas legislature who won the rate case in the supreme court against the Arkansas-Louisiana company, one-fourth of the total refund, and decided that $18,000 expense incurred in previous litigation be paid pro rata by 2,307 gas accounts who had assigned half of any refunds to the city. The $6,000 expense of the present litigation will be paid by all consumers.

Judge Bryant will name a master in Chancery to hear 103 protest cases. Refund checks to 14,309 uncontented accounts will be mailed within two weeks, it was indicated. The suit was to establish the same rates on the Texas side of the city as prevailed on the Arkansas side.
