MODERN MENUS

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Service Staff Writer

Fresh raspberries with country cream—the dream of poets of the dinner table. Well, the season for it is at hand. But there are other ways of using the tender little berries which are so dear to poets and gourmets.

In 1882, The Lady's New Book of Cookery gave this old-fashioned recipe for a cooler still good for terrib weather.

Raspberry Shrub

Two quarts raspberries, 1 quart vinegar, sugar.

Add vinegar to well-cleaned berries and let stand 4 days. Strain. To each pint of berries add pint sugar. Boil 30 minutes. Bottle and keep in cool place. Add about a tablespoon of this nectar to a glass of water and shaved ice. Grandmother knew a good thing when she saw it.

Here's a modern recipe with an old-fashioned flavor.

Raspberry Shortcake

Three cups sifted flour, 3 teaspoons combination baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup butter or other shortening, 3-4 cup milk, 2 quarts sweetened raspberries, 1/2 cup shortening, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 cup baking powder and salt, and sift again. Cut in shortening. Add milk at once and stir carefully until all flour is dampened. Then stir vigorously until mixture forms a soft dough and follows spoon around bowl. Turn out immediately on slightly floured board and knead 30 seconds. Roll 1-4 inch thick and cut with floured 3-inch biscuit cutter.

Place half of circles on ungreased baking sheet. Brush with melted butter. Place remaining circles on top and butter tops well. Bake in hot oven (450 deg. F.) 15 to 20 minutes.

Separate halves of hot biscuits, spread bottom halves with soft butter and some of the crushed whole berries, as desired. Place other halves on top, crust-side down. Spread with butter and remaining fruit. Garnish with whipped cream and whole berries.

Dough may be rolled 1-2 inch thick, cut and baked, then short-cakes split after baking. The first method, however, is more unusual.

Oil Men List Fundamentals Of Proration

SANTA FE, N. M., July 19 (AP)—Delegates to the Interstate Oil Compact Commission meeting which opened here today heard a recommendation for appointment to committees to study and codify proration practices.

The suggestion, by the commission's committee on economics, dealt directly with minimum standards of oil conservation, described by Vice Chairman Hiram Dow of Roswell, N. M., as the commission's chief concern at the meeting.

The work of the two advisory committees would form a basis on which to establish standards for crude oil production, insuring "effective and practical conservation," the economics group reported.

The committee listed three principles as "embodying the fundamentals of the conservation movement:

1. Each oil pool shall be limited in output to its optimum rate; that is, shall produce in such a manner that the ultimate oil recovery will be the maximum consistent with economic limitations.
2. Equity amongst competing interests be done by operating wells so gross drainage is minimized.

The application of these two principles, the committee reported, would "leave each operator free to produce his oil with a minimum of capital expenditure, thus the problem of well spacing will be automatically solved."

The report added that if the same standards are adopted by each state for optimum production rates and preservation of "relative rights of property, then price and other economic influences will be free to guide investment and development of policies while the objectives of conservation in the broadest sense will be fulfilled."

One of the suggested committees, on oil proration practices, would be composed of two members from each compact state, one from the regulatory body and one from the state geological survey, and one from the state university.

The second, on standards, would be made up of prominent technicians to be selected by the commission chairman with the aid of suggestions supplied by the American Petroleum Institute, the Independent Petroleum Institute, the Petroleum division of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers and the American Association of Petroleum Geologists.

The first committee would be headed by the Interstate Compact Commission chairman, the second by a chairman of its own choosing.

Bridges Witnesses To Testify A Month

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19 (AP)—The early end of the labor department's testimony in the deportation trial of Longshoremen's leader Harry Bridges appeared possible today.

Raphael P. Bonham, naturalization official, said the governor had not decided whether to call six or eight witnesses under subpoena, and if these should not be called the government testimony would be concluded "early next week."

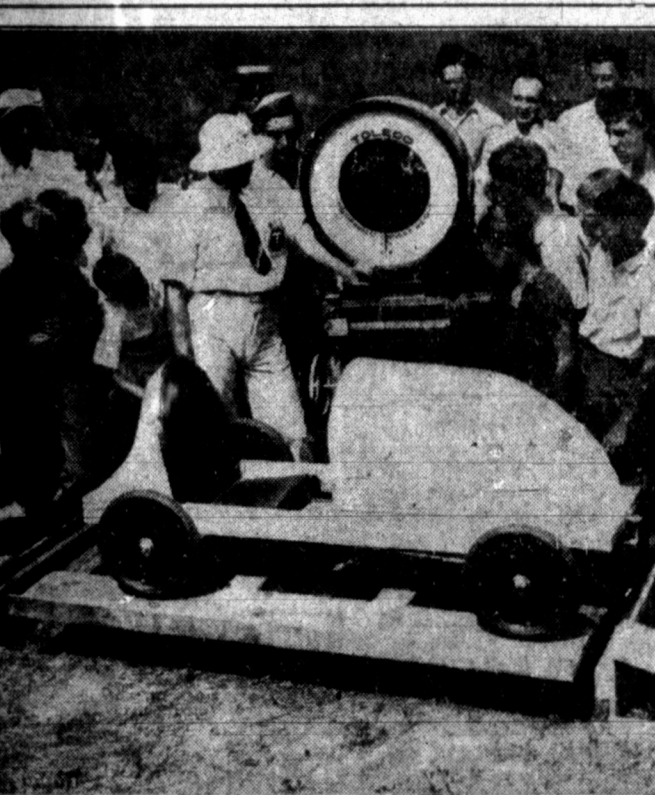

Defense attorneys have indicated their presentation probably would take a month.

The government put one witness on the stand yesterday, and when he stepped down at noon it had no others and Trial Examiner James L. Landis adjourned the hearing until today.

The witness, John Layton Leopold of San Francisco, former member of the Marine Cooks' Union (C-IO), said he was forced from his job because of his anti-Communist activities. He said he did not know whether Bridges was a Communist.

Weighing-in for Soap Box Derby

The major change in weight regulations for the more than 110 Soap Box Derbies which are being held throughout America and in several foreign lands this summer, stipulates that the car is restricted to 150 pounds weight, while car and driver must not weigh more than 250 pounds. The new ruling affecting the car's "tonnage" should make for a better race, in the opinion of the Official Toledo Scale Weighmasters at the Akron (O.) finals last year. According to the Toledo weight experts, the winning car in 1938—that of Bobby Berger, of Omaha, Neb.—weighed but 125 pounds, proof that the secret of Derby speed is balance and construction, rather than weight alone. A well-balanced car, built with an eye to gaining maximum speed from any construction design, is superior to one in which weight alone is depended upon for victory. Toledo Scales will be used at all local Derbies, according to officials of the company, to insure accurate weighing-in of all entrants. The same type of scales will be official at the Akron finals, it has been announced. The above photo illustrates the proper method of weighing-in a Derby race car.

Illinois Still Pain In Neck Of Oil Industry

By BOB McCALL

TULSA, Okla., July 19 (AP)—Although oilmen's cuckoo remained cloudy today, some promise of added firmness was seen without incident to repeated warnings against superabundant plant operations.

While the petroleum industry in the main marked time, it kept an eye on the Interstate Commerce Commission meeting today at Santa Fe, N. M.

Not unexpected would be some expression concerning a possibility of federal legislation pointed at conservation methods which the commission, simply an advisory body, is not empowered to enforce.

Governor Horner of Illinois, which with its constantly increasing flush yield of crude oil is a prime factor in the mid-continent, signed yesterday a bill continuing his state's membership in the compact.

Illinois production, free of proration and control-legislation, reached an estimated 265,683 barrels daily last week.

This was in the face of a national output again topping the Bureau of Mines estimate of demand, and a possibility that the Illinois flow would reach 300,000 barrels by early fall was seen.

Excessive gasoline production remained, however, the big stumbling block in most areas.

Adequate gasoline stocks for the beginning of the fall season were put at about 60,000,000 barrels as against current charts indicative of perhaps 73,000,000 barrels by Sept. 30.

Crude oil production in the United States in the week ended July 15 was 3,529,700 barrels a day, little changed from the previous week but 186,000 more than a year ago.

Old West Lives Again In Utah

SALT LAKE CITY, July 19 (AP)—The old west lived again in Utah today.

The ultra modern was pushed into the background as urbanites turned grizzled frontiersmen for a week.

The celebrations, centered at Ogden and Salt Lake City, were in honor of the pioneers who battled the Indians, wild animals and desert on a 1,000-mile trek from the Middle West to bleak Salt Lake Valley in 1847.

Indians, in full regalia, roamed the streets. Cowboys tethered saddle-horses to downtown parking meters. Stunt experts performed in the streets.

Everybody knew everybody else at street dances. Bewhiskered office workers took time out frequently to view the sights.

Graceful cowgirls were cynosure of all eyes.

Daring cowgirls risked life and limb riding wild steers and snorting horses for rich stakes.

Women wore billowing early-day dresses on the streets.

Covered wagons were brought out of storage for a cross-city race.

Tourists, eyes bulging, watched the proceedings and went away wondering whether Utah actually would return to normalcy once the pioneer anniversary, July 24, passes.

Don't worry, it will, just as shure as shootin'!

Hogg Foundation To Finance Mental Hygiene Program

AUSTIN, July 19 (AP)—For the benefit of "human welfare," the major objective of the newly-established $2,500,000 Hogg Foundation at the University of Texas will be a state-wide mental hygiene program.

Dr. Homer P. Rainey, university president, disclosed today.

The health program was decided upon in conferences between executors of the Will C. Hogg estate, Miss Irma Hogg and Mike Hogg of Houston and university officials, Rainey said.

The university president declared a "distinguished lecture foundation," stipulated in the Hogg will, would overlap and include the Health program with both to start "as soon as funds are available."

Rainey listed as activities to be conducted under university supervision with income from the foundation as (1) Establishment of mental hygiene clinics over the state; (2) Mental health lectures at the university and throughout the state; (3) Mental hygiene instruction in Texas teacher-training courses; (4) Provision for mental health research at the university's school of medicine in Galveston.

"Of course," Rainey said, "a fifth feature—a survey of mental hygiene conditions over the state—will actually have to precede the others."

Danzig Arrests 20 Marxian Socialists

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, July 19 (AP)—Danzig police today announced 20 Marxian Socialists, "presumably associated with some hostile foreign power," had been arrested here.

The police said they had evidence explosives were being stored by the "Marxians" and that the alleged conspirators were prepared to blow up bridges.

The arrested prisoners would be charged with treason. The announcement did not name the power with which the prisoners were accused of having relations, but authorized sources said the Police were trying to find out if "the conspiracy extended into Poland and Russia."

Authorities said the 20 were arrested over the course of several weeks, some in the city of Danzig and some near the Polish border to the south.

Police asserted they believed they had rounded up all but three members of "the ring" and that the identity of the three was known.

This American Answer Is The Right Answer

It is a commonplace saying today that democracy is under attack all over the world. It is freely said that it is on trial for its life, and it is certainly clear that the German, Italian, and Russian state philosophies have condemned it as an antiquated relic in a world they believe to be inevitably striding on to new techniques of public administration.

How best answer these attacks? By bitter words condemning in turn the systems and beliefs of others? By military alliances aimed at curbing them by force?

No. There is only one sure defense of democracy, at home and before the whole world, and that is a ringing and convincing demonstration that it works and that life is better when lived in the democratic way.

How answer the religious and minority persecutions abroad? By checking resolutely the growth of any such feelings here, and by achieving constantly broader freedom at home to worship God as one wills, and to hold against no man his race, his color, his external circumstances.

How answer the regimented labor of totalitarian countries, whose appointed-from-above leaders boast that they tolerate no labor disturbances to interrupt production? By showing that a free labor movement can accept responsibility, and that free employers can deal with it smoothly and justly.

How answer the reputed centralized efficiency of one-man countries? By showing that a government responsive to the people's will is still more efficient.

How answer the propaganda flooding in from totalitarian lands? By creating such achievements in this one that their sheer glory will be its own propaganda.

How answer the threat of aggression and military might? By canny and effectively taking measures making our own lands secure, and then observing good faith and justice toward all nations, cultivating peace and harmony with all. (Those last are George Washington's words.)

In short, how answer threats to democracy? By achieving more and better democracy. How answer threats to freedom? By achieving more freedom, and such conditions as will show the world this way is best.

That is why it is good to read the annual report of the Civil Liberties Union, titled "The Bill of Rights—150 Years After." This careful survey shows in detail "unprecedented support of our constitutional guarantees," "a more favorable interpretation by the courts in general of civil rights," mob violence, at a new low, "extraordinarily little interference" with public meetings, and a decline of censorship of movies, radio, theater, and literature.

Keep up the good work, America! That is the right answer, and the only answer, to the challenge!

THE BALLYHOO FOR THE THIRD TERM (Chicago Tribune)

Mr. Hopkins of the department of commerce has joined Mr. Ickes of the department of the interior in drafting Mr. Roosevelt for the third term. They are leading the chorus of "We want Roosevelt." Bless their loyal hearts, of course they do. They will yield to none in wanting Mr. Roosevelt for a third term. Unless he gets it, life will become an empty thing for them, a mere husk to be thrown away.

Mr. Ickes and Mr. Hopkins have been the biggest spenders of public money the country ever knew. They can point with pride to a deficit of 20 billion dollars in the last seven years. Most of it is their work for the planned society of their chief. Unless Mr. Roosevelt gets the third term Mr. Ickes and Mr. Hopkins will retire to the comparative obscurity from which they came, but not with cheerful resignation. They will be forever envious of their former selves. The gentlemen would be more than human if they were willing to step out of their present gorgeous life and give up their dream of an even greater empire over the people of the United States.

All the revolutionaries know that their future is in the third term. Mr. Browder of the communist party was the first to state in simple and direct language—either the third term or the revolution perishes. Mr. Roosevelt must carry the Democratic national convention of 1940 for his own candidacy of the planned society which is to revolutionize the United States will be among the unhappy memories of the country. The "Draft Roosevelt" campaign now going on is the first necessity of the planners. They can't dump up another candidate whose nomination in the place of Mr. Roosevelt would not be a joke.

STRANGE (Jackson Mich.) Citizen Patriot

The city of Jackson is pinching pennies to make both ends meet. Operations have been curtailed and necessary improvements are postponed.

The county of Jackson owes approximately $30,000 on current bills and debts to city and state. The state of Michigan has a holdover deficit of from $25,000,000 to $30,000,000, and state officials are lying awake nights trying to figure a way to bring expenditures of the current budget into balance with anticipated revenue.

The federal government at Washington confronts the biggest debt in all history, and continues to operate with an annual deficit in staggering figures.

Yet there still are people here who are worrying about the problems of Europe!

LAWYERS SHOULD PROTECT WORKERS FROM POLITICIANS AS WELL AS ENTERPRISE

It seems strange how those people who pose as being such friends of the poor are constantly insisting that there should be more laws made to protect innocent people from being robbed by unscrupulous citizens. They seem to think that the politicians who make the laws are scrupulous and dependable. If there were any possible way to establish laws to keep the politicians from lying and robbing the workers, it would be a great service to humanity. The nearest approach to keeping the politicians from robbing the public that has ever been devised was the Constitution. Now, we have, by the Sixteenth Amendment and by putting members on the Supreme Court who do not believe in equal liberty for all, practically nullified the Constitution so that the politicians are now taking better than 25 per cent of all the workers produce. They should be taking not over eight or 10 per cent.

Politicians Steal 65 Per Cent From Workers

But this extra tax grafted by the politicians is only a small part of what the politicians cost the workers. If it were not for the bad laws made by the politicians for the purpose of holding their jobs, we undoubtedly would be producing 50 per cent more. So, when you add this 50 per cent to the 15 per cent of tax waste, it is evident the politicians are costing, or stealing from, the workers about $2 for every dollar the worker now gets.

And yet, these New Dealers proclaim they are trying to protect the workers from unscrupulous private citizens. If the worker does not know how to buy what he needs, ask the man who is constantly wanting more protective laws who the voter will know enough to select a politician that will not rob him more than the grasping enterpriser he is to be protected from.

NEUTRALITY PROPAGANDA

If there ever was an administration that has misused words to fools the people, it is the present administration.

They speak about the neutrality bill which, in reality, is exactly opposite from neutrality. It is a bill to give the President the right to take sides as he sees fit.

The New Dealers call themselves liberal. If there ever was an administration that was exactly opposite from standing for liberty of the individual, it is the New Deal. They are constantly taking away the inalienable rights of man, making him a serf of the state, a serf of the will of the mob. The minority is having less rights. Yet they nickname themselves liberal.

They talk about social security and they tax the individual worker and squander his savings faster than they set it. Yet they commend them as saving for the workers so that they can have security in their old age. Instead of saving for the workers, they are eating up their substance and calling it security.

They talk about the Wagner Act being for the purpose of eliminating industrial strike. And the purpose of the Wagner Act is to coerce and force people to join unions and ultimately will lead to a labor dictator. It is as far from a bill to promote labor peace as it is possible to be.

The New Deal is truly a babble of tongues and if we read history, we know what happens when people begin to use words in such a manner that they fool and deceive people.

Among a people generally corrupt, liberty cannot long exist.—Edmund Burke.

Behind The News Of The Day

By BRUCE CAYTON Pampa News Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 18.—For several weeks, the report has been current here that President Roosevelt will eventually make a public appeal—probably via a fireside chat—to the rank and file of organized labor in both groups to compel a peace settlement between the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O.

It is known that the President has such a step in mind. If he decides to take it, however, there will be some advance warning in the way of a build-up. If and when high administration officials—such as Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, for instance—start issuing public statements that the prospects for labor peace are hopeless, you can expect the President's appeal to follow. But as long as Miss Perkins keeps making optimistic statements like the one she recently made in Denver, you can take it for granted that the move is still "under consideration."

Miss Perkins, apparently, has stopped trying to get William Green and John Lewis together and is relying on Dan Tobin and Sidney Hillman. Incidentally, one observer close to the situation has suggested that the best way to bring about peace would be to stop talking about it; Lewis, he remarks, likes to see politicians squirm, and will postpone the reopening of negotiations as long as high New Dealers exhibit their anxiety publicly.

Anyway, New Dealers feel that the President can force a settlement if he wants to take drastic action. They build this feeling principally on the fact that letters and telegrams representing the feelings of more than 3,000,000 union members have been received at the White House and Labor Department in the last few months calling for an end to hostilities.

THREAT TO TAMMANY FADES

A hopeful attempt to replace Tammany Hall as the Democratic machine in New York City seems to have been abandoned. The attempt was made, or at least was prepared for, by inner circle New Dealers; the vehicle was to have been the American Labor Party in New York.

Plan was to bring the Labor Party into the Democratic Party as the "official" party organization in the metropolis. Tammany, which has been roundly beaten in city and national elections of recent years, was simply to have been disowned, with the idea that the Labor Party could step right into its place—and, incidentally, provide the New Deal with a fervent and dependable set of party workers in New York.

Probable result of this would have been to make Congressman James H. Pay leader of the Manhattan Democracy. Pay, as you may remember, is the man who beat the New Deal foe, O'Connor, in the last election, giving the Roosevelt purge its one victory.

Meanwhile, a struggle for control between ultra-left-wingers and mild left-wingers is going on within the Labor Party. Purchases of the New York Post by George Backer helps the milder group. Under Backer, the Post will not merely speak for the Labor Party, but will speak for the moderate wing of the party; the leftists, it is understood, will find their voice in the new picture-paper which is soon to be started.

Various inner circle administration people are beginning to look just a bit dubiously at Attorney General Frank Murphy. Murphy enjoyed a good build-up after he took office last January; what is worrying the inner-circle is that the build-up keeps go-

Around Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, July 18.—One-minute interviews: FRANK MEHUGH: "Most comedians, if they're honest, don't think they're funny, and neither do their wives. That's why we worry so much. But it's a good thing to do a certain amount of worrying; it keeps your weight down."

MADLEINE CARROLL: "I'm probably the most embarrassed woman in Hollywood. Here I am with a divorce action pending against my husband, Phillip Asley, and they put me in a picture called 'Arise, My Husband Necessary'! When the irony of it dawned on me, I asked the studio to change the title. But they wouldn't promise anything."

BING CROSBY: "If all the good, young singers could get a chance, there'd be a thousand guys as good as I am on the air and in pictures. I was just lucky, and don't think I don't realize it."

ERHOL PLYNN: "Americans don't know how to have fun; they can't seem to get the knack of enjoying leisure. Well, yes, I do have more free time at a stretch than the average man."

BARBARA STANWYCK: "I'm scared when I see myself on a screen. My voice sounds like a foghorn, my mouth is crooked and I look kind of squinty. I get to wondering what I'm doing in this business. I certainly wouldn't write myself a fan letter."

AKIM TAMIROFF: "Everybody says to me, 'Akim, what is the matter with you? Here you are playing practically a bit in a picture and not getting any billing. Pretty soon you will be an extra!' So I tell them I do any part if it is good, no matter how short. I tell them, 'Sarong' have made me able to pay her back with all the dresses and anything else she wants."

BASIL RATHBONE: "To me acting is work. I would either have to work at it—polishing and re-polishing my role—or just coast through the job. The trouble with coasting is that it doesn't permit a fairly competent performance; it's always a terrible performance."

MYRNA LOY: "I really wanted this unsympathetic role of Lady Elizabeth, but I had a hard time convincing my husband that I should do it. Finally we agreed that it would be a sort of test case, and if he didn't like me in it, I'd duck all heavy parts after this. But he does like it, and any day now he may admit I'm an actress."

GARY COOPER: "I have an awful time sitting through one of my pictures. My face looks kind of egg-shaped. And I keep thinking, 'Did I really do that, and if so, why?'"

ROBERT TAYLOR: "The first time I saw myself on the screen I knew I was too stiff. My eyebrows were too heavy, and I thought I'd Nobody on Pennsylvania avenue would be especially disquieted if he stopped going around the country so much, made fewer speeches, and buried himself a little deeper in his job. There seems to be no doubt that vitamin D is closely concerned with the proper development of the teeth, as are perhaps also vitamins A and C and sufficient amounts of calcium and phosphorus. Therefore, there is some reason to be certain that the amount of vitamin D is adequate in relationship to the development of normal teeth. But there is no warrant for saying that an excess of vitamin D taken into the body will insure normal teeth or that vitamin D in suitable amounts will prevent dental caries.

The vitamin requirement of the human body is much greater during infancy than it is during adult life. Apparently the prospective mother needs extra vitamin D, as does the mother who is nursing a baby, but for adults in general there does not seem to be any special deficiency of vitamin D.

Nobody talks more about the Oilers than Sam Penberg who as radio announcer of the games has more than anyone to say about them, and probably few fans see as many league games as he, so it's quite fitting to publish Sam's selections for the all-star game to be played next week. Of course Sam picked Grover Seitz as manager—like practically every other Pampa-

Pampa; second base, Hudson; Amarillo; third base, Harrison; Clovis; shortstop, Guynes; Pampa; left field, Nell; Pampa; centerfield, Bolton; Amarillo; right field, Ratliff; Clovis; and Morris, Berger, utility. Well, how does that stack up with your choices? Willie Harris, negro who has been janitor at Murfee's store for years, never misses a game and you can always spot him in the colored section. Well, here's the way Willie picked the all-star team: pitchers, Grabek; Pampa; Dorman, Amarillo; Potee; Clovis; Hausman, Berger; catchers, Rabe and Potocar; first base, Sanders; manager, Grover Seitz; second base, Saparito; third base, Harrison; shortstop, Guynes; left field, Bolton; centerfield, Seitz; right field, Nell; and Ratliff, utility.

The Family Doctor

Dr. Morris Fishbein

Most significant of all vitamins for the growing child is vitamin D. This is concerned with the proper using of calcium and phosphorus by the human body.

Since vitamin D was first introduced, it has been produced in pure form as crystals. It also is a mixture of carbon, hydrogen and oxygen. It is known that vitamin D can be developed by causing ultraviolet rays to act on a substance called ergosterol which is found in animal and plant tissues. Two forms of this vitamin have been isolated as they occur in nature and one of these is absolutely identical with the vitamin D that can be produced by causing ultraviolet rays to act on pure ergosterol.

Just as soon as any new substance is discovered in medicine it is customary to test it on all sorts of conditions previously difficult to cure. Thus vitamin D has been tried in massive doses in cases of arthritis, and it has also been tried on cases of psoriasis. There does not seem to be any good evidence that massive doses of vitamin D relieve cases of arthritis to any considerable extent; and while some of the evidence regarding the use of such doses in psoriasis is interesting, there is hardly a sufficient amount of evidence to indicate that vitamin D is a specific against this chronic skin disease.

But vitamin D will do other things which are of vital importance to the human body. It has been recognized as a specific remedy in the treatment of rickets in children; in a convulsive condition in babies called spasmodic or infantile tetany; as useful in a condition of weakness of the bones known as osteomalacia and as useful in other diseases in which the calcium and phosphorus in the body are not suitably controlled.

Frequently it has been claimed that vitamin D given in tablet form or fluids is the equivalent of the action of sunlight on the human body. It is known, of course, that the effects of sunlight and relaxation in the outdoor air and perhaps additional effects of the other light rays on the body.

There seems to be no doubt that vitamin D is closely concerned with the proper development of the teeth, as are perhaps also vitamins A and C and sufficient amounts of calcium and phosphorus. Therefore, there is some reason to be certain that the amount of vitamin D is adequate in relationship to the development of normal teeth. But there is no warrant for saying that an excess of vitamin D taken into the body will insure normal teeth or that vitamin D in suitable amounts will prevent dental caries.

The vitamin requirement of the human body is much greater during infancy than it is during adult life. Apparently the prospective mother needs extra vitamin D, as does the mother who is nursing a baby, but for adults in general there does not seem to be any special deficiency of vitamin D.

ECONOMIC DOGMATISTS

Fellow Citizens: The "Sharing the Comforts" column has been an easy classification of society as is evidenced by recent editorials, in which it appears "the rich are rich because efficient, and the poor unemployed because inefficient." Dogmatic, but untrue! These editorials are full of such terms applied to the workers as: "dishonest, slow, shirking, laggard and inefficient etc." Well, are there no "dishonest" employers or capitalists? Is wealth that is "gained" always honest wealth? Is any wealth — (food, clothing and shelter) dishonestly "produced" by stock and share stud-poker and other forms of gambling. Stock-broker Whitney and Al Capone were very efficient, but both ended in Quod! Gains are not made in the farms, factories or stores, but wages. Gains are made on the stock and share market by stock and share juggling and not by essential productive labor. If all the non-essential occupations, services and activities were eliminated from our social system and the possibilities of farm, factory and mine fully exploited, and all the non-essential products were turned to essential products, there might be a lower standard of living, but there would be a higher standard of living, and unemployment of the involuntary sort would be unknown. Socialism wants a perfect economic order. Technology wants a nationally directed and supervised industrially active order, where all shall work and none shall want. Anarchy—the philosophic kind—wants the perfect man. But some think that the imperfect man makes them all, nearly impossible.

To our editor of "Comforts of Life" all these, including the New Deal and President Roosevelt, are equally anathema. For he knows more of the science of government than Mr. Roosevelt. The "Old Deal" like the "old religion" is "good enough" for him. He dislikes the New Deal for social ends and betterment, and, perhaps the Chief Deal for individual ends and personal enrichment. So to reinforce his views he calls in "God" and Nature, for in the July 1st issue he says: "There are certain immutable laws of nature and of God and no majority law contrary to God's law benefits mankind."

Has he a copy of these "immutable laws of God" on file? I should like to see a copy if he or anyone else had such a copy. He subpoenaed a witness he cannot produce, and finding himself without solid standing, he becomes dogmatic. God says this! God says that! A kind of Celestial Charles McCarthy!

If man talked of bread, never seeing it, never knowing aught of its shape, texture qualities or substance, man would starve. Yet it is thus, he talks of "God". That is, when he has a point to make or an end to serve. And practically that is the only use made of "God". This phantom thing, was born of the ignorance, fears and barbarity of primitive man—only lacking knowledge, could only crudely guess. But, now that knowledge is available, guessing, is fraudulent and dishonest. And so our editor, like an economic pope, has to dogmatize. And so he says "Thus saith the Lord!" Like the mad Mullins of old, and so he grinds out in daily doses, invective against the New Deal, the president, our (what he calls) — man-made laws — as though there could be any other; and reverts from dullness to dogma, the ancient ecclesiastical substitute for that witless. And, where he is not dogmatic, he is shallow. Where he is not shallow, he is not original, and where he is not original he is quite unconvincing. He is contemptuous of those "dependent" on others. Yet, how utterly "dependent" our editor is on all his printing and journalistic workers. He could do nothing without them. We are all interdependent, and because he seems not to realize this, he and his arguments while confusing many, convince none.

PRESIDENT

possibly there would be some crisis before the regular time for Congress to reconvene next January. Mr. Roosevelt was represented as prepared to take his fight for repeal of the arms embargo to the country.

The President left this definite impression with a group which gathered around him last night at the White House. Discussed the international situation, and finally persuaded him and Secretary Hull Congress has no disposition to spend a month or more debating neutrality legislation.

After arguing the Senate's failure to act would weaken the United States' influence in preserving world peace, the President broke up the extraordinary three-hour conference just before midnight.

The President's intention to take his fight to the country, conferees explained, was voiced during a heated discussion with Senator Borah (R., Idaho), leading opponent of the administration's neutrality program.

Borah Adamant Borah, who voted last week with the majority of the foreign relations committee against action at this session, was described as making it plain he never would agree to repeal of the arms embargo, key point in the President's drive to reverse the law.

In the ensuing discussion, the President was said to have declared he planned to go to the country, to tell the people his views. To this Borah was quoted as replying that others also would be discussing the issue and that the people would have a chance to decide which side they believed.

Besides the President, Garner, Hull, and Borah, those who attended the conference were Democratic Leader Barkley, Republican Leader McNary, Chairman Pittman (D., Nev.) of the foreign relations committee, and Senator Austin (R., Va.), assistant minority leader.

Mississippi 'Gold Coast' Gets the Ax

There was the sound of axes by dusk instead of the accustomed revelry as Mississippi national guardsmen descended on the "Gold Coast," at Jackson, smashed night club interiors, arrested three-score persons in "crack down" on illegal liquor sales. Picture shows ax-wielding in night club.

Finland Rushes Building Plans For Its 1940 Olympic Games

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN, AP Feature Service Writer.

HELSINKI—The staccato rumble of the workman's drill splits the crisp air of this northern capital. It is the signature tune of a nation rushing to the task of preparing, in half the customary time, for next year's Olympic Games.

War brought Finland the coveted chance to play host to the athletes of the world.

War may spoil that chance.

But Finland, although frightened as all Scandinavia is at the prospects of a European conflagration, has been going ahead swiftly and resolutely with her plans ever since that July day when Helsinki succeeded Tokyo as the official site of the games.

Nearly a thousand workmen now are engaged on construction jobs while down at headquarters building in Railroad Station Square a hundred clerks in 16 different departments are handling the endless details of the 16 sports on the program.

Hundreds of volunteers are donating their services. The national government and Helsinki municipality are chipping in with financial aid and other assistance.

Cost: 1 1/2 Million.

Finland figures the games will cost her about $7,500,000.

The Finnish Railway Department plans to buy $312,000 worth of improvements, the Helsinki Streetcar Company has asked for a hundred new buses, and the Post and Telegraph board hopes to spend a million dollars on telegraph and telephone systems.

One of the first building jobs to be tackled, entailing the laborious task of heaving into the solid granite which underlies the city, was filling in the "Olympic crack" in the stadium.

1944 was the earliest date Finland could possibly hope to have the games when the stadium was temporarily finished last year. So there was no urgency about walling up the eastern end. The present capacity of 30,000 will be doubled when this is completed—and even then there will not be nearly enough tickets to go around.

Besides the partially completed stadium, Finland's assets at the time she was awarded the games were an exhibition hall where wrestling, boxing, and weight lifting matches could be held; a shooting range at Malmi where the 1937 world championships were staged; a riding arena at Laasiko which was the scene of the northern European championships in 1937; and the Westend tennis club, whose indoor and outdoor courts are ideally suited for fencing.

Work is under way now on the Olympic village, a cycling track, a swimming stadium and a rowing stadium while the municipality of Helsinki is putting up training grounds and various other facilities, including the unheard of departure for Finland of an indoor arena for horseback riding.

By autumn everything will be ready except the Olympic village which will not be completed until next spring.

In keeping with the spirit of the day, several of the streets leading to the stadium have been renamed. Visitors, for instance, may find themselves walking down Olympiatic (Olympia Way), Maratonitie (Marathon Way) or Hellaantie (the Way of Hellas).

The Helsinki hotels will hold only

Revised Hatch Bill Facing Bitter Fight

WASHINGTON, July 19 — Between those who think it doesn't go far enough and those who don't want it to go anywhere at all, the revised Hatch anti-politics bill is headed for peppy oratory in the House tomorrow.

Originally, the measure prohibited all federal officials, save those in certain policy making posts, from taking part in political activities. Some members of Congress argued it was drastic as to prevent them from advocating their own re-election and would forbid their office employees from working in their campaigns.

The House judiciary committee, however, modified the bill. Critics of that action say it would allow federal officials, including those who deal with relief, to participate in the activities of a political party. The legislation grows in part out of the long inquiry into election practices made last year by the Senate campaign expenditures committee. It heard scores of complaints against the uses of politicians in several states made of federal funds and employees.

Many of the practices condemned by the committee would be outlawed by the Hatch bill. The measure, already approved by the Senate, forbids coercion or intimidation to prevent a person from voting for whom he pleases.

It makes unlawful the use of official authority by any person in an administration position in any federal agency to interfere with or affect the election of any such person to state his preference with respect to any such candidates or to participate in the activities of a political party.

The phrase came into the bill after Vice President Garner had told reporters they could write that the Hatch bill would become law this session. The men managing the Garner campaign would like to see participation of federal employees in the next Democratic national convention held to a minimum.

Other sections of the revised bill forbid the promise of jobs or pay for political work, make it unlawful for any person to deprive or threaten to deprive anyone of work because of political activity, forbid the solicitation or acceptance of campaign funds from relief workers, and forbid the disclosure of the names of persons getting ready to run for candidates or their managers.

Locked Up Weather.

The first thing the committee did was to consult the weather statistics for 50 years back to find the most suitable period for athletic contests. It decided on July 20 to August 4.

Shortly afterward two news services, one of them published in seven different languages, began functioning and 40,000 Finns started studying English.

Half the tickets went on sale in Finland in January and the remaining half was offered the rest of the world in February. Local demand for the long distance races, track and field events already has exceeded the available supply.

England was the first of 62 invited nations to accept. Norway, Italy, Rumania, Palestine and Switzerland followed quickly in that order. The United States created a sensation when it sent word on Jan. 13 that it would take part in every event on the bill.

Many a mightier nation would be staggered at the task of preparing for the Olympics on only two years' notice but the Finns, with only about a year left now, are confident they will measure up to the responsibility. This is the chance they have dreamed about. For years they have been famous as participants and now they have set to with a spontaneous display of pride to prove they can be just as famous as hosts.

League Defies Ministers On Sunday Baseball

CHARLESTON, S. C., July 19 (AP)—If you like your preaching and baseball mixed, come to Charleston Sunday.

Officials of the suburban baseball league say there's going to be a Sabbath game on the North Charleston diamond. The Rev. Paul Fridgin, Baptist minister, and the Rev. John H. Justice, Methodist Episcopal pastor, say if the boys try to play ball, there'll be some preaching, too.

Last Sunday the ministers and 75 of their followers "picketed" the ball park. They marched on the field, singing hymns and displaying placards bearing such inscriptions as "Keep the Sabbath holy."

There were some hecklers among the baseball fans. But their noise was drowned out when the church folks opened with loud speakers. You couldn't even hear the umpire call "strike three!"

The suburban league met last night. The matter should "be settled once and for all," decided, so the game was planned.

The church people already have had their say.

"There'll be an old time revival on the lot," Sheriff Joseph Poulnot says he won't stop the game. He hasn't the right, since there's no admission charge.

Hoboes' Secretary Has Nine Children

PITTSBURGH, July 19 (AP)—A Pittsburgh man so domesticated he has nine children is the new international secretary of the League of Hoboes of the World and the Hoboes of America.

He's George Seibert, 47-year-old union business agent and formerly one of 17 vice presidents of the Hobo League. Jeff Davis, king of the hoboes, named him to replace John Weller, one-time Altoona, Pa., police sergeant who died last week.

Seibert met Davis in Chicago while he was on the road in 1912. He rode the freights for six years before marriage and children began to pile up on him.

Seven Cleared On Kidnaping Charges

STOCKTON, Calif., July 19 (AP)—Hubbard Middlecoff, 36, and seven other persons were cleared today of kidnaping charges filed after Mrs. Eliza Middlecoff Emery, mother of Middlecoff, was taken to San Francisco from here last July 8.

The charges were dismissed by Justice of the Peace George Fritoux yesterday on motion of Assistant District Attorney Chester Watson, who stated there was insufficient evidence to prosecute.

The San Joaquin county jury declined to indict the eight persons last week, after a complaint against them was signed by Mrs. Olga Chadd, nurse-companion of Mrs. Emery.

In 1936 and maybe a victory in the 40th annual renewal of the fixture will set him off on another winning streak in major competition, but first he must dispose of the red-headed Nelson-Picard two some, as well as a lot of other top-flight golfers.

Nelson, national open champion, Picard, the new P. G. A. champion, Guldhall and about 250 other pros and amateurs will tee off Friday over the Medinah Country club course in the first round of the 72-hole medal play event. Another 18 holes follow Saturday and the final 36 Sunday.

In addition to the title, improved rating in the Vardon trophy contest and the money derby are at stake in the Western.

Victory in the Western counts 60 points in the Vardon race. Picard leads now with 393 points. Nelson is second. Picard also tops the money winners, having earned $8,177 this year. Sheed is second with $6,777 and Nelson third with $6,073.

Oilers Win Second Game Of Series 8 To 4

Ninth Inning Rally Brings In 3 Scores

Exploding four-run barrages in the third and eighth innings, the Pampa Oilers delivered off a ninth inning rally by the Midland Cowboys last night to take the second game of their present series, 8 to 4. The two teams will clash again tonight at 8:30 o'clock under the lights at Road Runner park in the final game of the series.

Tomorrow night Jodie Tate will bring his Lamesa Lobos here for three night games, the final of the group on Saturday night to be ladies night. Through some misunderstanding the purchaser of a period over radio station KPDM yesterday announced that Tuesday night would be ladies night. The team management had nothing to do with the announcement nor did the radio station. Ladies night is Saturday night each time the Oilers are home.

Midland drew first blood last night in the second inning when Manager Sam Hale opened with a screaming double down the third base line. Only fast fielding by Gordon Nell kept it from being a triple. Hale went to third on an out and scored when Petzold sacrificed in front of the plate. Vannoy came in, fast fielded the ball perfectly, but made the mistake of missing the ball to Summers and Hale slid home under the play.

Scoring Spree.

The Oilers went on their first scoring spree in the third. Vannoy, a hitting pitcher, opened with a single. Moss walked and Jordan sacrificed the pair along. Setz was safe on a fielder's choice when an unsuccessful play was made on Vannoy at home. Then Moss scored on a double steal with Setz. Nell was intentionally passed and then Piet couldn't find the plate and walked Summers also. It was then that "Dynamite" Guynes came to the plate and rifled a single to score Setz and Nell.

In the eighth the Oilers went on another rampage. Bailey beat out an infield single but was forced at second on an attempted sacrifice. Moss drew his second walk. Jordan singled to fill the bases. Setz was again safe on a fielder's choice when an attempt was made to get Vannoy at the plate, the play going wild when Cox, shortstop, threw the ball over the catcher's head. Moss also scored on the play. Nell and Summers singled in succession scoring two more but Setz was nabbed at the plate in between.

Midland tried to pull the game out of the fire in the ninth. Phillips, first batter, went out. Petzold singled but was caught at second on a fielder's choice. Piet drew a walk and then Naranto, Mexican recently secured from San Antonio, kept up his record of having hit safely in every game since joining the Cowboys, by blasting a triple past Nell into left centerfield. He scored when Guynes threw Cox' hot grounder away after making a spectacular stop. The rally ended when Fred Pietras made a sweet stop of Everson's hot grounder and got the ball to Bailey. The ball was a grand cutter which Pietras trapped nicely.

Daily, baseball fans read about spectacular plays in the majors but Manager Grover Setz of the Oilers pulled one last night when he raced from his centerfield position into deep right center and with outstretched hand snagged a line drive off Sam Hale's bat that was labeled for two bases and probably three. The ball was roaring at express train speed and so Setz and when the ball struck it turned Setz completely around.

Vannoy Wins Another.

Milbert Vannoy won another spectacular game when he limited the slugging Cowboys to seven hits, and two of them came in the ninth. Vannoy whiffed five and walked three. Respected Toriy Piet was on the mound for Midland and was nicked for 13 singles including a double by Guynes. Piet fanned six but walked five.

Guynes led the Oiler attack with a double and two singles. Nell bagged a pair of singles and was robbed of a sure double by Everson who made a spectacular one-handed stab of his second-inning drive against the center field fence. Jordan, Summers, and Vannoy also collected two hits each.

Last night's win put the Oilers in second place, a full game ahead of Midland and tied with Lubbock who dropped to Big Spring. Amarillo put Lamesa in the cellar with a late spurt. The Clovis-Borger game was rained out.

J. Louis Comiskey, Owner Of Chicago White Sox, Dies

CHICAGO, July 19 (AP)—The death of J. Louis Comiskey, 54, president and owner of the Chicago White Sox, removed from baseball one of the most colorful "second generation" leaders in the history of the sport.

Victim of a heart ailment and pneumonia, Comiskey died yesterday in the same summer home at Eagle River, Wis., where his famous father, Charles A. Comiskey, died eight years ago at the age of 72.

Comiskey, only son of the noted "Old Roman" founder of the club, was survived by the widow, Grace; two daughters, Dorothy, 22, and Elizabeth, 18; and a son, Charles II, 13. Funeral services will be held here Saturday.

Harry Grabner, who started in the White Sox organization 36 years ago as an office boy, and served as vice-president of the club under both Comiskies, will continue in charge of the club.

Comiskey spent all of his life in the service of the club his father organized 29 years ago. As a boy he had an ambition as a player, but signs of the heart ailment appeared early and he had to be content with a career in the business office. He served the White Sox in various capacities and for many years was in charge of concessions. He had no great part in the affairs of the club until after his father's death in 1931.

In the next eight years, however, despite almost constant ill health, he maneuvered the White Sox back into a position they had not occupied since the team was wrecked by the Black Sox scandal in 1919. He spent $189,000 to get four stars from the Philadelphia Athletics, Jimmy Dykes, Ed Delmonico, Melvin Bell and George Barnshaw. Then in May, 1934, he elevated Dykes to the management, succeeding Lew Fonseca, and the White Sox stock immediately rose. The club finished in the first division in 1935, 1936 and 1937.

Comiskey was tremendously popular with his players and the business staff. He was regarded as a genuine sportsman and rarely quibbled over salaries with his players.

East Texans' All-Star Game To Be Played At Longview Tonight

LONGVIEW, July 19 (AP)—East Texas League players forgot individual team rivalries today and divided into North and South squads for the loop's all-star baseball battle here tonight.

Five men from each team were selected for the game. The North team, composed of Kilgore, Longview, Marshall and Texarkana players, will be skippered by Manager Jimmy Dalrymple of Kilgore. Vets ran Jake Atz of the Henderson Oilers is manager of the South team of men from Henderson, Tyler, Jacksonville and Palestine.

Atz announced either big Steve Rachunok, Henderson ace who has won 18 games, or Bill Roberson of Tyler would be his choice for starting hurler. Dalrymple indicated Tom Pullig of Texarkana would be his initial pitcher.

The starting lineups, except pitchers:

SOUTH
Black, Jacksonville, cf.
Tatum, Henderson, rf.
Phillips, Henderson, ss.
Cossello, Palestine, 3b.
Bradley, Palestine, lf.
Sapor, Henderson, 2b.
Sidlo, Tyler, 1b.
Kahn, Palestine, c.

NORTH
Knoblauch, Kilgore, cf.
Ratke, Longview, 2b.
Simntaochl, Marshall, rf.
Turner, Marshall, lf.
Saders, Kilgore, 1b.
Prierson, Texarkana, 3b.
Lobough, Texarkana, ss.
Klutts, Kilgore, c.

Rachunok annexed his 18th win last night when he shut out Jacksonville, 1 to 0, allowing only one hit in the nightcap of a twin bill. Henderson lost the first, 3 to 1.

Albert Winters pitched two games for Marshall last night, winning the first, 4 to 1, and losing the second, 2 to 1. He allowed Tyler batsmen only four hits in each game. Palestine blanked Kilgore, 3 to 1, behind Grover Miller's seven-hit pitching.

Longview jumped on Pullig for three runs in the eighth hand a 7 to 4 win over Texarkana.

Fla. and Bob Kamrath of Austin, Texas, were victims of fourth round upsets yesterday. They were listed second and third.

George Tolson of Los Angeles, who was fresh and spry while his seeded rival was tired from several weeks of steady play, handed Guernsey a 6-3, 6-3 liding while Charles Mattman of New York solved Kamrath's "soft" game and beat him 4-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Giants Seem To Have Lost All Fight And Pep

NEW YORK, July 19 (AP)—At the rate they are going to pot, the once proud Giants will be lucky to finish as high as fourth in the National league race.

Only a few days ago they were a scrappy, confident club, certain their hitting would enable them to catch Cincinnati in the stretch. Now they look all through, and the Reds can stop worrying about them.

Fines and suspension plastered on them over the week-end by President Ford Frick appeared to take all the fight out of Colonel Will Terry's men, and the injuries to Lou Chiozza and Harry Danning knocked them in a heap.

Perhaps overnight they have found themselves forced to fall back on what the most inept infield this side of the minor leagues. No replacements are in sight—not until same, has won but two, and has received only two starting assignments since June 4.

Donald began the season as the "odd man" on the mound staff of the world champions, a rookie figured to do little more than mop up in games already lost. Hubbell, after an operation on his salary arm, was counted on to come back and be the "meal ticket" of old for a pennant-contending Giant club.

Today the Yankees, with Donald a vital part of their pitching corps, are eight games in front of the Boston Red Sox, and Donald has supplanted Harry Krause, who won 10 straight, for the Athletics, 31 years ago, as the most sensational first-year man in the big show. Meanwhile the crippled Giants, slipping steadily, are tied for third place in the National league and Hubbell, the hop gone from his fast one and the break from his curve, has lost five games.

Donald handcuffed the St. Louis Browns with three hits yesterday and shut them out, 9-0.

While Donald was delivering his performance (followed by a three-hit combination job by Oral Hildebrand and Johnny Murphy that beat the Browns, 4-3, to give the Yankees a sweep), Hubbell was having trouble. The Cardinals got to him, 5-3, and Hubbell was charged with his fifth defeat.

The Cards and Giants thus fell into a third-place tie, the Chicago Cubs moving into second on Claude Passeau's fine pitching that topped the Brooklyn Dodgers, 4-2.

There was further good pitching right along the line. The league-leading Reds hit hard to bring Paul Derringer his twelfth victory, by 12-3 over the Boston Bees, and veteran Syl Johnson clamped down on the Pittsburgh Pirates to give the Phillies an 8-3 decision.

In the American league Joe Krauskas of the Senators scattered the Detroit Tigers six hits to take them, 10-2; Rookie Joe Dolson pulled the Cleveland Indians out of a hole with a neat relief trick to turn back the Philadelphia Athletics, 6-3, and Clint Brown, making his thirty-fourth appearance in a relief role, saved the second game for the White Sox, 8-5, after the Red Sox had chubbied hard to win the opener, 13-10.

Texas Leaguer Pitches No-Hit, No-Run Classic

(By The Associated Press.)

Ernest (Whitey) White, 22-year-old southpaw, has gained that spot in baseball's Hall of Fame that all pitchers covet.

The cotton-topped Houston Buff player hurled a no-hit, no-run game last night, beating Fort Worth 2 to 0 and allowing only three men to reach base, all on walks.

Stan Corbett limited the Buffs to five hits but three were bunched in the third for Houston's tallies. The Shreveport Sports bunched hits in the fifth and seventh and defeated the Dallas Rebels, 6 to 3. The win placed Shreveport in third place.

The leading San Antonio Missions defeated the Oklahoma City Indians, 2 to 1, when Dynamite decision would have provoked at least a small riot.

Bill Judges' Suspension Ends A Week From Now

Terry hits gloomily on the bench, seldom sticking his nose on the field during the game.

Terry wandered out once yesterday when Burgess Whitehead, playing an unaccustomed shortstop, let a throw from Joe Moore crack him on the shin. For a time as Whitehead thrashed around on the ground, it looked like they might have to bring Pitcher Slim Melton to play the shortfield, but Whitehead finally recovered sufficiently to limp thru the remaining innings against the Cardinals.

The Giants wouldn't argue over a decision, even when Ripple hit what looked like a legitimate double down the left line and the umpire said foul. A week ago the same

GHOST DETOUR

BY OREN ARNOLD

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, the girls are worried about Dick's strange movements in the old jail, hiding the money. They are worried too as the romantic complications develop. Franklin buys a purse for Christine, she discovers it, he says it is from Dick. Christine wants to cry, realizing Franklin really bought it for her.

CHAPTER XII

FRANKLIN LARRAWAY just sat there gazing at Christine Palmer as she walked away from his car. "God!" he muttered to himself. "I sure can muck everything!"

He hadn't meant for her to see the silver ring because it was in a smaller package. He picked that up and put it in his pocket and stuck the purse back in its wrapper. He doubted if he could handle Dick diplomatically enough to make him give Christine the purse. He had bought the purse to give Christine himself. But then—well, she had practically admitted being in love with Dick earlier. And he was Dick's best friend, trusted friend. A man doesn't let his friend down. If Christine loved Dick, and he himself loved Dick as a friend—well, they say to the devil with it all. Franklin swallowed, and all at once remembered what he had learned about Carl Quait, the robber-murderer. Impulsively he called to Christine again.

"Hey! Hey, Christy! Wait! . . . Come here a minute!"

She stopped and looked back. She bit her pretty lips to keep them from trembling, she who had been about to cry.

"Come here, please. Look—I got news to tell you, Christy!" His voice had dropped to a confidential murmur. "News about that money in the vault. In the old mine shaft, I mean."

It wasn't in the mine shaft any more, Christine told herself. But no matter now—what did Franklin have? She came close to his car.

"Get in and sit a minute, Christine. Listen—that money was put here by a payroll bandit named Quait. He was sent to prison, but escaped and murdered a man. He's at liberty now!"

"Franklin!"

"No fooling! I went to the sheriff's office and—"

He told her all about it. Told her with almost a happy, boyish enthusiasm. Of course Christine found his excitement contagious. She welcomed it, too, because it enabled her to control the other emotions that had stirred her, and to hold back her tears. Franklin had not noticed her crying, though.

"Whatever will we do?" she demanded now. "He hasn't shown up yet, but we know he's a dangerous outlaw, free and likely to come any time."

"He's probably been just lying low. People forget about a crook after a while and even the officers get careless if they don't catch him. But Christine, he'll learn about Goldcrest being reopened. The papers have carried it these past few days—I brought a San Francisco paper with your photo and Roselee's and the ghost town's in it. He'll come any night for the money. I'm surprised he hasn't come already. When he does—we must trap him! That $2000 is a juicy reward!"

They agreed not to tell Roselee lest it unnecessarily disturb her. Christine hinted—without explanation—that Roselee was already distracted about business and personal details. Franklin was curious but too interested in Quait to bother much now.

"Just keep quiet and say nothing," he reminded. "I'll make arrangements with Dick."

She turned to him in sudden alarm—"Franklin! You'll—you'll both be very very careful! Promise me!"

He was quite close to her there in his car. Too close for ease. Christine's eyes were lovely, and very striking when fear shone in them. But now a hurt in his own heart was renewed. He understood what she meant. Understood—he thought—that she was deeply concerned for Dick Bancroft's welfare.

Franklin nodded. "Dick's strong," he almost whispered. "Nobody ever gets the best of him. Don't worry, Christine."

He left her then and went to find Dick.

DICK had a group of travelers from Detroit in tow. Two cars of people who were bursting with questions. They represented $9 gross to the Goldcrest firm, and Dick was trying to be nice to them. He had met them at the highway turnoff that morning by appointment. He knew that such patrons, treated right, could send other customers to the ghost town. He stayed with them until noon and enabled Mrs. Hogan to serve them $5.80 worth of meals and almost as much more in souvenirs.

They had set up an emergency gasoline station, rest rooms, tire repair and cold drinks supply at the highway turnoff by the big sign and put a genial old-time ranch cook in charge there. He was an admirable salesman for Goldcrest himself, and sent in many customers for the ghost detour. Before Dick could send his Detroiters away, other cars had come up the rough, two miles of dirt road into the old town and Franklin was pressed into guide service. He didn't get a chance to talk to Dick until late afternoon again.

"So that's how it is?" Dick exclaimed, in high interest, when Franklin finally told him about Carl Quait. "Payroll robber, eh?"

"I'll be at night, of course," Dick went on. "When he comes, I mean. Now that we know what we do we'll have to keep an even sharper watch, Frank. And don't say anything to the girls. They'll just get the jitters."

Franklin looked glum. He had already told Christine but he didn't admit it now. He'd see Christine and ask her to say nothing.

"We'll take the bank watch in shifts," Franklin stated, positively. "You've been sleeping there every night. I'm sleeping there tonight, Dick."

"Listen, Frank—I weigh 201 pounds. You weigh about 148 only. Now I could—"

"There's a gun, remember. That makes men equal."

"I know, but—"

"No excuses. We've been buddies four years. We still are, Dick."

Dick looked closely at his friend. Franklin wasn't smiling. "Okay, Frank, okay then. But I hope he comes on my shift. You—well, don't sleep too tight, is all. You know where the cot is. You can sleep out of sight behind the old tellers' cage, and get the drop on him. Keep a flashlight handy. And don't be afraid to shoot."

"I can shoot. And, uh, Dick?"

"Yeah?"

"I, uh, well, I was in town. And I brought out a— a leather purse, beaded. I thought perhaps you— well, you go give it to Christine, see? Those girls have been working hard, without much relaxation and such these two or three weeks. You—we wanta keep them happy. Girls like little attentions, Dick. You know—just give it to her, see? And—well, here isn't it pretty?"

He held the package out, open. Dick appraised it, with obvious approval.

"Sa-a-y, thanks pal! That's ducky. How much did it set you back? I'll pay you, and many thanks. I'm not good at remembering this sort of thing, as you know. You took care of me in college a lot. But say—yonder's Roselee. I think I'll just take it over and give it to her instead. After all, she's the boss."

Before Franklin could protest Dick had lifted the lovely purse and was trotting away. They saw Roselee half a block down the street leading a saddled horse, and Dick impulsively called to her.

"Hey, boss! Hey—Rose-lee! I got something for you!"

Stanford Accuser

To Give Testimony

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19 (AP)—Harry Bridges, assailed in an address at Stanford University by F. P. Foisie of the Waterfront Employers Association here, challenged Foisie today to take the witness stand at Bridges' deportation hearing.

The West Coast CIO leader and Longshore president, in an interview, said "Foisie and his kind are behind this deportation move. . . . As for Foisie's prediction my end is near, well—we don't agree."

Regarding Foisie's statement that "there's no way of passing the extent of possible difficulty this fall. . . . we are going to have trouble," Bridges said:

"Dress it up any way you like, Foisie meant by that 'no unions.' They've decided there's going to be trouble, not us. We have written concerning re-opening the (waterfront) agreements."

"You will kill every man on the waterfront before you will take away from the longshoremen their union and the conditions the union has won. They'll never go back to the old slave set-up."

Camp-Meeting Time In Texas Now At Hand

By ERNEST G. FISCHER, Associated Press Staff.

This is the time of year when "the old-time religion" reverberates thru Texas. It is camp-meeting time, which begins with roasting ears and closes about the time the golden ears of grain are made. In hundreds of communities the "crops are laid by" and hands calloused by chopping cotton and hoeing corn are applied to axes. Branches are hewn from nearby trees and the brush piled on last year's skeleton tabernacle. Benches are moved under the shelter from nearby school house or church building. The organ is pulled and covered with a tarpaulin, to be unveiled when the revival opens. In some places permanent structures have been built for camp-meeting purposes, but in many communities the temporary brush arbor still makes a seasonal appearance.

Two of the oldest revival groups in Texas are the Bloys camp meeting, held among some groves 15 miles from Fort Davis, and the Scottville camp meeting near Marshall. Modern products of a revival which swept the south and west at the turn of the 19th century, the Bloys and Scottville meetings offer some contrasts.

The former is a rendezvous in a livestock area; the latter a bit of the Old South's cotton kingdom. At the Bloys meeting, which will have its 50th renewal in August, there will be the aroma of barbecued beef and cabbage. At Scottville, the traditional fried chicken will be the place of resistance.

The Bloys meeting is held almost in the shadow of Mt. Locke, 6,000 feet above sea level, adjacent to a great observatory where scientists' eyes are turned heavenward. Scottville, in a pine-clad, lake-dotted region, near Elysian Fields. Special trains were run from Dallas and other points to the Scottville meeting in the days when cow ponies and chuck wagons were making their way to the Bloys meeting.

These two pioneer meetings, as well as the hundreds of others throughout the South, have changed radically since the beginnings of camp meetings.

Dr. William Sweet, who traced the revival movement through Kentucky and Tennessee, observed "not only did the religious come, but the irreligious, the young dowdies, the huckster selling whisky and other wares—all were attracted much as they are today to a county fair."

Henry Howe, another writer, said that "at these meetings the people are described by an eye-witness as falling under the power of the word 'like corn before a storm of wind,' and that many thus affected, arising from the dust with Divine glory beaming upon their countenances gave utterance to strains of ecstatic gratitude. In the meantime, the numbers who attended the meetings continually increased, drawn together by various motives—the desire of benefit, the gratification of curiosity, and some to arm themselves with arguments of resistance to their progress; but many of those who thus came to mock, remained to pray."

Howe describes one such meeting in Kentucky thus: "Few, if any, escaped without being affected. Such as tried to run from it were frequently struck on the way, or impelled by some alarming signal to return. No circumstance at this meeting appeared more striking than the great numbers that fell on the third day and remained unconscious of external objects for hours together. To prevent their being trodden under foot by the multitude, they were collected together, and laid out in order, on two squares of the meeting house, until a considerable part of the floor was covered, where they remained in charge of their friends until they should pass through this strange phenomena of their conversion."

The results of these pioneer meetings were much the same in Texas, according to Emanuel Domenech, a missionary priest.

"It is not unusual," wrote the priest, "to see young girls preach and, with an air of inspiration and extraordinary volubility of utterance, deliver the most impassioned discourse until at length they fall into paroxysms of nervous excitement and into most frightful convulsions. Among these fanatical apostles and penitents of the desert are to be found many young men who go to the assemblies for the sake of amusement."

Today, of course, camp meetings are more social affairs. The automobile has eliminated the necessity of camping at the meeting place. "Preaching all day and dinner on the grounds" remains a frequent announcement. As a counterpart to the air-conditioned temples in the cities where the inter-denominational revivals are held, there still

Czechs Slipping Into Poland To Fight Germans As They Did In 1914

BACKGROUND

On dark nights nowadays the Czech-Slovak youths slip over the Czech border into Poland, where they are forming legions to fight, if war comes, against the Germans.

The Czechs are experienced border-skippers and fighters in strange territory. During the World War, they formed legions in France, Italy and Serbia—and especially in Russia. Their opponents then, were Germans—the Germans of Austria-Hungary, an empire of which they were unwilling subjects.

The story of the 100,000 Czech soldiers in wartime Russia will shed light on what may be expected of the expatriated Czechs in any second World War. Lloyd George called the story "one of the greatest epics in history." Here it is.

By The AP Feature Service
Those grim young Czechs forming foreign legions today have a stirring example to live up to. For a quarter of a century ago, other grim young Czech Legionnaires were getting into—and out of—one of history's tightest jams.

Forced to fight for Austria-Hungary, the Czechs deserted and crossed into Czarist Russia, where they became prisoners. Far from home, they kept up hope, formed national groups, proved themselves skilled workmen, and gave a tenth of their pay to promote Czech-Slovak independence. Finally Russia permitted them to form Czech legions to fight on the Russian front.

In 1917 the Czechs were concentrated in European Russia. German troops were surging toward them from the west. Enemy Turkish troops formed a wall to the south. Chaco and the ice-packed Arctic were to the north. Five thousand miles of chilly steppes blocked the east.

And all around the Red revolution was raging. As the Germans pushed in, the Czech plight became serious. Russian soldiers merely laid down their guns and went home or became prisoners of war.

Two Divisions Trapped
But since the Czechs were largely deserters, the German army treated captured Czechs accordingly.

Two Czech divisions were fighting near Kiev in the Ukraine. Facing certain death, if captured, they went over the top with a fury that sent enemy troops sprawling. But there were only two divisions on a large front.

In November, 1917, the Bolsheviks, under Lenin, had seized control of Russia. Lenin signed the treaty of Brest-Litovsk. The treaty cut off any possibility of the Czechs going home—unless they were willing to accept a doubtful offer of amnesty from the Austrian emperor. And if they continued to fight the Germans they would fight alone.

The Czechs had to think fast. They did.

They decided to push through those 5,000 miles to Vladivostok, thence to return to Europe by way of the U. S.

The Czechs dog-trotted through the chaotic Ukraine—just ahead of pursuing Germans. When Germans in armored cars attempted to head them off, few Germans escaped.

Allies Fought Communism
The two divisions commandeered trains. Fighting with the support of Communists ended the German menace. But more trouble sprang up.

The Bolshevik government learned that the Allies were combating Communism in eastern Siberia, and was alarmed at the prospect of heavy ily-armed Czechs joining the Allies. The Bolsheviks would let the Czechs push on only if they surrendered their arms. So the Czechs gave up some of them, but kept other supplies hidden.

The first trainloads of troops reached Vladivostok in 57 days. But most trains suffered all sorts of delays.

By July, 1918, troop-trains were scattered over 4,000 miles of track. Jan Szyrov, the famous one-eyed general, was in command.

Trouble with the Soviets increased at each station. Soon Czechs and Bolsheviks were battling throughout the Ural. As their trains got on, the Czechs had to fight for each town. And each railroad tunnel in the Lake Balkal region had to be won.

Held the Railroads
The troops stayed on in Eastern Siberia until the Armistice, helping the Allies hold the railroads. Then they left Vladivostok for home via the Pacific and the United States. They were rewarded with a free Czechoslovakia.

Today, other young Czechs are working for the same goal.

Salinity Of Laguna Madre Killing Fish

ARANSAS PASS, July 19 (AP)—"The Texas fishing industry is practically a thing of the past," says R. E. (Bob) Farley, veteran of 14 years service with the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission.

"Florida, with a considerably shorter shoreline than Texas, produced almost 300,000,000 pounds of food fish last year compared with something less than 3,000,000 for Texas," Farley observed.

"The secret of the fish scarcity along the Texas coast at present lies to a great extent in the increasing salinity of the Laguna Madre, one of the greatest natural fish hatcheries in the world, where approximately 90 per cent of the food fish caught in Texas coastal waters are spawned," he said.

"To this quiet stretch of water, 110 miles long and averaging about eight miles in width, the great redfish, trout and drum return each summer. Only the trout and probably the drum spawn there, but the other fish come for the good feeding. Redfish weighing as much as 50 pounds and trout weighing from 15 to 18 pounds are common sights in the Laguna in the summer—fish that are almost never caught because they have become too wise to bite on bait."

Farley recalled the first large scale death among the fish in the Laguna Madre—due to over-salinity—in the summer of 1929.

"It was plain, then, that something had to be done to keep water circulating in the Laguna if this natural spawning ground was to be preserved," Farley declared.

"In addition, strict laws needed to be enforced with regard to fishing in that area."

The death of more than 20,000,000 pounds of food fish in the summer of 1938 reinforced the conviction of conservationists that if the future of fishing in Texas was to be preserved, something immediate and drastic had to be done about the increasing salinity of this inland channel.

There were other contributing factors in this death of the fish, Farley pointed out. One was the operations of seismographic crews testing for oil in the Laguna.

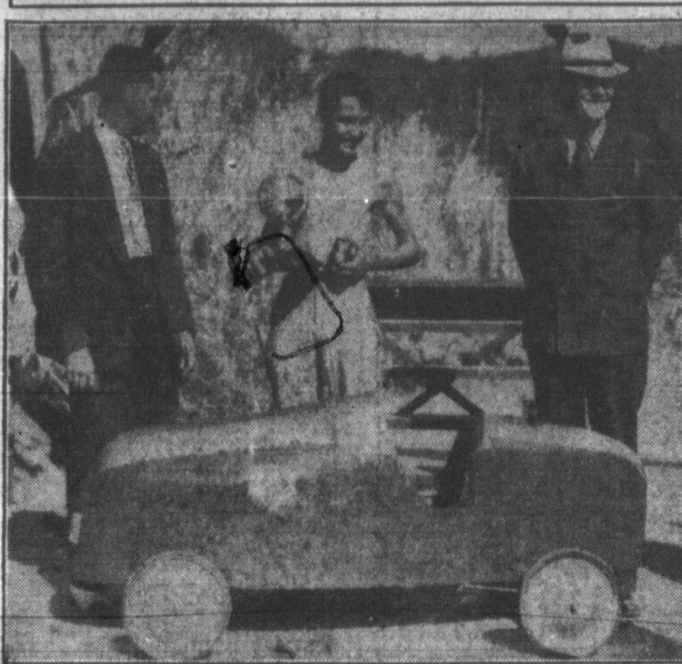

"The charges of dynamite used in the seismographic work killed some fish, but not too many. Much more important, they killed countless millions of small clams, about as large as your little fingernail, which are the natural food of fish summering in the Laguna. These clams stay almost on top of the sandy bottom where the fish can feed upon them readily."

"Of course, the high salinity content of the water killed mullet and small fish, including the newly-hatched fingerlings, upon which the larger fish feed. As a result of the scarcity of fish and clams the larger fish which were not killed by the strong salt water died of hunger or became so weak they could not return to the fresher water of the bays."

Considerable illegal netting and fishing in the Laguna also took toll of spawning fish, Farley said.

Today, other young Czechs are working for the same goal.

All the Way from Panama

The Soap Box Derby champion who will travel farthest to compete in the sixth annual finals of the All-American and International race at Akron, O., Aug. 13, is Harvey Wright, Jr., Panama Canal zone winner. Shown here with his victory medal and the M. E. Coyle trophy, young Wright is flanked by E. N. Smoot (left) of Smoot-Eason, S. A., Chevrolet representative in Panama, and A. J. Attaway, secretary of the Bureau of Clubs and Playgrounds of the Panama Canal Zone. The Isthmian race was co-sponsored by Chevrolet and the Panama American.

out if public opinion will give support.

"At least one or two channels across Padu Island, which separates the Laguna from the Gulf of Mexico, must be cut to provide circulation for fresh sea water into the Laguna. One for instance, could be cut through at Murdock's Landing on Corpus Christi bay at a relatively small expense and another somewhere farther down."

He admitted the proposed extension of the intra-coastal waterway from Corpus Christi to Brownsville by way of the Laguna "would help a great deal."

"I am afraid, however, nothing will be done about this project for many years, since about 20 miles of this route is rock bottom and would have to be blasted out from the present depth of about four feet to nine feet. But it would not solve the problem, because 110 miles is too long without a break somewhere into the Gulf."

The inherent danger to salt water fishing along the Texas coast thru the ruin of the great fish hatchery in the Laguna Madre has aroused conservationists throughout the state, especially those who have made a study of coastal fisheries, Farley said.

"The industry, as well as most of the food fish in Texas waters are to survive, the Laguna Madre must be provided with fresh sea water circulation. Otherwise the Texas fishing industry is a thing of the past."

Another summer brings daily reports from fishermen and game wardens that the salinity content of the Laguna Madre is increasing alarmingly. They fear another tragedy such as overtook the fish which came to feed and spawn there last year.

Gyroscopic motor cars, with only one front and one rear wheel, have been successfully operated.

Oh, Governor, 'Miss Michigan' Has Just 'A Teeny Hangover'

NEW YORK, July 19 (AP)—Unheeded of Gov. Luren D. Dickinson's warning to American womanhood, Miss Willo Sheridan of Detroit awoke with what she thought might be "just a teeny hangover" today after her first encounter with what the governor described as the perils of New York "high life."

Miss Sheridan, 23, who came here as "Miss Michigan Aviation" with a letter of introduction from Governor Dickinson, said she went to the Cotton Club last night and had "two scoches."

"And I'm afraid," she said sleepily, "that I may have just a teeny hangover."

Miss Sheridan said she knew the 80-year-old governor of her state slightly, having met him once at "a very dignified party."

"I'm going to see as many night clubs as I can while I'm here," she went on, "and if the governor wants a detailed account of what I have been doing I'll give it to him."

She added she thought she was in "safer hands" for her night club excursions.

Miss Sheridan, who is winsome and red-haired, said she hadn't noticed any of the dangers which Michigan's chief executive had described as bringing unprotected girls in proximity to a "hellish brink."

She added she thought she was in "safer hands" for her night club excursions.

White Deer Youth Lone Star Farmer

Special to The NEWS.
WHITE DEER, July 19—Alva Thornburg was notified last week of his selection as Lone Star Farmer by the State Executive committee of the F. F. A. in a meeting held at Huntsville recently.

This is the next to the highest degree awarded by the organization and Thornburg was the only member of the local chapter to receive the honor this year.

During his two years of F. F. A. work, he has carried out eleven projects, including sheep, dairy cows, beef calves, pigs, chickens, and wheat as the major items.

Thornburg was graduated from White Deer high school in 1938 but resumed his work here last year as a post-graduate. He plans to attend college, probably Texas Tech, and will continue his work toward an American Farmer award, the highest rank in F. F. A. work.

J. R. Bertrand is the only member of the local chapter who has already attained the American Farmer rank.
