Hitler Must Attack After 'Peace Rebuff'

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

Herr Hitler has continued to push his peace offensive vigorously, despite Anglo-French rebuffs, with the rapid approach of the final showdown as to whether there shall be an end to the conflict or war to the bloody end.

The German forces on the western front have remained on the defensive, awaiting the outcome of the peace overtures.

to insist that the reich has no desire to "Germanize" people not of German origin. This assertion caused observers to believe the Nazis might be willing to concede some form of cultural autonomy to the Poles.

There can be no doubt that Herr Hitler vastly prefers peace, though there can be no doubt that he doesn't intend to bend the knee much to get it.

Observers incline to the belief that the Nazi chieftain isn't too happy with the way affairs have been developing.

His new bunk-mate, Soviet leader Stalin, pulls the blankets off him.

It is difficult to see how any peace proposals coming from the Nazi government could succeed.

Barring miracles the war must continue. That being the case one would expect the so-far comparatively passive warfare to enter a much more active state in the near future.

This is true if for no other reason than that Herr Hitler cannot afford to sit down behind his west wall—even though it be virtually impregnable.

That would be to submit to possible strangulation of the reich by the British naval blockade.

Hitler must take the offensive.

His offensive, however, needn't be an assault on the powerful French Republic line with his army.

Nazism has for weeks been talking about its "invincible weapon," the air fleet.

There is another offensive weapon which the Nazis have been using with considerable effect and have threatened to employ more intensively—the U-boats.

Mr. Wisdom, now a resident of Des Moines, was accompanied by Professor Carl Olsen of A. & M. College, Ames, who has just returned from the Golden State fair in California where he was one of the principal judges in the cattle division.

Roy and Fred McCloud of Valley Falls, Kans., T. Everett Evans of Lima, Ohio, Lew Humphreys and Chauncey of Leawards, Kans., assisted in judging the calves here.

Including the steer calves out of 186 two-year-old heifers, Mr. Wisdom accepted 530 head of cattle averaging 481 pounds at twelve cents a pound, the highest price paid this season for range calves, according to information received here.

Of pure bred cows and Hazlett bulls, these calves will be sold at public auction to 4-H club boys from the corn belt states October 4 at Des Moines. They will go through the ring one at a time, according to plans being made and have all been vaccinated for black leg and ophthalmia (pink eye).

While here Mr. Evans purchased a car load of 700-pound heifers from Gomer Lewis of Higgins at $2.25 per hundred. He also bought 235 yearling steers from Frank Chambers of Canadian at $2.75 per hundred, and 420 extra good calves from R. McMertry of Silvertown to be delivered October 15 at nine and ten cents per pound.

Mr. Stausic bought a load of yearling heifers from R. B. Tyson, Higgins, at $7.50 per hundred.

Ships Warned Not To Act 'Suspicious'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—A German warning that American ships "in their own interests" should avoid "suspicious behavior" in British and French waters was relayed around the world today by the maritime commission and naval authorities.

The German message was received by the state department last night shortly after Secretary Hull had cautioned United States citizens to avoid travel on ships of belligerents.

It advised against such acts as change of course, use of radio on sighting a German warship, zig-zagging, screening lights, failing to obey a command to stop, and accepting convoy by British or French naval forces.

President Roosevelt said early last month that American ships should not be conveyed through their lights, or zig-zag, and a state department official explained last night that the German notice was in effect an acceptance of Mr. Roosevelt's decision.

Germany said neutral merchant ships had "repeatedly" attempted in the waters around France and England to evade the exercise of the rights of German naval forces,

French Digging In To Resist German Drive

PARIS, Oct. 3. (AP)—Semi-official sources reported today that French engineering units were feverishly digging in on German soil to resist a land and air drive expected to come with the fading of Adolf Hitler's "peace offensive."

The French estimated they held about 150 square miles of German territory containing about 5 villages.

The engineers, working against time and under the constant threat of German artillery, particularly in the Saar valley sector, were said to be turning to their own use captured German fortifications on the fringe of the Siegfried line.

As fast as French patrols obtained strategic points the engineers moved up and started digging in.

Latest official advices from the front reported no heavy fighting in the offensive zone between the Rhine and Moselle rivers. Last night's communique said "Local enemy attacks have been repulsed" near Saarouis and east of the Saar while German shells fell "on German localities behind our line."

French units also were engaged in a "war of mines." They were reported to have exploded thousands of them from safe distances. Artillery aided in this by raking innocent-appearing territory given up by the Germans.

One shell set off a string of mines almost 1,000 yards long. They exploded like a string of mammoth firecrackers.

Aside from constant localized parrying efforts, the Germans showed little activity, it was reported. This led military observers to believe they had orders to restrict fighting to purely defensive operations while Berlin concentrated on diplomacy.

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—The stock market turned around today after a mild preliminary rally and leaders slipped back with gains badly cut or turned into losses of as much as 2 points or more at the finish.

The small rumour came shortly after a quiet opening and had about an hour's duration before buying dried up and prices began to dip. There was some recovery from extreme lows before the close. Transfers approximated 900,000 shares.

European and domestic news held the main interest, and Prime Minister Chamberlain's statement in the House of Commons today was closely studied. An unknown element, leading traders to caution, was the speech Reichsfuehrer Hitler is to deliver late this week, and which some think may contain definite peace terms.

The possibility of a "peace offensive" was again weight, setting mainly to keep professionals from commitments. One school of thought felt Chamberlain's pronouncement indicated Britain was ready for some definite move to end the conflict and others considered it another deft.

News from the home front was described as conservatively additional. Preliminary estimates of last week's railroad freight loadings indicated they would show better results than anticipated. A further burst of carrier equipment buying was forecast in the announcement the Santa Fe would spend $10,000,000 for cars.

Newspapers Charge Supplies Carried To Nazi U-Boats

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3 (AP)—The Philadelphia Record said today the Navy, F. B. I. and customs service were investigating reports that "erstwhile run runners" and "unscrupulous skippers of freighters" are carrying supplies to German submarines off the Atlantic coast.

The newspaper said federal authorities in Philadelphia commented only that they "have suspicions of some seamen."

Fuel oil, food and drinking water, the Record said, had been ferried out to U-boats by "smugglers" employed several weeks ago by Germans living in Philadelphia.

Stalin May Try To Grab Finland Next

MOSCOW, Oct. 3 (AP)—A strong hint that Soviet Russia is preparing to make demands for military and naval bases upon Finland as well as the smaller Baltic states was given today in the government newspaper Ivestia, which gave the first intimation of Russia's decision to march into Poland last month.

The newspaper, tracing relations of the Soviets with Finland, Estonia and Latvia since 1920, said "aggressive European countries that concealed themselves under the mask of 'peace loving' have tried to convert these countries into their vassals and into a zone of operations for completion of their aggressive plans in the basin of the Baltic Sea."

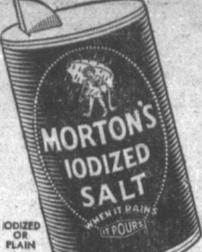

Ivestia in another article said an agreement between Sweden and Finland upon fortification of the Finnish-owned Aland Islands in the Baltic this year was concluded "without any legal grounds and was not planned for the pacification of the Baltic basin and the security of sea borders of adjacent countries."

Russia opposed the Scandinavian proposal to fortify the strategic islands, holding it was a threat to Russia's position in the Baltic and Gulf of Finland. The islands command the entrances of the Gulf of Bothnia and the Gulf of Finland into the Baltic.

Many observers believed Russia was preparing to demand from Finland a share in control of the islands. This latest campaign for more concessions in the Baltic area opened here, the Latvian and Turkish foreign ministers were here and Lithuania's foreign minister, Juozas Urbys, was expected later in the day. Ivestia's article failed to mention Lithuania, but that country was expected to receive demands along with Latvia and similar to those made upon Estonia.

Conversations with Latvian Foreign Minister William Munters began last night.

World Series Opens In New York Tomorrow

Pitching May Be Problem To Yankees

By JUDSON BAILEY
NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—A pitching problem, of all things, had the New York Yankee managers fretting today as the world champions and the Cincinnati Reds rehearsed for tomorrow's opening act of the 1939 World Series.

Charles (Rufus the Red) Ruffing, rugged right-hander who started the first game of the series last year, has had an arm ailment. He vowed he was ready, but Manager Joe McCarthy has not decided whether to lead with his ace.

Ruffing has not thrown a business ball since the middle of September, when the last-place St. Louis Browns chiseled 13 hits off him in less than nine innings. Ruffing had made at least one recent trip to a muscle specialist in Brooklyn.

If the Yankee skipper should decide to hold back Ruffing, he undoubtedly would open with Monte Marcellino Pearson, the chunky Californian who won one game in each of the last three World Series for the Yankees.

Gordon Nell Leads League In Batting With .392 Average

Final official averages of the West Texas-New Mexico league were released yesterday by President Milton Price and the complete season standing showed the Pampa Oilers in second place with 78 wins against 59 losses, trailing the Lubbock Hubbers with 80 wins against 49 losses. The Oilers finished second in the second half and fourth in the first half.

Pampa's Gordon Nell led the league batters with an average of .392. He hit the most home runs in the league, 44, the most doubles, 60, both new records, and batted in 189 runs. Manager Grover Seitz and Bob Bailey tied in triples with 11, which was two short of tying the league record set by Stacey of Big Spring. In the base stealing department Seitz was in a class by himself with 44 pilfers. Bailey was next in line with 33.

Lamesa's Fullenwider gave Nell a race for home run honors, ending the season with two less than the Oiler slugger. Seitz followed Nell in doubles with 44.

Rex Dilbeck, Oiler left-hander, was team leader in won and lost percentage, with eight wins and two losses for an average of .500. Gus Halliburton was listed next with nine wins against six losses for .600. Then came Milbert Vannoy and Frank Grabek with 19 wins and 13 losses for an average of .594. The veteran Harvey Hutton registered 14 wins against 11 losses which was an average of .560. Art Verrengia had 11 wins against 12 losses for .478 average.

The official figures and those compiled by The News sports department agreed only in the cases of Dilbeck and Hutton. The News figures showed Halliburton with 11 wins and 5 losses, Grabek with 20 wins against 13 losses, Vannoy with 19 wins and 14 losses, Verrengia with 12 and 12.

Vannoy and Grabek had the best earned run average, each allowing only 3.95 runs. Others were Dilbeck, 4.93; Halliburton, 5.32; Hutton, 4.46; Verrengia, 5.31.

In the fielding department, Dilbeck and Halliburton had a perfect record. Other figures were Vannoy, .957; Hutton, .954; Grabek, .947; and the statistician apparently failed to remember that Verrengia was on hand because he had no record on the list.

Oiler fielding in other positions were: first base, Bailey, .976; second base, Saporito, .914; third base, Jordan, .917; shortstop, Malvica, .899; left field, Nell, .915; right field, L. Summers, .907; catcher, L. Summers, .901. Again the official scorer forgot the Seitz, Phillips and Beavers. They were Oilers and their averages were left from the list.

The Oilers as a team fielded .941 to tie Lamesa for sixth place. In club batting the Oilers registered 299 to place third, one point behind Cliviss.

Here Are Few 'Don'ts' For Joe McCarthy

CINCINNATI, Oct. 3 (AP)—Not that they'd let Joe McCarthy any more, but here are a few do's and don'ts for earnest consideration if his Yankees are to make a habit of the championship business.

There is no reason in revealing these items, for if they start to happen again they will just happen and there'll be little that the Yankees can do about them.

1. Don't let the Reds score in the first inning. They won their National League pennant that way. The Reds scored at the start in 45 games this year, and of these they won 37.

2. Don't let the game go into extra innings. The Reds played 17 overtime games this year, anywhere from 10 to 13 innings, and won 13 of them. Red pitchers get mad when they have to work after the whistle.

3. Don't think you have the game on a two or three-run lead in the ninth. There are seven managers in the National League who can tell you that the Reds' 1939 drive was added with star-pitched finishes.

4. Your pitching paragon probably never do such things anyway, but don't let them walk anybody to get at anybody. A lot of the Reds are only .250 hitters but the time you get to them may be the time they're due.

5. Don't get worked up just because you get a lot of hits off Paul Derringer. Paul gave 321 hits all year but he earned run average was under 3.5.

6. Don't run bases as if you were playing bushwicks. You may not know it but a couple of the boys, Ernie Lombardi and Ival Goodman, have 30-30's with telescopic sights up their sleeves.

Those are about all the don'ts and here's the only do—play ball.

Marberry Gives One Hit To Tie Up Dixie Series

By FELIX R. McKNIGHT
FORT WORTH, Oct. 3 (AP)—Old Fred Marberry's masterpiece, a one-hitter that warmed 4,000 chilled fans, threw the Dixie series into the seventh, and payoff, game tonight.

The 40-year-old veteran of 16 years in the majors and baseball in general since knee pants days, put Fort Worth back into the series last night with a cunning 11-0 triumph over a Nashville team that was literally mad enough to fight before it was all over.

Of Firpo, strictly a warm weather pitcher, Marberry said he pulled through. He blanked Galveston's perfect game ruined with one out in the ninth when Woody Williams singled to right. Saddy enough, the next batter, Chapman, tapped into a double play.

Only four batters reached first base, none touched second, only four drove balls out of the infield, eight

Breckenridge Team May Be Best In School's History

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
BRECKENRIDGE, Oct. 3 (AP)—Take eleven boys who average 171 pounds, among whom averages 45 yards on his punts—and you have what Breckenridge fans say is a football team due to be around when the state schoolboy championship is decided.

Cocher Eck Curtis says little about the team but there are plenty of spokesmen in this city who vouch for Breckenridge's greatest team—and that would be quite a team because Breckenridge has been noted for its gridiron aggregations.

Nine lettermen are on the squad but only four were regulars last season. However, those four include Ralph (Gabby) Hamil, a 187-pound halfback who runs with the ball, punts 45 yards and can "thread that needle" with his passes. A depressing note may be added for rival teams that Hamil will have another year after this one.

Hamil is a 10-second man and so are Carl Rusk, the fullback, and Melvin Pardue, 175-pound tackle playing his first season.

And speaking of spirit, Bill Hottman, local newspaperman, gives this inkling:

"The boys argue over who is to do the blocking and tackling." For those who know little about football, it can be explained that blocking and tackling are the "drudgery" of the game.

Breckenridge has played two games and run up 101 points.

Edgar Cain, 172-pound halfback, was not a regular last season but is that with plenty to spare this time.

Hugh Wragg, 171-pound center, is the other letterman who was a first-teamer last season.

Although it has its outstanding stars, the team owes its power to its machine-like play.

WAR FLASHES

(By Culbertson-Smallings) —Not Censored—

BALLARD BATTLEGROUND. Oct. 2 (CS)—Falling under the raids of early buyers the toll was staggering last night as the fatalities were listed at General Headquarters according to a communique sent by messenger.

Heavier bombardment in the "high price line" is indicated by the following bulletin of the used cars on the "Blackout" list.

"No move is underway for peace," says General Culbertson. "Let these raiders take them all, their good judgment is magnified in their early raids because they are able to take the 'cream'... there are still more real values to be had on the battleground."

LATEST BULLETINS: PLYMOUTH—1935, a 4-door sedan job. Well equipped but because of few battle scars, can be captured for only $147.

BUICK—1935, of the '40 Series—'37 model—series. Bring the cash and take it with you at $167.

Through reliable sources it was learned that a sensational deal would be issued soon that will cause more parties to take interest in the skirmishes at the Ballard Battle-Ground. (EDITORS NOTE: This is expected to be made public next week) Adv.

Tigers To Fly To Holy Cross For Grid Battle

(By The Associated Press.) What is believed to be the longest round-trip flight—nearly 3,000 miles—ever made by a football squad for a grid game will start at New Orleans Thursday, Oct. 5.

When the Louisiana State university "Tigers" will plane on two sections of Eastern Air Lines "Tiger Special" enroute to Worcester, Mass. where they will play the Holy Cross eleven on Saturday, Oct. 7.

Composed of 42 persons, the flight group will be made up of players, the athletic director, line, backfield and head football coaches, trainer and several L. S. U. executives.

Players slated for the lineup as the game starts, hence those who are certain to be among the flight group are: Ken Kavanaugh and Ogden Baur, ends; Ralph "Red" Whitman and Irving Campbell, tackles; J. W. Clouse and Jake Messina, guards; Bernie Kipka, center; Young Bussey, quarterback; Ashford Simes and Robert Fife, half-back and Roy J. Anderson, fullback.

Two giant 21-passenger air liners assigned for the charter flights, will leave the New Orleans airport at 1:40 o'clock Thursday afternoon, Oct. 5. The charter flights will make three stops between New Orleans and New York (Newark airport), the planes flying about 15 minutes apart. The stops are: Atlanta, Ga., Charlotte, N. C., and Washington, D. C. They will continue from Newark to Boston, arriving at East Boston airport at 12:30 a. m. Friday, Oct. 6.

Special airport limousine coaches will take the group to their Worcester hotel, where they will remain until Saturday afternoon, when they will go to the Holy Cross football stadium for the game.

Bromwich Wins Singles Crown

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 3. (AP)—John Bromwich of Australia emerged from the Pacific Southwest tennis tournament today, holding the men's singles title and sharing with his countryman, Adrian Quist, the doubles crown.

Bromwich defeated Franjo Puncec of Yugoslavia, 4-6, 6-0, 6-2, 6-4, to take the singles title. Paired with Quist, he downed Jack Crawford and Harry Hopman, fellow Australians, 4-6, 2-6, 6-1, 6-0, 6-4, in the doubles event.

Alice Marble won the women's singles event, defeating Dorothy Bundy, Santa Monica, 9-7, 6-1.

The name "weakfish" comes from lack of gameness or stamina, but because the body processes of the mouth of this fish are soft and tender, thereby causing them to tear out when a fisherman's hook is jerked to suddenly.

Aggies Leave To Play Santa Clara (By The Associated Press.) The Texas Aggies traveled toward California today for an important inter-sectional game but other Southwest Conference football squads continued work in their home fields with Arkansas, which opens the championship race Saturday, finding it is a rivalry by injuries.

The Aggies, 33 strong, left yesterday for San Francisco where they meet Santa Clara university Friday night.

Three lettermen were out of the Arkansas lineup for the conference opener against Texas Christian university at Fayetteville—Howard Hickey and John Freiberger, ends, and A. J. Yates, guard. The Frogs returned from their game with U. C. L. A. without an injury among the first team.

Texas, which has an important inter-sectional clash with Wisconsin at Madison, probably will be without the services of Fullback Pete Layden, injured in the Florida game last week.

James Witt, letterman end, nursed a sore shoulder in the Baylor university camp. Odell Griffin, guard, will be out at least two weeks with a twisted knee. The Bears play Oklahoma A. and M. at Stillwater Saturday.

Southern Methodist university had no injuries to worry about as the Mustangs prepared for North Texas State at Dallas Saturday.

Though provided with fangs and poison glands, Orsini vipers are so gentle that they make popular children's pets in various parts of the Balkan states.

SERIAL STORY

WORKING WIVES

BY LOUISE HOLMES

Copyright, 1939, NEA Service, Inc.

Yesterday After Della's marriage, Marian moved to a small apartment in a new building, giving up the home she had shared with the family. Remembering the first happy days of her marriage, Marian realized that she had taken a wrong step—and missed it.

CHAPTER XXV

HOLDING the doll in her arms, Marian dreamed on. Things had gone from bad to worse in the Harkness apartment. And no one had been to blame but herself. Quite frantic over the unpaid bills, she had taken the necessary temporary, and very foolish, way out.

Listening to the radio while she turned the cuffs on Dan's worn shirt, she had been inspired by the plausible chatter of a loan shark—he called himself a broker.

Your furniture or your car, no co-signers, easy monthly payments. Marian had been in an office, she was smart enough to look behind the 3 per cent monthly interest rate. She could multiply and knew well what 36 per cent a year meant.

But she wanted money, she wanted to rid herself of the hard-faced collectors. More than anything else, she wanted a new dress and hat and shoes.

She had paid the creditors and with the re-established credit, had charged two dresses, three hats and a pair of blue kid shoes. For one month she had enjoyed a precarious peace.

After that—well, after that. The same men who had suavely urged her to borrow more than she actually needed, became wolves with crouched on her doorstep, hounds who trailed her, judges who condemned her.

She managed for a few months, cutting here, charging there, at last finding herself in a tangled web of debt. Then, one day, speaking of it to Dan, she went to see Grant Fellows. He had been delighted to see her. When in his office before her marriage, he had shown great promise and he needed girls like her, Angie Doran had not been delighted to see her.

She told Grant Fellows the facts and, together, they worked out a little scheme. He was to call the custodian of the building where Marian lived, the Harkness telephone had been disconnected, and ask for Dan. Then, one day, Dan as a personal favor to himself, to let his wife work for a few weeks, illness in the office and so forth.

Mr. Fellows had called, Dan had sprinted down to the custodian's office and returned, dragging his feet. Marian, reading a magazine upside down, had not looked up when he came in.

"Darling," he had said, and Marian could remember how he looked, grim and miserable. "I've sold you down the river." Later, when they quarreled, she had reminded him of the statement, reminding him that her going back to work had been his idea. Recalling the time, Marian felt that no punishment was now too great for her.

SITTING there in the quiet room, the snowflakes drifting against the window pane, she wanted to dodge the memories. In another way, she was eager to face them. In some vague way, by so doing, she was purging her conscience. She had looked up brightly. "Down the river? I say I have a boat or must I swim?"

Dan had not smiled. "There's an epidemic of colds at the Grant Fellows office. He called to ask if you could help out for a week or 10 days."

"Of course I can. I'll only be for a little while—I'll make a few dollars."

Dan had frowned. "I don't mind if you help Mr. Fellows in an emergency—Marian hadn't been ashamed even then. Knowing that there was no emergency except her own folly, she should have been ashamed. "But don't take any money. Glad. Give him a few days of your time, but don't accept pay."

Marian had said, "Well—I'll see," knowing that she was going back to Grant Fellows' office to stay. Knowing that, once she got there, she could prolong the time and at last bring Dan to her way of thinking.

He had taken her in his arms. His eyes had been somber. "I don't like it. You've been all mine. I have the strangest feeling that you are drawing away from me, that we are losing something."

She had kissed him rapturously. She was very happy. The underhanded scheme had worked. Money to pay the loan men, money for pretty clothes, a new suit for Dan, a pleasant apartment.

"You can't lose me, old fella," she had said. "Just try it and see how far you get."

Eagerly Dan had waited for the week to pass. The apartment was different when Marian was gone during the day. When they went in together there was a feeling as if no one lived there. The laundry had to be sent out and Dan's collars chafed his neck. The meals were queer, thrown together at the last minute. Sometimes the bed was down when they came home, sometimes the breakfast dishes were unwashed.

To all Dan's pleading and insistence that she return to the home nest, she gave the same answer, "I can't let Mr. Fellows down, Dan." Soon she got to adding, "It may be a month or more, so don't get excited. Mr. Fellows has asked me to train the new girls."

FINALLY, it had come to a showdown. Dan had called Grant Fellows.

He had asked good-naturedly, "Say, when do I get my wife back?"

Mr. Fellows had been frank. He'd played the little game with Marian because of pity for her dilemma. He liked her, he wanted her to stay. She was fitting into his office, replacing Angie Doran's precise and somewhat possessive capabilities with charm and youthful inspiration.

That night Dan and Marian had taken their first reluctant steps down separate paths. The two paths seemed to run close together, and Marian had not noticed when the distance widened between them.

Dan saw the danger. Gently and kindly, he tried to reason with her. He tried to explain what a family meant, how the interests must be the same, how they must pull together.

She would not listen. "You're unreasonable, Dan," she had said. "You want me to be a drudge so that you can have the fun of throwing back your shoulders and pretending that you are a good provider." At the hurt look in his eyes she had run to him, throwing her arms around his neck. "You can't help the old depression, darling, and I can't help it. Isn't it smarter to admit that it's bigger than we are, and do the next best thing?"

"You won't look ahead, Glad," he had said sorrowfully. "You won't even try to see what it may mean to us."

"I'll mean that we will be happier, Dan. We can have nice things, take a vacation now and then—"

He had sighed. "I suppose there's no harm in your earning a little spending money. God knows I haven't been able to give you much. But where will it lead?"

She had pressed close to him. "It will always lead me straight into your arms, Danny."

He had rubbed his cheek against her hair. "But we wanted a baby, a little girl like you. What will she think if we neglect her, if we tell her that we have no time for her?"

Marian's dreaming eyes opened. The little baby was coming now. She didn't know that her father had waited for 10 long years and then gone away. The baby's mother must make up to her for what she had done.

Reduced Rail Rates

Advocated By Leaser

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—John E. Shattford of El Dorado, Ark., a leaser of railway tank cars to oil refiners, advocated reduced rail rates and elimination of economic controls today as the best means of saving small oil enterprises from "destruction."

Testifying before the national economic (monopoly) committee, he said that integrated companies, operating in all divisions of the industry from well drilling to marketing, were slowly superseding non-integrated operators.

Shattford, who said he formerly was in the refining business proper, called for a vigorous administration of requirements that oil companies owning pipe lines make them available to others as common carriers.

As for economic restraints, the witness said the problem was not one of conspiracy or collusion but contended that all the objectives which might be accomplished by such unlawful tactics were being reached by present legal restraints.

"That there is any affirmative scheme to destroy, I do not believe," he testified, "but it is apparent that destruction will be the inevitable result of certain legal efforts to stabilize."

Tyler Attorney's Appeal Dismissed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—The Court of Appeals dismissed today the appeal of John D. Glass in his suit to enjoin Secretary Ickes from prohibiting him to practice before a federal oil tender board at Kilgore, Tex., because conditions under which the suit originated no longer existed.

Glass, a Tyler, Tex., attorney employed from August 1, 1934, to September 15, 1937, in administration and enforcement of "hot oil" and oil transportation legislation, claimed an order by Ickes in March, 1933, prohibiting former interior department employees from practicing before department agencies until two years after their employment ended as unreasonable, arbitrary and discriminatory.

Glass resigned voluntarily September 15, 1937, and the appellate court held his period of "disability" under Ickes' order ended September 15 this year. It noted also that Ickes amended the order last June 29 so that Glass was free to appear before the tender board on matters not pending while he was a department employe, or—with the secretary's consent and upon filing required affidavits on matters handled during his employment.

The federal district court last December granted Ickes' motion to dismiss the petition.

Court clerks said there was pending in the appellate court an appeal by Glass in a libel suit against Ickes in connection with statements concerning his connections with the department.

British Tax Fugars Show What War Means

No one need have any doubt as to what a modern war really means. The British schedule of war taxes, just adopted without a murmur of complaint in Parliament, show in bold relief an outline of the burden. No one can escape.

Wage-earners whose annual income is as low as $480 will pay $3 income tax if unmarried. A married man without children whose income is $1000 will pay about $29. The same man making $2000 will pay about $250. And the tax schedule will be higher next year. With this stiff tax dose comes a sharp increase in surtaxes on higher incomes, and a jump of from 10 to 20 per cent in estate duties. Excess profits will be promptly taken in taxes, and consumption taxes on items like beer, wine, liquor, tobacco, and sugar have been sweepingly advanced.

For the present, Britain plans to "pay as she goes"; war loans will come later. None can escape; from ditch-digger to millionaire, each must carry his share. That is modern war—totalitarian war. The old days, when the poor paid the consumption, or sales, taxes, while the rich merely loaned their money at interest, to be paid back later out of taxes, have vanished.

The new plan is democratic, and it is hard to restrain admiration for this thorough-going manner of putting the national shoulder to the wheel.

But this is not to be forgotten: the whole thing means a lowered standard of living. Not only in Germany, where wood-fibre bread and ersatz clothing are already the order of the day, but in England, in France, and in any country that goes to war, the great mass of the people must see their standards of living slipping, sliding, gradually sagging downward toward subsistence. That $3000-a-year man who has to lay out $250 in cash for income tax has a very definite slice cut out of his living standards—translated into new shoes, warm coats, healthful food, that is a grave sacrifice. It is the old guns-and-butter choice all over again.

It will be the same in France and Germany, and in any country that draws the sword.

The Nation's Press

(L. A. Examiner—By Benjamin DeCasseres) Mr. F. J. Duntan, in the New York Sun, has made a striking and original comparison between the Keely motor delusion of seventy-five years ago and the New Deal pump-priming experiments. Keely astounded the world by claiming to have invented a perpetual motion machine—a machine that, once started, would go on forever through a "self-generating force."

The Keely motor as resurrected by the New Deal is described by Mr. Duntan as follows:

"Specifically, the theory of pump priming is that Government spending can give such an impetus to trade that, once the wheels of industry have been made to revolve or have been accelerated by that means, they will thereafter not only continue to revolve automatically through virtue of the original impulse when withdrawn, but will communicate their motion to other parts of the machine which, in turn, not only will themselves rotate in consequence but also will transmit their impulse to still other wheels until the whole industrial machine will be operating at maximum capacity and will continue to do so indefinitely."

Keely motors, squeezing sunlight out of cucumbers, making silk purses out of sow's ears, squeezing blood out of a turnip, pump-priming as a method of restoring prosperity, "spending our way to recovery," squaring the circle and the belief that eating radishes will restore sight to the blind are all brothers under the skin.

But the gullibility of the human being is unfathomable—particularly in amiable, smiling, easy-going America.

THE MILITARY SITUATION

(N. Y. Herald-Tribune)

The war—though it hardly seems credible—is no more than two and a half weeks old. Within the same period last time the armies had barely completed their concentrations and moved out for their first major contacts. Now we have already seen Poland overrun and destroyed and the eastern front dissolved, the intervention of Russia dramatically changing the whole balance of the war, a vigorous German submarine campaign sinking British merchant tonnage at almost half the rate of the worst weeks of 1917 and scoring its first great naval success with the destruction yesterday of one of the four best aircraft carriers in the Royal Navy. It is a success very like the torpedoing of the British cruiser Aboukir, Hogue and Cressy, or the mining of the dreadnaught Audacious, in September and October, 1914, but it has come sooner and is relatively much more serious than either of those triumphs. It is only in some ways that this war has seemed to move slowly.

In the result the military outlines seem much clearer than they were a week ago. Much that at the outset appeared to be at least a possibility has now been ruled out. There were to be no dramatic Allied attempts to hold the East, either by air, by the British or by way of the Mediterranean. The talk of a smashing offensive through northern Italy has been forgotten. There was to be no hammering attack upon the West Wall by air and ground forces. Whether by choice or by necessity Franco-British strategy has fallen into a different, a primarily defensive, pattern.

Sharing The Comforts Of Life --- By R. C. Holles

INCREASING RISKS VERSUS REDUCING RISKS

One of the primary duties of all governments is to reduce the risks of having capital in view confiscated. When the risks are reduced to a minimum, the entrepreneur will be very venturesome which, by the law of averages, creates new enterprises and new products and satisfies new human wants or lowers the cost of existing ones.

Now, however, the government is doing exactly opposite from what it should do. Instead of lowering the risks, it is greatly increasing the risks of having wealth in the open where it can be appropriated.

It has greatly increased the risks of capital, primarily because it does not protect it from the ravages of collective bargaining groups who use sit-down strikes and any method of intimidation to confiscate any profits.

It has greatly increased the risks because of the general belief of the public that the government should take a large part of any successes resulting from taking risks. The greater the success, the larger the fraction the public demands.

It has greatly increased the risks of capital because it has not protected the relatively uniform value of money by permitting banks to misuse bank credit and greatly expand the amount of credit available.

It has greatly increased the hazards of capital by constantly passing regulatory laws, such as tariffs, prorate, limited hours, etc.

It is easy to see why we have had the longest and worst depression in our history when the government is doing exactly what it should not do; namely making capital in the open hazardous instead of failing to protect it, not from losses of the entrepreneur, but from confiscation, as above outlined.

It is an expensive lesson we are paying to learn the importance of having the government reduce the hazards of capital being stolen rather than increasing it.

EDUCATION OR INDULGENCE

If anything important comes from the demand for "Grapes of Wrath" at the Public Library, it should be to give evidence to the people that spending money purported to be for education by majority rule, instead of being education, is usually self-indulgence.

If education is anything, it is discipline. It is attracting the attention of those one would educate to subjects and experiences that will make it possible for them and others to have greater experiences in later life. It certainly is using the willpower of those who would educate others in guiding those to be educated in a manner that will benefit them and help them better understand the laws of nature, which include social relations.

If there is no such attempt to direct the attention of those to be educated to certain books and they are permitted to express their desires without any checks or suggestions, instead of being education, it is simply self-indulgence. It cannot be called education or character building.

Originally, libraries were intended to educate the public more economically than otherwise could be done, as to how to get along with each other and develop their own experiences.

But when the majority rule education attempts to direct adults as to what they should read and apply themselves to, the majority votes these people out of office and elect people who will give them self-indulgence.

The demand for "Grapes of Wrath," which undoubtedly is a wicked waste of time to read, when it is considered there are so many other books that would build character, is a nice illustration of the inability of the majority to do anything else but encourage self-indulgence rather than discipline, necessary for proper training of an individual.

True education invariably comes from someone who has the spirit of Jesus, who is willing to give of his time and energy in order to call attention to others to principles and subjects that will enable them to have fuller and more varied experiences in later life and teach them how to have respect for the rights of others.

It does not seem possible that this can be done by majority rule education. The plight we are in indicates that we have been following self-indulgences in our public educational institutions, rather than disciplining the mind and the character of the people.

Behind The News Of The Day

WASHINGTON—The excited flood of mail protesting repeal of the arms embargo has shifted much of the tension from the Senate to the House where public reaction traditionally causes more political heartburns.

Since two-thirds of the Senate is largely immune at any one time to immediate political pressure, there is a greater zone of resistance to mail bombardments such as has grown surprisingly out of the present American "crisis."

In the House it is different. Members come up en masse every two years. They are coming up next year, each in his own ballwick. Don't discount any reports as to how responsive they are to mail attacks.

In the Senate, two-thirds of the members can risk being "statesmen" even to the extent of voting against a flood of protests of their constituents. Many things may arise to rescue these senators from an irate constituency before their own election periods come around, two or four years hence. But in the House members must come face to face with their neighbors and explain their acts almost as soon as they perform them.

THE MAIL OR A POLL?

It is true that polls by the usual agencies point to a disposition of America to favor the Allies by the repeal of the arms embargo. But the congressional mail runs so overwhelmingly in the opposite direction that members of the House are truly worried about what to do. If thousands of their constituents, including grange members, legionnaires, literary clubs and just plain heckled Yankees, write in to protest the repeal, they have got to think a long time before they convince themselves whether the mail or public reaction polls are right.

We have run into several who remember or have read about the League of Nations fight. Public sentiment was overwhelmingly for the league. It sounded like peace. President Wilson was for it, and even if he hadn't kept us out of war, his word was good.

Yet within a half-dozen months sentiment had changed considerably. The two or three newspapers that had stood out from the throng and opposed Wilson were joined by hundreds more. The League went down. Its critics contended that the following election, in which the Democrats went down to defeat with the League as an issue, was final proof of U. S. repudiation. Cool historians are not so sure, but the politicians remember the change of sentiment, regardless of what it represented.

To a puzzled congressman, there is no sure way

AND WE THOUGHT POLITICS MADE STRANGE BEDFELLOWS!

Around Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Such optimism may be premature, but it does seem to this corner that the movies are dealing somewhat more reverently with the novels and plays they translate on celluloid.

There'll always be changes made. Censors and story conferences, between them, will always be whittling here and hacking there. They say it's essential to the different medium of the screen, and that is largely true. A writer can spill over into a hundred pages of character analysis what the camera has to tell in a few feet of film, and he can use dialogue (sometimes effectively, too) which would curtail a censor's hair.

But investigation of recent trends is hope-inspiring. The movies took as fine a novel as "The Citadel" and they made a picture lauded by the critics. They changed it a little, yes—probably they let the heroine live instead of being finished as in the book, but dramatically and artistically her death was not essential. The screen took "Wuthering Heights," a classic from another century, and presented it so beautifully—with changes—as to elicit raves from the literati.

"Goodbye, Mr. Chips" comes to the screen essentially as written, with the exception that the girl in the story is presented less sketchily than James Hilton wrote her. "The Rains Came" is planned with fidelity to Louis Bromfield's original, and the Myrna Loy character is being presented as unsympathetically as she was written. Three minor characters are gone, the dialogue has been tamed, and the catastrophes are not dwelt upon at length in the novel but such good pictorial material as to be high points for the camera, will be fully presented. These are the changes:

1. Animals sent over the top by French to find and explode mines in no-man's land.

2. U. S. animal, famed for army work, whose work will be done by machines in the new war.

3. Pot whose awkward gait is resembled by German manner of marching.

4. Animal symbolic of British Empire. Species of animal which has appeared during war crises at 10 Downing St., London, and at White House in Washington.

25,000 See Rodeo

HUNTSVILLE, Oct. 3 (AP)—Spurs instead of shackles jingled here yesterday when convicts performed in the state prison system's ninth annual rodeo.

The rodeo, to continue for three more Sundays, is a source of financing the prisoner's library and their educational and athletic activities. Some 25,000 spectators saw the opening show, staged behind prison walls, with convict performers under guard.

ing to live for, will live. The picture thus will attain greater tragedy than the play—except for those who see in the mere maintenance of such a life a "happy ending."

And what's this we hear? "The Front Page" will be done again—with "slight" changes. Hildy Johnson, the reporting fellow, will be a woman instead of the husky Pat O'Brien character. But even here there's hope. The distinguished Howard Hawks will direct it, and he's trying to get Carole Lombard for the Hildy role. It may not be so bad.

People You Know

By Archer Fullingim

From a certain town in Arkansas comes news that two farmers were talking and one said, "I don't believe there's any war going on in Europe. They just talk about it so they can raise the price of groceries." The person who told that story says it is true. . . . Probably the finest office in town is Postmaster C. H. Walker's in the postoffice. The floor is laid in shaded hardwood squares, and is always waxed. It always seems cool when it's hot and warm when it's cold in that room. The only pictures on the wall are autographed photographs of Jim Farley and Marvin Jones. . . . The Rev. W. M. Pearce has good reason to be quite proud of his flower garden at the rear of the Methodist parsonage. . . . One can't keep from thinking how pretty and sweet Helen Kay Wilson is and how remarkably well she plays the piano. . . .

WAR ANIMALS

In every war, animals, as well as men, play a part. See if you can match up the following animals identified with the new war in Europe.

1. Animals sent over the top by French to find and explode mines in no-man's land.

2. U. S. animal, famed for army work, whose work will be done by machines in the new war.

3. Pot whose awkward gait is resembled by German manner of marching.

In almost every bundle of mail delivered to the members are stacks of uniform-sized envelopes indicating that some enterprising club president has swung the members into a mass club action. Nevertheless, most of the stuff we have seen comes in odd sizes and odd handwritings and purveying the general protest in individualistic terms. It may be mob panic, but it certainly looks like the out-pourings of troubled souls, regardless of whether it comes from the nation's mental froth.

The mollifying nature of the neutrality bill seems already to have softened some senate opposition, but the house is more wobbly than before.

Tex's Topics

By Tex DeWeese

BERLIN POLICE have set women on peeling potatoes for soldiers. Buck privates in the American army would probably favor the formation of a female corps for such duties over here. . . . The trouble with being foreign minister of Estonia is that all this traveling back and forth to Moscow is liable to get one in a rut. . . . A reporter found German soldiers playing football on the western front. They evidently aren't going to let a little thing like a war interfere with the gridiron season.

It must be a pleasant surprise for American school children to return to geography classes and find one less European country whose capital and principal products must be memorized. . . . That balmy breeze you feel fan a repercussion of the California heat wave. It's just Congress warming up for the embargo debate.

THE UNITED STATES is now engaged in a great hunt for methods of keeping out of war. The debate has begun. . . . One way to learn about this art would be to study the methods of those nations, which, though far closer to the fighting lines than we, managed to stay out of the World War and have thus far contrived to stay out of the present European war.

Spain stayed clear of the whole thing in 1914-1918, and has now forbidden any of its ships to carry on trade of any kind with belligerent nations. Switzerland wangled it through the whole of the 1914-1918 war, and so did the Scandinavian countries. And the latter emerged from the war period with the only civilization in Europe worth bragging about.

THOSE congressional committees charged with discussion of American policies ought to be able to get some practical hints from the policies of those countries which have succeeded in keeping out of war.

Presidential Secretary Stephen Early has clarified his statement that the President does not intend to impose any censorship of press or radio "for the present at least." He meant, Early explained later, "unless the United States goes to war." . . . Well, that makes it clear. Everybody already understood that in case of war all the accustomed liberties of free speech and the free press would go down the drain.

THE ASSURANCE that there are no such plans at present is good. But with the eternal vigilance that is the price of liberty, Americans will do well to watch closely for any infringement on it. Meanwhile, they can do much to prevent consideration of any such steps by accepting the responsibilities of speech and print and using neither for unneutral purposes. No matter what individuals think within themselves, the country is neutral, and unneutral action ought to be encouraged by no one.

STORIES IN STAMPS

By Gilbert Stuart

Stuart Painted Favorite Portrait of Washington

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S most loved likeness is not a handsome painting hung in an art museum. It is the small, engraved head which, from the first 10-cent adhesive, issued in 1847, to the 3-cent issue of 1932, has been the most popular stamp in U. S. mails.

The picture on the stamp was taken from a portrait of Washington by Gilbert Stuart, one of the greatest of the early American painters.

Stuart was born in Rhode Island in 1755. In 1775 he went to London, where he opened a studio six years later. He gained fame quickly, painted George III, Sir Joshua Reynolds and other celebrities.

At the height of his career he returned to America, in 1782, painted portraits of the first five presidents of United States and of many other distinguished men and women of the period.

Best known are Stuart's paintings of Washington. One of these hangs in the Metropolitan Museum, another in the Boston Museum. A third, a full-length portrait, was painted for the Marquis of Lansdowne.

Stuart died in 1828 and was elected to the American hall of fame in 1900.

Texas Girl Tells Of Near-Mutiny On Italian Ship

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—An attractive Texas high school girl was caught in a near-mutiny on an ammunition-laden Egyptian ship during the war crisis, returned aboard the liner Manhattan today and announced with a sigh of relief that she was going to grab "the first train back to Texas."

She was Nancy Rose Wood, daughter of a Marshall, Tex., auto dealer, who left July 14 on a students' tour of Europe and the Near East.

The party was stranded in Alexandria, Egypt, about a week before the war started, she said, when their Italian ship was called home.

"We finally found out that an Egyptian boat, loaded with gold and ammunition, was sailing under secret orders for Marseilles, and we got accommodations on it," she related.

"The crew was Italian and they nearly mutinied a couple of times on the way. The captain was getting his sailing instructions by some kind of secret communication we couldn't find out about, and we had blackouts every night," Miss Wood interviewed the captain about the trouble but said she was saving the details for a story in her school paper.

From Marseilles the tour party went to Paris and then to Havre—normally a three-hour trip which took nine hours—where they were stuck again when war was declared.

"We waited and waited and waited for a boat. We saw all the sights and I never got so sick of a place in my life," she said.

"We saw the soldiers going off to war, but it wasn't just like you'd expect—there were no bands and celebration—they just looked determined, as if they were facing a surgical operation."

With her on the trip was Mrs. J. Wheat of Beaumont, Tex.
