Missouri Song About Houn' Doesn't Save Slayer From Prison

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 22 (AP)—A farmer's attachment to a dog did not justify his killing a neighbor who wanted to tie a can to the mongrel's tail, the state supreme court decided today.

Mexico City-Guadalupe Highway Dedicated

Wearing the costume she wore in New York, Sydna Yokley of Canadian, will make her first appearance on the homecoming program planned in her honor when she walks upon the stage of the Palace theater in Canadian at 9 o'clock tonight.

The Canadian ranch girl will enjoy an experience that is unusual, inasmuch as the theater will show a short "Unusual Occupations," featuring Sydna, tonight and also tomorrow night. Thus, the girl will know the thrill of being a celebrity in her own home town.

Featured in Film "Unusual Occupations," which portrays Sydna's ranching activities, will be repeated tomorrow night at the Canadian theater, during and after the banquet to be held in Miss Yokley's honor at Canadian's W. C. T. U. building.

The banquet is to start at 7 o'clock Thursday night and will be followed two and one-half hours later with a ball at Canadian's municipal auditorium.

The court affirmed a 10-year prison sentence given James Evans, Camden county farmer, for the fatal stabbing of Manuel Noble, a neighbor, in September, 1938. The slaying followed Noble's suggestion the two farm youths "in can" a dog.

Still, the court held, Evans knew right from wrong, and was without justification in his attack on Noble.

Germany Already Reported Facing Vital Food Crisis

The Anglo-German argument over whether the Nazis in violation of international law have set mines adrift in the crowded shipping lanes off the east coast of England is of small moment as compared with the real significance of this whole situation.

Germany not only finds herself cut off from vital food and military supplies by water but recently has made the discouraging discovery that she cannot draw on the Balkans for what she had expected.

BERLIN, Nov. 22 (AP)—D.N.B., the official German news agency, asserted today that 11 commercial ships, eight of them British, had failed to reach British ports since Winston Churchill declared two weeks ago the submarine menace had been perfected by the Nazis.

$198,924 Contract On Highway 152 Let

Last contract for construction of grade and drainage and paving of Highway 152 between Stinnett and Dumas was let yesterday at a meeting of the Texas Highway commission in Austin. Successful bidder was Cagle Brothers and F. M. Reeves and Son, Inc., of Bishop, whose bid was $198,924 for the 119.10 mile strip.

Initial Party In Chain Game Series Benefiting Underprivileged Children Held Tuesday by Kiwanis

Chain game parties, now fast becoming the fad in larger cities over the nation, make their debut in Pampa this week as the Pampa Kiwanis club launches its first contract and auction bridge or any kind of game series.

The civic club is sponsoring the game parties which will run for four weeks as a means of raising funds for its underprivileged children's fund.

The plan is to have members or their wives invite guests to their homes to play contract or auction bridge or any kind of game the guests may wish to play. The series then becomes city-wide.

A small game fee will be donated by each participant in the games. Each guest who attends agrees to hold a similar party in his or her home. There is no expense attached to the parties and all money will be turned over weekly to the Kiwanis club.

Names of all guests at all parties will be deposited at a central point and a donated grand prize will be given each week to one person.

The plan was outlined last night at a bridge and games party held for club members and guests in the Hotel Schneider. Guy McTaggart, chairman of the club's finance committee, outlined the plans and more than a dozen members agreed to begin holding the parties.

At last night's club party guests enjoyed bridge and various games featured by a rebus contest made up of names of all club members.

Prizes were awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Glen Pool, Mrs. Roy Kay, J. C. Richey, and R. W. Lane.

Details of the chain game parties may be obtained by contacting Mr. McTaggart at the Texas Furniture store, or by calling W. B. Weatherred, president of the Kiwanis club at 1048.

Tea Compliments Members Of 4-H Club Of County

A tea honoring 4-H Club girls in Gray county was given recently by Gray County Home Demonstration council in the office of Mrs. Julia E. Kelley, county home demonstration agent.

The Home Demonstration council sponsors this 4-H tea each year, so that girls from all parts of the county may become better acquainted and hear of each other's accomplishments.

4-H club presidents for 1940 composed the receiving line. They were Doris Smith, County-wide club; Nina Turner, Laketon; Ruby Lee Ray, Webb; and Lola Prock, Alameda. Velma Davis of Alameda and Laura Michael of Webb, secretaries for 1940, assisted Mrs. O. G. Smith, chairman of sponsors, in serving tea. Mrs. Smith poured from a lace covered table centered with a low bowl of white mums and chrysanthemums. Green candies in white holders flanked the centerpiece to carry out color scheme of green and white, the 4-H club colors. Other bouquets of harmonizing colors were used about the room.

President Of Texas U. Speaks At State P-TA Convention

GALVESTON, Nov. 22 (AP)—Dr. Homer Price Rainey, President of the University of Texas, says the people have made much progress in mechanics and science but in the matter of getting along with each other we are not progressing as we should.

Speaking at the annual convention of the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers, Dr. Rainey declared the international problem of nations living together, now that the world is getting closer and closer together, goes back to the relationship of smaller groups and then to individuals.

Home is the place where the ability to live with other people should be taught, he declared.

Delias was making a bid for the 1940 convention today. The session closes tomorrow.

Women: "Build-Up" Way To Relieve Those Pains

A weak, run-down, undernourished condition calls for attention. Such a condition often enables functional dysmenorrhea to get its foothold. That's one thing which leads to much of women's suffering from headaches, nervousness, those cramp-like pains. A good way to relieve such pains, women by thousands have found, is by the proper use of CARDUI. It stimulates a lagging appetite, assists digestion and assimilation; thus helps build physical resistance to periodic pain. Taken just before and during "the time," many women also report that CARDUI lessens the pain and discomfort of the period.

Baptist WMS Has Bible Study At Circle Meetings

Four circles of Woman's Missionary society of First Baptist church met this week in the homes of members for Bible study.

A meeting of circle one was opened in the home of Mrs. J. L. Hunter with the singing of "Send the Light" by the group and a prayer by Mrs. D. W. Slaton. After the devotional on "Love for Each Other" was which Mrs. E. L. Yeargain, Mrs. C. H. Covington taught the book, "Constraining Love."

Refreshments were served to 19 members.

Mrs. H. H. Keyser was hostess at the meeting of circle two which was opened with the song, "Jesus Calls Us," and a prayer by Mrs. Lewis Davis. The devotional by Mrs. Board preceded the home-visit program conducted by Mrs. L. A. Baxter with Mrs. R. W. Tucker and Mrs. E. G. Barret assisting. Mrs. Barrett told of her recent visit to the Buckner's orphan home at Dallas.

Following a prayer by Mrs. O. C. Brandon, refreshments were served to 21 members and four visitors, Mmes. Pearl Miller, E. G. Barrett, L. Koen, and J. D. Ruttenclutter.

Fifteen members and two visitors, Mrs. Bob Alford and Mrs. C. Gordon Bayless, attended the meeting of circle three in the home of Mrs. Robert Fletcher. The devotional by Mrs. Earl Riley was preceded by a song, "I Love to Tell the Story," and prayer by Mrs. F. E. Leech.

Mrs. C. L. McKinney presided over the business meeting and Mrs. Bob Alford gave the lesson from the book, "Constraining Love."

At the meeting of circle four in the home of Mrs. Rupert Orr, Mrs. G. C. Durham led in prayer after which Mrs. Rufe Jordan conducted the business. Bible study by Mrs. H. B. Landrum was followed with a prayer by Mrs. A. L. Boyd.

Attending were 25 members and three visitors, Mrs. A. L. Boyd of Osceola, Arkansas, Mrs. W. M. McDonald, and Mrs. O. D. Martin.

The four circles will meet Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. G. H. Covington, 509 South Ballard; two, Mrs. A. Barnard, 337 West Francis; three, Mrs. C. H. Schukley; and four, Mrs. Garnet Reeves, 822 East Browning street, for a social.

Bridge Party Given To Honor Couple

SKELLYTOWN, Nov. 22—A few friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hughes recently to help celebrate the birthday of Mr. Hughes and also the 14th wedding anniversary of the couple.

Bridge was the diversion of the evening with high score award going to Mr. and Mrs. Oran Wagner, Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Bowsher, second high and Mr. and Mrs. Maude Voyles door prize.

At the close of the evenings entertainment, a salad course was served to Messrs. and Mmes. W. M. Voyles, Oran Wagner and L. C. Gomillion, Pampa, J. J. Broome, Noelette, Dallas Bowsher and W. W. Hughes, Skellytown.

A gift was sent by Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hughes.

Bell HD Club To Have Demonstration On Meat Thursday

Bell Home Demonstration club will have an all-day meeting Thursday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Kurtz.

The meeting will begin at 10 o'clock and lunch is to be served at noon.

County Agent Ralph Thomas and Mrs. Julia E. Kelley, home demonstration agent, will give a demonstration on meat cutting, curing, and preservation.

OYSTER PEPPER-UPPER

Chopped olives and dill pickles added to tomato sauce make a grand accompaniment for fried oysters.

So Kate Smith Takes a Burn

Kate Smith tangled with a drier in a beauty shop and came out looking like this for her regular radio rehearsal. The burns were extensive and painful, but not serious.

HD Council Has Reporters School For Representatives

Nine communities were represented at the County Council of Home Demonstration club's school of instructions conducted this week in the office of Mrs. Julia E. Kelley, county home demonstration agent.

Twenty-one representatives from Laketon, Bluebonnet, Wayside, Kingsmill, Bell, Eastside, Sunflower, and new organizations from Hopkins and Sunshine were present for the school.

A. A. U. W. members present were Mmes. R. G. Peeler, M. E. Lamb, H. Sunflower, A. J. Black, R. H. Sanford, E. L. Norman, Fred Roberts, Dudley S. Lee, Hol Wagner, P. O. Gaut, Sam Irwin, J. I. Bradley, Espar A. Stover, Robert Boshen, W. S. Dixon, C. F. Friant, V. P. Sheldon, J. V. Kishner, and Miss V. C. Cox, Lillian Mullinax, Bernice Larsi, Arlean Pattison, Mildred Slater, Pearl Spangh, Lorraine Bruce, and Mary Reeve.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By ALICIA HART

"That thin-as-a-cigarette silhouette may be a source of envy to women who have to fight against extra poundage. But worrying about being too thin is no more fun than being overweight."

So says Frances Langford, half-pint singing star of the radio and screen, who weighs less than one hundred pounds and would like to weigh 108. She's five feet, four inches tall.

"There are tricks of dress to camouflage thin spots and angles, of course," the little star continues. "However, I think it's better for an exceptionally thin woman to resolve to take on a few pounds than to be content with camouflage season after season."

HIGH CALORIE FOODS WILL DO THE TRICK

Miss Langford went on to explain that her own doctor advises her to add more high calorie foods to her diet, butter, cream, olive oil, for instance. Foods in preference to vertical ones; such things as bulky, deep-dish, dull-surfaced fabrics; light colors; bouffant skirts; full-gathered sleeves, fluffy necklines; boleros; softly crushed, wide belts; and pelisms," Miss Langford concluded.

Mind Your Manners

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. In introducing a young woman to one much older, whose name is spoken first?
2. In introducing one person to a group, need you repeat the strangers name each time?
3. Is it important to get the name of anyone to whom you are introduced?
4. What is the one acknowledgment of an introduction that is always correct?
5. Is it easy for a person to get along well socially if he refuses to make introductions unless he cannot possibly escape doing so?

What would you do if—

You are introducing a very young woman and a much older man. Would you say—

(a) "Miss Smith, Mr. Jones?"

(b) "Mr. Jones, may I present Miss Smith?"

Answers

1. The older woman's.
2. No. It is all right to say, "Miss Smith — Mrs. Jones, Mr. Brown naming the group, etc."
3. Yes.
4. "How do you do?"
5. No. Best "What Would You Do" solution—(a).

Artist Speaks At Meeting Of AAUW Tuesday Night

A regular branch meeting of the American Association of University Women was held in the city club rooms Tuesday night with Mrs. Fred Roberts, president, presiding at the business session in which the membership chairman reported 39 active members.

Mrs. A. J. Black, program chairman, dedicated the program to art and artist and introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Clara Holt, Pampa artist, whose work was exhibited.

Mrs. Holt has studied at the Chicago Art Institute, the Minneapolis School of Art, and the Washington School of Art in St. Louis. She has studied under noted artists including LaFontaine, a French artist, and Frank Oulter of New Mexico. Mrs. Holt, particularly interested in color, showed her love of the beautiful as she gave an interpretation of her enjoyment of the country in which she paints. A great deal of her work has been done in New Mexico, particularly in the Taos region. She has just recently returned from the Tetons where she has been sketching.

Mrs. Holt gave an artists definition of art as being "a successful communication of valuable experience." Its purpose is that of stimulating the imagination and presenting more than one really sees, she added.

With Mrs. R. H. Sanford as social hostess, refreshments were served by girls dressed in artist smocks and berets.

Guests were Miss Roy Riley, Miss Verdie Denton, and Mrs. Teresa Humphreys, art instructors in the public schools.

A. A. U. W. members present were Mmes. R. G. Peeler, M. E. Lamb, H. Sunflower, A. J. Black, R. H. Sanford, E. L. Norman, Fred Roberts, Dudley S. Lee, Hol Wagner, P. O. Gaut, Sam Irwin, J. I. Bradley, Espar A. Stover, Robert Boshen, W. S. Dixon, C. F. Friant, V. P. Sheldon, J. V. Kishner, and Miss V. C. Cox, Lillian Mullinax, Bernice Larsi, Arlean Pattison, Mildred Slater, Pearl Spangh, Lorraine Bruce, and Mary Reeve.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 PINTS A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 million of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Kidneys remove excess acids and poisonous waste from your blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Frequent urinating passages with stinging and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Don's Pills, which naturally help millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 million of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Don's Pills.

He's Building Something...Are You?

Remember the wagons and shanties you made as a kid... and the caves you dug? You played—but you worked at it. Seems unimportant now, but you built things—and in the building you enlarged your stature, your point of view. You grew into manhood with the spirit of youth.

If life still invites you to enjoy a wholesome balance of work and play, you've kept that spirit of youth. You greet each dawn as another privilege to build—not castles or caves—but business and friendships and reputation. When day's work is done, the companionship of family and friends brings you ample rewards.

Of course, Budweiser is only an incident in your daily life... but what is good living but a series of pleasant incidents? You who know the good things of life—know Budweiser.

Capone Is Back Again: AL CAPONE steps back into a world that must look as strange to him as his own glittering era of big business bootlegging looks fantastic to us.

The scar-faced, gun-toting, blustering Capone once personified the more sordid side of the frenzied twenties; today he is a left-over fragment of an age we would just as soon forget. There are reports that the ex-king of Chicago's underworld is fearful of his life and that the federal agents who once hounded him as a prize will now stay close at hand to protect him from possible underworld justice.

Capone was part of hanger America had from the last war. He steps back into a country that is watching another war and has no possible use for his kind. Capone once had almost a social standing in an era of jumbled moral codes. Now he rubs his eyes in the sunlight of a society that knows racketeers and racketeers for what they are and is determined to stamp them out.

The Nation's Press: The proposed production-for-use program in the State Relief Administration will result in building up another strong department with plenty of fat jobs even though the main purpose of the plan is to improve the status of reliefers, according to the stories that are already trickling out of Sacramento.

Not the least of these jobs will be in the propaganda department, which, by the way, will not be known as such, but will be called the department of community relations. One of these top flight jobs has already been given out in San Francisco to Mrs. Florence Wycoff who occupies offices at 180 New Montgomery street. She was first employed by H. Dewey Anderson when he was director of relief, but she weathered the storm which broke around his shoulders when he refused to go along with Olson's patronage drive, and she has remained with the administration even though Anderson resigned. It appears that the Governor is anxious to have the production-for-use program properly interpreted in order to head off complaints that the scheme will result in relief funds competing with private industry. But it is hard to convince merchants that canned goods, for instance, produced by and distributed to reliefers will not cut into their business.

From the south the information comes to me that the Governor's program has already overstepped these theoretical bounds of production by and distribution to reliefers. I am told that the S.R.A. cannery at Wilmington, operated as a production-for-use project, has packed cherries which have been placed on the market and sold to the retail trade through a widely known chain of stores. These are the things that the propaganda department—community relations—will be called upon to smooth over or keep hushed.

Next January and voted the additional funds which Olson wants to expand the production-for-use program to include shoes, clothing and a variety of supplies.

THEY EAT WITH THEIR KNIVES: (Chicago Tribune) Representative John W. McCormack, Massachusetts Democrat, made indignant by Brother Molotov's criticism of Mr. Roosevelt, suggested that the American ambassador be withdrawn from Moscow.

The reporters asked Mr. Roosevelt how about it. He said that poor manners should not beget poor manners. Apparently the United States will give the comrades the example of good manners and will expect them to improve their own.

Shortly before Brother Stalin joined up with Brother Hitler and went after his share of the swag, Brother Kalinin said that Mr. Roosevelt, in asking that, among other countries, Finland and Poland should be spared aggression and preserved in their independence, had evoked a warm response from the heart of the soviet. The other day, after Poland had been divided up, the Baltic states taken over, and Finland threatened by Brother Stalin, Brother Molotov, commenting upon a mild expression of hope in the White House that Finland's independence would be respected by the comrades, said that Mr. Roosevelt had better confine his attention to Cuba and the Philippines and keep out of the Finnish question.

Oswald Garrison Villard, one of the American liberals who once "thought it thrilling that a state (soviet Russia) was trying primarily to serve its interests and not its privileged classes," now writes from London that if any group in America urges him and other fellow citizens to think differently of the Russian dictatorship than of the others he will refuse most emphatically. "It is not only just as bloody as the others but just as crooked, treacherous, and criminal." This is Mr. Villard's opinion of the poor manners of the Russian brothers, and it is shared by a great many other Americans who once thought that the great revolutionary experiment which cuts another birthday cake this week was headed toward a goal of ultimate human happiness.

It happens that Stalin's principal contribution to the bloody, crooked, treacherous, and criminal record of the soviet dictatorship has been made since the recognition of Russia by the American government as a progressive, friendly, democratic country. Because of the cordial esteem in which Mr. Roosevelt's administration has held the bloody, crooked, treacherous, and criminal dictatorship, its influence in the government of the United States and in the industrial relations of the American people has spread and grown.

Because of the patronage extended to the American communist party, the Dies committee investigators are busy following up the testimony of informed witnesses who have revealed communist sabotage in the American merchant marine, in the canal zone and other defenses, in the production of war material, and in the industries of the country. Even John Lewis, who has used the communists as combat troops, now professes to be alarmed by them and determined to purge his organization. Poor manners is a masterpiece of description applied to Poland, the Baltic states, and Finland, to say nothing of it as a description of the home life of the good natured comrades. They may not know how to use their forks but they certainly know how to use the pistol and the whip.

Sharing The Comforts Of Life

By R. C. Hoiles

THE CAUSE OF HAM AND EGGS AND TOWNSEND MOVEMENTS: Walter Lippmann very ably discusses the alarming causes that bring about such movements as Ham and Eggs and the Townsend plan. He points out that people are poverty-stricken and discouraged because "it is undeniable that modern society has failed to employ fully its men, its resources, and its technical knowledge. And the people will not accept quietly a condition which they believe is remediable. Armed with a vote they will use their political power to compel a solution to the paradox."

He continues by saying, "Indeed, the remedies aggravate the disease, and if applied long enough and drastically, the remedies will subvert the Constitution and the social order."

Lippmann gives, as the causes of unemployment and the discouraged conditions, the very same causes that we have been advocating; namely, the interference with the free and natural division of labor and the idea that we can be better off by making things scarce and creating monopolies. He so well presents the ideas that I have been trying to express in this column that I quote:

"All Seek Restrictions: For almost everyone today is possessed by the idea that his security and his income can be improved by a privilege which restricts the free exchange of goods and services and gives him some degree of monopoly. The domestic producers want tariffs. The producers for export want subsidies. The manufacturers and farmers want combinations which control the market and fix the price and exclude competition. Employees, employees, merchants and others want State tariffs and all manner of devices for restricting the competition of outside goods and labor. The trade unions want wage rates which disemploy the less efficient workers. They want apprenticeship rules which obstruct the training of new workers."

The philosophy of restrictionism is almost universal. It is the philosophy of every interest, of every pressure group, and of every politician, who as Prof. W. H. Hutt has put it, allows "private interest" by following the policy of "beggar my neighbor." The combined effect of all these restrictions—tariffs, subsidies, cartels, combinations, price fixing and wage fixing—is to restrict and constrict and contract and to strangle the production and the exchange of wealth. And so in the midst of the plenty of nature and superb technical possibilities, we have the unemployed, the disemployed, the idle resources, the half-used plant, the idle capital, and a gathering anger that the economic system does not do what it ought to be able to do.

The Two Panaceas: But since nobody when he regards his private interest is prepared to loosen the restrictions which he thinks are beneficial to himself, the discontented mass becomes ready to adopt any panacea which willy-nilly breaks down the barriers to greater abundance. The typical totalitarian panacea is to put idle men and idle capital to work producing armaments, and up to a point the scheme succeeds because the totalitarian state breaks down the restrictive monopolies of businessmen and of the trade union wage rates. The typical libertarian panacea, particularly here in America, is monetary inflation. Up to a point this tends to cause full employment by dissolving temporarily some of the restrictive effect of fixed prices, fixed wage rates, and accumulated obligations. The totalitarian panacea works through ruthless forces; the libertarian panacea works through sly deception, by letting the nominal prices and wage rates remain while reducing their real value.

The California Ham and Eggs scheme is a merger of the two panaceas; it is totalitarian in structure and inflationary in method. It has been beaten—momentarily. It will reappear. For though the remedy was rejected, the disease remains. We may be certain, therefore, that modern nations will continue to oscillate dangerously between the two panaceas as long as all classes in the community cling to restrictionism as the policy they advocate in their own interest. For then we must have poverty in the midst of plenty. And the community will cling to restrictionism as long as the leaders of thought in the universities and in public life are unable to see, or are afraid to say plainly when they do see, that the freedom of production and of exchange is the only principle by which a modern society can prosper and be free."

Lippmann is right. Unless we permit the initiative and the natural resources to be used and freely exchanged, sooner or later, we will so restrict production and cause so much poverty and misery, that people will adopt some laws that make a dictator inevitable.

Behind The News Of The Day

WASHINGTON—Garner supporters say they will get the California delegation to the Democratic National Convention because there are more Texans than natives from any other state. Also, they add, the jobless migrants who have poured in on California in the past three years have come mostly from Oklahoma and Arkansas, where the name of Garner is well known—and revered.

Ex-Senator McAdoo, now operator of one of the government subsidized merchant fleets operating on the Pacific, is trying to see to it that Garner doesn't get the delegation. How times change, in 1932 Garner and McAdoo pooled resources at the national convention in Chicago to give Franklin D. Roosevelt the nomination. In the trade, Garner got the vice-presidency.

SHIP TRANSFER PROBLEM: Washington is still enjoying the domestic diplomacy by which the divergent statements of President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull on the Panama ship transfer were reconciled.

The proposed transfer of a fleet of United States lines freighters from the American flag to Panama registry so they could continue in the profitable war trade was described by Secretary Hull as contrary to

MR. STALIN REVOLUTIONIZES THE DRAMA

Around Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—If I may be so blunt, I dislike Orson Welles already. And I've never met him. This is patently unfair. I cite it only because I think Hollywood is being equally unfair—and for the same reasons, I believe, which I am about to confess.

Welles is a boy genius—complete with beard. He is 24. Aside from his sensational adventure as an other Martian, he has accomplished more brilliant and daring deeds in the theater than any five men have a right to.

On top of that, he wangles a movie contract as producer and actor. As producer, he can name his director, and he has named Welles. He also has power to select his story (Joseph Conrad's "Heart of Darkness") and as producer he can take part in the scripting, which he is doing.

In his casting, which he began by assigning himself a dual role, he has committed a deliberate affront to Hollywood by calling on associates from his Mercury Theater. Incidentally, he has assisted on modeling his sets, and otherwise set himself up as an on-man band of picture-making.

That he undertakes these tasks while laboring on his regular air program is the final insult to the local gentry. Young Welles is highly irregular. He is only 24.

Now your reporter is "over 24." Unlike Irene Rich, who admits to "over 40," he has no limitless supplies of grape beverage (adv.) to keep him ecstatically young, and his expectations of awakening some morning smitten by genius are nil.

These deficiencies I share with too large a portion of Hollywood, a place not lacking in "geniuses" who, sustained by yes-men, marvel constantly at the kindly providence which bestowed them upon the film industry.

Welles is supposed to have pointed over the grave matter of going to Shirley Temple's house (instead of having Shirley come to Welles) for some still pictures of the two together. Welles' aides indignantly deny this, citing a denial from Shirley's mamma.

Word-shaking items on the man have included his alleged importation from New York of his favorite shaving lotion. Then, with a sanctimonious tut-tut, there's the one that he has dictated notes while clad only in a bath towel. And didn't he have a god-complex when he paid $150 for a special post-midnight showing of a movie he wanted to see? (The Welles Defense corps, represented by an ex-New Yorker named Herb Drake, says it was $25, the amount he'd have had to pay for a studio projection room showing.) There are more of the same, which will have no bearing whatever on the ultimate quality of the film Welles will make. The point is that, regardless of all else, Orson Welles is being pilloried for his youth and his past successes. You will understand, however, the spirit of the neutrality law. The law prohibited American ships carrying supplies to belligerents. On the same day, President Roosevelt said at Hyde Park that no question of neutrality was involved but that he was holding up the transfer because of questions of national defense and maritime commerce policy. Later on he said the thing was perfectly legal and that in spite of what some people say the President is more or less bound by the law.

Reporters began asking how the conflict between the Roosevelt position and the Hull position, considerably at odds, would be reconciled. At a late press conference, the President turned the trick. Consideration must be given to the position in which Panama, a fellow neutral, would be placed by the transfer of ships, the President said. There is a real question, he said, whether we want to put a sister republic in a position of neutrality that if different from our own. That permitted the President to point out that there is a neutrality question involved, as Hull con-

Concerning a Pampa "glamor boy" Putty Nolen, and a veteran Baptist preacher, the father of three Pampans.

The Shamrock Texan had this to say about the district commander of the American Legion who attended the convention in Shamrock last week: "Charlie Maisel has a keen wit and an attractive personality and if he were better looking he'd almost be a glamor boy. Mrs. Maisel has the looks in the family." I guess that'll keep Charlie in his place from now on. Putty Nolen is working out at Lusk, Wyoming, and he wrote a Pampa friend recently that "the snow gets so deep here the people walk out of upstairs windows in the winter." Putty, whose real name is Hubert, is a veteran oil well driller, and has lived in Pampa for years. He hasn't moved out to Wyoming for good. The Rev. W. C. Nichols, father of Mrs. R. L. Mounts, and Claude and Knox Nichols, Magnolia employees here, was recently honored on his 79th birthday at his home in the Turkey Creek community near Sunset by many friends and neighbors who gave him many nice presents. Mr. Nichols preached his first sermon 47 years ago at the Rock Hill school house, southwest of Bowie in Montague county. He organized the Turkey Creek Baptist church about 46 years ago, and is now the only living person who had a part in it. He served as pastor of the Turkey Creek church for about 33 years, and he has delivered more than 2,000 sermons in it, has conducted many funerals, performed many marriages. He is particularly learned in the Scriptures.

Mr. Nichols was born near Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 23, 1860, and was raised there. He came to Texas in his early manhood and located in the Selma community a few miles west of Sunset. Mr. and Mrs. Nichols who are also still living, have visited their children in Pampa several times and have a number of friends here. Mr. Nichols still preaches but not as regularly as he used to. Congratulations and best wishes, Mr. and Mrs. Nichols.

Some relief from the bitter cold of the previous night when the thermometer went to 15 degrees above zero was in sight for the Pampans. The preceding evening was the most disagreeable of the winter.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY: Pampa's annual Thanksgiving service was to be held at the Methodist church, it was announced by the Minister, Alliance, with the Rev. Lance Webb preaching the sermon.

Checks totaling approximately $748,000 had been paid through the county agents' office after the federal government began its farm regulation and relief plans, Ralph Thomas announced.

The Family Doctor

Dr. Morris Fishbein

This is the sixth in a series of 14 articles by Dr. Fishbein on the nine principal causes of death in the United States.

A few years ago, physicians confronted with pneumonia stood in dread because there was so little medicine could do specifically, to control this condition. Now there are so many methods and measures that the utmost skill is needed by the doctor to determine just what is to be used and how it should be given.

More than 30 different kinds of pneumococci—the germ that causes pneumonia—have been isolated. The majority of pneumonia cases can be grouped according to a few types. We now have specific serums for each of these types, including horse and rabbit serums. When this pneumonia germ gets into the body, the blood begins building resisting substances. Serums are made by inoculating animals with the germs so the bloods of these animals build up the resisting substances to be injected into the human body when they are needed.

In addition to the serums, however, we now have sulfa-pyridine and sulfanilamide. The former is particularly potent against the pneumonia germ. The studies that have been made so far indicate that sulfa-pyridine, when put into the body of a pneumonia patient, holds the germs in check until the body itself can develop enough of the resisting substances to destroy the germs.

In other words, the drug itself does not destroy the germs. For that reason physicians recognize the importance of giving sulfa-pyridine early and of continuing to give it until the body has developed the necessary resistance.

Unfortunately, sulfa-pyridine itself is a toxic drug and must be given under the most careful controls. The patient must be constantly and carefully studied during the time the drug is being given to avoid any dangerous reactions.

Usually when sulfa-pyridine is given in a pneumonia case, the temperature drops almost immediately. The anti-bodies appear in the time matter of the blood about the time the crisis would normally occur, and it is these anti-bodies which eliminate the disease.

Of course, the use of oxygen, which permits the blood to continue its function during that period when the lungs are inflamed by pneumonia and when it is difficult to get enough oxygen into the blood, is often a life-saver. There are also drugs to sustain the heart and to control the digestive processes.

Experts predict that the application of these new methods will reflect a definite drop in the death rate from pneumonia within the next few years.

That this is no brief for a man I have never met, I dislike him. Come to think of it, I detest him.

BRAZIL'S JOKE: Brazilians are freshly celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of the establishment of the republic after the rule of Emperor Dom Pedro terminated. If he had had a son, Dom Pedro's line might have continued indefinitely but he had only a daughter. His followers would have nothing of a "petticoat government" so a republic grew up on the foundation of the empire, all apparently in the best of humor.

Dom Pedro wanted to marry his daughter to a Frenchman, let her succeed him and at the same time preserve the line of rulers. One version has it that the Brazilians answered with a joke implying that the one who wears the pants will rule the house. And they wanted no Frenchman ruling Brazil.

Tex's Topics

By Tex DeWeese

There was a day when any respectable young man had a pretty fair chance of winning the Light of His Eye if he came armed with nothing more than a dozen roses, a box of bon bons and a broad smile for the maid's mother. Now he has to bring along a writ of habeas corpus.

George Lowther III, New York insurance broker, wanted to marry attractive Eileen Herrick, but Eileen's father wouldn't. Now he has a writ of habeas corpus. Mr. Lowther got a nervous breakdown, and Mr. Lowther got mad. Instead of presenting Daddy Herrick with a bank statement to prove he was able to support the young lady "in the style to which she was accustomed," young Mr. Lowther sent over a court summons.

The young Lothario didn't exactly get his writ of habeas corpus, but he won his point. The court ruled that Eileen, being 30, was old enough to know her own mind and that papa would have to hand over the key to her ivy-covered tower. . . . This modern device in solving the old world's serious baselard problem, but it works. And baffled suitors here in Pampa and all over the land may soon be hiring lawyers to get their fair ones out of parental hock.

NOTES ON CIVILIZATION: Looking thru recent newspapers and magazines: Noting the pictures of underground cities built for safety against air raids and thinking how men have abused their wings. . . . Nothing how strangely armies bury themselves in the ground for safety, and trench the fields to kill each other. . . . Noting how the means of wonderful and pleasant transportation by land and sea have changed into armored juggernauts and pirate craft. . . . Noting how men go in marvelous ships beneath the sea to slay other men and sink other ships.

Noting that useful metals dug laboriously from the earth are used to make weapons and bombs for slaughter instead of making life more pleasant. . . . Noting how people, instead of dwelling in their comfortable homes and lovely palaces, lurk in shelters of strong steel seeking to destroy other shelters containing men like themselves. . . . Noting how men have desired to live and be happy is changed into an unnatural desire to kill and be wretched. . . . Noting how the piled wealth of the world is squandered in destroying wealth, and the ingenuity of man in destroying himself.

Noting how a race of creatures with godlike faculties and yearnings may act like devils and sink lower than the brutes in cruelty. . . . Noting how men in lands never to be honored and obey most willingly other men who are most bent on destruction.

Well, a normal man or woman must wonder what is the matter with this so-called human race, and whether or not preceding evolutions is going to blow up, and if so, whether we don't deserve what we get.

EIGHT YEARS Democrat Congressman From INDIANA

THE NATION'S HUSKING BEE: The other day a gust of tonic wind blew from the west. It came from that part of America where the covered wagon once sowed its stony seed. It told of the national corn husking bee for the w-o-r-l-d-s championship!

Don't laugh, you in your "well stocked clubs". Nor you in your heated chairs taking your precious little den a city block to school. Nor you at the bridge table, or in the city counting house, or in Congressional cloak rooms. Don't say, O shucks! This was something real.

The Kansas corn field was bleak and bare that day. A cold wind pinched fingers and thumbs. Winter was on the march.

And yet the sons and daughters of pioneer forebears were there in the nippy weather. How many? Well, how many came to the biggest world's series baseball game? The all-time record football crowd? Forty, sixty, eighty, ninety thousand, say? More than that. If the newspaper men are to be believed, and of course they always should, was great a crowd as ever gathered for a sporting event in the history of America was there. They had come from farm homes over many miles of prairie and from many states. Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Missouri, Montana, the Dakotas were represented in the arm chair, the wheat belt, yes, and what Menck-en calls the Bible belt, America would not and will not be what it is without this section and its people.

Over one hundred and twelve thousand were there—the boys and girls in the 4-H Clubs, the Future Farmers and their fathers and mothers, members of the Grange, the Bureau, the Union and all their ladies auxiliaries. This was Uncle Sam in overalls and they wanted to see if his hand had lost its cunning. The local and regional champions had competed at the County and State fairs. Slim Petzer, Dick Huth, Ecur Vaughn, Ted Koger and Otto Sorenson were out for Elmer Carlson's record, and Ted Ted Balke's of last year. The cream of the nation's cornhuskers had met for the final round.

And so began the contest in the bleak November haze. But a merry sound filled the air. It was the sound of corn ears bouncing against the bankboards of the wagons that paced the huskers up and down the long rows. The sounds of a axe in the timber, of a threshing flail, or streams of warm milk making metallic music against the bottom of a pail, and of corn ears hitting the bang-board—these are merry sounds!

All this happened in what the city folks call the sticks. It did not take place along Pennsylvania Avenue, Broadway, or State Street. The "big shots" of society, finance and politics were not there. And the prize these shrewd men strove for—what was it? A thousand, a hundred thousand dollars, a trip around the world, an invitation to the White House? No. A paltry hundred dollars.

But it was for far more than that. It was to be "King Bee"—the old competitive urge—the pride of honest work, the sense of accomplishment. The whole free enterprise system rests upon that base. And within reasonable regulation, the success of this great Republic depends upon the reward that has gone to that kind of struggle.

In a time of name-calling, a time where shrill voices promote class hatreds at home, and religious and racial hatreds abroad; in a decade when good will seems absent from the councils of men; when war threatens the whole world, and foundations everywhere are trembling, it will do you good to think of that great crowd of happy men and women at the nation's husking bee.

Many who have gone far along the "American way", I have little doubt, would have liked to be there to shake Slim Petzer's hand.

Nazis Claim Confession In Cellar Blast

BERLIN, Nov. 22 (AP)—The war among secret agents leaped into unaccustomed limelight today with the Gestapo's announcement that a Munich plotter had confessed the Nov. 8 attempt on Adolf Hitler's life, and that two British operatives had been seized.

Heinrich Himmler, chief of the secret police, said Georg Elser, 36-year-old resident of Munich, planted a time bomb in the Nazi beer cellar shrine there at the instigation of Otto Strasser, long-time Hitler foe, and with funds furnished by Great Britain.

He did not link the two captive Britons specifically with the blast, but accused them of organizing plots in Germany.

Himmler said that in trying to reach Switzerland, Elser was caught the very night of the explosion, which killed eight Nazis and which Elser escaped by 11 minutes.

Elser confessed Nov. 14, he said, and several accomplices were arrested, but the information was kept secret until last night to expedite other seizures. Himmler appealed to all citizens for further information regarding Elser or former associates.

He did not mention the government's offer of rewards totalling 900,000 marks ($360,000) for arrest of the Munich plotters.

Reporting another angle of the undercover war-within-war of rival secret services, Himmler said a "Captain Stevens" and a "Mr. Best" of the British Intelligence were captured Nov. 9 while attempting to enter Germany from Venlo, in the Netherlands.

He accused the British of being duped by German agents posing as disgruntled officers. He said that in attempting to organize plots against the Reich, they supplied radio equipment with which the Germans kept up deceptive communications until yesterday.

(In London, the British foreign office denied any agent of the British government had "any knowledge" of a German "described as having placed a bomb in the Munich cellar.")

(The foreign office said there was "no connection" between the bombing and "the kidnaping of two British subjects on the German-Dutch frontier" (Strasser, accused of organizing the Munich plot, broke with Hitler in 1930, before the Nazi rise to power. He last was reported in Paris.

Father Chains His Son to Bed

(A one-time Nazi lieutenant, Strasser left Germany after being deprived of citizenship in 1924, the same year his brother Gregor was killed in the "blood purge." He heads the "black front," opposing Hitler's regime, and has operated from various countries.)

Elser, credited by the Gestapo with actually building the bomb in a manner unique in criminal history, was said to have started machinations in September and October, 1938, and to have begun putting his plans together in August, 1939.

First, said Himmler, he built a six-day time clock into a pillar of the beer cellar, and seven days before the annual Nazi celebration there, the explosive was planted.

Driving eight hours a day, and averaging 40 miles an hour, a motorist would require 26 years to cover the highways in the United States.

Turkey-Tasters Will Eat Turkey Dinners Tomorrow

By EDDY GILMORE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP)—The agriculture department's tireless turkey-tasters are taking a holiday from their work tomorrow and are going to stay at home—to eat turkey.

For weeks they have been at their job which, in the opinion of many persons, is one of the easiest and nicest in the nation.

All they have to do, you say, is just sit there and eat turkey.

As in most things, however, there's more to it than meets the eye.

Out at the department's experimental farm, experts have been experimenting on the festive bird for three years. They have streamlined his shape to meet apartment house stoves, and they have been working for an even better flavor.

Long experiments have been conducted in breeding and cross-breeding. Tests have been made on turkey diets. Realizing that the proof of the turkey is still the taste, they need people to perform the taste-tests.

The turkey-tasters don't spend eight hours a day downing turkey. They have others jobs to do.

Sometimes the turkey doesn't taste good. The department has to find out about poorly-flavored turkey as well as good turkey.

The turkey tasters eat at their jobs is prepared by the bureau of home economics, which boasts the finest cooks in the country. Consequently, the wives of the turkey tasters have a tough problem at Thanksgiving.

Nevertheless, the majority are having turkey tomorrow, and the department thinks this is one of the strongest recommendations possible for the bird.

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP)—Traders walked out on the stock market today and leader losses slipped fractions to around a point or so.

The desire to avoid commitments over the holiday kept buying orders from the posts and the session was quiet throughout. Transfers approximated 600,000 shares.

What cheer there was for the brokerage brotherhood was in the failure of prices to break early in the absence of support. This was taken to mean there was a reluctance on the part of large holders to liquidate.

Presence of a few bargain hunters was signalled by selective purchases which kept a few shares above water most of the day.

All commission houses with foreign connections it was said offerings were scanty from abroad where the British and French controls undoubtedly figured there would be few buyers on hand on the day before Thanksgiving day.

Backward most of the session were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry, American Can, Westinghouse Electric, Union Carbide, Allied Chemical, Johns-Manville, General Electric, Phelps Dodge, Western Union, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania Railroad and Great Northern.

Negro Mardi King Dies In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 22 (AP)—Death, the joykiller, snatches a crown away from John Metoyer but today the boys were planning a king's funeral for him—coconuts, a band and a big parade—on his way to the queen of the Amazon Islands.

Metoyer, 47, and the color of gingercake, was president of the Zulu Social Aid and Pleasure club, the negro carnival organization whose yearly parade is a peak of Mardi Gras.

Ever since 1910, when he organized the club, he made kings and helped them save their "dimes and quarters" so they could buy a monarch's suit—black tights, black sweater, hula skirt and snappy wig.

This year, for the first time, he would have been king himself when the Zulus took to the streets on Fat Tuesday, Feb. 6. Last night he died.

All the Zulus will procure coconuts, one to a man.

The funeral will wind through the negro section Friday, and arriving at the cemetery, the chaplain, George Blakesley, will intone:

"We confine the brother to the earth and each of the brothers will now step forward and hand him his weapons of defense (the coconuts) to light his way to the Amazon Islands where the queen awaits him."

If Metoyer is buried underground, the Zulus will throw their coconuts around the grave. If he is buried in a tomb, they will peg the coconuts into the tomb after him.

A certain vine from tropical Africa will cling to glass and eat away the surface when planted beside a window.

British To Check Neutral Shipments From United States

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP)—Great Britain's plan to expedite American exports to neutral countries may aid her in checking any flow of American goods to Germany.

The arrangement announced yesterday by the British embassy, provides for issuance of certificates to exporters showing that consignments are "unobjectionable" to the British. The certificates, called "navicerts," will be issued by British consulates beginning Dec. 1.

The system amounts to a pre-examination of cargo, and is designed to prevent delays involved when British contraband patrols search vessels for contraband.

If American shipments to any neutral should increase substantially above normal, one authority explained, the British might assume that the neutral was permitting trans-shipment to Germany and might decline to certify further shipments.

The British sea blockade virtually prevents trade directly with Germany, and the new system thus might be effective in curtailing American shipments reaching that nation by way of neutrals.

Although the British program will be voluntary, exporters generally were expected to accept it as a sort of insurance against the stoppage of American goods by British warships.

Fifty per cent of the people of the world still carry amulets or other charms to protect them from bad luck, evil spirits, and illness, it is said.

Defendant 'Fixes' Judge, Fined $10

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 22 (AP)—The defendant, charged with drunkenness, thought he had everything fixed when he asked a well-dressed man in the city hall:

"I'm in court this morning and wish you'd speak to Judge West for me."

In the courtroom, the defendant found the man he had addressed was none other than the judge.

A $10 fine was imposed.

Japs Still Fear Communist Menace

TOKYO, Nov. 22 (AP)—Premier Nobuyuki Abe announced today Japan would keep troops in China until "China is entirely free from the Communist menace."

The premier said the garrisons would operate under an anti-communist pact which Japan would conclude shortly with a new government for China along the lines of the anti-communist pact of Japan, Italy, Germany and Spain, but separate from it.

The Japanese government, he said, is trying to establish peaceful relations with the Soviet Union and after demarcation of the border between Japanese-protected Manchoukuo and Soviet-supported Outer Mongolia another commission likely will be established to mark other borders.

Children Of FDR Split On Thanksgiving

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP)—About half the country will observe Thanksgiving day tomorrow, but the confusion which followed President Roosevelt's decision to advance the customary date has extended right into his own family.

The chief executive and the first lady will have their turkey dinner tomorrow night at the Warm Springs, Ga., foundation for infantile paralysis patients. Some of their children, however, will observe both tomorrow's holiday and the one proclaimed by governors in some states for Nov. 30.

James Roosevelt, the president's eldest son, will celebrate in New York tomorrow and then go to Massachusetts, which has selected the traditional last Thursday in November. Mr. and Mrs. John Roosevelt also will have their turkey at Nahant, Mass., on the "second Thanksgiving."

The governor of Texas proclaimed both Thursdays as a holiday, so Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt will have two dinners at their ranch near Fort Worth. Mr. and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., will have turkey tomorrow at their cottage in Charlottesville, Va., but next week they will have guests for Thanksgiving recess of the University of Virginia.

The president's daughter, Mrs. John Boettiger of Seattle, will follow her father's example and observe only the "first Thanksgiving."

The last time a president—and he was a Republican—broke the Lincoln tradition of having Thanksgiving on November's last Thursday, no calendar manufacturers complained, no football schedules were upset, no Christmas business boom was anticipated.

President Grant just said that, whereas the country had been prosperous and free of pestilence and peaceful, he would "recommend that Thursday, the 18th day of November next, be observed" as a day of Thanksgiving in 1869.

From 1821, the date of the first Thanksgiving, until Grant's time, the holiday had been celebrated in eight of the 12 months.

Five Republican governors decided to observe President Roosevelt's Thanksgiving in their states, but 12 held to the old date. Seventeen Democrats chose the new date, 11 the old.

Cooking Will Be Demonstrated At Furniture Store

A free cooking demonstration will be held from 10 o'clock in the morning to 4 o'clock in the afternoon on Thursday and Friday at the Texas Furniture company, 210 North Cuyler.

Bess Millam, demonstrator for the Tappan Store company, will show how to correctly prepare meals and the public is invited to be guests of the local furniture company.

Special holiday prices are offered by the company for the two days of the demonstration, in cooperation with the manufacturer, and a factory representative will be present at the store during the demonstration to serve the public in explaining the advantages of Tappan stoves.

LOVE LETTERS

had just denied his proposed marriage to Mrs. Camp during an ocean cruise on the steamship Westerland.

McCarthy then produced the note, which brought a protest from Kuhn that it was "all in fun."

"It was done the night of a ship party," Kuhn said. "Everybody does that sort of thing."

"Did you ever have a love affair with Mrs. Camp?" the court asked.

Kuhn pulled back as though horrified. "No, I did not," he said. "Mrs. Camp is very much a lady. I am still on very friendly terms with her."

The heavy-jowled Fuehrer, on trial charged with misappropriating bond funds, denied he ever told Mrs. Camp he had divorced his wife and that she was living in Germany.

The prosecution has contended that Kuhn used bond money to help finance his friendship with Mrs. Camp—notably in moving her furniture from Los Angeles to New York and then to Cleveland, and in expensive trans-continental phone calls.

in a modernistic stack will form the background for a huge pumpkin measuring six feet in circumference, which will be festooned with autumn leaves.

Painted on the pumpkin will be the words "welcome home Sydna." Shocked grain will be used in decorating the columns and wall corners to emphasize the rural atmosphere and tie in with the Thanksgiving theme.

The pumpkin and hay will form the background for Sydna's banquet table chair. The table will be decorated with orange and yellow chrysanthemums. Bear grass with cranberries impaled on the spines, candles mounted in apples, imitation kerosene lamps, miniature turkeys, confetti, streamers, and serpentine will be other decorative devices, according to H. P. Priddy, Palace theater manager.

Tickets to the banquet are being sold rapidly to citizens of Mobeetie, Panhandle, Spearman, Perryton, Wheeler, Amarillo, and Pampa. The banquet and ball is planned to be the greatest ever accorded any Panhandle girl. Arrangements are being made for a crowd of 150 persons.

Miss Yokley is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Yokley, of the Lazy L ranch on Morgan creek, west of Canadian, Hemphill county.

Achievements of Sydna will be told at the banquet by Carl Studer, Wheeler, Amarillo, tickets, Frank J. Shaller, R. Jones, John Caylor, L. A. McAdams, Jim Ingwersen, Calvin Isaacs, gift, Mrs. Carl Studer, Mrs. G. B. Mathers, Mrs. Wiley W. Wright, tickets, Frank J. Shaller, R. Jones, John Caylor, L. A. McAdams is general chairman.

Recently she participated in a rodeo in New York, where she roped a calf 27 out of 36 times, nine out of 14 times at an appearance in Boston, and tied the calf in time ranging from 20 to 54 seconds, a percentage of 72 per cent, which is high rating, according to old timers.

It was the consistent high average of her performance that appealed to expert judges, as nearly every contestant can have a lucky break once in a while.

agency, stated today, while the German navy was reported to have sunk an unspecified number of ships in the North Sea.

The agency said the flights yielded "incendiary photographs." German artillery dispersed advancing enemy infantry on the western front north of Grindorf and six miles south of Merzig, DNE said.

French artillery of all calibres was again reported active in the Perch sector near the Luxembourg, French and German borders.

ANTWERP, Belgium, Nov. 22 (AP)—The Belgian government, a foreign office spokesman said today, takes a serious view of British Prime Minister Chamberlain's announcement that neutral ships will be halted and searched for German exports.

Stopping of neutral ships would raise Belgium shipping rates and living costs and reduce Antwerp traffic, this official said.

KRAKOW, Nov. 22 (AP)—Hans Frank, German governor of conquered Polish territory, decreed today confiscation of all properties of the former Polish state, including claims and investments, for the announced purpose of safeguarding them.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22 (AP)—Three-year-old Jean Murray pointed to her infant brother and said, "baby!"

Her mother, Mrs. Elwood Murray, looked at Jean in surprise and then embraced her.

It was the first time Jean ever spoke the word "Baby" thus joined a vocabulary consisting only of bye-bye, Mama, Dada, eat, light and boom.

Deafened in the early months of life by an overgrowth of tissue and adhesions in the ears, Jean has been slow in learning to talk because she could not hear speech.

Three weeks after she received treatment last April her father detected the first evidence of hearing. He put her in a room, went into the next room and burst an air-filled paper bag.

Jean came running in, put her fingers to her ears and said, "boom!"

Dr. Harry Scully says Jean's speech probably will be normal for her age in a few years.

Pills To Cure Stem Rust Of Wheat Claimed

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Pills for sick plants are a new prospect for agriculture.

A medicine which in the laboratory cures stem rust of wheat from 90 down to 20 per cent is reported in the plant journal, Phytopathology, by Helen Hart and J. Lewis Allison of University farm, St. Paul, Minn.

Drugs to cure commercially important crop diseases have been sought many years with little success. Why plants do not respond like humans is an interesting scientific puzzle.

For one thing, plants have no circulatory system, other than a system of pipes carrying water up from roots to leaves. Another is ability of roots to exclude many substances. A third is the probability that a medical compound before it can enter a plant there is the problem of finding a chemical which will not harm the plant.

This is what the St. Paul scientists appear to have accomplished. Rust is caused by a parasite, making it a disease comparable with human infections.

The medicine for it is toluene-sulfonylamide. The compound is one of the early stages of saccharine, the sugar 100 times sweeter than cane.

The St. Paul treatment suggests that plant doctors may be able to scatter pills on the ground. The drug was mixed in quartz sand and scattered on the soil of laboratory plants, where watering dissolved it into the ground.

There are many plants which suffer from rusts, and the report says that while it may not be easy or even practicable, to devise economical treatment for field crops, there are good prospects for treating some of the ornamental plants of greenhouses and nurseries.

Circular Ordinances Unconstitutional, Is High Court Ruling

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP)—Municipal ordinances prohibiting the distribution of handbills or circulars on the streets of Los Angeles, Milwaukee, and Worcester, Mass., were held unconstitutional today by the supreme court.

In addition, the tribunal declared invalid an Irvington, N. J., ordinance prohibiting the canvassing of homes for the sale of booklets without first obtaining a permit from the chief of police.

Another ruling by the court affirmed the action of Federal District Judge Patrick T. Stone in dismissing indictments against 11 defendants in the Madison, Wis., oil anti-trust case six months after they had been convicted by the jury.

The judgment of Judge Stone was "affirmed by an equally divided court," said an announcement by the high tribunal.

Among other action, the court announced the appointment of Henry P. Chandler, Chicago attorney, to be director of the administrative office of United States courts. He will supervise the federal circuit and district courts with a view to promoting efficiency and relieving congestion.

Justice Roberts delivered a combined opinion in the four civil rights cases. He said the ordinances violated freedom of speech.

Justice McReynolds dissented. Conviction of four persons under the Los Angeles, Milwaukee and Worcester ordinances was upheld by lower courts.

Only Goal Line And End Tickets Left For Amarillo Tilt

Pampa school officials today contacted Amarillo officials regarding tickets for the Amarillo-Pampa football game to be played the afternoon of November 30 in Amarillo. They were informed that only goal line and end zone tickets were now available.

As a result of the quick sale, local officials did not order any tickets to sell here. Anyone desiring game tickets may secure them at Maxor Drug store in Amarillo.

Well capacity has also been doubled. There are now wells making a total of five in all in the system. The three old wells each have a capacity of 450 gallons a minute, the two new ones 850 gallons a minute each.

New cast iron water mains, ranging from 6 to 12 inches in size, have been laid for a total of 12 1/2 miles, and 98 new fire pipes installed. Fire protection is now available to many parts of Pampa that have never before had this service.

Stackpools Take No Chances With Hunters

City Manager W. T. Williamson believes that the present water system is so complete that so long as the power lasts, Pampans will never have to be advised to cut down on the amount of water used on their lawns in the summer.

The water supply has been endorsed by the Texas department of health, and Pampa is one of the few towns in the Panhandle that has this rating.

A work order on the project was issued on November 28, 1938. Water from the new plant has been run into Pampa mains since June 1 of this year.

A PWA Project

The project, financed by a PWA federal grant of $116,325 and a water revenue bond issue of $165,000, has resulted in doubling Pampa's overhead water storage, adding 300,000 gallons to the old 225,000 gallons, making a total capacity of 525,000 gallons.

wild week of outlaws, described in testimony by Russell, himself, and other witnesses. He accused Robert E. Brown, 72, McAlester photographer, and forced him to drive 26 hours through three states until Brown's car broke down near Pittsburg, Kas.

He caught a ride with Hamilton and they drove to the Chicago area. Both went to sleep, Russell said, in the car near Ringwood, Ill., early on July 14. Russell said he awoke to find Hamilton grabbing for his pistol and Hamilton was shot in the head as they struggled over the weapon. The government charged Russell deliberately struck, then shot Hamilton.

Gray Landowners Encouraged To Continue Game Demonstrations

Gray county landowners were encouraged to continue the game demonstrations and fox hunting that resulted in a notable increase in the amount of quail in the county during the past year, at a meeting held at McLean Tuesday afternoon.

At this meeting, attended by 22 Gray county landowners, John M. Carpenter was elected president, Frank Wilson vice-president, and Jess Ashley, secretary-treasurer of the organization, as yet unnamed, composed of those who cooperated with the extension service of Texas and M. C. colleges last year. All the officers are of McLean.

To draft a constitution and prepare by-laws, President Carpenter appointed the following McLean men: D. N. Massay, Frank Wilson, and J. M. Noel. The documents are to be presented at the organization's next meeting.

When the demonstration started last year there was practically no quail in Gray county. Quail are now on the increase, President Carpenter said.

The area suitable for game preserves in Gray county has a potential of 600 birds to the section, but it is doubtful if more than from 20 to 100 birds can find a haven in most of the region, it was announced at the meeting.

A total of 155 game preserve signs have been ordered, supplementing the 355 previously erected within the county.

Italian Ship Sunk

The Admiralty announced a British warship had intercepted the 4,110-ton German freighter Bertha Fisser off Iceland's coast, stating the crew started to sink the ship, took to their boats, and were then picked up by the warship. (A dispatch from Reykjavik, Iceland, indicated the German ship may have been shelled.)

The 6,000-ton Italian freighter Piromma was added to the list of mine victims off England's south-east coast. Although she was badly damaged by an explosion last night, she was still afloat today. She was the sixteenth victim of mine and torpedo warfare off the British Isles in the last five days.

Aerial warfare also was active, with German planes reconnoitering the east coast for the third successive day. A German plane flew over villages along the mouth of the Thames in southeast England, and another, believed to be also German, flew over the Shetland Islands off northern Scotland.

Jap Hints Nippon Would Fight U. S.

TOKYO, Nov. 22 (AP)—Toshio Shiratori, ex-ambassador to Italy, today declared that if the European war should spread into a world conflict "too many Japanese remember the lesson of the Washington conference to feel inclined to fight again for Britain and America."

(Many Japanese feel that in the Washington conference of 1921-22 their country was compelled to accept a position of naval inferiority to Britain and the United States.)

Shiratori, who was recalled after his attempts to forge a military alliance with Italy, Germany and Japan failed, praised Germany and Italy in an interview. He said that Japanese relations with those powers would still close despite the Russian-German agreement.

"If the United States enters the war it will be a World War in a literal sense," he asserted, "because then it would be extremely difficult for Japan to remain neutral."

Boston, Nov. 22 (AP)—R. G. Allen, chairman, and members of the aviation committee of the Pampa Board of City Development will go to Amarillo Friday night where they will attend a banquet honoring Clinton Hester of the Civil Aeronautics Authority of Washington, D. C.

Pampa aviation enthusiasts desiring to attend the meeting are asked to contact Mr. Allen or the BCD office in the city hall.

Several other CAA officials and heads of major airline companies will also attend the banquet and meeting.

Mr. Allen and his committee members will contact Braniff Airline officials regarding possibilities of planes stopping in Pampa if the proposed Amarillo to Oklahoma City line is established.

Pampan List In U. S. College's Who's Who Book

L. D. Frasier, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Frasier, Star Route 2, Pampa, who will receive his B. S. degree in June from Harding college, Searcy, Ark., is among those students who will be listed in the 1939-40 issue of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. The book will be re-issued in January or February, 1940.

Mr. Frasier is president of the Lambda Sigma, on the honor roll, vice-president of the dramatic club, assistant laboratory instructor in chemistry, president of the Texas club, editor of the year book, president of the Alpha Honor society, a member of the Harding Literary society, a member of the Press club, and a columnist for "The Bison."

Mr. Frasier graduated from Pampa High school in the class of 1933.

Vitamin B-One Will Relieve Heart Pains

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH
Associated Press Science Writer

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 22.—Some violent, fear-creating heart pains can be relieved by the administration of vitamin B-one, a common synthetic chemical.

Dr. William D. Stinson of Memphis told the Southern Medical association today the chemical, known technically as thiamin chloride but commonly called vitamin B-one, has been found highly effective in relieving heart spasms due to failure of the esophagus, stomach and intestines to contract properly.

The vitamin has previously been proven to be highly effective in the treatment of nervous disorders, particularly delirium tremens and acute alcoholism in which patients fail to eat sufficient food and provide enough vitamin B-one to keep their nerves in proper working order.

The digestive organs from the throat down are intimately connected with the heart and what may feel like heart trouble is often an obstruction in the esophagus, the tube leading to the stomach, which stimulates the heart.

Such an obstruction is frequently due to lack of the vitamin because when it is not present in sufficient amounts the muscles lose their ability to propel to the stomach. As a result, the nerves carry a sensation of pain to the heart and what is often merely stomach trouble is often diagnosed as heart disease.

Vitamin B-one, which can be bought in tablet form in many drug stores, will, when injected into the veins relieve distressing heart symptoms, Dr. Stinson declared, and continued administration of vitamin B-one will prevent recurrence of the spasms.

Mullings Ineligible For Game Saturday

26 Out Of 30 Boys On Team May Graduate

When darkness had settled over Harvester field yesterday afternoon, the Pampa Harvesters were wondering if they were preparing for the invasion of the Amarillo Sandies again or for the game with the Berger Bulldogs on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock—which they were. For nearly two hours the Harvesters scrimmaged and it was not until 10:30 that the team was ready to play. Ineligibility hit the team yesterday when it was learned that Kenneth Mullings, who would have been playing his last game in a Harvester uniform, had been declared ineligible for the game. Injuries will keep Ed Terrell and James Carlisle out of the game.

When the Harvesters take the field Saturday they will have 30 boys in uniform and 26 of those 30 boys can graduate or will be too old for competition next year. Three others will be eligible next year if they do not decide to graduate.

So the picture for next year's Harvester football team is anything but bright. The four boys who cannot graduate or will not be too old for competition are reserves this year. Two of the three who can return are regular starters.

Back next year will be Roland Phillips, George Fowler, John Thompson and Jearl Nichols. Grover Heiskell, Wayne Fade and Ed Terrell can all graduate but each has another year of eligibility. The boys don't think they will graduate because they feel they are too young to attend college.

The other Harvesters will be playing their last game in a green and gold uniform Saturday against the Berger Bulldogs and they'll be playing to win.

Yesterday's scrimmage was rough and tough as the first and second stringers battled. Only Grover Heiskell was kept out of the heavy part of the workout and that because he twisted his ankle slightly and not from a lack in ability, as he apparently responded to treatment.

Starting lineup against the Bulldogs Saturday will be Nichols and Clemmons, ends; Giddens and Candler, tackles; Fade and Montgomery, guards; Maynard, center; Heiskell, quarter; Green and Mathews, halves; Dunaway, full.

Borger will have a full lineup ready to send against the Harvesters. There'll be Koehler, Gierckx, Fraley and Russell in the backfield and Mongold, Sullivan, Belz, Holcomb, Davis, Byrns and Trotter in the line.

Officials for the game will be Stoney Wall, referee; Jim Neely, headlinesman; C. M. Brown, umpire; John Gilliam, field judge.

Football Safe Says Stanford Team Physician

PALO ALTO, Nov. 22 (AP)—After 12 years of disbelieving and treating Stanford's football injuries, Dr. E. F. "Fritz" Roth answers the question "Should I let my son play football?" with: "Why, sure! He's playing football."

Dr. Roth's son, "Fritz, Jr.," plays tackle for the Palo Alto high school team.

"Football is safe," said the doctor who has been a Stanford team physician since 1927. "I would a lot rather have my son scrimmaging in his spare time after school than running around on the highways in some kid's rattletrap. Besides, he comes home tired at night and goes to bed."

Dr. Roth gives his side of the oft-asked question in this month's issue of the Stanford Illustrated Review, alumni magazine.

He contends "there is no such thing as an athletic heart. Such a man plays football his heart does become enlarged—walls thicken with muscle and the organ pumps more blood. But the heart reverts to normal without injury when football days are over."

As a rule, Stanford football players are healthier than the average student, the doctor contends.

Looking back over the years to 1916, the year he was graduated from Stanford, Roth says he can remember no football injury here that left a permanent effect.

Good coaching can help reduce the injury list, he says, who teaches his men the correct way to tackle and take hard bumps will have the minimum of injuries says Roth.

Jimmy Smith, Illinois Star Back, Seldom Reads Sports Pages

Jimmy Smith, sophomore fullback who did so much toward reviving Illinois' football spirit, prefers bridge and table tennis as off-field diversions.

By JERRY BRONDFIELD
NEA Service Sports Writer
Jimmy Smith, Illinois, sophomore fullback, is one athlete who seldom reads the sports pages. . . . The 19-year-old fullback from Murphysboro, Ill., who was highly instrumental in upsetting Michigan, and who read 82 years to down Wisconsin, is one of the quietest and most reserved boys ever to put on Orange and Blue uniform. . . . Of Dutch-English descent.

Is roommate of Paul Milosevich, soph end, at Chi Phi house. . . . Capt. Mel Brewer, also a Chi Phi, swears the day will never come when either of them speaks more than 10 words at a time. . . . Fans Want To See Tulane Play Tennessee In Bowl

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 22 (AP)—The man in the street, who pays the freight, wants to see Tennessee play Tulane in the Sugar Bowl on New Year's Day.

Taking the issue directly to Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Pan of the streets of downtown New Orleans, in the Sugar Bowl ticket line and elsewhere, this inquiring reporter found in a two hour survey that 88 fans wanted to see what the undefeated and tied Green Wave could do against the undefeated Volunteers to settle this Southeastern conference and national deadlock.

The second best bet was Tulane against the Texas Aggies, 54 persons voting for that game. Ten wanted to see Tennessee play Tulane and Aggies, six voted for Tulane and Cornell, three for Texas Aggies and Cornell, and one fan, doubtless a foreigner, wanted to see Duke play Tennessee.

All the votes for Tennessee were not bouquets: A good many fans said frankly they thought Tulane could knock Tennessee off, and spoil that long string of victories Major Bob Neyland has built up in the south.

In some quarters the sponsors are a little fearful of scheduling the Texas Aggies, for it is believed such a game would bring so many rabid Texas fans to New Orleans that they would storm the gates when they found few seats for sale.

Fans here are convinced Texas A. and M. is ready for a bid, having already been to the coast, and while the sponsors just look wise when questioned on their poll of sport writers and coaches, it would come as no surprise if that is the game—Tulane against the Texans, assuming both wind up their present victorious march unchallenged.

Smaller Colleges Play Best Football

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP)—Figures from the United States office of education indicated today that the best college football, with a few exceptions, is being played by colleges with attendance and income well below the giants of the educational world.

Only two schools on this week's Associated Press ranking of the 100 biggest or richest institutions. Among these football elite, only Ohio State university is in the federal list of 10 schools with the largest enrollments.

Texas A. and M., 3,430 (all men); Tennessee, 3,370; Cornell university, 5,506; Southern California, 5,974; Tulane, 3,302; Ohio State, 11,417; Notre Dame, 2,751 (all men); Duke, 3,202; Iowa, 6,432; Missouri, 4,291.

Schoolboy Football Race Now On The Home Stretch

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
DALLAS, Nov. 22 (AP)—The Texas schoolboy football parade has begun to dwindle to its best features for the start of the main show.

Here's the picture by districts: 1—Lubbock plays Amarillo for the title Nov. 30.

2—Leading Childress has yet to play Electra which can win the title with a victory.

3—Sweetwater has only Big Spring to play and can be tied for the title by losing.

4—Austin (El Paso) plays El Paso High for the championship this week.

5—Sherman and Gainsville battle for the title Nov. 30.

6—Sulphur Springs already is champion.

7—Masonic Home needs a victory over Poly this week to clinch the Fort Worth district crown.

8—Woodrow Wilson can lose a game and still tie for the title.

9—Breckenridge can clinch the title by beating Mineral Wells this week.

10—Waco already is champion.

11—Tyler can win the title by beating Impotent Marshal Nov. 30.

12—Nacogdoches can win the title by beating or tying Henderson this week.

13—Still a scramble but Austin (Houston) has a slender lead.

14—South Park (Beaumont) can win the title by beating or tying Livingston this week.

15—Austin can clinch at least a tie for the title by beating San Antonio this week.

16—Robstown already upper bracket champion; Brownsville can win the lower bracket crown by beating Harington this week, or can tie for it should the Eagles lose.

17—Waco smashed Tyler's fine eleven 25-7. Close critics of the game aver that the only team capable of giving Waco a real battle is Breckenridge, the powerhouse of the West Texas oil belt. Unfortunately these two teams will meet in the first round of play—that is if Breckenridge wins its district title. But there is little reason to believe the Buc won't win only Mineral Wells and Cisco in the way.

Another fine team that has lost a game is Woodrow Wilson which fell before McKinney one night when half the regulars were handicapped with injuries. Masonic Home always is dangerous, however, and is the big stone in the pathway of the Wildcats—that is if Woodrow and the Masons win their district titles. Right now there seems little chance of either being stopped.

Sweetwater looks like the team to beat in the upper bracket of the top eight districts with Gainsville due to wage a merry battle with either Masonic Home or Woodrow Wilson in the lower bracket.

The schedule this week is rather light but has crucial conference games in districts 4, 7, 9, 12, 14 and 16.

Out of these games are due to come champions and the critics take El Paso High in district 4, Masonic Home in district 7, Breckenridge in district 9, Nacogdoches in district 12, South Park in district

Borger Baseball Player Burned In Boiler Gas Blaze

"Buzz" Ross, well known Borger baseball player, is confined to North Plains hospital in Borger with first and second degree burns about his face and right hand.

He was burned when gas ignited while he was cleaning out a boiler. His condition is not believed serious, attending physicians report.

Ross played baseball with the Huber Blackfaces, Borger amateur team, for several years and last year was a member of the Borger team in the West Texas-New Mexico Class C league. He pitched, caught, played third base and in the outfield during the season.

All-Conference Speculation Gives 7 Coaches Headache

By FELIX R. MCKNIGHT

DALLAS, Nov. 22 (AP)—Sixteen fine football players must be bolted down to four in the next few days for the sole purpose of perpetuating the daffy business of naming an all-Southwest conference team.

The seven coaches of the conference, a daring lot, will cast secret ballots and the composite vote will determine the backfield, most perplexing problem at hand.

Naming four out of a possible 16 stars staggers the imagination of any honest southwest fan.

Unanimous opinion makes Jarvin' John Kimbrough of Texas A. and M. about the only safe bet. True, Cowboy Jack Crain of Texas should land in the backfield if it is to be on the up-and-up, but some sticklers may point to the Baylor catastrophe, in which he wallowed in the mud all afternoon for exactly no gain. But the cowboy rode here in seven other games—and you can't forget them.

Kimrough is "in," his record being unstained by any kind of weather. But then the argument starts. The 1939 season will be decades old and the folks still will be pawing about the other two positions.

There's Kay Eakin of Arkansas, a grand football player who doesn't have dull days. Eakin is a triple-threatener in a better than ordinary way. Coach Matty Bell of SMU says you can't have all-conference teams without Eakin and remain within the law.

But what about those two back alley brawlers, Jim Thomason of the Aggies and Will Mullenweg of Southern Methodist? No two finer blocking backs will be found in the land, and both are stand-out line backers. Not exactly glamor boys, but great football players.

Who hasn't pulled for Olie Cordill of Rice, the only light left flickering on a wrecked team? Cordill has played magnificently, despite a losing team. He kicks his Ovals out of trouble, runs for its meager gains and even passes in the pinch. He's genuine.

Over at Baylor there are two boys who have brought the Bruins along to a fine season. Jack Wilson, 205-pound sophomore fullback, and Jim Witt, the surprise runner of the conference. Without them Baylor would be sunk. Wilson has been everything they said he would; Witt, a constant threat.

Back to the Aggies, what is to be done about sophomore Deane Moser, the conference's second ranking ball carrier and a great spark in the unbeaten Cadets' drive to the Rose Bowl? You can't laugh off the fancy performances he has given. And what about his understudy, Bill Conatser, who is just as destructive when he is in there? A man who has matched many of Crain's feats.

Southern Methodist has, in sophomore Preston Johnston, a real kicking marvel, a good runner and a very salty defensive player. His reserve, Johnny Clement, has shown brilliance more than once, passing in the mud and sunshine for some very smart gains.

Little Gilly Davis at Texas gave the show over to Crain for awhile, but he has played grand football.

Additional Sports On Page 8

Witness the TCU game. Texas Christian has had its stars on the bench most of the season trying to shake off hurts, but they have football players, too.

Remember Connie Sparks, the sophomore fullback who was unanimous choice for the first team last year? Connie hasn't had the same season, but he has come to life and is playing football now. He is an improved defensive player. Logan Ware is quite a runner—and if only Sophomore Kyle Gillespie had been playing all year!

Gillespie would be a cinch, but he has sprinkled all his brilliance in only two games, a misbehaving knee keeping him out of the lineup.

One of the sad omissions is Ernie Lain of Rice. The big man has had an in-and-out season, punctuated by injuries.

Peach of a Witness

Accompanied by attorney Dominick Aurichi, Mrs. Virginia Cogswell, eight-times married "Georgia Peach" arrives at New York Federal Building. She was witness before Grand Jury taking testimony in Government income tax investigation of Fritz Kuhn, German-American Bund leader. At Kuhn's trial for embezzlement, Mrs. Cogswell's physician testified Kuhn offered to pay his fee for attending her.

Triplets Thrive in Log Cabin

Despite lack of modern medical care, these premature triplets, two girls and a boy, survived with the aid of an improvised incubator of hot water bottles. They were born to Mrs. Sam Sampson in a mountain log cabin near Fernwood, Idaho. Shown above are Patricia, 10 months; Mr. and Mrs. Sampson; the triplets, and Mary Anne.

Wedding Notes

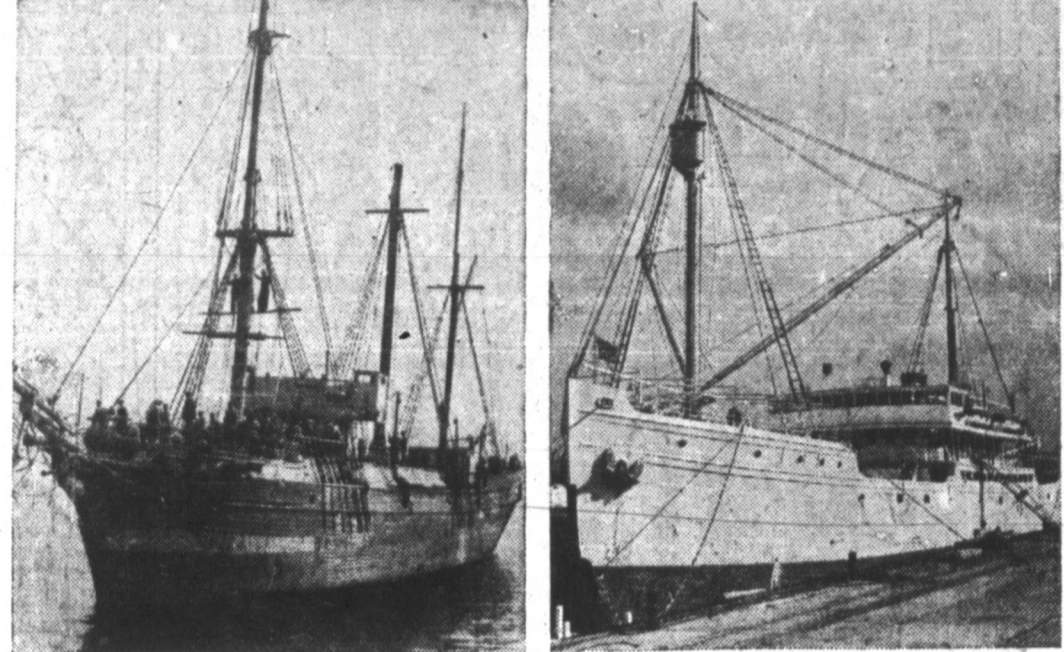

Yowza, yowza, it's Mr. and Mrs. Billy Rose stealing a kiss at the party following their marriage in New York. The bride, you know, was Eleanor Holm, swimming star who worked for Mr. Rose at the World's Fair. And that's the best man—Ben Bernie, the old maestro himself, providin' background music sweet as the wedding cake, yowza!

Hot Water Bottles Make Incubator

It took all the hot water bottles in Fernwood, Idaho, to keep this triplet alive. Smallest of the trio of premature babies born to Mrs. Sam Sampson, 21, it weighed only 3 1/4 pounds at birth and was rushed to this improvised incubator by Dr. Owen S. Platt.

Byrd Has Cash For Trip To Antarctic; It's Up To Congress To Bring Him Back

The U. S. S. Bear (at left), sturdy veteran of the ice fields, will carry the main Byrd party to Antarctica. The North Star (at right) is supply ship of the expedition.

By MARSHAL D. SHULMAN
NEA Service Correspondent
BOSTON, Nov. 22—A lot of people want to visit the South Pole, to judge by the flood of mail into the headquarters of the Second U. S. Antarctic Expedition here, but not many people know why the United States, for the second time in a hundred years, is going to give the Antarctic an official once-over. To thousands of people of all ages, the trip apparently sounds like a lark—but to the Government this expedition is serious business. There are at least three important reasons why, early in November, 125 men under the command of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd are on their way to this mystery land of penguins and blizzards—to remain until the Spring of 1941.

First of all, there's the matter of land-claiming. The United States has never recognized the claims of any other country to the Antarctic, nor has it ever made a claim on the basis of the previous trips of Lincoln Ellsworth and Admiral Byrd. Just in case the Antarctic might turn out to be valuable (as Alaska did, to almost everyone's surprise) it seems to be a good idea to get in on the ground floor.

And so the Expedition is going to set up a more-or-less temporary residence, on the basis of which the State Department in Washington may subsequently assert a claim. An earlier report that Little America, made familiar to Americans by Admiral Byrd's last trip, was to be given up has not been confirmed by Expedition leaders.

EXPECT MUCH OF SCIENTIFIC INTEREST

The second purpose of the expedition is scientific. On the basis of his observations, the expedition hopes to shed some light on the mystery of weather. Expedition leaders are convinced that Antarctic observation posts will make it possible some day to forecast accurately weather in the South Pacific area—a matter of tremendous importance to airlines and naval authorities. Biology, bacteriology, meteorology and geology are some of the sciences expected to benefit from the expedition. The clarity of the atmosphere will make possible a careful study of meteors. And because cosmic rays bombard the earth with greater intensity in this area, they too will be in a favorable condition for study. Regular observations will

After making the east-west passage through the Panama Canal, the Byrd expedition will head for the frozen mystery land shown on this map—first of all, to the Ross Sea barrier, the large ice shelf on which Little America (encircled) is built. The expedition expects to get within three or four miles of Little America by boat, and will establish its West Base in that vicinity, probably in January. The ships next will refuel at some South American port; then one or both ships will attempt to land parties in the vicinity of Alexander Land (also encircled) for the establishment of an East Base. Between these two bases is the 1000-mile coastline (indicated by arrows) which parties from both bases will explore.

from any commercial significance of such findings, they will be of interest as relics of a time when balmy weather may have ruled the Antarctic.

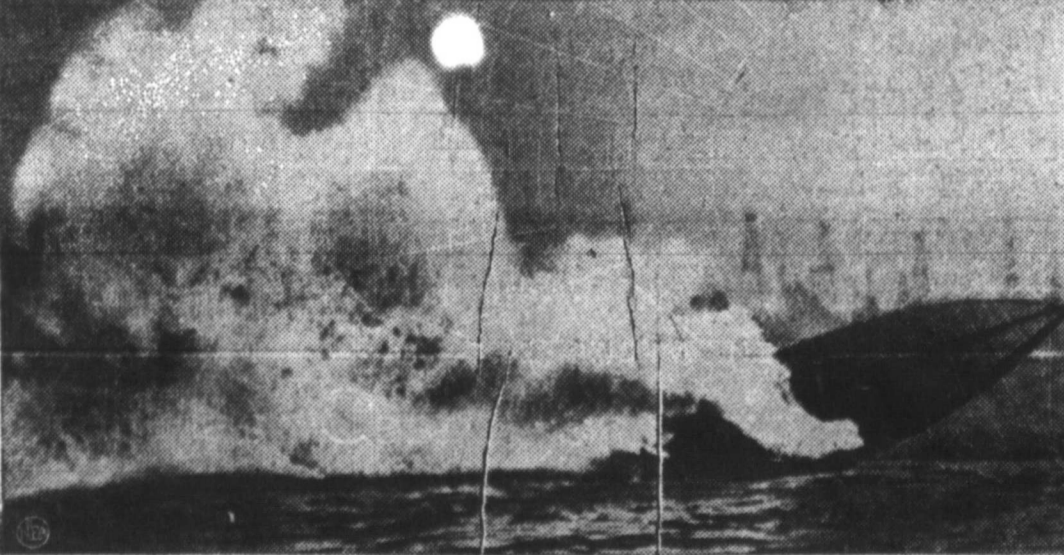

EVERYTHING IS DONE FOR MEN'S COMFORT

The third important purpose of this trip is to solve the largest geographical question mark on the globe. There are a thousand miles of Antarctic coast-line still uncharted which, when mapped out, may form the basis of this country's claim. This work will be done by dog sled teams, with the possible help of airplanes or ships. "There isn't going to be any 'Alone' this time, Admiral Byrd says, referring to his seven-month solitary stay at Advance Base during the 1933-35 trip. However, there will be several observation posts with from two to four men each which will be cut off from the main bases for long periods at a time. This expedition is expected to be a more comfortable one than the last one. For one thing, they won't

Important to the success of Admiral Byrd's forthcoming land-claiming expedition to Antarctica are Dr. Paul Syple of Erie, Pa., supervisor of supplies; Captain Richard Cruzen, skipper of the U. S. S. Bear; Finn Ronne, who will be in charge of all sled equipment and the expedition's 190 Malamute, Siberian and Eskimo dogs; and Captain S. T. L. Whitlam of Seattle, skipper of the supply ship North Star.

Newton's Runabout Flips a 'Wing-Ding' in Speed Trials
