Great Britain Claims Hitler Is Feuding With Staff

German Army Up Against A Stone Wall

War Council Must Figure Out New 'Lightning War'

LONDON, Nov. 17. (AP)—High British military authorities expressed "conviction" today that what they called Germany's "indiscoverable tactics" on the western front were the result of disagreement between Adolf Hitler and his general staff.

These authorities did not disclose what information they considered it bolstered because Germany had not organized direct, hard blows against Britain and France, they said, was the usual German plan.

There were hints also of sharp retaliation against any bombardment of British cities.

Asked what British policy would be toward any bombing of open cities or any use of gas, one source referred questions to international law and to provisions for retaliation where the law is violated.

A German warplane flew today over the Shetland Islands off the northern Scottish coast, scene of a Nazi air bombing Monday.

Alarms sounded in 13 towns over a wide area also in southwest Lancashire, and North Wales after an unidentified plane flew over the region. An all-clear signal was given in a few minutes, however.

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
The view expressed by high British military authorities in London today that Germany's "indiscoverable tactics" against the Anglo-French allies are due to disagreement between Adolf Hitler and his general staff, is highly interesting, if conclusive, answer to a burning question.

I've heard it scores of times in See BRITAIN, Page 8

Hundreds of native workers were dead or missing in a fire which swept across the oil-coated waters under La Guinillas, above, petroleum producing village on Lake Maracaibo, Venezuela.

Villagers lived in tax-free, rent-free shacks, which were built above the water because of swampy condition of shore caused by oil seepage. The flaming waters had been covered by oil an inch deep.

Pampa May Be Site Of 1940 Conference

For the first time since 1929, Pampa may again be the convention city for the Northwest Texas Methodist conference.

Contending for selection as the meeting place for the 1940 conference are Pampa, Big Spring, and Sweetwater. Dr. W. M. Pearce, pastor of the First Methodist church, announced at Lubbock Thursday, where the session is now being held, that both Pampa churches are united in the move to bring the conference to Pampa.

Babson Flays School Grads As Worthless

BOSTON, Nov. 17. (AP)—Asserting that high school students "know more about cheers than chess," Roger Babson, investment specialist, charged today that the school system in the United States was "primarily responsible for at least 7,000,000 of the 10,000,000 unemployed in the nation."

Business men, he declared in a prepared address before the New England Association of School Superintendents, "are forced to cease to employ the young men and women emerging from a broken-down organization which has been spoiled by political radders."

Babson listed 10 factors which he said contributed to unemployment, but added that "the big reason is that young people are being graduated from our schools today as goods are being sold by department stores. Politically-minded school committees are giving these children—not what untrained children need—but what misled parents think they want them to have."

"I insist that the growth of our country, which was so marked previous to 1929, was largely the result of the school system preceding 1915. Contrarywise, that the poor stock which has graduated since 1929 has largely been due to the decline—since 1915—in character of school committees."

Maintaining that as teachers' salaries went up teaching posts became better political plums, the spade-bearded economist contended that school boards had become "political footballs."

"The graduates of our schools are going out with what many of us believe to be false philosophy or no philosophy; certainly with a false economy. Business men, who formerly have been 'customers' of the school by hiring its graduates, no longer can afford to accept worthless goods."

U. S. Attacked As Miser By Russia

MOSCOW, Nov. 17. (AP)—Two Soviet publications chided the United States today, holding up to ridicule American policy in European affairs.

The Soviet youth newspaper Komsomol Pravda published a cartoon showing Uncle Sam contentedly puffing a cigar, counting money bags surmounted by skulls and saying: "Oh Lord, let us have continuous war."

The newspaper, Truck, organ of the trade unions, attacked American administration of the Philippines, while, it said, the United States was "hiding crocodile tears over the fate of small states in Europe."

Coffee Elected Gray Democratic Chairman

H. C. Coffee, long-time Pampa resident and member of a family that has been in the Panhandle since the 80's, was yesterday elected chairman of the Gray County Democratic Executive committee to fill out the unexpired term of Slier Faulkner, deceased.

Mr. Coffee is a ranchman and was formerly with the Texas Railroad commission.

He succeeds Noah M. Kite, who on October 12 was named chairman pro tem. The chairman will hold office until July, when Mr. Faulkner's term as head of the Democratic organization in the county would have expired.

With the exception of Walter Jones of Laketon and Morris Knorr, Groom, all of the 17 precinct chairmen were present at the meeting, which was held at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the grand jury room at the court house.

Children up to and through the age of 12 will be admitted to the LaNora theater on December 2 on presentation of a serviceable toy. While used toys that are in good condition will be accepted, a definite preference toward new toys has been expressed.

Toys needing repairs will be taken to the Pampa Fire station and reconditioned by Pampa firemen, then distributed at the Community Christmas tree. Date of the latter event has not been set.

Goodfellows To Have Desk
As in past years, a desk will be maintained in the city hall for the submitting of names of Pampa families who are to receive Christmas baskets from the Goodfellows club. This service will open on December 15 at which time workers will be assigned to the desk at the city hall.

In connection with the annual plan for the distribution of toys, members of the Legion last night appointed a committee consisting of E. J. Kenney, Dean Williams, and I. J. Hival to investigate the possibilities of a toy-making project, explained by C. N. Cochran, National Youth administration supervisor here.

Farmers who have not yet signed their applications are advised to come to the office of the county farm agent at once and do so.

Four Bandits Take $107 On Highway 66

Occupants Of Two Cars Stop Near Alarred To Sleep

Obeying a safety rule, that of not driving while sleepy and tired, resulted in the robbery of $107 and a 22 rifle from four Oklahomans, who had parked their two automobiles along the Will Rogers highway one and one-half miles east of Alarred at midnight Thursday.

En route to Arizona from Pookafa, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Lindsay, riding in one car, and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Redfern, traveling in another, had decided to rest a while from a long drive.

While the cars were parked, two other automobiles, each containing two armed men, drove up from the east, and held up the Oklahomans. The robbers wore no masks but did take the precaution to force their victims to avert their gaze to confuse identity. Sheriff Cal Rose said, From the Lindseys the robbers took $67, from the Redferns, $40 and the rifle.

Sheriff Cal Rose, Deputies Glenn Carruth and George Pope, and Texas Highway Patrolman C. D. West made an investigation of the robbery early this morning. No tangible clues were found from the accounts given by the persons robbed, Sheriff Rose said, and no arrests had been made in connection with the case up to early this afternoon.

Eye-Witness Depicts Plainview Slaying

PLAINVIEW, Nov. 17. (AP)—Testimony in the trial of Bill Moody, charged with the slaying of J. C. White last March 13, was concluded this morning.

Attorneys' arguments were slated to begin about noon.

The defense closed after presenting the testimony of Grady Payne, Wichita Falls.

Payne, district supervisor for a pump company, witnessed the shooting across the street from the Cotton Center postoffice, according to his testimony.

Payne said he saw White get out of a truck and approach a car in which Moody sat. The witness said he heard an argument and a shot and saw White fall.

On cross-examination, Payne said he did not see White attempt to open the door of Moody's car.

Previous testimony indicated the men had disagreed over alleged damages to White's wheat by soil which, White contended, was blowing off Moody's land.

GMAC Convicted In Anti-Monopoly Trial

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 17. (AP)—Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley imposed fines of $5,000 each today on General Motors corporation and three affiliates convicted last night by a jury of violating the Sherman Anti-Trust law.

Prior to imposing the fines, the maximum provided by law, the judge overruled motions for a new trial and arrest of judgment.

The three affiliates convicted are General Motors Sales corporation, General Motors Acceptance corporation, and General Motors acceptance corporation of Indiana.

The judge ordered that General Motors and General Motors Sales corporation each pay half the costs of the prosecution.

Wall Paper And Paint Discussed At Kingsmill Club

"It does not take expensive material to make a suitable background for the living room of the home," Mrs. Julia Kelley, home demonstration agent, told Kingsmill Home Demonstration club members when they met recently in the home of Mrs. G. G. Frasier.

Mrs. Kelley stated that 12 cent wallpaper selected in cool and soft colors are just as practical as marble tiles or panel wood finishes for West Texas. We use Walex, Palomine and others, she added.

Mrs. Kelley was assisted by Mrs. Frasier in the discussion of harmonizing paint and panel effects with other wood. Mrs. Kelley said that the ability to select colors and combine them is of more importance than using expensive materials because color harmony may be obtained in inexpensive material on the market.

Refreshments were served to 14 members and one visitor.

San Saba Editor Promotes Pecan Pie Recipe To Fame

SAN SABA, Nov. 17 (AP)—The pecan made San Saba famous and Capt. W. A. Billy Smith, postmaster, and for more than 30 years editor-publisher of the San Saba News, is credited with promoting the pecan pie to fame. But the recipe originated with Mrs. Smith.

Smith publicized the delicate confection in his newspaper column and was the president of a Texas 75-cent association. He sounded its taste-loving virtues while president of the Chamber of Commerce and county judge, and is said to have accepted hundreds of oratorical engagements on condition that a pecan pie, in a mode or with whipped cream, would be served for dessert. An ardent football fan, Smith recommended pecan pie as a special diet for football players.

"The recipe grew in number and application among San Saba diners, but there may have been doubt whether all cooks were adept in putting the delicacy together properly, for folks began asking Smith for the best recipe. Mrs. Smith's rule met his test and he printed it.

First part: Butter size of an egg, two cups of sugar, three-fourths cup of water. Second part: Four egg yolks, one cup of cream, three parts of the mixture and cook to a thick custard, then remove from stove and add vanilla and pecans. Put in pastry shells and top with meringue or whipped cream. Make 14 individual or two large pies.

The best recipe Mrs. Smith's rule suggest as especially delicious when topped with ice cream. M-m-m-m!

School Boards Which Sponsor Dances Flayed

By DAVE CHEAVENS

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 17 (AP)—"Open criticism" of religion by teachers in state schools and the practice of school boards of sponsoring dances in Texas' cities and larger towns was assailed in a resolution read from the floor of the Baptist general convention of Texas here today.

The convention took no action on the resolution, which was referred to a committee which will bring its report on this and other recommendations at the closing sessions tomorrow. The resolution was offered by the Rev. A. C. Turner of Tyler.

The "insidious advertising campaign" of the liquor industry with such slogans as "it is smart to drink" were attacked in the report of the convention's civic righteousness committee prepared for presentation to the body this afternoon.

The report deplored war as a "monster that leaves tragedy and death in its pathway," gambling as an obsession, Sabbath desecration as a growing modern tendency, the motion picture industry as falling to do all it could "to uplift our people," divorce as a menace to civilization and "desecration of womanhood" as one of the leading evils of the day.

The report was prepared by a committee under the chairmanship of the Rev. Julian Atwood of Texas.

The Rev. Mr. Turner's resolution read in part: "It is commonly reported by those who are in a position to know that teachers in some of our state schools openly criticize religion in their classrooms and speak with shameful irreverence of God x x x."

"It is becoming increasingly common for school boards in the larger cities and towns to authorize or cause to be authorized by the faculty or Parent-Teacher associations school dances, thereby seducing or attempting to seduce our young people from the moral standards taught by their churches and their parents."

The Rev. A. D. Foreman of San Angelo and the Rev. J. M. Dawson of Waco reported and spoke on the Baptist "hundred-thousand club" a debt-paying organization, and Hal Buckner of Dallas reported on the Buckner orphans home. The Rev. W. H. McKenzie of Austin, in reporting on foreign missions, said property losses of the southern Baptists in the war in China were estimated "at the appalling figure of at least $600,000."

Senator Wheeler Praises Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—Thomas E. Dewey's decision to break his long silence on national issues next month pumped new interest today into the 1940 Republican presidential race.

Sharing attention—on the Democratic side—was last night's Baltimore speech by Senator Wheeler (D-Mont), in which he praised President Roosevelt's record, called for a united party to assure victory next year, and explained that his own conflicts with the chief executive had been over methods rather than fundamental beliefs.

Some party leaders said Dewey's chances of winning a place on the national ticket hinged largely on the stand he takes on major questions of the day.

Conceding that he has won a name for himself as New York's district attorney, they have been asking: "Where does he stand on national issues?"

The announcement that Dewey would make the first of a series of midwest speeches at Minneapolis about Dec. 6 coincided with the start of cross-country speaking tours by two others mentioned for the Republican nomination.

Senators Taft of Ohio and Bridges of New Hampshire are on the stump, simultaneously with the launching of a boom for Gov. Arthur H. James of Pennsylvania.

SEE YOUR EYE DOCTOR!

"Few organs in the human body are more delicate than the eyes. In compounding certain liquid prescriptions for affections of the eyes, we use colored bottles. We do this for the reason that some medicines are affected by sunlight. Colored glass eliminates certain rays of the sun and thus prevents decomposition of medicines. Eye drops, or solutions intended for bathing the eyes, are always filtered. For eye ointments, collapsible tubers are invariably used instead of tin boxes. This is done to prevent contamination of the medicines by the air. The meticulous care used by our pharmacists has won the confidence of eye specialists."

The Chrysler Strike

A forceful editorial appears this week in Automotive News, newspaper of the automobile industry. It calls attention to the strike which has tied up Chrysler Corp. plants and thrown 55,000 men out of work, and wonders why the United States does not manifest more of an interest in what is going on here at home. The editorial follows:

"Monday, Nov. 13, marks the beginning of the sixth week of the tieup of Chrysler Corp. plants, which has thrown 55,000 direct factory employes out of work.

"There is no dispute over wages, hours or working conditions.

"CIO-UAW labor leaders, determined to demonstrate their dictatorial powers, chose the beginning of a new model selling season to clinch their strange hold on factory management.

"They substituted the diabolical slow-down for the sit-down which the Supreme Court of the United States has frowned on.

"They attempted to change the rules of play in the midst of the game.

"Their present single objective of controlling the rate of production, thus increasing costs on a line of vehicles which have already been advertised and priced to the consumers, leaves the factory management no possibility of compromise.

"The present Chrysler strike has no sympathy from anyone conversant with the facts. It is the most unjustified, un-American and communistic movement ever attempted in this country.

"Its implications strike at the very roots of everything which makes the United States of America the last remaining stand of true democracy in the world of today.

"It is difficult for Automotive News to understand why the Administration, the press and the 150 million citizens of this country are not aroused by the threat to our Constitution which each passing day's continuation of this strike multiplies.

"The war in Europe is somebody's else's business. This Chrysler strike is our business and we had better start minding it before it is too late!"

FOOLING CALIFORNIANS (Calgary Herald, Alberta, Canada)

The "Ham and Eggs" campaign in California, otherwise an attempt to secure for every citizen in the State over fifty years of age a pension of $30 every Thursday, is in full swing. Its advocates have been using the "social credit" experiment in Alberta as their chief material and most extraordinary claims are being advanced concerning the achievements registered in this province since August, 1935. These are based on written reports provided by the Alberta Government's publicity staff.

The Herald has received a copy of the "Ham and Eggs Radio Bulletin" published in California. In the issue, published on October 21, appears a letter signed by "H. D. Carrigan, office of the Director of Publicity, Province of Alberta." It says in part:

"Our strategy at this time is to use the Treasury of the Province as means to gain control of our own credit system. By opening branches of the Treasury where people want them, and by making purchases by means of 'treasury vouchers' we do away entirely with the use of 'banking money.' Meantime we have ceased borrowing, have built 400 miles of hard surfaced highways out of current revenues, have lowered taxation on the common man and increased it on the financial institutions. Our unemployment figures are the healthiest in Canada, new industries are starting, maternity benefit for indigent mothers, state treatment and hospitalization of tuberculosis and poliomyelitis has become a reality, the school system has become entirely revamped to make the best education to the most remote country child—in short we have made a greater progress than has been made at any other time in the history of the province. You will not learn these things from the press. . . ."

And there seem to be several particulars about "social credit" government in Alberta that the benighted and trusting Californians will not learn from Mr. Carrigan. For instance, that the present administration, elected on a promise to reduce taxation, has set a new all-time record for taxation. In the budget brought down in February last the estimated expenditure for the present fiscal year is $26,518,894 and the estimated revenue is $24,367,787.

Contrast these with corresponding figures in 1935, the year the "social credit" government went into power. For the year ended March 31, 1935, the total general revenue amounted to $16,287,880 and the total expenditure was $18,369,441.

The net funded and unfunded debt of Alberta on August 31, 1935, stood at $153,923,000 and on March 31, 1939 at $157,000,000. But it is also to be remembered that the present government has paid only half of the interest due on the Alberta debt—a debt that is only postponed, not wiped out. By this means the government has evaded obligations amounting to several million dollars.

The Government has not built 400 miles of hard surfaced roads, nor even one mile. What it has adopted is the bluffer system of surfacing, a much cheaper and less enduring road pavement. Nor has "banking money" or banks been driven out of this province. The banks are carrying on very much as usual. Mystery prevails as to the progress of the tax and because the Government refuses to announce the extent of their activities, or what those activities are costing the taxpayer of Alberta.

JOHNSON LENDING BILL EVADED

Few people realize that we are now in a position to make loans to the Allies. The fact that Senator Taft introduced amendments to the so-called neutrality bill, to make it illegal to loan money to the Allies, was quickly beaten down by the Administration Senators, is strong evidence that they expect to make these loans, in disregard to the Johnson Act.

The predicament we are in is well expressed by George Brown, Washington columnist in the Los Angeles Examiner. I quote:

"Briefly, here is the background. On September 1 Jesse Jones said to the reporters at the White House that he thought RFC had the same power to make foreign loans that the Export-Import Bank possesses.

"Earlier than this he had told the Senate banking and currency committee that RFC actually had made such foreign loans, that the Johnson law—prohibiting loans to debtor governments—did not stand in the way of RFC.

"Senator Taft proposed to write into the neutrality bill, first a qualified prohibition of the use of the stabilization fund to support belligerent currencies.

"This brought from Senator Wagner of New York a most remarkable statement, to the effect that Secretary Morgenthau had that day assured him that while the war continued he would not purchase the currencies of any belligerents.

"Although later on under friendly prodding by Senator Maloney, Mr. Wagner somewhat qualified his statement, nevertheless, there it stands in the official record, a pledge through a Senator by the Secretary of the Treasury.

"Now, under the New Deal system a pledge like that, spoken on the floor of the Senate, has come to have the force of a statute!

"The Senate voted down an amendment by Senator Taft prohibiting the very thing which Mr. Morgenthau had promised, through a Senator, he would not do.

"If that isn't slipshod legislation, by a formula not known to the Constitution, what on earth is it?

"Well, Senators were inclined to think they had Morgenthau definitely committed to a policy not to buy currencies of France and England while the war continues.

"Maybe so. Mr. Morgenthau is on record elsewhere to the effect that if he ever found it necessary to buy such currencies, he would consult the proper Senate committee—meaning, presumably, the banking and currency committee, of which New Deal Senator Wagner is chairman.

"Think that one over. If Mr. Morgenthau should ever think he had to use the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund to bolster up the currencies of the Allies, before acting he would consult a single committee of the Senate.

"Well, the Senate next defeated another amendment by Mr. Taft prohibiting the RFC, the Export-Import Bank, or any other Government agency or corporation from making loans to belligerent nations.

"That defeat has the force of affirmation. It means, 'Go ahead, RFC and make all the foreign loans you want.'

"The Export-Import Bank has recently made a large loan in England to purchase American tobacco. Such a loan has the effect of releasing just so much British money for the cash purchase of munitions. That's as simple as A.B.C., much less Jesse Jones's RFC."

MORE ECONOMIC LIGHT NEEDED

The fact that nearly a million people in California voted for Ham and Eggs is evidence that there is a great deal of work to be done in California in order to bring about better economic understanding. When practically one-third of the people vote for a scheme as impractical, as socialistic and communistic as Ham and Eggs, it is a tempting bait to unscrupulous candidates to cater to this something-for-nothing vote.

Sooner or later the people must decide whether they want a socialistic form of government which means a dictator or whether they want free enterprise. Every thinking person who loves liberty, freedom and justice should be consistently at work in every way possible trying to get people to better understand how wealth is produced and distributed.

Under a democratic form of government, it really makes a great difference what your neighbor believes. He can wreck and ruin himself and his fellow-beings, if he does not believe in principles that respect the rights of others. It is a question of getting people in this country to understand the importance of people having the right of their labor. The reward for having people respect for other people's rights is worth the effort. If it can be brought about, we will return to prosperity, happiness and progress. A million uninformed people is a grave danger to the state.

Behind The News Of The Day

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—There are government sleuths in Washington who wouldn't be at all surprised if Chicago presently had a new outbreak of gang warfare in the old style.

These "feds" interpret the recent murder of Edward J. O'Hare, wealthy race track owner, as a possible curtain raiser.

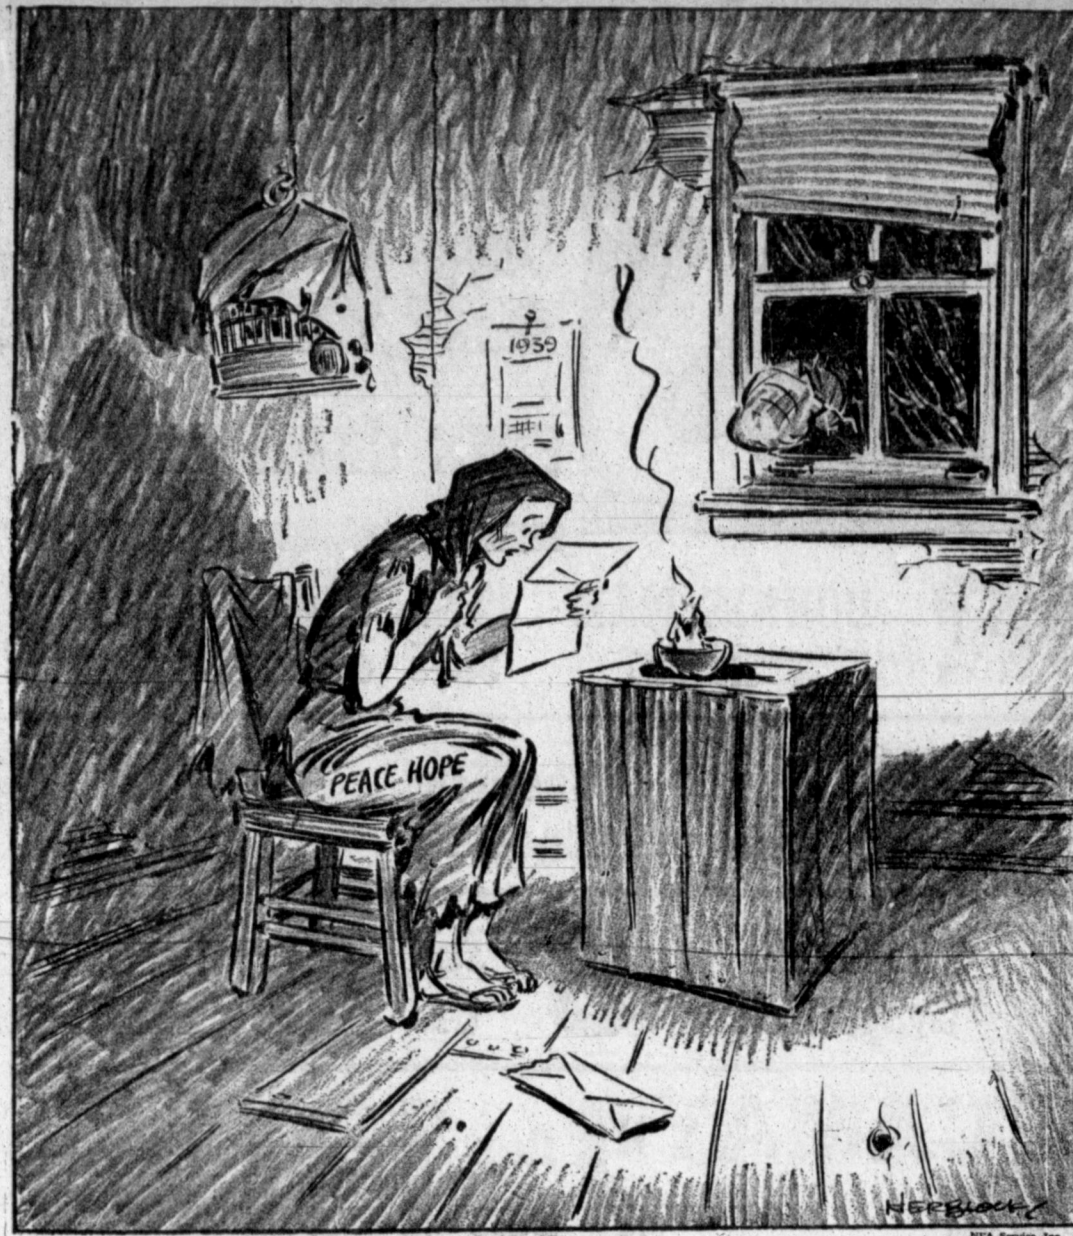

Al Capone has walked out of prison a free man Nov. 16. O'Hare, back in the days of Capone's greatness, ran a dog track for him and was an important figure in his organization. Since Capone's imprisonment, O'Hare has risen to riches he did not have in the old days.

One rumor is that Capone was turned down when he tried to levy on O'Hare for a contribution to help pay the $10,000 in tax liens which Capone must pay before his release is final.

WOULD EASE BUILDING PAYMENT

At least one and possibly several attempts to liberalize the Federal Housing Act in the hope of stimulating low-priced home construction will be made at the next session on Congress. One senator—a Republican, by the way—is now drafting a bill which would make it possible to build a home under FHA financing without making any down payment whatever. He proposes to have this apply to construction cost-

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 17.—All over the lot: Many of the scenes for "Buck Benny Rides Again" are being filmed in Placerita Canyon, the place where Golda was first panned in California. The actors have tried a little prospecting, but mostly they just sit around and pan the picture.

Jack Benny has the title role, but he says he expects to run third in importance. Rochester will steal the picture from him, and there's a trick bear that's likely to steal it from Rochester. There's also a trick horse, Shamrock, which Benny rides but can't steer. Shamrock pays no attention to the reins; he works, instead, according to arm signals.

"Paramount is the only studio that makes me wear makeup," grumbled Andy Devine, who plays a dude-ranch owner. "I don't like it. Well, not even the horses have to wear makeup."

"Okay," said Director Mark Sandrich. "Go wash your face—and then have one of the boys put a saddle on 'em."

Benny and Lillian Cornell, a new actress from radio, were playing a scene that had to be rehearsed and shot many times. After awhile a herd of cattle that were supposed to be milking in a corral in the background stopped milking and began to lie down. "We must be pretty bad," said Benny. "I see we're even putting the props to sleep."

INVISIBLE MAN SCENES TICKLISH

Censors are going to face a peculiar problem of delicacy in "The Invisible Man Returns." This flicker, an offspring of the original, depicts audiences will not see head, hands or body. He also has a love scene with Nan Gray. She'll be thoroughly embraced and kissed by him, but with no visible indication of his presence. Such movie wizardry is being done mostly by painstaking work on each little frame of film. Price, who'll be completely materialized at the beginning and end of the picture, actually has been going through much of the intermediate action. Images of him then are removed from the film and background is substituted for the place he occupied.

Other elaborate devices are used, though. In one sequence he is supposed to be lying in a hospital bed. The bed was molded in plaster of Paris so that it would retain a depression such as might be made by the body of an invisible man. And the covering sheet, also showing his outline, is a molded sheet of tin, painted white.

At Metro, the whole lot's talking about an unknown newcomer named Jean O'Donnell. She showed up, one day, in the chorus of "Broadway Melody." Word filtered around the lot that there really was something to see among the cuties on Stage 12. Executives, writers and even other players began to drop in there on various errands.

Soon a pleased and flustered 19-year-old found herself in the makeup department with half a dozen experts preparing her for screen tests. From the neck up, she looks quite a lot like Hedy Lamarr. Elsewhere, though, she's away out in front of the glamor star. I haven't heard about the tests yet. Maybe Miss O'Donnell can't act. Maybe Hebe and Venus couldn't either.

Two weeks after the War of 1812 ended the Battle of New Orleans was fought. Communications were so bad that word did not reach either army in time.

Our spies at Rice Institute at Houston report that J. W. Graham, former Harvester football star, is developing into a real scholar. He finds the courses hard, but he is making good grades. He has been to town only three times since school started, and one of those times was to have his picture made for the annual. One operative opines that the Rice football team (Here lies Rice! But will she rest in peace?) needs J. W. to kick their field goals. Doyle Aulds who was one of the best passers the Harvesters ever had, but who didn't get a chance to throw many, is playing basketball at Corpus Christi Junior college which he is attending. He is also making straight A's—as he did in high school. He is living with his father who is superintendent of the Columbia Carbon company plant at Corpus. D'vle's plans to go to Rice went awry when they claimed they did not get his credits in time. And speaking of colleges, W. B. C. execs have encouraged him to demand that the Methodist church abandoned Clarendon college at the height of its success in 1926, take it back again. Only LeFors, a C. C. alumnus, was to say that abandonment of the college was sad business. What do you say, you other execs?—including Dr. R. M. Johnson who is playing first base on the baseball team at old C. C. What do you say John Osborne, Helen Martin, Joe Gordon, Malcolm (Shug) Denson. Old C. C. had great traditions and great heritage, and you must be proud of her—all you execs what do you say. . . .

Congressman Jerry Voorhis hopes to get public hearings this winter on a bill he has introduced to meet this situation. He would have the federal government make grants to reimburse states for money spent on relief for out-of-state people.

Under his proposal, administration of this relief would be handled locally, subject to the general approval of some federal agency such as the Social Security Board. Incidentally, Farm Security Administration officials say that while a number of families were set adrift this fall by drought in the southwest, a few of them headed west. They'd heard too many stories about people like themselves who went to California in search of work and couldn't find it.

Tex's Topics

ON THIS page today is a letter from "A Resident" who, after a fashion, is "taking the police department apart." "A Resident" reports that he is getting so you can't drive down town any more without a policeman "getting on your tail" for some minor infraction of the traffic laws.

We appreciate the position of the writer of this letter and we do not for a minute believe that a city's police force should smack everybody into court for the tiniest of minor infractions. . . . They should at least give the driver the benefit of a warning, and that should be done very courteously. . . .

But, policemen have their troubles, too. Their superior officers have told them to enforce the laws to the letter, and apparently that's just what they are trying to do. . . . For a long time there was room for criticism of Pampa police for their laxity in handling the traffic situation. . . . A few motorists were getting away with a lot of things they shouldn't have been getting away with. . . . They were over-parking, they were speeding in school areas, they were double-parking in main thoroughfares, they were running the stop signs and the stop-lights. . . . They just got into the habit because nobody seemed to care whether they did these things or not. . . .

Now, the police department is trying to bring the Pampa traffic situation back to normal. . . . Perhaps in some cases they may get a bit over-zealous. . . . I will agree with "A Resident" that officers should use their heads. . . . I believe there ought to be courteous warnings given in every first offense for minor infractions. . . . Then, the second offense should land the driver in court. . . .

One does not like to believe that there is any policeman who would deliberately try to make life miserable for a motorist. . . . If that is true, he should be reported, and one again feels certain that department heads would remedy the situation. . . . Letters like the one from "A Resident" do the city and everybody concerned a great amount of good. . . . They serve to bring an issue out into the open for discussion. . . . Almost always a letter of this kind serves both sides as a means of exchanging an understanding and a happy medium between overstepping authority and tempering justice with courtesy. . . .

We know now that early detection of this condition and the adoption of a suitable hygiene of life in relationship to it will do much to keep hypertension under control. Such activity will also yield good results in the prevention of coronary disease and angina pectoris.

THE SIX HORSEMEN OF COMMUNISM

By GUS W. DYER

Professor of Economics and Sociology, Vanderbilt University

Socialism, in its broadest sense, represents a distinct theory of government, radically different from the American constitutional theory. Socialism is not a new sense new, its chief principles were expounded and advocated by Plato twenty-five hundred years ago. Aristotle, the profound, level-headed statesman of that day, told Plato if there had been any substantial foundation for his fanciful theory, the people would have adopted it long before Plato's day. The Greeks had sense enough to listen to the wisdom of Aristotle, and Plato's theory remained in the clouds where it belongs. The socialist theory in substance is that business is a fundamental function of government, hence all means of production should be owned, controlled and operated by the government, and that all workers should be the employees of the government. In other words, everybody should be on the WPA.

Socialists care little for names. Sometimes they call themselves exponents of "statist democracy." Other groups call themselves socialists, communists, syndicalists, etc. All these radical groups hold the socialist theory of government. Communism represents the more radical, violent revolutionary type of socialism.

Socialism in all its forms, and branches is antagonistic to the American constitutional theory of industrial freedom. The American theory is that business is not a proper function of government, but the qualities that fit men to direct business successfully are fundamentally different from the qualities that fit men to direct political activities. Hence the government should regulate business in the interest of fair play and freedom, but should neither own nor attempt to direct business activities. It is clear that any fusion of communism with constitutional industrial free-

Editor, The News: I am writing you about the police situation in Pampa. I feel that something should be done about the matter.

It is getting so that one cannot drive down town without an officer after him about something. I believe in safe driving, but it does seem to me that the majority of us should be able to drive down town, most of the time in safety to all without a policeman after us. I do have some faith in mankind and do not believe that the most of us are guilty of deliberately disobeying the traffic rules. But when driving carefully and not recklessly by any means, it seems very unfair that one should be made to pay a fine for some minor infraction. Some judgment should be used. There has never been found but one who could follow the law to the letter and there will never be found another. Following the law to the letter, though that seems to be what the policemen and Pampa Police court expect. I believe if the residents of our town and county were treated with more courtesy and understanding a much better feeling would be created.

Sincerely, A RESIDENT.

'Buy Low And Sell High' In Cattle Business Is Advice

(By The Associated Press)

R. B. Masterson, who started the daily business of forking a cow horse when his legs were so short he couldn't reach the stirrups, has discovered a way in which any person, including drug store cow punchers can make a good living in the cattle business.

"All you have to do," says the pioneer Panhandle rancher, "is buy low and sell high. Do that and you'll make a go in the cattle business."

The Texas Panhandle's big bet is the cattle business. It always has been. Many vast ranches are operated in the 26 counties of the Panhandle.

Ranching business was started in the region by Col. Charles Goodnight in 1876. He drove a herd of cattle from Colorado to Palo Duro canyon, established the famous JA ranch for the Adairs of Ireland. The JA is still one of the largest ranches in Texas and the ownership is in the family that started it. Col. Goodnight later established his own ranch.

Col. Goodnight was known as "the father of the Panhandle." In 1938, many years after he died, a marker was placed at his grave in the Goodnight cemetery.

The Bivins estate is perhaps the biggest land-holder in the Panhandle. The late Lee Bivins, sire of the family, at one time owned more cattle than any other man on earth, and more today owns as many as he did then. At that time, Bivins could ride from Dalhart to Amarillo—100 miles—on his own land.

The XIT ranch was the daddy of them all. It's 3,000,000 acres covered 10 of the Panhandle's 26 counties. It was a historic ranch from the start because the state exchanged the land for the big capital building at Austin. Comparatively little of the XIT ranch remains in the hands of the syndicate that operated it. The million acre King ranch in south Texas was a baby in comparison with the XIT.

There are many other vast ranch empires in the Panhandle—the Matador, the LS, the Sheltons, Coon and Culbertson. Incidentally, the Coon and Culbertson outfit near Dalhart is larger than any other hereford ranch in the world.

The old chuck wagon method of operating on roundups still is popular on nearly all of the big ranches. The chuck wagon, loaded with grub and other supplies, train the hands when they go out to roundup for branding or shipping. So does the remuda. There is little change—except that high powered autos and flashing airplanes visit the cow camps.

Jay Taylor, big scale rancher, vice-president of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, Inc., officer of the American National Livestock association, member of the National Livestock and Meat Board at Chicago, director of the Federal Reserve Bank at Dallas and manager of the Halliburton Oil Well Cementing company, has had thousands of hours in and has worn out trips by plane and auto.

There are five stores in all in the organization, two in Amarillo, one in Berger, and two in Pampa. The firm claims to be the oldest grocery store in the Panhandle, having been established 32 years ago in Amarillo by J. H. Harris, whose sons, Odell and Willard, are now in charge of the active business management.

Installation of electric roasters for barbecue and of kitchens in the meat department, and basket carriers that eliminate the inconvenience of customers lugging cumbersome baskets on their arms while making purchases are new features of the Harris Food stores.

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (AP)—Buying signals were heard in the stock market today and many recent laggards, led by steel, pushed up fractions to around 2 points.

The list, resistant at the start, soon began to pick up a following. Ralls, motors, rubbers, merchandising, air transports and an assortment of specialties were taken in hand at intervals and most finished at or near the day's tops despite profit taking in the final hour.

Activity broadened occasionally, although slow-downs were frequent. Transfers approximated 590,000 shares.

Capone III Of Brain Disease At Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Nov. 17 (AP)—Broken, flabby and ailing, "Scarface" Al Capone stared vacantly at the ceiling of a $30-per-diem hospital suite today, free of prison cells in which he lived for seven years but sentenced now to a lingering brain disease.

Outside the one-time Chicago gang czar's room sat a male orderly and a nurse. In or near the hospital were three federal agents, assigned by Attorney General Murphy to keep the fallen vice emperor under surveillance because, Murphy said, "certain things have come to our attention."

Whether the agents were to guard Capone from himself or from possible gangland reprisal was not made clear.

The former gangster chief came here secretly yesterday from the federal prison at Lewisburg, Pa., and entered the General Hospital as the patient of Dr. Joseph E. Moore, former director of the syphilis division of the Johns Hopkins Medical clinic.

He was suffering from paresis—softening of the brain—but it was learned that, while his condition was serious, he was in no immediate danger.

Dr. Moore and hospital officials declined to discuss the case. Attorney General Murphy said Capone would be under treatment possibly three weeks and planned to go to Miami after his discharge. Murphy added that relatives had assured him the racketeer, who served his time for income tax evasion, would "go straight."

Hospital attendants who saw Capone said he looked "pale and weak." His wife, mother and brother, Ralph, were with him when he arrived.

Meanwhile, Chicago police intensified their investigation of a possible link between Capone's old organization and last week's shotgun slaying of Edward J. O'Hare, president of the Sportsman's Park race track.

Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief of the state's attorney's investigators, asserted "there is no longer any doubt about it being a Capone job."

He said he had learned Capone gangsters were involved in a dispute at Sportsman's Park about 10 days before O'Hare's assassination.

No. 1 Greets No. 1,000,000, Red Cross Life Savers All

Commodore W. E. Longfellow of the American Red Cross became number one Life Saver 25 years ago; Miss Carol Hawes of Peabody, Mass., became number one million in August, 1939.

The water-safety American is fast becoming obsolete. It is estimated that upwards of 80,000,000 persons now go swimming and boating in this country each year, which is said to be more than the number participating in all other forms of active recreation combined.

Despite this tremendous increase in aquatic activity, the annual number of drownings has been decreased by one-third since 1914, when the Red Cross Life Saving Service was first organized. The information and practical instruction provided by this service is largely credited with that accomplishment.

During the 12 months ending June 30 of this year, 100,361 persons received Red Cross life saving instruction, successfully passed the standard tests and were awarded life saving certificates. Since then the one-millionth Red Cross life saving certificate has been awarded, and the number continues to grow at an increasing rate.

An important part in this widespread safety program is played by the Red Cross Aquatic schools, conducted every summer in various sections of the country, where young men and women, qualified as life-savers, are trained in teaching advanced life saving and swimming methods. More than 2,300, enrolled in 18 Red Cross Aquatic schools this summer, have been added to the ranks of life saving instructors.

The success of the water safety program in reducing deaths due to accident is attributed by the Red Cross to greatly increased knowledge of safety rules in swimming and boating, the widespread knowledge of methods of rescue and resuscitation, improvement of safeguards and supervision at pools and beaches, and the increasing emphasis placed upon prevention of water accidents.

Expert Gives Stop-Go Chart For Drinkers

NEW YORK, Nov. 17—Dr. Robert V. Seliger, assistant visiting psychiatrist at Johns Hopkins hospital and instructor in neurology at Johns Hopkins university, has devised a series of questions in chart form for the aid of regular or occasional drinkers.

The chart, appearing in the December issue of "Your Life" magazine, is included in an article by Dr. Seliger on the subject of social and pathological drinking. Dr. Seliger warns that "some people can handle liquor; others can't. And some people who today can handle liquor, next year, or the year after, or five years hence, be among those who can't." These uncontrolled drinkers become, in medical terminology, pathological drinkers.

The article in "Your Life" goes on to say that pathological drinkers have no more business using alcohol than young diabetics have using sugar. Once an individual becomes a pathological drinker, he can never again become a controlled drinker. His only hope is total abstinence. His only alternative, chronic alcoholism with all the personal, social and economic penalties that it implies.

Here are five of the 35 questions Dr. Seliger cites as a guide on whether you are still a social drinker or have entered the danger zone. If you answer "yes" to one or more of his queries, you are advised by the article in "Your Life" to tie yours to a psychiatrist or a mental hygiene clinic.

Do you require a drink the next morning?

Do you need a drink at a definite time daily?

Has drinking made you irritable?

Have you become jealous of your husband or wife since drinking?

Do you drink to obtain social ease? (In shy, timid, self-conscious individuals.)

Domestication of the cat is credited to the ancient Egyptians.

Four Camps For Migratory Workers Now Being Built

DALLAS, Nov. 17 (AP)—Appointment of managers of the four camps for migratory farm laborers now being built by the Farm Security Administration was announced today by regional director C. M. Evans.

A. K. (Dad) Short and L. Burkett Arnold, both of Corpus Christi, are to serve as managers of the camps at Sinton (San Patricio county) and Robstown (Nueces county) respectively. Clay L. Cochran and James A. Moore, both of Austin, will manage camps at Weslaco (Hidalgo county) and Raymondville (Willacy county) respectively.

Camps are to be completed and ready for occupancy by the early months of 1940.

Evans said he believed the camps would furnish a vital service to farmers of the Texas fruit and vegetable growing area by making available to them a better class of farm laborers.

"Farm workers having clean clothes, a place to bathe and a warm place to sleep are in better physical and mental condition to do a day's work," he stated. "The camps will at least give them a temporary home while they work in the community and a place where they can find some measure of happiness."

Most of the migratory families numbering around 250 families in each camp will live in one-room metal shelters or groups of one-room units clustered in groups of six-apartment units. Permanent quarters for 147 families will be provided in the four camps. These families chosen from those who have practically permanent employment but are unable to pay higher rent.

Evans stated that he had recently talked with representatives of several North Texas cities seeking camps to relieve the "squatters town" situation in these communities, and that extension of the camp program to North Texas is being considered.

There are many other vast ranch empires in the Panhandle—the Matador, the LS, the Sheltons, Coon and Culbertson. Incidentally, the Coon and Culbertson outfit near Dalhart is larger than any other hereford ranch in the world.

The old chuck wagon method of operating on roundups still is popular on nearly all of the big ranches. The chuck wagon, loaded with grub and other supplies, train the hands when they go out to roundup for branding or shipping. So does the remuda. There is little change—except that high powered autos and flashing airplanes visit the cow camps.

Jay Taylor, big scale rancher, vice-president of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, Inc., officer of the American National Livestock association, member of the National Livestock and Meat Board at Chicago, director of the Federal Reserve Bank at Dallas and manager of the Halliburton Oil Well Cementing company, has had thousands of hours in and has worn out trips by plane and auto.

5,000 Bucks Slain Yesterday in Texas

AUSTIN, Nov. 17 (AP)—Venison grazed many Texas tables today as State Game department officials estimated portions of 5,000 bucks, felled the first day of the season, rested in cold storage.

The officials said possibly 12,000 sportsmen and women had taken the field yesterday to inaugurate the deer, turkey and javalina season, following by 24 hours other thousands who swarmed to the coast and inland water sports for the initial day of duck and goose hunting.

Heaviest law violation fines were paid in Kerrville by two Hartford, Conn., men arrested by Warden Bill Garnett for hunting without a non-resident license. The pair paid $61 each.

Decrease In Grid Deaths Reported

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Nov. 17 (AP)—An appreciable decrease in football deaths, for the third straight year, was reported today among college, high school and athletic club players for the first half of the season by Dr. Floyd R. Eastwood, associate professor of physical education at Purdue university.

Eastwood's report showed that up to Nov. 15 there were eight deaths directly attributable to football, compared with 16 at the same time last year and 18 two years ago.

In addition, there were four deaths indirectly due to football so far this year.

Of the fatalities directly caused by football, only two were reported from colleges, four from high schools and one each from athletic clubs and sandlots.

Of the indirect fatalities, one was reported from the colleges and three from high schools.

Internal and cerebral hemorrhages and a fractured vertebrae caused the eight deaths attributed directly to the game. Heart attacks, pneumonia and septicemia accounted for the four deaths for which the game was blamed indirectly.

The records of vital statistics, kept by Eschwood for the American Football Coaches Association and the N. C. A. A., showed among high school "direct" deaths:

Floyd Theime, 16, Forsan High school, Forsan, Tex., died Oct. 14, internal hemorrhage.

First: It gets white clothes as much as 9 to 11 shades whiter than other bar and package soaps lacking its new ingredient. Actual Tintometer shades, as shown by our laboratory tests.

Second: Cup for cup, it gives up to three times the suds—suds stand up 2 to 3 times longer.

Third: It's SAFE for washable colors, fabrics, hands. So safe, that even cotton prints given the equivalent of a full year's washing, showed no perceptible sign of fading—came out looking bright and fresh as new.

In tub washing—new High-Test Oxydol soaks dirt loose in 10 minutes. No scrubbing, no boiling. Even grimy spots, come clean with a few quick rubs. This ends the time-wasting, back-breaking drudgery of washboard rubbing. And clothes last 2 to 3 times longer, from the standpoint of washday wear and tear.

In washing machines—High-Test Oxydol's efficiency is so remarkable that leading washing machine makers are switching to it—as the soap they recommend for whiter, brighter washes in washers old or new. It soaks out dirt while the washer runs—gives double-action wash.

High-Test Oxydol is economical, too. Each cup of it goes up to 1/4 again as far as less efficient soaps tested.

Bill Murray 'Dead Against' Paul McNutt

By MITCHELL CURTIS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 17 (AP)—William H. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray, grizzled, colorful former governor, was in a fine roarin' mood today as he settled down to discuss politics.

First off, the lion of Broken Bow wanted it known that "if there's any way to kick the new deal out in 1940, Bill Murray is going to take part in the kicking."

Secondly, he's wholeheartedly for Texas Jack Garner or Missouri's Sen. Bennett Champ Clark for the Democratic nomination for president.

"Of course I'm working actively," said the one-time presidential candidate, "I'm working for Jack Garner. But I'm for either Garner or Clark."

"I'm not for any man, living or dead, for a third term, but I'm dead against this man McNutt from Indiana. If McNutt gets elected, Clark can get it, then I'll be for Roosevelt if it's this; McNutt."

He doesn't think Garner, 71, is too old because "this is an intellectual office, not a physical office and Garner knows right from wrong. He's got what this country needs now. Bennett Clark's got it, too, from his father, Champ Clark."

Murray turned his wrath on the national administration:

"Roosevelt is leading us into war. He's violating the fundamental principles of international law. Repeal of the arms embargo won't get us into war but this damn fool 300-mile safety zone Roosevelt put around the western hemisphere very well might."

"Three miles is the limit of authority for any nation from its shores. We've got no more right to change the boundaries of the sea than Hitler has to change the boundaries of the land."

"Now if Hitler decides to send some submarines to within 300 miles of the American coast the President will go ahead without asking you or me and order the navy to sink the submarines and then we're in."

Many people have an instinctive dislike for bats. Yet these little mammals are useful to man, for they feed almost entirely on insects.

Without optical aid only 1,500 stars are visible at one time to the human eye. Moonlight or a slight haze will obscure half of them.

GMAC TRIAL

The anti-trust conviction of General Motors corporation, world's largest automobile manufacturer, as a victor in the broad federal anti-monopoly drive and a blow at factory control of car financing.

A federal jury of Hoosier farmers and little business men last night convicted the corporation and three affiliates of violating the Sherman act by forcing dealers to give installment sales paper to General Motors Acceptance Corporation.

But it acquitted 17 officials of the concern, including President William S. Knudsen and Board Chairman Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., of General Motors, General Manager M. E. Coyle of Chevrolet, a GM vice-president, and President John J. Schumann, Jr., of GMAC.

The affiliates were GMAC, GMAC of Indiana and the General Motors Sales Corporation.

Others of motordom's "big three"—Ford and Chrysler—were pledged to steer clear of the same kind of coercion of which GMAC was convicted. They were indicted, too, here in May, 1938, but later in general decrees agreed to make the General Motors case a test.

Special Judge Walter C. Lindsey of Danville, Ill., planned to receive defense motions today. The law permits him to fine the corporation up to $5,000 each.

Holmes Baldrige, chief of government counsel, termed the verdict "a step forward by the attorney general anti-trust division's attempt to obtain free competition in industry."

John Thomas Smith, GM vice-president, in charge of the defense, saw inconsistency in a verdict acquitting individuals while convicting corporations.

In the trial, started Oct. 9, dealer witnesses said GM officials had told them they would lose their franchises unless they financed with GMAC. Corporation executives denied making such threats.

Baptists Oppose Prison Rodeo

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 17 (AP)—Texas Baptists concluded their 1939 general convention today with a sharp attack on the annual prison rodeos at Huntsville on the grounds that the show consistently desecrates the Sabbath.

Teaching of tap dancing and "other forms of dancing" in Baptist schools was criticized in another resolution, and the convention voted unanimously to study an accusation that there was "destructive criticism of the Christian religion" by teachers in the classrooms of some state-supported schools.

A resolution had been offered the convention annulling such teaching and deploring the practice of school boards in Texas cities sponsoring dances. It was referred to the committee on resolutions, headed by the Rev. Millard A. Jenkins of Holme, which in turn recommended the committee be appointed to study the matter and refer it to the 1940 convention.

Sales Turnover At New High Levels

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—Retail sales turnover remained at substantially high levels this week despite a slight contraction in volume from the previous week. Dun & Bradstreet said today in a weekly survey.

"Active turnover was shared by practically all departments," the agency said, "although wearing apparel, particularly women's coats and furs was outstanding in most cities."

The increase above last year was placed at 8 to 16 per cent.

Lions Quarterly Zone Meetings To Be Abandoned

Elimination of the quarterly zone meetings and the substitution of a monthly meeting of an executive board composed of the presidents and secretaries of the clubs in the zone was decided upon at the Lions club zone meeting last night at the First Methodist church here.

The change is in conformity with a plan of the Lions International. Pampa, McLean, Clarendon, Miami, and Wheeler were represented at the banquet, ladies night, and business session of the zone meeting. Creed Bogan of McLean, zone chairman, presided over the business session, while Carl Benefield, president of the local club, was toastmaster at the banquet. Attendance totaled 112.

On account of illness, W. H. Patrick, Clarendon banker, who had been scheduled to make the main address, could not be present. Entertainment consisted in songs by the high school Melody Maids, a vocal trio, a man on the street broadcast act, and a ventriloquist number by Jack Johnson.

Activities Reported
Reports were made on the activities of each club. Principal items in the report of each club were: Wheeler, safety, securing traffic light at school intersection; Miami, recreation, helping obtain land for county park.

McLean, raising money for underprivileged children to help correct physical defects of children; Clarendon, providing cooling system for hospital, helping in correction of children's eye defects, hospitalization for underprivileged children.

Pampa, correction of eyesight of needy children, hospitalization of several needy cases, obtaining swim tickets for Boy Scout troop 16, the Lions club troop, donations to the Salvation Army presentation of trophies to Pampa High school, raising $300 on annual carnival.

BRITAIN

the past two or three days: What does the enigmatic Hitler really intend to do in the way of making war on the Allies?

Presumably the failure of the Belgian-Dutch mention effort is responsible for this renewed demand. Presumably, too, the public assigns the next move to the fuhrer because the Allies already have initiated a vigorous offensive with their most formidable weapon—the naval blockade.

Anyway, it's a legitimate query, especially in view of the fact that the war in the western theatre has potholed about for two and a half months without even getting its boots muddy.

It is only right to let the Germans give their own answer. Here is one from an authoritative source in Berlin, neither confirming nor disproving the British claim.

"We have no fear of attacking, but intend to let military judgment choose the time and not be goaded into it by foreign propaganda."

"No dice," protests a reader. "That doesn't tell anything."

But it does. It's the most illuminating word we've had on the subject from Nazidom.

It means either (1) that the German high command hasn't decided what is feasible for it to attempt, or (2) that it is stymied at present from carrying out such strategy as it would like to employ.

Otherwise we should have action, for time is fighting on the side of the Allies. Hitler needs his blitzkrieg.

This situation shouldn't mistakenly be taken as indicative that the Nazi high command is confused. The directing force of one of the greatest fighting machines the world has known doesn't get confused.

It can, however, come up against a stone wall, and that apparently is what has happened, at least temporarily. It's exactly the spot the Allies would be in as regards the making of an offensive if they were deprived of their blockade.

Brand New Conditions
We mustn't forget that this is a war of brand-new conditions. The land defenses of both sides are so nearly impregnable that to attack either of them would be like beating one's head against a rock.

There are vast new air-fleets, but since they are largely untried in action we don't know whether an armada virtually could erase a country overnight, or whether a massed attack might fizzle out like a wet fuse.

And there's another thing which we must remember. Because of these new conditions there is no limit to the extent of the disaster which might follow an error in judgment on the part of a high command.

A great army might be wiped out, or an air-fleet shot to pieces, endangering the whole military structure of the country adversely affected.

So the Germans undoubtedly are right not to allow themselves to be rushed into rashness. That, of course, doesn't alter the vital fact that they seem to be blocked at this moment from any feasible move.

It doesn't mean, however, that the obstacles necessarily are permanent.

Vets Must File For Bonus Money Soon

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—More than 140,000 World War veterans and their eligible dependents are likely to miss getting their "bonus" money if they don't hurry—in which case the treasury would save about $71,000,000.

The avowed Republican presidential candidate resumes Monday a western speaking tour interrupted by the recent special session of Congress.

His scheduled stops include: Amarillo and Wichita Falls, Tex., Nov. 25.

Proration Hearing Set For Dec. 15

AUSTIN, Nov. 17 (AP)—A sharp decline in bottomhole pressures in the vast East Texas field occupied most of the attention of the state oil commission at its monthly oil proration hearing today.

Dr. F. V. L. Patton, the commission's chief engineer said the average pressure Nov. 8 was 1,070.9 pounds, or 125 pounds lower than the low in the field before pressures increased during the August shut-down.

Any hope that the Texas production allowance next month would be larger than this month was dashed when the United States bureau of mines recommended output of 1,438,100 barrels per day, a drop of 5,900 from its recommendation for November.

The commission called a special hearing here December 15 on the general subject of East Texas production, with particular reference to claimed drainage of properties on the west side of the pool by other wells.

Patton said that despite the marked pressure drop there as yet had been "no appreciable physical waste because in general East Texas is an undersaturated field."

"In a small portion of the southeastern section of the field," he went on, "the gas has come out of solution."

Dr. Smith Tries To Commit Suicide

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 17 (AP)—The wife of Dr. James Monroe Smith, former Louisiana State university president, today attributed his suicide attempt on the eve of his scheduled departure for the state penitentiary to self-reproach for disgracing his career.

Although still weak from the loss of blood, Dr. Smith was believed well on his way to recovery in a sanitarium here today.

Outside his hospital room Smith's wife, red-eyed from weeping, gently told a reporter he must not interview the 52-year old educator.

"I understand that you have a story to write," she said, "but I wish that you would be as sympathetic as you possibly can."

Sheriff Newman H. Debreton said Dr. Smith used a razor blade yesterday to sever an artery in his foot and that the incident would delay taking the former educator to the penitentiary to start serving an 8-24 year term. He pleaded guilty to various charges of irregularities in handling funds of L. S. U.

Taft To Visit In Two Texas Cities

CLEVELAND, Nov. 17 (AP)—Senator Robert A. Taft (R-O) suggested in an address to the Ohio Chamber of Commerce today that Congress create "a budget committee" to police federal expenditures.

The avowed Republican presidential candidate resumes Monday a western speaking tour interrupted by the recent special session of Congress.

His scheduled stops include: Amarillo and Wichita Falls, Tex., Nov. 25.

'Evil Old Men And Wicked Old Women' Toast Garner

By OWEN W. CLEMENTS

DALLAS, Nov. 17 (AP)—Spittoons were placed 40 feet away from tobacco chewers and snuff dippers as a bunch of "evil old men and wicked old women" toasted Vice-President Garner with milk.

But don't be misled by the milk in their goblets, it was no namby-pamby affair.

The vile occasion was "dedicated to sin and corruption by the friends of the Honorable John N. Garner of Texas, vice-president of the United States of America."

If it smacked of decency or of law and order "such incident or incidents were purely co-incidental and had no reference to nice persons, living or dead," the bunch roared after a few rounds of liquid.

The rowdies, members of the Texas Editorial association and friends of the vice-president for 20 years, started "singing" precisely at 7:30 p. m. last night.

The dinner was inspired by a remark made by CIO President John L. Lewis. He called Mr. Garner "a poker playing, whiskey drinking evil old man."

Mr. Garner wasn't there. He was down in the brush country hanging at deer.

Through fire and brimstone and those scorching milk cocktails, the oldtimers waded. Then they emerged in a political field of daffodils, convinced the Democrats will nominate Mr. Garner in 1940 and elect him president.

They parked their Barlow knives, brass-knuckles and six-guns at the door. Only six axes were allowed in this poker game. An early check of the program revealed nobody dug up a seventh during the night.

The program of misdeeds included a round table discussion of the "best ways to sin."

The "evil-doers" gobbled up "wicked Texas grapefruit, repulsive celery hearts, corrupt olives, unwholesome Texas turkey, calamitous pickled-peaches, pernicious cranberry sauce, depraved lettuce, worthless French dressing, baleful ice cream and cake, and sinful rolls and butter"—a meal that would make any ordinary badman sick.

Some literate men among them went back to Milton for a slogan: "Evil which our misdeeds have wrought."

Land Operators Will Discuss Game Protection

A meeting of Gray county land operators interested in the protection of game and desirable wild life has been called for 2:30 p. m. Tuesday at the Odd Fellows hall in McLean, County Farm Agent Ralph R. Thomas said today.

Most of the land in the county suitable for game preserves is located near McLean and for this reason McLean has been chosen for the meeting.

Ranchmen and other landowners are noting the increase in the number of prairie chicken and quail in the county, as the result of game demonstrations held in Gray last year, in which 43 landowners were enrolled.

There was one 35 section ranch and one 30 section ranch in the land covered by the demonstrations, Mr. Thomas said.

No permanent organization to carry on the program has been planned to date, but discussion of an organization and of uniform rules relative to the conserving of game throughout the county will be undertaken at the meeting next week.

Game demonstrations are administered over the state through the state extension service.

President Laughs Long And Loudly

EYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 17 (AP)—President Roosevelt laughed long and loudly today when reporters told him there had been considerable speculation about what he meant when, in laying the cornerstone for the Jefferson Memorial in Washington Wednesday, he said he hoped by January, 1941, to be able to return for the dedication of the memorial itself.

Slapping a hand on his knee at a press conference, the Chief Executive chuckled that he had made the remark deliberately, but he still did not amplify it.

There had been numerous attempts to analyze his statement about January, 1941, to see whether it would throw any light on the third term issue.

The President's present term expires on January 20, 1941. The memorial will be dedicated the same month, but Mr. Roosevelt did not indicate Wednesday whether he hoped to return for that ceremony before or after January 20, or as a government official or private citizen.

of a truck 15 miles from here on the Seguin highway.

What Is YOUR Favorite Dish?

Sandy MacTavish likes oatmeal and Yang Tso Lin likes rice; in Italy it's spaghetti and Merry England goes for roast beef. But what is America's favorite dish? Is it ham and eggs? Is it steak and onions? Is it pie a la mode or strawberry shortcake or corn on the cob—or what?

Or what? Do you know the answer? Does anybody? Truth is, America has no one favorite dish! Southern fried chicken goes over big these days in Vermont and there are lots of folks in Texas who like Boston baked beans. A man in Topeka craves oysters on the half shell; and whole townships nestled up under the Canadian border sing hymns of praise for the chili con carne of the Rio Grande.

For Americans—when it come to food—like everything! Our tastes are the most varied and widespread in the entire world.

What is YOUR favorite dish? You probably have more than you can count! Or, if you haven't, you should be ashamed of yourself. For the makin's of each and every one, from onion soup to baked Alaska, are no further away than your favorite grocery store, as near as your telephone. Your grocer has them all; and if you don't believe us, just look at the food ads in this issue and see!

Hundreds of years ago a very wise man said, "There is no fun like eating"—but today, everything about food is fun, and dining is our great national indoor sport. What can compare to the lark of planning a meal, inviting your friends, scheming to surprise them? What's greater fun than going shopping in a modern, well-appointed grocery store? What's easier than cooking a feast to a king's taste in an up-to-date, handsome kitchen with range, sink, refrigerator, table and gadgets all within arm's length?

Whatever It Is Your Grocer Has It!

Some Cheated Death; One Didn't

Happy indeed were these weary survivors (above) of torpedoed S. S. City of Mandalay when, after bobbing on Atlantic for hours, they sighted American ship Independence Hall coming to their assistance. Cooperative Medical Plan Works Okay

By JACK B. KRUEGER. DALLAS, Nov. 17 (AP)-Out in the grass-roots sections of Texas and Oklahoma the federal government quietly has been experimenting with a cooperative plan to make its debtor farmers healthier, and the plan has been found good.

Regional director C. M. Evans took the wraps off the new plan today and explained its workings. The government, along with its loans for farm operation, lends the farmers up to about $28 (varying with size of family and ability to repay) which goes into a pool for all the families participating.

County medical associations which agree to the plan then supply special medical care. This varies, according to the wealth of the pool. Some furnish ordinary office attention, to medicine, medical attention and emergency operations and tooth extractions.

The farmers name a committee whose function is to see that money is used in the manner the available funds. If for instance young farmer Brown gets himself out in a dance-hall fight, the committee seeks to learn if the fault was his. If it was not he is charged against the pool.

Participating farmers can call the doctor of their choice. The year's pool is divided into monthly quotas and if there is not enough money to pay all bills in any one month, each doctor was paid his pro rata share.

Out of 3,400 infants, 1,153 were born this year to farm families without the services of a physician; in 16,091 cases of serious illness, 53 per cent were without a doctor's care.

Half a million dollars in doctors' bills is owed by farmers who have about 50 per cent of farm mothers have permanent disabilities because of lack of pre-and post-natal attention.

In the piney woods-sandy section of East Texas, stretching from Texarkana to Beaumont, there are counties with a high incidence of hookworm and malaria, pellagra, and other diseases. There is a terrible, still hangs on in isolated spots.

Headlining the convention's last day was a report scheduled from the Rev. Mildred A. Jenkins of Abilene on resolutions. Dr. J. M. Dawson of Waco brought the annual memorial for ministers and members of the church who died during the past year, and Dr. J. A. Ellis of Sherman brought the report of the committee to nominate trustees for the Baptist foundation and members of the executive board for the convention.

Hitler Success Will Depend On Nazi Fortitude

By DEWITT MCKENZIE. More and more it looks as though Hitler's success or failure in this war will depend on how stout the hearts of his people are in enduring the hardships of war.

He is drawing on their fortitude right at the outset of a life and death struggle when their morale—their will to do—should be stimulated to the highest degree. He is banking on the efficacy of the Nazi discipline which he has imposed.

I can't get out of my mind the brief Berlin announcement putting the general public on a fire-free ration, in addition to the food restrictions already existing.

This order limits men to one suit, one shirt and five pairs of socks annually. Women are permitted one suit, one morning dress and six pairs of stockings. Children's allowances correspond.

Maybe as a native of northern New England, where we eat steak and pie for breakfast and wear ear-laps in winter, I place too much importance on food and clothing—but I don't think so, when it comes to the present situation. I saw civilians die of starvation in the last war, and was on the ground when Germany was beaten, by hunger.

To me the question of supplies, especially as relating to public morale, is the one on which Germany will stand or fall.

Be that as may be, the Reich has piled up reserve supplies—just how many nobody except officialdom knows. It has been announced that there is more than a full year's reserve of wheat and rye on hand—8,600,000 tons.

Officials claim that so long as Germany has fairly good harvests and the Balkan granaries remain open, the grain reserve need not be touched. Indeed, they boast that they can defy the blockade.

Many neutral economic experts get a different slant on the situation. Germany's grain supply is 20 per cent of her food. The Balkans cannot supply this deficiency, although Russia possibly could if she would. There are vital war materials which neither the Balkans nor Russia can produce—and the blockade cuts those off.

One of Germany's great difficulties is that she lacks cash with which to buy from those neutrals still open to her.

Shamrock Ruled District Champions Over McLean

Paavo Pastes Up for Air Raid.

Paavo Nurmi, famous distance runner, glues paper slips on window of his Helsinki haberdashery just in case there is an air raid.

SHAMROCK, Nov. 17-The Shamrock Fishermen are champions of football district 3-A and will play the champion of district 4-A for the bi-district title.

Shamrock was named district titlist at a meeting of the district committee in Wellington last night when it was ruled that the tie game between Shamrock and McLean would go as a tie, each team being given a half point. As McLean had previously lost to Clarendon, the decision left Shamrock in first place with only a tie against their record.

Clarendon jumped into 2nd place with one loss while McLean has one loss and a tie.

It will probably be a month before the playoff for District 4-A teams have more games to play. At the present time Lockney is leading the parade with three wins against no losses.

Ghost Letter-Writers Told By Wallace To Get That Home Touch

By EDDIE GILMORE. WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)-A ghost is lurking in the agriculture department these days, haunting the daylight of the ghost-writers who pen some of Secretary Wallace's letters.

In a department as big as this one, it is obvious that it would be nearly impossible for one man to answer all the letters. That is the reason there are ghost-writers who draft replies to ordinary mail for Wallace to sign. The same procedure is used throughout the government.

Either something has been going wrong with the agriculture department ghosts, or the secretary is continually striving for better letter-writing for three times this year new memoranda have gone out to the ghosts.

"Informally and naturalness," say the latest instructions, "are appropriate in letters signed by the secretary."

To get this it is suggested that the secretary's letter should say "I" rather than "we."

The ghosts then are given 21 expressions to avoid. Among them are "beg to advise," "in view of the fact," "instant, ultimo or proximo" and "I am taking the liberty of."

Always seeking to get that homey touch, the ghosts are told to avoid formal language. They are not to say so far as, "How's the little woman and the kids?" but, says the instructions, instead of writing "I enclose for your letter is acknowledged with thanks," make the secretary say:

"Thank you for your letter." "Like most everything else, the secretary needs good closing lines." "With kind regards," however, is out.

Baptist Youth Group Meets In White Deer

WHITE DEER, Nov. 17-About 75 members of the young people's division of the Associational Training Union attended a social meeting at the Baptist church here Monday evening.

Miss Odessie Howell then gave an illustrated talk on "A Plan for a Life."

Following the program, a number of lively contests were directed by Miss Howell.

Refreshments of sandwiches, pumpkin pie with whipped cream, and cocoa were served by Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Stovall, sponsors of the White Deer Senior union, and Mr. and Mrs. Meek.

Do You Lend A Helping Hand? His own teacher tried to discourage him from becoming a pianist, saying he had slight talent for it. He had a young wife and a crippled son to support and he had lost all across Europe, giving concerts for m-a-g-e-r returns to earn bread for his family. Thus he worked without recognition, until he was 30.

Chance took him to a Polish summer resort where the great actress, Helena Modjeska, was appearing. Her name was magic in the theater; the whole world toasted her. The pianist confided to her his ambition to become a great concert artist—a vain hope, it seemed, which he was destined never to realize.

"Let us," suggested Modjeska, "give a joint concert in Cracow. You will play the piano, I will give dramatic recitations."

The gracious suggestion was carried out. Modjeska's name was enough to fill the theater. No one knew or cared who was the unknown pianist billed with her. But after the concert his name was on every lip. His climb up the ladder of fame well started.

The young pianist was Ignace Jan Paderewski.

William Allen White, famous writer and editor of the Emporia Gazette, received a letter one day from a newspaperman whom he had never seen. The letter was written on the stationery of the Keeley Institute, and the writer confessed that he was taking the drink cure. He wanted a job in a prohibition office, such as Emporia.

The drink habit ordinarily is no recommendation for hiring a man, but Editor White never thought of that. He wrote his correspondent to show up and go to work. He ordered his business manager to see that the new employee had spending money, clothes, a meal ticket and a good room. Then White went off to write a novel.

When he came back he found his new employee writing half the paper, steaming full speed ahead on the careers which finally made him one of America's most popular syndicated verifiers. The man Editor White took a chance on was the late Wait Mason—"Your Life" magazine.

SERIAL STORY BY TOM HORNER 5 WOULD KILL

Yesterday a taxi stops in front of Benthorpe's shortly before midnight. An Officer Flynn questions the driver and the two passengers...

CHAPTER III "It's murder, all right," Captain Dawson of the homicide squad agreed with the coroner's deputy...

The deputy nodded. "Mr. Benthorpe evidently was expecting his visitor"—he glanced upward at the lamp shade, still turned toward the door...

"Someone might have turned him over," Dawson supplied. "I doubt that," the coroner continued. "Blood flowed directly from the wound to the carpet. There was no trickle across the face—and killers don't wipe off the faces of their victims."

"The gun?" "The revolver is in a drawer to the right. If, seated in his chair, Benthorpe had jumped for the gun, his body would have fallen to the right. As it was, he fell to the left. He must have been reaching for a left-hand drawer, and was completely off balance."

"There's nothing but a check-book, a diary, a box of cigars, and a few letters in that left drawer. The others are empty," Dawson interrupted.

"You've got all the pictures and everything you want now?" he went on. The deputy nodded. "Then take the body to the city morgue. Hold it there until you hear from me. I don't want to talk to reporters until morning."

Dawson turned to a detective, busy at the window. "Any fingerprints?" "Not a one, or footprints either. That rain—"

"But you do think someone came in that window?" "I'm sure, sir. The sill has a mark that might have been made by a rubber sole. The person who came through the window knew what he was doing. He wore gloves, wiped the sill off after he had climbed out, and was careful to walk lightly. What tracks he did leave were washed out by the rain, and you can't track him on the sidewalk."

"Could that mark have been made earlier—before tonight—planted there to make us think someone did go out that window?" Dawson shot at him.

"That's possible, Captain, but I doubt if it would have been so heavy—" "The person who made it could have marked it heavily to be sure the rain didn't wash it off, couldn't he?" Dawson countered.

The detective nodded. "Okay," Dawson went on. "Let me have a full report as soon as possible. And send up the pictures. And have Dan Flynn come in here right away. He's with the prisoners in the front room. I'm giving them time to think up good stories!"

"I'll send him, Captain." The detective closed the door. Dawson was alone in the study. He walked to the door, surveyed the scene. The light caught him full in the face. The open safe, the bookcase pulled out. Had Benthorpe done that? Or had someone actually been in the room after Benthorpe was shot?

Benthorpe's fall to the left of the desk might be explained if the killer had entered through the window. But surely, Dawson thought, Benthorpe would have heard the window opening. No man would have a window open wide in last night's rainstorm. The curtain would have been soaked. The shade was dry, although the curtains and the carpet beneath the window were wet. Dawson remembered seeing the shade drawn when he checked Flynn at 11:30.

Absently, Dawson picked up the desk pen, began to draw "doodles" on the blotter. The pen was dry. He shook it. Ink flowed easily. He replaced the pen in its holder, realizing that he had picked it up from the desk. So Benthorpe had been writing. What?

"YOU wanted me, Captain?" Patrolman Dan Flynn asked from the doorway. "Yes, Flynn. I want to hear your whole story over again. You can skip about those kids wanting to get married. Tell me what happened after you heard the shot."

"It was just as I told you at first, sir," Flynn began. "I blows my whistle, when the taxicab pulled away, and went for my gun. But the cab turned the first corner. I stood there for a minute or so—no more than two—and then I hears a shot. "I runs to the front door, and almost ran into Krone's gun as he came racing around the house—" "You mean Krone left his post?" Dawson put in.

I will be killed tonight! My luck has run out. I have been wanted. That anonymous news telephone call. The black cat that ran across the driveway tonight. That light on a match. I've had special police protect all around the house but they can't save me. But before I die there are five persons who would rather see me dead than alive. My wife, Helen Benthorpe, William Alston, my father-in-law and former partner, Joseph de Tordo, the gangster, a woman named Eva and an old prospector, known as 'Big Red'. I hate all of them, and I know they hate me. I leave this list that the police may know these five would kill me.

Mouth open, Flynn stared at Benthorpe's note. "I will be killed tonight," he began.

"It was my fault, sir," Flynn explained. "I shouldn't have blown my whistle. We pounded on the front door and at last this butler—Jameson—comes down and lets us in. "We found Mrs. Benthorpe rattling the doorknob and trying to open the door. It was locked, apparently from the inside, for there was no key in the outside lock."

Special To The NEWS
HOPKINS, Nov. 17—The Parent-Teacher meeting was opened Wednesday afternoon with the singing of "America," led by A. W. Coltharp.

W. M. Parker discussed Book Week and gave the statistics of public and rural libraries in Texas. Books around the world is the slogan, stated Mr. Parker, and a better understanding and good fellowship exists when we better know the other fellow.

A better understanding of foreign people will be gained through the reading of books, also a broader outlook on life and a more tolerant viewpoint.

Laycock Speaks
 Hueyn Laycock of Hopkins No. 1 was the next speaker on the program. His subject for the afternoon was "Learning the Ways of Democracy."

On opening his talk on democracy he stated that first of all, people compose a democratic government and to have a worth while democracy individuals must be interested and take part in their local, state, and national government.

Mr. Laycock pointed out some of the dangers in a democratic form of government.

Gratitude Questioned
 In Texas, he stated, the rural state aid to schools guarantees equal opportunity to all to attain an education, but, he asked, are we grateful for our privileges granted us under our democratic form of government?

Cotton Receipts At Wheeler At Low Ebb

Special To The NEWS
WHEELER, Nov. 17—Wheeler county cotton production this year is only slightly above the low mark set in 1937, according to a recent check of gin receipts in Wheeler. Practically all of the cotton crop has been ginned.

Only 472 bales have been ginned to date. In 1937 at the corresponding period the total was 454. At the same time of year in 1938, the receipts were 775 bales.

A shortage of cotton, and the low price, is exerting a bearish effect on local trade conditions.

Reports from other Panhandle cotton-growing counties reflect the Wheeler situation, especially in the six counties of the lower Panhandle.

Soul And Body To Be Sermon Subject
 "Soul and Body" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientists, on Sunday, November 19. The Golden Text is: "What? know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you, which ye have of God, and ye are not your own?" (1 Corinthians 6:19).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "In this was manifested the love of God toward us, because that God sent his only begotten Son into the world, that we might live through Him" (1 John 4:9).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "There is neither growth, maturity, nor decay in Soul. These changes are the mutations of material sense, the varying clouds of mortal belief, which hide the truth of being" (page 310).
