CRIS BRING HELP AFTER THREE HOURS

Quartet Suspends Him and Adds Taunts for His Not Having Heeded Threats Made in Recent Letters.

IN CHURCH ROW

His Sympathy With Baptist Pastor Said to Have Inspired Affair; He Fails to Recognize Assailants.

DALLAS, June 18. (AP)—Four men hanged R. P. Brown, occasional preacher and employe in the baggage department of a Dallas hotel, to a chandelier in the North Dallas Baptist church early today. His outcries aroused residents of the neighborhood, who rescued him. The men had abducted him as he was en route home from work.

Brown drew up his feet and rested his weight on the altar of the pulpit from which he has preached many times to the congregation of the little church.

His outcries brought residents of the neighborhood to his rescue at 4:30 a. m.

Brown reported to officers that he and the Rev. H. P. Marler, pastor of the church, had received numerous threatening letters the last three months.

Didn't Know Men

As he was en route to his home from work, shortly after midnight, a man with a gun stepped in front of him and commanded him to walk to the church. Near the church three other men joined them. Brown did not recognize any of them.

The four men stripped Brown of all his clothing, tied his hands behind him and pulled his feet up behind him to meet his bound wrists, tying them together. Then jerked the supply pastor up to the chandelier by a new rope with which a hangman's noose had been tied about his neck. Brown was saved from death by the fact that the rope stretched and he was able to swing around until he rested his weight on the altar.

After standing in the church for a few minutes, taunting Brown for not heeding the threat letters, the men left. Brown remained in that position about three hours before being rescued.

Friend of Pastor

City detectives today were given a stack of about fifteen letters, printed crudely on rough paper, which had been received by Marler and Brown. It was expected that federal officers would be asked to investigate the sending of the letters through the mail.

Mrs. Brown told newspaper men this morning that her husband was a good friend of Pastor Marler and in her opinion, the attack was made "in an effort to get Mr. Marler."

She said attempts had been made by certain persons recently to persuade Mr. Marler to resign his pastorate but that he had refused. She said her husband had upheld the pastor in controversies which had arisen within the church congregation. Marler would not comment on the occurrence.

Even while newspapermen sought information about the hanging this morning, the church began to fill with attendants for the morning service of a revival meeting started last Sunday with the Rev. McKinley Norman as evangelist.

Marler completed his third year Jan. 1 as pastor of the church. He came to Dallas from McAlester, Okla. Brown, a resident of Dallas about 12 years ago under the sponsorship of Rev. Mr. Marler.

Business Firms To Close Friday for Rail Meeting

Pledges to close their places of business between 9:30 and 11:30 o'clock tomorrow morning and attend the railroad night-of-way mass meeting in the city auditorium had been made by most merchants and business men in Pampa at noon today.

There was every indication that the mayor's proclamation ordering a holiday and requesting business men to close up shop and attend the meeting would be observed almost 100 per cent. The meeting was announced at civic clubs yesterday and today and members pledged their attendance.

The problem of furnishing right-of-way for the Childress-Pampa branch of the Fort Worth and Denver, will be discussed and an attempt will be made to solve it. The Denver wants to start building the road late this summer or postpone it a year or two. The railway company will start construction of the road in Pampa and other towns will guarantee to furnish right-of-way. Other towns along the route have promised to turn over guarantees as soon as Pampa does.

Better Weather Prospects Cause Fliers to Groom Their Machines

NEW YORK, June 18. (AP)—Good weather prospects today gave fliers starting trans-Atlantic flights some hope.

Dr. James H. Kimball, government forecaster, noted general improvement in conditions and the absence of headwinds over the Atlantic. He advised that there is no start will visibility at sea improved.

His announcement started activity at various Long Island fields. Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, who want to circle the globe, hoped to be the first to get away. Their plane was already loaded and fueled at Roosevelt field. They intended to fly to Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, before crossing the Atlantic.

Miss Ruth Nichols, who plans a solo flight to Paris, tested her plane in a dash from New York to Baltimore yesterday and made arrangements for a possible start today for Harbor Grace.

At Floyd Bennett field, Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon Jr. are conducting tests with a plane in preparation for a flight to Moscow, and thence round-the-world.

Mighty Fishing Tales Brought by Pampa Nimrods; And Some Proof

Pampa fishermen were tormented with the thought this morning that all the fish in the streams and lakes of New Mexico were caught during the week-end by a party of go-getting trout fanciers who returned to Pampa last night with astounding snapshots and tall tales. Also, each of the six brought back evidence of their skill and veracity in the shape of trout that measured from 12 to 18 inches in length.

The party included Dr. V. E. von Brunow, Joe Lazarus, Otto Studer, August A. Gordon, Frank Soodhalter, and "Diamond Sam" Fenberg.

Otto Studer was given most of the credit for the success of the fishing trip. "He nosed out the places where he thought fish would be and bit," Joe said, "and all we had to do was throw our lines."

Mellon Accused of Poor Judgment in Huge Bond Issue

LAREDO, June 18. (AP)—Congressman John Garner of Uvalde said here today he believed Secretary of the Treasury Mellon had made a mistake in offering $800,000,000 treasury certificates at 3 1/8 per cent interest. He said he advised Secretary Mellon the issue undoubtedly would be oversubscribed at 3 per cent.

Garner expressed dissatisfaction at the uneven distribution of wealth over the country. "For more than 100 years we have been feeding New England and concentrating money there," he asserted. "The time has come for this money to be more evenly distributed and Texas should get its share. The state of Rhode Island, no larger than Webb county, paid more inheritance taxes last year than the entire state of Texas."

STERLING HAS FEELING THAT PLAN TO FAIL

Declares East Texans to Be for Proration Law When Cranfill Scheme Proves to Be Ineffective.

MEETING IS HELD

Special Committee Takes Steps to Effect Curtailment; Cooperation Believed to Be Gratifying.

AUSTIN, June 18. (AP)—Gov. Ross S. Sterling said today that a special session of the legislature seemed nearer instead of farther away as a result of recent developments in the East Texas oil situation.

Most East Texans believe that the Cranfill plan of stabilization to be started voluntarily this week, will not work, Governor Sterling said. In that event, those sponsoring the plan will join in the demand for remedial legislation, the chief executive said he had been informed.

The success of the plan hinges on the support of the virtually 100 per cent of the operators. If a few "kicks over the traces" the form-chaos will be restored, those familiar with the situation say.

Governor Sterling said the plan would be a fine thing if it worked. He stated he had advised all except one East Texas representative would support a bill to strengthen the proration powers of the railroad commission if the new plan should fail.

Young Vanderbilt Incensed Over Artist's Attention to Wife

RENO, Nevada, June 18. (AP)—Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. was "sorry" today that he had "nothing to say" concerning the latest episode in his stormy career—a reported rift with his wife over alleged attentions paid her by Peter Arno, noted cartoonist here for divorce.

Neither would Mrs. Vanderbilt or Arno comment on reports Vanderbilt had gone gunning for Arno but had changed his mind before reaching the Arno residence and returned to his own home.

Chief of Police J. M. Kirkley said last night Arno had come to him Tuesday asking for protection from Vanderbilt, who, he said, had threatened to do him "bodily harm."

Kirkley said he had told Arno he was "big enough to take care of himself," and that if anyone was bothering him "to go punch him on the jaw."

Arno made no mention, Kirkley said, of any attempt by Vanderbilt to shoot him. This also was confirmed by Clyde D. Souter, Arno's attorney, who said that "if any such statement had been made by anyone it is absolutely untrue, and not founded in fact. No such occurrence took place at any time or place."

The only mention of difficulties in the Vanderbilt household was by Vanderbilt's own attorney, Samuel Platt, who issued a statement in which he said "Vanderbilt for some time has been incensed over attentions that Arno has been paying Mrs. Vanderbilt."

Biggest Dry Offensive In History of Prohibition Preceded by Study

WASHINGTON, June 18. (AP)—The zero hour for the biggest sustained offensive in prohibition history against leaders of the illicit liquor industry was set for July 15 today by federal officials.

Exactly 15 days before that date, Prohibition Director Woodcock said, a corps of 350 new dry agents will be concentrated in a dozen cities from coast to coast for an intensive two-weeks training course.

Added to the present force of more than 1,500 to make it the biggest and best trained federal dry army in history, he said, they will be instructed specifically to concentrate on the large scale commercial violators and the higher-ups of the liquor gangs, leaving the speakeasy and small-time bootlegger principally to local enforcement.

Woodcock acknowledged that for the past two or three months his office had been "bending every effort" toward the date when these new men, selected from among thousands of applicants, could be thrown into the field.

Already 150 of the new agents authorized by congress have been thrown against the Volstead law breakers. Woodcock laid out for this number against the criticism of the Wickersham commission and its recommendation to President Hoover and to congress that this figure be doubled.

Aged Arizona Man, Penniless, Kills Self With Pistol at Lubbock Camp

LUBBOCK, June 18. (AP)—Laying a gun to his head as he lay in bed with his wife in a tourist camp near here, A. F. Wilson, 74, of Phoenix, Ariz., shot himself early today.

A coroner's verdict of suicide was returned after an investigation.

The widow said her husband had threatened to "end it all" recently. A party of five people, all related, was with Wilson en route to visit relatives in Oklahoma. They had less than $3 in cash among them.

Huge Liquor Haul May Result In Investigation by Federal Agents

Sheriff Lon L. Blanscet is considering today whether to turn over to federal prohibition agents at Amarillo a prisoner arrested in connection with the biggest liquor haul ever made in Gray county.

The sheriff and his deputies seized 1,346 gallons of whiskey in the garage at the rear of a vacant house on McLean last night.

The single arrest is being held in the Gray county jail here and no charges have been filed against him. He refused to make any sort of statement to officers.

Sheriff Blanscet said today he had learned that trucks bearing Oklahoma licenses unloaded the whiskey about 10 o'clock, Tuesday night. It is believed that the huge amount of contraband liquor involved a conspiracy among "big shots" of the bootleg industry in Western Oklahoma.

Assault Charge Is Filed by Physician—Three Men Held

A charge of assault was preferred against a local man by Dr. D. E. Whittenberg in justice court this morning in connection with an alleged attack made upon Dr. Whittenberg's small son in a draw north of the Sam Houston school last night.

The man and two other men were being held in the county jail. According to testimony offered in justice court, Dr. Whittenberg's son and two other boys of his age were riding their bicycles in that vicinity last night. They heard a noise in the hollow. As they left, one of the three men threw a beer bottle striking the child on the back. Other bottles were thrown, the boys said.

Officers of the constable's department were notified and they went to the creek and confiscated about three dozen bottles of beer. Two men were arrested, and early this morning another man was arrested. The latter said he had come for a truck which was being used to tow a car out of the creek.

Officers said they were forced to fire several shots before arresting the men. Charges of vagrancy and intoxication were filed.

Al Morris of Amarillo is here on business.

ENGINE MAN FALLS UNDER CAR WHEELS

M. Paul Wilson Dies Following Mishap in Which Right Arm and Leg Were Severed About 1 o'Clock.

OF SAN ANGELO

Funeral Service Will Be Planned After Survivors Arrive; Victim Is Rushed Quickly to Hospital.

His right limbs and side crushed beneath the grinding wheels of a freight car, M. Paul Wilson, 30, Santa Fe engine foreman in the local rail yards, died from external injuries and loss of blood in a local hospital at 10 o'clock this morning.

The accident occurred at 1:10 a. m. in the yards directly opposite the Gray County creamery. In an effort to save his life, his right foot and right arm were amputated. Both were badly mangled and crushed.

Although no one saw the accident, according to local railway officials, it is believed that Mr. Wilson missed his footing as he stepped from a freight car to the rear of the engine. E. L. Anderson, Santa Fe employe, saw him climbing down from the top of the freight car but did not see him fall. The accident was discovered as soon as it happened and the victim was taken to the hospital in a Stephenson ambulance.

The engine had only one car attached to it and the wheels of it crushed the right side of the trainman. He also suffered injuries on the head.

Wilson is survived by his wife and two children of Pampa, mother and step-father of San Angelo, and a sister, all of whom were en route to Pampa today. Funeral services will be announced after they arrive. The Wilsons moved here 16 months ago from San Angelo where he was employed by the Santa Fe.

Wilson was engine foreman of the night shift from 7:30 p. m. until 3:30 a. m.

Canadian Band in Trip Here Today

To advertise the rodeo to be held at Anvil Park Lake, July 4, the Canadian Chamber of Commerce band this morning made its third annual trip to Pampa. After parading through the streets of Pampa, the Canadian party left for McLean where they hoped to arrive in time for dinner.

The motor caravan of 14 cars was commanded by C. A. Studer, secretary of the Anvil Park Rodeo association, and contained besides the 25 members of the band, 30 Canadian business men.

While in Pampa the rodeo boosters gathered at the north entrance of the city hall where the band played several numbers followed by a short talk by Mr. Studer. Mr. Studer was introduced by George W. Briggs, secretary of the Pampa Board of City Development.

Today's itinerary of the Canadian rodeo boosters included Pampa, McLean, Shamrock, Wheeler, Mobeetie, and Bristow. This will be the ninth year that the Anvil Park rodeo has been given.

INVESTING IN OUR FUTURE

An investment in the future usually pays big dividends. Colleges exist because they provide training intended to be of use through life. Hard work is advised because it gives experience upon which to draw through the years.

The Pampa-Childress railroad is such an investment for this city. Providing the right-of-way is not a form of donation, from a city building standpoint, but a wise investment. Completion of the road would enhance property values in this county and in Pampa proper.

Pampa has been built upon the belief that it would remain a city of 10,000 persons or more. Should it drop below that figure, many business institutions would be seriously crippled. Securing of the Denver road would do more than anything else in sight to provide local stability.

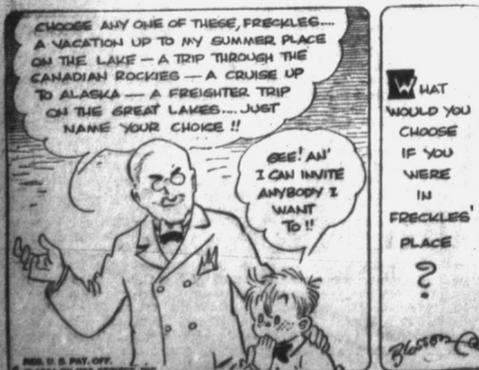

Good business judgment demands that the shining rails from the Central Texas railroad system be brought into Pampa. We have fought hard and tugged the project uphill to bring the project to its present point. This fighting city cannot afford to falter on the threshold of a great civic victory.

It is nice and cool half a mile straight up, but there are no golf courses up there.

There are many folks who have things for which to be thankful. For instance, the crew of the arctic sub Nautilus no doubt is thankful that the engines did not fail 500 miles from base and several fathoms beneath the ice.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

By Blosser

By RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON, June 18. (NEA).—The Interstate Commerce Commission is the most important tribunal in this country except the United States supreme court.

The railroads of America now come before it, insisting that restoration of prosperity hinges largely on its attitude toward their petition for a 15 per cent increase in freight rates. Opponents of the increase argue that the I. C. C., by granting it, would further intensify the depression.

Whole industries and sections have often held that their economic welfare depended on the commission. So it seems obviously worth while to inquire into such a body, its history, its personnel, its problems and its mode of operation. There are these elementary facts:

The I. C. C. has 11 presidentially appointed members who operate with about 2000 employes in a wide, deep, 11-story building on upper Pennsylvania avenue a couple of blocks from the White House.

It wields more power and transacts more business than any other independent federal commission or any federal court but the very highest.

It deals with vast amounts of money—as in the case of the 12 billion dollar difference of opinion about the value of the railroads—and it may decide whether you pay a few dollars more or less on your new automobile.

It is the oldest of the federal regulatory commissions, forerunner of such groups as the Tariff Commission, Federal Trade Commission, Federal Reserve Board and Federal Power Commission.

Today it is empowered to fix both maximum and minimum railroad rates. It controls the issuance of railway securities. It insures adequate service to the country and may either permit or require the abandonment or construction of new railroad mileage. It promulgates and enforces safety regulations on all railroads. Its findings of fact are final and there is no appeal from its decisions except on points of law.

Rate discriminations caused the most resentment and led to the Granger movement and passage of regulatory laws in states of the West and Northwest. But the supreme court ruled that the states could not, by regulations, taxes or tolls directed at the carriers, interfere with interstate commerce. After various attempts at national legislation the I. C. C. was created not to regulate interstate commerce but to regulate railroads.

The original purpose of this commission was to secure just and reasonable charges, eliminate unjust discrimination in service and undue preferences to corporations or localities, abolish combinations for freight poolings and in general to equalize rates and service.

What power the commission then had was gradually whittled down by the supreme court, which finally killed its regulatory powers in 1897 by deciding that it could not set rates. Gradually, however, the commission has regained its powers by acts of congress and has been granted many new and more sweeping ones. For many years the railroads fought the commission and any extension of its powers at every turn, lobbying in congress and hollering in the courts, but in the last decade or so they have come to agree that it is a necessary institution and furnishes them much needed protection.

With hot weather here, it is well to look questioningly at everything which is put into the mouth. It is particularly advisable for campers to avoid creek water and to dodge ham and eggs from the roadside eating places. Don't share your meal with flies.

Walsh Directs Pointed Questions To U. S. President

WASHINGTON, June 18. (AP) — Pointed questions as to President Hoover's knowledge of Warren G. Harding's "dim realization" that some of his trusted friends had betrayed him, have been directed at the chief executive by Senator Walsh of Montana.

Walsh was the democratic prosecutor in the senate investigation that disclosed the teapot dome and Elk Hills oil lease scandals of the Harding administration, in which Hoover was secretary of commerce.

In a statement through the democratic national committee, Walsh in referring to Hoover's dedication of the Harding memorial said: "That was an interesting bit of history introduced Tuesday by President Hoover into his speech at Marion, Ohio, namely that the realization by President Harding that he had been betrayed by a few of the men whom he had trusted, was a contributing cause of his death."

Walsh asked if Harding "had such knowledge why did he not peremptorily dismiss them from the public service and cause to be instituted those prosecutions to which they later became subjects?"

"Was the president's information," he continued, "that Harding had a 'dim realization' of the fact that he, and, of course, the country as well, had been betrayed acquired before or after the death of Harding? If after, who was his informant and, if before, why did he remain inactive, being one of the constitutional advisers of the president?"

Fall was secretary of the interior, and was convicted of accepting a $100,000 bribe from Edward L. Doheny. Daugherty handed in his resignation as attorney general at the request of President Coolidge. Forbes became involved in his administration of the veterans bureau and Miller, likewise as alien property custodian. Both were imprisoned.

Walsh asked if Harding "had such knowledge why did he not peremptorily dismiss them from the public service and cause to be instituted those prosecutions to which they later became subjects?"

"Was the president's information," he continued, "that Harding had a 'dim realization' of the fact that he, and, of course, the country as well, had been betrayed acquired before or after the death of Harding? If after, who was his informant and, if before, why did he remain inactive, being one of the constitutional advisers of the president?"

SPLIT IN TEXAS LEAGUE SEASON REGARDED AS CERTAIN

SIX VOTES TO DECIDE WHAT STEP TO TAKE

Bottom Clubs Are Sure To Be For Plan, Also Leading Outfit.

By BILL PARKER

Associated Press Sports Writer.

DALLAS, June 18. (AP)—The deadline for splitting the current Texas league pennant race is only eleven days away and while no official announcement has come from President Gardner's office at Wichita Falls, it is the consensus of Texas league sport writers that the league marathon will be a two-way affair with the first half closing July 3, and the second half opening July 4.

President Gardner, now touring Texas league cities, when asked for an expression on the split, said it was strictly within the control of Texas league magnates, but that a split would be no surprise.

Under a new Texas league rule, club moguls must cast their respective "aye" and "nay" five days in advance of the proposed split. This means the votes must be polled and accepted by Gardner by midnight June 25. After the vote, there will be five more playing days in the first half, and with Beaumont, Houston and Fort Worth within a few points of each other, the lead could easily switch within five days.

It will be necessary for six of the eight clubs to vote "aye" on the split before it can become effective. Regardless of which club is on top when the vote is polled, if at all, it is the belief that the leader will vote "aye" and take a chance on staying up there five days longer.

There is no doubt about the dissenting votes—they will not come from the lower division—not with San Antonio, Dallas, Shreveport and Galveston completely out of the running without some sort of a miracle to put them up there, and a split seems to be their only chance of such a miracle.

That gives the proposed split four sure votes with two needed from the upper division. It is not taking much for granted to write that the leader on June 25 will vote for the split and take its chances on staying at the pinnacle for five days. This gives the split five votes with three clubs remaining in doubt. Wichita Falls has never been strong for a split. This would leave the final decision up to Houston and Beaumont with Fort Worth the go-between club.

Clarence Mitchell has been in professional baseball since 1909. He has been nearly 19 years in major league company since Cincinnati first obtained him from Denver. He is now serving his fifth National league club, the Giants. He is 40 years old. He is one of four major league survivors of the original moist-ball squad.

By most any system of figuring, Clarence Mitchell should be through, washed up or retired. There are laws of averages to show this should be so.

Nevertheless Mitchell is enjoying the second of his best two seasons on record. He was never a winning pitcher by the usual standards of measurement, until he won 11 games and lost 3 with the Cardinals and Giants in 1930.

This spring he surpassed himself by winning four straight and showing a record of 7 victories and only 3 defeats by the middle of June. He has been the steadiest and most consistent of the Giant flingers, coming to the rescue brilliantly in Chicago to halt the slump of John McGraw's young men.

Mitchell's answer to this amazing reversal is that his arm "feels all right." He has always had the stuff to baffle the batters. His spitter has a particularly deceptive twist. He is smart. But throughout his major league career he has been hampered by a sore southpaw. In 1918 and 1922 his salary was virtually useless.

The romances of the Vesniks, the Vergez and Arletts pale beside the dramatic comeback of Mitchell and his ancient soupbone.

Mitchell's Record

Mitchell couldn't be pried away from the Giants just now for love or money, but look what has happened to the veteran portersider in the course of a checked career, as revealed in the footnotes to his record in "Who's Who in Baseball."

1910—Drafted from Red Cloud by Detroit.

1913—Turned over to Denver by Providence.

1914—Sold by Denver to Cincinnati. Reported price $3,000.

1917—Traded by Cincinnati to Brooklyn.

1923—Obtained by Philadelphia in trade for George Smith.

BUFFS CLIMB WITHIN HALF TILT OF TOP

Bob Cooney of Spudgers in Another Exhibition of Superb Hurling.

By The Associated Press.

The Texas league pennant scramble tightened up a notch Wednesday night when Beaumont allowed Houston to creep within half a game of a tie for first place.

Playing the only afternoon game, the Spudgers suffered a shutout from the fine pitching arm of Bob Cooney of Wichita Falls, 1 to 0. Cooney clicked off his eighth victory of the season against three defeats. He was a double star—on the mound and at bat. After two had been retired in the eighth, he singled to right and advanced to second when Gurns walked. Allday singled to center to score Cooney with the only run of the game.

Houston, picked up pennant ground with an 8 to 2 decision over Fort Worth. Carleton held the Cats to three hits, and was in front all the way.

San Antonio had a winning streak stopped Wednesday night when they lost to the Shreveport Sports, 8 to 4. Lefty Erickson, knocked from the mound Tuesday night in the first inning, stalked back Wednesday night and got revenge by keeping 11 San Antonio hits well scattered.

At Galveston, the Buccaneers, thanks to some excellent pitching from Black Bill Harris, defeated Dallas 4 to 2. The Buccaneers won the Dallas series, their first since an invasion of Wichita Falls the middle of last May.

Prof. George H. Wheatley of Denver, Colo., left yesterday morning for New York and Canada after a three-day visit with Mrs. H. D. Keys, Mrs. Wheatley's sister.

EARNSHAW IS SENSATION OF THIS SEASON

Defeats Indians Yesterday In His Eleventh Victory; Has Two Losses.

By GAYLE TALBOT JR.

Associated Press Sports Writer.

George Earnshaw, hero of the last world series, was expected to be a great help to the Philadelphia Athletics in their quest of a third straight championship, but it is doubtful that even Connie Mack looked for his big right-hander to set the sizzling pace he has for the first two months of the race.

In turning back the Cleveland Indians, 4 to 2, yesterday, Earnshaw recorded his eleventh consecutive victory as against two defeats. In his last four victories over western clubs he has allowed only six runs. Washington completed its rout of the western invaders by scoring once in the ninth to nose out St. Louis, 8 to 7. The victory was Washington's twelfth in a row and its fifteenth out of sixteen starts.

Rain washed away the only other bouts scheduled in the American league, a double-header between the Yankees and Red Sox at Boston.

In the day's only National league contest, the Brooklyn Robins wound up their western invasion with a 2 to 0 triumph over Pittsburgh.

Judges H. C. Stinnett and Wolfe spent yesterday in Amarillo attending the federal courts.

Harvard Favored Over Yale Crew

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 18.

Harvard power is expected to prevail over Yale skill tomorrow night when the varsity eights race on the Thames river.

Harvard will go to its stake boat as the only undefeated varsity in the country, chiefly because of Navy's unexpected victory at Poughkeepsie and the storm that washed out Harvard's quadrangular brush with Cornell, Syracuse and M. I. T. last month at Ithaca.

To date the Harvard varsity has come through two short race regattas undefeated and has beaten Navy, Pennsylvania, Princeton and Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Yale has trailed Columbia and Cornell and its preliminary season was the most unsuccessful one in years.

Some FEMININE Fancies

Blonds predominated in the recent beauty pageant at Galveston. We wonder what they would have thought of this report:

"NEW YORK. (AP)—Dr. William M. Marston is measuring by machine the emotions of blonds, brunets, and redheads. One partial conclusion is that blonds are more inclined to be criminals."

The beauties at Galveston paraded without rouge.

Director Starr, who had said only "light lipstick and very light face powder" would be permissible in all events, began an examination shortly before the parade started Sunday to see whether there had been any attempt to forget the rule. He found several of the entrants had rouged their faces and personally helped remove the cosmetic. Others were told they must eliminate it.

Starr had some difficulty in making the foreign girls understand what he meant, but he accomplished it by making signs at which they smiled broadly.

We judge the order "no rouge" was made not because rouge is inappropriate but because, if properly used, it would tend to intensify the entrant's beauty, possibly covering defects, and if improperly used would tend to disfigure the face.

Make-up is an art and must be considered as such if the woman would be at her best.

Delicate shades must be used by the very young girl or the elderly woman. Light shades, sometimes with an orange tint, are appropriate for the blond, while the brunet may use the more brilliant colors.

There has been much discussion about the proper ways of applying rouge, but we have found this rule to be a good one: "Whether the face is slender or broad, the proper place for rouge is on the cheek bone."

The color of face and lip rouge, of course, should be in harmony.

Some have changed the color of their rouge to harmonize with their various costumes. This is an interesting experiment but is necessary, we believe, only when the costumes are in shades of red or orange.

Hoover Appreciates Reception Received On Lengthy Tour

EN ROUTE WITH President Hoover to Washington, June 18. (AP)—President Hoover was on his way back to the White House today, "appreciative" of the welcome given him by the people of the central states.

In the last three days he has spoken as many times to vast audiences in Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois and he has been the central figure in receptions at the capital cities of all three states.

In the central states President Hoover laid down his program and upon it he is determined to stand. Confidants of Mr. Hoover asserted he will stand on the issues he has defined in this region and remain henceforth in his post at the White House. He has no speaking engagements for the next two months and his close friends are of the opinion his platform has been completed.

Crops in the section, the president observed, are unusually good, and he believes the depression will be broken eventually by a good crop. Administration officials pointed out hopefully today that every depression in the last 50 years has been broken in June or July.

In his speeches in the central states, Mr. Hoover outlined what he believed to be the cause of the depression; declaring this to be the "dominant" issue; asserted that confidence in the place of fear and apprehension would lead the nation to a greater era of prosperity than "ever before"; and specified some proposals he has for the future.

THE VELOCITY GIRL

Irene wants to be a radio singer and is furious when she fails and Beryl succeeds in securing a contract. Beryl's debut wins applause and new friends but she cannot forget her hopeless love even though she goes to pay parties with the wealthy Prentiss Gaylord, Irene attempts to win Prentiss interest when Beryl becomes ill. He is deceived by her pose of childish innocence. Irene uses every wile to force him to a declaration, as she has promised to marry Tommy in a week.

Tommy's aunt dies and leaves him less money than he had expected from the family estate. Her husband loses some of this in unwise investments, he promises to keep her home as manager of his theater. Then Hoffman sells the theater and tells Tommy to look for another job.

When Tommy tells Irene this bad luck she breaks their engagement. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXV

To the studio Irene went with Prentiss Gaylord, son of the big soap manufacturer, to meet the two radio celebrities of the hour. When first Prentiss asked her to go with him she had been doubtful about accepting. He had been so kind and fair to start coincided with that in which she had promised to go for a ride with Tommy. But since Prentiss was showing increased fondness for her now and her engagement to Tommy was broken, she thought he could live with her, and she went to go about with whomsoever she pleased. If he didn't... well, she was satisfied that Prentiss was seriously interested. Even if the romance came to nothing she had a good talking point if she wanted Tommy back. It was only fair for her to go about with other men and test her love for him, she would tell Tommy. At worst it could only be a matter of begging his forgiveness. She was quite easy in her mind about Tommy even in regard to Prentiss' jealousy of him. Yes, Prentiss had been jealous the time he had called for Beryl and met Irene entertaining Tommy.

Tommy, she had explained when Prentiss asked about him, was a boy she'd known since childhood. He practically lived at their house. She expected Beryl would marry him some day. Oh, yes, Beryl was in love with him. Prentiss believed this because he felt so certain Beryl was in love with someone. Irene didn't believe Tommy had quite made up his mind about it yet—but he would. Beryl always got what she wanted.

Irene sighed with this remark. "She went with me to the studio for my voice test," she went on in a tone of gentle tolerance, "and came away with a contract."

She laughed, "It's a funny world, all right, isn't it? I've tried so hard—and for Beryl it all came so easily."

Of course Prentiss had felt sorry for her. Her acceptance, utterly without bitterness, of a situation that would have split the most girls with envy, was so pathetic that he had been impelled to do something nice for her. It was then he had invited her to meet the two radio celebrities whom everyone was clamoring to know.

One of these celebrities—both were men—was not at all impressed with Irene but Prentiss didn't like him anyway. The other fell for her with a boom. This naturally did her no harm in her campaign to win Prentiss.

All evening she was demure. The attention of the great comedian did not seem to mean a thing to her, and that pleased Prentiss. Of course the comedian was married but Prentiss couldn't know that Irene had thought of that.

When they were ready to leave

he told Irene that he would drive his roadster to the garage where his father kept a closed car for his use when in New York, and if he could get a chauffeur to drive them out to Long Island he'd leave the roadster in the garage and take the other car.

Irene vetoed what that meant. When a man wants to give his undivided attention to a girl—and get her home at a respectable hour—he doesn't have time for driving in city traffic to reach a much-travelled country highway.

Prentiss had said something about supper at a club and though Irene had said she'd love to go she thought she'd better not. She could see he was eager to talk to her, and she was just as eager to hear what he had to say. Prentiss was glad she had vetoed the supper club.

They found a driver for the Gaylord limousine. Mr. Gaylord preferred to travel long distances by train, and he was now in Oakland, but he always took his chauffeur with him.

Prentiss helped Irene into the car—she thought of the night Beryl had been driven home in this limousine. Her sister had been in her glory that night.

Prentiss lost no time in making love to her. Irene's little flutter of indignation melted away in her arms and in his amorous embrace. He kissed her eagerly and declared he was going to marry her. Irene did not remind him that he had not asked her if she would be his wife. Prentiss forgot his Victorian attitude and made love in the twentieth century style. It wasn't any longer, "Would he dare?" It was "Do."

But Irene remembered. She wasn't quite ready to drop her pose of sweet simplicity. She insisted that Prentiss ask her mother before he demanded an answer from her.

It was a good start, she thought. She'd heard Beryl talk about life on a 50-50 basis, but for her part she'd rather have a man regard her as being of a more delicate species than himself, and treat her as a superior. She'd even liked it when Prentiss had seemed a little in awe of her, as though he found himself in the presence of someone too fine for common words and everyday life.

Irene didn't want him to think he could change because they were going to be married. She still wanted to be, in his mind, remote from association with mundane thoughts. She liked her pedestal and was determined to remain perched upon it. It gave her distinct advantages. For instance, who would suspect an angel of seeking revenge? She was thinking of the influence she intended to bring against Beryl. And suppose Prentiss was such a silly that he'd expect her to act as though he were the only man in the world? There were any number of interesting men in the world. As a matter of fact she cared a great deal about Tommy and would like to keep up a friendship with him. How much easier if Prentiss thought her too unworshipful for subterfuge?

She wished, even as she sat beside him during that drive, that she liked Prentiss better than she did. Sometime when Tommy had kissed her strange little delights had thrilled her. Prentiss left her cold. But of course she couldn't think of marrying Tommy if she could have Prentiss. That would be too ridiculous for words.

So Prentiss talked and Irene thought all the way to her home. She planned a lot of things on the way. Thank goodness, Prentiss wanted to be married right away.

It would save the questions of many surprised and specially friends. Further to escape them she'd have to forego a church wedding, unless they went away for it, or simply invited no one at all. What a nuisance family friends were. They expected to share every event of your life.

Perhaps it would be best to engage a suite of rooms at a hotel—the Ritz or perhaps the new Waldorf—and have a quiet ceremony with just the family present. Would Prentiss' father come on for it? She was glad she wasn't going to have a mother-in-law. She supposed she'd be very important socially in Oakland.

Frequently Prentiss interrupted her pleasant speculation with a renewal of his plea for an early wedding day. Invariably she chided him gently with a question of her own. "Prentiss, how can I promise that before you've even spoken to my parents?"

Once or twice Prentiss felt like saying, "Oh, hang your parents!" but he vetoed the thought miserably. He liked her filial attitude. "Good to your parents—good to your husband." Why wasn't that as good an axiom as the one about a son who is good to his mother being good to his wife?

Still he didn't like the idea of Irene's parents interfering with his plans. He was accustomed to having his own way. But he couldn't blame them, and told himself he owed them a vote of thanks for having a daughter as sweet as Irene.

She wouldn't let him keep her long to say good-night, nor would she let him come in. Irene was afraid that Tommy might be hovering about the premises. He was such a fool at times! She would have to tell him that she was going to marry Prentiss but she didn't want Prentiss around when she did it.

Besides, she was in a fever of impatience to tell Beryl about it. She wouldn't wait until morning. All the injury she'd felt at having Beryl suddenly become the outstanding member of the family welled up afresh and she wanted to show her that she had captivated Prentiss.

"Just one more kiss," Prentiss pleaded. "I never knew that anything in the world could be as sweet as you, Irene," he told her. She said, "Didn't you?" and there was a touch of absentmindedness in her tone. It was no novelty to Irene to thrill with her kisses. And just at the moment her anticipation of breaking her big news to Beryl was more engrossing than compliments.

She did not deny Prentiss the caress. She took it with shy acquiescence. Satisfied—or was it dissatisfied?—he let her go.

As she drew herself up from his arms she glanced out to the street and caught a glimpse of a familiar figure by the gate. It was Tommy!

The quality you want... the price you approve

If the things you want most in a motor car have cost more than you care to pay—and if the cars you felt you could easily buy have not quite satisfied you—here is a timely message...

A lot of people just like you have found in Pontiac both the quality they want and a price they approve.

Suppose you are driving a Pontiac for the first time. What do you find?

Going along at medium speed, you notice how smooth and quiet the engine is. You wonder how it will be at high speed, and a test shows it is just as smooth. For Pontiac's 60 h. p. engine is big enough to do all you ask without laboring.

Over a back road, Pontiac's "rubber insulation" at 43 points in the chassis surely does take up road shocks and gives Pontiac fine-car riding ease. So do the four hydraulic shock absorbers, and the other niceties of design.

You examine the Pontiac interior, and at once you see that the upholstery is genuine mohair or whipcord. You find that seat springs are deep, cushions soft, and the driver's seat easy to adjust the way you like it.

How about protection against heat, cold, and rain?—you ask. And you learn that the fine Fisher-built Pontiac body is weather-tight and leak-proof. Everything has been done for your complete comfort.

There remains only Pontiac's effect on other people. Glances you notice along the street, and the comments of your friends soon settle that! You know you are right in your judgment.

But don't stop at this imaginary test. Take a new Pontiac out on the road and ask it to do everything you want a car to do. Let it prove that it has the quality you want—then ask the price. It's a figure you will warmly approve.

Talk-on-Walk Expert Was Busy in 'Party Husband'

The stirring action of "Party Husband," the first National picture starring Dorothy Mackaill, which comes to the La Nora theater today, meant busy days for that wisest of talkie experts, the talk-on-the-walk man.

Although this gentleman has been on the job, in one way or another since the beginning of talking pictures, experience has made him an artist. In the old days of melodramatic chases on horseback, the hero or villain always reined up in front of the camera, so that the audience would know just who he was. At that time it was impossible to record the dialogue, except at certain spots on the set where microphones were hidden.

Now the multiple microphones have been reduced to a small number, or even to one, and this one is highly flexible, being placed at the end of a steel arm which can be swung in any direction or extended to any part of the ordinary-sized set, absolutely without noise. Thus it can be used to follow immediately overhead any player as he walks about the set, in a natural way, talking.

"Party Husband" makes extensive use of the talk-on-the-walk expert. Supporting Miss Mackaill in this production are James Rennie, Dorothy Peterson, Joe Donahue, Helen Ware, Don Cook, Barbara Weeks, Mary Doran and Paul Porcasi.

homa, the Panhandle and New Mexico, and that it demands investigation of the federal government.

Actual evidence to establish ownership of the liquor is said to be meager.

A fair-sized portion of McLean's population watched the sheriff, Deputies Floyd Archer and Siler Hopkins load the liquor in three trucks to haul it to the McLean jail for storage. The crowd was so large that Sheriff Blanscet failed to miss one five-gallon keg until several sly spectators started rolling it down the hill.

The liquor was in 72 10-gallon kegs, 10 5-gallon kegs and 96 cases containing six one-gallon jars. At the prevailing retail price of $2.50 per pint, the whiskey was worth $21,536.

Sheriff Blanscet said he would dispose of the whiskey in the usual manner by smashing it in the dump-ground, after saving enough for evidence. The whiskey vault here is almost full and would hold but a small portion of it, he said.

do was cast in the hooks. Otto would pass up likely looking places but in the end he was always right."

The party fished at Eagle Nest, Cabareste lake, and at Red river and caught fish at every place. "We ate mountain trout three times a day," Joe reported. Mr. Gordon, 'twas said, was in charge of the commissary but he made a better dish-washer. Frank proved to be such a good cook that the sextet are thinking of pooling their resources and hiring him from here on out. The only mishap on the trip was an attack of nausea that beset Joe and Dr. Brunow as they were ascending to Cabareste lake, whose altitude was 10,000 feet. It was said that Joe fed fish to the fishes.

Dr. Brunow was spoken of as the front-seat driver, instructing Sam when to shift gears, coast and this, that and the other.

Sam's hook turned out to be a magnet for fish, but his pards accused him of enlarging upon the length of trout. He would argue such and such a fish was 17 inches long and Joe would say it was only 10.

The party also visited Taos and Questa where they watched Indians build an adobe house.

To smokers who are hard-to-convince

WE LIKE nothing better than to induce hard-to-convince smokers to switch to Camels for just one day.

For we know that after they have made a real test, it will be mighty hard to lure them away from this famous brand.

It's not easy to smoke parched-dry cigarettes once you have known the delights of perfectly conditioned Camels.

After inhaling the cool, soft fragrance of the Camel Blend of choice Turkish and mellow Domestic tobaccos protected by the Humidor Pack, your throat protests against the bite and sting and harsh hotness that comes from crumbly, dry tobacco.

No matter where you pick them up, in any land, in any climate, Camels are the same fresh, factory-prime cigarettes.

For the Humidor Pack of moisture-proof Cellophane air-seals all the flavor in and keeps out weather, dust and germs.

This is no mere advertising story. It is a recitation of fact that has made the whole country conscious of a new superiority in Camels.

If you are hard to convince, won't you switch to Camels for just one day? Then leave them—if you can.

CAMELS

NO CIGARETTE AFTER-TASTE

Don't remove the moisture-proof Cellophane from your package of Camels after you open it. The Humidor Pack is protection against sweat, dust and germs. It delivers fresh Camels and keeps them right until you smoke the last one.
