24th Nazi Bomber Downed By British

(By The Associated press)

German bombers rained incendiary bombs over England late today in the third wave of raids in 24 hours.

The Nazi planes struck twice in broad daylight in an apparently intensified new schedule of attacks to spread terror and destruction among Britain's densely-populated millions before launching the projected invasion of the sland kingdom.

In the afternoon assault, German bombers set fire to big building in southeast England, while others touched off alarms in the northeastern country.

32 Million Pounds Turkey Ready To Eat Reminiscent of the Republican vote-getter in 1928, "a chicken for every pot" is the news that 32,000,-000 turkeys are available this year for 29,000,000 American families. This crop, 4,000,000 more than ever before produced, may seem like a lot of turkeys, but because of the system of mass merchandising key growers early in the 1939 seamarket to encourage them to raise this number. Through mass mer chandising systems of the food chains and the unusual number available, turkey prices this year will be in the price range of a family on a comparatively small budget

Turkey raising has shown more interesting developments over the past few years. In 1934 more than 28,000 turkeys were raised a decided rise from the 17.000,000 raised in 1929. Five years later, the additional millions were raised to satisfy the appetites of a nation whetted by their earlier tastes of the turkey as a year-around bird. Improved modern packing and freezing, new and appetizing ways of eating chicken.

Hot turkey sandwiches, and turkey-furter, a 50-50 combination of turkey and hamburger, have been responsible for moving thousands of pounds of storage turkeys. Likewise a new development, the prepara-tion of which eliminates carving problems, is the turkey roll. This accomplished by removing the skin from the undrawn bird, and remov ing the legs in the usual way. The muscles are then cut from the car cass and the skin is laid over a flat surface to make a rectangle. The

5 Air Bases Being Built In Alaska

By DEVON FRANCIS

Associated Press Aviation Editor FAIRBANKS, Alaska, July 3—On 500 acres of a flat, sun-seared piece of interior Alaska the army has completed preliminary work for the runways of an airport which will serve both as an air defense base and as a tactical training center at the "top of the world."

Five air bases are under construction in Alaska by the army and na-

For years Alaska, as a military problem, has not existed in army and navy budgets. Now, with a world political and military situation which has made both the administration and congress apprehensive, Alaska has been designated as the north Pacific bulwark of our air and sea defense.

Since last fall the survey and actual spade work at Sitka. Anchorage, Fairbanks, Unalaska (ditch harbor) and Kodiak has progressed more rapidly than military care to admit. Unalaska will also be a submarine base.

At Sitka the plane hangers are already up. The first contingent of infantrymen was landed last week at Anchorage for the protection of the army air base. At Fairbanks a winter-long experiment on "staying qualities" of concrete for runways in temperatures of 50 and 60 degrees below zero is complete

Our Way Of Life

Writing in Fortune a short time ago, Wendell Wilkie said: "This effort to separate 'business' from the ordinary life of the people and to set it in a distant and inferior catagory represents a profoundly false conception of our economic system. There are about 10 .-000,000 private enterprises in the U.S., which employ about 34,000,000 people, who in turn support many millions of other people. Business is a art of life and a way of life. By it we earn our bread, build our homes, care for our children, find expression for ourselves. Every one of us lives directly or indirectly by business ... It is business, in the broadest sense of the wordincluding industry and technology, and including the

For a long time, we, the people, who live by business have sat supinely by while the public servants who manage our governmental affairs denounced business, reviled business, fought business, and attempted to destroy private business at every opportunity. The result was the greatest and longest business depression in our history.

And now, almost overnight, we find it imperative that we embark on an unprecedented program of defense rearmament. Do we turn to politicians in this emergency? No! We turn to business, to industry, to the great factories of America. The principal members of the preparedness board lately appointed by the President are business men. And that is as it should be Even as industry must provide us with the tools of peace, so must it provide us with the weapons of

It has taken the direst of crises to reawaken us to the role that private industry plays in our lives. Let us not forget it again.

Are We Any Wiser?

There is plenty of criticism of the European democ racies for what some consider their astonishing failure to recognize in time the fast-growing military power of the dictator nations, and to prepare to meet

Informed commentators are now asking if we are any wiser. We have the same chance to prepare that | They contend that the wealth turned over to them England and France had a few years ago. But one of the biggest battles-which the committeemen called "a misunderstanding' 'after they had calmed down-came over the burning question of putting into the plank on national defense a half dozen words to the general effect that the mothers of America don't want their sons to die on the battle-At its height the row almost caused the resignation of ex-Senator George Wharton Pepper of Pennsylvania, when C. Wayland (Curly) Brooks of Illinois threatened to take to the convention floor his fight for inclusion of the sons-and-mothers phrase. Actual drafting of the plank was mainly the work of Senator Pepper, veteran of many of the G. O. P.'s inner wars.

STRONGER PLANK NEARLY WON

Judge King Swope of Kentucky declared that the projected plank was altogether too short and simple, and demanded inclusion of a ringing phrase dealing with the mothers, their sons and the battlefields.

The argument in the sub-committee drafting this plank went on for hours. The full platform committee, headed by Herbert K. Hyde of Oklahoma, was debating other things in its spacious quarters on the roof of the Bellevue Stratford Hotel, convention headquarters. The sub-committee toiled in room 809. And up and down the north elevator between eighth floor and roof commuted the sub-committeemen, getting no-

And the morning of the third day came. Senator Pepper, not as young as once he was, having labored more hours each day than a man of his age should left the deliberations for a short time. In his absence the sons-and-mothers clause got into the platform draft. Curly Brooks took up the fight for it-threat ened to take the issue to the convention floor.

What to do? PARTY'S ELDERS

PREVAIL The convention, waiting for a platform it could adopt before it should pick a candidate, canceled its morning session. Pepper, tired from the long siege, walked out of the committee room and threatened to resign

When word of this deadlock got to the ears of the elder statesmen, important telephones began to ring. People like Joe Pew of Pennsylvania were called in-to quell the disturbers, persuade Pepper not to resign, and talk Brooks out of taking the fight to the convention

Having canceled its morning session, the convention had to be adjourned again when its afternoon session met. This was over the wishes of the delegates themselves, who wanted to get on with picking a candidate. But-no platform, no session.

It finally ended happily, of course. The party's elders prevailed, and the defense plank didn't mention the mothers and sons.

"GLORIFY THE BIOLOGICALLY UNFIT"

The Chicago Tribune recommended a couple of books for Robert Hutchins, president of Chicago University, to read after he had made an address to the graduates criticizing the profit motive. One of these books was "Business and Capitalism" by N. S. B. Gras of the Graduate School of Business Administration, Harvard University.

In the Introduction of this book, Mr. Gras makes some pungent remarks. I quote:

"None have obstructed human progress more than those who have seen heaven nearer than it is."

It will be remembered that France and England said that a sort of heaven could be had by raising wages by collective bargaining and by discriminatory tax laws that retarded the accumulation of capital.

Our New Dealer socialists, who advocate the same thing, are truly obstructionists to human

In another place in the book, the author contends there has been six kinds of humanistic movements in the United States; that the business men have supported four of these and the two that were not practical they refused to support.

The movement against economic competition and biological evolution, which runs off into communism, was one of the movements which the business men could not support.

On this subject the author of the book says: "When these most recent humanistic movements coalesce, they conspire against the health of the very men they would assist. In our day they have plumbed the depths of sentimentalism and reached down into the dregs to glorify the biologically unfit. For years we have been unconsciously building up a culture for worms, not men; breeding a degenerate society to be swept away by more virile peoples from the hills.'

In short this is saving that men should live by the sweat of their brow and should not be supported by the labor of others. When they come to believe that this can be done, the virile people who do not believe in this take them over.

Nature has a way of eliminating societies who would preserve unduly the biologically unfit.

HAM AND EGGERS USE SAM T

ARGUMENTS AS COLLEGES

The stock argument of all defenders of state colleges is the same argument as used if the Ham and Eggers, Townsendites, defenders of tariffs and all those who demand some subsidy from the government. The argument that the defenders of state colleges use is that the money extracted from labor by the force of majority rule to be used to satisfy the desires of those who attend state colleges, is that these college students will repay society by being more excient and adding to the wealth of the world.

Now this is exactly the same argument that the Townsend people and Ham and Eggers use. will increase the total wealth by their spending it. Of course, those people who believe in private colleges, where the students themselves either pay for the support of their instruction or it is given voluntarily, do not believe this contention that the state students will give back to society enough to pay for the wealth forcibly extracted from them. They contend that the kind of education taught in the state schools, instead of making PHILADELPHIA. July 3-The whole story of the people better Americans who believe in the law of it is little wonder we have so much confusion in the land when we believe the state can use force to compel people to support public education and, at the same time, teach people to believe in voluntary contracts and the law of equal freedom.

The greatest form of education is by example. It is impossible to teach equal freedom and practice the force of the majority. It is impossible to teach respect for the inalienable rights of man and, at the same time, disregard these inalienable rights.

State colleges are just as consistent in their arruments for their support as are Ham and Eggers. Any time anything is inconsistent, it is out of harmony with eternal principles and eternal truths and inalienable rights. The only way to test any principle in logic is whether it contradicts itself.

"GIMMF COLUMN"

(By Benjamin de Casseres, Los Angeles Examiner) There is a sixth column at work in this country. It is the "gimme column." It is one of the most insidious movements for the undermining of our democracy and substituting parasitism for self-reli-

Bruce Barton, in a recent address, sounded 'varning to America in these direct ringing sentences: "It is a very great question," he said, "if democ racy can live when the only idea people have about Government is what they can get. Almost every man or group that comes to Washington comes to try to get something out of the public Treasury."

That also seems to be the chief aim of the two political parties today, and, as for Congress, it seems now to have hardly any other mission than to keep one open hand in our pants pockets and the other in the ever-flowing Treasury bowl. Mr. Barton also pointed/out that the capitalistic system in America was coming to an end, saying: The capitalistic system in America would seem to be drawing to a close. No foreign enemy is destroying it. We Americans are destroying it bewe have become so soft, so selfish and so weak. We are the not so courageous sons of courageous fathers. Ours is the first generation in American life that refused even to try to struggle with its own problems.

We are thus playing right into the hands of the fifth columnists in this country, particularly the Part of the technique of Communism is to weak-

NEA Service Staff Correspondent HOLLYWOOD, July 3-All over the lot: I have a notion that the big boss of Paramount once sent an order to the coast to make lots of topical pictures. And that through secout "tropical."

Anyway, they're still building new jungles and refurnishing old South Sea islands on the lot. All the parrots in Hollywood with Hays Officeapproved vocabularies seem to have taken up residence at the studio. and there are middle-aged monkeys around the place which don't remember any other home.

Even slick Frederic March has been established on one of these sets. He's the recluse of Joseph Conrad's "Victory," and his companion in synthetic loneliness is Betty Field. She's wearing sarong, too.

POWDER PUFF WESTERNS

Guitars and romance have softened westerns alarmingly, but nothing has so affected the morale of sage brush actors as the trusty sixguns are shooting talcum powder these days.

This humiliating development was worked out by Producer Harry Sherman and his prop man for the "Cherokee Strip" company. The explosion of ordinary black powder in blank cartridges odesn't photograph well; looks like a cloud of soot. A whispy gray curl of smoke, as described in pulp magazines, was what they wanted. They got it by dropping a pinch of talcum between the paper waddings of the shells. Any day now, they may add a little perfume so that the villain wont gag on the acrid fumes.

SOY BEANS ARE SWELL

The Tugboat Annie company has been working with real vessels late-ly, the story problem being how to efloat a freighter which is supposed to have gone on a sandbar. Two tugs have been hired for Annie and her rival, Captain Bullwinkle, and a large Danish motor ship plays the stricken cargo ship.

The Danish captain is in a vile humor and is being treated like a temperamental star. His ship is idle in the harbor as a result of Germany's conquest, and the hold is full of thousands of tons of soy beans which have got a little damp and are beginning to swell. The swelling is spring the freighter's plates, thus admitting more water to produce more swelling . . . One of these days it's going to crack open and sink, and not even Annie Brennan can do anything about it.

WHO'S WHO

Gregory Ratoff, usually a direct-or, is just an actor these days in "The Great Profile." He plays John Barrymore's manager, and there is a scene in which a minor character rushes into his office, yanks him around in his chair and threatens to punch his face. Director Walter Lang shot the scene several times and finally grew impatient. "Look." he said, "you're mad! Grab him and really jerk him around. Make his

"You better get somebody else." said the bit player. "Today Mr. Ratoff is an actor, and it's all right. But tomorrow he is a director and I may want to work for him!"

My, but it's lovely; I wish I had a husband with that much get-up!" And others say to their spouses, "Why don't you get a move on you like Bob Thompson and fix our yard up!" CONGRESS AND PREPAREDNESS

This country is in a deplorable and by the new hazardous conditions an inexcusable condition of unpreparedness. The facts with reference to our unpreparedness have been revealed by our we must turn from cabinet officials and other political groups and set under the political groups and set under the political groups and set under the political groups and control military ex-

that it should not be necessary to

done, and done quickly, to build a defense a gainst war that will make this country invincible in the protection of American ideals? The problem before us is too serious, and the danger is too great, to permit the danger is too great to great all activities having to do with the danger is too great, to permit any political or partisan consideration to have any place whatsoever in the solution of the problem. Any one who would attempt to capitalize a national hazard in the interest of a political advantage should be scorred and repudiated by all patriotic American citizens.

The responsibility for preparedness is primarily on Congress and the present Congress should assume this responsibility, with all that it implies, solutely divorced from all political present Congress should assume this responsibility, with all that it implies, at once. Under the Constitution Congress alone can declare war, and Congress alone can supply the resources and equipment that are essential to the prosecution of war. This means that the policies of preparadness, and the means by which these policies are to be made effective, should be fixed by Congress. The function of the Chief Executive is not to fix policies, but to carry out the policies as fixed and directed, in general, by Congress. It is this secure from attacks from any for-out the policies as fixed and directed, in general, by Congress. It is this provision of the Constitution that makes any sort of dictatorship impossible under the Constitution.

Congress cannot meet the great responsibility that it faces today by simply voting huge appropriations to the army and navy. This method of meeting the responsibility is obsolete and would be hazardous to the life of the nation under the political conditions that prevail in this country at the present time. In the light of what we have seen in recent years of the "government in business," we make bold to say that political groups such as we have are not competent to direct efficiently the complex business policies and activities that are essential to effective preparedness and better guns are make this country in the lead in effective preparedness, the problem will be solved.
