PAMPA HAS SECOND COLDEST DAY OF YEAR

NEXT VICE-PRESIDENT? PRESIDENT?

Robert H. Jackson, ardent New Dealer and solicitor general was yesterday appointed attorney general to succeed Frank Murphy who was named U. S. supreme court justice. It is freely rumored in Washington that Secretary of State Hull is President Roosevelt's choice for the Democratic presidential nomination and that Jackson is his choice for vice-presdent, and that in the event Hull doesn't get it Jackson is his choice for the Democratic standard-bearer. Attorney General Jackson is expected to become permanently identified as a Roosevelt disciple and as a liberal during the next few months, and the spotlight of publicity is expected to be trained on him and his activities.

Let Congress Draft Budget, Says Harrison

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—A Democratic proposal that Congress work out its own federal budget and compare it with President Roosevelt's before voting any appropriations or new taxes stirred strong opposition and some qualified approval today among leading legislators.

Chairman Harrison (D-Miss.) of the senate finance committee advanced the novel suggestion for a 24-member senate-house committee to study budget and tax needs for 60 days while Congress concerns itself with other measures.

Keeping Warm Big Problem In Finland

WITH FINNISH FORCES ON THE LAKE KIANTA FRONT, Jan. 5 (AP)—The Finnish apparently held the initiative in a roving, hit-and-run war today deep in the brooding forests along both sides of the frontier in this wild northland.

Skidding Finnish patrols were reported to have cut the Murmansk railroad at several places after forays deep into Soviet territory. The railroad is the only supply line to harassed Red army forces in the far north.

The raids against the railroad were said to have been part of an encircling drive by Finns pursuing remnants of the routed 163d Russian division.

The defeat of the Russian column on frozen lake Kianta ended, at least temporarily, the Red army's threat of splitting Finland in two and opened the way for the Finnish salies.

With the main bodies of both armies lying back now, the fighting has been largely hand to hand Guerrilla skirmishes between ski soldiers, mostly in Russia, and ambushes by the white-clad Finns who sweep in sudden attacks and vanish.

There no longer is a well-defined battle line in this meandering warfare in a zone that takes 40 hours to war by automobile.

Texas Woman Killed In Louisiana Crash

ALEXANDRIA, La., Jan. 5 (AP)—Mrs. A. A. Bakke, 67, wife of a Wichita Falls, Texas, ranchowner, was injured fatally and her husband was slightly hurt when the automobile in which they were riding left the highway about 35 miles north of here yesterday afternoon and rolled down an 18-foot embankment.

Mrs. Bakke, who suffered a broken neck, died upon reaching a hospital here.

I Heard ...

Rep. Farmer Revives Plan For Session

Texas Politics Getting Ready To Leave Barrier

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL AUSTIN, Jan. 5 (AP)—Political 1940 in Texas is getting away from the post on schedule and according to form. It's a long time until election-day hash but that spilled pony, Texas politics, is leaving the barrier.

The matter of a special session has been revived by Rep. Clarence Farmer of Fort Worth and others after apparently it had been put to bed weeks ago by Governor O'Daniel. Farmer has asked the 31 members of the Senate, by letter, whether if a session was called they would vote for a revenue bill to further provide for Texas social security program. He will announce results of his poll at an early date.

Democratic party leaders are preparing for Jackson Day dinners next Monday. Efforts have been renewed to bring about a special session of the Legislature. A new attack on the Texas primary system has been instituted by a group of negroes. Important announcements for state offices have been made.

All this and more has happened in less than a week of this New Year. Say the railbirds, "it won't be long now!"

The official Jackson Day dinner in Texas, one of many to be held throughout the country to give party enthusiasm and raise money for the Presidential campaign, will be at Dallas, and Democrats will shell out $25 each for the privilege of participating.

The principal speaker will be John W. Hanes of New York, who resigned recently as undersecretary of the treasury; others will include Governor W. Lee O'Daniel, Amon G. Carter, Fort Worth publisher, and Tom DeBerry, member of the state board of control and a former state Senator.

Sadler To Speak Houston's Jackson Day dinner will be tomorrow night, only they won't call it that. It is being referred to as the "old Hickory dinner," and the price will be two dollars. Jerry Sadler, spic member of the Railroad commission and potential candidate for Governor, will head the orators. The dinner was moved up in order

$15,000 In Silk Stolen By Gang

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP)—Six armed men locked seven silk company employes in a room charged with live steam last night and made off with $15,000 in silk—but only after the superintendent had risked his life to plead that the steam be turned off.

Several of the employes of the Supreme Skein Dyeing Co. had dropped under the intense heat when the superintendent, Louis Wachter, burst from the chamber shouting:

Dam Controversies 'Power Fight,' Says Senator Josh Lee

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Senator Josh Lee (D-Okla.) describes as a "power fight" the controversies over the Denison, Tex., dam project and the selection of a manager for the Oklahoma Grand River dam.

"Since Governor Phillips has gone out of his way to stop one project and seems to be stymieing the other, it looks to me like a power fight pure and simple," Lee said in an interview yesterday.

He declared he saw no reason for changes in the Grand River dam authority law by the last Oklahoma Legislature unless Phillips desired to obtain control of the board through appointment of members.

Storm Interrupts KPDM Broadcasts

Radio station KPDM, Pampa, was off the air from 10:05 to 10:45 a. m. today because of ice-laden wires snapping at a point between the transmitter and the city limits east of the city.

Temporary wires were strung and the station resumed its broadcasts under those conditions until permanent repairs could be made.

Four spans of wire snapped and one pole broke in two from the weight of ice on the wires, Manager Herman Kreiger said.

SAVES BROTHER FROM MURDERERS

Slipping silently into the night with his baby brother clutched tightly in his arms, 8-year-old Glenn Roggs, above, escaped the death by fire and gun that robbed him of his mother, father and 4-year-old brother. The boy stumbled into police headquarters at Fort Town, Okla., half a mile away, to tell how two men had shot and killed his parents and set fire to their farm home.

MONTEVIDEO, Jan. 5 (AP)—The concentration of four British cruisers off Montevideo caused speculation today on whether a hunt was on or another German raider like the scuttled pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee.

MOSCOW, Jan. 5 (AP)—Soviet Russia was reported to have concluded a commercial treaty with Bulgaria, opening a largely undeveloped trade field, while similar negotiations were begun with Japan and concluded with Germany.

BERLIN, Jan. 5 (AP)—Deep concern over developments in Scandinavian countries was expressed in Germany today as Sweden and Norway warned in a new press campaign, bearing an official tinge, against permitting British and French military aid to pass through to Finland.

The two northern countries were told to "clarify their positions."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the House Ways and Means committee tentatively endorsed today the Harrison proposal that Congress make up its own budget and tax program this session. NORTH CONWAY, N. H., Jan. 5 (AP)—The Rev. Basketball Game Here Tonight To Positively Reek With 'Glammer'

By THE ROVING REPORTER There will be personality aplenty in the stands at the basketball game tonight, what with women and girls filling up their seats on the stands on account of it being ladies' night, and Bill Kenton playing his celebrated accordion and a high school girls' trio singing O Johnny and other popular songs.

It was believed this morning that the icy weather of today wouldn't "cut no ice" tonight, and that the stands would be well-filled, especially since the gym will be as warm as your living room at home. The R. R.'s and Coach Mitchell's campaign, started yesterday to draw crowds to local basketball games by glamorizing the team and the entertainment had a favorable re-

It's Decided U. S. Will Not Get Into War

FDR's Statement On War Analyzed By Correspondent

By DEWITT MACKENZIE President Roosevelt's reference in his annual message to the hotly debated question of American "isolation" comes at a time when the European conflict threatens to expand and present an already burdened western hemisphere with fresh worries.

The fiction has grown in many minds that this topic is associated solely with whether we get into the European war or stay out. Naturally mention of the subject ordinarily is a challenge to combat, and for that reason a lot of folk are inclined to side-step it.

So, with the question of whether we are going to war out of the way—for it's decided that we are not—we still have the broad question of interlocking interests to deal with. Some things, like trade, come under the head of self-interest, others are altruistic.

Beyond this we have to determine whether a moral issue is involved. Whether, apart from material things, we should try to make our moral influence felt for the good of the whole world.

Are we to assist Finland, as we have been doing? Are we to exert our moral influence against aggression and other injustices? However, the issue is much broader than that. Great upheavals abroad in any category do affect the Americas, and create problems which can't be evaded by hiding behind the rain-barrel.

Those problems aren't due to our intrusion in foreign fields, but to the intrusion of foreign matters in what we regard as our own preserves. I take it the President be-

THIBODAUX, La., Jan. 5 (AP)—Wade O. Martin, chairman of the Democratic state central committee, said today he was unaware of the proposed appointment of Mrs. Huey P. Long, widow of the late Louisiana political leader, as Democratic national Committee woman from Louisiana.

At New Orleans last night Governor Earl K. Long said he had recommended appointment of Mrs. Long as the State's National Committee woman succeeding the late Mrs. Emile Nizveny.

Mercury Hits 17 Degrees Around Noon

Trucks Can't Get Up River Hill Near Stinnett

Pampa experienced its second coldest day since January 1 today with freezing mist continuing to fall to push the thermometer down to 17 degrees near noon. This temperature is only two degrees above the low recorded on New Year's day.

The overnight maximum temperature in Pampa was 22 degrees at 12:30 o'clock this morning.

Pampa streets, and roads over the county, were slippery and dangerous but no roads were reported blocked. Buses were reported arriving on schedule.

No serious automobile accidents occurred, although several cars in their denied fenders and running boards bore evidence of the ice-sheets on Pampa streets.

Neither of the two Pampa hospitals received any patients last night as a result of the cold weather and hazardous driving conditions.

The forecast for West Texas, the U. S. Weather bureau here reported, was mostly cloudy tonight and Saturday, occasional rains south portion, snow north portion, little change in temperature.

Wind direction in Pampa this morning was from the southeast, velocity 15 miles an hour, and visibility one-fifth mile or less.

Revised Air Mail Schedule Released

A revised schedule of air mail connections out of Pampa was released today by Postmaster C. H. Walker. Change in time of afternoon flights out of Amarillo, especially on Braniff planes to the south, has given Pampa exceptionally good connections.

Air mail letters or packages placed in the Pampa office before 12 o'clock noon will arrive in Dallas at 5:30 p. m., Austin at 6:40 p. m., Houston at 7 p. m., and San Antonio at 7:30 p. m., the same day.

Woman's Fingers Crushed In Wringer

WATER TOWN, Mass., Jan. 5 (AP)—Mrs. Leslie H. Mumford had a handful of badly crushed fingers today to remind her of harrowing moments last night which followed her successful effort to free her three-year-old daughter's hand from an electric clothes wringer.

Mrs. Mumford jammed her own hand into the roller and effected the child's release, but then found herself caught. She dragged the heavy machine to a telephone and called police, and then dragged it to the back door to let the officers in.

Posse Trails 2 Negroes In Mississippi

MEADVILLE, Miss., Jan. 5 (AP)—More than 100 Mississippi farmers and 35 National Guardsmen today hunted a negro killer-suspect in the dense Homochitto National forest near here.

Adjutant-General John A. O'Keefe directed the guardsmen who were ordered out by Governor Hugh White after fear was expressed that a mob might lynch the negro, known only as "Red," if he were captured.

Farmers from miles around who joined in the hunt carried a variety of weapons.

"Red" and another negro named "Okla-hma" were sought for the killing last Monday night of Hillard Hall, 21, and the slight wounding of Constable Philip Shell and his brother, J. W. Shell.

They were fired upon when they sought to question the negroes, strangers in the neighborhood, in connection with recent robberies in the vicinity of Knoxville, three miles from Meadville.

A posse yesterday surprised "Red" in a cabin near Knoxville and fired at him as he fled to the woods.

Texan Given Life For Killing Deputy

MORTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—J. W. Mann faced life imprisonment today for the slaying of deputy sheriff D. T. Smith in a gun battle that also took the life of H. Ward Colvin Lackey.

A jury assessed that penalty last night after deliberating almost four hours.

Mann was arrested by State Highwaymen at Crosbyton two days after the shooting here. He allegedly was Lackey's companion.

Ward Employees At Regional Meeting

M. C. Johnson, manager, Henry Loter, William McDowell, Thurman Alexander and E. Doughty, all of the local store of Montgomery Ward & Co., left today for Oklahoma City where they will attend a southwestern regional meeting of the company and purchase 1940 stoves, electric refrigerators, washing and sewing machines, and electric sweepers for the Pampa store.

Mr. Johnson said that the company contemplates the greatest year in their history and was very optimistic about business in Pampa.

"All indications point to the greatest year Pampa has ever known", Mr. Johnson forecast. He bases his belief on the decided uptrend in business in the past seven or eight months, he said.

New Houses For U. S. Public

Enthusiastic over a 36 per cent increase in the number of building units erected in 1939 as compared with 1938, representatives of the building industry are confidently predicting that home building in 1940 will exceed that of 1939.

America needs new houses—millions of them. It is encouraging to note that the nation is getting them, even if some housing experts have said they can't be built fast enough to take care of the needs. Nearly 475,000 homes (excluding those on farms) were built in 1939 at an aggregate cost of $1,900,000,000. In 1938, the total was about 350,000 homes at a cost of $1,300,000,000.

It is forecast that new building units in 1940 will total 600,000, or nearly 100,000 more than in 1939. While the prediction is encouraging, it may also be deceptive, unless one understands that the year 1929 was by no means a "peak" year in building.

A bit of folklore is springing up around the year 1929. Looking backward, we are likely to regard this year as the golden moment in American history. As a matter of fact, it was a peak year in very few respects. It was rather the year in which the expiring bubble of finance suffered its final and explosive pin prick.

As far as the building industry is concerned, the best year in the past two decades was 1925, when 937,000 new urban dwelling units were put up. After that, the industry began to slump. Up to 1928, the decline was more or less gradual; but in 1929 the number of units dropped from about 750,000 in 1928 to a little more than 500,000. This was a greater decline than that recorded in 1930.

Building of non-rural family dwellings in 1929 was at its lowest since 1921. In 1933, it nearly expired altogether with less than 50,000 new units in the entire country. Even if 600,000 new homes are built in 1940, there will still not be enough construction going on to solve the housing problem.

The builders concede that, without the benign influence of the Federal Housing Administration, much of the present construction wouldn't be underway. The FHA has made it possible for financial institutions to extend their credit and has made the home-ownership field accessible to thousands of persons who would otherwise have been eliminated.

But even the FHA hasn't solved the problem entirely. Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold attacked it from another approach. Arnold suspected the presence of terms within the industry, both among unions and contractors. He has begun a ruthless assault upon the corrupt element that is threatening the industry and has already returned indictments in a score of cities.

Recently the National Association of Housing Officials and the American Public Welfare Association formed a joint committee to tackle the matter of housing for the lowest of income groups. Perhaps, as mere and more bodies of people, both official and private, become interested in the housing dilemma, there will be a movement toward final solution. Until this question is solved, there cannot be much serenity for the nation.

Behind The News

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The isolationist bloc in Congress emerged from the last session bloody but unbowed. They are right back this winter to serve notice that all issues defining American relations with the European war are by no means settled.

For one thing, there is the matter of taxation of war profits. During the neutrality debate of last year, the isolationists said bluntly that if the embargo were repealed they would demand adoption of the Bone bill.

This bill originally had the sponsorship of 50 senators, and would practically tax war profits out of existence. There is an alternative war profits proposal, the Lee bill, but this is expected to lie dormant because of Senator Lee's closeness to the administration.

CLASH FORSEEN ON SHEEP TRANSFER

There is also the chance that any attempt to dispose of American merchant vessels made idle by the neutrality law's cash-and-carry section will raise a hump. The proposed transfer of eight of these ships to Panama a month or more ago, raised a great deal of dust, and later proposals to sell them to Great Britain or Norway will be scanned equally closely.

The isolation group is a minority, but it is a relentless and watchful minority, and any move that in their eyes tends to lead the United States toward war will bring them pouncing on it like cats. Any effort, for instance, to get around the Johnson Act in order to make loans to European countries, will get a quick once-over by this group. This act forbids loans to any country now in default of obligations to the United States. That includes most of the countries now at war, and various dodges had been proposed to get around it.

ARNOLD REQUEST BRINGS REQUEST

Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold's request for more money for anti-trust prosecutions will meet loud opposition. The American Federation of Labor feels that Arnold has trodden heavily on its toes in his anti-trust prosecutions and threats of prosecution, and the A. F. of L. lobby is still strong.

It will probably put up a fight to reduce Arnold's appropriation rather than increase it, thus strangling an investigation into building eggs that might prove embarrassing. Arnold also has plenty of enemies among large corporations, not without congressional influence, and between the two Arnold is in for a hot time. Having swallowed the Hatch (clean politics) bill more or less against its will last winter, Congress may pass the same dose along to the states this winter.

Senators Hatch and Neely have proposals to bar political activity to state officials in the same way in which the Hatch bill now bars it to federal office-holders.

Sharing The Comforts Of Life ---

By R. C. Hoiles

WAGE LEVELS DISCUSSED BY A DEFENDER OF COLLECTIVE BARGAINING

A contributor writes, "I hereby accept his (meaning my) challenge to show that the policy of collective bargaining has raised wage levels during our lifetime."

I am glad to see people who believe collective bargaining has raised wage levels make their thoughts public. Few people will do it. It is a belief generally held and one that needs frank, courageous and intelligent discussion. There is no question of more importance before the American people today than this question. For this reason, the contributor is to be commended for presenting his ideas.

He gives figures to show that the wages of union workers have risen to $1.37 an hour from a wage level of 20c an hour 60 years previous. He says during that period collective bargaining has grown. Both of these statements are undoubtedly correct. They are half truths.

The reason he is confused is because the benefits of collective bargaining are concentrated in one point so they are visible to the naked eye while the higher costs resulting from collective bargaining are spread over all the consumers so they are only visible to the eye of the mind.

He overlooks the fact that the purchasers of this $1.37 an hour labor had their purchasing power, their real wages reduced by an amount equal to what $1.37 an hour was above a free market for labor. So the level of wages was not raised by the increase.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace says there are at present 4 million people in the United States living on $1 a week. Would the contributor contend that collective bargaining has raised their wages?

And if wage levels can be raised by the collective bargaining route, why not raise them higher? Why stop at $1.37 an hour if wages can be raised so simply as by artificial agreements? And if wage levels can be raised with 'collective' bargaining, why should people sacrifice to create new capital and new tools? Is not every sacrifice to produce new tools unnecessary if wage levels can be raised by collective bargaining?

Will not the contributor be obliged to admit that wage levels can be increased only as a result of more production? If some wages are raised by fiat or collective bargaining without increased production, then does it not mathematically follow that other wages must of necessity be reduced by an equal amount?

Would the contributor contend that collective bargaining ever produced an extra pound, foot or yard of wealth? Will the contributor not admit that collective bargaining has prevented billions of dollars worth of wealth from being produced? Will the contributor cite one solitary case where wealth that has been produced does not have to be distributed?

And if he cannot cite one case where wealth is produced, that does not have to be distributed, then does it not logically follow that since collective bargaining has never created any wealth and prevented billions of wealth from being produced that it must be the cause of lowering wage levels instead of raising them.

The contributor is confused because wage levels have been raised while new tools and capital increased more rapidly than any other time in history. Would the contributor contend for a minute that collective bargaining could have raised the wage levels one iota if it had not been for the increase in capital and new scientific discoveries which are in reality a form of capital?

Will not the contributor have to admit that every time collective bargaining takes a larger fraction of what is produced the incentive of the employer to furnish new capital is reduced?

The contributor contends that if all laws defending collective bargaining were repealed and all relief were withdrawn from able-bodied workers that he is satisfied that there would be within a year such a scramble for jobs to avoid starvation that wage levels would drop to the level of fifty years ago.

He cannot name one single reputable political economist that agrees with him.

Now if all that is produced willy-nilly has to be distributed, then if all people went to work there would be more produced and hence more to distribute. As a result the real wages of the workers as a whole would be greatly increased instead of lowered as the contributor contends.

The contributor fails to understand that every time new and additional capital is added the owner of it is obliged to compete with the owners of other capital to secure labor, and this syphons the workers away from the employers with the least efficient capital that can pay out as wages only what is produced. This results in raising the wage levels of all workers because of this new capital.

Wages have always been raised because of new capital and in spite of collective bargaining. It is because wage levels have been raised at the same time that collective bargaining and capital were on the increase that many people are confused and believe that collective bargaining is a cause of raising wage levels.

The columns of this paper are, of course, open for a refutation of any of the statements made.

The Nation's Press

THE LEWIS WAR CHEST

(Chicago Tribune)

John P. Frey, head of the metal trades division of the American Federation of Labor, appeared before the congressional committee investigating the work of the National Labor Relations board and said that a majority of its members and its employees were wholly incompetent and entirely unqualified to administer the labor act. He repeated the charges often made by the officers of the A. F. of L. that the board was a prejudiced partisan of the C.I.O., and was in truth a government agency to promote Mr. Lewis' supremacy.

Mrs. Frey discussed the political activities of Lewis and his organizers and said that the use of money by the C.I.O. in political action should be made illegal. Lewis contributed $600,000 to the Democratic campaign fund in 1936, and later made it plain enough that, having bought his way into the Roosevelt administration, he intended to get what he had paid for. Frey referred to the announcement that the C.I.O. will raise a larger sum next year for another national campaign and will have at least $800,000 collected from Mr. Lewis' miners and from other C.I.O. organizations. This will be used again to put politicians under obligation, and if the C.I.O. supported candidates Lewis will make new demands. He will say that he wants what he paid for.

TIME BOMB

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 5.—All the reds and pinks I know in Hollywood are native Americans. All the foreigners are patriots. Of course, not all the latter have been here long enough to receive their final citizenship, but in their hearts they already have sworn their fealty.

They are not all refugees, either, except perhaps from the melancholia and sense of futility and helplessness which years ago they felt were clutching all Europe. There are lots of English and Russians and Italians here, and Aryan Germans, and Austrians and all the rest. Wherever they came from, these people are the sensitive and emotional individuals, artists of one sort or another, whose code transcends racial line and tradition.

The Dies committee and a couple of other anti-Red agencies have been poking around Hollywood. I don't know what they discovered, but I'll bet they have not reported the existence here of as much, as militant and as sentimental Americanism as you can find to the square foot between Eastport and San Diego. And our new residents and newest citizens are displaying the biggest share of enthusiasm.

SCHUNZEL FLED AFTER POKE AT NAZIS

ALL I know is that, every time I interview a player or director or musician of fairly recent foreign origin, I find a person who is almost inarticulate from emotion about American advantages and opportunities and ideas.

They talk like this: "In this country everybody laughs, and it isn't a crazy, desperate laughter... In this country, your newspapers tell the truth... In this country, you can criticize the government, even on the screen... In this country, nobody really starves, but where I lived we were all so hungry that we hoped to die... In this country, nobody is afraid..."

This column didn't start out to be a patriotic essay. It was intended to be an interview with Reinhold Schunzel. He is a director who left Germany a couple of jumps ahead of the Gestapo when somebody discerned that one of his pictures, "Mariechen," really was an unflattering satire on Naziland.

Years before, he had been a stage and screen star in Germany. One of his leading ladies was Marlene Dietrich in her first picture. In 1931 he became a writer-director. Louis B. Mayer brought Schunzel to Hollywood two years ago and let him make a typical American picture, "Rich Man, Poor Girl." He knew scarcely a word of English, but he refused a dialog director and somehow managed to make himself understood to the cast. The film, if you remember, turned out fine, and it did a lot for Lew Ayres, Lana Turner and Ruth Hussey. Next he directed "Ice Palace," and recently "Balalaika." The latter, introducing Jona Massey, is a hit.

LEARNED NEW LANGUAGE EASILY

Today Schunzel speaks fluently and with only the faintest trace of accent. I marveled that he hadn't acquired an accent just from being around Hollywood producers. He laughed and said that, having been an actor, he found it easy to grasp the flavor of a language. He reads newspapers and American history.

Then he taught me some American history. He said he is planning a picture about the time when this country and France had a short, undeclared war. It was in 1793, and there were three naval encounters. In his story, a French girl comes to America shortly after the Revolution and is cordially welcomed; but later, during the quarrel with France, she is ostracized. The German director hopes nothing like that will happen to him in the new country he loves.

People You Know

If you think that the News reporter was spoofing when he wrote that Bill Kenton's accordion cost $1,000, then you've got another think coming because its actual cost was $1-250, and since our poor folks would naturally wonder how any guy could get so much dough together at one time it might be pertinent to say here that Bill Kenton owned and operated a dry cleaning plant at Richmond, Ohio, when he bought that accordion, and he had several phonies or grand operas, but he can't afford to buy them now.

Bill had managed to escape the spreading Ohio with his car and his accordion, an excelsior, made in New York City. Bill believes the U. S.-made accordions are superior to the Italian-made. Bill has played his accordion over many radio stations in the middle west and in Kentucky, and has played for many hillbilly programs. Bill knows about every hillbilly in the business back in Missouri and Kentucky and down South in Alabama, Georgia. He also knows all the hillbilly songs, and can play anything you ask him to if he has ever heard it. He doesn't care a hang for symphonies or grand operas, but he can and will play all kinds of semi-classical music. It took almost a block and tackle to drag all this information out of Bill, so modest and shy is he. But since his accordion made the front page when it was stolen and since he plays with the Cornshuckers over KPDR, and since he will play for the basketball game at the gym tonight, we want you to know something about him.

One of the great dangers of phlebitis lies in the fact that portions of clots may become detached and travel elsewhere in the body. This produces the condition called embolism.

If such a clot becomes fixed in the lung or in the brain, it may threaten life itself. The immediate threat is not great; but the threat does exist, and many instances are recorded in which such emboli have produced serious results. Any patient with an acute inflammation of the veins demands constant medical attention to make certain that everything is done to prevent an emergency.

In general, thrombophlebitis is treated by elevating the leg, applying hot, wet packs continuously, and keeping the patient in bed long enough to make certain he is healed. Such patients may also require extended protection over long periods of time.

The term "thrombophlebitis" refers to an inflammation in the lining of a vein, resulting frequently in coagulation of the blood inside the vein. The condition sometimes occurs spontaneously with immediate pain.

The first step is always rest. The patient should lie flat in bed and not move his limbs. Hot, moist packs should be applied until the immediate signs of inflammation have disappeared. This may take a week or 10 days. Sometimes use of X-ray under medical control helps to subdue the inflammation.

The physician then usually makes a complete study of the patient to determine whether any specific cause can be found for the inflammation of the vein. In some cases, infections in the teeth, throat, sinuses or elsewhere seem to be associated with inflammation in the vein. Control of these infections will help to prevent further trouble in the form of phlebitis.

Sometimes excessive smoking seems to be a factor, in which case it is necessary to demand that the patient cease this habit.

One of the great dangers of phlebitis lies in the fact that portions of clots may become detached and travel elsewhere in the body. This produces the condition called embolism.

Comparative Size

A lot of people are fooled by maps, especially if they look at each country separately and forget to look at the scale key. See if you can tell comparative size between certain states in the country and foreign nations.

In each group below, underline either country or the state mentioned—whichever you believe is the larger.

Pettengill EIGHT YEARS Democratic Congressman From INDIANA

The NLRB investigation

Although Howard Smith of Virginia is a mild spoken man, he can't be pushed around by anybody. He showed this when Ickes, Corcoran and Co. tried to defeat him last year in the Eighth Virginia Congressional district.

His most famous constituent, Mr. John L. Lewis of Alexandria, beat the tom-toms for the head-hunters from Washington. But it was not enough. Smith was renominated, reelected, and is now chairman of the special committee investigating the National Labor Relations Board. He owes nothing to anyone in Washington. There will be no whitewash. You will get the lowdown on the highups.

It is not likely that he and his colleagues will repeat mistakes made by the Dies Committee. Smith is not a man to go off the deep end of anything. He was a judge for eight years. That left its mark. Consequently, look forward to his Committee providing an important and convincing news as is apt to come out of Washington this winter.

An investigation of N. L. R. B. overhauls Congress would have started it long ago except for the fact that the White House wanted Lewis and Green to kiss and make up. Now that the boys are telling the Committee in public what they think of each other, labor appeasement will be the unfinished business after the '40 election.

Lewis is slipping. The Chrysler strike hurt. The CIO whistled through the gray with claims that a smashing union victory had brought Chrysler employees a $6,000,000 yearly pay increase. But this was a rear guard smoke screen.

Figures it out yourself. Forty-two working days lost of eight hours each, at an average of 99.2 cents an hour, is $333.31 lost per man. Or $18,998,670 for 57,000 men. The men got a 3-cent-an-hour wage increase. But how long will it take to make up the loss? Unfortunately, automobile workers do not work 365 days a year. Actually in the 12 months preceding the strike they worked only 1370 hours or an average of 28.5 hours per week. At that rate the 3-cent increase will bring them $41.10 in a year's time.

In other words, it appears that it will take around eight years for the men to make up what they lost. But how about the thousands thrown out of work in allied industries and the dealers and dealers' salesmen? Their losses running into many millions are lost forever. Unsold cars pay no dividends.

Here is a labor act advertised to end strikes. Here is a labor board advertised to promote industrial peace. But there is Chrysler and eight years' pay increase down the sink. The public is saying something's wrong. And "wrong" is right.

That there are purposes in the Wagner Act that ought to be preserved has been well pointed out by Mr. Leiserson, the newest and least subservient member of N.L.R.B. But two things in particular are wholly wrong. One is that the board violated something absolutely fundamental in America—the demand for fair play. It was judge, jury, witness, detective, prosecutor and axeman in hundreds of cases.

The other thing wrong is the threatened serfdom of the American worker as a result of industry-wide or nationwide bargaining. When the "appropriate" bargaining unit is defined to be the entire soft coal industry, or the entire Pacific waterfront, for example, the right of local self-government in industry is denied. This is one more step toward Naziism as workers know it under Hitler.

Joe Ozanic of the Progressive Mine Workers, and John P. Frey of the A. F. of L., make a convincing case that the Act as administered denies the worker every right it was supposed to guarantee him. That is, the right to freely select his own agent to bargain for him.

Mr. Frey also insists that Congress forbid labor unions from making campaign contributions to political parties. It has been Federal law for years with respect to corrupt practices, that corporations cannot contribute. Mr. Frey wants to know the moral difference, if any, between the old Quay-Petrose machine buying favors from Republicans, and John L. Lewis' machine buying favors from Democrats. Well, what is the difference?

It begins to look as if the CIO is going to have difficulty forcing the right of local self-government on industry. Howard Smith is not what we paid for.

Gods' Winged Messenger Speeds Greek Airmail

WHEN the gods of Greek mythology ruled from Mount Olympus, Hermes, later identified by Romans as Mercury, carried messages for Zeus. It was entirely in accord with ancient legend, therefore, to entrust this deity with the conduct of modern mail. The first Greek stamps, issued in 1861, bore a likeness of Hermes in winged helmet. Numerous other Greek issues also honor the mythological messenger. The airmail stamp, above, shows the head of Hermes above an airplane.

INVITATION TO AN ERA OF GOOD FEELING
By HARLEY L. LUTZ
Professor of Public Finance, Princeton University

The annual convention of manufacturers, known as the Congress of American Industry, has just issued a platform for 1940. This brief document merits the careful consideration of every citizen.

It is a platform for industry, more than a platform for industry. It is an attempt, by its authors, to formulate a program on which all providing the resources for plant equipment, for new undertakings, and for a larger volume of production. The key to the proper functioning of these factors is profit, and the plank on this subject is worth quoting in full:

"Recognition of the social value of the profit motive as a powerful incentive to all productive effort, and of the economic need for profits in industry sufficient to maintain and expand existing enterprise."

It is to be expected that the leader of investors would stand squarely against the political efforts that are being made to socialize industry and against the theoretical doctrines of the socio-communist group. On the political side, the program has been to extend the field of government in business and to establish government-controlled cheap credit institutions to supply the funds required by business. ### Edison's Plan To Commandeer Factories Hit

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—A blast of criticism indicated today that the navy's recommendation to give the president peacetime emergency power to commandeer factories for naval construction faced formidable opposition in Congress.

Even long-time supporters of the administration, such as Senate Minority of Indiana, the Democratic whip, joined in bi-partisan opposition to the proposal, made by Secretary Edison in a letter to Speaker Bankhead.

The proposal, which would broaden the powers now delegated to the president only in wartime, was being widely discussed as the administration pushed ahead with its defense program.

Detailing major plans for the next 18 months, the army and navy disclosed intention of strengthening materially their fortifications in the Pacific area.

The war department announced at the same time that all four field armies made up of regular army and national guard troops, would take part for the first time late next summer in war games of at least three weeks' duration.

Minton said he thought the Edison proposal "violated the spirit of a Democratic country," and declared: "I know of no approaching emergency that would warrant such action."

Senator Borah (R-Idaho) said the proposal appeared "perfectly startling" to him. Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said he intended to see that legislation if it was brought up in the senate.

Edison told reporters the emergency power request had been made as a routine matter because the navy felt that, as a matter of great preparation, it was official quarters said the government would proceed independently to determine the amounts of indemnification.

A spokesman for the government administration said an official published report the administration's executive had appealed to workers to end a "state of anarchy" in the industry.

The Tampico newspaper El Mundo said yesterday a "disastrous situation of the industry" had been reviewed in a memorandum to union oil workers from Vicente Cortes Herrera, general manager of Petroleos Mexicanos.

El Mundo said he cited "frequent acts of dishonesty," "lack of discipline" and the union practice of "constantly adding personnel" as reasons for not paying a labor court award of salary increases and other benefits.

Failure of 17 American, British and Netherlands oil companies to pay the award was followed by expropriation of the industry in 1938. Informed observers said analysis of President Lazaro Cardenas' New Year message showed the industry was operated in 1939 at a loss of $9 million pesos ($1,600,000).

Vandenberg Twits Democrats On Debt

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) would pay $100 to attend a Jackson Day dinner, he has advised Democratic Chairman James A. Farley—If it is held to celebrate "the extinguishing of the national debt."

Vandenberg was not among the Republican members of Congress who received—and rejected—invitations to be non-paying guests at Monday's $100-a-plate Democratic dinner, but he wrote Farley last night he would like to attend one "historically faithful" to the purpose of the first in 1835.

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (AP)—The rising stock market stalled today as profits were chased on the day advance.

Although a number of issues were able to retain portions of a forenoon advance, most leaders abated and the final gains were lost. The market was converted into losses of as much for the day as at the close.

Dealings fast at the opening on the extension of Wednesday's forward push, slinked appreciably in the subsequent session. Transfers were to the neighborhood of 350,000 shares.

Some speculative contingents stepped aside in order to study the President's budget message which Congress received shortly after noon. Wall Street, however, was first to close apparently found few serious changes in the Administration's fiscal recommendations, these coming up fairly well to expectations.

Business news brought in buyers for individual stocks and served to keep off a relatively light close elsewhere, brokers said.

Boeing was a strong spot in an indifferent aviation group. This issue was believed to have come into favor on reports the company would finance expansion of its production facilities.

Resident was Studebaker, Yellow Truck and Coach, Lockheed, Westworth, J. I. Case, Du Pont, General Electric and International Harvester.

On the down side the greater part of the day was U. S. Steel, Chrysler, American Telephone and Telegraph, American Oil, Santa Fe and Montgomery Ward.

FDR Appointees Could Control Court 20 Years

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Elevation of Frank Murphy to the Supreme Court will give Roosevelt appointees majority control of the tribunal for possibly two decades, barring deaths, resignations or removals.

Nomination of the 46-year-old Attorney General yesterday as Mr. Roosevelt's fifth appointee on the nine-man court may well imprint the new deal hallmark on the opinions for many years after the President's own retirement from office.

Discussing Mr. Roosevelt's lower court appointments, Murphy himself said yesterday that "for years the country will watch the work and receive the benefits of the wisdom of these men of learning and integrity."

Sebate comment indicated that Murphy would be confirmed promptly but he may not take his seat for a month in order to clean up his work in the justice department.

The youngest is William O. Douglas, 41. Should he remain on the bench only until reaching the average age of the four non-Roosevelt government service. He has been appointed, he would still be serving 30 years from now.

Besides comparative youth, Murphy shares with three other Roosevelt appointees a background of government service. He has been Mayor of Detroit, Commissioner to the Philippines, Governor of Michigan and Attorney General.

On the bench he will join two of his predecessors as Attorney General—Justice McReynolds and Stone.

STATEMENT

leaves the smart thing to do is to go to war. Mr. Roosevelt said that the overwhelming majority expect the United States to stay out of the war, but that there is a "vast difference between keeping out of war and pretending that this war is none of our business." He also referred to "those who wishfully insist, in innocence or ignorance or both, that the United States of America as a self-contained unit can happily and prosperously ignore its future security, inside a high wall of isolation white, outside, the rest of civilization and the commerce and culture of mankind are shattering."

Having agreed that we don't want to go to war, and don't intend to let our children wash that out and look at the other aspects, I'm reminded of a remark French Finance Minister Paul Reynaud made to me in Paris just over a year ago. I asked him how he regarded America's tendency to confine its activities to the western hemisphere. He grinned and shot back: "There was a time when England thought she was an island."

I wanted for more, and when it didn't come, inquired: "Is that your complete answer?" "That," he chuckled, "is my answer."

The roots of almost all of us are deep in one or another of the foreign lands. Our ancestors were English or German or Scandinavian or Italian or what you. Our customs, laws, institutions—our whole culture is closely identified with the foreign fields.

We have an important trade with the old world. Throughout the present administration secretary of State Hull made a drive to lower trade barriers in Europe and obtain trade pacts. Not much isolation in that.

How shall we handle the American or Italian or what you. Our customs, laws, institutions—our whole culture is closely identified with the foreign fields.

BASKETBALL

And that's important, for it is the second string that has the glimmer. The Harvesters may be better players, but the reserves have the looks. Some fans think there isn't so much difference between the reserves and the Harvesters anyway. The reserve center, Frasier, is definitely a movie type, and Billy Mounts, guard, has a head like a senator, and the girls speak of A. C. Enloe as "cute" he wouldn't like that!

And Tom Cox appears to have both brains and good looks since he's a star Spanish pupil and rattles it off like a pro.

So it would be a good idea to see the first game tonight, especially since the reserve game is sometimes a better game than the Harvesters tilt.

Bill Kenyon will play a half-dozen or so hillbilly and popular numbers at intermissions and the halves, and between games, and the trio, consisting of Maribel Hazard, Clairbell Jones and Betty Jean Thieman will sing about five songs. A loud speaker will carry the music.

The Civil Aeronautics Authority later, pronouncing her unimpaired on air traffic regulations, took away the license.

Miss Ingalls said here yesterday she had won it back in an examination Tuesday in Los Angeles.

Syphilis Tests Show Increase

AUSTIN, Jan. 5 (AP)—On the basis of 1939 experience more than half of all Texas adults infected with syphilis will be discovered in the next two years if blood tests are part of every physical examination required by law, says R. F. Voyer, director of the Texas Social Hygiene association.

Voyer predicts that 2,000 manufacturers, stores, laundries, banks and other business institutions will require complete physical examinations for employees in 1940.

With few exceptions, Texas public and private clinical laboratories reported increases ranging above 100 per cent in the number of syphilis tests given during 1939, he says.

Austin, scene of the first widespread application of physical examinations, including laboratory blood tests for employees of many industries, showed an increase of 700 per cent.

A survey of findings from the tests showed, says Voyer: Approximately 7.5 per cent of all adults examined as a result of legal requirements were found infected with syphilis.

More than half were unaware of their condition. More than 65 per cent had been carrying the infection for more than three years.

Three out of every four were not receiving treatment. Twenty-five per cent were unable to determine where or when they had become infected.

About 85 per cent had their blood examined in private laboratories at a cost of $1. The balance were examined by health department laboratories.

Eight out of each 10 persons discovered infected now are under treatment, one half in public clinics and one half by personal physicians.

one of heavy ski weight—two pairs of underwear, two woolen shirts, a sweater, a jacket and a fur or sheep-lined coat.

Driving to the front in a blizzard, my car slipped into a six-foot snowbank. An ambulance tumbled in, sent after an hour's wait the Pampa turned out a fast snowplow to clear the road ahead. Because of the weather and the thickly-wooded countryside, most travel in this season is by ski.

At every army stop, efficient women of the Lotta Staryd, the Finnish women's auxiliary, who operate the field kitchens while their men fight, brought out coffee, tea and sandwiches. In one was an English-speaking woman doctor.

Before I set out into the night to visit the battle scenes, general headquarters sent a patrol ahead. After it had scouted for 20 minutes it served as a guide for a visit to an abandoned Russian hospital.

Behind the lines, foreign press headquarters is a comfortable modern hotel with good and plentiful food, even ripe peaches.

idea sound, but said they did not believe that house work should stop while the joint committee sat.

GOP Calls Conference
With both houses in recess until Monday, senate Republicans called a conference (at 10 a. m., CST) to go over Mr. Roosevelt's "budget" budget that new taxes be levied for $460,000,000 of extraordinary armament needs.

Harrison said he was "not strong" for the tax request and expressed opposition to any levy that would "discourage capital" to the further detriment of the employment situation.

"There's got to be a working understanding between the committees leaving taxes and those making appropriations if we are to have a fundamental basis for leveling expenditures and receipts," he said.

Although describing the president's budget message as "heartbreaking," Harrison said the increases and reductions and tax suggestions "should be scrutinized from every angle."

Most members of both houses expressed gratification that the president, in proposing lower appropriations except for defense and a consequent diminished deficit, at least had made a start toward balancing income and outgo.

With the senate loafing until the house acts on initial appropriation bills, the house will debate Tuesday the controversial anti-lynching bill. Leaders hope to start on the $270,000,000 deficiency bill for defense needs on Wednesday.

Retired Rancher Dies

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 5 (AP)—The body of Edward L. Hasell, 78, retired rancher of Muskogee, Okla., was sent here last night for funeral services and burial. He died yesterday.

Hasell was a native of Decatur, Tex. Survivors other than the widow include a sister, Mrs. W. T. Waggoner of Port Worth.

Convicts Who Aided In 'Quake Pardoned

ANKARA, Jan. 5 (AP)—Pardons for 15 convicts who scorned escape and risked their lives to rescue more than 1,000 women and children buried under wreckage by the Anatolian earthquake of Dec. 27 were recommended today by the government at a special parliamentary session.

The men, all serving long sentences in barracks at the Erzerum prison, displayed "what the government called 'magnificent courage.'"

They organized rescue squads and dug for days in the ruined buildings of the town, apparently hardest hit by the quake that caused an estimated loss of 45,000 lives.

The convicts administered first aid to those they rescued, and housed the victims in what remained of their prison.

A campaign for adoption of disaster orphan by wealthy families was begun in Ankara as the first trainload of 210 children arrived. Damage was reported today from new earth shocks that toppled buildings in the Smyrna region, and Samsun and Amasia, but no new losses of life were recorded.

close to the embattled areas. Along the roads to the front in the Arctic darkness one sees a milkmaid on the way to her morning chores and, in the headlights pick out a boy pumping a bicycle.

The one good road to the frontier is cut through solid forest, broken only by lakes or scattered clearings. The lakes are frozen so solid your driver confidently speeds across the ice.

Periodically you stop to get warm and dry, or to eat and sleep. A woman welcomes you for the nighttime halt at the door of a two-room farmhouse and ushers you into a bedroom walled with timber cut from the forests outside and chinked with moss. By a stove—almost all chimneys with a narrow, iron gate opening for wood—a three-year-old sleeps.

Coach Tells Fans Harvesters Need Inspiration

Team Friends Asked To See Game Tonight

TEAM FRIENDS—If the fans would show a little interest in the basketball team and come out and watch them play, the boys themselves might be inspired to snap out of it, Coach Mitchell said this morning in urging fans to attend the double-header with Groom at the gym tonight.

The reserves of both squads will play the opening game, beginning at 7 o'clock. At the half, Bill Kenton will play numbers on his $1,000 accordion. He will play more numbers at the end of the game, and will accompany the Co-Eds in Blue, girls' trio at other intermissions.

The Harvesters and the Tigers will begin their game at 8 o'clock. Admission will be 10 cents for male students and 25 cents for men. Women and girls will be admitted free if accompanied by a man or a student.

Despite the icy weather, the largest crowd of the season is expected. The gym will be warm and comfortable. One of the most colorful and exciting officials in this part of the country, Joe Ley, Oklahoma A. M. graduate will referee the 2 games.

Last year, basketball paid its way for the first time in 10 years, but it is off to a good start of going

Rice And Texas To Play Important Game Saturday

"Oh, hang it all!" wrestler Oregon McDonald might have grunted as he missed a dive at his opponent and wound up with this self-inflicted strangling. Referee Eddie Lewis strains to untangle McDonald, in Columbus, Ohio, ring where involuntary rope-trick was performed

By FELIX R. MCKNIGHT
DALLAS, Jan. 5 (AP)—The University of Texas hurries into defense of its Southwest Conference basketball title in a collision with Rice Institute down at Houston tomorrow night.

Bracketed at the top of the chase by the experts, the Steers and Owls, through luck of the schedule draw, match baskets in a game that could mean everything weeks from now.

Four of the five starters back in the fold and the newcomer, W. D. Houpt, performing like an old salt, Texas gets away from the post no worse than an even choice. Against Rice Houpt draws the hardest assignment available—handcuffing Bob Kinney, Rice's sophomore tip-in specialist who operates from a height of six feet, six inches.

Throughout the pre-season schedule Kinney and Frankie Carrawell, last year's spectacular sophomore all-conference star, led an Owl team that averaged slightly less than 60 points per game. Only Purdue, power of the Big Ten, stopped Rice, 52-41.

Texas marched through its warm-up games in equally good fashion, giving Madison Square Garden fans a kick with its overwhelming triumph over Manhattan before stumbling in front of Temple en route home, 37-47.

Two of Texas' sharper goalies of last season, Bobby Moers, the dribbling marvel and Chester Carville, haven't been waving the net in startling fashion to date, but both are slow starters.

Texas comes right out of the Rice game and moves into an Arkansas two-game series at Fayetteville next weekend. It should know after the first three games how stout its chances are for winning the title again.

Rice will have one game under its belt when it plays Texas Saturday. The lovely Christians, a team that has reposed in the basement for five seasons, will play Rice at Houston Friday night.

After the Rice game, the Christians move into College Station Saturday night for a session with the mediocre Texas A&M's while Southern Methodist is playing Baylor at Waco.

Most likely the dark horse of the race is Baylor, hindered by a mass attack of the flu during its recent Oklahoma invasion. Grady Vaughn, high scoring guard, has recuperated and will start against the Methodists.

Into the red this year. That's the big reason why Business Manager Bill Anderson wants a crowd present.

However, it's the coach's job to turn out a winning team and he believes he can do it if the fans—who come out to football games—will come out and encourage the boys to win. The Harvesters have lost one or two games this season—to Canyon and to White Deer, and those by close scores.

The reserve starting lineup will be Tox Cox and Enloe, forwards; Frasier, center; D. Mitchell and Billy Mounts, guards.

The Harvesters starting lineup will be Carlisle and Bearden, forwards; Terrell, center; Dunaway and Seth Cox, guards.

Yesterday, the Harvesters in an hour scrimmage blew an overtime, a quintet of exes, most of whom were stars last year, and are still in school. Sparking of the exes was Grover Lee Heskell who played on the first string Harvesters team last year. At one time the exes led the Harvesters 8 points and stayed ahead of them until the exes were worn to a frazzle. In the exes were Heskell, A. C. Miller, Kenneth Kyle, Nevin Johnston, R. G. Chandler, Glenn Nichols. Coach Mitchell put in the second string when the Harvesters got four points ahead. The exes were ahead when the scrimmage ended.

Sooner Giants Need Berth And A Half
NORMAN, Okla., Jan. 5.—Oklahoma's defending co-champions doze into the Big Six basketball race tonight with sleeper insurance.
Coach Bruce Drake rented a berth and a half each for the giant mainstays of his team, 6-foot-6 Hugh Ford and Herb Scheffler, so they could stretch contentedly on the riser to Lawrence, Kas.

"All players need to relax the night before a game," Drake explained. "They can't do it in the average Pullman berth."
Oklahoma opens against Kansas, runner-up last season.

Way Will Be Cleared For Major Fights

By SID FEDER
NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP)—Aided and abetted by the fair name of charity, fight promoter Mike Jacobs stepped out of character today for a short role as the angel of peace, which promises to go a long way toward settling the hottest feud since the Hatfields wouldn't speak to the McCoy's.

The result probably will be that the New York State Athletic Commission and Joe Jacobs, manager of Tony Galento, will "bury the hatchet" in their long-standing row, thus removing the biggest stumbling block in the way of holding the heavyweight bouts between Galento and Max Baer this winter and Galento and Joe Louis next summer in New York. There are a couple of tea parties which figure to pay well at the box office.

At the same time, the Finnish relief fund, for which the Galento-Baer festivities will be staged in March, will do all right, too, with Mike Jacobs contributing his entire profit from the project to that charity.

The fight was the top event proposed at a get-together of ex-President Herbert Hoover, head of the fund, and various sports writers yesterday. Plans were also outlined for other sports competitions.

Leading the way, however, was the fact that the Galento-Baer fight should be a cinch to end the battle between Joe Jacobs and the athletic commissioners.

Here's the way "Uncle Mike's" peace proceedings go:
Joe has restated all Mike Jacobs' pleadings to hold the fight in New York, simply because neither Joe, as manager, nor two-ton Tony, as fighter, hold New York licenses from the commission.

But Mike announced the fight was for charity; so Joe accepted—with the stipulation he be granted a license.

Since the name of charity is a compelling factor in the fight business, the fistic fathers undoubtedly will see the light.

All this time, Mike Jacobs has been looking ahead to this summer, when he must give Louis some work at good pay. A Galento-Louis rematch for the title is the one to make the surest ticket here. So, if Joe and Galento are granted licenses, through the commissioner's expected willingness to let charity act as the dove of peace, there'd be no reason for the commissioners to take away their sanction again later on. Thus, as the boys would say, this summer's affair is "right in the vest pocket."

Pacific Conference Being Worked Over
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5 (AP)—Shelled full of holes by a bombardment of facts-finding cannon and its athletic administrative standard admittedly not flying as high as desired, the Pacific Coast Conference was in the process of being rebuilt and strengthened today.

Those in control, the faculty representatives of the big far western circuit, opened secret sessions last night long enough to issue a summarized account of the two-year survey conducted by a former government agent, Edwin N. Atherton.

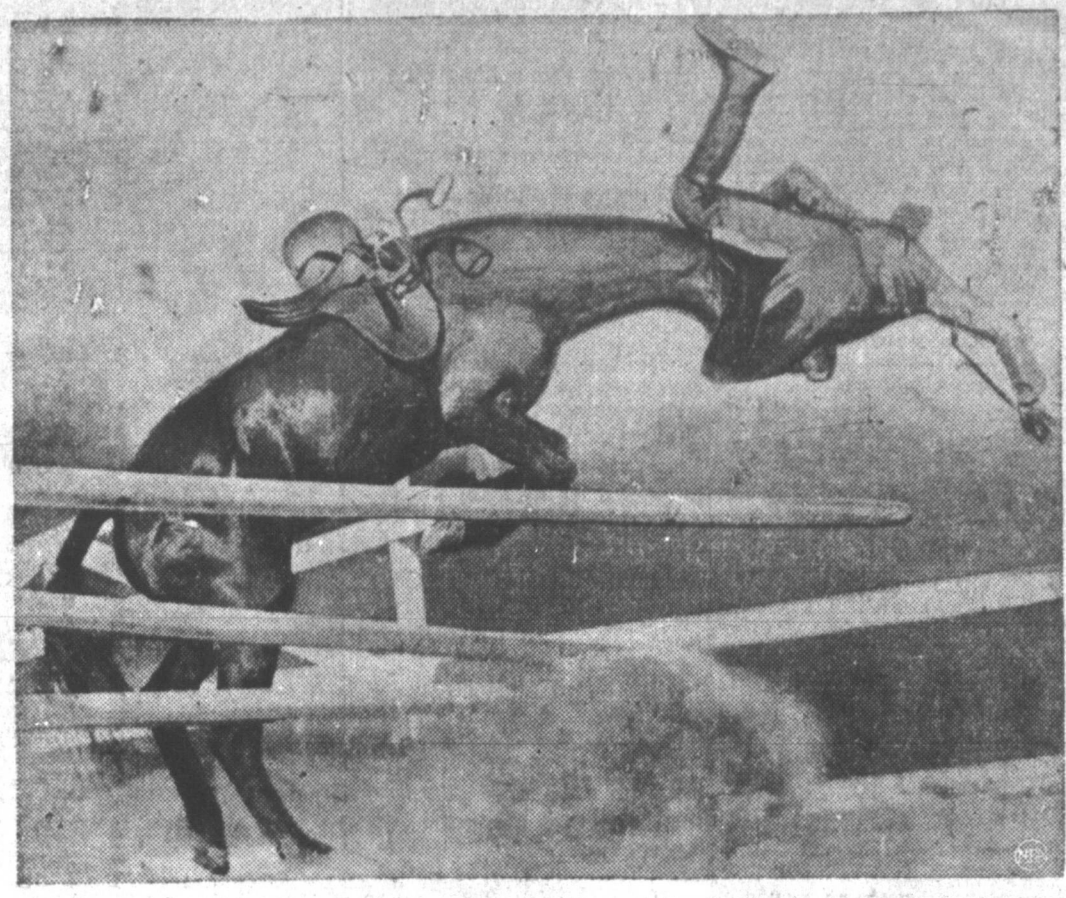

The authorized revelations were fragmentary insofar as the two-million word piece of detection is concerned but the findings of rules dodgings, athletic scholarship violations and trappings of ethics were plain.

The statement confessed that "certain practices and abuses common to intercollegiate athletics in most parts of the country exist in the Pacific Coast Conference, most notably in the case of football."

SCHOOLBOY SIDELINES

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Staff

The Texas schoolboy football campaign has ended and the crown rests on the collective head of a worthy champion. Lubbock and one of the best teams in the 20-year history of the Interscholastic League.

It met another fine team in Waco. I have followed Texas schoolboy football since the league took it under its wing and I say without reserve that the final between Lubbock and Waco was the most thrilling I have ever seen—good football played by two smart, fighting teams.

Lubbock had more than spirit to win the state championship. The vow the team made to win for its late coach, Weldon Chapman, had much to do with the drive to glory of the spindly-shanked Cleburnes who also had a fine team to go along with its unbeatable spirit.

There never has been a team as light as Lubbock with more ability, fire and stamina. The team coached by the Westerners was the Cleburne eleven of 1925 that held mighty Cisco to a scoreless tie. Those who saw that game will never forget the gallant stand of the Lebeaux to a stalemate because the boys didn't go on that field to be beaten in the first place and because Cleburne had in Seaman Squyres the greatest high school punter I have seen.

There were heart-rendering breaks in last week's state title game that went against Waco, such as the Red team's fumble on the one-yard line against Lubbock. All in all, I believe the better team was although I wouldn't hazard a guess as to which would be victorious tomorrow if the teams clashed again. Waco's injuries undoubtedly handicapped the Tigers. I should not be surprised if that was the reason for some of those fumbles. An injured player is liable to drop a foot, ball or anything else when he's tackled hard and hurt again.

Jerry Mallin, Amarillo sports writer who has seen as much football as the next one, says Lubbock played its greatest game the day it beat the Golden Sandies. That wouldn't be surprising. Amarillo was an up-and-down team but when it did click it was just about as good as any you would find in the "forehand of Brackenridge High (San Antonio) ranked Amarillo's team this season as good as any the Sandies ever had—and Amarillo won three state championships.

Texas schoolboy football closed out with a grand final, but the real end of the campaign, as far as Texas football prestige is concerned, came played ElDort, Miss. in the last inter-sectional game on the schedule. Plainview lost but Texas schools already had run up a safe margin in victories over teams of nearby states. Next year, however, is going to be another matter. With the 18-year rule in effect, this state is due to take it on the chin often than in the past.

I'll take Pat Farris, Lubbock's mighty tackle, on my all-state team. He's the boy who opened those holes in the line and he made so many tackles there was no need checking numbers to see who was doing it. Clifton Hill, Lubbock's slender but fighting wingman, is as fine a defensive end as I saw all season. Francis Fulstide, Waco's burly young center, is to be a defensive back in my book.

Paul Tyson's Waco team lost the state championship this season but the coach of the Tigers still holds the outstanding record of Texas schoolboy football.

Armstrong Kayos Old Hero, Ghouly
ST. LOUIS, Jan. 5 (AP)—Welterweight champion Henry Armstrong—who chumpies title defenses in series and keeps all dates—will tackle Pedro Montañes in New York Jan. 24, flaunting the scalp of the man who once inspired him to do big things with his fists.

The St. Louis negro felled his one-time "hero"—Joe Ghouly—three times in the first of a scheduled 15-round championship match last night and dropped the fading challenger in 34 seconds of the fifth.

In the interim, Ghouly, an old campaigner who excited Armstrong's admiration when he worked out in a St. Louis gym a decade ago, proved durable in absorbing the champ's short punches.

Bears, on emerging from their hibernation, still are fat, in spite of several foodless months; but exercise soon makes them gaunt.

Four Changes In Football Rule Book Scheduled

PALM SPRINGS, Calif., Jan. 5 (AP)—College football fans may mark down four changes in the rule book for 1940, including one designed to speed up play and another to encourage the use of short forward passes.

The major change, announced by the rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association here yesterday, involves the short forward pass.

The fourth new rule requires that when a forward pass touches an ineligible player on or behind the line of scrimmage, the penalty will be merely the loss of the down.

If the passer is trapped, however, and throws the ball to save yardage and it touches an ineligible man on or behind the line, the penalty will be the same as for intentionally grounding a pass, 15 yards and loss of the down.

The same penalty still exists if the pass touches an ineligible player beyond the scrimmage line.

The penalty for roughing a passer will, in the future, be enforced from the spot of the previous down. Heretofore, in the case of a completed or intercepted pass, the penalty was enforced from the point of the foul, which often made it necessary for the offended team to refuse the penalty.

In order to speed up the game, the committee reduced the time allowed in putting the ball into play from 90 seconds to 25 seconds.

The fourth new rule requires that cleats be three-eighths of an inch at the top, or point, instead of one half inch, and that the top be parallel with the base.

WHITE DEER, Jan. 5.—The White Deer Bucks will enter the invitation basketball tournament to be held in Spearman Friday and Saturday.

Probable starting line-up will be Hawkins and Stalls, forwards; Russell and Noel, guards; and Potter, center.

Bloodclot Removed From Boxer's Brain
PITTSBURGH, Jan. 5 (AP)—Surgeons early today removed a blood clot from the brain of Jim Lindsay in an effort to save the young middleweight boxer's life.

He has a cerebral contusion suffered while working out with light heavyweight champion Billy Conn. Dr. Floyd H. Bragdon said he was hopeful the fighter would pull through.

Engineers believe that in the near future there will be further significant increases in the efficiencies of internal combustion engines, says the publication "Industrial and Engineering Chemistry."

High-boiling coal tar products, once wasted, now are a source of zoumarone resins, millions of pounds of which are used yearly in printing inks, floor tile binders and chewing gum.

WINNING BASKETBALL

MISSOURI METHOD ON REBOUND WORK
This illustrates how Missouri follows up shots.

Guard No. 5 passes into Forward No. 1 and then goes on to screen for No. 1 as indicated.

No. 1 passes to No. 2 who sets up a post in the four circle and the pivot man returns to No. 1 breaking past No. 1 then shoots and cuts around to the right to follow up.

No. 5 after screening, also goes in to follow up as does the pivot man. This gives the Tigers three men getting in quickly for rebound work.

Ryder Team Invited To Dallas Tourney
DALLAS, Jan. 5 (AP)—Texas amateur golfers would take up the slack in the program of the United States Ryder Cup team which can't play in the international matches with Great Britain because the English have other things to occupy their time, notably the European war.

J. Ralph Wood, chairman of the Dallas Country Club tournament committee, has mailed an invitation to Fred Corcoran, bureau manager of the Professional Golfers Association, and Wood expressed confidence today the offer would be accepted.

A reply is due this week from Corcoran to the offer of $1,500 for the professional's expenses.

The Ryder Cup team is to be at San Antonio Feb. 11 for the Texas open championship and at Houston Feb. 18 for the western open championship. The proposed date of the match with a picked group of Texas amateurs is Feb. 15.

'Big Spring' Former Buffalo Watering Hole

BIG SPRING, Jan. 5 (AP)-Near the "Big Spring" for which this city was named, three pet buffalo graze on the W. P. Edwards ranch, but more than half a century ago thousands of these animals roamed this section and afforded an easy livelihood for commercial buffalo hunters.

Watering places years ago for the buffalo included Moss Springs and "Big Spring." Thousands of the animals headquartered near here because of the abundance of water.

W. T. Roberts, a pioneer of this section, recalls that bones were strewn for great distances around Moss Springs. One of the first "big" industries after the herds became extinct, was the handling of buffalo bones.

The last wild buffalo seen here was in 1890 when Frank Tibbitts and his father caught a young bull calf lottering behind the herd. It was sold to A. G. Denmark, who put the animal on exhibit at the state fair in Dallas where it died.

Col. Thompson Not Expected To Announce Early For Governor

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL Associated Press Staff

Open warfare in the 1940 campaign for Governor may not start as early in the year as it did two years ago.

In 1938, Ernest O. Thompson announced on Jan. 1. While developments not foreseen now might cause a change in his plans, he is expected to announce this year in April.

Thompson's friends say he believes an early announcement is not necessary because he is better known. Moreover, a longer active campaign in addition to being more expensive, might tend to tire the voters and lay bare at an earlier time plans of political maneuvering.

Of 16 State Senators, whose terms of office expire this year, probably six or seven will not be members of the next Senate. This is the statement of Senator Weaver Moore of Houston, made in a half hour chat with Capitol press correspondents.

Moore is serving his second term and before that was a member of the House of Representatives. "Out of the 16 Senators who are up for re-election," Moore predicted "there will be six or seven who will not return. That is the average turnover each two years. About that number either will decide not to run or be defeated."

It is possible, of course, for the average not to obtain in any year. It might not prove out this year, because it looks as though the 16 this time are unusually strong.

The 16 Senators are A. M. Alkin, Jr., of Paris, E. Harold Beck, Texarkana, Houghton Brimble of Austin, Gordon M. Burns of Huntsville, Wilbourn B. Collier of Eastland, Doss Hardin of Waco, J. Mann, Head of Stephenville, Vernon Lemes of Waxahatchie, G. H. Nelson of Lubbock, Will D. Pace of Tyler, John S. Redditt of Lubbock, Morris Roberts of Pethus, Clint C. Small of Amarillo, J. Franklin Sparks of San Antonio, Albert Stone of Brenham and H. L. Windfield of Fort Stockton.

Most of these men have served full four-year terms. Senator Hardin has served about two years, having been elected to fill out the unexpired term of Senator W. R. Newton, who died in office.

Ennis Favors To Return To Pampa

By ERNEST G. FISCHER Associated Press Staff

January is a double two-faced month for Texans. Named for the two-faced Roman god, Janus, the month generally is considered a period in which one looks back to the old year and forward to the new. It is supposed to be a sort of no-man's-land between the harvesting and the planting seasons. In many climes the harvest season has gone.

Nevertheless, this state presents somewhat of a contrast in early January. In the Panhandle area there still are "bollies"-remnants of last year's cotton crop-but in extreme South Texas preparations are under way for planting the 1940 crop. At the same time, the citrus movement remains in progress. In North Texas preparation of the soil is proceeding in the South and Central Texas the "beds" have been made for weeks. Absorbing moisture against the day they'll be broken for seed.

Over a large part of the state, however, January remains the plowing month-the period when last year's stalks are turned under in preparation for "bedding." This recalls the traditional festival of an ancient England-plough Monday-in early January. The plowing season was launched with song and drink. In Texas it opens with the song of trace chains and tractors-and drink from a jug, not a mug.

The livestock phase of farming in Texas may be compared with that of England at this time of the year. It is the season when billboards can be expected here, but in many places the old farm saying about having everything "smug around the barn," must be extended to the range. "Wee northern" are based on lambs and kids, not to mention cattle.

Thomas Tuser, who wrote Digger, verse during the reign of Queen Mary (1553-58), said that after the Christmas and New Year's feasts, farmers should pay special attention to their livestock. "Some cattle was faint and look poorly and thin" wrote Tuser. A Texan, in more prosaic language, would say "you could count the ribs!"

SERIAL STORY BLACKOUT BY RUTH AYERS

YESTERDAY, Mary is discharged from the hospital. As she prepares to leave, Dr. Lenox offers her the use of his apartment with the state employment. He is required to remain at the hospital, his quarters are unoccupied. She declines accepting his generous offer.

CHAPTER XII

THERE just weren't any jobs in London, Mary Carroll decided after three weeks' search. Even with the war providing many new types of employment, there was nothing she could find to do.

On leaving the hospital Mary went at once to the rooms Dr. Lenox had put at her disposal, rooms useless to him because of his required residence in the medical center. There, despite her grief, she was slightly comforted to remain among his entirely masculine possessions. The little touch of his straight-shouldered personality that seemed to cling to the rooms was a source of satisfaction.

Of the money in Anna Winters' purse there now remained only a few oversized coins.

"Ninety-three cents!" Mary was amazed when she reckoned it in terms of "real money." "If I don't get a job soon—" But she never would finish that sentence.

That her looks were against her finding work she did not need to be told. Nor were her clothes any great help. Kindly Mrs. Simmons, the landlady, had helped her alter them until they had some semblance of fit and the two had brushed and pressed until Mary was passable. But they were not the clothes of a New York fashion designer.

Days of job hunting passed and Mary knew her chances of getting work were slimmer and slimmer. England had already settled to its unprecedented warfare and much of the emergency work had slackened.

It was in despair that Mary Carroll battled the winter winds and fought the crowds in Piccadilly Circus on her way home after another fruitless day of job hunting.

"I want to die," she thought, in despair. "What's the use of dragging on like this? I've nothing to look forward to, nothing to hope for."

But no. It wasn't going to lick her. Her Yankee fighting spirit

"Only cowards talk about dying," she told herself. "And for me to have such thoughts is worse than cowardly. After all Dr. Lenox has done for me—after he struggled day and night to save my life. Is that the way to repay him?"

BACK in the rooms in Soho street she found a coal fire burning in the study grate.

"Dear Mrs. Simmons," she mused. "She knows I can't afford a fire. And this must be a real sacrifice to her, what with the price of coal in this country!"

The comfort of the room shut out noises from the outside. Mary felt better because of her resolution to carry on or to go down fighting. There was a tap on the door.

"Come," she spoke without looking up. It could only be Mrs. Simmons.

"Hello, there," a deep masculine voice spoke. "I hope you'll not regard this as an intrusion. I had a particular reason for wanting to see you."

"Why, Dr. Lenox!" Mary's eyes lighted. "This is a grand surprise! She sprang from her chair, her face reflecting the ruddy glow of the coals.

"Oh, I say. You aren't eating well, are you? You ought to look more fit by now. Have you found a job yet?"

"Not yet. And I almost gave up today."

"Poor little kid." He patted her hand and led her to a chair. "The going's been tough for you, hasn't it?"

"If you only knew," Mary wanted to say, thinking about her masquerade as Anna Winters.

INSTEAD she said aloud, "You've been so good to me."

"I'm glad I've been any help. You must never let your courage get low. It has made me very happy that these rooms are good for something." He looked around, groping for a way to lighten her mood.

"I say," he said at length. "I haven't had any tea and I bet you haven't either. What say we have some?"

Without waiting for Mary's reply he went to the door.

"Mrs. Simmons. Oh, Mrs. Simmons. How about some of that famous tea of yours? And if you have any, some hot muffs. And if the war hasn't stopped it, could we have a mere spot of Scotch marmalade?"

He settled in an easy chair opposite Mary. They talked of the cases in the hospital. Mrs. Tully would soon be dismissed as well as other survivors of the Moravia. Soon Mrs. Simmons bustled in with a giant tray.

"Shall I light the lights, Doctor?" she asked.

"No, I think we'd like to have our tea in the firelight," he answered. "The days will be getting longer soon." His tone was hopeful. "You'll be saving on your light bills, Mrs. Simmons."

"It'll be a blessing," she answered. "With rates as they are now."

When the tea was finished Dr. Lenox fished for his pipe.

"I had a reason for coming here," he said, slowly, deliberately. "I didn't merely come to take up your time. I've got news for you—good news, maybe. You can stay in these rooms as long as you like. I've joined a hospital unit in France. I'm going overseas very soon."

MARY was staggered. When Gilbert Lenox left England she would lose the only friend she had on the whole island.

"You don't know how I'll miss you," she managed to get out before she was overcome with her own loss. For all too well she realized what a bulwark of defense he had been to her. And now his departure would take away her only source of encouragement in a friendless winter world.

Ninety-three cents! Not a prospect of a job! And now to lose one who had befriended her!

"There's something else I want to say to you, Anna," he hesitated. "Now this may seem utterly preposterous. To you it will be as absurd as all the other things that are taking place in this topsy-turvy world. But nevertheless, here goes—

"Will you marry me?"

FDR Reduces Relief Budget

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Relying on a "continued expansion of business" to increase employment, President Roosevelt proposed in his budget message today an expenditure of $1,300,000,000 for relief during the year beginning July 1.

That sum, $500,000,000 under the estimated expenditures for the current fiscal year, represents what the President described as "a large—perhaps too large—reduction."

He left the way open to more funds later if business falls to improve according to his expectations.

Putting out relief cash at a rate of $1,300,000,000 in the year beginning next July 1 would mean:

- A slash in WPA employment from an average of 1,850,000 individuals this year to an average of 1,350,000 next year.
- Cutting down employment by the National Youth Administration from 706,000 to 600,000.
- Lowering the monthly average enrollment in the CCC from 295,000 to 250,000.
- Operating the Farm Security Administration at about 80 per cent of the 1940 level.

"I do not believe," Mr. Roosevelt told Congress, "that the majority of people in this country want to see the world relief programs for the coming year reduced below $1,300,000,000."

The public works program, linked closely with the relief agencies in supplying jobs for the needy, likewise felt the Presidential pruning knife.

Mr. Roosevelt said the administration expected to spend $1,100,000,000 on public works in the year starting next July 1, a reduction of about $200,000,000.

General works, such as construction of dams, improvement of rivers and harbors, and erection of federal buildings, he said, would take $641,281,300. That means virtually no new projects.

The Public Works Administration, once a multi-billion dollar agency, will be down to $122,750,000.

Mr. Roosevelt proposed nearly $150,000,000 for the maritime commission to use in construction of new merchant ships, and that is one of the few items which shows an increase. The figure for the present fiscal year was $99,000,000.

Farm security loans and rural electrification projects go to make up the rest of the $1,100,000,000 for public works.

How To Cook Venison Told By Officers

AUSTIN, Jan. 5 (AP)—Proper cooking of game is serious business in Texas where cleaning seasonal game from the hills and dales and fish from the ponds and streams is big business. Big business, that is, on the basis of the number of guns and traps and poles over the ways.

A Texas of distinguished culinary skill recently let his fellows into the secret of making a bass grace a platter and how to distill catfish a la Chorzio a la fresco. And now the Texas Game Department holds out a helping hand to housewives unskilled in leading a haunch of venison through the fire to the place of honor on the dinner table.

"Wife," says officers of the department, "often does not know how to properly prepare venison. The results of her attempts often are a soggy, greasy piece of meat as tough as the hide of a longhorn!" After reading this indictment to wives who cook, the department helpfully submits the following suggestions which its members have approved:

Venison is a dry meat. The Fernandez family recipe, famous in the Rio Grande valley, overcomes the dryness, a roast, or an entire leg is prepared for roasting by making deep slits in it. Into these are thrust pieces of ham or bacon which have been rolled in pepper and salt. The meat is then seared and placed in a roaster. A few bay leaves and cloves are placed on top. The top of the roast is then well moistened with orange juice and juice is added as needed in quantities sufficient to keep the roast from drying out. It is simmered in a slow oven until tender. The juice imparts a decidedly different and delicious flavor to the venison.

Venison steaks are best when fried rare. The Tucker recipe calls for the steaks to be cooked in very hot fat, deep enough to cover the steaks. Too many steaks should not be cooked at once because that will cool the grease and cause the steaks to become sodden. Sear a half minute on both sides and remove to hot platter.

The Skell recipe for roasting venison calls for covering the meat with sour wine and leaving it stand four or five days in the refrigerator. Then place bay leaves and cloves on top of the roast and place it in a slow oven. If the venison has absorbed all the wine, add more until continues to taste with wine until tender.

500 Visit Site Of Texas Warm Springs

Special To The NEWS
AUSTIN, Jan. 5 (AP)—Since the beginning of construction, November 28, by National Youth administration workers of the first unit of a Texas Warm Springs foundation for the care and treatment of crippled children, over 500 people have visited the project site 13 miles from Gonzales. J. C. Kellam, state NYA administrator, said today.

The first unit of the foundation, to consist of dormitory space for 16 children, nurses quarters, warm water pools, treatment rooms, and other facilities, is only a part of the master plan that eventually will provide equipment and facilities to adequately care for more than a hundred Texas crippled children.

According to Kellam, a progress report from project supervisors today showed that since November 28 three buildings have been demolished for salvage materials, one 40'x80', the second 24'x20', and the third 20'x110'; 65 cubic yards of concrete have been poured; and 385 cubic yards of dirt have been excavated for foundation and footings.

Contributions toward completion at a later date of the master plan, according to Ross Boothe of Gonzales, president of the Gonzales Warm Springs foundation, which is the sponsor of the projects, are being sent in from school children all over the state, and even from interested citizens of other states who have read of the foundation project.

God To Be Subject Of Sermon Sunday

"God" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, January 7.

The Golden Text is: "Ye shall know that I am in the midst of Israel, and that I am the Lord your God, and none else" (Joel 2:27).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter: Fear God, and keep his commandments: for this is the whole duty of man" (Ecclesiastes 12:13).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "In other words: Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter: love God and keep his commandments: for this is the whole of man in His image and likeness. Divine Love is infinite. Therefore all that really exists is in and of God, and manifests His love" (page 340).

Bidders Must Wait

AUSTIN, Jan. 5 (AP)—Some 100-000 bidders on 615 tracts of surveyed school acreage will have to wait at least three weeks before they learn whether their offer was high.

Land Commissioner Bascom Gilles, chairman of the new state school land board, announced yesterday it would take at least that long to examine the bids on 205,000 acres scattered over 107 counties.

Eighty-pound packs are carried for 100-mile trips to Tibetan markets by 12-year-old Chinese tea carriers; adults carry 350 pounds.

Frank Murphy Has Read Bible 15 Times In Last 28 Years

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Frank Murphy once said that his father had "cradled" him to "a social priesthood," the late Cardinal Mundelein proclaimed him "a lay bishop."

When he was appointed Attorney General less than two decades after leaving the American army in Germany as Captain Murphy, he said that "to me this is another job and another chance to serve the people." It was a characteristic expression.

A bachelor, Murphy never smokes nor drinks. In the past 28 years, he has read the Bible 15 times, a chapter a day.

But he is also an athlete, a swimmer, horseman, dancer and boxer. While his voice is low and deliberate, his manner deferential, his private motto is "speak softly and hit hard."

He hit hardest, perhaps, as Attorney General. His aim, he said a few months after he took office Jan. 2, 1939, was to help the justice department "do some good."

Under his administration, action in handling an automobile plant sit-down strike as Governor of Michigan. He was accused of thwarting a court order to evict the strikers. While President Roosevelt upheld him as a "profoundly religious, able and law-abiding Governor," Murphy said in his own behalf that he wanted to avoid bloodshed, to settle the strike by negotiation—as he finally did.

He had quit his $18,000-a-year post as High Commissioner to the new Philippine Commonwealth in 1936 to win Michigan's governorship was convicted of taking bribes, a well-known lawyer was disbarred, and a district judge resigned.

4. A special unit was set up in the department "to protect civil liberties by all means available to do it."

5. District Attorneys were ordered to report on their work regularly, and the Attorney General made a tour of major districts to obtain action on "old and scandalous cases."

6. The case of Tom Pendergast, Kansas City Democratic boss, was settled with Pendergast's imprisonment, a clean-up was started in Louisiana politics, fugitive racketeer Louis (Lepke) Buchalter surrendered in New York, and action was begun against another long-immune defendant.

In the debate on his confirmation as Attorney General, Murphy was accused by Rep. Clare Hoffman, Republican of his own state, of being "a tool of the Communists."

Earlier, he had been charged by witnesses before the Dies committee with "treasonable" action in handling an automobile plant sit-down strike as Governor of Michigan. He was accused of thwarting a court order to evict the strikers.

While President Roosevelt upheld him as a "profoundly religious, able and law-abiding Governor," Murphy said in his own behalf that he wanted to avoid bloodshed, to settle the strike by negotiation—as he finally did.

He had quit his $18,000-a-year post as High Commissioner to the new Philippine Commonwealth in 1936 to win Michigan's governorship for $5,000 a year. After he had been defeated for reelection he was appointed Attorney General.

Prior to his Philippine service, Murphy was Mayor of Detroit from 1930 to 1933. From 1923 through 1929 he served as municipal judge, instituting sentencing boards, composed of a psychiatrist and probation officer, to assist the judge.

His first public job was as an Assistant U. S. Attorney in Detroit, prosecuting war graft cases.

Son of a country lawyer, he was born in a two-room house at Beach Harbor, Mich., April 13, 1883. He studied law at the University of Michigan and made his entry into politics as a campaigner for Woodrow Wilson in 1912.
