IN OUTER SPACE

Swirling Dust Poses Problems

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Engineers today examined dramatic movies of the swirling dust storm Apollo 12 kicked up on the moon. It may point to new problems for astronauts trying to land on hard-to-reach stretches of lunar terrain.

The startling footage was shot by Apollo 12 astronauts Charles "Pete" Conrad and Alan L. Bean as their landing craft Intrepid dodged craters and descended to a bullseye touchdown on the moon's Ocean of Storms last week.

The dust kicked up by the exhaust from Intrepid's descent engine appeared first as a light haze. But it grew quickly into a raging storm that masked the lunar surface as the pilots performed their most critical maneuvers.

During the final seconds before the landing, gray dust was blown with tremendous force across the crater-pocked surface.

The 240-foot film clip was released by the space agency Thursday. It also showed Conrad walking stiff legged on the surface and a spectacular view of the earth eclipsing the sun and the resulting rainbow of hues.

It was the eclipse scene that Bean said was more fantastic than the moon.

Also released were 15 still photographs, four in color, snapped during the astronauts' 32 hours on the lunar surface.

One of the best was a black and white shot showing one of the astronauts standing next to the old Surveyor 3 television robot on the sloping wall of a crater with the Intrepid standing like a bug on the horizon 700 feet away.

Scientists were particularly interested in closeup photographs of the three-legged, 10-foot tall Surveyor and a crimped, waffle-like footprint left by one of its landing pads when it literally hopped to its final resting place.

There was no sign of any meteoroid impacts on either the Surveyor or on the landing pad imprint. This was new evidence for theories developed on the basis of Apollo 11's moon data that the lunar surface is an ancient landscape that has been relatively untouched for millions of years.

London's Economy In Peril

By United Press International
Mounting labor problems beset Italy, France and Britain today, with economic experts predicting the possible downfall of London as one of the world's major seaports if a longshoremen's strike there continues.

Thousands of metalworkers converged on Rome to demand more pay. French students organized a march to protest educational cutbacks and in Britain, 200,000 teachers threatened to close down schools for the rest of the year.

Striking metalworkers from as far away as Turin and Milan agreed to a polite appeal to move their demonstration out of the heart of Rome and to march along the Tiber River to a rally at the Piazza Del Popolo to prevent traffic jams and possible violence downtown.

CHRISTMAS SEASON was launched this morning with a carol festival on Cuyler Street. Under direction of the Salvation Army, booths were set up to provide Christmas music for the enjoyment of yule shoppers. Attending the ceremony were members of the SA advisory board and local Salvation Army officials. Pictured left to right are Charles Cook, Board of Directors, and Fatherree, president of the advisory board and Capt Jess Duncan. Shoppers in Pampa may contribute to the Christmas fund at the booths. Proceeds will be used to aid needy families in the area. (Staff Photo)

January Quota Same As Dec. Draft Call

AUSTIN (UPI) — Texas Selective Service officials, today announced a January draft call of 573 men, but said all inductions will be delayed until Jan. 15 to allow time for local draft boards to set up random selection procedures.

The January quota compares with a December draft call of 436 men.

Col. Morris S. Schwartz, state selective director, said he was ordered to delay making assignments for the number of draftees each local board will have to supply. Schwartz said allocation of the state quota to local boards will be postponed until receipt of official instructions on the new selection procedure.

The new lottery draft plan, signed into law by President Nixon Wednesday, will make men between the ages of 19 and 26 liable for induction for the next year. During 1971 only youths who turn 19 during 1970 will be subject to induction.

Schwartz said 5,800 men will be ordered in for pre-induction physicals in Texas during January.

Schwartz also announced election of officers for a new youth advisory committee. The 17-member groups which includes high school and college students will offer advice to state officials on implementation of new draft regulations.

William C. Sarpalius, Clarendon Junior College student, was elected head of the advisory committee. Michael J. Shearn, a student at the University of Texas at Austin, was named vice chairman and Karen K. Burk, a Texas Woman's University coed, was elected secretary.

FHA Moves To Cut Down On Small Investors Buying Notes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Farmers Home Administration, which hopes to sell about $2 billion worth of government-insured loan notes in the current fiscal year, moved today to cut down on the number of small investors flocking to buy the notes at interest rates of 8.5 per cent and up.

The FHA said beginning Dec. 1 it would require investors to commit a minimum of $25,000 if they wished to buy FHA notes for one or two year periods, or a minimum of $15,000 on commitments for three to 25 years.

Previously, the minimum investment in all categories had been $10,000. Earlier this year it had been $5,000.

Officials said the minimums would apply only to notes sold by the FHA's central finance office in St. Louis and would not apply on notes sold directly to banks or other lenders by county FHA offices.

The FHA note sales are part of a program under which the agency will lend more than $1 billion to farmers and other rural borrowers in the current fiscal year. Under "insure loan" phases of the program, the FHA lends direct borrowers, then resells the notes to private investors.

James V. Smith, FHA administrator, told newsmen his agency had decided to cut off small investors partly to protect banks and savings and loan associations who feared an increasing number of small depositors would withdraw funds to purchase FHA notes.

The FHA wanted to show "good faith" to banks and similar institutions which have been heavy purchasers of FHA notes, Smith said. Only 10 per cent of FHA paper is held by individuals. Smith also said the investment minimums may be raised if the new floors do stem the flow of "small" note purchases.

Thanksgiving Day Gives Veteran Something To Be Grateful For

DETROIT (UPI)—The ex-Army private returned from the Vietnam war with three Purple Hearts and without a right arm. A week ago he was ready to give up on the human race.

Today he feels different. Alvin Williams has a wife and two children to support, but for a year after returning from the war everywhere he looked for employment he received the same answer: "Fine, Alvin, we'll call you."

But Thanksgiving Day Williams had some cause for rejoicing as he eagerly made plans to start a new job. The 22-year-old ex-serviceman said, "I've got my faith back in this country now. I learned a lot of people have heart no matter what color they are."

Williams' difficulty in finding a job and a new lease on life was published in newspapers across the nation last week and the offers started pouring in. A man in Honolulu sent a telegram to the United Press International bureau in Detroit offering him a job and a car dealer in Arlington, Va., called.

Persons Williams had never met sent money totaling $400. Seven policemen in the 10th precinct donated $35 so that Williams could buy a Thanksgiving turkey. (See THANKSGIVING, Page 2)

Spacemen Continue To View World Through Glass

ABOARD USS HORNET (UPI)—Apollo 12's crewmen end the longest part of their long journey, a sea voyage of almost 5,000 miles at 26 miles an hour.

Moon Still Full Of Big Puzzles

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Geologists found the moon still is full of puzzles and surprises when they opened the first rock box filled by Apollo 12's astronauts and discovered stones bigger and lighter-colored than those returned by Apollo 11.

Today they opened the second box from Apollo 12, a more carefully-collected selection believed to contain 12 to 15 individually-wrapped rocks, to see what surprises it contains.

The first surprise was opened Wednesday night and geologist Jeffrey Warner said its samples appeared medium charcoal brown-gray, in contrast to the dark gray of the moon rocks gathered four months ago.

The first moon rocks came from the Sea of Tranquility on the right-hand side of the face of the moon. Apollo 12's rocks came from the Ocean of Storms, on the left of the moon's earth-looking face. (See MOON, Page 2) with a Hawaiian welcome today at Pearl Harbor. Charles "Pete" Conrad, Richard F. Gordon and Alan L. Bean must receive their welcome to U.S. soil in isolation, however, looking out at the crowds and bands and honored speakers through a sealed glass window.

All three spacemen are living in isolation inside a cramped quarantine trailer aboard this old aircraft carrier, which picked them up after splashdown in the South Pacific Monday.

They were scheduled to reach port in Pearl Harbor at 9 p.m. EST, where a brief welcoming ceremony is planned by Hawaii Gov. John A. Burns and Rear Adm. John S. McCain Jr., commander of armed forces in the Pacific. The astronauts speak over a loudspeaker system from inside their van.

Then the van was to be swung off the ship, placed aboard an air force cargo jet and flown to Houston, where early Saturday the spacemen will move into more spacious quarantine quarters in the space center's lunar receiving laboratory. They will remain there until Dec. 10.

Thanksgiving was a day of work, a traditional turkey dinner, clowning and football for the men who made America's second moon landing last week.

MASSACRE

Army Judge Angered By Questionings

FORT BENNING, Ga. (UPI)—An Army judge said today he will try to stop the "continuous interrogation" of witnesses by news people in the case of 1st Lt. William L. Calley Jr., charged with murdering at least 109 Vietnam civilians at Song My.

"Something just has to be done about it," said Lt. Col. Reid W. Kennedy, who will be the presiding judge in Calley's military trial here.

"I can understand almost anything except this continuous interrogation of witnesses and potential witnesses and publication of what they say before it is said in court," Kennedy said.

"We have to come to some conclusions on this matter," he added. Kennedy said he would call attorneys for both sides to a meeting to make a decision on the matter.

West Germany To Ratify Treaty Banning Nuclear Weapon Spread

BONN (UPI)—Chancellor Willy Brandt announced today the West German cabinet had voted unanimously to instruct Bonn's ambassadors in Washington, London and Moscow to ratify the treaty banning the spread of nuclear weapons. The ambassador in Moscow was the first to act.

Ambassador Helmut Allard signed the document in a ceremony in Spiridonov House, a foreign ministry reception center in Moscow, shortly after Brandt made his announcement.

The West German ambassadors in London and Washington were expected to sign the treaty before 12 noon EST.

The signings were ordered to take place before the close of business today, Brandt said, making West Germany the 25th nation to approve the pact. Another 18 still must ratify that reality to obtain the 43 signatures required to put it into force.

The United States and the Soviet Union ratified the treaty

Monday, some seven years after negotiations on it first began.

A West German government statement said it was signing "in the expectation that the treaty will be a milestone on the path to disarmament, international relaxation and peace."

In ordering the treaty signed, Brandt's government overrode opposition demands that it first reopen negotiations with Moscow.

"We have not signed this treaty prematurely," the chancellor said.

Brandt said the government would delay asking Parliament to ratify the treaty until a satisfactory arrangement for verifying compliance has been worked out between Euratom, the atomic organization of the common market countries, and the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA).

Germany and other West European members of Euratom want it to carry out inspections of their nuclear installations on behalf of the IAEA, which was assigned to police the treaty.

Former Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger's Christian Democrats, who opposed signing the treaty while they were in government, said they regretted what they considered an unnecessarily hasty action.

Kiesinger had urged a delay in West German action on the treaty because of concern over the agreement's control measures. After Brandt became chancellor in October, his government announced it had received assurances from the U.S. and the Soviet governments that overcame the objections.

The treaty says that the nuclear powers that sign may not give nuclear weapons to the nonnuclear powers and forbids the nonnuclear powers that sign to make a nuclear weapon. It does permit information about peaceful nuclear uses to be transferred from nuclear nations to the nonnuclear ones.

The treaty is formally considered ratified by a country only after signed copies are deposited in archives of the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain—the countries that initiated the treaty draft first.

Signing of the pact by West Germany was one of several immediate actions Brandt said would highlight his government's attempt to "extend the freedoms and prosperity of our people."

Traffic Leads Death Toll In Texas

A United Press International count at 9 a.m. EST showed 216 persons had been killed in traffic accidents since the start of the holiday period at 6 p.m. Wednesday.

The breakdown:
Traffic 216
Planes 18
Fires 18
Miscellaneous 12
Total 259

California led the states with 20 traffic deaths. Georgia had 18, New York 16, Missouri 12 and Kentucky and Texas had 10.

Five persons were killed in a two-car crash near Fort Valley, Ga., three died in a head-on collision in Portsmouth, R.I., and five were killed in a collision near Gum Springs, Va.

Charles German, 88, of Dallas, Tex., choked to death on a turkey bone while eating Thanksgiving dinner.

The National Safety Council estimated between 700 and 800 persons would die in traffic before the end of the 102-hour period at midnight Sunday.

Nixons Spend 1st Presidential Thanksgiving In Bayside Villa

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI)—President Nixon and his family were spending a relaxed holiday weekend at their sunny Bayside villa here after sharing their first Thanksgiving feast in the White House with more than 200 elderly guests.

The President was in a sentimental mood when he arrived here Thursday night, remembering the "great time" he had with the oldsters.

Chatting with reporters, he said only half of them had ever been to the White House before.

"It's a cinch none had ever eaten there," he added.

Most of them departed carrying apples and oranges, Nixon recalled.

Speaking of his guests, Nixon said about one third were Negroes and he was impressed by their "quiet dignity" and their "courteous" demeanor. The guests came from aging and convalescent homes in the Washington area.

Some of the lively old folks reminded him of his grandmother, Elmira Milhous, who lived to be 92.

"You know she was a Quaker and a pacifist just like my mother," he said. Nixon went on to say his grandmother "used to visit the soldiers home every Sunday. That was her bit."

Nixon singled out the White House military aides and butlers for helping to carry out the unprecedented large-scale dinner party without a hitch. "They were fantastic," he said. "I'm going to write them a letter."

Too busy greeting his guests and signing autographs at the White House, Nixon put off his own turkey dinner with the family until he arrived here Thursday night. He was joined by his best friend, Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo.

Soaring Interest Rates Caused By Low Funds, Housing Demands

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Interest rates for home mortgage loans continue to climb. The Federal Home Loan Bank Board reported Thursday that the average interest cost for conventional home mortgage loans rose in October for the 11th consecutive month to a record 8.12 per cent for new homes and 8.13 per cent for used houses. Board Chairman Preston Martin attributed the increase to a shortage of loanable funds combined with continued heavy demand for housing. The average effective interest rate, including initial fees and charges, advanced from 8.05 per cent in September to 8.12 per cent in October for new home conventional mortgages. The rate in October, 1968, was 7.23 per cent. For used houses, the effective interest rate increased from 8.08 per cent in September to 8.13 per cent last month. The rate a year earlier was 7.22 per cent. The board said the heavy demand for funds led last month to the biggest outflow of savings for any October on record at the nation's savings and loan associations, which make many conventional home loans. Withdrawals exceeded new savings by $405 million during the month, five times the previous high of $81 million in October, 1966. Savings and loan associations made a total of $1.64 billion in mortgage loans during October, down slightly from September's $1.68 billion, the board said, and supplemented their savings funds by borrowing $475 million from federal home loan banks.

Italian Divorce Laws In For More Lengthy Examinations

ROME — Six more clauses in a bill to legalize divorce in Italy came up for debate today. The Chamber of Deputies already has approved three of the measure's clauses despite opposition from the Vatican. The bill will come up for a final vote by the Chamber of Deputies on Saturday. If it passes, it will go to the Senate, where a long delay is expected. Legal divorce still appears a long way off in Italy. The ruling Christian Democrats have tried to sabotage the bill and vowed to put it to a national referendum if it gets through the Chamber of Deputies and the Senate. The deputies in day-long debate Tuesday approved the bill's first three clauses, which would: —Give civil courts the right to dissolve marriage when there is a lack of "the spiritual and material communion corresponding to the function of matrimony." —Permit dissolution of marriages celebrated in church. —Grant automatic divorce to anyone whose partner receives a prison sentence of 12 years or more in cases involving certain sex crimes, incest or crimes of violence against members of the family. The clauses still to be debated included one to allow divorce after a couple has been separated for five years. The bill already has been before the lower house seven months. Legislative observers said even if it goes to the Senate it could be delayed there for many months. The bill got off to a good start Wednesday with the chamber of deputies voting 322-290 against a motion by the ruling Christian Democrats to dismiss it without debating it clause by clause. The Vatican Newspaper Osservatore Romano reacted to the vote by asking, "Is this an expanding or a twilight civilization, the start of a beginning or the beginning of an end?"

Bachelors Surprised By Results

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Three bachelors, who advertised in a newspaper for Thanksgiving leftovers, claim their plan worked better than they expected. "We got a lot of fun and a number of names and telephone numbers of girls," they said. The ad resulted in a dinner invitation instead of leftovers. The three, Jim Meyer, 23, Tom Leslie, 24, and Jay Campbell, 24, said they placed the ad because their cooking is "the worst." The ad read: "Do you cook like mama? Why fill up the refrigerator with Thanksgiving leftovers? Please call Jim, Tom or Jay." "We were expecting little old ladies to call," Jim said, "but most of the callers were single girls."

'Busted' Stripper Wants Trade-In

HONOLULU (UPI) — Alexandra the Great says she wants to trade her 48-inch bust in on a size 36 economy model because she can't afford the luxury of her most outstanding attraction. The raven-haired stripper, who tapes in at a Honolulu nightclub at 48-25-42, says her bosom is too "expensive to maintain . . . paying 20 to 30 dollars for a custom-designed bra is no fun." Alexandra says sleeping is sometimes a problem. "I love to sleep on my stomach," she said, "but that means my head doesn't touch the pillow. I feel like I'm doing push-ups."

Wanted Turkey

EAST CHICAGO, Ind. (UPI) — Two gunmen entered a small grocery store Thanksgiving Day and demanded a turkey. The owner, Mrs. Lillian Walt, told them she had no more, and suggested, instead, a canned ham. The men said no deal and took $300.

Williams was drafted in October, 1966. On March 2, 1968, a mortar round ripped off his right arm. Williams received $290 a month from the government, but that was not enough. He had to pay $100 a month in rent, buy groceries and make auto payments. Last week he said, "I just can't put into words how it feels. If I would have known I'd lose my arm, I would have refused to go to Vietnam. I would have gone to jail. "What they did to me," he said, "is enough to make you want to spit on the human race. ## Pay Raises Being Considered For County Employees

Gray County Judge Sherman Lenning Jr. said today that he probably would ask for a $50 a month pay raise for all county employees if he can work it into his budget for 1970. "I think that our employees need this $50 a month across the board raise because they are taking home less money now than they were two years ago. The surtax and the five per cent that is being deducted from their checks for retirement has taken them considerable less take home pay," Lenning said. The judge said that he would bring the matter up with commissioners at their Monday meeting but would present the budget to commissioners in the Jan. 7 meeting. "I'm working on the budget now but working this pay raise in is hard to do but we are going to try and get it," Lenning said.

Snow Comes To Texas

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI) — Texas highway department officials today reported 4 to 6 inches of snow covering all roads in the far West Texas area and warned motorists that "driving conditions are extremely hazardous." "All highways are open but traffic is moving very slowly," officials said. "No (chance for) improvement is seen today."

Playboy Weds Model In Snowbound Site

MUNICH, Germany (UPI) — Playboy industrialist Gunter Sachs married blonde Swedish model Mirja Larsson today in a church ceremony at his snow-bound stately hunting lodge in the Bavarian Alps. The couple — wed in a civil ceremony at St. Moritz City Hall Thursday — wore traditional Bavarian costumes for the ceremony in the Sachs private chapel. Sachs, 37, wore the green cloth suit with gold buttons and other trimmings used as Sunday best by well-behaved Bavarians. Miss Larsson wore a white dirndl decorated with pink flowers. It was the third marriage for Sachs and the first for former Miss Larsson, who was personally picked by the West German Opel automobile heir as a model for his boutique chain more than a year ago. Sachs was divorced from French movie star Brigitte Bardot in Switzerland last July. His first wife, also a Frenchwoman, died many years ago and the 14-year-old son of that marriage, Rolf Sachs, was a guest at today's ceremony.

Drilling Rig Accident Hurts Four

GALVESTON, Tex. (UPI) — Scaffolding collapsed early today on an offshore oil rig 75 miles east southeast of Galveston, tossing one man into the Gulf of Mexico and injuring three others. A Coast Guard helicopter and patrol boat, and search crews from the Perrod Oil Co. searched in the water near the rig for the missing man. At last report, they had had no success. The other three men, none of whom was identified, were taken by Coast Guard helicopter to John Sealy Hospital in Galveston. One had a broken leg and the other two suffered lacerations. All were in good condition.

Women Safe After Seat Belts Cut

SAGINAW, Mich. (UPI) — Two elderly women were saved from drowning Thanksgiving Day by a 19-year-old youth who plunged into an icy river and cut loose their seat belts. Bay County sheriff's deputies said that a car carrying Mrs. Mildred McIntire, 64, and Mrs. Beryl Davis, 62, both of Pigeon, Mich., skidded off Michigan 25 near Saginaw and plunged into the Quianicassee River. Deputies said Lawrence Rickle dove into the water, cut the seat belt on the driver's side and pulled one woman out of the car. He then broke the window on the passenger side, cut the seat belt there and pulled the other woman to safety, deputies said. The women were listed in good condition at Bay City Hospital, where the youth was treated for exposure and released.

NYLA BRIGHT . . . with the flag she loves

Love Of Flag Prompts Girl To Pen Song

"America, You're beautiful America, we love you We've got a Flag of you 'You're Beautiful No country is as beautiful as you!" This song was written by a third grade student of Sam Houston School in Pampa. Nyla Bright, 9, a member of Brownie Scout Troop 30, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bright, 1424 Russell. Nyla is a little girl with reddish blonde hair and a shy smile. Typical of 9 year olds, she smiled slowly and said, "I just felt like it" when asked what prompted her to write a "Letter to the Editor" with the words of her song enclosed. She added that she had learned flag salutes and the proper procedures of flag respect in Brownies. "I just love the Flag and was 'messing around' and wrote the little song, stated Nyla.

(Continued From Page 1) One rock, a crystalline chunk that delighted geologists when they peered into the first Apollo 12 sample box, was seven inches long and weighed more than four pounds. "This is by far the largest returned compared to anything from Apollo 11," Warner said. In addition to the individual-wrapped "documented samples," the second box contained three core tubes—two of which were driven an estimated 24 to 30 inches into the moon to get a subsurface sample—and a roll of foil used to trap solar particles for study in Switzerland. Besides returning a priceless cargo of lunar samples, Apollo 12's explorers left a nuclear-powered science station behind on the Ocean of Storms. It has five experiments and all were reported working satisfactorily.

Hollywood In Review

HOLYWOOD (UPI) — As everyone knows, all you have to do today to become an instant philosopher is record a hit song. Immediately your oracular views on Vietnam, politics and other issues are gathered for posterity—or at least until you fall out of the "Top 10" of the song charts.

Your views, of course, are directly proportionate in importance to the size of the commercial record market that is available to buy your music. If the market of persons under 25 were, say, half its size today, your views would be accorded half the importance. As it is, however, pelvic rotators and guitar twangers aspire to Schopenhauer's berth. Thus democracy.

One of the several things I like about Paul Simon, the writing half of the Simon and Garfunkel team that has a provocative and tuneful one-hour special on CBS-TV Sunday night, is his sense of perspective. He has been called a poet. He says:

"In my opinion the lyrics of most pop songs today are so banal that if you show a spark of intelligence they call you a poet. And if you say you're not a poet, then people think you're putting yourself down. The people who call you a poet are generally people who never read poetry." Simon adds: "I don't try to say anything I think the kids want to hear. You can't do anything real that way. I try to take an emotion or feeling I've had and capture it in one incident. And I don't worry about the message of the song. I worry about its entertaining—not boring—an audience. That comes first."

Their Sunday night special is a blend of documentary technique and music. The documentary-style footage includes their traveling and talking with each other, film clips of the nation today—at peace and at war (domestically too)—and a montage of past influences on their

Young David "Just Might" Enlist In Armed Forces

WASHINGTON (UPI) — David Eisenhower said Wednesday he is tired of going to school and he "might just decide" to enlist in the armed forces.

"I wouldn't be surprised if I wound up in some branch of the service," President Nixon's 21-year-old son-in-law told reporters, but added that he had not made up his mind whether to enlist or "ride it out and take my chances with the draft."

The grandson of the late Dwight D. Eisenhower said he had looked into "various alternatives" and sounded out various branches of the services and graduate schools on his future plans.

Stressing that he was undecided, David, who will be 22 on March 31, said: "I don't know whether I will decide to go into the armed services or ride it out and take my chances with the draft."

"I'm not that anxious to go to graduate school now. After all I've been in school for 16 years and I'm tired of it."

Previously, David indicated he hoped eventually to go to law school and perhaps enter politics later.

He spoke off-the-cuff Wednesday to reporters after he and Julie posed together with the so-called Christmas advent calendar. The calendar is sold by the National Epilepsy League in its annual fund raising drive.

Riot Trial Uncovers Prisoners' Names

CHICAGO (UPI)—Two defendants in the Chicago riot conspiracy trial Wednesday released a list of 59 names of American airmen who the North Vietnamese reportedly are holding as prisoners, and said a messenger was on his way to Hanoi to develop the prisoner matter further.

David Dellinger and Rennie Davis, leaders of the old National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, handed the list to reporters in a corridor news conference in the federal building.

Dellinger said he and Davis had an emissary who "is on his way to Hanoi to establish what further avenues of communication can be opened." Dellinger did not name the emissary.

The list contains the names of the reported POWs, their rank, serial numbers and home states.

The Defense Department began checking the names against its records of men missing in the war.

Dellinger and Davis, along with five other men, are on trial charged with conspiring to incite riots during the Democratic National Convention. They have both played roles in the release of prisoners by North Vietnam in the past.

Dellinger said the names were released through Xuan Oanh, a member of the North Vietnamese delegation to the Paris peace talks with whom William Kunstler, chief defense lawyer in the trial of the "Chicago Seven," conferred in the French capital earlier this month.

Dellinger said North Vietnamese representatives in Paris "have given us assurance that more names will be forthcoming."

He said neither the Defense Department nor families of the listed men had been informed in advance of Wednesday's announcement that the list had been released.

Dellinger said he and Davis had attempted to get the home towns of the listed airmen but "determined to our satisfaction that the North Vietnamese do not have these." He said the men's physical conditions were not furnished.

The families of the listed men were not notified in advance, Dellinger said, because "it would be too time consuming and since this is good news we felt we should go ahead and release it."

Prisoners Of War Names Verified

By U.S. Defense Department

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Defense Department Wednesday verified the names on a list of U.S. Air Force and Navy air personnel which the North Vietnamese are reported to claim as prisoners of war.

The list, released in Chicago by David Dellinger and Rennie Davis, leaders of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, gave 59 names. The Pentagon said it previously had listed 54 as captives and five as missing, but refused to identify any in either category or to furnish their hometowns.

The latest Pentagon estimate is that 416 Americans are known prisoners of war in Vietnam. Of these, 201 are Air Force, 140 Navy, 52 Army and 23 Marines. An additional 931 Americans are listed as missing—537 in the Air Force, 199 Army, 107 Navy and 88 Marines.

It is assumed that a large percentage of the missing may be prisoners. Pentagon policy forbids release of hometowns of captured or missing personnel.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Dear Sir," writes Terence McHale of the Flint, Mich. Journal, who always begins his letters with a snappy salutation that crackles with originality.

"Recently I became the proud owner of a new calendar wrist watch. It has a feature which to my way of thinking is the greatest development since the miniskirt.

"A close look at the date window reveals that in addition to the number there is a small, black dot. Between midnight and noon the date is below the number; from noon to midnight it is above. This has saved me many moments of worrisome indecision.

"Now, for example, when my watch says it's 10:30, I know immediately whether I've overslept or whether I should be preparing for bed.

"Now, at 12 o'clock, I know whether to unpack my lunch or turn off the TV set. Now, at 6, there is not doubt as to whether I should whip up a plate of bacon and eggs or a pitcher of martinis.

"How did the world manage for all these centuries without this great invention?"

Well, the plain truth of the matter is that the world didn't manage very well. "Muddle along" would be a more appropriate verb.

Most of us had to improvise our own methods of distinguishing a.m. from p.m., and these do-it-yourself time markers were not always 100 per cent reliable. As a result, any given hour of the day or night was likely to produce a good deal of confusion.

My own system was crude but fairly satisfactory. During the a.m. hours, I wore my watch on my left wrist, and during the p.m. period I wore it on my right.

The only trouble was: I am the early-to-bed type. Every night I had to set my alarm clock to ring at midnight so I would wake up and move my watch to the other wrist.

George Vinyl, of whom you have heard me speak, used a different technique. He wore white socks in the a.m. and black socks in the p.m. Every matter where he was, he would day at noon and midnight, no the little black dot in the step and change his socks. And date window of a calendar so it went.

watch is, of course, a significant improvement. But, too, has certain drawbacks.

The next time McHale wants a martini for breakfast, he'll have to think up a new excuse.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We are a group of girls in our late 20s who love to ski! The social life at night is marvelous. But we have one big problem.

MARRIED MEN! What is wrong with wives who let their husbands come up to a ski resort alone for a week-end? Are they naive? Or just plain stupid?

We girls are free, and are out for a good time, but basically we are looking for husbands. These married men probably tell their wives they ski all day and are too tired at night to do anything but sleep. (I wish their wives could see them at night. They are peppier than the bachelors.)

We do not want to get involved with married men, but how can we tell who is married?

Our only hope is for you to tell the wives to smarten up and either go with their husbands or keep them at home.

BUNNY

DEAR BUNNY: There is no way for a girl to tell whether or not a man she meets on the slopes, the beach or any other place men hang out is on the level. Her only protection is her own common sense. She should beware of giving too much of her heart (or anything else) to a man she knows only casually.

DEAR ABBY: My mother died recently, and the night she died Mom's sisters went over to Dad's house and went through all Mom's things and took what they wanted. My dad was home, but he is blind, and was still in a state of shock over Mom's death so he couldn't be expected to stop them. My question is this: Did they have a right to do this without first asking if it considered unethical to consult my brother and me? To do this before the funeral?

I might add that I am furious because I left a pair of my shoes at the house while I was staying there taking care of Dad during Mom's illness, and they even took them.

MRS. B.

DEAR MRS. B.: I can't imagine any one wanting anything that desperately. Your aunts were clearly out of line. Ask your Dad to tell them to bring back everything they took until he decides who shall get what. And if he's too timid, your lawyer can put it in a letter.

DEAR ABBY: I am an amateur photographer and I process my own film.

When my wife first became pregnant, several months ago, I asked if I could accompany her into the delivery room to take pictures of her giving birth to our firstborn child. At first she hesitated, but she finally agreed.

I purchased a very expensive high quality camera and have been looking forward to getting some exceptional shots of this "big event."

Now as the time draws nearer, my wife tells me that she has changed her mind and would be "embarrassed" for me to take such pictures. I would do my own developing so no one but my wife and I would see these photos.

Do you think she is being fair to me?

STATEN ISLANDER

DEAR STATEN ISLANDER: It's a woman's prerogative to change her mind, and I don't blame her.

New Way To Play "Post Office"

IF YOUR teenagers are typical members of this outspoken generation, you can help channel their vocal energies and, at the same time, assure them an entertaining, rewarding evening.

A November "Mail In," during which teenagers write letters to the editor, or to their congressman, or to servicemen overseas, is certain to pique conversation. Invite responsible teens to a makeshift podium to "sell" their opinions to their peers—and watch a mature, if youthful, generation break into discussion.

To trigger discussion, have several issues of current newspapers and newspapers available.

While the teens are busy with the issues, you can fill the generation gap with an "In" dinner: fish and chips wrapped in newspapers (British, if possible, or otherwise foreign), hot perked coffee topped with whipped cream, and plenty of soft drinks and dips. Canceled stamps glued onto a white paper tablecloth and red-white-blue napkins make an ideal setting for "Mail In" refreshments.

Decorate your front door with a homemade sign: "U.S. Post Office, Smith Annex." Or wrap the door in white butcher paper, affix a giant stamp and appropriate address to create a mammoth size letter.

The ceiling-high cupboards have decorative advantage, too, especially if carried around the full width of the kitchen cupboards.

Moon Pictures Offer Religious Impact

By LOUIS CASSELS

Pictures sent back from the moon may have a greater religious impact on mankind than any number of sermons.

Even the most sluggish imagination is stirred by the perspective of space to see man and his world in a different light.

Two lessons in particular are driven home by the view from the moon, and both of them are profoundly biblical.

The first is a sense of man's puniness. On the vast scale of the universe, which we begin dimly to appreciate in lunar photographs, our planet is an infinitesimal speck of dust. And a human individual is merely one of 3 billion animated micro-particles infesting that speck.

We all need to ponder this truth, to let it soak deep into our consciousness, and be humbled by it.

For too long, modern man has been bemused by his own achievements—including the achievement of reaching the moon. It will be good for our souls if the lunar vista enables us to regain the sense of awe and wonder which stirred a Hebrew poet on a starry night some 3,000 years ago:

"When I look at the heavens, the work of thy fingers, the moon and the stars which thou hast established; what is man that thou art mindful of him, and the son of man that thou dost care for him?"

If we stop there, of course, we will simply trade pride for despair. But even in the moment of being humbled by the recognition of man's littleness, we can also remember that "we" have reached the moon. "And dost crown him with glory and honor. Thou hast given him dominion over the works of Thy hands: Thou has put all things under his feet."

All things—and now even the moon—under our feet.

That collective pronoun—our—is the key to the second great religious lesson to be learned from the moon voyages.

Sense of Accomplishment

It is tremendously significant that people all over the earth, regardless of nationality, find it natural to say that "we" have reached the moon. Neil Armstrong, the first human being who actually did, obviously had this same sense of a corporate accomplishment when he spoke of "one small step for a man—one giant leap for mankind."

The oneness of mankind, transcending all political, racial or religious barriers, is a central theme of the Bible. For centuries, it has been dismissed by "practical" men as a utopian ideal. The view from the moon makes clear that it is the most realistic of facts.

Black and white, young and old, rich and poor, communist and capitalist, Russian and American—we are all passengers on a speck in space, and from 240,000 miles out, our differences seem much less important than the fact of our common humanity, and the miracle of our existence.

Fall Housecleaning Creates Back Aches

NEW YORK (Sp1) — Ever since the first cavewife swept the fallen leaves out of the family rock shelter with an improvised broom of rushes, the autumn season has inspired a frenzy of activity known as Fall Housecleaning.

Perhaps in some subconscious way, the housewife of today is exercising the spirit of relaxation that characterizes summertime living. Now with the change of season, she suddenly sees that closets must be cleaned, windows washed, rugs shampooed, slipcovers removed and laundered. The whirlwind commences. At the end of week, the housewife has a sparkling clean house—and probably a bad backache!

Research shows that women are more prone to backache than men. Of course, men lead more sedentary lives than most women. But although there is much physical activity in daily housework, Dr. Jacob Graham, chief of orthopedics at Lenox Hill Hospital in New York says, "The average housewife does not adequately exercise muscles of her abdomen, back and legs."

If you are among this group, here are several helpful suggestions from the aspirin makers aimed at alleviating the strain and pain of Fall Housecleaning. Don't plunge into excessive physical activity when the first leaf turns red. Organize your chores in easy stages.

Be careful about lifting heavy things. Generally speaking, you shouldn't lift anything over 25 pounds. But if you must, be sure to bend your knees and lean from the waist. In this way your arms, legs and hips all help your back to lift the burden.

Prepare unused muscles for the work ahead. Do moderate exercises—touching the floor, knee bends, push-ups. Start doing it five times, then gradually increase to 10, 15, 20.

Stop and rest every so often as you work. This will keep your back from tiring. Muscle tension caused by extreme fatigue often triggers a backache.

Even wearing the wrong pair of shoes can result in putting a strain on your spine. Wear low heeled, arch-supported shoes. Sandals and sneakers do not give enough support.

If you've overextended yourself with Fall Housecleaning and brought on a backache and its attendant miseries, rest in bed for an hour or so.

Take two aspirin tablets and relax in a hot tub for about 15 minutes. The aspirin and the warm water will relieve the aches and relax tense muscles.

If your backache remains severe and persistent, don't hesitate to see your family doctor.

Last but not least, if you don't get around to finishing all your housecleaning chores, don't worry. There's always Spring Housecleaning!

SATURDAY, NOV. 29

Your birthday Saturday: This will be an important year of increasing self-assurance and success. Expansive personal magnetism develops to the extent your health and emotional dedication will sustain. Public appeal and image factors come in stronger. Friendships, romance spring up in all directions.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): This morning brings better information and the opportunity to acquire more working tools. After weekend chores are settled, relax the rest of the day.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Round up the family, agree on what is to be done and who is going to do it. Then scatter, each to his own mission.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Get important items over with, then take correspondence to quieter spots if it's the only convenient way. The later hours drift into moody loafing. Avoid squabbles.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Investigation is favored for the early hours; focus on material concerns. Come to terms on what your schedule is.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Personal projects keep you busy. Relax early to get extra rest and store energy for tomorrow. Make time for meditation somewhere in your day.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Obscure facts, old records, mislaid items, come to light. Try to side-step emotional stresses. Explanations are confusing and serve no particular point.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Make the rounds, catch up on the latest news in your community, have fun generally, then settle down for quiet, idle lounging.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your self-discipline is tested as some provocation touches your pride. Restrain your annoyance; give thought to your delayed reaction- answer.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Searches, short trips produce very good results early in the day, then suspend action. In the evening ponder over the results and sketch out future plans.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): If you steer clear of speculation, the early hours give you a chance profit. Later everybody wants to know about his share of money matters. Candid answers are the indispensable, minimum response but will not satisfy the questions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): People have a low tolerance level Saturday, so don't schedule any lengthy programs. Make it a short day. Meditate if you can't relax readily.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Animated and interesting conversation flows in this fairly normal day. Don't be surprised to find a few people listening to your viewpoints.

First Baptist Church

The pastor, Rev. Dan B. Cameron, will be in the pulpit for both services of worship Sunday in the First Baptist Church. At the eleven o'clock Morning Worship he will preach the last in the series of sermons on "These Questions We Must Answer" with this message entitled, "What About the Poor?"

David Campbell, Minister of Music, will direct the sanctuary choir singing the call to worship, "Sing to the Lord" by Ratzlaf, and in the choral worship, "He shall Feed His Flock" by Handel is the selection Miss Eloise Lane, organist, has chosen for the offertory.

In the seven o'clock Evening Worship the pastor will announce his subject. The Senior High Choir will occupy the choir loft and sing an arrangement of "Just As I Am," by Landgrave for the choral worship. The organ offertory number is "Three Polish Carols" by Peery.

The Wednesday evening schedule begins with the fellowship supper from 5:30 until 6:15. At that time the pastor will be in charge of the Prayer Meeting and continue teaching the Book of Hosea.

Christian Science

These words of Jesus are from the Lesson-Sermon to be read this Sunday in all Christian Science churches: "If I cast out devils by the Spirit of God, then the kingdom of God is come unto you." The subject is "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced."

A passage from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy reads: "Jesus cast out evil and healed the sick, not only without drugs, but without hypnotism, which is the reverse of ethical and pathological Truth-power."

First Presbyterian Church

"Emerging into the Light" will be the sermon at both the 8:30 and 11 a.m. worship services, this first Sunday of Advent, by the Rev. Martin Hager, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church. Ruling Elder Owen Gee will be the pulpit assistant. The text for the sermon will be taken from Romans 13:8-10. Rev. Hager will lead the congregation in the Lighting of the Advent Candle, to begin this Season of God the Son. Mrs. Rochelle Wilkins will present a solo, "He Shall Feed His Flock," by Handel, at the 11 a.m. worship service. Mrs.

Fidelia Yoder, Church Organist, will play the offertory, "Meditation" by Schreiner, and also prelude and postlude selections.

There will be no Youth Fellowship meetings this Sunday.

St. Paul United Methodist Plans Dedication Services

St. Paul United Methodist Church will hold a dedication service for the Fellowship Hall on November 30, during the 11 a.m. worship service. Bishop Alsie H. Carlton of Albuquerque, N.M. will deliver the sermon and officiate at the dedication.

Bishop Carlton was elected to the episcopacy in 1968 and presently presides over the combined Northwest Texas-New Mexico Conference. A graduate of McMurray College and Perkins School of Theology at Southern Methodist University, he has served the Methodist Church as a pastor, a district superintendent, and an educator at Perkins School of Theology before being elected to his present position.

Also assisting with the dedication service will be Dr. R. Luther Kirk, who has been District Superintendent of the Pampa District for the past six years. Dr. Kirk will accompany Bishop Carlton to Canadian at 1:30 p.m. for the dedication of the church parsonage there.

After a covered dish luncheon at noon, the day's activities will be concluded with a brief worship service at 2 p.m. Delivering the sermon at that service will be Dr. J. Edmund Kirby of Lubbock, Northwest Texas Conference treasurer. Dr. Kirby was the first district superintendent of the Pampa District at the time the present church was relocated and renamed in 1953.

During Dr. Gaston Foote's pastorate at First Methodist Church, in 1934, the mother church of Pampa Methodism sponsored the organization of two churches in this city. One was named Harrah and the other McCullough. This church bore the name of McCullough until 1953, when it was relocated and renamed St. Paul. The first building, constructed in 1934 under its first pastor Lance Webb (who was elected a bishop in 1964 and presently serves in the Illinois area), cost $24,000. When the location was changed in 1953 during Edwin L. Hall's tenure, a new church costing $40,000 was erected. Later a parsonage and an education building were erected.

The church has been served by many people. A total of twelve ministers have served the McCullough congregations. These men are Lance Webb, Hubert Bratcher, Robert Gilpin, Aubrey Ashley, W. M. Culwell, C. T. Jackson, E. H. Martin, Edwin Hall, Burgin Watkins, Jack Riley, Roy Patterson, and at present, T. Max Browning.

The members of the congregation have ably supported the church program in many ways. The building itself was financed through the efforts of a bond program. One of the principal benefactors of St. Paul has been Mrs. Inez Carter, who bought several bonds and then donated them to the church as they matured. The congregation has seen one of its own enter the ministry, that being Rev. Dean Franklin, of Burleson.

The present congregation has approximately 350 members. Some of those now serving in positions of lay leadership include the following: Ira Carlton, Chairman of the Administrative Board; James (Speck) Winborne, Chairman of the Council on Ministries; Wylie Feese, Chairman of the Trustees; Malcolm McClelland, Church Lay Leader; and Bill Brown, Superintendent of the Study Program.

The Fellowship Hall presently serves the double purpose as a sanctuary. Long range plans include building of a permanent sanctuary north of the present Education Building.

All former pastors have been invited to the dedication services. The public is also invited to attend any of the services of the day.

Future Of Council Will Be Decided

By LOUIS CASSELS

The future of the National Council of Churches (NCC) will be decided next week at a Detroit meeting that promises to be the stormiest in the organization's 19-year history.

Some 3,000 church leaders, representing 33 Protestant and orthodox denominations, will participate in the NCC's Triennial General Assembly in Detroit's Cobo Hall Nov. 31-Dec. 4.

Proposals for revamping the structure, functions and programs of the controversy-ridden council will be pressed by different groups for different reasons.

The National committee of Black Churchmen has served notice it will use "whatever means are necessary"—including disruption of the assembly to enforce its demand that a black man be named general secretary of the NCC, replacing Dr. R. H. Edwin Espy, a white layman.

The black churchmen said they also will call for "full and immediate implementation" of the black manifesto demand that churches pay "reparations" to the Black Economic Development Conference.

Another militant faction, composed mostly of young whites, will battle for a reorganization that would give laymen a bigger voice in the NCC. This group calls itself "Jonathan's Wake" (after colonial theologian Jonathan Edwards). Its chief spokesman, the Rev. Stephen Rose, says the NCC is an overblown bureaucracy run by aging WASP clergymen who are preoccupied with paperwork, programs and pronouncements.

Instead of holding endless conferences to draft wordy statements on public issues, Rose says, the NCC should concentrate on renewing the inner life of U.S. churches, so that laymen will be taught and motivated to work for peace and justice in the world.

A third group—quieter but probably more formidable than either of the others—is composed of denominational officials who have come to look upon NCC programs as unwelcome competitors for increasingly scarce church dollars. Most major denominations are having financial troubles and some already have slashed their scheduled contributions to the NCC.

Sharp questions will be asked about the size of the NCC's paid staff; the amount of travel money expended on its numerous conferences, meetings and convocations; and the usefulness of some of its 70-odd programs.

At least two other viewpoints will be reflected at the NCC meeting. Conservatives, who usually are pretty badly outnumbered and outmaneuvered in NCC assemblies, will voice their discontent with the liberal tenor of most NCC stands on public issues. And ecumenists will be trying to make the revisions in NCC structure and bylaws which are necessary to make it feasible for the Roman Catholic church to come in.

The Weekly Message of Inspiration...

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE

Rev. Charles M. Spicer

And now, that Thanksgiving Day is over, and our astronauts are back home from their moon-walk, everyone will be turning full steam ahead for Christmas and all its wonderful activities. Every year it gets more busy than the year before. Last year we said we were not going to make "such a fuss" over Christmas next year, but we will. Christmas is just a part of life, and the fellow who misses it is to be pitied. Those who endeavor to escape it can be very miserable folks.

From year to year people wonder about the angels' song on Judah's hills of "peace on earth, good will toward men," and some may doubt the message in that song — when on the earth there is trouble, unrest, protestings, war, and people who carry grudges, fight, and retaliate. Where is the "peace, and goodwill?"

It must be remembered that God's Gift to the world that day must be accepted, before the promise is made a reality. As long as men reject Christ, they cannot in themselves receive the Gift. Only when men accept Christ, and He becomes a reality in their lives, will they know the peace about which the angels sang that night long ago. This is the meaning of the verse by Phillips Brooks, in the carol "O Little Town of Bethlehem. How silently, how silently The wondrous Gift is given! So God imparts to human hearts The blessing of His heaven. No ear may hear His coming! But in this world of sin, Where meek souls will receive Him still, The dear Christ enters in!

Minnesota Vikings Roll, Dallas Nabs Tie

By United Press International
Given Minnesota's awesome defense, the only attack the Vikings seem to require is Fred Cox' foot.

The "Purple Gang" of Minnesota set up every point the Vikings registered in a 27-0 rout of the Detroit Lions Thursday and Cox capitalized with two field goals and three extra points.

The nine points gave Cox a National Football League high of 106 for the season—and amazingly enough this is three points more than Minnesota has allowed the opposition in running up a 10-1 record.

By winning, the Vikings clinched at least a tie for the Central Division championship and assured themselves one of the four berths in the post-season playoffs. The lions are season playoffs. The lions are with a 7-4 record, and even in the unlikely event they should Minnesota for the division lead, the Vikings still will go to the playoffs since they won both meetings with Detroit.

The fions had the momentum of a four-game winning streak and the home field advantage, but couldn't penetrate the league's stingiest defense.

The Dallas Cowboys, leaders of the Capitol Division, failed to win for the second time in four days and were fortunate to gain a 24-24 tie with the San Francisco Forty Niners in the only other NFL game on Thanksgiving Day.

Against New York at Milwaukee. A fourth-period touchdown accented the brilliant play of the Minnesota defense despite the hazards of a heavy snowstorm at Detroit, and also provided defensive tackle Alan Page with the first touchdown of his four-year career.

Houston Fails In Bid For Western Lead

By United Press International
The 1969 American Football League season is getting to be a pain in Len Dawson's knee.

Kansas City is concerned because the Chiefs are battling Oakland for the Western Division lead and are hopeful of returning to the Super Bowl.

Dawson is concerned because he reinjured his left knee, which forced him to miss five games after he first hurt it Sept. 21, during the second period in the Chiefs 31-17 victory over Denver in one of two Thursday AFL games.

San Diego beat Houston 21-17 in the other Thanksgiving Day game.

Two Denver defensive linemen decked Dawson as he completed a 44-yard pass to tight end Fred Arbanas with 3:17 left in the half and Dawson limped off the field, returning only to hold for extra points.

Severe Pain
"The pain was more severe this time than when it was originally hurt," Dawson said. "I had a tough time getting up. It's hard to say whether the knee ligament is torn or bruised."

Dawson engineered two 80-yard touchdown drives Thursday, with Warren McVea scoring on runs of one and four yards, and Jan Stenerud kicked his 11th straight field goal—a 16-yarder—to set an AFL record in the first quarter.

Emmett Thomas broke the game open early in the fourth period by intercepting a Steve Tensi pass and returning it 45 yards for a touchdown.

Safety Kenny Graham returned a pass interception 11 yards for a touchdown with 7:05 remaining to give the Chargers their 10th victory against Houston in their last 11 meetings.

Graham's game-winning play came with the Oilers leading 17-14 on Roy Gereia's 42-yard field goal, but Dennis Partee's 47-yard punt put the Oilers in a hole at their four yard line and on third down reserve quarterback Don Trull was intercepted while trying to throw to fullback Roy Hopkins.

Charger flanker Lance Alworth caught rookie Marty Domres' first pass of the game and had seven receptions altogether to run his consecutive game streak of catching at least one pass to 94, one short of Don Hutson's pro record.

The rest of this week's AFL action will be Sunday, when Cincinnati plays at Buffalo, Oakland is at New York and Miami takes on Boston at Tampa, Fla.

Bradley Aware Of Athletes Influence

By IRA BERKOW
NEW YORK (NEA)—Ted Williams says that Richard Nixon is the greatest thing to come down the pike since General MacArthur. Jim Bouton believes American troops should evacuate Vietnam immediately.

Arthur Ashe is trying to make people Give A Damn about the ghettos. And Yogi Berra suggests on a paid television commercial that we, too, should read his favorite sports magazine because it has the biggest type.

With varying degrees of persuasion and topics of importance, athletes are playing an increasingly larger part in attempting to influence our lives. Like crab grass, their interests are spreading from the ball fields into neighborhoods as seemingly diverse as Madison Avenue and Pennsylvania Avenue.

Endorsements by athletes for commercial products are not new. Around the turn of the century, for example, pitcher

Rube Waddell was telling the world that, "In every game I work, I keep a bottle or two on the bench for an emergency and I can say that Coca-Cola has never yet failed me."

Today, Oscar Robertson, near crocodile tears, moans for his Mayo.

Endorsements by athletes for political candidates and athletes' expressions of opinion on political and moral issues are a somewhat newer phenomena. Athletes are getting "involved."

Groups or individuals pushing a cause or a candidacy solicit the support of athletes because national sports figures are (1) "immediately recognizable entities," as one politician termed it, and (2) are viewed as heroes, as people we would like to be and through whom we often live vicariously. It seems they are indeed influential on matters outside their own sphere. The question is whether they should be.

Bill Bradley, former Rhodes Scholar and currently forward for the New York Knicks, has considered this problem.

"An athlete," said Bradley, "is no different from you or your neighbors, except for the publicity he gets. And only in games and so forth. "But the athlete is listened to in these other areas. For example, a few years ago a quarterback for Arkansas campaigned for Gov. Faubus. I believe the governor won and some of the credit went to that football player's influence. People came to see him."

"What is fairly unusual about all this is that people want to hear and see an athlete, to see and hear him in person, and are really not so interested in his viewpoints. Have a baseball player make a speech about the population explosion and the first question from the audience will be something like, 'How did the Mets win the pennant?'"

By the nature of being dedicated to a fixed form of existence one with relatively few variables, an athlete often becomes a sort of sweaty monk from the time his physical potentials are discovered.

An athlete's life is virtually charted for him by his mid-20s. It is a philosophical and Marshall rumbled to the 12 before he was hit. As he was falling, Marshall lateraled the ball to Page, who proceeded into the end zone.

Dallas had a chance to win with 12 seconds left but Charlie Krueger, a San Francisco defensive tackle, blocked a 37-yard field goal attempt by Mike Clark.

Pampa was a slight underdog going into today's contest with El Paso Bel Air, a team that finished 19-6 last season and returned four of five starters, measuring from 6'8 to 6'3. Bel Air also averaged nearly 80 points per game last year.

Pampa posted a 19-8 record in 1968-69 but Jim Gallman is the only starter the Harvesters have back and senior Steve Scott is the only other letterman Pampa welcomed back.

Coach Sterling Gibson, starting his second season as the head master of the cagers, indicated he would start Randy Marsh and Vernon Johnston at guards with Mike Jordan and Mike Edgar at forwards and Gallman at post.

Gallman is the tallest of the Harvesters, standing 6'6. Edgar is 6'2 and Jordan, 6'0 and Johnston and Marsh are both 5'8. Gallman, Johnston and Marsh are seniors while Jordan is a junior and Edgar is a senior.

Doug Thompson, John Jenkins and Richard Bunton are also expected to be run into the lineup.

A Pampa victory today would put the Harvesters in an 8:30 p.m. game this evening against either Amarillo or El Paso Jefferson and a loss would give them a playing time of 11 a.m. Saturday against the Sandie-Jefferson loser.

Texas Made No Mistakes

By United Press International
"We just did what we were supposed to do."

That was the way Texas halfback Ted Koy summed up the 49-12 clobbering Koy and the other Longhorns administered to Texas A&M Thursday.

Now Texas, rated No. 1 in the country, goes against third-ranked Arkansas on Dec. 6 to decide the Southwest Conference championship—and the Cotton Bowl berth against Notre Dame.

Arkansas had no trouble as the Razorbacks kept their record spotless with an easy 33-0 decision over Texas Tech.

Texas, scoring on the fourth play of the game on a 63-yard run by Jim Bertelsen, rolled up a 39-0 advantage by halftime, and coach Darrell Royal used his second string throughout the entire second half, tuning it up for possible use against Arkansas.

The reserves got the game's final touchdown with 19 seconds left, and Happy Feller's pat for the 49th marker rang up the highest point total ever given up by an Aggie team against Texas.

Tailback Bill Burnett led the Razorback assault against Tech, scoring three touchdowns. Bill McClard booted two field goals in addition to three extra points and Russell Cody raced 29 yards for the other Arkansas score. Burnett's three TDs brought his season total to 19, a school record. His brother Bobby had held the mark with 16, scored in 1965.

Not only Notre Dame will be interested in the outcome of the Texas-Arkansas showdown, Mississippi gets the loser as its TDs in the fourth made it an easy victory.

In other Thanksgiving Day games, Louisville whipped Tulsa, 35-29; Virginia Tech trounced winless Virginia Military, 52-0; and New Mexico came from behind to defeat Colorado State, 21-20.

Saturday's light schedule is highlighted by Penn State, the nation's second-ranked team, against North Carolina State and the annual pageant of the Army-Navy meeting. Both games are on national TV.

IN HERITAGE GOLF

Palmer, Archer Sharpen Golf Game

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (UPI)—Arnold Palmer, a slight paunch settling beneath his massive shoulders, says he doesn't really care if the "Palmer Age," golf's brightest era, is at an end.

But if it is at an end, he adds quickly, "I'd like to have the next one called the 'Aged Palmer' era."

Palmer, over 40 and showing it for the past 14 months while not winning a tournament, shared the opening round lead in the first Heritage Classic with tall George Archer. Both fired 68.

Palmer fashioned what he called "one of the better rounds I've played in quite a while" in posting nines of 34-34 for his three-under par total.

His playing partner, Doug Ford, said Palmer could easily have been eight under par after seven holes had he been carrying a hot putter. Palmer, who dropped three putts through the first six holes, confirmed Ford's statement.

"My 68 was about as bad as it could have been," he said, adding that he had putts of 12 feet or less on all of the first seven holes, including one that would have been an eagle.

Archer, meanwhile, was alternately mediocre and very good, picking up three bogeys and six birdies over the 6,655-yard, 36-35-71 Harbour Town layout.

Trailing the leaders by only a stroke was the trio of Charlie Sifford, Jim Colbert Jr., and B. R. McLendon. Colbert was putting for a birdie on nine that would have given him a 30, but said he "choked like a dog" and three-putted instead for his 32.

Only nine pros broke par on a perfect day for. At 70 were Terry Wilcox, Fred Martl, Dave Ragan and Grier Jones. Jack Nicklaus, who built the posh layout on this island hideaway for the super-rich,

After Victory Over Aggies Horns Are Having No Trouble Reading For Hogs

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—"We can quit playing footsy with this No. 1 thing after next week," said Texas Coach Darrel Royal Thursday after his Longhorns blitzed Texas A&M 49-12 in a convincing first defense of their top national ranking.

The win over the Aggies was the ninth straight for Texas this season and their 18th consecutive victory, and left only the undefeated Arkansas Razorbacks between Texas and a date with Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 1.

Royal said, "We're sure not going to have any trouble getting the boys ready for Arkansas. They were ready for this one and I believe they will be ready again next week."

Texas plays the Hogs Dec. 6 at Fayetteville, Ark. The outcome of the 76th renewal of the Texas-Texas A&M rivalry never was in doubt from the first attack by the Longhorns Thursday.

Halfback Jim Bertelsen sprinted 63 yards to score on the fourth play of the game, and from that point on it was just a matter of the field clock clicking off the necessary 60 minutes to complete a game.

Bertelsen and fullback Steve Worster each scored twice for Texas. Split end Cotton Speyer caught the Aggies off guard on a colorful end around pass and hit tight end Randy Peschel with a 37-yard touchdown.

Quarterback James Street also scored and Happy Feller added a 43-yard field goal to give Texas a commanding 39-0 lead at halftime.

Texas A&M did all its scoring in a 77-second span in the fourth period against Texas reserves. Quarterback Rocky Self tossed a three-yard scoring pass to Ross Brupbacher following a short Texas punt, then seconds later Mike Deniro blocked a Longhorn punt and Jim Piper scooped up the ball and scored.

Orr Takes Scoring Lead

By United Press International
For a defenseman, Bobby Orr of the Boston Bruins is pretty offensive.

Orr, tied for the National Hockey League scoring leadership going into Thursday's game with Philadelphia, picked up his fifth and sixth goals of the season and added an assist—his 27th—as he led Boston to a 6-4 victory over the Flyers.

Bobby's first goal late in the first period tied the count at 2-2, and his second gave the Bruins a 3-2 edge in the second stanza. Philadelphia knotted the score at 3-3 on Bill Sutherland's shot in the final period, but a goal by John Bucyk at 6:09 and another 19 seconds later by John McKenzie on Orr's assist gave Boston a 5-3 margin.

Gary Dornhoefer scored for the Flyers but Phil Esposito, on his 11th goal of the campaign, gave Boston the insurance it needed.

Gordie Howe continued to rewrite lines in the NHL record book, as his Detroit Red Wings walloped the Los Angeles Kings, 5-1. Howe came up with two assists to record the 1,700th point of his career.

Detroit goalie Roger Crozier lost his shutout with 1:22 to play when King rookie Butch Gorand scored his first goal. Red Wing tallies came from Frank Mahovlich (2), Wayne Connelly, Pete Stelmowski and Garry Unger.

OUR CAPSULE POLICY

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TEXAS PANHANDLE TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me!

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Why Profit Is Necessary

When the phrase Soaring Sixties was coined nearly a decade ago, the most sanguine optimist could hardly have envisioned the full dimensions of coming events.

Even stunning achievements in space have been in a way like the tip of an iceberg. Underlying them has been an uninterrupted period of growth and a near incomprehensible outpouring of material abundance from the nation's industries. Because of their very achievements these industries and the top executives and businessmen who head them have moved into positions of prominence and responsibility no one could have foreseen a few years ago.

Thus a sampling by Fortune magazine of the views concerning current issues of more than 300 chief executives — representing hundreds of the largest industrial corporations, the insurance companies, retailers, transportation companies and utilities — is both timely and revealing.

Certain aspects of the Fortune survey of the opinions of U.S. business leaders will come as no surprise. The majority consider the Vietnam war the most critical and pressing issue facing the country. They believe business can and should do more about employing and training the hard-core unemployed and about other social and environmental problems, such as supporting education and combating air and water pollution.

Somewhat unexpected is the finding that a large percentage of the nation's top businessmen see no letup in the Communist threat — in spite of growing dissension among Communist countries. Domestically, they feel the threat of communism has grown more serious. Also, the nation's top business leaders consider defense expenditures higher than they need to be, mainly because of waste and inefficiency.

Perhaps the most significant aspect of the Fortune survey has to do with the businessman's view of profits.

Although top business leaders believe that industry has an obligation to participate in the solution of social and environmental problems, they firmly support the principle that business management must return an adequate profit to the company's stockholders before embarking on social projects. The discipline of the profit motive is considered fundamental to the vitality and productiveness of industry.

In commenting on the businessman's view of profits at a time when the government is shifting more social responsibility to the private sector and at a time when the public looks increasingly to industry to put social goals ahead of profits, Fortune foresees the possibility of "tension and trouble ahead" in the 1970's.

In the words of Fortune, "The single-minded pursuit of profits is the discipline that reconciles conflicting interests; it is the winds of reality that blows away executive cobwebs; it achieves renewal when businesses falter and it keeps business alive as a vital force. . . Change the discipline, introduce purposes linked with broad public responsibility, however praiseworthy they may be, blur the criterion of performance, and the result is likely to be confusion and lack of surefootedness. Such a shift in ground rules may throw the business community — and the country — into a spin."

By achieving the production records of the Soaring Sixties and opening the way to the greatest dispersal of wealth in the history of mankind, industry and its leaders may have unwittingly created a situation where the public, equally unwittingly, may demand the impossible — the sacrifice of the principle of the profit motive that lies at the root of high productivity. This impending conflict of principles may account in part for the fact that no one has ventured forth with an inspirational slogan for the 1970's.

A Policeman's Views

Recently in Omaha, Nebraska, the former president of the New York City Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, John Casese, announced that a national "police union" will be formed. It is said that plans are under way in some sixteen cities to attempt to form a national "police federation."

But John J. Heffernan, president of the New Jersey State PBA opposes police unionization. He said: "There'll be no unions for police if I have anything to say about it." We believe that Mr. Heffernan's reasoned argument in opposition to these federations and we would like to pass along his remarks to our readers for their appraisal.

Mr. Heffernan said: "Creation of a labor union for police would be a direct conflict of interest. . . we couldn't do our jobs at a picket line and face union brothers. This is strictly taboo."

"Like oil and water, police and unions don't mix well."

"As head of 16,000 patrolmen in New Jersey, I won't tolerate any such union. I also speak as Vice-President of the International Conference of Police Associations, which is also opposed to unionism for police."

Casese retired his post as head of the PBA in New York City and is now trying to take police into the AFL-CIO." "He forgets that New York has the world's highest paid department with the most benefits. This didn't come through unionization."

"Police of New Jersey won't buy this attempt to unionize. It'll be fought on every level and the PBA will continue to be the local voice of patrolmen for better working conditions, pay, etc. in our New Jersey communities."

We applaud PBA President Heffernan. Now let's hear from other state heads of police associations. Where do they stand? There have been many instances of corruption in labor unions throughout history. Will our police become a part of the movement? Several years ago Jimmy Hoffa of the Teamsters' Union tried to unionize the police—and you see where he is today.

MOMENTUM FOR FREEDOM

As far back as June of 1967 I predicted a turn to the Right, a turn that, according to recent happenings, is still gaining momentum.

This most recent upsurge has been made more evident by the fact that the Vice President of the United States has publicly expressed his desire for the major television networks to return to the practices of reporting more toward the pro-freedom side of issues rather than the more eye-catching, controversial side that sometimes distorts the true situation.

Also, patriotism is becoming fashionable again. Ever since the communists made an all-out, concerted effort to degrade the word patriot and any who adhered to its principles, all but the staunchest believers have been afraid to boast of being patriot. "Super-patriot" and "ultra-rightist" are only a few of the phrases that have been made to sound dirty.

Thanks to the modern leftists, however, United States citizens are now being made to realize that they have been fooled. One large city reported that all of its stores that announced the availability of the U.S. Flag during the recent war protests, sold them out completely.

Support for Republic USA against defeatist attitudes is coming from all across the nation, from groups large and small, old and young. Various veterans organizations, have organized programs that will allow the great silent majority the opportunity to speak in behalf of the nation. Boy Scouts have begun campaigns in several areas distributing small flags.

This is truly good news for the Freedom side. Freedomists should join in and keep the momentum going.

With Some Reservation

By INJUN WOODY

"I don't care if it straps the whole family." I says to the Blouse and Skirt. "I am going to watch my favorite program on the Telly-Vee."

"Yes, I know," says she, "that old football game where all those silly men run around and jump up and down on each other."

Well, it is quite a chore at that, trying to watch a game at our diggings. Sometimes, I think I can hear thundering hoofs coming up behind me and I am certain the quarterback is not the only one to be thrown for a loss. But it is just the B&S with another sack of garbage to be taken out. When the losing team has third down on the four yard line.

These little distractions are not so bad. I am used to them. What I never will get used to though is the half-time "entertainment." O, how I hate half-time.

Those marching bands get on my itchy side where I can't scratch. It ain't quite so bad since I heard from a little old lady what told me her son was now in college. "You remember Willie," she says, "he was star piccolo player in Piddley High. Well, he is going to be on the T.V. during half-time tomorrow, right there with the college band! Be sure to watch for him!"

Although I didn't spot Willie, I did see a face blob with a piccolo stuck in the mouth and it could have been him I guess. The point is, it would be a shame if Willie had spent all those years tootin the flute and never had his big chance to appear on a national hook-up.

Now that I have give it some thought, that must be what the band sections are for. All over the country they put those bands out on the field so the flute tooters from the Piddley Highs can have their big moment. It ain't got nothin to do with entertainment.

WIT AND WHIMSY

A car screeched to a halt at an intersection, barely missing a white-haired old lady. But instead of giving the driver a good tongue lashing, she recovered herself quickly, smiled sweetly, and pointed to a pair of baby shoes dangling from his rear view mirror.

Mrs. Lee — Young man, why don't you put your shoes back on?

Peaceniks Plan To Promote Dissidence In Army Units

By RAY CROMLEY

Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) —

There is talk that some anti-Vietnam groups will now put a heavier priority on promoting dissidence among men in the Army.

An infrastructure has been built up in and around a number of major Army posts during the past year. The antiwar men and women have gained some experience in underground Army newspapers, in running coffee shops and in conducting off-post "parties" for enlisted men. They now think they know what techniques appeal to recruits and which don't. They think they know where to concentrate their efforts (among new recruits during training, when the shock of Army life is the greatest; men are harder to reach once they've been assigned to a unit). They also know now some of the things they can do legally — how far they can go safely.

They've learned that if they find the right men they can get fast results if they concentrate on "technical aid" — coaching prospects in how to organize, how to put out an underground paper, how to win other recruits, then leaving much of the job to these men.

Some anti-Vietnam groups are rumored to be getting more of their own people into the Army. This has been accomplished successfully in a few cases. But there's no evidence yet the movement has infiltrated to any appreciable depth.

It is known that a number of the protest men and women believe conditions are good for effective work among Army recruits:

AWOL (absent without leave) rates for the Army as a whole have jumped from 60 per thousand men in fiscal 1965, to 78 in 1967, to 90 in 1968, to 112 per thousand in 1969.

Desertion rates have shown a similar trend — 15 per thousand in fiscal 1966, 21 in 1967, 29 in 1968 and 42 per thousand in 1969. A man is listed as a deserter currently if he is missing for more than 30 days.

What makes the situation ripe for the anti-Vietnam movement, some of its leaders are understood to believe, is that the most susceptible young men are concentrated for the most part in a relatively few places, all in the United States — that is, in the major training centers for new recruits. The overseas desertion rates are low. In Vietnam, for example, the deserters number less than five per thousand compared with the Army over-all rate of 42. (Army men theorize that this is partly because the men are in units, are in combat — and because there is no real place to desert to.)

Military men this reporter has talked to, while having no data to prove their point, believe the rapid increase in AWOL and desertion rates these past few years is partly a result of anti-American society and the step-up in anti-Vietnam talk in their home communities. This would seem to indicate the strategy of the anti-Vietnam activists could be quite effective. But actually, little is known on what makes AWOL and desertion rates go up and down from one year to the next.

AWOL rates in 1952 and 1953 — during the Korean war — ran between 158 to 181 per thousand, compared with a peak of 112 thus far in the Vietnam war — and a rate of 31 per thousand in Vietnam itself.

Desertions in World War II were 63 per thousand in 1944 and 45 per thousand in 1945. In 1952 and 1953 during the Korean war they ranged from 20 to 22 per thousand. In 1965 to 1969, during the Vietnam war, as noted above, they have moved from 15 per thousand to 42 per thousand — but 4.6 per thousand in Vietnam itself.

The Doctor Says

Some Safety Precautions Against Winter's Rigors

Don't become a statistic now that winter's here. Winter storms don't have to break any records to be killers, taking a toll of over 100 deaths a year in the United States. Of these, 33 are due to auto accidents, 27 to heart attacks brought on by overexertion, 12 to exposure and the rest to such causes as home fires, carbon monoxide poisoning in stalled cars, falls on the ice, electrocution from downed power lines and collapse of buildings.

In an attempt to prevent these accidents, Weather Bureau stations now issue "Watch" bulletins on radio and television to alert the public that a severe storm may be approaching and "Warning" bulletins when immediate action should be taken to protect life and property. When such a bulletin is received, you should check your flashlights and battery-powered radios to make sure they are working.

Be sure you have enough fuel to last you through an emergency. You should also keep a stock of foods that require no cooking or refrigeration. During the storm or cold snap you should stay indoors unless you are in good physical condition. When you do go out remember that several layers of loose-fitting, light weight but warm clothing will give you the best protection at the wrists, are warmer than finger gloves.

Your car should be winterized well before the season begins. If possible you should avoid traveling alone. Keep your tank filled. If a storm traps you on the road, you should avoid overexertion and exposure through attempts to push your car or shovel snow. Unless shelter is close by, you should remain in your car until help arrives. Run the heater sparingly and only with a window partly open downwind. exercise by clapping your feet and stamping your feet if it gets dark, turn on your dome light so that work crews can see you.

Q — What is quinidine given for? What are its side effects?

A — This drug is used to control irregularities of the pulse, especially paroxysmal tachycardia or very fast heart beat. Side effects include nausea, headache, faintness and flushing of the face.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and social problems of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION: Is Albert Jay Nock's statement correct in his book "Our Enemy the State" where he says "the state is the enemy of society"?

ANSWER: We think it is because he makes a difference between the state and society or government. In this book he writes "the code of government should be that of the legendary king Pausole, who prescribed two laws for his subjects, the first being, 'Hurt no man', and the second, 'Then do as you please'; and that the whole business of government should be the purely negative one of seeing that this code is carried out."

We think that this code of government agrees with that set forth in the Declaration of Independence that governments derive their just power from the consent of the governed and all men are equal before the law as they are before God. This kind of government is not our enemy. With this interpretation of government which makes the distinction between government and state, Albert Jay Nock's statement is correct.

Wit And Whimsy

Mr. Gilkins is a bright and well-preserved old gentleman, but to his little granddaughter, Grace, he seems very old indeed.

She had been sitting on his knee, looking at him seriously when she asked:

Little Grace — Grandpa, were you in the ark?

Mr. Gilkins — Why, no, my dear!

Grace's eyes grew large and round with astonishment.

Little Grace — Then why weren't you drowned?

BILL KENNEDY SAYS:

The Silent Majority Now Has A Brand New Voice

By BILL KENNEDY

The great silent majority may have made a mistake in the last national election. It begins to look more and more like they elected the wrong man to be President. I'm not touting Hubert Humphrey or George Wallace now. I'm talking about the man who started out as Spiro who and is now sounding more and more like a loud voice for the majority, Veep Spiro Agnew.

When the Vice President first started to sound off, the press immediately diagnosed his problem as Foot-In-Mouth disease. That was before the election, done in an attempt to make him shut his mouth, hoping he could be ridiculed into silence or that Nixon could be frightened into gagging the man. Dick did seem to hold a rein on him during the campaign. But from all indications, he has taken it off in recent weeks — or Agnew has the bit in his teeth — and the news media are having a hard time making jokes about it, especially since he has taken the networks and the press as one of his targets.

I was determined to despise Agnew, figuring he was being used as bait to give Dick Nixon the appearance of moving toward the middle from the left. But the Vice President is making it harder and harder for me to hate him. It was hard on me when he went down to Montgomery, Ala., and stated publicly that it is silly to bus white and black children all the way across the county to deliver them to schools none of them wanted to attend — which is being done. Of course the folks there knew this all along, but when the Vice President said it, the liberal newspapers had to print it.

It became even tougher to dislike the man when he told it like it is about the street demonstrators, calling the main leaders of the revolutionary movement "impudent snobs." That's the kind of language most folks can understand. And once again it turned out that the silent majority was on his side, including us "conservative crackpots" who had been telling it that way all along.

But the thing that brought me back to even with Mr. Agnew — made me willing to give him a chance to become a political friend or enemy — was when he tackled the national news media. Anytime a man can make bit dogs like CBS, NBC and AP howl with guilt, he has got to have my sympathetic understanding. And there what he made them do.

Only Mutual Radio called Agnew's statement what it was: "a call for fairness, balance, responsibility and accuracy in news presentation." The speech brought the presidents of NBC and CBS bouncing out from wherever it is they hide to manipulate the news. Julian Goodman of NBC was quoted as saying Agnew's statements were "an appeal to prejudice" and an effort to deny to TV "freedom of the press." (He is a man who really ought to know about "prejudice" because all his news men are well schooled in it.)

CBS President Stanton holed too: he said the speech was "an unprecedented attempt by the Vice President of the United States to intimidate a news medium. . ." If that was what Agnew did, I am delighted that the shoe could be placed on the other foot for a change — CBS has been insulting the intelligence of the silent majority, right and middle for a long time!

The example used by Agnew was the "instant analysis" given the President's Vietnam speech by the TV commentators, most of whom were at once critical; then he added that the networks hold "an unprecedented concentration of power over American public opinion." He called on the people to voice their objections to the presentation of the news by writing local stations and newspapers. And at last report about 90 per cent of those who wrote or called agreed that the news is biased. I hope most of them also pointed out that it is biased on the liberal, Socialist, side.

I don't know whether the Vice President is talking on his own and may later be muzzled by the President — the only man who can muzzle him — or whether he is being used to say things Nixon wants said but feels would be improper for the President to say. Either way he sounds like something that should be backed by action.

I still would not vote for Nixon. . . But if Agnew keeps stepping on the right toes and making the right enemies, I might end up voting for him some day.

THE WEATHERMEN

The street violence that ripped through Chicago in early October was instigated and carried out by a faction of students for a Democratic Society known as the "Weathermen." Their name comes from a line of Bob Dylan's song, "Subterranean Homesick Blues": "You don't need a weatherman to know which way the wind blows."

Which way the wind blows for America may depend on whether the public wakes up to what these "kids" really want to do to this country. Below are excerpts from a New York Times article by John Kifner describing the aims of this radical group:

"The Weathermen philosophy was first expounded in five and a half closely printed pages in the June 18 issue of the SDS New Left Notes. The faction gained control of the SDS national office during last June's convention of the organization.

Briefly, the Weathermen position paper argues that a revolution is already in progress among what the faction regards as colonized 'Third World' peoples in Asia, Africa and Latin America and among blacks in this country.

In order to support a Third revolution, the Weathermen contend, a revolution must be waged at home and a potential revolutionary class lies in alienated, propertyless high school youths, most affected by the draft and 'jaillike' schools. Workers are dismissed as hopelessly bigoted and college students inherently middle class.

To win high school students to their cause, the Weathermen believe, they must fight to prove they are not timid, physically ineffectual intellectuals.

The tactic was developed by midwestern SDS collectives during the summer and presented to other SDS members at a conference over

Labor Day weekend in Cleveland.

"During the summer, for instance, Detroit S.D.S. members would take a red flag to beaches frequented by white working class youths to provoke a fight. The S.D.S. members, who had been studying karate and working out daily, would battle the youths.

"Then they would try to explain to the youths what they were fighting for. . .

"The Weathermen seemed almost religiously obsessed with turning themselves into true revolutionaries and in escaping their own middle class backgrounds, which they scornfully term 'white skin privilege.'

"After the Cleveland conference, the fighting technique — and particularly a tactic of charging into high schools shouting 'jailbreak' — spread to other areas of the country.

"One of the sets of heroes of the Weathermen is the Motor City Nine — nine women in Detroit who broke into a junior college during an examination, locked the doors and began speaking against the war and the exploitation of women. When two male students objected, they were felled with karate blows. . .

"Many on the left view the Chicago demonstration as a pathetic failure. But. . . a Weatherman spokesman said: "We think it's been a tremendous success, a total success. For the first time in this country white people are showing they're willing to fight against imperialism. Even when they raised the level of oppression against us, we raised the level of struggle against them."

Which way will the wind blow? Are the Weathermen predicting it right — or will America wake up?

Cause Of Rising Insurance Rates Told Rotarians

"Exercising Your Dollars and Sense" was the theme of the slide program given to the Pampa Rotary Club at its Wednesday noon luncheon.

The highly informative program, explaining the basis for insurance company rates, was given by Wayne DeGrassi and Dale Thut, both insurance company representatives from Amarillo.

"The more paid out, the higher the rates charged," said Thut.

He explained the average paid out in an auto accident in December 1962 was $698 and in December of 1966 it was up to $878. The same held true for property damage being $161 then to $192 now (1962 and 1966).

That pointed out while he was giving the program three persons would die from an automobile accident and one home would burn by fire.

To prior charges that insurance rates were rising too fast, Thut said that for the industry as a whole it was only making a net profit of 1.86 percent and this included investment income.

"Insurance rates go down when losses go down and they go up when losses go up," said Thut. He also pointed out they can vary from one individual to another due to the prior history of each person.

In 1958, the United States fired an inter-continental ballistic missile at full range for the first time.

In 1963, Cape Canaveral, the Florida space center, was renamed Cape Kennedy after the assassinated President.
