MANN ROLES BOARD CAN'T FIRE EMPLOYEES

H. B. Lovett, Pioneer, Buffalo Hunter, Dies

Best Driver Described By Officer West

The best automobile driver in Gray county is the driver of a truck owned by a large corporation, or a truck driver employed by a concern that emphasizes safety and has a safety course for its drivers in the opinion of C. D. West, Texas Highway patrol member stationed here, who with Byron L. St. Clair, conducts the regular weekly drivers examinations here each Thursday.

Next to the truck driver classification, Patrolmen West ranks boys of 17 and men 22 and 23 years old. "The applicants for examinations in these classes often know the rules of safe driving as well as we do, and what they are taught they apply better," the state policeman said.

Asked if women were nervous in taking the examinations, which consist of an oral test and then a practical examination applying rules of the test, West said middle-aged women were often "jittery," but girls were level-headed. "It won't do applicants any good to try to memorize the letters on the eye chart in preparation for the examination. The letters are frequently changed, and applicants are required to read them vertically, straight across, and various other ways at times.

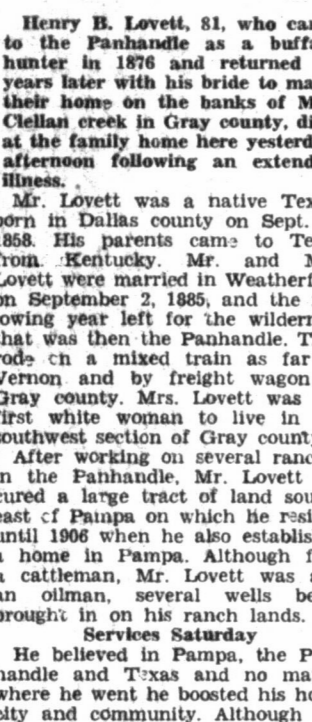

The average number of applicants for drivers licenses is about 25 a week. Chauffeurs licenses are more numerous than drivers licenses, and the total number of applicants for the weekly tests, including both classes of drivers, averages from 35 to 40 a week.

The office of the county tax assessor collector, at the court house, is the location for the oral tests given applicants for licenses from 1 to 4 o'clock each Thursday afternoon.

After February 1, J. B. Wilkinson and G. C. Reese, both of Amarillo, will be the Texas Highway patrolmen located in Pampa, exchanging stations with St. Clair and West.

Mr. Lovett was a native Texan, born in Dallas county on Sept. 21, 1858. His parents came to Texas from Kentucky. Mr. and Mrs. Lovett were married in Weatherford on September 2, 1885, and the following year left for the wilderness that was then the Panhandle. They rode on a mixed train as far as Vernon and by freight wagon to Gray county, Mrs. Lovett was the first white woman to live in the southwest section of Gray county.

AUNT'S BLOOD SAVES NIECE

They have a lot in common, this aunt and niece. Five years ago when Rose Marie Ryan of Philadelphia was 2, she was near death from a staphylococcus infection resulting from a fire-cracker burn. Her aunt, Mrs. Rose L. McMullen, of Washington, D. C., allowed the child's blood to be injected in her veins in the hope she might develop an antitoxin. The experiment was successful and the girl is believed to be the only known person who has recovered from the disease. Mrs. McMullen now travels over the country helping other victims of the disease.

Sharing The Comforts Of Life

By R. C. Hoiles. Everyone publicly proclaims he does not want war, but proclamations and wishes will not prevent wars. Only a rational understanding by the leaders in any nation of the causes of war will prevent war.

We had some correspondence with a publisher of one of the leading papers in Chicago on an editorial contending that tariff was necessary to protect the workers in this country. He promised to read this book if we would send it to him.

JOHN DEWEY ON FREEDOM AND CULTURE. John Dewey, the psychologist and educator, last year published a book on "Freedom and Culture." To me, it is very interesting to have a man like Dewey, who has aligned himself with so many movements that have done much to reduce freedom, discussing it in a book.

Again, John Dewey in his signing the Manifesto of the Humanists Society of Friends, lent his name to a planned economy rather than a free economy. In their 14th Manifesto it is contended that humanists are firmly convinced that the acquisitive and profit-motivated society has shown itself to be inadequate and that a radical change in methods, controls, and motives must be instituted.

But in Dewey's book, he is beginning to realize that freedom and democratic institutions are in danger. He says, "We must get rid of the idea that led us to believe that democratic conditions automatically maintain themselves, or that they can be identified with fulfillment of prescriptions laid down in a constitution."

The Nation's Press

FORGOTTEN WORDS OF 1932 (Des Moines Register). President Roosevelt offered informally to give Senator Taft a "very handsome prize" if he would supply a bill of particulars on how to balance the budget in two years. The question is invariably put to anyone who urges federal retrenchment. It was put to Mr. Roosevelt himself in 1932, when he promised to cut the Hoover budget by 25 per cent. It is futile, Mr. Roosevelt said in 1932, to expect "any important economy" from an administration (he was speaking of Mr. Hoover's administration) "committed to the idea that we ought to center control of everything in Washington as rapidly as possible." For centralization of control necessarily involves the creation of "the unprecedented bureaucracy that has assembled in Washington in the past four years." It involves the establishment of "the innumerable boards and commissions which have grown up as excrescences on the regular system."

NATIONAL STATISTICS

Around Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD—Jack Dawn sat in front of three life-sized plaster heads of Robert Montgomery, briskly painted them with flesh tones, and talked about making "These." "These," he said, "are to show 'em over in England how Bob should look in different periods of the picture he'll make there. It's 'I had a Comrade'—remember? Here he is as a German flying officer. Then he becomes a minister and begins to be persecuted by the Nazis. And this heavy-eyed, deeply-lined one is the way he'll look in a concentration camp."

20 "FACES" FOR SPENCER TRACY. He opened one of a long row of cabinets and pointed to a shelf marked "Tracy." It was cluttered with about 20 thin, oddly-shaped pieces of flesh-colored composition. The stuff is feather-light, with the consistency of minutely-grained sponge rubber. Dawn who invented it, takes it in its plastic state and, on players' life masks, models new nose contours, high cheek bones, drooping jaws or anything he needs. The material then is baked to hold its shape and it can be pasted on an actor every day and peeled off at night throughout the making of a movie.

Tracy's nose is properly Edsonian, and all the rest of his face will be altered during later stages of the picture. I saw a set of waffles—the seamed, sagging throat of an aged man. Also a new trick—the deeply lined, heavy-lined backs of an old man's hands. The face-fixer, who's top man in his line, always wanted to be a sculptor. In fact, he ran away from his old Kentucky home at 13 because he was punished for painting things instead of doing chores. After nearly starving in New York, he went to sea, battled around the world for years, and kept on trying to use clay and paints.

DAWN HANDS EXTRA. Stranded in Los Angeles in 1910, he became a movie extra and was always employed because he answered nearly all calls. Old men, bearded men, Indians, cripples, anything—there was Jack Dawn, already disguised for the role. He organized the Makeup Artists' Association, whose members now earn a minimum of $127.90 a week and up to $35,000 a year. Which isn't hay, even in Hollywood. From all over the world Dawn has had thousands of applications for apprenticeship, but he had to quit filling them because he can use only about three new men every three years, which is the apprentice period. There always are "I handed" or "so youngsters employed right on the Metro lot who'd like to work under Dawn. But only a handful ever get a chance.

The termite queen, which may live five or 10 years, lays eggs with out stopping, day and night, at the rate of one every 2 1/2 seconds. Glass is handled like hay, with a pitchfork, at a factory in Newark, O.

People You Know

By Archer Fullingim. George Muller, local butcher, tells this story for the truth. He says that a customer at the meat market where he works was in the act of making a purchase when a man rushed up and yelled to the butcher, "Hey! Gimme some dog meat, quick!" Then, turning to the customer who had preceded him, he murmured, "I hope you don't mind my cutting in ahead of you." "Oh, no," returned the other, "not if you're that hungry!"

To W. E. Conway who suggested in this column that Boy Scouts conduct a drive to save the zoo by putting out coin boxes over the town; Scout Executive Fred Roberts of the Adobe Walls Boy Scout Council today quoted this letter he received only Thursday from James E. West, chief scout executive, New York: "Under no circumstances should Boy Scouts ever be permitted to solicit and receive money no matter how worthy the cause may be. During the World War when Scouts were able to render so much very worthwhile and practical service, it was absolutely forbidden that they should collect money for either War Savings Stamps or Liberty Loan Bonds." Well, Mr. Conway, it looks as if you'll have to think up another way to save the zoo. How about the Girl Scouts, Mr. Conway, or some other group?

Five Years Ago Today. Members of the Panhandle chapter of the American Petroleum Institute met in the first session of the new year. Plans for routing traffic through Pampa and McLean over the new paved road between the two cities were discussed at a meeting in McLean.

So They Say. Because I have seen the terrors of dictatorship and studied the encroachment of tyranny upon the liberties of the people of Europe, I long ago pledged myself to do all in my power to protect our country from the same fate.

The Family Doctor

Dr. Morris Fishbein. So much has been said recently about the importance of vitamin B1 in the diet that people are getting more interested in the names of food substances that contain adequate amounts of this vitamin. Vitamin B1 is particularly associated with various forms of neuritis. Alcoholics who take an insufficient amount of foods having neuritis, which is relieved by vitamin B1. We once thought that vitamin B was a single vitamin, but now we talk about the vitamin B complex. B has been divided into vitamin B1, which is the antineuritic and anti-beriberi vitamin, and into the vitamin B2 complex. The vitamin B2 complex includes not only riboflavin, but also vitamin B6, associated with certain forms of dermatitis. Vitamin B1 differs from all other vitamins in that it contains sulfur. It has, therefore, been given a chemical name—thiamin—which indicates that it has a sulfur content. Recently, authorities in the Department of Agriculture made an extensive study of food purchased in an open market in Washington, D. C. in order to find out just how much vitamin B1 each of these foods would supply. As a result of their investigations, they have classified

Ten Years Ago Today. Mrs. E. E. Finley was elected president of the Pampa Library association for the ensuing year. You and Your Nation's Affairs

REPEAL A SYNDICALIST LABOR LAW! By GUS W. DYER, Professor of Economics and Sociology, Vanderbilt University. The Wagner Law is little less than a legal monstrosity, tied on the Constitution by judicial technicalities. It is fundamentally antagonistic to the essential principles of constitutional industrial freedom. Hence the only standing it can have under the Constitution is as a New Deal measure, created to carry out the New Deal purpose. The administration of the law has been under New Deal direction, and no criticism has come from the administration with reference to any of the acts of the Labor Relations Board. The revolutionary, socialist sit-down strike, promoted under the Wagner Law, was never criticized by the President, and the two New Deal members of the Supreme Court refused to join the majority of the Court in condemning this outlaw movement to take by force. Property that belonged to others, and hold it, and use it in defiance of law and fundamental constitutional rights. The evidence is strong that the prime purpose of the Wagner Law was to subvert constitutional industrial freedom, and set up in its place a system of labor domination and control of industry similar in nature and purpose to what is known in Europe as syndicalism. Syndicalism is a revolutionary form of socialism. It means the domination and control of private industry by the workers, and in the end this would mean control of the government by powerful labor unions. A movement in the open to overthrow constitutional freedom and put in its place a revolutionary form of socialism would not be popular. The rank and file of the American people believe in the Constitution, and at

Airplane Wing Lift Trebled, Claims Prof

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP)—The successful conclusion of a ten-year search for a means of trebling the lift of airplane wings—and thereby open a new avenue of increased speed—was announced today by Prof. E. A. Talbot, head of the department of aeronautical engineering at the University of Michigan. In a paper prepared for the annual meeting of the Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences, Professor Talbot described a system which permits a reduction in an airplane's wing area by two-thirds. As a result, he said, the speed of a plane having a top rating of 400 miles an hour could be boosted to approximately 600 miles an hour. Used without reduction in wing area, the invention would reduce the landing speed of airplanes almost by half. His device, he said, permits high rates of climb and low speeds of descent without the usual danger of losing lateral control; loss of which, he said, is the cause of many accidents. Professor Talbot achieved a 300 per cent increase in the lifting capacity of wings by sucking the "dead" air from the top surface, permitting "live" air to flood the space it occupied. "Dead" air clings to the upper surface of a wing, covering about one half the wing area. He sucked off the top surface by permitting a stream of air, communicating with a narrow slit in the wing surface about 70 per cent back from the leading edge. Such air, re-energized by the lower air being sucked out of the trailing edge and given a plane a further, if slight, increase in speed. The operation of the blower, tested in wind tunnel experiments, is entirely automatic. It can be turned on by a stream of air entering an aperture on the lower side of the wing, or by an airplane's propeller acting as a windmill. In either event, the blower continues to function whether or not the plane's motor is going.

Baby Born With Appendix Outside Given Operation

TYLER, Jan. 26 (AP)—Some time today Dr. J. P. French expects to learn whether or not his most unusual operation was successful. Leroy Ambrose is the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Sprawn. He was born at a country home 14 miles from here with the large intestine and an appendix as large as that of an adult on the outside of his abdomen. Dr. French, who said it was the first time he had seen such a case in 30 years of medical experience, operated on the child at a hospital here. He placed the organs inside the abdomen and buttoned the gurgulous spots against spreading. He decided against an appendectomy at the same time because of the baby's condition. Thirty-six to 48 hours are necessary to determine whether such an operation has been successful. Sprawn, a WPA worker, has five other children. Leroy Ambrose was delivered without a doctor's assistance by a negro midwife.

Germans Building Submarine-A-Day, Britain Learns

LONDON, Jan. 26 (AP)—Reports that German submarine production had reached a one-a-day level and that the Reich had launched several new plane carriers have stirred British speculation on the chance of an even fiercer war on merchant shipping.

Seward's 12-Hour Deal Brought Alaska to U. S.

IT took U. S. Secretary of State William H. Seward and Baron Stoekel, Russian minister to United States, just 12 hours to arrange the transaction, agree on the price and draw up the treaty that gave the half million square miles of Alaska Territory to United States. Seward's role in the Alaska Purchase introduced his portrait to philately on U. S. Alaska-Yukon-Pacific 2-cent commemorative stamp, above, first placed on sale at the Seattle, Wash., exposition in 1909. Alaska was a headache to Russia. It was too far away to be governed properly and Russia feared England might seize the territory. Seward called on Seward and his home, offered to sell. Seward bid five million; Stoekel asked ten. They compromised on seven, with $200,000 for Russia's trading company. By 4 a. m. the treaty was complete. It was scrambled and out of their chronological order. Texas Woman Argues For Trade Pact

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—Mrs. Judd Collier, "from a cotton farm in the Brazos bottoms," urged Congress today to continue the reciprocal trade program as "a mild anti-deflation tactic."

On the other side of the question, Joseph H. Wells, representing the United States potters association, urged discontinuance of the program on the ground it was unconstitutional and hurtful to American labor and capital.

Both appeared before the House ways and means committee at hearings on whether the reciprocity system should be extended another three years beyond June 12.

Mrs. Collier, president of the fourth district, Texas federation of women's clubs, said she wanted to tell the committee that "our high tariffs have encouraged cotton growing all over the world."

A major reason for trade pacts, she said, was their contribution to world peace.

"Nations that trade are not apt to go to war," she declared, "for trade establishes and maintains a better relationship."

Wells, of East Liverpool, Ohio, complained that department of commerce figures regarding foreign trade did not reflect differences in wage standards.

"As it is now, for instance," he said, "we have $1,000 worth of automobiles exported to Japan balanced against $1,000 worth of china imported from Japan."

"According to published figures, there's about $200 worth of American labor which goes that exported $1,000 worth of automobiles."

"Our figures show that the $1,000 worth of imported china displaces American china that would require $1,500 worth of American labor."

"Now what kind of deal is that for American workers?"

Rubber, sugar and coffee were respectively the principal agricultural imports of the United States in 1938.

PIONEER DIES

Panhandle and on the banks of the Red river they were met by hundreds of other hunters on the trail of buffaloes but the animals swung east into the Indian territory which was closed to hunters.

First To Hit Elliott

When it was learned that the animals were not in the Panhandle, Mr. Lovett's party disbanded and he spent the winter cutting cordwood for the soldiers at Ft. Elliott on the Washita and South Fork of the Red river. In the next spring he went home to Weatherford in Parker county where both he and Mrs. Lovett were raised.

In the spring of '77 Mr. Lovett left Ft. Griffin on his last buffalo hunt. Mr. Lovett's trip was graduated from skinner to "slogger" It happened when Mr. Lovett told the boss of the hunt that he could outshoot some of the hunters. He got his chance and made good. It was tough hunting by that time, the animals being afraid of gunfire. The hunter had to shoot an animal so that blood would flow freely which attracted other animals. In that way the herd was increased.

One of his most memorable experiences was when he was left at Five Wells, near where Midland now stands, to guard a stack of buffalo horns. His employers took a load of hides by wagon to Fort Griffin. For 21 days he saw no human and his constant companion was his gun. He was less than 20 years of age at the time.

Saw Panhandle Future

Mr. Lovett saw enough of the mighty Panhandle to make him return in 1879. He spent '78 at his home trying to persuade friends and relatives to move to the Panhandle with him. "It is the coming country of the United States," he told his relatives.

Thereafter he worked on the JA ranch with the late Col. Charles Goodnight, two years for the Franklin Land and Cattle company, later known as the White Deer Land company and then for the Long-O outfit.

He made two trips to Honeywell, Kan., with cattle in 1884 through Indian country but settlers kept the Indians in hand except for stealing a few horses. Later he worked for the LX outfit.

In 1885 Mr. Lovett went back to Weatherford and married. The couple traveled by mixed train to Vernon and by freight wagon to Gray county where they arrived on McClellan creek Nov. 5, 1886 and Mr. Lovett built a half dugout on its banks for his bride. She was the first white woman to live in the southwest part of Gray county.

Mrs. Lovett only town

They lived part of the following winter at Mobeile where their daughter and only child, now deceased, was born. The next fall they moved over on Turkey Creek.

Like all other early settlers of the plains, Mr. Lovett "worked around" the various ranches when he first came here. Most of the old timers living at present in Panhandle towns put in their share of time punching cattle and cutting wood. Mr. Lovett has said.

In 1906, the Lovetts sold their Grapevine creek ranch and moved over on Turkey creek where his present ranch of 4327 acres is located. The same year they established a residence in Pampa.

Mr. Lovett was a cattle raiser all his life but on his ranch oil was discovered.

Heard United Orators

Mr. and Mrs. Lovett had been living on Grapevine creek for two years before the railroad was built to Pampa, except there was no Pampa at that time. However, when they went to town they went to Mobeile, on horseback, where they traded and where on Christmas and New Years they danced at Johnny Strokers. There were eight saloons in Mobeile at the time.

In the 80's and 90's Mr. Lovett would join others in Mobeile to hear the oratory of Temple Houston, Judge Browning, Judge Willis and Judge Woodward during court terms.

Mr. Lovett always lost his temper when he went to a picture show and the cowboys always roared at him. "The boys who came to the Panhandle were from the best families in the nation and well educated and knew how to behave. There was little rowdiness."

WHEELER

unemployed and the purchasing power of the farmer must be increased "before this nation can prosper."

He did not mention his possible presidential candidacy in the prepared address, but at one point referred to himself as "a candidate for reelection to the United States Senate in 1940."

"No one solution is available at the present time—nor is any one group or organization in a position to recommend a specific program to be readily accepted by all the states," the Senator declared.

"The government, therefore, must assume the leadership. And to this end the national leaders of industry, agriculture and labor should be called together to meet, and confer, and recommend a program by which we may achieve industrial democracy and economic and social security."

Wheeler described "unemployment—unsolved and comparatively untouched"—as America's No. 1 problem.

The Montana Democrat's appearance provoked more drama for convention delegates still angry over the "dastardly trick" of a prankster, who unfurled a Communist flag on the stage while Wheeler was speaking.

The words of Lewis, president of the miners and the Congress of Industrial Organizations, were watched for any hint that he would support Wheeler for the presidency.

The Montana was advanced as a presidential possibility when Lewis with many words of praise, invited him to speak.

Since then, the CIO leader has broken with the new deal, criticized Paul V. McNutt, Democratic federal security administrator with presidential ambitions, and predicted a Roosevelt third-term campaign would end in "ignominious defeat."

It is easier to thread a needle if the end of the thread is cut on a bias.

Specialists Arguing Over Freud Theory

By FRANCIS E. CAREY

BOSTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—A Boston scientist's private pool of 300 American and European nerve specialists revealed today that an undeclared war was raging over the value of one of the oldest concepts in modern medicine—the system of psychoanalysis established by the late Sigmund Freud.

The 100-year-old method of diagnosing and treating mental disorders by analysis of the emotional history of the patient drew opinions ranging from "indispensable" to the contention of Dr. Abraham Myerson, conductor of the pool, that the system had "failed to prove its worth as a therapeutic measure for the mentally ill."

Dr. Myerson, an internationally-known psychiatrist, reported the results in the American Journal of Psychiatry, explaining that he started the poll as "a reaction against the very extreme statements of a psychoanalyst... that 'practically all informed scientists accept psychoanalysis.'"

On the whole, he said, the answers showed a counterstrong trend toward rejection than acceptance, except among psychoanalysts themselves.

Strict disciples of Freud contend that in humans there are "unconscious" factors which constitute an organized personality—complexes and forgotten experiences which crop up even though rejected consciously. They hold, too, that dreams have a symbolic meaning, and that many human reactions stem from sexual forces.

"I submit," declared Dr. Myerson, "that you can take ten words of a time table and get at any hidden strangle of the individual and reach as many mental situations and complexes as you can by the words of a dream."

He termed "biological absurdities" some of the sex symbols in the technique of the psychoanalyst.

Judge Discharges Clerk Suits Jury

Jurors hearing the case of Mary Cooper vs. the Roy A. Webb, county health officer, were discharged late Thursday afternoon by District Judge W. R. Ewing after Foreman Ed Gething had notified the court the jury could not agree and therefore no verdict could be returned in the suit.

Plaintiff had alleged as cause of action shame and humiliation alleged to have been suffered as the result of being placed under quarantine in the county jail on May 29, 1939, following an alleged blood test for syphilis. She had asked $25,000 damages.

A jury selected Monday, testimony began Tuesday, and was final argument ended at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, when the case went to the jury.

G. C. Barney of Berger represented the plaintiff, Aaron Sturgeon of Pampa the defendant.

Canadian Dedicates New School Building

A crowd of 700 persons attended the dedication of Canadian's new $180,000 high school building, held at 8 o'clock Thursday night in the auditorium of the new building.

H. E. Hoover of Canadian was the principal speaker on the program, which was featured by the presentation to the audience of Mrs. W. C. Isaacs, Hemphill county's first school teacher.

A gift to the school was the architect's drawing of the new structure presented by Suppt. J. M. Carver who also read a history of the PWA project that resulted in the new building.

Other parts of the program were: vocal solo, "Bells of St. Mary's" by Bobbetta Matthews, accompanied by James Stovall; group singing of "Eyes of Texas" and "School Days"; invocation by Rev. W. H. Drake, pastor of the Canadian Presbyterian church; benediction by Rev. D. L. McCree, pastor of Canadian Methodist church.

Out-of-town guests included J. E. Owens and F. E. Logan, of the Santa Fe lines; Amarillo, Herbert Voelcker and J. C. Glennon, both of Wichita Falls, of the firm of Voelcker and Dixon, architects of the new building; Suppt. J. W. Reid, Dumas.

C. L. Borington of Pampa was a contractor on the projects which were started in December, 1938, completed on December 20, 1939, and occupied by students on January 15 of this year.

That And White File 1939 Reports

Charlie Thut, county clerk, and Sherman White, county judge, filed their annual reports for 1939 Thursday in the office of District Clerk Miriam Wilson.

Fees earned and collected by the office of the county judge totaled $578.27, of which $362.46 was from fees in probate cases. Total expenses of office was $4,051.39 of which $3,750 was officer's salary and $212.70 telephone and telegraph expense.

Mechanical Rock Picker Invented

CLAREMONT, Calif., Jan. 26 (AP)—William Teuscher, citrus grower, has invented a mechanical rock picker. The mechanism, mounted on a truck frame and drawn by a tractor, has a slightly-tiled blade which skirts the earth-surface ahead of the machine and lets rocks and dirt fall into a moving separator. The dirt falls back to the ground, but the rocks are carried into a chute which drops them into a truck.

Designed for removing surface rocks from young citrus groves, the machine, says Teuscher, eliminates much tedious hand work.

Americans should exercise their rights to put America first by taking an interest in underbranded activities of foreign groups Mrs. Leah House Stoker, world traveler, told members of Pampa's veterans organizations, auxiliaries and friends last night at the American Legion hut on West Foster avenue.

Mrs. Stoker declared that Americans should support the Dies committee investigation of un-American activities.

She told at length of the horrors of communism in Russia from where she returned last year. During her tour she visited Scandinavia, Russia, Germany, Poland and other European countries.

Marathon Singer Of 'Beer Barrel' Slain

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26 (AP)—"He hexed me—he hexed me—" Detective Sgt. Charles Brown today quipped an excited man held in connection with the slaying of Joseph Gallagher, 60, whose prolonged singing of the "Beer Barrel Polka" was stilled yesterday by a slit jugular vein.

Brown said that Emil Gardia, 44, told him he had quarreled with Gallagher but denied slashing his throat with a knife.

"He never spoke to me, but he had a hex on me; he could sleep for weeks," the detective quoted Gardia, who is of Mexican and French parentage.

Other lodgers of a rooming house in which the two men resided told detectives that Gallagher had sang the popular swing polka for seven hours to their annoyance.

The singing ceased abruptly in a burst of sound and a night clerk rushed to the room to find Gallagher bleeding profusely. He died in an ambulance.

Hex is a familiar word in certain rural areas in Pennsylvania and is linked with an occult belief in the power of an individual to exert a bewitching influence over one or more other persons.

Several violent murders in the state have been ascribed to the superstition.

getting some extra hard bumps lately through the democratization of the army. You will recall that this figured in the recent cabinet upheaval which rested on the resignation of minister of war Horre-Belisha.

The minister had been promoting men to commissions from the ranks, thereby shaking the tradition that officers should come from the aristocracy and runners-up.

The English aristocrat has been seeing hard times since the world war. I lived in Britain for nearly twenty years and watched the leveling off process—or perhaps one should say the lessening of the great gap—between the upper classes and the people of humble birth.

Huge, near-fertile estates comprising scores of thousands of acres and taking in entire villages, have been broken up until comparatively few remain. Taxation has brought ruin to many of the great houses, and forced those born of wealth and position to turn to the unfamiliar business of making livings.

"This remodeling of the old England naturally entails the abandonment of without tears and trials. Resentment sometimes runs high between the two extremes of society.

But the transformation is being made, and I'll say this for the credit of the government in John Bull's domain—the most of them have been taking it like sports.

England will lose much of colorful tradition in the breaking up of the old estates and the abandonment of customs, many of which were many hundreds of years old. On balance, however, the change is all to the good.

exhibited to her by Assistant Secretary of State Claude Williams, bore her forged signature. She said the check date was more than a year after she left the postoffice.

Mrs. Moore also testified Dr. Johnson asked her if she ever had sexual intercourse with men and she replied that she didn't.

Mrs. Adella Cooper said while employed at the hospital Dr. Johnson talked to her in terms and about matters which she interpreted as sexual advances and Miss Ras Stockton testified Dr. Johnson had told her sexual relations with men was a "normal reaction."

Previously, in a petition for a temporary injunction to restrain the board from interfering with management of the hospital, Johnson alleged a conspiracy to oust him from the superintendentcy.

According to surveys, men are more apt to talk in their sleep, but women are more given to dreaming.

You Can Talk Of Indiana, But Kansas Has Nation's Greatest Cage Dynasty

By JERRY BRONFIELD
NEA Service Sports Writer
LAWRENCE, Kan., Jan. 26—You can talk of Indiana and its hot-shot basketball but don't try to sell a bill of goods to the prairie people out this way.

They'll only laugh and say: "It seems we have a gent named Phog Allen."

Despite a recent loss to Missouri, Dr. Forest C. Allen's University of Kansas cage team is favored to win the Big Six championship, but that isn't much of a surprise to the natives, who speak of Jayhawk basketball as they do of wheat and sunflowers.

It's hard to point out a cage dynasty comparing with the one built by Dr. Allen. Dean of American hoop coaches, the professor has won 22 conference titles in 39 years.

For the second time one of his sons is sparking his team to the top. Mill Allen was an important cog in Kansas' 1936 winners; this year it's Bob, youngest of the clan Allen, which makes the Jayhawk bid a family affair.

The slender junior, who has been playing basketball under his father's eye since kindergarten days, is the cog around which the quintet revolves.

He calls defensive set-ups directs set-plays. He's the best ball-handler on the squad. He has averaged eight points a game.

DOESN'T FIND IT TUGH COACHING HIS OWN SON
"Coaching a son is less a job than people might think," says the senior Allen. "At least I find it so. He expects no favors and I grant him none. Of course, I can give him more personal attention. We've gone into many a point over the breakfast or dinner table."

Dr. Allen played high school basketball in 1904 at Independence, Mo., where he first met Dr. James Naismith, originator of the game who was then coaching Kansas. The following fall Allen matriculated at Kansas.

He played basketball and baseball. Dr. Allen took over the coaching job in 1908 and won the Missouri Valley title.

DALHART—Clayton Yellow Jackets nosed out the Dalhart Wolves 16-14 in a close-fought game here Saturday night. Clayton was ahead all the way, but Dalhart's defensive play kept the Wolves close on Clayton's heels.

Wolves and Wolverines will play Tuxline at Tuxline Friday night.
CROWELL—The Crowell Wildcats last night bagged the sugar game of their series with the Terrible Turkey Turks, 38 to 26. It was the 17th victory of the season for Crowell and the second over Turkey, finalist with the Wildcats in last week's Matador tournament won by Crowell. Turkey is one of the two teams that have stopped Crowell in 19 games played.

Four players who were all-tournament selections at Matador, Smith and Fitzgerald of Crowell and Clark and Carl Johnson of Turkey, showed up well last night.
Crowell plays at Thalia Wednesday, plays Vernon Friday at Crowell, and plays Wichita Falls at Crowell Wednesday of next week.

Phil Cavarretta Recovering From His Broken Ankle

HOLLYWOOD, Fla., Jan. 26 (AP)—Phil Cavarretta of the Chicago Cubs, who played in his first World Series as an 18-year-old, is ready for the comeback trail at 22 after recovering from an injury that almost struck him out of baseball.

Cavarretta broke his right ankle sliding into second base at Veterans Polo grounds last May 8 and was out for the rest of the season. The bone failed to heal properly and months later an operation was performed.

The surgeons just did get to it in time, Cavarretta said today as he barked the ankle in the Florida sun. "They had to take out a wire that was holding the bone together, and the ankle was badly injured."

Eager and anxious as any rookie, Cavarretta discussed his chances of winning back a regular berth with the Cubs. He is assured of being on the payroll, for he signed his contract months ago.

"It looks like a six-way scramble for the outfield positions," he said. "I played quite a lot at first base before, but Rip Russell has been doing a fine job there, and if I was the manager I wouldn't move him off the sack."

"The outfield looks just as tough," he said. "I don't care where I play, though," he mused, "just so I get to play every day. I sure do hate to warm that bench, and I wouldn't like to get traded off. I grew up in Chicago."

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIEZE
NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP)—Jack Zeller's job as generalissimo at Detroit is safe despite the big upheaval... you'll be surprised plenty when they announce Joe Louis' opponent for the Fnnn relief fund in March... the big St. Louis looks which laid 8 to 1 against the cards last spring, will start them out this year at around 2 to 1... the Reds will be the early favorites at 8 or 9 to 5.

Out In Front
Washington beat all the other big league clubs under the wire with its 1940 roster... which makes Washington first in rosters and first in the hearts of the Cubans, Venezuelans and Lithuanians—but still sixth in the American league.

Today's True Story
The other day Warren Wright and trainer Ben Jones sent four consecutive winners to the post at Hialeah... that was nice going, but it wasn't the first time it had happened... Larry S. Williams, former Arizona legislator, was at Lantonia one afternoon back in the 90's and saw horses owned by T. J. Megibbin of Cynthiana, Ky., sweep the entire card of six races... more than that, all the winners were either the get of Megibbin's celebrated stallion, Springbook, or of Andrian, a son of Springbook... If that isn't a record it will have to do for awhile... and if any of you elderly readers ever saw a man's hair burners in seven races in an afternoon, don't write—telegraph.

Today's Guest Star
Burke Davis, Charlotte (N.C.) news: "In other words, Dizzy Dean seems to have gone with the wind." The sports world extends sympathy to Tommy Gibbons, the old heavy-weight (now sheriff out at St. Paul) who lost his wife the other day... the incident recalls Tommy's last big fight when he lost to Gene Tunney here... his wife was so very ill at the time they spared her the shock... for months she thought Tommy won.

Going Or Coming
When Tony Galento was introduced at the fight the other night, everybody cheered except the members of the boxing commission... one fellow said: "Them guys don't like Tony drunk or sober."

Dr. Hutchins And Norton Assail, Defend Football

By FELIX R. McKNIGHT
DALLAS, Jan. 26 (AP)—Two notable of college football brought their opinions to town today—one opining that it is only "a gladiatorial contest which has nothing to do with education," the other contending that one good fullback is worth three stadium payments.

Angular, athletic Dr. Robert McNamee Hutchins, the man who outlawed football at Chicago University because of its confusion with education, roused students of Woodrow Wilson High school with an inspirational graduation address.

One hour later the same auditorium was rearranged for Homer Hill Norton, coach of the Texas Aggies, the nation's foremost college team, to trundle out a technical film of the Sugar Bowl classic and preach the gospel of football to a student body still thrifty from cheering its own team to the semifinals of the Texas schoolboy race.

Dr. Hutchins, boyish at 40, looking the part of a fullback himself, didn't meet Norton. Two days now, purely by coincidence, these two strange figures of football have traveled the same paths.

"Please understand me," said Dr. Hutchins as wearily went into the matter of banishing football at Chicago. "I make no recommendations to other schools. I acted for Chicago University alone. We are not attempting to tell every university to throw out its football team."

Opposes Subsidizing
"Like" football? Certainly—but there's nothing unique about it. It can't be played after graduation, except as a professional sport. It comes at the start of a school year when the young men should be devoting themselves to the start of an academic year.

New Rice Coach A Southern "Drawler" From 'Way Back

HOUSTON, Jan. 26—Rice Institute officials are congratulating themselves these days over obtaining Jess Neely, former Clemson college coach, to tutor the Houston football Owls for the next five years.

And Southwest conference gridiron fans are waiting for the chance to watch his teams in action and the opportunity for a better insight into the personality of this 42-year-old coach who will take over at Rice around February 1.

Neely's football teams of the past two years at Clemson have sounded their own success note, winning 16 and losing two to Tennessee in 1938 and to Tulane in 1939—and being tied only by V. M. I. in 1938. This includes the Cotton Bowl victory of Jan. 1, 1940 when the Tigers beat Boston College, 6-3.

The outstanding personal characteristic of Neely is his disarming sincerity. There isn't anything affected about this Smyrna, Tenn., fellow who took up coaching even before he received his law degree from Vanderbilt, and continued in the athletic game because he loved it.

He's a southern "drawler" from 'way back, deliberate, forthright and mild-mannered, but very definitely has a mind of his own. Perhaps the best illustration of the latter is his final negotiations with the Rice Committee on Outdoor Sports.

Not In a Hurry
The committee pressed Neely for a "yes" or "no" on his last day in Houston. Neely drawled: "I like your situation very much, but I never make decisions in a hurry. I'll have to go back to South Carolina and talk it over with the wife and my friends. I'd rather be late than sorry."

back in their game against Boston College.
Curtis Sanford, director of the Cotton Bowl, wired congratulations to Rice officials the night Neely accepted the position. He said: "Rice Institute is to be congratulated in landing Neely, as he is unquestionably one of the outstanding coaches in the nation today. My association with him during the last Cotton Bowl game was most pleasant and one I shall not forget. Your city is indeed fortunate in having Coach and Mrs. Neely make their home here."

Then, from South Carolina, Abe Benell, sports editor of the Columbia, S. C. State, wrote: "Rice's new head coach, Jess Neely, is the kind of a fellow who gets things done without the benefit of blaring trumpets and booming drums. There is nothing high pressure about him. Quiet, soft-spoken and deliberate in his actions, he carries these traits to the gridiron."

"Painstaking attention to detail is found, too, in his coaching method. Every movement on the practice field is worked out in advance and carried out with almost split-second accuracy."
"In event of victory, the former Vanderbilt flash is the same. He never berates a boy for a mistake, but is always ready with a word of praise and encouragement. And for downright patience, Neely probably has no equal. Few of Clemson's great stars were brilliant in high school, for Jess prefers to take the raw material and develop it himself."

Newly Great Player
"Neely, who was for a number of years assistant to Wallace Wade at Alabama, is a devotee of the single wingback, unbalanced line. His teams play the same style as does Wade's Duke eleven and it has been a moot point all the past seasons as to which had the stronger team, Wallace Wade, the old master, or his ace pupil, Jess Neely."
"Neely's football feats at Vanderbilt, particularly as a passer, passer-receiver and defensive end, are legendary around Nashville. Vanderbilt followers of those days say, without hesitation, that Jess Neely, at about 16 pounds, tackled ball-carriers with more impact than most of the 200-pounders. Neely played offensive halfback and defensive end for the Commodores of 1920-21-22. He was also a baseball player of merit."
Incidentally, Neely got into coaching through the urging of a friend at Murphreesboro, Tenn. Jess was in that city doing some law work, preparatory to going back to law school at Vanderbilt. In the fall of 1923, a friend urged him to coach Murphreesboro high school. He did. Then he went back to Vanderbilt it, got his degree in 1924, and went into the coaching field.

"Not So Old"
A few more notes on Neely's personality:
After one of the meetings with Rice officials, Jess was talking to newsmen. Asked his age, Neely grinned and drawled: "Aw, I'm not so old. These front teeth are false. And a horse had something to do with that. I'm 42."
Then, later, Neely said he wanted to go home and talk with Christie Benet, one of his closest friends, in Columbia. Explaining, he said: "Christie and I understand each other. He used to be a football coach, but was smart enough to quit, and now he's one of South Carolina's leading lawyers and a member of the Clemson board of trustees."
"Witty" Jess promises to be a hit in the "banquet" league. And, from inquiries already received, he's going to have plenty of banquets to attend.

SERIAL STORY

THE CAPTAIN'S DAUGHTER

BY HELEN WORDEN

YESTERDAY, Mr. and Mrs. Donovan received guests aboard their homeboat on South...

CHAPTER V

"I'm very lucky to have caught you," Dan said, piloting Marie through the hurrying throngs that surged back and forth along 57th Street.

"But I don't understand," she objected, as soon as she could get a word in. "I'm going home."

"No, you're not," he said. "You're coming with me to Larue's for a cocktail. Then, if you insist, I'll take you home; otherwise, I hope you'll have dinner with me."

He took long strides and he held her arm firmly. Tall, though she was, she had to walk fast to keep up with him. Her breath was soon coming in short, little gasps.

"Please," she begged, "I'm all out of breath and I do want to save something to say about this."

"Contently she slowed down. 'I'm sorry. It's terribly selfish of me, but I was afraid I'd lose you if I didn't hang on tight and I hurried because I wanted to sit down and talk with you. There's so much to say. I don't want to seem to kidnap you, but you will come with me!'"

She felt shy and happy and proud. "Yes, I'll go. But I have to be home by 7."

He asked her where her home was but she changed the subject. She was sensitive about living on a barge. The girls at the store had teased her. She had her father's pride as well as his temper.

She talked with vivacity as they headed toward Park Avenue, he watching her, seldom saying much himself, but the tone of his voice and his eyes showed his interest in her.

Occasionally people turned to look at them as they stepped along. They were obviously enjoying life and each other.

It was a warm, early spring night. While the street lights were on the pale green evening sky still held a faint golden glow.

An old woman at Fifth Avenue held her tray of flowers up as Marie and Dan passed.

"Hold on," he said, "I want to get you a bunch of violets. I don't know much about clothes, but it seems to me they look pretty swell on that red suit of yours."

She pinned them on the lapel of her trim jacket suit as Dan gave the old woman a $5 bill and told her to keep the change.

"You could have the whole tray of flowers for that, sir," gasped the old lady.

"Never mind, sell them again," he called over his shoulder, steering Marie across 57th Avenue against the lights.

"I've already bought three things about you," she laughed, dodging a taxi with him. "You're impulsive, you're extravagant and you like to take chances."

She sipped the Tom Collins he brought, but Dan neglected his Scotch and plain water while he fished in a pocket for his engagement book.

"What are you doing tomorrow night?" he demanded. "Oh, I have a date," she hedged. "With whom?"

"I know. It's none of my business. But, gee, if you only knew how I felt." He struggled on, floundering like some high-school kid.

"Well, to get back to the present, here's looking at you." She touched her glass to his and laughed. "I don't know your last name but I think it's Donovan."

"Right," he said. "Not that it matters." His mouth quirked up at the corners. "Come to think of it, I don't know even your first name."

"Marie La Forie." "H'm, that's a pretty name. French?" "Canadian French. My people come from Three Rivers, this side of Quebec."

"Yes," she pulled back her sleeve to look at her wrist watch. "Which reminds me that I must go. They'll be waiting for me."

"So will I, if you leave." He caught her hand. She drew it away and reached for her jacket. After he'd paid the check, he followed her to the entrance hall.

"Good night," she said. "Oh, no," he said, passing a cardboard stub to the hat-check girl. "I'm seeing you home."

"No, you're not." She set her chin firmly and started toward the door. "Goodnight and thanks for a nice time."

HE grabbed his hat and coat and ran after her. "You can't do this to me. I'm seeing you home, that is, if you're not married and the mother of seven."

He stuck his hat on his head and slipped into his coat as he walked. "Even then I think I'd take a chance. Now where do we go?"

He stared down at her. "But I live on a canalboat. I couldn't take you to my home," she protested, half-desperate.

"I don't see what difference that makes. My folks live on a houseboat."

She faced him with rebellious eyes. "Besides, I'm walking, not riding and I live five miles from here."

"That's o. k. by me. When do we start?"

She turned on her heel and started down the street.

"You steer the course and I'll follow," he said, keeping pace with her.

Liars Contest To Be Part Of Coronado Fete

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Jan. 26.—The upper crust of New Mexican population in many communities are going to be in for a rude awakening when they attend any of the Coronado Fete Festivals that will be held in New Mexico during this year in almost every community of the state.

They may think no fun will be forthcoming from a mere festival, but Coronado commission officials believe they will get a big evening of enjoyment when the old fiddlers start burning up the night air with tunes that have caused people for centuries to want to dance and have about.

False-telling conferences will be part of the festival programs and the old boys back east who sit on the shores of Maine and tell fish stories that make gals wonder who is the biggest liar will have nothing on New Mexican old-timers who really can render yarns that will win all prizes for all tales.

In a great number of New Mexican communities the square dance salutes are out turning up their luscious lings for the part they will play at festival time. Even the ladies, from Raton to Lordsburg, are entering into the spirit of the thing and making dancing to correspond to the styles of the Coronado days.

All in all, it would seem that New Mexico is going to have a lot of fun in this year 1940 and going to make it pay big dividends by ringing the cash registers to correspond to the money brought in by the tourists from far places.

Morrison To Take No Sides In Next Louisiana Election

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 26 (AP)—Youthful James H. Morrison, defeated "showman" of Louisiana's first Democratic gubernatorial primary, emerged from a week's hiding last night and asserted he would take no sides in a runoff campaign between Governor Earl K. Long and "reform" candidate Sam Jones.

His assertion conflicted with a radio speech blast at Jones, whom he branded as the head of a "ruthless trust." Morrison got 48,000 votes, or almost 12 per cent of those cast in the first primary.

While Jones mapped an intensive stamping tour for the February 20 runoff, Governor Long was in Baton Rouge superintending the adjournment today of the special session of the legislature he summoned last Saturday to enact what his opponents describe "vote-getting measures."

Out of Constantinople, in the fifth century, was operated one of the world's largest and most powerful pirate fleets.

Galveston Mardi Gras Celebration To Go Glamorous This Year

By WILLIAM T. RIVES
Associated Press Staff

Seventy-two years ago a rib-tickling justice of the peace, his ponderous paunch shaking with jollity, wrapped his 350 pounds in the character of Falstaff on Shrove Tuesday in the old Turner Hall at Galveston.

That was the birth of Mardi Gras on Galveston island—the yearly period when a rollicking populace forgets its cares and leaps with complete abandonment into a frolic after fun.

The hob-goblins disappear and the elves come out, costumed and masked, celebrators dance in the streets, wine flows, music plays, royalty is crowned—the island glows in a week of revelry.

Galveston says its Mardi Gras celebration—one of the few outstanding fetes of its type in the nation—is going glamorous. The implications of that assertion are not crystal-clear, but at least the event will be, like the circus, bigger and better than ever.

More parades, the appearance of more military, an extra day of fun-making, greater variety, an especial appeal to the little folks—these are some of the additions to this year's calendar.

Then, of course, there will be the Boggett quadruplets—those lovable little girls who had the presence of mind to be born on Galveston island.

They will celebrate their first birth anniversary Feb. 1. Sensing the importance of the date, the Galveston citizens decided that Mardi Gras should open the same day.

The little ladies were appointed Mardi Gras mascots and probably will lead the junior Mardi Gras parade, in the first official public appearance.

Galveston is expecting 100,000 visitors during the six-day spree.

Miss Agnes Schoelkopf of Dallas has been picked by Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel to be grand duchess of Texas for the fete.

Seven other states have named duchesses, and more nominations are expected. The seven picked are: Arizona—Miss Martha Tuberville of Phoenix.

Arkansas—Miss Katherine Ione Steel of Texarkana.

Colorado—Miss Rose Williamson of Colorado Springs.

Illinois—Miss Sue Woodsen of Decatur.

Oklahoma—Miss Mary Randall Ellis of Muskogee.

Tennessee—Miss Mary Campbell Williamson of Lebanon.

Virginia—Miss Eleanor Phillips of Blacksburg.

This year's event will have a military cast, with the personnel of the naval base attending in large numbers. Five destroyers have been assigned to patrol the gulf in these days of dark world outlook and their crews probably will have a chance to drop in for a bit of celebrating.

The destroyer U. S. Trippe will make a special visit and is expected to be open for visitors' inspection some time during the stay.

Briefly, here is the program for the fete:

Thursday, Feb. 1—The mayor announces the holiday season; Houston symphony orchestra concert.

Friday, Feb. 2—Children's coronation, pageant and dance.

Saturday, Feb. 3—Junior Mardi Gras parade; music and floor show, city auditorium.

Sunday, Feb. 4—Visiting the Trippe; sight seeing; free band concert.

Mardi Gras celebrations, the Galveston publicity workers say, date back to pagan times. In the early Roman times, for instance, record tell of "painted priests pursuing shepherds and flogging them with goatskin thongs in an effort to bring rains, good soil and all other favorable things which the pleased gods could shower upon them."

This ceremony was translated into the Lupercalian and Saturnalian feasts, where various gods were honored in banquets and other entertainments.

Toward the middle of the second century, Rome had Christianized her pagan feasts and the fast of 40 days during Lent was preceded with a celebration of several days. From Rome the idea spread.

It was from the French that the fete acquired its specific name, which applied to a parade of that day—Fat Tuesday—in which a fattened bull was led about the streets.

The French custom became established in the New World in New Orleans. Mardi Gras fetes are being held in Pensacola, Fla.; Mobile, Ala.; Shreveport, La., and New Orleans, besides the Galveston affair.

Orange, Jan. 26 (AP)—Representative Martin Dies (D-Texas), who said secretary Ickes was not the only person who would like to see him resign as chairman of the committee on un-American activities, was undecided today as to when he would return to Washington.

The congressman added, however, that he expected it to be about Feb. 1. He had been here for some time recuperating from an illness.

Dies, commenting yesterday on Ickes' suggestion that he resign as committee chairman, declared "in my opinion, and in the opinion of many people, Ickes couldn't be elected dog catcher by a convention of disgruntled cats."

He said opposition from Ickes was no new thing. "Many of Ickes' friends have been exposed in the investigation," Dies commented. "This, no doubt, nettled him."

All agents of foreign powers would like to see him resign the same as Ickes, Dies added.

New York Times Devotes Page To Coronado Fiesta

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Jan. 26—Realizing the Coronado celebrations in New Mexico this year will be of major interest to the traveling vacationists of the country, the New York Times broke out Sunday, Jan. 7, with the front page of their regular weekly tourist section entirely devoted to Coronado and New Mexico.

Full eight columns of pictures were used, including a map of Coronado's route in 1540, photographs of Indian pueblos, a canyon scene and a photo of an Indian woman before her adobe oven.

Accompanying the picture layout was an interesting story about Coronado and plans to celebrate his travels by Ruth Laughlin, Santa Fe, N. M.

Many other newspapers and magazines over the nation have written Coronado Centennial officials for information about the Coronado celebration, stating they planned to give considerable space to the unusual interesting celebrations now being announced in many New Mexico cities.

Cardenas Accuses Almazan Of Trying To Start Revolt

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 26 (AP)—Political circles said today that President Cardenas had administered a tactful, but firm rebuke and warning to the permanent congressional commission for his public attacks on the Mexican press and charges that General Juan Andreu Almazan was fomenting a revolution.

The chief executive yesterday told while congress is not in session, that "there can be no revolution because the people are loyal to the government."

The commission also heard Cardenas say he always has been and now is a "strong defender of the freedom of the press" and that members of his administration had been so advised.

Almazan is the leading independent candidate for president.

Educator Addresses Shamrock Boosters

SHAMROCK, Jan. 26 (AP)—The Shamrock Boosters club had as guest speaker Thursday at the regular noon luncheon, M. S. Kavanaugh, principal of the Shamrock High school.

Mr. Kavanaugh, who has specialized in child psychology in the University of Chicago and who will receive his Ph. D. degree from that institution next summer, talked to the Boosters on the correct training of the child to make a better citizen for the future. He stressed the difficulties that the child has to overcome in the modern home giving examples of those parents who "attribute children's faults to heredity," "tendency to praise one child in the family and hold him up as example for others, thereby reducing the chances for success of the others by putting a mental hazard on them."

He also pointed out some incorrect methods of controlling children such as "hiring the child to do certain things such as eat spinach," "threatening the child" and "nagging at the child continuously."

The club had a formal "goodbye" to Ruben Hilton, member for the past three years, who has been transferred by his company to Dallas.

The club voted to dispense with a program for next week and to use the meeting time in a discussion of the club constitution and proposed amendments to it.

The annual ladies' night was set for Thursday, Feb. 15.

Truth To Be Topic Of Lesson-Sermon

"Truth" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, December 28.

The golden text is: "O Lord, Thou art my God; I will exalt Thee, I will praise Thy name; for Thou hast done wonderful things; Thy counsels of old are faithfulness and truth" (Psalm 25:1).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Have not I written to thee excellent things in counsels and knowledge, That I might make thee know the certainty of the words of truth; that thou mightest answer the words of truth to them that send unto thee?" (Proverbs 22:20, 21).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:—"The understanding of Truth gives full faith in Truth, and spiritual understanding is better than all burnt offerings" (page 288).

No matter what atmospheric temperatures man can endure on this earth, he has a small chance of living if his body temperature ever drops to 93 degrees, or rises to 110; and even to stray outside the 97 to 101-degree range usually is a sign that something is wrong.

Churches To Observe Sunday As Infantile Paralysis Day

Rites Fo Veteran Mail Carrier Held At Wheeler Tuesday

Churches throughout the country will observe Sunday, January 28th, as Infantile Paralysis Day.

The National Infantile Paralysis campaign has been endorsed by the titular heads or ranking prelates of virtually all denominations, as well as by such religious organizations as the Salvation Army, the National Catholic Welfare Conference and the International Society of Christian Endeavor.

At the behest of the Committee for the Celebration of the President's Birthday, of which Keith Morgan of New York is National Chairman, clergymen during the day will call attention to the fight against the vicious disease which annually cripples thousands of American children. Congregations will be asked to do their part in the nationwide drive. Sermons and prayers will be delivered in many churches and special programs will be given over the radio networks and by the independent broadcasting stations.

Endorsements of the campaign and of "Infantile Paralysis Sunday," which have been published in a booklet by the Committee, follow: Samuel McCrea Caver, General Secretary of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, New York City writes: "I warmly commend the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis to the consideration of the churches of America and hope that on Sunday, January 28, when your present campaign comes to a head, they will cooperate in making its objectives known."
