

Only One R. R. Commissioner Hears Testimony In Vital Gas Hearing

Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson heard Pampa business and professional men present testimony yesterday in Austin to prove that curtailment of business, reduction of city, county and state taxes, and draining of huge gas deposits will result if 26 sweet gas wells west of Pampa are shut in.

Commissioner Lon Smith was not present because of illness and Commissioner Jerry Sachs left the hearing to attend a funeral before testimony was presented. He promised, however, to study the testimony presented by representatives of the Northern Natural Gas company, protesting use of sweet gas for the manufacture of casinghead gasoline and carbon black, and of Pampa business men and companies that would be affected by the shut down of the wells.

Representatives of the pipe line company gave testimony showing that 27 wells were producing in violation of the sweet gas law and that they should be shut in for conservation purposes. The pipe line representatives were asked if their company would take gas from the wells. The answer was that the company was not in a position to take the gas but felt sure that an outlet could be secured.

Business Men Testify

Several Pampa business men presented testimony. They explained that they were not lawyers nor were they familiar with all phases of the gas law, but that they did know that if the wells being protested were shut down many casinghead and carbon black plants would have to curtail production or shut down and move away and that business would suffer. They also pointed out that city, county and state taxes would drop thousands and thousands of dollars by such action.

The merchants said that although they were not gas or oil men, they could easily see that gas would be drawn from under land on which the wells had been drilled and that producers, royalty owners and land owners would get nothing. They further emphasized the fact that they believed in conservation but to the extent that the conservation was for the benefit of Texas and not for the benefit of pipe lines and cities in the far North served by Panhandle gas.

Pampans presenting testimony included Thurman O'Neil, Bert Curry, Guy McTaggart, DeLea Vickers, R. G. Hughes, C. A. Huff, E. E.

Reynolds, Siler Faulkner, Garnet Reeves, Hollis Keys, M. K. Brown, M. A. Graham and Bryant Caraway.

30 Pampans Present

In all, 30 Pampa business men and many operators of plants and producers of wells attended the hearing.

John Sturgeon, representing the Portland Gasoline company, presented testimony showing that if the wells were shut in that the Portland plant would be curtailed 78 per cent and that carbon black plants receiving residue from Portland would be similarly affected. J. B. Massa was placed on the witness stand by Mr. Sturgeon.

D. M. Britton, representing the General Atlas Carbon company, stated that if sweet gas from low pressure wells was allowed in the future, his company desired additional connections.

Carl Smith, independent producer, testified as to the damage that would result to his wells if they were shut in.

The protested wells, and more than 60 others in the field, have been producing for years under special permission of the commission. They do not have sufficient pressure to force the gas into pipe lines and if shut in they would be drained by other wells with connections. Recently Northern Natural gas protested the method of production, claiming it was in violation of conservation.

Temperature Falls To 14 Below Zero

DENVER, April 11 (AP)—A wind-driven spring blizzard swirled across the Rocky Mountain and western Great Plains regions today, driving temperatures down as far as 14 degrees below zero.

The 14-below was the overnight minimum at Lewistown, Mont. Other Montana towns also felt the sub-zero cold.

In most of the region temperatures were well below freezing but stayed above zero.

The storm, spending its force mostly along the east face of the Rockies, brought a foot of fresh snow to some Colorado mountain areas and covered the Montana and Wyoming prairies to a depth of four inches, western Nebraska also had snow.

Mann said he was convinced he was better equipped for his present position and could be of more service as attorney general.

"The greatest honor that can come to any lawyer is to serve as chief justice of the supreme court of Texas. My decision has not been an easy one. I am sorry I cannot decline the appointment," Mann said in a letter to Gov. O'Daniel.

When the governor first tendered Mann the office, the 32-year-old attorney general replied he was not eligible because the constitution requires that a chief justice must have practiced law seven years and Mann until September O'Daniel then

Three Die In Family Fight In Colorado

MONTE VISTA, Colo., April 11 (AP)—A family quarrel provoked a gun fight in which three men and a woman were killed and her son critically injured on a southern Colorado ranch last night.

Police Chief Max Richardson said Pat Maes, 50, operator of a sheep ranch, admitted killing Raymond Martinez, 35, Conejos county deputy sheriff; Manuel Ortega, 40, Maes' brother-in-law; and Edward Dominguez, 30.

Maes' confession said he shot the three with a rifle after Martinez had shot Mrs. Maes, 44, and her son, Frank, 22.

Mrs. Maes, mother of 10 children, died today.

Chief Richardson said Maes, held in jail here, told him the shooting stemmed from a grudge his brother-in-law had borne him for two years, ever since he reported seeing some stolen sheep in Ortega's corral. The sheep, Maes said, had been stolen from a rancher for whom Maes worked. Ortega never was tried on the sheep theft charge.

Freeze Due In Panhandle Area Tonight

Freezing temperatures in north and central portions of West Texas were forecast for tonight, following on the heels of hail and rain here last night that saw temperatures drop from Wednesday's maximum of 77 down to 32 degrees near noon today.

A section of fence at Road Runner park was blown down by the wind in the storm.

Weather over West Texas tonight was due to be mostly cloudy and unsettled, the U. S. Weather bureau here reported.

At sunrise in Pampa today, the temperature was 33 degrees, dropping one point at 8 o'clock and holding steady until noon.

(By The Associated Press.)

Freezing temperatures in the Panhandle and rain storms in north central Texas today laid the groundwork for a cold wave and Gulf storm expected to hit the state from both ends tonight.

The Panhandle, to which 32-degree weather returned this morning, looked for continued cold blasts out of the Rockies which the weather bureau said would bring freezing or lower in the Dallas-Fort Worth area a freeze was expected if the strong north winds clear out the clouds.

The New Orleans weather bureau warned of a Gulf storm of moderate strength along the Texas coast, with winds up to 38 miles an hour anticipated.

The weather changed suddenly last night in the upper half of Texas. A cold mass centered in Montana and Nebraska, the weather bureau said, was spreading east and south.

By regions reports included: PANHANDLE — Amarillo and Pampa were the coldest spots in the state with 32 degrees. The former city saw a chance for light snow. A 61-mile wind at Abilene, the Dallas weather bureau said, brought temperatures down to 45 and a little rain. Pampa's cold followed hail, rain and dust. Germans Routed On Land And Sea, Says Churchill

The Allies today laid claim to victory over Germany in the war's first great naval battle which they said had cost Germany 18 ships—including four cruisers and 10 troop transports — while Allied losses were put at four warships.

A picture of the portentous sea fighting off Norway emerged slowly as Norway, battling beside the Allies, reported fresh success against the German invaders.

Preparing against a possible German offensive on the Western Front, France suspended all army leaves soon after Premier Reynaud had made a report on the northern naval engagement.

LONDON, April 11 (AP)—The pounding guns of Britain's men-of-war and bombs bursting from swarming warplanes have crippled the German fleet and set the Allies on the road "to victory in a world cause," Winston Churchill told the House of Commons in an hour-long statement.

The pugnacious First Lord of the Admiralty put the German sea losses at about 18 vessels—four of them cruisers—but added to Britain's sorrow with news of the loss of the destroyers Glowworm and Gurkha.

French Say Nazis Have Lost 18 Ships

Premier Paul Reynaud of France today declared the great naval battle razing off the Norwegian coast had cost Germany 18 warships, four of them cruisers, and 10 transports, while the allies lost only four warships.

The French Premier's statement was made in Parliament while in the British House of Commons Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, was drawing a less complete picture of the fighting but admitted the loss of two more British destroyers.

Norway, blowing up bridges and arming civilians, struck back at her German invaders reporting success east of Narvik and in the Hamar district north of Oslo.

The Norwegian government ordered its forces to cooperate with the allies and told Germany of Norway's intention to resist the invasion.

Reynaud said the four German cruisers represented one-tenth of Germany's naval fighting strength, and added that ten German troop transports were sent to the bottom.

Meanwhile, French military authorities circulated a warning to the French to be prepared for

War Flashes

BERLIN, April 11 (AP)—German troops who occupied Oslo were said today to have stumbled upon 50 new American Curtiss planes and were thought thereby to have opened the door to many up-to-date American military secrets.

The shipment of planes, informed quarters said, arrived in Oslo only a week ago and had not been completely assembled as yet.

PARIS, April 11 (AP)—Premier Reynaud today declared that 18 German ships, including four cruisers, had been sunk in the

4. German action against a number of neutrals had been "long and elaborately prepared" and it was only early Monday that it was disclosed "that Norway and Denmark had drawn the unlucky numbers in this sinister lottery."

Vast crowds milled about Whitehall while Churchill spoke and the House of Commons was packed. First of the diplomats to arrive in the galleries was United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy.

Churchill saw the Nazi campaign against Norway as possibly a prelude to "far larger events" and said dramatically:

"We have probably arrived at the first crunch of the war."

B-PW Club Has Meeting At High School This Week

Pampa Business and Professional Women's club met this week in the high school auditorium where the one-act contest play, "Overtones," was presented by four girls, under the direction of Kenneth Carman.

Following the play, a regular business session was held with Vera Lard, president, naming the following nominating committee: Lillian McNutt, chairman, Lillian Jordan, Ruba McConnell, Sybil Taylor, and Letha Northup. One new member, Neva Burgan, was voted into membership. An invitation was extended from the A. A. U. W. to attend their regular meeting next Tuesday night.

John Kinard, finance chairman, directed a forum on "The Standard of Living in a Democracy." She said that salaries for both men and women in this country are very low in actual comparison to the natural resources of the country.

Taking the lower income bracket family as an example, that is families with $1,000 or less per year, Julia E. Kelley discussed food, shelter, and clothing. She named a balanced diet for a family of four that could be had for less than $200 could be allowed for shelter which is considered inadequate as it must cover lights, gas, water, and refrigeration. For clothing 40 per cent or $54 could be allowed. This would not be adequate except for clothing carrier over from year to year.

Mrs. Lard told what is being done to help this situation. The county, the Salvation Army, Red Cross, P. T. A., Tuberculosis Association, W. P. A. and all local civic organizations were discussed and the parts they were playing.

Following this discussion, Madge Rusk spoke on "Education in Democracy," Mildred Overall, "Churches in a Democracy," Opal Wang, "Social and Civic Organizations and How They are Meeting Community Needs," Julia Kelley, "4-H Clubs," and Jim Edwards, recreational director, spoke on "Recreation Needs and How Pampa is Meeting the Problem."

Two Girls On Bike Bruised When Hit By Car Last Night

Two small girls riding a bicycle received only minor bruises when struck by a car on West Foster avenue at 8:15 o'clock last night. No particulars of the accident have been learned by day police officers investigating the accident. No report was made by the night officers.

Two ambulances answered a call but the girls were taken to their homes by the man driving the car. The driver and witnesses are out of the city today, the officers learned.

Frank Williams, employed as a painter at the Danziger Refineries Inc., east of Pampa, suffered a head laceration, fractured shoulder and bruised back when he fell from a ladder while painting a tank yesterday. He was taken to Worley hospital in an ambulance.

MANN

made the appointment effective in September.

Mann's decision reopened the whole question as to who would succeed Curreton and when another appointment would be made.

"I feel that your record of constructive service as attorney general," the governor wrote Mann, "proves conclusively that you are highly qualified for this important position, and without doubt you are entitled to the promotion."

The appointment of Mann was a distinct surprise. When the 1927 all Southwestern conference back ran for attorney general two years ago, O'Daniel supported his runoff opponent, Walter F. Woodul of Houston. After the chief justiceship was vacated by Judge Curreton's death Monday, Capitol observers speculated that either Tom L. Beauchamp of the state court of criminal appeals or Lieutenant Governor Coke Stevenson probably would be selected to fill it.

of destroyers, a number of submarines have been destroyed since Sunday, he said, and "nearly a dozen ships, some of large tonnage, have been sunk or captured." The 25,000-ton battleship Scharnhorst was damaged.

British losses, he said, included the destroyer Glowworm, sunk by two German destroyers, the destroyer Gurkha, sunk by aerial bombs, injury of seven men when the battleship Rodney was hit and piercing of the battle cruiser Renown by two German shells.

These were in addition to the loss of two British destroyers yesterday at Narvik and the damaging of two others.

The conflict still is raging in the North Sea, Churchill said, but he refused to "lift the veil."

He further told the House that he found no reason "to deter us from entering on further perils" and promised that the navy would sink remaining German ships in the Skagerrak and the Kattegat.

Churchill lauded the action of Captain Warburton Lee and the destroyer flotilla which attempted to take Narvik, saying their action was "as worthy as any in British naval history."

The destroyer Hunter and Hardy were lost at Narvik while the Gurkha went down when hit during five unsuccessful bombing attacks on the cruiser Aurora. The Glowworm was sunk by German destroyers when she turned back from her squadron to pick up a seaman who had gone overboard.

"We have greatly gained by what has occurred in Scandinavia and northern waters in the strategic and military sense," he said.

"Hitler has made a great strategic and political error as Napoleon when he invaded Spain."

"At the present nearly a dozen ships, some of large tonnage, have been sunk or captured either in the Skagerrak or the Kattegat or in attempting to bring supplies to forces landed at Narvik," Churchill declared.

(Premier Reynaud speaking in Paris at the same time declared that 18 German warships, including four cruisers, had been sunk in battles in Norwegian waters in which allied losses were only four warships.)

Of Britain's losses, Churchill told the House of Commons, the sinking of the destroyers Glowworm and Gurkha and the damaging of the battleship Rodney and the cruiser Aurora by bombing. He said the British destroyer Zulu had sunk a German submarine and a German ship in a running fight between the Renown and two German cruisers in a blizzard.

Churchill said Britain was occupying Denmark's Faeroe Islands and Iceland, but that they would be returned to Denmark when she "is liberated from the foul trawling into which she has been plunged by German aggression."

The hard-hitting Churchill proclaimed to the House that "all German ships in the Skagerrak and the Kattegat will be sunk."

He contended that by invading Norway Hitler has doubled the efficiency of the allied blockade.

"We have suffered from nothing in our blockade so much as from the accused (Norwegian) corridor now closed forever.

"We shall take what we want of this Norwegian coast now with an enormous increase in the efficiency of our blockade."

Churchill warned that "Hitler has created a whole series of commitments on the Norwegian coast for which he now will have to fight against the allies who have 'vastly superior naval forces and are able to transport them to the scenes of action more easily than he can.'"

On Wild Waters
"The very reckless with which Hitler and his advisers have cast the fate of the German navy upon wild waters" may be a prelude to "far larger events" which depend on the land, Churchill said.

"We have probably arrived at the first crunch of the war."

He declared that "four German cruisers—nearly half of their total pre-war strength and much more than their existing strength—have been sunk."

After commenting on Germany's being "deeply mutilated" in the cruiser element, Churchill said, "a number of German destroyers, together with some U-boats have been destroyed—al since Sunday."

British submarines are "by no means asleep," Churchill said, for they "have taken a heavy toll" of German transport troop ships crossing to Scandinavia.

"We are not going to let the enemy supply the troops along those waters with impunity," he said.

Speaking "for myself," the first lord said he considered Germany's Norwegian occupation "as great a strategic and political error as that which was committed by Napoleon in 1808 when he invaded Spain."

"I cannot see any counter advantage which he (Hitler) has gained except the satisfaction of another exercise of his lust, and unbridled power," he said.

As the house cheered, Churchill observed "we certainly find no reason to deter us from entering on any further perils that might lie before us."

"We feel ready to encounter the utmost malice of the enemy and to achieve a victory in what is a world cause."

50 American Planes Discovered In Oslo

BERLIN, April 11 (AP)—Informed sources said today German troops who occupied Oslo found 50 new American Curtiss planes which had not been completely assembled.

They said they would be studied for any possible information or new construction details.

(Aviation experts said there were no secrets of design and that no military secrets could be involved because the airplanes could not have been sent to Norway had there been.)

ain's First Lord of the Admiralty, Winston Churchill—the man behind the gun in this demonstration of naval might and prowess against the Nazi invasion of Scandinavia.

Mr. Churchill, you will recall, was the politician who seemed to have been elevated through public insistence to the directorship of war operations for his Britannic majesty. The public demanded greater initiative, and figured this many-sided genius was the one to give it to them.

He personally has been keeping sleepless vigil over the great war maps at the Admiralty. Win, draw or lose, the English navy under his direction has during the past forty-eight hours upheld the centuries' old tradition of valor and superb efficiency.

This exhibition of initiative—the greatest of its kind shown up to now by the British—must seem to justify that back-handed but quite attractive boast of the Briton, invariably running something like this:

"We are such a bungling people as a whole that if we really were extraordinary how we survive—but somehow we always manage to muddle through."

Conflict To Spread
It also affords some grounds for the declaration yesterday by British Foreign Minister Lord Halifax that the mighty Allied war-machine in his "humble judgement must in the end prove irresistible."

The struggle for control of Scandinavia has become powder-trails throughout Europe, it seems almost inevitable that the conflict should spread.

Sweden is in momentary danger of invasion by the Germans in their effort to get troops and military equipment into Norway to oppose the Allied onslaught.

If the Anglo-French attack blocks Nazi attempts to transport forces directly to Norway by sea, Herr Hitler is quite likely to try to take over Sweden to provide a quick and more protected route.

Watch the Balkans!
The latest events prove there isn't the slightest doubt that the Nazi leader will invade without hesitation any neutral country if it seems to serve his purpose.

Hitler having taken the drastic step of occupying his neighbors' lands no longer feels the restraints which his hope for peace formerly imposed on him. Europe expects him to "go all out" now in his effort to escape the economic strangulation planned for him by the Allied blockade.

Watch the Balkans! An upheaval may come there any moment. The supplies of this rich area, especially Rumania's oil, are absolutely vital to Germany. Most observers expect that Hitler will either assure himself control of Rumania and her oil wells immediately or, failing that, occupy that country.

Thoroughness Will Feature Census Here

An extension of the time for taking the census in Pampa is expected because of addition of the housing census which was ordered after two weeks had been set for the population census alone Carroll Smyers, district supervisor stated today.

"We are concentrating on thoroughness and not on record time," Mr. Smyers said. "We are better than 30 per cent complete in the entire district."

One month is allowed to take rural census. Two weeks was set for cities over 2,500 population.

Summary of the hobos poll taken early in the week has not been completed, Mr. Smyers said.

nounced that Norway's northern forces now are cooperating fully with British forces against the German invasion.

Hambro, who is in Stockholm on an undisclosed mission, made the announcement after communicating with the Norwegian government, which has established headquarters at Elverum, 20 miles from the Swedish frontier.

Nazi Advance Repulsed
A German advance eastward from Narvik to the Norwegian port already has been repulsed and Hamar, for a time seat of the government, recaptured, Hambro said.

Hambro informed Norwegian legations in Helsinki and Stockholm that the British had bombed Oslo airport and that the Norwegians held Oslo fjord shore batteries which were bombarding German transports.

The British Isles steeled themselves against a likely resumption of German air raids, which yesterday and last night were beaten off in Moray Firth, Scotland, and in the Orkney Islands. The British said six of the two groups of raiders were down and three others severely damaged.

The Nazis hinted at possible use of newly-won Scandinavian bases for further raids on Britain.

The French reported that two German planes which tried to reach Paris were downed.

possible heavy fighting on the previously quiet western front.

Heaviest naval fighting was reported continuing today in the narrow elbow where the Skagerrak joins the Kattegat in an apparent British attempt to cut off reinforcements for the German army of occupation.

Stockholm dispatches said at least five of the flotilla of 10 German troop transports had been sunk in that region. Another was reported set afire, at least one other damaged, while another fled to safety in Sweden.

Four German cruisers also were reported without confirmation to have been sunk in hot night-long fighting.

The Norwegian minelayer and training ship Olaf Trygvason, 1,500 tons, was credited in several reports with sinking the German cruiser Emden, a proud 5,400-ton vessel.

On the southwest coast, the Norwegian destroyer Ager was said to have sunk a German transport before being herself sunk by aerial bombs.

On land, the Norwegians reported recapture of Hamar, town 60 miles north of Oslo and briefly the seat of the refugee government. The defenders also were said to have driven the Germans south from Elverum, present seat of the government, but the German command said Elverum was captured yesterday.

Reports from Sweden, however, said the British had bombed Oslo airport and that the Norwegians held Oslo fjord shore batteries which were bombarding German transports.

The British Isles steeled themselves against a likely resumption of German air raids, which yesterday and last night were beaten off in Moray Firth, Scotland, and in the Orkney Islands. The British said six of the two groups of raiders were down and three others severely damaged.

Pampa Planes Will Fly To Pin Roundup

Pampa, known as the best aviation city in the Panhandle, will be without airplanes Saturday because all of them will be at the JA ranch in Donley county where a giant aerial roundup will be held. Planes from all over the nation will attend.

Not a single horse or automobile will be allowed at the roundup. Its a case of either fly in or stay out. Planes will arrive between 10 a. m. and 1 p. m., when a chuck wagon dinner will be served.

The ranch party is the first of its kind ever held. The landing field is located a mile northeast of Palo Duro, southwest of Clarendon. There will be a trophy given to the pilot of the plane who lands closest to the "magic minute" which is some time between 10 a. m. and 1 p. m.

Poster Fletcher, local photographer, has been designated by Life and other magazines to take pictures of the unusual event.

Word was received today that one of the new Stratoliner ships would be at the party.

Among those who have reported they're coming are Howard Hughes, the multi-millionaire sportsman pilot and movie magnate; Wallace Berry and Jimmie Stewart, the movie stars (if they can get away from picture assignments for a couple of days); Duane Wallace, president of the Cessna Aircraft Company, who will bring down one of the company's new twin-engine jobs; Walter Beech president of the Beechcraft plane organization, who has promised to have a couple of his firm's new models on hand, and many others.

Heavy equipment is going to be present, in addition to a host of light planes. Two Lockheed's, a Lockheed (newest of this firm's commercial airliners) and a "12" definitely will be flown in by pilots from Dallas. In addition, two Air Corps ships will be in from Hensley Field, near Dallas.

Dick Ritchie, who with his brother Monty, is throwing the ranch aerial roundup, reports that many of the acceptances indicate the pilots are going out hammer and tongs for the "flying bedpan" trophy offered. At four o'clock Saturday after-

Why Do Americans Leave Home?

EDITOR'S NOTE: "Americans All Over," by Jerome Beatty, the story of U. S. pioneers in the far places of the world, has become a best seller. The author traveled 46,500 miles looking for the most interesting Americans on the globe in gathering material for the book. Here Mr. Beatty sums up for NEA Service and The Pampa News what he learned on that trip by answering the question, "Why do Americans leave America?"

By JEROME BEATTY
Written Exclusively for NEA Service and The Pampa News

Why do Americans leave home to work—some to virtually slave for little return—in far off places? I recently toured the world for 15 months, traveling 46,500 miles through civilized Europe and the wild spots of Asia, Africa and the South Seas, looking for Americans who had left the United States and were doing significant and interesting things abroad. Now I can tell you the answer.

I met, or heard, a good deal about at least 3000 American men and women—the top ones—in every land except South America, Australia and New Zealand. I found out why good and talented Americans leave America, the land of the free, in which nearly every foreigner in the world longs to live.

It is because Americans are the only people who possess that charitable urge that makes them want to help the unfortunate. Americans—not all, but glorious thousands of them—are happiest when they are sacrificing their own comfort to aid the hungriest, sickest and most hopeless and poverty-stricken people, they can find. Since those people are in foreign lands, they go abroad.

There are hundreds of Americans, of course, who live abroad because they have a little money and it is cheaper to live there. There are thousands of business men, mostly in the foreign branches of American firms and in their mines and oil fields.

MEN OF MEDICINE

AMERICANS WE SHOULD BE PROUD OF ARE THOSE WHOSE COUNTERPARTS ARE FOUND AMONG THE PEOPLES OF NO OTHER NATION. They are the medical and educational missionaries, the men and women of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., doctors and nurses noon the pilots and their guests will begin the trip to English Airport at Amarillo.

There they will be met at the field by attractively-dressed young ladies, who will drive them from their planes to the field house, where refreshments will be available.

Thence they will be taken to their rooms at the Herring Hotel, where special rates for rooms and meals have been secured.

That evening there will be a cocktail party, open to all guests of the JA, and then a banquet will be served for a very nominal charge, at which prizes will be awarded and very few speeches made. A dance will follow.

The guests will leave for home any time Sunday.

"You couldn't stop these Americans... they would go ragged in order to help unfortunates."

from the Rockefeller Foundation, representatives of the Near East Foundation and of other such charitable organizations.

Down in Muscat, Arabia, the hottest city in the world, I found Dr. Paul W. Harrison, one of America's great surgeons, operating upon penniless Arabs.

In Athens, I found Alice G. Carr, giving her life to drive disease out of Greece. She hated the work, she said; she longed to go home. But she couldn't drag herself away as long as they needed her.

You found them all over, in Fiji, in China, in Africa. Only Americans were doing these tough, unselfish jobs. People of other nations think of themselves first, and usually all the time.

U. S. BECOMES BEST LOVED LAND

There were times on my trip when I thought, "We are just a lot of suckers. Nobody else gives money and the services of competent, up-standing people to unfortunate foreigners."

"You don't see the British and French sending doctors to help our poor in Puerto Rico or the Philippines. Why should we send doctors to India and Syria?"

I got over that. If you want to be practical—the influence of these Americans abroad and the contributions from those at home have made America the nation most admired and beloved by the common people of the world—not by the rulers, who envy us, but by their subjects.

Perhaps we don't get all our money back, but we receive a lot of it—in trade. Because they like us, foreigners like American goods. There is no sales resistance for American motor cars, toothpaste, tobacco, gasoline, silk hosiery and a hundred other commodities.

Jerome Beatty

GOOD WILL MEANS GOOD BUSINESS

Good will is worth a great deal in business—and in international affairs.

If the people admire us, their rulers are more likely to give us a better break on trade agreements and in diplomatic parleys. It's mighty good for America to be loved in most parts of the world.

Beyond that, you couldn't stop these Americans, if you wanted to. They would struggle and starve and go ragged in order to help unfortunates.

In the second place, most of us don't want to stop helping. When we gaze in the mirror we like our looks better if we have helped the Chinese or the Finns or the Armenians.

That's the way we're built. And that trait helps make us a great nation.

If we ever stop worrying about the world's unfortunate people, if we begin to incline toward a policy of shooting them instead of feeding them, look out! No longer will we be unique. No longer will we be Americans.

In that case, no longer will life be worth living!

Station "X" Jams British Broadcast

NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)—An unidentified station today "blacked out" British news broadcasts from London, including a short-wave broadcast of the speech in commons of Winston Churchill, first Lord of the Admiralty.

The NBC short-wave station reported that reception, up to the moment of the first "jamming" about 8:30 a. m. CST, had been excellent. Then a buzzing noise blanketed the British signals, the "jamming" occurred again as the London station started news of Churchill's address.

NBC engineers said this was caused by another station broadcasting on the same frequency.

FDR Submits Plan To Save $300,000

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—A broad government reorganization plan, designed to save $300,000 annually and produce "more effective service" was submitted to Congress today by President Roosevelt.

Affecting most of the executive departments and several independent agencies, the fourth reorganization plan recommended by Mr. Roosevelt projected these major revisions in the governmental set-up:

1. Putting the civil aeronautics authority, now an independent agency, into the structure of the commerce department.
2. Transferring the weather bureau from the agriculture department to the commerce department.
3. Shifting the food and drug administration from the agriculture department to the federal security administration, except for two activties considered closely related to agriculture—involving insecticides and naval stores.

4. Transferring to the interior department from agriculture those activities of the soil conservation service relating to soil and moisture conservation on lands already under the jurisdiction of the interior department.

The transfers ordered today will become effective within 60 days unless both branches of Congress, each by a two-thirds vote, disapprove.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 PINTS A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Kidneys remove excess acids and poisonous waste from your blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

McAllen Train-Truck Crash Most Gruesome In History Of Texas

By RAY NEUMANN
Associated Press Staff

Texas newspapers, ever alert for sticking photographs, recently got some too horrible to print.

Mangled corpses, headless torsos, twisted arms and bodies torn apart, the depicted the worst grade-crossing wreck in Texas history.

State Police Director Homer Garrison, Jr., says it might have helped the cause of safety if all Texans could have visited the scene of the truck-train collision near McAllen.

A truck loaded with laborers was shredded to bits when it met an onrushing locomotive.

The state police corps is debating the advisability of displaying the gruesome pictures.

"We'll risk criticism from those whose sensibilities are offended," Garrison says, "if we think it will result in saving someone's life."

Highway violence took 1,583 Texans last year. That was 77 less than the year before. The McAllen disaster wiped out that saving.

On top of the untold anguish caused by the wreck, Police Statistician N. K. Woerner estimated it represented an economic loss of at least $317,000.

Terrible as is the suffering of nearly a score injured in the crash, the economic loss is no negligible item. The statistician's figures were conservative and he admitted the cost might amount to more than a third of a million dollars.

The economic loss caused by Texas traffic accidents in 1939 reached the impressive total of $45,861,175. For 1937, the worst year in history for highway violence, it exceeded $56,000,000.

Economic loss resulting from motor vehicle traffic accidents is figured on the basis of information compiled by the National Safety Council after an exhaustive survey on the subject. Woerner explains it thus:

The council estimates that in rural areas there are 12 personal injury accidents and 50 property damage accidents for each fatality. In urban areas it is estimated there are 35 personal injury accidents and 150 property damage accidents for one death.

It is believed that in localities where there are more than 25 fatalities a year, the ratios will apply and that in such areas the economic loss is $11,500 per fatality, $425 per personal injury accident and $125 per property damage accident.

In localities where there are less than 25 fatalities a year, the council has estimated economic loss for all traffic accidents is about $45,000 per fatality.

In rural areas of Texas last year there were 1,149 traffic deaths at $11,500 each, equalling $13,202,000. Twelve times 1,148 deaths gives 13,776 personal injury accidents at $425, which equals $5,854,800. Fifty times 1,148 gives 57,400 property damage accidents at $125, which equals $7,175,000. This represents an economic loss in rural areas of $26,231,800.

In urban areas, there were 438 traffic fatalities at $11,500 each which totaled 5,037,000. Thirty-five times the 438 deaths is 15,325 personal injury accidents, which at $425 each equals $6,470,625.

The traffic deaths multiplied by 150 gave 65,250 property damage accidents which cost an average of $125 each and equalled $8,156,250. Urban areas' economic loss therefore amounted to $19,629,375, which added to that of rural localities, totaled $45,861,175.

Woerner believes people gradually are learning to be more cautious on the highways and streets. To back up the belief, he produces figures which show that although more

Lt. Chiang Wego, second son of China's generalissimo Chang Kai-Shek, is pictured in Washington as he watched with interest Uncle Sam's military forces in their annual Army Day parade.

322 fatalities, during 1939 were attributed to intoxication.

Many traffic experts contend this figure is low, that drunkenness is responsible for far more deaths than is generally believed. They say drunken drivers often are not booked on a drunken charge because of its stringent penalties. They claim officials would rather file charges of negligence and be sure of conviction.

Second greatest cause of highway violence is driving too fast for conditions which resulted in 237 deaths last year or 16.24 per cent of the total.

Violation of right of way, disregard of signs or signals, mechanical failure, fatigued drivers, passing without sufficient clearance and diversion of driver's attention were listed as other major contributing causes.

Scandinavian Assets Can't Be Removed

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—The United States took unprecedented action today to assure Norway and Denmark on the safety of their several hundred million dollars in holdings in this country.

Foreclosing any possible German attempt to confiscate this rich store of foreign exchange for the Nazi war chest, President Roosevelt by executive order prohibited the removal from America of any Danish and Norwegian assets, monetary or otherwise.

He took this step late yesterday, shortly after he extended the combat zone of European waters from which American ships are banned.

He added not only the whole Norwegian coast but also the Russian ports of Murmansk and Archangel and the Finnish harbor of Petsamo, where the Soviets have special privileges under the recent peace treaty. Waters around the British Isles, France, the Netherlands, Belgium and Germany previously were closed.

Three ships headed for Norway were called back from mid-ocean, and simultaneous efforts were instituted to get three others out of the perilous Scandinavian ports.

Two important government decisions were held in avoidance. The first was whether Denmark and Norway should be formally designated belligerents under the neutrality act, and made subject to its cash-and-carry provisions. The second concerned the policy regarding $20,000,000 in credits recently granted the two countries.

President Roosevelt's order protecting Danish-Norwegian investments here covered both the governments and citizens.

It stipulated that no holdings could be removed from the United States except with a special license. The order was phrased in such a way, however, that Danes and Norwegians residing here would be able to use personal bank accounts unimpeded.

Maginot Line Against Malaria

Dramatic are the accounts of desperate air forays over the North Sea. Men fight, and men die in a quick blur of machine gun fire and a swift plunge into the sea.

But in Brazil there is a battle no less dramatic, a battle not to kill but to save, not for death, but for life. It is a relentless war to exterminate the anopheles gambiae, a dread malaria-carrying mosquito brought from Africa to Brazil about 10 years ago.

Scientists are not given to hysteria. But Dr. M. A. Barber, distinguished malariologist, states his considered belief that "this invasion of gambiae threatens the Americas with a catastrophe in comparison with which ordinary pestilence, conflagration and even war are but small and temporary calamities."

The government of Brazil declared war on this malaria peril. The Rockefeller Foundation rushed to help with $100,000 in 1939, and $230,000 in 1940. Foundation and government are working closely together.

Throughout early 1939 it was a losing battle. Untrained personnel, wet weather, bad breaks, forced the defenders to retire before the deadly mosquito.

Widespread epidemics, with more than 100,000 people treated for severe cases, followed. Defense forces brought up their reserves.

More than 2000 doctors, technicians, scouts, inspectors and guards were rushed into the front lines. Frontiers of the infested region were marked by fumigation posts, a medical Maginot line. Breeding places in stagnant water were eliminated. Plane roared overhead, mapping with the camera unsuspected breeding places. Houses, automobiles, boats were halted and sprayed.

The advance of the deadly mosquito has been halted. But now another rainy season impends. The offensive must be launched again with redoubled vigor. This is a war to the death, for until the last surviving pair of gambiae is dead, millions of people in the Western Hemisphere can not be safe.

Such a campaign, such a war, is worthy of mankind, showing him at his best, just as wars among men show him at his worst.

Strange indeed is man, who can fight so gallantly to save men's lives, and in the same moment strive so savagely to kill.

Behind The News

WASHINGTON, April 11—That 102-pronged indictment voted in Cleveland against plumbing trade leaders was not only the biggest indictment yet voted in the Justice Department's building costs inquiry; in the eyes of Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold it was also the most important.

That's not because Arnold figures the plumbing business is any worse than other parts of the building industry, but because in this case, for the first time, a federal grand jury hit a situation precisely the way Arnold has maintained it ought to be hit—on a national basis, all in one bump.

All of the other indictments in this campaign have dealt with local or regional situations. This one covered the country as a whole—or, at any rate, the greater part of it. It can stand as a model of the anti-trust law, in that it takes one specific produce and covers every step in its progress from factory production line to the home of the ultimate consumer.

MANY COMPLAINTS WERE RECEIVED. Action of this kind was in the cards even before the building costs campaign got started.

The department had been getting complaints about the plumbing business for years. Ed Hodges, Arnold's assistant who handled the case, had made preliminary studies, off and on, for many months. As soon as the building costs inquiry was decided on, it was figured plumbing would be a key part.

When Hodges went to Cleveland last October, he had a pretty good idea of the sort of evidence he was going to get and where he was going to find it. It was printed material and typewritten, mostly; once the grand jury convened, in November, the job was largely one of subpoenaing and analyzing documents.

In substance, the department charges distribution of plumbing fixtures was tightly organized from top to bottom, not for purposes of price-fixing, but with the effect of making price structure more rigid.

Manufacturers and jobbers, it alleges, had mutual agreements; jobbers, in turn, had agreements with master plumbers—the contractors who hire the journeymen who actually install the fixtures in a house. And master plumbers are accused of having similar agreements with the journeymen's union.

Net result, according to the department, was no short-cuts for the consumer. So-called "DTU" shipping—direct-to-you service from factory to consumer—declined until, by department estimate, it amounted to less than a fifth of the entire business. Just incidentally, one of the department's important studies of the situation consisted of an examination of the files of one of the big mail-order houses.

In general, Hodges says, his men figured the consumer had to pay from 17 to 25 per cent more for plumbing fixtures than he would under a free and open market.

HODGES KEPT BUSY WITH TWO PROBES. Hodges had a busy time of it throughout the investigation. Not only was he in charge of the plumbing investigation; he also had charge of the investigation into the building industry in Cleveland. The Cleveland situation was one of the "hottest" in the country; for both jobs, Hodges had eight assistants.

THE BAG OF TRICKS OF REFORMERS AND CROOKS

The method used by every crook is exactly the same and it does not make any difference whether the crook is simply a little man who is attempting to steal material things or whether he is attempting to steal honor and esteem to which he is not entitled. The method of doing things is always the same.

And this method is attempting to divert the attention of those people who are being robbed of what the crook, or quack-reformer, is attempting to do. All of these quack-reformers and common garden variety of crooks want to talk and proclaim to the world how useful they are to their fellowman, how sympathetic and charitable and kind they are. They will take hours of your time or columns of space pointing out their virtues.

Everyone knows that every man on the witness stand accused of a crime would be willing to answer any questions, provided it was not damaging evidence to the acts he is accused of; just so, in the trial of public opinion all these quack reformers who are always telling the other fellow what he ought to do and wanting to compel him to do it by voting majority are always diverting the attention and refusing to directly answer questions about their quack theories.

All these people are masters in wise-cracks and evasion. It is their only stock in trade. It is the only possible way they have of continuing to fool the people who are not scientifically minded.

But when these people go up against people with a scientific attitude, they are in trouble and for this reason they refuse, if they are smart, to get into discussion that requires answers with men who believe that the highest virtue consists in an attempt to bring about a social condition whereby each individual has an equal right (not opportunity) to try to create and enjoy.

Yes, all quack reformers, just as all criminals, evade questions that are really important. Beware of this kind of "quack leadership!"

AROUND HOLLYWOOD

By PAUL HARRISON

HOLLYWOOD, April 11—Short takes: The studios were a little premature in celebrating a scheme to use up their frozen foreign assets.

They were going to spend the money producing pictures abroad and then bring the films back to America, but now it seems that Hollywood stars and featured players want no part of the plan.

Most of 'em get seasick just at the thought of the submarine-infested Atlantic. They doubt, too, that London and Paris will be especially pretty in the spring.

A few actors and actresses have offered to go for double wages and all expenses. Lots of faded stars and second-string players would be glad of the jobs at any decent figure. They may get the chance, too.

The secretary of Mike Curtiz swears it's true: The other day, as he was leaving his office for lunch, she reminded him of an important appointment at 1:30. The director said, "Okay—if I come back before I return, hold me until I get here."

STARS HIDE UNDER FALSE PHONE LISTINGS. To avoid nuisance calls, nearly everyone of any importance in Hollywood has an unlisted telephone number. A few have telephones under their butlers' or even their dogs' names—anything that may be familiar to a few close friends.

Howard Harty and Charles Koren, two Metro writers who share a house, took a telephone under the name of Z. Z. Zayz. All their pals need to remember is that it's the last listing in the book. . . . Some similar gag, I suspect, was the listing of the Motion Picture Studio Horses' Guild. Who over or whatever it was must have been pestered to death by curious callers. When I telephoned the number had been disconnected.

Bette Davis wants Frank Capra to direct her in a comedy. . . . It's odd that the two biggest picture successes, "Gone With the Wind" and "Grapes of Wrath," would be better named if they switched titles. . . . I hear from Ray Milland, who ought to know because he played the lead in it, that "French Without Tears" will be pretty weak fare when shown in America. . . . He's now being slapped and charged to please our purists.

THE NATION'S PRESS

SENATOR VANDENBERG'S WARNING (Chicago Daily Tribune)

Senator Vandenberg's habit of moderation and restraint in his public utterances in no way detracted from the picture of the state of the nation given in the radio speech he made, with particular application to the Wisconsin primaries in which he and Mr. Dewey are rivals for the state delegation to the national convention.

The picture is one of the advance of unproductive governmental activity as revealed in the federal debt and the retreat of private enterprise as revealed in dwindling issue of new corporate capital.

When the New Deal has completed its eight fiscal years, Senator Vandenberg said, it will have collected 40 billion dollars in taxes. It will have spent 65 billion, and it will have run a deficit of 25 billion. These are astronomical figures. They dwarf all previous fiscal records in the country. They startle both the reason and the imagination.

When they are placed alongside the concurrent decline in private capital investment they usher in the day of reckoning and judgment. New capital investment, which offsets work instead of idles and subsidies, dropped during the two terms of the New Deal from 8 billion a year to 371 million.

The free economy and free enterprise of a free people as we have known them cannot survive the conditions which these figures disclose. Venture money, Mr. Vandenberg said, is in a coma. The growing thing is that instrument of destruction, the public debt.

The New Deal has planned it this way to put the resources and capital, the productive and distributive forces of the country in the hands of the American commissars of a sovietized United States. And if the New Deal is not brought to an end nothing can stop this consummation of its plans.

Yesterday while I was walking home a woman in a car, with her child standing up in the front seat, drove slowly by. When the boy, who was about three years old, saw my Colorado whiskers he began yelling.

"Look mama! Look there's a wild man!" She looked embarrassed and tried to quiet her son, but he kept on yelling "Lookit that wild man!"

If the boy had seen many such whiskers he would have thought nothing of it so we investigated and found that barely 10 per cent of the Jaycees who are supposed to set the example in growing beards for the Fiesta are letting their whiskers grow. We checked up on Johnny Wells who issued dire threats that rebels would be ducked on the courthouse lawn has ducked nobody. We investigated and found out that even fewer Jaycees grew whiskers last year than this year; that those who grew them last year were not Jaycees. So we have decided that we will cease being a freak and that we will quit scaring small children just by our looks.

We were one of those who grew them last year were not Jaycees. So we have decided that we will cease being a freak and that we will quit scaring small children just by our looks.

But, like me, you may have to grow long hair and whiskers in the manner of Coronado, but if they are not going to duck anybody, or if only 10 per cent of the Jaycees are growing whiskers, why shouldn't we lop off the excess foliage?

RUSSIAN TROOPS ON Bessarabian Border, Is Report

BUCHAREST, April 11 (AP)—Large numbers of veteran Soviet Russian troop reinforcements were reported today to have moved into the Odessa region from the North. Odessa on the Black Sea, lies about 25 miles from the Rumanian Bessarabia border.

The reports, reaching this capital from the frontier region, could not be confirmed.

Russia lost Bessarabia to Rumania in the post-world war territorial changes and has never renounced her claim to it.

Meanwhile the Rumanian government issued a decree that all national defense factories must immediately store supplies for use in case of general mobilization.

An embargo was put on export of sunflower seeds to Germany, which previously has bought almost the entire Rumanian crop to replace her oilseed.

The government issued a denial of what it called "wild reports" that three German-bound Danube river freight boats had been sunk by explosions.

The freely-expressed fear in the Balkans that Germany might move into southwestern Europe was heightened by comments of British and French officials in the near east that allied forces were unable at present to resist effectively.

The Rumanian and Yugoslav governments were reported by usually reliable sources today to have agreed on German insistence to call all their Danube river pilots for military service.

This action would void contracts which many Rumanian and Yugoslav rivermen signed with British and French agents and make them available for assignment to German Danube shipping by military command.

The only official Rumanian comment was the statement that the government was taking steps to protect Danube traffic from sabotage.

RIGHT OR WRONG ABOUT PEOPLE

By DONALD A. LAIRD, Ph. D., Sc. D.

IS FISH A BRAIN FOOD?

Yes, this eating of sea food is good for brains. Being very precise and scientific, it must be said that fish do not nourish the brains directly in a way different from other foods. Fish is a brain food indirectly and for an interesting chain of reasons which took years of scientific detective work to find out.

The brain seems to work best when it is in a body which has an adequate amount of thyroxin, produced constantly by the thyroid gland astride the windpipe. Just below the Adam's apple. When the thyroxin is low for any reason, the thinking becomes sluggish; in fact, the entire body becomes sluggish.

When the thyroxin is up to par, then the old thought machine hums along smoothly at top speed. A few pinhead-sized differences in the amount of thyroxin seems to make quite a difference in us.

Fish help the thyroxin factory in our necks keep up the needed production by supplying small amounts of iodine. Thyroxin centers around iodine. This essential iodine has come from the foods eaten. We can't help it along by painting our necks with the tincture of iodine from the medicine chest; that might make the neck smart but would not be a smart thing to do.

It reminds us of the rhyme about the house that Jack built. Here is the fish that supplied the iodine that went into the thyroxin that made the brain work better.

GERMANS RATION DANISH GASOLINE, PROHIBIT BEER

COPENHAGEN, April 11 (AP)—Denmark, rich breadbasket of Scandinavia, felt a pinch of a nation on a wartime basis today as the German occupation brought mounting restrictions and signs of more to come.

With the sale of food restricted to four days' supply and all private automobiles banned from the roads after 7 o'clock at night, the government party newspaper Social Democrat predicted:

"We will have to miss coal and gasoline and, still more, there will be shortage of many other goods."

A regulation which hit beer-drinking Danes hard was that prohibition alcoholic beverages. Its aim, apparently, was to help avoid any clashes between Danish citizens and German soldiers, for Denmark has plentiful supplies of beer.

Another prohibition stopped Denmark's streamlined, oil-burning train as an oil conservation measure.

While many Danes took the occupation of their country imperturbably, the way that has caught them up was brought home with full force by air raid restrictions which blacked out this once gay northern capital.

Evidence of the thoroughness of German preparations was seen in the sudden appearance of hundreds of shaded blackout street lamps similar to those used in Berlin.

STORIES IN STAMPS

Western Samoa Series Honors Stevenson

THE new Western Samoa series of four stamps, commemorating the 25th anniversary of New Zealand's control of the islands, also honors the 50th anniversary of the arrival in the islands of Samoa's most famous resident—Robert Louis Stevenson.

The four stamps of the issue show a typical Samoan village and a Samoan dancing party.

Stevenson was born in Edinburgh, studied engineering before turning to literature. All most of his life, Stevenson lived in England, France and United States.

In 1889 he sailed on a pleasure cruise in the Pacific, and after six months sailing, decided to make his home on the island of Upolu, shown on the stamp of the same series, below.

Other stamps of the issue show a typical Samoan village and a Samoan dancing party.

7 Harvesters In Finals Of Boxing Meet

Oscar Hinger, coach of the Pampa Harvester boxing team, is optimistic that his boys will come through in the Tournament of Champions here Friday night.

Seating capacity of the gymnasium will be increased to 1,000 for the big tournament. Admission will be 25 cents for students of all schools and 40 cents for adults. No reserve seats will be sold.

Harvester mitt artists have excellent records during the season and seven of them made the north tournament team. Wellington, however, is expected to be mighty tough with LeFors also considered hard to beat.

Lightweights Develop A little Harvester who had developed this season is Johnny Campbell who will face the tough task of battling Osborne of LeFors, a chunky boy who throws leather from all angles.

A Harvester will also represent the north at 85 pounds when Billy Gise takes the ring. Like Campbell, he will meet the LeFors champion, Jim Bob Shipman. The pair divided bouts in dual meets during the regular season and tomorrow night will be the rubber fight.

Hard-hitting Richard Stephens will be Pampa's entry in the 105-pound bracket with Cobb of LeFors for an opponent. Both like the going rough and tough. They don't mind whether it's stand off and slug or infighting.

A bout that would be called a main event in any tournament should be the meeting of L. V. McDonald of Pampa and Wayland Hughes of LeFors, at 125 pounds. Both boys are experienced, having boxed last year, and on a previous meeting the battle could have easily been called a draw, but McDonald won.

Kenneth Mullings of Pampa, who hasn't had much opposition at 165 pounds, will need everything when he faces Thompson of Wellington. Thompson is a rugged fighter with a hard wallop in both fists.

The other Harvesters will be James (Chief) Carlisle, a heavyweight with a punch like the kick of an army mule, and he'll have to meet Moulton, big Wellington football star.

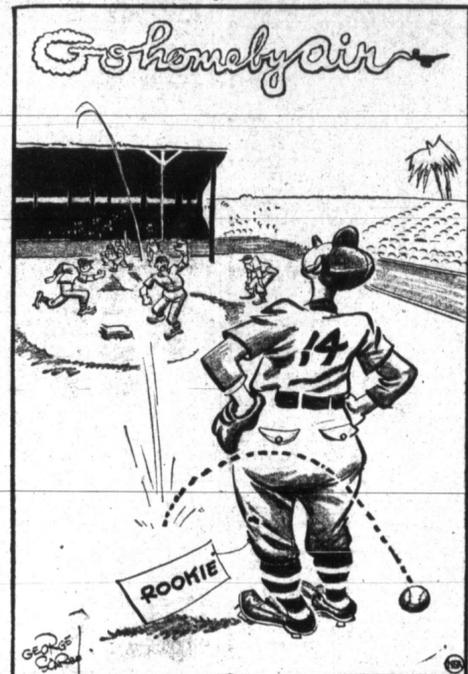

Stinnett will send an undefeated 95-pound champion to represent the north in the person of Roland Borger who has won 13 straight fights. McKeeney of Wellington, a tall boy who knows plenty of boxing, will provide the opposition.

Stinnett will also have the 115-pound titlist in either Langford or Strother, who tied during the season. The opposition will be Kivlehen of Miami, one of the classiest boxers seen in a ring this season.

Weather May Permit Game Here Tomorrow

SPRING PRACTICE

There was no joy in the Pampa Oiler camp today despite good showings by rookies in a long workout yesterday afternoon.

The Oilers were scheduled to meet the St. Joseph (Mo.) Angels this afternoon in the first practice game of the season but old man weather interfered. However, weather permitting, of course, the two teams will square off Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Road Runner park.

Earl Hamilton's Angels have been riding roughshod over all opposition this spring. They defeated Clovis, Amarillo and on Tuesday slaughtered Borger 23 to 9, although the Gassers made 20 hits to 25 for the Angels.

On Sunday afternoon the Borger Gassers with big Gordon Neil in the lineup, will meet the Oilers at Road Runner park.

Although few of the Oiler prospects have opened up and let go the works, several of the kids have shown enough to make Manager Grover Seitz do some worrying about how he'll have to cut loose. His other worry is to find one or two slugging outfielders.

To date, the first and second base jobs appear to be the ones where fights will be stiffest. Three good looking boys are battling for each position. A third baseman also bopped up yesterday to contest Jerry Jordan at the hot corner. He was Phil Potter from Chicago, who not only looked good in the field but hit one over the fence in a practice game.

Albert Mendoza, chunky Latin-American from San Diego, lifted the lid at second base to outshine Ballard of Independence who was the bright light the previous day.

Manager Seitz sent big Merle Adams to the outfield where he showed plenty of speed. He is a first baseman but with Peterson of San Diego and Hughes of Independence working smoothly at the initial sack, Seitz decided to see whether Adams might be turned into a hitting outfielder.

During the scrimmage Seitz had what he called his first team composed of Jordan at first, Malvia at short, Mendoza at second, Peterson at first, Summers behind the plate, Adams, Fornasero and Rains in the outfield.

St. Joseph has a good looking team that he's first team composed of Jordan at first, Malvia at short, Mendoza at second, Peterson at first, Summers behind the plate, Adams, Fornasero and Rains in the outfield.

The stiff opposition to be offered by the Angels is just what the Seitzmen need.

McLEAN, April 11.—Thirty boys responded to the call for spring football practice here Tuesday afternoon. Coaches "Crickie" Christian and Duck Dunlap issued suits and gave a few exercises to the boys. Practice will continue every afternoon until May 8.

Cooks, Back, Lee and Bonner are four returning backs who lettered the past year. Linemen who lettered in 1939 and who will be available the coming year are Dwight, Jones, Combs and Montgomery.

The end positions are wide open, and will be contested for by Dyer, Brown, Holmes, Bond and Bailey. Combs and Montgomery, lettermen, will be opposed by Harris and Hanter at the tackle position. Jones and Dorse shape up as the guards, and Dwight will again be center.

The backfield of experienced men will be faster and trickier than in 1939, for John Bond is no longer available to do most of the work. However, it will be light and without the power it had when Bond was playing.

Some 20 new candidates are expected later by Coach Christian. However, this number may be considerably revised if means of transportation can't be found for some of the boys who live in the country.

Shamrock, Phillips And Higgins Track Favorites

Unless a dark horse shows up, the battle for supremacy in the track and field division of the district interscholastic league meet to be held here Saturday should be between Shamrock, Phillips and Higgins. Timeclads from 10 Panhandle counties will compete in the event.

There have been rumors, however, that Borger, Panhandle and White Deer and possibly one or two other schools might contest the idea that Shamrock, Phillips and Higgins might be the strongest teams. Weather has been unfavorable for workouts.

Patton of Higgins won the high hurdles. Southard and Langford of Shamrock were on and two in the 100-yard dash with Ogle of Phillips a close third. Alexander of Phillips annexed the 440-yard dash with Roder of Shamrock third. Lanford of Shamrock was first in the 220-yard dash. Williams of Higgins placed second in the low hurdles.

In the broad jump Forbau of Higgins, Wilson of Shamrock and Holmes of Shamrock annexed first three positions. Clark, Holmes and Pust of Shamrock were second, third and fourth in the high jump. Wilson of Shamrock and Baker of Phillips were second and third in the shot. Holmes of Shamrock won the pole vault. Forbau and Wilson of Shamrock placed in the javelin and Bruce of Shamrock and Baker of Phillips drew places in the discus.

Buffaloes To Play Texas Tech Friday

Special To The News

CANYON, April 11.—After delays incident to the late snow, the Buffaloes of West Texas State snapped into spring training this week with a scrimmage against Texas Tech as the motivation.

The Buffs will scrimmage the Tech squad Friday evening in Lubbock.

Coach Jack C. Curtice said the tussle would not be a game, but would be a hard scrimmage beneficial to both squads. Tech will come to Canyon April 19 for another scrimmage under the lights.

The new Buffalo mentor will be without the services of the regulars of the right side of the line. Earl Stagner, best of the ends, is out with a side injury. R. V. Wood, veteran guard, suffered an early season foot injury and has been out of action. Willard Childers, big veteran tackle, is out with a severe cold.

Blocking drills will be on the program of the week. Only a few players have been run by the Buffs up to now, but these will be increased in number before the scrimmage with Tech. Fourteen lettermen will be available. Chief inexperience is at ends and at center.

"Blazing Bill" Thompson, former Amarillo Sandie star, entered West Texas State this semester and is beginning to get into condition. He is expected to play briefly at Lubbock.

The Buffaloes were co-champions of the Alamo conference last year.

Woman Rifle Expert Shudders At Killing Birds

PITTSBURGH, April 11 (AP)—Attractive Rosemary Novak is the gentlest rifle queen ever to shoot the heart out of an intercollegiate championship target.

The 21-year-old Carnegie Tech student is so non-militant that she never owned a rifle and shudders at the idea of using her skill to kill even birds.

But on the target range she's the greatest woman rifle shot on intercollegiate records, recently bagging the crown with 70 consecutive 10's (perfect shots) when no previous champion had done better than 50. It was not to break rifle records but scholastic ones that Rosemary entered Carnegie Tech's school of architecture five years ago. She'd never even seen a rifle.

While a freshman the Pittsburgh girl saw that co-eds wanting to learn use of rifles should report to Coach Ray C. Sommers. Rosemary liked tennis and archery but decided to try the new sport "because it sounded as though it would be fun and wouldn't take much time."

The time element was important because she was determined to do well in her studies. But the first time Rosemary held a rifle she liked it. Pretty soon she was coming down to the rifle range at noon hours.

"Searg—that's what we call the coach—was very nice and helped me in his lunch hour—kind of sandwiched me in between his sandwiches," said the tall blonde girl with blue eyes.

"Yes," admitted Sommers, "she did all right this year but she can do better. She's the best woman college rifle shot there's ever been. Perfect mental control does it."

Training Camp Briefs

(By The Associated Press)

DANVILLE, Va.—The Cleveland Indians' anxiety over Hal Trosky's injured hand was heightened today after an X-ray examination showed no broken bones. The big first baseman expects to return to the lineup possibly Saturday or Sunday.

WASHINGTON—Old time fans who remember Ricardo Torres as a catcher for the Nats back in 1920-23 may see his son in action this year on Washington's twirling staff. Gilbert Torres, a tall, melancholy person, was camp rated the best third-sacker in Cuba. But he went to work as a pitcher and demonstrated a good knuckle ball that has made Manager Bucky Harris' heighten his interest.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Manager Frankie Frisch sent the Pittsburgh Pirates here in charge of Coach Mike Kelly and went to St. Louis for a further check on the throat ailment that kept him in bed last week.

KANSAS CITY—Billy Herman and Stan Hack have shaken off their batting slumps. The former got three hits yesterday and the latter a home run, but Manager Gabby Hartnett has more than Dizzy Dean blues to worry about. Bill Lee, slated to hurl the opener at Cincinnati, has allowed 22 earned runs and hit batters for an average of 4.18 in 32 innings this spring. Besteds Claude Passeau, only Cub hurler to go the route this spring, was clubbed for 18 hits by the Browns yesterday.

LYNCHBURG, Va.—That "break up the Yankees" business may have something to it after all. Joe Gordon's sprained ankle is worse than was thought and he may not be able to open the season at second base. Reserve outfielder Jake Powell crashed into a steel fence at Ashland, Ky., and suffered a brain concussion. He'll be in a hospital three or four days. Lefty Gomez has a bruised knee.

The biggest worry the New York Giants have right now is Mel Ott, their veteran outfielder. One of the slugging champions of the National League for years, he has appeared considerably slower this spring and has an average of exactly .200 for 85 times at bat. He went hitless yesterday against the Cleveland Indians.

Kiefer Sets New Record

CHICAGO, April 11 (AP)—Adolf Kiefer, Chicago swimming star, claimed a new world record of 1:33.6 minutes today for the 150-yard backstroke event.

This mark, established in conjunction with the Central A. A. U. title meet last night, bettered by almost three seconds the time of 1:36.4 set by Al Vanderweigh of Princeton university.

Germans Deny Sea Battles With Allies

By ALVIN J. STEINKOPF
 BERLIN, April 11 (AP)—Nazi Germany is steadily tightening her list of iron on Norway, authorized Germans contended today, and defying the allies to lessen her hold.

German positions throughout Norway are so thoroughly consolidated, these sources asserted, "that there is no real possibility they could be dislodged by English and French forces."

They picture a steady stream of German soldiers being transported to the northern kingdom to strengthen the forces landed Tuesday at strategic points.

Authorized sources then made the most categorical denial of reports of an extensive sea battle.

Flare Clashes Denied
 "In only two places did the German air force have encounters with the British fleet (yesterday)," they said, "but reports of a clash of major forces of the navy are wholly unfounded."

"Our transports continued crossing the Skagerrak unmolested until the Norwegian situation was completely in control."

(Night long fighting between naval forces, however, was reported from Sweden to have taken place in the Skagerrak and four out of 10 German troopships this morning were reported sunk, another was burning and a sixth was damaged seriously.)

Key points of the official announcements issued here included:

1. Denmark—the high command announced extension of Nazi control yesterday to the Danish Baltic island of Bornholm, 25 miles off the tip of Sweden.

2. Norway—German troops, proceeding "on schedule" yesterday, occupying Elverum in the forenoon, consolidating positions at Oslo and along Oslo fjord and destroying three British destroyers and severely damaging another in an attempt to take Narvik. Bergen and Drontheim (Tromsland) "are firmly in German hands."

(Stockholm advisers said Norwegian troops recaptured Hamar, 80 miles north of Oslo, and driven the Germans south from Elverum, 20 miles east.)

3. Air—German warplanes patrolling the North Sea hit a British destroyer with "heaviest caliber air bombs" and in a raid on the Scaev Flow region put out of commission one anti-aircraft and one searchlight battery. A British chaser was shot down and two German planes are missing.

It also was denied that the battleship Gensauen had been destroyed or damaged.

No Troops Landed
 Germans also denied that any British effort to land troops in Norway has been in the slightest degree successful.

(British and other reports have not mentioned any attempts to land army troops. In unconfirmed reports of a second raid on Narvik yesterday, in which the British were reported to have been unsuccessful, marines were said to have been landed.)

"There are no British soldiers in Norway and there won't be any," an authorized source said, "because the German army has anticipated every possibility of their landing."

Mexican Railways Under Control of Government Bodies
 MEXICO CITY, April 11 (AP)—President Cardenas today placed fiscal affairs of the National railways, frequently reported in financial straits, under direct control of the government.

A presidential order instructed the secretaries of the treasury and communications to take charge of the "financial and controlling aspects" of the 9,000-mile system which Cardenas expropriated two years ago and turned over to a workers' administration.

The secretaries also were authorized to exercise an undefined "technical-administrative" supervision.

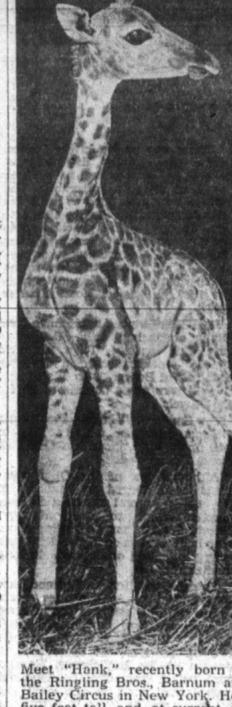

Informed sources asserted the government intended to supervise, in fact, the entire administration and operation of the railways.

$10,000 Baby

Meet "Hank," recently born at the Ringling Bros. Barnum and Bailey Circus in New York. He's five feet tall, and, at current giraffe prices, is valued at $10,000.

Quarters close to the German government issued a series of vigorous denials of reports attributed to Stockholm, London and Paris.

This it was denied that a major portion of the British fleet was in Kattegat, leading from the North Sea to the Baltic.

(Reports from Stockholm and other points have indicated that British forces of sufficient strength to raid and partly destroy convoys German troopships penetrated the Skagerrak, but there has been no suggestion that the forces constituted "a major portion" of the British fleet.)

"We know where it is," one source said, "but we aren't saying."

It also was denied that the battleship Gensauen had been destroyed or damaged.

"We'll have to speak to Clara. Ever since she won that prize with her essay on 'My Career' she won't even make her own bed."

Dizzy Off Again--Fined $100, He Rails At Gabby

KANSAS CITY, April 11 (AP)—Dizzy Dean, who changes his mind faster than he ever changed his pitching pace, cancelled a mid-night train reservation and gussed he'd stay over today to watch his Chicago Cubs play an exhibition game against the St. Louis Browns.

"I'm going to sit in the stands, eat peanuts and enjoy myself just like any other fan."

"Oh! Diz beamed. He was feeling good after a chicken dinner, topped off by a beer or two. He apparently forgot he was fined $100 and ordered by Manager Charles Hartnett to go on to Chicago.

Hartnett, apparently irked more by the telephone calls Dean's latest screwball antics caused him than by the pitcher's actual offense, suddenly was neither jovial nor gabby.

The trouble all started in Wichita. No one knows where it will end, or how.

"Who cares?" snapped Hartnett. Dizzy told interviewers at Topeka he spent Tuesday night visiting an uncle, the Rev. Bland Dean, who lives 14 miles from Wichita.

"I know I was going to be a little late (to catch the Cubs' special) so I tried to telephone Hartnett. I couldn't get him."

He caught a later train and arrived 30 minutes behind the Cubs. His uncle said "I didn't see Dizzy. He didn't show up."

Dean slipped in his first one: "Aw I shouldn't say my uncle. I said my nephew. Any of the boys'll tell you I was with him."

Said Hartnett: "$100 fine and home to Chicago."

Dean made a train reservation for St. Louis to sit his wife's moral and spiritual adviser in times of stress. She pulled him out of many a hole in his balmier days with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Then Dean and most of the Cubs went out to Joe Gleason's Golden Arrow tavern. Gleason, in his second year with the Cubs, was host at a chicken dinner. Manager Hartnett was conspicuous by his absence.

There O' Diz wavered between submission to Hartnett's orders and rebellion.

"I'm going to do anything Gabby wants me to do."

A few bites later:

Dean Pans Gabby
 "If they make that phony fine stick I'm going on an exhibition tour. Hell, I can make more than the $10,000 they're paying me in three weeks transforming. That's the trouble with ball clubs and managers—they won't pay you anything."

"Do you think the fans come out to see Gabby stand in the coaches' box and wave his arms. Hell no, they come to see me pitch."

"We've got the best club I've ever worked with. I can win 20 games."

"Why we oughta win the pennant. But we can't with Hartnett as manager. Say, I'll tell you right now—he won't last out the season as manager. He don't know how to run a club xxx."

Dizzy glanced at a clock, saw it was nearly train time, rushed to a phone and cancelled his reservation.

Hartnett, informed Dean still was hereabouts, said he planned no further action against the pitcher. Dean's supposed to be in Chicago next on the bench this afternoon—"So what's it to you?"

Elaborate Sports Program To Feature Amarillo Open House
 Sportsmen of the Tri-State area will have their own program of contests and entertaining events, when a golf tournament, trap and skeet shoots, a marathon between a footcrazer and a horseback rider, and an exhibition baseball game will be staged, as part of the Amarillo Industrial Open House, April 15, 16, and 17.

Biggest event, in point of numbers to participate, and first on the program is the first annual I. O. H. businessmen's open golf tournament, to be held on the recently-completed Ross Rogers bent-grass 18-hole course.

A handsome trophy will be given to the player turning in the lowest score. In addition, equipment prizes will be awarded to those persons with the greatest number of birdies, of three's, four's, five's, six's, seven's, and eight's. Consolation prizes will be given to players turning in final scores closest to the two "unknows."

The marathon race originating in Guynon, Okla., and terminating in Amarillo, will be completed the same afternoon. Both of these events will take place Monday, April 15.

On Tuesday, Tom Templeton, Remington Arms expert, will stage his skeet and trap shoot, at the practice range of the Amarillo Gun club, west of Amarillo on highway 66, slightly south of the new veterans' hospital. All residents will be permitted to handle trade area will be allowed to compete for the two beautiful trophies. The two rounds of competition will include 50 standard skeet targets, and 50 standard trap targets. The demonstration today at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

On Wednesday, the sporting fans will amble out to the local ball orchard, where the Amarillo Gold Sox will stage an early-season exhibition game with the visiting St. Joseph, Mo., nine. Here they will get their first glimpse of the Helium City's 1940 entry in the world West Texas-New Mexico race.

Mexicans Planning Anti-U. S. Protest
 MEXICO CITY, April 11 (AP)—Hundreds of thousands of Mexicans are scheduled to demonstrate today against the United States' formal request for arbitration of the two-year-old petroleum controversy and in support of President Cardenas' seizure of the $400,000,000 foreign oil industry.

Sponsored by pro-government organizations, the manifestations will take place not only in Mexico City but in every city and town of any consequence in the republic.

Government offices, stores, factories, mines and shops will be closed. The "committee for the defense of national integrity and for the struggle against imperialism" organized the demonstrations to convince the United States and Latin America that Mexico was prepared to "defend her sovereignty."

SERIAL STORY

K. O. CAVALIER BY JERRY BRONDFIELD

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY: The "Belle" runs into a storm. When Val discovers the mate's order to stay below, Eddie tries to stop her. She slips him, dashes up on deck.

CHAPTER XIII

FOOT by foot Val moved along the boat deck. A driving rain slanted into her face and almost blinded her. She put her head into the wind and discovered she could make better progress.

The wind tore at her oilskins. She couldn't see three paces in front of her. She grabbed a life-line and hung on for five minutes while she caught her breath.

A brilliant fork of lightning blazed over the sky and showed her where the companionway was that led to the bridge. She released her grip on the rope and splashed her way through decks covered with water.

An oath escaped from Steve Hansen's lips when she closed the door behind her and stood there dripping, panting, but with a smile of conquest lighting her face.

"What in Jehoshaphat are you doing up here, and how in the great horn spoon did you ever get here?" Hansen boomed.

"Get a load of that, Charlie," Hansen roared to his helmsman. "If she ain't got guts I don't know who has."

Val grinned. "Never thought I'd make it," she admitted. "We've got as much water on deck as there is in the whole ocean."

She rubbed her hands and peered through the glass. "Thought I'd come up here where there was something doing. This is the first time I've ever been in a storm at sea, y'know, Stevie."

"Well, don't be thinkin' it's any lark," he bristled. "I haven't seen a wind like this in years. You shouldn't have come up here, Val."

"Why not?" He exploded. "It's no place for a gal, that's why. More'n likely you'll have to stay here till morning. I ain't going to let you make your way back down there alone."

"Quit fussing, Steve. I can take care of myself." She winked at the helmsman and Hansen muttered something beneath his breath.

HANSEN'S mouth was a tight, grim line as he stared ahead into the gray sheet of driving rain. The seas were mountainous. He didn't like the progress they were making at half speed.

Hansen plugged the speaking tube to the engine room. "Three-quarter speed ahead," he called down. There was no response. The tube was dead.

"Damn it!" Hansen peered out into the storm again. "Guess I spoke too soon, Val. You're going to have to go below. Tube's dead. Tell Chambers we want three-quarter speed. And have him get that tube working again in a jiffy."

"Aye, aye, Cap'n." She fastened her oilskins tighter around her neck. "Be back in short order."

"Take it easy and stay away from the rail," he warned. She slipped into the teeth of the wind again and started the treacherous trip down. It took her a good 10 minutes.

She could feel the increased throbbing of the ship's engines as she started back for the bridge. But when a sudden thought struck her she turned back and entered the galley. Wong was just finishing cleaning up.

He watched her put up a pot of coffee. "For Claptain Hansen?" he guessed. She nodded. A few minutes later she stuffed a couple of paper cups under her oilskins and started off again.

EDDIE saw her go up the companionway with the pot. Dangerous business lugging that pot along deck, but let her break her neck if she wanted to, he figured. Nevertheless, he followed her.

Eddie poked his head out into the storm and watched Val's progress as she elithered along the deck. The Northern Belle lurched into a particularly deep trough and a huge wave broke over her bow and hissed down on the girl.

Val froze against a ventilator, clutching the coffee pot in one hand and the life-line in the other. Val wished then that she hadn't bothered with that pot of coffee. It was getting more unwieldy every second and there was a good chance of scalding herself if she had an accident.

She had almost reached the companionway going above when it happened. No one knew where the other ship came from but suddenly it was there, looming up in front of them like something that was dropped from the murky sky itself.

"Hard aport!" Steve Hansen yelled to the helmsman. "Lively!" he screamed, and then turned to bellow down the tube.

"Full speed ahead. Give it everything you have!" Hansen yanked the siren cord and let out a long blast of his whistle. He swung his searchlight full upon the other vessel. He knew the other pilot had seen the Northern Belle but he feared it was too late.

"More speed!" he bawled down the tube, and thanked his stars it no longer was dead.

THE sudden, sharp maneuver had caught Val Douglas by surprise. She had just loosened her grip from the life-line for a second when the ship started to swing about.

Val's foot hit a puddle of water just when the vessel lurched under the strain of hard aport. She went down; a scream muffled in her throat. She slid for 20 feet as the nose of the Northern Belle dipped deep into the sea.

She groped blindly for support and then everything went black as her head slammed against a stanchion.

It had happened so fast Eddie Cavalier found himself almost helpless to move. As it was he had to grab for support himself. And then the other ship was hard on them. The Northern Belle's stern swung wide but not wide enough. There was a dull, glancing shock and then the sirens of both ships were screeching above the thunder and the rain.

Eddie could hear Captain Hansen's voice bawling out over the gale and the startled, muffled cries which came from the other ship out there in the murk.

A gigantic wave broke over the bow and Eddie, horrified, as he raced forward, saw it crashing down upon the girl.

He slipped once, fell to the deck himself, almost blinded by the torrent of rain beating into his face.

The mountain of green-black water roared upon Val, lifted her up and carried her toward the other side of the ship.

The next wave that broke over the rail would sweep her overboard. Even as the engines of the ship went into reverse to bring the vessel to a stop, the next wall of water crashed against her sides, rose over the bow and slithered down on Val.

In five steps Eddie was there but the rolling rush of water knocked him flat. When he struggled to his knees Val was gone. (To Be Continued)

Norway, Denmark May Transfer Ships To U. S. Registry

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—A large portion of the huge Norwegian and Danish merchant fleets may be transferred to American registry to escape being taken over by Germany or Great Britain.

Discussions already have started, it was learned today, between Danish shipping interests and American officials. One Danish company, with a branch office in New York, is ready to place its whole fleet of 60 modern ships under American registry.

Norway and Denmark are among the largest merchant marine nations. Norway ranks fourth with a tonnage of 4,800,000. Denmark, has a merchant marine of about 2,000,000 tons.

Vessels of the two countries have been ordered to seek safety in neutral harbors for the time being. Nothing exists in the American ship registry act to prevent their transfer of registry. But when the vessels fly the American flag they automatically will be barred from the European combat area proclaimed by President Roosevelt.

Officials here generally felt no opposition to the proposed transfer. Some believed that by placing more vessels in the American carrying trade, the action would ease the demands of war on American ships.

U. S. Trade Barriers Put Up After World War Assailed

Order and world peace can be secured only through unhampered international trade, thereby eliminating nations cries for self-sufficiency, Dr. Albert D. Albert told his audience at the high school auditorium last night in the concluding lecture of the Rotary-sponsored Institute of International Understanding.

Dr. Albert flayed U. S. statesmen for their policy of putting up trade barriers after the World War, claiming the policy had cost America more than the war.

He emphasized the need of the better manufacture and of the best materials to produce munitions, making an ironical comparison of the quality of manufacture sufficient for civilian purposes and that needed for military.

"All the nations are in the race to produce products for national defense," Dr. Albert said. "Self-sufficiency is the aim of each."

He pointed out the fallacy of self-sufficiency, claiming that if Hitler obtained his wish for the re-possession of all of Germany's "lost colonies," the Germans would have only three of the raw materials they need. As early as 1910, the speaker said, nations became fearful they could not obtain raw materials. Then then started the game of "grab," the speaker said, outlining exploration of Africa and the United States gaining possession of the Philippines.

France Has Best Army

Most of the raw materials are found in the north temperate zone. The United States has more of these than any other nation, but still lacks manila, jute, opium, optical glass,

First Woman to Fly Tries It Again After 22 Years

"The comfort of modern airplanes is simply marvelous," exclaimed Mrs. Edith Ogilvy Druce, after recently making her second flight. She should be able to judge between new and old planes. For she is the first woman ever to fly, having gone aloft with Wilbur Wright at Le Mans, France, in 1908. They are pictured at right, precariously perched on the bamboo and piano wire wing of the Wright plane. At left, above, a stewardess on a modern, 21-passenger plane discusses aviation with Mrs. Druce as they soar over Manhattan.

Pampa Rotarians To Vote For Cal Farley

Delegates Charles Burton and Walter Daugherty of the Pampa Rotary club will go to the district convention in Sweetwater on April 28 with instructions to cast their votes for Cal Farley of Amarillo for district governor. The delegates were instructed at yesterday's meeting in the Methodist church.

Three talks of great interest to members were presented. Dr. Allen B. Albert of Chicago, past president of Rotary International, spoke of his visits to foreign clubs and the manner in which they conduct their meetings.

G. C. Heard gave a classification talk on the dairy business.

Ernest Cobe spoke to young Rotarians, in point of service, explaining Rotary and what he has gotten out of membership in the club.

F. O. Gunley was received as a new member at the meeting.

Visiting Rotarians include E. Kancher of Amarillo, Carroll Smyers of Memphis and Bill Taylor of Vernon. Visitors were Clayton McCutcheon and J. L. Myers of Pampa.

FDR Will Have To Serve Again Declares Norris

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—New Dealers in Congress contended today that President Roosevelt's top-heavy lead in Midwestern primaries makes it virtually impossible for him to refuse a third term nomination.

Senators Norris (Ind-Neb), a third term advocate, told reporters: "The primaries in Wisconsin, Illinois and Nebraska indicate two things—that there is quite a strong movement toward the republican party, and, more conclusively, that Roosevelt is stronger than his party."

Norris said that the primary results, coupled with the spread of the European war, "will drive all elements of the democratic party who want to elect a president to Roosevelt's support."

"The President must accept whether he likes it or not," he added. "He can't turn it down. He will have to serve again no matter how hard it is for him. He is a soldier in a war, and he must be forward to his duty."

But Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) reiterated his previously-expressed belief that Mr. Roosevelt would not run.

"Any president can renominate himself," Wheeler said. "But the President is too politically-wise to let the office holders and his many admirers jockey him into a position where he would have everything to lose and nothing to gain from the standpoint of his place in history or his own personal happiness."

America has 70 per cent of the world's gold. France, is one of the three European nations with a good supply that is sufficient for its own needs, France also has a valuable resource in iron ore. The French army is the best in the world, better trained, with better officers than

Japan Needs U. S. Trade

Japan needs trade with America, the lecturer declared. From the United States, Japan buys trucks, oil, raw cotton, airplanes, iron and steel scrap, and copper, and sells to the United States most of this nation's supply of silk, and cotton prints.

Raw materials of the world in order of their importance, were listed by Dr. Albert as coal, iron, copper, petroleum, cotton, silk, wool, rubber, lead, zinc, tin, aluminum, vegetable oils, sulphur, timber, phosphates, bauxite, manganese, and food.

Quips of the speaker on the habit of women painting their fingernails—a practice traced to barbaric African tribes—and the amount of money spent in beauty shops while money for health, education, charity, and church not available, draws appreciative laughter from the crowd of 300 persons attending the lecture.

House Takes Up Bugaboo Measure

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—The house gingerly took up today a decennial bugaboo—a bill providing for reapportionment of its members on the basis of the new census.

The measure, by Rep. Warren (D-N. C.), would be a political death sentence for some representatives from states which lose in population and which therefore would be allotted fewer members.

Those seats would go to states which gain in population, so that the house membership would continue at 435.

One argument of proponents for bringing up the legislation now is that it will be easier to pass before the census returns show which states will lose.

The senate was considering a bill to reimburse cotton cooperative associations for losses incurred when the Hoover farm board attempted to support the cotton market in 1929-30.

Most congressmen regarded the legislative program as well on its way toward completion, although there appeared to be doubt whether controversial amendments to the Wagner act could be debated in time for an early June adjournment.

Yesterday's Newspaper Boys Are Today's Leaders

TRUE or FALSE? An Idle Mind Is The Devil's Workshop . . .

If that age-old adage is true, then the American newspaper boy admittedly has little or no spare time for wayward thoughts.

DIVIDING HIS TIME among school work, church, home duties and route work, he is most likely to devote his spare time to healthful recreation, the kind in which any normal boy is expected to indulge. The healthful outdoor exercise a newspaper route affords has built up many an underdeveloped boy. Here regularity plays an important part again, for exercise is most beneficial when taken regularly.

THE MONEY newspaper boys earn might well be of secondary consideration in comparison with the splendid mental and physical advantages, and perhaps it is . . . but any parents will testify that their boy's earnings come in mighty handy for buying clothes, school supplies and other necessities, and many boys have savings accounts. Hundreds enter colleges every year who otherwise would be unable to further their education.

AS YOU read your newspaper today, be reminded that in keeping with its responsibility to maintain the reputation of America's most effective public servant, it is allied with other newspapers in promoting numerous praiseworthy endeavors, one of which is the act of contributing more than any other single factor toward the practical business training of the country's future leaders.
