Pampans Observing Labor Day

Most businesses were closed today as Pampa residents joined others across the nation in observing Labor Day.

The U.S. Post Office is closed except to box patrons, with no normal mail delivery being made until Tuesday.

Most federal, state, county and city government offices and operations were closed, with the exception of the police and fire departments, Highway Patrol units and the sheriff's office.

Some gasoline stations, a few businesses and most food stores remained open, but most employees were allowed to mark the day with rest and relaxation or trips to visit family and friends.

The Pampa News business and editorial offices are closed this afternoon but will join other businesses in returning to regular hours Tuesday.

Students are noting the first holiday of the school year, but will have to return to the books tomorrow.

Labor Day Winds Up Long Holiday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Labor Day winds up the summer's last long holiday weekend today with activities ranging from a rock festival to a railroad buffs convention and political gatherings foreshadowing the fall campaign.

For most Americans the holiday meant a chance to visit with family, go to the beach, pack a picnic or simply relax at home. For millions of youngsters it also means that schools will soon be in session.

A relatively quiet day was planned by President Nixon at the Western White House in San Clemente, Calif., with a taped radio speech and a reception for the traveling press corps.

Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern's schedule included an appearance at the Southern Governors' Conference at Hilton Head, S.C., and a speech at a mass picnic in Chipewa Lake, Ohio.

The picnic is sponsored by the 45,000-member Community Action Program of the Cleveland United Auto Workers and UAW President Leonard Woodcock was to introduce McGovern.

Travelers crowded the nation's highways and the National Safety Council predicted 580 to 680 persons would die in traffic accidents during the weekend. Last year the toll was more than 800 over the holiday.

Thousands of rock music fans were attending a festival on Bull Island in the Wabash River between Illinois and Indiana and there were crowds in Indianapolis for the national championship drag races.

Fifty state beauty queens aspiring to the Miss America crown will begin the week-long pageant in Atlantic City, N.J., today with registration and some arduous rehearsals for their big show Saturday.

U.S. Sens. Clifford Case and Harrison Williams of New Jersey were among those scheduled to participate in ceremonies today at McGuire's gravesite in Pennsauken, N.J.

Young Vet Who Lost Both Hands In Vietnam Takes Job Pumping Gas

EUREKA, Calif. (AP) — A 25-year-old veteran who lost both hands and part of his vision in Vietnam says he's "too young to retire," so he's taken a job pumping gas.

For the past three months John Eliason, a former Army infantry medic, has held down a part-time job at a local service station, and his employer says he's "a real good worker."

"He's pumped gas, changed tires, checked oil — done almost everything," said station manager Richard Nelson.

Eliason was 19 when he was drafted and sent to Vietnam. Two years later on a bunker near Dak To, a grenade explosion blew off both his arms below the elbow and lodged three pieces of shrapnel in his

Rock Festival Draws 270,000 Young People

BULL ISLAND, Ill. (AP) — Promoters of a rock music festival on this peninsula in the Wabash River wrestled with problems caused by a crowd five times larger than they had expected today and extended the three-day bash into tonight.

Indiana State Police estimated the crowd at 275,000. A spokesman for promoters said only 50,000 had been anticipated.

The spokesman said 25,000 advance tickets were sold at $20 each and about 5,000 tickets were sold at the gate for $25 each. The rest of the crowd was listed as gatecrashers, many of them swimming to the island.

Food was trucked in and extra toilet facilities were under construction as many of the young fans spread into surrounding towns in search of food and a place to sleep.

Promoters Robert Alexander and Andrew Duncan said the food situation "is getting better," but held open the possibility of dropping food from helicopters.

Two of the headline groups scheduled to play, Joe Cocker and the Black Sabbath, looked at the crowd, demanded more money and refused to play.

The site is a 900-acre former farm pasture that was surrounded by water when the river's course shifted. It is located in Illinois, but the only access is a Posey County, Ind., road.

The festival originally was to end about 6 p.m. EST, today, but the promoters promised Sunday night to continue at least two hours later "because more groups came and people wanted to play."

Jim Reis, owner of a catering service from nearby Evansville, Ind., said one of his eight vans here was wrecked by hungry crowds Sunday morning.

Meanwhile, the massive congregation was a financial boon to surrounding businessmen. A restaurant in neighboring Poseville, Ind., stayed open all night to sell food, and Poseyville grocer J.L. Hirsch reported business up 25 per cent Sunday, when he's normally closed.

Illinois State Police said the biggest problem was cars parked bumper-to-bumper along the only access road to the island and massive traffic congestion on Interstate 64 and U.S. 460.

The spokesman said 25,000 advance tickets were sold at $20 each and about 5,000 tickets were sold at the gate for $25 each. The rest of the crowd was listed as gatecrashers, many of them swimming to the island.

Sen. McGovern Appeals To Labor For Support

McGovern had been buoyed by the cheers and well-wishes of a crowd of about 2,000—by newsmen's estimates—that greeted him on his arrival at the Akron-Canton airport early today. "It's fantastic. And at 1:30 in the morning," McGovern said.

BENEFIT MATCH—Horace Henley, left, and Irving Hungerford ponder the next move in a "running" chess match for the benefit of Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, during Pampa's telethon, being shown over Cable TV, channel 9. Pampa's telethon, which began at 10:30 p.m. Sunday, will end at 5:30 p.m. today and features performances by local young people. In the chess match, a $5 pledge to MDA allows a person to play a game, with the winner playing successive challengers, until defeated. At the close of the telethon, the grand champion will be announced. Money donated through the telethon, being sponsored by the greater Plains MDA chapter, will go toward research and services to local patients. New Feedlot Construction Gets Permits From State Authorities

By LARRY HOLLIS
The proposed Cockrell Cattle Co. feedlot to be built 14 miles east of Pampa has received permits from the Texas Water Quality Control Board and the Texas Air Control Board for meeting the standards required for operation.

Opposition to the new feed yards from some residents in the area states that the new industry would add to the pollution in the area.

But the standards under which Cockrell will be constructing the feedlot are more strict than those that existed when two other feedlots in the area—Moody Farms and Heaton Cattle Co.—were built.

And all the agencies involved in permitting the construction seem satisfied as to the conditions which will meet the existing regulations.

A group of 12 people on three sides of the feedlot have voiced opposition to its construction since last May. But other people in the area seem to welcome the new agri-business being built by Buddy Cockrell.

Cockrell said several farmers and ranchers in the area whom he had contacted felt the new feedlots would increase the value of their land and would help to attract additional agri-businesses to the area.

Those objecting to the feedlot stated they felt they would be driven from their homes because of the resulting dust, noise, odors and flies.

All of the group are currently living in the same general area of Moody Farms and Heaton Cattle Co., both of which have been operating for several years.

Cockrell said some of the same people who object to the new feedlot are selling feed to the existing feedlots and/or have kept cattle for the feedlots. A couple have even leased land to Heaton Cattle Co., he said.

One of the opposition group sent a letter to the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) in Washington, D.C., and received a letter which said, in part:

"It would appear that EPA does not believe the feedlot (Cockrell Cattle Co.) is in violation of any of their regulations at this time as air quality standards have not been established for odors by either the Texas Air Control Board or EPA."

It was signed by Elwood Hillis. In a letter to Hillis from J. Paul Comola, assistant regulations administrator for Congressional and Intergovernmental Relations, a statement says:

"The Texas Water Quality Board has issued a waste control order, which is equivalent to a permit, for this operation. The granting of such a permit indicates that normal pollution control requirements for the facility are considered to be adequate if properly operated."

Cockrell said the requirements for obtaining approval from the water and air control boards "are pretty strict."

Answering some of the objections that have been raised, Cockrell said steps have been taken to alleviate many of the problems encountered in the feedlot operation.

A road going to the feedlot was built so as not to go by anyone's house (except his own) to decrease the dust and noise of the trucks. Cockrell's home is located only a few hundred yards from the new feedlot.

A wafer-holding pond of over 300 acres will be built in an area where it will not pollute the underground water. Cockrell said.

As to objections about the wind spreading odor, Cockrell said the wind rarely comes from the east except during thunderstorms, and then only for a couple of hours. Most of the opposition group live west and north of the proposed feedlot.

And some special provisions were attached to Permit No. C-233 issued by the TACB.

"All dead animals must be disposed of properly within one day after death."

"If runoff water held in the holding pond becomes a source of obnoxious odors, the water must be treated chemically or biologically treated or aerated such that no odor may be detected from the holding ponds."

The only restriction on the exercise of these summary powers is that each case must be investigated, and accused persons have the right to make pleas in their own behalf.

For lesser charges against military men and civil servants, regular court procedures remain in effect.

Thieu already has ordered the arrest of some military field commanders for dereliction in combat situations, particularly the abandonment of positions without authority. But the theft and resale of military fuel, weapons and other items has continued to be a major form of corruption within the armed forces.

Communists Overrun Border Ranger Camp

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese forces overrun a ranger camp in the Central Highlands today, and about 150 of the defenders were reported missing.

The border camp was defended by an estimated 200 men, most of them Montagnard tribesmen trained by the U.S. Green Berets who once ran the camp. Field reports said 54 of the rangers had been accounted for, and it was believed a number of the others had escaped and would turn up at other government posts later.

The Plei Djerung camp had been surrounded and under artillery siege since Saturday. Its only 105mm howitzers were damaged in the initial attacks, and it could not return the ar-

All drain lines from watering troughs and drainage ditches around pens must be kept open to keep the pens dry.

Manure must be removed from pens at regular intervals; there must be no stock-piling of manure outside pen area.

Dust control equipment must be available and used as necessary. Pens must be cleaned under favorable conditions (wind direction and low relative humidity).

After the construction of the feedlot is accomplished, odor must not be a nuisance.

And those conditions must be maintained for continuing approval from the regulatory agencies.

The Cockrell feedlot will be a 20,000-head operation, with 50,000 fat cattle expected per year. With the feedlot operation itself and other related agri-business from the operation, there should be over $70 million per year added to the local economy.

McGovern broke his party's long-standing tradition of opening the campaign in Detroit's Cadillac Square and opted instead for appearances at a Labor Day parade and rally in Barborton, Ohio and a United Auto Workers picnic in Chipewa Lake, Ohio. Later in the day he planned to fly to the West Coast for an AFL-CIO picnic near Oakland, Calif., and an overnight stay in Seattle.

McGovern said in remarks for his Labor Day audiences he was celebrating the holiday of those "who earn their living the hard way—with sweat and strength, with the skill of their hands and the pride of honest labor."

But he is also determined, McGovern said, "to end... the long and involuntary holiday of five million workers who have been unemployed under Richard Nixon."

Southern governors have told Sen. George McGovern he faces a steep uphill fight to carry the South against President Nixon.

The Democratic presidential candidate met Sunday night for almost three hours — an hour longer than he had planned — with 15 of the governors at a private dinner held on the eve of the opening session of the Southern Governors' Conference.

McGovern said afterwards he did not seek endorsements and received none.

But North-Carolina Gov. Bob Scott, a vocal critic of McGovern at the Democratic National Convention, announced later that he would serve as chairman of McGovern's North Carolina campaign.

South Carolina Gov. John West, previously a fence-sitter, said he would vote for the ticket. But, he added, "My recommendation is that each voter study the issues and the candidates and make his decision according to the dictates of his own conscience."

West joined a growing list of Southern governors who said they could do no more for McGovern than cast a Democratic ballot. Making similar statements after the meeting were Govs. Warren Hearnes of Missouri, Jimmy Carter of Georgia, and Dale Bumpers of Arkansas.

Some of the Democratic governors interviewed after the meeting — Bill Waller of Mississippi for one — said they had not yet made up their minds whether they could even vote for McGovern.

Christian Urges Funds For Screwworm Fight

AUSTIN—Following a meeting of state agriculture leaders at San Antonio which he attended, Rep. Tom Christian of Claude made the following statement regarding the screwworm menace.

"Losses will not be limited to cattle. We will suffer a great loss in wildlife due to screwworms if this is not brought under control."

"This past year, over 51,000 cases of screwworms were reported in 224 Texas counties. The seriousness of the situation is obvious."

"Christian went on to say that the primary blame for the influx of screwworms into Texas was pinned on public apathy coupled with ideal weather conditions this past winter. At the meeting it was pointed out that when the screwworm population began to rise, those affected did not realize the seriousness and failed to contact their congressmen.

"Therefore, congress could not act when the situation did get out of control and forced the government to spend a half-million dollars in emergency funds."

"The United States and Mexico are currently working together in an attempt to eradicate the menace by breeding sterile flies. This work is being carried out on three ships near Salinas Cruise off the Texas coast."

"This is a five year program designed to provide a buffer zone between the two nations giving the screwworms less coverage area above the border. An additional $2.8 million is needed to continue this operation."

Christian said none of the sterile flies will be released in the Panhandle area because it is in the freeze kill area.

"Over the past 10 years, this eradication program has saved the American farmer and rancher over $800-million in livestock losses alone," the legislator noted. "The $2.9-million needed to maintain the program is a bargain considering the additional revenue when losses due to screwworms are eliminated."

Raza Unida Convention Refuses To Endorse National Candidates

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—Delegates to the Mexican-American Raza Unida convention Saturday practically divorced the organization from the Democratic and Republican parties, refusing to endorse either one in the November presidential elections.

Jose Angel Gutierrez, party founder of Crystal City, Tex., and Colorado leader Rodolfo "Corky" Gonzalez made strong appeals to the delegates for Mexican-American unity and for an all-out effort to strengthen the party at state levels throughout the nation.

"It is not a question of what kind of party we have coming into this national convention but of what kind of party we have leaving this convention. It must be a united, strong and independent party because we cannot afford the expense of petty bickering," said Gutierrez.

Gonzales also appealed for national unity, criticizing both the Democratic and the Republican party as a two-headed monster feeding from the same trough.

The statements by the two national leaders paritically eliminated any chance of the party's endorsement of either national candidate in the upcoming election.

The national platform was to be voted on Sunday.

Delegates from different states submitted their state platform proposals which were in general agreement on basic issues such as education, housing, job opportunities and assistance to migrant workers.

In the field of education, most seemed to agree with the Colorado platform, which rejected busing of school children as the proper tool to improve the education of Mexican-American children and, instead, called for larger Mexican-American participation on school boards and at policymaking levels.

Earlier Saturday, Reyes Lopez Tijerina, who several years ago led a land grant reclamation movement in New Mexico urged Mexican-Americans to maintain unity and "temper the revolutionary spirit."

Two Die, 6 Missing As Flood Hits N.M. Village

HILLSBORO, N.M. (AP)—Two men, one in his home and the other on his way home after a dance, died Sunday when a flash flood sent a destructive wall of water through this small village.

Six persons still were missing and the search resumed early today. Two other persons were injured when a house collapsed.

Guadalupe Terrazas, in his late 60s, died in his adobe home when the water tore out a wall and the roof fell in, burying him under debris. He lived alone in the house, on main street, near Percha Creek, which became a wild river fed by flood waters between midnight and 1 a.m. Sunday. The creek runs through the middle of town, near and parallel to the main street.

Ed Newton, 59, a fiddler from nearby Truth or Consequences, had been in Hillsboro, a community of about 300, to play for a Saturday night dance.

"We were just getting ready to go home," his wife, Geneva Newton, said. "He was across the street and had just started up the car, to go to the corner, turn around and get me. It was just barely sprinkling and then it came just in a flash."

"The cars in front of him and behind him were swept away. There were other cars on the opposite side of the street swept away, but I didn't see them. It was just pretty dark."

She watched her husband and car disappear in the water and darkness.

The car was found later in the day, about two miles east of Hillsboro, upside down in water and filled with sand. Newton's body was found six miles east of the village, along the path of the creek, by a National Guard helicopter crew.

Florida Grandmother Helps Disarm Gunman

DESTIN, Fla. (AP)—A 59-year-old grandmother says she helped disarm a gunman who walked into a crowded restaurant after allegedly shooting and wounding the owner.

"I grabbed the rifle and held it up in the air," Lil Shirah said Sunday. "He tried to take it out of my hands but I had a death grip on it."

An Okaloosa County Sheriff Department spokesman later identified the gunman as Albert E. Williams, 42, of Destin. The spokesman said Williams was charged with assault with intent to commit murder in connection with the shooting of businessman Bernarr Kelly Saturday night.

Kelly, 37, who owns several charter fishing boats, a construction firm and The Wharf restaurant in this Gulf Coast resort town, was listed in critical condition Sunday night in a Pensacola hospital. Police said he was shot in the head in a dispute over the firing of a first mate on one of his fishing boats.

Mrs. Shirah, assistant manager of the restaurant, said she was standing in the middle of the floor looking for tables to seat a long line of patrons when the gunman walked in.

The grandmother of three said she asked if she could help him, and he replied he was "looking for Jack."

Then the man pointed the rifle down a row of occupied tables, she said.

Mrs. Shirah said she charged the gunman and grabbed the rifle.

She said she held onto the gun until Jimmy Trammel, a boat worker, rushed through the door and disarmed the man.

Williams' son, Donny, 18, was fired several hours before the incident from the job he held as first mate aboard one of Kelly's fishing boats.

Boys Hunting Birds in Park

Three boys, 11, 14, and 15 were taken into custody about 5 p.m. Saturday in Aspen Park for firing a B-B gun in the city limits.

An officer on patrol observed the boys shaking a bird house in the park, evidently trying to flush a target.

The officer said that, as he approached the trio, the boy with the gun dropped it and ran.

All were taken to the police station where they were released to the custody of their parents.

Pampan Flees After Arrest

Pampa police are seeking a 21-year-old Pampan man wanted on a charge of providing beverage alcohol to minors.

Officers stopped a car early Sunday morning in which the man and three youths were riding. There was beer in the vehicle and according to the police report, all had been drinking.

They were ordered to the police station and police said the hunted man jumped from the car a few blocks down the street and fled.

Motor Vehicle Deaths In Texas Pass 20 Mark

Violent deaths in Texas continued to mount as the three-day Labor Day weekend moved into its final 24 hours today.

The toll resulted from all types of violence as Texans jammed highways, lakes, streams and parks.

Motor vehicle deaths led the carnage, with the reaching at least 20 by midnight Sunday, but occasional shootings and stabbings added to the count.

Three were shot to death, and a stabbing and a beating took one life each, leaving the death count at 25.

The Associated Press began the grim watch at 6 p.m. Friday and planned to continue until midnight tonight.

Among the deaths recently reported:

Cynthia Ann Jones, 6, of Sweetwater was killed Sunday when she was struck by a car driven by a Sweetwater resident. The accident occurred west of Sweetwater in front of the child's home.

Leona Sneed Judge, 53, of Houston was killed Sunday when two cars collided less than a mile north of Navasota in Grimes County. The accident occurred on Texas 6 about midnight.

Francisco Gonzalez, 68, of El Paso was killed by a hit-and-run driver whose car struck him on an El Paso street Saturday night.

Three persons were killed late Saturday night when two cars collided head-on on U.S. 59, about three miles east of Wharton. The dead included Lester Sanders Jr., 31, of Wharton, and two small girls, about 3 and 4 years old, and identified only as members of the Randle family.

Eugene Samuel Bishop, 50, of Vega was killed Sunday in a two-car head-on collision on Interstate 40. The accident occurred about 12 miles east of Glen Rio in Oldham County.

Ronnie Lee Burns, 18, of Mineral Wells was killed Saturday night when his motorcycle and an automobile collided about 6 miles northwest of Mineral Wells.

Pete Gonzales Jr., 28, of Houston was fatally injured Saturday when his car slammed into the rear of a truck. The accident occurred on a Houston street. Gonzalez died Sunday.

Second Drilling School Planned

LAFAYETTE—The special Well Planning, Log Analysis and Casing Design school being offered Mon-Fri., Sept. 18-22, by the department of Petroleum Engineering at the University of Southwestern Louisiana offers a comprehensive detailed coverage of all pertinent aspects of analysis, planning and design.

It is especially designed for drilling engineers who are actually involved in drilling operations.

This is the second in a series of three planned by the Department of Petroleum Engineering as a service to the oil industry. The first school, which was very well received, was held May 8-13. The third school is scheduled for Mon-Fri., Nov. 20-24.

The one-week course is designed to bring into one training program all the current knowledge and technology relative to well planning, log analysis and casing design in completion of oil and gas wells under all environmental conditions.

Enrollment in the course is by pre-registration only. Principal lecturers for the school will be furnished by Drilling Well Control, Inc., a service organization that has planned, drilled and killed hundreds of wells under all environmental conditions all over the world. All design problems used in the school are taken from their files to provide actual real well planning examples of all types.

Cost of the school is $250 each and enrollment will be limited to 20 persons to assure individual attention. To register or to receive further information write to: Well Planning, Log Analysis & Casing Design, P. O. Box 4690 USL, Lafayette, La. 70501. Classes will be held in room 227, Madison Hall (Engineering Building) on the USL campus.

K-M Owned Firm Buys Supply Co.

OKLAHOMA CITY—Cato Oil and Grease Co., Oklahoma City, has purchased all outstanding stock of Capitol Supply Company, Atlanta, Ga. it was jointly announced today by Ralph Jenks, president of Cato, and F. J. Boardman, president of Capitol.

The purchase price was not disclosed.

Cato Oil and Grease Co., a wholly owned subsidiary of Kerr-McGee Corporation, Oklahoma City, manufactures and packages lubricating oils, greases and petroleum specialty products.

Capitol Supply Company is a wholesale distributor of automotive supplies, motor oils and greases, serving over 4,000 accounts within a 300-mile radius of Atlanta. The company's sales during 1971 amounted to approximately $4,000,000.

Incorporated in October, 1940, Capitol Supply's general offices, principal warehouse and canning facilities are located in a prime industrial area of Atlanta. The company owns branch warehouses in Augusta and Macon, Georgia and leases additional branch warehouses in Atlanta and Albany, Georgia.

The company has approximately 64 employees and services its accounts with a fleet of 27 delivery trucks.

The company will operate as a subsidiary of Cato Oil and Grease Co. Boardman will continue with Capitol Supply as chairman of the board and Howard D. Wixson, formerly vice president, marketing, of Cato, will be the new president and chief executive officer of Capitol Supply.

Man Wanted In Wyoming

Richard Kenneth Flippo, 22, was released Friday on a $2,500 fugitive bond set by Judge Ed Anderson after police received a warrant from the sheriff's department at Lander, Wyo.

Flippo refused to waive extradition. He is wanted in Wyoming to face charges of breaking into a bar, according to information provided Pampa police by Freestone County, Wyo. authorities.

Flippo was due in district court here Aug. 23, but failed to show up until Friday.

Fort Worth Reunion Of Trio Prompts Recollection Of Wartime Drama In Romania

Editor's Note: A Texas bomber pilot, a Romanian princess and a U.S. military commander were key figures in one of the largest air rescues of American fliers in World War II. A reunion of the trio in Fort Worth this past weekend prompted this recollection of the wartime drama by Star-Telegram writer Jim Marrs.

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — About this time 28 years ago, some 1,160 American fliers were in big trouble in Romania. That country, which had just spurned Hitler's Germany, was under attack by both sides. Vengeful Germans were bombing the city of Bucharest from one side, while the advancing Russian army was fighting its way into the suburbs on the other side. In the middle were the American fliers, survivors of the famous B24 bomber raids on the Ploesti oil fields. In a drama which reads like a movie script, a Texas officer and a Romanian princess plotted to free the fliers. This weekend the officer, Col. James A. Gunn of San Antonio, and Princess Catherine Caradja of Romania along with Gen. Nathan F. Twining, who ordered the rescue of the prisoners, are reunited at the Confederate Air Force air show at Southwest Airport. On Aug. 17, 1944, Gunn was in one of the lead B24s making a run on the Ploesti oil refineries when his plane was hit by flak and three engines were shot away.

After bailing out, he was captured by Romanian fighters and imprisoned. More than 1,000 American fliers were taken prisoner and held captive in the Romanian capital. Just three days after Gunn's capture, Romania quit her former ally and German bombs were added to those of Russia's. With German bombs falling and Russian troops in the city's outskirts, the situation in Bucharest became chaotic. The American prisoners were released from prison where they were being held. Gunn, who was the senior American officer, told the men to fan out into the city and seek refuge but stay in touch.

Then began a long and exasperating journey through Romanian confusion and red tape trying to find a way back to American air bases in Italy. Finally, the air minister of Romania agreed to fly Gunn out of the country. However, 30 minutes after the old Italian plane left the ground, the crew apparently decided they had no stomach for flying into allied lines and returned to Bucharest. Undaunted, Gunn continued to seek a way to get back to his base.

During this time, Princess Caradja visited the American prisoners and expressed concern that her country was on the verge of being overrun by the Russians.

With prophetic insight, she painted a gloomy picture of Russia's designs on Eastern Europe. She left the prisoners with a promise to help them as best she could. A few days later, Gunn was granted an audience with the Romanian secretary of state. He assured the official that if he were allowed to return to Italy, he would do his best to initiate bombing attacks on the German airfields from which the attacks were being launched and attempt to have the country occupied by British or American forces. So Gunn was introduced to Capt. Constantine Cantacuzino, a relative of Princess Caradja and Romania's top air ace, who had agreed to fly him to Italy. "If you will ride in the belly of a Messerschmitt, I will take you to Italy," the captain told Gunn.

Preparations were made. Because there were no usable maps of Italy, Gunn drew one in ink on a piece of cardboard. American flags were painted on the wings of the ME109 and the plane's radio equipment was removed to make a space for Gunn. A takeoff time for the morning of Aug. 23 was arranged, but due to the danger of informants, the pair took off the day before. Gunn made the long and hazardous journey across the Adriatic flying at 20,000 feet without an oxygen mask, lying flat in the fuselage which was bolted from the outside. He had no chance to get out if the plane got into trouble. Despite the hazards, the pair had an uneventful flight to the American airbase near Cerignola, Italy, where Capt. Cantacuzino, following Gunn's instructions, circled the field with his landing gear down and rocking the plane's wings slowly.

The ME109 was not fired on and Gunn said, "I felt a great sense of relief when I felt the aircraft rolling down my home runway." After recovering from dizziness caused by the lack of oxygen, Gunn briefed 15th Air Force headquarters on the situation in Romania.

On orders of 15th Air Force Commander Twining, planning was begun that night for fighter strikes against the German bombardment units near Bucharest and for the evacuation of the American prisoners.

The next day, fighters attacked the German air fields and four days later a flight of B17s landed at the Bucharest airport amid fighting on all sides between the Russians and remnants of the German army. More than 1,160 fliers, some on crutches and on stretchers were rounded up and sent to the airport to be loaded on the bombers and flown to safety.

One of the largest air rescues of the war, the rescue of the Romanian prisoners will give Gen. Twining, Col. Gunn and Princess Caradja plenty to talk about Sunday and Monday.

Boris Spassky Wants To Play Fischer Again

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — Boris Spassky wants to play Bobby Fischer again for the world chess championship and feels sure he can beat him.

The Russian denied a Reykjavik newspaper story that he is planning to defect to the West. "That's just journalism," Spassky said.

The tabloid Visir reported "very strong rumors" that the defeated Soviet champion would seek political asylum in a Western country rather than return home in disgrace.

Spassky dismissed the report with a laugh during an interview Saturday at the seaside suburban villa where he had remained secluded for much of the match with Fischer.

Spassky said he had felt "quite confident" of beating Fischer until the very last day of the 53-day match, when he adjourned his 21st game in a losing position.

Fischer, leading 11½-8½, needed only one point—one win or two draws—to end 26 years of Soviet monopoly of the title.

"I had a chance to win in that game," Spassky said. "But I made a mistake. Fischer found the right defense and I lost my interest in playing. I was quite confident that if he lost just one game he could not have fought back."

PARALLEL CAREERS
STEPHENVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The parallel careers of Bob Glasgow and Don Jones, young Stephenville law partners, reached a peak this year when both launched successful careers on their first venture into politics.

At 29, Jones is the youngest man ever elected mayor of Stephenville, and at 30 Glasgow is the youngest district attorney of the 29th Judicial District since Fred C. Chandler was elected in 1929 at 29.

Both Jones and Glasgow, who are cousins, graduated from Stephenville High School, and received bachelor's degrees from Tarleton State College. While attending Tarleton, Glasgow and Jones served as student body president their respective senior years, and both graduated from the University of Texas School of Law with the Doctor of Jurisprudence degree.

Following graduation, Glasgow was appointed administrative assistant to Gov. Preston Smith and Jones became an assistant attorney general.

Jones is married to his college sweetheart, the former Nicki McAden, and Glasgow married his college sweetheart, the former Deanna Carr. Both now have two children.

Worry Clinic

By George W. Crane
Ph. D., M.D.

Rosalie's bizarre charge is merely a "red herring" bit of strategy. And it illustrates the "Ad Hominem" fallacy. Women are not as logical as men so when their vanity is hurt, they strike out with irrelevant arguments. So be sure to order the booklet below:

CASE U-579: Rosalie S., aged 39, is an angry housewife.

"Dear Editor," she wrote to the Indianapolis STAR, "do we have to have Dr. Crane around to pollute young minds?"

"Please remove him or balance him with enlightened, intelligent commentary!"

CHECERCH LA FEMME

The French police have long employed the motto "Checcher la Femme."

Translated literally that says "Seek the woman," which means "Find the motive."

Do you readers think I have polluted the minds of youth by showing them the folly of such bad habits as smoking, drinking and use of drugs?

Or is my constant veto of "trial marriage" and pre-marital promiscuity a form of pollution of young minds?

Obviously, Rosalie's criticism thus is not based on logic!

So what do you readers think really is the underlying motive for her attack?

Could it be the same as that which made two Columbus, Ohio, housewives propagandize their local editor to cancel this "Worry Clinic."

For I had addressed an afternoon "Marriage Clinic" in their church, at the invitation of their distinguished clergyman.

And they apparently enjoyed my 2-hour session.

But that night I repeated the same clinic for 1,000 husbands in the parish.

These women helped serve the dinner for those 1,000 men.

But they furtively turned on the kitchen loud speakers to the microphone I was using upstairs.

Thus, they and a dozen other wives, had a chance to eavesdrop on my advice to their husbands.

In both the afternoon, as well as this night clinic, I had mentioned that even the supposedly innocent wives in a threatened divorce, are usually 50 per cent to blame.

"It is their sins of omission, not of commission," I added, "that often drive their husbands into clandestine affairs with outside sirens."

And this was what infuriated these two wives.

For they had caught their mates having affairs and then had browbeaten those erring husbands ever since.

In fact, they had the men "under their thumb" and had created the impression that those husbands were 100 per cent wrong while the two wives were 100 per cent the innocent, aggrieved parties.

Now they suddenly realized my remarks had let their husbands out from under their thumbs!

So they upbraided the local pastor and transferred their membership to another church.

But that wasn't enough, so they fomented a campaign to coerce the editor to drop this column, too!

Obviously, they couldn't admit that their hostility to this "Worry Clinic" was my remark that wives are 50 per cent to blame for their straying husbands.

So they fabricated various other charges, such as Rosalie's bizarre remark that I "pollute young minds."

Usually, when I step on the psychological "corns" of readers, they cry out in disguised protest against this column.

That's even more true of women, for they aren't as logical as men!

Dear Abby

Innocent victim denies rumor

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem I have never seen in your column. I am a 38-year-old woman who was married for 10 years and bore two children. My husband died four years ago. Thank God I was equipped to take a high-paying position in order to support myself and children.

I am reasonably attractive, but am not the type who goes to bars alone looking for male companionship. I've dated some, but not much, because as soon as a man learns that I am not so sex-starved that he can head for a motel on the second date, he looks for hungrier women.

My problem: Because I am not actively looking for a man, and have refused to be rushed into bed by all the so-called eligible bachelors who've dated me, the rumor is rampant that I prefer women. [This was told to me by two friends, one woman and the other a man.]

Of course, it's a lie, but I have become so self-conscious about it that I don't dare call a single woman and suggest we have dinner or go to a movie together. The fact that I was married and bore two children doesn't seem to matter. The rumor, I'm told, persists.

Now, you're supposed to be a wise woman, Abby. How does an innocent victim deny such a rumor? PERSECUTED

DEAR PERSECUTED: The rumor may not be as rampant as you were led to believe it is. I would question the motives of one who would bring such a rumor to my attention. [Could a male be attempting to persuade you to "prove" the rumor false? Or could a woman, who herself preferred women, be "testing" you? Don't refrain from socializing with women. Forget the rumor, and continue to behave as you always have.]

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a husband who sleeps with a smile on his face?

CURIOS IN ARLINGTON

DEAR CURIOUS: He could be lucky he doesn't TALK in his sleep.

DEAR ABBY: I have a bone to pick with you! Last April my wife wrote to you, asking if she should accompany me to my 20th high school graduation reunion. She told you that she didn't come from my hometown, and wouldn't know a soul there.

You advised her as follows: "Go anyway! Let your husband enjoy himself reminiscing with old friends. You'll find plenty of other mates who won't know a soul either." Well, she took your advice, and she had a better time than I did. In fact, when it came time to go home, I had to practically drag her away from "Red," the best looking guy in the class, who majored in football and girls. His wife decided not to come because she wouldn't know a soul either! Now my wife is looking forward to the next class reunion. Thanks for complicating my life. CLASS OF '52

DEAR CLASS: And thanks for answering [in advance] a question I am asked by hundreds every year. "Should I accompany my mate to his class reunion? I won't know a soul there."

CONFIDENTIAL TO CHICAGO GIRL: When a girl marries a man, she should be willing to live where he is able to make the best living—and gladly. Don't insist that he relocate and start over to please you. It's foolish and unfair.

Jim: "Here is a hand from George Gooden's new advanced lesson course."

Oswald: "George is the man who thought of the code word, ARCH, where 'A' is Analyze the lead; 'R' is Review the bidding; 'C' is Count your winners and losers."

Jim: "We changed the word to 'ARCH' with 'H' standing for the all-important How can I make the hand? We are indebted to George for the ARCH, and he has now added our H."

Oswald: "The first hand in the book shows the 'H' of ARCH in action. South needs six trump tricks to make his contract. Without a trump lead, he has time to play hearts and will ruff his third heart with one of dummy's trumps. However, West has opened a trump and South sees that the defense will be able to play trumps three times before South can ruff a heart. How can South make a sixth trump trick in spite of this mean defense?"

Jim: "A dummy reversal will do the trick. South wins in his hand; plays ace-king and another club to ruff once. Then king and ace of diamonds, followed by a second club ruff. Then he plays a third diamond and there is no way for the defense to

Ready-made Handcrafts Give Decorating a Personal Touch

By AILEEN SNODDY

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The do-it-yourself craze continues to stir dreams of decorating glory among men and women of all ages. Especially popular now is the revival of handcrafting. Men, women and children embroider, hook rugs, weave fabric or rugs or wall hangings, sew or crochet.

Behind the current interest in working with one's hands, according to Judy Collings, director of style for Sears home fashions group, is "the dissatisfaction with impersonal objects. People are interested in having and making one-of-a-kind possessions."

The desire may well be there but for some individuals the lack of ability is discouraging.

"Fortunately for the hammy-thumb person who cannot sew, stitch or wield a brush without disastrous results," Miss Collings points out, "simulated crafts items are on the market and they do not cost a fortune. They can make a room come alive with a seemingly personal touch."

A classic example is the use of many "stitchery" techniques in a traditional room that could come out of Colonial Williamsburg. One such room which she likes to call one that reflects "handcrafted look without work" has a contemporary flamedstitch used on the screen and window cantoniere. She explains this comes from the simple embroidery originally known as "point d'Hungrie." Florentine or Bargello work. Early examples of flame stitching have been found dating to the third and fourth centuries and this art reached its peak in 14th-century England. Combined with this, Miss Collings says as she continues to describe one room setting, is handworked crewel on a wing chair. Accessories may be gay yarns in a basket and a handworked embroidered pillow.

HANDCRAFTING in the form of needlepoint, embroidery and rug weaving or hooking proves satisfying for millions. The handcrafted look revolves around multiple patterns and for those who do not want to take the time to make their own, it is possible to get readymade versions down to the last stitch. Combining patterns is important and in this room the red and blue of the flamedstitch screen and window cantoniere set the tone against a white wall. Brass yellow and muted green combine with red/blue in the chair upholstery and also come through against a creamy golden background of the imported handmade May Ling French Aubusson rug.

land. Combined with this, Miss Collings says as she continues to describe one room setting, is handworked crewel on a wing chair. Accessories may be gay yarns in a basket and a handworked embroidered pillow.

A handmade import floral rug that looks like needlepoint may be purchased along with other "handcrafted look" items or done by hand by the really ambitious. Framed primitives for example, in the classic fruit basket design also may be bought to fit into today's readymade handcrafted room.

One fine day I gave up trying to be organized. Until then I had tried to live according to plan and schedule, to run a tight ship, you might say.

Not only did I write up work lists allotting time for mundane chores (cln. kit cupbds-tues.) but had even attempted to boost my efficiency level by providing time for emergencies (sknd knees & misc—45 mins daily.)

Now I live list-less but listlessly. I greet each new day with a bit of recklessness, a sort of sangfroid.

I no longer worry about broken schedules and burning butter beans and that sort of thing.

The truth is, one day I discovered that, by some curious set of circumstances, I was getting older. Every day.

And, it occurred to me, that by the time I was 73, it really wouldn't matter whether or not I got the ironing done by 2:05 a.m. Wednesday afternoon back in 1972.

I can't imagine a day in the future when someone will issue a warrant demanding my whereabouts on a Monday morning in June. (And, if somebody did, would I really want to tell them I knew absolutely because Monday mornings I always pour Drano down my toilets?)

When I am 73, or 53, or 43, it is going to matter to me how I have spent my allotted hours and years.

By then, I may have burned a roast or two, but no oven will ever keep me from seeing a sunset. I may not have windows washed every Tuesday, but I will have read my favorite magazine.

The decision has already cost me my Good Housekeeping halo. But then, as Christopher Fry said, "... what, after all, is a halo? It's only one more thing to keep clean."

Add Flair To Sandwich Fare With Fish Special

AUSTIN — August is Sandwich Month, and Cindy Gray, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's seafood home economist, says this should give homemakers an opportunity to add a little flair to sandwich fare—with fish.

"The old sandwich standbys are great," says Miss Gray. "But they suffer pitifully from overuse."

That's no bologna. Below is a tasty alternative to the sandwich grind called the "Night Cap Special" which should breathe new life into sandwich eating. It is a tantalizing concoction of flaked fish, mushrooms and eggs scrambled together and accented with a crimson touch of pimiento. It's great for a bedtime snack or for a main course.

Many other delicious seafood recipes are available at no cost and can be obtained from "Seafood Recipes," Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, John H. Reagan Building, Austin, Tex. 78701.

NITE CAP SPECIAL
1/2-pound fresh fish fillets
2 cups boiling water
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 can (2 ounces) mushroom stems and pieces drained and chopped

3 tablespoons pimiento
chopped
2 tablespoons onion, chopped
6 eggs, beaten
3 tablespoons milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash white pepper
12 slices buttered rye bread
Sweet pickles
3 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted

Place fillets in boiling, salted water. Cover and return to the boiling point. Reduce heat and simmer for 12 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Drain. Remove skin and bones and flake.

Cook mushrooms, pimiento, and onion in butter in a 10-inch fry pan until tender. Combine egg, milk, salt, pepper, and fish. Add to cooked vegetables and cook until eggs are firm, stirring occasionally. Spread six slices of bread with fish-egg mixture. Cover with remaining six slices of bread. Serve with sweet pickles. Makes six servings.

Sweater smocks with embroidery on the borders look great over slacks or skirts. These pretty smocks are also perfect for the mother-to-be.

Senior Center Corner

A large group of senior citizens attended Thursday's meeting. Welcomed as a new member was Mrs. Eunice Taylor, recently of Durant, Okla., who is residing in Pampa with her daughter, Mrs. Frances Sealy. Mrs. Audrey Thurman, who is visiting Mrs. Mable Collum, was a guest. Sam Groom played guitar music and J.P. Stevens brought apricot fudge for the Senior Center members. Mrs. W.R. Emmons, in Highland General Hospital, sent a thank you note for the flowers Center members sent her. Door prizes went to Eunice Taylor, Muriel Kingery, Sam Groom and Claude Powell. Lillie Fulton is leaving for Falcon, Mo., after visiting her two sons, who are in Worley Hospital. She reports both sons are recuperating well.

Mrs. Gerie McCoy's mother, Mrs. Louis Martin, has returned to her home after a week's visit. Mrs. Jessie Van Huso is reported to be doing well after undergoing surgery in Houston. R.W. Tucker is in the nursing home at Clarendon. Mr. and Mrs. E.G. Frasier's children and grandchildren, L.D. Frasier, Martha, Kathy and Jimmie of Los Angeles.

Hair Styles through the Years Usually Have Been Accessorized

HAIR FASHION — Throughout the ages, women have used a wide variety of accessories — from delicate combs to feathers — to adorn their hair. Shown here, are examples of those accessories, from the 15th century onwards. First, at top left, pins of filigreed gold and silver adorn coiffure of the 1860's, and below, another fad of that time is shown — a back-to-nature pin of a lion. At right, an artist's representation of a latter 15th century hairdo shows a fancy style, the kind that began to appear when most women stopped covering their heads with veils.

At bottom left, the modern woman's hair has returned to simplicity. Here, it is shown held back and in place with two barrettes from Goody, a company which began creating hair accessories in 1907. At right, top, a 19th century hairstyle has an elaborate topknot, secured with a comb. And at bottom, a Renaissance hairstyle is parted in the center and combed smoothly to conform with the head.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

Tuesday, SEPT. 5

Your birthday today: You learn and teach much now, with more in the next two years coming up. Relationships turn out to be complex. Today's natives strive for system, consistency, fairness.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Work tends to untidiness, associates differ. It's up to you to keep the peace and get the work onto its right tracks.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Emotions dominate the day, hinder progress. Channel yours into some constructive application, take the most difficult chore and get it done.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Seems nobody is quite satisfied with anything, and you can ride out the storm quite simply by seeing the humor of it. Be alert.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Getting back to normal involves settling petty differences, sincerity. Make a list of completed items so nothing is skipped.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Friends and money mix but not to your advantage. Keep them apart in your discourse. Significant purchases are best deferred.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Care is important in anything you do now. Impractical ideas, experiments create momentary confusion. Schedules need double-checking.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Planned and promised attendance, assistance may not be there, or it may be late. Do the proper thing, without recrimination.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 22]: Progress is slow, but if you stick to one detail at a time, you'll get it all settled before pushing on to the next.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: The Romans decorated their war heroes with crowns of oak leaves.

21: Hard times await you, whether you're getting into a new spot or returning to an old one. Put yourself together as well as you can.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Details pile up and may become confused in the push to get something settled. Be sure you really know what it all means.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: You can't have everything all the time and this is one of those times when something gets left out. Review your schedule.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: For something you've worked and waited for over a long time, another day may improve the getting. Discussion is needed.

Weekly Market Report

COLLEGE STATION—Broiler-fryers remain the number-one bargain in most meat departments this week, according to Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, Texas Agricultural Extension Service consumer marketing information specialist.

"For economy and versatility, it's almost impossible to surpass fried chicken—serve it often, and pocket the savings," the Texas A&M University specialist suggested.

Beef prices are about the same as during the past few weeks.

In most markets features on various cuts of beef at special prices will include chuck roasts and steaks, round steaks and

Polly's Pointers

By POLLY CRAMER
DEAR POLLY—Katy could use kerosene to remove the glue on her ceramic bathroom tiles. Soak with a rag and then rub until removed. Throw out kerosene-soaked rags to avoid a fire hazard.—MARTHA

DEAR POLLY—Like Katy we, too, bought an older house that had had a sloppy job of ceramic tile installation and about all that could be seen of the tiles were the centers. There was lots of old glue and it was really thick. A painter suggested I buy wood alcohol at the drugstore and I used it to clean a small space at a time, then washed well with soap and water. Paper towels were used to dry and shine. Remember this is a POISON.—BERNICE

DEAR READERS—An installer of ceramic tiles advised me that the simplest and easiest way to do this is to carefully use a razor blade. Any point thinner should also do it but he said usually a razor blade had to be used in conjunction with anything used to soften the glue. Great care must be taken when using any of these flammable products as even smoking in the room could be disastrous. Open windows, too, when using these noxious liquids.—POLLY

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY—Two weeks ago I bought an expensive leather belt. When I wore it in the rain, the belt spotted which completely ruins its good looks. Can anyone tell me how to remove these spots?—M.M.

DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve is with the way groceries are sacked at the market. Instead of putting all the heavy cans and bottles in one bag and all the light things like bread, tissues, etc in another, why don't they divide up and put half the heavy things in one bag and half in another with the lighter things on top. I have to carry my groceries up a long flight of steps and many times they are too heavy for me to handle.—JUDY

DEAR JUDY—May I join you? Also the bags would not break through as easily as they do when filled with all heavy things.—POLLY

HOW TO PREVENT CRIME
CHICAGO (AP)—S. O. S. is the call signal for an action-oriented national crusade to bring back safety on the streets, developed by the Women's Conference of the National Safety Council. The crusade seeks to zero in on local priorities to eliminate accident and assault on the streets of varying communities, says Miss Lois Winterberg, manager of the women's department of the National Safety Council.

roasts, ground beef and stew meat.

Mrs. Clyatt noted that retail pork prices remain steady at a moderate level with best values generally found on hams, picnics, shoulder roasts and steaks, and end cut loin roasts and chops.

"Egg supplies are ample and are considered a bargain when compared to other high protein foods," the specialist pointed out.

'Monokini' Now Gaining Momentum In California

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP) — "Four years ago I was too hung up to go topless," said Kathy Malloy, as she spread her yellow blanket on the sandy beach. "But now look at me."

The 24-year-old San Jose housewife is one of an increasing number of women who have been trying out the topless — or monokini — look at a small state-run public beach south of this popular coastal resort town.

"It seems natural to me not to wear a top," said Evie Espen, a 22-year-old San Jose college student. "Besides, bathing through tops is super-uncomfortable — they hurt just like bras."

The monokini — long popular on some European beaches — was introduced to Santa Cruz last summer by a young woman named Rikki Chalet, who bared her breasts on the city beach and was promptly arrested for disturbing the peace.

A judge said, however, she had committed no crime, and the district attorney dropped charges.

Now at Twin Lakes Beach, one can see anywhere from one to two dozen women in monokinis — some stretched out in pursuit of a tan unmarred by strap marks, others cavorting topless in the water.

"It depends on the daily temperature how many there'll be," said Tony Tregeiro, state director of beaches for the area. "But it's gaining momentum a little at a time."

Mrs. Malloy, the wife of a juvenile probation officer, said she began nude sunbathing in her backyard last year, and at first was apprehensive about the transition to a topless appearance in public.

"Now I don't even feel daring," she said.

Today is Monday, Sept. 4, the 248th day of 1972. There are 118 days left in the year. This is Labor Day.

On this date in 1781, Los Angeles was founded by Spanish settlers.

On this date:
In 1870, the Third French Republic was proclaimed.
In 1886, Apache Indians under Chief Geronimo surrendered to Gen. Nelson Miles at Skeleton Canyon, Ariz.
In 1917, the American Expeditionary Force in France suffered its first casualty in World War I.
In 1929, the German dirigible, Graf Zeppelin, completed a trip around the world.
In 1940, the United States warned Japan against interference in French Indochina and the Dutch East Indies.
In 1965, the philosopher and physician, Dr. Albert Schweitzer, died at the age of 90 in his hospital in the African country of Gabon.

Ten years ago, France's President Charles de Gaulle arrived in Bonn on the first state visit by a French chief of state to Germany in modern times.

Five years ago, Egypt and Israel clashed anew along the Suez Canal, with artillery, small arms and patrol boats used in the fighting.

One year ago, 111 persons were killed in the crash of an Alaska Airlines jetliner in mountains near Juneau, Alaska.

The world's largest producer of mineral water is France's Source Perrier, with an annual production of over 1,400,000,000 bottles. It is helping to feed the average Frenchman's huge appetite for mineral water, which runs to about 38 quarts per year!

'Fischer Phenomenon' Boosts Chess Popularity In U.S.

Associated Press Writer
Triggered by what one chess grandmaster calls the "Fischer phenomenon," the sport of chess in America has enjoyed such soaring popularity this year that some say the game will never be the same.

Most observers agree that the credit is due to American Bobby Fischer, 29, temperamental, one-time child prodigy who on Friday wrested the world chess championship from Boris Spassky of the Soviet Union.

Controversial throughout the match, Fischer nevertheless gave the game its greatest exposure ever in the United States. And the results, even to veterans on the chess scene, were startling.

In several cities, chess clubs that televised the Fischer-Spassky match were deluged with applications for membership.

Throughout the country, department stores and specialty shops report their chess supplies are nearly depleted. Manufacturers, for the first time in years, are backlogging orders for chess equipment with the busy Christmas season still ahead.

The new interest in chess, some people caution, may be as brief as it was sudden.

"We can't tell yet whether the benefits to chess will be permanent," said grandmaster William Lombardy of New York. "The hysteria could last a year. But if the commercial interests get involved in a big way, it could last a long time."

Edmond B. Edmondson, executive director of the U.S. Chess Federation, said his organization had received thousands of membership applications since June, when its membership stood at 30,000.

Edmondson said his group, in an unprecedented move, would work to arrange commercial sponsorship of chess tournaments to satisfy a growing interest in competition chess.

Chess master George Koltanowski, who is making arrangements for the play, said 16 top players from throughout the world would take part in the first match this fall, including Spassky. Fischer reportedly declined an invitation to play.

In the business community, department stores and book shops are hurrying to stock up on chess supplies in time for Christmas sales.

"The big problem is obtaining enough chess sets. We're going to make a whole new department," said Charles Thompson, assistant manager of Brentano's, a large Fifth Avenue bookstore in Manhattan.

He said Fischer's latest book is the store's third best seller, and "we've been selling chess sets like crazy." Like many stores, Brentano's windows are devoted to chess displays.

Rich's department store, largest store in Atlanta and one of the largest in the South, said its sale of chess equipment had increased "tremendously" over the past six weeks.

"We have people going to one department and buying a how-to-play book, and then going to another to pay anywhere from $12.50 up for sets," a spokesman said. "They all say they've been following Fischer and Spassky, but had no interest before the championship games."

The Saluki, originated in Egypt about 7000-6000 B.C., is believed to be the oldest purebred dog in the world. Resembling the greyhound, it is one of the fastest runners of the dog family and was used for hunting gazelles.

Carter And Stegner Still Share ToT Lead

Pampa's Buster Carter and Scott Stegner of Odessa each shot 69's yesterday to maintain their lead in the 35th annual Top O' Texas Golf Tournament. They each had rounds of 69 after Saturday's play to lead the tournament.

Their totals of 138 garnered them a four stroke lead over Bob Sanders, Lloyd Moody and Randy Smith.

Sanders, of Amarillo, shot a 68 yesterday to grab low round honors for the day.

Moody's brother Orville, who won the United States Open in 1969, will be at the PCC today and is slated to give an exhibition after the final tournament rounds are completed.

Following at 143 was Rodger McKinnon. At 144 were Bill Holstead and John Zett.

Sifford Leads

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Curtis Sifford credits his leading third-round position in the $125,000 Greater Hartford Open to the fact that he's paying more attention to his play than his golf score.

Sifford, tied for the lead with two-year pro Ralph Johnston going into today's final round, had four birdies Sunday to come from behind and steal the top spot from second-round leaders Lee Trevino and Deane Beman.

"I'm not shooting for scores. I started out that way early in the year," Sifford said, "but I decided to stop" and pay more attention to the game. "I just go out and play," he said, beaming after his performance Sunday.

Seeds Out

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — It's a rough road to a singles crown in the U.S. Open Tennis Championships, as some seeded players are finding out.

With third-round play incomplete, four seeded men, including No. 2 Ken Rosewall and No. 9 Marty Riessen, have already been eliminated and others are getting opposition they rarely encountered before.

Riessen, No. 3 on the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association's All-American list, was outclassed and outplayed Sunday in losing to South Africa's Frew McMillan, who took the first set easily and went on to a 6-2, 6-7, 6-4, 6-1 triumph.

Mark Spitz Wins Sixth Gold Medal

MUNICH (AP) — "I guess nobody can win them all," sighed dejected Australian water-bug Shane Gould, "well, maybe none except Mark Spitz."

They're running out of adjectives here at these 20th Summer Games to describe the aquatic feats of the "California Torpedo," now officially the greatest swimmer in the history of the Olympics.

The Indiana University dental student from Carmichael, Calif., captured an unparalleled sixth gold medal here Sunday, ignoring an ailing back to zoom through the 100-meter freestyle in his sixth world record, clocking 51.22 seconds.

Six events—six golds. He has one more today. One more event, that is. But few people doubt that when he finishes anchoring the 400-meter medley relay he'll make it seven golds as well.

By taking six, he's already become the greatest Olympian ever—not just the greatest swimmer. Previously, the only man to win five had been Italian fencer Nedo Nadi back in 1920.

Miss Gould was aiming for her fourth gold Sunday in the 800-meter freestyle, hoping to surpass American Debbie Meyer's harvest of three in 1968. But the Aussie ace was ahead of it by another 15-year-old lass, Keena Rothhammer of Santa Clara, Calif.

"I swam the way I planned," Keena said after her world-record clocking of 8:53.68, adding, "I was aware of Shane all the way." Shane finished nearly three seconds later.

Gunnar Larsson won his second gold of the Games, sort of biting the hand that fed him. The Swede had trained for two years at Long Beach State in California. "There's better competition in the United States than Sweden," Larsson explained. "That's why I went there."

So on Sunday, he went out and beat a pair of Americans with a world record 2:07.17 in the 200-meter individual medley. Tim McKee of Newton Square, Pa., was second and Steve Furniss of Santa Ana, Calif., was third. U.S. girls, namely Melissa

Don't Ever Count The White Deer Bucks Out

By CLAY LIVELY
The White Deer Bucks, under second-year coach Larry Anthony, may have a hard time this year doing what they have in the past done with almost monotonous regularity—win their district and go on to post-season action.

After losing 10 men via graduation, the Bucks have been tentatively picked to finish third in their district behind Stinnett and Canadian. But anyone who knows about the pride and determination of White Deer will realize that that is not a foregone conclusion by any means.

Although the Bucks lost those 10 seniors, four of whom made some all-state teams, they got back some fine personnel.

Perhaps the one whose name rings the loudest bell is Ken Thurman, the brother of University of Texas sophomore tackle and former White Deer all-stater Rick Thurman. At 6-2 and 210 lbs. he is considered a fine prospect for post-season honors.

Other starters back from last year's team which advanced in the state playoffs before being edged 20-19 in the quarter finals by Sonora are fullback Kim Slagle, safety Terry Rhoads and tackle Morlan Shuman.

Rhoads (6' 160) is now the starting quarterback for the Bucks and is expected to be much more than adequate at that position. He heads a backfield composed of Slagle (5-9, 170) at fullback, Danny Sandlin (5-9, 140) at halfback and wingbacks Joe Nickell (5-10, 140) or Roger Meadows (5-10, 145).

In the offensive line for White Deer are Billy Cummins (6-1, 170) at right end, Donny Thurman (6-1, 220) at right tackle, Shuman (5-10, 195) at right guard and Jim McCann (5-10, 170) at center.

Ken Thurman has been bothered by a knee injury since practice began but doctors are hopeful that it is a minor injury that time will correct without surgery being necessary.

If he should, for that reason, be unable to play some of the season, his replacement at tackle will be John Keeton (6-1, 170).

Defensively the Bucks' alignment looks like this: The halfbacks will be Meadows, Nickell or Cummins, Rhoads and Sandlin are scheduled to see most of the action at the safety positions.

The defensive ends are Shuman and K. Thurman, or if he is unable to play, Gordon Satterwhite (5-10, 150), D. Thurman and Butch Hensley (6', 196) are set at the tackle posts.

McCann is at noseguard and Slagle and Britten are the linebackers.

Thurman's knee injury is not the only problem that coach Anthony and the Bucks have had to contend with since the opening of fall practice.

There have been a rash of minor ankle injuries and Freeman, who is the best receiver on the team, has been out since the third day of practice with a strep throat. He should be back in action this week, however.

"At this time, if we were well and not hurt we'd be satisfied," coach Anthony stated, "our offense has been doing pretty well, especially our running and blocking."

Slagle and Sandlin have been running very well—Slagle is a very tough inside runner, he added.

When the Bucks get over the minor illnesses and injuries that have plagued them up until now their opponents, particularly those in District 1-A, had better be on their toes against a team that has almost forgotten what it means to lose.

Labor And Change

We call it Labor Day but our practice is the opposite. It is a day not to labor but to rest.

It is not the only paradox about this particular holiday. In most of the world labor's day is May 1, a date of ideological significance and observed by emphasizing class differences.

Here, it is different both in date and emphasis, a day of mass solidarity at least in relaxation.

But even as we observe it in our way, time and technological progress keep taking us farther and farther from the original significance.

It was the unskilled and semiskilled laboring man, the blue-collar legions of an industrial society in the making, that the first Monday of each September initially was designated to honor.

Many a sunny day of picnics, parades, ball games and just plain taking it easy has since been crossed off the calendars. And the nation that was building an industrial society has completed that task and gone beyond. It is now deep into the age of computers and automation, not the least of the consequences being a steadily diminishing role for the nonspecialized worker.

Change, however, has often been a painfully high price in human terms. We have succeeded in building a society where much more than muscle is necessary to maintain momentum, for society itself and for the individual. The result is the increasing demand in recent years for working people with some degree of technological competence, and declining significance to society of those without it.

It is a particularly bitter paradox for many at this time, however, that that sector of the economy which has been most visibly representative of technological progress, the aerospace industry, should be depressed with the expensive skills of so many of its technicians wasting in unemployment.

Still, the experience in technological development has been that in the long run for every job lost through innovation, more are created.

In labor and its changing role in society as in so many other respects, the American experience is one of paradox. But if it were not, if all were predictable and certain, would that experience be anywhere near so interesting? Or so promising—still!

Sound For Seeds?

It's a noisy jet that blows nobody around.

Four scientists at the University of North Carolina in Greensboro have discovered that the kind of noise produced by a jetliner taking off causes turnip seeds to germinate faster than normally.

The researchers subjected both dry and wet turnip seeds to a level of noise equivalent to that of a 727 revving up 100 feet away on the runway. The noise had no effect on dry seeds, reports Science News. But wet seeds germinated in about 10 per cent less time and had about a 100 per cent higher germination rate than seeds in a quiet environment.

One explanation is that the sound waves break down the exterior coating of a seed in some way that lets water and oxygen enter more easily. Another theory is that the waves affect the interior of cells within the seed.

The research opens up at least two interesting possibilities.

In hot regions of the earth, for example, ground temperature is often so high that seeds planted go into a state of dormancy. Sound irradiation might break up that dormancy and permit two crops a season instead of one.

Sound waves might also be used to make weeds germinate before a field is planted. They could then be destroyed by being plowed under and the desired crop sown in a weed-free field.

The scientists admit that broadcasting airport-level noise over the countryside is not an appealing prospect. Work is going forward to see if particular wavelengths or combinations of wavelengths can produce the same effects at lower decibel levels, and also to determine the minimum duration of noise needed.

If the questions are answered favorably, suggests Science News, the day may come when farmers set up loudspeakers to play noise at their crops even as they now play music in their barns to keep the cows contented.

Brezhnev Having Problems

BY RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA)—If the Soviet Union does indeed buy a billion dollars worth of U.S. wheat and other farm products these next 12 months, Leonid Brezhnev could be in for some trouble at home.

Despite sizable American credits and the extraordinary rise in the value of Moscow's gold stocks this past year, these heavy agricultural purchases will force the U.S.S.R. to cut heavily into its hoarded gold reserves or slash back sharply on industrial expansion the next few years.

The United States, Japan and other Western countries could come to the Soviet Union's rescue with sizable additional credits and investments not thus far announced. But in that event, Brezhnev and his administration would be in heavy debt politically, as well as economically, to the United States and President Nixon.

Cutting sharply into the gold stocks is a highly sensitive issue in the U.S.S.R., which Nikita Khrushchev learned to his sorrow in a similar situation a number of years back.

Worse yet, these huge grain purchases result from two agricultural failures in a row. The U.S.S.R. winter crop was miserably low. The spring crop has been called a disaster.

Agricultural successes and failures are major emotional, political and economic issues in the Soviet Union. Khrushchev gambled with a mammoth long-shot Siberian agricultural development program to save himself from crop failure. But in the end, as suggested above, agricultural difficulties were a primary cause of his ouster from power.

Brezhnev will undoubtedly survive, where Khrushchev did not. Brezhnev has successfully downgraded the strongest of his opponents and infiltrated his henchmen into key power spots.

Nevertheless, the price Brezhnev will pay in internal infighting is expected to be great. There will be strong criticism within the Politburo and the Central Committee of the way Brezhnev has handled agriculture and the economy. His remaining enemies in high places will go at him with vigor.

For this agricultural crisis comes on top of other Russian problems. Although the shift in Cairo may actually be to Russia's advantage, in that it gets the U.S.S.R. out of an expensive, exposed, no-win position, Brezhnev's handling of the Egyptian crisis gives added ammunition to his foes.

Brezhnev will also most certainly draw fire within the party for his bungled handling of North Vietnam this past year, for growing problems in East Europe and for his inability to bring the open fight with China under some control.

To offset these failures, Brezhnev must pull a rather large rabbit out of his hat. Again, it seems likely that his best bet is some sort of an economic deal with the United States.

QUOTES

I think their (the Republicans') strategy is to keep about 15 people taking potshots at me from various angles at one time, while the President pretends he doesn't even know about there being an election going on.

—George S. McGovern.

The fact that we investigate complaints by prisoners probably causes some hardliners to cringe... but if we don't provide some means to deal with inmate grievances, the public is the ultimate loser.

—Theatrice Williams, State of Minnesota's new ombudsman for prisons.

Hats Off to Labor

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION: A reader, R. Powell, took The News to task for continuing to "rap the public school system without saying what they mean by private school." You answered by attempting to clarify private schools as "those that are not tax-supported or otherwise financially connected to the government." It seems to me that R.C. Hoiles, the founder of Freedom Newspapers, did not call the state system by the commonly used term of "public schools," but called them government schools. Is The News abandoning the principles of its founder?

ANSWER: The News and Freedom Newspapers are not abandoning the principles of the late Mr. Hoiles. We continue to defend the principle of individual freedom. It is possible that on occasion we have forgotten, Mr. Hoiles' admonition that we should always seek to use the correct term—to "call a spade a spade."

A number of years ago, Mr. Hoiles encountered the ideas of the Rev. T. Robert Ingram of St. Thomas (Episcopal) Church and School, Houston, Tex. It was Mr. Ingram's thesis that tax-supported, compulsory schools run by an agency of the government were not public schools, but were government schools. Public schools, on the other hand, would be those which are available to the public, but not compulsory either in attendance or support.

In his important pamphlet, "Schools—Government or Public" Mr. Ingram pointed out that for a church or a school or any other institution to be public, it must really belong to the people, and then the people may use it or not. They must be free not to attend, if they are really free to attend. Freedom to contract into anything implies freedom to contract out. If, then, the public really owns anything, it is free to give or withhold support and attendance at any time.

That was the contention of Mr. Hoiles, who agreed with Mr. Ingram and who adopted his description. The News still believes the same, although some of its writers may have forgotten the lessons they were taught. It should be important for all of us to remember that when the police power of the state is used to compel support and attendance or use of any good or service, the people individually lose ownership and control and the thing ceases to be public, as Mr. Ingram pointed out. It is the same whether it is a church, a school, a newspaper, a power company or any other facility in which some agency of government enters. The people lose all control to the politicians, who become their masters.

Therefore, we should remember that tax-supported, compulsory schools are not public. They are government schools, owned and controlled by the politicians in charge.

Uncle Sam Lowering Braggadocio Profile

By PAUL HARVEY

The long-ago braggadocio of Cassius Clay served its purpose: stimulated ringside attendance, made each fight worth more money to the fighter.

Let's not imagine that the game of chess would now enjoy TV coverage and front-page prominence except for the flamboyant misbehavior of Bobby Fischer.

But where flaunting a superego gets attention, it does not solicit sustained support.

So Cassius Clay—now Muhammad Ali—doesn't swagger any more. And Bobby Fischer, if he is long to perpetuate his prominence, will temper his temperament.

For the same reason that Uncle Sam is becoming less the self-professed world leader, more a "partner" instead.

In the beginnings of my broadcasting career I sat admiringly at the feet of Ted Husing and Graham McNamee, Boake Carter, Walter Wichell and H.V. Kaltenborn.

But it was to sassy, brassy Walter Wichell that I owed a timely, early lesson in humility. He said, "Don't ever start believing your press agents."

Now I see young Paul, a budding concert pianist, admiring the giants of his art and I'm so glad that he has a hero like Van Cliburn to emulate. Van Cliburn's modesty is genuine.

He has to recognize his own excellence, but giving God credit for his talents tends to keep him personally humble.

Which is good for him. The self-important can only be chopped down. The gentle giant will be upheld.

This is what Mr. Nixon sees as the proper image for Uncle Sam.

For generations we strutted across the world stage, bragging of our more and better everything—and begat mostly envy and resentment.

While President Nixon continues to prod Americans to shape up, to be better, do better and produce more, to the rest of the world he does not say, "Look what we did!" or "Look what we're going to do for you!"

Instead he says, "Hereafter the future of Asia will reside in Asian hands."

To Europe he says, "Let us hold hands with you."

Of Moscow and Peking he asks, "May we do business with you?"

It's not a phony, contrived humility. That, also, begets disdain. Instead, Uncle Sam's lower profile reflects the poise that derives from maturity and wide comprehension and genuine self-confidence.

H.L. Hunt Writes

GETTING TOGETHER

Individualism is the heart and soul of freedom. Individual rights are the cornerstone of limited constitutional government, as set forth by our Forefathers. The right of individuals to pursue their own destinies is inherent in a free society, but there are times when individuals must get together in a common cause to preserve that free society.

Now, 1972, is such a time! We have seen our President pay homage to the two faces of communism; we have seen the first peacetime wage-price freeze in our nation's history and we have seen evidence of a coming guaranteed annual income, among other things. We must get together and stop this ride down the rocky road to ruin.

Wondrous things can be done through resisting as a group. The story of the Turkish prisoners in Korea, as told by Dr. William E. Mayer, is a fine example: There were 229 Turks and the communist commandant started to tell them what to do. A Turkish major stepped forward, saying, "It's not necessary to tell them, I'm in command, tell me!"

The communist put the major in Camp No. 2, an isolation camp for "reactionary individualists." The same answer was given by the Turks until only privates were left. When the communist spoke, "I'm the senior private. It's not necessary to tell them, tell me."

Finally, all 229 men were together again in Camp No. 2. And they all came home. If these Turkish soldiers could accomplish this, think what free Americans could do if they got together.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The earth is slightly flattened at the poles, which gives it the shape of an oblate spheroid. The equatorial diameter of the earth is 7,926 miles while the polar diameter is about 7,900 miles. The World Almanac notes that this discrepancy is caused by the earth's rotation which forces more of the earth's substance into the equatorial region than the polar regions.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The illegal production and sale of liquor during the Prohibition period became a multimillion dollar "business" in the United States and led to years of violent gang warfare. The World Almanac notes that between 1919 and Feb. 1, 1967, there were reputed to have been 1,000 gang murders in Chicago.

MARILYN MANION

What Will the Bloodbath Be?

The last American ground troops have left Viet Nam. Still remaining are some 43,000 men in administrative, supply and advisory jobs. And still remaining, of course, are the pilots and crews of helicopters and combat planes that make up the "air war".

U.S. doves want them to leave too. Arguing that we have no business interfering any longer in Viet Nam, peaceniks in the Senate to the streets demand a total pullout—now.

The evidence shows that the U.S. bombings of the North are effective. Their aim—to reduce North Viet Nam's capacity to mount a massive offensive in the South—is being achieved. But this does not mean that they should stop. "The minute you stop," says one pilot, "they rebuild, rearm the area and you're back where you started."

Which brings us to the basic question of the whole debate: What will happen if we throw in the sponge and abandon the South Vietnamese to the tender mercies of the Reds?

American Conservatives have long believed that a Communist takeover would result in a giant bloodbath in South Viet Nam. The experience of Bongson, a village in northern Binh Dinh Province recently occupied by the Communists, bears out that belief with chilling reality. Held by the Reds for three months, Bongson became a harshly regimented work camp. Public executions, forced labor, unbelievably confiscatory taxes were only a few hallmarks of the brief regime that left despair in its wake.

In three months, between 250 and 500 government officials were killed; 6,000 are in prison. Beside these statistics, the "dictatorial" practices of the Thieu government are pale indeed. Before the Reds came, the laws were unenforced, officials could be bribed, and taxes were often not collected. Travel was relatively free. Sometimes there were arrests of those suspected of enemy affiliation. But when the Communists took over, things changed. Villagers were called into town to watch as selected "criminals" were shot dead, and others led away for "20 or 30 years in prison." The Red demanded—and got—more than one-third of everyone's meager rice crop. Forced labor, strictly required political meetings, and harsh restrictions on travel were installed.

In the month following the end of the occupation, while Saigon troops began recapturing north Binh Dinh, 130,000 people have broken away from the Reds. But if the Communists succeed in taking over the entire nation, there will be no recapturing. As guerrilla warfare expert Sir Robert Thompson wrote (Newsletter, July 1972):

"If...the North takes over the South, what will the bloodbath be? Four years ago I estimated that it would be several hundred thousands. I now wish to amend that figure to well over one million (out of eighteen million people)."

A TRANSIT SPEEDUP SEATTLE (AP) — The experimental Blue Streak rapid transit system here may be expanded.

An $80,000 preliminary project is under way toward setting up a second parking lot to add 1,000 cars to the 500 which daily fill the initial lot created with the year-old experiment.

Also under study is provision of additional special on and off freeway ramps for exclusive use by Blue Streak buses.

The Blue Streak project uses special freeway routing and ramps to move riders from Seattle's northern suburban areas into the heart of the city.
