Mind Your Manners

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Should a secretary refer to her employer as "He"?

2. Should a business person's manner be more deferential when he is speaking to a superior than when he is addressing a person of equal rank?

3. Is it a good idea to receive a great many personal telephone calls during office hours?

4. Is it necessary for a secretary to be polite when turning down a person who wishes to see her employer?

5. Is it good manners for a business man to admit a caller to his private office, and then continue to read letters for a few moments before recognizing him?

6. What would you do if— You are applying for a job where it is necessary to give names of persons who recommend you— give the names of the persons you feel will give you a good recommendation and then tell those persons what you have done?

7. Before giving any names, ask the persons if they are willing? Answers: 1. No. "Mr. Jones is busy." Not. "He is busy."

2. Yes. 3. No. 4. Yes. She may do her employer great harm if she is rude. 5. No. It is the conscious trick of a show-off. Best "What Would You Do" solution—(a).

After Touring America, Erika Mann Finds: "No Dictator Could Rule U. S."

Erika Mann, daughter of the famous German writer, Thomas Mann, recently completed a six-month tour of the country. Here she records, for NEA Service and The Pampa News, her own impressions of what America is thinking about today.

Her latest book, "The Lights Go Down," portrays a typical German community as it is affected in its day-by-day living by the Nazi system of government.

The chief danger today is that the people's inherent respect for success, and the natural human awe of the strong man, will produce a considerable power. Fascism in any form could not jump the hurdle of the American passion for freedom and democracy.

Those are the thoughts that come to me as I mentally revisit the cities and towns throughout the land where my lecture tour took me from last October to late March. Thousands of Americans—farmers and city folk, natives of the hills and the plains, men and women of every age and occupation from ocean to ocean—questioned me and talked with me and gave me a vivid panorama of the national spirit.

Britain Jails Army Captain For Treachery

LONDON, May 24 (AP)—The arrest of Captain Archibald H. M. Ramsay, conservative member of parliament, by direction of the home secretary was announced today by the speaker of the house of commons.

Ramsay, a veteran of the World War, was detained in Brixton prison as the government carried out a roundup of persons suspected as "fifth columnists."

At the same time a police guard was clamped on headquarters of the British Union, the British Fascist organization headed by Sir Oswald Mosley.

When a member of the house asked whether the home secretary would give the reason for Ramsay's arrest the speaker replied, "not at this stage."

Shortly after police took charge of the Union building, which is near the houses of parliament, several persons left the headquarters accompanied by police.

Ramsay, of a well known military family, long has been regarded as a Fascist, particularly on the score of anti-Semitism.

His arrest followed closely on the issuing of regulations under the emergency legislation passed yesterday empowering the home secretary to intern or arrest anyone suspected of being active in an organization subject to foreign influence or control or who has sympathies with the system of government of any power with which his majesty is at war.

Home Secretary Sir John Anderson assured the house that steps have been taken to safeguard England from the entry of "fifth columnists" as refugees.

Sir John said the names of a number of other persons ordered detained would be announced as soon as they were arrested.

Replying to a question, the home secretary said that "this is a precautionary measure and Captain Ramsay, like others who have been taken into detention, will have his right to make representations."

Double Series Of Sermons To Begin At Church Sunday

Beginning Sunday, the Rev. Russell G. West, pastor of the Church of the Brethren, will open a double series of sermons covering seven Sundays.

Each Sunday morning the pastor will preach on some phase of the character of Jesus, beginning the series with a message entitled, "His Scale of Values." Each Sunday evening the service will be held around some great masterpiece in Christian art. Copies of 100 great paintings are now on exhibit at the church and the people will be asked to select by ballot the pictures to be used in the series.

This series will open on Sunday evening at eight o'clock with a message on the famous painting by Jean Francois Millet, entitled, "The Angelus." Those who are interested in attending this series of messages are invited to be present on Sunday morning and participate in the selection.

Finds New Land In Antarctica

Lean, wind-burned and grayer than when he sailed for Little America five months ago, Rear Admiral Richard Byrd leaves the White House after reporting on the U. S. Antarctic Expedition. Relief Program Excludes Aliens

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP)—A $111,754,816 relief program for bidding aid to aliens went to the senate today, where leaders expected it to pass overwhelmingly.

The bill, as approved 354 to 21 by the house last night, would exclude relief to aliens, Communists and Nazi bund members, and would authorize $975,650,000 for the WPA in the eight months starting July 1. Most of the present restrictions against wasting relief money were renewed.

Experts estimated the bill would provide jobs for an average of 1,900,000 persons a month, compared with 1940 average of 2,042,000.

Major provisions of the house-approved bill include: Gives the WPA $975,650,000, which can be spent by March 1, 1941, if the President deems it necessary.

Requires sponsors of WPA-financed projects to contribute at least 25 per cent of the cost.

Eliminates the current maximum cost of $50,000 for construction projects.

Retains provisions for minimum 130-hour work month and rotation of WPA enrollees every 18 months and reemployment after 30 days on the basis of need, with preference given to veterans.

Allocates $115,000,000 to the agriculture department for rural rehabilitation work.

Scout Camp To Open At Marvin Sunday
First truck load of equipment left today for the Adobe Walls Boy Scout camp at Lake Marvin in Hemphill county. The truck was loaded to capacity with tents, cots, cooking utensils, or boxes of hand-craft work, etc.

First work of camp will open Sunday afternoon and the quota for the week has been reached. The second-week number has also been passed and nearly enough boys have registered for a third week according to Executive Fred Roberts.

If as many as 75 boys enroll, a fourth week of camp will be held, Executive Roberts said.

Extra tents have had to be ordered to accommodate the large number of boys registering for the camp.

In Leichtenstein, the entire military equipment is kept in a small one-room museum as an exhibit.

Hitler Claims Planes Sank 6 Transports

(By The Associated Press)

BERLIN, May 24—Germany's ring of fire and steel around 500,000 to 1,000,000 Allied soldiers in Flanders was reported today to have been drastically tightened when Nazi divisions smashed through the Scheldt river fortifications and into Tournai and Ghent, in Belgium.

In smashes beyond the tangled lines of battle, the German air force reported it had sunk six loaded transports in the English channel and scored heavy bomb hits on several warships, including a large war vessel—"probably a cruiser."

A German announcement that Lonetto Heights, northwest of Arras, had been captured indicated a German spearhead was threatening the strongest point of the encircled area, the French industrial city of Lille, 25 miles northeast of Arras.

The high command declared heavy attack forces, having broken through on the Scheldt river line, reached the western embankment of the Lys river, indicating the Lys also had been crossed.

This crossing, however, may have been at Ghent, where the Scheldt and Lys join. Authorized sources said German and Allied forces were fighting in the streets of historic Ghent, an important communications center 30 miles northwest of Brussels, fallen Belgian capital.

The high command's daily communique did not mention Ghent, but said Tournai, on the Scheldt, about 35 miles southwest of Ghent, had been taken.

"The region of northern France and Belgium wherein the enemy armies are encircled was yesterday further tightened by the successful attacks of German troops on all sides," said the high command.

The French fortress of Maubeuge which had been passed by the German sweep across the middle of the little Maginot line fronting on Belgium also was taken—the occupation completed yesterday with the capture of the last fortified works.

In the Artois region, north of the narrow neck of the German corridor to the channel coast, German troops were armed for the night and conquered Lille and Arras.

German armored forces which had been advancing between Arras and the sea to the north were said to be nearing the French channel ports.

"A weak enemy advance from the south toward Amiens was repelled," said the high command.

Air Victories Claimed
The Germans asserted that yesterday's air losses on the Allies on the western front totaled 49 planes—shot down in flight or destroyed on the ground—against 16 German planes marked down as missing. A toll of 56 Allied tanks was announced in one day of fighting Wednesday.

In their attempt to cut off and encircle the Allied force in northern France and Belgium, the Germans in the south have driven a salient through a 25-mile gap in the Allied lines.

Informed sources were hopeful that with the Germans reaching French coastal points, "the encirclement in which case a restrictive battle may occur earlier than was expected."

The British royal air force, they said contemptuously, conducted another series of "prestige flights" over the Aachen, Düsseldorf and Master regions last night.

These sources said bombs were dropped on non-military targets, but that there were no reports as yet as to possible damage or casualties.

Raid Claims Probed
The American military attaché at Berlin, Colonel Peyton, and his two assistants went to the bombed regions to make a personal investigation of the German assertions of aimless British night raids.

Repeated Allied reverses in attempts to break through the German encirclement and out of the "southern" were described as having weakened Allied resistance. The Allies were said to have sustained particularly heavy losses in an effort to pierce the German lines near Cambrai yesterday.

With the ring around the Allied units getting tighter it was said "the real fight against England is coming closer." But before a major attack on England can be launched, the "cauldron" or pocket, in northern France and Belgium first will have to be occupied completely by German troops.

German authorities do not expect to achieve this result without bitter fighting.

Pampa Concern To Handle "Won-Up" In 18 Counties

The Kennedy Wholesale company of Pampa is now the distribution center for 18 Panhandle counties through the obtaining of a franchise by Clarence Kennedy this week, for "Won-Up" bottled soft drink, manufactured in Edinburg, Texas.

Areas covered by the distribution will be as far south as Paducah, north to the Oklahoma Panhandle, east to the Oklahoma border, and west to Panhandle and Berger.

A warehouse will be operated at Childers in conjunction with the service of the local firm.

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, May 24 (AP)—The stock market swung idly with the war bulletin today and generally failed to develop a definite trend.

A selective rise of fractions to 2 points at the start was succeeded by a let-down and thereafter shifts in either direction were frequent. While firm spots were to be seen here and there at the close, loss were also well distributed.

Dealers were the slowest in about two weeks. Transfers were in the neighborhood of 90,000 shares.

War Flashes

BASEL, Switzerland, May 24 (AP)—French army engineers blew up scores of locks on the Rhine-Rhone canal today, flooding hundreds of square miles of territory on the French side of the Rhine.

LONDON, May 24 (AP)—The air ministry announced tonight that 11 British fighting planes had shot down 11 Messerschmitts, German fighters, and seriously damaged another 12. The British fighters were said to have sustained no losses while on patrol over the French coast this afternoon.

Fascist Materials Seized In Montreal

MONTREAL, May 24 (AP)—In swift overnight raids believed to be a prelude to a national drive against "fifth columnists" police seized six truckloads of swastikas, photographic equipment, cards, maps in Montreal homes and offices of suspected members of the National Unity party, Canadian Fascist organization.

The raids followed closely the seizure in London of Sir Oswald Moseley and others suspected of pro-Fascist sympathies.

There were no arrests here, but H. R. Gagnon, superintendent of the Royal Canadian Mounted police, said some prosecutions would undoubtedly be made after an investigation.

Allied Offers Are Spurned By Mussolini

ROME, May 24 (AP)—Futile Allied offers of concessions to Premier Mussolini in the hope of keeping Italy non-belligerent were reported today in Italian quarters.

With Italy observing the anniversary of her entrance into the world war 25 years ago today, unofficial observers said the French secretly offered her special rights in Asia, credit facilities through the Suez canal and a free port at Jibuti, French Somaliland. Jibuti is the only rail outlet to Italy's Ethiopian empire.

Britain has been negotiating for an arrangement to lift the Allied blockade in the Mediterranean for Italy.

Mussolini, however, was quoted as saying the concessions are "too little and too late."

Some Italians more than half-expected Premier Mussolini to celebrate today's anniversary by announcing that Italy finally is ready to strike for attainment of her long-heralded territorial aspirations.

There were no surface indications of the exact time or place of Italy's "big" moves were that it would be against France and Yugoslavia, against both of whom Italy has filed territorial claims.

Italians have clamored for Corsic for French island off Italy's west coast, and for French possessions in Africa. Claims against Yugoslavia, less emphasized, concern chiefly Dalmatia, the section of the country along the Adriatic north of Italy's newly-acquired Albania.

Italy, linked by a "pact of steel" to Germany, against whom she fought in the world war, today faced her former Allies, France and Great Britain, with bitter claims that she had cheated her of her share of the spoils in the last conflict.

Members of the fascist university youth organization who assembled in Turin today for a series of sports contests were told the games were taking place "on the eve of our war" in a message from Guido Pallotti, vice-secretary of the organization.

"From Turin we will leave for the last war of liberation which will break the chains still imposed on the country, will open the gates of Gibraltar and Suez, and gain will make the Mediterranean our sea."

Italians call the Mediterranean "Mare Nostrum"—our sea.

3 Pampa Boys Will Graduate At Price

Pampa will be represented by three students at the Price Memorial college graduation in Amarillo, at 7:45 p. m., May 29, at the college auditorium.

The three boys are Jack Brown, class secretary, William Cunningham, and John Schwind. They are 15 in the 1940 class.

A high mass will be celebrated Sunday at the cathedral in Amarillo for the seniors of Price and St. Mary's academy, conducted by the Rev. Newton T. Miller.

The Rev. Thomas J. Drury will deliver the baccalaureate sermon, following the mass.

BOULOGNE

"destructive battle may occur earlier than was expected."

The Germans also reported the fall of the last Allied-held fort at Maubeuge, France, just south of the Belgian border. Tournai was declared captured.

Boulogne is the farthest point west reached by the Germans in their 15-day-old smash through lowland countries into France. Most of the British defenders, it was said, "got away."

Reports reaching German diplomatic sources in Bern, Switzerland, also listed the capture of Montreuil, La Touquet on the channel, and said the Nazis had retaken Arras, in the Cambrai battle sector.

Britain, throwing a reinforced naval and military guard along her southern shores, had a fresh taste of the Nazi aerial threat as anti-aircraft batteries on the southeast coast blazed away at German planes making a morning raid on shipping off the coast.

Italy on Verge
Italy appeared only one short step away from going into the war against the Allies—25 years to the day after her entry into the World War on the side of Britain and France.

While some Italians believed Premier Mussolini might judge this the proper time to bring Italy into the conflict and others debated whether her first thrust would be against France or Yugoslavia, a gathering of Fascist students was told they were meeting "on the eve" of the last war of liberation which x x x again will make the Mediterranean our sea.

Matching furious ground fighting, Britain's royal air force hurled waves of bombers and fighter planes against German positions. The British reported the destruction of a Nazi ammunition train on the Dutch-German border and a successful attack with 100 high explosive bombs on an armored division headquarters.

Awake to their imminent danger, the British during the night posted naval patrols along their channel coast and rushed troops to south coast towns as precautions against lightning Nazi invasion.

Rome shipping circles heard that the scheduled sailing of the Italian liner Rex from Genoa on May 29 had been indefinitely postponed—a possible tipoff on Italian war plans.

It appeared that Premier Mussolini's "zero hour" was striking—presumably into Yugoslavia—might coincide with the start of a German invasion of England.

All signs indicate that if Duce's role in the Rome-Berlin axis has been to keep the British fleet in the Mediterranean.

GERMANS

line to attack Calais. (The Germans have pictured Calais as the most important of their channel objectives.)

The advance on Calais, coupled with a German thrust pointed through the French channel would practically seal the ring thrown about a half-million to a million Allied troops on the plains of Flanders and northern France, forcing either a surrender, a break-through against the German wedge to the coast or destruction of the entrapped troops.

Coupled with word that Boulogne had fallen came a British air ministry announcement that at least 23 German planes were shot down and 29 more damaged by far-flung British aerial stabs yesterday at both enemy communications along the fighting front and in Germany itself.

The loss of eight British planes and forced landings for four others were acknowledged.

Confronted by the German success on the French channel coast, Britain strengthened coastal defenses against the zero hour of a German crossing to smash at her key ports.

Home Defense Formidable
With powerful British naval units patrolling the channel and strong detachments of troops taking up positions in south coast towns all during the night, the first defense activity of the day occurred in the southeast this morning.

There anti-aircraft batteries and to action as German planes appeared over the coast.

While Southeast Yard was rounding up fifth-column suspects, Britain also was on guard against possible invasion by way of Ireland, where the Dublin government, nominally neutral, strove for general defense coordination.

At the same time King George VI prepared to broadcast an Empire day measure of inspiration to his peoples at 9 p. m. (2 p. m. CST).

To counter the threatened blitzkrieg, the British air force is launched with parachute troops or with forces rushed across the narrow channel in speedboats. England has formidable home defenses.

British believed that the divisions of the French army, which have been deployed in strategic positions, with the help of the home defense battalions made up of ex-service men, the demolition troops already here and the newly-organized local defense volunteers, destroy any force the Germans would be able to throw upon this island.

whose father, the late T. D. Hobart, pioneer Pampa resident, gave the first building of the church. It is presented to Charles Erickson, qualification for the award was similar to that of the best citizen plus patriotism.

The Danforth Foundation awards were presented to Anne Erickson, Frank Gumsaulus. Qualifications were taken from the famous book "I Dare You" with health, knowledge, personality and character outstanding requirements.

A special journalism award was presented to Eugenia Phelps, for the past two years editor of the Junior High paper.

Because of the close voting in the best citizen division, it was decided to award the award to both Margaret Burton, Gene Lumsford, Willard Ellis, Edna Brown, Elizabeth Roberts, Thomas Sirman, Nita Rose-McCarthy, Mary Curley, Lawrence Covington, Dorothy Sweeney, Dale Harrell, Sibley Ratchford, Leonard Brunnett, Betty-Jean Schilling, Hazel Euanak, Marcella Campbell, and Edward Harvey.

Memorial Program To Be Set Saturday

Due to a trip out of town, the Rev. C. Gordon Bayless will not be able to be the principal speaker at the Memorial Day services to be held at Fairview cemetery next Thursday.

Paul D. Hill, general chairman of the observance, said the program would be re-arranged and would be announced Sunday.

Clay's Funeral home is donating the use of two public address systems, Frank Hunt a wire system, and Kluehl-Burns company a switch box and transformer.

30 Men Fire On Leon Trotsky In Mexican Villa

MEXICO CITY, May 24 (AP)—Leon Trotsky, exiled Russian revolutionary and longtime foe of Joseph Stalin, was attacked today in his suburban villa by 30 or 40 men who fired into his bedroom. Flying glass injured him slightly.

A secretary, who said he spoke with Trotsky's authority, declared the "attack was personally directed by Joseph Stalin." Trotsky, who with Lenin and others led the Bolshevik revolution in 1917, has been vitriolic in his criticism of the "so-called Moscow trials" and acts of the present Moscow regime.

Trotsky came to Mexico in 1937 after the wandering exile that followed his falling-out with the powers of the Soviet Russia he helped to build as one of the leaders of the October, 1917, revolution.

Trotsky first resided at the suburban villa of the Mexican muralist, Diego Rivera, but lately has lived in a walled-in house in the village of Coyocacan, Mexico City suburb.

Sheldon Trotsky's secretary-guards, the attack, during which assailants gained entry to the grounds, took two motor cars, and broke down several doors. A fellow guard said Harte was "kidnaped."

Some members of the band held at bay several federal district police who customarily guard the place.

Trotsky's room was "all shot up," a secretary guard declared. The attackers, who left a number of incendiary bombs, were reported to have used "automatic and other rifles."

A secretary who said he spoke with Trotsky's authority declared the "attack was personally directed by Joseph Stalin." The former Soviet war lord long has been a critic and enemy of Stalin, whom he charged with "countless murders" in "so-called Moscow trials."

MACKENZIE

ing mechanized units which have raced to the coast.

The Germans haven't broken through here in force. The motorcycle, tank and armored car units which have passed through don't comprise many men, but they are fast and they are powerful.

However, this gap has separated the Allied forces and gravely endangered the British, Belgians and French armies in Belgium and just inside the French border. These northern Allies are in a net which will draw close.

The battle of Flanders is essential for two purposes. One is to close this gap, reunite the Allied line and thus save the great army of the north.

The other is to prevent the Germans from pouring reinforcements through this gap to the coast, and at the same time the Allies hope to cut off these Nazi mechanized units which already have gone through.

Reports this morning indicate that both the northern and the southern Allies had been making some progress and were fighting well.

In the channel fighting the Germans have captured Abbeville, where the Somme empties into the sea.

London this morning announced the great port of Boulogne also had fallen to the Nazis—a grievous blow to the Allies as it is one of the principal ports of communication between England and the continent.

Meanwhile German forces were turning the Allied left wing in northern Belgium and pushing for the ports of Ostend, Dunkerque and Calais.

You can see that the battle of Flanders and the fighting for the channel ports are in a large measure interdependent.

If the Nazis get the rest of the channel ports and are able to consolidate their positions in force, the invasion of England—Hitler's great ambition—will be at hand.

We shall see the first great battle of history between warships and airplanes in the English Channel.

Signs multiply that this blitzkrieg is Hitler's supreme gamble. He is pouring into this titanic offensive every resource which he has with the idea of getting a quick decision because he can't stand a long war.

Frank Hill To Attend Meeting Near Kerrville

Because of outstanding sales achievement, Frank Hill, manager at Pampa for the Great National Life Insurance company, Dallas, has been invited to be the guest of the company at its annual agency convention at Camp Waldeimar near Kerrville, Texas, next week.

Mr. Hill, who is recognized as one of the best informed and most alert life underwriters in the Panhandle territory, will be among a group of Great National Life leaders from all parts of Texas who will be honored during the convention sessions in recognition of their leadership in life insurance sales work in 1939. He will leave for the convention this week-end, and will have a place on the program.

Mr. Hill announced that the program at the Camp Waldeimar meeting will combine educational sessions with varied recreational activities. The business sessions, which will be instructional and informative, will be in the nature of a agency training school to further equip top-flight producers in applying life insurance to human needs. Talks will be given by the company officials, Mr. Hill said, including S. J. Hay, president, B. N. Woodson, Hartford, Conn., director of service of the Life Insurance Sales Research Bureau, will be guest speaker.

Featuring the slogan, "Growing With Texas," the company, now in its thirteenth year of operations, Mr. Hill said, takes pride in being a Texas institution, owned and managed by Texans and doing business exclusively in Texas, said Mr. Hill in pointing out that the company's investments in the state are a vital factor in the development of Texas resources and business.

Work through committees will continue this week under the direction of the evangelists until Sunday when preaching services will begin.

Panhandle Holds 27th Graduation

PANHANDLE, May 24—The closing activities for the 42 seniors in the 1940 graduating class came Tuesday evening with the twenty-seventh annual commencement exercises in the high school auditorium.

The honor graduates were George Measley with an average of 93.3 and Laverne Ketchum with an average of 92.5. The theme of the program was "Where We Live," with topics ranging from Our Town to the United States.

The seniors marched to the stage under arches of red roses, held by the Juniors. Mrs. O. R. Owens accompanied the seniors as they sang "A Perfect Day," by Carrie Jacobs Bond.

In discussing "Our Home Town," Jack Craig told of the first school in the Panhandle which was taught nearly 50 years ago by Mrs. F. H. Hill. Julia Mae Ingram had as her topic "Carson, Our County," and told how the seniors are doing their best to make Carson county a better place in which to live.

Walter Dittberner, Glenn Gripp, Joyce Lemons, Edward Rorex, Virginia Lee Vance and Hartwell Williams sang an arrangement of "Aloha Oe" by Laka.

George Measley gave the valedictory address on "Why I am glad I live in the United States." He told how present-day conditions have brought about more unity in America, the land of choices, where every one is his own dictator.

Scholarship Awarded

"Personality—Our Inner Self," was the topic of the salutatory address by Lavern Ketchum. "Since we must live with the person within us, let us strive to make it what a person will call a friend," she said in part.

George Measley was granted a scholarship to all-state schools, and Wyatt college, F. C. U. Baylor, S. M. U. and Trinity. While Laverne received scholarships to the denominational schools.

Additional awards received by George Measley were the Balfour award, which is based on achievement, scholarship and loyalty; the Bausch Lomb science award for having the highest science grade over a period of four years, and a year's subscription to the Readers Digest. His science average was 95.75 for the four years.

J. M. Knowles presented the grade school awards to George Ann Simms in music, Ruth Mary Thompson and Betty Armstrong in English. The high school English award went to Leta Robinson.

Kellus Turner, assisted by Elbert Howe, class president, presented diplomas to the 42 graduates.

The senior lark was "With the ropes of the past we ring the bells of the future." The flower, the red rose, and class colors, red and white. Over-Drilling Hit By Col. Thompson

AUSTIN, May 24 (AP)—Asserting the oil industry in Texas was over-drilling itself into bankruptcy, Ernest O. Thompson, member of the railroad commission which controls production, expressed the opinion in an interview today that output should be limited by fields.

"Texas operators have been drilling 24 wells a day since Jan. 1," Thompson said, "and allowable increases have been granted at a rate of 72,000 barrels daily. Obviously, the new wells are being brought in faster than we can cut the production."

"The natural remedy would seem to be a top allowable for a field, meaning that additional wells drilled would incur a reduction in allowable per well."

There are more than eight million dogs in the United States.

Amarillo Sox Defeats Oilers 12 To 5 In Mud

Two Clubs To Open Series Here Tonight

AMARILLO, May 24.—The Amarillo Gold Sox were better mud-dens than the Pampa Oilers so they won a 12 to 5 game last night at Main field. Tonight at 8:30 o'clock the two teams will battle under the lights at Road Runner park in Pampa, and on a dry playing field.

Gold Sox hitters teed off on Miller Yanny, Rex Dilbeck and John McPartland for 46 base hits while Russell "Kid" Crider, 17-year-old high school student, had his high.

The Pampa Oilers and the Amarillo Gold Sox will play two games here before taking to the road for a week. Tonight's game will be called at 8:30 o'clock, which is 15 minutes later than usual, because of longer daylight. Tomorrow night's game, which will be free to women, will start at 9:15 o'clock.

Jack Knobles will make his first appearance in a Pampa uniform tonight and will play left field. Knobles is the property of the New York Yankees who believe he is a real prospect. Daniels will be shifted to right field with Potter playing second base, his natural position. Starting pitcher will probably be Gus Hallberg.

hard one working perfectly to limit the Oilers to eight hits. Phil Potter got to Crider for a home run while Lloyd Summers bagged two doubles.

Manager Grover Setz of the Oilers gave the fans their first glimpse of human emotions in the sixth and he was ably assisted by Dutch Prather, first baseman. But Empire Thompson was the big boss of the game as he ran Setz and Prather off the muddy battlefield. At the time Amarillo was leading 8 to 2.

Ground Muddy
The ground was more than damp from Wednesday night's rain. It was slick. However, the Gold Sox were able to hold their feet pretty well but the Oilers apparently didn't have their mud cleats with them because they slipped and slid all over the field.

Kid Crider was so effective during the first five frames last night that only one Pampa got a safe hit off him, Jordan connecting for a Texas League single in the second. In the sixth, The Kid ran into his first trouble and singles by Malvia, Prather, and Summers counted two runs. In the ninth, Summers doubled after one out, the next batter went down, and Jordan singled to score Summers. Potter hit the night's only homer to score two and end the uprising. For Crider then struck out McPartland to end the game.

In the first inning, Yanny, Pampa's starting hurler, walked three in a row after Emmett Altenburg's double which, with Fulenwider's

Kay Pearson To Play Mrs. Goldthwaite In Semi-Finals

By FELIX R. MCKNIGHT
FORT WORTH, May 24 (AP)—Four years ago, the acclaim from winning the national intercollegiate tennis title still coming her way, Miss Kay Pearson decided to take up golf as an off-season sideline.

Today, the 26-year-old Houston girl played in the semi-finals of the women's southern golf tournament, the classic for Dixie, along with three of the nation's foremost players.

She got there by defeating national champion Betty Jameson, 2 and 1, in yesterday's stunning upset. Rain, mud and chill winds bothered this novice but little as she scored a clean, well-earned triumph over a champion who just couldn't match her courage.

Winner of the national intercollegiate singles and doubles tennis titles in 1935 for Stanford, Miss Pearson suddenly started thinking golf.

"Actually, I've played only three years of golf. One season I was recovering from an appendectomy. I can't believe I beat Betty—I was so frightened."

It seemed it was her heart more than her golf game that brought her victory. She had fine shots, but she backed them up with positively nervous putting.

Today Miss Pearson meets Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite of Fort Worth, who came from under a three hole deficit at the end of six holes to eliminate Miss Dorothy Kirby, Atlanta, Ga., one up.

"Still the steadiest, and gradually becoming the favorite was Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page of Chapel Hill, N. C. She was 39 on the first nine to defeat Mrs. Sam Israel of New Orleans 6 and 4.

Boy Players Steal Show In Texas League

(By The Associated Press)
The Texas league is serving up a delightful menu of dash and enthusiasm, with the accent definitely on youth.

Houston, San Antonio, Tulsa and Beaumont have the most non-class men on their rosters and right now they rank in that order from the top.

The youngsters on the Houston roster—such as Howard Pollet and Ed Wissman—get much of the play with their pitching. And youthful John Antonelli tops the league in batting.

Mix them with veteran slugger Nick Cullop and you have a ball club.

Last night, Cullop batted in five runs. It was his stick work in the first game of a double-header that saved young Pollet from his initial defeat of the season.

Wissman pitched a no-hit, no-run game in the nightcap against Oklahoma City. Houston won 9-8 and 9-0. It was Wissman's second straight shutout.

Houston's double win increased their lead over the field to 10½ games.

Tulsa dropped two to Beaumont, to slide into third place while the Exporters jumped from sixth to fourth. The scores were 4-3 and 5-1.

Ed Terrell Leaves For Lubbock For Knee Operation

Coach Odus Mitchell of the Pampa Harvesters and Ed Terrell, center of the 1940 Harvesters football team, left early this morning for Lubbock where he will undergo an operation for a knee injury.

Ed suffered the knee injury in the first play of the opening game last season. He didn't play any more football until the final game.

During spring training Ed showed up as a stellar center prospect and his knee didn't bother him much until near the close of the practice period. It was decided at that time that the athletic association would have the knee treated.

Two years ago Bobby Karr, full-back, suffered the same type of accident. He underwent an operation and today his knee is as strong as ever and he has played several games of football.

Ed had signed up to play an important role in the Entrada cast, but had to give it up.

Sox Vault From Last To 4th Place In Five Days

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
The season's best straight and fancy sleight-of-hand in the pageant the Chicago White Sox are performing this week for the American league patrons.

From last place to fourth in five days is a feat of magic that the world champion New York Yankees would pay plenty to learn.

From April 16 until Monday the Sox were never better than a tie for fifth and never had won a game in their own park.

The dikes burst open this week and the club won four straight in Comiskey Park, climaxed by a 13-4 shocker to the Philadelphia Athletics yesterday.

The Sox have crowded 57 hits into their last four games and had 13 yesterday. The A's outdid them with 16 blows, but the Sox bunched ten runs into one furious fire-cracker eighth inning and the Athletics sank out of sight.

The Yankees slithered back into the cellar by dropping a 3-2 decision to the Detroit Tigers and big Buck Newsum.

The St. Louis Browns wrung out an 8-7 twelve-inning triumph over the Washington Senators. The Browns had to come from behind to tie the score in the eighth and again in the ninth. In the 12th

Jimmy Bloodworth hit a two-run homer that looked like the payoff for the Senators. But in their final turn the Browns banded across three runs on George McQuinn's second homer of the game, a single, a triple and a fly.

The Chicago Cubs and Philadelphia Phillies managed to put on the major leagues' first night game of 1940 last night and gave the customers at Shibe park a 13-inning show that the Cubs ultimately won 4-3.

All the other games in the National league were rained out along with the anticipated feature of the junior circuit—the clash of the Cleveland Indians and Boston Red Sox.

Both teams have been practicing for several weeks and several outstanding players have appeared on the teams.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK, May 24 (AP)—The fifth column of football—the raiding scouts from outside the state—are getting some competition in Minnesota. Minneapolis has formed an amateur sportsmen's club to fete high school prospects and sell them on Bernie Bierman's pickkin laboratory.

The Pirates tried to trade Paul Waner to the Brooks for Gus Mancuso, but it was no dice.

Goodness, Girls
When the members of the De Pere (Wis.) high school squad reported for spring practice they found the new dressing rooms colored baby blue and pink, set off by coral green lockers... and they dare their opponents to throw it up to 'em next fall.

If the Cardinals decide to cut Ray Blades' head off, Billy Southworth, now at Rochester, is said to be slated to take over in St. Louis.

Lightweight Champ Lew Jenkins is in a legal jam here for refusing to go through with a date in a small club, made before he upset Ambers to win the title.

The Giants go under the arcs at the Polo Grounds for the first time tonight. But owner Horace Stoneham swears there'll be no foot races, Indian dances, band contests or leg shows such as feature night games over the river in Brooklyn.

This Is It!

Eight weary months of jockeying for position, of sparring and watching for openings, have come to a close with the recent invasion of Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg and France.

The chips are down. The game is on. This it is. There is nothing in the European events of the past two weeks which was not implicit in last September's declaration of war. What has happened, might have happened any day since last September 1.

Let us clear out of our minds those glib explanations of Goebbels and the indignant protests of the Allies. Neither matters now. The invasion of the Low Countries is not, and never has been, dependent on the kind of arguments and explanations which will soon be appearing in White, Yellow, and Blue books.

The simple fact is that when great powers, such as Germany and the Allies, are in a death-struggle, small neutral states simply do not count at all. If the geographical accident of their existence gets in the way of one power in its plans to attack the other, no such power ever has allowed the rights of those neutrals to hamper them.

This is war. Not war as a strange new monster sprung for the first time from some deep hell, but war as it has always been, and as it always must be. The whole history of Europe is this same story repeated—the endless struggles of Titans trampling beneath their blood-flecked boots the rights and lives of any and all neutrals whose fate it was to be in the way.

Drunk with the power of the military machine she has led her people for seven years to build, inflated by easy success in Poland and Norway, filled with the delusive idea that the British and French cannot or will not fight, Germany has at least elected to loose the total war.

For a nation which has proposed total war as its only answer to Europe's problems, Europe can have only one answer—total defeat.

Out of the welter of hair-splitting arguments dividing guilt here and apportioning blame there, one central fact stands out like Mt. Everest. It is this: If Germany, under Hitler, had not elected to build this giant military machine and to use it ruthlessly to gain her ends by naked force, by threat of war, and then by war itself, this war would not have happened.

Once again the fate of Europe trembles in the scales. And the shadow of those warring balances now falls menacingly across the world.

COMPETITION (Los Angeles Examiner—By Benjamin de Casseres)

Almost all that is worth while in this world comes to life through the competitive instinct.

On this subject there is at hand the following clear exposition from the pen of Gabriel Wells, well-known collector of rare books and manuscripts:

"Competition? Precisely. As the operative note of capital is preservation, so that the labor is competition. Competition is inherent in labor. How does one get a job? By showing oneself the better man for it. Even in answering an advertisement for help one tries to rush to the place to get ahead of another as the applicants are lining up. Without the spur of competition labor would degenerate into inane drudgery, into a slavlike condition.

"What incentive would there be for self-improvement if the chances of getting a job were indiscriminately allotted? Or is security through having a job doled out preferable to having freedom to look for a suitable job? Opportunity is all that a self-respecting individual should expect the state to guarantee keeping open.

"Yes, capitalism is the system most becoming to the manliness of man. Socialism and Communism are inverted forms of the obnoxious laissez-faire principle, the let-alone method. In place of rugged individualism, they offer rigid state-ism. Neither Socialism nor Communism measure up to the dignity of human existence—with its attributes of initiative, aspiration and self-possession."

My only objection to what Mr. Wells says is his expressing "the obnoxious laissez-faire, the let-alone method."

I find that most persons function better both as individuals and citizens when let alone. The curse of individual and social life is interference.

Behind The News

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Although it will be more than two years before anybody moves in, elaborate preparations for a vast migration of peoples to the Grand Coulee basin are being made now.

Eventually, the area made fertile by Grand Coulee water will provide homes for half a million. What is going on now is a huge study to make sure that the settlement will be orderly and will be handled in the wisest possible manner.

Study is being made by a committee sponsored by the Bureau of Reclamation. In it are all sorts of public and private agencies—representatives of the Department of Agriculture, of the army engineers, of the Washington state planning council and state college, of local chambers of commerce, irrigation districts, highway commissions, and so on.

WORK WILL BE DONE SLOWLY AND ORDERLY

Big point the committee agrees on is that there'll be no rush about the job; the whole thing likely will take 20 years, maybe longer. Probability is that the area will be developed in "lots," a little at a time; there'll be nothing resembling the Oklahoma land rush of a generation ago.

President Roosevelt has said a majority of the settlers ought to come from the dirt bowl migrants. Whatever is done about that, only about a third of the 500,000 inhabitants will be on farms, past experience on

Sharing The Comforts Of Life ---

By R. C. Holles

FREEDOM LITTLE UNDERSTOOD

We hear a great deal about freedom, but very few people have given much thought to the subject as to what freedom really means; and, after they have come to understand what it means, how we can best bring about conditions that will permit the greatest possible freedom for each and every individual.

In the first place, there can be no freedom whatever without responsibility. For a man to have freedom without being responsible, would be anarchy. And the first responsibility that each man who desires freedom must be the willingness to assume the responsibility of supporting himself. If he will not assume the task of supporting himself, he cannot have freedom.

Freedom includes, of course, the greatest amount of choices that each man may have in his right to create useful things, that other people have an equal right to create. Anything that interferes with him in this right to create or produce anything that any other man has a right to create infringes upon his freedom.

The primary purpose of the government should be to guard this most sacred right, or freedom, of all its subjects without any discrimination whatsoever. If it discriminates against the rich or against the poor, it will eventually destroy freedom.

Another kind of political freedom that should be the aspiration of every citizen is that each individual has the right to make mistakes so long as they directly injure only him. He must have the right to eat himself to death, drink himself to death, smoke himself to death, work himself to death, loaf himself to death, starve himself to death, or to commit suicide if he sees fit. Remember, these are rights as far as the government is concerned. He does not have a moral right to do these things. But here is where the government should be separated from private rights. Society should attempt to persuade him peacefully not to do injury to himself, but the state should not take it upon itself to prevent him from injuring himself. This responsibility of judgment of making proper decisions is absolutely essential for the greatest possible freedom.

And when men contend that the government should step in and protect man against his own errors to keep him from starving, because the individual will not adjust himself to being of service to society, then we are misusing the word, "freedom". We are using it in a way that has little if any meaning.

So when men without principle, men who will not write a rule of conduct other than the so-called majority rule, contend that a man is not free when he has to take the wages some man will freely give him or starve, they are using the word "freedom" in a way that has no meaning. They are using it as a dictator would use it—that the state must step in and regulate the minute details of the lives of individuals and make decisions for them.

Truly freedom is something that is little understood and must be better understood if we are to return, even approximately, to the freedom we had from 1868 to 1913.

PHILOSOPHY OF SCARCITY BY LAW

Few people realize that we have in reality placed on the statute books a law which prevents the employer from having the right to choose between associates who believe in the scarcity scheme and those who do not believe in the scarcity scheme. It is little wonder that we have one-third of the people ill-fed, ill-clothed and ill-housed, and 15 million jobs short, when we put laws on the statute book that make slaves of men with the creative spirit; that is, it prevents them from associating with people who stimulate them.

And what law is this? It is none other than the Wagner Law that says the employer dare not refuse to hire a man who believes in collective bargaining. Collective bargaining is in every case a philosophy of scarcity. The employer dare not show any preference whatsoever to a man who believes in the philosophy of the creative spirit and equality of rights. They must be treated exactly the same as the man who acts without principle and wants special privileges and has no philosophy of life other than arbitrary, dictatorial actions.

In other words, a Hitler, a Stalin, a Biolf, a Scalsie, a Ma Perkins, a John Lewis and a William Green must be treated exactly the same as a Benjamin Franklin, as a Thomas Jefferson, as a Jesus Christ, as an Edison, as a Burbank, as a John Burroughs.

Not only that but the representatives of the government have the right to determine and be the final judge as to whether you are treating them exactly the same. And, they have the right to decide that the testimony of one interested man is more important than the testimony of a hundred reputable witnesses in deciding the case.

It is hard to see very much difference between the Fascism that exists in Europe and the Fascism that exists in the United States in our our statutes.

POLITICAL MOTIVES SEEN IN CHAVEZ SPEECH

While the Hatch clean-state-politics bill was under debate, Senator Chavez (Hatch's New Mexico colleague) jumped up with a stirring defense of the motives of Hatch and Congressman Dempsey in sponsoring the legislation. He waved a newspaper clipping which hinted that the two were really trying to take the vote away from citizens of Mexican descent, and said such a hint was outrageous; he knew both men, he said, and knew their motives were lofty.

All of which is funny when you know the background. Chavez is up for re-election this year; the one Democrat conceded a chance to beat him for the nomination is Congressman Dempsey, whose chances are very good indeed. Come campaign time, and Chavez can make fine use of his "defense" of Dempsey, if Dempsey does run.

And there's this: few senators have a tighter state machine back of them than Chavez. Chavez voted against the new Hatch bill—which riled Dempsey so much it may be the determining factor in persuading him to run for the Senate.

STEADY ADVANCE

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON NEA Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, April 25.—Any visitor who can crash the rehearsal hall at 20th-Pex these days may witness the never-to-be-forgotten spectacle of over-stuffed Jack Oakie and limber-legged, lanky Charlotte Greenwood practicing dance numbers. As they didn't say back in vaudeville days, that pair can really jive the corn.

The sturdy Oakie, of course, used to be a hooper, but the marvel now is that he can fit from how to bow with such agility. Miss Greenwood, at 46, is as peculiarly hinged as she was a quarter century ago when she liked to smooth her back hair with her right foot while warbling, "I Dreamt I Dwellt in Mar-urble Halls." But she never danced like this.

She never danced at all in pictures, although this is her third campaign since she tried the silent muggles in 1918. While she was just a comedienne, they wouldn't let her be funny. Later, having been acclaimed as an actress, they wouldn't let her act. Today, thanks to the persipacity of Darryl Zanuck, she's doing everything. And loving it. In this picture, "The Young People," she plays the vaudeville mother of Shirley Temple and appears in everything from baby clothes to a hula costume.

FIRST HIT STAGE AS CHORUS GIRL

Miss Greenwood is such a favorite of the London theater that many of us have thought of her as an English actress. She's no such thing. Her father was a Philadelphia barber and her mother a hard-working American woman who began to support Frances Charlotte when the child was 1. Poverty wasn't the only reason Charlotte couldn't dress attractively. At the age of 11 she was 5 feet 8 inches tall and was no more streamlining than the automobiles of her time.

A sense of comedy was a compensating gift of nature, but by a strange set of circumstances, involving a note to Ned Wayburn, her first job-right after she had quit school in the seventh grade—was in a chorus. Showgirls wore tight in those days, so Miss Greenwood was fitted out with a set of leg and hip pads, called "symmetricals." From the waist down she looked like Lillian Russell. From the waist up she looked like Charlotte Greenwood. After one startled glance, Wayburn ordered her into the floor-length kimono of a Japanese maiden.

SHE WANTS TO DO QUEEN ELIZABETH

She was chorus girl in her next show, but only in a comedy scene in which she was measured by a marvelous director. Next, as half of a vaudeville sister act, she discovered that audiences became hysterical over her lugubrious songs and double-jointed gestures. Came fame, with three years at the Shubert in "So Long Letty;" then more musicals, plays, road tours, five years in London.

She still can touch the palms of her hands to the floor or stand erect and place a foot on top of a refrigerator. She does such things each morning just to keep in trim. What Miss Greenwood most wants to do, though, is play the role of Queen Elizabeth. I think she'd be swell in it.

People You Know

By Archer Fullingim

In the last week, dozens of Pampa High school boys who are strong and intelligent and proud and willing to work have stood beside this desk and have said: "You don't know where I could get a job, do you?" So here is an open letter to all commencement speakers, especially to the man who stands before the graduates of Pampa High school and tells those job-starved boys and girls how to commence life: I know what those boys and girls want to hear from you more than anything else. They would like for you to tell them where to find jobs, how they can earn money to go to college. A job is the thing that is on their minds and will be on their minds henceforth. They won't be paying much attention to that part of your speech wherein you will recite familiar recipes for success and well-known virtues. They will be thinking about jobs, and they will be wondering if the only jobs they'll be able to get will be in the armed forces of the U. S., and if and when they do join the army, the air force, or the navy they will go to escape unemployment or if they will go to fight on foreign soil. Will you discuss those things with those boys and girls Mr. Commencement speaker? If you do, they'll listen to you even if you don't know the answers to their questions. You might be able to tell them how to get a job and how to keep their chin up.

And that brings us to our annual summer chore: getting jobs for boys during the summer. If you want to do your part, give them a job. Some of them never had one, and don't pay them wage-slave wages. If a man doesn't have a boy he has nothing. If you do, if you have a job for the boys doing anything let us know.

Principal Frank Monroe and the teachers of Pampa Junior High school had reason today to be proud of the grand promotion program staged last night by the ninth grade pupils who will become high school sophomores next fall. It was an unusual program in that it gave the public an idea of just what these boys and girls have been studying and just what they have accomplished as junior high students. Particular impressive were the remarks of John Tom McCoy, president of the student council, who touched on the democratic ideals taught in the school and who told the parents and friends present of the pride which the school instilled in them for this nation's democracy. When so much of the world is embroiled in strife and suffering, it was good to sit there and listen to a fine American boy express his views on democracy. Still more important is the fact that he realized and appreciated the fact that he is a native of a country where he is free to express such views.

WHOSE FREEDOM AND WHOSE RIGHTS? By GUS W. DYER Professor of Economics and Sociology, Vanderbilt University

In the recent decision by the Supreme Court, invalidating the Alabama picketing law, the court has taken a position that would seem to be absolutely antagonistic to the Wagner Law that was affirmed by the Court. The Alabama statute makes it a misdemeanor for any person or persons, "with-out a just cause or legal excuse" "to go near or loiter about" the place of business of another person engaged in a lawful business, for the purpose of injuring the person engaged in a lawful business by hindering, delaying or interfering with his business activities.

The opinion of the Court, invalidating this statute was ready by Justice Murphy. When he was chief executive officer of Michigan Justice Murphy did not arrest or in any way interfere with the radical labor group who seized the private property belonging to others, and appropriated it to their own use, because, as he stated, he was afraid that if he protected private property against these radical labor leaders it might cause bloodshed.

The freedom of speech and of the press, says Justice Murphy, "are among the fundamental personal rights and liberties which are secured to all persons by the Fourteenth Amendment. The safeguarding of these rights to the ends that men may speak as they think on matters vital to them, is essential to free government. The dissemination of information concerning the facts in a labor union dispute must be regarded as within the area of free discussion that is guaranteed by the Constitution." Yet the Wagner Law, affirmed by the Supreme Court, takes from employers these two fundamental constitutional rights—freedom of speech and freedom of press—secured to all persons, says

Justice Murphy, by the Fourteenth Amendment, and prohibits employers from speaking or writing on matters vital to them, without just cause or legal excuse. The positive purpose of the Fourteenth Amendment is essential to free government.

The Alabama law does not in any way prohibit or restrain legitimate freedom of speech. In the interest of social order and general welfare it is absolutely necessary for the government to regulate the methods of exercising and expressing freedom of speech. Religious freedom does not mean that anyone may go up and down the streets, harangue citizens, and make himself a nuisance in his zeal to induce them to follow him.

The Alabama statute neither prohibits free speech nor picketing. It simply states that the proper rights of legitimate, taxpayer business against unwarranted and pernicious attacks on private business should be protected by law or legal excuse. The positive purpose of the picketing attacks is to injure the business against which the attacks are made, and force those in charge of the business to surrender their constitutional right of freedom, and bow to the unjust and indefensible demand of the picketers.

The law simply provides that those who are conspiring to destroy any legitimate private business unjustly shall be required to conduct their campaign of force and destruction in an area at a reasonable distance from the business that they are seeking to destroy. The Supreme Court rules that a sovereign state cannot put any such restrictions on the would-be destroyers of private business. Under the pretense of freedom of speech they must be permitted to crowd in as close as they please in as large numbers as they please, and surround the private business with pickets in their attempt to bring serious losses on the owners of the business.

Tourists Advised To Visit Old Mexico

MEXICO CITY, May 24 (P)—United States tourists were officially advised by the Mexican government today that they could make plans to visit Mexico this summer without fear of encountering a revolution.

Expressing appreciation not only for the economic benefits to Mexico of American tourist traffic, but also for the "greater understanding and increasing cordiality" between the two countries that results, the department of the interior declared:

"The present is characterized by an insidious propaganda which attacks many peoples and Mexico is, frequently, the target of some attacks.

"Among other things, it has been rumored that certain movements are being incubated here, which, naturally, inspires lack of confidence in those who desire to visit us on holiday trips.

"Such versions lack foundation and it can be stated emphatically that one of the real attractions of Mexico is precisely the peace which her people enjoy—devoting themselves to work."

TOMORROW is Poppy Day. Once more it is our privilege to pay a small installment on our debt to the Boys who went overseas—a debt which can never be fully paid but which can be somewhat compensated for by the generosity of a grateful nation.

MONEY in itself cannot compensate for lost limbs . . . disfigurement . . . seared lungs . . . blinded eyes, but it is the only means we have for making a partial payment on our debt. And it does help to alleviate the suffering of the Boys who gallantly exposed themselves to the risks of modern war in defense of their country and its ideals—the boys who won the war but were permanently disabled while winning it.

THE entire proceeds realized on the sale of poppies will go for the rehabilitation of these men—every last cent of it. For a year now, they have been making poppies and planning for this one day. Let's show them we haven't forgotten . . . by making this Poppy Day the biggest they've ever had.

Senator Connally Laments Idea of Defense Committee

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP)—Senator Connally (D-Tex), leading a successful fight against creation of a congressional committee on national defense conduct, gave the Senate this picture yesterday of how such a group might operate.

"The chairman would say," Connally began, "come to order, gentlemen. We're here to look after the national defense. You all got cigars? Pass the cigars around, clerk. There is everybody comfortable?"

"Mr. chairman," a member would say, "I've got a little resolution here. I see where the army wants to buy some big tanks. I'm agin' that."

"Everybody knows when you got a big tank you can just have it in one place at a time. And you got more money tied up in one big tank than you would have in two little tanks. I think we ought to buy a lot of little tanks and send them to South America."

"We aren't going to have any dictator," Connally continued, "but when it comes to what kind of bombs we are going to get and where you are going to send them, I want a dictator to do that. I can see a member of this proposed committee saying:

"Mr. chairman, there isn't anything in either of the party platforms that says anything about the size of the bombs we ought to buy. I think we'd better call in all the leaders and talk this thing over."

"And that," Connally concluded, "is just a sample."

— ROMANCE AHEAD

BY TOM HORNER

Copyright, 1940, NEA Service, Inc.

YESTERDAY: Monnie tells Larry about the accident. She was hurrying home when she crashed into the other car on Dead Man's Curve. Saw the car cover the cliff. Then heard the shot. Bentley arrived soon, tried to pull the dead man from the wreck. Bentley had seen the car speeding toward the hill, followed. The coponer found evidence that the victim had been drinking. "But Hugh never drank liquor," Larry says.

CHAPTER VIII

MONNIE was silent, wanting to believe Larry, but unable to comprehend how he could be so sure that Hugh had not been drinking. Larry went on:

"Hugh never drank, and he wasn't drunk that night, regardless of what the coroner says," he found. "He was certain of that. My uncle was a drunkard, and Dad never got over it. When Hugh and I were youngsters, Dad explained that we might have a taste for liquor and he hated it so that both Hugh and I promised never to drink. We might have forgotten that promise made as boys, but Dad was killed the next day. Hugh would never have broken his word to Dad.

"If it weren't for this drinking angle, I'd think Hugh deliberately drove off the cliff to avoid running into you— But if he'd been drunk, he wouldn't have done that. Someone knows more about that whisky bottle in Hugh's car—and I'm going to find out who it is, and where that bottle came from."

"But— you don't blame me for what I did," Monnie ventured, "and for not telling the whole truth at the inquest."

"His arms were around her, pulling her close to him. She did not resist.

"I couldn't blame you for anything you've done, Monnie," Larry reassured her. "You didn't kill Hugh. Either he killed himself, or— But you had no part in it. I know that."

"His lips brushed her soft, black hair. She looked up at him. "I wanted you to say that, Larry. You have to believe me."

"He bent to kiss her lips. . . . jerked back abruptly, jumped on his feet. Surprised, half-angry, her eyes demanded an explanation.

"I've still got a job to do, finding out about Hugh," he said shortly. "I've no right to even think about you until that's finished. Please understand." He turned, walked quickly from the porch without waiting for her to answer. Halfway to the bunkhouse he heard her call:

"Larry!"

He hurried on.

HE did not stop at the bunkhouse, but went on to the corral. The black whinnied as he approached. The horse was his favorite now. Larry sat in the shadow of the saddle house, smoked half a dozen cigarettes as he studied the story Monnie had told him.

The black whinnied again. The horses were restless, probably because he was in the corral, Larry decided. The moon, rising late, shed a pale, cold light over the Hayhook. With characteristic abruptness, Larry decided to take a look at Dead Man's Curve.

The black settled into a long canter as Larry left the ranch headquarters. An hour later, he sat on top of the promontory overlooking the scene of Hugh's fatal accident.

To the right a white ribbon of concrete stretched eastward toward Bentley's house. Mike's house, he knew, was about five miles away. Nearer, in the same direction, an airline beacon swung round and round, flashing a pencil of light against the sky. That beacon marked Bentley's landing field, available to transport planes in event of an emergency.

Directly below the road dropped sharply downward from the rim of the canyon to the valley below. The curve, almost a right angle, was hidden from sight, but the road south, toward the Hayhook turn, was clearly visible at the foot of the hill.

Larry dismounted, led the black, sliding and snorting, down the steep hillside to the highway. He tied the horse to the fence a few hundred yards from the curve, walked down the pavement.

He stopped at a newly painted stretch of railing at the road's edge, to peer down into the canyon where Monnie had watched the burning wreckage of Hugh's car. He could feel Hugh's nearness.

AN hour later, Larry returned to his horse. He had found nothing of particular value, but he had a clear picture of the scene of the accident. He would have to wait for daylight to examine the floor of the canyon. He mounted and turned back toward the ranchhouse.

The black was walking slowly, picking his way along a cow trail. Larry noticed the black bulk of resting cattle, looming in front of him, turned aside to avoid disturbing them. Suddenly he became conscious of a steady hum, overhead.

He stopped, listened intently for several minutes. The plane was coming closer. He scanned the sky for its lights. None were visible. With sudden decision, Larry wheeled the black, kicked him into a run toward Bentley's airport.

Larry dropped into a draw that led down to Bentley's line fence. Shadows were deeper here, and the going rougher but there was less chance that someone in the plane might see him. Or someone on the ground, waiting for that ship to land. He slowed the black to a fast walk, let the horse find his own way.

He climbed out of the draw when he came to Bentley's fence. Lights blazed around the edges of Bentley's landing field, a mile away. Floodlights made the runways bright as day. The plane's motor cut off, as the pilot dexterously maneuvered the ship in for a landing.

As the plane touched the ground, Larry caught sight of a car speeding across the field. It was beside the ship as the plane stopped. The lights went out.

Larry waited. The roar of the airplane motor broke in on the stillness again. The field lights flashed on again. The ship raced across the field, took off easily. Larry followed it, as it circled around, passed almost directly overhead, and disappeared into the southwest. Bentley's landing field was dark again. There was no sign of it there.

LARRY had no doubts, now, as to who was the head of the narcotics ring. There was only one answer—Bentley.

Few people, outside of the authorities, even knew that narcotics were being smuggled in here. No one would suspect Bentley and even if they did, proving such a charge was another matter.

The trail to the ranch led down through the canyon where Larry had fixed the fence. Barnes had been right. Already the plains farmers had cut a road through to the railroad, and all the padlocks in the state couldn't keep them out. Barnes had finally given in, left the gate unlocked.

Larry heard a car coming behind him now. Probably someone taking a shortcut to the highway. The car was coming nearer. If the fool was driving fast, he might run the horse down. Larry turned off, hurried up a draw, hid in the shadow of the canyon wall. The car came down the canyon. Its lights were dim. It passed within 50 yards of Larry, disappeared.

Larry whistled. The car was Monnie Miles' convertible coupe. (To Be Continued)

San Saba County Famous For Springs

Special To The NEWS
SAN SABA, May 24 (AP)—Eight citizens of San Saba county are 90 or more years old and folks here profess to believe that the abundance of spring water in the county contributed materially to their long-livly. It is on record that several other persons who came to this section in childhood lived well past the three score and ten years.

Thousands of springs, many with a pronounced mineral flavor, provide the county with more than 500 miles of running water.

The aged group are: Mrs. Claritha Choate Draper, 102; Mrs. Jane Brown Carroll, 96; Mrs. Nan Duncan Linn, 96; E. S. Johnson, the only surviving Confederate veteran in San Saba county, 93; Mrs. Richard Kolb, 90; Newell C. Brown, 90; Mrs. Alice Sloan, 90, and J. K. Rector, 91.

Mrs. Draper owns the stock farm she settled with her late husband soon after the close of the Civil war in the western part of the county. She is a sister of the late Gabe Choate, Texas Ranger and Indian fighter. She is in good health.

Mrs. Carroll is the only living charter member of the First Baptist church of San Saba, which was organized on Simpson Creek in 1856. Her father, J. H. Brown, was one of the founders of the town.

The husband of Mrs. Linn was a Texas Ranger and their wedding was a social event of the frontier after the return of the soldiers from the Civil war. Her father and other members of the Duncan family helped establish old Fort Duncan at Richland Springs as protection against Indians. She is the mother of four sons and four daughters, all living, and does most of her housework.

A Texas Ranger also was the husband of Mrs. Kolb and herself a descendant of the Houstons who gave Texas the redoubtable General Sam. She was born in Tennessee and still lives on the place she settled with her husband a few years after their marriage.

Rector, despite his age, is a practicing lawyer and active real estate dealer. He is a nephew of James Knight who settled in Fort Bend county in the '40s, and is found at his office daily.

Jones Introduces Farm Loan Bill

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP)—A seven-year limitation would be set for collection of $50, $75, and $100 annual government crop loans under a bill introduced by Chairman Jones (D-Tex.) of the house agriculture committee.

Jones said the purpose of the measure was to clear from the records a few loans made several years ago which have not been collected. The government has spent more in an effort to collect some of these loans than the balance due, he said.

Governor To Miss State Demo Meeting

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL
 AUSTIN, May 24 (AP)—Governor W. Lee O'Daniel does not plan to attend the convention in Waco next Tuesday when Texas' delegates to the Democratic national convention in Chicago will be selected.

This is the word from William J. Lawson, the governor's secretary.

O'Daniel took no hand in the recent controversy over whether the state's delegation should be pledged to John N. Garner or to President Roosevelt. In fact, since he has been governor, he has evidenced little interest in national politics.

"The Lord himself doesn't know who the governor is for," Lawson said.

For a governor not to attend a state presidential nominating convention is unusual.

The war has "blackened out" most talk of politics in the state capital—and most talk of anything else.

Said Edward Clark B. Austin, former secretary of state and personal secretary to Governor Alfred and now a practicing attorney:

"I wouldn't be surprised if there is a big decrease in the vote at the Democratic primary in June. It may be we won't poll 1,000,000 votes.

"People won't be worked-up, over the governor's race or any other. They are thinking about the threat to Democratic institutions, Americanism, national unity and purposes, not politics and candidates."

Charles Langford of League City, Galveston county, presents a new campaign slogan.

Candidate for the railroad commission, Langford, former director of production in the oil and gas division of the commission, is urging voters to:

"Elect a technician instead of a politician."

An engineer, Langford has had eight years' experience in oil field services. He is a graduate of Austin college and the University of Texas.

Another slogan new to Texas politics is that of B. R. Lemay of Athens, candidate for state superintendent of public instruction. It is "Let Lemay Lead the Way, to Better Education in Texas."

Slogan of Jerry Sadler, gubernatorial candidate, is "Put Sadler in the Saddle."

Ernest O. Thompson, expected to announce soon for governor, has talked much of, "A Nickel for Grandma." He favors a five-cent barrel tax on oil for social security financing.

their well-known declaration, "We Are Agin High Interest, High Rent, High Taxes."

One of the most famous slogans to crop out in a Texas political campaign was Governor O'Daniel's, "More Smokestacks and Business Men; Less Johnson Grass and Fewer Politicians."

Former Attorney General William McGraw continues to arouse interest as to what he may be up to politically.

In Austin the other day he said he was "doing a lot of traveling and meeting people." From Austin he planned to go to Houston, and from there to Texas.

"And on the way home," he added, "I intend to stop at every crossroads between Texarkana and Dallas."

He commented briefly on the gubernatorial campaign situation, observing that candidates opposing the re-election of Governor O'Daniel were using the wrong tactics.

"They are all playing right into O'Daniel's hands," he said. "They think they have fine radio voices, and are trying to get over via the radio. But mostly, they sound like lost calves crying for their mamas."

"To beat O'Daniel a man must talk directly to the people. It can't be done on the radio. That is O'Daniel's ground."

The Alabama-Coushatta Indians, located near Livingston and among Texas' oldest citizens, won't vote in this year's elections.

"They could have if they had paid their poll taxes, but said Clem Pain of Livingston, and an attorney, they did not pay the tax on advice of advisors.

"Since they are wards of the state and federal governments, friends advised them to stay out of politics and thereby avoid any possible controversies," explained Pain, who is a chief of the tribes. "This is for their welfare."

Pain is trying to defeat Senator Gordon Burns of Huntsville, who is running for re-election.

The clock on the town hall of Amerham, Bucks, England, has been going for more than 300 years.

State Claims Pollution Of Neches River

DALLAS, May 24 (AP)—The state moved by injunction and agreement in district court yesterday to prevent what it claimed was pollution of the Neches river system with salt water from the East Texas wells of 80 oil companies.

Temporary restraining orders were granted against 18 companies and individuals.

Effect of the order was to halt dumping of salt water into the Neches and its tributaries, and unless the 18 companies can find storage pits for the waste, they must cease pumping oil, Assistant Attorney General Hugh Q. Buck said.

Fifty defendants signed an agreement with Buck and Assistant Attorney General James Noel stipulating that they will contribute to the expense of an immediate survey of their properties and leases by engineers who will recommend various systems of disposing of the thousands of barrels of salt water pumped from wells daily. This water has been finding its way into the Neches river, killing fish, ruining it for cattle, seriously damaging Southeast Texas rice fields and endangering the water supplies of city.

The agreements signed brought to 100 the number of oil companies that are cooperating with the state in halting pollution of the river system. Fifty others sued previously entered into the agreement last January.

Trial of the application of Attorney General Mann for a permanent injunction on its merits, for the 40 new defendants who did not sign the agreement, and for any others that do not comply with it, was set for July 8.

The cities of Beaumont, Port Arthur and Port Neches, which intervened in the original suit, dropped out as plaintiff intervenors, and attorneys for those cities indicated the probability of independent action to halt pollution of the water supplies of the cities, which are fed by the Neches.

Defendants against whom temporary restraining orders were issued: J. L. Collins & Company and Collins, Stroube & Stroube, both of Corsicana; MGR Oil company, Denton.

FDR's Delegates Exceeds Majority

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP)—As President Roosevelt's pledged and semi-pledged delegates to the Democratic convention reached a majority today, Republican demands arose that he state his third term intentions in his Sunday night "fire-side chat" on national defense.

Democrats, however, expected no such disclosure.

Rep. James W. Wadsworth (R-N. Y.) termed "absolutely sound" Alf M. Landon's challenge that the president take himself out of the 1940 presidential picture if he ex-

Bernard M. Baruch, who headed the U. S. War Industries Board during the World War, may be called upon to organize industrial mobilization for future defense needs. The financier is pictured arriving at the White House for a recent conference on the subject with President Roosevelt.

Jackson Calls On Public To Combat Spies' Activities

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP)—Congress and government agencies joined today in a widespread attempt to uncover and stamp out subversive "fifth column" activities which might jeopardize the nation's security.

Attorney General Robert H. Jackson called on the public to cooperate by reporting to the Federal Bureau of Investigation "acts, threats or evidence of sabotage, espionage or other disloyal activities."

He said he personally would favor fingerprinting of aliens before visas to the United States are granted them.

Senator Byrd (D.-Va.) urged that congress lose no time in passing "drastic and compulsory legislation requiring a complete registration of every person in America who is not today a legalized citizen."

House leaders tried to arrange speedy approval of President Roosevelt's proposed transfer of the immigration service to the justice department to make possible quick action against undesirable aliens.

House sentiment was demonstrated yesterday when the legislators wrote into the billion dollar relief bill provisions barring Communists,

Nazi "bund" members and aliens from relief rolls.

The attorney general said the FBI would be enlarged if necessary to deal with subversive activities. He added that if congress approves the transfer of the immigration service from the labor department, it would be made a separate unit like the FBI.

Soul And Body To Be Sermon Subject

"Soul and Body" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, May 26.

The golden text is: "My soul longeth, yea, even fainteth for the courts of the Lord; my heart and my flesh crieth out for the living God." (Psalms 84:2).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "I will walk before the Lord in the land of the living." (Psalms 116:9).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Life is the law of Soul, even the law of the spirit of Truth, and soul is never without its representative. Man's individual being can no more die nor disappear in unconsciousness than can Soul, for both are immortal." (page 427).

The X-ray now can be used to determine accurately the size and weight of the heart.
