Flowers Arrive For Poppy Day Observance Soon

Bright red, poppies, crepe paper replicas of the famous poppies of Flanders Fields, Hill Legion headquarters here today as the women of the American Legion auxiliary prepare for the annual observance of Poppy Day on Saturday, May 25.

The poppies were received from Legion Texas hospital where they were made by disabled World War veterans. They show the patient and devoted work of these men who made them in remembrance of their departed comrades. All handmade, the flowers vary slightly according to the skill of the veterans. "Poppy-making means much to the disabled veterans," explains Mrs. Al Lawson, Poppy Day chairman. "For those in the hospitals, it provides an interesting occupation to fill the long hours of illness and convalescence. It has high value as occupational therapy, helping the men speed their recovery. It gives them the encouraging experience of again earning money and being able to send money home to help support their families."

"The poppy work rooms maintained by the auxiliary in a number of states, provide employment for disabled men outside the hospitals who are unable to do other work. For them the poppy work is an eagerly sought relief from unhappy idleness, from the almost hopeless search for a job their limited strength can perform, and a means of supporting themselves and families."

The disabled veterans are the only persons who receive pay for poppy work. The auxiliary women who handle and distribute the flowers serve as unpaid volunteers all contributions received on Poppy Day going to support Legion and auxiliary efforts for the disabled and the needy families of veterans.

Pampa Youth In Thrilling Naval Review

Participation in a thrilling naval review at Honolulu was the experience last month of a Pampa, William O. Gilstrap, of the U. S. S. Louisville.

To Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bond here he has sent a letter and a copy of the Honolulu Star-Bulletin, dated Friday, April 26, describing the event.

The Hawaiian newspaper put out a special 62-page, three-section Fleet Edition. On the front page of section one is a story of the review in which 88 ships of the United States navy participated and which was viewed by 100,000 persons.

40,500 Visitors

Held at night, the review was lighted by huge searchlights, 300 being used, the largest of 750,000 candlepower.

Fleet Week ends the maneuvers of 1940 in the Pacific and brings 40,000 visitors to Honolulu. The ships and men remained in Hawaii until May 8.

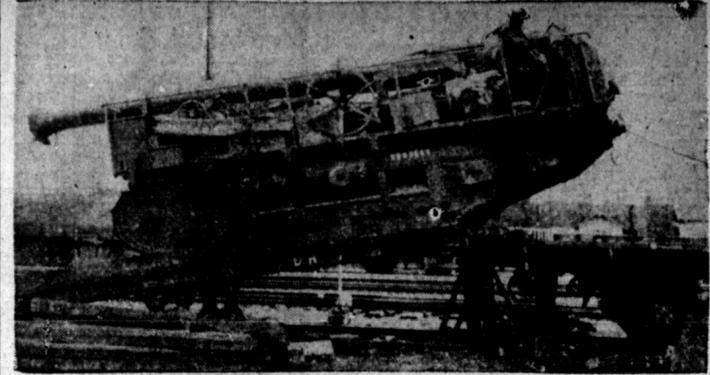

The special edition carried a complete fleet roster of the staffs of the visiting ships, a full page picture of Charles Edison, secretary of the navy, pictures of destroyers, cruisers, aircraft carriers, of the fleet high command, flag officers, old and new in navies, primitive Hawaiian scenes, and interviews and pictures of sailors with the fleet.

Addressed from Honolulu, T. H. and dated April 28, the Pampa's letter reads:

"Dear Bud and Sis:

This is one of the most perfect pictures that I have ever seen. I just

Rains Each Morning

"It usually rains about 30 minutes every morning early and then the sun shines all the rest of the day, except for a few clouds now and then.

Price-Bolstering Loans To Be Asked

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP)—With the war closing many foreign markets to American farm products, authoritative sources said today that the administration plans to ask Congress soon for upwards of $400,000,000 for price-bolstering loans on 1940 crop surpluses.

Such funds would supplement the $750,000,000 farm subsidies and benefits tentatively approved by both the House and Senate in the agriculture department supply bill.

Farm officials are viewing the foreign market outlook with anxiety. Secretary Wallace predicted that exports during the coming fiscal year would be 30 per cent smaller than this year. Sharp reductions in foreign sales of cotton, wheat, tobacco, fruits and pork products are anticipated. Exports of several of these products already have been affected.

Inasmuch as the country already has bumper supplies of most of these products, normal production under the federal crop control program would add to those surpluses and could be expected, officials said, to have a depressing effect on prices.

Under existing legislation, the agriculture department is authorized to make loans to producers on surpluses at rates tending to bolster and hold prices above levels that the supply and demand situation otherwise would dictate.

However, funds available for such loans were said to total less than

American Citizens Advised To Leave Italy Immediately

ROME, May 16 (AP)—American diplomatic authorities today advised United States citizens to leave Italy as soon as possible.

The United States consulate sent the following circular to American residents in the Italian capital:

"The consulate has been directed by the embassy to call the attention of American citizens residing in the Rome consulate district to advice of returning to the United States at the earliest possible moment."

It was understood that other American consulates in Italy were issuing the same advice.

Ambassador William Phillips delivered a message from President Roosevelt to Italian authorities yesterday for transmission to Premier Mussolini, it was learned.

The embassy declined to add anything to the Washington announcement that the message was sent in an effort to prevent the war from spreading.

Inasmuch as the country already has bumper supplies of most of these products, normal production under the federal crop control program would add to those surpluses and could be expected, officials said, to have a depressing effect on prices.

Under existing legislation, the agriculture department is authorized to make loans to producers on surpluses at rates tending to bolster and hold prices above levels that the supply and demand situation otherwise would dictate.

However, funds available for such loans were said to total less than

Russian Newspaper Sees World Conflict

MOSCOW, May 16 (AP)—The government newspaper Ivestia asserts the European war is turning into a world conflict which will soon envelop the Mediterranean area and the Balkans and involve the United States and Japan in the Pacific.

"The imperialistic war begins to demand millions of victims," the paper says today. "One billion, two hundred and fifty million men, or over one-half of mankind, already are drawn into the orbit of war in Europe and the far east."

Ivestia asserts that differences between the British-French bloc and Italy in the Mediterranean and the near east have reached a state of "extreme acuteness."

"Contradictions between the United States and Japan have been sharply aggravated," it says, "in connection with the beginning of the struggle for the 'Dutch inheritance' in Asia."

New Dealers Not Weeping Over Holt

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP)—Failure of Senator Holt (D-W Va.) to win renomination left New Dealers dry-eyed today.

For Holt, the "baby senator" who had to wait six months in 1935 before he was old enough to take office, has been one of the most outspoken Democratic critics in Congress of President Roosevelt's policies.

He fought the 1937 court reorganization bill, repeatedly accused the WPA of "playing politics," opposed the cash-and-carry neutrality bill, and for a year and a half has talked of introducing an anti-third term resolution.

The 35-year-old senator ran third in Tuesday's West Virginia primary. The Democratic nomination went to Judge Harley M. Kilgore of Beckley, whose Republican opponent will be State Senator Thomas B. Sweeney of Wheeling.

Holt is the second senator to be defeated this spring for renomination. The first was Senator Burke (D-Neb.), who had opposed the administration on such issues as the court bill but who upheld the President in the neutrality battle last fall.

Three senators are retiring voluntarily: Donaney (D-Ohio), Hale (R-Maine) and Schwellenbach (D-Wash.). Nominated Tuesday for Donahay's seat were former Rep. John McSweeney, a New Deal Democrat, and Mayor Harold Burton of Cleveland, Republican insurgent.

A frequent foe of the Roosevelt administration, Martin L. Davey, won the Democratic nomination for governor of Ohio, an office which he held from 1934 to 1938. Gov. John W. Bricker was unopposed for Republican renomination.

While these developments attracted widespread interest in Congressional circles, politicians also took note of the fact that primaries and conventions this week have brought President Roosevelt's Democratic convention delegates near a majority.

Counting Ohio's 52 delegates in his column, though they are nominally pledged to National Committee member Charles Sawyer, third term supporters figured the President already had 447 delegates pledged and semi-pledged.

Only 609 of the Democratic convention's total of 1,094 full-voting delegates have been chosen. This leaves nearly 500 more to be selected, and third term advocates were confident that these easily would furnish the strength required for a majority.

Test Of Barlow's 'Glimite' Postponed

ABERDEEN, Md., May 16 (AP)—A test of the death-dealing powers of inventor Lester F. Barlow's liquid-oxygen-carbon bomb was postponed today until next week and the lives of a herd of goats were at least temporarily spared.

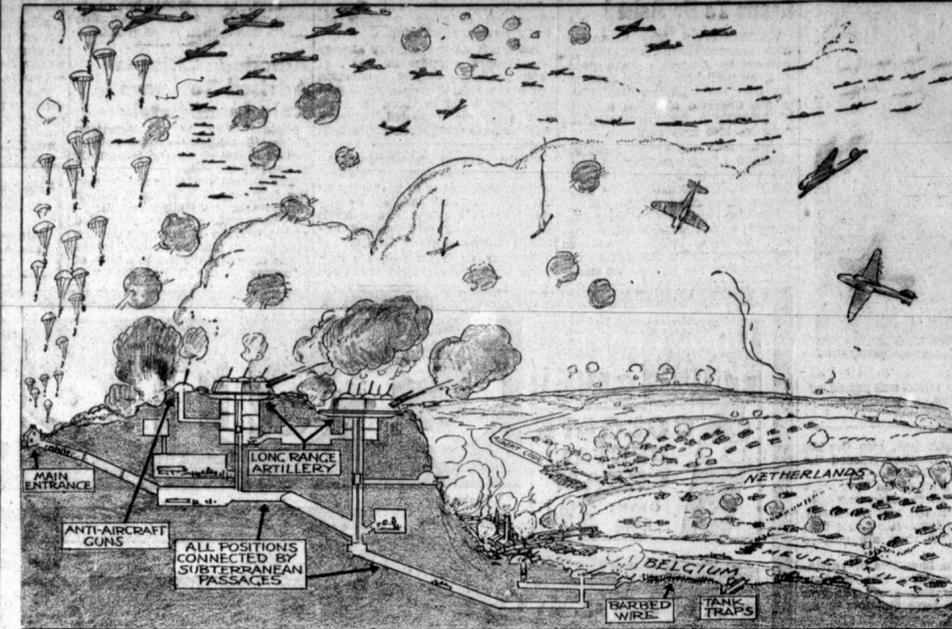

The inventor declined to go through with the test today because, he said, he was ordered to bring out a 1,000-pound sack of his "Glimite" 20 minutes before the scheduled time and much of the oxygen evaporated.

Barlow, obviously upset, left the scene before some of the congressional committee and military authorities for whom the demonstration was arranged had arrived. He returned later and said there had been "some mistake."

MIGHTY BELGIAN FORTRESS AT LIEGE FALLS TO GERMANS

NEA Artist Grissinger's sketch pictures the German storming of the Belgian fortress Eben Emael, covering the juncture of the Albert canal and the Meuse river. Although the method used to take the great fort remained a mystery, it was claimed in Berlin that "a new means of attack" had been employed, with air force its backbone. The sketch shows the Germans subjecting the fort to a tremendous aerial bombardment, landing parachute troops behind the fort, while motorized units, covered by artillery fire, force the canal and river. The Germans called Eben Emael the strongest cornerstone of the Belgian extension of France's Maginot Line, said its quick capture "brings up the question as to the defense possibilities of the Maginot Line." The German reports described Eben Emael as consisting of a whole group of fortifications. "Its task is to prevent a crossing of the Meuse river as well as the Albert canal by long range fire. The main entrance is situated in the west, protected by a hillside. An ordinary house camouflages the entrance. The fighting stronghold consists of casement constructions some 35 feet wide and 90 feet long where long-range artillery is in position. The entire fortifications are surrounded by barbed wire entanglements and air raid defenses. Many tank traps consist of ditches 30 feet wide at the bottom and 60 feet wide on the surface. The fort had a garrison of 1200 men."

'Chute Troops Trained For Special Work

By EDWIN SHANKE
BERLIN, May 16 (AP)—The German army's spectacular new service branch, the parachute troopers, are daring young men who have been trained in secret for special operations far beyond normal infantry practice.

Informing sources say that in recent months they were put through special training for the important part they were to play in the low-lands campaign.

They trained and practiced in isolated districts in eastern Germany and in some "general government" area of German-occupied Poland.

These sources said varied tactics were developed for attacking fortified points, disrupting enemy reinforcements, encircling military objectives and occupying airports.

Indirectly discounting suggestions that parachute soldiers may have played a decisive part in the fall of the Eben Emael near Liege, where the Germans claimed use of a "new weapon," an air force officer told of some of the details of the parachute mode of attack.

"Ten or 15 men spring from the plane at intervals," he said, "far enough apart so their 'chutes do not tangle."

"The machine must not fly too fast or the men will be dashed against the rudders. They must assemble on earth from areas of hundreds of yards. They certainly would not land in the center of a fort or close under armored turrets."

"Besides, parachutes land slowly. After the opening of the parachute they drop at the average rate of 18 feet a second. The customary height for jumping is 3,000 feet, so they need four minutes, 10 seconds to land."

"Parachutists, therefore, would be a wonderful target for fast-firing weapons."

The modern German army learned a lesson from the American Indian to help provision its parachute soldiers.

Half a dozen pemmican sausages, like the Indians carried, are among the limited food staples each parachutist carries.

The high command decided on pemmican because Arctic explorers found it a nutritious, highly concentrated food.

Other rations include soy beans, cranberries, dried fruit, several bars of chocolate, lemon drops and two to four cans of prepared conserves of meat and vegetables.

Each man carries a box of anti-fatigue tablets with Vitamin C pills and a bag of powdered acid of wine which quenches thirst when dissolved in water.

The parachute soldier thus is provisioned to sustain himself at least eight days.

He carries short-barreled firearms.

Wheat Price Break Without Parallel

CHICAGO, May 16 (AP)—The roar of Europe's war has produced an earthquake in Chicago's teeming wheat pit, center of world trade in the most important single food commodity.

A price break without parallel in World War days and seldom equalled in grain trade history occurred in the wake of the German smash on the Western front.

It upset the careful calculations of million of persons and startled agriculture and the many Allied interests and businesses.

In the first three days of this week the market value of the new wheat crop which American farmers will begin harvesting within a month was cut more than $125,000,000.

The war-inspired selling began Monday and up until the start of dealings in the crowded wheat pit this morning prices had collapsed 23 cents a bushel. Other grain prices dropped in unison, rye losing even more ground.

Most of the price gains inspired by the war and built up laboriously in the last eight months were wiped out. Before the opening today wheat prices were the lowest since last November and rye the lowest since just before the war started.

Mrs. Hill Named Pioneer Woman Of Panhandle Club

Special To The NEWS
PANHANDLE, May 16—Mrs. F. H. Hill was selected by Carson county club women at a meeting of the federation this week as the pioneer club woman of the county, whose name will be inscribed on a bronze plaque at the Phoebe K. Warner memorial at Claude.

Mrs. Hill has resided in the Panhandle for the past 50 years and taught the first school in Carson county. She helped organize the Erudite club and was a tireless worker in organizing the county library, which was first sponsored by the Erudite club.

The program for the afternoon being on education, it was fitting that school children have a part. The first part of the program was rendered by the fourth grade, which entertained with a number of group songs; a duet, "Jeannie With the Light Brown Hair," by Jean and Joan Hindshaw with Oleta Dowlen at the piano; and a solo, "Beautiful Dreamer," by Carolyn Williams, accompanied by Mary Beth McCoullough. Following these numbers, Glenn F. Davis of White Deer directed the high school choral club in the following numbers: "He Died for Me," "Send Out the Light," "Shortening Bread," and "Apple Blossoms and Chapel Bells."

By the girls sextet; "The Old Refrain," "Rain on the River" by the group, and "Leaning on the Old Top Rail," by the boys' quartet. The closing number by the choral club was "God Bless America."

George Heath of White Deer, who was guest speaker for the afternoon, gave an address on "A Plan of Life." He said in part, "The course of our lives often change from our original plan, and we find ourselves doing something we had not planned to do. In educating young people, impress upon them the necessity of an educational plan flexible enough to meet changing conditions, and train them to think for themselves, for they are unprepared unless they can do this."

Mr. Heath said the major thing in education is the fundamentals of learning, plus a spiritual background, which is the foundation of living.

"There is nothing to base life on when religion is left out," continued Mr. Heath. He urged older people who come in contact with young people to instill in them the fundamentals of life as religion, moral character, honesty, integrity and the ability to cope with social problems.

At the close of the meeting the Groom Community club was in charge of the social hour in the cafeteria and served refreshments of orangeade and cake.

There are five "poles" in the Arctic: North pole, pole of the greatest cold, magnetic pole, ice pole and wind pole.

Chicago Wheat Pit Decline Stemmed

CHICAGO, May 16 (AP)—Strong buying support from consumers, investors and speculators flowed into the beleaguered wheat pit today to stem one of the sharpest price collapses in market history.

Selling which earlier this week approached near panic proportions as German military forces pressed the Allies on Europe's western front diminished sharply today although prices swayed up and down over a range of almost 7 cents a bushel.

At low points for wheat, with May contracts selling at 84 cents a bushel, the market showed a minimum loss of as much as 25 cents since the start of trading Monday. Such a decline has only been matched once before in market history since the turn of the century when the speculative boom collapsed in July, 1933.

Buying orders associated with large flour sales and export business in Canadian wheat helped to rally the market as consuming interests sought to take advantage of bargain counter prices for grain.

Wheat showed overnight gains of as much as 4 cents in early dealings before tumbling more than 6 cents. After midsession, however, there was a renewal of buying and prices steadied at levels about 1 cent above the previous close. Noon quotations showed net gains ranging from 7/8 to 2 cents, with May at 87 1/2.

Britain Unleashes Greatest Air Attack

LONDON, May 16 (AP)—Great Britain's Royal Air Force has unleashed its greatest bombing attack on military objectives in Germany east of the Rhine and has thrown its power into the Belgian fighting with extensive attacks on Nazi troop concentrations and communication lines.

"Many tons of bombs" were released in "attacks that lasted throughout the night," the air ministry declared.

The R. A. F. operation east of the Rhine was called "a big offensive against the enemy's road and rail communications which are supporting his forces in their invasion of the low countries and Luxembourg."

Fires broke out and heavy explosions resulted, it was said.

Allied war communiques declared that Germany's big push through the low countries was being slowed down by the stiffening resistance of land and air forces.

British Tommies thrown into the sagging Belgian lines were said by a headquarters communique to have "successfully held back serious German attacks" in hard fighting.

Waves of Allied planes were said to have broken up mechanized forces massed by the Germans in a drive to capture Brussels and turn the flank of French fortified lines.

A British headquarters communique declared that since the start of the lowland offensive the air force with the British expeditionary force has destroyed at least 124 German planes, while 23 have been downed by anti-aircraft fire.

British headquarters said an Allied fleet of 150 planes raked German lines converging on the Meuse at Sedan yesterday and their bombing and machine gunning halted the German advance and allowed the French to counter attack.

Wounded Begin Arriving

The loss of 35 French and British planes in the strafing operation was called "not excessive."

Wounded from fighting zones began arriving in England. Between 200 and 300 British casualties, half of them stretcher cases, arrived at Liverpool early today from France and Norway.

Tommies wounded in the first engagements in the low countries remarked grimly:

"We've got something to beat."

A Belgian communique declared the Liege forts (some of which Germany claims to have taken) "continue to resist" in the Maasrict sector where the Germans broke through.

The home secretary today extended internment to all male Germans and Austrians from 18 to 60 years of age throughout the nation whose movements had been restricted but who had not been detained.

Hundreds of police cars began a vast roundup in the London area.

Restrictions previously applied to enemy aliens in category "B," those affected by today's move, were that they must not own motor cars or cameras, nor travel more than four miles from their homes or change their addresses without police permission.

The British Press association estimated the order affected 3,000 persons, of whom 2,000 were refugees.

Ditching Contract Approved By City

Approval of a contract with the Monarch Construction company for the construction of a 2,000-foot water line ditch five feet deep in Benedict addition east of Pampa was made by the city commission at its meeting this week. The job includes backfill.

Payment of the $120 on the contract is not from the city but the owners. Reason for the city's approval was that construction of the ditch is to be under city supervision so that if the ditch is located within the city limits later, all provisions of the zoning laws will have been met in advance.

TROOPS CLASH

the great Belgian fortresses of Liege and Namur, in eastern Belgium, were still holding out, although apparently isolated. The Germans say they have captured the Liege citadel and other forts at Liege and Namur. German armored columns reported to have penetrated the Allied lines in Belgium "to a considerable depth" at several points. The thrusts were reported unsupported by infantry.

President Roosevelt sent still another communique to Premier Mussolini in an attempt to prevent the spread of the war to southeastern Europe.

Premier Paul Reynaud of France told a cheering chamber of deputies that France would win—despite the darkness of the minute-by-minute situation—and that Germany was gambling everything on one desperate push to the west.

A French war office spokesman said that a great battle was in progress and that the situation was "serious—very confusing."

German troops marched into the capitulated cities of the Hague and Amsterdam, in Holland, the Nazi high command announced, and a fierce battle raged in the Antwerp fortified zone and all along the Dyle (secondary Belgian defense) line southward to Namur.

"The enemy has accepted the fight," a German communique stated.

The French high command, in a cryptic morning communique, said the bloody 3-day-old battle of the Meuse had flared into mechanized wide open warfare in a gigantic battle of movement. All details were withheld "for the sake of higher interests"—meaning military secrecy.

Meanwhile, the rising crisis in the Mediterranean area was spotlighted by three new developments:

1. United States consulates advised American citizens to leave Italy "at the earliest possible moment."
2. The Yugoslav cabinet reviewed plans for general mobilization amid fears of an attack by Italy.
3. Greece massed troops on her frontier with Albania, an Italian "protectorate."

The Allied command, failing to turn the German lightning pushes into a war of position, resorted to swift tank counter-attacks and the British staged their greatest air raid of the war.

The situation along the roaring, 50-mile front from Sedan, France, to Namur, Belgium, was in such a state of flux that the French high command declined precise information on the action in progress.

Berlin military circles looked for the main battle to develop along Belgium's "Dyle line," the second line of defense running north along the Meuse to Namur, from there to the Dyle river near Louvain, 16 miles east of Brussels, and then westward to Antwerp.

A French war office spokesman said Nazi attacks were thrown back north of Namur, but that between Namur and Sedan the Germans were pushing forward at the three points where they crossed the Meuse yesterday.

BRUSSELS THREATENED

While Germany threatened to blast Brussels into ruins unless military operations there ceased forthwith, the Mediterranean attained a new tenacity of apprehension.

Italian nationals rushed out of Turkey, non-belligerent ally of Great Britain and France. The Yugoslav cabinet met to review general mobilization plans.

Greece, which holds a British-French guarantee for help in case of attack, rushed troop reinforcements to her Albanian border while troops at Piraeus practiced at embarking and disembarking.

An unconfirmed report had it that Britain was pressing Greece for the right to set up naval bases on Greek islands. A further cause of Greek uneasiness was the fact that the Allied battle fleet had started "scheduled maneuvers" off Alexandria, Egypt, its base.

The British announced their Royal Air Force now was an important factor in Meuse front operations, having made its biggest offensive of the war on German objectives east of the Rhine, dropping "many tons" of bombs effectively during the night.

British Tommies stiffened Belgian defense lines.

A wounded British soldier, returned to Liverpool from the fighting in the low countries, stated succinctly the power of German arms. "We've got something to beat," he said.

Great Britain threw up a new safeguard against any "fifth column" business at home. All male Germans and Austrians from 16 to 60, previously restricted but not detained, were ordered interned.

In Washington, tense over war reports, President Roosevelt surprised congress with his decision to go before a joint session today with recommendations for a greater national defense program.

features of the show. It calls for as much electric power as it takes to fill the needs of a city of 15,000 population.

The "Entrada" will be presented in Albuquerque from May 29 to June 1. The big show will then move to Clovis, N. M., a jump of 227 miles, for a two night stand. Special ten ton trucks will be the principal means of transportation.

After the Clovis interlude comes a fairly short jump to Pampa, where the "Entrada" will be staged on June 5 and 6. From Pampa the show returns to New Mexico and the youngsters of Raton, N. M., will have a chance to watch the unloading of the ten-ton trucks the day before the show goes on, June 21, 22 and 23. That jump means 275 more miles.

Next on the schedule is the ancient city of Santa Fe, N. M., for a three day pause after registering 281 more miles on the travel log. There will not be any elephants to water, but any children who want to do so may watch unloading and installation of a group of trained horses.

is "handed by that fellow in the White House."

"I have characterized the New Deal before as our fifth column," Kelland said, "and I shall do so again."

"In a private conversation with Van Loan I expressed the opinion that if there was a 'fifth column' in America which could not be disposed of by the local constable, it was the New Deal. Van Loan became offended and declared that I had insulted the president, which is all there is to it," Kelland said.

Negro's Still Story

DALLAS, May 16 (AP)—Arthur Gray, Corsicana Negro, told Federal Judge T. Whitehead Davidson yesterday that he was fermenting mash to feed his hogs.

Officers from Navarro county testified, however, that the mash was used for whiskey purposes.

Gray got six months in jail, losing the case when he testified that he poured the mash for his hogs from an open barrel into a drum with a bung hole so he could "roll" the mash to the stock. A coil, found in his trunk, was used for a water cooler, Gray declared.

A flannel cloth dipped in dry oatmeal makes a good cleaner, for painted woodwork.

POOL MANAGER

O. G. Hinger, physical education director at Pampa High school and coach of the Guerilla football and boxing teams will manage the Pampa Municipal Swimming pool during the 1940 season. Hinger is to start his summer job on May 25 and the pool is to open on June 1. Appointment to the pool manager was made by the city commission at its regular meeting this week.

ROOSEVELT

few hours' notice, the chief executive asserted earnestly that "dangers" confront the United States because of Europe's war and the speed with which modern armies may conquer time and space.

The president broke his request down into $896,000,000 in immediate appropriations, of which the army would get $546,000,000, the navy and marine corps $250,000,000 and $100,000,000 would be at his disposal "to provide for emergencies affecting the national and security and defense."

In addition, he asked the legislators to authorize the government to enter into contracts totaling $286,000,000, to be paid for by appropriations later on.

On the latter, the army, navy and marine corps would receive $186,000,000 and the President $100,000,000.

The President said he would "like to see this nation geared up to the ability to turn out at least 50,000 planes a year."

"Furthermore," he added, "I believe that this nation should plan at this time a program that would provide us with 50,000 military and naval planes."

"Ominous Days" he declared at the outset of his message, "days whose swift and shocking developments fore every neutral nation to look to its defenses in the light of new factors. The brutal force of modern offensive war has been lost in all its horror."

Before detailing his program, he spoke of the speed with which mechanized armies move, of parachute troop invasions and of bombing attacks.

"Because of these things," he said, "the protection of the western hemisphere 'more than ever' calls for 'ready at hand weapons capable of great mobility.'"

Explaining the purposes of the huge new defense fund, Mr. Roosevelt said it would be used for four things:

- "First, to procure the essential equipment of all kinds for a larger and thoroughly rounded-out army;
- "Second, to replace or modernize all old army and navy equipment with the latest type of equipment;
- "Third, to increase production facilities for everything needed for the army and navy for national defense. We require the ability to turn out quickly infinitely great supplies;
- "Fourth, to speed up to a 24-hour basis all existing army and navy contracts, and all new contracts to be awarded."

Words Stark, Realistic

In stark, realistic words, which were broadcast to the nation and relayed over the world by short wave, Mr. Roosevelt pointed to lessons learned by nations which were not ready for war and were over-run by enemies.

"Surely," he said, "the developments of the past few weeks have made it clear to all of our citizens that the possibility of attack on vital American zones ought to make it essential that we have the physical, the ready ability to meet those attacks and to prevent them from reaching their objectives."

"This means military implements—not on paper—which are ready and available to meet any lightning offensive against our American interest," he said. "It means also that facilities for production must be ready to turn out munitions and equipment at top speed."

The President, who has been in communication with Premier Mussolini in an effort to prevent spread of the war, said he still was praying for peace and for banishment from the earth of aggression and force.

Yet, he added, America plainly has a task before it of building up her armed might.

"Our defenses must be invulnerable. But our defense is as yet yesterday, or even as it is today, does not provide security against potential developments and dangers of the future."

"Our ideal, our objective is still peace—peace at home and abroad. Nevertheless, we stand ready not only to spend millions for defense but to give our service and even our lives for the maintenance of our American liberties."

thousand, C. F. Bunkler, a director, will accept the orders for the brick. He has already secured several orders.

The museum must be enlarged to care for donations, Judge J. D. Hamilton of Farwell gave the society a $50,000 collection of famous paintings but there is no room in the present building to place the pictures. The "brickreig" plan was the brain child of John McCarty of Amarillo.

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, May 16 (AP)—The stock market greeted President Roosevelt's bill to speed up the armament program today with a swift buying rush that pushed many prices up 1 to 2 points.

Stocks were the chief beneficiaries. The buying got under way while the President was speaking, and the tide of sale fell behind, cutting into the floor. About 2,000,000 shares changed hands.

WTCC Campaigns For Fair Cotton Quotas

BIG SPRING, May 16 (AP)—The West Texas Chamber of Commerce's important works committee today approved a resolution calling for fair treatment for Texas in cotton allotments, which is sent to the regional body's directorate for consideration at noon.

West Texas turned their big guns on a program featured by a continued battle for equalization of freight rates, and interest centered on this afternoon's transportation conference which was to hear an address by Jerry Sadler, member of the railroad commission.

Reports will also be made by officials of the freight rate equality federation.

While streets and hotel lobbies took on a typical convention carnival aspect, the works committee put its nose to the grindstone under direction of D. H. Bolin of Wichita Falls, chairman, to pass on a series of resolutions to off the directorate.

Brothers Roy Showers, Jim Carroll, C. K. Trease, R. B. Allen, Lewis Pontiac company, T. A. Perkins, Lively's, Husted & Pool.

Battle Seen As General Melee

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN

PARIS, May 16 (AP)—Thousands of warplanes and tanks clashed in an unprecedented battle of movement along the Meuse front today, involving a situation so serious and confused that the high command withheld all but the barest details.

A general melee ensued from Namur south to Sedan in northern France—scene of the fiercest German attacks—with armored units from either side cutting loose from their infantry and plunging boldly forward to strike the enemy from the rear.

A war ministry spokesman said the Germans were meeting pushed deeper into Belgium at three different points on the west bank of the Meuse where they crossed yesterday.

The German high command said its divisions reached the western embankment of the Meuse "again defeating French armored units." South of Sedan, the Germans said, French counter-attacks which included heavy tanks, were repelled and German troops advanced between the Meuse and the Rhine west of Saalautern and near Lauterburg.

It became apparent that Germany's army slowed by fierce counter-attacks at Sedan, was crashing headlong into Allied warfare of the Nazis' own style in a great battle of movement.

That was the picture of the conflict to be pieced together in Paris.

The cypress tree is immune to attacks from insects.

Track Oiled For Midget Auto Races In Week-End

Midget car racing in Pampa Friday and Saturday nights will be on an oiled track which will make the sport faster and more dangerous. Oiling of the track was scheduled for today Joe Berry, local promoter, announced.

Lights were focused on the track last night and additional lights are to be erected tonight, Mr. Berry said. The lights being used are the old softball lights installed by the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Water that filled both curves of the track was pumped off yesterday and the spots were dry enough for oiling with the rest of the track today Mr. Berry said.

dynamic cars battled a rough track with a bad hole on the south curve. The hole has been filled and lapped, the track scraped, and with the oiling a lightning track is anticipated.

Word received from Dallas, where the racers were in action last night, revealed that several new speed demons are scheduled to arrive here for the races. They will be in Houston tonight.

Pampa is the only city in the state where the racers spend two nights in one week.

"We expect to have a couple of boys here to contest Red Hodges and Ted Parker," Mr. Berry announced today. "The other cars will also have a better chance against the favorites on the oiled track."

Pampans who saw the races last week and who have seen an oiled track say that there are more thrills and spills a minute on an oiled track than during an entire dirt track event. More speed can be made and corners can be taken faster, but with greater danger.

Hope in Housing

Economists, who seldom agree on anything, generally agree on this: better business and jobs for the unemployed depend on housing.

It is highly encouraging, therefore, to note that March private building in 37 eastern states was greater than a year ago and 1939 was the best year since 1929. The gain was largely in single-family dwellings.

Home building is the great key-log in the economic jam. If it gets going again in a big way, jobs will be provided in the very fields where unemployment has been the worst. So if 1940 can produce as great an improvement over 1939 as 1939 did over the year preceding, daylight may begin to flood our distressed business picture—daylight admitted through the bright windows of new homes.

First in 19 Years

In June an event will occur which has not happened in the United States in 19 years.

A battleship will be launched. Two of them, in fact. They are our first since 1921. Probably, considering the losses to the British fleet in the present European war, the United States now has the world's most powerful navy.

We were in that position once before. At the Washington conference after the World War we proved that we would stop building battleships if others would. We still feel that way. But if others insist, we have no alternative, and the answer is on the shipways at Brooklyn and Philadelphia.

CITY EMPLOYEES' RIGHTS (Detroit News)

While the law concerned is the local civil service law, the outcome of the litigation over the status of New York subway workers' union contracts may affect indirectly the labor policies of other cities with municipally owned utilities.

The issues in part are fundamental. The courts will determine, in effect, how far collective bargaining can go in the case of utility employees who also are government employees.

That was the issue between Mayor La Guardia and the Transport Workers union which last week brought New York City to the verge of a terrific transport strike. The city is about to take over two privately owned subway companies with which the union had closed shop contracts. The contracts in La Guardia's opinion conflicted with the civil service law, which recognizes no right on the part of city employees to strike. The threatened strike over the fate of the contracts was averted by agreement to leave the whole matter to the courts.

It is of interest that Mayor La Guardia, whose liberal viewpoint hardly can be questioned, was firm in the position that municipal employees cannot be permitted the same kind and degree of collective bargaining rights as other employees. How the courts will see it remains to be learned, but it does appear that such employees cannot have the right to strike without conceding to a minority a share of power that actually belongs, and must belong in whole, to the electorate.

A WORD FOR THE A. P. (Kansas City Times)

Our hat is off to the old reliable Associated Press. Once in awhile it has its bad days. But generally it can be depended on to be where the news is. Last week it scored three important beats in succession. It was first in its announcement of the retirement of the Allied forces from Norway; first in its report that Norway would make peace with Germany, and first in its eyewitness story of the Allied withdrawal from Namsos.

All these were stories of the first magnitude. The Associated Press was perhaps lucky in getting them first. But such luck does not happen without careful and thorough organization on the part of the news service and enterprise and resourcefulness on the part of the correspondents immediately concerned. It is only fair to the A. P. to give this word of appreciation.

Behind The News

WASHINGTON, May 16—One reason for the quiet air of renewed confidence pervading the Taft camp these days is a tabulation of delegate strength just made by a prominent New York lawyer—who, by the way, is not attached to the Taft bandwagon.

This man gathered his own information, state by state, and worked out three sets of figures for the coming convention. There are:

Certain votes on the first ballot: Taft, 227; Dewey, 206.

Probable strength on the first ballot: Taft, 364; Dewey, 255.

Probable strength after the favorite son delegations split up: Taft, 431; Dewey, 283.

This gentleman figures that approximately 200 delegates at Philadelphia will be seriously looking for a dark horse.

He made his survey without the knowledge of Taft headquarters, and the Taft people aren't claiming his hope is necessarily right. But his figures certainly aren't discouraging them any.

UNCLE SAM STILL CHASING BOOTLEGGERS

Six years after prohibition ended, the Internal Revenue Bureau is still making war on bootleggers, illicit distillers, and rum runners.

Trouble isn't entirely confined to the mountain states, either, traditional home of moonshiners. The two biggest booze conspiracy cases since prohibition broke recently in New York and Oklahoma.

Sharing The Comforts Of Life

ROOSEVELT EMBARRASSED THE REPUBLICANS

Roosevelt certainly has the Republican candidates in a very embarrassing position. They have, in reality, endorsed all of the socialistic, communistic theories of the New Deal, such as Social Security, minimum wages, maximum hours, collective bargaining, taxes in proportion to ability to pay and government meddling in general. And when they have endorsed these socialistic theories that have caused our worst and longest depression in our history, they are in a very embarrassing position, when he asks them point blank the question of how they will restore prosperity when they are endorsing the things that the New Dealers have put into effect.

Their only logical answer is that we, the Republicans, can be busybodies and rob more efficiently and less painfully than Democrats can.

It certainly shows how embarrassed people are when they try to get votes by straddling issues.

What the Republican party should do is to be consistent and go to the people frankly and honestly and tell them that all this government paternalism, all this government interference, is stifling the most delicate plant that ever grew—initiative and confidence—and that they propose to do away with it. But they will not do away with it by one sweep, by one operation, for the same reason that they would not attempt to cut a cancer out of a man who was undernourished, nor would they attempt to at one time take away the alcohol from a man who was suffering from delirium tremens, knowing that to do so would kill him. But they would take away these opiates, these deadening influences, just as rapidly as it possibly could be done and, by so doing, would give each and every man a private job at much better wages on the average than he ever had before. They should go on and prove that if this country had progressed at about 4 per cent a year in production during the past 10 years as it did for 150 years prior to 1930, we should now have a national income of $110,000,000,000 a year instead of $70,000,000,000 to be used for consumption, research and expansion; that during the past about 5 per cent a year was used for research and expansion and this would leave over $104,000,000,000 to be used annually by the consumers. This would be nearly double what the people are now consuming on the average.

The very rich have only consumed in the past about 2 or 3 per cent so that taking the wealth from them and giving it to the less fortunate, as the New Deal has been doing for the last 10 years, can never restore prosperity but only make us grow gradually poorer and poorer.

When will the Republicans awaken to their responsibilities of standing for free enterprise and doing it consistently, instead of making statements that have no meaning?

Supreme Court's Contradictions

It is evident, from the recent decision of the Supreme Court's ruling that oil men are violating the Sherman Anti-Trust Law, that they have no conception whatever of eternal principles or truths or consistency.

It is now a crime to establish a uniform minimum price on oil but the department of interior is empowered to make it a crime to sell coal for less than a fixed price. In many cities it is illegal to sell milk for less than a certain price but it is illegal, if the vendors of oil agree to a minimum price. Just think of it! The government rules by way of the Supreme Court that it is not only legal but they must agree by law that they will not sell coal or milk for less than a certain price, while it is a crime if they agree to the same thing on oil.

It is evident that the Supreme Court and the New Deal believe there are no eternal principles; that there is no fixity in laws; that every operation must be decided by Congressmen and okayed by the Supreme Court.

Again, it is illegal to have a minimum price on oil, but it is illegal not to have a minimum price on labor going into interstate business. It is also against public policy, according to the New Deal, for farmers not to have a minimum price. How can any business man plan and look forward and do business when he does not have any conception as to what rulings the Supreme Court will have as to what is legal and what is not legal.

When the people come to believe that men can make any discriminatory law it sees fit, then we are as far from what the Declaration of Independence intended to establish as murder is from love.

to take liquor into the dry states of Oklahoma and Kansas—a federal offense, under the liquor law enforcement act of 1936. In New York, 122 men were indicted on charges of distributing 400,000 gallons of alcohol about New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania over a 10-month period, dodging $1,600,000 in taxes thereby.

Extent of the "revenooers" job is shown, roughly, by the figures. In 1939 they seized 11,425 stills and 7,559,000 gallons of mash, and fines totaling $2,224,032 were imposed on liquor law violators in federal courts. Situation apparently is improving; 1939 seizures of stills were 5 per cent under the 1938 seizures, 7 per cent under those for 1937, and 31 per cent under the 1935 figures.

Biggest number of cases originate in the southern mountain states, as in the long-ago days. There's one difference, though: mountaineers don't shoot the "revenooers" so often nowadays. They've learned it doesn't pay.

REGISTERING AGENTS STOPPING PROPAGANDA

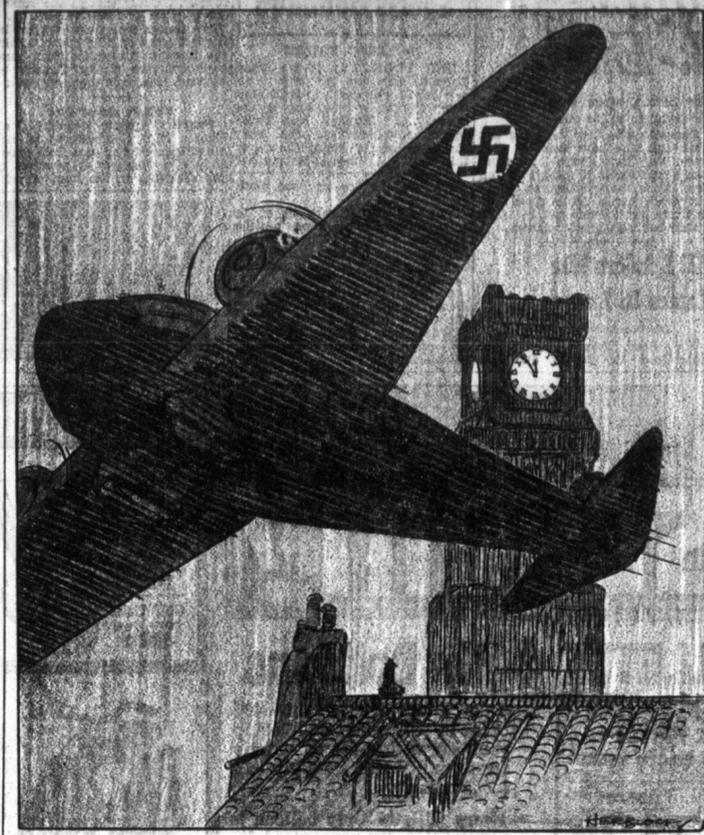

The law requiring all agents of foreign powers to register publicly at the State Department is working fine, if it was meant to check the spread of foreign propaganda.

It has made the big publicity firms awfully shy about taking on foreign accounts; right now, for instance, the British government does not have a "public relations counsel" in this country, although it has made plenty of fat offers.

One New York firm, among the most prominent, has been solicited by every European nation except Germany and the Balkan countries. It turned them all down, figuring the stigma of being admitted "foreign agent" would be too damaging.

It almost took on Norway, though; figured Norway was one country that would never get in 'o a war. While it was meditating the Germans marched in.

WHICH WILL BE TURNED BACK?

Around Hollywood

Bill Porter is battling for Paul Harrison while the NEA Hollywood correspondent vacillates.

By BILL PORTER

HOLLYWOOD, May 16—Minute interviews: Dorothy Lamour: "Old friends are best, and my best friend is the sarong. Reports that I'm going to give it up are all wrong."

"That little piece of cloth has been very good to me, and I do not mind being typed, if that means wearing the sarong on the screen. I wore it in my last picture, 'Typhoon,' and I'll wear it in my next, 'Moon Over Burma.' Never let it be said that Dotty went back on her best friend."

Aunt Cissy Bartholomew: "Fred-Gull is the laziest actor in Hollywood. He wears a size seven shoe but he buys size 10 so he can put them on and take them off without unlacing them."

Lynne Overman: "I've played everything on the stage and screen except a mother and I'll even do that to get away from doing the same thing in every picture."

George Raft: "There's nothing mysterious about our (Norma Shearer) friendship, although I guess we think it's pretty wonderful. Anyway, on the whole everybody has been swell to us. One of the things that makes me selfishly appreciate knowing Miss Shearer is that it seems to make the public see me more as a human guy, not just a tough, hard-boiled gangster. I've done everything I can to get away from having people think of me as an underworld mug."

Ann Sheridan: "Honestly, this ejection ticket is driving me completely screwy. George (Brent) and I haven't even discussed getting married. I don't want to get married now, and I know he doesn't either."

WILLING TO BET HE WON'T MARRY George Brent: "I'll put up $10,000 in cold cash at 10 to 1 that I don't get married for at least three years. And don't think that's any reflection against Ann (Sheridan)."

"I'm going to wind up my picture contract in three years and I don't intend to make any marriage plans until I do. Ann and I have several times together and the gossip mongers can say anything they like."

Tyrone Power (from the April, 1938, file): "Marriage? That's far in the future. After all, I've really only begun to be an actor."

Garon Kanin: "She (Ginger Rogers) has one of the most mature feminine minds I've ever encountered. I'm going over to her house tonight."

Garon Kanin (the following day): "She's (Ginger Rogers) the biggest kid I ever saw. She had us playing charades two minutes after we took off our hats and when we stopped for breath she fixed us chocolate ice cream sodas."

IMPERFECTIONS MAKE MONEY

Fuzzy Knight: "I never have to worry about getting work when Henry Hathaway is making a picture. I'm sort of his lucky stone. He has used me in every picture he has made since 'Trail of the Lonesome Pine.' I hope I bring him good luck on 'Brigham Young.' It looks like I have so far, because we're three days ahead of schedule."

John Decker, Hollywood artist: "About 75 per cent of the movie stars in Hollywood make their living by their physical imperfections. That's one of the reasons that so many artists don't get paid when they paint movie stars. They paint what they see, not what the movie star thinks they should see."

People You Know

By Archer Fullingim

Note to Bonnie Lea Rose who protested rather tartly the other night that she hoped battle casualties in the Entrada will fall at the same time the guns are fired, and not seconds later: Your hope, Bonnie Lea, is not only pertinent but timely, but rest assured such amateurism is not scheduled to take place in the Entrada of Francisco Vasquez de Coronado, the $100,000 show which will have its Texas premiere in Pampa June 13, 14, and 15. In the first place, Bonnie Lea, the show will bring to Pampa a cast of trained acrobats who are trained to fall; not many but enough. They will do all the falling. For instance, Coronado's soldiers will shoot an Indian off a pueblo 25 feet high; the Indian will fall to the ground backward. The "Indian" is a vaudeville acrobat who travels with the show. The firing will also be done by professionals who travel with the show. Then again, Bonnie Lea, guns as you know them will not be used in the Entrada; remember that was 400 years ago. The arms in 1540 consisted of cross-bows and arquebuses, the latter a clumsy gun. Indians will use bows and arrows exclusively. The arrows to be used look extremely dangerous, but they are made out of newsprint glued together and gilded and feathered and rubber tipped. The lances and swords and spears are bonnered and painted in flashy colors. . . . Another thing, Bonnie Lea, when Coronado falls off his horse in a Fiesta parade, it will not be Coronado, but a frink rider from Hollywood. And finally, Bonnie Lea, I have seen both the Cavalcade of Texas and of the Golden West. And I sincerely believe that the Entrada will surpass both shows in the matter of casts, costumes, scenery, light and sound equipment, and in thrills. I have seen the costumes, read the script, seen the props and stage scenery, and have noted that the Entrada equipment is better and cost more than that used in the Cavalcades, so, forsooth why should not the show be better.

LOVE, COURTSHIP AND MARRIAGE

COURTSHIP'S FUN—BUT IT'S ALSO AN IMPORTANT MATTER

Courtship is more than a lot of fun. It is a serious matter. If you don't go about it right, you may never marry. You may marry the wrong person. Or you may give your marriage a bad start.

You and Your Nation's Affairs

ECONOMIC ILLITERACY IN WASHINGTON By GUS W. DYER Professor of Economics and Sociology, Vanderbilt University

Congress should make an appropriation at once to establish a school of elementary economics for the three divisions of the federal government: legislative, executive, and judicial. Business today is so highly complex that it is difficult even for business leaders to understand it. For representatives of the government who have had no experience in business to presume that they can direct complex industrial activities is to invite disaster.

The representatives of the government who support the Wages-Hours Law claim that this law will raise the wages of those who are receiving 20, 25, 30, and 35 cents an hour. It is easy for politicians to capitalize the ignorance of those of small productive power, and make them believe that their wages may be doubled by law. It would be just as logical to claim that a law fixing the minimum price of chickens on the market at $1.00 would compel consumers to pay $1.00 for "scrub chickens" that have a real value of 40 cents. Such a law, of course, would close the markets to the producers of inferior chickens and give a monopoly privilege to the producers of high grade chickens. The logical effect of the minimum wage of 40 cents an hour is to give a monopoly privilege to the producers of high grade workers and give a monopoly privilege to the producers of high grade workers and give a monopoly privilege to the producers of high grade workers.

The Wages-Hours Law is a good example of this economic-business illiteracy. The fixing of wages and hours of labor is a purely economic function, and does not belong to government, under the Constitution. This function in no way comes under the constitutional judicial regulation of business. In exercising the purely economic function that belongs to private business under the Constitution, the government fixes the minimum wage at 40 cents an hour. The purpose of this law is to raise the wages of all workers, men, women, boys and girls, who are now receiving 20, 25, 30, or 35 cents an hour up to a minimum of 40 cents an hour, in order that the living conditions of these people may be raised and a "mysterious burden" may be removed from interstate commerce. Now, everyone who is not cured with economic illiteracy knows that workers are divided into groups on the basis of their productive capacity, and that on the open competitive market each worker receives wages approximately the value of his productive power. The workers of low productive power produce a value of 20 cents an hour; more efficient untrained workers receive 25 and 30 cents an hour. Those of greater productive efficiency receive 35 and 40 cents an hour. All are paid on the same basis, and each receives approximately the value of his productive capacity.

The representatives of the government who support the Wages-Hours Law claim that this law will raise the wages of those who are receiving 20, 25, 30, and 35 cents an hour. It is easy for politicians to capitalize the ignorance of those of small productive power, and make them believe that their wages may be doubled by law. It would be just as logical to claim that a law fixing the minimum price of chickens on the market at $1.00 would compel consumers to pay $1.00 for "scrub chickens" that have a real value of 40 cents. Such a law, of course, would close the markets to the producers of inferior chickens and give a monopoly privilege to the producers of high grade chickens. The logical effect of the minimum wage of 40 cents an hour is to give a monopoly privilege to the producers of high grade workers and give a monopoly privilege to the producers of high grade workers.

The Wages-Hours Law is a good example of this economic-business illiteracy. The fixing of wages and hours of labor is a purely economic function, and does not belong to government, under the Constitution. This function in no way comes under the constitutional judicial regulation of business. In exercising the purely economic function that belongs to private business under the Constitution, the government fixes the minimum wage at 40 cents an hour. The purpose of this law is to raise the wages of all workers, men, women, boys and girls, who are now receiving 20, 25, 30, or 35 cents an hour up to a minimum of 40 cents an hour, in

Clovis Beats Oilers 10-0 In Two Innings

Parrish And Rice Give Up 17 Bingles

CLOVIS, May 16—The Clovis Pioneers held their jinx over the Pampa Oilers last night. Two big innings, one off Parrish and the other off Rice, gave the Pioneers a 10 to 0 win over the Oilers in the first of a three game series.

Clovis hitters blasted out 17 bingles while Pampa fielders booted four. Parrish, although nipped for 13 hits in 3 2/3 innings, didn't allow a run until the fourth when base hits and errors were responsible for six runs. The Oilers got along in fine shape with Lefty Rice on the mound until the seventh when hits and errors were combined for four more runs.

Taylor, Clovis left fielder, paced the attack with a double and two singles on three official times at the plate. Wagner, first baseman, and Adkins, shortstop, bagged three singles each. Adkins was also the fielding star of the night, starting three double plays as he handled nine chances without an error.

Proof that the Pioneers were smacking the ball hard and often is shown by the six putouts by Manager Grover Seitz, Oiler center fielder.

Simpson, Pampa's new second baseman, bagged a pair for the Oilers but booted two. Summers hit a single and double and Malvica

Lights To Be Moved To New Softball Diamond

A new location for a softball diamond is being sought by the Pampa Recreation council and the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The field at Recreation park will not be available at periods during the summer months which makes a new site necessary. It was decided at a meeting last night in the city hall.

The stage for the Coronado Entanda would keep the teams from playing for at least two weeks in June. A new diamond would have to be laid out because of the midge-out races.

The Jaycees plan to move the lights from Recreation park to the new location which will be selected within the week, it is believed. Several lots have been approved but it has not been determined which can be secured.

League plans were discussed at last night's meeting. It was decided that every player would sign a contract, and that rules would be adopted to be strictly enforced. It was also agreed that a small entrance fee would be charged.

Teams ready to go include the Jaycees, Knights of Pythias, Shell, Harvesters Service Station, Danziger and two teams not yet sponsored. A goal of 10 teams was set at the meeting.

Reapers Win Junior High League Meet

Fourteen boys from Pampa Junior high school, without even a day of practice, went to Amarillo yesterday afternoon and annexed the Panhandle Junior High league track and field title. The Pampa youngsters rolled up 28 1/2 points to nose out Central of Amarillo, with 25 1/2 points. Sam Houston of Amarillo was third with 23 points and Horace Mann of Amarillo fourth with 22 points.

It wasn't until near noon yesterday that Coar C. P. McWright was sure that his boys could make the trip. Then he picked the best looking boys from the school meet staged last fall to compete.

The Reapers won three first places, one second place, four third places and a fourth.

Pampa drew first blood when Clifford Howard won the 50-yard dash. Basil Arnold gave the Panthers five more points by broad jumping 18 feet 3 inches. The Pampa 400-yard relay team of Dewey Bond, Bill Grossman, Fred Gussakullus and Bill Arthur, added another first place.

Charles Boyles took second in the shot put. Third places went to Bill Arthur in the 100-yard dash, Ralph Proper in the 220-yard dash and the low hurdles. Arnold and Jerry Alexander tied for third in high jump and Proper tied for fourth.

The Reaper 880-yard relay team of Bill White, George Neef, J. Friddle and Proper, placed fourth. Franklin of Sam Houston won high individual honors with 13 1/2 points.

Cincinnati Beats Dodgers And Regains League Lead

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Writer

Sometimes it's a little hard to believe, but the National league still is a pitchers' league. The games yesterday have satisfied any doubts.

The Cincinnati Reds beat the Brooklyn Dodgers 5-2 on the five-hit hurling of Gene Thompson and a merry-go-round in the first inning. Larry French held the Boston Bees to two hits as the Chicago Cubs triumphed 2-0; lean old Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants kept eight hits well scattered in penning up the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-2, and Kirby Higbe, the Philadelphia speedballer, easily whipped the St. Louis Cardinals 6-3 on eleven hits.

The game at Brooklyn, which put the Reds back in the see-saw race for the league lead, started out like a whirlwind with Cincinnati sending 11 men to the plate and scoring all its five runs. Yet the McKee men got only four hits in the big blast.

French's southpaw slants had Boston helpless, but Nick Strincevich nearly matched him. For six innings each gave up only one single. The Chicago runs came in the eighth when an error put French on first, a triple by Stanley Hack brought him home, and a single by Bill Herman scored Hack.

The only runs Hubbell permitted the Pirates were home runs by Lee Handley on the first pitch of the game and by Bob Elliott in the fourth inning. The 36-year-old left-hander used his screwball sparingly, but kept the game always under control.

Macie Brown, who was charged with the loss, and Dick Lananhan held the Giants to seven hits, but were always in hot water because each of the Pirate infielders contrived to make an error during the game.

Higbe's assignment against the Cardinals was a snap after the Phillies slapped out six singles for six runs in the second inning.

The victory strengthened Philadelphia's grip on fifth place.

All games in the American league were postponed because of rain and cold weather.

Pitching Backbone Of Texas League

It was so little harm was done and Tulsa won 7-2.

Dick Conger and Bob Hardy limited Shreveport to seven safe blows while Beaumont was taking the decision 8-4.

3 Texans Entered In Goodall Tourney

NEW YORK, May 16 (AP)—Three Texas players, one of them capable of handing par a solid socking, tee off today as favorites in competitive golf's toughest test—the $5,000 Goodall round robin tournament.

Open Champion Byron Nelson Jimmy Demaret, master's winner, and Blazin' Ben Hogan will give the rest of the field plenty to worry about although many think that Henry Picard, the P. G. A. champ, has enough shots to win, or that this is the tournament that will start Sammy Snead on the road to the National Open title.

This tournament is just as tough on the scorekeepers as it is on the 15 acres—14 of this country's best plus Martin Pose, the able Argentine. Everybody plays everybody else during the 126 holes spread over three days and at the end the most "plus" or winning—holes entitles somebody to pick up the biggest chips.

They set out in groups of three in seven 18-hole rounds. For instance, if a player is two up on each of his two rivals at the end of a round he has a score of 4-plus, and each of his opponents is two minus.

Last year Harry Cooper won with the amazing score of 21-plus.

Fresh Meadows, where this year's tourney is played, is one of America's best known, and most tantalizing, courses.

Yugoslav Army 700,000 Strong

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, May 16 (AP)-The Yugoslav cabinet met today to review the war ministry's plans for general mobilization.

Although the army now is 700,000 men strong, additional reservists are being called up daily by individual notice.

General mobilization could be made effective in a few hours if the war extended to southeastern Europe, it was said. All reserve officers, regardless of age, already have reported.

Copies of the Voelkischer Beobachter, Adolf Hitler's newspaper, which arrived there attacked the Yugoslav press for suspecting this country's German minority of "fifth-column" activities.

DANGER

SERIAL STORY - ROMANCE AHEAD

BY TOM HORNER. COPYRIGHT, 1940. NEA SERVICE, INC.

CHAPTER I

LARRY COLLINS smiled down at the baldish man across the desk. "All right, Steve... So I'm nuts. But that doesn't change things. I'm quitting your newspaper tonight."

"Okay, Larry, I can't stop you," Steve Clark's voice softened. "But you're a swell reporter, and I like you. If I didn't, I wouldn't waste five minutes trying to keep you from making a fool of yourself."

"You need a vacation! So do I! So does everyone. But you don't see Steve Clark quitting the job with the grand jury blowing the top off the city hall. And conventions, campaigns, and elections coming up." Steve's temper was getting away from him. "All right, Collins, take a vacation! But when you're broke and looking for a job, don't come back to Steve Clark. I made you, and by the eternal, I can make another cub reporter into just as good a man."

"Just a minute, Steve. Let's part friends," Collins sat down on the corner of the desk, rolled a cigaret, lighted it and inhaled deeply before he continued. "That vacation talk is office gossip. I spread it around as an excuse. I'm not quitting now because I want to, Steve—and you have to believe that—I've got a job to do, and it won't wait. I have to quit, Steve."

"You mean you're leaving me to work for someone else? Of all the ungrateful pups!" Clark exploded. "Get out! Get your pay and get out!" Collins did not move. He had faced Steve Clark's rage for 10 years and he waited now, smoking calmly, for the other man's anger to subside. After a time he continued:

"You didn't ask much about me when you gave me my first job 10 years ago, Steve. I've never told you, but if you know now, perhaps you'll understand why I'm quitting."

"I was a green kid, and, like you say, you made me a reporter. My life, as far as you were concerned, dated from the time I walked into your office. You knew I'd been to school, that I could write. But you didn't know I was an orphan, and you didn't know I had a brother."

"You see, Steve, I was born in Texas. Mother died then. My dad raised Hugh and me. Dad was a sheriff. One day he tried to stop some bandits and they killed him. Dad's sister took Hugh, who was about 16, and they shipped me up here to live with Mother's brother."

"Remember that wire story out of the southwest about three months ago about an unidentified drunk who had driven off a cliff, then killed himself when his car caught fire, rather than burn to death?"

Clark nodded. "Yeah. Never had anything but the first lead on it."

"That was my brother—Hugh Collins!"

ALL of Steve Clark's anger and resentment were gone as his arm went around Larry's shoulder. "I'm sorry, son, I didn't know. When did you find out?" "I've known it all the time. Hugh was in the highway patrol. Shortly before his death, he was taken from his old district, secretly assigned to hunt down a bunch of narcotic smugglers, operating in the west. He evidently found them and they discovered who he was about the same time. "But Hugh didn't commit suicide. Hugh was murdered!"

"Colonel Harris, chief of the highway patrol, asked Hugh's widow and myself to keep quiet, and Hugh was reported killed in a skirmish with smugglers on the border. The officers figured if they let the accident go practically uninvestigated, these drug smugglers would start up operations again. "And that's what they've done, and you want to go down and cover it," Clark broke in.

"That's right," Larry agreed. "I had a letter from the chief yesterday. He said that reports indicate that the same gang is at work again. He believes that a stranger might have more luck finding out about them than one of his own men. I wired him that I'd report within a week, and if he'd swear me in, I'd do my best to get the men who killed my brother. . . . So you see, Steve, I've got to go."

"I understand, Larry. I can arrange it. You'll be on assignment. And when you come back, your job will be waiting for you. Good luck, boy!"

SPRING in the southwest. Nothing like it, thought Larry Collins as he drove along the broad highway. Cattle grazing in green pastures. Calves bawling. Here and there the broad-green waves of wheat. It was good to be home.

Four days of steady driving had changed his city pallor to a healthy red. In a few more days even Steve Clark would recognize him.

A barricade across the highway loomed before him. Larry slammed on his brakes, slid to a screeching stop. A blue-coated patrol officer stepped from the side of the road, gun in hand. "Step out, with your hands up," he commanded.

Larry shut off his motor, climbed out of his car, hands in the air. Another officer covered him from the far side of the patrol car. The first patrolman came up to Larry, searched him quickly, then inspected his car.

"Okay," he called after a minute. And to Larry: "Let's have a look at your license."

"It's on the steering post," Larry said. "May I ask, what is this all about?" "The patrolman returned to him. "You're all right. You can go on now. There's been a holdup, and we're stopping all cars. Sorry to have bothered you, but we have to do it."

"No trouble. Hope you catch them!" Larry shouted as he drove away. He had been tempted to tell them he was Hugh's brother, but when the officer had not recognized the name, he had thought it wiser not to mention it. Hugh wasn't well known in this part of the state. Perhaps the chief wanted to keep it that way.

A GOOD lunch and a couple of cigars erased the memory of the holdup from Larry's mind. Two or three more hours would bring him to his destination, first stop in his search for Hugh's killers. If that gang caught him, he'd get no more mercy than they had shown Hugh. But if they didn't—he'd have the satisfaction of knowing Hugh's debt was paid. The hate of criminals, the heritage of his father, swelled within him.

He topped a little rise, saw the car parked off the highway. A man bent over the motor, while a young woman, holding a baby, stood at his side. Larry stopped, leaned over the door.

"Anything I can do to help?" The man's head came up. "Why, sure, thanks. You can take me down the road and find a mechanic. Just a minute."

As the man turned back to the car, Larry noticed a second man get out of the front seat, walk around the car toward him—and for the second time in one day Larry Collins looked into the barrel of a revolver.

"Thanks, buddy," said the second man. "We'll take your car, but we'll have to leave you. Come on, climb out." He waved the gun to emphasize his order. "Come on, Bill, get that stuff into this car."

The man called Bill lost all his friendliness. He shoved past Larry, carrying a heavy suitcase, tossed it into Larry's car, then climbed behind the wheel.

The man with the gun backed toward the roadster. "The lady'll keep your company, buddy. Be smart now, and you won't get hurt. Thanks, Missus, for gettin' us by the cops."

Larry cursed softly as he watched his car disappear down the highway.

Another American ambulance was wrecked and three others hit by shells, Colonel James Sparks, head of the volunteer unit, announced.

At the same time Miss Anne Morgan's Friends of France committee which has been removing civilians from the French Ardennes department, reported to its Paris headquarters that the unit had been bombed repeatedly in northern France.

ity administration to build four new migratory farm labor camps in Texas were disclosed today in the record of committee hearings made public on introduction of the relief appropriation bill for the 1941 fiscal year.
