O'Daniel Mildly Criticized By Labor Leaders

SAN ANTONIO, June 24 (AP)—A prediction that standard wages and hours may be changed to meet any demands of a national defense program and a mild criticism of Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel were issued by Texas State Federation of Labor heads today as their 43rd four-day annual convention got under way here this morning.

Promising that the Texas federation will and can rise to any emergency demand caused by a national defense program, Harry W. Acreman of El Paso, executive secretary of the federation, said that wages and hours will be regulated to meet any emergency.

This would mean, he said, a shift in, or an addition to, the present hour scale of five eight-hour days per week. Asked about possible mobilization of Texas industry, Acreman said the Texas federation is willing to help in any manner, but that Gov. O'Daniel's organization of an industrial commission to coordinate industry and national defense does not include an A. F. of L. representative.

That, he said, would make it difficult for the Texas federation to extend full cooperation to the board. About 95 per cent of the federation members approve President Roosevelt for a third term, Acreman declared.

The Texas State Federation of Labor advocates the passage of the Smith amendment to the Wagner act in its present form which would in substance give craft unions the right to be designated as bargaining agents for their own membership," the secretary explained.

He deplores the differences between the C. I. O. and A. F. of L. Andrew S. McBride of Houston, president of the Texas federation, and W. H. Hootch of Little Rock, president of the Arkansas state federation, predicted the convention would be one of the most significant in years.

Mexican People Will Be Disarmed

MEXICO CITY, June 24 (AP)—A general disarmament of the Mexican people will be undertaken immediately by the military authorities. Commanders of all military zones have received instructions to seize all pistols, even though the bearer has a license, and to hold the guns until after July 15 when they will be returned to their owners.

Turns this corner over to Mr. and Mrs. Ben Parrish who wish to thank everyone who honored them with gifts at a "stork shower" Saturday night at Road Runner park. Mr. Parrish is a member of the Pampa Oil-pitching staff. "We received many beautiful and useful gifts," the young couple said.

That Wednesday night will be "Sadie Hawkins" night at Road Runner park when the Pampa Oil-pitching staff will play the Berger Gassers. Men will be admitted free to the game provided they are accompanied by a woman companion who must purchase a ticket. Unaccompanied men will be charged the customary price. No man, accompanied by a woman, will be allowed to buy a ticket. It's one night when the woman must pay.

Soap Box Derby Official Theme Song Arrives

Wendell L. Wilkie, Republican Presidential nomination looms even bigger, his picture looms pretty big around the Wilkie convention office. Above, Alice Callaghan of Gloucester, N. J., is waiting the elevator, gives you an idea of the poster's size.

Nothing is left undone to make the All-American and International Soap Box Derby an event that is colorful and thrilling to both spectators and to the boys who race their model automobiles in this salient American boy sporting classic.

There are more than a hundred boys who will soon be humming and whistling this song as they get ready for the Pampa News-Lions club second annual Soap Box Derby to be held here July 18-19. Winner of the local race will compete in the finals at Akron, Ohio, on August 11.

The derby even has its own theme song, introduced to the public at the champions banquet following the race.

Heavy Rain Falls Near LeFors, M'Lean

While a "gully-washer" rain fell near LeFors, McLean and Shamrock, precipitation in Pampa from a shower Sunday afternoon was only .04 inches.

Rain fell so hard and fast on U. S. Highway 60 between Amarillo and St. Francis that a motorist was forced to pull off the road, as it was impossible to see through the downpour.

That creek, south of Pampa, was flowing, an unusual occurrence, as the sand usually absorbs any rain rapidly.

Water was flowing over the highways near LeFors.

House On Alcock Damaged By Fire

Firemen made two runs Sunday morning, the first at 7:10 o'clock and the second at 10:10 o'clock.

The first alarm was to the 1900 block on West Alcock street where a small residence was on fire.

The back porch and back room of the house were badly damaged by the fire which is believed to have started on the back porch. Firemen strung 800 feet of hose.

The second call was to 727 South Barnes street where a radio had caught fire.

U. S. Strengthens Uruguay's Drive Against Traitors

MONTEVIDEO, June 24 (AP)—Government circles considered Uruguay's drive against potential fifth columnists strengthened today by U. S. Minister Edwin C. Wilson's announcement that aid of the United States is at the disposal of other American nations to crush any threat to their liberty from without or within.

Observers said Wilson's speech yesterday was likely to have a marked effect on the handling by the Uruguayan congress of the Nazi situation.

A "fifth column" investigating committee, which already has caused the arrest of nine Germans as suspects in pro-Nazi plots, was to make new recommendations to congress today.

Robbers Handcuff Cab Driver To Tree

KANSAS CITY, June 24 (AP)—Three youths forced Clifford Asby, 38-year-old cab driver, to take them to an isolated spot and robbed him of $3.25. Then one told Asby: "We've got an old-fashioned pair of handcuffs we want to lock you up with."

He produced a pair of stocks made of thick pine boards.

The youths forced Asby to put his arms around a small tree, padlocked the stocks and left him in the rain without a coat. It was 11 p. m. Seven hours later Asby's shouts attracted attention of residents in a nearby house.

Civilians Put To Work On Air Bases, Army Construction

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—War department officials reported today that civilians were being put to work with war-time swiftness on new construction for the expanding army.

Five-hundred workers were rounded up in two weeks for the new $12,000,000 Anchorage, Alaska, air base.

Civilian workers similarly were put quickly to work on construction jobs at Camp Ripley, Minn., and Fort Benning, Ga.

Use of trucks and stenographers ready to go on duty at once was turned over to officials at a middle western post the same day on which orders arrived to employ 200.

The war department, which already has some 120,000 civilian employees, is using a short-cut hiring procedure perfected after the European conflict started. Jobs are in prospect for some 20,000 in the next few months.

To meet the demand for skilled workers in the defense industries, meantime, the national defense commission has proposed a system of training men already working in the factories.

14 Penn Delegates Switch To Wilkie

By W. B. RAGSDALE
CONVENTION HALL, Philadelphia, June 24 (AP)—A new Wilkie invasion of another candidate's camp developed today in this 1940 Republican convention called to choose a presidential nominee and frame a party policy.

A bloc of 14 favorable to Wendell Wilkie developed in the big Pennsylvania delegation of 72 which was pledged to Governor Arthur James. Already inroads had been made by the utilities man into the forces of Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Senator Taft of Ohio.

Even the stir of ambitious candidates, however, did not entirely wipe out the serious men which delegates brought into their convention hall. The impact of the war abroad had made itself felt not only upon the leaders, worried over a possible swing from James to Wilkie after the first or second ballot.

The fresh Wilkie support developed when Frank J. Harris, of Pittsburgh, leader of the western Pennsylvania group, said 14 delegates with whom Wilkie had breakfast probably would swing from James to Wilkie after the first or second ballot.

The first gavel crack came at 9:17 a. m. (CST). Chairman John Hamilton ordered delegates to be seated and instructed the sergeant at arms to clear the aisle.

Wilkie forces, encouraged by demonstrations for the utilities executive here this week-end, were changing their strategy and were looking for a strong first ballot showing instead of holding back for a later drive.

But while most delegates talked candidates, the platform committee considered the foreign policy which the Republican party should claim for its own. A declaration for standing aloof from the European war appeared certain.

Along with Dewey, Wilkie, and Taft, brokers were evidences of support for Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, Governor Arthur James of Pennsylvania, Frank Gaines of New York, Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, and several others.

The increasing pace of the Wilkie bandwagon created a stir. Three weeks ago Wilkie was a potential candidate without many delegates.

Now, by inroads into the great circle of delegates, his chances have been raised in the eyes of many.

Canadian Visitors Will Arrive Today

Pampans will say "howdy" to visitors from Canadian at 5 o'clock this afternoon and will then hear all about the big Anvil Park Rodeo to be held at the Studer ranch, southeast of Canadian, on July 2, 3, and 4.

City motorcycle officers, and C. A. Huff and members of the goodwill committee of the Pampa Board of City Development, will meet the trippers west of the city and escort them to the rodeo block on North Cuyler street which will be roped off for the occasion.

The program, which will include an address of welcome by President John V. Osborne, president of the B.C.D. and talks by visitors will be broadcast by remote control over radio station KPDN.

Carl Studer will lead the Canadian visitors.

19 Persons Injured In Bus Accident

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 24 (AP)—Four of 19 persons injured in a bus accident near Luther, 25 miles northeast of here, last night were released from hospitals today. Attendents said none of 15 who remained was in a serious condition.

The bus, southbound from Tulsa to Amarillo, overturned while passing an automobile.

Those remaining in hospitals included three from Amarillo; Opal Snow, 19, severe bruises; Mrs. Florence Stewart, 82, lacerations and bruises; Mrs. Pearl Lair, 52, multiple bruises.

The War Today

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
England's effort to keep as much of the French empire at war as possible, in defiance of the capitulation of the Bordeaux government, represents typical Winston Churchill shrewdness and quickness at grasping opportunity.

The British premier's move in withdrawing official recognition from the surrendering French government, and throwing both moral and material support back of a French national committee created in London to carry on the fight, is reported to have met with some success already.

Undoubtedly it will be hailed by many as a stroke of genius, for the British report that pledges of support have been received from numerous French colonies. All this is useful, but to my mind one of the most important aspects of the stroke is this:

The fate of the powerful French navy and airforce—large sections of which are reportedly under British control—as well as that of a big army in Syria, are involved in this maneuver.

I draw your attention again to the fact that the loss of the French navy to Germany might represent disaster for Britain in the forthcoming life and death struggle. That would give Hitler and his axis partner near parity with the British navy, provided they could provide crews to man the ships.

As was expected, Herr Hitler has demanded that both the navy and the air force be turned over to him. In anticipation of this, observers have been wondering what Britain would do if the French government requested that the fleet and airships be sent back to France. It would be difficult to refuse, especially if the Nazis threatened sanctions against the French for non-delivery.

Now, however, the disavowal of See MACKENZIE, Page 3

Flaming Death Leap To Be Investigated

DALLAS, June 24 (AP)—A grand jury investigation was promised today in the death of Virgil E. Harris, 50, of Kansas City, who leaped or fell from his 11th floor hotel room yesterday after crying in vain for someone to rescue him from the blazing room.

While a crowd watched from the streets, Harris, southwest district manager of a paint company, leaped out of his window and shouted: "Please, somebody, save me!" His clothes were on fire.

Some of the spectators said he collapsed and fell, while others were of the opinion that intense pain from the heat caused him to jump.

Chief L. M. Funk said that from marks on the door to an adjoining room he believed that Harris, blinded and confused by the smoke, had made futile efforts to escape through the wrong exit, then had leaped to get away from the flames.

Funk said firemen were delayed 15 minutes in reaching the room due to a misunderstanding which kept them from using the elevator.

Italy Expels Two Employees Of Life

ROME, June 24 (AP)—M. Fillmore Calhoun, a foreign correspondent of Life magazine, and Thomas D. McAvoy, staff photographer of Life magazine, were asked today by the ministry of popular culture to leave Italy as soon as possible.

The ministry said an article published in Life last week on Marshal Rodolfo Graziani was "unfavorable."

Santa Fe Freight Derailed, Two Die

GUTHRIE, Okla., June 24 (AP)—Two men were killed and a third burned seriously today when southbound Santa Fe freight train was derailed on a curve near the Skeleton river, seven miles north of Guthrie.

The dead: Ed Coker, fireman, Arkansas City, Kas. Sam Lee Shore, headbrakeman, Arkansas City.

The engineer, John Taylor of Arkansas City, was brought to a hospital here with serious burns.

The locomotive and 20 cars were strewn along the right-of-way.

Corn-Fed Gals With Less Rouge Favored

DETROIT, June 24 (AP)—The trend is toward "corn-fed" mannequins using less rouge, says Ralph Adler of New York, an expert.

He says "the sourpuss mannequin still will be very good but more smiles will be seen this year." Mannequin styles reflect the trend of American women, he adds.

Il Duce To Take Coast, Establish 'Buffer State'

(By The Associated Press)
France and Italy signed an armistice late today, precluding the end of hostilities between the defeated French republic and the Nazi-Fascist axis powers.

The "cease firing" order, ending France's 10-month participation in the war, was officially set for 1:35 a. m. Tuesday (5:35 p. m., CST, today).

Meanwhile simultaneous German and Italian offensives were launched against the front and rear of the French alpine army in southern France.

Tens of thousands of French poilus were retreating toward Mediterranean ports, reportedly seeking to escape to North Africa and carry on the fight from there.

The axis-dictated peace would find Germany occupying all France's western coast, Italy the southern coast and the French republic itself—in strait-jacketed vassalage as a virtual ally of Germany against Britain—reduced to one-third its former territory.

French armistice delegates in Rome communicated with their government in Bordeaux by telephone, and it was indicated that the "cease fire" order ending France's part in the 10-month-old European war probably would go into effect late today.

Italian troops meanwhile pushed into France from Mont Blanc to the Mediterranean Sea. Mussolini's high command said, and threatened to smash through the French line in the maritime Alps.

The French high command reported, however, that Italian attacks were thrown back with heavy losses.

Fascists said Italy, as her share in the spoils, would demand to occupy all France's Mediterranean coast and later establish a "buffer state" in southern France.

This seizure, coupled with Germany's occupation of France's western seaboard from Dunkerque on the English Channel down the bay of Biscay to Spain, would leave France without a single port.

Against stubborn French resistance, Nazi troops marched on down the beaten republic's Atlantic coast as far as the mouth of the Gironde river, the German high command reported.

La Rochelle and Rochefort were captured as the Germans neared Bordeaux, French provisional capital, while further north the invaders reached the vicinity of Poitiers and took "a steadily growing store of booty."

Southeast of Lyon, which lies only 200 miles north of France's Mediterranean port of Marseille, German columns reported breaking fierce French resistance in advancing toward Grenoble and Chambéry—directly opposite the Italian border.

Britain held that France's capitulation to Germany terms would put her in passive alliance with the Reich and the British government said it no longer could regard the Bordeaux government "as the government of an independent country."

The British declared they would deal with the French national committee formed in London by General Charles De Gaulle.

However, informed diplomatic sources in London asserted Britain still maintained diplomatic relations with the French government in Bordeaux and with the French ambassador in London, Charles Corbin.

These informants said Sir Ronald Hugh Campbell, British ambassador, had left France because the German drive had put him in danger.

One German column was reported to have encountered "lively fighting" 31 miles southwest of Lyon. Another southbound German drive down the Rhone valley was reported near Culoz, 48 miles east of Lyon.

The German terms as reported by the British government include German occupation of more than half of France, embracing all the rich northern industrial portion and a wide strip covering all the Atlantic coast, internment of the French navy; and dissolution of the French army.

Separate terms of Italy, Germany's partner, were handed to the French last night. A Berlin radio report said these negotiations were expected to be terminated "sometime Monday."

Fascist sources in Switzerland said the Italian terms would include occupation of all France's Mediterranean coast and a plan to establish a buffer state in southern France.

Britain announced the British received pledges of support from the French colonies of Syria, French Indo-China, the Cameroons, Tunis, Morocco, Jibuti and Senegal.

A large French army is concentrated in North Africa.

Miss Schulkey Feted At Kitchen Shower Sunday

Another in the series of parties complimenting Miss Albertine Schulkey, bride-elect of Robert Tripplehorn, was given Sunday morning when Mrs. H. H. Hicks entertained with a kitchen shower at the Schneider hotel as a pre-nuptial courtesy to Miss Schulkey.

The centerpieces on the table were clever kitchen pot plants of ivy and sweet peas while hot plate mats with the guests' names attached served as the place cards.

A corsage of white daisies was presented to the honoree and corsages of white gladioli were given by Mrs. C. H. Schulkey, mother of the bride-elect, and Mrs. D. R. Tripplehorn and Miss Betty Tripplehorn, mother and sister of the bridegroom-elect.

During the breakfast a card was passed on each guest made a wish for the bride by using their initials. Later the wishes were read by the honoree.

The guest list included Misses Sid Patterson, Bill Fraser, Arthur Ted, Charles Cook of Oklahoma City, Dan Smith, Joe Mitchell, Bill Monahan, Jack Smith, C. H. Schulkey, D. R. Tripplehorn; and Misses Claudine Jeffries, Betty Shyrock, Piers Dean Finley, Donna Jo Berry, Frances Hampton, Gloria Posey, and Betty Tripplehorn.

Gifts were sent by Miss Maxine McKinney, Mrs. T. J. Worrell, Mrs. Burton Reynolds, Mrs. Raymond Harrah, and Mrs. Jack Dunn.

Friendship Class To Have Breakfast Tuesday Morning

Members of Friendship class of First Methodist church will have a breakfast in the church basement Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

Group three is to be hostess to the entire class.

ATTENTION TO DETAILS

When all outdoors invites, it's temptation to allow attention to small details to lapse. But if you would remain cool-looking and well-groomed during hot, steamy weather, remember to keep rips and loose hems repaired, snags and buttons sewed on, shoes clean and heels straight, fresh shields tacked or pinned in non-washable dresses (which incidentally need frequent trips to the dry-cleaner) accessories fresh and spotless, and washable garments tubbed the moment they show the slightest soil or wilt.

STORE CLEAN RUGS

Before storing rugs for the summer, clean them thoroughly. Vacuum first on the right side, turn the rug and go over the back, then reverse and clean the right side again. This should remove all the dust. If there food spots (and moths love these), remove with a reliable cleaning fluid. If the rug is quite soiled, send it to an expert dry cleaner.

Spray with a moth preventive, roll over a fair-sized stock, wrap securely in heavy paper, or store in a specially made rug box.

PARIS, AMID WAR'S ALARMS, STILL MAKES PLAY-CLOTHES FOR U. S.

FASHION pictures, received from Paris by transatlantic clipper, show that in spite of war, the famed couturiers continue to create small collections of interesting, even exciting clothes for America. This play suit, for instance, by Lucien Lelong, is both flattering and colorful. The shirt is orange silk with a rough surface. The skirt is black and white checked taffeta.

THIS photograph of a new summer dress from the Lelong collection arrived by clipper—along with pictures of the British and French armies in the field... It's of heavy white linen with a deep band of dark green, red and white silk taffeta at the hemline. The belt matches the band. The parasol reverses the color scheme. It's of taffeta with a white band.

BEFORE WAR CRUSHED PARIS

ALTHOUGH war clouds hang heavily over France, her foremost couturiers in Paris continue to produce smart fashions, not only for the present, but also suggestions for early fall. Here, for instance, is Creed's dark brown and orange checked tawed gown shown with handmade wool stockings in flaming orange to match the orange in the tweed.

1,000 Americans Flee From France

MADRID, June 24 (AP)—Spanish action in waiving visa formalities opened the way today for from 800 to 1,000 Americans fleeing the war zone to cross from southern France into Spain en route to the United States.

The first of these refugees is expected to start over the frontier today. Special trains will take them to the Bay of Biscay port of Bilbao where they will wait to find out whether an American vessel will be sent to pick them up there or in Lisbon.

A number of Americans meanwhile reached the Portuguese capital aboard the United States destroyer Herbert.

Viernes Club Has Meeting In Home Of Mrs. Brake

Mrs. W. S. Brake was hostess to nine members of the Viernes club who met for an afternoon spent in crocheting and sewing.

Vases were presented to the hostesses by the group.

Refreshments of ice cream and cookies were served to Meses. Lewis Tarpley, W. E. Robinson, A. F. Washam, M. F. Forrester, Charles Miller, Jimmy Reid, Cora Ford, L. J. Flaherty, and the hostess.

The next meeting of the club will be held Friday afternoon at 8 o'clock in the home of Mrs. Tarpley, 315 North Warren street.

VFW Auxiliary To Have Important Business Meeting

Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary will meet Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the American Legion hall for a regular session.

Due to the important business to be conducted, every member of the auxiliary is urged to be present. Reports from the convention and the patriotic chairman will be given.

In the social hour which will follow, refreshments are to be served.

GREEN TURTLES ARE HEAVY

The green turtle reaches a weight of 700 pounds, but usually is caught in sizes of less than 100 pounds. Trips which it makes on shore to lay its eggs frequently have fatal endings.

Two Meals To Be Served At Annual Festival

Outstanding features of the annual summer festival to be sponsored by the Alter society of Holy Souls Catholic church on July 2 will be the noon meal to be served between 11:30 and 2 o'clock and the evening meal from 5 until 8:30 o'clock.

Also the society will take orders for food for picnic lunches on July 4. These orders should be called to Mrs. W. J. Haley, Mrs. F. D. Keim, and Mrs. Floyd Hollenbeck so that they can be prepared by Wednesday, July 3.

In charge of the bingo at the festival will be George Heller. Other events of the day will include a dance to be given by the Catholic Youth association and an ice cream social to be held on the lawn.

Mrs. Floyd Hollenbeck is general chairman of arrangements for the festival.

The vivid term "Fifth Column" has an ominous significance these days. It first came into use during the Spanish civil war, when an insurgent general announced that he had four columns of soldiers driving toward Madrid—and a Fifth Column, consisting of spies, saboteurs and other enemies of the Spanish Republic, within the city. And since then, we have seen Fifth Columns operating with almost demonic efficiency and success in other parts of the world.

The Fifth Column

The Nazis have developed the Fifth Column technique to an extraordinary high level—to a very large extent, the collapse of Norway, Holland, Poland, and Belgium was due to the activities of Nazi sympathizers and purchased terrorists within those besieged nations. Sombre rumors of Fifth Column work have even come from France—as witness the recent wholesale dismissal of 15 or 20 French generals who had, according to Premier Reynaud, made inexcusable and impossible-to-understand blunders. And in the British Isles, the authorities have gone to unprecedented ends to ferret out and arrest any and all persons who might be expected to aid a German invasion.

That the high officials of the United States are tremendously worried by the specter of Fifth Column activity here, goes without saying. The President has mentioned it in a speech, and it is widely believed that his suggestion that he be empowered to call out the National Guard in peace-time was based on a fear that some such step might soon become necessary to put down Fifth Columnists at home. At the moment, the potential U. S. Fifth Column consists of avowed Hitlerites—the bulk of whom are organized in the German-American Bunds and similar societies—and, to a lesser extent, the Communists, who have been running around in circles attempting to justify Lenin's denunciation of imperialism and conquest with Stalin's Communist-Nazi pact and the Russian invasion of Finland.

The expected Fifth Column technique in this country is simple and rational. In the words of the President, the Fifth Columnists would attempt to "create confusion of counsel, public indecision, political paralysis and, eventually, a state of panic." In other words the purpose would be to prevent the attainment of anything resembling national unity. Group would be set against group, class against class, jealousy and hate would be fomented. It is apparent that a start has already been made to this end by alien groups. And, according to Dies Committee evidence, it is a fact that both the Moscow and Berlin governments have paid Fifth Column agents actively at work here.

After the policy of confusion would come actual sabotage and terrorism. And there is a widely held fear that we may see this before long, as the armament program swings into high gear. Finally, once the country was thoroughly disorganized, minority groups would attempt to take over the government.

We are now embarked on a war against the Fifth Column. The Government has moved cautiously, but it is moving. Registration and observation of aliens is likely to come soon—the proposal that the Department of Justice be given control of the Immigration Service shows the way the wind is blowing. And far more severe measures are envisioned.

There is an obvious danger in all this—and a danger that is exceedingly hard to avoid. That danger is that anti-Fifth Column work may become a hysterical witch-hunt. People would exploit personal grudges by unjustly denouncing others to the authorities—vigilante groups, operating outside the law but supported by enraged public opinion, would come into being. The experience of the last war should be recalled, when we went to ridiculous lengths in prosecuting people of German and Austrian heritage whose patriotism was unqualified. Responsible government officials say that every effort will be given to protecting the innocent as well as apprehending the guilty—and that is one tough job.

Behind The News

WASHINGTON, June 24—If the New World nations agree to the "economic union" plan recently proposed here, the United States is in for a program which would make its previous farm-relief and export-subsidy programs look mild.

To begin with, Europe annually buys around $1,500,000,000 worth of Latin American goods. On top of that the United States itself each year exports farm products running to hundreds of millions of dollars. Any international cartel formed to buy and handle the New World's export surpluses, therefore, would have to spend an enormous sum each year—and most if not all of the money would have to be put up by Uncle Sam.

But that only starts it. Once the cartel has bought these goods it will have to dispose of them. The bulk of them, undoubtedly, could be sold to Europe—Hitler's Europe, or anybody else's. But there is also little doubt here that a large quantity would remain as surplus. What to do about that?

PLAN LIKELY TO BE COSTLY

The administration is firmly set against any plan which would mean the dumping of Latin American agricultural products into the U. S. market, to compete with home-grown goods. It frankly faces the fact that a good part of the cartel's acquisitions simply couldn't be sold anywhere.

One suggestion is that these materials—mostly foodstuffs—could be moved in the United States via a vast extension of the current food stamp plan. Another one is simply that the whole business could, if need be, just be dumped into the ocean—or, possibly, given away via international relief organizations to feed refugees, and so on. In any case, the prospect that a

Common Ground

This column contends there can be no satisfactory progress until we measure the shares of each man by the common yardstick of the God-given equal right to create and enjoy anything anyone else has a right to create and enjoy.

GOVERNOR OLSON, THE SOCIALIST

Governor Olson of California, according to the wire report, urged "planned economy," as a solution for both national defense needs and general economy problems. He said the Allies had found, to their sorrow, that a nation to be successful in war cannot subsidize its fighting force and otherwise continue with a hit-or-miss unplanned business-as-usual economy.

The Governor urged new levies to prevent profiteering on national defense and said the present tax system chokes consumption, by placing far too great a proportion of load on those least able to bear it.

Evidently the Governor wants the politicians to do all the planning instead of private citizens. It was planned by the framers of the Constitution that each and every man should plan to take care of himself and to add to the wealth of the world as he saw fit. Now the Governor says this is not successful—that private citizens must cease planning and only vote for politicians to do all the planning.

Already Too Much Government Planning

The reason we are in the deplorable condition, from an economic standpoint is because we have had too much government planning. The government has interfered with the planning of private individuals. Now the Governor says in short, take the wealth out of the hands of those private citizens who are the best planners and add to the wealth the most rapidly, and turn this over to the government officials to hand-out to buy votes with.

The Federal Government, for 27 years, since 1913, has been interfering with private planning. It has misdirected capital by Federal Farm Bank loans and bank laws which permitted the misuse of bank credit under the Federal Reserve Act, and by planning that some groups have rights that other groups do not have. As for instance, the Clayton Amendment to the Sherman Anti-Trust Law that permits labor unions to combine to form monopolies and prevent other people from working without violating the Sherman Anti-Trust Law.

If there was ever a country that has made a dismal failure of national planning by the politicians, it is the United States. The result is the worst and longest depression in our history. Now, Governor Olson advocates more of the same day-dreams!

By what course of reasoning can the Governor contend that the politicians, if they had the planning to do, would not make decisions with the sole purpose of keeping themselves in power rather than increasing production. All history shows that when planning is done in a majority rule country, the decisions of the officials of the government are made solely with the idea of retaining themselves in control.

Under a dictatorship, the decisions have to be made with the idea of efficiency, in order to support the army and keep control. They do not make decisions under a dictatorship to be popular. They make them to produce.

Under a democracy, where government planning is attempted, the decisions are all made from a temporary standpoint, and to get votes, as the planners are only elected for a short time.

If there is any place in the world that government planning will not work, it is under a majority rule country, such as the United States. The more we try it, the poorer we become and the more helpless we will become in defending ourselves against countries that do not decide things from a popularity standpoint.

GOVERNMENTS BASED ON UNEQUAL CAPABILITIES

All governments that are successful are based on the fact that people are not equally capable; that one man's judgment is worth infinitely more than another. It was with that belief the framers of the Constitution established our government. They so set it up that one man out of ten could prevent others from voting away man's inalienable rights. For the last three decades, England has been run, to a large degree, on the fallacious theory that all men are equally capable; that one man has as much to say about how the government is run and how business is run as another. France has been doing this and we see the results.

All governments have been established by force and maintained by force. And it is foolish to pretend otherwise. Of course, the force that should be the strongest is the force that uses all the abilities by giving each person equal right to try to create, but recognizing that every person has unequal ability to create.

It is because we have been confused during the last few decades between the equality of rights to create and attempted to substitute for this equal capabilities, that we are degenerating spiritually, intellectually and materially.

huge loss, running perhaps to half a billion a year, would have to be taken is openly admitted.

THE SWASTIKA FOLLOWS TRADE

Why, then, do the sponsors of this plan think it would be good business? The answer is that the much-feared economic penetration of Hitler in the New World will not come through his sales of German-made goods, but through his purchases. If he controls the market for each individual nation, he can write his own ticket; he can, for instance, say to a given republic, "I will take your entire export crop off your hands, IP—" and then go on from there.

If, however, he does not control the market at all; if each nation in the New World knows that it can sell its wares to a New World corporation, and if all of Hitler's purchases must be made through that corporation—then, the argument goes, the danger of economic penetration vanishes.

ELENTY OF OBJECTIONS

It goes without saying that there is nothing like unanimity on the virtues of this scheme. The enormous expense is the first objection. Another is the suggestion that the plan would be unworkable from sheer sumbersomeness. However, it looks now as if this program might be approved by Congress.

WHEREVER THEY RAISE THEIR HEADS

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON

NEA Service Staff Correspondent HOLLYWOOD, June 24—Three of the Dalton brothers (Broderick Crawford, Brian Donlevy, and Andy Devine) had gone into a crowded courtroom and with blazing guns had rescued Stuart Erwin, who was on trial for one of the murders he didn't commit.

Now, as the one-family gang emerged from the building, shouts and shots rang behind them and somebody up the street began to pot at the fugitives. Death or escape would be a matter of only a few seconds. The men dashed for their horses. But Donlevy didn't mount his horse. He stopped and stood red-faced and speechless. Leaning against the saddle of his docile dog was a ladder, and the other Daltons were standing there to help him climb it.

That joke on Donlevy is a sample of the monkey business to be witnessed any day on Universal's western street. I've never seen a production that offered more contrast than the picture, "In the Daltons' holdup of two Coffeyville banks, Erwin was required to dismount to help a wounded brother and himself be shot down in the dusty street. The other Daltons then would gallop back to save him, but would flee again to their own deaths in a blind alley) when they found he was dying.

Erwin complained bitterly about having to lie there with so many jittery horses dashing around him. "Just because it's my last day on the picture," he said, "nobody cares if I get trampled to death."

Director George Marshall reminded him that a horse won't step on a man. Erwin said: Of course the horses know better, but I don't trust Devine and Crawford and Donlevy."

CARRY-CUT But they got the scene all right and then hurried into the final one for Erwin, with a bullet interrupting the cornered desperado's plea for mercy. The light was waning, and Marshall suggested that they might wait the shell with the actor's check so he could be paid off and slain at exactly the same moment.

Radium Detector Locates Radium Values at $5,000

TYLER, June 24 (AP)—A young Tyler radio operator, home on a visit, has found five radium needles valued at $5,000. They were lost three years ago from the hospital operated by his father, Dr. C. D. Cupp.

Arriving home recently, the youth, Richard Cupp, took up the search with a radium detector. Yesterday he located the needles in the city sewer about two miles from the hospital. They were undamaged and in their original rubber case.

BRIDGE OF TREE TOPS

A California railroad runs across tree tops over a deep ravine near the coast. A bridge of stone or iron would have been too costly, so the trees were utilized. The top branches were sawed off and the timbers for the line laid on the stumps. The bridge is regarded as entirely safe.

Miss Martin, supervisor of music in the Pampa schools, deserves a good vacation and we hope she gets it. Has anybody ordered any flags yet from Mrs. Roy Chisum? We are talking about U. S. flags. If you don't have a flag, especially you merchants, you should get one, and you ought to put out the flag more—not just on holidays and during celebrations. People like to look at the flag; they like to see it; it gives them confidence and makes them cheery; just check the people who go by the post office and watch them look at Old Glory as they go by. The best thing to look at these days is the flag that flouts the stars and stripes. Mrs. Chisum is selling U. S. flags for the VFW Auxiliary. Yesterday on the highway we saw three cars decorated with U. S. flags. Mrs. A. C. Rumors of a revolution in Old Mexico next month are not going to keep Wayne Phelps from spending his honeymoon in Mexico City. Wayne points out that practically all the correspondents and the U. JOBS for JUNE GRADUATES

SOCIAL FACILITY AND ADAPTABILITY WILL WIN THE JOBS OF TOMORROW By A. H. EDGERTON Director of Vocational Guidance, University of Wisconsin

As a result of a nationwide occupational trend, study of more than 144,000 positions actually filled by school and college graduates, it is predicted that the best jobs of tomorrow will go to the well-adjusted and versatile. It was also found that the individual most in demand is one who can get along successfully with other persons, control his emotions, likes and dislikes. Mere skill and knowledge no longer suffice. Employers insist that social facility is now an indispensable factor in occupational success. Such shortcomings as poor self-control, dishonesty and lack of dependability must be conquered if one is to succeed.

Two words, "adequately trained," will spell the difference between employment for thousands of young men and women this year. This does not mean merely that they must be skilled in technical processes of occupation, but it does mean that they must possess fundamental knowledge on which processes are built and that they must be able to adjust and adapt themselves to changing conditions.

Today's employers tend to scrutinize the general training and special fitness of the most likely applicants even before arranging employment interviews. Other things being equal, those well trained through broad liberal studies and the basic thinking processes now have some advantage over more narrowly trained individuals whose early specialized preparation has sacrificed general educational background.

With millions of men and women out of work employers are ever exacting in demands than ever before. They are seeking workers who are capable of growing on the job. Nearly all employment offices report that requests for applicants specify particular educational preparation and special qualifications needed.

With occasional exceptions employers are prone to seek individuals who are capable of keeping a jump ahead of changing requirements. Chances for employment promised to be better this year than they have been since 1930 for qualified men and women, but the day of the narrow specialist is passing in many occupations.

Some of the occupations in which opportunities exist today and which promise even greater opportunities in the future can be divided into two classifications: those in which prospects are limited, and those which offer a wealth of opportunity. In the limited class are aviation, radio, small farming, mining, engineering, acting, metropolitan journalism, library management, fine arts, architecture, law, medicine, music, social work, teaching, etc.

Expanding possibilities are to be found in metallurgy, accounting, banking, farm management, retail selling, skilled trades, commercial designing, business administration, salesmanship, industrial and scientific research, city management and planning, dietetics, industrial chemistry, etc.

Many employers call attention to promising opportunities in enterprises dealing with creative ideas and work in science, art, mechanics, literature, electricity, merchandising, management, finance and the

STORIES IN STAMPS

Pan American Issues Add New Map Stamps

SIX of the 16 special commemorative stamp issues honoring the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Pan American Union include maps in their designs. Argentina's issue, above, shows a map of the western hemisphere surrounded by a wreath.

Maps have been used in stamp designs for approximately 125 countries on some 350 issues. The Gran Chaco war between Paraguay and Bolivia was aggravated by stamps of both countries, both claiming the same area. Nicaragua and Honduras argued, philatelically, over a section on the southern frontier of Honduras, settled the disagreement by arbitration.

U. S. map stamps include the 10-cent Louisiana Purchase issue, the 3-cent Byrd Antarctic issue, 3-cent Oregon Territory territorial issue, 3-cent Northwest Territory issue, and the 3-cent Dakotas-Montana issue. Maps also were shown on three values of U. S. airmails of 1926, the 10-cent Lindbergh airmail, and the $1.30 Graf Zeppelin stamp. Globes were pictured on the 5-cent International Civil Aeronautics Conference commemorative of 1928 and the 5-cent Olympic commemorative of 1932.

Episcopalians Note Plains Anniversary

Members of Episcopal churches over the Panhandle gathered in Clarendon today for the homecoming commemorating the 53rd anniversary of the first Episcopal service in the Panhandle.

Bishop E. Cecil Seaman of Amarillo was in charge of the memorial services, with the Rev. Robert J. Snell of Pampa as one of the assisting ministers.

The Rev. E. W. Henshaw is pastor of the Clarendon church. On the homecoming celebration program was a service at 11 o'clock this morning, a barbecue at noon, and an afternoon entertainment and renewal of old friendships.

The first Episcopal service in the Texas Panhandle was held in Donley county in 1887 at the country home of the late J. B. McClelland on Kelly creek. Reverend W. Townsend officiated. He had been sent here by the late Bishop Garrett of Dallas to conduct the service and to make a survey of the Panhandle parish.

That service marked the beginning of the present church in Clarendon which is believed to be the oldest in the Panhandle. Early day ministrations of the resident minister in Clarendon included Amarillo, Childress, Shamrock, Canyon, Hereford, Channing, and Quanah.

Other places organized out of those missions served by the Clarendon minister are Farwell, Plainview, Lubbock, Crosbyton, Haskell, Stamford, Spur, McLean, Canadian, Seymour, Pampa, Borger, and Dalhart. Shamrock, Childress and Quanah are still served by the Clarendon minister.

Naturally curly hair is oval, growing more on one side than another, and hence curling as it grows. Straight hair, on the other hand, is cylindrical, like a rubber tube.

Dilbeck Beats Crier And Sox 2-0 In Rain

Amarillo To Play At Park Again Tonight

Lefty Rex Dilbeck pitched the Pampa Oilers back into the lead in the West Texas-New Mexico Baseball league in a slow rain Sunday afternoon when the Amarillo Gold Sox fell 2 to 0. The two teams will meet again tonight at Road Runner park with the third and final game of the series scheduled for tomorrow night. The largest crowds of the season are expected to see the important games.

Despite rain, which started falling as Dilbeck sent the first pitch to Denorio, a crowd of nearly 500 fans huddled under the grandstand roof for the entire nine innings. Dilbeck's closing pitch to B. Altenburg, who hit into a double play, was apparently the signal to shut off the rain because it stopped before fans could get out of the grandstand and it wasn't long before the sun was shining.

Yesterday's win was Dilbeck's second consecutive shutout over the Gold Sox. Two weeks ago he won 4 to 0 seven-inning game in Amarillo, allowing two hits. Yesterday he went nine scoreless in Pampa, allowing five hits. Either McPartland or Vannoy will get the call for tonight, with Gus Halberstam probably coming back tomorrow night.

Hits Mighty Scarce
Yesterday's win put the Oilers far enough ahead of the Gold Sox that it will take two losses for the Sox to take possession of first place away from the Oilers.

Hits were mighty scarce as two of the best pitchers in the league tangled. Dilbeck gave up five safeties and walked only one man in hanging up his 11th win, while Crier pitched a shutout, giving up three hits but walked six and hit two. Dilbeck also had the edge on strikeouts when he whiffed five to Crier's three.

First scoring threat of the day came in the second inning when Seitz tried to make a shoestring catch of Ratliff's sharp liner to center but he didn't have a chance and the ball rolled to the fence for a triple. Ratliff died on third and he was the only Gold Sox batter to get that far.

Luck With Oilers
Lady Luck was with the Oilers when they scored in the fourth. Clutter opened with a single and went to second when Dilbeck laid down a perfect bunt. Clutter went to third and a passed ball and then Knobles walked. On Crier's second pitch to Malvica, Knobles started for second and Ratliff threw to get him. Clutter either failed to get the double play signal, or didn't know that Knobles was going to steal, because he hung around third. Then started a chasesdown of Knobles but he managed to stay clear of Sox basemen until Clutter got started for home. Then the pressure was off and Sanders threw home to get Clutter but the peg was too late and Clutter scored the winning run.

Dilbeck Comes Through
The Oilers sewed the game up in the sixth when they filled the bases twice on one hit, but could score only one. Seitz walked. Prather singled. Summers was safe on a fielders choice when B. Altenburg dropped a throw to get Seitz. Jordan forced Seitz at the plate but when Ratliff threw to first for an attempted double play the ball got away from Sanders and Prather scored all the way from second. Potter walked to fill the bases. Clutter fled out to short center and Summers tried to score after the catch, but was out by several feet.

Dilbeck really came through when his lead was in danger in the seventh. Duarte, first man up, singled. B. Altenburg fanned. E. Altenburg singled. Clutter went to second. Dilbeck then whiffed Sanders and forced Williams to hit to him for an easy out at first.

Coach of Alice Marble

Selection of the correct racket is the first step in tennis. The racket does a great part of the work. The size of the handle depends on the size of the hands.

If you have short, stubby fingers, use a racket with a 4 1/4 to 4 1/2-inch grip. If your hands are large you should go to 4 3/4 to 4 7/8 inches.

The average woman should use a racket weighing between 13 and 15 1/4 ounces, working up to 13 1/2 or 13 3/4. Alice Marble uses a 14-

Bean Ball Hits Jurges; Williams Also Gets Hurt

By BILL WHITE
Associated Press Sports Writer

The argument of whether a player should be struck by a bean ball is being heated by the Cardinals and the Dodgers yesterday when Billy Jurges of the Cardinals was puffed yesterday by Bucky Walters of the Cincinnati staff, and Ted Williams, lanky Boston Red Sox outfielder, also sustained a concussion when he and Roger Cramer collided, while pursuing a fly ball.

The "alarmists" will be posing soon for the cameramen in all sorts of odd contraptions designed to save America's players from a fate like that.

that could best be avoided by either ducking or looking where they're going.

But make no mistake, the injuries will have serious consequences. The Giants, right in the thick of the National league pennant fight, dropped a pair to the Reds yesterday by 7-4 and 2-0 and that dropped them back to third place while the Reds were re-mounting the throne for the sixth time.

The Red Sox lost the first game of yesterday's double bill against Cleveland, in which Ted Williams was hurt and Cramer badly shaken up by 4-1. They might have lost the second if it hadn't been for the home-run hitting of Jim Tabor whose two blows gave them a 2-0 victory.

Medwick came back as a regular and helped the Dodgers climb back into second place. His two timely singles kept a Pittsburgh Pirates from making off with a 13-inning afterpiece, after they managed an 8-5 win in the first game. The second game was called off because of darkness with the score tied, 4-4.

Other National league doings included fine performances by two rookie Chicago Cub pitchers—Jake Mooty and Ken Raffenseberger. Jake won the first game for the Phillies by 3-2 on a six-hit job and Ken took the second 7-2.

Manuel Salvo and Joe Sullivan came through a twin assignment for the Boston Bees, handing the St. Louis Cardinals their first double beating under Manager Billy Southworth by scores of 7-3 and 10-5. Salvo pitched a six-hitter and Sullivan an eight-hitter.

Bob Bowman, who beamed Medwick in the first inning of the first game by Sebastian Sisti of the Bees, and forced to retire.

In the American league, Louis (Buck) Newsom won his ninth straight as the Detroit Tigers climbed to within a game and a half of the league-leading Cleveland Indians by socking the poor old Yankees, 9-2.

Durocher, in light uniform with arm around a Card player's neck, and Mickey Owen of the Cards reportedly started the latest chapter in the feud which broke water with the beating of Joe Medwick with a pitcher ball. Pepper Martin, vigorous Gas-houser, is number 11.

Cats Have Sunk Almost Out Of Sight In Race

(By The Associated Press)
The Texas league race no longer can be properly termed an eight-team affair. The Fort Worth Cats have sunk so far and fast that it's almost impossible to see them qualifying for a Shaughnessy play-off berth.

They dropped two more last night, these to the second place San Antonio Missions, 12 to 4 and 4 to 2. The seventh-place Shreveport Sports lost to the fourth-place Dallas Rebels, 3 to 2, in both tilts.

Rogers Hornsby's Oklahoma City Indians got an even break against the league-leading Houstonians, beating them 12 to 6 in the opener and losing 6 to 4 in the nightcap.

Kiersky Wins State Title At Houston
GALVESTON, June 24 (AP)—A 32-year-old Houston Oil company promoter man did a neat job of promoting himself an expense-paid trip to Detroit for the National Public Links golf championship next month.

Bob Kiersky turned the trick over the municipal course here yesterday, scoring a 72-77-149 to win the state title, which automatically carries with it the guarantee that he may go after the national crown without digging into his pocketbook.

Kiersky sounded the tocsin with his morning round of even par, and though his game slipped in the high wind during the afternoon, there seemed to be nothing much anyone could do about it.

Ford Edison Ames, a 24-year-old comer from Beaumont, tried his best but could carve only one stroke off the three-stroke lead Kiersky constructed in the first round.

Ames, who commutes to his machineist's job at Port Arthur, finished second with 75-76-151.

Frank Megna of Dallas, with 76-75-154, and W. Nesmith of Antonio, with 79-75-154, tied for third and fourth.

M'Ginnis Beats Watkins For Pampa Golf Crown

C. F. McGinnis staged one of the most sensational uphill battles in local golf history yesterday afternoon to win the City Golf championship for 1940, over the Pampa Country club course.

McGinnis defeated Elmer Watkins, up by winning the last six holes in which he shot consecutive birdies on the last four holes.

Watkins had his putter hot the first 18 holes when he had McGinnis six down at the close of morning play. Then the rains came and evicted McGinnis, who started playing sensational golf. "Buck" Elmer, however, is taking credit for his pal's comeback. Hines ran down a rabbit, cut off a hind leg and "rubbed it on McGinnis' shoulder at the 12th hole, and from then on McGinnis could have beaten Jones, Hagin, Metz, Stenard or any other of the big names. Anyway, McGinnis held out for a birdie on the 13th hole.

McGinnis Gets Hot
As the two golfers approached the 12th green, Watkins had a "our-hole lead. The pair halved the hole. With six holes to go, the game appeared in the bag but McGinnis sent a birdie at Watkins on the next hole to win. The two halved the following hole but McGinnis hot four consecutive birdies which were too good for Watkins' four pars.

Magnolia Beats Hoover 6 To 0

The Magnolia Flying Red Horses of Pampa won their seventh game of the season, against three losses yesterday afternoon when they took a 6 to 0 game from the Hoover Hogs. In Hoover. The game was called at the end of the fifth inning because of rain.

Only 18 batters faced A. C. Miller in the five innings. Benton got two hits and one man got a base on ball.

Maddox held no terror for the Red Horses. Gastineau and Keyes got to him for a home run and single each while Manager Bob Baiter and H. Stephens bagged doubles.

While Miller fanned seven, Maddox was able to send five Red Horses batters to the showers.

On Tuesday evening a crew of picked stars from Kingsmill will attempt to stop the Red Horses. The game will be on the Magnolia diamond.

Score by innings yesterday:
Red Horses 201 00-6 6 1
Hogs 000 00-0 2 1
Batteries: Red Horses, Miller and H. Stephens; Hogs, Maddox and Turcotte. Umpires, Brown and Hall.

INDIANS - SOX SPLIT
CLEVELAND, June 24 (AP)—Jim Tabor placed the Boston Red Sox back in the victory column yesterday, his two homers, defeating Cleveland 2 to 0 in the nightcap.

With the victory, Boston ended a seven-game losing streak, but it was forced to do so without the services of outfielder Ted Williams, injured by a collision with Roger Cramer in the first contest.

Tabor crashed together with his going after Ray Mack's long fly in the eighth inning and Williams, unconscious several minutes, was taken from the game and hospitalized. An X-ray examination disclosed a slight brain concussion. Dr. Edward Castle said, reporting the lanky battering star would be out of the lineup "at least several days."

NEED LIGHT TO SHINE

It is a common belief that many animals have phosphorescent eyes that glow in total darkness. Such is not the case, however, and science now knows that light can only be reflected by the eyes of certain animals, and this is due to a lustrous layer of the retina.

DARING BIRDS

A liner passing down the Red Sea was boarded by migrating swallows, according to reports from passengers. The birds were so daring that one even attacked an officer of the ship.

CRAYSON'S SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON NEA Service Sports Editor INasmuch as they gave him the shakes in the first place, it was only fair for the amusing Cleveland ball players to withdraw their statements referring to the resignation of Oscar Vitt.

SIDE GLANCES

By GALBRAITH the then Rollicking Rolly had to be sent home to give himself and the club time to cool off. SERIAL STORY

Ticket to Hollywood

BY W. H. PEARS

COPYRIGHT 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY Francie slugs the midnight prowler with a lamp, knocks him out. It is Gusty's kitchen. He has robbed Gusty. Mr. Weston and Francie find Gusty unconscious beside his car. Francie watches over Gusty, takes the tickets from his billfold.

CHAPTER VII

WHEN Francie emerged from her cabin next morning, Gusty and Mr. Weston were talking. Her heart sank. Was Gusty reporting his loss? She circled the cabins and hurried into the restaurant without being seen.

Aunt Hat looked up from her eggs and sausage. "What a night! I'm as weak as a rag. Francie, dear, I've been meaning to ask you. You haven't lied to me about the ticket?"

"I—I've got it, Aunt Hat," Francie gulped. "But—"

John Weston entered, wiping his brow. "That boy's got Lucifer's own pride. Made me take the money for his cabin."

Francie sighed, "Is . . . that all you talked about?"

Mr. Weston nodded. "Except that I finally persuaded him to be my guest at breakfast. He needs a good meal to get his strength back. He wouldn't eat if he had to pay for it himself."

Gusty came in, minus his usual swagger. His cheeks were still pale, his eyes shadowed. He sat down unsteadily and picked up a menu.

"Never mind that, son," John Weston's eyes twinkled. "I've ordered for you."

Gusty grinned. "Thanks. Guess I need some grub."

The meal was eaten amidst a frosty silence provided by Francie and Aunt Hat. Gusty arose, stumbling over his chair. He passed his hand across his forehead.

"Holy smokes, I'm dizzy as a bat! I'll be driving the old bus around in circles. Any chance of sparing me a driver, Mr. Weston?"

Francie said stubbornly, "I'm not going—"

Mr. Weston took his daughter aside. "I don't intend to argue, Francie. Quarrel or no quarrel, you're to drive Gusty's car for him."

"But—"

"Francie!"

"All right, Papa."

"That's better. We'll hit the little mountain town of Circle about sundown. There's a good hotel listed. You and Gusty can meet us there."

PRESENTLY Francie was rattling westward in Gusty's old roadster. She drove with her chin set at a defiant angle. Gusty slumped on the end of his spine, his feet straight out. In silence he watched the wind whip little tendrils of amber hair from under Francie's bright scarf. "Aren't you gonna talk?" he demanded finally.

"Why should I?"

"Aw, look, Francie, don't be sore. I shouldn't have popped off last night. You and your dad were swell to me. I told him so, too."

Francie could feel the familiar softening process going on in her heart. She fought it off with a terse "Skip it."

"Nothing doing. It took a lot of gu—nerve to whang Blubber over the head. I like girls with gu—nerve. Gee, Francie, all we've done lately is scrap. We didn't use it."

"No, we didn't."

"There's just no sense in it," Gusty declared gravely.

"No, there isn't . . ."

"Gusty, why figure it out all started over that ticket?" the roadster swerved. "Hey, what's wrong?"

"N-nothing," Francie said. "Nothing at all."

"You see, it's like this," Gusty continued. "I figure it's a man's place to have the car. That's why I grabbed the ticket. Now take us: suppose we, well, wanted to get married—"

"Married!" Francie's heart beat a wild, joyous rhythm. "Why, Gusty Gair . . ."

"Oh, sure, it's a silly idea. It's corny. But, gosh, I'm only trying to make a point. Just suppose. You wouldn't want to be a famous star and have a garage mechanic for a husband, no, sir! A man's place is at the head of his family, I say."

"You—you mean that's why you took the ticket?" Francie asked. "Because you wanted to make good for me?"

"Well, I . . ." Gusty reddened. "I wouldn't exactly say that, but . . ."

"It was, Gusty!" Francie cried. "Okay, it was then," Gusty said gruffly. "You'd better watch your driving."

Suddenly Francie felt as if the ticket were a red mark of shame, a scarlet letter branded upon her. Gusty was a pure knight facing all kinds of hardships for her sake. Oh, why hadn't she realized it before?

The afternoon sped by with the miles. It was a perfect day, one Francie would never forget. Not once did Gusty lapse into his role of braggart. Even his donkey laugh was muted. When they stopped for lunch Gusty paid for the hamburgers. He even assisted Francie from the car.

AT dusk they reached the mountain range and began a hard climb. Gusty's dizzy spell had long since passed and he was driving.

Great barren masses of rock reared up on either side of them as they twisted over a road cut from solid stone.

Francie said, "Gusty, look! Isn't it lovely?"

The moon hung like a huge golden ornament from the topmost peak of the mountain. It laid a thin saffron light over the rugged slopes, making them soft and unreal.

"Boy, that is something!" Gusty agreed. "Let's stop and watch a few minutes."

He pulled the roadster partially off the pavement, drew Francie close. The air was crisp, thin, fragrant. It was just like the night at the airport.

"Makes you feel kinda small, don't it?" Gusty muttered. Francie nodded, snuggled against him.

"We'll never scrap again, will we?" Gusty said.

"No, Gusty—never." But even as she said it, Francie was frightened. A tiny square of pasteboard cast a huge black shadow over this perfect moment. . . . She hesitated, then said faintly, "Gusty, why—why don't . . . I mean, wouldn't you like to kiss me?"

"Holy smokes, I—" Gusty bent awkwardly, but his lips never touched Francie's.

Air Corps Will Use More Fields In South, West

WASHINGTON, June 2. (AP)—The army air corps announced today a plan to use 15 additional air fields in the south and west in its new scheme to step up the training of flyers to more than 10,000 pilots, observers and bombardiers annually.

Nine of the fields will supplement existing facilities of as many civilian schools which for the last year have been giving elementary training to army flyers.

The others will be adjuncts of the three main training centers for basic, advanced and specialized training at Randolph Field, Texas, Maxwell Field, Ala., and Moffett Field, Calif.

Construction of temporary barracks and other buildings estimated to cost several million dollars is involved in the expansion of facilities.

Among the new fields for elementary training were: Ricks Field, Fort Worth, Texas, affiliated with the Dallas Aviation and Air College; The Gulf Training Center with headquarters at Randolph Field, Texas, will continue operation of present nearby stations, including Kelly and Brooks Fields.

In addition a new field will be opened at San Angelo, Texas, to start advanced training next February 8 for approximately 200 students in successive class of 10 weeks duration. Approximately $1,674,000 will be expended for construction at San Angelo and about 870 officers and enlisted men will be stationed there in addition to the students.

The Gulf Training Center also will conduct a specialized school at a place yet to be selected to train multi-engine combat plane crews consisting of pilots, bombardiers and navigators.

XIT Relics To Be Shown At Dalhart

DALHART, June 24. — Historic relics from the far-flung corners of the three-million XIT empire of the 1880's will be displayed in a special XIT exhibit hall during the Fifth Annual XIT reunion in Dalhart next Aug. 5-6, announces Charlie Coombes, chairman of the General XIT committee.

There will be desks over which thousands of dollars in XIT payrolls passed; old guns that did their part in bringing law and order to the west; saddles, chaps and other paraphernalia worn by characters noted not only on the XIT but throughout the Southwest.

During the last century, mufflers were standard table pieces. They were an enlarged salt shaker, used to supply powdered sugar to cakes and fruits at the table.

Hod Blair Recalls Events As One Of Miami's First Railway Agents

(By Lorene Osborne Locke)

Mr. Blair really came across Roberts county and established camp in its northwestern corner, as many historians of today think, he certainly could never have visualized, by any scope of imagination, what the coming of the "iron horse" would mean to the trackless plains of his day. In the wake of the explorer and the pioneer came people and settlements, but in the wake of the railroad came civilization.

The railroad came to Roberts county in 1867. That fall the Santa Fe took over the road from the construction company, and sent Frank Gould of Oxford, Kansas, here to assume the duties of agent.

But this is not a story of the railroad. It is really the personal story of H. B. Blair, today one of the Panhandle's foremost business men. However, since Mr. Blair was one of the Santa Fe's first agents in Miami, the one who stayed the longest, some of the railroad's history is necessarily included.

Mr. Blair was born in St. Charles, Ill., 35 miles from Chicago, in 1868. When he was four years old his family moved to Kansas, near Coffeyville, the town the Dalton boys made notoriously well known. Hod, as everyone knows him, says that he has almost forgotten that the H. E. stands for Horace Eugene. "I was named for a man who was nicknamed 'Hod,'" he explains, "and I fell heir to it along with being his namesake."

Spotter Found Him
When asked how he got into the railroad business, Mr. Blair replied, "Well, in those days, the larger railroad companies had men whom they called 'spotters.' Their business was to look out for young men whom they considered suitable material for railroad jobs—something like movie scouts of today," he laughed.

"When I was about 16 years old, Matt Freely, a spotter for the Santa Fe asked me if I would like to learn the business. I told him I sure would, so I started under Dick Powers, who was agent at Elk City, Kas., my home town. The first station where I was agent, on my own, was New Salem, near Winfield."

"How did you happen to come to the Panhandle?" I asked.

"Well, as I said, I had learned the business under Dick Powers. The first agent only stayed at Miami a short time. Then Powers was sent to take his place."
"At that time Miami was the shipping point for old Fort Elliott and handled more freight than any place between Woodward, which was the shipping point for Fort Sill, and Panhandle City, which was the end of the line. The Miami depot was the largest between those towns too. When Powers came, he found that he needed a helper. So he asked for me. I came to Miami in October, 1888."

When the fort was abandoned at Mobeetie the depot force at Miami was reduced and Mr. Blair was sent to Panhandle City. He stayed there eight months, as agent.

Indian Scare
"I was at Panhandle when they had the great Indian scare at Salsbury, now Memphis, my informant recalled. "An amusing incident took place in connection with it. Someone came charging into Salsbury and reported that the Indians were on the warpath and were coming right into the town. Of course people were scared to death."
"The county judge wired Canadian for all the guns and ammunition they had. Mose Hayes, an old cowboy at Canadian, wired back, "Impossible to send guns and ammunition. The Kickapoo have just taken over Miami." That threw everything into rout. People thought the Indians were coming from both sides.

The agent at Salsbury wire Amarillo, "The Indians are coming. I'm leaving now."

"Even in Panhandle the people were frantic. Everywhere they were loading up wagons and buggies, anything they could get, and moving out."

He laughed, "Of course you know that was Mose Hayes' idea of a joke. They had been having a heated county seat in Miami. One faction had taken the name of Kickapoo, and the other side of Diggers. The Kickapoo had just taken over the safe that held the county records and moved it all to Parnell."

Becomes Agent at Miami
In 1890, the young railroader came back to Miami and took the job of station agent, a position he held for 17 years.

"You were not very old, when you came here, were you?" I remarked. "Well, I have never voted anywhere else," he returned.

"A funny thing happened at Pampa—just to show you how different things were in those days," he chuckled. "Pampa was just a flag station called Station. Only twice a year, in the spring and the fall at cattle shipping time was there enough business to justify having an agent there."

Other seasons of the year, Miami billed the shipping contracts. Well, during one of the times when they had an agent there for a short time, he got on a big drunk. When he sobered up, he found four messages on file that he had sent resigning his job. He immediately sent this wire, "All former messages void. Am now ready for duty." And do you know he didn't lose his job. Telegraph operators were scarce in those days."

Before Mr. Blair came to the Panhandle he had met a young lady named Adah Heckard, whose family had recently moved to Elk City from another part of Kansas. They became interested in each other and kept up a correspondence after he came west.

Returns to Kansas For Bride
In May, 1891, Hod went back to Elk City to claim his bride. He and Miss Heckard were married by a Methodist minister.

"Poor preacher, it killed him," Mrs. Blair humorously supplied. "The man went home and got sick and died two days later."
"I was nearly scared to death," her husband retorted. "But the preacher did a good job of it if it did kill him. The knot is still tied, after all these years."

"Yes, I had an idea of what I was coming too," Mrs. Blair replied in answer to a question. "I had been out to Miami once on a visit with Mr. Blair's sister, Mrs. Edge. There were not more than six or seven families living here when I came. The hardest thing for me was not being able to go to church. I had never lived where there were no churches."

"I can tell you something about that," she continued. "I was in Miami seven months that I never heard a sermon. Then old Brother Lewis, grandfather of John Lewis who lives near Canadian, came here and preached in the depot one Sunday. He was a Christian preacher."
"The first regular church services we had a Rev. Dubs, also a Christian preacher, came over from Mobeetie, later, and held services in the little school house. It had been built in the meantime."

First School and Church Built In Miami

"Yes, I helped build that school building," Mr. Blair contributed. "J. C. Seiber, J. O. B. Street and I were the school board. It was a two-room building about 20 by 35 feet. We thought that would hold the school for years and years to come."
"Well, I helped to build the first church," his wife retorted. "Mrs. J. C. Seiber and I, the Halls, Edges, Seibers and a few others had moved here then, and we set to work to build a Presbyterian church. We got $1,000 from the presbytery. Samuel Edge gave the land where the Presbyterian church and manse still stand. The Methodist church building had been blown by a tornado, so we got the old bell, carpets, pews, pulpit, and pulpit chair from there."
"My, that church house looked like a million dollars to us when we got it finished," she exclaimed. "I looked so big inside. We had a hard time paying for it, but it was worth it. All the children in town came there to Sunday School."

In 1907, the First State bank was organized and Mr. Blair left the railroad job to go into it as cashier. He has been there ever since, becoming president of it a few years ago on the death of B. F. Talley.
The Blairs have two daughters, Mrs. John O'Keefe of Panhandle, Mrs. Mrs. Dallas George of Miami. "We know what it means to send children away to college," Mr. Blair observed. "When our girls were in school, we didn't have a team and buggy. We couldn't afford a car. So, on Sunday afternoons we would walk down the railroad one direction on Sunday and the other direction, the next Sunday, for recreation."

Self Made Man

Mr. Blair is a good example of what is tritely called a self-made man.
"My education was acquired in the school of hard work," he asserted. "Through the years, he has just lived when I was thirteen years old I went to Eureka, Kansas, and began working for N. H. Ives in a mercantile store."

"What could a 13-year-old boy do?" I asked him.
"Oh, I was general routabout," he answered. "The women brought butter to the store in large crockery jars. I packed it down in candy buckets, to be resold. I counted every sweep floor, ran errands, anything that could be done around the store. Sometimes I even sold a spool of thread. We thought a lot more of making a living those days, than of preparing to make one."

That statement seems to sum up Hod Blair's economic philosophy. Through the years, he has just lived through the opportunity that presented itself, and given it the best he had until something better came along. Perhaps this joy in living working, and this zest for achievement explains why he seems younger than his years.

It isn't every 72-year-old man who can walk out of church on Sunday morning, take an ambulance to the hospital, and survive a major operation with a jest on his lips. Yet, that is Hod Blair's latest encounter with life. In fact he is still a convalescent—will not resume his desk at the bank for a short time.

Mr. Blair has always been a builder. He was one of the stewards who helped build the present brick building that houses the Methodist church. He is the oldest Mason, in point of membership, in the local Masonic chapter.

In bank, Mr. Blair has found the work he likes best. This is readily understood as he comes from a background of professional people. His father was a business man and his grandfather, too, was a banker.

20 Lions To Attend Buffalo Lake Dance

Pampa Lions will be represented by 20 members of the local club at the dinner-dance to be held at Buffalo lake Wednesday night, in connection with the presentation of the charter to the newly-formed Canyon Lions club.
Dr. T. M. Montgomery, Amarillo Lion, will serve as toastmaster at the banquet.

Raymond Raillard and His Majors in Swing, the West Texas State college orchestra, will furnish the music for the evening dance to follow the banquet. Floor show numbers are also on the official program.

A. G. Bearden, Lamesa, district governor, and F. V. Wallace, Dumas, incoming district governor, are two of the distinguished guests who will attend.

Visiting Lions are urged to meet at the Panhandle Plains Historical museum at the college campus between 6 and 6 o'clock Wednesday evening for an open house program before going to the lake. Points of interest in and near Canyon will be shown the visitors.

The oldest mining charter in the United States was held by the copper mine at Simsbury, Conn., which was chartered in 1709.

INVENTOR, DERBY BUILDER MEET

A Pampa boy may be doing next August what Dean Bailey of Memphis, Tenn., is doing here. The boy is explaining his racer's construction features to one of the country's greatest inventors, C. R. Kettering, director of research for General Motors. Home-Town Soap Box Derby champions who travel to Akron, Ohio, for the All-American and International races. Kettering will meet many famous personages.

VISITOR HERE

A frequent visitor to Pampa is Allen Harp, above, state representative of the 12th district which includes the counties of Childress, Hall, Cottle, Motley. Mr. Harp was in Pampa today contacting the voters in the interest of his candidacy for congressman of the 18th district. Mr. Harp was born and raised in Childress county. He is now a resident of Hall county. He defeated the veteran Bob Alexander of Childress for the house seat in 1938, and by a sizeable vote. Mr. Harp today predicted he would carry his district, and would pick up enough votes in the other counties to put him into the run-off. Mr. Harp was an employee of an oil refinery for three years.

Burro Trails Deer, Says Game Warden

AUSTIN, June 24 (AP)—What next? The state game department offers a burro that trails deer.

It's backed up by pictures and eyewitness accounts.
John R. Wood, a state game warden brought in the story of "Old Whitey," a long-eared donkey attached to the Comanche trail council Boy Scout camp in San Saba county, 12 miles west of Richland Springs, whose hunting ability was discovered accidentally.

Lee R. Tesson, scoutmaster at Mullen, was riding the burro one day when the animal reared its head, sniffed, and changed his course.

Whitey picked his way cautiously over rock and through brush, testing each step lest he snap a twig or creak a stone. In 15 minutes he took Tesson to a sleeping doe and a fawn.

Tesson put that to coincidence and decided to test Whitey the next day. He took along a camera. A half mile from camp Whitey tossed his nose into the air and looked through the brush, again avoiding contact with anything liable to make noise. Within 200 yards he came upon a doe and a buck. Tesson photographed them.

Again Whitey was on wind. This time he led Tesson to within 30 feet of a buck sleeping under a cedar tree. By night Whitey had flushed 13 deer.

Whitey is a fixture at the camp but sorry, hunters, he's not for sale or rent.

Goodrich To Make Two Radio Talks

Still going strong on his house-to-house canvass of the district Lewis M. Goodrich, Shamrock, candidate for congress, paused long enough this week to outline major issues which he will discuss in talks over the district and over two radio stations before the primary July 27.

Believing that a man's future action may be predicted only on his past, Goodrich stressed these questions: "What has he done? Has he been the right kind of character in public service in his private life?"

It is the desire to lend greater assistance to the farmers, the small business men and the old folks that has, to a large measure, prompted Goodrich to make this race.

"We need a hard workers like Marvin Jones in congress," he said.

You'll Pay More Taxes To Help Pay For Planes, Navy

By IRVING PERLMETER
WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—Mr. Citizen, who has a wife and one small child and earns $3,000 a year, figured today that he would nearly have to double his federal tax payments so that Uncle Sam could buy airplanes and other defense equipment.

Congress has tacked on an extra 10 per cent here and there, with a few variations, but when Mr. Citizen got out his pencil he found it added up unexpectedly. He calculated that his annual federal tax bill had been boosted from $27 to $49.50. This is the way he reached that figure:

He has never paid federal income tax heretofore, but since congress has added the exemption for a married man from $2,500 to $2,000 and added a 10 per cent super-tax to former tax schedules, he calculates he'll have to pay $13.20 next March.

take 1 cent a gallon, or $5. Now it wants 1 1/2 cents a gallon, or $7.50. The old radio having worn out, Mr. Citizen also is going to buy a $100 radio, on which the tax was $10 but is now $61.

Mr. Citizen could have figured some more increases, because congress boosted by 10 per cent most of its other excise taxes, like those on automobiles, tires, oil, club dues, some toilet preparations, and refrigerators.

Tobacco Tax Upped
How much more he will pay in tobacco taxes depends on whether he is a cigaret smoker, and, if so, the number of packs he uses. Congress upped the cigaret levy one-half cent per pack, or 25 cents per 1,000, leaving other tobacco taxes unchanged.

Mr. Citizen is not the average American—his income is too large, for one thing, and some people may say he drinks too much—but he is typical of a considerable group of taxpayers.
The steepest increases were made in income taxes. Besides the cut from $2,500 to $2,000 in the married man's exemption, the single man's exemption was reduced from $1,000 to $800. Surtax rates were hiked on incomes up to $100,000, and then a 10 per cent super tax was added to all other income taxes. The super tax also applies to corporations, whose rates were boosted a flat one per cent in each income category.
The increased income taxes, applying on income received during the current calendar year, are payable next year. Most of the other increases, including those on tobacco and liquor, become effective July 1, 1940.

IN CHARGE OF TRAFFIC!

USE THE PROGRESSIVE MERCHANTS' GUIDE TO MORE SALES VOLUME-- The Pampa News

THE PROBLEM of getting sufficient customer traffic into a store is recognized by every merchant. With few exceptions, the life and success of a business is in direct proportion to the number of possible buyers that daily pass through the doors. Similarly, every established merchant realizes that the customer who enters his place of business is in search of certain quality at a certain price. The successful business man stocks the items in the quantities and qualities desired by his customers.

But after a merchant stocks the right merchandise and recognizes the need for customer traffic, what shall he do then?

He can follow the lead of successful merchants still further! He can advertise! He can tell over 6,600 families living in Pampa and its environs about his business and his merchandise. He can make them special attractive offers to increase his store traffic.

How can he reach those necessary families for the least amount of money and with the greatest amount of certainty?

He can advertise in the Pampa News, the newspaper that is read and accepted by 6,600 families daily!

"DAY IN AND DAY OUT" ADVERTISING IN THE PAMPA NEWS BRINGS CONSISTENT RESULTS!

Case histories of ads run by consistent advertisers show an even greater degree of success than those run by occasional advertisers. Regular Pampa News advertisers build up an acceptance in the minds of readers. Their ads have an identifying continuity that potential customers look for. Day in and day out advertisers secure consistently excellent results. If you are in business in Pampa and are not now an advertiser in the Pampa News, we urge you to investigate the News' possibilities for you!
