Nazis Batter English Coast From The Air

Germany Believed Ready For Blitz War On Britons

(By The Associated Press) English seas throbbled with the sound of aerial dog fights today as the powerful German air force, repelled with losses in a sunrise raid on the southeast coast, sent hundreds of planes against inland objectives. Throughout the day Britain's airmen and anti-aircraft batteries battled the high-flying Nazi invaders. The British officially fixed the German losses in the sunrise attack at 15-eight bombers and seven escorting fighters, but indicated the total might run higher. Unofficially it reached 23. The German attack on the coast topped off a series of night raids, which the British countered with attacks on German-occupied France and the Netherlands. The British said they bombed German oil tanks at Cherbourg, France, and also dropped bombs on a German air base on the Dutch coast.

Destroyer 'Sunk' In London, the admiralty acknowledged the loss of the 1,120-ton destroyer Wren, 27th to be officially announced. On the Balkan diplomatic front it was indicated in official quarters at Bucharest that Rumania is willing to cede a narrow strip of Transylvania to Hungary, which claims the province as historic Magyar soil. While the battle over the English coast raged, the German high command on the continent took action in which some quarters regarded as preliminary to the long-awaited final thrust at the British Isles. This was a German order published by the French government at Vichy halting rail traffic between German-occupied and unoccupied France and barring the return of millions of French

Roosevelt Asks Active Training

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP)—President Roosevelt today suggested legislation to permit him to order the national guard and officers reserve corps into active training. Noting that he had asked congress recently to give him authority to order out the guards when he thought it was necessary, the President said in a letter read in the senate that he did not consider this power sufficient. The President said if the legislation he suggested were approved by congress, he would be able to order successive sections of the national guard and the officers reserve corps into active training. When these units received sufficient training to enable them to handle the most modern equipment, their members would be returned to civilian life, he said.

Scant Hope Held For Relief From U. S. Heat Wave

The summer's most extensive heat wave held fast its grip on a major portion of the nation today and weather bureau officials, scanning cloudless skies, could give no promise of immediate relief. Now more than a week old in many sections, the current excessive hot spell has exacted a heavy death toll, with more than 600 persons dead from the effects of the heat and by drownings. An Associated Press tabulation showed 303 persons succumbed from heat prostrations while drownings numbered 325.

Cooler Weather Promised For Panhandle Tonight

Good Samaritan Act Pays Off In Puppies

MICHIGAN, July 29 (AP)—This city's two-man police force gets new uniforms annually because Chief Fred Bosma likes animals. Four years ago Bosma found a stray dog in the streets and set out to destroy it. His fondness for pets overruled a sense of duty and he bought the dog—Zippy—a license. Each year since then Zippy has presented its master with a litter of puppies. Sale of the puppies pays for the uniforms.

A. A. U. W. Offers Information From Group Caring For European Children

With official announcement that space has already been allotted for 1,000 British children on ships bound for North American ports within the next few weeks and that American ships will likely be made available soon for a "mass migration" of the children of rich and poor alike, Pampanas are asking: How can we get our applications in?

The local branch of the American Association of University Women has pamphlets explaining the workings of the United States Committee for the Care of European Children and its various cooperating agencies, and will be glad to furnish information to interested persons.

The A. A. U. W. is only one of many organizations cooperating with the United States Committee for the Care of European Children in the work of finding homes for child refugees. This committee, headed by Marshall Field, has been designated by the British authorities as the only committee with whom they will deal. The children are received by this committee and placed in temporary homes until homes "for the duration of the war" can be found by the various organizations assisting in the placement of the children. Homes offered in Texas will be investigated by the Texas Department of Public Welfare before children are assigned.

Applications may be made through the Red Cross, the A. A. U. W., the Texas Department of Public Welfare, and various other agencies assisting in the placement of the children. Committees for the Care of European Children, 215 Fourth Avenue, New York City. Local organizations do not pass on the merits of the applications but are simply asked to give information about the committee's requirements and to seek to interest people in taking children. Affidavits, prepared in triplicate, are required to give proof of the sponsor's financial qualifications and his guarantee to give the child maintenance until he has been repatriated, or until some other plan approved by the placing agency has been worked out for him.

The committee outlines four ways in which people can help: By taking a child into their homes and assuming full responsibility for him; by giving financial support for a child placed in some other home approved by the committee; by giving a home and care to a child with the committee arranging for his financial support; or by making a cash contribution for the support of refugee children without assuming further responsibility for the care of any particular child. All funds will be handled by the National Child Refugee Committee.

Members of the British Association of University Women have asked the American Association to aid in finding homes for their children for the duration of the war, and several Pampanas persons have expressed a desire to take one of these children. However, Mrs. Hel Wagner, president of the local branch, says that the group will be glad to supply information to interested persons, whether or not they care to apply through A. A. U. W.

Yesterday's announcement that the A. A. U. W. had authorized its treasurer to accept contributions for the aid of European women and their children had reference to the

Movie Close-Ups Have Made Women More Beauty Conscious

"Fashion is looking backward, but she has a wrinkle in her eye! Waists may be pinched or unbound! Bustles may be on or off! Hair may be up or down! The girl who was born in the twentieth century cannot be robbed of her birthright! Such was the retort of Max Factor, Jr., Hollywood's glamour authority, to the challenge that fashionable beauty is backward.

"The superficial dictates of fashion cannot reverse the constructive work that has been done by art and science on behalf of women. This physical loveliness, so abundant in the twentieth century, can be attributed to three things," says Factor. "Medical science and dental science have certainly contributed their share, but the movie close-up has made both women and science beauty conscious.

"Mama's" first introduction to Mary Pickford or Lillian Gish gave her mirror a new meaning. She took stock of her face, her figure, her teeth and her hair as she had never done before. In turn she regarded her children with a more careful eye to their appearance and physical well-being. The result is that we have a generation of debutantes who are dropped into the regular robes of any former queen, and leave that lady chagrined if she could see her."

In the junior Max Factor's opinion, the average housewife or workaday girl of 1940 possesses a healthy, well-groomed beauty that has made the sirens of the past pale with envy. The Schiaparelli and Adrians may lace and drape the modern torso as they will. They may gown madame in memories of the past, or build around her supple chassis a prediction of 2000 A. D., yet there she will stand, none the less, a substantial product of contemporary science and motion pictures.

There are women today whose good health and good make-up would certainly entitle them to be called "young" who can remember when powder was a gritty substance which was used heavily on the nose to avoid shining. They can recall the oddtime lipstick that was always a dull, artificial red, and served as a temporary flare of color between the nose and chin. But they have seen a good many motion pictures since then.

Housewares Show Features Latest Synthetic Items

A child of the depression era, this country's synthetic industry is making a household duties of Mrs. America a simpler task.

This fact was pointed out to 6,000 buyers for the nation's housewares departments this week at Atlantic City, where the representatives made purchases at the New York housewares show for retail store sales later in the year.

Synthetics, developed only 10 brief years ago, had invaded every field at the show from a coating on an ironing board pad which cuts down the time necessary for ironing clothes, to pastel-hued, non-breakable and rustproof shower curtain hooks.

Developed from such common substances as the coke, limestone and salt used for kerosene, or the soap and oil used for such items as jewel-colored hairbrushes, the synthetic items seen at the show perform miracles ranging from complete resistance to acid stains to absolute non-inflammability.

No phase of housekeeping was forgotten in the synthetic presentations at the show. For the dining table, there were glass napkins, plastic jewel-like in tone that added color to any table setting. Designed to prevent dripping on the tablecloth, were little jugs with a patented slide feature top that instantly cuts off the source of supply from the mouth.

Burned fingers from hot metal handles will be a forgotten memory for the housewife who uses a new bakelite-handled drip perforator, resplendent in a combination of pewter top and copper bottom. Another color note for the dining table was a clever little wooden chest tray, with tenic handles in tones to harmonize with one's color scheme. A wire arrangement produces even slices of cheese when desired.

The kitchen has been aware of the synthetic field for the past several years, but this year's presentations will bring many a gasp from housewives. There is a new plastic top on the range, perfect in that it steam will escape and thus make ironing time shorter. At the side of this board, is a built-in 400 watt element to heat the table and assist in eliminating moisture. Kerosene, one of the new synthetics, was presented in a variety of ways for home use. Ironing board pads that cut down ironing time because the synthetic coating prevents the pad from becoming saturated with moisture from the wet clothes; new mittens for dusting furniture and washing dishes; tablecloths that resemble linen without linen's laundry problems; shower curtains; matching quilted chintz boxes and bags to dress up the closet and coated with the synthetic so that dust and dirt cannot penetrate to the garments within, were among the items shown. Special properties of kerosene which make it invaluable in household items are its waterproof, stainproof, acid proof, spot proof and fire resistant characteristics. Cleaning is accomplished simply by wiping off with a damp cloth.

The American note entered into synthetics in several fields at the show. Red, white and blue were featured in an unusual kitchen table and chair ensemble made impervious to stains of any sort by a synthetic finish baked into steel. Form fitting chairs were a particular note in the furniture grouping. Red, white and blue were also shown in several bathroom ensembles, including matching shower curtains and towel

Brazil Nuts Make Good Menu Neighbors At World's Fair

With the diplomatic spotlight playing its brightest rays on our Latin-American neighbors to the south, it's only right that the time-honored and friendly custom of "breaking bread" should give way to "breaking Brazil nuts" if so-called feeling between the Americas is what we are after. Over one hundred newspaper and magazine editors, nationally-famous food authorities, and prominent South Americans recently did exactly that with Brazilian dishes and Brazil nuts at a festive dinner in the Brazilian Pavilion of the New York World's Fair.

Opportunities for Pan-American cooperation by the plentiful were paraded for the benefit of the assembled gourmets and guests with "Sopa de Feijao" (that's Brazilian

Havana Parley Ready To Adopt Uncle Sam Plan

HAVANA, July 29 (AP)—The conference of American foreign ministers in plenary session was expected to adopt today without a dissenting vote the American republics' doctrine of defense against the transfer, by conquest or other means, of European-held possessions in the western hemisphere to any non-American power.

The session was scheduled for 4 p. m. (C. S. T.). Final committee action on a project expected by observers here to take its place in history alongside the Monroe Doctrine was completed early this morning, when the peace commission of the conference approved the draft of the convention covering the legal phase of the plan.

The plan itself, embodied in a draft resolution called the act of Havana, provides that the American republics may establish "regions of provisional administration" in any areas now held by non-American nations which "are in danger of becoming the subject-matter of exchange of territories or sovereignty."

Such administration, which may be put into effect by any one of any group of the American nations if the emergency is too great to permit consultation among all 21 members, would be established only on the understanding that when the emergency passed, affected territories would be returned to their original status or organized into autonomous territories.

Successful drafting of the "act of Havana" and the companion convention was regarded as a considerable personal triumph for U. S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

Hull obviously was pleased at having finished the tedious task of phrasing the possessions project to everyone's satisfaction.

"I am glad to say that our work is finished and our docket is cleared," he said.

The "act of Havana," noting that conquest of European-held possessions in the Americas may be attempted "as a result of the present European war" and thus may imperil "the essence and form of American institutions" and that inter-American solidarity "demands a policy of vigilance and defense," points to the "grave menace" of these colonies becoming "strategic centers of aggression against the American continent."

In addition to the report of the peace commission, today's plenary session also will act upon reports of the neutrality and economics commissions.

The economics agreement, which goes hand in hand with the "act of Havana" and its attendant convention, is designed to stimulate inter-American trade and protect the American republics against forced trade relations with non-American nations.

MAN KILLED NEAR BORGER. July 29 (AP)—A E. Henegar of near Waco reported an accident Saturday near Stinnett in which Robert Weems of Corsicana was killed.

Today, less than 48 hours later Henegar met death only 75 yards from Saturday's accident spot when he was hit by a truck.

Negro Jailed In Downtown Fight

Irvin Maxey, Pampa Negro, was turned into custody of county officers today by police, following Maxey's arrest Sunday night by police following an altercation in downtown Pampa.

Maxey was fined $25 in city police court this morning on a charge of disturbing the peace in alleged connection with a fight with Lennie Mae Hobbs, Negro woman.

In the fight, the woman suffered severe bruises on the side of the head, and police had in their possession a large envelope which contained hair that police said had been pulled from the woman's head.

Maxey had not been arraigned up to early this afternoon. County Attorney Joe Gordon was investigating the case.

The Negro held is the same man who on February 10 last year was given a 20-year sentence in 31st district court on a charge of murder in connection with the stabbing of a negro woman at a dance, the county attorney said.

Maxey was indicted on a murder charge on January 5, 1939, tried and sentenced, but the state court later reversed the case and a new trial has not been held. Mandate of the higher court was filed here on December 18 of last year.

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, July 29 (AP)—A handful of stocks, with Studebaker and Motors in front, put on a brief rally today in today's market after pronounced early hesitancy. This rally came in the wake of this week's record steel production estimate placing 11 operations ahead 2.2 points at 90.4 per cent of capacity, a new peak since last December. The increase was a bit more than had been expected.

At the best favorites registered gains of 1 to 2 points. The bulk was short-lived, however, and quotations soon backed down from the top and, in some cases, retreated behind minus signs. Activity broadened for a while, then quickly dwindled. Transfers for the five hours were around 250,000 shares, still one of the low volumes of the past 25 years.

refugees to their homes in the conquered territory. Informed German sources in Berlin, however, declared that Nazi authorities had opened railway and highway traffic at four points in order to speed the return of refugees and to facilitate harvesting.

Order is significant. It was recalled as possibly significant that an order giving the army command of all German railways preceded by a day the invasion of Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Observers of the battle over the coast counted at least 100 German planes, about half of them bombers, as they swooped out of the cloud-break sky to the attack.

British pursuit planes and anti-aircraft batteries went into action and the heavens were quickly filled with bursting shells and the wreckage of British planes as the defenders battled fiercely.

In the Mediterranean area Italy claimed her airmen had chased British armored cars beyond the frontier of Libya into Egypt in a Sunday attack, damaging the cars with bombs and machine-gun fire.

In an air fight, Italian gunners were reported to have brought down two British planes.

In Hongkong foreign quarters close to the Chungking government said China had unconditionally rejected Japanese overtures to stop the war and conclude a settlement between the two nations—largely, it was said, at the expense of other powers' interests in eastern Asia.

TB Death Rate In U. S. Drops 4.7

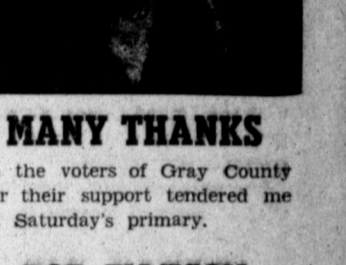

NEW YORK, July 29 (AP)—A 4.7 per cent decrease in the tuberculosis death rate in the United States was reported today by Dr. Paul P. McCain, president of the National Tuberculosis association.

He said there were 61,184 tuberculosis deaths in 1939 as compared with 63,677 in 1938.

There are still nearly 500,000 active cases of tuberculosis in the country, Dr. McCain added.

O'Daniel Petunias Take Bad 'Beating'

AUSTIN, July 29 (AP)—Gardeners had a repair rush job at the governor's mansion today.

Two long beds of petunias bordering the main walk were trampled by crowds which attended Governor W. Lee O'Daniel's victory celebration Saturday night.

The extent of the recent German raids was indicated in an official British announcement that 77 Nazi fliers had been captured in the last four days.

In the far east the British position, difficult for many months, was further aggravated. A Japanese foreign office statement announced the arrests of 11 prominent British business men in five Japanese cities Saturday was the beginning of an attack on an alleged "British espionage network covering the entire country."

A Tough Job

At best, the presidency of the United States is one of the world's toughest jobs. When a man takes the oath of office from the Chief Justice and goes to live in the White House, he accepts duties and responsibilities which will be with him every waking minute of his life.

The next president will take on an even tougher job than the great majority of his predecessors have faced. He will take office in a time of world crisis and national emergency. And as soon as he sits down at his desk he will have to grapple with problems whose solution is known to no one. He will have to be prepared to deal with changes and trends which menace all that the United States has created since the Revolution, and which threaten the very foundations of our system of government.

The next president's most immediate problem will be that of national defense. It is apparent that he will be able to produce little that is tangible, so far as defense is concerned, this year. It takes time for a great nation to switch from a peace economy to a war economy. The groundwork for a workable program is being laid now, but difficult bottle-necks exist. And we start the defense program under the largest handicap of a $45,000,000,000 national debt largely built up during the last eight years. There is a possibility that the debt will reach and perhaps pass the $70,000,000,000 mark before we are done.

Even so, the defense problem, vital as it is, is perhaps the simplest of the next president's jobs—few question that we will find some way to produce and pay for the guns and airplanes and battleships we must have. Before him will be other problems, far-reaching and immensely difficult, which must eventually be solved. And here are a few of them:

There is the problem of trade. Today Hitler dominates the continent—tomorrow he may dominate all Europe. And Hitler does not deal in money, which means dealing in gold. He deals, instead, in barter. His economy goes back to the most primitive of economic systems. He says, in effect, "I have coal that you need—you have machines that I need—so we will trade them." The task of the United States will be either meet Hitler's terms, which would involve a veritable economic revolution here, or to force him to meet our traditional trade policy—which few economists believe he will be willing or able to do.

There is the problem of agriculture, which is related to the problem of trade. We have spent immense sums in the name of farm relief, and it is apparent that we have gotten little of durable worth in return. Today the problem grows graver, as our foreign markets disappear. There is a certainty that Europe will want and need more of the produce of our farms and ranches—but there is also the certainty that Europe will be unable to pay for it. The next president, sitting in his ornate office, will have to seek a way out, and whichever way he turns there will be gigantic barriers between him and success.

There is the problem of unemployment, coupled with the problem of relief. The defense program will make many jobs, but it does not look as if it will take care of the millions of unskilled and little-skilled men and women who today are supported in one way or another by government. In some important lines there is a serious shortage of workmen—many willing hands reach out for jobs, but they are not adequate to perform the tasks. Training people for highly skilled work takes a long time, and it also takes facilities which do not exist in sufficient quantity.

There is the problem of the American standard of living. Whatever we spend for national defense—fifteen billion, twenty billion, thirty billion—must eventually come out of the people's pockets. Perhaps fifteen per cent of the national income will now be devoted to armament, in addition to possible debt increases. That means that we will have fifteen per cent less to spend for housing, food, clothing, entertainment—all the luxuries and necessities. The next president will undoubtedly attempt to increase our national income sufficiently to make up for this—but, so far as we can see now, he is foredoomed to at least partial failure. It is almost universally agreed that the standard of living must suffer—that Americans will eat cheaper food, live in cheaper homes, spend less for subsistence and for pleasure.

There is the long-range problem of the effects of war and war preparedness on the entire economic structure. The factory that is built to make shells is either worthless when the emergency is over, or must undergo a costly revamping process. War-time booms, in other words, produce peace-time depressions—and the bigger the boom the longer and deeper the depression.

These are but a few of the problems the next president must face. It isn't an enviable job.

Behind The News

WASHINGTON, July 29.—The general idea in picking a vice presidential nominee is to "balance the ticket" and harmonize such dissonant elements as may be on hand.

That idea had a part both in the Republican choice of Senator Charles McNary and in the Democratic choice of Secretary Henry A. Wallace; but in each case there is more to it than that, and the vice presidential nominee can be expected to play a more than ordinarily important part in the campaign.

McNary's selection was a broad hint that Wendell Wilkie is not by any means going to be the snug Wall Street reactionary which a top-flight utility executive is generally supposed to be.

Common Ground

This column contends there can be no satisfactory progress until we measure the shares of each man by the common yardstick of the God-given equal right to create and enjoy anything anyone else has a right to create and enjoy.

ARE THERE ANY BELIEVERS IN MINIMUM WAGES?

I have talked to many people who publicly proclaim they believe in minimum wages, but they do not believe in the theory enough to put it into practice themselves. And when a man actually believes in something, he is willing to practice it. It is true, of course, that many will not hire a person for less than a minimum wage, but that is not believing in minimum wages because, undoubtedly, they only hire those people who can produce as much or more than the minimum wage. A believer in minimum wages is one who will take a worker who has no ability or no experience and cannot produce anything of value and give him the minimum wage.

I never ran across any man who believes in the minimum wage when it is put in this form. They all will admit that there must be a lower hourly wage for those who are learning.

But how to determine this wage, they have no rule of establishing. They invariably say they should be determined by somebody, either the union or the government should be the judge as to what this hourly or piece wage should be.

If the government agent had the authority to establish the minimum wage this would mean that the government would be the judge as to what the worker was earning; and there is no man, no government appointee who is wise enough to be posted on the thousand different kinds of jobs done under thousands of different kinds of circumstances.

That is the business of the employer to specialize in one particular kind of work and have his foreman and agents be the judge. If he makes a mistake too often, he goes out of business.

The claimed-belief in minimum wage, when people do not believe in it, is the real crux of our trouble. It is the crux of the union agreements; it is the crux of the laws that prevent full employment. It interferes with both parties being benefitted in an exchange. And when one party is not benefitted in an exchange, there ceases to be an exchange.

The belief in minimum wage is undoubtedly a result of the belief that there is a lump sum of work to be done and that one man's working and adding to the wealth of the world prevents other people from having opportunities of working. If there were a lump sum of work to be done, that would be true; but when the human wants are unlimited, there is an unlimited amount of work to be done; and the only reason there is unemployment is because, as stated above, of a lack of satisfying human desires of both parties.

I have yet to find the first man who consistently believes in minimum wages. Millions say they do, but they immediately contradict themselves by their actions.

THE GERMAN LIBRARY OF INFORMATION DOES NOT INFORM

I receive weekly a large printed document from the so-called German Library of Information, 17 Battery Place, New York. The other day in this document, on page 282, the following statement was made:

"Finally our opponents are going to lose because they started a war whose purpose may mean crystal clear to the armament concerns and other profiteers but not to their own people."

I did not believe the statement was true and wrote the so-called Library of Information, as follows:

"Will you kindly give me some information as to how this conclusion can be drawn as a fact?" In answer to this letter, the so-called "German Library of Information" wrote as follows:

"In answer to your letter of July 12th we regret to have to advise that we cannot give you the desired information."

It evidently is not much of a library of information but is a bureau to spread propaganda in the United States.

The Nation's Press

HISTORICAL NOTE (From The New York Times)

From the Times of last Oct. 27: Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—The White House indicated displeasure today with the statement, made yesterday at San Francisco by Secretary Wallace that wartime conditions and considerations of national safety made it necessary for President Roosevelt to succeed himself in 1940.

Friday, July 19, 1940: Roosevelt and Wallace. originally looked upon as something rather milder and probably less expensive.

McNary has had few flights as spectacular as that one. But in general he can be said to have occupied ground tolerably close to the New Deal camp—even though, as minority leader in the Senate, he has effectively sniped at the Democratic majority. Certainly on the farm problem in general, McNary is no great war removed from Secretary Wallace.

SHUNNED APEASEMENT

Ordinarily it would not be surprising to see the chief New Dealer pick a sincere New Dealer like Wallace as his running mate. But the situation at Chicago was rather special.

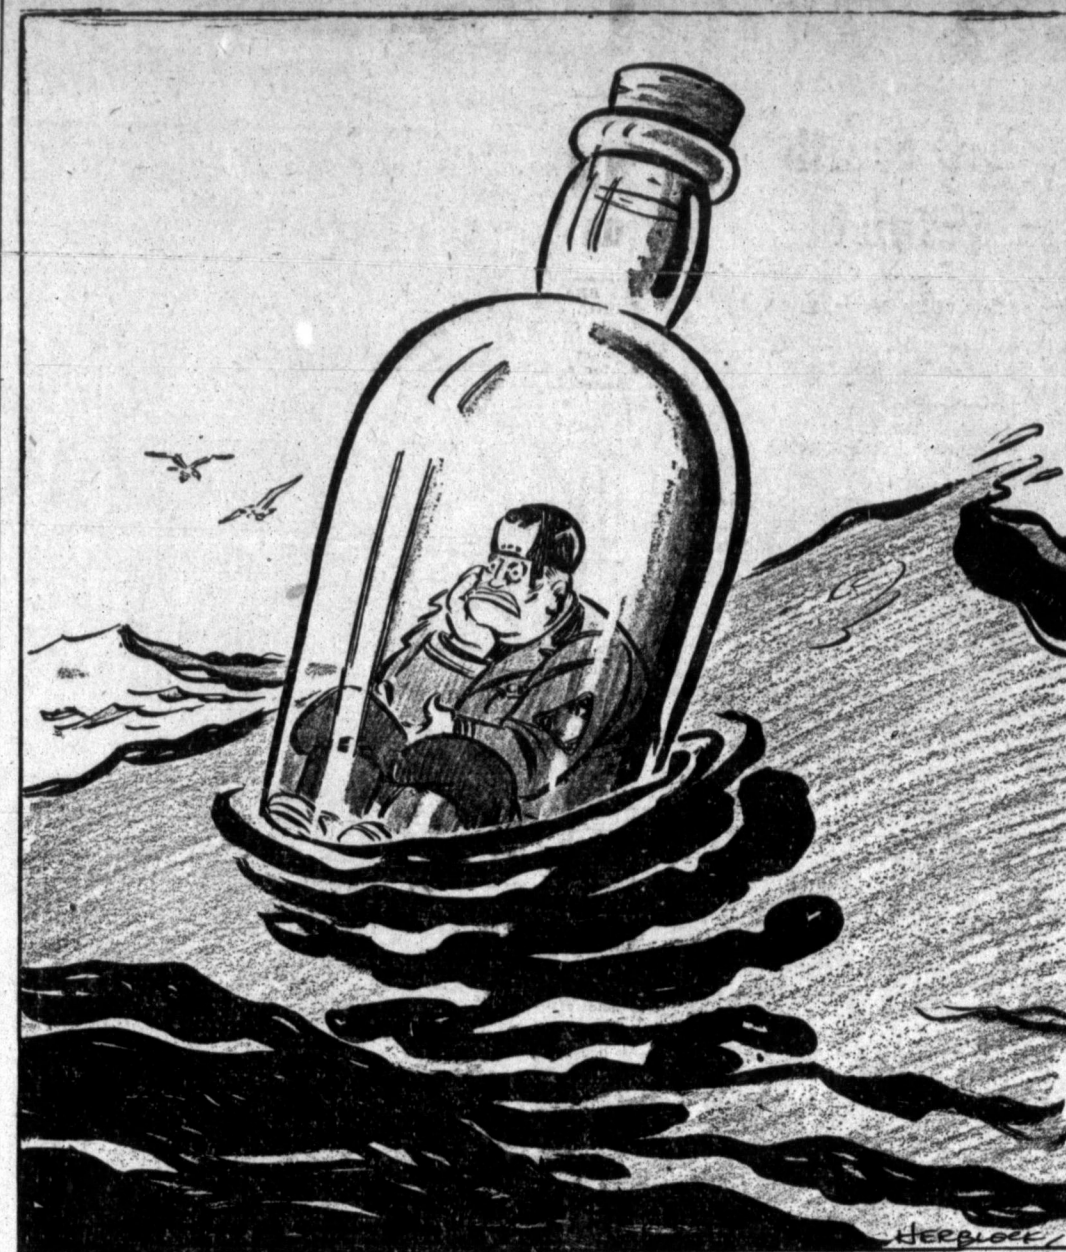

First of all, there was a rather bad internal situation for the Democratic high command to handle. A considerable number of southern and mildly right-wing Democrats didn't like this draft, and the practical politicians in the Roosevelt camp wanted to placate people by naming some such person as Speaker Bankhead.

That Wallace was chosen shows clearly a decision in the Roosevelt camp to shoot the works—to line the Democrats' party up unmistakably as the liberal party, as the New Deal party. The chance to do some much-needed appeasing of the party's malcontents was passed up.

The Wallace nomination has two other implications. One is that the New Dealers are supremely confident—probably over-confident—of victory in November. They dared to ignore the demand for appeasement simply because they felt that with Roosevelt renominated the election was as good as won.

The other implication is grimmer. The last thing anyone usually thinks of, in picking a vice presidential nominee, is the chance that the man might some day become president. That thought was very much in mind when Wallace's nomination was asked for.

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON

HOLLYWOOD, July 29.—Silly sequences:

The small daughter of a prosperous agent—a ballyhoo expert who collects more than the salary of the President of the United States—came home from Sunday school and questioned her mother on the literal accuracy of the Bible.

Basel, Switzerland—Neutral observers see Nazi blitzkrieg preparation in reported halting of rail traffic between German-occupied and unoccupied France.

Rome—Italians claim land and air successes in African warfare.

Havana—Peace commission of Pan-American conference approves convention against transfer of European possessions in western hemisphere to any non-American power; document, a victory for Hull, may rank with Monroe doctrine.

Washington—Debate on conscription may be held up to give congress time to study measure and avoid floor fight.

Shanghai—Eleven British businessmen reported arrested in Japan after series of police raids; British say arrests due partly to German pressure.

Hongkong—Foreign quarters close to the Chinese government at Chungking say the Chinese reject a Japanese bid to end hostilities and reach a settlement which would be to the disadvantage of foreign interests in eastern Asia.

A writer from New York, newly hired by Hollywood, has brought his family here and they're all trying hard to get into the swing of things.

A group of movie-makers sat around a luncheon table at Metro and discussed the unfavorable aspects of being listed among the top salary recipients in the United States in the Treasury department report for 1938. "It makes a bad impression on the public," said one of them. "Right now I'd give a thousand dollars not to be a millionaire!"

The jokes about middle-aged George Jessel and his 16-year-old wife, Lois, have begun to be funny even to the promoter-producer-actor himself, who collects them. He cherishes a remark made by Edith Gwynn: "It makes me ashamed to think of the unkind things I've said about George. Anyone who is so fond of children must be a nice person at heart."

Along with the current news of divorce, three stories illustrate the evanescent qualities of Hollywood happiness:

When a director and his wife were asked to play bridge at a producer's house next week, the invitee said, "We'll try to make it, but that's kind of far ahead considering the uncertainty of marriage in Hollywood these days."

When Composer Harry Ruby eloped with a Hollywood cutie and then flew to Santa Barbara for a honeymoon, he sent his wife to Producer Mervyn LeRoy five hours ahead of the ceremony: "Here we are! And they said our marriage wouldn't last!"

A New York playboy got the okay signal from a movie actress whom he had courted extensively from the other side of the continent. He rushed to the airport, grabbed a plane, and to his dismay was forced down by a storm in the middle west. He wired the girl: "Delayed for three hours. Please don't marry anyone before I arrive."

Food Shortages Seen In Europe

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP)—If Europe's food supplies are "proportionately distributed" during the coming fall and winter, the agriculture department forecast today, there will be no abnormal shortage and "certainly no widespread starvation" among the war-torn peoples.

It raised the question, however, as to whether available supplies could be distributed so as to prevent hunger.

"Communications have been disrupted, distribution disorganized, and people in great numbers have left their homes," said a report issued by the department's foreign service.

"In the larger cities of the recently invaded countries and in other areas where refugees are gathered, food supplies soon may be inadequate. Even where food supplies are for sale, economic dislocation leaves many without the money to buy. The situation is further aggravated by the fact that the armies of occupation will subsidize largely if not wholly on the supplies of the invaded countries."

Both Coasts To Get Marine Units

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP)—The mechanized "minute man" expeditionary force of the marine corps will be divided between the east and west coasts, official circles heard today.

Under the reported plans, two transports and two destroyers will be assigned to each coast.

Well-informed persons said the shore interiors would be rebuilt into huge hangar-like rooms which would quarter oficers and men, and would store light tanks, machine-guns, anti-aircraft and other artillery, armored cars, motorcycles and possibly four naval amphibian planes to carry parachute troops. Deck and sides may be armored, and deck guns up to six-inch caliber may be mounted in order to put up a fight against an attacking destroyer.

Six heavily armed defense battalions will become part of the fleet marines which already is divided between posts in the Atlantic and Pacific.

Pettengill

THREE YEARS Democratic Congressman From INDIANA

The Chicago Convention "For want of a nail the shoe was lost. And for want of a shoe, horse and rider, the battle was lost. This is the behind-the-scenes story of the struggle to get the convention to declare against a third term. Although it was in the minds of everyone, the hard leg work was done by three delegates from Florida, Messrs. Henderson, Maguire and Anderson, each of whom was a past president of the Florida State Bar Association."

When these men reached Chicago they immediately began making the rounds of the headquarters of the various state delegations, button-holing delegates, high and low. As they started they had little hope of success. To their surprise, however, they found courage in a convent of cowards, courage was respected. Gradually, their group grew in size. I was included—the only person writing for the newspapers who was on the platform. Wednesday they had agreed on their strategy. It was to present to the platform committee a plank reaffirming the third term resolution adopted in Chicago by the Democratic Convention of 1896 which nominated William J. Bryan for the Presidency. That resolution reads as follows:

"We declare it to be the unwritten law of this Republic, established by custom and usage of one hundred years, and sanctioned by the examples of those who founded and maintained our government, that no man should be eligible for a third term of the Presidential office. . . . The Platform Committee to whom this plank was to be presented consisted of fifty-four members. If a single one of the fifty-four could be found who had the courage to present a minority report in favor of readopting the 1896 plank, it would be presented to the convention itself, and be open to debate upon the floor. . . . Believing it to be the anti-third term group secured the promise of delegates from twenty-four States that they would speak for the adoption of this resolution if it could be brought on the floor of the convention. . . . This included not less than six United States Senators, a Governor, and a former Governor. After a careful count it was ascertained that more than 300 delegates would have voted to adopt the resolution had these delegates been permitted to debate this question over a nation-wide radio hook-up. With three hundred votes or more registered against a third term, would President Roosevelt have accepted nomination? There is no answer to this question. The debate did not take place. The resolution was taken to the Platform Committee by a committee of five, headed by Congressman Elmer Ryan of Minnesota. They were denied a hearing. Senator Wagner, Chairman of the Platform Committee, met them at the door and said, "No." He refused to receive the resolution and refused to permit the delegation to enter the room. In addition, not a single member of the Platform Committee read off fifty-four, could be induced to sign his name to a minority report. . . . Senator Tydings of Maryland remarked: "As Napoleon said, in a war, men are nothing; a MAN is everything." There was no man in the Platform Committee. . . . Consequently, all that could be done when the platform was read was for Congressman Ryan to offer the anti-third term resolution as an amendment, but without debate. As the proposed amendment was read a chorus of boos from the audience was designed to prevent it from being heard over the radio. . . . Chairman Barkley—"Dear Alben"—who, with Senator Wagner, had himself voted for the resolution in the United States Senate in 1928, gavelled the amendment down. . . . The battle was lost. No nail, no shoe, no horse, no leader. In 1896, a man at Chicago spoke of a cross of gold. There was no one in 1940, except Honorable Carter Glass, to say "You shall not crucify mankind on a gold cross." . . . This alleged convention denied a hearing both before the Platform Committee and in the convention hall itself on a resolution, the substance of which was first declared by Thomas Jefferson, founder of the Democratic Party, and later fought for by Andrew Jackson, Cleveland, Wilson and many other distinguished Democrats. And so the doctrine of the Indispensable Man has come to America. There have been other bossed conventions, lawless and cheap. But never before in the history of this country was a convention bossed as this one. Even ex-Republican Henry Wallace became indispensable to the Indispensable Man. No Democrat would do. . . . The farce is ended. The Charles McCarthy have been put away. The mummies have gone home. But let no one in the audience believe Mr. Roosevelt's acceptance speech was not written at the very time he told Chairman Barkley he had "no desire or purpose" to be a candidate. If anyone has such simple faith he will buy wooden nutmegs to the end of his days. . . . SAMUEL P. PETTINGILL, Copyright, 1940, AMERICAN'S Future Inc.

Vannoy Wins 16th Game of Season Sunday

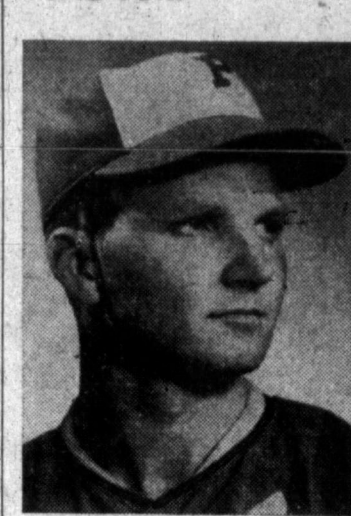

Oilers Divide Doubleheader With Borger

The largest Sunday baseball crowd of the season saw the Pampa Oilers and Borger Gassers divide wild games here yesterday afternoon. The Oilers won the opener 10 to 1 but dropped the second game 12 to 5. The Oilers move to Amarillo for games to night and tomorrow night and then go to Lubbock and Lamesa for games, returning home one week from tonight with Amarillo.

Milbert Vannoy, the league's leading pitcher, stretched that lead yesterday to 16 wins against four losses when he held the slugger Gassers to five hits, all singles. He would have had a shutout but for Jordan's home run in the second inning. It happened in the fifth when with men on first and second Jordan took a hard grounder. He could have stepped on third and gotten another at second but instead he tried for a double play at second and first and let the man reach third, from where he scored.

Big Peavine Trantham, signed Friday in a trade which sent Ben Parrish to Amarillo, started the second game but Sam Malvica got him in a hole when he let a perfect double play ball go through his legs and three runs scored. Trantham had walked two, however.

WINS 16th

Milbert Vannoy
Milbert Vannoy won his 16th game of the season against four losses yesterday afternoon when he set the Borger Gassers down with five hits. The Oiler star is now leading the West Texas-New Mexico league pitchers. He was a consistent winner for the Oilers last season.

Clutter Hits Ball
Harvey Clutter, second baseman for the Oilers, was the hitting star of the series. The blond youngster bagged five hits for his seven trips to the plate, including a double, triple and home run.

Four-ply wallops were numerous. Vannoy, Pampa's hitting pitcher, started the fireworks with one in the fourth inning of the opening game and Manager Grover Setts repeated in the eighth. In the second encounter Neil, Gasser manager, hit two over the fence while Potocar and Short helped with one each. Clutter and Malvica homered for the Oilers.

It took the Oilers three innings to ice the opening game. With one away Knobbies drew a base on balls. Malvica sent him home with a double and advanced on an infield out. Clutter walked and Ross and Jordan followed with singles to add another run or enough to win the game.

Vannoy's home run scored Clutter ahead of him, Clutter having doubled.

Trantham Blasted
After Trantham had one away in the second game he walked Williams and Short and Neil singled to fill the bases. Scopetone laid one at Malvica but he tried to scoop the ball up for a double play before it reached him and as a result it rolled all the way to the left centerfield fence. Neil later scored on an infield out. Singles by Potocar and Short and Williams' double in the second put the game away for the visitors.

Montgomery relieved Trantham when he got in trouble again in the fourth but the kid pitched home run balls to Neil, Potocar and Short and two-base hits to Williams, Keeton and Dingman before being relieved in the seventh by Prather who proceeded to let Neil hit another one over the fence.

Setts and Clutter came up with the two prize plays of the day. Setts made his on the first pitch of the opening game when Gilchrist parked one between left and center, but Setts reared deep into left to make

The little blond Californian, queen of the world's tennis courts, was at the top of her game and was not to be denied.

National champion Bobby Riggs won the men's singles against young Frank Kovacs but had to call on every stroke his racket could produce and force himself to the limit before retiring the Sea Bright bowler by the scores of 2-6, 0-6, 11-9 and 10-8.

Rebels Take Doubleheader From Indians

(By The Associated Press)
The Oklahoma City Indians will have to stop skidding soon or they will undo all the good work they did for Manager Rogers Hornsby earlier in the month.

The Dallas Rebels whipped the Indians twice yesterday 11 to 9 and 4 to 1. As a result the Indians hold fourth in the Texas league standings by only a game and a half, and are but three games in front of the seventh-place Shreveport Sports.

The Sports got an even break yesterday with the pace-setting Houston Buffs, taking the first game, 3 to 2, and dropping the nightcap, 5 to 4.

The Tulsa Oilers stayed within striking distance of the first division by dividing a double bill with the lowly Fort Worth Cats. Old Fred Marberry kept nine Old Fred batters scattered in the opener, while the Tulsa took the afterpiece, 4 to 3.

The second-place San Antonio Missions widened their margin over the third-place Beaumont Exporters by downing Beaumont, 6 to 3.

The American League Scores

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP)—The Washington Senators crushed the Cleveland Indians 9 to 1 in the second game of a doubleheader yesterday after the Tribe took the opener, 6 to 5. By splitting the twin bill, Cleveland won the second game of the league-leading Detroit Tigers, who fell before Philadelphia.

Newsom Fails To Beat A's And Heat For 14th Victory

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
"You can't win 'em all," they say in sports, but big Buck Newsom with the great heat isn't one to be philosophical about defeat.

Up until the 11th inning yesterday he still thought he could beat any team in baseball at any time.

It was a combination of circumstances that undermined him after 13 consecutive victories and gave the Philadelphia Athletics a 9-5 decision over the Detroit Tigers.

The temperature in Briggs stadium was over 90 degrees and Newsom was making his first effort since suffering a broken thumb 11 days previously. He was strong and wild at the start, fanning ten and walking seven, but along the way Bobo simply melted down.

Johnny Babich of the A's had to give up after six innings and Bill Beckman came in fresh to hurl five scoreless innings. But Newsom stayed around too long. He had a 5-2 lead going into the sixth inning. This was shaved down to a tie score in two innings and finally the A's exploded four runs in the 11th.

The defeat lost Detroit half a game of its American league lead as the Cleveland Indians divided a doubleheader with the Washington Senators.

At Miami's seven-hit hurling enabled the tribe to take the first game 6-3. In the second they ran afoul of six-hit slinging by young Sid Hudson and were crushed 9-1.

The New York Yankees stayed off the spurs of the second division by splitting two games with the Chicago White Sox. It took a spectacular home run barrage for the world champions to win the first game 10-9. Charley Keller hit three home runs. Joe DiMaggio two and Babe Dahlgren one.

In the second game the Yankees were stifled by the five-hit flinging by Lefty Thornton Lee as the Sox won 4-1.

The Boston Red Sox swept two games from the St. Louis Browns, 3-1 and 13-0.

The Cincinnati Reds gave up a game of their big lead in the National league by splitting a bargain bill at Philadelphia while the Brooklyn Dodgers took two from the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Reds' 1-1 loss in the second game was charged against Bucky Walters. Jim Turner checked the Phillies on seven safeties in the first game to win 7-2.

The Dodgers' twin triumphs, 3-0 and 7-4, ended a six game losing streak for Brooklyn and a four-game winning string for the Cards.

The surging Pittsburgh Pirates swept two from the Boston Bees 5-2 and 7-3 to pass the Cards and take fifth place while dropping Boston into the cellar.

The New York Giants ended a three-day hitting famine by getting ten safeties in beating the Chicago Cubs 8-4.

St. Louis Butcher Swims 292 Miles

CARUTHERSVILLE, Mo., July 29 (AP)—John V. Sigmund, 30-year-old St. Louis butcher and athlete, today claimed a new long-distance record with successful completion of a 292-mile swim down the Mississippi river.

Sigmund traveled from St. Louis to Caruthersville in 89 hours and 48 minutes—averaging more than three miles an hour—according to a check by Marvin Flake, Amateur Athletic union representative.

The previously accepted marathon swimming record was 288 miles, set by Clarence Giles of Billings, Mont., last year in the Yellowstone river.

Sigmund was pulled from the river, too exhausted to walk or talk, yesterday and carried to a hotel on a stretcher. He was examined by Dr. Phillip Aquino, who ordered him to bed for a "long night's sleep." The physician predicted recovery in 24 hours.

Hornsby May Be On Way Back To Major League

By SID FEDER
NEW YORK, July 29 (AP)—The little birdie on the way to the typewriter today, leaped over and whizzed the pleasant report that Rogers Hornsby is on the way back to the major leagues.

"Naturally," the Rajah himself said in talking to a reporter, "I can't give any information just now. But the tip is around that there's a very good chance the greatest right-hand hitter of his time will be back in a big league outfit again, come 1941. This much is certain—he has told friends he expects to be back."

The whisper doesn't include where he'll land, although such places as St. Louis, Cleveland and Chicago are mentioned.

For the time being, the stormy weather man has been doing a right fair job with the Oklahoma City outfit in the Texas league this summer. He took a club with not too much in the way of material and has 'em smelling first division atmosphere. Previously, he ran Baltimore in the International league, to which he "graduated" from the St. Louis Browns three years ago.

Buddy Baer Treated For Spinal Injury

SACRAMENTO, Calif., July 29 (AP)—A spinal injury received while training for his fight with Nathan Mann in New York last spring may keep Buddy Baer out of the ring for several months, at least.

Baer, 25, is in a hospital here. His older brother, Max, former heavyweight champion, said doctors had told him Buddy's condition was not serious but that his injury, if not properly attended, could cause paralysis of the legs. Exact nature of the injury was not disclosed.

'Big Shots' Take Their Ducking Like A Man

MT. VERNON, Wash., July 29 (AP)—A club has turned that old urge to "let the big shots have it" into ready cash at a Washington golden jubilee celebration. Mer man —for two bits—may have a baseball as a target that overturns a seat sending the occupant into a tank of water. Mayor C. W. Wyatt, other city officials, bankers, merchants and judges take turns in the chair.

The club reports the intake large—especially when the mayor is in the chair.

Fierce Aerial Battle Waged Over England

LONDON, July 29 (AP)-Eight German bombers and seven escorting fighters were shot down by challenging Royal Air Force planes in a mighty battle over a southeastern harbor today, the air ministry reported.

Only one British plane was lost, a communications plane, "although several of our aircraft were damaged in this fierce engagement."

The air ministry said its figures were based on "reports so far received," indicating the official toll might run higher. It reported a 18th German plane, a bomber, was shot down over the south part of England during the night.

Earlier unofficial reports had placed at 23 the number of German planes shot down in the southeast coast battle, in which at least 100 German craft, including 50 to 60 dive bombers, participated.

77 Nazis Captured
With the battle of Britain growing more intense in the air with each passing hour, it was announced officially that 77 German airmen had been captured in the last four days of savage Nazi assaults.

As the day wore on the Germans broadened their attacks to inland objectives. Scores of dogfights occurred in widely separated areas among British defenders and the Nazi invaders, who came by the hundreds.

In the mid-afternoon anti-aircraft guns thundered away in the southeast as attackers flying so high they could not be seen by ground observers.

An eye witness said the first two dive bombers literally were "blasted to bits" as they led the swooping attack.

Another observer said he counted 37 dive bombers in an attack on a single objective.

"Anti-aircraft shells were bursting among them," this witness said, "and the sky was dotted with planes and exploding shells. The raiders came diving out of the sun, but were spotted quickly."

"The bombs fell into the sea, sending up columns of spray, and on the land, where clouds of black smoke arose."

Three persons including a woman, were killed and several were wounded in a northeast England town during a raid believed to have been carried out by a single plane.

About a dozen high explosive bombs were dropped, killing two persons in a residential district. The woman was killed when a bomb struck a suburban school.

In the midlands an incendiary bomb which fell in a room where three children were sleeping was quickly extinguished.

Prelude to Invasion of Britain?

SERIAL STORY

SUMMER THEATER

BY MILDRED WILLIAMS

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

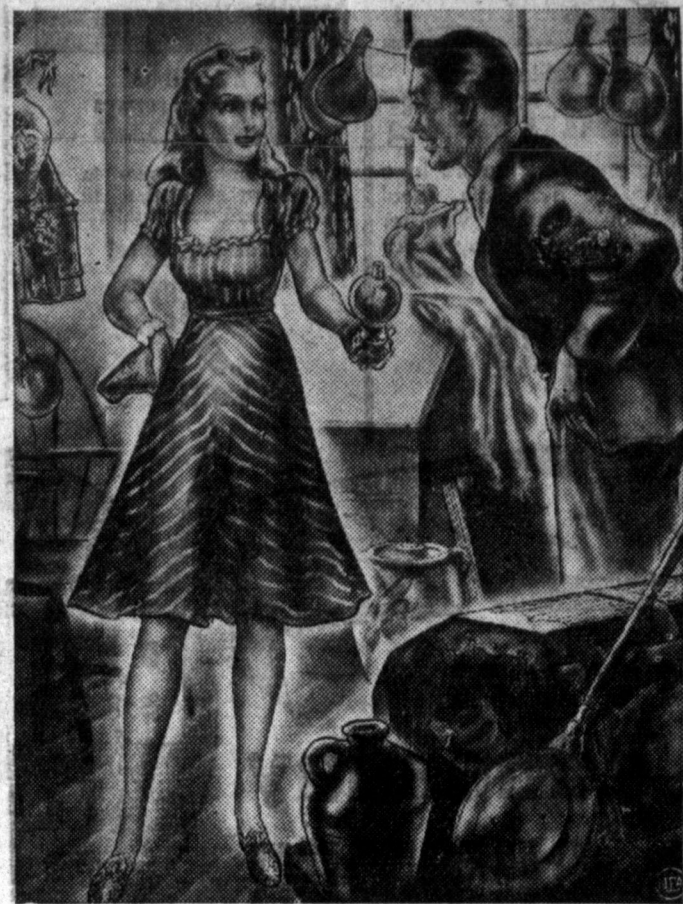

CHAPTER I

JOHNNY REGAN'S hand, jingling the coins in the pocket of his bush coat, closed suddenly over Jean Reynolds' last letter. He took it out and read it again, trying to form in his mind a polite reply, something saying firmly that he thought she was a swell girl but that they had both better give up the idea of orange blossoms, wedding bells, and a two-room apartment in Boston. He would tell her he intended spending the summer on the Cape, keeping shop for his friend, Ned Walters, while Ned was in Canada. Perhaps, here on their old stamping ground he would be able to survey his life, to find out what had happened to their love affair.

But Jean's impulsive, upright scrawl staring at him from the beautifully monogrammed stationery didn't help matters:

"Darling," he read, "What on earth happened? Dad is furious. Jobs, he says, don't grow on bushes. Not one 1940 graduate in 700 could have walked into a job as good as the one he offered you. But you don't have to take his old job, if you don't want to. I told him so. Going to bat for you as usual. I love you so terribly. But for you to leave without a word to me. That hurt, truly it did."

Johnny crumpled the note and threw it into the empty grate. He went to the door of his shop and looked out on the clean strip of blue sea before him, watching the gulls dipping like graceful waves in the sky. Why had he come to Cape Cod, of all places? The Cape, where he and Jean had spent summer after summer, playing together? Where every landscape reminded him of something they had shared.

Illustrated by H. G. Schlensker.

Johnny's throat contracted as he stared at her. This was the girl he had known in his dreams. He was in love. "I'd like to borrow an old lamp for the set in our next play," she said.

stared at her. This was the girl he had known in his dreams, a tall blond reed of a girl. He wanted to say, "You're poetry by Yeats. You're music by Chopin. You're a sunset with nymphs by Fragonard."

But he only said, "Nice day," and watched her as she roamed about the shop, reading the rhymes he'd written for his wares. He watched her and wondered where she belonged in Capetown's assortment of summer people. The tide had come in, as Jean had predicted. He was in love.

"Anything in particular you wanted to see?" Johnny asked.

"Yes, and no," she glanced at Johnny, and he noted that her eyes were the deep blue of violets, not the trusting brown spaniel ones Jean had turned up to him. "I want to borrow an old lamp for our set in the next play."

"So that's it," Johnny said, with relief.

"What do you mean? Oh, we'll give your shop credit for any prop we borrow. It'll be good advertising."

She sat down on the old sea chest in front of the window.

"Don't stare so. You make me feel like a ghost."

He hadn't realized he was staring, but he amended hastily: "No ghost, but a dream. You make such a nice picture, sitting on my sea chest. I'd like to use you for a window display."

Her laugh, too, belonged to Johnny's dream, a deep, melodious sound of bells ringing.

"Sorry," she said, "but I'm a window display somewhere else. That's what summer theaters are. This summer I intend to meet everyone's important theatrical schools and apprenticeships. I intend to go places on Broadway."

"All of you do. I've spent every summer since I was 6 watching the sweet young things from Carter Earth's theater fret their way upon the stage."

"And then be seen no more?"

Well, listen to me, whoever you are. I let him give me his worthless, old scholarship, knowing he planned to import leads from the city, have a regular cast from Equity and that we little apprentices were to do all the dirty work and 'oh and ah' approval. . . .

"No need for all the fire and vinegar, though it is becoming," Johnny laughed. "I don't count. I'm not theater."

She jumped down off the sea chest and started to the door. She was laughing herself now. "Sorry, Mister, that's just my pet peeve. Some night you must come and see me fretting my way upon the stage."

She was leaving and he hadn't told her any of the things he wanted to say! Even now he surprised himself with the evenness of his voice.

"I'd like to show you the town some day when you aren't too busy. We could go down to the beach on a couple of rented bicycles. But I've never dealt with strong women before. I daresty that sort of thing would bore you."

She almost shook her head, then hesitated, looked at him with a little frown.

"If you're a Cape Codder, you ought to know a lot of people. We're getting up at patrons' list, and . . ."

"I get it," Johnny said, "but some day we'll see to first."

"Right," she told him, and held out her hand.

She swung out of the shop, and the bell on the screen door jangled after her. Johnny watched her go down State street toward Cottage. He turned and went back into the shop, the sound of her voice still echoing in his ears. When he looked at the sea chest he could almost see her sitting there, swinging her feet, kicking her heels against the worn oak sides.

Suddenly, he stopped still. He ran to the door. She had gone. Absolutely disappeared. And he didn't even know her name.
