

Refinery Worker Is Burned as Still Explodes at Plant

OIL PROBLEMS UNDERWAY

INJURIES TO EMPLOYE ARE NOT SERIOUS

C. B. Hankins Enveloped for Moment at Bell Refinery; Back and Arms Deeply Injured.

OIL IS CONSUMED

One Unit Must Be Repaired Before Operation of It Can Continue; Second One Not Damaged.

Explosion of a still at the Bell Oil and Gas company refinery east of the city early today resulted in severe burns to C. B. Hankins, 33, and unestimated damage to the plant.

Hankins was severely but not dangerously burned about the back, arms, and head. He was taken to Pampa hospital in a Malone ambulance.

He was working on the still at the time and was enveloped in flames before he could leap away. The blast occurred when a header blew off a tube in the furnace. The furnace was damaged but the extent could not be ascertained on account of the heat. Smoke from burning of about 300 barrels of crude oil attracted much attention over the city as the fire department made a run and helped in snuffing out the oil fire.

One unit of the plant will be out of commission for possibly 10 days according to E. S. Horner, plant superintendent. The other unit was not damaged and was continued in operation.

Carlock to Head American Legion

The executive board will be composed of Lewis O. Cox, Artie C. Sailor and Ed Stinson. Alden E. Spees was elected liaison officer. The new officers will take office soon after Oct. 1.

C. C. Alexander, retiring commander, presided at the meeting last night. It was one of the largest held this year. The commander said he was well pleased with the work of the post during the past year and that it would be his aim to serve in any way possible during the next year.

Dr. R. A. Webb announced that Josh Lee of Norman, Okla., would be here and speak in the city hall auditorium Friday night.

Mr. Lee is head of the public speaking department at the University of Oklahoma. He has spoken here several times.

WHEAT ADVANCES

CHICAGO, Sept. 2. (AP)—Firmness of the Liverpool wheat market caused scattered buying here today and wheat averaged higher. Report of increased rains in Northern Europe with probable further damage to crops and a better demand for wheat gave Liverpool strength. Trade was small and prices held within narrow limits. Corn opened generally steady with heavy rains that have fallen over parts of the belt attracting attention.

Wheat started unchanged to 1-4 cent higher. Corn opened generally steady to 3-8 higher and fluctuated narrowly.

Problems dealing with construction of county roads are due to receive attention of the commissioners. Stennis presided at the trial of a civil suit in county court this morning.

The city council of Christopher, Ill., has voted to dispense with one-half of the street lights as an economy measure.

STERLING DOUBTS WHETHER SENATORS WILL APPROVE SPECIAL COTTON SESSION

Senate Will Convene September 10 to Hear Impeachment Charge Against Judge Price, and House Might Be Called Near That Time to Consider Farm Dilemma and Long's Plan.

LONG TO SPEAK

Louisiana Governor Will Be Heard by Radio as He Urges Texas and South to Join His Drive.

DALLAS, Sept. 2. (AP)—Gov. Ross S. Sterling told the Associated Press via long distance telephone today that he had taken no action towards calling the Texas legislature into special session to consider the cotton situation. He said the Texas attachment had been called to meet Sept. 10 to consider the impeachment of Judge J. B. Price.

The senate was called to reconvene about 10 days ago after the lower house of the Texas legislature in an over-time session after a special session had voted the impeachment of Judge Price. The veteran jurist was charged with neglect of duty in approving fees for various sheriffs in his district.

Pressure Heavy Much pressure has been brought upon Governor Sterling to force an early special session of the legislature of cotton next year along the line of the plan sponsored by Gov. Huey P. Long of Louisiana. The special session adjourned Aug. 12 enacted a law to govern Texas oil development, for which purpose it was called.

Governor Sterling said Agricultural Commissioner Talmadge of Georgia apparently had confessed the calling of the Texas senate for the Price investigation with the proposed special session to deal with cotton.

Governor Sterling said he was undecided about a special session but that if he did issue the call it would not be before Sept. 10 when the senate is scheduled to convene for the impeachment trial. Governor Sterling said he told Commissioner Talmadge that only 14 of the 31 senators had replied in favor of a special session and that unless a more favorable response was received he doubted the advisability of a special session. One hundred and one members of the house have advocated a special session for cotton acreage control.

Long Takes to Air

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 2. (AP)—Gov. Huey P. Long will take to the air tonight to press the cause of his proposed cotton holiday plan for 1932 in a radio address. The address will be broadcast beginning at 8 o'clock over station KWVK of Shreveport, La., by remote control from the executive mansion in Baton Rouge. While waiting for other states to call their legislatures to meet to pass on the law prohibiting cotton growing, gathering or ginning next year, which was passed by the Louisiana legislature last week, the governor is going to split the air, he says.

Long said he was going to tell Texas to hurry up or there would be no use to act on the present cotton law price emergency and was going to ask Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, and the other cotton growing states to fall into line to save the south.

Railroad Work Going Forward

Construction on the new Fort Worth and Denver railway line is progressing four miles east of Pampa but no other camp has been opened. John McKnight, general superintendent of this section of the line, says he has not received orders to establish another camp but he assured Clyde Garner, employment representative of the Welfare Board, that local labor would be used wherever possible. Work on the pipeline between Kingsmill and Borer is getting under way and it is probable that some local labor will be used on the pipeline. Mr. Garner was in Kingsmill today conferring with the construction superintendent.

Police Officers Die in Accident

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio, Sept. 2. (AP)—Two San Antonio, Texas, police officers were killed when their automobile overturned in a ditch near here last night while they were en route home from the national rifle matches at Camp Perry. Two fellow officers were in a hospital today seriously injured. The dead were Lieut. A. S. Milledge, 37, and Detective Alex Goodman, 36. The injured, R. P. Tate, 42, chief investigator in the police chief's office, a broken right shoulder; Homer Long, 24, detective, fractured collar bone.

Death Code of Killer Is Found by Investigators

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 2. (AP)—A "death code" by which Harry P. Powers recorded the progress of his correspondence with women throughout the country was discovered today by detectives investigating ramifications of the killings of two women and three children.

Letters and postcards he received in response to his lure of wealth and affection were found to be marked, apparently for filing. A fragment of an envelope gave an apparent key to one of the markings. The mark was "P-15." It bore the notation "graveyard" such a marking was found on letters from the two women he confessed he killed. Mrs. D. P. Lempe of Worcester, Mass., and Mrs. Asta Eicher, Chicago, whose three children also were slain.

City Detective Carl Southern said he believed "P-15" indicated those correspondents Powers had marked for death.

Man Is Missing

Information that Powers had been seen with Stamatis Skifas, 44, Clarksbury shoe shine parlor owner, shortly before Skifas disappeared in June, speeded investigation of that affair, just as discovery of a trunk containing several firearms and 50 photographs of women, gave further impetus to search for other possible victims of the 42-year-old salesman. The quest spread to Miller, S. D., Vanalia, Ill., and Mansfield, Ohio, where he was believed to have lived as "Joseph Gill-deau" about the year of 1924. Commercialism reappeared with the erection of a high board fence about the garage where Powers, he admitted, killed the five victims. Efforts to charge admission to sightseers were blocked by county officers yesterday. Today the county prosecutor said he knew of nothing that could be done to stop the practice.

Many Suppress Agency

DETROIT, Sept. 2. (AP)—Promising early legal steps to end operations of the correspondence club medium through which Harry F. Powers made the acquaintance of two women he killed in Clarksbury, W. Va., Assistant Attorney General Joseph A. Gillis today began an investigation of the American Friendship society.

The inquiry was ordered yesterday by Gov. Wilbur M. Brucker in Lansing and Gillis left at once for Detroit to confer today with Prosecutor Harry S. Toy, of Wayne county, and United States postal authorities. Regardless of the outcome of those conferences, Gillis said, he intends to institute quo warranto proceedings as soon as possible to have the society's activities stopped, as opposed to the public good. The friendship society was incorporated by Albert B. Plater and his wife, Olga, "not for profit." Powers became a member under the alias, Cornelius P. Pierson, and engaged in ardent correspondence with women in many cities.

ALLRED REVEALS EXODUS OF HELPERS

Sterling and Neff in Opposition to Order

AUSTIN, Sept. 2. (AP)—A simultaneous investigation of the records in the office of major oil companies in Texas is being made by the attorney general's department, James V. Allred, attorney general, said today in explaining the absence of 14 of his assistants from Austin. The assistants sought information concerning alleged violations of the anti-trust laws by oil companies, Allred said.

Attorney General Allred stated further efforts were being made to gain access to the books and records of the Standard Oil company of New York and the Standard Oil company of New Jersey. He said access to the books previously had been denied his department. The Humble oil and refining company, with headquarters at Houston, is one of the chief subsidiaries of the Standard of New Jersey.

Started Monday

The exodus of the assistant attorneys general was made Sunday night and they started work on the books of the various companies at 9 a. m. Monday, Allred said.

The assistants have been instructed to make photostatic copies of the records and several of the copies arrived in Austin today for scrutiny of the attorney general. Allred said he was surprised at the action of the two foreign corporations and that it was a matter of record that the Standard of New York owned most of the stock of the Magnolia, and the Standard of New Jersey a controlling interest in the Humble Oil and Refining company.

Allred said his assistants had been directed to investigate closely the contracts of the oil companies with operators of filling stations not owned by the companies. The contracts prevent the filling station operators from selling products of other companies and require that they charge prices set by the oil company with whom they have contracted, he said.

Many Such Contracts

Allred said 90 per cent of the filling stations in Texas were operated under these "100 per cent" contracts. The attorney general was instructed by the first special session of the legislature to conduct an investigation into alleged violations of the anti-trust laws by oil companies. The legislature made a special appropriation of $50,000 for inquiry.

FIRST MOVE IN GAS RATE WAR IS MADE

Court Litigation Is Expected as Result of Passage of Ordinance Lowering Schedule 8 Cents.

PENALTIES FIXED

Utility Firm's Proposition of 4-Cent Cut Refused by Commission, Which Sets 30-Cent Basis.

Pampa city commissioners yesterday afternoon rejected a compromise offer of the Central States Power and Light company to reduce local gas rates to 3 cents per thousand cubic feet from the present 38-cent rate for the first thirty thousand cubic feet, and passed an ordinance setting the figure at 30 cents.

Such procedure usually results in lengthy litigation, and a similar course was anticipated here. General satisfaction with the new rates was expressed by citizens today.

The new rate will become effective Sept. 10, 10 days after the last publication of the ordinance. The reduction amounts to eight cents a 1,000 feet for the first 30,000 feet. The scale ranges from 30 cents to 71.5 cents. The present rate is 42 cents per 1,000 cubic feet, less 10 per cent if the bill is paid by the tenth of the month, making the rate 38 cents.

Offenses Outlined

The ordinance provides that any violator of the provisions shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine of any sum not exceeding $200. The sale of such gas in violation of the ordinance to each consumer shall be a separate offense and each day the violation shall continue shall be a separate offense, according to the ordinance.

The Pampa city government is the second in Gray county to take reduction of gas rates in its own hands. Last spring, the city council of Midland passed an ordinance lowering the rates. The case was appealed to the court of civil appeals, Amarillo, after the city council action was upheld in district court here. The Amarillo court has not yet passed on the case.

Two weeks ago, the Pampa city commissioners met and prepared to adopt the ordinance. They postponed action two weeks when a representative of the gas company said he felt that he could induce his company to make reductions which would suit the citizens and the commission. The commissioners in rejecting the proposal of the gas company said that the reduction and the volume of gas cited in the schedule were not large enough.

The proposal submitted by the gas company was to reduce the rate on the 30,000 cubic feet basis to 34 cents per thousand cubic feet and leave the sliding scale the same as the present rate. The commission refused the proposal.

The present gas rate follows: 38 cents per thousand cubic feet for the first 30,000 cubic feet; 30 cents per thousand cubic feet for the next 170,000 cubic feet; 18 cents per thousand cubic feet for the next 2,000,000 cubic feet; 13.1-2 cents per thousand cubic feet for the next 5,000,000 cubic feet; 11.3-4 cents per thousand cubic feet for the next 10,000,000 cubic feet; 9 cents per thousand cubic feet for the next 15,000,000 cubic feet; 7.1-5 cents per thousand cubic feet for the next 32,000,000 cubic feet.

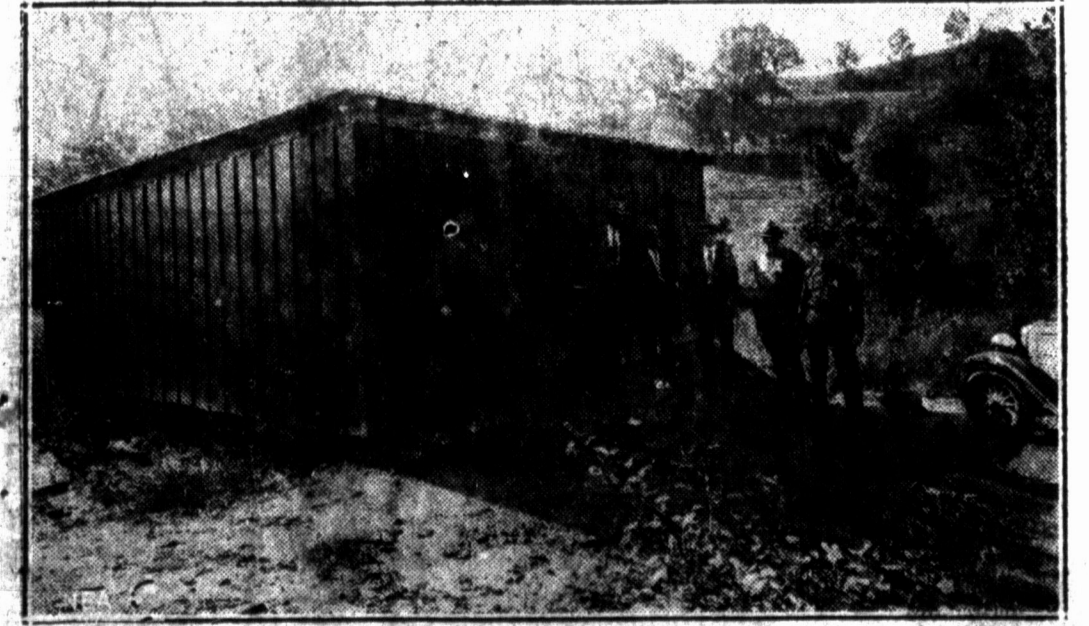

The new schedule is as follows: 30 cents per thousand cubic feet for the first 30,000 cubic feet; 18 cents per thousand cubic feet for the next 170,000 cubic feet; 13.1-2 cents per thousand cubic feet for the next 5,000,000 cubic feet; 11.3-4 cents per thousand cubic feet for the next 10,000,000 cubic feet; 9 cents per thousand cubic feet for the next 15,000,000 cubic feet; 7.1-5 cents per thousand cubic feet for the next 32,000,000 cubic feet.

This is the fantastic garage near Clarksbury, W. Va., where Harry F. Powers, operator of a small order matrimonial bureau, strangled to death two women and three children, according to his confession to police. He is alleged to have lured Mrs. Asta Eicher, a widow of Park Ridge, Ill., her three children, and another woman to the basement of the garage, locked them in dungeon chambers, kept them several days without food, and then took their lives.

PURPOSE OF CONSTITUTIONS

A constitution—what is it? Basically, it is intended to outline unmistakably the guarantees set up for the citizens subscribing to it, with a recital of the inhibitions which men have learned through bitter experience to demand.

When a supreme court says an oil proration law is contrary to the constitution upon when the entire state government rests. The people give the constitution authority, hence they can change it, but their elected servants cannot defy its statutes.

Moreover, any law within itself sets up conditions which cannot be ignored in carrying out its provisions. What one would like to do under a law is beside the question—the courts can not stretch their opinions in the interest of expediency, or even emergency.

Cooperation in voluntarily holding production to demand is the solution to the oil problem. This would mean an oil embargo as a prime requisite, however. But in the absence of cooperation, chaos results and the state is asked to control output to market demand. Even if the constitution could be liberally interpreted to permit such a course, the recent legislature specifically blocked that avenue of control.

It is not surprising that Governor Sterling and countless others found fault with the oil plan the commission tendered. The well basis of limitation would start a drilling spurge in which the major companies would have the advantage. A huge potential would be built up to harass the market. But under the legislature's law it will be difficult to devise a workable plan. Regulation of private business so as not to infringe on the rights of citizens is difficult. The courts and the constitution respect the rights of minorities, and even of single citizens.

The farm board arrives two years late at the conclusion that buying up of surpluses will not solve the overproduction problem. It were better to sell the surpluses or give them away than to let them pile up as now, sufficient for two years without raising a crop.

There are some arguments for junking constitutional government and meeting critical situations with drastic remedies. But this theory is so foreign to American democratic self government that it sounds strange on many tongues.

Legislator Lockhart of Lubbock says in speaking of the Long plan and the farmers:

"I certainly would oppose a law to require them to plant more cotton, yet such a law would be just as wise as a law to require them to plant less acres. I am opposed to the calling of a special session to spend one hundred thousand dollars of people's tax money which they have not paid and may not pay in the next 12 months. . . . If such a plan is brought up in the house I will offer an amendment requiring every Texas man and woman to wear cotton clothing in 1932."

The farm board traded off surplus wheat to Brazil for some coffee the other day. Now the board only needs to trade something for some doughnuts.

Henry Ford wants his employees to have their own gardens for vegetables. Probably he wants the boys to know their onions.

Chilean Fleet in Mutiny Against Pay Reduction

COQUIMBO, Chile, Sept. 2 (AP)—The fighting ships of the Chilean fleet were in the hands of mutinous crews today and their officers were being held prisoners until the government agrees to cancel scheduled reductions in pay.

A group of non-commissioned officers were directing the fleet's activities in the harbor from the bridge of the flagship La Torre. They have issued an ultimatum calling on the government to abandon the salary cuts within 48 hours. The mutiny began yesterday when the crews overpowered their officers and forced them to sign the ultimatum and forward it to Santiago. Later they returned to their posts and the officers resumed command. Trouble broke out again, however, and the mutineers once more took charge.

The fleet consists of the battleship Almirante Le Torre, the cruiser O'Higgins, and the destroyers Orella, Serrano, Alder, and Hyatt, all here for the winter season. They represent a good share of Chile's naval forces.

Dispatches from Santiago said the cabinet had met and decided to put down the movement with vigor, believing that the entire nation would lend its support. It was considered that the incident had no political significance and was limited to protests against the salary reductions.

Zeppelin Keeps Exact Schedule

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, Sept. 2. (AP)—Germany's aerial envoy, the Graf Zeppelin, was the center of an admiring throng today because of her 5,000-mile non-stop flight across the South Atlantic from Germany on clock-work schedule.

Dr. Hugo Eckener brought her in to the new mooring mast at 6:10 o'clock last night, within 20 minutes of her estimated time for the cruise. He figured she had traveled 5,003 miles in 72 hours at an average speed of about 70 miles an hour.

The airport crew, assisted by a company of soldiers, tied her up on a rain-soaked field eight miles from here and the crew and 13 passengers alighted to earth for the first time in three days. The provincial governor and his staff boarded the dirigible for a look-around and all went to hotels for a welcome celebration.

Ships and factories blew their whistles when the Graf, illuminated and flying low, hove into view over the city a few minutes before.

The squares and bridges were filled with cheering onlookers. The airship is scheduled to leave tomorrow night on her return trip to Friedrichshafen and her ninth crossing of the Atlantic in both directions.

Hessey to Help Teachers "Talk Texas" to Pupils

Supt. John B. Hessey yesterday received a number of books about Texas which will help his teachers to follow a bit of urgent advice given by him recently, "Teachers, let's teach Texas." The plea has been printed upon cardboard and distributed to the various teachers of the county. Also printed on the cardboard is the familiar motto, "Texans, let's talk Texas," and the phrase "Texas Centennial 1836-1936."

Mr. Hessey believes that all of Texas should be in a mood to celebrate the hundredth anniversary of Texas independence in 1836. "Texans should talk Texas, teachers should teach Texas; Texans should read the many fascinating and authentic books about Texas," he declared.

The books Mr. Hessey received today will be circulated among all teachers of Texas history and geography in the county. The titles include, "The Raven," by Marquis James, life story of Sam Houston; "Coronado's Children," a story of lost mines and buried treasures of the southwest, and "A Vaquero of the Brush Country," both by J. Frank Dobie, professor of English at the University of Texas; "All the Trails," by William Curry Holden, professor of history, Texas Tech; "Texas History," by Eugene C. Barker, professor of American History at the University of Texas; "A Texas Ranger," by N. A. Jennings, with a foreword by Dr. Dobie; "Best Stories from the Southwest," edited by Hilton Ross Greer; "Lionel Dixon," by his wife, Mrs. Oliver K. Dixon; "Stories from Texas History," by W. Frances Scarborough; "A Book of Children's Verse," by Grace Noll Crowell, a Texas poet.

The biography of Houston was the 1931 Pulitzer prize selection. "Coronado's Children" was a recent selection of the Literary Guild. All of the books were written by Texans, and all of them deal with the Southwest, chiefly Texas. "Best Stories from the Southwest" includes tales by Stanley Vestal (Prof. Walter Stanley Campbell of the University of Oklahoma) author of the most authentic life of Kit Carson.

Members of the Pampa Rifle Club will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the board room of the Schneider hotel to elect a new president to replace Joe Vincent, whose resignation will go into effect tomorrow. Every member of the club has been notified and a large attendance is expected. The club has 65 members and is one of the most active in the state.

Several clubs in various sections of the country have written and asked for matches with the Pampa team. The club will discuss the proposed matches at tonight's meeting.

Winton E. Barker, president of the St. Louis Soccer league for nearly 20 years, who resigned last year because of illness, will head the organization again this winter.

Cannon's Records Under Scrutiny

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2. (AP)—District Attorney Rover has begun studying the record of the state campaign funds committee's inquiry into the use of Anti-Smith money by Bishop James Cannon Jr. in 1928.

Rover asked for the transcript of last week's hearings. In transmitting this to the district attorney, Chairman Nye of the senate committee volunteered any help Rover might require in his study of the proceedings.

It was said yesterday that Rover expected to reach no decision before the end of the week. He has to decide whether to institute contempt proceedings against two of Bishop Cannon's associates who refused to testify before the senate committee and whether to prosecute for any violation of the federal corrupt practices act.

Miss Ada L. Burroughs, of Richmond, and J. Sidney Peters of Newport News, Va., treasurer and secretary of the Anti-Smith democratic headquarters committee, respectively, refused to answer any questions of the committee. Harry F. Sinclair, oil magnate, was sentenced to jail here for defying another senate committee.

The senate investigation developed that Bishop Cannon made no report to congress of $10,000 he received from Joseph S. Frothingham, former republican senator of New Jersey; and $48,300 he received from Edwin C. Jamison, New York capitalist and republican.

NOW THEY SAY "AS GEHRIG GOES SO GO THE YANKEES"

LOU SLAMS TWO CIRCUIT HITS TUESDAY

New York Now Only 1 1/2 Games Behind Second Place Senators.

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON JR. Associated Press Sports Writer. If Lou Gehrig keeps on hitting at the present rate, it seems likely that his name will be substituted for that of the great Babe Ruth in the baseball adage "as Ruth goes so go the Yankees."

Lou has been hitting at a terrific clip for the past few days after doing well through the whole season and his burst of home run hitting has helped the Yanks considerably in their effort to overhaul Washington. He clouted a home run in each game of a doubleheader yesterday to make record of six homers in successive contests and give himself a comfortable margin in the race with Ruth for slugging honors with a total of 40. Not only does Gehrig lead the big leagues in four baggers, but he is first in the majors in scoring, total hits and runs batted in as well.

Gehrig received quite a bit of aid from his teammates yesterday, but his two homers were the important factors in the Yanks double victory over the Boston Red Sox which left them only a game and one-half behind the second place Senators. Lou's 39th four-bagger and a single, three hits by Babe Ruth and some effective pitching by Lefty Gomez gave New York the first game, 11 to 3. It was Gomez' 17th victory of the season. The second homer from Gehrig's bat came with the bases loaded in the third inning and provided the margin of victory in the 5 to 1 game.

Sad Sam Jones and Joe Cronin kept the Yanks from making a bigger gain as their combined work led Washington to a 5 to 1 triumph over the Philadelphia Athletics. The western half of the American league schedule was rained out while the single game in the National league served principally to give young Jim Mooney another chance to show what a rookie southpaw can do. Mooney turned in his fourth victory for the New York Giants and his second straight shutout triumph as he turned back the Boston Braves by a 4 to 0 count.

"Gimlet Eye" Free To Retire Oct. 1.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2. (AP)—Major General Smedley D. Butler is free to retire from the Marine corps October 1.

President Hoover today approved his application for retirement after 33 years of service. In forecasting this action several days, the president said he was confident the country would have no difficulty in securing the general's military services if need should arise.

Only 50 years old despite a military career extending back to the Spanish-American war days, Butler has been reported planning to enter politics in Pennsylvania with his eye on a seat in congress. Immediately upon his retirement he plans a lecture tour. He has bought a home in Newtown, a Philadelphia suburb.

The Agua Caliente, Mex., $15,000 golf tournament scheduled for January, 1932, will hold $10,000 less prize money than last year.

Cooney and Stanton Help Beat Indians Before Going to Browns.

BY BILL PARKER Associated Press Sports Writer

Bob Cooney, right handed pitching ace, and Buck Stanton, hard hitting first baseman, concluded their 1931 campaign as members of the Wichita Falls Spudders yesterday. But before they left for the St. Louis Browns, they aided their mates in beating San Antonio 15 to 11.

Cooney has been sold outright to the Browns. Stanton, who leads the league in hits and doubles, has been recalled. Yesterday, Cooney turned in his 17th victory this season. He limited San Antonio to 15 hits, working easy when not in trouble. Stanton's big bat connected for three hits to drive in two runs. Two of the hits were doubles, giving Stanton his 53rd and 54th of the season. He leaves the Texas league, one double short of the 1930 record of 55 made by Oscar Eckhart, formerly of Beaumont.

Southpaw Hansen of the Dallas Steers out pitched Whitlow Wyatt of Beaumont for a 3 to 2 decision. It was Wyatt's third defeat this season. When Hansen stepped the Exporters with six hits, it gave him his 15th victory this season. The Steers solved Wyatt for nine hits to keep the Beaumont ace in constant trouble.

Galveston beat Fort Worth 3 to 2 with Cromer on the mound. Dick McCabe made a bid for his 22nd victory of the year, but the Buccaneers got to him for 10 hits and three runs in seven innings to give Dick his sixth defeat. Cromer held Fort Worth to four hits. Bell and Bailew hit triples for Galveston.

Jerome "Dizzy" Dean chalked up his 26th victory when he beat Shreveport 7 to 4. Dean increased his strikeout record to 286 when he fanned 13 Sports. He was hard pushed to win because of late rallies by Shreveport. Dean has won 26 and lost 8. The victory left Houston 12 and one-half games in front of the second place Dallas Steers.

Enough Oil Stocks To Last 219 Days

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2. (AP)—Supplies of petroleum and petroleum products in the United States July 31, were reported by the bureau of mines of the commerce department as sufficient to last 219 days, a decrease of two days from the supply of June 30.

There was a total of 646,205,000 barrels of crude oil, actual gasoline and other petroleum products in the country July 31, and 652,620,000 at the end of June. The report also noted a rapid falling of stocks of motor fuels during the month. Stocks of this product July 31, were 40,332,000 barrels, a decrease of almost 4,000,000 barrels from June 30. This total represented 28 days supply, the bureau said.

Jimmy McLarnin's grizzled old manager, Pop Foster, says he won't listen to any inducement for a match with Benny Leonard because he (Foster) doesn't feel especially safe in any negotiations with Dapper Jack Kearns, now busy engineering the baiyho for Benny's come back.

Perhaps it is just as well—for Leonard. About eight years ago, when Leonard was fast growing into wellerweight proportions, he likely would have given the McLarnin of today a boxing lesson comparable to the one administered to the Irish lad one evening by Sammy Mandell.

Eight years, however, make plenty of difference. Leonard is now fat and 35. He hasn't fought for six years. McLarnin is only 23, a vastly better boxer than ever before, although an injury has robbed his right hand of much of its former wallop. Jimmy is a full-fledged welter now, much too fast, strong and too tough for the Leonard of today.

At that, it wouldn't be difficult to steam up the match, if Pop could be persuaded he won't be missing his watch or something by dickering with Dapper Jack.

They All Want More The old yoo-hoo is also on for J. Dempsey these days, what with Jack indicating he has to get out

HIGH CLASS GALLERY SEES GOLF MATCH

Bobby Jones in List of Notables on Sidelines of Beverly Course.

BY PAUL MICKELSON Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Sept. 2. (AP)—Bobby Jones had plenty of high class golfing company with him in the gallery today as the fight for the National amateur championship entered into hand-to-hand match play combat at Beverly.

Three former champions and at least 10 other well-advertised favorites were with him, victims of the process at the National Amateur Golf championship but he may furnish some of the surprises expected at Beverly when the firing begins.

Kocsis handed a beating at Merion last September in the first round to the veteran Francis Cullmer, ranking No. 6 on the 1931 seeding list. The youngster was eliminated in the second round by Billy McPhail of Boston but he has continued to attract notice by his achievements not the least of which was the defeat of Tommy Armour in a playoff for the Michigan open championship.

upsetting 36-hole qualifying round

that ended in a rain storm yesterday. Only one former titleholder, Francis Cullmer of Boston, who won 17 years ago, was left in the picture which was dominated with at least a score of youngsters below 25 years. It was the youngest surviving field in the championship's first round of play as well as one of the most surprising.

Youngsters Best

Even in the unfinished fight for the medal, the young stars of American golf dominated the situation. Charles Seaver of Los Angeles, a 20-year-old shotmaker with a reputation from former golfing wars, and Johnny Lehman, 24-year-old Chicagoan, who won the Western Amateur crown at Beverly Hills a year ago, were tied for the honor with Arthur "Ducky" Yates, the 288-pound behemoth of the links from Rochester, N. Y., and the oldest of the three at 35 years.

They were tied at 148, six shots over par on the tough Beverly layout. Lehman crowded in yesterday with the only sub-par 70 of the qualifying play after getting a shaky 78 on his first round. Seaver and Yates each scored a steady pair of 74's.

Seaver and Yates were tossed together by the pairings to meet in the feature match of the opening 18 hole match play today and they had an opportunity to settle part of their argument.

Canadian Survives Only one foreign ureas was left in the field as the match play tussle started—C. Ross Somerville, Canadian amateur champion. Cyril Tolley and T. Philip Perkins, former champions of England, were out along with F. H. I. Brown, the hope of Honolulu. But they had plenty of company. Such capable shot-makers as Dr. O. F. Willing and Frank Dolph of Portland; Charles "Chick" Evans, Chicago; "Jimmy" Johnson of St. Paul; Watts Gunn of Pittsburgh, and Lawson Little, San Francisco were among the gallery. Seven of the 10 "seeded" players recently announced by the United States Golf association were still in, but many of them got there with close calls, notably Johnny Goodman of Omaha and Maurice McCarthy, New York, who got in with 156's, the qualifying limit, without a playoff. Fay Coleman, Los Angeles, got in via the 14 man playoff for five places—a playoff that lasted three holes before it was decided.

Brackets Even There wasn't any appreciable difference between the two brackets. Each had four capable seeded players—Goodman, George Voight of New York, Cullmer, and Lehman were the seeded players in the upper row; Seaver, McCarthy, Gene Homans of Englewood, N. J., and George T. Dunlap Jr. were the hand picked favorites in the lower region.

Two 18-hole rounds, the dread of every survivor in match play, were on the cards today after which the field will be trimmed to eight. The Seaver-Yates match headlined the first round but a fight between Somerville and Homans ran it a close second.

Senator Points Out One Cause of Poor Business

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2. (AP)—An exchange of confidence between the bankers and the public was declared imperative today by Senator Fess, republican, Ohio, for a restoration of business stability.

The Senator cited a recent experience of his own in seeking unsuccessfully to obtain money to build a home. He expressed his views to an Ohio constituent in comment upon complaints of heavy increases in postal savings.

"It is a situation most difficult to decipher," wrote Senator Fess. "The country has all the assets it ever has possessed with the single exception of confidence. There has been no great calamity since the World War involving destruction of property or loss of resources. We have all the basic elements of a sound prosperity, including managerial ability. The one thing lacking is confidence in our financial institutions. How to insure this is our problem. . . . For the life of me I do not see how you can cure this lack of confidence but like the mumps it must work itself out."

"Last week I asked a banker to loan me $6,000 to be applied on the building of a new house. The banker threw up his hands and said: 'Oh, senator, we cannot make any loans at present. While we are sound we must remain in a liquid condition.'"

"I informed him that it would be necessary for me to take out my deposits in the loan associations. Applications to the three associations in which I have deposits sufficient to build the house met the same response. This meant that I could not use my own money, not because they didn't have it. That is one case of several in a small town. That case is typical throughout the United States. That spells the depression under which we are suffering."

"Pug" Reinhart, star Northwestern university fullback and forward passer, has broken his right wrist four times.

SCHOOLS

high school at the same time. Pupils from the first to the fifth grades will be enrolled at the wards with the exception of Merten school, where the fourth grade is highest. Junior high school will have its entire enrollment Tuesday morning. Junior high will have no school Wednesday, when teachers will be engaged in working out programs and classification. Books will be placed on the desks for an early start Thursday morning.

All pupils must take book cards, report cards, and certificates of promotion. No children will be admitted under 6 years of age, and they must be 6 on or before Sept. 1. Checking of birth certificates and giving of physical examinations will be done later.

To Be Economical

"Economy and efficiency" will be the motto throughout the public school system. No work books are to be purchased and most accessories heretofore required will be abolished. All textbooks will be furnished by the state. It will be necessary for pupils to buy pencils, paper, and the like, but these supplies will not be standardized, nor will any certain brand be demanded.

Teachers salaries have been reduced and the faculty has been cut from 121 teachers of last year to 105 for this term. Present equipment will be sufficient in most departments.

Parents and patrons are requested to consult principals and teachers about any complaints or suggestions. Superintendent Fess yesterday told THE NEWS that constructive criticism would be welcomed at his office and by the various officials, teachers, and the school board. Advertising schemes will not be allowed in the schools this year. A state pulling forbids. In the past there has been some annoyance from this source.

Definition of Zones

Location of ward zones of the Pampa independent school district are as follows:

Horace Mann, which is located in the west part of town, will enroll all students who live on and west of Hobart street beginning at the southern limits of the city extending north to the Santa Fe railroad.

The line between Woodrow Wilson in the east part of town and Sam Houston in the north part of town will start with the Santa Fe railroad running north on Ballard to Sunset drive, to Yager, thence north to the city limits.

The Baker school will include all additions south of the Santa Fe railroad except Finley-Banks and Lavender. All sixth and seventh grade students will report to the east wing of Central high school.

If there is any doubt in the mind of any patron or if the explanation of these lines is not clear, call the superintendent's office. Maps, marking the ward zones will be on hand at each of the principals' offices. Transfers from one ward school to another must be made through principal's office. Ward divisions will be adhered to strictly.

Ward schools will enroll all pupils from 1st grade to 5th grade inclusive.

Land Company to Donate to Museum

CANYON, Sept. 2. (Special) The Panhandle-Plains Historical society museum fund will receive a check for $1,000 in September, according to a letter written by J. F. Heisler, secretary of the board of trustees of the Capitol Reservation Lands.

This is the gift of the organization which formerly owned the X. I. T. ranch, most of whose holdings in Texas have been sold.

The Capitol syndicate has made other valuable contributions to the historical society which has its headquarters in this city. Prof. L. F. Sherry, head of the history department of the West Texas State Teachers college, is secretary of the society which has under way a campaign to build a museum.

Two majority members of the Texas railroad commission over settlement of the East Texas oil field production controversy.

C. V. Terrell, chairman of the commission, and Lon A. Smith, had agreed upon an order scaling the allowable of the East Texas field at 225 barrels per well a day. Governor Sterling apparently disapproved of the measure, drawn under provisions of the new state conservation law. He asked them to withhold its issuance and indicated he would keep the field closed by Martial law until the commission issued an order he approved.

The proposed order disregarded the field potential and the acreage basis of production strongly recommended by the Texas central production advisory committee and numerous operators in the field.

May Sign Anyway

The commission held a lengthy conference today with oil operators but made no announcement. Commissioner Smith said before the order at once and believed Terrell also would sign it. Pat M. Neff, third member of the commission, who has been at odds with Terrell and Smith for several months and dissented from several previous production orders, indicated he would not sign the new measure.

Governor Sterling yesterday directed Brig. Gen. Jacob F. Wolters, commander in the oil field martial law area, to keep the wells closed pending instructions from the chief executive.

Maybe women have little initiative, but— Look through your fair catalogs. Yes, it's 75 per cent a woman's fair.

Maybe women are not mechanically inclined, but— It was a woman who won the Santa Monica-Cleveland hand-cap air derby which has just closed, and both plane and pilot survived.

Maybe women are poor leaders, but— Miss Margaret Thompson of Hereford has just been elected director of the municipal band at Wellington and was to have begun her work there Monday.

A dress committee is now being attempted. The play will be given in the high school auditorium at Groom Friday evening.

The "teacher and Johnny" stories are once more about to monopolize the joke pages of newspapers and magazines.

As for a "teacher and Johnny" story, how's this one? "With a single stroke of a brush," said the art teacher, taking his class around the national gallery, "John Reynolds could change a smiling face to a frowning one."

"So can my mother," said a small boy.

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

Norma Kent, pretty 20-year-old secretary in law office, meets Mark Travers, attractive and wealthy, when together they rescue a frightened puppy from the midst of downtown traffic. Norma refuses to tell the young man her name or where he can see her again. Later she joins Bob Farrell, young lawyer, for a dinner engagement. Farrell asks her to marry him and Norma says "no."

The scene of the story is Marlboro, middle-western metropolis. Norma takes the puppy to the shabby apartment she shares with Christine Saunders, generally called "Chris," and finds her roommate in love with her married employer, Bradley Hart, proprietor of an advertising agency. The older girl refuses to tell what is troubling her.

Next day Norma inserts an advertisement about the puppy in the lost and found column of the Marlboro Press. The first person to call in response to this advertisement is Mark Travers, who explains he has made every effort to learn her identity. He tries to make a date but Norma declines his invitations. Travers departs and later makes a telephone call.

CHAPTER V

Natalie Price reached a glittering jewel-encrusted wrist toward the French telephone. In the low, drawing tone the smartest debutantes were affecting she said slowly, "This is Nat."

There was a pause. Then the girl's face flashed into radiance. "Oh, Mark, darling," she exclaimed, "I'm so glad! Yes, I waited on the chance you might call. Tried to get you at the house but they said you'd gone. Oh, you will? Angel, aren't you sweet?" Natalie's laugh was throaty, insinuating. "Well, then hurry," Natalie cried. "I'm of Marky-Mark! Bye, darling."

She put down the instrument, turned and called sharply to the maid across the room. "Get the white dress, Marcelle! I'll wear it after all. Hurry!"

At once there was excitement in the modernistic marve and silver boudoir. Whenever Natalie Price was there was likely to be excitement. Only Marcelle, the French maid, knew what tempests could arise over a last-minute change of her mistress' costume. Natalie stormed. Marcelle coaxed. Gargles went hurrying through the air and Natalie's voice became shriller, louder.

Tonight the bustle and stir were in vain. It was nearly 10 p. m. when Natalie, resplendent in scarlet cloak and white satin, came tripping down the circular stairway to meet the young man below. He had just arrived, still wore his muffled and top coat.

Natalie's narrow flame-red lips bowed in a smile. The girl's beauty was that of a coloring rather than features. Her hair was a dark, cloudy mass, curling back from a pale forehead. Natalie's eyes were gray and rather narrow. They were almost concealed by heavily applied mascara on the lashes. Her cheeks were unrouged and of ivory whiteness. Natalie's slim figure was the fashion writer's ideal.

She ran down the half dozen stairs, stopped suddenly beside the newel post and pouted feigningly. "What makes you be so mean, Mark?" she wheedled. "You said you'd be on time."

Mark Travers, handsome in his dinner clothes, smiled. "Sorry," he said, "something held me up. Well, shall we go?"

Natalie came nearer, regarding him from beneath the jetty lashes. "It's a poor excuse," she said, "but I forgive you. Well—aren't you going to kiss me? It's all right. Mother and Dad are out."

Travers' arms went around the girl. He looked down at her, amused, but he did not kiss her. "You're a baggage, you art Nat!" he told her. "Leave a man in peace five minutes, can't you?"

Coolly she regarded him, took the cigaret from his fingers and placed it to her lips. Natalie blew a graceful spiral of smoke, tossed her head backward, bringing the scarlet lips audaciously nearer. Since he did not respond she drew away impatiently.

"Well," she said crossly, "it's certainly far from entertaining here! Let's go to Monty's. Maybe the crowd will help thaw you out. And if you're not going to admire me at all I'll have to pick up somebody who will."

Travers grinned. "Oh, I admire you all right, Nat. You know that tomorrow I'll write you a sonnet to prove it."

"Thanks," the girl said languidly. "Save the sonnet for your next soul mate. This one wants to dance."

Moving ahead she led the way to the outer door. They went through it and down the stairs where the roadster waited at the curb. Mark took the wheel and with a rush they shot into the night.

The party at Monty's was well under way when they arrived. A half dozen men and women, all of them youthful-looking, all wearing evening clothes, were engaged in a noisy game at one end of the huge apartment living room. It was a game in which players shrilled questions at one member of the group who apparently knew the answers. Frequently laughter drowned out the questions. From a radio in the next room came strains of a tango. A slim blond youth and a girl in swishing emerald chiffon danced at the opposite end of the room.

The arrival of Mark and Natalie was greeted with cheers. The couple who had been dancing stopped. The blond youth rushed forward and caught Natalie's hands.

"Here you!" he cried, "rescue me from this disgusting female, will you, Nat? Five minutes more and she'll have my watch and chain!"

He turned toward the girl in green. "Oh! Mark will play with you, Geraldine. May he prove a better man than I am, Gunga Din!"

The blond youth caught Natalie's arm and drew her toward the windows leading outside. Travers stopped them.

"Wait a minute," he said. "Where is Monty?"

The girl called Geraldine answered. "Oh, she toddled off to some vague theatre or something. Left a note saying she'll be back. We're having a party without her."

"But she's the hostess!"

"Well—who wants a hostess? Come on! I know where Monty keeps all the requisites. You can squeeze lemons—"

Another man joined them, interrupting. "Hello, Travers," he said. "Mind if an old fellow like me cuts in? Geraldine promised half an hour ago to give me the next dance."

"That's all right. How're you, Hart? Playing much golf?"

"Made 84 yesterday," Bradley Hart announced smiling. He was older than the others, handsome and rather distinguished looking. His face was sun-bronzed and he was well-built with a tendency toward the muscular. "Early like this is no place for me," Hart told them. "Makes me feel like a grandfather. Maybe we'd better not try that tango—"

"Don't be like that!" the girl in green reproached. "Of course we'll try it. Only right now Geraldine's thirsty. Come on, darlings." She put an arm around each of them. "Come on and we'll fix some of that nice pink stuff, Brad, you can get the ice—"

She led the way toward the rear of the apartment.

It was one of those evenings which grows gayer. Natalie Price laughed and flirted and danced. Brad Hart devoted himself openly to the young woman in green. At some time before midnight Inez Montgomery, the hostess, arrived.

Among Marlboro's socially elect there was a group who held that Inez standing had become somewhat blighted following her third divorce in less than three years but Inez was undoubtedly a leader among the younger set.

Young America of the stratum which regards its native land as "provincial," looks on business as a dull mystery in which grandfather amassed the fortune which has been increasing ever since, and considers polo or yachting the truly worth while things in a man's life—these were the young people who flocked to Inez Montgomery's parties. Rowdy and unmannered. The cream of a social structure built on wealth.

Mark Travers looked down to find Natalie tugging at his arm. "Let's go somewhere else," he said. "This place is getting fantastic."

Travers put down his cocktail glass.

"Right," he agreed. They went off in search of wraps.

Brad Hart and the girl in green accompanied them. Only the all-night supper clubs were open in Marlboro at such an hour. They went to one, stayed through a number by a raucous orchestra and promiscuous shriek et cetera on cmtsh ceased to another which Hart recommended. Mark and Natalie danced. There were drinks served. Mark and Natalie danced again. At an hour when Natalie Price's great grandfather customarily rose to start his day's work the girl and her escort reached the handsome Price residence.

They stood together before the entrance. Natalie put a hand on Mark Travers' arm. "What's the matter, Mark," she asked reticently. "You've been a crepe-hanger all night. Why can't you snap out of it?"

He looked tired and a little sleepy. "Sorry," he said. "Didn't know there was anything to snap out of."

"Well, there is. You've been a bear!"

Could it be another girl, Natalie wondered, vaguely. She must find out about that. Well, they could not stand there longer.

She looked up at him smiling. "Maybe it's sleep you need," she said. "Run or you'll meet the milk man!"

Throwing both arms about the youth's neck she drew his head down, met his lips with hers. Presently she went inside the house. Travers sauntered down the steps to the roadster.

He was after all a youth 23 years old who had never learned anything except how to play and play expensively. He was good looking. He had never wanted anything very badly in his life that had not benefited. The handsome mahogany desk at which young Travers occasionally sat in his father's elegantly equipped offices was a newer plaything than his other toys.

He found it less interesting. Nat Price and her crowd were the boys and girls with whom he had grown up. That it was not of that crowd he was thinking as he strode down those steps and climbed into the bulky roadster. It was of a girl with wide blue eyes and soft, shimmering hair like a golden halo. A girl in a blue dress, holding a waggish puppy in her arms.

The rush of cool air on his face as the car moved forward was stimulating. Travers leaned back, enjoying it. Suddenly he sat up with a jerk. He had made a decision.

Norma Kent emerged from the revolving door of the department store, her arms loaded with bundles. Other shoppers surged around her. The semi-annual first floor sale at Lewisohn's was a general occasion for hundreds struggling with the problem of expanding expenses and limited incomes. Somehow Norma's hat had been pushed away in the rush.

She straightened it, drew a deep breath and started toward the car stop. It was nearly 5:30. Chris had gone on ahead. Probably she was home now.

Norma boarded her car. There were no seats and for a dozen blocks she rode clinging to a strap, her bundles balancing precariously. Then someone left the car and the girl slipped into the vacated seat. She realized that she was tired.

At last they reached Franklin street. Norma got off the car, walked slowly toward the apartment and up the two long flights of stairs. She inserted her key in the lock.

"Oh, Chris!" she called as the door swung open. "Chris!"

There was no answer. Norma looked about in surprise. Then she saw the note on the table. It was in Chris Saunders' writing, a hasty scrawl.

Norma picked up the sheet of paper. She read the first words, uttered a choking cry of dismay.

ADVISORY COUNCIL TO AID IN WELFARE WORK OF CITY

New Body Will Organize on September 15; Clubs to Send Delegates.

Creation of a central advisory council to assist in local welfare work and to create each year the Welfare Board as an executive body was launched yesterday afternoon in a session of citizens at the city hall.

Every club, organization, church, lodge or other group in the city wishing to participate in welfare work is requested to appoint or elect a representative to this central advisory council. The name of the representative should be telephoned to the B. C. D. at once in order that a list may be compiled. All representatives will meet at the city hall September 15 at 4 o'clock to organize and to select an executive body to be known as the Welfare Board.

Retain Present Board

The motion setting up the welfare plan, made by Mrs. G. T. Hunkapillar and seconded by Mrs. O. H. Booth, provided that the present seven members of the existing Welfare Board be retained on the new board as members at large during the coming year. Ordinarily, the Welfare Board is elected in December, but the new plan will make immediate re-organization possible. The plan has the approval of the board and its chairman, Alex Schneider.

The advisory council plan was adopted to provide a clearing house for reports, complaints, and suggestions concerning the community program. The council will enable all organizations doing welfare work to know what other similar groups are doing, and to coordinate their activities so as to avoid duplication.

The vote followed a general discussion in which W. H. Curry assisted in clarifying the proposals by drawing an illustration on a blackboard. W. A. Bratton was chairman of the session.

Clubs Will Help

Mrs. V. E. Pather, Mrs. A. L. Jones, and other P. T. A. spokesmen said that the women would be glad to assist in caring for needy children, but that they would not have adequate funds. Mrs. Hunkapillar, president of the seventh district Texas Federation of Women's clubs, asserted that her organization units in the various Panhandle towns and cities would actively participate in relief work this winter.

Supr. R. E. Fisher stated that it should be possible for organizations to cooperate without entirely losing their identity. J. M. Dodson reported that he believed some county and city aid would be available.

Jobs Are Needed

Clyde Garner, employment agent, urged that anyone having weeds to cut or other work to do call the Welfare Board office. He said he had hundreds of able-bodied men eager to do the work.

Mr. Schneider said the board provided 20,000 meals last winter and that he estimated twice that number would be needed in the coming months.

Those present included Mrs. Leta Followell, Mrs. O. H. Booth, Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar, Mrs. V. E. Pather, Mrs. A. L. Jones, Mrs. Claude Land, Mrs. M. F. Maddux, Mrs. W. B. Barton, Mrs. C. E. Will, Mrs. Joe Smith, Mrs. J. W. Garman, Mrs. H. B. Carlson, Mrs. W. C. de Cordova, Mrs. A. Lawson.

W. H. Curry, Alex Schneider, C. T. Hunkapillar, John Bradley, C. H. Walker, J. M. Dodson, W. A. Bratton, R. B. Fisher, Clyde Garner, W. R. Campbell, Olin E. Hinkle.

Ray Morrison and Jimmy St. Clair, football and basketball coaches at Southern Methodist, are ardent golfers.

High Scoring In Rifle Matches

S. E. Pipes and F. E. Smith tied in 53 100 range target match at the range of the Pampa Rifle Club Sunday.

Mrs. Smith and George Glover tied for second place, target match at the range of the Pampa Rifle Club Sunday. Then shots were fired at distance of 50 yards from the target, prone and with iron sights. Mrs. Smith and George Glover tied for second place, scoring 99 points out of a possible 100. Scores of the other six entries were as follows: Mrs. Pipes, 96; Mrs. J. G. Barrett, 94; R. A. Hankhouse, 93; Dr. A. Cole, 89; J. F. Barnett, 88; Alden Spees, 86.

Results of the 50-yard, 22 calibre rifle match, using 20 shots at two targets with iron sights from a prone position were as follows: Mr. Pipes, 198; Mr. Smith, 196; J. G. Barnett, 181. Possible score in this match was 200.

Mr. Pipes and Mr. Glover tied for first place in the 200-yard match, shooting a .30 calibre rifle with iron sights from a prone position. Mr. Smith and Mrs. Barnett tied for third place. Mrs. Smith won second place.

Results of this match were as follows:

Mr. Pipes, 49; Mr. Glover, 49; Mrs. Smith 48; Mrs. Barrett 47; Mr. Smith, 47; Mr. Spees, 46; Mrs. Pipes, 46; Dr. Cole, 45; V. A. Howell, 45; W. A. Clark, 44; Mr. Hankhouse, 44; Mr. Barnett, 43; Dr. T. J. Worrell, 42; Mr. Price, 42. Highest possible score was 50.

Tulsa defeated the local team in the postal match held last Sunday by 37 points. Pampa's score was 1902 out of a possible 2000, and Tulsa's, 1939 out of a possible 2000. Tulsa has had the same team for several years and has competed with many other teams, winning most of their matches. The Tulzans have had much experience in shooting practice at all these ranges and just three members of the team ever shot over the 50 and 100 yard range with a .22 calibre rifle. A similar match with Tulsa will be repeated in the near future. Members are proud that the defeat was no greater than it was.

Dawson, Okla. Minister Preaches Good Word About Herb Extract

Rev. Miner says, "I feel 100% better after taking this great medicine!"

"I am always steady and willing to help further the cause of anything that tends to bring about better living conditions," stated Rev. P. M. Miner as he eagerly told about his experience with Herb Extract (formerly called Herb Juice).

"Before using it, there was a time at a time that I could hardly get about. I was suffering from chronic constipation, felt terribly sluggish, liver was very busy and inactive, stomach was in a bad condition. My food would sour on my stomach and I would belch up hot acid bile which would make me almost dizzy each time. I frequently had sick headaches and felt very nervous generally. I was in an unstable condition to carry on with my work. My health was falling on me and I was going down hill rapidly. Then I began using Herb Extract. I have never seen any other medicine so effective. I feel 100% better, healthy, energetic. I have plenty of energy, no more gas pains and I can eat anything. I strongly recommend Herb Extract to all my friends and acquaintances."

Take this minister's advice. Herb Extract will relieve you. Don't delay, don't go on suffering—take this great, herbal remedy that has made me the best in the United States. Get a bottle today at your drug store.

Here's health to you in nature's own way.

Prompt relief from Constipation, biliousness, stomach disorders, gas pains, liver, bladder and kidney discomforts.

German Finishes Northern Flight

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—The first scientific flight from Germany to Chicago over the great northern circle route ended successfully last night when Captain Wolfgang Von Gronau, German trans-Atlantic flier brought his whale-shaped twin motored flying boat, the Greenland Wal, down on the surface of Lake Michigan, opposite the loop.

The trip was started from the island of Lise Eyl on the north sea coast of Germany Aug. 9.

The long journey, part of which was over the lonely ice wastes of Greenland, was sponsored by German scientific and commercial organizations to determine the feasibility of a commercial air line over the northern circle route, but Captain Von Gronau was not very optimistic. He said that such a line was possible, but that it would take a lot of money.

"It all depends," he said, "on how much can be spent. There is always fog and always westerly winds. Our engines take too much oil. Also refueling depots and repair shops would have to be established at intervals over the route."

Circus Coming to Pampa Soon

An agent ahead of the Al G. Barnes circus came to town today to say that it is to exhibit in Pampa on Monday, Sept. 14.

He was asked to jot down some odd facts about the big show. Here they are:

Travels on three special trains.

Over 200 places visited in a season less than 20 are played for more than one day.

Travels 20,000 miles in a summer. Exhibits more than 1,000 jungle animals.

Carries over 1,000 people on tour all of whom are given three meals each day in the circus dining tent.

Scores of ring-stock horses used in performance.

200 stakes driven and pulled each day.

A complete new set of canvas used each spring.

Tent contains 42 miles of rope.

Supposedly "untamable" zebras taught to draw a float in tournament.

Does not use local light plant, but carries its own dynamo wagons.

Has employees who have been with the show for many years.

As many acts shown in one performance as are given in many theaters in an entire season.

60 clowns running in age from 18 to 82 years old.

Always opens its season in California the third week in March. Gives its final performance in some one of the Pacific seaboard states in late November.

Gang Members Tricky Fellows

HOUSTON, Sept. 2.—Two Houston officers were in Dallas today seeking three members of a notorious gang wanted in connection with the double slaying here Monday of Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. Jones in their apartment.

Lieutenant of Detectives George Peyton and Detective A. C. Thornton of the Houston police department left for Dallas by automobile yesterday.

Houston police received a telegram from Dallas authorities that three men, sought for questioning in connection with the murder of the young couple, could be picked up easily. However, it would be impossible for the Dallas police to hold the men in jail for any length of time. Dallas authorities feared that, if the three were arrested, habeas corpus proceedings would be resorted to by other members of the gang to release them.
