GERMAN BOMBS KILL 50 BRITONS IN RAIDS

Longtime Friend Of Wynne Dies Sunday

Judge J. E. Southwood, 83, first resident of the city of Panhandle, died Sunday morning in a local hospital following a major operation. He followed in death his closest friend for more than half a century, J. S. Wynne of Pampa, who died Friday afternoon.

Judge Southwood received his title for serving Carson county as its judge for one term. He did not seek reelection but turned to the cattle business with which he was associated all of his life.

Survivors include the wife, Mrs. J. E. Southwood; two sisters, Mrs. Virginia Kinsey of San Francisco and Mrs. Bertha Bradley of Clayville, Va., and a brother, Lee Southwood of Spokane, Wash.

Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock Sunday at the home of Mrs. J. E. Southwood, 1001 N. 10th St., Panhandle.

Four Waves Of Bombers Raid Berlin

(By The Associated Press) BERLIN, Aug. 26.—Berlin got its first taste of an air raid today when four waves of British bombers, swooping above a protective ceiling of clouds, skirted spectacular German anti-aircraft fire and dropped incendiary bombs on the fringe of the city.

Berlin's 4,000,000 population huddled in cellars and shelters for three hours and four minutes during the early morning, but incensed sources said only one three-room garden cottage in the northern suburb of Rosenthal was damaged by fire, and that there were no casualties.

The high command said it was the first time British planes have flown over the German capital, but it was Berlin's fifth air raid alarm. Germans said one of the raiders was shot down. The high command said the "aimless" bombing hit only non-military objects.

The daily communique declared numerous bombings were carried out last night against the British airplane and armament industry, particularly at Birmingham, Kingstons and Coventry, where large fires and explosions were observed, and the airport at Warrwell, northwest of Portland, where "fierce air raids" developed.

1,500 Bombs Dropped The German radio said 1,500 bombs were dropped on 38 objectives in these sweeping raids.

Seventy-two British planes were shot down yesterday, the high command said, with 14 German planes missing, raising Saturday and Sunday totals to 136 and 34.

Mines are still being laid in British ports, the communique said, and one German plane ventured 225 miles west of Landsend, into the Atlantic, to sink a 4,000-ton merchant ship.

Two U-boats reported the sinking of 76,170 tons of shipping, including four ships shot out of a convoy.

Meanwhile, Germany dispatched a note to Britain, by way of Swiss diplomatic channels, warning that trials will be taken unless British aircraft stop firing upon first aid planes sent to rescue airmen shot down in the sea.

Officials said the crews of two British bombers were rescued last night by these first aid planes.

(The British have charged some of these planes with doing reconnaissance work.)

Hundreds of anti-aircraft guns were ordered into action against the British squadrons which thundered over Berlin.

The air raid alarm, this city's fifth since the start of the war, coincided with the appearance of British planes over extensive areas of Prussia and Saxony, causing warnings in many cities.

The War Today

(By DEWITT MACKENZIE) The Berlin-Rome brotherhood is taking a sour and uncompromising view of Uncle Sam's discussions with Canada regarding defense matters of mutual interest, and his conversations with England concerning the leasing of naval bases in the western hemisphere.

It would seem from the Fascist and Nazi press which, as you know, is government controlled, that Sam hops to gain at the expense of his friends and neighbors. He has, they say, imperialistic ambitions.

The intimation is that Uncle Sam is preparing to take advantage of John Bull's high position and appropriate British territory.

This includes control of Canada, and Das Schwarze Korps, organ of Hitler's black-shirted elite guard, suggests defeat of Britain might raise the question of American incorporation of the dominion.

Anything having less basis of possibility than our annexation of Canada is hard to imagine. Still, in view of defense discussions, there is special interest in American-Canadian relations as they have to do with the crisis arising from the European war.

We don't need to waste much time on the annexation fantasy. There is no doubt in my mind that Canadians would fight with every available weapon to prevent annexation. However, they have no of any effort on our part to take them over. I never have heard of the latter part of the American suggestion.

It is true that Canadians are on the whole more like Americans than English. It is also true that the average Canadian expects to join hands with his American neighbors in case of attack.

However, the Canadians are a proud and independent people who refuse to let even Mother England dictate to them. The border which holds them within the British Commonwealth is more of sentiment than reality, and they will maintain their sovereignty.

I have heard the questions raised of whether any pact with Canada would also be a pact with England as well. The answer in my view is that England would have nothing to do with an American-Canadian agreement, unless that agreement specifically made Britain a party to it.

Jones Congratulates Worley On Victory

Congressman Marvin Jones yesterday telephoned from Washington, D. C., his congratulations to Gene Worley who was elected Saturday to succeed Jones.

Worley, same age as Jones when the latter was elected to congress 24 years ago, was sitting in his small home at Shamrock when Mr. Jones called. The present congressman said he planned to return to the Panhandle the last of September and would confer with the young Shamrock legislator at that time.

"Boy, get ready for tough going up here," Jones said. The congressman also announced that he would soon go into the middle west to notify Secretary Wallace of his nomination to the vice-presidency of the Democratic ticket. The notification ceremonies will be held soon.

Yesterday, Mr. Worley received 100 telegrams from supporters, and today several hundred letters and post cards from all over the district. In addition, the telephone rang intermittently all day. Most of the telephone callers admonished the operator "not to let them talk over three minutes."

"What are known as the common people elected me," said Mr. Worley, "and I am grateful." He said he expected his "post card" mail to be heavy this week.

Mr. Worley was hobbling around yesterday on a bandaged foot which became infected because of "too much walking during the campaign." The foot received attention of a physician yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Worley plan to go to Bonham, Tex., this week for a visit of several days in the home of Mr. Worley's parents. "It's quiet down there and we want to catch up on rest and sleep," the congressman-elect said.

The defeated candidate Deskins Wells, Wellington publisher Saturday, who wired Mr. Worley his congratulations, and an offer of co-operation, Mr. Worley thanked him by telephone.

Many of the telegrams received See JONES, Page 8

More Than Half Inch Rain Falls In Pampa Area

Two or three showers, aided and abetted by a couple of ten-minute downpours, brought the Pampa area 61-inch precipitation Sunday afternoon and boosted the 1940 rainfall total to 10.70 inches.

So far in August Pampa has had 2.45 inches of rain, the second heaviest precipitation for any month of the year. May was high with 2.67 inches. It has rained on eight days this month with .79-inch on Aug. 11 being the heaviest.

It has rained in Pampa on 35 days this year. The 1940 rainfall by months: January, .90; February, 1.32; March, .88; April, 1.45; May, 2.67; June, 1.10; July, .63; August, to date, 2.45 inches.

A good rain was reported at Lake McClellan and the water rose in the reservoir several inches. Good rains fell east of Pampa in Wheeler county.

Bombers Smash At Dover Area

(By The Associated Press) British RAF pursuit planes drove off two waves of German bombers headed for London late today in a violent battle fought at a height of 20,000 feet.

Striking on a 30-mile front, Hitler's bombers smashed at the "hell's corner" channel port of Dover—the ancient town where Julius Caesar landed to invade England 1,995 years ago—and sought to penetrate London's defenses for the sixth time in 48 hours.

At least 10 of the Nazi raiders were reported shot down.

London's densely-packed millions huddled in underground shelters while alarm signals shrieked for 37 minutes, but no German planes were sighted above the city.

More than 50 Britons were killed in the hail of German bombs which fell inland as far as the midlands, the heart of Britain's industrial region.

Four persons were killed by bombs near Ross, County Wexford, southeastern Ireland. There was no indication of the identity of the plane.

The raiders, streaking over the southeast coast from bases on the German-held French coast only 22 miles away, set great fires at Folkestone and bombed crowded streets, inflicting many casualties.

All of the towns attacked—including Folkestone, Deal, and the cathedral city of Canterbury—and the south Foreland region, also under fire, lie in the Dover area which might be used as the gateway for Nazi land invasion.

Waves of British RAF bombing planes in a display of rising aerial might, thundered over Berlin in a 3-hour raid before dawn today, while Nazi warplanes dumped high explosives, incendiary and "shock" bombs on the London area for the fifth time in 48 hours.

Berlin reported 1,500 bombs totaling 300,000 pounds were dropped on 38 objectives in the British Isles during the night. "Small fires and shrapnel damage resulted in the London raid, the British said.

Despite a growing clamor by Britons for retaliatory raids on Berlin, a RAF spokesman declared that today's attack on the German capital by no means signalled the start of "terror" assaults on German civilians by the British.

Scenes of horror were reported in a southeast coast town in England this morning as Nazi warplanes spread death and destruction in a 20-minute raid during the shopping rush hour, spewing bombs into crowded streets.

A laundry filled with working girls suffered a direct hit, and at least one woman was killed.

RAF fighter planes reportedly shot down at least two of the total bombers, and at least four others were shot down attempting to cross the channel coast on a 30-mile stretch, flying in mass formation.

Aviation experts in London estimated that 3,000 German planes—about one-sixth of Hitler's total operating strength in the air—have been thrown into the 9-week-old assault on the island kingdom.

Heavy explosions reverberated in the air as at least four waves of RAF bombers streaked over the cloud-blanketed German capital—Berlin's fifth air-raid alarm since the start of the war—and hundreds of anti-aircraft guns set up a terrific fire in the air.

Large Houses In Folkestone Blown To Bits

(By The Associated Press) LONDON, Aug. 26.—German warplanes failed today in an attempt again to pierce London's defenses, but missed Nazi raiders smashed at a 30-mile stretch of the south coast and showered bombs also on a wide area inland.

Two big waves of German bombers headed toward the capital were turned off by British fighters in a 10-minute battle in the clouds about 20,000 feet over the southeast coast.

Machine-gun and cannon fire of Messerschmitt fighters escorting the bombers died away as the Germans made for home with-out success. At least three of their planes falling as the battle's toll. Fourteen German planes were reported downed previously.

An air raid alarm earlier sent Londoners underground for the sixth time since Saturday, but the metropolitan area was unscathed.

An air ministry spokesman said the German air force had suffered a "very sharp reverse" in daylight raids and that increasing night attacks apparently indicated a change in tactics.

(German reports said British planes were downed in air fighting today at a rate of five to every German plane lost.)

An unidentified plane was reported to have dropped bombs near New Ross, 25 miles inland in southern Ireland, killing four persons.

Besides Dover, the channel "hell's corner," Folkestone and the south Foreland apparently bore the brunt

Hundreds Attend Wynne Funeral

Old time friends from every part of West Texas and from points in Oklahoma and New Mexico came to Pampa yesterday to pay last respects to Jesse S. Wynne, pioneer Panhandle resident who died at the family home here Friday afternoon.

The main floor of the high school auditorium, where the First Presbyterian church is holding services, was filled and many were seated in the balcony. Floral offerings completely filled the huge stage and the orchestra pit.

Rain, which Mr. Wynne loved to watch falling, arrived just as the service started. Another heavy rain fell as the long procession of cars reached the cemetery and it was some time before the service at the grave could be conducted.

The Rev. Robert Boshen, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of which Mr. Wynne was an elder, conducted services assisted by the Rev. C. Gordon Bayless, pastor of the First Baptist church, and the Rev. B. A. Norris, pastor of the First Christian church. Burial was under direction of Huffman-Nelson Funeral home.

Rev. Boshen compared Mr. Wynne's last few days with those of Christ.

"Mr. Wynne lived Christ's words, 'Be of good cheer,' during the last days and weeks of his life," Rev. Boshen said. "Although it was the time in life when troubles, sorrow and grief overtake a person, Mr. Wynne lived the philosophy of Christ and cheered others."

Pampans Favor Conscription In First Vote

Do you favor the passage by Congress of a military conscription bill?

In the first day's voting on the question, by ballot which appeared in Sunday's News and which appears in the paper again today, Pampa readers favor it by a vote of approximately 4 to 1.

The Burke-Wadsworth conscription bill has been in debate in the House for nearly two weeks and the news reports indicated today that it may possibly come up for a vote this week.

Many groups and organizations over the country are urging its passage immediately. Still other groups are opposing it.

What do you think? Turn to an inside page, check your answer on the coupon and mail or bring your ballot to the Editor of The Pampa News.

Your opinion ultimately will be registered with Congress where results of the ballot will be sent along with ballots from all corners of the nation.

Negroes And Whites Riot In California

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Aug. 26 (AP)—Police kept a sharp watch today over the ocean park amusement zone, between Santa Monica and Venice, where four white men and one negro were injured in race rioting yesterday.

Officers said the fighting between 50 Negroes and 50 white men, quelled by 15 policemen, followed recurring instances of name-calling and race quarrelling at beaches in the vicinity.

$30,000,000 Marked For Training Camps WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP)—President Roosevelt has allocated nearly $30,000,000 for preliminary construction of camps for the first 400,000 young men to be conscripted under the pending draft bill.

The money was set aside from the $100,000,000 appropriation given him by congress to spend on national defense under executive discretion. Location of the sites was not disclosed.

Phillips Advises Against Attorney For 13 Defendants

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 26 (AP)—Governor Phillips declared today it was unnecessary for the Civil Liberties Union of New York to send an attorney here to defend 13 persons charged with criminal syndicalism.

"The county attorney's office has given us good law enforcement. They can take just so much from this talking bunch. I have seen things myself that would warrant prosecution," Phillips said.

The union charged in a letter to the governor that the civil rights of the defendants had been violated because they were held under excessive bonds.

endorsing no individuals, had urged voters to investigate records of candidates for the legislature.

It was well known that S. J. R. 12 did not figure in some legislative bills, and was only one of many factors in others.

A feature of the election was the huge overturn of members of both houses, to an extent possibly without precedent.

Reports indicated the new house would have at least 89 new members and 58 re-elected. The outcome of three races was not known definitely. There are 150 members.

There will be 10 new faces in the senate, which has a total membership of 31. There were 18 openings this year and 15 holdovers. The outcome of three races was not known definitely. There are 150 members.

Aliens In Pampa Territory Urged To Register Here

Pampa, along with the rest of the nation today started registration of all aliens residing in the United States. Registering here will be at the postoffice where Postmaster C. H. Walker has blanks which must be filled out and returned.

Aliens residing in the Pampa area are urged to secure the forms immediately, fill them out, and return them, at which time they will be fingerprinted. Later they will receive registration receipt cards which they must have in their possession at all times.

Although registration just started today, several aliens had secured blanks in advance and they are expected to report for fingerprinting immediately. No one had reported up to noon, however.

Miss Elkins And Basil Stalcup Marry Sunday

Miss Mary Zonell Elkins became the bride of Basil Stalcup in an impressive ring ceremony before a group of relatives and friends in the Church of the Brethren at high noon Sunday with the Rev. R. G. West officiating.

Palms and numerous arrangements of flowers banked the altar. As the bride entered, Miss Marjorie Gillis played the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin and Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played as the recessional. After the vows were read, Mrs. W. G. Crowson sang "I Love You Truly."

The bride was attractively dressed in an ensemble of blue with black accessories. She wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Attending the couple were Mrs. Claude Webb and Dale Elkins, brother and sister of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hubbard of Miami.

Following the ceremony, a buffet luncheon was served in the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Stalcup cut the three-tiered wedding cake which centered the table.

The couple is at home at 615 North Dwight street.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Elkins, attended Pampa High school, where she was a member of the pep squad and glee club. Mr. Stalcup, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Stalcup, was graduated in 1935 from the local high school and attended Amarillo Junior college and Texas Tech at Lubbock.

Local Red Cross Chapter To Ship Garments Monday

Red Cross garments for shipment over seas will be packed and shipped from Pampa to national headquarters on September 2.

The quota that the Pampa chapter accepted consists of 15 hospital bed shirts, five layettes, 40 sweaters, and 30 dresses. Ten black crocheted shawls will be sent also.

Two months ago the chapter shipped 20 sweaters, 15 dresses, and five layettes. Anyone who is working on one of these garments is urged to turn it in this week or report on it immediately should it be impossible to have it completed. Women who are sewing dresses should return them by Friday, August 30, to Mrs. Omer Russell, 312 North Gillespie street.

Knitters may bring their sweaters to the club rooms in the city hall tomorrow between 2:30 and 4 o'clock or to the home of Mrs. Fred Roberts, 823 North Sonerville street.

Poultry Raised For First Time By Back 4-H Club Member

Elsie Mae Holloway, Back 4-H poultry demonstrator, had her first experience with raising poultry this year and finds it to be quite enjoyable as well as a paying proposition.

She has learned that chickens must be fed regularly; that it takes grain, milk, mash and green stuff as well as plenty of fresh water to keep them growing and in good health; that cleanliness and proper sanitation must be seen to at all times, with emphasis on a general cleaning once a week.

Elsie Mae has helped with the family diet by supplying the family with 45 chickens. She has sold 17, has eight chickens left which the family plans to eat and 66 pullets for layers for 1941.

She had 156 White Minorcas which cost $12.50. From her sales and the number eaten, she has made enough to pay for the cost of the chickens, her equipment, feed, and to buy feed to continue feeding the chickens a balanced diet the rest of the year.

Eulamae Lively Accomplishes Much In 4-H Club Work

"I certainly enjoy 4-H club work," said Eulamae Lively of the Southeast 4-H club of McLean as she told of her many accomplishments and showed examples of her work at the 4-H Achievement event held recently in the home of Bennie Mae Wade of McLean.

Eulamae, age 10, and her sister, who is 12, have worked together improving their bedroom. A closet has been added, along with a dressing table and new curtains. The head of the bed was cut off and made the foot and now the girls say they feel as if they had a new bed. A pound of scraps have been saved with which the girls plan to make a rug for their bedroom.

The girls also work outside the house. Eulamae has a frame garden of five varieties from which she has canned vegetables for winter use and has also served 30 servings of green food to her family. Eulamae has 11 varieties planted in her home garden and from this the girls have canned cucumbers, potatoes, tomatoes, corn, peas, and beans. Plums and jelly have also been canned for the family food supply by the girls. They sold vegetables in order to pay for their bedroom improvements.

Eulamae, who is interested in sewing, has made several dresses and skirts for both herself and her sister, besides making their 4-H uniforms.

TO REJOICE JUNIOR HEARTS

Certainly one of the things any smart junior is happiest to discover is a campus frock that's not only smart and practical, but decidedly new. Here's just such a frock, with strap-trimmed corsetette waistline, and with stitched pleats that break just at the right place to give fullness where you want it and none where you don't. The smart, high neckline is finished with a flattering round collar.

The design (No. 8769) is particularly smart when made up in a contrast of plaid and plain fabric as pictured. But it looks extremely pretty in one color, too, especially when you choose cherry red, Indian summer brown or forest green. Wool crepe, flannel, spun rayon and jersey are smart for this. The sleeves may be long or short.

Pattern No. 8769 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17 and 19. Size 13 requires 2 1/2 yards of 99-inch material. 3-4 yard contrast.

Banquet Given To Honor Supervisor Of Library Project

Special To THE NEWS
 PANHANDLE, Aug. 26—Hutchinson County Library club rooms were the scene of a banquet given in the honor of Arthur R. Curry, state supervisor of WPA library project, Wednesday evening. Librarians from all over the Panhandle, many civic leaders, and club women interested in further library service of their communities were present.

Features of the program were a discussion of "What is Happening in the Library World" by Mr. Curry, honor guest. Librarian Cagle Smith showed visitors through the beautiful new building which was completed last March, and the Carson County Bookmobile, which is the only one in the Panhandle, was on inspection.

Misses Betty Dunlap and Barbara Heinbaugh furnished the music.

Mrs. Pearl Walker, Amarillo, supervisor of women and professional projects was toastmistress.

"I have enjoyed bedroom work very much," said Yvonne Hoffer, Laketon 4-H bedroom demonstrator, as she displayed and told of the improvements she and her mother had done to her bedroom, when she was hostess to friends and club members at the Laketon 4-H Achievement event.

"Now the room is lighter and will be much easier to keep clean," said Yvonne. "I have painted the wood work white and the new light colored wall paper makes the room much nicer."

The floors, which were a dark red, were painted brown, the torn border from the linoleum was cut off leaving a nice rug. A blue candlewick bedspread was purchased and curtains dyed to match it. White shades, clothes closet, picture and a mattress cover were added to the room.

The mattress for the bed was made from cotton grown on the farm and a pair of wool blankets was made from sheep raised by the family.

Cardenas And Almazanistas Talk It Over

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 26. (AP)—In a country still excited over its July 7 presidential balloting which produced bloodshed and two claimants to election, politicians wondered today what happened at a one-hour week-end conference between President Cardenas and a group of followers of General Juan Almazan, independent presidential candidate.

Newspaper versions of the conference varied. The pro-administration Nacional said no real information was available as to what took place. Novedades said Almazan's representatives "could not conceal their disgust, on leaving the presidential palace."

Popular labor newspaper which supports General Manuel Avila Camacho's presidential claims, said "the president maintained his calmness, while the Almazan followers later issued an insolent statement."

"Cardenas," it added "emphasized the government had granted full guarantees to both groups in the electoral campaign" but insisted that now the elections were over, "agitation should cease."

La Prensa said Almazan's representatives, General Jacinto Trevino, Emilio Madero, and Colonel Alfonso Gomez Morfitt, Cardenas' former postmaster general, "assured the president they were not planning any armed uprising, and at the same time demanded guarantees against persecution of Almazan's followers, citing several concrete cases."

Two of Almazan's followers recently were jailed at Acapulco, but released later, reportedly on Cardenas' orders. The pro-Camacho congress demanded arrest of all congressional candidates on the Almazan ticket. Many of Almazan's followers fled the city.

The three who interviewed Cardenas issued a statement saying the interview produced "no definite conclusions."

Rumors flew thick and fast. Some said they "had it on good authority" Cardenas would deliver the presidency to Almazan; others said the elections were over, "Camacho was elected, and that's all there is to it."

Cardenas said nothing.

A showdown is expected Sept. 1 when Cardenas decides whether to deliver the presidential message to the congress Camacho's follower's organized, or the one Almazan's followers said they formed secretly.

Deportation Of Bridges Studied

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. (AP)—A Justice Department investigation was under way today to determine whether Harry Bridges, West Coast CIO maritime leader, is subject to deportation under a new federal law permitting expulsion of aliens who have been members of subversive organizations.

Bridges was charged with being a member of the Communist party in expulsion proceedings instituted last year. These were dropped, however, after the Supreme Court ruled in another case that an alien—to be deported—must be found to have been a member of an organization advocating overthrow of the government by force.

DO YOU FAVOR PASSAGE OF MILITARY CONSCRIPTION BILL? SEND YOUR VOTE

In order to get the opinion of people in Pampa, Gray county and the northeast Panhandle to add to the collective opinion of the remainder of the nation, The Pampa News today asks its readers to answer a question about compulsory military training and the drafting of men for immediate service in the United States Army.

The News merely wishes to know if you favor the passage by congress of a selective service bill at this time?

Entering into the answer of this question will be the elements of whether or not you believe that the U. S. must whip together an army at once in order to have an adequate national defense.

In the current news, President Roosevelt says that such action is needed immediately. On the other hand there is opposition to the plan. During the past week many groups, including those representing the nation's mothers, marched on Washington in opposition to compulsory military training and conscription. The proposed Burke-Wadsworth conscription bill now is being debated in the Senate.

So, here's the question:

DO YOU FAVOR THE PASSAGE BY CONGRESS OF A MILITARY CONSCRIPTION BILL: Yes _____ No _____

Final Vote On Conscription Due This Week

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. (AP)—Spurred by pressure from leaders and President Roosevelt, opposing forces in the bitter senate battle over compulsory military training talked today of a final vote this week, probably Thursday.

Senator Sheppard (D-Tex.), chairman of the military committee and floor leader for the Burke-Wadsworth bill, said any additional discussion would come from opponents, or those sponsoring amendments. The debate is now in its third week.

"I'm not going to make any speech because everything has been said," Senator Sheppard declared. "Additional speeches would only delay a final vote that everybody should want by now."

Opposition leaders conceded the final vote was near.

Before a final vote, however, the Burke-Wadsworth measure must clear several hurdles. The bill provides for immediate registration of all men between 21 and 31. An unspecified number of those registered would be subject to service at once.

The major test was expected on the proposal of Senator Maloney (D-Conn.) that conscription be delayed until Jan. 1 to permit a further trial of the voluntary enlistment method.

After President Roosevelt expressed his opposition Friday to any postponement, the pro-conscription leaders predicted the Maloney proposal would be rejected.

House action on the Burke-Wadsworth bill waited on senate developments.

Another major piece of defense program legislation—the excess profits tax bill—was reported bogged down in the house ways and means committee.

Anticipating eventual enactment of the Burke-Wadsworth bill, Senator Barkley disclosed he would seek quick action on making money available to put the program into effect.

The cost of the conscription program has been estimated at $1,000,000,000 a year.

Fingerprinting Of Aliens To Begin Over U. S. Tuesday

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. (AP)—Justice department officials completed arrangements today for the tremendous task of registering and fingerprinting an estimated 3,600,000 aliens during the next four months.

The job starts tomorrow in about 7,300 post offices and is scheduled for completion Dec. 26.

The registration law, enacted by congress as a defense precaution, requires that they alien over the age of 14 present himself for registration and fingerprinting. World-born citizens who have taken out their first papers must register like non-citizens.

Children under 14 must be registered by parents or legal guardians and need answer only nine of the 15 questions.

The registration questions cover personal identification; the manner of entry into this country; occupation; military service; memberships in social or other organizations; and any activity in promoting the interests of a foreign government.

The penalty for failure to register or for making false statements is $1,000 fine or six months imprisonment or both.

The data will be filed at the justice department and kept confidential, although a cross check may be made against criminal or other records.

90 New Texas Representatives And 10 New Senators Elected

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Aug. 26.—Texans chose Olin E. Culberson of Edna as a member of the railroad commission and James P. Alexander of Waco as chief justice of the supreme court in Saturday's Democratic run-off. In addition they finished turning out of office an unusually large percentage of their state legislators.

The final tabulation by the Texas Election Bureau gave Culberson, former gas utilities supervisor for the commission, 458,061 votes to 410,656 for Pierce Brooks, of Dallas, second high man in the July primary.

Alexander had 438,893 votes against 399,050 for Hal S. Lattimore of Fort Worth.

The election bureau said it would make no additional compilations. It estimated less than 20,000 votes were missing.

It was Brooks' third defeat in as many tries for state office. Once he was defeated for governor and once for lieutenant governor. He told newspapermen he did not intend to seek public office again. In a telegram to Culberson, he promised his "full co-operation as a citizen."

Culberson was head of the gas utilities division when Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson and C. V. Terrell constituted a majority of the commission. He was discharged from commission employ by Commissioner Jerry Sadler and retiring Commissioner Lon A. Smith.

Reports indicated that the state house of representatives would contain approximately 90 new members of a total of 150, and the 31-man senate would include 10 new members.

Senators apparently defeated in run-offs were the veteran Will D. Pace of Tyler; Morris Roberts of Pettus, chairman of the financing committee; Gordon Burns of Huntsville and J. Manley Head of Stephenville. Among the house victims was W. E. "Uncle Elmer" Pope of Corpus Christi, who began his legislative service about 25 years ago.

Only two of Texas' 21 national house positions were at stake in the run-off, 19 incumbents having been renominated in July.

Rep. Clyde Garrett of Eastland, who had ousted Thomas L. Blanton four years ago, was himself beaten by District Judge Sam Russell of Stephenville. Complete unofficial returns to the Texas Election Bureau gave Russell 27,584 votes to 24,495 for Garrett.

Traffic Department To Check Cars Here

The state traffic safety department will conduct its annual check-up of Pampa cars here very soon, according to word received today. Tentative dates set for Pampa tests will be Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. Official notice, however, has not been received.

The traffic safety lanes will probably be established in the 100 block on East Tyng street where all cars will be required to take the tests which will include checking brakes, lights, windshield wipers, mufflers, steering equipment, etc.

State highway patrolmen stationed here and city police officers will assist in the work.

More than 400 American manufacturers are registered with the Munitions Control board as actual or potential producers of implements of war.

'Uncle Jess' Wynne

The vacant place left in the hearts of his fellow townsmen by the death of "Uncle Jess" Wynne is one of the chasms in the tread of human events that is impossible of replacement.

There was none in this section of the Texas Panhandle who held a higher place of esteem than did Mr. Wynne.

He was the type of which pioneers were made. And he was just that here in the Panhandle. He came to the plains when the going was rough, as we say. He was hardy. He helped to blaze a path that was to make of this section a grand place in the years to come, and he lived to enjoy the fruits of his labors in the earlier and leaner years.

Uncle Jess was a citizen of the highest type. He recognized the fact that so many of us do not recognize—that he owed a certain duty to the people among whom he lived and to his community. As a result his interest in things humanitarian was great.

He never lost that interest, even maintained it right down through the last days of his life. While lying at death's door he still felt the responsibility of a citizen to the extent that he voted an absent voter's ballot in the election held one day following his death.

Great throngs of persons from over the Panhandle paid their last tribute to Uncle Jess at the services held in Pampa yesterday afternoon. Those who said the last rites over his body in the high school auditorium seemed to sense the inadequacy of words to properly eulogize this man who had done so much for the Panhandle he loved so well.

Uncle Jess Wynne's earthly existence has ended, but his life as he lived it will have a place in the memory of those who knew him for the man among men that he was.

Behind The News

By MILTON BRONNER, NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—In Germany and, more particularly, in Italy, a mighty squawk is being raised over the United States law which compels all aliens to register and to file their fingerprints with the government.

Robert Farinacci, one of the big shots in the Fascist outfit, means in his paper, "Regime Fascista," published in Cremona, that in America it is a crime to belong to the people who produced Columbus.

The exquisite joke about this particular sentence is that Farinacci is one of the leading anti-Semites in Italy. A great Spanish writer recently wrote about Columbus that all evidences available show he was descended from Spanish Jewish refugees settled in Italy.

Farinacci goes on to say all Germans and Italians in America are fingerprinted as if they were criminals.

ENGLAND KEEPS CLOSE TAB

The fact is that the United States is one of the last great countries to adopt some measure of control of the aliens within its borders. All over Europe, long before the present war, aliens were the subject of government measures.

In democratic England, for instance, an American or any other alien, if he remained in the country more than 60 days, had to report to the nearest police station with two photographs of himself, one for the files of the police, the other to be pasted in a police book the alien must keep.

On the police record all details about the alien were copied from his passport and kept for future reference. Every time the alien moved from one city to another in the United Kingdom, he had to check out with the police of one town and check in with the police of the other.

And even though he continued to live in the same town, he had to report every change of address, even if he moved from 20 Baker street to 21 Baker street.

Well remembered is the case of an American singing comedienne, a great favorite in London, who failed to notify the police she had changed her home address. Her name was shining in blazing lights two feet high over the theater where she acted, but she was haled into court, severely lectured by the judge and fined $25 for her heinous offense.

By its legislation America is simply falling into line. And incidentally, the alien registration law does not apply only to Germans and Italians, but to all aliens alike.

RELIEF CASES SHOW INCREASE

Ninety-eight urban areas in the United States had an increase in July over June of 1 per cent in the number of general relief cases and an increase of 3 per cent in their cost.

But the remarkable thing was that in quite a number of towns, while the cases increased numerically, the cost was less. Probability is this was because needy did not get coal and that more fruits and vegetables were supplied than meat and other heavy and costlier foodstuffs.

Data received by the U. S. Social Security Board came from 30 states and the District of Columbia. The board defines general relief as including all state and local relief in cash and goods extended to the needy, except public assistance to the aged, blind, dependent children and aid to veterans.

Common Ground

By R. C. HOILES

As we see so much misery and suffering and our liberty being so rapidly taken away from us, the question naturally arises in the minds of every lover of liberty as to what can one man do.

I just read a little folder on this subject by the Rev. Roy L. Smith, who has just resigned his Los Angeles pastorate of the largest Methodist church in America to become editor of the Christian Advocate. He makes a very timely and wise suggestion.

For instance, he says, "one man can create a market for the best." And he includes in the best, a market for good music, great books, great speeches, good pictures, clean entertainment, raise the level of conversation that goes on about him, create an atmosphere of good-will, improve the moral tone of the social circle in which he lives.

Another place, he says, in discussing the moral standards of people that, "bread, without the effort of labor, never satisfies."

"More than the tragedy of millions on relief, is the tragedy of millions who are satisfied with relief."

"Morality has always been preserved by those who refused to compromise."

This, of course, would mean that if morality is preserved, good government and just economic conditions will prevail.

He points out that each individual can help create public opinion. And if public opinion has the proper respect for the rights of every other citizen, then our social and economic problems will be solved.

He notes that one man can create within himself the Kingdom of Heaven.

He wisely proclaims that nothing is sacred, to wit, (referring to the open mind), but the truth.

Can Keep On Trying

What every one can do and it is the least that any lover of justice can do, is to keep on trying to bring about understanding of the eternal principles and truths and foundations that develop into a great social organism.

If a man keeps on trying to bring about good-will among his fellowmen he will have the Kingdom of Heaven within him.

Rev. Smith concludes the little booklet with the following:

"In that truly great picture, 'The House of Rothschild,' there is depicted a gripping and dramatic moment in the life of Britain. The fate of England is hanging in the balance. Something resembling panic has seized the nation and at the height of the crisis Baron Rothschild determines to throw the whole weight of his personal fortune and influence into the breach. One of his friends, fearing for his future, undertakes to save him from his madness, and says, 'Rothschild, one man can't save England.' To this the stout-hearted little Jew replies, with a complete abandonment of personal self-interest, 'Perhaps not. But one man can try.'"

There will be happiness, contentment and peace of mind and the Kingdom of Heaven within, if each man learns to try to do his part to better conditions. This, of course, does not mean, as so many have come to believe, that he should try to force somebody else to do the part that he believes they should do. To relieve distress and misery, each man has all he can do to try himself and he will have a great deal more influence in getting his fellowman to try by this example than by any laws that he might make attempting to coerce other people to be unselfish.

MEANS SHORT OF WAR

We hear nowadays a lot of careless talk about the people of the United States assisting England by "all means short of war."

This, like most all other New Deal language, has a meaning which is subject to the changeable interpretations of New Dealers. It is language that is contradictory and cannot be reduced to principles and ideas that can be transmitted to another individual.

In the first place, if we are to furnish aid and material to countries at war, we are in reality at war whether we say we are or not.

In addition to being at war, we are at war in a way that is without honor. We are saying to those people, we are insisting that you furnish the men and run the risks of life, because we are cowards and will only furnish material aid; that we want to help, but we want to help in what we foolishly think is a safe way of helping. There is no neutrality in furnishing materials and doing everything we can "short of war."

These people who are constantly proclaiming that we should do everything "short of war" are making these claims because they know that the great mass of people are not thoroughly enough convinced that it is our duty to attempt to police the world by sending men to Europe, as we did in the World War. For this reason, those people who want to lead us into war are using the language "short of war" simply to have their way and fool the people without the people knowing they are being fooled.

No, there is no such thing as using "all means short of war" being different from eventually being in war, other than it is the cowardly way of being in war.

war games. It is one of those things that could happen only here.

The four die-hards, it is important to note, held out against the army not for pacifistic or un-American reasons of any kind, but purely because they decided to stand on their rights as they saw them.

One man chased army officers away because they were wearing neckties, which is against his religion. Another declared the United States is a free country and the army the servant of the people, and he'd just like to see any one in uniform try to order him around. A retired schoolmarm, an ardent prohibitionist, was willing to turn over her 40 acres if the United States army would see to it that a neighbor lost his liquor license.

The fourth farmer owns a wooded plot along a river. He agreed to throw his house open to the soldiers, but they couldn't go into his woods.

"I like to go in there and sit," he said. "Try to tell that story in the totalitarian countries and see how quickly it would be scooped at. The idea that a man can have woods of his own that he could sit in would be regarded as fantastic enough, but that the army could be prevented from seizing them whenever it wanted—well, that is incredible. But it does not astonish us. We take such things for granted. They come under the heading of 'liberty.' And it is to safeguard our liberty that the soldiers of the 1st army are engaged in strenuous maneuvers in northern New York—carefully avoiding, under democratic processes, the farm lands of the four objectors.

BACKING IT UP

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON, NEA Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 26.—Vincent Barnett, the ribber, is working in his 151st motion picture as a bartender. He has a few good scenes and he isn't complaining. But there are many of us who wonder why the ribber is in the picture. He is a face-to-face-to-fool and infuriate statesman, industrialist, stars and all manner of other celebrities doesn't have better roles in flickers.

Although he's only 37 and apparently has lost none of his agility in flinging his rib, Barnett's ribbing career seems about over. This is because almost everyone knows him.

Engaged to brighten up the banquet of the last convention of district attorneys, he went first to a studio make-up expert and was fitted out with an elaborate disguise including a toupee. The minute he entered the banquet room there was a chorus of murmurs of "Look—there's Vince Barnett!" He had a hard time finding a victim.

If you don't remember him, this actor is a son of Luke Barnett, who for 40 years has made a handsome living by playing jokes on famous people. At 64, he's still doing it, living in Pittsburgh and traveling all over the east. Mostly he works at banquets as an awkward, stupid, stubborn, and maddeningly insolent waiter.

NAZI SPY ROLE FOOLS BRITON

Vince has done that, too, but he prefers appearing as some visiting foreign noble, usually a German. Lately he has amused himself at parties around Hollywood by seeming to be a Nazi agent.

Other evening he was turned loose on a British officer who is here to buy planes. Barnett has a Carnegie Tech education and has been a flyer himself, so he can ask some searching questions about aviation. He also pretended to be drunk and make some conversational slips which he'd clumsily try to cover up.

Pretty soon the Englishman got to a telephone and called Carl Squire, vice president of Lockheed Aircraft, with the breathless news he had discovered a spy. Squire appeared half an hour later and for once was not very glad to see his friend Vince Barnett. The plans were cancelled and he had got out of bed to rush to the party.

The ribber knows a lot of high army officials, and one of them introduced him (as a Captain Von Ogenstrahl) to a couple of Curtiss-Wright technicians who had been developing a 16-cylinder, inline engine. It was all a great secret at the time, so the inventors nearly fainted when "Von Ogenstrahl" began chatting about an engine he had perfected and went on to describe their engine to the last essential detail.

In Washington, Gen. Henry Arnold persuaded Barnett to rib Gen. Mallin Craig when the latter, with chief of staff, Barnett's approach was a fantastic and heavily censored demand that a group of Slovak citizens of Long Beach, Cal., whom he represented, be allowed to practice flying military planes. In a couple of minutes there was an awful row with the visitor screaming about red tape and politics. To General Craig's insistence that there was no politics in the army, Barnett demanded, "Then how did you get your job?"

As if that weren't bad enough, he then took 10 $100 bills from his pocket and suggested that maybe he'd dropped them on the floor as he went out he might find an air corps commission awaiting him in Long Beach. General Craig probably was the angriest man who ever wore stars.

AND PUNCH FOR DESSERT

You'd think Barnett would always be dodging punches, and he

People You Know

By Archer Fullingim

It was a high school commencement address by the Rev. Gaston Foote, formerly pastor of the First Methodist church of Pampa, that helped fire Gene Worley's ambition. When Gene, now congressman-elect from the famous eighteenth congressional district of Texas, was graduated from Shamrock high school, the Rev. Foote as commencement speaker urged the class to get out and "do things." Several years later when Gene was successfully campaigning for state representative he visited the Rev. Foote who was pastor here then and asked the minister for his support. He reminded Foote of his ambition to "do things."

Well, he fell asleep Saturday night. Gene is already calling Ann, his friendly brunet wife, "Mrs. Garner." (The vice-president's wife has been Garner's secretary for years, and Ann has been Gene's secretary since they were married. Ann will probably continue to be his secretary in Washington, once the Worleys get the hang of things up there. Gene met Ann at the University of Texas where both were students.

Her home is in Bonham. The Worleys live in a small house at the end of a street in Shamrock. It has a long living room with a green carpet on it and lots of books on the shelves. There is a small bedroom and a small kitchen and dining room combined, and the bathroom. The Worleys have a well-mannered Boston bulldog named Prop—the dog got that name because he was born backstage. "Prop," the Worleys believe, is short for "property."

A relative gave the dog to Gene before his marriage, and Gene says the dog was best man at his wedding. Gene enjoys campaigns but Ann does not. She did not accompany Gene on his trips over the district but she has been with him on several. Gene has a remarkable faculty for remembering names and faces and he got a lot of votes due to the fact that a man would introduce himself to Gene and Gene would get a letter from Gene. We mean from Ann. And by the way, Ann looked like a schoolgirl again yesterday, as she always looks when there isn't a campaign going on, and Gene didn't look day older than 31, his exact age. Gene and Ann spent a big part of the afternoon sitting and talking to three of Gene's loyal boy supporters in Pampa, Johnny Campbell, Art Berry and Billy Mounts, all of whom think that Gene won't be in congress very long before he is elected president.

has ducked a few. Posing as a new Metroproducer during a party at Joan Crawford's house, he insulted Clark Gable until the star launched a swing that might have had Barnett spinning yet—if he had connected.

Only man who ever really hit him, he declares, was old Rold Amundsen at an Aero Club dinner in Pittsburgh in 1924. Engaged to harpoon him, Barnett made some remarks reflecting on his skill and integrity as an explorer. Amundsen rose, gravely apologized to the guests for what was about to happen, and then snatched the ribber colder than an igloo.

Are You Superstitious ABOUT MARRIAGE?

By RUTH FARRAR, NEA Special Correspondent

Samuel Butler is supposed to have said there is no greater anguish known to man than the first stekening discovery he is married to the wrong person.

Perhaps it's putting it mildly to call marriage life's biggest gamble, and perhaps that's why superstitious regarding it are legion. Here are some of Dame Luck's rules taken from the enormous collection of superstitions of Dr. B. A. Cartwright:

1. "All mankind loves a lover." 2. "Love sought is good, but given unthought is better." 3. "It is better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all." 4. "Love makes fools of us all, big and little." 5. "Love is not love which alters when it alteration finds."

I do not believe that Hitler or Germany has any desire to invade or fight the United States. And I believe if Mr. Roosevelt and his appointed cabinet of war lords and a few fighting senators would keep their noses out of the affairs of Europe and the Orient and would make a decent effort to keep this country out of the European war there would be no need for military conscription at this time.

And I further believe if Hitler is successful in sinking John Bull's Grand Royal Fleet that there will not be any more world wars and world blockades. J. N. Duncan.

MONKEY YEARS Democratic Congressman From INDIANA

The Last Milepost Secretary Hull said the other day that power is raging through the world like an uncaged beast. Other states forgot the lesson of our time. Without the consent of a parliamentary body, without consulting public opinion, with newspapers, pulpits and radio gagged by Gestapo, a single man at a midnight conference may scribble millions of their destinies, making war at daybreak, without even declaring it. Treaties are scraps of paper, and solemn promises nothing but cunning propaganda. The arbitrary will of "the leader" is the law of a lawless world.

Many people are worried about Hitler without and careless of possible Hitler within. They say America will never have a dictator. But we have had one, if not several small scale ones. Huey Long was a dictator. A dictator who forbade his reelection. He held Louisiana, its legislature, and its judiciary in the hollow of his hand. His word was law. He bought his way to this supreme power with public money. The fact that his title was governor, not dictator, did not make it smell more sweet. Or did it?

Huey Long might have been dictator for life but for one thing. The Constitution of Louisiana, like the Constitution of many other states forbade his reelection. Possibly his power was so great that he could have amended that prohibition out of the Constitution. Nevertheless he did not attempt it.

Has the time come when the Constitution of the United States should have its written limit upon the tenure of office of a President? That has never been necessary before. Heretofore Presidents have imposed upon themselves obedience to an unwritten law. That is true no longer.

The chief virtue of the Constitution, written or unwritten, aside from prescribing the jurisdiction of various offices, and so preventing conflict and chaos, is that it places limitation upon power.

Human liberty may be legally defined as a restraint upon governmental power. When it is without restraint, there is no liberty, as witness Germany today.

The anti-third term tradition is one of those restraints. Washington, Jefferson and Jackson formulated it, but the three or four hundred million Americans who have lived since 1787 have silently ratified it. It is like the common law. Not written in the Federal Constitution, it is one of those "common law" usages which have prevailed since the memory of man runneth not to the contrary.

It is a part of the time-tried principle of freedom that forbids too long tenure in public office. It forms a tradition. In not less than 24 states it is expressly written in their Constitutions. It is doubtful if there is a state in the union in which there are not some express constitutional or statutory provisions limiting the tenure in office of this official or that.

In Indiana, for example, the Constitution forbids a governor from serving more than one term of four years in any period of eight years. After being out of office four years he may run again for a second term. He may be reelected, and then again, after being out of office for another four years, he may run for a third term.

But this illustrates the principle involved in whatever variety of form it may be stated. The principle is that an incumbent in office shall not use the power of office to perpetuate himself in office. It is a restraint upon power in the interest of human liberty. For this reason, Theodore Roosevelt, running as a Progressive in 1912, did not violate the principle. He was not in office. He had no patronage or power that comes from office. Mr. Taft had that power and packed the convention with it.

It forms the Hatch acts are applications of the same principle. They are designed to prevent public power from being used for private ends.

The power of the President today, either to renominate himself or reelect himself, is infinitely greater than in the time of Washington, Jefferson or Jackson. The need to limit that power is likewise greater today.

It may be that unless the American people amend the Federal Constitution by forbidding more than two consecutive terms in the presidential office, or by emphatically reasserting next November the unwritten law of 150 years, that we shall have passed the last milepost. Let any President break that law, written or unwritten, and what restraint of freedom will you then put upon him, or he upon himself? Look abroad where the dykes have broken.

Important Series To Begin Here Tomorrow

Oilers 2 Full Games Behind Lubbock Nine

Manager Grover Seitz and his Pampa Oilers will be home Tuesday night to open what will probably be the most important series of the 1940 baseball season. Even though the Oilers will be battling the bottom clubs, the series is a crucial one because the Oilers are two full games behind the Lubbock Hubbers and are being pressed hard by the Amarillo Gold Sox.

And bottom clubs usually rise to new heights in closing games of the season. The games on Wednesday and Friday nights will be sponsored by Pampa veterans organizations who will shower both players and fans with gifts from Pampa merchants.

Yesterday afternoon in Clovis the Oilers won a 7 to 3 game from the Pioneers. Gilbert Vannoy won his 21st game of the season for the Oilers to jump back ahead of Lefty Dilbeck in the percentage figures, Dilbeck trailing because of an extra loss with his 21 victories.

Vannoy was hit hard and often but he lightened in the pinches and his support came up with some sparkling plays at the right times. The Oiler defense pulled three double plays, one of them the most unusual of the season when Catcher Lloyd Summers grabbed a bunt in front of the plate, threw to Clutter at second to get his man, and Clutter's relay to Prather at first got the batter, Malvia, Clutter and Prather pulled a double killing and Clutter and Malvia combined to stage the third twin slaughter of the game.

While Vannoy was giving up 14 hits, including a double and three singles to Pitcher Rogers, the Oilers bagged 12 hits off Rogers, including doubles by Potter, Seitz, Clutter and Knobles.

The Oilers play in Clovis tonight and then come home for the rest of the season. They play double-headers tomorrow and Wednesday nights with Odessa, games starting at 8 o'clock sharp.

Army May Provide Man To Whip Louis

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 26 (AP)—If the anticipated enlarged United States army does nothing else during the next few years, it may provide the country with the man it has been looking for—a heavyweight fighter who can lift Joe Louis' crown—Jack Dempsey, the old Manassa mauler, believes.

Dempsey, here for a ten-day visit with his mother, recalled that Gene Tunney, who lifted the crown from his head 14 years ago, came up from the marines.

"Fighting," said Dempsey, "is one of the army's favorite sports and the training camps should turn out some good fighters."

Dempsey added that, after three "brawls," he definitely had severed all relations with "rasslers."

Both Yankees And Cardinals Finally Lose

By BILL WHITE Aging Ted Lyons and Sailor Bill Posedel deserve a vote of thanks. They proved that the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals, professors of two winning streaks, aren't invincible, after all.

It took courage for the two old men to find out. The Yankees had just won six straight from the Detroit Tigers and the Cleveland Indians. The Cards' nine wins were making their admirers recall the stretch spurt that nearly caught the Cincinnati Reds last year.

Lyons' 18 years of service in the majors stood him in good stead in the first game of the White Sox-Yankees doubleheader at the stadium yesterday. He handcuffed the Yankees with three hits to blank them 1-0 in the opener. Posedel twirled a five-hitter to give the Boston Bees a 4-1 victory over the Cardinals.

It is interesting to note that both the beaten teams have recuperative powers. The Yankees came back, with Ernie Bonham pitching a five-hitter, to blast the Sox 3-1 in the short night game, during which Jimmy Foxx hit a homer with the bases loaded to knock in four of the 11 runs the Sox scored in the sixth inning.

The Yankee split, plus Washington's 5-4 victory over the Cleveland Indians left the world champions in third place, 5 1/2 games back of the tribe. That Washington victory was rookie Sid Hudson's 13th of the season and sent the tribe down to its fourth straight defeat.

The Detroit Tigers also cut the Indians' edge over second place to 2 1/2 games by thumping the Athletics 7-3 as Bucky Newsum tossed a nine-hitter to chalk up his 16th victory of the season.

In the American league's other offering, the Boston Red Sox dropped into the second division by losing the first game to Johnny Niggeling and the St. Louis Browns, 7-2, but then crept back into fourth place with a 17-3 win in the short night game, during which Jimmy Foxx hit a homer with the bases loaded to knock in four of the 11 runs the Sox scored in the sixth inning.

The top club in the National league fared better than the top one in the American. The Cincinnati Reds won a pair from the Phillies, 3-2 and 6-5, to stretch their advantage over the Brooklyn Dodgers to 7 1/2 games.

The Dodgers split with the hard-punching Pittsburgh Pirates, losing the first 4-3 on Dick Lananah's eight-hitter, but winning the second 6-3 as "old faithful" Fred Fitzsimmons pitched a five-hitter for his 13th win of the season, the 205th of his career.

The New York Giants and Chicago Cubs split a double bill. Don Dilleard's windy city outfit the first 5-4, while the Giant hitters took more credit than the Giant pitchers for the 12-8 nightcap victory, in which both teams got a total of 31 hits.

Plane Contracts Still Tied Up

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP)—The defense commission reported to President Roosevelt today that contracts for 6,747 army and navy planes were outstanding as of August 17, although funds for much of the aircraft procurement program were still tied up in the $5,008,000,000 defense bill.

The figures were contained in a report based on treasury department figures brought to the White House by Robert Horton, publicity director of the commission.

The report said that, as of August 17, contracts were "in the works" for 3,916 army planes, including 2,029 combat and observation planes and 1,887 other types, primarily training.

For the navy on that date, Horton said, contracts had been let for 2,831, including 1,221 combat and observation, and 1,610 other types, mostly training.

Horton explained these figures covered contracts outstanding for planes yet to be delivered. Dates of delivery for the planes were not disclosed.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP)—The defense commission reported to President Roosevelt today that contracts for 6,747 army and navy planes were outstanding as of August 17, although funds for much of the aircraft procurement program were still tied up in the $5,008,000,000 defense bill.

Horton explained these figures covered contracts outstanding for planes yet to be delivered. Dates of delivery for the planes were not disclosed.

He said it was impossible to contract for planes to fill out the present program until congress passed the $5,008,000,000 measure.

The report was made public at a time when congressional critics contended the defense program was bogging down. Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) made such a statement last night and asked for an investigation. Senator Byrd (D-Va.) said only 343 combat planes had been ordered in the last 100 days.

Horton said the army and navy anticipated delivery of about 2,200 planes in the latter half of '41 and about 2,500 in the first half of 1941.

SERIAL STORY

LOVE ON THE LINE

BY PAUL FRIGGENS

Copyright, 1940, NEA Service, Inc.

CHAPTER I

MARK saw her first as she stepped from Newt Gale's black buggy and walked into Sioux Springs House, a jaunty, ruffled creature, billowy with flounces, pleats, and tucks. Instantly, he was interested. Never in a raw, frontier town had he seen anyone like her. Nor had Newt, who confided to Mark afterward he was almost afraid to sit down by "all them ruffles," driving her over from the stage line.

Mark saw her next that afternoon at the land office. She was a single splash of white, breath-taking, in a sea of somber denims, ducks, and homespuns. She was seated at a long, paper-littered table talking with bluff Colonel Barrington, land office clerk, when Mark entered. The business of homesteading seemed to have stopped completely at her appearance.

Illustrated by Harry Crisinger

Mark saw her first as she stepped from Newt Gale's buggy and walked into the Sioux Springs House. . . This girl in white, young and pretty, had no business coming to a wild, frontier settlement.

"Of course, o'course, there's land, whole sections of it," the colonel was remonstrating, wiping his broad forehead in the heat of that August afternoon. "But you're alone, Miss—Miss Lane. This ain't no country for a woman—alone." He paused awkwardly, having blurted out the whole naked truth in one sentence.

The girl eyed him steadily. Suddenly Mark thought, she seemed somewhat frazier, out of time and place in the hot, crowded room.

But if she was, if the colonel's blunt warning had shaken her, she covered it up quickly. "Colonel," she said, and leaned forward with a smile Mark would never forget. "I'm sorry, but this IS the country—for a woman alone." She paused ever so slightly, giving her words deliberate effect. Then she went on:

"As my uncle wrote you, Mother died two years ago. And last year my father, who wasn't too good even before that. Our doctor advised"—she paused with the faintest tinge of a blush—"well, he said I should come west, get a homestead. The change of climate would do wonders for me. Uncle said you would know best about a location, a homestead close to town. I wouldn't need to stay long, only a few months, perhaps, till the estate was settled. And then . . ."

Silence had fallen over the room like Sunday. Standing in tight little knots, the homesteaders were hanging on every word from this strange, petal-like girl. She looked about, startled, went hurriedly on, as if sensitively aware of the curious eyes trained on her.

The colonel, appreciating her glance, brought matters to a head, pushed a big, open map across the table toward her, indicated a homestead tract with his stubby finger. She leaned over the map, intent for a moment, then went on talking. She asked about roads, and water and neighbors, the colonel answering her earnestly. There were no roads, you had to dig for water, few neighbors yet. At length, the clerk handed her a legal-looking paper, she signed it and rose to pay her fee.

"Is that all, Colonel?" she asked, tucking the paper in her long black purse, adjusting her hat with a deft touch that secretly thrilled Mark. "Thank you—much," she said, and turned to go, while the homesteaders shuffled awkwardly to one side to let her pass.

The land office buzzed again and Mark Duell was back in the booming present. But not all of him. Something had gone out that door with the girl in white.

HE knew that the moment he saw Carrie Lane again that evening. He was walking back from supper at Ma Parmley's, his boots rattling the boards on the makeshift walk, his flat-crowned felt hat pushed back from his lean, bronzed face.

He was talking to Newt Gale about the drive from the stage line with her that day; about the land boom following Lincoln's signing the homestead bill, and about the long, hot spell. Newt was saying how 500 settlers would move into Rock Creek before fall at the rate they were coming. The Missouri was bringing them in by the boatloads, there was talk of a railroad.

"Bring in some more like that Lane miss and I'm settlin' here permanently," Newt added, wiping the perspiration from his bald head, hitching his belt. He eyed Mark with a nod. "Tell me the boom is just getting started. Hear one fellow is out here selling fake town lots already, advertising with newspapers on every train out of Chicago what a great country this is out here. Guess he's even selling 'em a state capital we ain't got yet." He laughed, ending, "Be a state before no time, Mark."

"That's so," Mark started to answer with sudden interest, and cut himself short. Down the street, stirring with horses and slouchy figures, a buggy was drawing up before the hotel. A man in broad-brimmed black hat, cutaway coat, had leaped down to assist a woman from the seat.

Mark's heart quickened. It was the girl in white. He strode along the uneven walk, passing the buggy just as she entered the one-story frame hotel. The man was climbing back into the seat. Mark was able to see his face clearly; it was heavy, unpleasant. Afterward, Mark remembered the small, bird-like eyes. He studied the man hard—for an instant, then swung on down the street.

dodged the introductions. But Ma, big, florid, homey, carried them out. "Set right down before it's all gone," she motioned to Mark. "And Mark, this is Carrie Lane. Miss Lane, this is Mark Duell. He's a homesteader or claim jumper or somethin'. Don't know much about him. Only been here a few days." She winked at Carrie broadly. Newt gulped and grimed.

There was no splash of white this morning, Mark noted. The girl was dressed in a trim gray suit, with roped shoulders and dainty blouse, and, like the white outfit he had first seen her in, too dainty for frontier Sioux Springs. Mark noticed, too, the golden hair, piled high in a mass of curls.

Mark studied her. She was pretty, infinitely so, with a determined little chin. Determined enough, he wondered, for this sort of life?

He stirred his coffee, sugared it twice before conversation came easily. "Understand, you've filed a homestead claim?" he asked.

"Yes, over on Rock Creek."

"That's good land." He paused over his coffee. "Anyone helping you get started out there?" And for the first time he was sure she was a little frightened. She looked up, suddenly sober.

"No," she said, "but I'm sure I'll get along all right with everyone so fine to me here already. It's only a little ways out of town, you know, eight or nine miles. Besides, the town is going to grow out that way and many more settlers are going to come in. Why, just yesterday Mr. Oaks was saying that everybody ought to buy up as many lots as they can in these new towns. That is, before the railroad comes in, the county seats are decided."

She was gay again, chatty, confident, as Mark had first seen her. Only Mark did not see her gayly now. He saw instead the beady-eyed man at the buggy, he saw Carrie flushed and pale, and saying, "Oh, I'll get along all right," to cover up her fears, and in that moment Mark Duell knew something bigger than he was had bound him to the girl at his side. (To Be Continued)

Williams' $1,000 "investment in human nature" has brought a $2,200 return to Oklahoma City university. President A. G. Williamson said today.

Williams mailed $1,000 in $1 bills to a thousand persons, suggesting that they match it to help in a drive for university funds.

"We've heard from all but 10 per cent of the letters," Williamson said. "Some of the persons sent more than a dollar and one New York City man who read about the thing sent us $10."

Col. Easterwood Dies In California

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Aug. 26 (AP)—The body of Col. William Easterwood, 56, Texas capitalist and aviation enthusiast, will be sent to Dallas tonight for funeral services Thursday.

Col. Easterwood, who divided his time between Santa Monica and Texas since his retirement in 1933 because of ill health, died late Saturday night.

He was a leader in the development of peace-time aviation after the World War. Thrice he posted $25,000 for trans-continental flights, one from Dallas to Hongkong, another from Rome to Dallas and a third from Paris to New York to Dallas.

One prize was collected by Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte for a one-stop flight from Paris to Dallas.

Son of a Will's Point merchant who came to Dallas and became wealthy, Col. Easterwood made fortune on his own in the chewing gum business after the World War in which he rose from private to captain of the Marine corps.

Airports at Marlin, Mexia and Mineral Wells were named for Easterwood, whose title came from being on the staff of governors of Texas and New Mexico.

Surviving are his widow, the former Miss May Coker of Tyler, his sister, Miss Eva of Dallas, and a brother, B. H. Easterwood of Los Angeles.

Dies Blasts Against Nazi Propaganda

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP)—Rep. Dies, declaring that many German-Americans were being compelled to help disseminate Nazi propaganda in this country, announced today he would seek enactment of a law forbidding the operation of any foreign-controlled organization in the United States.

Dies, chairman of a house committee investigating subversive activities, said he and his associates had obtained "definite evidence" that propaganda was being flooded with Nazi propaganda sent free through the United States mails.

"The evidence shows," he said, "that there is a definite program in this country, first, to prevent any adequate national defense, second, to prevent this country from assisting England, and, third, the presence of foreign agents in key industries in America places them in a strategic position for espionage and sabotage."

Dies, who begins a series of private hearings in New York this afternoon, said he was convinced the axis powers had set up a central agency in Europe for distribution of propaganda in this country.

"Under existing postal regulations," he said, "the dissemination of this propaganda does not cost Germany anything."

The United States has been divided into sections, he said, and literature is being mailed to persons on a master mailing list.

Not all of the recipients are sympathetic toward the Nazi-Fascist cause, he said, but their names have been obtained from relatives in Europe, sometimes forcibly, and they fear for the safety of these relatives if they do not cooperate.

"I think these people are entitled to have the American government make a protest to Italy and Germany against this form of blackmail," Dies said.

Before introducing a bill to outlaw foreign-controlled organizations, he said he would write "an important letter" to President Roosevelt setting forth specific facts and asking his support of the measure. He also will seek support of both major parties.

During the committee's recent hearings on the Pacific coast, Dies said, it was ascertained "10 per cent of the Italian population of San Francisco were openly Fascist."

"It was a significant thing," he added, "that of the 10 per cent the majority were employed in key industries."

LONDON

of the Luftwaffe's reply to Britain's first big air attack on Berlin.

London's millions were scurrying to shelter at 3:25 p. m. (8:25 a. m. CST) when German planes, armed but they emerged again when the all-clear signal was given 37 minutes later without any sign of the raiders or any activity by the city's anti-aircraft guns.

Crossing the southeast coast in swarms, the Germans attempted to reach London after day-long attacks on Dover and Folkestone.

The day's biggest battle raged over Dover, the English Channel coast, 22 miles from the French coast. Four of the attackers were downed here.

Folkestone, a town of 35,000 population, bore the brunt of a heavy attack in which two of the German craft were shot down after creating scenes of horror among the population. Folkestone is southwest of Dover and 26 miles from Boulogne, France.

South Foreland, sparsely settled sandy waste northeast of Dover, near the royal military school, was the scene of the day's third major attack.

The dull roar of bombs was heard throughout the raging battle all along the coast east of Dover to Folkestone.

The German attackers and British challengers battled desperately at least two hours, the planes plunging so low over Folkestone that RAF men guarding barrage balloons opened fire on the raiding craft with rifles.

Before the British fighters downed the first three German planes in the Folkestone area, large apartment houses close to the seaford were bombed to the ground.

A number of fires sent huge flames licking skyward. Rescue workers searched frantically in the ruins for victims.

Only a few bombs were dropped east of Dover. The action over Dover itself was confined mostly to dog-fights high in the sky while anti-aircraft guns pumped shells incessantly at the raiders.

The crews of three German planes shot down off Folkestone were rescued by British motor lifeboats.

At Folkestone the Germans swooped out of the sun and the townspeople saw the bombs leaving their racks as the raiders dived within a few hundred feet of the rooftops.

Three other dive-bombers were reported shot down in fighting over the mainland.

As three escorting Messerschmitts turned for home they dashed by Dover for their daily sport of "balloon-potting" and shot down two of the big cable-bearing bags.

Casualties reported so far from German raids last night in the midlands included:

A man, his wife and four children, all killed when a bomber scored a direct hit on their home.

Several persons killed when a bomb landed directly on a shelter, blowing it so high it fell on the chimney of a neighboring house, in which an entire family was wiped out.

In a southwest town three children were killed this morning by a delayed action bomb while playing around a hole it made when dropped during the night.

At least 10 of the raiders were shot down by the German formations roaring across the southeast coast, where scenes of horror accompanied a savage, 20-minute attack on the surprised populace of one coastal town.

A number of casualties, including many dead, were inflicted by the Nazis who dived from a formation of 20 bombers to blast at the town in the midst of the morning shopping hour.

In a matter of minutes, the Germans loosed an attack on another coast town, to the west of this one, and in an hour and one-half battle four of the attackers—three Messerschmitt fighters and one bomber—were downed by British fighters.

Two attackers were shot down in the other raid within three minutes after the British swept aloft to the challenge. One fell in flames just outside the town, the second plummeted into the channel.

Fighting raged all over the heavens in the second attack, with planes dogfighting, sometimes as high as 30,000 feet. Others dived so low they barely missed the housetops.

One bomb hit squarely on a laundry filled with girls at work. One body was removed from the wreckage. Volunteers searched for additional victims.

The attack caught the town unawares, the people at first thinking the attackers were their own planes.

"They headed for us, accompanied by fighters which seemed to drop out of the sky," one eyewitness related.

by Mr. Worley contained the three variations of it, "Mr. Worley Goes To Washington," name of a campaign club organized here in his behalf.

The congressman-elect said that he would visit Pampa early in September. He is planning to attend a hamburger and chili banquet which will be sponsored by the Mr. Worley Goes To Washington club here. He said that he intends to visit every town and village in the entire district in September and October.

Mr. Worley was elected over Mr. Wells in a landslide that saw the tall, Shamrock legislator win at least 23 of the 28 counties in the district. The victory was considered sensational in view of the fact that in the first primary Mr. Wells, with more than 15,000 votes, led Mr. Worley by 6,000 votes. In the second primary Worley picked up 24,000 votes against only 7,000 for Wells. The latest count showed Worley with 30,424 votes and Wells with 22,894 votes.

Mr. Jones was appointed last April to the U. S. court of claims in Washington by President Roosevelt. The veteran chairman of the agriculture committee and a Roosevelt lieutenant has not announced whether he will resign before his present term ends in January to take the court seat. Much speculation has centered around the question of whether Mr. Jones would resign before his present term ends if he does it is presumed that Mr. Worley would be appointed to fill out the unexpired term. Mr. Jones has been mentioned for the post of secretary of agriculture if Roosevelt is re-elected in November. Other Washington dispatches have stated that Mr. Roosevelt desires Mr. Jones to hold his congressional seat until his term expires.

It is expected that Mr. Jones will recommend that Mr. Worley be made a member of the important agriculture committee, one of the most important in the house. Mr. Worley plans to make agriculture and related industries his major study.

New York Has Coldest August 26 In 70 Years

(By The Associated Press)

Residents of New York City awoke to the coldest August 26 in seventy years today as unseasonably low temperatures continued in areas adjacent to the Great Lakes and eastward to the New England coast.

In the nation's largest city the mercury dipped to 52.7 degrees at 7:10 a. m. one degree higher than yesterday, when the lowest reading for the date in the weather bureau's history was recorded.

In upstate New York Syracuse had a low of 47 early today. Even as far south as Washington the mercury fell to 57.

No appreciable change to warmer weather was in sight.

The weather was generally fair in the southeast and as far west as central Texas today. Beginning there and arching through New Mexico and Arizona northward to the Dakotas and eastward over the Ohio valley some precipitation was reported.

The British admitted "some casualties, a few fatal," in a German air raid on a midlands town last night, and the British censor tardily disclosed that the historic old St. Giles church in "The City," London's Wall Street district, was hit Saturday night by Nazi bombs, along with the statue of Milton outside the church, reportedly known to thousands of American tourists.

Hitler's high command reported that Birmingham, teeming industrial center in the English midlands, was bombed again during the night by Nazi planes making "concentric circles" and apparently slicing in from all directions.

Commenting on the midlands raid, the British ministry of home security declared:

"Municipal, industrial and residential property damage was caused. All the fires were either extinguished or under control by the morning, and good work was done by the ARP and AFS services (Air Raid Precautions and Auxiliary Fire-Fighting Services)."

The British air ministry said the RAF raids over Germany struck at armament factories in the Berlin area and other targets in northwest Germany and the Ruhr.

Claims on the toll inflicted on enemy fleets during the week end continued.

Britain said losses on Saturday were 50 German planes and 19 British while on Sunday the figures were 55 German and 13 British.

Germany said losses on Saturday were 64 British planes and 20 German and on Sunday 73 British and 12 German.

The British press counseled against a public clamor for reprisal raids on Berlin. In the war, the papers insisted, it is to keep pounding solely at enemy military objectives no matter how strong the desire to "get even" for the increasing list of British civilian casualties.

On Saturday night's and Sunday morning's blows at London, in which great fires were set, the Germans rested briefly during the day, then resumed their assaults Sunday evening.

The Saturday night raid, one big bomb burst within 300 yards of U. S. Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy's residence on the city's outskirts and incendiary bombs showered all around, but the ambassador reported there were no casualties.

The German command reported widespread damage to Britain's Rolls-Royce engine factory, to at least three airplane factories and to troop concentrations at Dover in Saturday night's raids.

The British, in turn, said they scored heavily on German territory with Saturday night raids on factories in Stuttgart, Ludwigshafen and elsewhere and on airbases in France, Belgium and Holland.

The German command listed a British destroyer and a 7,000-ton merchant ship as sunk by a submarine.

While the western war of words and bombs raged, the Balkans continued troubled. Hungary called up more troops, even though a resumption of her conference with Rumania over Transylvania was considered possible.

Greece, alarmed at Italy's angry words, was reported quietly calling up reserves to man the borders.

In the western hemisphere, the joint board of defense for Canada and the United States arranged to hold its first meeting this afternoon in Ottawa.

Wales and roaring over southeast England.

Mindful of their own fate if conquered by Germany, Britons read with interest a Berlin dispatch quoting Arthur Greiser, Danzig Nazi leader, as declaring in a nation-wide broadcast that Poles should be considered as servant people.

"The Pole in the servant of the German and will remain so forever," Greiser said.

Woman Will Get $9,535 If She Does Not Talk

OMAHA, Aug. 26 (AP)—If Mrs. Ruth Norsikian doesn't talk above a whisper for the next nine and a half years, she can collect compensation estimated at $9,535, Judge Lawrence Welch of compensation court ruled today.

He found her suffering from "hysterical aphonia" and ruled she is totally and permanently disabled.

Mrs. Norsikian already has collected $3,800 in a suit arising from an automobile accident in which she was injured. Judge Welch said this amount must be credited on payments by her employer, and until that is used up, the employer need make no payments.

"In the meantime," Judge Welch decided, "if she talks out loud her employer will have to pay her nothing."

"I feel that if she keeps quiet for a period of nine years this will be a true practical test as to whether or not she had lost her speech from the accident."
