BERLIN, Aug. 27 (AP)—British troop concentrations in southern England, airports and the British naval base of Portsmouth were bombed by German air raiders, the high command reported today.

The communique, covering yesterday's air operations, said Nazi fliers also returned at night and attacked the Plymouth naval base, Cornwall airport, Coventry, airplane works at Birmingham and port facilities at Hull and Newcastle.

During the 40-minute alarm one raider flew over the capital at a high altitude and seven others were turned back by anti-aircraft batteries at Brandenburg, 40 miles west, authorities said.

There was no indication bombs were dropped in the vicinity of Berlin today, but DNB, official German news agency, accused the British of bombing non-military objectives on the city's outskirts yesterday and threatened reprisals.

"London knows very well," the news agency said, "that the German air force has confined itself to military objectives in the vicinity of the English capital. English fliers on the contrary dropped incendiary bombs in the vicinity of Berlin."

Other portions of the pamphlet were said to have predicted that the United States soon would enter the war on England's side, that the United States was lending warships to Britain, and the numbers fighting for Britain were far more numerous than those available to Hitler.

Londoners Dance And Sing Until Almost Dawn

LONDON, Aug. 27 (AP)—Robbed of their sleep by Adolf Hitler's nocturnal bombers, thousands of Londoners danced and sang until almost dawn today, ignoring intermittent sounds of gunfire and the drone of airplane motors overhead.

The air raid alarm came as homebodies were retiring and as West End theaters were thronged with amusement seekers. When the German bombers kept sweeping over in relays and the all-clear signal failed to sound, many decided to make a night of it.

At the Hippodrome, Prime Minister Winston Churchill's son-in-law, the comedian Vic Oliver, organized an informal "songfest."

At Prince's theater Arthur Riscoe called for "partners for the girls" and generally, Royal Air Force officers and naval men stormed the stage. Riscoe said it "was more like a New Year's party than an air raid."

Family groups had singing parties or played cards in air raid shelters. Many persons caught away from home when the sirens shrilled their warnings went without supper because the large restaurants closed their doors during the raid.

The War Today

That was rather a surprising statement by the semi-official Dienst Aus Deutschland of Berlin which at Aus Deutschland of Berlin which thus far in the battle of Britain as "preliminaries."

The preliminaries at least are finished, says Dienst. Nazism has achieved air supremacy over England, and "now begins the planned destruction of industrial plants essential to war."

Nobody but the sponsors of this statement know whether it is a "business double" or just another piece of propaganda in the war of nerves. I take the liberty of believing that Dienst could have given us a more illuminating view of the position had it been permitted to do so.

Not for one moment do I doubt that the Nazi airmen are capable of unleashing many times the hell which already has been rained on the Britons in the "preliminaries" since the direct attack started on June 18, more than two months ago.

There is no doubt, either, that Herr Hitler intends to employ this vast aerial power and—if it proves feasible—to accompany it by invasion.

Hundreds Reported Dead In Gory Clash

Londoners Kept Awake Whole Night

LONDON, Aug. 27 (AP)—Heavy bomber blows which left Italian industrial plants shattered and smoking from the effects of tons of explosives were reported by Britain today, harassed herself by night-long German raids and fighting off new daylight air attacks.

The Fiat airplane, tank and motor works at Turin and the Magneto Marelli factory which makes electric equipment there, and Sesto San Giovanni, near Milan, were raided by RAF pilots who made the long double flight over France and the Alps with six tons of bombs, the air ministry announced.

For 40 minutes bombs rained on the Turin objectives, the air ministry said, setting strings of fires and bright blue and white explosions. Great clouds of white smoke were sent drifting upward to 6,000 feet at Sesto San Giovanni, a communique added.

Air raids also were reported against Germany, where Berlin had a 40-minute night alarm.

These forays were reported as new flights of German bombers ranged Britain's coast in daylight attacks after a night of alarms which opened a new phase of an "around-the-clock" air war on Britain.

"Chain raiders" kept the London area awake for more than 6 hours last night and 500 miles of the English coast, from northeast to southwest, in an almost continual state of alarm. New waves moved over the southeast and southwest coasts after dawn.

They were met by British fighter pilots and reports today indicated at least four German planes were shot down.

Despite the great "nuisance" of the night raiders, comparatively few casualties and only scattered property were reported.

But for the first time the Germans used the mass raid at night, sending 40 bombers against one northeast town, where they destroyed two shops and killed at least two persons.

The government said some bombs were dropped "on one district in the outskirts of central London" and others in the suburbs. Several inmates of a poor house in a southeastern town were killed in what town's worst raid of the war, and a number of casualties also were reported in the Midlands, where there were three heavy night raids.

Meanwhile, Britain's own bombers were busy carrying the war to their enemies.

The air ministry announced that "RAF bombers delivered a successful attack upon a number of important military objectives in Germany and Italy last night."

The Germans in a new technique accounting for the record length of the London raid employed a force estimated at 50 planes which flew high over the capital at regular intervals singing.

German Objectives Damaged, British Fliers Report

BUDAPEST, Aug. 27 (AP)—Diplomatic dispatches from Bucharest today reported a bloody border clash between Rumanian and Russian troops, resulting in hundreds dead on both sides and the loss of at least two fighting planes.

The fighting, which the dispatches said occurred just north of Dorohoi, in northern Moldavia, was reported to have started late Sunday and lasted several hours. It was resumed yesterday.

A foreign military attaché at Bucharest who wrote the dispatches estimated that more than 300 Rumanian soldiers were slain.

Just two months ago Rumania bowed to a Russian ultimatum, agreeing to cede to the Soviet union Bessarabia and northern Bucovina.

As the Russians marched in early in July to take over their gains there were clashes between the retiring Rumanians and Soviet troops.

Dorohoi is closed to the new border formed by the Bessarabia and Bucovina cessions.

The fighting was said to have occurred when Soviet troops crossed the border into Rumania. They were understood to have penetrated deeply before being forced back.

The clash was said to have involved Rumanian troops being sent to Transylvania.

Four Russian warplanes which flew over Rumanian territory were attacked by six Rumanian pursuit ships, two of which were shot down, these sources said.

County Offices Being Remodeled

Remodeling of the offices of the county auditor, county treasurer and abstractors on the second floor of the courthouse is nearing completion.

The wall dividing the one office formerly occupied by the auditor and treasurer and the abstractor office has been torn out and the auditor and treasurer will occupy the west half of the office they formerly occupied and all of the abstractors office.

A partition will be erected so that the abstractors room will be closer to the county clerk's office. It will also be smaller than before.

Once the new setup the treasurer will have room for large filing cabinets formerly located in the county clerk's office. Both auditor and treasurer will have more room under the new arrangement.

Steel Being Raised On New High School

Raising of structural steel on the new high school building started today. Laying of the first brick for the building is scheduled to start within the next few days, according to O. L. Boyington, construction supervisor.

New Council Takes Railroads Over

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 27 (AP)—A new administrative council, the third in recent weeks, today assumed control of Mexico's deficit-harassed National Railways in an effort to carry out President Cardenas' demands for drastic economies.

The two preceding councils were compelled to resign by employes of the workers-operated lines for supporting presidential proposals that wages be reduced, personnel dismissed and discipline increased.

Canadian Churches Have Varied Services

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
CANADIAN, Aug. 27.—Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Mitchell and Miss Washington, negro musicians of Pampa, sang before a large crowd at the Nazarene church here at both morning and evening services Sunday.

Gospel songs were sung by the trio, the two ladies accompanying on the piano. There were special services planned for the day as the pastor was on vacation.

Ernest Dodd graduated the pulpit of the First Baptist church in the morning in absence of the Rev. W. A. Pite who is vacationing in Eagle Nest, New Mexico.

Young Dodd was graduated this year from the Canadian high school, attending Oklahoma A. & M. at Goodwell, Oklahoma, this summer and will continue his education this winter.

The young people had charge of the services at the evening hour at the First Christian church, with Maurice Bernson doing crayon drawing illustrations.

Dr. Frank Turner, president of McMurry college, Abilene, was guest preacher at the First Methodist church.

Following his message in sermon, he discussed matters pertaining to college life. He said many of the students worked their way entirely or in part. This condition has existed in practically all colleges the past few years.

Barkley Predicts Passage Of Conscription Act Today

By JACK BELL
 WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. (AP)—The senate drove down the home stretch today toward a decision on conscription, concentrating immediate attention on three substitute proposals which must be acted upon before a final vote can be taken on the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory military training bill.

Scheduling the second night session of the week, Senator Barkley (D-Rx.) predicted passage of the measure in a form calling for immediate conscription of manpower before the day's end.

The majority leader told reporters he was confident the senate would reject by "comfortable" margins all three proposals to postpone conscription and send the Burke-Wadsworth measure to the house in about the form it stood when debate began today.

Working until 9 p. m. (CST) last night, the chamber wrote into the measure a dozen amendments.

Chief of these was an amendment by Senator Lodge (R-Mass.) to limit the service of peacetime conscripts to the western hemisphere. The chamber voted down, 39 to 32, a proposal to narrow the service area to the continental United States and American possessions.

Previously, the senate adopted a compromise proposal by Lodge which fixed 800,000 as the maximum number of conscripts to be in training at any one peacetime period.

It adopted an amendment by Senator Gurney (R-S. D.) striking out a provision authorizing the national labor relations board to institute court proceedings to force the re-employment of a conscript who had completed the year's training specified in the bill.

It provided for civil court trials of draft "dodgers" instead of hearings before military tribunals and voted to prohibit any person connected with the military establishment from becoming a member of a local draft board.

The chamber wrote into the measure an amendment by Barkley to authorized the appropriation of funds to carry out the terms of the bill, thus clearing the way for quick congressional action to provide the money needed.

Barkley pronounced the bill "nearly ready" for the final vote, except for action on the three substitutes.

These all proposed delays. In one form or another, of the actual induction into military service of the young men from 21 through 30 years old who would be required to register under terms of the Burke-Wadsworth measure.

DO YOU FAVOR PASSAGE OF MILITARY CONSCRIPTION BILL? SEND YOUR VOTE

In order to get the opinion of people in Pampa, Gray county and the northeast Panhandle to add to the collective opinion of the remainder of the nation, The Pampa News today asks its readers to answer a question about compulsory military training and the drafting of men for immediate service in the United States Army.

The News merely wishes to know if you favor the passage by congress of a selective service bill at this time?

Entering into the answer of this question will be the elements of whether or not you believe that the U. S. must whip together an army at once in order to have an adequate national defense.

In the current news, President Roosevelt says that such action is needed immediately. On the other hand there is opposition to the plan. During the past week many groups, including those representing the nation's mothers, marched on Washington in opposition to compulsory military training and conscription. The proposed Burke-Wadsworth conscription bill now is being debated in the Senate.

So, here's the question:

New Period In Railroad Commission History Aim Of Olin Culberson

This statement by Olin Culberson, successful candidate for railroad commissioner, was received today by The News:

"I am grateful and pardonably proud and exceedingly humble for the victory the people of Texas themselves have won and have passed on to me as their standard bearer for good government. It is a standard I shall never lower and to the fulfillment of which I dedicate my life and best efforts."

"Now that the election is over I want to reiterate the dedication I have made as to the policies, the platform and the pledges on which my loyal friends carried my candidacy to success. The issues I openly discussed; the reforms I sincerely advocated; the pledge for constructive co-operation with all agencies of government I made—all of these are etched upon my mind and conscience. They will not be forgotten nor neglected when I take office."

"It is my fondest hope that this election will mark a new period in railroad commission history and of a new era in efficient, honest and open administration of this vital regulatory agency. I sincerely hope it will be one in which the fundamental principals of non-political, public spirited and conscientious effort will cooperate to inspire the highest public confidence in the commission and the purposes for which it was created. I pledge myself again to protect and defend the rights of the people, the consumer and legitimate business against any unwise, unfair, and unsound practices."

"To carry out such a program I will want and need the active support and understanding of all the people, of all business and of all other officials who have elected. I want and ask the full advice and co-operation of the Texas press, the radio and all other agencies for the free dissemination of public information. I want those who voted for my opponent to know that I shall serve as their commissioner the same as I shall always strive to merit the confidence and support of those who voted for me."

"I shall not wait until I am sworn in as commissioner to equip myself for the responsibilities of the office, and to take advantage for Texas of the industrial possibilities which will come our way. I shall begin now paying my only political debt by doing my very best for Texas and the people of my native state at whose hands I have received this high trust."

Biography of Culberson
 Culberson was born at Turnersville, Coryell county, October 26, 1886, the son of Professor and Mrs. W. A. Culberson. His parents were school teachers and established the Culberson Select school at Hillsboro where they taught for most of their 50 years as teachers in Texas. The Culberson family came to Texas during the days before the republic. Culberson was educated by his parents at their own school. Among those with whom he was associated are the most prominent Texas educators, business and professional men and women who received their education at the Culberson school.

At the suggestion of his distinguished relative, Charles A. Culberson, who served Texas as U. S. senator and governor, Olin Culberson became a railroad worker at Hillsboro in the Katy yards. Because transportation was the great issue of that day, and because it was thought he should have a first-hand working knowledge of labor problems, he remained in railroad work until the yards were moved from Hillsboro in 1911. During that time he helped install local 616 of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen; worked for the 16-hour law, and served the local as treasurer and yard representative.

Culberson enlisted for the World War. He was sent to officers' training camp at Leon Springs and ultimately attained the rank of major, which rank he holds in the Cavalry Reserves.

Uncovered Fraud
 Returning to Hill county after the armistice, Culberson was elected county clerk for two terms and during that time uncovered a $263,000 road bond fraud which resulted in the conviction of several contractors and officials.

His record as county clerk was good enough to make his election for two terms as county judge almost unanimous. As county judge, he installed the budget system which took Hill county out of the red. He used the $263,000 recovered from the American Surety company for the purpose of improving roads and bridges.

Refusing to seek a third term as county judge, Olin Culberson moved to Edna, Jackson county, where he went into the general mercantile business and established his residence there.

He was asked to conduct the investigation into gas rates charged by the Lone Star Gas company which served almost 300 north Texas towns.

He accepted and became chief examiner and then chief of the gas utilities division of the railroad commission, a post he held until October, 1939. During that period he conducted 16 major rate investigations at a savings to gas consumers of more than $500,000 a year with $200,000 in cash refunds to gas users. In addition, savings of more than $1,000,000 are still involved in court litigation.

Culberson founded the first Boy Scout troop at Hillsboro; the first Lion's club there and the first Rotary club at Edna. He has been an active member of the Legion in the ninth district and helped establish the first Legion post in Hill county. He has been especially interested in rehabilitation of ex-service men over 40 and without means of livelihood.

Olin Culberson is an ardent fisherman and hunter. Mrs. Culberson has served as his campaign manager, conducting the organization from her home at Austin.

Increased Buying Lifts Prices Of Cattle And Hogs
 CHICAGO, Aug. 27. (AP)—The American housewife's increased buying of beef and pork has helped to lift the farm price of cattle and of hogs to the highest in almost a year.

Livestock men said that business stimulation and employment resulting from the national defense program apparently were improving the meat consumer's buying power. They cited army maneuvers in various sections of the country as a factor in improved consumption.

Retail prices here last week on the whole were the highest of the year. Wholesale pork loins have advanced to 23 cents a pound, highest since last September. Top loins of beef were quoted around 35 cents a pound, wholesale, 25 per cent higher than a year ago.

Yesterday's 25 to 50 cents advance brought the average price of killing steers in Chicago to around $11 per hundredweight, highest since the fall of 1937.

In the hog trade a $7.50 top was paid yesterday, highest since October, 1939.

Pennsylvania is the largest glass producing state, Ohio ranking second.

Willkie To Stop In Amarillo On September 17

BY THEODORE F. KOOP
 NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (AP)—After expanding his criticism of the Roosevelt defense program with a demand for an end to "bunk and conversation," Wendell L. Willkie gave his approval today to an augmented western campaign tour which will carry him 7,000 miles.

The itinerary as announced by Republican presidential headquarters calls for a half dozen major speeches in the last 17 days of September, interspersed with 60 to 70 rear platform appearances and brief talks in 18 states.

Willkie issued his latest denunciation of preparedness plans at a press conference yesterday by advocating that President Roosevelt "delegate substantial authority" to the national defense advisory commission and designate one member as chairman.

The defense advisory commission is composed of seven members who report to the President.

The nominee's schedule called for his return by plane late today to Rushville, Ind., where he will set up temporary headquarters.

He expects to remain around Rushville until September 14, when his western tour will begin.

His schedule includes:
 September 16—major address at Coffeyville, Kans. in the afternoon; brief evening stop in Tulsa, Okla.
 September 17—stops in Amarillo, Texas, and at several New Mexico towns including Albuquerque.

The Islands of Trinidad and Curacao are rich in asphalt and oil deposits.

National flags have not been featured on U. S. stamps since 1869.

Excess Profits Tax Reported To House

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. (AP)—A combination excess profits tax and amortization bill—long urged as essential for accelerating defense preparation—was reported to the house today with the unanimous approval of his ways and means committee.

Leaders were hopeful the house would pass the bill before the end of the week.

The proposed bill contains these main provisions:
 1—It would impose on corporations an excess profits tax of from 20 to 50 per cent, with the object of preventing "war millionaires."
 2—It would permit defense industries to deduct from taxable income and profits over a five year period the full cost of expansion necessary to handle defense orders;
 3—It would suspend the present 7 and 8 per cent limitation imposed on the profits a manufacturer can make on government orders for aircraft and warships. Unofficial estimates placed the 1940 yield from the excess profits levy at about $300,000,000.

The Nation's Press

To hear them tell it, the administration in Washington is sleeplessly engaged in the detection and suppression of fifth column, or subversive movements in this country.

When, after six or seven years of mutually advantageous cooperation, Mr. Roosevelt finally broke with Comrade Stalin, the New Deal failed it would lose the votes which had been delivered regularly by the numerous organizations in this country which are under the influence or domination of the Communists.

Mr. Roosevelt on several occasions has denounced government by pressure groups and blocs. What he meant was that he was opposed to them if they were opposed to him, but otherwise he regarded them as admirable.

He says such an organization is also legitimate. Presumably what he meant is that under our constitution people have the right to organize for social and political purposes.

THE 'EMBARGO' GAME (The Times-Picayune, New Orleans) Whatever other soundness from the defense standpoint lends merit to the export licensing device affecting aviation gasoline...

Early in July it was announced the United States would endeavor to bring crude rubber stocks up to 250,000 tons. F. W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company...

As for tin, the best that can be learned from the defense commission is that the RFC is "cooperating with industry to build up an adequate stock pile" and that conferences have been held with American smelting companies on the subject of creating tin smelting plants in the United States.

Last spring, under the above caption, we reviewed a spirited fight in the House over an appropriation item for the labor board. That body had set up what it called a "division of economic research" for whose annual maintenance it demanded $248,000.

MISS HEPBURN APOLOGIZED Miss Hepburn told of one: During filming of "Mary of Scotland," she said, there was a scene which she inadvertently ended, after finishing a speech, by turning away and relaxing.

THE COMMITTEE VIEW prevailed and the quarter-million-dollar provision for a labor board army of economists stayed out of the bill. But bureaucrats sometimes attain their ends by indirection when direct methods fail.

Similarly, because of the availability of material and cheapness of labor, road builders in the Dutch East Indies make their roads of rubber, and in India, where asphalt is almost unobtainable, they roll along on molasses.

It is one thing to debate thoroughly and democratically the measures for the country's defense. It is another thing to snarl them in a maze of irrelevancies and strangle them in a welter of red tape.

We've Had Debate—Now Act!

It is one thing to debate thoroughly and democratically the measures for the country's defense. It is another thing to snarl them in a maze of irrelevancies and strangle them in a welter of red tape.

As it is, we can do neither. It would have been wrong to whoop the universal service bill through on three days' notice. But it is doubly wrong to fiddle with it week after week, long after every pertinent thing has been said on the subject.

Thousands of men are no doubt reasoning like this: "Well, I'll wait and see if this draft thing passes. If it does, then they'll call me when it's my turn."

There is a certain point where democratic debate becomes mere obstruction and confusion. When everything pertinent has been said, decision is in order.

It ought to be decided, so that the country and the world will know where we stand. It is vitally necessary to prove to Hitler and to the world that with republics it is not always "too little and too late."

Behind The News

The Pampa News Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—If you're vacationing in the family bus this year, you may spend your two weeks whizzing along the road to war.

Officials of the army Engineers Corps and the Bureau of Public Roads are putting their heads together to decide just which roads they are, and how much reconditioning will be necessary before they can bear the stress of mechanized army units.

When conferences now going on establish which are the strategic highways, road builders will know how big a slice of the defense appropriations they want.

Right now they're working with the $191,000,000 appropriation supposed to see them through 1941. Congress has authorized $178,500,000 for 1942 and an equal sum for 1943.

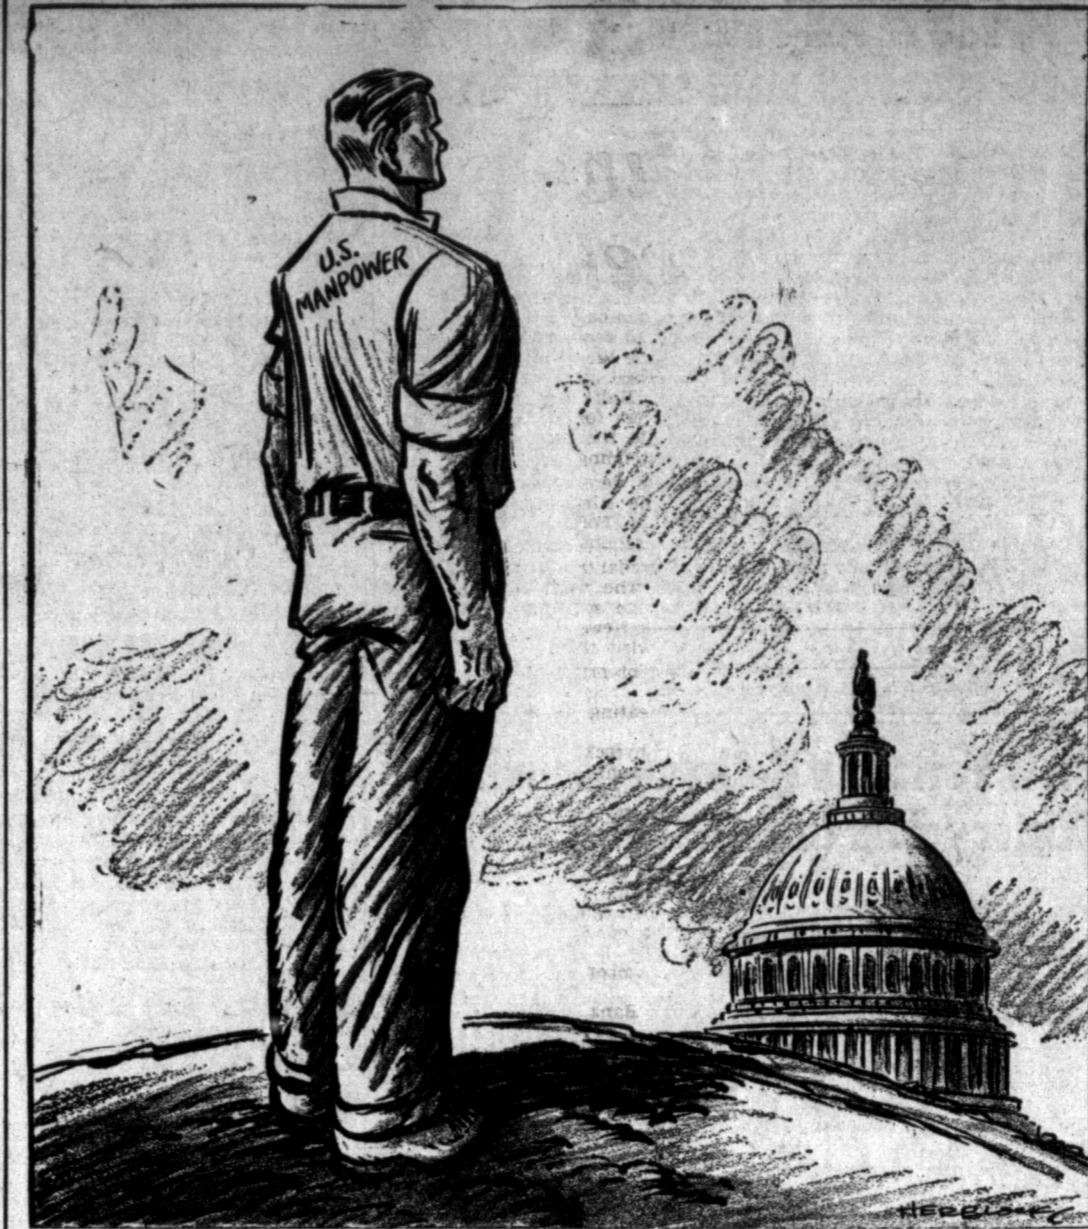

A mechanized mobile army needs good roads, routed to avoid city traffic, and as direct as possible. Earlier this year, Congress for the 20th consecutive year rejected a proposal to build six transcontinental superhighways.

There are few innovations in the science of road building. Asphalt, gravel, cement, crushed stone, and tar are the popular materials today, as they have been for many years.

Road building machinery and processing have improved. Because of a new process which grinds cement finer, concrete roads are twice as strong as they were in 1920.

Twenty years ago it was necessary to grade from one to two years to allow for settling before the final surface was laid. Now improved tractors make the road bed compact as soon as it is laid.

WAITING

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON NEA Service Staff Correspondent HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 23.—Miss Katie Hepburn was rattling toward the studio in her 7-year-old jalopy the other morning when she passed a dead skunk.

Remembering the delicacy of some of Miss Hepburn's roles, together with stories of her off-screen aloofness, you wouldn't imagine that she'd have anything to do with a dead skunk.

Miss Hepburn stopped, backed to the scene of the accident, picked up the lifeless varmint and put it on the floor of the car. Nearing the studio, she stopped at a florist shop.

There is no particular point to this story, especially since Miss Hepburn has no ill will toward Greenwood. It was just a typical Hollywood gag. And I mean gag.

With 95 entries in hand, indications were that more than 100 would be received for the first annual horse show to be staged here under the auspices of the American Legion.

Five Years Ago Today City commissioners received for study a franchise desired by the telephone company, whose franchise had expired.

Three inches of rain and hail fell here during the afternoon and night.

So They Say If we have ideals to defend by arms, I see no reason why we should not defend them also with propaganda.

The students of today will be confronted with propaganda acclaiming the various other forms of living, and their only weapons will be their own minds and experience.

On Wednesday night a doubleheader will be played between the Oilers and Odessa. On Friday night Midland will be here.

Tonight at 8 o'clock the Oilers open their last home stand of the season, playing a doubleheader with Odessa, each game seven innings by agreement. Although Odessa is lodged in the cellar position, the series will be mighty important to the Oilers who need every win to get back in first place. Last night they defeated Clovis 13 to 7. Lubbock lost to Lamesa which put the Oilers within one game of the league leaders. Amarillo won a slugfest from Borger which kept them within four-thousandths of a percentage point behind the Oilers.

It's getting to the time of the season when the boys, and most of them are just boys, feel the strain of a tough season. And that is when they need fan support, even though they are playing the bottom teams. The season will end Labor Day with Clovis here for two games. One game will probably be played in the afternoon and the other at night.

Tonight's games, and all other games this season, will begin promptly at 8 o'clock. Gus Hallibur, trying for his 20th win of the season, will probably be on the mound in one of the games.

Phil Potter, who has been moved to second position in the batting order, led the Oilers in their victory over the Pioneers last night. Potter batted a double and three singles on his six trips to the plate, driving in seven runs. Lloyd Summers followed with a double and two singles on four times up. Dutch Fraher got only one hit but it was

A home run, with no one on base, Monty Montgomery took the mound for the Oilers and bested Shirley who has two two hitters and a three hitter to his credit this season. Montgomery gave the Pioneers only nine hits in his eight innings on the mound. He was relayed by Trantham.

Shirley went 8 1/2 innings but was blasted from the mound in the ninth by a five-run attack.

RECALLED

Bob Knobles, above, will not be with the Pampa Oilers next season. The popular little fly-chaser will be with the Idaho Falls Spudders, a New York Yankee farm in Class B competition. Word of Knobles' recall by the Yankees was received in a letter yesterday by Business Manager Harold Miller. When the Oilers signed Knobles, the Yankees saw fit to keep a string on him and they have decided to exercise their right of recall. They think Knobles has a future in baseball and should be able to go in higher company next season.

Jim Ferrier Ruled Out Of Golf Tourney

By HUGH S. FULLETON, JR. NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (AP)—The United States Golf association took all the international flavor and a lot of the interest out of the 1940 national amateur championship by ruling out Jim Ferrier yesterday, but there still are enough good golfers left to make a whale of a tournament out of today's sectional qualifying spree.

Counting out Ferrier and the ten former champions who don't have to play in the sectional rounds, 747 players remain on the list. After today's 36-hole tests in 28 locations, only 140 of them will remain to go into the championship tourney at New York's Winged Foot club Sept. 9-14. Obviously, they'll have to play a lot of good golf to win out against such odds.

The last-minute disqualification of Ferrier, amateur and often champion of Australia, was based upon the publication in Australia of a profusely illustrated book called "Jim Ferrier's Golf Shots."

The U. S. G. A. contention is that it is a book of instruction and as Ferrier receives royalties from it, that makes him ineligible under the U. S. G. A. amateur rule. Ferrier argues the book merely analyzes his own unorthodox style without trying to tell other golfers how to play.

With Ferrier out, the leading candidates for the title seem to be the 10 exempt players—Marvin (Bud) Ward, the 1939 winner; Willie Turnesa, Johnny Goodman, Johnny Fischer, George T. Dunlap, Jess Sweetser, Francis Quinnet, Max Marston, Jesse Guilford and Chick Evans.

Still a survey of the entry lists for today's competition reveals plenty of others who may come through. New York's metropolitan district, topping the list with 143 entries and 25 qualifying places, shows the biggest list of star candidates. Among them are Ray Billows of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., runner up in two of the last three tournaments; Robert Sweeney, former British amateur champion; Dick Chapman, Eddie Foy, Tommy Talley, Charles Whitehead, George Volter, Neil White and Ellsworth Vines. Chicago is a good second with Wilford Hehrle, George Dawson, Gus Moreland and Hank Kowal among the 73 candidates for 15 places.

Indians Beat Senators To Retain League Lead

By JUDSON BAILEY Associated Press Sports Writer It's a tough task to shake baseball's league leaders out of the tree-tops in August, even when they look ripe for a fall.

The Cleveland Indians seemed in danger of dropping off their perch in the throes of a four-game losing streak last week-end.

But they stopped it yesterday by edging out the Washington Senators 4-3 while both the second-place Detroit Tigers and third-place New York Yankees were kept idle by rain. The Indians increased their advantage over the Tigers to three games and over the Yanks to six.

The Cincinnati Reds split a doubleheader with the Philadelphia Phillies without harming their 7 1/2 game advantage in the National league because the Brooklyn Dodgers were also rained out.

All of which goes to show that it isn't the short winning or losing streaks, it's the long haul that counts.

Cleveland's victory was made possible by Bob Feller, although he did not get credit for the game. The fireballer went to the rescue of Mel Harder in the seventh and shutout the Senators in the last three innings.

Bucky Walters pitched and batted the Reds to a 3-2 victory in their first game, which incidentally gave the senior circuit champions a four-game winning streak temporarily. He held the Senators to five hits and batted in two of Cincinnati's own runs, one with a homer. It was Bucky's 18th win.

Sylvester Johnson retaliated in the nightcap with a three-hit performance that led the Reds gasping.

Carl Hubbell made his third appearance in four days and saved the New York Giants a 10-5 verdict over the Chicago Cubs. The fourth-place New Yorkers manufactured 16 hits and cluttered enough of them in the early innings to give Harry Gumbert an 8-1 lead in the first four frames. But he faltered and "Hub" pulled the Terry-men out, pitching five shutout innings and getting credit for his 11th victory.

Another fine relief showing was that of Boston's Jim Bagby in helping the Red Sox to a 7-6 decision over the St. Louis Browns. He allowed only two hits in the last 6-2-3 innings.

The Boston Bees threw more water on the St. Louis Cardinals' conflagration by winning a night game 3-1 with rookie Nic Stenevich hurling five-hit ball.

Fifty Gifts Will Be Given Oiler Stars

Fifty gifts will be presented members of the Pampa Oilers baseball team on Wednesday and Friday nights. One of the prizes will be for the most outstanding player during the three games, which will be a doubleheader with Odessa Wednesday night and a single game with Midland Friday night.

The gifts will be donated by Pampa merchants. They were collected by a committee from the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion which organizations will sponsor the games.

Fans will receive an equal number of gifts, half on each night. Fans will receive their gifts between the two games Wednesday night. Members of the Pampa Junior Oilers will be in the stands, in uniform, to distribute the gifts.

Besides the shower of gifts, a contest for players will be held between games Wednesday night. Outfielders of both teams will be allowed to test their arms from the outfield while catchers will be given an opportunity to test their throwing arms to second.

A grand prize of $10 in cash will be given the outstanding player in the three-game series. He will be selected by a committee of veterans.

Other prizes, of cash and merchandise, will be given players in each of the three games for the following feats:

First home run; first triple; first double; first putout; first assist; first base on balls; first sacrifice; first outfield fly caught; first infield fly caught; first stolen base; first run scored; first run batted in; first pitcher retiring opposition in order; throw-in from outfield; throw to second.

The player making the first error will have to buy a chicken dinner for the player making the first hit, the committee has decided.

YESTERDAY, Carrie Lane... the frontier town of Sioux Springs...

CHAPTER II

CARRIE was ready and waiting when Ashton Oaks drove up to the hotel in his rented buggy...

"And say," she added, her arms akimbo, and winking knowingly, "if it don't make no difference to you, who is this land agent fellow anyhow?"

Carrie explained she had met him on the train out of Chicago, that when he had learned she was coming to Sioux Springs, he had offered to help her get settled.

Ashton Oaks was patronizingly pleasant now as he assisted Carrie up into the buggy.

"Town look any better to you today, Miss Lane?" he inquired. "Oh, yes, ever so much better."

Springs, the west and homesteaded. Really, there was no town and the prairie seemed to swallow up both ends of the single main street.

But now, in the bright morning sunlight, Carrie was actually more assured. Things somehow looked better today with the wagon rattling forth and back, churning up the dust, a long line of settlers forming again at the low, squat land office down the street.

Ashton Oaks, watching her, spoke of these things as they jogged past the last rambling building at the edge of town and followed the deeply rutted trail across the burning grasslands north to Rock Creek.

"They all start like this, these frontier towns, Miss Lane. I've seen a hundred of them since the homestead law. I could have bought them all at first. And I did buy a few."

"But there's so much of this land," she interrupted. "Will it ever be worth anything, Mr. Oaks?"

Whether Ashton Oaks read her mind, he answered her question. Fortunes lay out here for the asking, he told her. He was still elaborating on that theme at noon when the buggy splashed into Rock Creek at the head of a pretty little valley. Oaks stopped to low-voiced. He went on, quickly. "You remember, Miss Lane, I told you only this afternoon the railroad will make this town. Well, tonight I have information it is due here this fall." He paused, noting Carrie's obvious start.

"Oh, I know, I know this is pretty sudden," he went on hastily. "But, Miss Lane, I saw your feeling there at the homestead today. I know it's no life for a woman—alone, and I'm glad to do something for you, Miss Lane."

Carrie was incredulous. She started to speak, but a quiet, familiar voice interrupted at her side.

"Pardon, Miss Lane, but if this gentleman is selling you Sioux Springs because the railroad is coming in, I can tell you it isn't."

ASHTON OAKS whirled, his face blue with anger. His first impulse was to lunge at Mark, but he held back.

"What—what do you mean?" he stammered. "The railroad's not coming to Sioux Springs? Who—who are you, anyway? Miss Lane, I'm sorry, but this gentleman is a liar!"

Mark's fist shot out in one vicious blow and the agent staggered against the desk. There was a sudden uproar in the sweltering little lobby. A settler grabbed Mark, but Deuel broke loose, lunged toward Oaks. The agent, hatless, was snarling, his hand at his side.

Mark was stopped again. Carrie, grasping his lapels, was begging, pleading with him. "Don't—don't!" she cried. "He—he'll kill you!" She almost screamed the words.

Mark straightened. Men crowded around him, separating him from the glowering agent. Someone was handing Oaks his hat. Carrie was looking up imploringly into Mark's eyes.

"Miss—Miss Lane," he reddened, "I'm sorry, but I couldn't see that happen. Some day I may tell you why. I think you'd better go to your room now."

Carrie was returning to her room in the hotel when Ashton Oaks stopped her at the desk, called her aside, a bit furiously, Carrie thought.

"Well, how are you feeling now, Miss Lane?" he asked. "Certainly you look all right." Something about his familiarity annoyed Carrie for the first time, but she replied, "Why, I feel very well, when after a good supper."

Some Britons Go To Bed While Air Battle Is Raging

By MILO M. THOMPSON
LONDON, Aug. 27 (AP)—Half of metropolitan London's population had to ask this morning how long the night's air raid lasted.

any moment a blast might end your existence. But so might a bolt of lightning in any thunderstorm. You think of the odds, shrug and turn in. Watching the show wears you like sitting at a grand Fourth of July display for hours—and then having to see it all over again. You give up, knowing there will be other raids. For those who do watch there is a horrid splendor about these night raids. Your feelings are mixed. For short periods you feel that you personally are the hunted one—but most of the time it is the fellow somewhere up above who is hunted. The black sky becomes a garden of unimaginably tall flowers, usually in swaying clusters. The stems, of course, are the searchlight beams and they blossom where they touch downy clouds.

ly or in small groups, chain fashion. Some of the raiders, far above the balloon barrage, appeared as tiny silvery specks as anti-aircraft searchlights picked them out. They kept coming, approaching London from the south and circling over the metropolitan area and then departing, apparently only to appear later again at a scheduled interval. Despite their height, two of them were brought down in flames by anti-aircraft fire in the London area. Many observers thought the "chain raid" was executed for its nuisance value—to keep Londoners from sleeping and to hold up production. With this new technique comparatively few planes were employed and yet London's millions were kept under continuous alarm for most of the night.

Times Will Appeal Labor Board Ruling

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (AP)—The New York Times plans to appeal an adverse labor board ruling on the grounds it embraces a "fundamental issue" of the closed shop in news and editorial departments of newspapers. The board ordered the Times, in a split decision handed down yesterday, to reinstate with back pay two former employees allegedly discharged for union activities and to transfer a third employee to his former position from which it was charged he was transferred to another job because of membership in the American Newspaper Guild (A.N.G.). In a statement announcing the case would be appealed to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, Publisher Arthur Hays Sulzberger said: "Two members of the labor board held that the Times violated the Wagner act in advising the newspaper guild in the course of negotiations that it would require an affirmative open shop clause in any contract with that union. The New York Times has never in the past opposed the newspaper guild as such. It has opposed that closed shop provision which is incorporated in the guild constitution. It believes such a provision contrary to the best principles of newspaper making." Sulzberger pointed out that the Times had closed shop contracts with other unions, but that these were in mechanical department

ously close to the bad weather season which will render military operations most difficult if not impossible. Anything can happen in the way of weather after the beginning of September, although the first half of the month generally is good. Sometimes the whole month is all right, but October means the start of bad days. Rain, fog and winds seriously hamper flying, and the always tricky English channel kicks up far more trouble than any invading force would want to deal with. Apart from the weather the channel itself presents a formidable barrier to invasion. This whole long stretch of water is filled with tidal streams which shift and squirm and turn so that only a great expert can figure them out. To cap all this, the English waters close to shore are only a few feet deep in many places and would represent a terrific problem for an invading fleet. There is still a further catch in the thing for the Nazis. It isn't enough to be able to pick a few days of good weather for the attempted invasion with an army. They must figure that once they have landed in England they must keep boats crossing the channel with supplies and reinforcements.

Correction

Sheriff Cal Rose received 415 votes in the courthouse box in the election Saturday, instead of 515. The latter figure was published in a tabulation in the News yesterday. In the same table, Smith-Coffee and Hatcher-Lewis votes appeared incorrectly under the Lefors box. These figures should have appeared under the Baker school box. Rose also received 223 votes in the Baker box instead of 322.
