

Willkie 'Sneers' At People, Says Jackson

(By The Associated Press)

Wendell L. Willkie talked strategy with Republican party leaders of New York yesterday. (Saturday) while at the other end of the Empire State Democratic Attorney General Robert H. Jackson was accusing the Republican nominee of "snobbery" in his campaigning.

State Republican leaders met Willkie as he stepped from his train at New York City and they hurried off for a day of conferences before the nominee headed out on a series of night speeches in Brooklyn. The conferences were a prelude to a scheduled chain of speeches and appearances in New Jersey and New England during the forthcoming week.

Jackson criticized Willkie in an address at Buffalo in ceremonies formally notifying Senator James M. Mead of his renomination by the Democrats.

Willkie, Jackson asserted, is "talking down to his fellow Americans and they resent it furiously." Jackson said there is "deep resentment" at Willkie's "sneers at President Roosevelt's education, sneers at his fine command of the English language, and sneers because the President is a member of a distinguished American family."

Roosevelt Speaks

Willkie's presence in the political-ly important state coincided with a visit by the President to New York. When Mr. Roosevelt left the capital for a week-end stay at his Hyde Park home he was accompanied by an old adviser on presidential addresses and campaigning, Justice Samuel L. Rosenman of the New York supreme court.

In a speech dedicating three Dutchess county schools yesterday the President reviewed some of his administration since its inception eight years ago. Among other things, he said:

"There were some in those days (eight years ago) who chanted that nature had to run its course of misery, that deflation could not be stopped, and that the depression was only the working of natural economic laws in a system of free enterprise."

"The American government decided to reject this philosophy of inaction and irresponsibility and indifference to the destitution of its citizens. In its place was substituted a new doctrine—that the government owned a continuing responsibility to see to it that no one should starve who was willing to work."

Trade Pacts Attacked

Senator Charles McNary, Republican vice presidential nominee, in a talk prepared for a Ulen, Minn., meeting, said the reciprocal trade treaties promoted by the Roosevelt administration, had failed to promote peace or benefit agriculture.

"The New Deal already has made our economic borders defenseless," McNary said. "Because of the recip-

The War Today

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Thirteen months of up-to-date war in Europe, with Nazi blitzkrieg trimmings, leaves the question of British sea versus German air power unsettled; but has not changed a fundamental concept of how land battles are fought and won.

It is still bayonettes that win battles not machines. That is the essence of German blitzkrieg technique, of all military experience. The function of all other arms, from Roman chariots to 80-ton Nazi tanks from rock-busting catapults to bomb-dropping planes, is to help the foot-soldier to do his grim job.

The only miracle referred to by German experts in recounting the stunning victories by Hitler's armies from Poland to France is a miracle of training and staff precision to achieve coordinated application in battle. That is the lesson of this war, of the World War and of all previous wars.

Nazi militarists have noted a tendency in German public opinion—which they regard as dangerous—to expect miracles where mechanical robots do the fighting, not men. Before this writer is a translation of an article in a Berlin technical military journal, "Militar Ochenblatt," appearing in Berlin last August. Its title is "Die Infanterie Im Blitzkrieg" and it came from the pen of a German professional soldier of rank.

He analyzes Nazi army victories from Poland to the final cracking of the French line on the Somme-Aisne which brought France to her knees. This is his conclusion:

"They (the battles) have proved that the enemy's last resistance must be broken, as his troops, in the infantry, and that in the last hundred meters of a charge the infantry must accomplish this result unaided (by tanks, aircraft, or artillery) and solely by force of its own weapons. x x x It (the German infantry) bore the main burden of the struggle and proved to be queen of the battlefield."

The writer quotes from present German army regulations to govern training for "combined arms" as follows:

"The object of all arms is to allow the infantry to reach the enemy while still in possession of sufficient firing and attacking power to bring about a final decision."

If "in many places" in those battles the Nazi infantry came to grips with "an already crushed foe" due to effectiveness of Nazi aviation and tanks, the author adds, "this merely proves that our troops of all arms have been properly trained and not that the importance of the infantry's mission has diminished."

Because of that training, also, the writer adds, German infantry frequently reached its objective "with incredibly small losses" and was able to spring forward in hot pursuit to exploit a tactical success and turn it into a smashing strategic victory.

"This necessitates bold and decisive action on the part of subordinate commanders, who can usually count only on their own respective

Kiwanians Leave For Convention And Election

A group of Pampa Kiwanians left yesterday for Oklahoma City, where they will carry their campaign to elect Mayor Fred Thompson of Pampa as district governor of the Texas-Oklahoma Kiwanis district, at the convention to be held in Oklahoma City today, tomorrow, and Tuesday.

Raymond Robbins of Athens has been presented by that club as their candidate, opposing the nominee of the Pampa Kiwanians.

Convention sessions will be held in the Municipal auditorium.

On today's schedule is a golf tournament at the Twin Hills Country club, at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, a bowling tourney at 3 p. m. at Brantley's alleys, a sight-seeing tour, and a religious musicale at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the First Baptist church, to be followed by a recep-

Registration of the expected 1,300 delegates started yesterday at the Baltimore hotel, convention headquarters. A buffet supper was held at 7 p. m. Saturday in the Hickins hotel.

Preceding the Pampa Kiwanians departure for the convention, R. W. Lane, club secretary, could not furnish a complete list of all who planned to attend. Most of the convention-bound local Kiwanians left yesterday.

Lane said that among those who had signified their intention of attending were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Goldston, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Saxe, W. B. Weathered, J. M. Collins, Tex DeWesse, Herman Kreiger, W. F. Dean, M. E. Downs, Lane, and Fred Thompson.

Rumania Seizes Jewish Property

(By The Associated Press)

BUCHAREST, Oct. 5—Rumania's month-old iron guard government put into force today the most sweeping of its many anti-Semitic laws as its drive against foreign interests and the old regime flared up to new heat.

Under the new law all rural land and dwellings to which Jews held title automatically became state property today.

Occupants must leave their land and homes immediately. The property is to be turned over to Rumanian refugees from Transylvania, Bessarabia, and the South Dobruja areas Rumania recently has ceded to Hungary, Soviet Russia and Bulgaria.

The former Jewish owners will be paid three per cent annually of the value of the property as fixed by the government but will receive none of the principal.

As the government clamped new restrictions on foreign-owned and managed corporations, Reginald Hoare, the British minister, drove to Ploesti to investigate personally the case of 60-year-old Percy Clark, a Briton and president of a Ploesti oil engineering firm.

The British legation has charged that Clark was kidnaped, "seriously maltreated," turned over to secret police and later released and placed under house arrest.

The constitution of the United States went into effect on the first Wednesday in March, 1789.

The largest area of quicksand in the world is said to be the Diamond Shoals, off Cape Hatteras, N. C.

Free Press Discussed By Van Stewart

A speech by Van W. Stewart of Perryton, publisher of the Ochiltree County Herald, featured the program of the Pampa Kiwanis club at their regular weekly luncheon at noon here Friday.

The Perryton man spoke in connection with the observance of National Newspaper Week, which started October 1. In his speech, Mr. Stewart said:

"I come to you today as a representative of a free press in a country where freedom of the written and spoken word is guaranteed not only by law but also by the will and desire of an enlightened government and a free and independent people."

New Yorker Started Idea

"The idea of a week devoted to American newspapers belongs to H. R. Holsby, editor of the Olean (N. Y.) Times-Herald. Mr. Holsby got his inspiration more than a year ago when on August 5, 1939, he told his readers about it in an editorial.

"This week, newspapers in every nook and corner of the United States are joining in this observance at an estimated cost to the newspapers of over $1,000,000.

"Where else in the world today could such a meeting as this be held? Surely not in Germany, Italy, Russia and Japan where once free people have surrendered, to their sorrow, the priceless privilege of a free mind and a critical spirit.

"Surely not in France, the Balkans, or the Scandinavian countries where defenseless people live under the heel or in the shadow of ruthless and powerful nations. Nor not today in England or in most parts of the English empire where a valiant but imperiled people have to surrender their liberties that they might preserve them.

American Press Free

"In the preservation of these liberties, we of America have certain great advantages. The press of Europe has always been a powerful, centralized, metropolitan press.

"The small town daily newspaper serving its immediate vicinity, the rural weekly newspaper, serving its small country area, were yesterday and are today almost unknown abroad.

"I thank God we have no national press in America. The freedom of the printed word here is not in the hands of a dozen, not yet in the hands of a hundred newspapers. We have in America today, more than 10,500 newspapers, many times more newspapers than there are in all of the rest of the world.

"These papers range in size from the metropolitan giant with its hundreds of machines, its thousands of employed, its millions of readers, to the one-room, one-man, hand-set shop serving its several hundred readers.

"These papers range in size from the reactionary to the radical, from the farthest reaches of the Tory right, to the lunatic fringes of the extreme left. They are 10,000 voices speaking for 10,000 neighborhoods of America.

"Each of these newspapers is a show window for some community, recording history as it happens, publishing news of churches, schools and government, and last but not least, covering the three greatest events of life, birth, marriage, and death.

"As long as the avenues of information are kept open, and the means of criticism are in so many hands, the task of man or men or party that would conquer America from within, is a difficult one, yes, a well-nigh impossible one."

Newspapers Serve Community

Stewart told the Kiwanians that newspapers should be supported even though a person may not advertise, for financial support was due a newspaper for its service to the community, and in keeping America free.

"Don't throttle your newspaper by non-patronage because you don't agree on politics," Stewart advised the club.

He quoted from Charles Reilly's "My Religion": "I never deny to another that which I demand for myself; the right to think, act, worship or not worship, according to the dictates of my conscience alone."

Guests of the club at the luncheon were Bill Brown, Ray F. Barnes, A. E. Hickman, Dude Balthrop, all of Pampa; Captain Jack Smith, Pampa; Major Reginald Clavett, Dallas; Captain Herman G. Lambrecht, Lubbock, former Pampian, all of the Salvation Army, and J. M. Nobles, publisher of the Canadian Record.

Axis Invasion Now Believed Dead Certain

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ
BERN, Switzerland, Oct. 5. (AP)—Signs of an imminent Axis offensive against both England and the British empire, dismissed at first as a smoke screen, were regarded by neutral and belligerent military observers alike here today as probably correct.

British sources have begun to credit what they first took as Axis inspired reports that German forces on the North Sea and English channels now have completed preparations for a smash at England and are only waiting the word "go."

Similar reports from the Mediterranean indicate the Italians also are set for a land drive across Egypt toward Alexandria and the Suez canal and down the valley of the Nile from Ethiopia.

Spain, which the Axis has pictured as sticking to her non-belligerent role, is believed in these quarters to be ready to try to seize Gibraltar with air and sea aid from Italy and land aid from Germany.

(Dispatches from Algiers, Spain, said 2,000 British troops landed today to strengthen the garrison of the "Rock" sentinel of the Western Mediterranean.)

Here are some of the reports many veteran foreign observers have added up to mean an Axis offensive—perhaps in the coming week:

From Italy, accounts of travelers and specialists, even some Nazi troops, have been moving through the Brenner Pass toward Italian Libya.

From similar channels in Italy, that 500 Italian warplanes and 3,000 Italian fliers, navigators and air-gunsners now are in Nazi-occupied France and the low countries ready to bolster an attempt to invade England.

The Axis press and radio, inclined in September to talk down an invasion attempt, has begun since the Brenner meeting between Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini to hint it is not so far off after all.

The Axis powers are believed here to have based their plans for an attack on Britain on all fronts before the United States elections November 5, primarily with an eye to America.

One Axis source in this country said a triumph against Egypt, Gibraltar or England herself is needed to convince the United States that it "is too late to save Britain."

The state legislature of Maine, at Augusta, introduced a bill in January, 1939, making it illegal to put tomatoes in clam chowder.

Grandview Carnival Nets Total Of $200

Although the crowd was smaller than in past years, receipts of the annual Grandview carnival, held Thursday night at the Grandview school, 20 miles southwest of Pampa, were better than in the past, with $200 obtained.

Sponsored by the Parent-Teacher association of the Grandview school, purpose of the annual carnival was to obtain money for transportation aid of the school.

The carnival proceeds have no connection with the school's annual picnic, given at the close of the school year, and the two events are entirely separate, Principal A. L. Jones said Friday in refutation of a wrong impression voiced to him.

Cold drinks, ice cream, cakes, pies, hamburgers, frankfurters, and the seventh and eighth grade members were some of the carnival attractions.

Appreciation was expressed by the school and carnival sponsors for the patronage of Pampans and of the support of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.

Mouthpiece Of Il Duce Hits At 'Servile' Turks

(By The Associated Press) ROME, Oct. 5—A denunciation of the Turks as "servile satellites" of the British and "the American columns which stand beside them was made today by Virginia Gayda, one of the most authoritative of Fascist journalistic spokesmen. Despite these bitter references to British-allied Turkey, however, Gayda had nothing specific to say as to the next military moves of Germany and Italy, beyond declaring roundly: "The two Axis powers are resuming their war operations, never interrupted, with the greatest immensity. The effect will be seen soon." An intensified attempt to drive the British out of Egypt and seize the Suez canal was expected in foreign circles as Fascist observers forecast a strong fall offensive against Britain. The conquest of Egypt is considered of such importance the possibility of the Germans aiding the Italians in a quick thrust there was seen by some. Hitler, these sources said, might help the Italians with planes, other equipment and supplies, if not troops. France might be involved in Axis plans for the Near East, some on-lookers thought, although both Italian and German circles discredited rumors of a possible peace settlement and alliance with France. France's conquerors, it was suggested, might be able to obtain the use of air bases in Syria by some arrangement short of an actual treaty.

Hodges Case To Be Re-Tried In Court Tomorrow

A case in which the state court of criminal appeals reversed the decision of the lower court, and another in which a motion for a new trial was granted will be heard in the third week of the current term of 31st district court, which opens tomorrow. District Attorney Clifford Braly said that among the cases due for trial were State of Texas vs. Jim Hodges, charged with receiving and concealing stolen property, and State of Texas vs. C. W. Cash, charged with theft. On January 11, 1939, the jury brought in a verdict of guilty and assessed a seven-year prison term on Hodges. The state court, however, reversed this decision, and the case is to be heard here again. U. S. Roads Found Deficient By Army

Special To The News AUSTIN, Oct. 5—The pride of those who quote with delight the fact that the United States has more highways than any other nation in the world and more vehicles per capita is due for a fall unless drastic measures of preservation are taken immediately, warns Charles E. Simons in an article on "Our Army Will Move By Highway—Perhaps" in the October issue of Texas Parade. This pride, he points out, is based solely on the size of the system, certainly not on its quality. "Reports of the recent maneuvers in East Texas and later in Louisiana are replete with instances where road failures hampered the army while it was 'playing at war'." The Texas Highway department sent an experienced engineer to Louisiana to observe the National Guard maneuvers in that state, the purpose being to accumulate additional data on the uses to which the military put the civilian highway system and how the use of the civil roads by the military affected both civilian and military operations. "He reported that the primary requirements for roads used for military purposes appear to be adequate roadway width, flat slopes and shallow ditches. Bridges should be designed to carry all the anticipated loads and surfacing should include the highest type of flexible pavements with a heavy stabilized base. "These things constitute the primary requirements but the nation still lacks the roads which will measure up to these requirements. Unless the obsolete and worn out mileage, which is wholly incapable of rendering effective service is rebuilt and the facilities provided for the motorized movement of vehicles, the United States cannot be said to be prepared to defend itself."

Hemphill Boys Make Record In Raising Calves

Special To The News CANADIAN, Oct. 5—County Agent John Stovall is well pleased with the progress of the calves being fed by his 4-H club boys. Gene Matthews, Carl Simpson, Billy Fields, Jr., and Boyd Huff each have a calf that gained the full 90 pounds or an average of three pounds daily through September. The average daily gain for the 19 calves being fed by the Hemphill county 4-H club boys was 2.58 pounds.

Answering Your Questions About CONSCRIPTION

CONGRESS NOW CONSIDERING LAW TO GIVE DRAFTEES PROTECTION OF THEIR PERSONAL OBLIGATIONS

By MILTON BRONNER, Manager, NEA-Pampa News Selective Service Information Bureau WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—Here is a chance to save a lot of readers of The Pampa News time and postage in their search for information concerning one phase of service under the selective service act. The NEA-Pampa News Selective Service Information Bureau has received literally hundreds of questions of this tenor: "What protection as a draftee will I have if— 1. I am involved in a civil court action? 2. If my dependents live in a dwelling for which the agreed rent does not exceed $80 per month? 3. If I have contracted to purchase real or personal property upon the installment basis? 4. If I have obligations relative to a mortgage on real or personal property? 5. If I am obligated to pay premiums on life insurance policies whose face total face value does not exceed $5000? 6. If I have taxes falling due upon real property?" "CONSIDERATION The answer to all these queries is that there is not now any federal law on the subject. In the World War congress passed a law which gave protection and relief to soldiers and sailors in the active service of the United States. Milton Bronner will answer questions of The Pampa News readers regarding conscription rulings and interpretations. Address questions to Milton Bronner, manager, NEA-Pampa News Selective Service Information Bureau, 1013 Thirteenth St., NW, Washington, D. C. BE SURE TO ENCLOSE postage prepaid postcard or stamped envelope, self-addressed. A bill congress is at present considering is drawn very much along the lines of the act passed in the last great war. The bill has been favorably reported by the senate committee on military affairs and is now on the calendar of the senate. It is not of much value to go into the details of the bill as it is at present written, because it may be amended in vital parts during senate discussion and again in the house of representatives. DRAFT BOARDS WILL KNOW The main thing for the prospective draftees under the selective service act is to remember that the law-makers are trying to devise a way to protect them, so they will not be financially crippled by giving service to their country. They should watch The Pampa News to see whether the bill becomes law and what its provisions are. Also, the selective service local draft boards will be given full information on the subject and will be able to give draftees full advice, as will the army officers who will have charge of the men inducted into service. Another moot point, which depends upon the form the law takes, is whether men who do not wait to be drafted, but enlist now for one year's training in the army, will also come under the scope of this legal protection. Men of the Ovimbundu tribe of West Africa must never talk to their mothers-in-law except through the walls of a hut.

SWING FOR YOUR SUPPER

Rita Hayworth, former international dance favorite, "struts her stuff" in this cheerful scene from Columbia's "Music In My Heart," bubbling new musical comedy at the LaNora theater Wednesday and Thursday in which she is starred with golden-voiced Tony Martin, of radio, stage and screen fame. George Humbert is playing the accordion and petite Edith Fellows encourages the lovely Miss Hayworth.

Martin is seen as the handsome young tenor about to be deported because he isn't a citizen. He decides to remain in the country, and meets and falls in love with Rita who is engaged to a wealthy bachelor. The singer's plight causes her to help him. Together they seek engagements, dodge immigration officials, and the millionaire's pursuits.

"KNUTE ROCKNE—ALL AMERICAN," POWERFUL DRAMA OF GREAT MAN

Story Of Notre Dame Coach Opens Week At LaNora; Excellent Prison Drama, Featuring Lee Tracy, With Novel Plot, Comes To Crown

A spectacular film biography embodying powerful drama, keen philosophy and tender romance is Warner's "Knute Rockne—All American," opening the week for a three-day run at the LaNora.

Pat O'Brien is starred as the great American football coach, Ronald Reagan portrays the immortal George Gipp, Gale Page has the role of Bonnie Skiles Rockne. The film tells the dynamic story of Knute Rockne from his early childhood in Norway to his tragic death in an airplane crash.

Robert Buckner, who wrote the scenario, based his story on the private papers of Mrs. Rockne and the reports of intimate friends and associates.

Director of the film is Lloyd Bacon, who made the first all talking picture to be put on the screen "The Singing Fool," back in 1928. Bacon was born in San Jose, Calif., in 1896 and educated at Santa Clara college. He started film work as a comedy writer, was with Chaplin, Lloyd Hamilton, Stennett; made two-reelers for Universal before going to Warner Brothers for features; directed "42nd Street," one of The Film Daily's 10 best pictures of 1933; one of Film Daily's 10 best directors of 1938-1939.

Recent work includes "The Oklahoma Kid," "Wings of the Navy," and "Espionage Agent," in 1938; "Three Cheers for the Irish," and "Brother Orchid," this year.

Different Prison Story
Opening a three-day booking at the Crown is an RKO Radio prison story.

Taking a different story of prison life, a strongly human comedy-drama of five wealthy men sent to the penitentiary and their encounters with a shrewd and sympathetic inmate who is the unquestioned leader of the gray-clad convicts, "Millionaires in Prison" stars the popular Lee Tracy in one of the season's most unusual offerings.

Most of the action takes place within the walls of the institution where Tracy, serving a sentence of several years, has established himself as a kind of efficient autocrat among his fellow prisoners. Five new arrivals reach the prison—a young doctor sent up for drunken driving and a bad-resulting accident, two rich clubmen unwittingly caught in a corporation mess, and two stock swindlers who tangled with the law in Wall Street. All five soon learn to rely on Tracy's advice and to do what he tells them.

Friday and Saturday at the LaNora is showing Paramount's "I Want A Divorce," with Joan Blondell, Dick Powell. Man and wife in real life play man and wife together on the screen, cast as a young couple who renew their acquaintance in divorce court, when Joan's sister, played by Gloria Dickson, is getting a divorce.

Another in The Three Mesquites series, Republic's "Under Texas Skies" is on the screen Friday and Saturday. Typical wide open spaces drama, with Story Brook clearing Tucson Smith, a boyhood friend, who has been accused of murdering Stony's father, a sheriff.

Jane Withers and Gene Autry are teamed in 20th Century-Fox's action-romance western "Shootin' High," showing Wednesday and Thursday. Jane, daughter of the town banker, aids Gene in his fight to clear the name of his grandfather, Wild Bill Carson, U. S. marshal of Carson Corners, unjustly accused of being a member of a robber band.

ON "KNUTE ROCKNE" SET

Two days after the world premiere in South Bend, Ind., Warner's "Knute Rockne—All American," opens a three-day run at the LaNora. Pictured above is Pat O'Brien who portrays Rockne, on the set with Father Eugene Burke, C. S. C.; Robert Fellows, Warner Brothers; Father John Cavanaugh, C. S. C.; Notre Dame vice-president, J. Arthur Haley, Notre Dame's graduate manager. Highlighting the presentation of the picture here today was the Knute Rockne day proclamation of Mayor Fred Thompson; the Rockne tribute, delivered by the Rev. Robert Boshen, pastor of the Presbyterian church, and the award to Captain R. Smith of the Olney Cubs of the Rockne football, autographed with the names of the featured players in the film, at Harvester park Friday night.

CHECK THESE:

1. CHECK all electrical wiring units and appliances for shorts, faulty connections and overloads.
2. REMOVE all rubbish and waste from basement, attic, garage and around buildings.
3. USE non-inflammable cleaning fluids only! Keep any and all cleaning fluids away from excess heat.
4. KEEP matches away from children. Always be sure a match is completely out before throwing away.
5. HAVE all gas pipes and connections inspected periodically.
6. DON'T bring gasoline into a house.
7. TAKE caution with burning cigarettes.
8. ALWAYS have a ground wire on your radio.

SERIAL STORY THIS COULD BE YOUR STORY BY MARGUERITE GAHAGAN

All characters, organizations and incidents of this serial are entirely fictitious.

YESTERDAY: Nick insists Sue Mary meet him at the office tonight. She fears a plot to involve her, keep her quiet. There is a call from the hospital. What if the doctor worries. Sue Mary dials the number.

SUE MARY FINDS HELP

CHAPTER XXIV SUE MARY hung up the receiver and leaned forward over her typewriter, resting her shaking arms on the carriage. Word from the hospital was not encouraging, but at least Joe was alive.

"Mr. Stefanik regained consciousness for a few moments," a nurse told her sympathetically. "He asked for you, and then went off again. The doctors think they may operate to relieve the pressure. If they do, it will probably be tonight. You can call later, or if anything comes up suddenly, we'll let you know."

"But I could see him—" "You can see him, but he won't know you," the nurse explained. "And you can't stay for more than a few seconds. Mr. Stefanik needs absolute quiet now. But you mustn't worry."

The hands of the office clock seemed to fly now that she knew the doctors were to take some definite action on Joe's case. Before that time had dragged; now each minute was precious and time flew. She couldn't work. She couldn't think. She finally told Miss Grant her head ached and she wanted to leave early.

At the hospital she stood quietly in Joe's room, looking down at his white face, the shock of blond hair showing beneath the bandage; at his hands, so big, so capable, and now so helplessly limp on the sheet.

She wanted to touch them. Wanted to lean forward and kiss his lips, but the nurse was beside her, murmuring that a doctor was coming in to change the dressing and she must go.

SUE MARY went across the street to a little park and sat on a bench until her trembling legs could carry her back to the apartment. She picked up a paper someone had discarded and stared at the headlines.

"G-men investigate alleged subversive group," she read. In an eastern city an inquiry was being made by Department of Justice officials in an effort to stamp out possible fifth columnists.

She looked up and found a sudden strength welling up within her. Federal agents—until this moment the words had been one connected with the movies and thrill stories. To be sure, it was in the news, but it had never been a reality to her.

The girls in the office kidded about the strange men coming and going, since the national defense program had brought so much activity to the law office. But G-men still were people in a little boy's world. Until this moment.

Now her thoughts began to crystallize. Government men with the power to handle all situations. The power to act and the ability to recognize truth. They would listen and judge and not rush off hysterically on a witch hunt. She stood up and walked back to the hospital to find a phone book.

It was late afternoon and she wondered frantically if she could contact anyone at headquarters. She found the address and ran out to flag a taxi.

The big federal building was cool and dimly and nearly empty. There was still one elevator running and she made herself walk slowly and quietly down the hall.

THE young man in the outer room was looking up his desk, but he didn't hurry her. He asked her name and a few questions about herself.

"What do you want to see Mr. Flanagan about?" he asked. "He's still here, but he's had a hard day, and so many people demand to see him. So many people come in here," he explained, patiently. "They all think they have valuable information about spy-plots."

She nodded her head in agreement. "Yes, I can imagine that. You see, that's why I hated to come. I might be wrong, too."

"Only—well, I didn't dare wait any longer. Something is to happen tonight. These people—I think they are doing something that will hurt the government and—nice people here in town. Maybe I'm wrong, but an organization I belong to has a strange platform. I didn't know what it was all about. But I do now. And I'm beginning to wonder. It's called the Youth Progress Group."

"Youth Progress?" he repeated slowly. "Maybe you had better see him. We know that outfit."

SITTING across the desk from Mr. Flanagan, Sue Mary managed to get her facts in order. He was kind and calm. He listened and drew out the story with questions.

"We've checked on the Youth

Progress Group, of course," he said. "We've never been entirely satisfied. We know their candidate for governor is radical and that the platform is one that would never go over in this country. But we are also sure they can't win in this election. Not unless a miracle should happen. But anyway, tell me what you know."

She told him. Slowly the whole picture came out.

"I didn't think much about it until I heard Nick and Vera planning to get the papers that young Mr. Ross Clark will have at the office tonight. He's not like his father. Young Mr. Clark, I mean. He's stupid and in debt and easily led."

"Nick and Vera mean to use the information to hurt Governor Russell Miller. And they believe it will be enough to hurt the whole campaign platform. Destroy the people's faith and help their own cause."

"And then—then—" she added, "there's the picket line at Smithsonian. Nick's mixed up in that, too. I saw his picture in the paper. He's trying to keep the trouble going on out there. I know that."

"The YP insist we don't need to spend money on national defense. They keep talking it and printing it in their paper. And they mean to hinder production whenever they can."

"And Joe—my fiancé—was hurt at the factory. He was hit on the head when coming from the plant. Maybe—maybe he'll die."

"You can't let things like that go on. Those people are dangerous—" She was crying now and frantic lest he not understand and believe her.

"So that's their game. There have been so many things to check on these last few months that we haven't been able to do as much investigating as we would like," Flanagan's voice was calm, comforting.

"I know about this Nick Alexander; a young fellow with a leftist turn. There are so many of them; blind, dissatisfied, led by smarter, older men who can mold them into tools."

He came around the desk and gave her his handkerchief. "Now don't worry. We'll clean the whole thing up. You go to the office tonight just as Nick wants. And let him go through with his plan."

Flanagan smiled and patted her hand. "Not frightened, are you?" "No—now that I know what to do."
