

Churchill Says Nazis Will Use Hundreds Of Barges In Invasion Attempt

LONDON, Sept. 11. (AP) (Via Radio)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill said today Germany is preparing for the invasion of England by moving hundreds of self-propelled barges down north-south canals to the French coast opposite Britain's shores.

These craft and troop convoys, the prime minister said, are moving into position under the protection of the big German guns set up on the French coast.

"No one should blind himself to the fact that this German invasion is being planned with all the German craft and method characteristic of them," he declared.

The next week, he said, "must be regarded as a very important one for us in our history."

He compared it with the attempt of the Spanish armada to invade the British Isles and the later attempt of Napoleon.

"Every man and woman must be ready to do his duty, whatever it may be, with special pride and care," he said.

"Our fleet is very powerful, x x x our shores are well fortified and well manned, and behind these lines we have a better equipped and far stronger army than we have ever had before.

Adolf Hitler, Churchill said, "has ignited a fire which will burn with a steady flame until the last vestiges of Nazi tyranny and brutality have been wiped out x x x and the old and new worlds join their great forces to build that which has been destroyed."

Turning to the effects of the air raids on London, the prime minister said, "all the world" marvels at the courage, the fortitude of the people who are withstanding these attacks.

"Our forces at sea know they have a people behind them who will never flinch, will never fail them, x x x but will draw from the sufferings a victory won, not only for our side, but for the better days that are to come."

Churchill, in opening his speech, said the air attacks so far had failed conspicuously.

LONDON, Sept. 11. — German warplanes charged repeatedly at London's defenses and fought desperate battles with Britain's airmen today as the greatest air war in history was disclosed to the world. The German planes destroyed a part of Britain's Buckingham Palace and damaged Germany's Reichstag building and Brandenburg Gate, historic structures of the two capitals.

The air ministry said British dive bombers also repeatedly hit with "great precision" the famous Potsdam railway station in Berlin. (This was denied by the Berlin radio.)

Today, three more air raid alarms were sounded in London. A formation of probably 125 German planes encountered 125 British fighters in the air today, but the British fighters were more numerous and the heaviest anti-aircraft fire yet heard in London in one daylight burst at the capital.

The sound of heavy bomb explosions thundered in the southwest and southeast parts of the city during an 80-minute alarm that started at 3:20 p. m. (3:50 a. m. CDT). The Germans broke up into two and three when the fighters pitched into them.

The informant said Goering had "left open" the question of whether troop landings would be attempted to conquer the island kingdom, declaring: "It all depends on how well the British fight back."

"It is conceivable that England will collapse under the weight of our air attacks. Then invasion will be unnecessary. But we are prepared either way."

This unofficial report, if true, would indicate that the next two or three days may see a decisive turn in the year-old European conflict.

The informant asserted that the great waves of Nazi bombers were scheduled to start the assault either late today or tomorrow.

Earlier, Britons excitedly cheered a smashing RAF raid on Berlin today as a belated announcement disclosed that Buckingham Palace—the century-old royal residence of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth—was partly wrecked by a German bomb.

The king and queen were not in the great white-stone palace when the bomb, a delayed-action missile, crashed from the skies Sunday night.

It exploded Tuesday, demolishing one corner of the north facade and showering splinters of glass over the first floor. Pillars fell in fragments around a crater 15 feet deep and 35 feet wide. The blasted section was the glass-walled swimming pool, directly under the queen's sitting room. At least 100 palace windows were smashed.

Only household staff members were in the palace at the time, safely huddled in underground air-raid shelters.

Coincidentally this curiously delayed disclosure, which was not explained, first Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander commented on reports of "mass concentrations by the enemy making his dispositions for entrance into this country," and declared:

"I can promise that if the enemy comes across in surface craft, they are going to get something to go on with."

Waves of British RAF dive-bombers gave Berlin's 4,000,000 an aerial taste of terror from the skies, knitting through a fierce anti-aircraft barrage to rain explosives on Hitler's reichstag, the Potsdam railway station, the Brandenburg Gate and the famous Unter Den Linden—Berlin's Fifth Avenue.

One unexploded bomb was believed to have dropped barely a yard from the home of Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels.

Hitler's high command admitted that a number of streets in the capital "had to be evacuated temporarily" this morning "because of the danger of houses collapsing."

Bomb splinters slightly damaged the United States embassy, adjoining Goebbels' residence, shattering a window and denting the opposite wall in the office of First Secretary Donald R. Heath.

Huge craters pocked Unter Den Linden. Incendiary bombs crashed to the roof of the reichstag, setting fires which workmen quickly extinguished. Other explosives hit the 150-year-old Brandenburg Gate, 85 feet high and 206 feet wide, and fell on Berlin's second largest hospital, St. Hedwig's, which houses 700 to 800 patients.

The RAF raiders, striking before dawn in the most spectacular assault yet on the German capital, took a reporter toll of five killed, many wounded and apparently heavy heavy damage. The raid lasted two hours.

Other squadrons of the royal air force bombed German-occupied Belgium, attacking objectives at Cologne.

10,000 PLANE-LOADS OF BOMBS TO SMASH LONDON IN NEXT FEW DAYS, NAZIS CLAIM

Elliott Defends FDR As Convention Cheers

The War Today

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

There is an ominous look in the Nazi resumption of nation-wide bombing of Britain after four nights of blood-bath for London.

This may be the prelude to an attempt at invasion with soldiers. Any such adventure must be preceded by a general and violent aerial assault, to reduce the country to an air state of insensibility as possible.

At the peak of this invasion will be tried, if at all.

Whether Hitler will essay this hazardous operation, which signified even Napoleon, must depend on circumstances. We do know that the Germans have made all preparations for the eventuality—even have a motley armada of small boats ready to dare the choppy waters of the English channel.

To my mind the Nazi chieftain will undertake it if there seems any chance of success, for he must achieve victory now at all legitimate hazards. Even a draw in the conflict at this time merely as the damage to his hypnotic prestige over the small countries of Europe—to say nothing of giving England a chance to build a powerful war machine against him, and tighten the blockade garrote about his neck.

Only yesterday Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, said it was a mistake to call the present drive on England "the battle of Great Britain" and that "Germans modestly regard this merely as the battle of London from which will develop the battle of Great Britain."

There would seem no reason to doubt that the conflict may take on far greater proportions in the immediate future. Respective of invasion, this will mean a general onslaught.

Birge of Amarillo on National Defense, and Department Commander Tom Carter of Lubbock on the National encampment which adjourned recently at Los Angeles.

Sen. Ashurst Defeated In Arizona Vote

(By The Associated Press)

Mourning returns from Tuesday's primary elections found Senator Ashurst (D-Ariz.) long a colorful capital figure, in an apparently losing fight today in his sixth bid for re-nomination, but the prospects were happier for three of his colleagues.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) was assured of re-nomination by an overwhelming lead. Senator Shipstead, Farmer-Laborite who joined Republican ranks this summer, enjoyed a wide lead in Minnesota over a field of 8 as the choice of his adopted party. And in Vermont Senator Austin received re-nomination unopposed.

Ashurst, whose opposition to the conscription bill was urged against him in the Arizona campaign, trailed his opponent Ernest W. McDonald by a vote of almost two-to-one. Ashurst has been senator from Arizona since the state's admission to the union in 1912.

Louisiana returns meanwhile indicated that four members of the house of representatives had gone down to defeat, with three others facing the uncertainty of run-off primaries. Gov. Sam Jones, elected last winter by the anti-Long forces, had urged the defeat of all 8 incumbents as supporters of the Long organization. One did not seek re-nomination.

Besides re-nominating Senator Austin, Vermont Republicans picked Gov. George D. Aiken, frequent new deal critic, for the senate vacancy resulting from the death of Senator Gibson (R.). Aiken won the short term nomination decisively over Ralph E. Flanders.

In gubernatorial contests, two well known figures were riding high. Gov. Harold Stassen, keynoter of the Republican national convention, had a huge lead in Minnesota for re-nomination over two critics of his administration. Stassen's activity in behalf of the Republican will likely be stressed in his campaign.

Michigan's octogenarian Gov. Lauren D. Dickinson, who got national attention some months back when he denounced big city vice and the evils of liquor, was far out in front of six younger rivals.

FDR To Make Radio Speech Tonight

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—Franklin D. Roosevelt's address to the International Tea and Coffee Convention—an address announced by his press secretary as "in all probability x x x the labor speech of the campaign."

Mr. Roosevelt will make the address in Constitution Hall tonight (from 8:30 to 9 p. m. C. S. T.), but he said to reporters yesterday that he would be able to tell whether it was political even after it had been delivered.

The Democratic National committee arranged to pay for the radio time on two national networks (NBC-CBS)—a possible sign, inasmuch as broadcasting companies charge to carry political speeches.

Democrats said the occasion offered Mr. Roosevelt an opportunity to draw a few shafts, if he chose, at Wendell L. Willkie, his Republican opponent for president. Willkie has spoken several times on labor and related subjects since his nomination.

GERMANS THREATEN PARLIAMENT

"I wouldn't give a farthing for the houses of parliament," said a pal of Reichsmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering today, after Hitler swore that his full-scale blitzkrieg would begin late today. The house of parliament, seat of the British government, is near the bank of the Thames. Clocktower, right, houses "Big Ben."

Hitler Sympathizer Threatens Evangelist

The Rev. Leland R. Faith, Denver evangelist conducting a revival series at the Assembly of God church, was pondering today over a postcard he received in yesterday's mail—and which he turned over to Pampa postal authorities for investigation.

The plain penny postcard carried this message to the Rev. Mr. Faith: "Are you a Jew or Gentile? Are you in favor of war? Are you 100 per cent American or 100 per cent Jew? Are you at peace with God and your fellowman? Please give Hitler what belongs to Hitler and give to God what belongs to God."

"We will see you in person," "KKK."

The Rev. Mr. Faith explained that he thought the postcard was in reprisal from a Nazi sympathizer who had heard either a sermon the evangelist preached last Friday night or last Sunday night at the Assembly of God church here in Pampa.

He said his Friday night topic was, "Three Bible Reasons Why Hitler Will Fail," and that his Sunday night sermon was titled, "Hitler and Stalin and Their Contest for Power—Where Will They Stop and Who Will Stop Them?"

Referring to the last sentence of the postcard message, Mr. Faith said: "I thought I was giving Hitler what belonged to him in both of the sermons."

As a result of the developments over his remarks on Hitler, Mr. Faith announced today that he would repeat his Bible lecture, "Three Bible Reasons Why Hitler Will Fail," at 8 o'clock tomorrow.

Famous Berlin Structures Partly Wrecked By British

(By The Associated Press)

Nazi quarters in Berlin asserted today that 10,000 plane-loads of bombs daily will be unleashed on the London area in the next few days, striking from French coastal bases in a titanic "all out" assault.

A host of 2,500 German warplanes making four trips daily will carry out the threatened full-scale blitzkrieg, they declared, apparently aimed at wiping out the 2,000-year-old British capital with its 8,000,000 inhabitants.

"I wouldn't give a farthing for the houses of parliament," said a German closely connected with Reichsmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering.

The informant said Goering had "left open" the question of whether troop landings would be attempted to conquer the island kingdom, declaring: "It all depends on how well the British fight back."

"It is conceivable that England will collapse under the weight of our air attacks. Then invasion will be unnecessary. But we are prepared either way."

Pampa Named As Next Convention City For Firemen

Fire Chief Ben White was elected second vice president of the Pampa Firemen's association yesterday in Dalhart and Pampa was named as the next convention meeting place, on the second Tuesday in May.

Pampa's crack team tied for first place with Claude in the pumper race with an elapsed time of 21.20 seconds. Each team received $45 to go into the volunteer fund. Later the tying teams staged a runoff race with the Pampa team winning with a time of 21 seconds flat. Claude made the same time as in the match race.

Members of the Pampa team were Eddy Gray, George Ingram, Dick Sullins, Bobby Karr, Lloyd Miller and Don Bandy.

Chief R. A. Massey of Memphis was elevated to the association presidency succeeding High Nation of Crosbyville. Chief Elmer Burnett of Dalhart was elected first vice president. W. C. Coursey of Memphis was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

More than 100 delegates attended the convention and unanimously approved a resolution urging adoption of the proposed constitutional amendment that would bring appointive municipal officers under civil service which would abolish the present system that they be reappointed each two years.

The convention closed with a banquet at which Judge John Honts was principal speaker. Speakers during the convention included Mayor Frank Farwell, District Attorney Milton Tutum, Charlie Coombes, all of Dalhart, and A. C. Youngblood of Dumas.

Nazis Swear Revenge For Reich Bombing

Berlin, Sept. 11.—Ten thousand plane-loads of German bombs are to be sent daily to the London area in smashing attacks in the next few days, exceptionally well-informed German sources said today.

These sources said there would be 2,500 planes making four daily trips between French supply bases and the British capital.

"They were to start either late today or tomorrow, a spokesman said. The bombers are based in Germany, the source said, but will fly to the French coast for the attack, and there take off from London.

"I wouldn't give one farthing for the houses of parliament," said this informant, a man whose connections with Reichsmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering are especially close.

"Now that our reichstag building has been bombed there is no reason why we shouldn't bomb the British parliament out of existence. If they try to hit the chancellery, Buckingham or Windsor castle will go as surely as you live."

(A delayed action bomb exploded yesterday in a wing of Buckingham castle, the British government announced today.)

This informant asserted the "British are already licked and don't know it."

British demolition and incendiary bombs struck the heart of the German reich in the RAF's most spectacular Berlin attack and forced

B. M. Baker P-TA Begins New Year At Tuesday Meet

Following a brief meeting of the executive board in the school office, the first regular meeting of B. M. Baker Parent-Teacher association was held in the school auditorium Tuesday afternoon.

Vacancies which occurred during the summer will be filled by volunteers, the executive board decided.

The regular meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Jess Beard, who called on Ken Bennett to lead the group in two songs, "America" and "God Bless America."

Principal J. A. Meek read the scripture and then led the invocation. He also introduced the teachers: First year, Miss Lela Clifford, Miss Ida Mae Harris; second year, Miss Minnie Allen, Miss Julia Shackelford, Miss Louise Williams; third grade, Miss Bernice Larsh, Miss Lillian Mullins; fourth grade, Mrs. J. P. Arrington, Mrs. Annie Daniels, Mrs. B. G. Gordon; fifth grade, Miss Beatrice Drew, Mrs. A. J. Johnson, Miss Mary McKamy; sixth grade, Miss Verdie Denton, Mrs. Ralph Morrison, and Dick Livingston.

Miss Denton, who is in charge of the craft club, discussed the purpose of the club.

"The purpose is to learn pleasurable and enjoyable use of leisure time," she said.

Mr. Bennett spoke on the band and choral groups. He stated that the band has adopted the plan of not charging interest for instruments but of taking children to play the instruments which seem to fit them.

Mr. Livingston, who is chairman of the health and safety program, said that points to be stressed are: Vaccinations, general inspection, health cards, and dental examinations.

More Flares in Gloves
American glove manufacturers are becoming more and more generous in their use of leather. Some of the new gloves are being made with dramatically flared cuffs in 8-button and longer lengths. This gauntlet effect often requires an entire skin for each glove but produces so much glamor that the extravagance is entirely justified.

"Build-Up" Relief Explained to Women

A simple method has saved many women a lot of suffering! It is based on the fact that headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain are often symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition. Help for this condition so often follows the use of CARDUI, because it usually increases the appetite and the flow of gastric juice; thus aids digestion and helps build physical resistance. Usual result is less periodic distress. Many who take CARDUI a few days before and during "the time" have found this also helps ease periodic discomfort. Women have used CARDUI for more than 50 years!

Smocking on American Suedes Suede is an American leather that is being given a lot of favor for the new season. One of the dresser gloves is a slip-on in a four-button length that deviates from the classic only by a trim of smocking about half an inch wide that runs from the base of the fourth finger to the cuff. This American designed glove is particularly smart in the Port Wine or Fomenade Green shade.

Belgian Relatives Of Pampa Visitor Lost

By BROWNWOOD EMERSON
 Every time he sees a poster showing a European refugee child tears dim his eyes and he looks the other way. It's too real for him, for he remembers World War I, in which he served four years in the Belgian army, and somewhere in Europe today are his mother, brother, two sisters, and relatives of his wife.

Alive or dead? He doesn't know. Last May he got a letter from his brother. It had been written in April. Everything was peaceful then and his brother expressed the hope that the war scare was over. By the time he received the letter, the Nazi hordes had over-run his native land.

A. J. Wittamer, who travels Texas and New Mexico, for the Advertising Exchange of Chicago, was in Pampa today and told a heart-rending story of the plight of the children of brave little Belgium, and of every other land where Germany has crushed the armies and the civilian population.

THE CHILDREN'S HOUR—EUROPE, 1940

War Against Civilians
 "I saw the plight of children in the other war," Wittamer said, "and this one will be much worse."
 "The part of Belgium occupied by the German soldiers in the first World War had a hard time. To obtain a bushel of potatoes, a civilian was required to dig all day. Getting a loaf of bread required a similar ordeal."
 "The lack of sufficient food is the reason there were so many Belgians in obtaining food in the method had curvatures of the spine, and others who were crippled. This time it will be worse, for then there was some preparation to care for civilians."
 "Hitler has reversed the idea of

French and the British in that terrible trap, who are now in England to form a new Belgian army.

An unflattering parallel of the war in which congress is haggling over the conscription measure and the French chamber of deputies was noted by the salesman.

He said the American soldiers were arguing back and forth much in the same manner that the French had done, when the French lawmakers asked their "votes of confidence" and had to consider this faction and the other, and has frequent changes of government. "It's a cockeyed arrangement," Wittamer commented on the French system.

For the future, the salesman comments: "If the methods of warfare which Germany, and perhaps to a lesser degree, England, are now using should become the accepted method in any conflict, war would become a more horrible and more unfair way to settle an argument than it has ever been."

Hitler's Mass Massacre
 "It would be a mortal combat between populations instead of more or less fair fighting between armies. Hitler has used this more cruel method on several occasions since the beginning of the war."
 "He used it in Poland. It forced the surrender of the Dutch army through the systematic bombing of the open town of Rotterdam where thousands of helpless civilians were killed and buried under the debris of their homes."
 "Hitler threatened to use it in Belgium, thereby forcing the surrender of the Belgian army. He took a taste of it to Paris and the French army abandoned the city, rather than see its millions of inhabitants inhumanly destroyed."
 "Now Hitler is following the same procedure in his conquest of England. He knows that civilians, helpless under a shower of bombs, will cry for mercy before the army will. Hitler knows that the bravest soldier who would face death without a murmur will surrender before he allows the enemy to murder his wife or his children."
Non-Protest a Shame
 "If a gangster were to hold you up, you would fight if you thought you had a chance, but no matter how good your chances were, you would lay down your arms if the gangster had his gun on your wife or your child and if he told you that he would kill them if you didn't surrender."
 "Hitler is employing these gangster methods today and the greatest pity of it all is that the rest of the world does not protest, perhaps because these neutral countries, and that includes our own United States, are not strong enough to protest."

Oklahoma And Kansas Bright Spots In Crude Oil Industry

By EDWARD CURTIS
 TULSA, Okla., Sept. 11 (AP)—Oklahoma and Kansas apparently were the bright spots in the oil industry today.

Lowering of production in Illinois has returned some of the lost crude markets to those two Mid-Continent states, but outside that area the situation is not too optimistic.

In northern Texas, crude demand is brisk, while farther south the market grows weak, barely holding its pace on the gulf coast.

The seasonal ebb in gasoline consumption is near, and while gallonage during the heavy touring summer months has been record breaking, there have been some grumblings that "gallonage records are fine, if they are accompanied by profits."

There has been some contention that crude production has been too high, with too much moving into storage. There also has been some agitation against importation of high gravity crude from Mexico. At the same time, it has been pointed out that additional imports of heavy gravity oil from Venezuela and the Netherlands West Indies might give the U. S. a source of raw material for winter fuel oils which would not force refiners to continue piling up gasoline stocks.

In the field the Oil and Gas Journal reported 601 completions for the week, compared with 556 the previous week and 527 a year ago.

Pool opens in Stafford and Phillips counties were completed in Kansas. An outpost northwest of the Frederick field, Tillman county, Oklahoma, found the pay. . . Clay and Montague counties in north Texas got new pools. . . Michigan got an 800-bbl. wildcat south of the Beaverton field in Gladwin county and a new gas field in Missaukee county. . . The Ogburn distillate field, Harris county, Texas gulf coast, was converted into an oil field by a north extension well.

Mrs. Braly Named State Executive Committeewoman
 Two Pampans were elected to offices in the Democratic state organization at the convention held Monday in Mineral Wells.

Mrs. Clifford Braly, Sr., was elected without opposition as state executive committeewoman for the 31st district. She succeeds Mrs. H. C. Peck, who has moved from Amarillo to Midland.

To the platform and resolutions committee was elected Emils C. Pavors, representative-nominee. He is to be visited here tomorrow by Gov. and Mrs. W. Lee O'Daniel, as a part of the governor's tour of the state to become acquainted with legislators.

The governor will also visit Richard Craig of Miami in that town tomorrow. Craig, representative-nominee, was elected a member of the nomination of party officers committee.

A. J. Wittamer, traveling salesman representing a Chicago firm, in Pampa today. He was 14 years old when Germans marched into Liege, served four years in the Belgian army, was in the hospital 10 months out of that time. Now a naturalized American he wonders if the experiences of 1914 are being repeated for a score of his relatives, including his mother, brother, and two sisters, somewhere in Belgium and France.

war. He was on civilians, for he knows if he can make the civilian population crack, he can have an easy time smashing the army.

Relatives Suffered
 Wittamer's own relatives underwent the experiences of other Belgians in obtaining food in the method he described. He wonders today if they are undergoing the 1914-18 episode again, or if they are dead.

In Pueblo, Colo., last June he received a letter from his wife's sister, now in south France. It described the exodus from her home on the east side of Meuse near Liege. When it became apparent that the Germans were to take the city, she grabbed her children and ran across the one remaining bridge across the river that had not been destroyed.

"Contrary to propaganda," Wittamer says, "every bridge had been blown up in an effort to stop the Germans. This one bridge was left, and it was announced that it was to be blown up, about 20 minutes before it was destroyed."

In a cattle train the Belgian woman and her children had a 14-hour ride, and were bombed by German planes.

At the end of the trip, Wittamer's sister-in-law found the town of destination being bombed.

There was a transfer to another train which was shunted about so much to make way for troops that it took eight days to get to France.

English Face Crisis
 The salesman wonders if England can hold out. He doubts it, in view of Hitler's methods.

"You take a woman who sees a child killed when her home is bombed. The house is rebuilt, then it's bombed and another son is killed. She's going to get tired of that and want an end to the war."

Wittamer is a naturalized American. He came to America in 1923, received his citizenship here in 1929.

For the past six years he has been connected with his present employers. Wittamer calls in Pampa twice a year. His last visit here was four months ago.

Upholds Leopold
 Born at Arlon, in the Ardennes mountains, in southeastern Belgium, Wittamer was in the fourth division of the Belgian army for four years in World War I.

He stoutly maintains that King Leopold was justified in accepting Hitler's terms of surrender, pointing out the slaughter that went on in the Belgian area 30 miles long by 20 miles wide, in which were 300,000 troops and 2,000,000 civilians.

"To visualize the scene of inhuman carnage that took place there during the last three or four days of Belgian resistance."

"All day long, from dawn to dusk, wave after wave of German bombers, each equipped with cannon and machine guns flying over those terrified people, killing them by the hundreds, obeying Hitler's orders to destroy anything caught in that horrible trap. Do you wonder that a soldier goes stark mad when he sees these miserable wretches being blown to bits before his eyes?"

"Many Belgian soldiers were torn between the desire to continue the fight and the inability to avoid bringing German fire on refugees who shared their camps."

Riding any aspirations of cowardice on the part of the Belgians, Wittamer cited the thousands of Belgians who fought with the

A "FOUR-ALARM" FOR THE BLUE-GRAY TRUCKS

A KANSAS CITY bridge burst into flames one morning last spring. It twisted and writhed under the terrific heat. . . then stout steel spans splashed into the Kansas River.

"Voice bridges" went out of service, too. For attached to the bridge were two large telephone cables, containing wires to 1,700 telephones. It was a four-alarm for the telephone repair crews—the men in the blue-gray trucks. While flames still soared near by, the reconstruction work began.

In a fire department rowboat they got a line across the river. Emergency telephones were rigged up at strategic locations.

Then came a driving rain to make the task even harder. All night they worked against great odds. By midnight 60 telephones were working. By breakfast time three-fourths of the silenced telephones could speak. That afternoon telephone service was back to normal.

Meeting—and whipping—emergencies is a part of the telephone man's job.

Your telephone service is backed by skilled, loyal people whose experience in past emergencies better equips them for the emergencies of the future.

Those War Communiques

The average reader, following the official war communiques from the belligerent powers, goes around in something of a daze. They simply don't make sense. The Germans, for instance, will claim the destruction of 50 British war planes with losses of but 15 of their own ships, while the British, on the same day, will reverse the figures. And the dispatches of the war correspondents are not a great deal more helpful for the most part. These correspondents are able and honest reporters, but they are subjected to an iron censorship and must necessarily couch their comment in vague terms. And the warring governments make sure that the correspondents see only what they want them to see.

Thus the confused reader must look largely to other sources of information if he seeks an approximation of the truth. And such other sources exist in this country. The War and Navy departments have channels of information which have proven extremely accurate. They maintain naval and military attaches in countries with which we have diplomatic relations, whose job it is to coldly discern the facts, unaffected by sentiment. And, according to late accounts, these observers are convinced that the British reports of five-and-take in the great war now going on in the air are far more accurate than the German.

That comes as good news to most of the American people, who believe that the defeat of England would gravely endanger us. Apparently it is true that British pilots and planes are better than the German. Furthermore, it is believed in some official circles that the British claim that Empire plane production has at last caught up with German, is pretty close to the fact. And some also believe that British production is now ahead of losses, while German production of first-line fighting aircraft is less than losses.

The English have one very definite advantage in this air war. Only a handful of British planes are sent over the continent, while hundreds of German planes are sent over England—the Nazis are on the offensive, and Britain's raids on Germany are largely of a retaliatory character. That means that when a German pilot falls out of a destroyed ship and lands safely he goes to a prison camp—while a British pilot who saves himself with his parachute lives to fight for the Crown another day. German planes crashing on the "tight little island" are of salvage value to the British, as are their own planes.

This doesn't mean that Germany has lost the balance of air power, so far as the statistics are concerned. Best estimates place the German first-line force at 12,000 ships, as against 6,000 for England. And Germany probably has more trained pilots. But it does mean that Britain is catching up. And it is reported that some recently captured German pilots had only half the training that is given English pilots before they are sent into combat. Whether that is the result of a shortage of pilots in Germany, or a policy of holding her best men in reserve for a future attack of unprecedented severity, is a matter of question. American military experts give Britain a far better chance of surviving now than they gave her two or three months back. Some cataclysm of the near future may prove them 100 per cent wrong, but they feel that Hitler has little chance of making his time-table click this time—that is, of subduing England before October comes with its fogs and storms. All through fall and winter and early spring the British Isles are blanketed in a dripping mist. It is significant that an Italian newspaper which often speaks for Mussolini recently said that the war may last two more years. That is a very different tune than the Axis leaders were singing after the collapse of France.

Behind The News

The Pampa News Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—The new army which will come into being as a result of passage of the Burke-Wadsworth bill will take shape in a way entirely different from the formation of the World War draft army.

There won't be any great training cantonments, or any new units composed of rookies. Instead, the new men will be fed into existing formations—some with the regular army, some with the national guard. Point is every rookie will have an old-timer at his side all the way.

Assume, for instance, that the present strength of an infantry company in the regular army is around 110 men. Approximately 85 new men would be assigned to this company. The percentage of veterans in the company would be somewhat lower than those figures would indicate, however, since on an average about 50 of the 110 already in the outfit would be comparatively new men who had enlisted within recent months.

The whole course of sprouts which the rookie is

Common Ground By R. C. HOILES

This column contends there can be no satisfactory progress until we measure the shares of each man by the common yardstick of the God-given equal right to create and enjoy anything anyone else has a right to create and enjoy.

TAKE OFF THE GADGETS
The reader parrot-like repeats the statement that Roosevelt has befriended the poor, and asks what suggestions the critics of Roosevelt would make and says that they should be specific and not resort to generalities.

If I had an automobile that had given splendid service until I had been persuaded by some theorist to put on a lot of new gadgets which the theorist claimed would give me better service, and after I had put these gadgets on, my automobile bucked and stalled and would not carry the load it did beforehand, I would take these gadgets off.

Or if I had been raising a good crop of corn with the same kind of cultivation that had always produced good corn and some dreamer sold me some new theories and my corn crop was not good for 10 years, I certainly would discontinue the theories that did not produce results.

Before we had these socialistic laws that have been adopted especially during the present Administration, we made for a hundred years great progress in human betterment. So, I would repeal all these "gadget" laws that have been passed since we have had difficulties in furnishing full employment and constantly rising wage levels.

As this column has repeatedly said, the Federal Government should take off all gadget laws that discriminates against any individual.

It should take off the gadget law of taxing one man at one rate on his income and another at another rate, as the income and inheritance laws do.

It should take off the gadget of the Wagner law.

It should take off the gadget of the Clayton Amendment to the Sherman Anti-Trust law that permits certain groups to combine for restraint of trade and not others.

It should take off the gadget tax on payrolls, both to the employer and the employee.

It should take off the gadget of the minimum wage and maximum hour law.

It should take off a large part of the Gadget SEC law.

It should gradually take off the gadgets of all tariffs, all prirates and all federal relief.

Would this not be the common sense way that any practical person would handle his own difficulties? And if we, as a government, are only a group of individuals, then would it not be common sense and logical for us, collectively, to handle our difficulties on the same basis as we would handle them as individuals? Would it not seem extremely foolish for a man to continue with gadgets on his automobile after he had tried for 10 years to make it work and it never worked as long as these gadgets were on?

These are some of the specific gadgets that should be taken off so the carburetor of free enterprise can function. This would return the people of the United States to the greatest prosperity America ever knew.

ETERNAL PRINCIPLES LACKING IN LEADERSHIP

The other day I was reading three documents which, put together, caused me to think of the fall of the Roman Empire.

One was the acceptance speech of Wendell Willkie, another was the combined statements of the Bishops of the Methodist-Episcopal Church in their 1940 conference at Atlantic City.

It seemed to me that neither Mr. Willkie nor the Bishops want the government to encroach on the inalienable rights of other persons. Both Mr. Willkie and the group of Bishops contradict themselves repeatedly in their statements.

The Bishops opposed totalitarianism and admit that the experiences of Russia are not encouraging. Yet, they want to spread employment, as if there were a limited amount of work to be done. They want the majority to have the right by force to prohibit people from doing things that do not directly affect others.

As I read these two documents, supposed to represent leadership, and a book by a great teacher, William Graham Sumner, on "Folkways", in which he quoted from Lecky's History of European Morals, I saw the vivid comparison of corruption spreading through all our classes from top to bottom. Lecky says, "It (referring to the masses following the classes) was the most frightful feature of the corruption of ancient Rome, that it extended through every class in the community."

And when those in positions of leadership of a great church and the leaders of a great political party advocate action without principle and want to be the judge and want to discard the principle of equal freedom to create and enjoy, and substitute for it their right to take from one and give to another, then we have corruption at the top. The masses always follow those in position of leaders and possibly these groups are only a mirror of what the masses believe, even if they do hold leadership positions.

Any student of history must be perturbed at such leadership.

put through rests on the general staff's assumption that (a) it takes at least 12 months to make a soldier, and (b) that most soldiers nowadays are specialists of one kind or another.

So the new soldier spends the first two months of his army career getting his basic training—learning how to roll his blankets and shine his shoes and handle his rifle and do all of the other things which rate so high in the mind of the top sergeant.

After two months the soldier has the rough edges polished off a bit, and his company then goes into special and unit training. The whole idea of this training—and there'll be eight months of it—is to prepare the soldier for the rather specialized job he will finally fill.

The figures on that, by the way, may be of interest: army men figure specialists now comprise 21 per cent of the infantry strength, 28 per cent of the cavalry, 48 per cent of the field artillery, 38 per cent of the coast artillery, 60 per cent of the engineers, 78 per cent of the air corps and 69 per cent of the signal corps.

WILL MANUEVER IN GROUPS
Ten months after the rookies have entered the service, the company—which now, remember, has a strength of about 195, of whom rather more than half were originally enlisted men—is ready to become a "team" in the highly complex work of a modernized army.

AS IF THINGS AIN'T TOUGH ENOUGH

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 11—As deputy commissioner of the Department of Glamour, Wham, Zowie, and Umph, it is my pleasure to announce the arrival here of a red-headed trick named Signe Hasso. She's Swedish. "Signe" means "bless you."

"Hasso" seems to be just a name, like Sternheim or Gustavsen, except that it looks better on the marquee.

Hollywood has been trying to get Signe Hasso over here for five years, or ever since she was 20 and already an established stage favorite of the fjord and smorgasbord regions. Metro and 20th-Fox started the bidding. She was impressed, naturally, but she had a husband and a brand-new son who were not.

Her husband, besides being an artist and director, is a cinematographer who has invented several important camera contraptions. Any way, he knows a lot about the movie business, and he told her not to be in a hurry about listening to Hollywood. He even kept her out of Swedish films until she was able to entertain them at the top, as a theater queen.

ON LINE FOR SEVEN PICTURES
When it finally was decided that she would come here, RKO which the studio she chose. Her contract isn't the sort of excursion ticket on which a score or so of foreign cuties have visited Hollywood, belying their halcyon by doing a couple of bit parts before fading out again.

Miss Hasso is on the blotted line for seven pictures in four years, and with four months of each year free for a return to the Swedish stage or studios.

What the seven pictures will be is anybody's guess. The first one may be a super-western—the recent Clarence Buddington Kelland yarn about the founding of the desert. Miss Hasso would be the Swedish gal who ran a restaurant, dealing out lots of food but no favors whatever to the predatory pioneers. However, Miss Hasso wouldn't play the role of English by talking with a cleaver broadsword at her belt. The actress is too dark and too personable.

The dark red hair helps, of course, yet there's nothing about her that reminds you of her enemies and pale-skinned countrywoman, Greta Garbo. There's nothing flaccid about her handshake or frigid in her grin, and she's enviably equipped for grinning. If she resembles anybody hereabout, it's Steffi Duna.

AT TWELVE
Miss Hasso has little accent and soldier along so smoothly in conversation that her idiomatic crackups seem especially funny. She'll stop on a syllable and grope around in English by talking with the stardust on the plane coming from New York. Miss Hasso is no exception, although she didn't come by way of New York. She came from Stockholm through Russia, Manchukuo, Japan, Manila, Honolulu, and San Francisco and is supposed to have learned English en route.

The trip helped, of course. She had a month to study in Japan while waiting for a steamer reschedule. But she also won a scholarship for drama study in London several years ago.

American talkies aided her, too. Miss Hasso has seen most of them, even though she has favored the stage ever since she stepped into a Molliere play at 12. That was to have been a brief engagement, incidentally, but just then good luck came along in the disguise of financial ruin for her family. Signe had to go on working.

OUR COUNTRY
JOHN STEINBECK BELIEVES INTERNAL QUARRELS PROVE VITALITY OF DEMOCRACY

Third of 24 articles on "Our Country," written exclusively for NEA Service and The Pampa News by the nation's most famous authors.

By JOHN STEINBECK
Author of "The Grapes of Wrath," "Of Mice and Men," "Tortilla Flat," etc.

The time has come when some realistic thinking must be done about the American democracy in relation to the mushrooming totalitarian states.

The dictators say that democracy is a degenerate form of government. This is a ridiculous generality. Democracy is only degenerate when its leaders and its people are degenerate.

Actually, totalitarianism is a degenerate form, for in it a hopeless, confused and embittered people have tossed all thought and responsibility to one man, thus proving their lack of morality, versatility and ingenuity.

Democracy on the other hand, by dividing responsibility, keeps the political function and ability alive among the people, and a difference in endurance. That endurance here—America could lose any hundred thousand men and remain a functioning nation while the loss of ten key men would cripple the Third

When I have maintained the right and ability of the people to change that government slowly and lawfully. And our government has been in a constant state of change since it was established. We like this method. There are very few Americans who do not infinitely prefer the worst of our democracy to the best of totalitarianism.

The history of Germany has been a history of magnificent errors. Now, because we fight each other—party against party, group against group, industry against labor—Hitler suspects that we are degenerate. He has completely overlooked the vitality of this fighting.

It is through such fighting that we have kept alive and that we have progressed socially and economically. This fighting is the proof that we are not degenerate.

The war will come and then it will be seen whether or not a free and alert people can coagulate into a force to withstand and defeat the power of the hypnotized automatons of the dictators.

Nearly all Americans believe in the same things. They differ on the details. I think they are quite capable of leaving those details for the moment of the preservation of the whole. I am convinced that this

Congress Likely To Adjourn This Month

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP)—Administration leaders, acting on President Roosevelt's assurance that he had no further major proposals at this time, laid plans today to adjourn congress until January some time between Sept. 21 and 28.

Only one important piece of legislation has yet to be started through congress—a billion dollar deficiency bill to pay the first year's cost of conscription—and leaders felt that action on this, on the pending tax and conscription bills, and on remaining minor measures, could be completed in about two weeks.

Ford Pays Waitress $46 For Keeping Common Herd Away

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Sept. 11 (AP)—Good service as a waitress in a hotel dining room—which included "keeping curiosity seekers" away from Henry Ford—brought Ethel Gaff, 39, a $46 reward from Ford after the 84 luncheon check of Ford's party had been paid she thought it might have been left by accident.

But Harry Bennett, personnel director of the Ford Motor company, said at Detroit last night that he "left the money purposely" after paying the bill because Miss Gaff had given good services and kept curious persons from disturbing the automobile magnate.

Government Laughs At Almazanistas

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 11 (AP)—It was reported here today that the Almazanista congress had impeached President Lazaro Cardenas of Mexico and named Gen. Hector F. Lopez provisional president.

The government supports Gen. Juan Almazan, independent candidate for president in the recent elections in Mexico.

Roberto Morales, vice president of the permanent commission appointed by the congress to assume its powers during the congressional adjournment, was credited by the San Antonio News with issuing the proclamation.

The paper said Lopez was designated to serve until Almazan, who claimed he was elected, takes office Dec. 1.

Miles Per Gallon Of Gasoline Can Be Doubled, Tests Show

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
DETROIT, Sept. 11.—The next major change in automobile driving, the American Chemical society was informed today, is likely to be doubling the miles per gallon of gasoline.

Laboratory tests already show both that it can be done, and that while the gasoline for doubled mileage will cost more, the driver still may cut the fuel bill by perhaps 30 per cent.

The reports were made by T. A. Boyd, who headed the research laboratories of the General Motors corporation. Up to now, he said, the buyers of cars have preferred more power, more acceleration and more hill-climbing capacity rather than just more miles per gallon. They can't have both, he explained.

"It begins to appear," he then added, "that from now on car users may prefer to take the benefits of further improvements in fuel and of advances in engineering in terms of more miles per gallon."

American drivers today ride on what is known as 70 octane gasoline, on the average. Boyd said that 100 octane experiments show 55 per cent more miles per gallon at 20 miles per hour, and more than 40 per cent gain at higher speeds.

In the same tests, he added, a car gives 50 per cent more miles at 80 miles an hour and 70 per cent more at 20 miles per hour. One hundred octane is already on the market for aviation.

The stamp cost Arthur Hind $37,000 when he bought the famous Ferrary collection in Paris in 1922. Shortly before his death, he gave the stamp to his wife.

The stamp remained unknown from issue until its discovery in 1873 by a youth named Vaughn who sold it for $150. Ferrary paid about $750 for it.

The stamp was printed from ordinary type, illustrated with a ship design lifted from a newspaper's shipping news. Each stamp was initialed before issue. Only one copy of the stamp is known to exist.

Baugh Tosses Three Touchdown Passes Over Eastern Stars

BOSTON, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Slingshot Sammy Baugh, the Washington Redskins' famed forward passer, left town today with a decision over Holy Cross' Ronnie Cahill, but only because the National Professional Football League was supported by a stronger cast.

PHILADELPHIA Sept. 11.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates found the Philadelphia Phillies easy yesterday, taking both ends of a doubleheader, 11-3, and 11-1. Maurice Van Robays hit a homer with two aboard to help Pittsburgh win the first, 11-3, while Danny Litwiler scored the tie, the Phillies lone nightcap run with a circuit cut.

Grove's 13-Inning Arm Feat Checks Tigers 6-5

(By Judson Bailey, Associated Press Sports Writer) Life does begin at forty and Lefty Grove, the gaunt ghost with a magnificent past and doubtful future, has returned to haunt the trembling American league as proof.

Earlier this season Old Mose, 40 last March, seldom managed to last nine innings. When he broke a bone in his foot in August and was reported lost to the Boston Red Sox for the year, nobody figured it made much difference to Boston one way or the other—except sentimentally.

Then a week ago Sunday he came out of the limbo of the lost and battled for 13 innings against a strong kid half his age, Sid Hudson of Washington, and finally was beaten, 1-0.

Yesterday Grove was up against the leading pitcher of the league, Buck Newsum, winner of 18 games against three losses, and a gallant team that was on the hot end of a five-game winning streak and in first place in the league.

Grove gave up three hits, one of them Hank Greenberg's 30th home run, for three tallies in the first inning. But after that he allowed only one run in the next ten innings and was never behind after his teammates tied up the score at 3-1 in the sixth.

His victory lifted the Red Sox to within four games of the lead. The Cleveland Indians and the New York Yankees were kept tied by rain yesterday and both gained through Detroit's downfall.

The Indians and Yankees were scheduled for a doubleheader today with Detroit tackling the Red Sox in a single game.

The Washington Senators subdued the Chicago White Sox 5-2, and the Philadelphia Athletics whipped the St. Louis Browns 6-4.

The only National league games that escaped the rain were in a doubleheader that Pittsburgh captured from the Phillies 11-3 and 11-1.

(Sweden) Nelson's Eastern All-Star Colleagues.

Baugh tossed three touchdown passes, two to Charlie Malone and another to Hayward Sanford. Cahill launched the All-Stars' scoring by contacting Lloyd Ickes with a 28-yard heave and then, in the fourth period, the ex-Crusader raced 15 yards for the Collegians' only tally.

While Baugh rested in the third and most of the fourth period, Dick Todd and Roy Zimmerman rolled up the Redskins total by a touchdown each.

ALMAZANISTAS Tight-Lipped In San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 11 (AP)—The Evening News says today: Although followers of Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan, claimant to the Mexican presidency remained tight-lipped today, it was learned through other sources that San Antonio probably would be the point from which an important declaration would be made later in the day.

Almazan adherents here from Mexico continued to decline comment on the grounds that they cannot make political statements until the state department acts on their application for recognition as a legal foreign political group. It was strenuously denied, however that Gen. Plutarco Calles, exiled former president of Mexico now living in San Diego, Calif., was expected here or had any affiliation with the Almazan group.

If the state department recognizes the Almazan group in the United States, San Antonio is expected to become a headquarters for those who have come into the United States.

The Almazanistas contend that their presidential candidate was elected in the July elections, and that the administration of President Cardenas, in declaring its favorite, Gen. Avila Camacho, as the victor, has acted falsely.

Bomb Demolishes Corner Of Palace LONDON, Sept. 11 (AP)—A delayed-action bomb hit Buckingham palace, residence of the king and queen of England, Sunday night and exploded Tuesday demolishing one corner of the north front and sending flying glass over the first floor. King George and Queen Elizabeth here not in the palace at the time and a palace spokesman said today there were no casualties.

Reporters were permitted to inspect the wreckage at the century-old royal residence this morning.

The torn-out part was the glass-enclosed swimming pool, just under the queen's sitting room facing an expansive shaded lawn where the annual July garden party was given in peacetime.

Great pillars of white stone were toppled in fragments around a crater 15 feet deep and 35 feet wide.

Santa Fe Lines Note 80th Year On September 17

A birthday party, dedicating 80 steps in the progress of the great Southwest, is to be celebrated at Atchison, Kas., September 17, with the population and more than 25,000 visitors blowing candles which lit the path of development in the vast area between that community and the Pacific coast by virtue of birth of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway.

Federal, state, county and municipal officials will join in homage in the epic which marks the eightieth anniversary of the origin of the railway. They will add their tribute to the enterprise of Cyrus K. Holliday and those stalwarts who enlisted in the daring enterprise of railroad pioneering and who envisioned the prospects and encompassment of western development.

The Santa Fe was organized in an old one-story brick building at Atchison in 1860, less than a year preceding the birth of the Kansas territory as a state.

Cyrus Holliday drew the charter at Atchison in 1859 and it was supported by the legislature in the same year.

Holliday was elected president. Then stalemate followed as a result of dissenation between the states, and it was not until 1868 that ground was broken at Topeka, which marked the beginning of the Santa Fe.

Funds for the original company were subscribed in the little brick building in the then small community of Atchison.

Hamillon Directing Socorro Entrada

SOCORRO, N. M., Sept. 11.—"The Entrada of Coronado," with its embattled Indians and hard fighting Spaniards, fits the background of this quiet New Mexico town perfectly. It tells the story of Coronado, the discoverer of the southwest, in blood and thunder fashion. Socorro's citizens are familiar with that type of story. They lived it.

The play was a commonplace affair around here, old timers are telling Mark Hamilton, director of the show, to be staged Sept. 26 and 27. Many of the oldsters remember how they had to hide frequently under Apaches, Navajos, Comanches and other tribesmen on the war-path.

The Indians, they say, would approach the town and run off cattle left unprotected. Any unwary palface found in the way was dispatched neatly. A pioneer family here still has among its heirlooms a big metal lined box large enough to be used as Indian-raid shelter by four or five people.

"When 'The Entrada of Coronado' comes to Socorro it will be following a time-honored tradition here. The town has seen good shows ever since all road troops, operas and theatrical companies used to stop at the old Garcia Opera House fifty and sixty years ago.

Most companies, jumping off from Kansas City into the wide open spaces, stopped off at Socorro to break the long journey to the Pacific coast.

Faithful in historical outline, the Entrada also has an authentic wardrobe which cost $18,000, and is presented on the latest type of steel stage now in use in Hollywood.

Registration Will Include Men From 21 To 30 Years Old WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP)—Although congressional agreement was still above an uncertain horizon, the war department has made plans, it was disclosed today, to register men from 21 through 30 years old as a separate group on event the broader 21-through-44 age bracket eventually receives approval.

The war department's decision was said to be in the interest of minimizing delay on the actual start of the compulsory military service program, once the Burke-Wadsworth legislation becomes law.

The age question continued the major problem today, as the joint senate-house conference committee sought to compose differences in the varying drafts of the bill voted by the two chambers.

House conferees were to give their answers to a compromise proposal by senate members for fixing the upper age limit at 39, instead of the 44-year maximum previously approved by house vote.

The senate version of the measure called for registration of all men from 21 through 36.

Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex) of the senate military committee said no appreciable progress had been made by the joint committee on the second important controversial point—the house amendment deferring conscription for 60 days while attempts were made to fill the army's initial quota of 400,000 men by voluntary enlistments.

Jesse Jones Will Hold Two Jobs WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP)—Congressional action cleared the way today for President Roosevelt to nominate Jesse H. Jones as secretary of commerce and still have him retain his position as federal loan administrator.

The senate passed unanimously yesterday legislation exempting Jones from federal laws prohibiting one person from holding two federal posts. The measure, previously approved by the house, would limit Jones' salary to the $15,000 annually paid a cabinet member.

Shortage Of Foodstuffs In France Seen

By ROY P. PORTER PARIS, Sept. 7 (Vla Berlin, delayed)—(AP)—A shortage of certain foodstuffs in occupied France which can be met only by strict rationing this winter was forecast today by officials of the agricultural section of the German military administration.

They said the prospective shortage resulted directly from military operations.

These authorities said German occupation forces were not sending large quantities of food from France into Germany. Wheat flour is being exported into the Reich from France, they said, but only in return for rye flour from which German army bread is made.

The primary reason for the prospective shortage, German officials said, was the removal by the French government of between 8,000,000 and 10,000,000 inhabitants from departments of Northern France when the war started. Included on this number were between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 agricultural workers.

This exodus, they pointed out, had two effects. First, the crops which would have been planted in early May were forgotten after the first German offensive began May 10. Second, crops which like the first cutting of hay, would have been harvested in the same period, were left standing in fields.

The most urgent rationing needs concern meat and fat, German sources said. One reason given was that cattle herds were abandoned by fleeing populations, resulting in considerable losses of livestock.

Steps already have been taken to boost wheat production in 1941 through an increase in acreage. Wine production throughout the country was reported "very good."

YESTERDAY Sue Mary visits an exhibit of modern art, meets the smiling, intense young man whom she saw in the park. He is Nick Alexander. He introduces her to Natalie Russen and Vera Oliver. Sue Mary is happy to find new friends.

INVITATION TO A PARTY

CHAPTER III

SUE MARY found going to bed that evening a slow affair. She would come back to reality with a start, finding herself waving her comb back and forth like a fan, instead of through her hair. Twice she started to hang up her dress and each time she sank down on the bed for another moment of remembering. The day had been fun: the first free day in which the hours hadn't dragged.

There had been the first few moments at the art exhibit, when she wished desperately that she hadn't come, but then Nick had started talking. It was simple to call him Nick, and when he had learned that she was there, merely because she had nothing better to do, because she had time to waste, he had assumed control. Other people came during the next hour and Nick waved casual greetings, but it was Sue Mary who held his attention.

He made her talk about herself, made her tell of her work, her loneliness, of her life in the city. He was abrupt in his manner, dominating in his inquisitiveness, but his very interest held her.

He wasn't good looking, she remembered. He was too dark, too intense, too aggressive. He wore his black, wavy hair longer than the men in the office, and it looked as though he brushed only once a day. His collar was open and he wore no tie. You had the impression that clothes and appearance was an afterthought with him, yet that carelessness was a part of him.

NICK had the gift of listening. To Sue Mary it was unbelievable that anyone could actually be interested in her humdrum life. Yet Nick listened and asked more questions: what she read, what plays she'd seen, what she had studied in school, what she thought of current problems.

She had blushed when he asked her if she had gone to the Young Voters' last week. "I'm terribly stupid about those things," she confessed. "I'll have a birthday pretty soon. Twenty-one. And then when I can vote, perhaps I'll take an interest in things like that. I mean like politics, and crusades, and—well, you know—"

"And what will you be? Republican, Democrat, Socialist—or maybe Communist?" "She smiled and shook her head. "It's funny to you, I know. My father was a Republican. I guess all my folks were. Mother doesn't take much interest, and well, I never thought much about it either. My brother-in-law's a Democrat. I used to hear him talk some—but really I never made up my mind." "I can see I'll have to take you in hand. We'll have to continue your education."

"I work for a law firm," Sue Mary explained. "Not divorces or crimes. . . . We handle government contracts." "Oh . . ." Nick paused momentarily. "Well, you can forget them. You're going to have fun, now," Sue Mary did not hear Vera and Natalie whispering behind her.

forcefulness about her that Sue Mary had never associated with artists. "She'll have to come to one of our parties," Nick said. "Meet the crowd and get adjusted." "Oh, I guess you'll take care of that," Vera added. "Nick's boss. He pushes us around—and do we love it!" She looked at Sue Mary with interest. "Can you type, file, do stenographic work?" "Yes, of course. I work in an office."

"Then I put first claim on you. Who do you work for?" "Clark, Kenny, Malone and Clark—they're lawyers." "Divorces and murders?" "No, not much anyway. Corporation law. They handle the work of the big companies: like Centerville Motors and the Lull Plane Company."

There was a moment's silence. Sue Mary wondered if they had ever heard of the firm "It's a pretty big business—"

"Yes," Nick said. "I guess it is. And I guess your office must be busy right now. War orders. At least that's what the papers say." "Yes, I read that too," she agreed. "I know that the plane people are working on something new. For the government I suppose. I heard Miss Grant say there were a lot of new patents—"

"She stopped abruptly, blushing again. "I don't really know much about that. I just heard my boss say something. I didn't mean to talk about it. I guess it's just because I don't have much else to talk about." "Sure," Nick said. "But we'll fix that. All work and no play—you've heard that one. Well work with us and play, too. We'll start before you're a day older. "We're having a studio party at Natalie's after we close the show here tonight. And you're going with me." But Sue Mary had not heard Natalie and Vera whispering behind her. (To Be Continued) slaughter from the air in an effort to destroy industries and other military objectives (not overlooking civilian morale) and thus prevent England from acquiring a strength which might permit her to carry the war to the continent by invasion.

There is no doubt that England can stand a lot of battering and still be able to overcome the cessation of her own manufacture by imports, chiefly from the United States. That is where the rule of the ocean comes in—protection for sea-borne traffic.

An English expert tells me he believes that even if much British industry were destroyed, it really everything could be replaced by imports in a few months.

So Britain's outlook won't be so dark, if she can survive the present crisis.

HARTINGTON, Neb., Sept. 11 (AP)—Grade School Teacher Arlyn Stolpe smilingly greeted her charges as they trudged in for the first day of school. The pupils smiled right back—some even grinned.

Then she opened her desk drawer—and found a 3-foot bull snake peacefully coiled up.

NAZIS CLAIM

German night raiders again subjected London's millions to an all-night attack—the fourth in a row—and Britons read in their morning newspapers a warning to expect a Nazi invasion soon.

Fires raged in warehouses and factories along the Thames river and in "the city." London's Wall Street section. At the height of the assault it was light enough to read a newspaper on the roof of the Associated Press building just off Fleet street's "newspaper row" between St. Paul's cathedral and Charing Cross.

A Roman Catholic church in central London was demolished by a giant bomb-hit. A big apartment house on a London square was shattered, and other havoc-dealing missiles hit a large maternity hospital, smashed into the streets and shook buildings in the main business section.

Some Londoners began to flee the city of nightly horror, but most stuck it out, grimly determined not to budge.

Rescue crews still searched for bodies in the debris-choked ruin of a two-story concrete school in East London, where earlier 500 persons—homeless after nearly raids—had taken shelter. Two babies, still alive, were found beneath the rubble.

After the long night alarm, Nazi daylight raiders set London's sirens shrieking again for a 10-minute warning starting at 11:53 a. m. (4:53 a. m. C. S. T.).

"Damage and casualties appeared less severe than on preceding nights," proclaimed a British communique.

At the same time Nazi bombers flew on their endless forays throughout the length and breadth of the country, to Wales and the Midlands, to the southeast and the southwest. Some of these attacks were two hours long.

Early today Carol of Rumania, now an exiled former king, with his red-haired companion, Magda Lupescu, slipped furtively out of the servants' entrance of a hotel at Lugano, Switzerland, and took a train into Italy. They were heading, reportedly, for Portugal.

Aerial attrition took the spotlight in the Mediterranean theater of war.

The casualty figures for the raid, or that of the night before, have not been announced. Deaths the first two nights of the raids were placed at a total of 592, with approximately 2,700 injured seriously.

Latest reports said 112 persons were killed in yesterday's Italian bombing of Tel Aviv, glowing white modern Jewish city in the Holy Land.

Rescue workers searched ruins of numerous homes today for additional bodies. The first official check showed there were 55 children among the dead.

British officials reiterated a charge that the Italian bombing was "indiscriminate," declaring there are no military objectives within 30 miles of Tel Aviv.

Among those killed was Theodore Pehr, 41, listed as a naturalized United States citizen.

Italian warplanes bombed British troops ailing in the Egyptian desert today. The Italian command announced today. The British were reported at the same time to have sent air raiders from Egypt across the frontier into Libya.

The high command reported 13 persons killed and 21 injured in the British raids.

evacuation of several streets lest bomb-weakened buildings collapse.

Bombs hit the reichstag (parliament) building, the Academy of Arts and also damaged famous Brandenberg Gate in Uter Den Linder. The high command also said that two hospitals were hit in the center of the city.

Official and editorial rage over the assault at once gave rise to speculation whether Nazi airmen would strike back at London's parliament buildings, Downing street and government houses in Whitehall.

Adolf Hitler himself has threatened manifold retaliation for every attack by his British foes.

Officially the civilian toll of the attack was five killed and several injured.

"In the diplomatic section a number of streets had to be evacuated temporarily because of the danger of houses collapsing," the daily communique reported.

After young Roosevelt had finished his speech with a plea to "give without stint to those who seek our aid," and to "make it very clear to those who seek to interfere with us will be inviting destruction," Collins grinned and shook hands with an also smiling Roosevelt with the United States flag flapping between them.

Two Killed In Menard Main Street Shooting

SAN ANGELO, Sept. 11 (AP)—L. D. Rallsback, 24, cafe owner, died in a hospital here this morning, the second death in a main street shooting at Menard, 65 miles southeast of here, late Tuesday night.

Ice Willingham, 52, cafe owner, died instantly with nine bullet wounds in his body.

Mrs. L. D. Rallsback, 35, ex-wife of Willingham, also was shot and remains in a critical condition in the hospital here. She and Rallsback were brought here early this morning and Rallsback underwent surgery. He had been shot one time with a .45 calibre pistol, the bullet entering his left chest, just below the heart, and passed through his body. He made a statement to authorities here, after which he went to the operating room.

Sheriff Cecil Walston, Menard, said the shooting took place when Willingham and the Rallsbacks met on the street. Two bullets were fired from the large calibre pistol and nine from a 22 calibre pistol. All shots took effect.

Willingham and Mrs. Rallsback were divorced in April, 1939, and in May, 1939, Willingham's ex-wife married Rallsback, Mrs. Fred Davis, Menard, mother of the wounded woman said. The Willinghams were married in 1921. Mrs. Rallsback was the mother of six children.

Sheriff Walston and District Attorney Carlos Ashley, Llano, were conducting an investigation in Menard this morning.

Rallsback's death was the seventh resulting from shootings in this section during the last five days.

In his statement to officers here Rallsback told of trouble with Willingham a few weeks ago which resulted in a fist fight. Since that time, he said, he had been attempting to avoid meeting Willingham as his life had been threatened. He said he shot Willingham nine times after he opened fire on him with a pistol. Mrs. Rallsback told authorities she was shot by Willingham at San Angelo.
