Pampa Woman Re-Elected President Of Diocesan Council At Amarillo

Concluding the second year of work members of the Parish Council of Catholic Women met recently in the home of Mrs. J. P. Schwind.

After a travel talk was given by Mrs. R. E. McKernan, refreshments were served to the group.

At the fifth annual council meeting of the Amarillo Diocesan Council of Catholic Women held in Amarillo Sunday, Mrs. M. F. Roche of Pampa, diocesan president, was re-elected to this office for another year.

Following registration at the Cathedral hall, the women attended high mass at Sacred Heart Cathedral with the Rev. Thomas J. Drury the celebrant. Lunch was served at the Cathedral hall at noon and a general business meeting followed.

Delegates from the four districts of the diocese, Amarillo, Lubbock, Big Spring, and San Angelo, were present at the meeting conducted by Mrs. Roche.

After the completion of the business meeting, a banquet was held at the Amarillo hotel with Mrs. G. C. Saunders as toastmaster, Rev. Robert E. Lacey, S. T. D., was the principal speaker of the evening. Mrs. Roche introduced newly elected diocesan officers, then followed a talk on parent education by Rev. T. J. Drury, vocal solos by James Neill North, "The Last Hour," (Kramer), and "Trees" (Rasback); a piano solo by Dorothy Lehman, "Grande Valse Brillante" (Chopin); a playlet set "A Studied and Modest Council Meeting," by the Pampa Parish Council and an address by Reverend Lacey.

Mrs. J. M. Lyons was general chairman of arrangements with Mrs. W. J. Haley of Pampa, co-chairman.

The following editorial concerning the history and purpose of the council was compiled by Mrs. Robert E. Nelson of Amarillo in preparation for the meeting held Sunday in Amarillo.

"The expansion of our country, marked by the pushing back of geographical frontiers to the Pacific Ocean; the construction of great cities and industries; the spanning of the country with railroads and highways; the march of invention, and the building up of a civilization, has now come to a change in trend being marked by the beginning of the great depression of 1929.

Henceforth the development of our country will not be extensive as in the past but increasingly intensive. The day of the trail blazer into new territory is past; our nation is reaching maturity; the great problems of social welfare and social justice in an age of change and transition are confronting the American people today. A new conception of democracy is struggling to be born, marked by the increasingly toward redistribution of income, and expanded opportunities for public and private investment.

"The rapidly changing world about us, left too long unrecognized by governments and peoples, already has plunged Europe into another great war. The social and human values that lately so largely occupied the attention of American people are in danger today of being set aside or lost in the preparations for national defense and the menace of war.

"The era of expansion must be succeeded by an era of increasing intensification, coordination and organization of church activity. For such a coordinated program of Catholic activities, the bishops of the United States have established as a part of their central agency, the National Council of Catholic Women. This department represents a federation, a uniting of all Catholic women in the United States, on a parish, diocesan, and nationwide scale. It is an expression of the opportunity to spread the church's teaching extensively and intensively in this new era.

"The plan of organization contemplates federating existing organizations, organizing where none exist, and interesting individuals in becoming members of every approved organization, as education, press, social activity, legal and Catholic action, immigration, youth, confraternity of Christian doctrine, and others to learn for themselves, the church's teachings on the many grave social and public questions which they are called upon to solve. Such questions and problems include good family life and public laws and institutions, a rekindling of the economic system on the just, charitable and democratic lines laid down by the popes and the American hierarchy; the defense of real Christian practices in governmental life, the protection of and the effort to advance Catholic education; the development of the Catholic press; the organization and proper direction of young people. In all these they know how to make full use of all the splendid devices of modern invention and organization.

Uncle Sam Hoards His Tin

The United States is a rich country—but not quite rich enough to be normally self-sustaining. There are certain raw materials we don't have. Tin is one of them. Most of the tin used in the United States comes from British Malaya or the Dutch East Indies. It's one of the commodities essential to war industries.

There is a tendency among Americans to feel just the least bit uncomfortable when they think of the materials in which nature has short-changed us—materials that might, in the end, spell the difference between victory and defeat. And so, on this matter of tin, the National Defense Advisory Commission got busy.

The problem has been attacked on four different fronts. The prospects are that, given a little time, the tin shortage in this country might be solved regardless of international events. Here's what's been done: 1. Reserve supplies of tin are rapidly being accumulated from both British Malaya and the Dutch East Indies. If war should cut off Pacific shipping lanes today, the United States would have enough tin to last for at least nine months, perhaps as long as 12.

Fresh-killed turkeys, young and small and better flavored, are replacing the cold storage product.

Political Economy In One Lesson or

What Is Seen and What Is Not Seen

BY FREDERIC BASTIAT

For, let us hold firm by this obvious principle, that every borrower supposes a lender, and that every act of borrowing implies a loan. This point fixed, what good can institutions of credit effect? They can facilitate, for borrowers and lenders, the means of finding each other, and coming to agreement. But what they cannot do is to increase instantaneously the mass of objects borrowed and lent.

Chasing Ducks With Plane Costs $10

SOUTH ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 8.—Chasing ducks with an airplane cost Paul Wilson, 27, South St. Paul, pilot, $10 for "illegally harassing and driving wild ducks." Game wardens said they had received numerous complaints that airplanes were being used to herd ducks toward waiting hunters, and emphasized that the practice is strictly against the law.

Reapers And Amarilloans To Play Here Thursday

The scheduled conference game between the Pampa Junior High Reapers and the Horace Mann Juniors of Amarillo will be played at Harvester Field Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock instead of Friday afternoon, Coach C. P. McWright of the Reapers announced today. The change was made at the request of the Amarillo coach who said he couldn't secure a bus for transportation on the regularly scheduled day.

Coach McWright has been working long and hard trying to work out a stronger offense. He has a couple of the fastest boys in the league but so far they have been able to register only two touchdowns. In Charles Boyles the Reapers have a 175-pound giant at fullback but he still runs standing up. He has always played in the line.

Dunham is one of the outstanding backs in the conference both offensively and defensively. Berry is a top blocker and also jugs the ball at line. In Neef and Berry the Reapers have a couple of seat backs. They relieve each other at halfback.

The line is inexperienced but learning fast. Robbins and Bowerman have been starting at ends. Curdie and Miller at tackles, H. Boyles and McKinley at guards, and Kerbow at center. Reagan, a tackle, and Martin, an end, have been playing a lot.

The Reapers are a battling bunch of youngsters who learned their first football in ward school and then spent a year on Jack Davis' Pee-wees.

Aggies To Leave For UCLA Game

Southwest conference football squads begin moving out today for inter-sectional games on widely-separated grids.

Texas A. and M.'s forces are the first to hit the road, the Aggies leaving after practice this afternoon for California and a clash with U. C. L. A.

The other teams play across the nation, with Southern Methodist university traveling to Pittsburgh and Texas Christian university going to Chapel Hill to battle North Carolina.

Baylor and Arkansas was a conference game at Fayetteville, Texas plays Oklahoma at Dallas and Rice meets L. S. U. at Houston.

Quite a few injuries were reported as the squads checked up after last week's battles.

Arkansas had End Maurice Britt and Tackle Jan Carter on the injured list.

Southern Methodist had Lynn Bostick, tackle, still on the shelf, but all other injured Mustangs will be ready for Pittsburgh.

Texas Christian, Rice and Texas A. and M. were in top shape.

U. S. Talks With Russia Renewed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—A renewal of American talks with Soviet Russia revived conjecture today on the possibility that common concern over far eastern developments might establish a basis for active collaboration by Washington, Moscow and Leningrad.

The new conversations here appeared to be aimed first at removal of what are considered relatively minor points of friction between the United States and Russia.

Success in these efforts, diplomatic sources said, might lead to discussion of more far-reaching questions of policy, possibly starting with "aid to China," to which the United States, Russia and Great Britain have all contributed.

The talks here were begun last July by Undersecretary of State Welles and Constantine Umanansky, Soviet ambassador, prior to renewal of the annual American-Soviet trade agreement. They were continued in what Welles described as a friendly and constructive manner to determine whether relations generally might be improved.

To early August they were suddenly broken off and it was reported differences had barred progress.

Umanansky's visit to Welles late yesterday came at the end of a day of intense diplomatic activity centering on the far east and American and British steps to maintain their positions in an area in which Japan was assigned the dominating role by the Tokyo-Berlin-Rome alliance.

Godoy Seeks Match With Champion Louis
PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8 (AP)—Rugged Arturo Godoy is safely past the first obstacle on the comeback trail that he hopes will lead to a third meeting with heavyweights Champion Joe Louis.

The 202-pound senior from Chile makes his first ring appearance since Louis stopped him in June and took a unanimous 10-round decision last night from Philadelphia's Gus Dorazio in a slow fight.

Sooner Aggies Pass
STILLWATER, Okla., Oct. 8 (AP)—If you want to see the 1940 version of the football "aerial circus" you might do worse than look at Jim Lookabaugh's Oklahoma Aggies. After the Aggies scored two touchdowns against Oklahoma on Jimmy Reynolds' passes and did everything but beat the Sooners, Lookabaugh had Reynolds, Jiggs Stuart, Al Scanland, Tate Ott out on the practice field with orders to "throw 'em."

A Couple of Tough Nuts to Crack

Bill Hazel, left, Mississippi tackle, and his brother Homer, Jr., star, not only look enough alike to confuse opponents but they have the benefit of a pretty good football heritage. Homer Hazel, Sr. was the only man ever to make All-America in both line and backfield, playing end and fullback for Rutgers. The Brothers Hazel are from Marshall, Mich.

Geniuses Not Born But Made, Claims College Professor

By GLADWIN HILL
NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP)—Geniuses are not born, but are "made" by an unusual combination of the same social factors that contribute to everyone's makeup, Dr. Robert E. L. Faris, Bryn Mawr college sociologist, reported today.

Even the amazing performances of chess wizards and lightning calculators, he said, depend fundamentally on an acquired ability possessed by anyone who can read—the technique of mentally handling symbols, like figures or letters of the alphabet, in groups rather than singly.

Dr. Faris' conclusions from an investigation of the lives of "geniuses" like Richard Wagner, Thomas Edison and the present-day child pianist Ruth Elenewsky were published in the American Sociological Review.

Minnesota Has Plenty Of Stuff Again This Fall

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 8 (AP)—Coach Bernie Bierman has rewired his Minnesota football dynamo for high powered performance once again.

If there are any doubts the Golden Gophers have plenty of stored up energy let statistics of those first two victories over the Universities of Washington and Nebraska—their highly touted offensives on the other hand were able to gain only 225 yards on the ground or 352 yards a try.

Minnesota's stalwart line trapped opposing ball carriers behind the line of scrimmage for a total loss of 56 yards in the first two games.

Bob Palfra, quarterback, is the leading ball carrier with an average of 14.67 yards a try.

Masonic Home Uses 75 Pass Plays And 30 Running Plays

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
FORT WORTH, Oct. 8 (AP)—The coach sent to scout Masonic Home's football team told about it with gestures.

"It's enough to drive a guy nuts," he exploded. "They never use the same pass play twice and they've got more running plays than any two other teams."

"What's the use of scouting them when they probably won't use half the plays you've seen, in the next week's game?"

Which adds up to an answer to a question that's been asked for eight years in Texas schoolboy football: What makes the spindle-shanked featherweights of Masonic Home click?

The Mighty Mites, as fans term them, have been in the top division of Texas schoolboy football since 1932 although there are fewer than 100 boys in the school.

They have been district champions five times in eight years, in how to make touchdowns several seasons and once played a scoreless tie with Corsicans in the finals.

During the period they have won 62 games, lost 15, tied 5 and scored 1338 points against 693 for their opponents.

This year they've played three games, scoring 50 points to none—for the opposition, and coaches and scouts who have looked them over declare they're better than ever because they have more weight.

H. M. (Rusty) Russell, who teaches the boys books until mid-afternoon, then goes out and shows them how to make touchdowns, reveals that the team will use at least 70 pass plays during the season.

"That—and you can take it on no less authority than pass-minded Matty Bell, coach of Southern Methodist university—is a lot of pass plays for anybody's team, especially a bunch of 15, 16 and 17-year-old boys."

"That's why," said Floyd Highower, assistant coach at Highland Park (Dallas) whose team plays the Masons each season, "You can't beat them."

"They have five times as many pass plays as any other team and I'd say, from scouting them, that they have at least 30 running plays. You can study them but just when you think you have them under control, they break out somewhere else."

There are 73 boys in the high school division of the home this year. Thirty-four are on the football squad.

Well, Russell doesn't need any more out for football, anyway. He has two good substitutes and when Russell has two boys who can take the place of the regulars he's ready for anybody.

TCU Game At North Carolina May Wind Up In A Reunion
FORT WORTH, Oct. 8 (AP)—Instead of having the party break up in a fight, the fight is likely to wind up in a reunion party when Texas Christian plays North Carolina at Chapel Hill, N. C., Saturday. Four former T. C. U. stars are coaches of the two teams.

Leo (Dutch) Meyer, who played end for the Horned Frogs in the early twenties, has been coaching there since 1932 and became head coach in 1934. Among his pupils were Raymond (Bear) Wolf, 1927, and Johnny Vaughn, 1932 captain; who are head coach and line coach at North Carolina, and his own

Kedskins Only Unbeaten Team In National

By TOM SILER
CHICAGO, Oct. 8 (AP)—The undefeated Washington Redskins are performing in the best tradition of their laundryman-owner, the effervescent George Preston Marshall.

They've taken all of their opponents so far to the cleaners and stand now as the only unbeaten and untied team in the National league.

The Redskins rang up their third straight victory Sunday, a resounding 40 to 10 triumph over the Pittsburgh Steelers before 25,213 spectators in Forbes field.

The Redskins looked like real champions in grinding out 147 yards on the ground and 186 in the air. Washington connected for 12 of 21 passes, Sammy Baugh hitting his receivers nine out of 12 times.

The Chicago Cardinals fell before the Detroit Lions, 43 to 14, Saturday night and Brooklyn moved through Philadelphia, 30 to 17, in a Friday night engagement.

Who Will Be Goot?
CINCINNATI, Oct. 8 (AP)—The guy responsible for either Cincinnati or Detroit losing today's grand finale of the World Series is likely to be a mite unpopular with his mates.

There's about $2,100 difference between the individual shares of the winners and losers, and those athletes think almost as much of money as they do their base knocks.

line coach, Mike Brumblow, 1929 T. C. U. captain. Says Meyer: "We never had two finer fellows at T. C. U. than Wolf and Vaughn. I don't know any pair of coaches anywhere that I'd rather see win—except next Saturday."

Women outnumber the men so far in the number of calls received.

Harvester Club Formed At Canyon

CANYON, Oct. 8 (AP)—Pampa students attending West Texas State college have formed a Harvester club and elected Roy Showers, former Pampa high school athlete, as its first president.

Other officers elected were: First vice-president, Mickey Ledrick, who will be president; Anna Belle Lard, who will be social chairman; Irene Davis and Joan Gurley, treasurer; Earl Walker, yearbook representative; Gall Ross, reporter; Olin E. Hinkle, sponsor.

The Harvester club will be one of the largest organizations of its kind on the campus. Completed enrollment is expected to show that Pampa high school has more graduates here than any other high school. The club will take two pages in Le Mirage, college yearbook, which will show a tieup with Pampa High school.

The club will promote relations between its members and Pampa organizations, and will endeavor to make college life pleasant and profitable for Pampans attending West Texas State college. Entertainers in the club, who are numerous, will be used in production of public programs. Pampa and Pampa High school will be advertised at West Texas State. The club expects to present Pampa entertainers at college assembly.

Players Like Six-Man Football
The guards and tackle positions which are the hard work and least pleasant positions to play are eliminated from six-man football. Every six-man player can handle the ball, run with the ball, catch all kinds of passes and score touchdowns. Even on a running play the rules require that at least half the team handle the ball on the play. The center himself is allowed to catch forward passes because every player is eligible in six-man football.

In many plays every player handles the ball. The center, however, is the first one to have the ball and he snaps it to the quarterback. The quarter-back passes the ball to the full-back who runs forward three yards, and spins. On the spin he hands the ball to the half-back who is the fourth player to handle the ball. The half-back runs to the left and throws a forward pass to the left end. The left end catches the pass and throws a lateral to the right end who is the sixth player to handle the ball. The left end doesn't need to stop the ball handling because he can make a lateral to the center to complete the cycle.

Public Ows Three Billions In Loans To Finance Farms

BOSTON, Oct. 8. (AP)—A United States census bureau official reported today that the consuming public owes almost $3,000,000,000 in personal or cash loans and in sales finance paper held by finance companies.

Breaking down the results, he said that in addition to $1,800,000,000 of sales finance paper in the hands of finance companies, the consuming public also owes more than one billion dollars in personal or cash loans.

Businessmen attending the conference were asked by David R. Craig, president of the American Retail Federation, in a prepared address, to avoid unwarranted price increases in order to diminish the possibility of government price control while the government rebuilds its defenses.

Country Life Not As Rosy As Pictured

Special To The NEWS: COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 8 — Country life has always been considered wholesome and fine for children, nevertheless, some conditions still exist which make it difficult for young children on the farm with a richer and more satisfactory life.

One reason the economic plight of many rural children is so serious is that in some areas there are twice as many children, proportionately, on the farm, as in the city. Decca Hale, specialist in parent education and child development for the A. and M. college extension service, has pointed out:

It is also true that city families have twice as much income as country families and fewer children. Here are some of the handicaps rural people have to face in rearing their children:

Sections of the country which are the largest number of children in proportion to the population often have the least money to spend on their schools.

Less than half of all the counties in the United States have a full-time public health service with an adequate staff, and many county districts are without readily available medical service.

Improvement in recent years, relatively few farm homes yet have running water, electric lights, adequate heating facilities.

Recreational facilities for rural children are far from adequate. "Slick and clean," as the city child, is rarely acquired in childhood in a really democratic family, Miss Hale explains.

ARMY KEEPS 'EM GUESSING WITH DAILY CHANGES IN DRAFT RULINGS: By MILTON BRONNER. Manager, NEA-The Pampa News Selective Service Information Bureau

Day-to-day changes in War Department rulings on selective service matters, pending final revision and adoption, are making it difficult for many men eligible for draft to find their exact status.

A few instances will make clear what is meant. Many men of draft age wrote in to this department asking if there was any way to enlist for one year's training before the draft machinery went into full swing.

After a man registered, he could go before his local draft board and indicate his desire to be drafted at once. Then, if he had no dependents, was physically fit, and was not doing some work essential to the national defense program, the local draft board could put him in the first batch of draftees sent from that community.

Then down came this late decision from the War Department: "Men of the draft age do not have to wait until they register on Oct. 16 next. They can go right to an army recruiting station and enlist for one year's training."

The bureau began to put out that news. And the first thing we knew, we got an indignant letter from a man in New York City who wanted to know "How come?"

He said he went to a recruiting office in New York city and was told they were only taking men from the full three years regular army enlistment. Next day the Washington News sent out two reporters, who made a bluff at enlisting for the one year's training. In both cases

War Department Pays $500,000 To Land Speculators

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. (AP)—Estimating that land speculators had cost it nearly $500,000 in two months of operations, the war department inaugurated a new purchasing policy today to enlist the weight of public opinion against profiteering on defense factory sites.

The $500,000 "take" which speculators have realized, an official said, was on the land for the only seven plants for which contracts thus far have been signed. The plants, valued at $111,000,000 will be privately built and operated, but government-financed and owned.

With more than $500,000 yet to spend on increasing production facilities for munitions and airplanes, the department has feared that continued operations of the speculators eventually would chisel a multi-million-dollar slice from the funds urgently needed for buildings, machinery and tools.

In the future, a spokesman said, the tended locations of new army-financed factories will be announced as soon as selected, with the hope that public announcement will forestall land scalpers.

The first such announcement was that 13,600 acres would be purchased in the vicinity of Union Center, Ind., for an ammunition loading plant.

In the past, efforts were made to keep plant locations secret. Invariably, news of the location leaked out. Congressmen, government officials and civic organizations, eager to report good business news for their communities, often disclosed locations prematurely.

Department agents usually found that speculators, running before them, had taken options on likely plant sites and raised the price, an army official disclosed.

Lunch Project Assures Pupils Of Better Meals

Special To The NEWS: COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 8—Local groups and government agencies are coordinating their efforts this fall to furnish hot lunches for every school child who cannot go home at noon or who would have only a skimpy lunch if he did go home, explains Mildred Horton, vice director and state home demonstration agent of the A. and M. college extension service, who also serves as chairman of Texas' state-wide committee on nutrition.

In Pampa, there are 40 pupils who eat their lunch at the high school cafeteria. This number is expected to increase as winter advances, Doyle F. Osborne, high school principal, said today.

B. Baker pupils are transported by bus to the high school for their lunches, as Baker is the only one of the four ward schools here that does not have its own cafeteria.

Parents and civic groups are the sponsors of the school-lunch projects in each community. They provide the equipment for cooking, arrange for the labor, and furnish some of the food.

A large share of the food for the school lunches comes from farm surplus purchased by the Surplus Marketing administration of the department of agriculture, to help improve farm prices.

In many cases the Works Projects administration furnishes the labor. The National Youth administration also offers assistance in the preparation of the lunches.

To make sure that the school lunches are well-rounded in food values, is of the greatest importance to the success of the program, Miss Horton points out.

The meals provide the building materials for the soft tissues of the body for sound teeth and bones, and for good blood. At the same time, the foods must supply a source of energy for growing, active children.

According to the federal bureau of home economics, an ideal school lunch consists of one nourishing main dish, a glass or two of milk, a cooked or raw vegetable or fruit, bread or butter or a sandwich, and a simple dessert.

● SERIAL STORY
NEW YORK JUNGLE
BY WRAY WADE SEVERN

Copyright, 1940, NEA Service, Inc.

Illustrated by Ed Cunder

"On that last hunt in India, Adam was clawed by a tiger. . . . If Hugh hadn't been along. . . . You must have heard the story."

CHAPTER I

INTENT upon reaching Adam Langdon's country home before the storm broke, Sidney Braitwood urged his car upgrade, through a framing of low hills russet and gold now in the resurgent splendor of early autumn. Braitwood was aware that the charming young actress beside him had turned to open the window, as if her emotions stifled her and she needed more air. He made no comment, though the simple action moved him deeply. Marta Hempfield and Adam Langdon had been his friends for years. He believed the bond uniting them to be the rare one of real love. But now a rift had come between Marta and Adam. How deep, or what the cause, the lawyer could only guess.

"Something has gone wrong with Adam, Sidney," Marta said, out of a troubled silence. "I've a premonition about it." She hesitated and added, "Always, when he's returning from an African hunt, he cables me as soon as he gets into civilization, and from then on I hear every day until his ship docks in New York. This time I had a solitary cable from Capetown saying he intended sailing on the Baron Graham. When the Baron arrived, I was playing a matinee, but Adam would know why I hadn't met him." Her hands locked and the blood-red gleam of Langdon's ruby shone through the thin texture of her glove.

SHOULD he tell her that Adam had not sailed on the Baron Graham? Sidney weighed it, pro and con.

Adam's tall, blond engineer cousin, Hugh Langdon, had received a cable, too. Hugh had met the Baron Graham only to learn that Adam had not even booked passage on the ship. Sidney and Hugh had discussed all sorts of reasons for Langdon's non-appearance. They had even mentioned kidnaping and murder. Then Langdon's valet had telephoned them that his employer had returned and wanted them for a week-end to see his new specimens. Better not increase Marta's anxiety, Braitwood decided.

"Do you imagine Adam is angry because of Boris Lesencoff again, Marta?" he asked. "Boris is at the Wilkenson's this week. If he knows you are at Langdon Knoll, he will be over—unless we head him off."

"As a man, Boris has never meant anything to me. Adam should know that by this time," Marta replied. "But, of course, as a director Lesencoff is priceless."

"If the storm holds off we'll have Adam's own explanation in less than 20 minutes," Sidney commented cheerfully. "When he invited you up for the week-end, why didn't you ask what was wrong?"

"If you mean why didn't I ask when he telephoned the invitation—Togi did the telephoning for him."

"Are you sure he didn't call himself while you were out? Mads has forgotten messages before this," Sidney puzzled.

Marta swallowed nervously. "Not Statia, under the circumstances," she said. "I'd never have accepted the invitation, if a sixth sense hadn't told me to. Before Adam left for this hunt I asked him to give it up. He has had too many closeups with death in the jungle."

"It worried me. On the last hunt, in India, a tiger mangled his arm. If Hugh hadn't been along with his cool nerve and instant aim, it would have been all over. You must have heard the story?"

Braitwood nodded. "The Langdons have always hunted," he said. "I can't imagine them deprived of the excitement."

WHY has Marta never married Adam Langdon? Sidney asked himself, the question for the hundredth time. It would have been an ideal match and he knew that Langdon had always wanted it. Marta had always refused, yet she had held Adam's friendship to the exclusion of other women. Possibly by she thought a closer tie would injure her profession.

Hardly had they drawn up under the porte-cochere of the rambling old stone house Langdon's grandfather had built as a retreat for an all but insane wife, when the storm broke in full fury. Rain beat against the car and wind whipped their clothing about them as they ran across the veranda to the door.

It seemed to Sidney that they waited a long time for admittance. He had time to observe that the garden had been neglected and that dead leaves covered the veranda. Finally they heard the patter of soft feet and Togi, the Japanese valet, admitted them.

ception on the California coast—they have lived virtually alone. Once a year a boatload of Indian shepherds go to San Miguel to trim Lester's 1200 sheep. George Fiske Hammond, wealthy Santa Barbara sportsman pilot, who found them five years ago, files mail and sup-

The man appeared nervous. "Tell Mr. Langdon we are here, Togi," Marta directed. "We'll find our own way to our rooms."

The valet's smile became strained. "Mr. Langdon not yet return from drive, Miss Hempfield. "Storm delay, I think. I bring cocktails."

A new anxiety leaped into Marta's eyes and she turned toward the room she had always occupied on former visits, a large suite over the drawing room.

"Excuse, please, Miss Hempfield," Togi stammered. "Mr. Langdon say he like you have nice, large room on third floor. I show."

Impudently Marta turned. "I prefer this room," she said. "Tell Mr. Langdon we are here, as soon as he comes in."

"Yes, Miss Hempfield, I tell," Togi's slits of eyes turned appealingly to Sidney.

BEFORE the lawyer could make a suggestion, Marta had flung open the door of her old room. It was a beautiful room. It had been furnished especially to flatter her tall beauty, but now a pair of small mules that could never have fitted her lay on one of the chairs. On the dressing table was a gold-backed toilet set with a monogram that was not hers.

For an instant Sidney thought she might faint. Whenever afterwards he caught the fragrance that had permeated that room, he was to see her face as it looked then, lips shriveling under their coral lacquering, nostrils pinched, eyes tragic. He knew then that however often she had refused to marry Adam Langdon, she loved him with all her heart.

"What about those cocktails, Togi?" he said.

When the soft steps of the valet had died out of hearing, Sidney turned to Marta. "You've played difficult parts before, Marta. Are you equal to this one until we get out of here?" he asked.

"I can't think clearly. It is all so out of character for Adam," Marta murmured. "Give me a moment and—I'll be equal to any part."

Togi stood by their side. Hands shaking, he served them.

"Careful, Togi," Marta was smiling. "To whom has Mr. Langdon given my old room?"

"Excuse, please," the Japanese stammered unhappily. "Mr. Langdon's wife sleep in there now, Miss Hempfield."

'Swiss Family Robinson' Will Return Home

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8 (AP)—California's "Swiss Family Robinson"—Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lester and their two small daughters—is about to take a holiday.

It will be a plane—not a hewn log boat—that will bring them to San Francisco this week, provided skies are clear, from their "dream island" in Santa Barbara county.

For Marianne, 9, and Elizabeth, 7, it will be the third time away from their home on 14-square-mile San Miguel island. And for them, their parents say, the visit will be baffling. On previous trips, for example, the little girls having no concept of the profit motive, took what they wanted, citing as precedent island visitors always brought them gifts, wanted nothing in return.

Lester, the son of a prominent eastern family, and formerly a successful business man, suffering from World War shell shocks, sought a California farm ten years ago. Before finding one, a friend who had leased San Miguel from the navy offered to make him caretaker.

His bride-to-be, Miss Elizabeth Sherman of Rye, N. Y., wrote that if Lester liked the island she would like it too because she liked Lester. They were married in California and set up housekeeping in a triangular house built by a retired sea captain from the lumber cargo of a steamer wrecked 50 years ago.

Printed Forms For Registration Received

Printed forms for R-day, totaling 14,170, were received Monday afternoon by the office of County Clerk Charlie Thur, in preparation for the October 16 registration of men between the ages of 21 and 35.

The forms consist of 8,900 registration cards, 6,900 registration certificates, and 170 placards listing registration instructions.

Asked why so many cards and certificates were sent, the county clerk said his idea was that the number was based on voting strength, and an allowance made for cards that might be incorrectly made out, requiring new ones. The estimated R-day enrollment in Gray county is 3,200.

Quarterly Report Of Red Cross Presented

Members of the Red Cross executive committee this morning heard reports from Mrs. J. B. White, executive secretary, Hal H. Lucas, roll call chairman, and a fire prevention and disaster talk by Fire Chief Ben White.

Mrs. White, in her quarterly report, said that much time had been spent contacting relatives of service men who had failed to contact relatives. She said that phase of the Red Cross work in the future would probably become greater. Many ex-servicemen were aided and civilians were assisted.

Growling Coffee

ANDERSON, S. C., Oct. 8 (AP)—Eighty-four-year old D. C. Holland may have to buy any coffee this winter. He has a crop of it in his garden.

Holland, a retired farmer, planted a row of it just as an experiment and nine trees now are thriving.

Inspector Praised By Boilermakers

Praise for the boiler inspection division of the Bureau of Labor Statistics was contained in a statement issued today by a group of boilermakers of the Panhandle oil field.

"We would like to give Governor O'Daniel credit and praise for having a chief boiler inspector who has selected a corps of practical boilermakers as inspectors. They are men who know boilers, and they also know how to treat the boiler owners," the statement said.

taken against persons responsible for "the failure in Anglo-French expedition against Dakar, by which French warships were allowed to pass the Straits of Gibraltar and defended the Senegalese colony."

Churchill disclosed that one British battleship and one heavy cruiser were damaged at Dakar; that two Vichy submarines were sunk, two destroyers fired, one cruiser was hit and the crippled battleship Richelieu further damaged by the British.

He reaffirmed Britain's backing of the "Free French" cause.

Again the prime minister kept the British on the alert against invasion dangers, declaring that Germany was keeping several hundred short range dive bombers at home, perhaps "in reserve for a general plan of invasion."

Churchill conceded that the property damage from the German air raids had been severe, but he declared at the present rate of destruction it would take Hitler ten years to destroy half the housing of London and "quite a lot of things are going to happen to Hitler—before ten years."

Churchill set the date for the opening of the Panama road and Oct. 17, date of expiration of an agreement with Japan under which the British had hoped Japan would reach an agreement with China on ending their long war.

As for Spain, Churchill said she hovers between war and peace, but she needs peace and Britain hopes she will, again "take her rightful place both as a great Mediterranean power and as a leading and foremost power in the family of Europe and Christendom."

Churchill explained that the step taken to enable Japan to compose her differences with China had no further meaning now that Japan, instead, had entered into a triple alliance with Germany and Italy.

This alliance he called openly a revival of the anti-Comintern pact.

Murmurs of approval greeted his statement that the effect of blitzkrieg had been far less damaging than some had feared, that Britain is stronger than she was three months ago that her vital forces are more numerous, rather than depleted.

England's experience with bombers has already made it possible to project compulsory retroactive insurance for property damage, he told Commons.

Churchill declared Germany must also be increasing her strength by looting occupied countries and making some use of their skilled labor.

Only the riches of the new world, becoming increasingly available, could counteract that, he said.

Italy, he said, has experiences ahead of her not foreseen when she invaded war.

As for reprisals on the German population, Churchill said "our object must be to inflict the maximum harm upon the war-making capacity of Germany and that is the only object we shall pursue."

On every side, Churchill said, he heard cries of "we can take it" and "give it 'em back" and he hinted "it may be that new methods will be devised to make the wholesale bombing of the civilian population by night or in fog far more exciting than it is at present."

He did not disclose any of these methods but warned "no one must look forward to any relief merely because of the winter weather."

"Do not let us be lured into supposing that the danger is past," he said, wisecracking that "the enemy has certainly got prepared enough shipping material to throw half a million men in a single night into the salt water or into it."

Willkie Urges All Prejudices In U. S. Be Eliminated

By THEODORE F. KOOP

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP)—Hundred of men, women and children braved a driving rain today to welcome Wendell L. Willkie as he carried his presidential campaign to the sidewalks of New York.

In the garment district Willkie urged the workers to strive for the elimination of prejudices, while at Times Square he named defense as the nation's major problem.

"This country will be torn to pieces in this present kind of a world unless we eliminate all prejudices," the Republican presidential nominee told a crowd which stood in the rain on Seventh avenue.

Willkie stood bare headed in an open car to address the throng after driving to his Hotel Commodore headquarters under police escort.

One untoward incident marked his departure when a waste-basket dropped from an office window struck a spectator. The man was not seriously hurt.

Speaking to the garment workers, Willkie pleaded for a unified front, saying "if we do not become unified through the force of love in order to survive, somebody will unify us through the force of power."
