CIO Strike Closes Only Aluminum Plant

1,500 Seats For Amarillo Game To Go On Sale

A block of 1,500 adult reserve seat tickets for the Pampa Harvest-Amarillo Sande football game to be played on Butler field, Amarillo, Thursday afternoon, will be placed on sale Saturday morning at 8 o'clock in the office of the school business manager. The tickets will sell for $1 each.

Several hundred student tickets, at 25 cents each, were also received and they will be available at the schools. The students will sit in a special section.

$100 Fine Paid On Driving Charge

A fine and costs totaling $100 was paid in the court of Charles J. Hughes, justice of the peace, here yesterday afternoon by G. R. Sartor, Pampa manager of the Bridgeport Machine company, who had been charged with driving a motor vehicle on the left side of the road while another car was approaching.

Lake Engineer And Foreman Leave For Puerto Rico Job

Dick Peppin and Bill Leach, engineer and foreman, respectively, in the construction of the Lake McClellan dam, left yesterday for New York from where they will sail for Borehenque field, Puerto Rico, where the government is building an air base.

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Nov. 22 (AP)—A strike of CIO unionists, protesting the company's refusal to discharge a mill worker who allegedly threatened a union official, shut down operations at the main plant of the Aluminum Company of America here today.

The corporation, the nation's sole producer of aluminum, furnishes metal used widely for airplanes. The plant, which employs 7,500, has been operating 24 hours a day on defense orders.

William Hanker, spokesman for local No. 2 of the Aluminum Workers Union, which called the service, said both the union and the company "hated to see the defense program treated this way."

Among the defense contracts on which the plant was working was a $1,200,000 order for 25,000 sets of field kitchens for the U. S. army.

Hanker, referring to the reason for the walkout, said the company refused to discharge a millworker who brandished a knife and threatened Tom Davis, chairman of the local's sheet mill committee, when Davis demanded that he pay up back-dues. The man also threatened the lives of Davis' wife and young daughter, Hanker said.

The CIO spokesman said more than 1,000 members of the union voted to strike early today after the company declined to dismiss the employe.

Through the night and morning company and union heads conferred in an attempt to reach an agreement.

The strike became effective when about half of the 7,500 men and women employes appeared at the plant on the 6 a. m. and 7 a. m. shifts.

Instead of entering the plant's gates they joined a growing picket line or stood about in the streets. There was no disorder. The strikers laughed and poked with each other, some playfully swinging their dinner pails.

Men finishing work at 7 a. m. joined the pickets, swelling the crowds at the gates to about 3,000 at that hour.

British Aid Near Peak, Claims FDR

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 22 (AP)—President Roosevelt indicated at a press conference today that, under present conditions, American aid to Britain was near its peak. He said that everything possible was being done at the present time.

Two weeks ago Mr. Roosevelt had laid down a rule of thumb under which he said Britain and the United States would share 50-50 in American production of planes, guns and other war equipment.

Asked today whether, in view of the recent acceleration of German bombings of English communities, that rule could be altered to give more help to the British, the president said the question was altogether too general.

If some one could point out specifically how it could be done, he said, it might be a different story. But suggestions on that point, he said, must come from other people.

In response to another inquiry, he said it should not be taken for granted that consideration was being given to expanding American assistance to the British.

He challenged anyone to show him the way planes could be built faster and asserted that you can't pass a bill or issue an order and get planes the next day.

Italians Hasten Troops To Albania

ROME, Nov. 22 (AP)—The Italian high command hastened reinforcements to the Albanian front today for an attempt to regain Koritza after abandoning it to the advancing Greek army.

The Albanian city, 10 miles from the Greek frontier, was lost 25 days after the Italians using it as one of their two main bases, launched their invasion of Greece.

Italian troops have given up Koritza, main Italian base in Albania 10 miles from the Greek frontier, the high command announced.

The withdrawal of the Italians took place after considerable losses were suffered on both sides during 11 days of bitter fighting, the company said.

Greek losses were said to have been at least as great as the Italian, perhaps heavier.

Italian reinforcements are being massed along a new line, the high command said, with bombing planes supporting them despite "prohibitive weather."

Training Plane Shortage Looms At Randolph Field

RANDOLPH FIELD, San Antonio, Nov. 22 (AP)—An impending shortage of training planes, made more serious by a California aircraft plant strike, raised formidable difficulties today for the army's efforts to multiply quickly the output of skilled pilots.

On the eve of the arrival of this "West Point of the Air" of a record group of fledgling fliers, Brigadier General John B. Brooks, the commander, disclosed that few planes already are available than are considered "desirable" for efficiency.

Other planes required for the mounting number of cadets are on order with the Vultee plant, whose output has been halted by a strike. In other respects, General Brooks told visiting reporters that the air corps emergency measures to train pilots wholesale were "ahead of schedule."

Just now fliers are being given their wings at the rate of about 2,500 a year. By next June, unless the plane shortage or other difficulties cause delays, the rate should reach 7,000.

Ratner Has Lead Of 427 Votes As Tabulating Ends

TOPEKA, Kas., Nov. 22 (AP)—Gov. Payne H. Ratner, Republican candidate for re-election, emerged with a 427-vote lead in the complete unofficial returns from the November 5 election, the closest race for the governorship since Harry H. Woodring won by 251 votes 10 years ago.

Von Papen To Hand Demands To Turkey

ISTANBUL, Nov. 22 (AP)—Franz von Papen, German ambassador to Turkey, arrived here by plane this afternoon and was believed by observers to be bringing to the Turkish government a German demand for Turkish participation in the Axis' "new order" for Europe.

Returning from conferences in Germany and Bulgaria, von Papen was expected to proceed by train to Ankara, the Turkish capital, tonight for other important meetings.

Observers believed the proposals he carried from Berlin might involve a request for a Turkish pledge not to act if Bulgarian and German troops move to attack Greece for the relief of Italy.

The newspaper Ikdam declared, "No one is able to say that Russia will accept easily a German attack on Greece which would carry German troops toward the Dardanelles. However, the consent of Russia would not signify that Turkey does not mean to defend the Straits. Turkey follows events, ready to defend herself with all her might."

Jones Resigns As Congressman

MARVIN JONES resigned today as a member of the house, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Washington, but whether his successor Gene Worley of Shamrock will take the vacant seat before next January was not announced.

Mr. Jones, aides said, took the oath of office as a judge of the Court of Claims Wednesday night at Denver yesterday on a brief vacation trip.

Mr. Jones said here last weekend that he planned to go to Washington, Dec. 15, and that he would visit over the district until then.

Mr. Jones was chairman of the house agriculture committee.

A motion to adjourn congress was defeated this week.

Polk County Seizes College Property

MENA, Ark., Nov. 22 (AP)—Polk county authorities have taken possession, under writ executed, of property of Commonwealth college, former resident labor school near Mena, for sale on December 4 to satisfy a $2,500 fine assessed on a charge of anarchy and two allied accusations.

Frivolous charges of the school's property, including 19 cows and other farm animals, were brought to Mena yesterday and placed in custody of Constable Arthur Means pending the sale. The property also included 1,000 books, furniture, printing equipment, farm machinery, 500 gallons of canned fruit, vegetables and meat.

The writ was the second to be issued against the college. College Director Nathan Oser obtained a supreme court order which halted action on the first but the court dissolved the order November 11.

The college, which ceased operations August 30 after 17 years as a labor school, was convicted September 24 by Justice of the Peace Olen Brown here on the anarchy charge and charges of failure to display the United States flag and displaying an "illegal emblem," which, witnesses said, was a hammer and sickle insignia embedded in concrete at the school's main building. The charges are misdemeanors.

Pershing Declined Envoy Appointment

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 22 (AP)—President Roosevelt disclosed today that he had asked General John J. Pershing to become American ambassador to France but that Pershing had declined with deep regret on the advice of his physicians.

The 80-year-old commander of the American armies in France in the last World War has been in poor health for several years.

Mr. Roosevelt told a press conference that he had not yet accepted the resignation of William C. Bullitt, now ambassador to France. The resignation was submitted on Nov. 7.

And he said the stage had not been reached for discussion of someone else as a possible successor to Bullitt.

Philip Murray Named President Of CIO

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 22 (AP)—The Congress of Industrial Organizations chose Philip Murray as its president by acclamation today, bestowing on him the mantle of leadership worn for the past five years by John L. Lewis.

Lewis, stepping down as he promised he would do if President Roosevelt were re-elected, placed the Pittsburgh labor leader's name before the CIO convention as that of his choice as successor.

Murray was an "industrial statesman" who had established a "brilliant record," Lewis said.

"For three decades," the retiring CIO president said, "he has contributed of his great energy to labor without self-consideration."

He has served this Congress of Industrial Organizations and served it well as a leader, administrator and counsellor, and as an industrial statesman."

As he stepped down as head of the organization he helped organize, Lewis declared the CIO had built up "a proud record of accomplishment."

"It has demonstrated to the American people," Lewis added, "that it can advance the wellbeing of its members and yet protect the privileges and the rights of every other American."

The choice of pro- and anti-Lewis groups, Murray in his acceptance told the convention he stood before it "humble in the sight of God."

"I have no illusions about the mighty honor this convention has thrust upon me," he said. "I have no illusion about the weighty responsibilities entailed in becoming president of the great organization."

Murray and Lewis had worked together 30 years, both as leaders of the United Mine Workers of America and as CIO executives. Lewis recently said he had an "affection bordering on actual love" for the man he chose to succeed him when Wendell L. Wilkie, supported by Lewis, lost the presidential election.

The convention also must name six vice presidents including successors to Murray and Sidney Hillman, who is retiring to devote all his time to his job as labor member of the national defense commission.

The election of Murray, 54-year-old Pittsburgh labor leader, to the CIO presidency from which Lewis is stepping down, was considered assured after CIO delegates yesterday adopted a policy condemning Nazism, Communism and Fascism.

Murray's adherents pictured the action as clearing the way for him to agree to undertake the leadership of CIO's industrial union movement.

Friends of the tall, grey-haired Scot said he wanted the convention to establish a policy of opposition to "foreign ideologies" before considering the post vacated by Lewis.

The policy which the convention adopted suited Murray's views and his known interests in expanding CIO membership and bargaining relations in mass production industries.

Informed labor men deflated reports that "purge" in the CIO personnel would be the first result of Murray's election to the leadership. They contended Murray would make strict trade union policy the basis of his administration, and that he would fall only on those who departed from this policy.

Murray, like Lewis, came into the labor movement from a coal mine and for many years was the western Pennsylvania district director of the United Mine Workers union.

House And Senate Abandon Quarters

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP)—The house and senate both voted today to abandon their usual quarters temporarily because of fears that a 120-ton roof might fall in on the members.

During the six weeks until a new congress is convened on January 3, temporary steel trusses will be in place to hold safely the cast iron roof now supported by ancient rolled iron beams. Engineers say these old beams are suffering from "fatigue."

SUCCEEDS LEWIS

Philip Murray

Philip Murray Headed Miners Local At 18

Whether he becomes head of the C. I. O. or not, Philip Murray will never be another John L. Lewis, although the two are long-time friends.

Both men have suffered radically in their methods. Murray is conciliatory where Lewis is blunt. Murray is cautious where Lewis is adventurous. Murray is coldly analytical where Lewis is warmly cock-eyed.

Heavy Guns Abandoned In Wild Retreat

Wild Excitement Sweeps Greece As News Spreads

(By The Associated Press) Premier Mussolini's threat to "break Greece's back" took a boomerang setback today when his own high command acknowledged the fall of Koritza, key Italian supply base, and a Greek government spokesman said that by nightfall there might not be "a single Italian left in Greek territory."

An Athens communique said: "Our heroic troops after hard fighting entered Koritza today triumphantly."

"The advance of our troops continues everywhere. A general display of flags has been ordered."

The retreat from Koritza, 10 miles inside the Albanian frontier, marked the first major turning point in the 26-day-old Fascist invasion of the little Aegean kingdom—which now has become a Greek counter-invasion into Albania.

Italy's second main supply base at Argirocastro, in the southwest of the 100-mile front, was reported imminently threatened with capture.

A Rome communique admitting the withdrawal from Koritza said two Italian divisions, about 30,000 troops, had evacuated the city after 11 days of "bitter fighting" in which "our losses were considerable."

Greek losses were described by the Italians as equally great, "perhaps heavier."

Wild excitement swept through Greece as news of the victory spread, but British military circles in London cautioned against regarding the Italian defeat as a rout.

Dispatches from Athens said Italian resistance before Argirocastro was so shattered that Greek troops were swarming forward almost unopposed.

A Greek general headquarters announcement said the Italian nation's defenders seized 15 Italian guns, including seven heavy artillery pieces, four anti-aircraft guns, dozens of machine-guns, many howitzers, foodstuffs and fuel depots.

Such an abandonment of heavy guns would indicate that the Fascist retreat was headlong.

In Berlin, the addition of Rumania to the Axis bloc was taken for granted as General Ion Antonescu, Rumania's premier, and Foreign Minister Prince Costin Sturna arrived for conferences with Adolf Hitler.

British, encouraged by a report from King George VI that munitions and supplies from the United States were reaching the embattled nation in "ever increasing volume," planned new air blows at Italy and Germany with the aid of 28 big bombers made available by the United States.

Axis air raids on Britain last night were described as the lightest the island has had this month. Britons credited bad weather with softening an attack on the Midlands which started out furiously.

A report from Algiers, Spain, saying that a French battleship of the Paris type had entered Gibraltar and surrendered to the British raised something of a mystery. Previous accounts had agreed that only one French battleship—the Strasbourg, which is not of the Paris type—remained at large after the battle of Gran last July.

Both vessels of the Paris type, the Paris and the Courbet, were reported by the British in their hands and London had no word of any new surrender at Gibraltar. This raised two possibilities:

1. That the vessel might, in fact, be the Strasbourg, or

2. That the Paris or Courbet might be in British service, which would make her reported "surrender" merely a call for port.

Don't Join Axis, Bulgaria Warned

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 22 (AP)—The Bulgarian government was reported by a high source today to have been advised by Soviet Russia not to join the three-power Axis alliance.

Official quarters and the government-supervised press made no reference to the reported advice as this little nation apparently continued to seek avenues of avoiding involvement in war.

Review Of "Who Walk Alone" To Be Given Monday

"Who Walk Alone," the story of a man who was greater than his fate, will be reviewed next Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the city club rooms as the second in the series of arts programs sponsored by the American Association of University Women. Mrs. Hal Wagner will be the reviewer.

Last month Mrs. F. E. Leech reviewed "Mrs. Miniver" for the first in this series of arts programs presented by the A. A. U. W. as a community service. Third in the series will be three performances by the world famous Rufus Rose Marionettes on December 11. A small admission fee is charged for these programs.

"Who Walk Alone" is a true story, the biography of an ordinary young man from a midwestern town who learned that something had happened to him, so terrible, so unmentionable, that it sent him into a lifelong exile on a distant tropical island.

A weaker spirit would have given up in despair, but Ned Langford remembered what the major had said: "You have to do this soldier, whether you're scared or not. You can take it standing up, fighting, or you can lie down and let it beat you. And you're the only one who can say about that."

Mrs. Wagner says the book is one of the finest things she ever read.

SHE STARS IN STRIPES

One of the major problems connected with the staging of the new Broadway production of Shakespeare's comedy, Twelfth Night, was designing a suitable costume for Helen Hayes, who, as the shipwrecked Viola, disguises herself as a boy and becomes a page to Duke Orsino. The First Lady of the Theater is pictured here in the costume, with striped knee-breeches, finally decided on. Cute, eh?

MODERN MENUS

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Of all the meats available to the American housewife, veal is among the most tender. Because veal is a lean meat, slow cooking gives the best results. It's flavor blends well with all vegetables.

Being almost all solid meat, veal is a good economy buy. A knowledge of the different cuts and their uses will produce better meals for less money.

Quality veal is a pinkish-gray color. The lean meat is fine grained but does not show the marbling of the older beef. The proportion of connective tissues to lean is greater than in beef; so also is the percentage of bone. The bones are porous and reddish in color, and although they are not much fat, what there is is clear, hard and white.

Roast Leg of Veal

Place leg of veal on a rack in an open roasting pan. Season it with salt and pepper. Make an incision and insert a meat thermometer so that the center of bulb reaches the center of the thickest part of meat. Be sure that it does not rest on the bone.

Put the roast in a slow oven (300 degrees F.) and roast without covering and without adding water. When the meat thermometer registers 170 degrees F. the veal is done. Allow about 30 minutes per pound for roasting. If desired, squeeze a few drops of garlic juice into olive oil and baste meat occasionally.

Veal Chops in Sour Cream (Serves 4 to 6)

Six veal chops, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons lard, 1 cup sour cream, paprika, salt and pepper.

Dredge veal chops in flour and brown on both sides in hot lard. When nicely browned, season with salt and pepper and paprika. Add sour cream, cover tightly, and cook very slowly until done, about 45 minutes. Remove to a hot platter and make sour cream gravy by thickening drippings and adding more liquid.

Brass Buttons For Ladies As Autumn Styles Go Patriotic

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 22—Feminine styles, which are just as sensitive to the times as the stock market, are going patriotic this fall! That's the fashion reveille sounded by Mrs. Dora R. Barnes, clothing specialist for the A. and M. college extension service.

As evidence she lists such popular colors in fall apparel as patriot red, khaki green, soldier blue, and yankee doodle. Costume jewelry, too, is definitely patriotic. Counters everywhere are beginning to display flag pins, liberty bells, British emblems, "God Bless America" bracelets, vases in red, white and blue, patriotic handkerchiefs and belts.

Colors which aren't patriotic are mostly "woody." Selections are in-

- Try to write it the day after you return.

Business Meeting Replaces Program Planned By WMS

Women's Missionary Society of Central Baptist church met in the church this week for a business session rather than the program which was originally planned.

Mrs. George Berlin led in the opening prayer and the group joined in singing "Jesus Saves." Mrs. T. D. Sumrall presented the devotional from Hebrews: 12.

Monthly reports were given by circle chairmen and chairmen of standing committees. Mrs. O. H. Gilstrap appointed Mrs. Berlin to be in charge of Red Cross work in the church and Mrs. S. W. Brandt was made chairman of the year book committee.

The society will give Thanksgiving baskets next week.

Attending the meeting were Mesdames O. H. Gilstrap, T. D. Sumrall, Jess Hatcher, G. C. Stark, W. H. Dempster, Dayton White, George Berlin, H. T. Beckham, P. M. Jenks, Scott Leveritt, Hargis, and Roberts.

cluding bitter sweet red, winter berry red, sumac red, lava green, hunting green, meadow gold, sand dune, shadow blue, camel beige, toffee tan, and plantation tan.

Some Texas colors for holiday shades have been recommended by J. Frank Doble, authority on Texana, for blending with fall costumes. They are: alamo, a dusky mauve; taupe, road-runner, white hirted beige, mesquite, medium brown bronzes, spring beige, pinto coffee tan.

As to the cut and design of this fall's dresses, the flare and swing of last season disappear in favor of the straight and narrow silhouette. "There is a fullness, but it is used in such a way that it gives a slim, willowy effect," as Mrs. Barnes puts it. Fullness may be acquired by graceful godet pleats in front, side saddle drapery, or the new side-buttoned drape. The apron front dress is quite new, too.

In sleeves, some of the old styles are being revived, such as ragland, dolman, and saddle shoulders, all with a new touch.

Church Women To Honor Two State Officers Here

At a recent session of the executive board of the Federation of Church Women, plans were made for the next meeting which will be held on Friday, December 13, in the First Christian church.

Following the program, which will be the last of the year, a reception in the form of a tea will be given to honor Mrs. E. C. Seaman of Amarillo, who is president of the state federation; Mrs. J. W. Sanders, chairman of district seven, of Amarillo; and Mrs. Fred Roberts, state treasurer, of Pampa.

Women of all local churches in the city are asked to take part in the meeting.

Dies To Bare Activities Of Japs, Italians

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP)—The Dies committee promised today to follow up its German "white paper" with companion reports devoted to alleged Italian and Japanese activities in the United States.

The material set forth in its "white paper" on German activities, the committee charged, was evidence of a closely-integrated scheme of Nazi espionage, propaganda and planning in this country.

Informal sources said that an Italian "white paper," similar to the 300-page document released yesterday on German activities, was being prepared by the committee and would be transmitted to congress within a few weeks.

Committee investigators, meanwhile, were reported actively pursuing their inquiry into the operations of persons the committee believes to be identified with the Japanese government, but the form of the report on this material has not been determined.

Chairman Dies (D-Tex) of the committee died in St. Louis that the German report was "unique in American history" and that any Nazi effectiveness would be destroyed by its exposure. It was Dies who gave the report its "white paper" title prior to publication.

Aides of Dies said that he had decided to take charge personally of inquiries now under way in many cities in the hope that activities of any agents unfriendly to the United States might be disclosed.

Dies, himself, emphasized at St. Louis that he did "not intend to move against any innocent people, of whatever nationality."

He indicated, however, that the "white paper" his committee issued yesterday might not mean the end of the line of inquiry concerned with alleged German activities.

"I have a list of suspects who I have every reason to believe are Gestapo (German secret police) agents in the United States," Dies said. "As fast as possible we will move in upon them, place them under oath, and take their testimony."

"But we are not going to move against innocents," he repeated. Robert Stripling, committee clerk, announced that committee agents within the next few days would seek records of suspected subversive foreign agents in Boston, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Milwaukee, Cleveland, New Orleans, and St. Louis.

It's British Property Now

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Sowter, of Essex, England, were agreeably surprised to find this bit of German property in their coal bin after a raider was shot down. The propeller makes a swell souvenir.

Lions Learn Of 4-H Girls' Work

Pampa Lions learned of the work of 4-H girls clubs in Gray in a program presented by Mrs. Julia E. Kelley, Gray county home demonstration agent, and four 4-H girls club members at the Lions regular weekly luncheon at noon yesterday.

Bennie Mae Wade, member of the Southeast club, McLean, reviewed work of the 4-H club, and Betty Lou Roth, a member of the same club, told of her work in poultry demonstration.

Work at a garden, bedroom, and clothes demonstrator was explained by Doris Smith, County Wide member, Pampa.

A solo, "Deep Purple," was sung by Minnie Bell Williams, County Wide, Pampa.

Dr. Roy A. Webb, county health officer, made a talk on cancer control, another in the current series in the county campaign.

There will be no meeting of the Lions club next week, as club members observe the pre-Rooseveltian Thanksgiving and go to Amarillo to watch the Pampa-Amarillo football game.

Attendance at the luncheon yesterday was 55. Guests were Harvey White of Canadian, and the following from Pampa, the Rev. Franklin Weir, new assistant pastor of the First Methodist church; Bill Anderson, Harvesters business manager; A. J. Muller, Humble Pipe-line company superintendent.

British Plan Early Plane War On Italy

LONDON, Nov. 22—Embattled Britain, heartened by her King's report of increasing war aid from the United States, mapped new aerial strikes against Germany and Italy today.

King George VI in opening a new session of parliament yesterday declared munitions and supplies from the United States were arriving in "ever increasing volume," and the royal air force left little doubt that 26 powerful bombers originally ordered by the U. S. army and being made available for British purchase would be in the van of new forays against the Axis.

RAF officers said the big four-engine craft also might be used for the night bombing "ferret service" to Berlin and added that all the signs point to an early opening of widespread air war on Italy, with the comment that the American-made ships "are the babies to do it with."

The King, in a message officially proroguing the old parliament Wednesday and in an address opening the new session yesterday, emphasized his satisfaction over U. S. aid to Britain and added that relations "could not be more cordial."

He declared the royal British Empire would keep on fighting "until freedom is made secure."

Official sources in London said today that all British bomber operations scheduled for last night were cancelled because of "unfavorable weather conditions."

Bases at Lorient, Cherbourg, Dunkerque and Ostend were said to have been attacked Wednesday night, as well as the great German inland port of Duisburg-Ruhrort. The air ministry news service said the latter attack "must inevitably have disorganized essential traffic and destroyed indispensable raw materials."

The ministry also reported air victories in Africa and Albania. Ten Italian planes, of a formation of 60 were said to have been shot down without a British loss in an air fight over eastern Libya. In Albania, the RAF blasted hangars at Tirana, the capital, and wharves at Durazzo, main Italian supply port, a communiqué said.

Most of the present training planes used by the army and navy use from 20 to 70 gallons of gasoline per hour, as compared to the training of pilots in light planes, which use from three to five gallons of fuel per hour.

Inauguration In Mexico To Outshine Any In 30 Years

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 22 (AP)—Diplomatic and political sources expressed the belief today that General Avila Camacho's inauguration as President Dec. 1, will outshine any similar event in 30 years.

The fact that the United States and all Latin American republics have appointed special ambassadors to the forthcoming ceremony, is interpreted here as a desire to cement continental solidarity.

Reception committees of the foreign office, the administration of the federal district and of congress, are arranging to welcome Mexico's official guests.

Government and private organizations volunteered cooperation. Officials of the interior department started work by motor today to organize the reception for Vice-President Elect Henry A. Wallace, at the frontier town of Nuevo Laredo. He is motoring to Mexico as President Roosevelt's "good will" envoy.

Not only the appointment of Mr. Wallace, but also Cuba's gesture of sending a delegation of 600, including a large number of cadets, aboard the warships "Cuba" and "Colombia," drew favorable comment among officials and in the Mexican press.

It is felt that the gathering here of representatives of all American nations may permit informal discussion of Pan-American problems. Most envoys are due to arrive Nov. 23, and their credentials will be presented to President Cardenas Nov. 29, at midday.

Rumanian Officials Arrive In Berlin

BERLIN, Nov. 22—Rumania's premier and foreign minister arrived today and immediately were received by Adolf Hitler for talks expected to lead to Rumanian adherence to the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo axis.

The Rumanians, General Ion Antonescu and Prince Sturza, engaged in lengthy conversations with the Fuehrer at the Chancellery, where they were accorded military honors by a Nazi guard before proceeding to Hitler's private quarters, the official DNE news agency announced.

Hungary, which enrolled in the anti-British totalitarian bloc Wednesday at Vienna, already has broadened it to a four-power alignment and Bulgaria and Slovakia, little remnants of Nazi-dissolved Czechoslovakia, are expected to join after Rumania.

Antonescu and Prince Sturza were met at the Anhalter railroad station by Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and escorted to Bellevue Castle, Berlin's guest home for state visitors, where Russian Premier Vyacheslav Molotov stayed during his recent Berlin talks.

Pampa Ties Other Cities Of Texas In Fatality Ratings

AUSTIN, Nov. 22 (AP)—Dallas with 15 fatalities or 5.1 per 100,000 population continued to pace all other big Texas cities in fatality ratings announced today by the public safety department.

Corpus Christi's record of four deaths, a rate of 6.95 per 100,000 population, topped all cities in the 50,001-100,000 population division. Other records in this bracket were El Paso 7 and 7.24; Amarillo 4 and 7.77; Austin 8 and 9.09; Galveston 6 and 9.94; Beaumont 10 and 16.97; Waco 11 and 19.70.

Soul And Body To Be Sermon Subject

"Soul and Body" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientists on Sunday, November 24.

The Golden Text is: "O bless our God, ye people, and make the voice of his praise to be heard; which holdeth our soul in life, and suffereth not our feet to be moved" (Psalms 66:3).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens" (II Corinthians 5:1).

And So He Fights For Uncle Sam

Better than a heavy sermon, better than a long and involved discourse on Americanism, is a little story. It happened in Camden, N. J. A boy came to the recruiting office to enlist in the Army Engineering Corps. His father proudly walked with him.

Anton Schmagier was the father's name. He knew what war was about, for just 22 years ago he was in one. He was a machine-gunner with a German outfit on the Somme. So when he presented his boy to the examining officer, he knew exactly what he was doing.

So did the officer. Lieut.-Col. Lee Sumner was also on the Somme, on the other side. He and Schmagier may actually have fired at one another in those days. They understood.

Schmagier is one of those men on whom Nazi Germany believes it should exercise some hold. He is one of those men of German blood whom the German organizations concerned with "Germans abroad" would like to control.

But Schmagier is not having any of that. His boy Rudolph is going into the American army, to fight, if necessary, for the country his father has adopted, and which is his own country. Rudolph is an American, ready to do his duty. Anton is an American, ready to help him do it.

This sort of thing must be the despair of those who insist that the call of race and blood must always be stronger than the call of country. It must baffle those who insist that a man may go to a foreign land, assume its citizenship, and yet remain loyal to the land from which he stemmed.

It is not the American way. The thousands of fine American soldiers of German ancestry and blood who fought in every war from the Revolution on down to the war against Kaiserism, give it the lie every day, every hour.

The best Americans are often those who have but recently tasted despotism abroad. The love of freedom is often stronger within them than in those of us who take it for granted.

Common Ground

By E. C. HOLES

This column contends there can be no satisfactory program until we measure the stature of each man by the common yardstick of the God-given right to create and enjoy anything anyone else has a right to create and enjoy.

Where all the New Dealers—and that includes many of the Republican party—are in their belief that the government creates ownership. They have the old Grecian and Roman idea of ownership and of liberty. This belief that the government creates ownership is due largely to the fact that the state directly and indirectly controls our educational system.

I have just been reading a recent translation on the subject of "The Bachelor Degree and Socialism" by Frederic Bastiat. He points out that state education, which is controlled politically and financially by the state eventually leads to socialism.

Regarding the effect of state control education, he points out that most all educational institutions, even those controlled by religion, under the consent of the state, over-emphasize the Greek and Roman culture. He says this distorts the proper concept of Christianity or democratic culture.

What is Property? The author says, "As to what property is, I defy anybody to find in all antiquity a passable definition." Then the author says that we now, under the Christian concept, define property as "man is the owner of himself and thus of his ability and thus of the product of his abilities."

He continues by saying, "But could the Romans conceive of such a definition or notion? As owners of slaves, could they say 'A man belongs to himself? Despoiling labor, could they say 'A man is the owner of the product of his abilities?'"

That would have been for them to erect a system of collective suicide. Certainly there was ownership before there was government and the notion that the government creates ownership, of course, results in a distorted belief that the government has a right to destroy ownership. That is what the New Deal has been doing for the last ten years and the Republican party has been doing in other ways for the last half century.

Jesus had a different conception of man's rights of property than the Greeks and the Romans. They killed Him for His ideas. He had the courage to stand for it with the idea of educating and freeing the world from so much tyranny. The Constitution was established, setting forth that man had rights before there was a government; that he was owner of himself; that the government had no right to interfere with his own ownership.

It is of the utmost importance that people come to understand that the Divine Architect gave man certain rights as expressed and explained by Jesus and set forth in the Constitution of the United States; that the state, whether it be the majority or a dictator, has no right whatsoever to interfere with these God-given rights.

The sooner we return to the philosophy of Jesus and the aspirations of our own Constitution, the sooner we will return to peace, happiness and prosperity.

THE PROPOSAL TO FEED NAZI-OCCUPIED EUROPE

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 22.—Hundreds of people in Morristown are playing a game called gin rummy. After considerable research among acknowledged experts, I still haven't learned why it's called "gin." And as a guy who is reasonably familiar with most of the amusing speculative and time-killing contests which can be conducted with a deck of cards, I also do not know why so many people are playing gin rummy.

But I do know they're playing it, and with the same single-minded enthusiasm which Hollywood reserves for everything it adopts. Thus a person who hasn't read "For Whom the Bell Tolls" is considered illiterate. Anyone who can't rumba doesn't play gin rummy is a dullard and a social leper.

It is almost always played two-handed and therefore scarcely would qualify as a group pastime if it weren't so admirably adapted to the minor sport among film celebrities. But the details of play are going to give you an awful letdown:

TO A PLAYER If the game's just starting, players cut for high card and the deal. Otherwise the winner of the previous hand, or "knockdown," deals. He deals hands of 10 cards each, and one at a time. The rest of the deck, with top card turned over beside it, is placed in the middle as in any kind of rummy.

People You Know

A couple of weeks ago we saw Harold (Coronado) Shadwick on the street and he had just gotten out of the hospital where he underwent an operation for appendicitis, and he looked like skin and bones and had lost 20 pounds. Yesterday we saw him again and he sure has picked up and looked fine.

Carl Adams was one of this column's readers who called and expressed thanks for the tip regarding Bishop Moore's sermon last Sunday. Carl who has heard some of the most noted preachers in America including Dr. Foedick of New York, says that Moore's sermon Sunday was one of the greatest he ever heard.

HIGHLIGHTS FROM LATEST BOOKS

By JOHN SELBY "EMBEZZLED HEAVEN," by Franz Werfel (Viking; $2.50)

Perhaps the best way to approach the complexities of life here, and life hereafter, is by way of simple things and simple people. At least that is what Franz Werfel has done in "Embezzled Heaven," and it seems that he has been successful.

He begins his novel with himself the guests of friends in Austria, trying to write a book and failing. His friends surround him with life of a bright and often beautiful kind, and his work goes badly. But three things happen, close together.

The son of the family dies. The old cook, Teta Link, is forced to leave the family. And a little later Austria herself dies and everything is tangled. But between the last two events Werfel lifts the emphasis from himself and his friends to Teta. It is as if her story were growing out of a carefully prepared soil, and although the story is simple in its essentials, it produces a flower of enormous complexity and almost wild beauty.

Teta has been buying heaven for herself. She has been supporting a rascal through her long days of bar of heaven, and she has poured out her savings to educate her nephew as a priest. At least she thinks they have gone to that purpose, but after 30 years of it she finds that the nephew has not even been ordained; that he is a common swindler and that he has stolen from her not only her money, but her heaven. It is not easy for a novelist to persuade a reader that a hard-headed peasant might pour money down such a drain for three decades or more without once seeing the drain itself. Yet Werfel does succeed.

The story has begun at a summer place in the mountains. It goes thru Vienna, and into the worst districts of Prague. It passes through the magnificent halls of the Vatican and reaches a wholly unexpected climax there. And it ends, barring the epilogue Werfel could not deny himself, in a Roman capital. Teta has lost everything and yet she has, by the time death comes, actually been remembered in the morning prayers of the Pope himself, and she has secured another advocate as well. More important, she has held herself to her curious concept of life and death, and has made it work for her.

TEX'S TOPICS

By Tex DeWesse

BEFORE we forget it, we wish to acknowledge here a contribution from "An Amateur" which got lost in the flood of mail that crosses our desk and was not discovered until this morning. It was a piece written for Armistice Day publication and, of course, now is too late. Suffice it to say, the theme was good and we, too, wonder about the "thoughts of the dead in Flanders Field" as they look down on what they fought for more than a score of years ago.

Many persons observed Thanksgiving Day yesterday. Next Thursday many more will observe another Thanksgiving Day. And, so in between these two days and in the midst of this holiday season of thankfulness in America, we like to recall the words of Arthur W. Fleming, while we stand with the thoughts that arise in one man's Thanksgiving:

I AM thankful for the stinging whip that urges me on to bigger achievement; for the sleeplessness and roughness of the way and stammering virtues gained by climbing jagged rocks; for the acid blight of failure that has burned out of me all thought of easy victory and toughness; for the fiercest battles and greater triumphs; for mistakes I have made, and the priceless lessons I have learned from them.

I am thankful for disillusion and disappointment that have cleared my vision and spurred my desire; for strong appetites and passions that give me the gusto when under control; for my imperfections that give the delight of striving for perfection. I am thankful for the siren songs of temptation that lure and entangle and the understanding of others that they reveal; for my own weaknesses and shortcomings that give me a deeper sympathy for others. And I am thankful for ingratitude and mis-understanding and the gladness of service without other reward than self-expression. What are you thankful for in this holiday season?

THESE words of Charles Kingsley are worth pasting in your hat. "The men whom I have seen succeed best in life have always been cheerful and hopeful men, who went about their business with a smile on their faces, and took the changes and chances of this mortal life like men, facing rough and smooth alike as it came." And, that to us appears to be a bit of grand philosophy, whether you agree or not.

AND still being in the mood of the season this is written at the approach of midnight on Thanksgiving night No. 1, how about these immortal words of Max Ehrmann? "Give me a few friends who will love me for what I am. Spare me from the bitterness and from the shabby passions of unguarded moments. Though the world know me not, may my thoughts and actions be such as shall keep me friendly with myself, and forbid that I should judge others, lest the power may miss. Teach me still to be thankful for life, and for very recent memories that are good and sweet—and may the evening's twilight find me at peace with my friends."

According to some outstanding automobile designers, the car of the future will have the motor in the rear, and the entire car, even the windshield and windows will be made of a new synthetic material, probably a form of molded plastic.

The War Today

(This daily feature, conducted by Dewitt Mackenzie, is being written by Fred Vanderschmidt while Mackenzie is taking a brief vacation.)

King and prime minister of Britain did stress in their speeches to the new parliament on the two ways—and there appear, now, to be only two—in which Britain can win this war.

The first was the effort to obtain mechanical superiority over the Axis, in large measure a matter of American supplies. The second was the necessity for a British victory in Africa.

It would be foolish to pretend that these are not dark days for Britain; days of gigantic need. At home, under the constant siege of ship and shore, it is vital that the British grow stronger every day in planes, guns and men of war. The forays of the Luftwaffe, already impressive, must increase steadily in scope and power. The U-boat must be beaten at sea, there must be a better defense against the drives of planes that fly by night to strike at the war in contemplation with any optimism. Winston Churchill has been frank about it: Britain must have a better equipped army than that of the Axis for the offensive campaigns, that must be fought in a series of the perilous stalemate that is fast developing. Sooner or later the British must carry the war back to the continent or be beaten, and to do this they must have an overwhelming superiority in the air, in the weapons they use on the ground—no saying of foolproof protection from the fleet.

It may be well now to note that the Irish peer, Earl Winton, only the other day warned the house of commons that it need not expect American ships or American men to be fighting in any future campaigns. It is indeed difficult for the British to contemplate with any optimism the prospect of a victorious continental offensive for at least two years. Hence it becomes all the more important that a decision be won first somewhere about Suez, somewhere on the shores of the Mediterranean.

In this sea the British navy still is supreme. The fleet's successes against the weakest end of the Axis, Italy, and the stroke of luck provided by the form of a German attack on Gibraltar, a German drive through Turkey and Syria, or both, are of little moment. The British are numerically inferior to the Italians in Egypt; how much inferior is, of course, a secret, but it probably is about the ratio of 2 to 3. But the empire reinforcements and supplies are proceeding feverishly to Africa, and the British may beat the Axis to the punch.

Britain Has One Of Quietest Nights

LONDON, Nov. 22 (P)—Bad weather was credited by the British today with smothering the nightly Axis assault on Britain after a violent beginning in which the Midlands and a great western port were the principal targets.

As a result, the night was described as one of the quietest the island has had this month. At least two towns in the Midlands were attacked in the early part of the night. Liverpool had two short raids. London also had two alerts during the night, the first ending around midnight and the other shortly after dawn, but Londoners heard no activity save the slam of British guns.

German guns on the French coast shelled the Dover area in brilliant sunlight today, even though limited visibility in the middle of the English channel. No casualties were reported.

Both Rice And SMU Favored To Win Battles Tomorrow

By FELIX R. MCKNIGHT
DALLAS, Nov. 22 (AP)—Peace and quiet occasioned by morning of the Texas Aggie thunderbolt until Nov. 28 gives way tomorrow to a small, but explosive, schedule of two games involving some "also rans" still grasping for possible Southwest conference honors.

Briefly, the Aggies may win their second successive title and remold conference history without playing a down.

Such could be the case if Texas Christian and Baylor, two teams out of ammunition, shoot down Rice Institute and Southern Methodist, respectively.

Only the Methodists and Rice have the slightest chance of getting in on the conference flag raising ceremony. They could be winning the remainder of their games, share a tie with the Aggies if Texas upsets the Cadets next Thursday at Austin. Both have been trampled once by the Aggies.

The possibility of defeat for both S. M. U. and Rice is anything but remote.

Loaded with a shoot-the-works passing game, Texas Christian goes to Houston with a stunning line to haunt before the Rice men. It has now been 16 years since Rice defeated Texas Christian.

Kyle Gillespie, the Christian lad with the bum knee that keeps him from being one of America's greatest backs, is going to start the Rice game. He played a full afternoon of magnificent football against Texas last week. He will pass, pass, pass against Rice. It's no secret.

Rice has a weak pass defense and the Christians are shooting at that target. But Rice has a wicked offensive weapon itself, a ground game built around Bob Brumley and Ted Weems that shook the very foundations of Texas A. and M.'s noted line last week.

Rice will score, but so will Texas Christian. On the theory TCU will take less time to travel through the air, the natural assumption would be to give them a nod in a free-scoring game. But the Christians are weak around the tackles and that's all Rice needs. The Owls to barely squeeze by in this one.

Baylor's football machine, stalled for weeks while Pullback Jack Weston recuperated from a dangerous hurt suffered six weeks ago, has started rolling again. Wilson is back and he is good. So is Jim Witt, the hard running back with the bad shoulder.

But Southern Methodist has a passing game that probably rates as one of the best in the nation when it is functioning. It worked like magic against the Aggies and Arkansas. The weather forecast is for a clear week-end—but Southern Methodist will make Waco cloudy with a sky full of footballs and rates to give Baylor its fifth straight league licking.

The Methodists have a tremendous handicap to overcome—the mere fact that they are playing in Waco. Seems as if the Methodists have won only one football game, or some such fantastic thing as that, in Waco.

Arkansas fell 27-7 before Fordham yesterday at New York. It was the Razorback's seventh defeat of the season. They close the year next Thursday against Tulsa university at Tulsa.

Gorillas To Start Cage Work Monday

Basketball practice for Coach Oscar Hinger's Gorillas will begin Monday afternoon in the high school gymnasium. Time of the practice has not yet been announced.

The Gorillas will be without a letterman from last season, all members of the crack team going up to the Harvesters. Coach Hinger will have several good boys up from the junior high Respers along with several boys from intra-mural teams that have been playing a lot of basketball during the fall months.

Coach Hinger will miss his team of Halter, Ott, Flanigan, Burge and Allen. He believes that team will supply the Harvesters with most of their starters this coming season.

The Harvesters will probably begin basketball practice the following Monday with two first string lettermen, Heiskell from the team of two years ago, and Terrell, and all the "Glamour Pants" ready for action.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ
CINCINNATI, Nov. 22 (AP)—His close friends here say one of the first moves Jimmy Wilson will make as manager of the Cubs will be to try to get Hugh Mulcahy from the Phillies. . . . This is just one man's opinion, but personally we think Auburn has a good chance of upsetting Boston College tomorrow. (See odds below). . . . Friztie Zivic has been offered four opponents by Jack Laken at Baltimore, but on acceptance yet. . . . Sam Houston In Second Place In Lone Star League

HUNTSVILLE, Nov. 22 (AP)—Sam Houston State for the third straight year has finished in second place in the Lone Star conference.

The Bearcats defeated Stephen F. Austin 27-7 yesterday to end up as runner-up to North Texas State.

Rutherford scored 85 yards for one touchdown, Hal passed to Hightower for the second, Grubbs intercepted a pass and Sam Houston drove 23 yards for the next counter with Clifford plunging over, and Hal passed to Hightower for the final touchdown.

Stephen F. Austin talked in the first quarter with Roquemore plunging through center from the 4-yard line.

Reorganization Of Phillies Demanded

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22 (AP)—A group of minority stockholders, imbued with "elvic pride," went forward today with their fight to reorganize the National League's cellar champs, the Phillies.

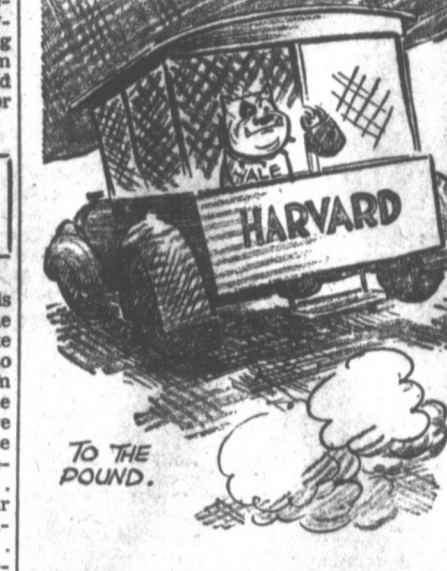

"The time has come when something must be done to make the club a pennant contender," said William H. Harman, vice-president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works and leader of the minority.

A stockholders' meeting is scheduled for November 28, and Harman asserted that "I intend to ask that new capital be brought into the club. Whether by the sale of more stock or by some other method, I don't care. I am very anxious that the club reach a position where it can pay off its debts without having to sell star players."

Barker Picks Minnesota, SMU, Boston, Harvard

By HERB BARKER
NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP)—Just one more trip down the narrow and treacherous football guessing trail: Minnesota-Minnesota. Who knows where the lightning might strike next? It could happen even here, particularly with so dangerous, if erratic, a club as the Badgers involved. Still, one solid vote for Minnesota to close its season unbeaten and untied.

Cornell-Penn: The big Red apparently has fallen far off its early-season form but perhaps the "delayed" Dartmouth defeat will turn out to be one of those well-known blessings in disguise. We'll take Cornell.

Boston College - Auburn: The Plainsmen come north with a formidable scoring machine and a great back in Dick McCowen. It may be close but the choice is Boston college.

Yale-Harvard: Both have come a long way since their early season pastings. This ballot for Harvard is based on the belief that the Crimson has come farther and has the greater reserve strength.

Tennessee - Kentucky: Another traditional affair with all the uncertainty that implies. Nevertheless it seems the best Kentucky can hope for is to hold the score to respectable proportions. Tennessee.

Ohio State-Michigan: Dangerous spot for Tommy Harmon and Michigan and no shattering surprise either way. A none-too-confident vote for Michigan.

Northwestern - Notre Dame: Northwestern seldom has much luck against Notre Dame but this is once when it seems the Wildcats have a definite edge. Northwestern.

Mississippi State-Mississippi: One of the toughest of them all to figure. Out of the hat, one vote for Mississippi.

Baylor - Southern Methodist: A battle royal but we'll stick with S. M. U.

Oklahoma - Temple: Probably close. Oklahoma.

Nebraska-Iowa State: Nebraska. U. C. L. A.-Washington: The Bruins finally found the scoring and winning combination last week. Washington.

Princeton - Army: The Cadets probably will be thinking too much about next week's Navy game to worry about this one. Princeton.

Pitt-Penn State: Pitt has developed surprisingly well. Probably we'll regret it but we'll take a flier on Pitt to snap State's undefeated string.

Brown-Dartmouth: A doubtful vote for Dartmouth.

Columbia-Colgate: The coin decides Columbia.

Georgetown-George Washington: Georgetown.

Holy Cross - Manhattan: Holy Cross.

Lafayette-Lehigh: Lafayette.

Villanova-Duquesne: Duquesne.

Purdue-Indiana: Indiana.

Iowa-Illinois: Looks like a tight defense duel. Iowa, doubtfully.

Detroit-Marquette: Detroit.

Michigan State - West Virginia: Michigan State.

Alabama-Vanderbilt: Alabama.

Georgia Tech - Florida: The 'Gators are headed upward but Tech showed a return to form last week. Out of the hat, Tech.

Furman - Clemson: Doubtfully.

Duke-North Carolina State: Taking Duke.

Virginia-North Carolina: Ditto North Carolina.

Rice-Texas Christian: Just a guess. Rice.

Tulsa-Oklahoma A. and M.: The Missouri Valley conference title hangs on this. Taking Tulsa.

Several Grid Championships To Be Decided

By JUDSON BAILEY
NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP)—The Thanksgiving football turkey, a lean but succulent dish, was picked out to the bones yesterday and the nation's fans are going to get a bigger and better grid menu tomorrow.

There will be championships decided, hallowed rivalries renewed and important inter-sectional jousts in the last widespread fling of the season.

The leadership of the mythical Ivy league will be at stake as Cornell and Penn collide before a sell-out crowd of 78,000 at Philadelphia's Franklin field. The Missouri Valley conference crown hangs on the outcome of Tulsa's tussle with the Oklahoma Aggies and Clemson needs to conquer Furman to insure the Southern conference championship.

Top in the traditional games will be such venerable engagements as Yale-Harvard, Tennessee-Kentucky, Ohio State-Michigan, Pitt-Penn State, Virginia-North Carolina, Purdue-Indiana and Lafayette-Lehigh. The major inter-sectional frays involve unbeaten Boston college against Auburn and Oklahoma-Temple.

This is pretty fancy fare, but it has to be to improve upon the table set for the holiday yesterday.

The chief conference development was Utah clinching the Rocky Mountain Big Seven title through a 3-3 tie between Colorado and Denver. Either of the latter elevens could have moved into a tie for the crown, but they found the one sure way of eliminating each other.

The Utes celebrated their good fortune by punning Idaho 13-6 in a non-conference contest while Utah State walloped Wyoming 16-0 to keep their victims in the Big Seven cellar.

The day's big spectacle from the fans' viewpoint was Missouri's 45-20 slaughter of Kansas. Paul Christian, making his last appearance in a Tiger uniform, ran for two touchdowns, pitched his famous passes for another and set up all but one of Missouri's other tallies.

The biggest upset was Maryland's 14-7 rout of Rutgers, which previously had lost only to Princeton and undefeated Lafayette. William and Mary surprised some people by smashing the University of Richmond 16-0 for the Virginia state honors and knocked the Spiders out of a slim chance to tie for the Southern conference title. Virginia military vanquished Virginia Tech 14-0.

Otherwise form received softer treatment. In the East Fordham's one-beaten Rams raided Arkansas by air 27-7 and Marshall helped its galloping Jackie Hunt to an all-time scoring record by walloping West Virginia-Wesleyan 67-0. Hunt scored four touchdowns to bring his total for the year to 27 for 162 points. Twenty-six touchdowns was the old mark.

Texas Tech Noses Out St. Louis 7-6

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 22 (AP)—The Red Raiders of Texas Tech rolled back to Texas today with a 7-6 defense over St. Louis university.

Defeating the Billikens yesterday, the Raiders remained in the ranks of the nation's unbeaten teams.

Roger Smith kicked the extra point when Tech scored in the first period and that was the winning margin.

Tech surged 66 yards for the score in three minutes after the kick-off with Tom Douglas smashing over tackle for the touchdown.

St. Louis carried 44 yards for its counter in the second period, Dick Pfuhl circling end from the 4-yard line. Dick Weber's try for point was wide.

Tech rolled up 204 yards net gain against 176 for the Billikens. First downs were even at 10.

Harvester Passing Shows Up Wet In 58-0 Victory

Scoring nearly every time they got their hands on the ball, the Pampa Harvesters swamped the Northeast Norsemen of Oklahoma City 58 to 0 here yesterday afternoon in the last home game of the 1940 season. Coaches Odus Mitchell and J. C. Frejan used every boy in uniform, even sending Grover Heiskell, on the bench with his right knee injured, into the game to kick two points after touchdowns leftfooted.

Northeast had nothing in the way of an offense as the big Harvester lined up on the ball carrier, bringing him down before he could reach the line of scrimmage most of the time. Then the Harvester second string took the field and the story was the same. The Norsemen gained only 58 yards on the ground and 30 of those paces were on triple reverses.

Meanwhile the Harvesters rolled up 276 yards from scrimmage with A. C. Enloe, Ed Terrell and Ralph Proper in the leading role although every backfield man on the field gained plenty of yardage.

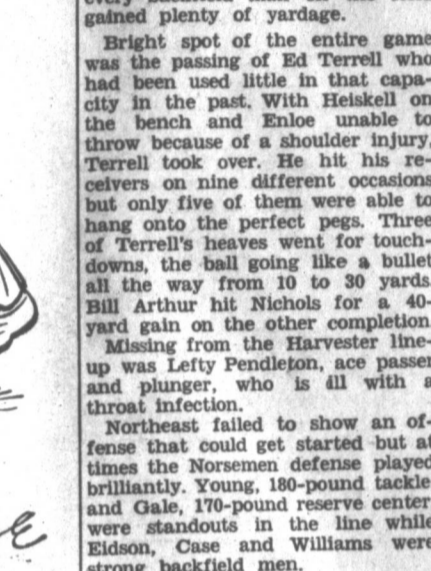

Bright spot of the entire game was the passing of Ed Terrell who had been used little in the capacity in the past. With Heiskell on the bench and Enloe unable to throw because of a shoulder injury, Terrell took over. He hit his receivers on nine different occasions but only five of them were able to hang onto the perfect pegs. Three of Terrell's heaves went for touchdowns, the ball going like a bullet all the way from 10 to 30 yards. Bill Arthur hit Nichols for a 40-yard gain on the other complete pass.

Missing from the Harvester lineup was Lefty Pendleton, ace passer and plunger, who is ill with a throat infection.

Northeast failed to show an offense that could get started but it did show the Norsemen defense played brilliantly. Young, 180-pound tackle, and Gale, 170-pound reserve center, were standouts in the line while Eldson, Case and Williams were strong backfield men.

The Harvesters failed to send a star on the field, every boy showing up well against the light Norsemen.

Last game of the season for the Harvesters will be next Thursday afternoon in Amarillo where they meet the tight Sandies who yesterday defeated Lubbock 14 to 0.

Golden Sandies Heralded As Panhandle's Greatest Team

(By The Associated Press)
Four district champions were known today but the favorite for the Texas schoolboy football title was a team that had still another game to play before it could claim a place in the opening state round. Amarillo's Sandies were "on the spot." They had been more or less that way since early September but they really had the finger put on them yesterday when they stormed over the defending state champion Lubbock Westerners 14-0.

The Sandies have yet to play Pampa but the critics are paying little attention to that game and are heralding Amarillo as the greatest team in the history of the Panhandle and the outfit to beat for the state championship.

Champions determined yesterday were Masonic Home's little rascals in district 7 and Stephenville's Yellow Jackets in the oil belt.

Greenview had already clinched honors in district 6 and Jeff Davis (Houston) had come through in district 13.

Masonic Home defeated Poly (Fort Worth) 7-6 to win the title. The Masons are undefeated and untied but had their goal line crossed for the first time by Poly.

Stephenville, with Barney Welch scoring two touchdowns to bring his total for the season to 126 points, beat Brownwood 19-6 to clinch the district 9 flag. It was a duel between Welch and Chill Rice, Brownwood ace, who ran up 146 yards despite a wet field. One of Welch's touchdowns was on an 85-yard dash.

One district title will be on the line today when Temple plays Waco. The Wildcats must win or drop into a tie with Waxahachie and Corsicana for the district 10 lead. Waxahachie defeated Hillsboro 19-7 and Corsicana downed Cleburne 20-6 yesterday.

Harlingen plays Brownsville to determine the south zone representative of district 16. Corpus Christi won the north zone pennant yesterday by defeating Robstown 14-7. Should Brownsville win, the Eagles would tie Harlingen for first place.

Wichita Falls clinched at least a tie for district 2 honors with a 29-6 victory over Quanah. Graham retained a mathematical chance at the title by downing Burkburnett 18-0.

Big Spring also clinched a title tie in district 3 with a 14-6 win over Sweetwater. Midland remained in the running with a 16-14 victory over Odessa.

Tyler surged into a tie for first place with Longview in district 11 by downing leading Kilgore 13-8 while Longview was crushing Marshall 40-12. Tyler and Longview each has a conference game left on the schedule.

Championships of districts 4 and 8 will be in the balance in games tomorrow. Austin (El Paso) playing El Paso High for the former and Woodrow Wilson (Dallas) meeting Sunset (Dallas) for the district 8 title.

SERIAL STORY

DUDE COLLEGE

BY OREN ARNOLD

YESTERDAY, Ronnie hurried back to his father's house to tell him the news. He was a little out of breath, but he was smiling broadly. He had just finished his first semester at Dude College, and he was proud to say that he had made the honor roll. His father, who had been a bit skeptical at first, was now convinced that his son was on the right path. Ronnie had found a good group of friends, and he was enjoying the new life at the college. He had even managed to get a job as a janitor, which was a nice surprise. He was looking forward to his second semester, and he was sure that he would do even better.

ANDRE MAKES PLANS

CHAPTER V

WHE-E-UW!

Andre Girardeau breathed that, then turned slowly down the arched corridor leading from the Pueblo U. administration building to the library. He went only a few feet before he halted, though; he felt that, for personal as well as professional reasons, he simply must have another and better look at the Mexican girl. The bespectacled man was at her left, helping her to walk. With her right arm she handled her one crutch, clumsily. Andre decided her act was none too convincing. But he decided that any sort of act was unimportant; what really impressed him was the appearance of this girl.

"M-M-M-m-m-m!" Andre gave murmured tribute again, already sensing the pleasure when he should meet this girl.

He saw her perfection of teeth, lips almost too carmine. He noted the way her hair hung to her head in ringlets, swept low and backward.

He saw, too, that her initial touch of haughtiness had faded when the bespectacled man came to escort her from her car; patiently, then, this lady responded to masculine attention. Without being seen at least more than casually, he slipped on down the archways and out of her sight.

HE walked along the shaded avenue toward his hotel. An irrigation canal there made a rippling rivulet, beautiful in reflecting the trees as well as giving them life. At a lovely rustic bridge he paused a moment to study his image in the quieter pool. He smiled at himself; he, Andre Girardeau, should be able to enjoy this assignment with a beautiful senorita and with Ronica

Bailey both as protagonists in his little drama. He wasn't bad looking; not at all.

He adjusted his tie, whistled a little softly, meditatively, and walked on. He reasoned next that he would have to set himself up in some dude ranch nearby to give outward excuse for his presence in and around Pueblo. The idea was distasteful, but he supposed he would have to ride a horse some in the western way, and no doubt listen to tall tales of Indian massacres and such. However, when he should form his contact with the Mexican girl, freedom ought surely to vanish.

"If this goes smoothly I can net a quarter million or better and then skip out," he reminded himself. "With that much I can probably take my choice—hal. Maybe—maybe Mexico City itself wouldn't be so bad. As safe there as anywhere."

He knew no particular fear. A concealed man seldom does, but confidence conceit is but exaggerated confidence. Anyway, it was more pleasant to meditate on which of two lovely girls he should choose for permanent companionship. It simply did not occur to him that the Mexican senorita might not care for him.

He purchased a sporty new car during the next hour, and with proper directions drove out a few miles to the expensive Rancho del Sol. There, as a business man from New York, he could be a typical dude guest, loafing the autumn weeks away. It would give him adequate front.

He tried to telephone Ronica and learned that she was not on her father's ranch. He tried the college, with no better results. It occurred to him then that she would be somewhere on the campus and so he drove back there.

HEARTY young collegians seemed to be everywhere but he recognized none of them. Some of the co-eds were definitely interesting.

He asked a few if they knew where to find Ronica Bailey. They knew about her, but not where she was.

He kept looking for another glimpse of the Mexican girl, and while he did see several others of obvious Latin heritage, he did not see that particular one. He wished he had heard her name distinctly, somehow, so that he would have to be handled with infinite tact, at least so far as public eyes were concerned. It must appear entirely natural, normal.

He did see the bespectacled young professor once, striding across the main campus court with four books on his arm, but was not interested in that gentleman.

When he was back in his car, Andre drove in a filling station to be sure of his fuel supply, and there encountered a youth as talkative as his kind is likely to be, especially out west.

"You hear the news?" the youth asked, between windshield swipes. "About the Pueblo girl?"

"I beg pardon?" Andre was democratic only by effort.

"Yep. College girl from right here at old Pueblo, by George! Plenty of the old nerve, mister, let me tell you! They say she didn't even take a gun out there, but when the right minute came she—Why how-de-do, Miss Montoya!"

A second car had driven up to the pump and Andre found himself instantly deserted. He had paid his bill anyway, and his windshield hadn't really needed cleaning. He glanced out. Something about that name Montoya had caught his interest and—there she was again!

The same girl. First time he had seen her a bespectacled professor had jumped to help her. Now, obviously, she had a filling station lad enslaved.

"Is so sweet of you, Jimmie," she was saying, musically, "you come so quick to help me."

"Aw, I'm supposed to, ma'am. Anyway, I—well, gee, Say, have you heard the news, Miss Montoya?"

"News, Jimmie?"

"Sure! One of your own Pueblo girls. Gosh, maybe you know her! Her old man's the big airplane builder. Name of Bailey, ma'am."

"I have only come here now week myself, you know, Jimmie. But what is that?"

"Aw, sure, that's right. Well this Miss Bailey, she was—Andre, straining to hear, caught no more of it. A roadster piled high with collegians rolled up honking behind him and through their hilarity someone broke into a college song. All he could do was drive out of their way.

Navy Has 1,813 Useful Planes But Expects To Have 4,000 By July

By W. B. RAGSDALE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP)—Airplanes are the eyes of the modern navy and their glance can be deadly.

For they not only spy out the enemy but they drop bombs on him and dive down to set torpedoes chasing his ships.

The United States navy has 1,813 useful planes on hand now, expects to have 4,000 by July, is building toward 15,000. It is training 2,500 pilots a year at Pensacola, with more than double this capacity with the new training centers going up at Corpus Christi, Jacksonville and Miami.

Sixty million dollars is the share it is putting into private plants to expand their plane building facilities and to bolster those of the navy's own airplane factory at Philadelphia.

The planes will go to the new bases and air stations in the Atlantic, Pacific and Caribbean, to the 12 carriers it has at float buildings, to the battleships and cruisers which carry their own detachments of fliers.

The navy uses six types of service planes. These are:

1. Patrol bombers, which usually are flying boats to land on water, with a speed of better than 180 miles an hour and a range of more than 4,000 miles. They do long-range patrol duty, scouting or bombing, carry two tons of bombs, three to six men, and are armed with machine guns.

2. Torpedo bombers, nesting on destroyers, carrying torpedoes and better than three tons of bombs, tearing away at a speed of more than 200 miles an hour, with a range of 1,000 miles. This was the general type of plane with which the navy originated dive bombing long before the Germans practiced it.

3. Scout observation planes, working from battleships or cruisers, four to a ship, flung from the decks by catapults, having a 1,000-mile range and speed of 160 miles an hour and up. They usually are seaplanes which land on the water and are hoisted back into their berths by cranes.

4. Fighter planes, fastest in the navy, with a speed of 250 miles an hour and going up in newer models, with multiple machine guns, flown and fought by one man, to protect their own bombers and observation planes and drive away those of the enemy; secondary objective is to swoop down through anti-aircraft fire and rake the fighting tops and decks of enemy craft with machine guns.

5. Scout bombers, with the double duty of finding the enemy and blowing him out of the water, designed for dive bombing, carry one 1,000-pound bomb at a speed of better than 250 miles an hour, have auxiliary gas tanks to get a 1,000-mile range. Workaday utility transports, hauling material and personnel from carriers, tenders and shore bases; may be sea or land planes or fly-

800 Italians Give Up In Yugoslavia

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Nov. 22 (AP)—One Italian battalion endangered by the onrushing Greek army was said by reports from the front today to have crossed the Albanian frontier into Yugoslavia near Skutari.

It was estimated unofficially that 800 soldiers in the battalion were disarmed and interned.

Reporting the capture of Koritza, Italian base city in Albania, Greeks here said their army marched into the fallen city with a band playing.

There was no resistance from the Italians, the reports from the frontier said. An Italian communique said that the Fascist forces retired during the night west of Koritza.

During August, 1940, 2,476 units of new passenger cars and chassis were exported. The total shipment was valued at $1,611,653, or an average value of $650 per unit, official figures show.

FUNNY BUSINESS

State Board Finally Says FDR Winner

AUSTIN, Nov. 22 (AP)—Everybody knew what happened long before Nov. 20, but that was the date that the November election became official.

Everybody knew that Roosevelt swamped Willie in the Texas voting; that Corry piled up a huge, although insipid vote, against McDonald; but it took solemn action by the state election board to make it all regular and legal. The board is composed of the governor, the secretary of state, and the attorney general.

Its findings go into the books for the permanent record, but the tabulations we all read election night and thereafter were by a special organization operated by the newspapers of Texas. When newspapers want news, they want it right now. They don't like to wait for the ponderous machinery of government to groan and turn.

The official figures are seldom different from the unofficial because of the efficiency of the newspaper setup which has been functioning many years.

So accurate is the newspaper election bureau that, on occasion when something has gone wrong with the official system of gathering results weeks after an election, its figures have been declared official.

The law provides for unofficial reports by the counties to the secretary of state, but the provision never has been enforced. Although county officials are supposed to telephone or telegraph unofficial results immediately after an election, most never do so.

So the newspapers pay the bill out of their own pockets for a bill which amounts to many thousands of dollars for each important election in Texas.

Rep. Eugene F. Harrell of Paris was riding in the capitol elevator. A friend called:

"Congratulations! See where you were elected judge."

Harrell grinned.

"Yes, sir, the people gave me a fine vote," he said. "This despite the fact I was a member of the forty-sixth legislature."

Short courses have been adopted into the University of Texas curriculum to train skilled workers as teachers and to supply a national defense need for journeymen who can make experts out of apprentices more quickly.

The special courses, open to qualifying journeymen and tradesmen now employed in industry or in schools, will concentrate on intensive pedagogical studies.

They will be under the direction of the University Industrial Teacher-Training Bureau.

The Texas Motor Transportation association says that if you operated a motor vehicle of average size and weight the past year and used it no more or less than average, you consumed 224 gallons of motor fuel.

That gasoline cost you, the association says, about $96.35 and the taxes on the oil approximately $39.35 additional.

Experts say motor fuel consumption the past year reached an all-time high.

Supreme court clerks were pleased the other day when they quickly typed the high tribunal's proceedings. The reason for the pleasure was that many attorneys and newspaper men were clamoring for a list of cases the court acted on. But the pleasure chilled into disappointment when it was discovered a clerk had reversed the carbon papers and the entire list had to be redone.

Col. E. Walters of Skedee, Okla., the veteran land auctioneer, believes that now is the time to buy mineral leases.

He conducted the 10th oil and gas lease sale of the University of Texas at board for lease and exhorted oil men to snap up lots of tracts. He envisions the time—NOT so far distant—when national defense will require open flow of production to meet heavy demands. Col. Walters figures a man might buy 10 leases and come out way ahead if he strikes production on only one.

In his more than 30 years of selling land, mostly for state and federal governments, he has auctioned leases which brought more than $180,000,000.

Attention gardeners: Capitol gardeners claim the jump on lots of flower lovers. Their sweet peas are six inches high. Barring a killing cold spell they'll be lots of early blooms among the four rows of flowers on the capitol grounds.

Budding journalists at the University of Texas no doubt have been exhorted to write briefly, to tell any story in a minimum of words. Added to their instructors' advice now is the admonition of G. B. Dealey, veteran publisher and chairman of the board of the Dallas Morning News, who told journalism students at a recent banquet they gave in his honor:

"Remember, the Biblical story of the creation of the world was told in eight hundred words."

Girl Scouts Will Practice Carols

Practice for the Christmas carol program of Pampa Girl Scouts will be held at 7 o'clock tonight in the basement of the First Methodist church, directed by Miss Janice Purviance.

All registered Girl Scouts are asked to attend this practice.

The Scouts are to give a program of carols, singing over the local radio station, in homes of shut-ins, and in downtown stores during Christmas week, according to present plans.

American Farewell to Hong Kong

The leisurely tempo of life in the Orient speeds up and ricksha boys move on the double as Americans hasten to wind up their affairs and leave the Orient following advice from the U. S. State Department. Above, Americans bury past sandbagged Hong Kong store before catching one of three liners sent to bring them home.

Average Sailor Comes From South, Middle West, Rockies

(Editor's Note: In doubling the size of its navy, the United States is increasing the personnel by three times. In this series of stories on the navy, we revealed many little known and interesting facts about the men who compose our first line of defense. Tomorrow, Navy's guns carry threat to all within eighteen miles.)

By W. R. RAGSDALE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20. (AP)—The American sailor is a land-lubber at heart.

His background is not the wave-washed coastal cities, but the uplands of the south and middle west, the rolling prairies and the high Rockies.

For these are the regions that furnish the best physical specimens, the lowest percentage of rejected applicants. Such stations as Des Moines and Dallas are among the navy's most important recruiting points.

Take a look at the average sailor in the United States navy. He's well over 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighs between 145 and 160 pounds, and has had three years of high school. He is a volunteer, every stitch of him.

To enlist, he must have been either native born or fully naturalized, between 17 and 25 years old, at least 64 inches tall, without dependents and unmarried. He had to furnish a list of employers or teachers, to have the proper consent if under age and be clear of any police or juvenile court record.

Three of every four applicants go out in the first rigorous physical test, some for such things as stiff joints, or eyeballs that bulge too much. One of every ten falls out in the intelligence test.

If he passes all points of these first tests, he is put on the waiting list. Rarely does the navy fail to have men waiting to get in.

Called up for service, he gets a second physical examination.

Next he gets a third physical examination, a uniform and a rigorous three months of physical, infantry and small boat drills mixed well with lectures and lessons in naval etiquette and customs. Next, he goes to the fleet for a month to round out his kindergarten training aboard ship.

Now he gets a pay raise, is lifted to seaman, second class, or fireman third class, according to whether he is to work above or below decks.

He becomes a member of a division, is allotted mess, battle and emergency drill stations and drops

at a recent banquet they gave in his honor:

"Remember, the Biblical story of the creation of the world was told in eight hundred words."

Prospect for steel mill operations keeping at near-capacity levels next week, with orders remaining well ahead of production, was a relief.

Commission houses suggested that selling to establish income tax losses, usual in the present, was beginning to creep up here and there, particularly in "blue chip" issues which are now well under their marks of last spring. Sporadic labor difficulties were being watched with mild apprehension.

Prominent on the upside most of the time were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngtown Sheet, Republic, General Motors, Chrysler, Great Northern, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania, Goodrich, E. I. du Pont, Common and Preferred, American Telephone, American Smelting, Douglas Aircraft and Sears Roebuck.

American can tumbled to a new bottom for 1940. Johns-Manville, Du Pont, Dow Chemical and Eastman Kodak led the way.

Bonds and commodities were a shade uneven. Cotton, in late transactions, pushed up 55 to 75 cents a bale and wheat at Chicago ended with advances of 3/4 to 1 1/2 cents a bushel.

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, Nov. 22. (AP)—Quiet strength returned to parts of today's stock market but many leaders were unable to work up much of a rallying urge.

Selected steels, rails, motors, rubbers and aluminum were given intermittent lifts along with an assortment of specialties. Gains, running up to 2 points or so at the best, were reduced in some cases to the close. Scattered weak spots also were in evidence.

Transfers for the full proceedings were around 700,000 shares.

Prospect for steel mill operations keeping at near-capacity levels next week, with orders remaining well ahead of production, was a relief.

Commission houses suggested that selling to establish income tax losses, usual in the present, was beginning to creep up here and there, particularly in "blue chip" issues which are now well under their marks of last spring. Sporadic labor difficulties were being watched with mild apprehension.

Prominent on the upside most of the time were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngtown Sheet, Republic, General Motors, Chrysler, Great Northern, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania, Goodrich, E. I. du Pont, Common and Preferred, American Telephone, American Smelting, Douglas Aircraft and Sears Roebuck.

American can tumbled to a new bottom for 1940. Johns-Manville, Du Pont, Dow Chemical and Eastman Kodak led the way.

Bonds and commodities were a shade uneven. Cotton, in late transactions, pushed up 55 to 75 cents a bale and wheat at Chicago ended with advances of 3/4 to 1 1/2 cents a bushel.

Doctors Discuss Cancer Problems

Cancer was defined and work of the local unit of the Women's Field Army for Cancer Control commended in a radio address by Dr. R. Malcolm Brown over station KPDM Wednesday night.

"It is only through work such as this that the public will become educated to the extent that many more lives can be saved," said Dr. Brown.

"Cancer, as the public speaks of all tumor growth, is merely one kind of tumor. Tumors are masses of tissue resembling, but not perfectly identical with the normal tissue, which grows without any regard for the laws which govern and restrain the growth of normal tissue."

In his lecture on cancer over KPDM Monday night, Dr. H. L. Wilder stated that the death rate from cancer is steadily rising each year.

"This is a serious situation, but it can be greatly reduced by utilizing the means of control that are now available," said Dr. Wilder. He stressed the importance of a yearly physical examination, which would include a thorough X-ray examination, in detecting early cancer.

Dr. Wilder stated that there is no danger in removing a piece of any growth for examination as it will positively not spread cancer the way it is now done.

"Though the real cause of cancer is not known, we do know that chronic irritation plays an important role in its development, probably being the exciting cause in many cases."

"Keep in mind that cancer in the early stages is painless. Do not hesitate to go to your doctor for what may appear to you to be a trivial disturbance."

"Personal vigilance with an annual examination with X-ray and all other means for making a diagnosis and then treatment early, in all suspicious cases, will most surely reduce the mortality of cancer and fool the statisticians who estimate there will be 250,000 deaths from this cause in 1942."

Most of the army and navy training planes now in use cost from $20,000 upwards.
