Hitler And Laval Deciding Fate Of France

WILLKIE HURLS CHALLENGES AT PRESIDENT

Vichy Claims Declaration Impossible

Italians Claim 3,000 Britons Of Convoy Dead

(By The Associated Press) Triple defiance of repeated axis pressure on France to join the war against Great Britain emerged today following a mysterious meeting "somewhere in France" between Hitler and French Vice Premier Pierre Laval. The vanquished republic will undertake "no military, naval or aerial action against England," a French government spokesman said. "France will not declare war on England under any circumstances," he added.

(Reports from Berlin previously said events seemed to be shaping toward an attempt to join surviving craft of the French navy with the German and Italian fleets for a combined smash at Britain's sea power.)

Well-informed sources in Bern, Switzerland, reported a violent battle was going on inside the Vichy government over the question of letting the French war fleet "collaborate" with the axis powers against Britain.

Such "collaboration," these sources said, would be the price France must pay her conquerors for a definite peace pact to replace the existing armistice.

While Nazi officialdom and the German press displayed extreme reluctance on the Hitler-Laval meeting, indications arose that the reichsruhrer was concerned over a possible upsurge of rebellion in the conquered republic.

Authorized quarters in Berlin described the meeting as the best answer to British Premier Winston Churchill's efforts to "stop the French against the Rome-Berlin axis."

Simultaneously, Premier Marshal Philippe Petain's French government at Vichy pressed an attack on widespread "Communist" movement in unoccupied France, accused of spreading propaganda in favor of the "free French" leadership of Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

Police raided a Communist headquarters in Marseille, arresting 75 persons, including 13 women, and confiscating a large amount of de Gaulle propaganda. Other arrests were announced in Vichy's suburbs, at Lyon and in the Loire department.

Foreign circles in Rome heard that Hitler sounded out Laval on a plan for a temporary settlement which would make France, Italy and Germany "collaborators" in the war with Laval promised still greater power in France, and Germany to aid in French reconstruction.

Premier Marshal Petain, the 82-year-old "hero of Verdun" in the World War who surrendered to Nazi conquest last June, was reported strongly opposed to any joint Franco-German action against England, but dispatches from Bern, Switzerland, said there were indications Laval might replace Petain as actual leader of the French government. Petain might remain as a figurehead, it was said.

On the war front, a heavy pall of fog over London reinforced by smoke pouring from the capital's million chimneys gave Londoners their sourest night of sleep in many weeks and all but stymied German raiders. The beleaguered city passed its second successive

Boys Taken Before Judge For Flooding Lynn Boyd House

Three local boys in their early teens will be taken before County Judge Sherman White in connection with the entering and flooding of the Lynn Boyd home, 810 North Somerville street, Police Chief J. B. Wilkinson said today.

The boys were picked up by city officers last night after Mrs. Boyd had reported that the house had been entered while she was away and water turned on, flooding the first floor. Water was so deep that it ran through the rear door of the house, Mrs. Boyd reported.

Neighbors saw boys playing around the house and were able to give officers a clue as to their identity. Other pranks are being investigated by the officers.

HUNTERS BRING BACK PHEASANTS

Here are only a few of the pheasants brought back by a group of Pampa men on a hunting trip to South Dakota. Each hunter got his quota of 26. The Pampans reported that pheasant hunting was the best they ever saw, and that farmers would come to town and beg you to come out to their place to hunt. Left to right the men in the picture are Ivy Duncan, A. J. Hindman, Butch Wharton, Paul Hughes, Bob McCoy, Connie Lockhart.

Companies Offer Bids To School Board

School board members met for nearly five hours yesterday afternoon and for nearly three hours this morning to accept bids and examine samples of roofing, flooring, insulating material, lockers and rest room partitions for the new high school building.

The board gave every bidder an opportunity to explain his products and present samples during the long session.

Only material purchased was for the roof, the contract going to the Lydick Roofing company of Amarillo whose bid of $4,800 was low. The roof will be of tar and gravel.

Eight companies presented bids on asphalt tile, and rubber flooring, six companies on insulating material, four on lockers and two on partitions.

The board will meet in regular session at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon and at that time will purchase lockers.

Because of the many types and complicated materials for floors, the board instructed the architects and construction supervisor to prepare fine what they intended Liberty to mean in this country in the next four years. They repudiated the wolf's dictionary.

"I am sure that this year the people not only of Delaware, but of the United States are all taking a renewed interest in that word 'liberty.' There are not so many countries left where the word has any real meaning."

Clerk Indicted

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP)—Edward De Roubert Blount, 30-year-old government clerk, was under indictment today on charges of twice threatening to kill President Roosevelt.

Government attorneys said that on two occasions Blount asserted he would kill the President at the first opportunity.

Tickets For Kiwanis Revue Go On Sale

General admission and reserve seat tickets for the "Top O' Texas Revue" to be staged by the Pampa Kiwanis club in the High school auditorium on the nights of Nov. 6 and 7 went on sale today at Cretney's drugstore.

Judging from the advance talk about this fast-stepping musical comedy production, the reserved seat sale will be brisk. Proceeds from the show will go into the Kiwanis club underprivileged children's fund. Tickets are selling at 25 and 50 cents for general admission, with an extra quarter per ticket for reserved seats.

One of the hardest working persons in the show is Maxine Holt, the pianist; who works night after night in the rehearsals. Miss Holt's musical talent is one of the reasons the rehearsals run off so smoothly.

Election Petitions Reported Circulated

Unless it is necessary to call an election, the ordinance granting a 20-year electric franchise to the Southwestern Public Service company will go into effect by Nov. 4.

Date of the last publication notice was October 4.

No petitions asking that an election be called have yet been filed with the city secretary.

City Manager Steve Matthews said he understood two petitions were being circulated now.

Under the ordinance, savings and benefits estimated by the city at $445,000, will accrue to the city's taxpayers. A gross receipts tax of 3 per cent is to be annually charged the utility company, estimated at $7,000 a year.

The city ordinance is at variance with the state law on the number of voters required to sign a petition asking that an election be called.

This was brought out at the city commission meeting yesterday, when City Attorney Robert F. Gordon said the number of signers, under the state law, was 500 for cities of Pampa's population.

The local rule is 10 per cent of the voters who cast their ballots in the last general city election. The term "qualified" voters applies in both cases.

This would mean an increase in the number of petition signers required before the commission could call an election, as the vote here was 2,536.

It was agreed that Ivy Duncan, who is opposing the ordinance, should be notified of the decision. Notice is also to be given now to Lloyd Purvis, who is understood to be circulating a petition opposing the measure.

40-Hour Work Week Begins At Midnight

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP)—The wage-hour law which begins at midnight, one of its twin objectives—the 40-hour work week.

For some 2,000,000 out of an estimated 12,000,000 workers in interstate commerce covered by law, the change to the 40-hour week, according to wage-hour officials, has been widely adopted in industry.

The change may have little general effect on the nation's economy because the 40-hour week, according to wage-hour officials, has been widely adopted in industry.

At the same time the 40-hour work week begins, the wage-hour law's new definition of exempted white collar workers become effective, exempting from the law a group of executive, administrative and professional employees and outside salesmen estimated to exceed 200,000.

In addition, other revised regulations previously established opened the way to exempt from the maximum work week and overtime pay canning, packing and processing plant employees as much as 28 weeks a year during the busy seasons.

War Flashes

(By The Associated Press) LONDON, Oct. 23.—Air raid sirens sounded the earliest night warning of the battle for Britain tonight and the roar of anti-aircraft guns challenged the first Nazi planes as they dived over the English coast.

Other reports received here today said that the German air force had been seen to be exploring flights.

BCD Budget Of $12,000 Submitted

A proposed budget of $12,000 for the year and a request that the city keep the BCD rate at 12 cents out of the tax levy of $1.50, was contained in the report submitted to the city commission by the Pampa Board of City Development yesterday.

The commission agreed to the proposed rate, which is the same for the BCD as last year.

The organization claimed it could raise from $4,000 to $5,000 of the budget, or from 33 1-3 to 41 per cent of the total, from subscription.

Items listed in the proposed budget include $4,200 for salaries, $1,000 for entertainment and membership luncheons, $1,000 for highways, $750 each for publicity and miscellaneous, $600 each for car expense, telephone and telegraph, and goodwill, $500 for postage, $400 for office equipment and supplies, $250 for aviation, $350 tagged civic, and $300 industrial.

Activities of the BCD, as listed in the report, included: Sponsoring Junior Livestock sale, cooperating with county farm and home demonstration agents and vocational agriculture teacher.

Work toward securing underpasses at Cuyler and Hobart streets. Protecting interests of Pampans on oil and gas legislation.

Promoting retail trade; giving Pampa publicity with a view toward encouraging people to come here and live.

The report was signed by John V. Osborne, president, the finance committee, P. M. Culbertson, chairman, J. M. Collins, and Farris C. Oden, members.

School Board Hires Three New Teachers

Three new teachers were employed at a called meeting of the school board yesterday afternoon. They will fill vacancies created by resignations and need of an additional teacher.

The board named Miss Melle Byrd Richey of Canyon to teach in Baker school. She recently received her degree of bachelor of arts at West Texas State college.

Miss Richey taught in the Pampa school system from 1925 to 1927 and later was a teacher in a Gray county rural school.

E. L. Hammit of Quail was named to teach in Woodrow Wilson school. He has been teaching at Addicks school since 1925.

Yes Sir, Ed Blitz Can Come Back To Pampa Any Time He Wants To

By STAFF WRITER As far as this correspondent is concerned Eddie Blitz of Lubbock can come back to Pampa any time he wants to—and this writer will make a house to house canvass selling tickets to get him a crowd. And practically every one of the 300 who heard his cello concert last night felt the same way about it.

A surprising fact was that so many Pampa people who contend they like beautiful music were not there, and of course today they are regretting it. Blond-headed Eddie's crowd included numerous children, their parents and school patrons who seemed to genuinely like the boy's music.

"I like to play for this kind of an audience," he said. "There may be one or two 'professional music-lovers' in it but not many. Meaning that I saw no fake appreciators."

He played first before the Junior chamber of commerce yesterday. In the afternoon he played before about 700 ward school junior high and high school students in the high school auditorium. The music department which sponsored the concert will by a viola for the orchestra with the profits.

The youth has a sense of musicianship that few adults ever acquire, and his technique is as good as they come in cellists. His choice of numbers would have pleased both listeners who insist on the ultimate in classical, and those who want to hear only familiar compositions. For the first class, those who never want a "flea bite," the boy played Handel's adagio and allegro and Gouterman's concerto in A minor in three movements—a spectacular concerto reeking with technical splendor but less colorful than one by Schumann who may have heard.

The last part of his program consisted of a short piece by Schumann. He played first before the Junior chamber of commerce yesterday. In

Roosevelt To Make Major Talk Tonight

FDR To Take Off 'His Gloves,' Says Secretary Ickes

(By The Associated Press) President Roosevelt, ready for a "bang up" finish drive, took to the campaigning trail today for the first of a series of major political addresses in populous eastern territory.

Even before Mr. Roosevelt embarked for Philadelphia where he speaks tonight, his Republican antagonist, Wendell L. Willkie, challenged the chief executive's statement that he would do everything in his power "to keep war away from these shores for all time."

Willkie, at a Chicago rally last night, also demanded that the Democratic nominee tell the people whether he, Willkie, had "falsified the record" in the attacks he has made on the administration.

The Willkie demand apparently was aimed at Mr. Roosevelt's assertion in announcing his political speaking program, that his purpose was to discuss the "systematic program x x x of deliberate falsification of fact" which he charged had characterized the Republican campaign.

Secretary Ickes said Mr. Roosevelt would "take off the gloves" in the speech tonight, and White House aides said their chief was set for a "bang up" campaign finish.

The President will speak at 8:15 p. m. (C. S. T.). Two national radio networks (NBC and CBS) will carry the speech, the time for which will be paid by the Democratic national committee.

James A. Farley, former Democratic national chairman who has the reputation of being a big factor in his party's victories in 1932 and 1936, announced last night: "I shall vote the straight Democratic ticket on Nov. 5 and urge the members of my party to do likewise."

Farley's statements, issued in New York, did not mention Mr. Roosevelt by name or any other party candidate. It was his first political declaration since the Democratic national convention at which he unsuccessfully sought the presidential nomination.

Willkie, who has been assailing the idea of a third term, said last night that if elected, he would make every effort for "the passage of a constitutional amendment that will bar for all time" the possibility of a third term.

From his Chicago appearance, Willkie turned eastward today bound for New York where he addresses the Herald-Tribune forum tonight. Willkie planned to make several campaign talks during the day.

Elsewhere along the political front yesterday and last night there was firing on these sectors—

Madison, Wis.: Henry A. Wallace, Democratic vice-presidential nominee, called Wisconsin's election of a Republican administration two years ago "a costly mistake," adding, "it would be a far more costly mistake to let them get control in Washington."

Lincoln, Neb.: Gov. Harold Stassen of Minnesota, charged that "the smoothest propaganda smear campaign this side of Europe has been turned loose with devilish cunning" against Willkie.

Bonham, Tex.: Speaker Rayburn of the house asserted that Hitler, Mussolini and the Japanese emperor have had "such tough sailing with Franklin D. Roosevelt that they would welcome any change in the White House."

New York: CIO chief, John L. Lewis, made arrangements to voice his political views Friday night over a 300-station radio hookup. Cancellation of Willkie radio time which would have interfered with the Lewis speech led some to believe that Lewis would announce for the Republican nominee.

Richmond, Ind.: Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said "the New Deal has been a good deal more interested in its own pet projects and the votes to

Gertrude Fisher Trophy Will Be Given For Best Chrysanthemum

Again the Gertrude Fisher trophy will be awarded by the Pampa Garden club for the best specimen entered in the annual chrysanthemum show which is to be held tomorrow from 2 until 9 o'clock in the city club rooms with tea being served from 2 until 6 o'clock.

All flowers are to be entered between 9 and 11 o'clock Thursday morning. The club rooms have been newly decorated and will provide an attractive background for the show. The Garden club hopes to prove what disbudbing and feeding the larger varieties will have on the perfection of blooms. The varieties and types best suited for this climate will be displayed.

Garden club members of surrounding towns have been invited to be guests at the show.

Women, Girls Learn Merit of "Build-Up"

A woman's periodical distress from headaches, nervousness, irritability, crank-like pain may be due to this fault: functional dysmenorrhea brought on by an under-nourished condition! There's convincing proof of this in the way so many women and girls are helped by CARDUI. Because it usually stimulates appetite and the flow of gastric juice; so aids digestion; helps build up physical resistance to periodic distress for many users.

Others who take it a few days before and during "the time," have found CARDUI helps ease their periodic distress. Used 50 years.

A CHARMING DIAGRAM DESIGN

Glance at the little diagram drawing, showing your dress all laid out ready to put together. Just five pieces, and you can easily see that the assembling will be easy as starting the next chapter of a mystery story. And just see what an attractive, well-fitting apron dress you'll have when you've finished the small amount of labor involved. Comfortable, easy lines that give you freedom for working, a bodice gathered to fit perfectly, and a very fetching look to the silhouette and bright braid touches. Everything you want in a home dress, therefore, is yours in design No. 8737.

morning without an air raid, and it was not until afternoon that an alarm sounded—quickly followed by the "fighters passed" signal.

Today's "invasion weather": Heavy rain clouds darkened the Dover Strait; dense mist covered sea; cold northeast wind; waters calm.

A heavy blow to British troops en route to the Near East was reported by Virginia Gayda, authoritative Fascist editor, amplifying the Italian high command's assertion yesterday that six British ships were sunk by Italian torpedo boats in the Red Sea.

Gayda declared the ships went down with the loss of all hands—between 3,000 and 4,000 lives lost out of the 36-ship convoy's total of 22,000 troops.

The British admiralty yesterday asserted that none of the convoy ships was damaged and that the only British casualties were three wounded aboard the destroyer Kimberley, which later blew up the Italian destroyer Francesco Nullo.

In London, authoritative British quarters reported 20 per cent of Germany's productive capacity has been "affected" by RAF bombing forays under a "master plan" of destruction of Nazi war industries. These quarters also said the Germans have been forced to consider the "rebuilding" of Hamburg, the great North German seaport, which has been relentlessly pounded by the RAF.

Ex-King Carol II of Rumania, who abdicated Sept. 6 and fled into exile with his red-haired companion, Magda Lupescu, found unexpected trouble besetting his projected trip to the United States when he was placed under virtual arrest in Seville, Spain, possibly to be returned to Nazi-dominated Rumania.

Arrested with him were Madame Lupescu and Carol's former palace minister, Ernst Urdareanu, who cried in a faltering voice: "They'll kill me if we are sent back!"

Famed Play To Be Dramatized Here October 30

Sponsored by the women of Holy Souls Parish council, a dramatization of "The American Way," in which Frederic March and Florence Eldridge starred in 1939, will be presented at Holy Souls school at 8 p. m. October 30.

The dramatizer will be Mrs. W. L. Benge of Pampa, a graduate of the Cox School of Dramatics, Dallas, and a drama teacher for the past seven years.

Moss Hart and George Kaufman are the authors of "The American Way," which has been described as a paean of democracy.

Girl Scouts will open the program with the singing of "God Bless America," in which the audience will join and the program will end with "The Star Spangled Banner."

Admission will be 50 cents. A review of "The American Way," "It says something that needs to be said; it is one more evidence that nowadays playwrights, like other leaders, feel it urgent to give a reason for the faith that is in this nation."

"But it is better theater than some other plays produced by the same impulse, better focused, less confused and more buoyant. The play is in two acts, each including many episodes, and it covers the period from the McKinley-Bryan campaign to the present.

"The changing flavor of succeeding decades of American life is made strangely vivid by the nostalgic, brief vignettes of which the play consists. A compact and simple little story is told and the final effect is stirring."

"Light Of World" Will Be Sermon Subject Tonight

Last night at the Church of the Brethren revival which is now in progress, the pastor, the Rev. Russell G. West, preached on "The Nature of the Gospel," pointing out the fact that it is a gospel of Mercy, Truth, Peace and Power.

Tonight the subject of the sermon will be "The Light of the World." Due to the fact that people from over a wide territory are attending this revival, each service opens at 7:30 sharp and closes promptly at 8:30.

These short, carefully-planned services also make it possible for children and young people to participate without interfering with their school work. Other busy people of the city are finding it possible to drop in each evening for these brief periods of inspirational worship and fellowship.

Regardless of your church affiliation, all who are interested are invited to attend the Church of the Brethren which is located at 600 North Frost street.

keep it in office than it has been in national defense."

Providence, R. I.: Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York said Willkie was the product of the "greatest synthetic build-up in our history," and the chosen candidate of "a few predatory interests."

Washington: Senator Holt (D-W Va) charged that the nation's envoys to three war-ravaged European countries had been brought home "from their posts of duty to spread fear for political purposes."

Cleveland: Postmaster General Walker urged re-election for Mr. Roosevelt who, he said, "has become the living symbol of world democracy."

Two hours before leaving Chicago at the LaSalle street railroad station, Willkie was hit by a missile believed to have been a frozen egg. His wife was splattered with an egg. Police arrested a man who was later booked as Charles Mulrain, 53, an unemployed stationary engineer.

Willkie last night charged that the New Deal had broken several 1932 Democratic platform pledges.

"If his (the President's) promise to keep our boys out of foreign wars is no better than his promise to balance the budget, they already practically on the transports," the candidate said.

Willkie read excerpts from the 1932 Democratic platform regarding advocacy of a sound currency, restoration of world trade, reduction of taxes, an end to unemployment, and economy in federal expenditures.

After mentioning each one he contended that the pledge had not been kept.

sisted of the familiar Meditation from the opera Thaïs, Kreisler's Leibesleid, Godard's Berceuse, Beethoven's Rondio, and Popper's Gavotte—all sweet and tuneful numbers anybody should like, even people who like "Red River Valley," as this correspondent does, and people who like only Beethoven, Tchaikowsky, Mozart, et al, and those who like to hear "Humoresque" over and over.

The school music department is planning to bring Eddie back to Pampa and that is a good idea. It'll get a bigger crowd next time, even if this writer has to sell the tickets himself. By the way, the youth has a naive and likeable personality; he is a football quarterback, an expert fencer and a good bowler.

Oh yes, we liked the concert so well we even decided not to tell certain mothers that their three little boys who sat on the front row couldn't keep from giggling during the first part of the program, but even their savage little souls were subdued by the music after the first two numbers.

Dillman Shoots 97 But Fails To Win

Although Pampa and Gray county failed to win any first place trophies, they won several prizes in the pistol shoot at the Northwest Texas and South Oklahoma Peace Officers convention in Lawton, Okla., yesterday afternoon.

City Officer W. C. Dillman shot a 97 out of a possible 100 in the slow fire division but it was not enough to beat Pat Grady of Wichita Falls who turned in a score of 99.

Dillman was an easy second. Police Chief J. B. Wilkinson ranked third in time fire. Mrs. Wilkinson entered the women's division and shot a 91 to place second in the event.

The War Today

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The way John Bull takes his knocks and pops up again apparently stronger than ever inevitably reminds one of our old friend Antaeus, the Libyan wrestler—son of earth whom none could throw because every time he touched his mother earth he received new strength.

I have in mind the numerous predictions by British officials in the past few days that England soon will be strong enough to take the offensive against the Nazis. It is indeed an amazing circumstance that they should feel able to make such a forecast.

Only about five short months ago the Franco-British forces were smashed in the battle of Flanders. A month later France collapsed and left John Bull to try to hold this avalanche back from his home shores with his bare hands. And thus far he has done it!

No, I don't think this talk of an offensive is just bluff, because that would be a mighty stupid thing for the British to do. To advertise the ability to make an offensive, without definite prospects of being able to carry it out, would produce an adverse effect both at home and abroad.

Of course, these pronouncements are intended as propaganda. However, I believe it's propaganda based on what the government believes to be facts. The purpose of flying the flag now is to cheer up the long suffering people at home, and impress both friends and foes abroad.

Among other things it undoubtedly is meant to encourage France to refrain from joining the Axis in the war against her old ally. Reports that Vice-Premier Laval, who holds anti-British views, has been discussing aid for the Nazis with Hitler in Paris brought another declaration from the Vichy government this morning, that France won't undertake any "military, naval or aerial action against England."

However, even should Premier Pétain be unable to avert such a flop by his government there are to my mind numerous reasons why it wouldn't have any decisive effect on J. Bull. It would be just another nasty knock for him to absorb after his stoical fashion. I should say that the vitamin which is making John flex his muscles for action is the great increase in his aerial strength. After having all but lost his fight against Germany because of lack of air defenses, he of late has been carrying the war into enemy territory on a big scale and with devastating effects.

The piling up of England's air strength, both by home production and imports from America, finally has reached the point where Premier Churchill on Monday stated that "in 1941 we shall have command of the air."

And when does this predicted offensive begin? Nobody in authority has named the date, although there is unofficial talk in London of the spring. The British might be able to inaugurate a great drive then, if they don't have any serious setback meantime.

And here I must say that you couldn't trust me as a war analyst if I didn't remind you of the end of the story about Antaeus.

Hercules came along and crushed the wrestler, not by throwing him and holster, pen and pencil set, hat and tie chain. Dillman won two belts and holsters and Sheriff Cal Rose won a belt and holster.

but by lifting him up so he couldn't touch mother earth. John Bull still is faced with the task of keeping from being lifted by main force and crushed by the most powerful military giant ever created.

Leathers Family Meets President

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP)—The D. E. Leathers of Clarendon, Texas, chosen as the typical American family to visit the New York world's fair, were introduced to President Roosevelt today at the White House.

Mr. and Mrs. Leathers, both 39, their son, Johnny, 19, and a daughter, Margaret, 16, said the President had chatted amiably with them and jokingly observed that a figure of an elephant on his desk had been reduced greatly in size since he became the chief executive. Johnny and Margaret Jean displayed autographs the President gave them.

Before the family arrived at the White House, the President's press secretary told newsmen that despite plans to reduce conferences to a minimum so Mr. Roosevelt could work on speeches, the introduction of the Leathers was arranged because both Texas senators and Governor W. Lee O'Daniel had requested it.

From the White House the West Texas family motored to the commerce department to meet a fellow Texan, Secretary Jones. The Leathers arrived here this morning by train from Detroit where they were guests of the Ford Motor company and were greeted by Edsel Ford. They were to fly to New York this afternoon.

Harvesters Show Fire In Routing Gorillas

Taunt From Coach Riles Pampa Boys

If railbirds had visited Harvester field yesterday afternoon, which they were not allowed to do because the Harvesters are working behind locked gates this week, they would have noticed a difference in the Harvesters as they prepared for the invasion of the Plainview Bulldogs Friday night for the first conference game of the season.

As the Harvesters scrimmaged the Gorillas, scoring six times, they showed more fire, spirit and determination than at any time this year. The Harvesters are determined they are going to beat the Bulldogs, who are top heavy favorites.

So confident are the Bulldogs of victory that their coach, Vernon Hilliard, told Coach J. C. Prejean, who scouted the Plainview-Yale game last Friday night, not to be downhearted, that every team had to have a letdown and that this is Pampa's year.

That statement didn't go over any too big with the Harvesters who have decided to cram it down the throats of the Bulldogs Friday night. Had the Bulldogs been the Gorillas yesterday, they would have seen better blocking than at any time this season and a much stronger defense.

But the Bulldogs have a great team and no one is denying it. They have a smooth backfield combination as could be found and a line that, although smaller than others in the conference, charges so fast, hard and low that it overcomes size. Their blocking and tackling is so hard that it can be heard in the stands, Coach Prejean reported.

Game time will be 8 o'clock and regular admission price will be charged.

All-American Linemen May Play In Penn-Michigan Game

By HERB BARKER
 NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP)—The crowd will be watching Tom Harmon and Frank Reagan when the unbeaten football machines of Michigan and Penn collide Saturday, but the outcome probably will hinge upon what occurs up front where the going is toughest.

Both Penn and Michigan boast outstanding candidates for All-American positions on the basis of play thus far. Outstanding in the Wolverine forward wall are Ralph Fritz, a guard whose fine blocking helps to make the Michigan offense function, and Al Wistert, sophomore tackle equally handy on offense or defense.

Penn's leading candidates are Captain Ray Frick, 6-foot, 3-inch center, and Irving Mendelson, rugged guard.

The All-American road for Fritz and Mendelson, however, is rugged. Blocking the way are such other candidates as Tennessee's demon pair, Bob Suffridge and Ed Molinsky, whose play sparked against Alabama; Marshall Robnett, rough and hard member of the Texas Aggies' ensemble; Warren Allison of Nebraska, who yielded not an inch of ground to Kansas last week; Ray Frankowski of Washington, who was all over the field against Oregon State; and many others.

Frick will have to battle it out with Robert Nelson of Baylor, whose defensive work against Villanova was of high order; Rudy Mucha, who played 57 minutes of brilliant defensive football for Washington last Saturday; Lou De Filippo, Fordham's consistent captain; and Frank Pinneron, Cornell senior, whose play and brilliant defensive qualifications, are so generally recognized.

Attracting attention among the tackles last week, along with Wistert, were Fred Davis of Alabama and Abe Shires of Tennessee; Mike Enlich, a standout for Iowa; Jim Stuart of Oregon; Nick Drahos, Cornell's 1939 All-American; Bob Reinhard of California, the team's best punter; and Bernie Weimer of Kansas State, a 60-minute performer against Oklahoma.

Jim Schmuck and Alvah Kelley, Cornell's ends, put on a smashing show against Syracuse, but fine end play was seen in every section last week. Columbia's wingmen, Hugh Harber and Joe Siegal, each played 60 minutes against Georgia; Al Krueger of Southern California was a tower of strength on defense and made a spectacular catch of a touchdown pass against Oregon; Holt East of Alabama was stand-out against Tennessee, and so was Bob Ison of Georgia Tech against Vanderbilt.

Among other linemen who caught the eye last week were: Ends — Jennings, Oklahoma; Roach, Texas Christian; Tackles — Pannell, Texas A. and M.

Reagan Nervous And Restrained

By BILL BELL
 PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 23 (AP)—Who's afraid of the big, bad Wolverine? Not Francis Xavier Reagan, Penn's practical kickster and chief hope against mighty Michigan Saturday.

In the jungle symbolism of college football, Frank already has led the rout of Maryland's Terrapin, Yale's Bulldog and Princeton's Tiger. Now he's aiming for the Wolverines of Ann Arbor and their pack leader, Tom Harmon, only footballer in the nation to outscore Reagan this season.

If Frank outshines Tom in the Penn-Michigan battle, he may begin to think of himself as All-American material, he said. Meanwhile, although he outgained Harmon last year Penn's stellar halfback will continue to regard his rival as "the greatest back I have ever seen."

Reagan is such a normal young American of 21 that it would be difficult to spot him on the campus. Restrained and bashful, he acknowledges "extreme nervousness" before each game and is "even more nervous" in the presence of interviewers. The three victims of his 61 points this season haven't noticed it, perhaps because Frank "always calms down once the game is underway."

His answers to questioners are like a recitation of the oath of allegiance to the flag: Coach George Munger is "one of the nicest fellows you'd ever want to meet; he really knows football." Captain Ray Frick, center, and other blockers "give me the best support a fellow could have." His chief interest off the gridiron is "following athletics." Favorite dish "homemade meat loaf," and so on.

Horace Mann Beats Woodrow Wilson 12 To 0

Horace Mann, with Billy Washington in the scoring role, bounced back from a defeat by Baker to down Woodrow Wilson yesterday afternoon 12 to 0 in a Ward School conference game at Harvester park.

Although Washington scored both touchdowns, he had plenty of help through sensational downfield blocking. Both touchdown drives were sparked by nice runs by Earl Davis, midback. Washington broke off tackle and raced 50 yards for one touchdown and then repeated for a 30-yard jaunt after Davis had made a couple of first downs.

Defensive stars of the game were Billy Davis and Stanley Klein, ends, who were in on nearly every play and who threw Woodrow Wilson ball toters for losses.

Woodrow Wilson threatened once, when they backed Horace Mann to the 10-yard line and Washington's boot was short. But Horace Mann's line played sensationally to throw the Woodrow Wilson ball toters for no gains.

Anderson, Gantz, and Jones played sparkling games for Woodrow Wilson.

Horace Mann will battle the leading Sam Houston eleven next Tuesday while Baker tackles Woodrow Wilson in the last game of the season.

This afternoon at 4 o'clock at Harvester park Baker and Sam Houston will meet.

Grayson's Scoreboard

By HARRY GRAYSON
 NEA Service Sports Editor

The return showing of the 1939 thriller, which matched the Big Red teams, Cornell and Ohio State, lost some of its glamor with the 6-3 defeat of the Buckeyes by Northwestern.

According to pre-season reasoning, this game scheduled for Ithaca, Oct. 26, and already a sell-out, was supposed to decide one version of the national championship.

As the cloak of invincibility was unexpectedly removed from Ohio State, one of the older rivalries took on a degree of importance it hasn't enjoyed in years. It restores a good share of badly needed prestige to the Ivy League, for it is the final game of the season for Cornell and Pennsylvania at Franklin Field, Nov. 23.

Pennsylvania apparently learned its lesson well last season in absorbing a 26-0 pasting at the hands of the Cornet steam roller.

Yale was without two of its better half-speed backs, Hoyt Seymour and Ray Anderson, yet it is quite a feat to run up 50 points on your own scrubs, let alone Yale . . . to advance the ball, in all, 623 yards, while holding the opposition to a net loss of nine yards by rushing.

Mighty Michigan will have its hands full when this Pennsylvania squad, which eschews the huddle and calls audible signals, visits Ann Arbor, Oct. 26. Tom Harmon & Co. barely edged the Quakers last autumn, 19-17.

If Cornell again successfully hurdles Ohio State, and Pennsylvania happens to get over Michigan, Frank's claim to have a Football of the Year will be well established. The like of which cannot be recalled by the oldest inhabitant of Philadelphia.

Cornell has a remarkable aggregation, but its 45-0 rout of Army was another striking illustration that the service schools cannot draw in for a four-year term as drill-masters officers who have been out of football for years, and successfully compete with the teams of high-pressure career coaches.

Aggies' Drop In Standing Riles Southwest Writers

By FELIX R. McKNIGHT
 DALLAS, Oct. 23 (AP)—Cluttered with three unbeaten teams, a full family of seven that has won 15, lost only two and tied one in outside competition, a riled Southwest conference today opined everything wasn't just right by their little Nell.

Counsel for the defense, picked at random after the Texas Aggies stormed over Texas Christian, 21-7, yet dropped from second to fourth spot in the national rankings, contends as follows:

Charles Burton, sports editor, Dallas News: "The Texas Aggies whipped T. C. U., a major opponent of the Southwest, by a rather lopsided 21-7 score—and promptly lost prestige with outside sports writers. It's a good thing the Cadets didn't win that game by just one touchdown. The experts might have called in their uniforms. That would have been tragic, for the Aggies would look funny in the Rose Bowl on New Year's day without their pants on."

Coach Dutch Meyer, T. C. U.: "The Texas Aggies have been the best football team T. C. U. has played in the seven years I have been head coach—a team improved over last year."

Line Coach Mike Brumel, T. C. U.: "If the Aggies were No. 1 team last year, they are now double No. 1."

Flem Hall, Fort Worth Star-Telegram: "Announcement: We're cured. Never again will we pick the Aggies to get beat—not this season anyway. Perhaps we were overcome with hometown pride when we guessed T. C. U. would stop the College Station crew. Brav and noble as it might have been, the guess was, nevertheless, both dumb and bum. The Aggies are stronger than last season."

Lorin McMullen, Fort Worth Star-Telegram: "Results of this week's national football poll were none too complimentary to the mighty Texas Aggies. . . . Cornell doubtless has a seven-point lead, but the proportion of 63 first place votes to 18 for the Aggies obviously is out of line. The Big Red has rolled up high scores in all of its three games but it is doubtful if any of the three tests were as severe as that which the Aggies faced Saturday in Texas Christian."

Jinx Tucker, Waco News-Tribune: "Texas Aggies, Michigan, Cornell, Minnesota, Tennessee, Notre Dame, Northwestern, Washington, Boston, and Fordham. There's your first 10, with Texas twelfth. We think Texas A. and M. has the best team in the country. To those who rate teams by scores, as many of them do, the Aggies have just not seemed as impressive."

Editorial Dept.
 One of football's new scoring rules is downright unfair. It concerns the rule which causes losses suffered from attempted forward passes to be deducted from rushing gains. It's a trifle ridiculous. In the TCU-Aggie game Saturday last, the Christians actually gained some 95 yards by rushing against the Aggies, yet while trying to score in the late minutes they lost ground when passers were downed behind the scrimmage line. Their net yardage on rushing, according to statistics, was only 17 weak yards. Just a little out of line, when you consider the passer did not even attempt to run with the ball. The Christians were deprived of some 80 yards they actually gained against

Where Is It Now?
 When Dick Chapman won the French amateur golf championship last year, the Frenchmen wouldn't let him bring home the trophy. . . . Made him take a picture of it, instead. . . . Dick protested, but they told him no, 50,000,000 Frenchmen couldn't be wrong. . . . The trophy probably is among Hitler's souvenirs by this time.

Today's Guest Star
 Lawrence J. Skiddy, Syracuse Herald-Journal: "Carl Swasey, who allows himself only four smiles during a season, has about exhausted his quota. . . . He has already been caught at it three times."

"Information, Please"
 Bill Rayburn, McAlester, Okla.: Jack Doyle's odds against Detroit at the opening of the season were 15 to 1. . . . Mrs. Luther Coulter, San Angelo, Tex., and a few dozen others: Sure, Bo Johnson's scoring on his own kick-off was illegal, but the officials missed the play, allowed the touchdown, and there you are.

Shamrock Irish Band Plays At Erick Festival

Special To The NEWS
 SHAMROCK, Oct. 23—The Shamrock Irish band, under the direction of Col. E. D. Crites, attended the third annual band festival at Erick, Okla. Saturday.

Bands from Elk City, Weatherford, Cyril, Cordell and Sayre, Okla., along with the Shamrock, Texas band and the hosts, the Erick band, made up a clinic, the main features of which were a marching contest and a mass band concert.

Shamrock's Irish band was placed first in the marching contest and had eleven members chosen for the mass concert.

The Erick band mothers served dinner for the entire visiting group and the Erick chamber of commerce entertained directors and their wives.

No Standouts In Notre Dame Line Says Joe Boland

By EARL HILLIGAN
 SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 23 (AP)—Here's a six-word description of that Notre Dame forward wall by the man who built it—"Just one of those party lines."

The speaker is Joe Boland, Notre Dame's chief line coach. His teaching is playing a big part in the gridiron saga which the Irish are writing brilliantly this season. But after watching his charges in three games—in which Notre Dame has indicated it is headed toward a national championship—Boland says frankly he doesn't know whether it's a great line, or just a mediocre one.

"I'll admit they put on quite a party" against Pacific, Georgia Tech and Carnegie but I'll wager that few fans know the names of our linemen," he said today. "Yet I don't think that's surprising because they are all about on a par. There isn't a standout in the first string."

But those who saw the Irish roll the last three Saturdays are convinced that this line performs as consistently as any in Notre Dame history. Its big virtues, says Boland, are speed and team spirit.

Notre Dame, with what may become one of its great teams, has the backs in Milt Piepl, Bob Saggau, Steve Juzwik, Bob Hargrave, Dippy Evans, Bernie Crimmins and Steve Bagarus. Boland thinks the question of whether it has the line is unanswered.

"The opposition this far hasn't been strong enough for an adequate test," he said. "If they meet the mountainous Aggie line, if our figures are correct, it doesn't add satisfactorily."

DEFENSE DEMAND TAKING UP SLACK IN OIL EXPORTS

By EDWARD CURTIS

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 23 (AP)—A rising defense demand was reported today to be slowly making up the oil industry's losses in the export column.

One marketing observer said many officials in the industry expected that winter demand for gasoline and fuel oils would gradually build up to new highs and predicted that by next spring domestic consumption would equal last spring's domestic and export needs.

Domestic fuel oils were said to be finding a good market and industrial fuel oil brisk.

Refiners were watching the results of posting of a new price scale in some parts in Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas. The new postings have lowered, or eliminated, the premium paid for higher gravity, high gasoline content crude oil.

With plentiful stocks of gasoline available in the area, it was said that the new postings resulted from the refiners' desire to purchase crude oil which yielded high percentages of fuel and burning oils, now finding a good market.

In the field, the Oil and

SERIAL STORY NEW YORK JUNGLE BY WRAY WADE SEVERN

YESTERDAY, searching for the missing dog, Sidney and Maria discovered a secret passage way from Adam's room to the jungle...

THE INTRUDER ESCAPES CHAPTER XIV

THE man who cast that shadow had heard them enter the jungle, or at least he had heard something that had caused him to hide...

Cautiously, Sidney maneuvered toward the lionsess where he could command both the door and the fireplace. From that vantage point he could fire if the fellow moved in either direction to escape...

At the block on which the lionsess stood, Sidney halted and waited. He did not think they had been observed. Even in the half light he could see the dried blood from the wound Adam had received when he fell against the scimitar...

She steadied herself against his shoulder. He could feel a trembling in her body and he wished for the hundredth time that he had insisted upon her remaining in her room...

FOR the second time that night she had fainted. She had overestimated her strength. Stiffing a betraying exclamation, Sidney eased her noiselessly to the floor...

Unless this mysterious intruder had the quickness of a cat, he would run into trouble as soon as he reached the upper hall. Grasping his pistol, Braitwood rushed into the hall. It was pitch dark. He found the stairs and bounded up...

"What happen, Mister Braitwood?" the valet demanded, his voice trembling. "Someone was hiding in the jungle. He ran up these stairs and locked the door on me so I couldn't follow him..."

The commotion had awakened Murphy and he blustered into the hall demanding what the racket meant. He took charge of the search. But if the shadow had been made by an outsider, that outsider had already escaped...

"MAYBE you and Miss Hempfield saw the shadow of something outside the window, Mr. Braitwood," Murphy suggested. "A weather vane in the house next mine looks double in some lights, sir. After what's just happened, anyone might hear almost anything and see it, too..."

After Murphy had examined the shaft with a powerful flash, he needed from fields where it owned a majority of production or which were nearer its refineries...

changed his opinion concerning Sidney's imagination. Three sets of finger and foot prints were visible; Maria's, Sidney's and those of a stranger. The last were badly blurred. "Your shadow was a wise guy, Mr. Braitwood. He wore gloves and came down in stocking feet..."

PATRICIA LANGDON, Nella Gundrum and Hugh responded to the summons. All except Gundrum, who apparently had not been to bed and was still fully dressed, were in robes. Their faces were tired and apprehensive...

"Did any of you just try to get out of the house unnoticed or do some dirty work in that museum just now?" Murphy demanded. "If you use common sense, you would realize that women do not try to leave the house in their night gowns..."

This was logical. Anyone planning an escape might have known about the shaft—had descended that way when he heard Sidney prowling about the upper halls. He could have passed Togi's closed door, gone through the kitchen without awakening Murphy, and have left the house by the front entrance...

But why should anyone wish to escape? Why the chloroform? The questions could not be answered. It developed that Gundrum, too, had heard the dog but he said he thought the animal was outside. Neither Nella nor Sidney mentioned they had known of Gundrum's visit to Pat, but Nella said that she had had an unquiet dream and had awakened crying...

"What did you dream, Miss?" Murphy asked kindly. "I dreamed I heard my uncle cry for help," the girl said in a low voice. "I saw him. His face was like an animal's after prey. It frightened me. I cried out..."

'We Must Stand Together,' Urges Third Army Chief

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 23 (AP)—Military leaders of ten Latin American countries were on the way to Fort Sill, Okla., today with the assurance of Lieut. Gen. Herbert Brees, commander of the third army of the United States, that "no nation or combination of nations can beat us if we stand together." The group of generals, surveying United States defense outposts, were guests of Mayor Maury Maverick and Gen. Brees at a reception here last night. Gen. Brees in a brief speech told them "if we do not stand together we may face total disruption." "If we want to preserve that liberty and democracy which we cherish," he declared, "we may have to fight, and the fight will be in the western hemisphere." Officers of the Latin American countries—Mexico, Argentina, Ecuador, Chile, Cuba, Venezuela, Haiti, Nicaragua, El Salvador and Paraguay—interpreted this to mean that the combat, if and when it came, would be forced on this continent by victorious totalitarian armies. "We have established a certain comradeship," Gen. Brees said, "it is a comradeship of distinguished officers who have fought." He added that he knew from personal conversations with these officers that "we have the comradeship which may mean a great deal in the future." His words were applauded loudly by the visiting officers, the second group of military chieftains to come to this country and survey the outposts.

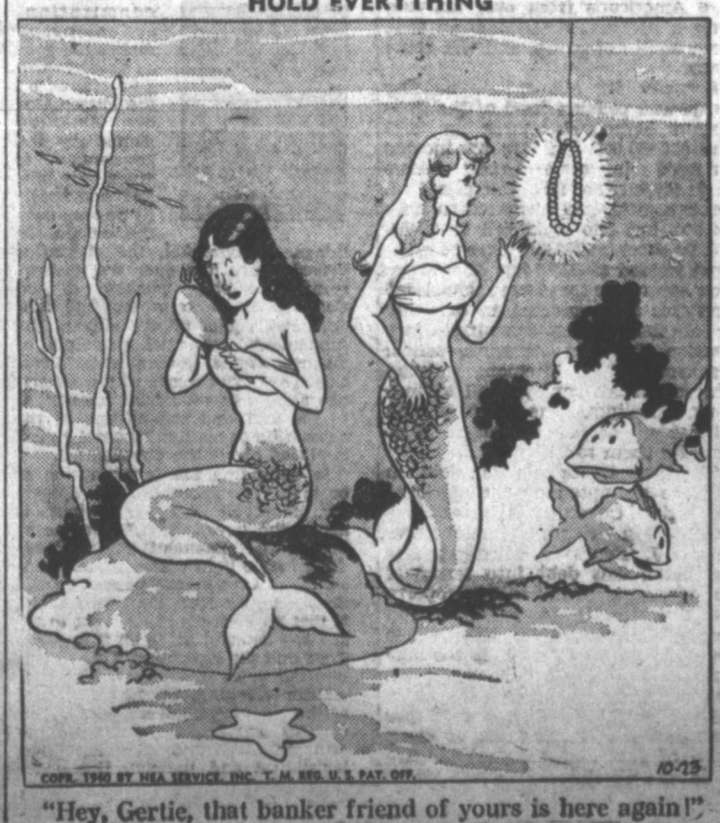

Inequities Exist Among Oil Fields Humble Announces

AUSTIN, Oct. 23 (AP)—The Humble Oil company, largest purchaser of crude oil in Texas, reiterated today its opinion that Texas' oil production was excessive and gross inequities existed among fields. The opinion was expressed by Hines Baker of Houston, Humble attorney, at a special hearing before the state railroad commission on the company's application for increased allowable production in the Anahuac, Hastings, Webster and Thompson fields in the Gulf Coast area. Discrimination against those fields was charged. Baker asserted the company long had taken the position Texas was producing too much oil and there were serious inequities in the allocation of the state's allowable. Moreover, the Humble consistently had opposed field exemptions and special field allowables granted by the commission. Nevertheless, because the objectionable conditions had continued, Baker said, the Humble felt compelled to ask large output for Anahuac, Hastings, Webster and Thomp-

Think This One Over! We don't know who he was. But we hope that somehow he will read this. He was jerking a soda for us in a strange town. He wasn't talking to us at all, but to a friend beside us at the counter.

He said: "Aw! I ain't going to vote at all. I don't care." We're a little slow to talk to strangers, so we said nothing. But we hope he reads what we wanted to say.

Won't you think that over a little, mister? That ballot that you don't care about—you've got something there. That freedom that you aren't going to use—there are millions who would give a great deal to have it. We don't want to sound sentimental, but that vote is a precious thing, mister. You wouldn't throw away a glittering diamond or a glowing emerald. But many people have found that their freedom is more precious than diamonds or emeralds—after they lost it.

What's that got to do with voting? It's got a lot to do with it. To be a free man you have to deserve to be a free man. You like to do as you please, that's plain. Well, to run a country in which people can do more or less as they please, it takes some effort by everybody. You can't expect to live in that kind of a country and never give it a thought. You may be called on one of these days to go into the army and learn to be a soldier to protect that country. But that's not all the country requires of you. It needs your thought, your attention, your vote.

It is important. That choice of a president at a time like this may deeply affect the rest of your life. You must have an opinion, a preference for one candidate or the other. You owe that to yourself—you owe it to all the rest of us.

You're only one of the 70,000,000 eligible to vote. Your vote won't count for anything? Oh, yes, it will—it will count for as much as J. P. Morgan's, or Albert Einstein's.

The ballot box is one place where we're still all equal, every man of us. It's one place where you have an equal say as a free man with every other free man in the country.

Think about it a little. You're not a jellyfish. You have opinions. Step up on Nov. 5 and express them! Of course, we hope you vote the way we see it. But we'd rather have you vote the other way than not vote at all.

Every vote in 1940 is more than a vote for Candidate A, or Candidate B. It is a vote for free government, an avowal of our faith in the ability of ordinary men—like yourself and myself—to have opinions and to have a country in which the majority of those opinions run the show.

You don't throw away emeralds. Don't throw away your right to vote. It is a precious right. Unused, it dies.

Think it over, mister!

Behind The News By BRUCE CATTON The Pampa News Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Few men have ever traveled 6000 miles just to keep a lunch date. But one of the big reasons for the hurried trip Admiral James O. Richardson recently made from Hawaii to Washington was a quiet luncheon party arranged for him at the White House.

Three men sat down at the table—Admiral Richardson, head of the U. S. fleet; President Roosevelt's commander-in-chief; and Gov. William D. Leahy of Puerto Rico, who was the navy's top admiral until his retirement a little over a year ago.

The party didn't break up early. It lasted most of the afternoon, in fact. And the principal topic was the Far Eastern situation—in plainer English, the danger of war with Japan and the things the U. S. Navy ought to do if that war should come.

LEAHY DEVISED WAR PLAN It was Governor Leahy's presence that was especially significant. Back in 1937 Leahy, wearing the broad stripe and the three narrow ones of a full admiral, was chief of naval operations. The Japanese, constantly widening the scope of their "China incident," swung into action with a bombardment of Shanghai. The White House hesitated for a week or more, weighing the chances. Then it called Admiral Leahy into conference.

Leahy was told that the United States and England might—just might—take joint action against Japan: action of the kind that could mean war. He was instructed to draw up a plan for use in such emergency. He came back, after consultation with the war plans section at the Navy Department, with a plan which called for a tight naval blockade. The blockade line would be draped between Hawaii and Singapore, one end resting on America's greatest naval base, the other resting on Britain's. The plan envisaged a strong British contribution—probably half a dozen capital ships, with accompanying lighter craft, to hold down the British end of the line. It gave the U. S.-British fleets a two to one superiority in the waters where the fighting would be done.

STILL AVAILABLE TO ENFORCE PLAN Joint action didn't take place, and the plan was dropped. But Leahy, the man who devised it—not Admiral Harold R. Stark, the present chief of naval operations—was the man who was invited to lunch with Admiral Richardson at the White House when the Far Eastern situation was canvassed.

The Pacific situation has changed since Leahy ori-

Common Ground By R. C. BOHLES

This column contains those that can be no satisfactory program until we measure the share of each man by the common yardstick of the Golden Rule—equal rights to create and enjoy anything anyone else has a right to create and enjoy.

WHAT CAN BE MEASURED? If we, as a people, are to live harmoniously, happily and prosperously, we must have words that transmit ideas from one to another.

In order to do this, we must be able to measure, or compare, or anchor our ideas or words to some known material thing or to some axiom.

For instance, when we talk about measurements of distance, we use the yard, foot or rod, which represent a certain fraction of the distance around the earth. This is a standard or an anchor or a measure by which ideas and words are given understandable meanings.

When we are measuring ideals, we must compare these ideals to certain self-evident truths, or axioms, to see whether they are in harmony with these axioms and truths or not. If they are, then these ideas are sound and useful and beneficial to mankind. If they are not, they are harmful.

Happiness Difficult To Measure We often hear the expression, "the greatest good to the greatest number." But "good," "happiness" or "usefulness" varies with different people so it becomes extremely difficult to measure these totals. This right of determining what is the greatest good to the greatest number, however, is often grabbed by, or appropriated by, some government official claiming to have authority to do this very thing.

But this attempt to measure happiness of different people has never been successful. Too often the judges make decisions on the basis of keeping themselves in power and retaining the right to make these decisions, rather than on the actual usefulness or helpfulness to the individual.

Even if the measure of happiness were 100 per cent impartial, it would be impossible for him to determine what made different people happy.

Freedom Can Be Measured So when the government attempts to be of service to its citizens, about the only thing it can measure successfully is the law of equal freedom. Equal freedom has always resulted in the greatest good to the greatest number. It is a natural by-product just as happiness is a by-product of service.

The word "equal" should be understandable to the most undeveloped mind. Freedom also can be measured and defined because it means the equal right to choose how the faculties of the individual can best be used to satisfy the desires of the individual. This equal freedom, of course, gives every other individual the equal right and in no way attempts to prevent another individual from doing anything that is not harmful to others.

The government should attempt to measure equal freedom and should not attempt to follow the hackneyed, meaningless phrase of the greatest good to the greatest number. To attempt to do so, is to lead to Hitlers, Stalins and to slavery.

IS MAJORITY RULE DEMOCRACY, A PRINCIPLE? We hear a great deal about a government of law instead of a government of men.

I have asked several vociferous defenders of the New Deal by what principle or rule or law the New Deal is governed. After they stammer around for a while, as they usually have little understanding of principles, they say it is the principle of majority rule.

But is majority rule a principle? A principle never changes. It is everlasting and eternal. It cannot be changed by the will of man.

And when it is claimed the New Deal is run by majority rule, it is equivalent to saying it can change with the fickleness of man. In fact, it is equivalent to saying that man creates principles and natural and eternal laws. This, of course, is an absurdity. Man cannot change any natural law or principle.

So majority rule government is not a principle. It is an arbitrary, vacillating action without principle.

True democracy is a principle because it is the law of EQUAL FREEDOM. And equal never changes—it is eternal and everlasting.

The Nation's Press ROOSEVELT AND MUNICH (Kansas City Star)

Details of the part taken by the administration in the Munich settlement are pertinently recalled by Alf M. Landon in his Topeka statement last night. So much has happened since then that these details had largely been forgotten.

But the record is there in the address of Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, on October 3, 1938, immediately after Munich.

It will be remembered that a great relief was experienced everywhere with the announcement that war had been averted. The administration at once moved to make political capital of the part played by the President in his messages to Hitler and Mussolini. But when it was realized what had been done to Czechoslovakia a reaction set in and the Munich settlement became intensely unpopular in the United States.

Sensing this reaction the administration at once backed away and soft-pedaled any part taken by Washington. The boasting that President Roosevelt had helped bring about the settlement abruptly ceased.

Wendell Willkie made a minor slip—which was at once corrected—when he spoke of the President's telephoning Hitler and Mussolini. The President did not himself telephone the two leaders. But he had his messages conveyed to them urging the settlement—as Mr. Landon proves from Undersecretary Welles' address. The Willkie statement was essentially correct.

Originally drew up the plan. Britain hasn't any six battleships to spare for Singapore. Point is, though, that that old plan did have Singapore in it.

Meanwhile, Leahy is again working for Puerto Rico. But—the understanding is pretty clear that if trouble comes in the Orient, and it becomes necessary to dust off that old war plan or something like it, Leahy will be back in the Navy and will be boss of the job.

This doesn't necessarily mean that Admiral Stark would be replaced as chief of naval operations. The White House admires Stark as a capable administrator and a good man on the organizational side. He tends to be cautious, however, where Leahy is more the damn-the-torpedoes type. Belief now is that Stark would remain in his present job and that a new one would be invented for Leahy—possibly chairmanship of a joint army-navy board to direct strategy.

Movie production is at its lowest point in many years, with only about 25 companies actually working. This doesn't herald an entertainment depression, though. Most of the studios have pushed along in advance of their schedules and now are getting ready for a winter boom.

Nevertheless there's grumbling all along the line, from top stars to enforced layoffs to extras whose total earnings this month will be about $100,000 under par. Martin Greene says things are getting so tough that pretty soon nobody will be paid twice what he's worth.

Frankie Lou Keehn is the hometown girl who went away and came back to make good. You remember Frankie Lou. She began tap-dancing when she was a little girl, under the instruction of Kathryn Steele under whom she studied until Frankie Lou left here a few years ago. When her parents moved back to Pampa recently she became Kathryn's assistant. . . . The last time we saw Frankie Lou dance before the Keehns moved away from Pampa, was when they lived on Hill street. Frankie Lou was a little girl and she wore an Indian costume for an Indian number. . . . Then we saw her dance yesterday at the Jaycee luncheon, and I don't know so much about tap-dancing but I'd just as soon see Frankie Lou dance as anybody I ever saw. Right away we made up our mind to go to the Kiwanis luncheon, to see Frankie Lou dance, if for no other reason. We were glad to see that Frankie Lou has a personality smile, too. . . . Off-hand we'd say that one of the reasons for Frankie Lou's success is her mother, Mrs. Frank Keehn, who has encouraged her child all these years, and who plays her accompaniment. She believes to the utmost in her child—as every mother should—and you will say that she has a right to.

Paul Schneider says that the only trouble he's having with his new daughter is her tendency to jump out of her bassinot and run down the hall, figuratively speaking. From the very first she has loved surprising people. For instance, she arrived a few days before two showers in her honor could take place.

Advised that federal employees might wear campaign buttons without violating the act if they did no active campaigning, Dillingham ripped off the tape. Underneath was a Roosevelt button.

A minor actor in his own company stopped him at the stage door the other day and asked, "Gotta a cigaret, sonny?" Welles was so upset it took him two hours to get back into his big executive mood.

CHAPTER 4 THE PARASITE OF THRIFT By Samuel B. Peitengill

The prospective investor is thinking of buying common stock. He knows preferred stock and notes or bonds will have to come ahead of him. But he knows, also, that government—federal, state and local—holds a prior mortgage ahead of everybody, and on every dollar that may be made.

He knows that the total taken by government in 1938 was 22.4 per cent of total national income. He knows government costs are constantly going up. For example, Westinghouse Electric in 1934 paid taxes on $2,500,000; in 1935, $5,000,000; in 1936, $9,000,000; in 1937, $16,000,000.

And more to come. Social "security" taxes alone are due to go up to nine cents on every dollar of wages.

Our investor, therefore, is asked to put his money into a business in which there is a first preferred stockholder (the government) who has the power to declare an increase of his dividends at any time! This is like asking him to buy a farm plastered with a five per cent mortgage which the mortgage holder may at any time increase to 10 or 15 or 22.4 per cent interest.

By a creeping paralysis we are nationalizing the savings of the nation and investing them in debt. This debt is not re-creative, self-liquidating. It is not like wool on a sheep's back. Our collateral is a dead horse.

We should remove the tax exempt feature on all government bonds. We should make it hard—and expensive—for government to borrow money! That would put brakes on the socialist chariot.

People say, "You can't let them starve." Right. No one is going to starve. But this starving fetish is an alibi for constructive thinking is badly overworked; only one tax dollar in six goes to keep people from starving. You can keep people from starving and still reduce taxes.

Sir William Flinders Petrie, archeologist, who knows more than any man living about civilizations that have died and men who have starved, says that democracies eat themselves through excessive taxation until they collapse and are succeeded by the Man on Horseback or the rank growth of the jungle.

Few things would do more to injure Americans from ever starving is a national determination that taxes shall not go up, and will come down.

Security for old age is melting away. The pension fund of the Protestant Episcopal church in 1933 was $29,447,000, yielding an income for aged ministers and their widows of $1,447,851. In 1938 the principal, through gifts, had increased to $34,192,000, but the yield fell to $845,923. In short, $4,745,000 more of principal yielded $593,228 less of income. How secure are these aged ministers? And this same process, in one way or another, is undermining every pension fund in America, school teachers, police, firemen, railroad and industrial employees, all savings bank depositors, some $5,000,000 and all holders of life insurance. It is time for them to wake up!

The per capita public debt in 1938, as computed by the National Industrial Conference board was $432.65. My friend, Representative Albert J. Engel of Michigan has translated this debt into terms of a mortgage upon the entire property—real estate, lands, buildings and personal property—of the whole country. According to him the national debt alone (exclusive of state and municipal debt) on June 30 of this year (1940) will equal 34 per cent of the assessed value of every piece of real and personal property in the 48 states. In some states the total public debt—federal state and municipal—is more than the total assessed value. In Arkansas, Florida, and South Carolina, the debt is 190 per cent of the assessed value of all property. In the wealthier states it is: Illinois, 98 per cent; Ohio 83 per cent; Pennsylvania 34 per cent; New York 30 per cent. In these calculations the state's share of the federal debt is based on per cent of total population living in the state.

The Department of Commerce in June, 1939, announced that the assessed value of American property subject to taxes had declined $25,311,000,000 from 1932 to 1937. As values declined $24 billion, the federal debt increased $17 billion. More debts against less value. This is working both sides of the street or, to change the simile, it is putting the thrifty American between the upper and nether millstones.

Excessive taxes and the uncertainty of further increases, is making it difficult for free enterprise to expand, or even continue; it discourages wealth creation and destroys jobs; government deficit financing, under which the government borrows as cheaply as possible, with consequent low interest rates, is undermining the security of the hard-working American, the kind who made the nation and every community in it; it works to the advantage of the large and established business and to the disadvantage of the new or small business, without reserves; it is burning the powder of national defense, exhausting our credit for future emergencies.

But more fundamental, this political war against the savings of thrift, is eroding the principle of thrift and the character and courage of thrifty men and women. In doing that it strikes at the foundation of the American system of government and free enterprise.

The hope of reward is the spark plug of free enterprise. It is the principle of thrift. It is the desire of man to be a man, self-supporting and self-respecting, and not the galley slave or pensioner of the state. Because the constitution of the United States is wrapped around this principle of reward for individual effort our form of government is the negation of National Socialism. An attack, therefore, upon the savings of honest thrift and of the principle of thrift is an attack upon the American form of government itself. This, Democrats and Republicans alike must resist.

GOVERNMENT MASTER OR SERVANT By GUS W. DYER Professor of Economics and Sociology, Vanderbilt University

The fundamental difference between the theory of state socialism as in practice in Germany and the American constitution is democracy.

It is that state socialism makes the government master over the citizen while American constitutional democracy makes the government the servant of the citizen.

The American democracy makes the government its servant. The American citizen is placed above and over the government. The chief purpose of the Constitution is to protect the fundamental rights of the citizen.

The very essence of the American system of industrial freedom is in the fact that the citizen, in the expression of his fundamental rights, is placed above the government.

In defending the "conscription of business" in a recent political speech, Mr. Roosevelt said "It is the business above the government."

The meaning of this statement of the President in the light of the radical conscription of business passed by the Senate under New Deal leadership, is that no business has a right to resist any demand made on it by Congress and the Executive. This sounds like the voice of German State Socialism speaking up to the advent of the New Deal, government in this country was composed of three coordinate departments—executive, legislative, and judicial. But under the leadership of the President the functions of the Supreme Court—representing the judicial department—have been taken over by the Executive and the Congress. The so-called Supreme Court today, as controlled by partisan judges appointed as partisans of the New Deal theory, is neither supreme nor a court at all in the proper meaning of the term "court." It is a puppet subordinate organization functioning as a servant of its recognized master, the Executive and the Congress. This revolution in degrading the Supreme Court cuts the government off from the Constitution and gives it unlimited powers over the citizen. Hence it is not strange that Mr. Roosevelt said no business is above the government.

This position of the President is antagonistic to the very foundation of the American system of constitutional democracy and is revolutionary in the extreme. The Constitution vests the fundamental rights of business over and above dictation either from the President or from Congress. This is the genius of the American system. It is the constitutional protection against the dictation of government that made American industrial progress possible. It is the removal of this constitutional protection from business that has arrested industrial progress in this country today.

The Constitution prohibits the government from the invasion of property rights. The Constitution prohibits the government from taking private property without just compensation. The Constitution prohibits the government from making any money legal tender except gold and silver. The Constitution prohibits the government from passing any law that would invalidate contracts. The Constitution puts business above the government in the preservation of its fundamental rights.
