

Dance Honoring Pledges Ends Rush Month For Beta Sigma Phi Sorority

Rush month for Upsilon chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority was concluded Saturday night with a formal dance given at the Schneider hotel for pledges, members, and guests of the organization.

Pledges of the sorority are Mrs. Oscar Hinger, Miss Evelyn Gregory, Miss Winifred Wiseman, and Miss Helen Houston.

Decorating the blue lighted ballroom, which formed a grape arbor, were large green leaves and purple balloon grapes on a background of white lattices. The guests registered on a large green leaf decorated with the Greek letters. Beta Sigma Phi, in black and the tags were miniature replicas of the registry.

Music for the dancing was played by Roy Dixon and his orchestra. As the orchestra played "The Eyes of Texas" preceding the intermission, members of the sorority, who carried yellow candles, and their dates led the grand march.

Registering were Miss Louise Smith, James Weir, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Burns, Miss Ernestine Francis, Roy Stargel, Miss Betty Cozart, Jack Edmondson, Miss LaNell Schlegel, Jack Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Lawson, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lane, Mr. and Mrs. E. Sorority Will Sponsor Benefit Review Tonight

Mrs. W. L. Bengt will give a review of the Lorraine Carr's "The Mother of the Smiths" tonight at 8 o'clock in the city club rooms under the sponsorship of Upsilon chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority.

The story, which is a character study of the pioneer mother, is filled with pathos and has its setting around Texas, New Mexico. Mrs. Fred Thompson will present Mrs. Bengt, who has been featured on numerous programs in Pampa.

Hostesses for the evening will be Miss Dorothy Jo Taylor, Miss Lois Hinton, and Miss Margaret Stockstill. Each member is to invite two guests for the review.

A silver offering will be given and proceeds are to be used in buying lunches for ward school children.

Keep It Comfortable, He'll Dress Up

Who said boys hate to dress up? Keep it comfortable and keep it masculine and you'll have no trouble getting him into that Sunday suit. This young man with the lollipop wears a brand new but comfortable rough finish blue miniature hat with blue, aconit blue hand—an exact duplicate, incidentally, of his dad's sport hat.

The five button, lower-school suit is also brand new and is made of bright navy corduroy. The jacket collar is finished plain so that the wide shirt collar will fit all around.

Delegates Named For Conference To Be Held In Pampa

CANADIAN, Nov. 4.—At the quarterly conference of the Methodist church held recently by Amarillo district superintendent, the Rev. W. C. House, reports for the past year were given, officers for coming year elected, and delegates were selected to attend the annual meeting of Northwest Texas conference to be held in Pampa, beginning November 15.

The Canadian church will be represented by the pastor, Rev. Dwight L. McCree, who expects to have the usual complete report, and C. H. Vaught, lay leader.

Trustees re-elected were W. D. Fisher, H. H. Marks, Jopp Todd, C. L. Strader, and Wilbur Killbuck. Mr. Fisher is one of the original three trustees for the Methodist church here. W. J. Todd's place was taken, following his death in 1921, by his son, Jopp Todd.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Lillian Stewart to Betty Jo Myatt, Edith Mae Morrow, Joy Hut-chens, Joyce Oswald, Alice Jean Robinson, Jean Sitton, Elsie Ruth Graham, Leona McClendon, Bobby Louise McClendon, Betty Traylor, Mildred McClendon, Mary Myatt, June Myatt, Dale Nix, Ben M. Scott, J. M. Carpenter, James B. Reid, and P. D. Moseley.

Ford Sollock was selected as special steward for the Mission church week end here. Rev. McCree preaches each Sunday morning at 9:45 o'clock.

Modern Study Club Entertains Guests

MILAMI, Nov. 4.—Members of the Modern Study Club entertained their husbands at a dinner and social Thursday evening in the home of Judge and Mrs. J. E. Kinney.

The rooms were attractive in Halloween decorations and flowers grown by the hostess.

A menu of chicken a la king, buttered asparagus, beets, creamed potatoes, hot rolls, coffee, perfection salad, and pumpkin pie topped with whipped cream, was served on card tables.

After dinner the tables were prepared for forty-two. At the conclusion of the games, W. R. Campbell held high score.

Only the club members, their husbands, and Mrs. E. H. Schrimsher, who was the guest of Mrs. Agatha Locke, were present.

AN ADORABLE JUMPER FROCK

Just like big sister's, this cleverly designed jumper frock will bring thrills of delight to the growing daughter.

Always practical to begin with, this particular model features a modified jumbo pocket, so popular this season, and buttons down the back, pinafore style, thus providing the thrifty mother the opportunity to provide a constantly varying freshness by making two or three blouses in fabrics of various colors.

The Jumper itself is full cut, for adequate warmth and protection, and opens up flat for ironing, a feature of interest to the one who handles the family wash. A hard number to beat for school or play, this serviceable model will go through the wardrobe with top honors, solving the winter problem.

Pattern No. 8815 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, and 12 years. Size 8 blouse requires 1 1/2 yards of 30-inch fabric. Jumper 2 yards.

For a PATTERN of this attractive model send 15c IN COIN, YOUR NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE to The Pampa News Today's Pattern Service, 211 W. Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill.

Have you seen the new Fall and Winter Fashion Book Better and for it right away. You can plan your whole wardrobe from it, from morning frocks to formal ones. You can sew your own, with these simple, carefully planned patterns! Have more clothes—more individual clothes and save money besides!

Husbands Of Child Study Club Members Guests At Party

MIAMI, Nov. 4.—An attractive seasonal party was given by Child Study club Friday evening, entertaining husbands of the members.

The guests motored to the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Theo Jenkins. Two "ice-breaker" games were conducted by Mrs. Alfred Cowan, assisted by Mrs. W. F. Locke.

After dinner forty-two was played with Clyde Hodges' holding high score.

Present were Messrs. and Mrs. C. Carmichael, Howard Mulkey, Lee Newman, Art Evans, R. E. Thompson, Alfred Cowan, Moulton Hawes, Willis Clark, H. J. McCullough, E. F. Ritchey, J. O. Duniven, R. E. Haynes, Clyde Hodges, W. F. Locke, J. D. Pritchard, W. D. Allen, and Theo Jenkins.

Mrs. Bowsher Has Party For Pleasant Hour Sewing Club

SKELLYTOWN, Nov. 4.—Mrs. Dallas Bowsher entertained members of Pleasant Hour Sewing club and two guests recently at her home in the Skelly camp.

Mrs. A. A. McElrath, president, presided over the short business meeting. Names for capsul friends were drawn. Two guests, Mrs. Tom McElrath and Miss Agnes Bowsher, were welcomed.

Refreshments of sandwiches, pumpkin pie with whipped cream, Halloween candy, and coffee were served to Misses Tom Achran, A. McElrath, G. F. Morris, E. H. Brannon, Paul Norris, Charlie Webb, Arthur Johnson, Joe Wedge, M. L. Roberts, O. L. Stetfield, J. R. Stensler, Bill Franks, Miss Agnes Bowsher, and the hostess.

Galileo was the Christian name of the great Italian astronomer, and by it he was commonly known. Galilei was his last name.

Mrs. Holt Barber Presents Program

MIAMI, Nov. 4.—Presenting her Miami pupils in their first expression recital of the year, Mrs. Holt Barber gave a program in the high school auditorium Thursday afternoon.

Tomorrow Is The Day

Tomorrow the people of America go to the polls in what is expected to be the most important election in the history of America.

Judging by reports, Pampa and Gray county will cast a heavy vote. What is true of Pampa is also true of the nation as a whole where it is believed that a total of fifty million votes will be cast, as compared with the previous high of 45,647,117 in 1936.

The third term issue and the increasingly serious foreign situation have centered attention on the presidential campaign.

Never before have party labels meant less, which throws an even greater responsibility upon the individual citizen to see that the best qualified candidate is elected irrespective of the party that sponsors him. AS THIS PAPER HAS ALWAYS ASSERTED, THE SPLIT BALLOT IS EVIDENCE OF AN INTELLIGENT VOTER. NO ONE PARTY CAN HAVE A MONOPOLY ON THE BEST CANDIDATES.

While it might appear that, in a total of millions in a national election or even thousands in local contests, one vote is unimportant, the fact is that the RIGHT to vote is one of the most precious privileges of free people.

Failure to exercise that privilege, in accord with the dictates of judgment and conscience, is a blow at self-government and all it stands for.

AND JUDGMENT AND CONSCIENCE SHOULD DICTATE THAT OUR VOTE BE BASED ON KNOWLEDGE AND INTELLIGENCE AND WHAT IS IN THE BEST INTERESTS OF NATION AND COMMUNITY RATHER THAN ON PERSONAL PREJUDICES AND SELFISH INTERESTS.

Behind The News

By BRUCE CATTON

The Pampa News Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Technically, the United States government has not made any secret commitments or agreements with any other nation.

Actually, though, some of the most vital steps in U. S. foreign policy have been taken behind closed doors, with the results unveiled to the public only after everything was settled.

The process started before the present war began and has continued down through the recent summer. Unless all Washington gossip is cockeyed, it is still going on in the form of "conversations" regarding possible joint action by the United States and England in the Far East.

First tip-off came early in 1939, when a new Douglas bomber designed for the U. S. Army crashed on a test flight in California—with a representative of the French air ministry aboard.

This stirred a row in Congress and led to the discovery that the administration had made new-model American military planes available for purchase by the French.

Legally, the whole business was simply a commercial transaction. Practically, as a number of congressmen pointed out at the time, it constituted a highly important decision affecting American foreign policy. Months before the war began, it committed this government to a stand which was to be of vital importance after the war broke out.

That the implications of the whole affair were understood at the time is shown by the fact that the President felt obliged to call in members of the Senate Military Affairs Committee for a "confidential" interview.

More than a year later came the famous deal by which 50 over-age U. S. destroyers were traded to Great Britain for naval and air base sites.

This deal had been on the fire for months. So many rumors and tips were circulating about it that it hardly came as a surprise, yet the White House denied flatly that any negotiations of the kind were being made only a few weeks before the deal was consummated.

When it was finally announced, it was presented to the Congress as an accomplished fact, not as a treaty requiring Senate ratification.

The country generally accepted the swap as a good one. But the fact remains that it was one of the most momentous steps ever taken by an American government, and that it was completed before the government even admitted that it was being considered.

U. S.-CANADIAN DEFENSE BOARD

Last August came a third move of the same nature—formation of a joint U. S.-Canadian defense board, coupled with the initiation of "talks" by the general staffs of the United States and Canadian armies.

Announcement of this step came after President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Mackenzie King had held a two-day conference near Ogdenburg, N. Y. It was stated that the joint board was authorized "to consider in the broad sense the defense of the north half of the western hemisphere."

FLAPDOODLE

(Detroit Free Press, by Malcolm W. Bingay)

These being political times—and how—it is about as difficult for the Old Architect to keep off the subject as it is for Iffy to keep away from baseball when the Tigers are roaring their war song.

So forgive me that I do not dwell upon buttercups or what Cleopatra said to Marc Antony that first night they met in the corner drugstore at Cairo.

Not since the World Series has anything quite so caught the fancy of the town as a topic of hot conversation as the assault made upon an innocent citizen on our city hall steps by Mayor LaGuardia. Owens, the man assaulted, is a little guy. All he asked was for the Little Flower came here on orders of Ed Flynn. Then he got it.

First La Guardia said the man was drunk. The police promptly repudiated this. He was cold

Common Ground

This column contends there can be an satisfactory agreement until we measure the shares of each man by the common yardstick of the God-given equal right to create and enjoy anything anyone else has a right to create and enjoy.

ROOSEVELT'S DEFENSE SPEECH

In Roosevelt's radio address in New York, he attempted to defend the progress the present administration had made in national defense. He mentioned a lot of Republicans who had voted against appropriations, but he failed to point out that the Republicans who voted against these appropriations were not nominated for President. They were repudiated by the party.

He failed to point out that this last spring he did everything he could to get Congress to adjourn when it had appropriated only 2 billion dollars for defense. Since the time Roosevelt tried to get Congress to adjourn, they have appropriated 10 billion dollars additional for defense.

Was Roosevelt so wise when he tried to have Congress adjourn, or was he playing politics?

Lowest Form of Demagoguery In the speech in condemning those who voted against appropriations, Roosevelt said, "Their vote said, in effect, that they put money rights ahead of human lives—to say nothing of national security."

Now, any man who makes any pretense of understanding the meaning of simple words knows that money has no rights, that it never did have any rights, that property has no rights, but that men have rights in money and in property. Men are the only things in the world that have rights.

Yet, in order to get votes, in order to inflame the people and set class against class in this time when we need unity, when we need national defense, Roosevelt does the very thing that weakens our national defense. The defense that we need most is Unity, not class against class. And at the same time that we need national defense Roosevelt is saying that it is a crime for people to work longer than 40 hours at the same rate of pay that they received for the regular week.

In reality, he is making rules which make it practically impossible for patriotic citizens to help build the mechanized equipment to defend the human lives of our people. If this is not playing politics, then we have no conception of what playing politics means. If teaching the people to believe that work is a crime, or serving humanity is a crime, is not the lowest form of demagoguery and the surest way of weakening our national defense, then history teaches us nothing, then there are no laws that govern production and human happiness. Then everything is chance and subject to the will of some arbitrary dictator.

When Roosevelt says he is not going to get us into war his actions belie his words. He has violated international law times without number, and he has violated his promise and even his oath, so that any statement that he makes that there are no entangling alliances and that he has no intention of getting us into war should have no meaning whatsoever to voters who believe that we can judge the future by the past.

sober. Back in New York the Mayor thought up a new one. He said he was attacked and fought his assailant in self-defense. By next week, no doubt, the Mayor will be telling of how the desperado pulled a knife on him.

All of which shows that at heart the Mayor is a mugg. But that is a mere incident. What struck me as strange was his speech at Cass Technical H. S. School. He said that under F.D.R. the auto business of Detroit had risen to greater heights of "prosperity than was ever known before in its history and pictured the stockholders just rolling in dividends. Remember?

Well, there is something screwy somewhere in that picture. If times are so good for the manufacturers why are they all opposed to the re-election of Mr. Roosevelt?

Our American business men may belong to the lowest order of criminals. They may sneak out at night and burn orphan asylums just to enjoy the sight of the suffering children. They may rob blind men of their pennies and go around kicking crutches from under feeble old ladies. But it cannot be said of them that, with all their sadistic impulses, they deliberately plot to destroy themselves.

Yet, this is what LaGuardia, and other New Dealers, pretend to believe. Of course they don't. It is all a part of an act that Al Smith calls bunk and baloney.

They know, these business men, from the fellow running the corner peanut stand to the brass hats in the big banks, that a business cannot keep going unless it has customers. There cannot be customers unless there is money. The barber doesn't kick crutches from under feeble old ladies. But it cannot be said of them that, with all their sadistic impulses, they deliberately plot to destroy themselves.

The only time the manufacturer can use his factory is when people want to buy his goods. And the more who want to buy, the better off he is. Therefore, four a creature as he may be in the eyes of the brain trusters, he wants everybody to be working and prosperous. It means more dividends for him.

The only person who makes money out of hard times is the pawnbroker and he goes broke, too, if they continue long enough.

This is about as obvious as the simple matter of two and two making four. Mr. LaGuardia is a very smart man and he knows it all very well indeed. When he talks that way he is simply trying to fool a lot of poor people whom, he is confident, are not bright enough to see through such bunk.

The real indictment of these New Dealers against Willkie is that he is a successful business man. Well, so was George Washington, who was the richest citizen of the nation he founded. Ben Franklin was one of the smartest business men this country ever knew. Paul Revere, who is remembered for his midnight ride, was the industrialist who mined the copper and brass business in the United States.

Abraham Lincoln was a lawyer for the utility companies of his day, usually representing the railroads.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, a Wall Street lawyer, only had one source of income outside his mother's estate. He got $25,000 a year for the use of his name, as a residential vice president of a Baltimore trust company—and held that job until he became President.

So all this talk from the top-shaped little actor from New York is just a lot of hogwash.

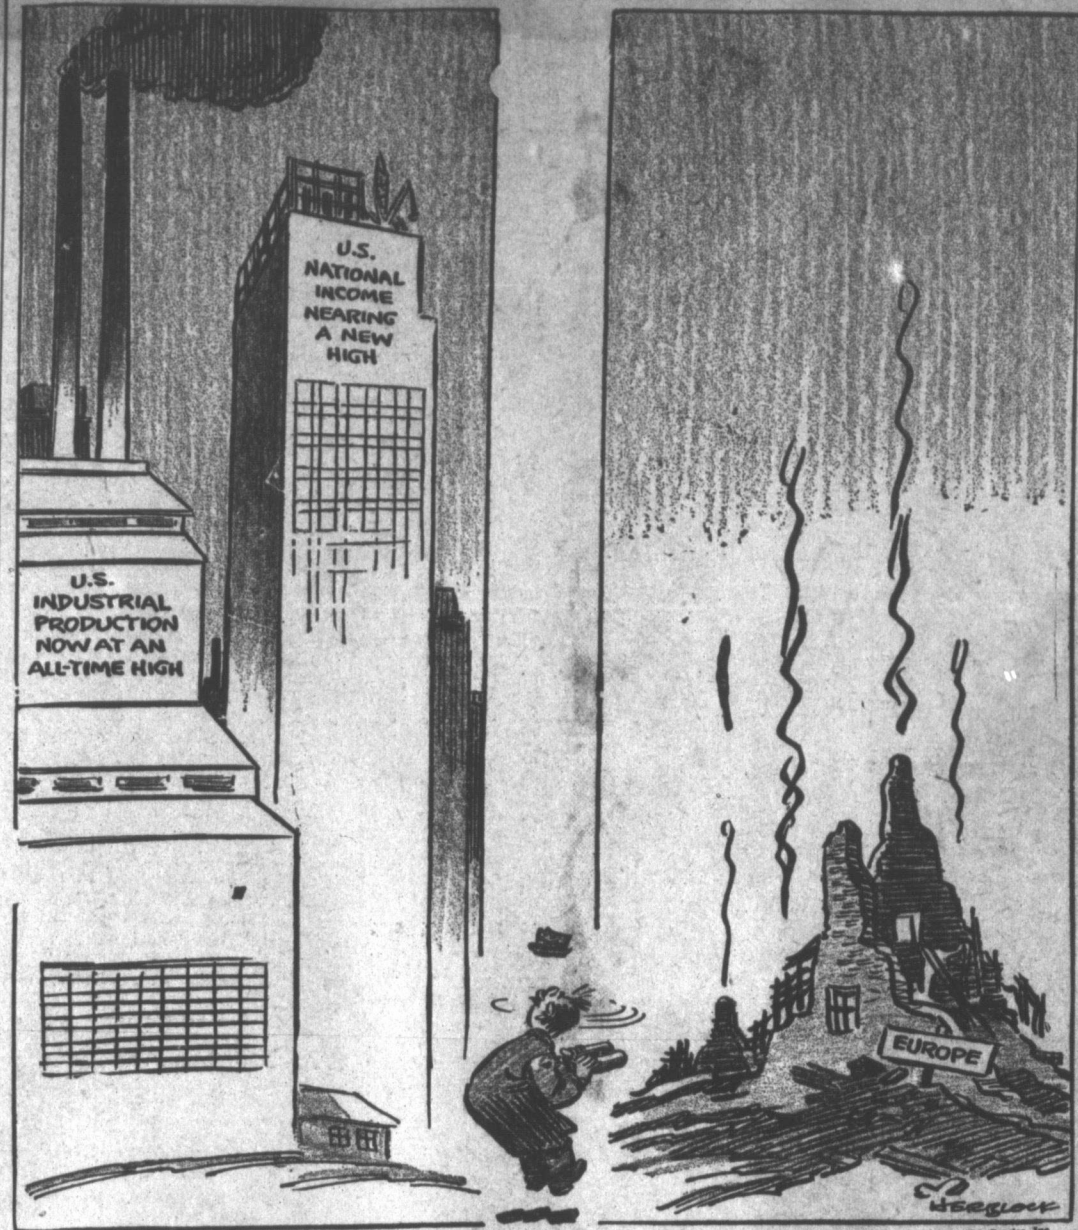

Who do we want for a President of the United States? A man who is a failure in private life or a man who has made a success?

If a corporation like General Motors had to find a new President would they pick a man who knew nothing about business and cared less or would they pick someone who by years of trial had proved himself capable?

Well, the business of the United States is just about a thousand times larger than that of General Motors; larger than all the corporations put together.

AF of us are stockholders and all of us will be directors in that business on Nov. 5.

WHILE WE'VE BEEN LOOKING THE OTHER WAY

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON

NEA Service Staff Correspondent HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 4.—It seems to me more of the old gilt and faded red plush of an earlier Hollywood are needed to lend lustre and color to the chromium-plated movie capital of today. The theater is proud and rich in its traditions and its anthology is full of tales no older than the history of the flickers. But the screen lives for today and tomorrow; it's a little ashamed of its past. Veteran picture people, for the most part, are reluctant to look back, lest they automatically be typed as fogies and has-beens.

So I like to hear about the mad and gallant years which so quickly turned from penury to profanity. That was a time when Mary Pickford, already true star, quarreled bitterly with D. W. Griffith to get a $25-a-week guarantee. He remembers that in the heat of it she said, "You wait—some day I'll be getting $100 a week!" And exactly four years later she was getting $100,000 a week.

Among such recollections you find modern celebrities in strange circumstances. There was the actor who went to the old Biograph studio and wanted to become a film policeman at $5 a day. He was so short, but he got the job by pleading that his stature would make the other cops look all the more impressive. Asked his name, he said, "Bartymore."

Then, humbly, "Not the famous one, of course, 'Im Lionel'."

And during the filming of the chariot racing scene in "Intolerance," they almost fired one of the drivers for recklessness. He scared the daylight out of the other drivers, scattered a few shattered chariots along the way and seemed to be trying to run his horses over the camera truck. But by stealing the scene he came to Hollywood's attention. He's Ace Director W. S. Van Dyke.

The Chamber of Commerce has a faded print of "Her Indian Hero," the first picture ever made in this town, and occasionally the film is exhibited to show the progress of the movies. Whenever this happens Director Jack Conway is embarrassed, because he was the leading man—with Dorothy Davenport and Victor-lia Ford. The Indian was an actor named George Gebhart, and the time was 1909.

Another of today's top directors, Robert Z. Leonard, left the chorus of an opera company to work in pictures in 1907. The only attraction in Hollywood then was the famed garage of Paul de Longpre, the painter. Movies were made in Edendale. First bit of screen acting he ever did was to gallop a horse to the top of a hill and peer excitedly down the other side. "What am I looking at?" he asked. The director said, "I don't know yet; we'll decide this afternoon."

GRETA WAS DUBIOUS

Stories were made up as they went along, and a few people, working for $7.50 a day, would double in many roles. "I've played an Indian in the afternoon whom, as a cowboy, I had shot in the morning," Leonard says.

"Even in later years, the title of 'leading man' didn't mean much. I was supposed to be one, but once I had to play a Roman general, Hobart Bosworth's father (with a long white beard) and his clean-shaven son—all in 'The Roman'."

You don't have to go into movie antiquity for interesting reminiscences. "One day in 1924 I went onto a stage to make a test of a new actress," Leonard recalls. "I found a frightened girl whose name, they told me, was Greta Garbo. They had dressed her as a flapper for the test, and I tried to explain how she should act. She didn't understand.

People You Know

By Archer Fullingim

One Sunday afternoon. . . .

Last night this one was deliciously like one would be after hoeing cotton all day or heading maize down on the farm near Paducah. It began yesterday noon when we, meaning Dee Griffin, Randall Clay, Donald Baker, Kenneth Beasley and Johnny Campbell, of course, went up to the Washita river to hunt persimmons.

Well, we found plenty all right but they were not ripe. So we drove through a meadow to the bottoms and hid our car in a grove of trees. (The 12 and 13-year old boys, and this one, too) were in hog-heaven, so to speak, and there was not a single other soul in the bottoms, and every word the boys spoke was tinged with the neuter naivete and simplicity of childhood.)

Then we tore out through the brush to the creek, and on the way over the boys found blood-red choke berries and painted their faces like Indians; then, of course they began to whoop and yell and tear around like Indians—they had a good setting because the Washita bottoms are dense with brush and huge hackberry and cottonwood trees, and plum bushes and briars and grape vines. . . . All afternoon we played in the sand and chasing through the bottoms. Then we cooked and played again until long after it was dark. Then I told a ghost story about an Indian chief that rides a blood-red buffalo on the "white spots" in the Washita bottoms, and it was so blood-thirsty that even this one was scared walking the mile through those pitch-black bottoms to the car. And coming home, we ran out of gas six miles from town, and the boys insisted on pushing the car in to town.

"We didn't work out," said the indefatigable Johnny. "It will help our drive in football," said Randall. "It's better than playing tackle," said Beesie and Red. So they pushed it two miles and a car stopped and said they would push us in, but the boys grumbled because they wanted to push it all the way to town. And that, mothers, was the reason your sons didn't get in until 10:30. . . .

CHAPTER 18

WRITTEN IN OIL

By Samuel B. Pettengill

The time has come, I respectfully submit, when all American industries must join forces to protect each other, as the bull blson on the western plains formed a common ring, and their cows and calves inside, when the wolves came down from the timber.

Today the timber wolves are in sheep's clothing of "planned economy." But when the sheepskin is off there stands Nazism, Fascism or Communism. Planned economy for the petroleum industry is contemplated in a bill introduced by Representative William P. Cole, Jr., of Maryland. It is known as the Cole bill, although it was written by Secretary Ickes' staff and Congressmen Cole says that he by no means approves the bill as it stands. Let us see where this bill would start, and where, by the implacable Nemesis that pursues programs of his kidney, it would probably end.

This bill would give the secretary of the interior not only final absolute power to prescribe all means and methods by which petroleum is produced, but also to determine the circumstances under which you are watching a sunset.

And, that reminds us again to mention the Panhandle moon that you see each night. Well, I don't mention that once in awhile, it worries some folk. . . . Well, if you saw the Panhandle moon between 9 and 10 o'clock Saturday night in particular, and I guess it was the Sunday night, too—you would have seen a gorgeous crystal-white scimitar hanging in a clear sky. . . . It is probably just an illusion but the Panhandle moon always seems to be considerably more prominent than it does in other sections of the country. . . . Let's Bullard, of the radio, just dropped in to inquire what happened that Sunday column.

A FRIEND brought up the discussion the other night that it is too bad modern social standards do not provide some way for couples to find out whether they are suited to each other. . . . Let's say that it would be much better to find out before hand than at a time when it is too late. . . . This is not recommended; you understand, but in the sophisticated New York paper, there was a story two or three days ago that the secretary or his agent could say that crude oil should not be used for fuel oil. And in the light of the fact that Mr. John L. Lewis wants to place a penalty tax on fuel oil in order to compel people to buy coal, this control over the use of petroleum is something to be thought of if Mr. Lewis or anyone like him, such as Toledano in Mexico, ever controls the federal government. We would then subject petroleum to inter-industry rackets for the benefit of those close to the throne.

Now it must be plain that if this petroleum bill becomes a precedent for the extension of federal power, there is not a single national resource which cannot be brought within the federal orbit. If the secretary of the interior can decide who shall and who shall not drill wells for petroleum or natural gas, then with equal logic (national defense is the new smoke-screen) he can control the production of every mine and every ton of coal, iron ore, lead, copper, silver, gold, aluminum, and all other minerals. For petroleum is a mineral. Heretofore one industry after another has been foolish enough to stand mute as they watch their neighbors being thrown to the crocodile on the theory that as long as it is done, the crocodile won't bite them. But when all the neighbors are gone, what will the crocodile do, then?

Moreover, it appears to control not only production, however local, but use, however local. Under the

TEX'S TOPICS

By Tex DeWesse

THERE was the click of clockwork at Sunday afternoon's rehearsal of the Top O' Texas Revue which is to be presented in the high school auditorium Wednesday and Thursday nights, and officials of the Kiwanis club which is sponsoring the show expressed opinion that after tonight's final dress rehearsal the production will be in patent-leather shape for a grand premiere on Wednesday. . . . The cast will rest Tuesday. . . . Director Ken Bennett today urged that everybody be on hand for tonight's rehearsal in the high school at 7 o'clock. . . . Only members of the cast will be permitted in the auditorium.

Chick Hickman, who is one of the featured singers in the Kiwanis show and will be seen in the role of a mystic, has borrowed my crystal ball for use at both performances of the revue. . . . If he can see the same things in the crystal that I see, he'll be plenty surprised. . . . But let's skip that. Here's a tip to members of the revue cast. . . . They should come prepared to stay late at tonight's rehearsal. . . . Mr. Bennett says it must be better perfected before anybody goes home. . . . Incidentally, Howard Buckingham, as a cove-man, is another who is likely to steal the show. . . . Get your tickets yet?

I WAS flabbergasted Sunday to open the paper and discover that this column was nowhere to be found. . . . I was sure it had been written. . . . Then I got to thinking of that busy schedule Saturday afternoon and I remembered that it had dawned on me that there had been no time to write a column. . . . So, that's how columns disappear. . . . "Maybe" is a song I like. . . . Has anybody found the music to "Garden of My Dreams" yet? . . . Saw quite a crowd of the town's lovely ladies and their swains as they slipped after a formal dance morning before last. . . . Pampa does have many lovely ladies—and handsome men, too.

We have had a half dozen cards and letters expressing a like for the little romantic poems that have been dropped in this space lately. . . . They say they want more of them. . . . Like this one for instance:

For surely it is something to have been The best beloved for a little while, To have walked hand in hand with love, and seen His scarlet wings flit once across your smile. —Wilde.

SOMEBODY asked the other day if I ever had seen a more beautiful sunset than the kind you see right out here on the Panhandle Plains. . . . Well, I saw a plainly real sunset thing. . . . But, everybody has their favorite sunsets. . . . And mine is the one I have often watched from the Ohio cliffs overlooking Sunset Beach on the southern shore of Lake Erie. . . . The sun drops below the horizon into the deep blue mirror of that grand inland sea. . . . Of course, the sunset that you see out over the Pacific, say, from Laguna Beach, Calif., is no exception. . . .

In fact, I guess you could take any one of those three sunsets and they would stand up well with any artist's picturesque viewpoint. . . . A lot depends, too, on the mood in which you happen to be, and the circumstances under which you are watching a sunset.

And, that reminds us again to mention the Panhandle moon that you see each night. Well, I don't mention that once in awhile, it worries some folk. . . . Well, if you saw the Panhandle moon between 9 and 10 o'clock Saturday night in particular, and I guess it was the Sunday night, too—you would have seen a gorgeous crystal-white scimitar hanging in a clear sky. . . . The young woman agreed. . . . Returning from Havana, the gentleman said he couldn't make up his mind, but would like to try a trip to South America. . . . The young woman agreed. . . . And, proving that truth is stranger than fiction, the couple married on their return from South America and have been happily wed for 20 years. . . . Understand, now—this is not recommended, but merely a recitation of fact.

A German air officer recently floated out over English soil and floated down wearing a fur coat and carrying a suitcase of personal belongings. . . . He told the British he was an anti-Nazi. . . . However, the scientist added, "They rarely meet. Unfortunately they sometimes meet after one or the other is married to somebody else. . . . REPORTS in Washington and London that Herr Hitler is preparing a fresh peace offer may be applied crystal ball (Berlin denies them) but still are important as emphasizing that the war has passed the possibility of peace by agreement, barring some strange and wholly unexpected development.

Hard as it is to say, it's difficult to see how the conflict can be settled excepting for the total defeat of one side or the other. Europe just isn't big enough to hold both Adolf Hitler and Britain.

Should it prove to be true that the fuhrer is indeed preparing peace terms it would, of course, be significant as indicating that he no longer feels confident he can smash England.

Reported terms provide that "the British empire undefeated and unconquered" should remain as it is, Europe, "being conquered by Germany," should be regarded as outside England's sphere of influence.

That would be a grand bargain for the Nazi leader. However, even if John Bull were willing to forego his oath to free his allies from German subjugation, he would seem to me to be inviting disaster to accept such terms.

Fears under an arrangement like that couldn't be lasting. It would in reality represent a stalemate and war would blaze again.

Hitler has sworn time and again to destroy the British empire. Only a fortnight ago British Premier Churchill declared this as his country's war aim: "We seek to beat the life and soul out of Hitler and Hitlerism—that alone."

That's what this war amounts to—a struggle between Hitler and the British empire. One or the other is going to disappear from the picture.

Anyway, while England has a tough row to hoe, the going just now seems to me to be considerably more promising than it was a while back. Making predictions in this mad war is like crossing Niagara Falls on a tight-rope. But I venture to say it's far from sure that Mussolini didn't confer a great boon on Britain when he lashed out at Greece.

Instead of achieving a blitzkrieg, as they expected, the Fascists have tossed their priceless bases into England's lap, thereby giving a long way toward nullifying their efforts.

England can make capital out of this situation she may win the active support of Russia and Turkey. Meanwhile, Hitler is straining every nerve to pull these countries into his camp, and success would be a sad blow to Britain.

Harvesters To Play In Borger Armistice Day

Next game for the Pampa Harvesters will be Monday afternoon in Borger where they meet the Borger Bulldogs in an Armistice Day battle. Other conference games of the day will see Plainview in Amarillo. Lubbock will play Austin high in El Paso Friday in the other game.

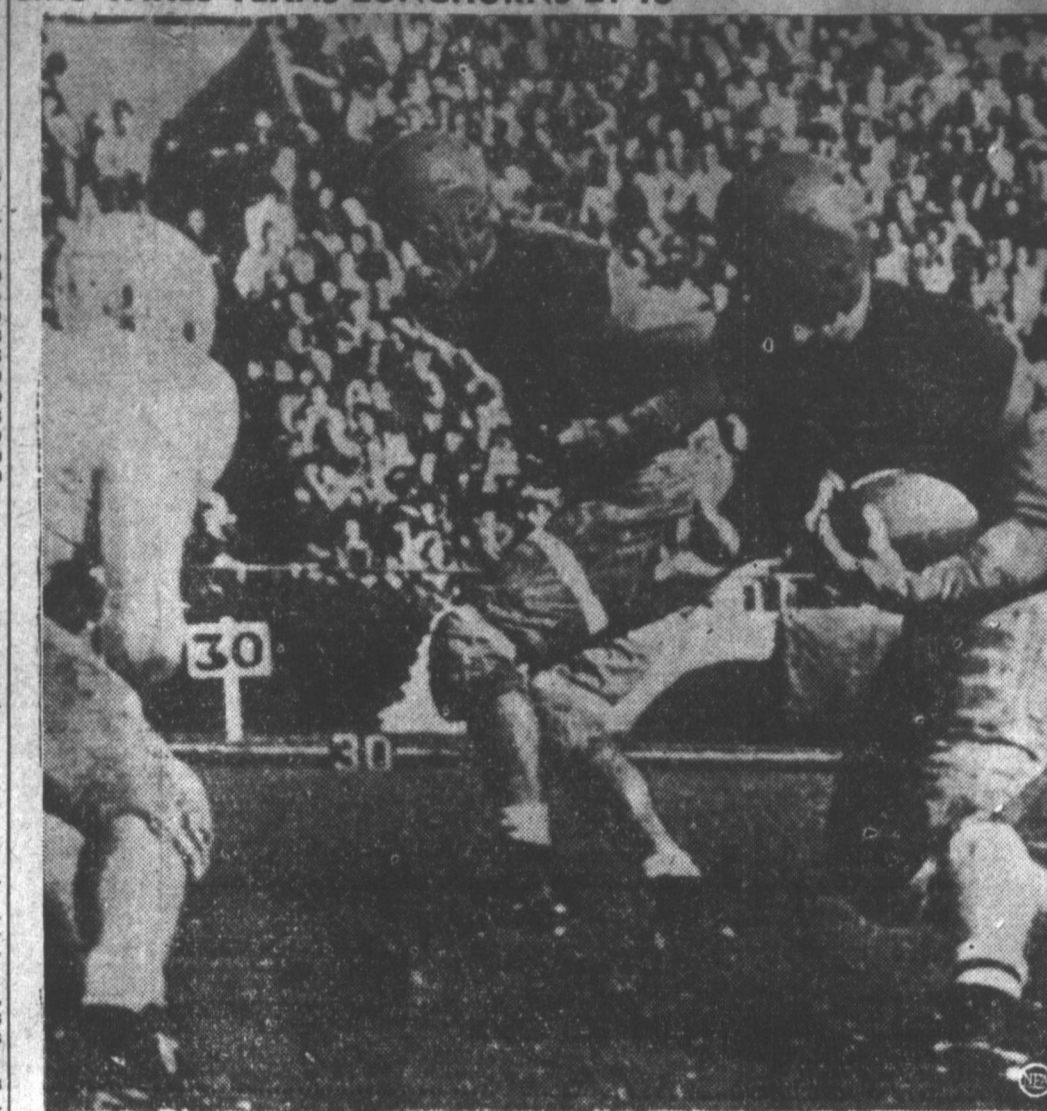

The Harvesters will spend much of this week concentrating on offense, especially developing a scoring punch. The Harvesters have scored only 34 points in their seven games.

M. Mason of Plainview added one touchdown to his string last week, against Big Spring, to send his scoring record for the year to an even 80 points, made on 11 touchdowns, one field goal and 11 points after touchdowns.

Leets Jackson of Lubbock, by making two touchdowns against the Pampa Harvesters, went into second place ahead of the idle M. T. Johnson of Amarillo, with 65 points. Johnson, who was kept out of the Borger game because of an injury, has 60 points which is two ahead of Bob McKinnon, big Lubbock fullback, who scored one

Amarillo-Plainview Tilt Will Be Battle Of Week

By HAROLD V. RAYLIFF
Associated Press Staff

Fewer than half of the Texas schoolboy football districts had undisputed leaders today as the field rallied its defenses for crucial armistice struggles.

The coming week-end, however, will bring the contenders sharply precipitated although no district championship can be clinched at this date.

Districts with undisputed leaders are:

District 3—Big Spring, district 8—Woodrow Wilson (Dallas), district 9—Stephenville, district 11—Tyler, district 12—Lufkin, district 13—Jeff Davis (Houston), district 15—Kerrville, district 16—Harrison in the south zone.

The big game of the week is Amarillo's tussle with the dark horse Plainview team in the Panhandle. Both are undisputed and untied in the state league with Lubbock, which plays an interdistrict game with Austin (El Paso).

Other districts with crucial games shape up like this:

District 2—Graham plays Wichita Falls. These two are tied with Wichita Falls for the lead. Wichita Falls meets down-trodden Electra.

District 6—Greenview plays Highland Park (Dallas) for the leadership and in all probability the championship.

District 10—Temple goes to Waxahatchie. Temple is in a virtual tie with Waxahatchie and Corsicana for the lead. Corsicana is idle this week.

District 11—Tyler is the only unbeaten, untied team in conference play but the Lions meet a major menace in the Longview Lobos, who could give the leadership to Kilgore if they win. Kilgore is unbeaten but has been tied.

District 13—Jeff Davis is the only unbeaten, untied team but Reagan (Houston) also is unbeaten although once tied inside the district. Reagan could take the lead by defeating Jeff Davis this week.

The rest of the state picture:

In district 3 Big Spring plays three-beaten San Angelo next Monday while second-place Midland leads Lamar.

District 4 has Austin (El Paso) high tied for the lead. El Paso high plays Bowie (El Paso) Friday.

In district 5 Paris and Sherman are undefeated. Paris plays muchly better Botham while Sherman has an interdistrict game with Adamson (Dallas).

District 7 moves toward a showdown between Masonic Home and Arlington Heights, the only undefeated teams in conference play. The Masons play implicit Paschal and Arlington Heights is idle this week.

Woodrow Wilson plays twice-defeated Dallas Tech. In district 9 while Forest and Sunset battle for second place.

In district 9 Stephenville awaits its final conference game with Brownwood which plays Breckenridge this week. In district 9 Breckenridge tied Lufkin meets once-beaten Nacogdoches.

District 14 plots toward a climax when Fort Arthur and Beaumont meet but this week-end Beaumont tangles Galveston and Fort Arthur plays Conroe with neither of the leaders in any apparent danger.

Top-hand Kerrville of district 15 plays once-beaten Jefferson (San Antonio).

In the north zone of district 18 undefeated Corpus Christi meets twice-beaten Beville and Robstown tangles with Kingsville. In the south zone unbeaten Harlingen has a date with San Benito, which hasn't won a game of any kind all season.

Sherman did not play last week but the Bearcats continue as the top scoring machine with 261 points in seven games. Stephenville is second with 239 in the number of tests.

A dozen teams remain undefeated and untied in the state, they being Amarillo, Lubbock, Plainview, Paris, Sherman, Masonic Home, Stephenville, Lufkin, Jeff Davis, Kerrville, Corpus Christi and Harlingen.

Train Derailed In England, 20 Killed

LONDON, Nov. 4 (AP)—Twenty persons were killed and about 50 injured today by derailment of the locomotive and several coaches of a Penzance-bound London passenger train in Somerset.

A Great Western railway official said that "as far as we can tell, it was a straightforward railway accident."

Most of the casualties were said to have been soldiers, sailors and airmen.

No Lights, No Score

FITZGERALD, Pa., Nov. 4 (AP)—Fullback Willie Matthews, a speedy player on the Fitzgerald High school eleven, broke clear from his own 20 yard line and raced 80 yards across the Albany High school's goal line in a game here Friday night.

But—as Willie galloped, the lights went out.

Officials ruled: No light, no play. Albany won, 20-0.

Three Big Games Saturday Will Be Boon To 'Experts'

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP)—Minnesota plays Michigan next Saturday, the Texas Aggies encounter Southern Methodist and Stanford meets Washington. When these games are over the long-suffering football "experts" may have some real idea of who is who in the football world this season.

Minnesota and Michigan are the unbeaten and untied survivors of the titanic struggle for the Western conference championship. The Texas Aggies and Stanford have equally perfect records and high ranking. S. M. U., unbeaten, has been tied once but figures to give the Aggies the battle of the season for South-west conference honors while Washington, defeated by Minnesota at the start of the season, is right behind Stanford in the Pacific coast conference race.

Ranking with these on the list of unbeaten and untied candidates for the mythical national title are Cornell, Georgetown, Boston college, Notre Dame and Tennessee. Penn State, Lafayette and Hardin-Simmons also have clean slates and Texas Tech has only one tie against its record. They don't appear to rank quite as high as the others, however.

Pushing these leaders for sectional honors are reported teams that still are going strong. Among these are Pennsylvania and Fordham in the East; Nebraska, the undisputed Big Six conference leader; Mississippi, tied with Tennessee for first in the Southeastern conference, defeated by Clemson, and Clemson for the Southern conference crown.

Looking them over one section at a time, the prospects for continued success of the leaders are about like this:

Cornell has played the toughest schedule without a let-down. Columbia was a 27-0 victim for the big Red team last Saturday and Yale will be lucky to do as well this week.

Georgetown, tied with Syracuse 29-6 for its 22nd consecutive game without a defeat. The Hoyas enjoy a breather this week against Maryland. Boston college, 25-0 victor over Manhattan goes back to minor league competition this week against Boston University, 19-0 victim of Western Reserve.

Penn State, remaining undefeated by beating South Carolina 12-0, encounters Syracuse. Lafayette 25-0 winner over Washington and Jefferson, faces Rutgers. Pennsylvania, which trounced previously unbeaten Navy 20-0, plays Harvard, which fought Princeton's favored team to a scoreless tie. Fordham downed North Carolina 14-0 and now tackles Purdue, 21-6 winner over Iowa.

Other games of major importance this week include Columbia against Wisconsin, Holy Cross against Mississippi, Manhattan against Carnegie Tech, Princeton against Dartmouth, which beat Sewanee 26-0, and Army against Brown.

Mid-West—Being held to a 7-0 score by Army was a let-down for Notre Dame's fighting Irish and they'll probably be out to make up for that showing when they meet Navy this week.

The Western conference race was reduced to a two-team affair when Minnesota edged out Northwestern 13-12. If they can get past Michigan the Gophers should have a clear road. Michigan has to play Northwestern later and the whole thing may wind up in a tangle. This week Northwestern faces Illinois, 13-6 victor of Ohio State, meets Michigan State, 32-0 winner over Kansas State. Iowa plays Nebraska's Cornhuskers, who went to the top of the Big Six with a 13-0 win over Oklahoma.

Oklahoma, tied with Missouri for second in their circuit, plays Kansas, beaten 33-7 by Villanova Friday. Missouri, which passed to a 33-0 decision over New York university, plays Colorado.

Other interesting games include Detroit, dropped from the unbeaten class, 7-0, by Tull, against Texas Christian, 14-12 winner over Baylor in the Southwest conference, and Washington university (St. Louis) against Virginia Military.

South—Tennessee, the South's only "major" unbeaten and untied team, showed power in bowling over Louisiana State 28-0 and takes a week off from major competition to play Southwestern of Memphis. Mississippi kept pace in the Southeastern conference standings by beating Vanderbilt 13-7.

With these two on the sidelines next Saturday it's Alabama, impressive 25-0 winner over Kentucky, against Tulane, which knocked Clemson out of the unbeaten group, 13-0, in the biggest Southeastern game. Others are Georgia, 14-13 winner over Auburn, against Florida. Kentucky-Georgia Tech, L. S. U.-Mississippi State and Vanderbilt-Sewanee.

In the Southern conference Duke, 41-7 victor over Georgia Tech, faces Davidson while Clemson tackles Auburn.

Southwest—Preparing for this week's decisive encounter, Texas A. and M. rolled over Arkansas 17-0 while Southern Methodist out-scored Texas 21-13. Rice, also unbeaten in the conference, beat Texas A. and I. 9-6 and may find it hard to stay in the running when it meets Arkansas, Texas and Baylor meet in the remaining game. Outside the conference, Hardin-Simmons plays Loyola at Los Angeles Friday night while Texas Tech is idle until next Monday.

Rocky Mountain Big Seven—It's anyone's race since Utah knocked off Colorado 21-13 to go into a tie for the conference lead. The ties play Wyoming Saturday while Colorado meets Missouri. Denver and Brigham Young, tied for third, play each other. Colorado State meets Utah State.

Pacific Coast—Stanford had to stave off late rallies to beat U. C. L. A. 20-14 but was clearly the better team. Washington may prove a tougher customer. Other conference games this week send Oregon State, 19-13 surprise winner over California, against Washington State, which beat Idaho 26-0; U. C. L. A. against Oregon, victor over Montana 38-0; and California against Southern California.

St. Mary's which whipped Portland 25-13 to remain on even terms with Santa Clara, 27-0 winner over San Francisco, among the big "Independents" plays Duquesne Sunday.

Aggies To Face Biggest Menace In SMU Saturday

By FELIX R. MCKNIGHT

DALLAS, Nov. 4 (AP)—Week after week the bulls-eye for inspired football teams, by Texas A. and M., the splendor of Southwest football, next Saturday meets the real menace of all this emotionally aroused opposition.

Since the timer's gun halted them on the Aggie goal line in the rain-splattered quagmire down on Kyle field twelve months ago, Southern Methodist has molded its 1940 season around the Aggie game.

The Methodists lost that game of games, 6-2. It was the last genuine threat the Aggies had before rolling on to an unbeaten season and the Sugar bowl triumph.

Now, these two teams meet up again. The scene hasn't changed much. Both are unbeaten—the Aggies working on a string of seventeen straight victories. Poise has carried them through a few tough spots. Actually, there has been little cause for distress—until now.

Weeks ago the available 25,500 seats at Owbby oval in Dallas were sold out.

Just a year ago, the Aggies were favored. Never have they been behind this season. Their line has beat back every man-sized threat. Their offense, from John Marion Pugh and his passing, Jim Thomson and his blocking, line backing and running; Derace Moser and Wild Bill Conatter and their fancy punt returning, is about the most solid thing in the section.

Frankly befuddled for the first time in their Saturday meeting with Arkansas, the Aggies came confidently back to punch the Mountaineers groggy with vicious tackling and running to win 17-0.

The Methodists showed they were not forgetting their knitting and looking too far ahead, when they shackled Jack Crain and Texas, 21-13. They made the Aggies quiver a trifle by getting 15 first downs to Texas two.

Two conference games are scheduled. Rice, shaking from the shock after beating Little Texas A. and I. 9-6 in the last two seconds, invades Fayetteville to play an Arkansas team that was great, except for fumbling, against the Aggies.

Texas, its dreams of a conference championship melting after two straight defeats, meets a good Baylor team at Austin—a Baylor team that caught Texas Christian with Kyle Gillespie at full blast for the first time this season and lost a tough 12-14 decision.

The Christians, expected to come back after the Tulsa beating and still far from out of the conference scramble with Gillespie ready to go, goes east for an inter-sectional date with Detroit—loser of its only game this season Saturday to Tulsa.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP)—Week's wash; White's handling out the postes, don't pass up Coach Homer Norton whose Texas Aggies have won 17 in a row. . . . Max Schmeling splited those rumors that he is in a concentration camp by broadcasting to the U. S. via short wave Saturday night. . . . Jimmy London, richest of the wristers, makes no bones about being plenty worried over his investments in Greece.

Nary a Wig-Wag
Carl Snavely sat upon the bench. And clutched his trusty papers; But that is all, for it's a cinch, He tried no funny capers.

Names Is Names
Georgia has a center named Passmore and a halfback named Dudish. . . . Utah's star back is named Speedie and Colorado State's full-back answers to the name of Dent. . . . Any more?

Today's Guest Star
Elliot Cushing, Rochester Democrat-Chronicle: "This is the best 'stay in there and keep punching' team I have seen under Carl Snavely at Cornell. . . . The Harry Greys of football, an old fight writer might term them. . . . They hit with blinding speed. . . . They seldom throw two successive punches in the same place."

Redskins Complete 14 Of 16 Passes
CHICAGO, Nov. 4 (AP)—The Green Bay Packers' famed passing attack is showing signs of falling apart, but the Washington Redskins are ready to take up where the national champions left off.

The Packers have plenty of scoring opportunities Sunday in bowing to the Chicago Bears, 14 to 7, while the undefeated Redskins were racking up their seventh straight triumph, 37 to 10.

The Redskins connected for 14 of 16 passes in whipping Pittsburgh, leaving them needing only two victories to clinch the eastern division title. Sammy Baugh tossed two touchdowns passes.

The Bears need only two wins to tie for the western title should the record of 37 set by the world champion Cubs in 1907.

Jap And U. S. Trade Missions To Arrive In Mexico Shortly
MEXICO CITY, Nov. 4 (AP)—The commerce commission of the foreign ministry reported today that two trade missions from the United States and one from Japan would arrive here within a few weeks. The American missions will be private. The Japanese group will be official.

Mexico City, Japan's growing steamship service linking Mexico with South and Central America was increased further today with the arrival in this Pacific port of the new steamer Nayo Maru, recently added to Tokyo's inter-American shipping lines.

Sammy Baugh Greatest Passer

Sammy Baugh

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Samuel Adrian Baugh is making his fourth season in professional football his biggest.

The Texas Christian product has pitched the Washington Redskins into the money game's No. 1 position in both standing and attendance. The braves from the banks of the Potomac went into the Pittsburgh party with six straight victories. . . . the only unbeaten club in the National League.

Samuel Baugh, in college and out—including the first half dozen games this year—completed 546 of 1128 forwards for a total yardage of 7054, or just 14 yards more than four miles.

Football men see in Sammy Baugh's performances a combination of sheer skill and imagination. The tricks he does to fake defenders out of position are remarkable to witness.

A good enough infielder to try out with the St. Louis Cardinals, he handles a football like a baseball. . . . better than any other man in the pigskin parade.

BAUGH'S FAKES SCATTER DEFENSE ALL OVER LOT
Such authority as Dutch Clark of the Cleveland Rams and such brilliant passers as Benny Friedman and Harry Newman, who starred in pro football as passers after writing history at Michigan, consider Sammy Baugh the greatest passer of all time.

Baugh brought into football all of baseball's pitching and catching moves to the bases. He has a change of pace.

When the six-foot, three-inch Texan takes throw, before pulling the ball back for his real loss, the defense usually becomes confused, not to mention hysterical. The defense never knows where he is going to hurl the ball, for Sweet Sammy of Sweetwater never first looks in the direction of the receiver who is to get the pass.

Baugh's running ability enhances his value as a passer. When Sling-in-Sam starts out as if to pass, then changes into a run, and back to motions as if to pass, the defense frequently is scattered all over the lot.

Baugh is one of the mighty few backs who throws accurately while running. He does not have to come to a stop and set himself.

If his receivers are covered, he often has a wide opening for a run. AMAZING QUICK KICKER'S PUNTS AVERAGE 48 YARDS

Baugh's punting average at the moment is 48 yards from the line of scrimmage. . . . the highest in the National League. He surprised the Detroit Lions with four quick kicks for 65, 68, 67 and 64 yards. His punts travel on a low trajectory. His accuracy is almost unbelievable.

Baugh is an excellent blocker and a stout defender. He has taken his place among the all-time greats as an all-around performer, but it is his amazing passing that will live in years to come.

"Make every pass so the ball will hit the receiver in the eye if he doesn't catch it." Coach Dutch Meyer once told the peerless pitcher at Texas Christian.

"Which eye?" asked Samuel Adrian Baugh.

Harmon Still Leads Scoring
NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP)—Though he enjoyed a day of rest Saturday along with his Michigan teammates, Tommy Harmon managed to cling to a slim lead in the national football scoring race.

The sectional leaders:

Peace Terms Sent To U. S. By Hitler, London Papers Say
LONDON, Nov. 3.—(Sunday)—London newspapers reported today that Adolf Hitler has sent his peace terms to the United States and one paper, The Sunday Dispatch, said they were:

"1. The British empire, being undefeated and unconquered, to remain as it is.

"2. Europe, being conquered by Germany, to be regarded as outside of Britain's sphere of interest."

The Dispatch said these conditions were delivered in Washington by the American embassy in Paris and added that Hitler is willing to "sign a 10-year non-aggression pact with both Britain and the United States" and to "agree to disarmament under 'conditions of equality' and 'making the status quo as the basis'."

Texas Highway 'On Display' Dec. 2-6

Special To THE NEWS

AUSTIN, Nov. 4 - A front-row seat will be provided Texans interested in seeing and studying the inner workings of the state's highway transportation system when it is spotlighted during Highway week, December 2 to 6, inclusive.

The main point of emphasis, during the week, according to an article in the November issue of Texas Parade, will be on the state highway financial picture with efforts concentrated on portraying to the public the vast amount of work that needs to be done on the highway system before it can be called "completed."

Through the press, public meetings and other agencies the Texas Good Roads association will inaugurate a campaign to educate the people on the needs of Texas' highway system," the article reports and draws attention to the fact that "this highway system now holds the spotlight as one of the key links in the chain of national defense that is being forged."

Texas highways thus will be called upon for heavy service when the rearmament program gets into full swing and the thousands of motor vehicles, motorized guns and infantry and supply lorries begin moving in large numbers.

"Estimates recently prepared by the Texas Highway commission," the article suggests pointedly, "disclose that it will require the expenditure of $68,000,000 to complete work on the existing state highway system and on extensions of the system now on file with the commission.

The average annual income to the highway department available from all sources for construction purposes for the past 10 years has been about $30,000,000. On this basis, it will require 16 years to do the job that needs to be done today to adequately serve Texas' growing needs in the motor transportation field."

Dies Says 3,000 Indictments To Be Returned Shortly

ORANGE, Nov. 4. (AP)—Rep. Dies (D-Texas), chairman of the house committee investigating un-American activities, predicted today 3,000 indictments would be returned throughout the nation against subversive groups within the next month.

The Texan said investigations of the committee would show "the Italian espionage and propaganda end of the story" more important than "the German end."

Dies said the committee had uncovered widespread activities of "Italian agents similar to evidence we recently obtained about German espionage which is now in the hands of the state department and the justice department."

Girl's Body Found In Shallow Grave

ALLIGAN, Mich., Nov. 4. (AP)—The body of 17-year old Eileen Darrow was uncovered in a shallow grave on a farm near here this morning after an all night search by sheriff's deputies.

Dale Darrow, 23, the young woman's estranged husband, is held in the county jail. Prosecutor Erwin Andrews said he had confessed he killed his wife during a quarrel last August.

The search for the young woman's body followed Darrow's appearance at police headquarters in Pontiac, Mich., early Sunday morning with a report that his wife had been kidnaped.

Both GOP And Demos Claim Next House

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4. (AP)—The big question mark hanging over the senate and house elections tomorrow is: Will the Democrats retain control of the house or will the Republicans take it over for the first time since 1929?

Both parties claimed to know the right answer.

Rep. Drewry of Virginia, chairman of the house Democratic campaign committee, predicted today there would be "very little net change" in the house membership. Claiming a possible net gain as high as 15 seats, he asserted house Democrats would come out of the election with an "absolute safe majority."

On the other hand, Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, house Republican leader and national committee forecaster, predicted a net gain of 60 to 75 seats with only 48 needed for a Republican majority of 218 of the total membership of 435. Martin probably would become speaker if his party should win the house.

The Democratic majority in the senate is considered safe. To gain control in that branch—49 seats—Republicans first would have to keep their present strength unimpaired at 24 seats by holding the 8 of those seats contested for tomorrow and then they would have to win either all the 25 Democratic seats at stake, or 23 of the Democratic seats plus the single Farmer-Labor and Progressive memberships.

Five of the Democratic seats in the senate is considered safe. To gain control in that branch—49 seats—Republicans first would have to keep their present strength unimpaired at 24 seats by holding the 8 of those seats contested for tomorrow and then they would have to win either all the 25 Democratic seats at stake, or 23 of the Democratic seats plus the single Farmer-Labor and Progressive memberships.

A total of 1,081 candidates are running for 467 senate and house seats—102 for 35 senate places and 979 for 432 house memberships.

The total senate membership is 96. Under the constitution, one-third of this number—32—comes up for election to full six-year terms every two years. Maine picked her full-term senator last Sept. 9, Ralph O. Brewster, a Republican, leaving 31 in this category for tomorrow's balloting.

In addition, four unexpired senate terms will be filled tomorrow.

The present senate party line-up is 69 Democrats, 24 Republicans, 1 Progressive, 1 Farmer-Labor, and 1 Independent. The 35 seats at stake tomorrow are now held by 25 Democrats, 8 Republicans, 1 Progressive, and 1 Farmer-Labor.

The existing house membership is composed of 258 Democrats, 107 Republicans, 2 Progressives, 1 Farmer-Labor, and 1 American Labor.

Only 432 of the 435 house seats are being voted on as Maine elected her three last September—all Republicans.

SERIAL STORY

GOAL TO GO

BY W. H. PEARS

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CHAPTER I

At three minutes of 10, Bill Mentor stripped off his white apron and dashed for the door of the drug store. Old Julius Peskin darted from the back room like a spider after a fly.

"So now, Mentor, you pick your own quitting 'no?' His dry, thin voice quivered. 'You're paid to work from 4 until 10, not when the spirit moves you.'

"But tonight's the first game of the season, Mr. Peskin. I'd like to see a few minutes of the last quarter." From nearly six feet up Bill watched the putty-colored bald spot on the little man's head turn crimson. "I've swept out and—"

"Snap things up in a hurry," Peskin grumbled. "If it wasn't for the ill-will I'd gain around the school, I'd yank my son Walton off the team and put him in your place here."

"Yes, sir," Bill said, edging toward the door. "It's 10 o'clock now, Mr. Peskin."

Peskin looked satisfied at having gained his rightful time, even in talk. "Go ahead," he snapped.

Bill was on his bicycle before the door slammed. He streaked through the clear autumn night, broad shoulders hunched over the handlebars, legs driving like pistons. Crossing Market street he saw a wide halo of light against the sky. He heard distant cheering and his heart leaped in response. The game was still on!

Bill sliced between parked cars, skidded to a stop. Inside City Stadium he could hear the rising chant of a "Yes-a-a, team!" Applause splattered, followed by the abrupt silence that precedes play. Running up the ramp, Bill caught a black glimpse of the scoreboard: VISITORS, 6; WEST 0!

Down on the cleat-chewed sward the West boys were in a huddle, their jerseys making a huge crimson blossom against the green turf.

"Bill, here I am!" Helen Welch ran toward him, waving. Her chestnut curls were windblown and adorned with a crimson ribbon to match her short skirt. Slim, eager, she said, "I was afraid you wouldn't get here."

"Me, too," Bill said with a grin. "Keepers, Helen, there goes a pass!"

It was a wobbly, erratic heave from Peskin. A Benton man charged in to bat it aside, but with a desperate lunge the West end grabbed it. He was knocked out of bounds on the Benton 25.

A deafening roar went up from the crowd. The band crashed forth in pagan triumph. Crimson-skirted cheerleaders spun around like dervishes, pounding the air with their fists, chanting, "We want a touchdown!"

"Oh, Bill!" Helen's eyes shone as she joined her voice to the pandemonium. She danced up and down, grabbed Bill impulsively and kissed him. "Bill, Bill, they're going to do it!"

"Gee . . . Bill stared at Helen, touching his fingers to his lips. "You . . . kissed me."

"Oh . . ." Helen's cheeks flamed. "I didn't mean to, Bill. Honestly, I—I was excited and . . ."

Her voice was lost in wild cheering as Hart, West's fullback, bucked the line for five. The timekeeper signaled three minutes to play. The Benton boys looked tired. Straight, hard smashes would do it, Bill thought, trembling.

"Drive!" he prayed. The mild fall wind struck icily across his hot forehead. He could almost feel the hard, taut leather in his big hands. If he could only be down there now, carrying the ball, or even running interference. Throwing himself into a sweet roll block, clearing the way for a West man to score, Boy!

Illustrated by G. P. Whitford

The West end grabbed the ball . . . was knocked out on the Benton 25. A deafening roar went up from the stands.

The Benton line held. It was last down with three to go. Landis replaced Peskin with Calvert. Hart took the pass from center, faked a thrust at the line and gave the ball to Calvert, who flipped it backward to the left halfback. Instead of racing to the right for a clear shot at the end, the halfback hurried the pass away and it went straight into the hands of a Benton man.

A low moan swept the stands. The band was silent, the cheerleader whistled and mute. Boos were heard as Benton froze to the ball for three plays, then punted out of danger. A moment later the timekeeper's pistol exploded.

AS Bill and Helen pushed slowly through the disconsolate crowd they recognized Pat Hurly, sports editor of the Daily Clarion, and heard him grumble, "That wouldn't have happened if Buck Mentor'd been coaching. What a time for razzle-dazzle!"

Wheeling his bicycle, Bill walked by Helen's side in silence. He thought of his father, sitting alone by the radio, and it made him unhappy. Why, Buck had forgotten more football than Coach Landis ever knew!

Helen said shyly, "I'm sorry, Bill."

"About the game?" She shook her head, blushing. "About what I did . . ."

"Gee, why, Helen? I—I—I—I mean I didn't mind."

Embarrassed, they said no more until they reached home. Bill hesitated at the Welchs' front porch. "Well, goodnight."

"Goodnight, Bill."

He started across the yard to his house, then stopped. "Helen . . ."

"Yes, Bill?"

"Well, I hadn't ought to say this, but I'm kinda low tonight. Would you want to . . ."

Helen's feet pattered down the steps. Her lips brushed his tense young mouth. "Was that what you wanted, Bill?" she asked softly.

Before Bill could reply she was gone. He turned thoughtfully homeward.

BUCK MENTOR sat in his invalid chair by the radio. On the table was his football notebook. A smile touched his gray eyes as he greeted his son.

"Tough one, huh, fellow?" "Plenty," Bill agreed. "Buck, what do you think?"

"Buck Mentor hunched his shoulders that seemed cramped by the invalid's chair, considered the question. Like Bill's, his hair was tar-black and cut crew fashion. His face was youthful, charged with suppressed energy. Only the shadowed, deep-set eyes told of his brooding. He was "Buck" to everyone, young or old.

"Bill, are you asking me to second-guess?" "You can tell me, Buck."

He nodded, thumbing the bowl of his pipe. "Look, Bill, somebody used bad judgment tonight."

"Coach?" "Buck shrugged. "If he ordered that play . . . which I doubt. That was a big-time razzle-dazzle. With plenty of practice a high school team might click it off, but . . ."

"That's what I thought."

"Bill, I wouldn't say this to another human soul. It would sound pretty bad coming from a man who was refused the job of coaching West. But if that play had gone off, the whole west side would be raving about Landis tonight."

Bill frowned. "You mean he was understating?"

"It's possible. But remember, the Benton line had held once and night again. Landis or Calvert merely chose the spectacular rather than the sound way of trying for those yards."

"BUCK, I heard Pat Hurly say we'd have won if you'd been coaching."

"Or, if you'd been calling the plays," Buck said softly. "Football needs boys like you, Bill. You've got the body and brains."

"Who taught me what I know?" Bill exploded. "And just let Landis boot a few more games . . ."

Buck dropped his hand to his son's shoulder. "We're not after another man's job, Bill."

"But, Buck, didn't the board say they might consider you?"

"Yes . . . Yes, they did." Eager glints jumped into Buck Mentor's eyes. "And I'd give my soul to tackle the job, Bill."

Civil Service Exams

More procurement inspectors are needed at the Air Corps, Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, for the following branches of inspection: Aircraft, engines, instruments, parachutes, aircraft propellers, and tools and gages.

The Civil Service Commission has been seeking experienced men for these jobs but it announces that a new type of position has just been added to those to be filled—that of Junior Procurement Inspector, $1620 a year. The upper grades pay from $2000 to $2600 a year. (All salaries are subject to a 3 1/2 per cent deduction for retirement annuity.)

For the junior grade, college graduation in engineering may be substituted for experience as follows: Graduates in aeronautical engineering will be eligible for aircraft, engines, instruments, and propellers; graduates in mechanical engineering will be eligible for engines, instruments, and tools and gages; graduates in electrical engineering will be eligible for instruments.

For the upper grades, mechanical experience, which may include apprenticeship, is required in the branch applied for except that the experience on engines, instruments, and tools and gages need not have been in aircraft work. In fact, for engines, mechanical experience on construction or machining of engines or as a machinist or toolmaker working to close tolerances using precision instruments or measuring devices will be acceptable. College courses in engineering may be substituted for a part of the experience for the upper grades.

Applicants will not be given a written test. They will be rated on their education and experience as shown in their applications, subject to verification by the Commission. This work is an important part of the National defense program. Apply for details to the Secretary, Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio;

Willkie Urges Law Against Third Term

By THEODORE F. KOOP
 NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP)—On the eve of the first presidential election in which a third-term bid has been made, Wendell L. Willkie proposed today a constitutional amendment limiting the service of any president to eight years or less.

Before making three last minute radio appeals to the American voters, the Republican nominee said in a statement that if the "common law against a third term be repealed" there would be no law to restrain President Roosevelt "or any of his successors, elected, hereditary or appointed, from an indefinite number of terms."

In another statement calling on all voters to take part in tomorrow's election, Willkie reiterated a declaration made to the Republican national convention and to Saturday night's Madison Square Garden rally.

"I stand before you without a single pledge, promise or understanding of any kind," he said, "except for the advancement of your cause and the preservation of American democracy."

This assertion was made, he said, "despite last minute rumors which counsel of desperation spread about me to mislead voters."

Willkie asked Americans to vote "to show the world the force and power of the free ballot in a Democracy dedicated to peace and progress."

Willkie is scheduled for three radio broadcasts today. The first, at 7:15 p. m. (EST) over CBS, is sponsored by the Associated Willkie clubs of America on the Kathleen Norris program.

Over the same network, the nominee will join his running mate, Sen. Charles McNary of Oregon and Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Jr., Republican national chairman, in a program from 9:15 to 10 p. m.

He will close his campaign in a program by the Associated Willkie clubs over all four major radio networks from 11 p. m. to midnight (EST). This program will originate from a Broadway theater (Ritz).

Willkie's statement suggesting a limited service in the presidency said President Roosevelt's Saturday night speech "frustrated" the old saying that an acre of performance is worth a whole land of promise.

"He echoed my very strenuous plea for unity," Willkie said, "but the echo came back thin and garbled by the interference of nearly eight years of discrepancy between his promise and his performance."

"Unity is not achieved by classifying as an evil force the millions of people who now support me. He further promotes discord by classifying among the evil forces, the leaders of labor, agriculture and industry, the former members of his administration and the men who are equally opposed war or any other road to dictatorship, such as the third term."

First Lady Must Wear 'Mantle Of Discretion'—Rita Weiman Declares

What sort of "First Lady" do Americans want in the white house? In the first of two exclusive articles written for NEA Service and The Pampa News on this argued question, famed writer Fannie Hurst voted for Mrs. Roosevelt on the basis of her widespread activities. Today she is answered by Rita Weiman, internationally noted newspaper woman, novelist and playwright. Miss Weiman prefers Mrs. Willkie, and explains why in the article below, second and last in the debate.

By RITA WEIMAN
 More words than any statistician could estimate have been used to tell the American people what kind of man this coming election must place in the white house.

A few words covering the essential qualities of the next First Lady should possess must, I believe be of equal interest to women voters.

Never before in the history of these United States has the wife of a president taken on a more difficult task.

As a public person, and equally as a private individual, every move she makes, every word she utters, will be examined through the magnifying glass of criticism.

Escaped Killer White Man And Not A Negro

An Associated Press story, with a Parchman, Kan., date, appearing in Sunday's Pampa News, had a special meaning for one Gray county man.

The story concerned Kinnie Wagner, who escaped from the Parchman prison farm after 14 years of imprisonment.

Headline of the story was "Notorious Negro Killer Escapes From Prison." This is incorrect, according to J. D. Redus, employed at the Pampa plant of the Phillips Petroleum company, 10 miles south of here.

Redus says Wagner is a white man, not a negro. He said he used to live in McLain, Miss., and was in that town on Christmas eve, 1924, when Wagner killed Sheriff Murdock McIntosh who sought to arrest Wagner in Greene county.

For this murder he received a life sentence.

Officers in Mississippi, Arkansas, and Tennessee, states in which Wagner has been charged with a total of five slayings, took up the alarm yesterday, but declared they had no clues.

Redus was acquainted with Sheriff McIntosh, whom Wagner shot. A native of Mississippi, Redus has lived in Gray county the past three years.

Typhoon Sweeps Guam Island

GUAM, Nov. 4 (AP)—Heavy property damage and ruined crops lay today in the wake of a typhoon which swept across Guam island yesterday but took no human life.

Striking this Pacific island outpost of the United States at 4 a. m. (12:30 p. m. Saturday, CST), wind which at times reached 110 miles an hour tore roofs from buildings and made 40 American families and three-fourths of the native ranchers homeless.

Berlin Denies Peace Move By Adolf Hitler

BERLIN, Nov. 4 (AP)—All talk of a new peace move by Adolf Hitler is "made in England," authorized German sources declared today, and is intended to influence the United States election.

Mention of the United States as a possible mediator is clear indication of such a trend, they asserted.

Considering the Axis' military and diplomatic situation, these sources contended, there can be no doubt whatsoever that it has no desire to offer England peace.

Physician Carrying Gun Meant No Harm Authorities Decide

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP)—A 78-year-old physician has convinced authorities he meant no harm when he moved toward Wendell Willkie Saturday night at Madison Square Garden with a loaded gun in his pocket.

The aged man, Dr. Union S. Ward, who wore a large Willkie button when arrested, was released in $500 bail on a charge of violating the Sullivan anti-firearms law yesterday.

Detectives reported the man's communication were not disclosed, but informed officials had the impression it dealt with the question of French "collaboration" with Germany, and possible aspects of that "collaboration" which might affect American interests, particularly disposition of French colonies in the New World.

Whether there was any link between U. S. naval activity in the Caribbean and the future of French possessions in that area remained a mystery.

Parties Battling For Cajun Vote

By EDMOND LEBRETON
 LAFAYETTE, La., Nov. 4 (AP)—The 1940 presidential campaign, raging in conventional phrases from Maine to California, has produced a new slogan in the French-speaking Evangeline country of Louisiana—"Allons Faire le Vieux Coc Orier."

In plain English, that's "Let's make the old rooster crow."

It's the keynote of a Bilingual campaign in the deep south section of this state, and it was coined by Louisiana's French-speaking Lieutenant Governor, Dr. Marc M. Mouton.

A strenuous two-party campaign in the third congressional district has been made since David W. Pipes, Jr., a lifelong Democrat, announced as a Republican candidate for congress.

Pipes is protesting sugar cane quota restrictions imposed on this sugar belt during the tenure of Henry Wallace, Democratic candidate for vice president, while secretary of agriculture.

He is opposing James Demengeaux, Bilingual descendant of the Acadians dispersed from Nova Scotia by the British before the American revolution, celebrated in Longfellow's "Evangeline."

Lieutenant Governor Mouton urges his "Cajun" listeners to stamp the Democratic rooster in tomorrow's election and make it "crow."

Governor Sam H. Jones, stressing party loyalty from the same platforms on which Demengeaux speaks, has stressed a few French phrases through his speeches.

He tells audiences of rice and sugar farmers, trappers and shrimp fishermen, "The first thing President Roosevelt asked me when I visited him in Washington was, 'How are my Acadian friends in Louisiana getting along?'"

Mexicans Expect Heavy Influx Of American Tourists

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 4 (AP)—Sources in the foreign office and the government's tourist bureau said today that information received from Mexican consuls in the United States indicated a heavy influx of American tourists would arrive in Mexico next month.

These sources said tourist traffic would pick after the inauguration December 1 of President-Elect General Manuel Avila Camacho which would finally convince citizens across the Rio Grande that there were going to be no revolutionary disorders in Mexico.

Master List Of Order Numbers Not Yet Received

Gray county marked time while awaiting the next step in the operation of the selective service act.

The master list of order numbers, from which the local board is to compile the list for this county, had not been received up to early this afternoon. It was due here today, according to an Associated Press story from Washington.

Meanwhile, every effort is being made to secure volunteers from Gray county. A report is to be made this afternoon on the total number of volunteers Gray county can furnish on the first call, November 19.

Applications are pending from six potential volunteers, and there may be others today.

Estimated state quota for the first call is 1,573.

Volunteers accepted from this county will be counted first, before the local board starts calling men to fill the county's quota, not yet officially designated.

'Doodling' Causes Laundry Boom

JOLIET, Ill., Nov. 4 (AP)—The nation's professional laundries reported today this year's election campaign brought a business boom to the industry.

The American Institute of Laundering said that the American habit of "doodling" on table linens at the thousands of campaign luncheons and in restaurants was the chief reason for the increase in laundry business.

Claremore Observes Rogers' Birthday

CLAREMORE, Okla., Nov. 4 (AP)—Claremore today set aside three hours in memory of her famous son—Will Rogers.

Scores of townspeople gathered for a pilgrimage at 11 a. m. to the native stone Rogers Memorial atop a hill north of here.

It was the observance of the famed humorist's birthday, and is to be made an annual event. It will include a barbecue at noon, a band concert during the early afternoon, and a review of Oklahoma Military academy cadets later.

"This is Claremore's own tribute to Will Rogers," said H. O. McSpadden, chamber of commerce president. "It will be a simple, sincere and respectful observance."

Nazi Warehouses Burn

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP)—A British broadcast heard here today by NBC quoted reports from Norway that "a whole string of warehouses, loaded with German army supplies, are already in ruins from a fire started in Bergen by Norwegians to obstruct the German occupational army."

HER CONDUCT IS CLOSELY WATCHED

The First Lady who enters the white house as its mistress in 1941 must fit herself perfectly to the mantle of discretion. Like a prisoner on trial, anything she says may be used against her.

We have a free press. No censors cut out the sting of rash statements by persons in public life. By the same token, the wife of the President must indulge in no reckless opinions, acts or affiliations. Whatever her temptation, she must never forget that she holds the greatest position of any woman in the world; a position far more important than the individual who occupies it. This requires a mind always on the alert; active every minute to sense when silence is the better part of valor.

Often she will have to hold back comments and opinions which might have unfavorable repercussions. No matter what the provocation, her will must never turn acid.

She must not lend her name to anti-social movements. However in personal her interest, such group movements may use the patronage of the wife of the President for purposes of which she cannot possibly have full knowledge.

She must keep in mind the fact that whatever her status socially, politically she is background. This does not imply that she must be a negative personality. On the contrary, she must keep informed on all questions of national import. Yet at no time throughout her years as mistress of the white house should she assume a voice in governmental problems unless called upon to do so by some crisis nobody can foresee.

Her charm must be like that of a garden, so that everyone who comes into her presence senses graciousness and fragrance. The thorns should never be more prominent than the roses.

She will have ample opportunity to commercialize her position. But each time she accepts a "job" that pays well, no matter how charitably she may apply this payment, she submits her acts to the columnists and cartoonists; and lampoons can destroy a national figure (when that figure is feminine) with aim as fatal as the most deadly lethal weapon.

A world ridden by fear and lashed by the whip of nervous exhaustion looks to the United States for rescue. The woman who stands at the side of our next President shares that responsibility.

SHE HAS NEVER PUBLICIZED HERSELF

We cannot definitely state in advance how Mrs. Wendell Willkie will fill the exacting position of mistress of the white house. But judging by past performances, it is
