Russia Reported To Be Objecting To Nazi Troops In Bulgaria

7 KILLED AND 9 INJURED IN AIRLINER CRASH

Yugoslavia May Resist German Army

Soviet May Have Decided To Turn Down Mr. Hitler

ANKARA, Feb. 27. (AP)—British and Turkish leaders were authoritatively reported today to have reached "full agreement" on problems affecting the Balkans and the eastern Mediterranean situation.

(By The Associated Press) Balkan diplomats heard today that Soviet Russia has raised objections to the passage of German troops through Bulgaria as dispatches from Belgrade said the Yugoslav general staff ordered a speed-up in defense preparations. Yugoslavia was said to fear now the German armies massed in Rumania might attempt to invade Greece through Yugoslavia instead of Bulgaria.

Yugoslavia's foreign minister, Aleksander Cincar-Marovic, was called back unexpectedly to Belgrade from Budapest, capital of Hungary, where he had arrived only yesterday to sign a Yugoslav-Hungarian treaty of friendship.

Diplomatic quarters in Budapest heard that his abrupt recall was connected with "impending events of importance between the Axis and Yugoslavia."

Diplomats heard that Soviet Russia, apparently after agreeing to German transit through Bulgaria, now had raised objections. Pitting into this picture of Yugoslav alarm was a report at Budapest, Hungary, that Foreign Minister Aleksander Cincar-Marovic of Yugoslavia had been called back suddenly from the Hungarian capital, where he had gone to sign a Yugoslav-Hungarian treaty of friendship.

Although no reason was advanced at Budapest for the abrupt recall of the foreign minister, diplomatic quarters heard that it was connected with "impending events of importance between the Axis and Yugoslavia."

Least the traditional protector of her "Little Slav brothers" in Bulgaria, Soviet Russia may have decided to stiffen her attitude toward a German thrust into Southeast Europe as a result of conferences now going on in Ankara, Turkey.

Sir Stafford Cripps, Britain's envoy to the U. S. S. R., flew to Ankara today as Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Gen. Sir John G. Dill, chief of the British Imperial general staff, conferred with Turkish leaders—presumably on moves to counter any Nazi attack on Greece.

Sir Stafford, it was believed, may be carrying news of Russia's attitude if Turkey should resolve to fight.

Relations between Britain and Bulgaria were further strained by the mysterious disappearance of a member of the British legation staff in Sofia, said to have been kidnapped by "Bulgarian police at the behest of the Germans."

In the Far East, Japan ordered her nationals to be prepared to leave French Indo-China and arranged to take what the Japanese press described as "appropriate measures" in the event of a breakdown in peace negotiations between Thailand (Siam) and Indo-China.

Domestically, Japanese news agency said a climax was expected within 48 hours, "with present indications not too optimistic."

Japan has been reported to have sought military and economic concessions from the French colony as the price for mediating the Far East dispute, and has massed warships in the area.

O'Daniel Asks Five Bureaus Be Merged

AUSTIN, Feb. 27. (AP)—Abolition of five state departments which deal with agricultural problems and consolidation of their functions under a state board of agriculture was recommended by Governor W. Lee O'Daniel today.

The governor also recommended industrializing the prison system by permitting convicts to produce goods for purchase by state institutions.

The recommendations were in two special messages delivered personally by the governor to the legislature, which was called suddenly into a joint session to receive them.

The departments to be consolidated under the plan are the department of agriculture, the state board of water engineers, the livestock sanitary commission, the game, fish, and oyster commission, and the soil conservation board.

Certain phases of work done by the state board of reclamation engineers transferred to the state land office two years ago also would be placed under the state board of agriculture.

The new board would be composed of five members who would select a state commissioner of agriculture.

The members of the board would be chosen by a state agricultural board of 31, elected under a system of precinct, county, and district conventions among farmers, perhaps as the state soil conservation board is now elected.

The governor said a prime essential to solving the problem of agriculture was to give farmers the control of that part of the state department which deals with agriculture.

He declared thousands of citizens living in cities vote for the agriculture commissioner at present although they are people who live in cities "know little, if anything, of the problems of agriculture."

"The office is right in the middle of state politics," he asserted.

"Being a good handsaker is a far better qualification for getting elected commissioner of agriculture than knowing the agricultural problems of the state," the governor said.

The governor expressed the opinion the prison should operate at a profit instead of a net cost of $1,500,000 annually.

He submitted bills which would authorize the prison board to bid upon contracts for binding, printing and stationery supplies for state departments and require state-supported institutions to purchase from the prison system all needed goods.

Ground Class To Organize Monday Night

A Civilian Aeronautic Administration ground school course will be organized Monday night at 7:30 o'clock in the high school building for all who made application through the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the CAA non-college flight training school for Pampa.

The ground school course will be directed by the Pampa school system, P. A. Hall of Pampa, a CAA certified ground school instructor, who also has 300 hours of flying time and a private pilot license.

Some of the Pampa schools believes enough money has been appropriated by the government to cover the cost of lights and janitor service at the school. But if more funds are needed, those taking the ground school course but not trying for scholarships will be charged a very small fee.

The ground school course is open to ANYONE in this section of the Panhandle. There is no age limit for the course but only young women and men between the ages of 19 and 26, who have passed the required physical examination, can compete for the free flight scholarship. Ten free scholarships will be awarded.

Deadline for medical examination is tonight, Dr. Malcolm R. Brown is the CAA medical examiner here.

The course of study will include meteorology, navigation and civil air regulations. A complete outline of each part of the course will be released tomorrow.

Japan Delivers Ultimatum To Vichy

TOKYO, Feb. 27. (AP)—Japan was reliably reported tonight to have delivered an ultimatum to French Indo-China, demanding that she accept Japan's "final" proposal of mediation in the Indo-Chinese Thailand border dispute by midnight Friday.

(When it is midnight Friday in Tokyo it will be 10 a. m. Friday, Central Standard time.)

The nature of the forceful "action" was not disclosed, but it was understood that the foreign office had notified Vichy that unless a favorable reply was forthcoming the matter would pass to the jurisdiction of military officers in the French colony.

Competent sources said the foreign office would accept no alteration of the Japanese mediation proposal and would extend the time limit only if it was satisfied that French colonial authorities were awaiting confirmation of their stand from Vichy and not "playing for time."

Germany Praised By Rotary Speaker Here

More control or more production were seen as choices the American people must make in order to adapt their economic life in order to survive. In the opinion of Ethan Colton of Upper Montclair, N. J., first speaker in a series of four lectures sponsored by the Pampa Rotary club.

Mr. Colton addressed a crowd of 400 persons in the high school auditorium last night, as the club's second annual institute of international understanding opened. Other speakers are to be heard at the same place on succeeding Wednesday nights.

Doubts U. S. Stamina "What's Ahead for Business, Agriculture, Labor?" was the subject of Mr. Colton's lecture, in which he analyzed Russian, German, and American economic systems.

He pointed out that labor and farm blocs are now strong in the United States, asked what we would do when money gets tight, and said if our financial structure was strained he doubted if America had stamina sufficient to withstand war, as we had not yet decided to tax ourselves to the hilt.

During the question and answer session that followed his speech, Mr. Colton was asked if he thought the United States would get in the war. He replied by saying he could answer that question only if he knew what was in the President's mind.

Expanding on this, he said it depended on how far aid to Britain was extended and whether the United States would go to war rather than see Britain defeated.

A chuckle rippled the audience as the speaker was asked, "What do you as an individual think of the Germans?" Mr. Colton said if he were a German he would regard them highly, but that as an American he was ready to take a gun if anyone tried to set up a similar system over here.

Analyses Regimentation — Regarding the industrial situation in America, he pointed out the question was how far we wanted to go in regimentation, where control extended and liberty ended.

Mr. Colton said capitalists might well know that even the Blue Eagle of the NRA was far easier on them than the Nazi, Fascist, or Communist systems.

He compared the organization of all German industry and business as a giant to which the Blue Eagle regulation was but a scratch on the surface.

Citing the present strength of labor, he said that the German system was a far more efficient one than ours.

He concluded his lecture with a warning that the American people must be prepared to make sacrifices if they are to survive in a world of increasing competition.

Rickenbacker Badly Hurt At Atlanta

14-Passenger Sleeper Bangs Into Pine Knoll

ATLANTA, Feb. 27. (AP)—Dropping away from a radio beam, an Eastern Air Lines plane ripped itself to pieces in a pine woods near here today, killing seven and injuring nine others, including famed flier Eddie Rickenbacker.

The 14-passenger sleeper banged against a wooded knoll shortly after 1 a. m. (EST) while attempting a beam landing after a storm from New York but searchers didn't find the wreckage until shortly after dawn when an injured passenger made his way to a phone to call for help.

Five miles from the airport and 700 yards from the nearest dirt road, rescue work was painfully slow and it was not until mid-morning that seven bodies had been removed from the smashed cabin and nine injured taken to hospitals.

At one time a division operations manager L. H. Pabst told newsmen that the death list was ten but a check of hospitals and undertakers showed only seven dead, although two or three of the injured were in critical condition.

Undertakers reported seven bodies brought in. Three of these were identified as those of the crew, Capt. James Perry, co-pilot, L. L. Thomas and Steward Clarence Moore, all of New York.

The other four bodies were those of passengers listed on the official EAL roster as: Earl R. Rosten, R. William D. Byron (D-Md.) of Williamsport, Md., B. C. M. Vanderhoop, Scarsdale, N. Y., Juan Maria, San Salvador, Central America, and A. Lebowitz, Atlanta.

A unidentified division operations manager was made difficult by the fact that they were dressed in pajamas, some of them having been asleep in the plane's berths.

Of the nine in hospitals, those in the most serious condition seemed to be Rickenbacker, who had a broken left leg and back injuries of undetermined extent; H. A. Littlefield, an assistant managing editor of The New York Times from Short Hills, N. J., whose injuries were not determined at once, and Mrs. Littlefield, J. S. Rosenfeld of New Orleans and N. Hansell of the Bronx, N. Y., both were able to walk away from the shattered plane, the former giving the alarm that brought searchers to the isolated crash scene which is about 5 miles southeast of the airport and some 15 miles from Atlanta.

Hansell also called help about dawn when he stumbled out of the plane.

Mitchell Takes Job At Marshall

Otus Mitchell, coach of the Pampa Harvesters for the last 13 years, today resigned the position to which he was elected yesterday after a one-year contract as head coach of Marshall High school. Marshall has a population of about 20,000, including negroes, but the school is about the size of Pampa's. Dick Dennard, former Pampa assistant high school principal, is superintendent of Marshall High school.

It is understood that he recommended Mitchell for the appointment and that the Marshall board elected the Pampa mentor without ever seeing him or conferring with him.

Coach Mitchell came to Pampa as head coach in 1928, from Stanton. Prior to that he was coach at Childress. In 1928 and 1929, the Harvesters competed in Class B football, during which time the team won nine and lost three in 1928, and won nine and lost none in 1929.

In 1930 the Harvesters entered Class A competition and made the best showing of any year, 11 wins against one loss. The loss was a 2 to 6 defeat in a mud battle in Amarillo.

During his 13 years as Harvesters coach, his teams won 82 games, lost 44 games, and tied five games. The school board will meet soon to pick a successor to Mitchell. It is understood that most of applications have already been received by the board.

Pampa Retains 25 Per Cent Fire Record

Fire Chief Ben White has received word from the board of insurance commissioners that Pampa has retained for the next 12 months the 25% good fire record credit.

The retaining of this maximum good fire record credit has been made possible by the small number of fires Pampa has had.

This means that Pampa citizens will again save from $6,000 to $7,000 on their fire insurance premiums.

The calves will be on exhibit at the Santa Fe depot before the arrival of the Fort Worth Goodwill train and will be paraded up Cuyler street at 8 a. m. with the Fort Worth crowd.

Judging of the calves will begin at 10 a. m. with Ernest Duke of Amarillo, one of the Amarillo Fat Stock show officials, doing the judging.

Prizes of nearly $100 will be awarded to eight of the top calves by the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.

The grand champion calf exhibit or will be paid $25, the reserve champion $15.

Hardin County Gets Closed Bear Season

AUSTIN, Feb. 27 (AP)—Colleagues raised eyebrows when Senator Allan Shivers of Port Arthur asked them to pass a house bill closing the hunting season on bear in Hardin county.

He assured them there were some bear in the county and they passed the bill. It wasn't brought out very clearly in discussion but the measure also closed the seasons for five years on fox, wild turkey and deer.

Carmony Reports 'Holdup' At Orange

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27 (AP)—John M. Carmony, federal works administrator, made public today a telegram to Mayor Abe Sokolski of Orange, Tex., in which he said that the price for land which the mayor had suggested for defense housing was the highest the agency had encountered anywhere in the United States.

Carmony proposed that the city donate that part of the site which it had acquired through tax delinquencies and that Sokolski "work with the owners of larger tracts with a view to bringing the cost in line with the needs of the national defense program."

Asserting that the navy had bought land at Orange for $500 an acre, Carmony said that when adjacent property was sought for a similar purpose "the asking price had jumped 60 per cent."

He added that a site which the mayor had said "would not be objected to for housing purposes is optioned at $1,932 an acre."

Dog Lover Offers To Adopt 'Killer'

FORT COLLINS, Colo., Feb. 27 (AP)—A Fort Worth, Tex. dog lover offered today to "adopt and reform" Burly, wily dog leader of a sheep-killing coyote pack who trapped himself in a fence yesterday and was captured alive after a month-long hunt.

William J. Elkin, director of Dogville, a Fort Worth haven for homeless dogs, telegraphed Deputy Warden Paul Wetzel: "Wish to renew my offer to adopt Burly. I am sure the necessary funds can be raised locally to pay the express costs."

Elkin last week had wired Wetzel an appeal that Burly, a big, gaunt dog of apparent mixed German shepherd breed, should not be put to death, a fate favored by ranchers northwest of Fort Collins, whose sheep flocks were raided by Burly's pack.

Wetzel said the decision of Burly's fate would be left to his captors, Frank Ulrich and Lee Carney, Fort Collins hunters.

Golf Course May Be Converted Into Landing Fields

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27 (AP)—Possible conversion of metropolitan golf courses into landing fields for warplanes is under study by the war department, authoritative sources disclosed today, as a part of general precautionary preparations for all emergencies.

An air corps board has been ordered to make an official survey of the golf courses in the vicinity of New York City, which number upwards of 200.

By chopping down trees, separating long fairways, and leveling elevated greens or bunkers, sections of golf courses might be made ready for quick conversion into sodded flat surfaces capable of accommodating many types of planes, airmen suggested.

In the New York metropolitan area, LaGuardia, Floyd Bennett, Newark, and other major airports might be congested in wartime and even subjected to bomb attack, and in such an event the army wants to have auxiliary facilities readily available.

One limitation on the emergency use of golf links was the fact that fast modern pursuit ships land at speeds upwards of 80 miles an hour and require long runways. Few fairways are as long as 600 yards, it was noted.

Officials familiar with the proposal stressed there was no intention to commandeer golf courses on a large scale, even if they prove adaptable, for such a program would be very costly. The New York area survey was believed the only one ordered.

New engineer units have been organized to serve directly with the air corps, and are trained to prepare emergency landing areas quickly.

Adventure In Everyday Life Girl Scout Aim

The ability to appreciate the drama and adventure of everyday life is the secret of youth and happiness. This is the belief of Miss Oleda Schrotky, national dramatics advisor of the Girl Scouts, who will be the principal speaker at the Kiwanis club luncheon at noon tomorrow and again at a program to be held at the red brick school building on the high school campus tomorrow night.

"We are endangering the native sense of drama in our children," she said, "by providing them with so many means of escape from daily routine. If they are bored with their school work, they can find other outlets for their imagination at the movies; if family conversation is without stimulation, they can turn on the radio; if there is nothing to do at home, everybody can climb into the family car to seek excitement elsewhere."

"We are no longer forced by circumstances to make the most out of the moment on hand. We can close our senses to the immediate situation, in anticipation of synthetic adventure."

The success of the Girl Scout movement, according to Miss Schrotky, can be attributed to the fact that it emphasizes the elements of fun and adventure in ordinary everyday activities. Children have a sense of adventure and their learning is essentially new and thrilling, from the first step to the first bear.

Auxiliary Essay Winners Named

Winners in the essay contest of the ladies auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, which ended Saturday, were announced today.

First place went to Marlene Berry. Jane Hatfield was second, and Maxine Holt, third.

All three of the winners are girls, all are 16 years old, and all are seniors.

The contest was on the writing of an essay of from 500 to 1,000 words on "One Nation Indivisible." Local auxiliary units will submit the best essay to state headquarters, where in turn the best will be chosen and turned in on a national contest.

There were 18 essays written here in the contest, which was open to high school students. Mrs. Bertha Chisum was the chairman of the local committee, and essays were turned in to Miss Margaret Jones, head of the English department of the local high school.

Literary construction, interest aroused, and originality of thought was the basis on which the essays were judged.

Miss Berry, winner of first place, takes an active part in physical education courses and volleyball playing. The pep squad is the principal activity of Miss Hatfield, winner of second place, while music is the chief interest of the third best essay writer.

Miss Holt, is an outstanding musician, and plays the piano for the a capella choir.

Prizes will be awarded each of the winners by the local VFW auxiliary. Winner of the state contest will be among those eligible to compete for prizes in the national.

161 Traffic Deaths In Texas During January

AUSTIN, Feb. 27 (AP)—National unrest and defense activity share the blame for a record traffic fatality of 161 in January, State Police Director Homer Garrison, Jr., opined today.

The January record tops that of all other months and exceeds that of the same month last year by 32 per cent.

Garrison said 18 deaths—nine, soldiers, one sailor, and eight civilians—were directly connected with defense activities.

Monthly Social Meeting Of B-PW Held This Week

SLNDERIZING JACKET DRESS

PATTERN 8886

A dress that's complete in itself and smart for general wear. A jacket that transforms it into a street ensemble. And both carefully styled, accurately sized, to fit large sizes perfectly. All that, surely, is a good deal to get in one easy and inexpensive home pattern. Yet that's just what you get when you send for this one—No. 8886. That high-cut front panel has a magically diminishing effect upon your waistline and hips. Beltless, to accentuate height, the dress is gathered for correct fit over the bust. Broad shoulders give a slim look, too.

The jacket, made with pleats drawn in by a tie-belt at the waistline, opens in the front to show the crisp frill and buttons that trim the frock, with a charmingly soft, somewhat formal effect. Silk print, flat crepe or sheers are smart for this.

Pattern No. 8886 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50, 52. Size 38 requires 7 3/4 yards of 39-inch material and 1 1/4 yards of ruffling to trim the dress.

For a PATTERN of this attractive model send 15c IN COIN, YOUR NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER, and SIZE to The Pampa News Today's Pattern Service, 211 W. Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill.

World Day Of Prayer Will Be Observed Here

Tomorrow the women of Pampa will join with women all over the world in the observance of the World Day of Prayer.

The day should need 40 hours to round out its cycle instead of the usual 24 hours, for tonight as we shall be going to bed, our prayer will be dawn in Honolulu, where Hawaiians, Chinese, Japanese, Americans, Spanish, and English will meet to pray for peace between their homelands. Then far to the north, only 30 miles from the Arctic circle, the World Day of Prayer will end on the St. Lawrence Island, where the Indians and Eskimos have been frozen in since last October.

The service in Pampa will be held in the First Baptist church, beginning at 10:30 o'clock with prayer and meditation. Women are asked to take their own paper sack lunches and remain for the noon fellowship period which will be followed by a business meeting of the Pampa Council of Church Women and an address.

The offering of the day will be sent to the offices of the National Committee of Church Women and will be divided between four projects sponsored by that organization. Christian magazines, books, and gospel pictures are now going into the hands of our church members, telling the story of Christ for us because of our World Day of Prayer offerings. Two hundred girls graduate each year from the union Christian colleges in China, India, and Japan, becoming teachers, doctors, nurses, and social workers in the kingdom of God come closer because of their zeal.

World Day of Prayer offerings have opened 60 Christian centers in 15 different states of the United States where thousands of homeless and friendless migrants have been given homes through this practical helpfulness. In five of the government Indian schools the offering helps to maintain a program of religious education in charge of a special director who counsels and guides the student as well as makes his adjustments in a civilized and sophisticated world. In these World Day of Prayer offerings are lifting the barriers to that God's kingdom may come on earth.

Every woman in Pampa, whatever race or religion, is invited to take part in this service.

Modern Study Club Has Program On Art

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
MIAMI, Feb. 27—Art in decoration was studied in a meeting of the Modern Study club when they met in the home of Mrs. Hood Willis recently.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Thomas O'Loughlin, presiding, and introduced Mrs. J. B. Saul who was guest speaker for the evening. Mrs. Saul, who is a local artist of some note, spoke on the subject, "Pictures On My Wall."

"Pictures will give more character or vitality to a room than anything else that goes into it," said Mrs. Saul. "To give a room distinction choose a picture and use it as the key to your decorative color scheme."

She warned the members against choosing a picture for the home simply because it is a masterpiece, or because it is expensive. "The personal element must enter into your choice of pictures to hang on your wall. It must satisfy you."

Then she emphasized the proper grouping of pictures and gave suggestions.

The speaker told about the new Gelatone prints. This method is supposed to produce the most perfect copy of the masterpiece that has yet been discovered. Four men worked 16 years to perfect the process. They are reasonable in price, anyone may have a Gelatone print.

In conclusion, each one present discussed her favorite picture, some of them on display.

Skellytown P-TA Has Founders' Day Program

SKELLYTOWN, Feb. 27—In observance of National Parent-Teacher Association Founders' day, a program was given at the school auditorium.

Several numbers by the "Rhythm Band" were played, accompanied at the piano by Miss Ann Sweatman, and a song, "Uncle Sam" was sung by the boys sextette. Several numbers were given by the girls sextette, with Miss Sweatman at the piano.

Mrs. H. C. Boyd, president, introduced the speakers of the evening including Mrs. W. Purviance of Pampa who gave the devotional which was taken from Joshua and Revelation, and Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar, also of Pampa, principle speaker of the afternoon, who gave a brief history of the P.T.A. and discussed the objects of P.T.A.

Mrs. Hunkapillar stressed the importance of parent education, and asked the question, "Where are we going?" Study groups are very important, stated Mrs. Hunkapillar, there we can discuss intelligently our problems together. She gave the following quotation, "What we do speaks so loudly, what we say can't be heard."

Following the program the group retired to the cafeteria where tea was poured from a lace covered table, centered with a crystal bowl of greenery flanked on either side by lighted candles. Presiding at each end of the table were Miss Lillian Davis and Miss Oia Mae Roberts. Various shaped sandwiches, individual cakes iced in white and topped with a cherry and nuts were served.

Rotary Club Program Varied On Anniversary

Observance of the 36th anniversary of the founding of Rotary International and introduction of the first speaker in the second annual institute of international understanding were twin features of the Pampa Rotary club's regular weekly luncheon at noon Wednesday.

Introduced was Edhan Colton of Upper Montclair, N. J., who last night in the high school auditorium delivered the first in a series of four lectures. His subject was "What's Ahead for Business, Agriculture and Labor?"

In connection with the anniversary program a transcription was played in which Poul Harris, Rotary founder, was impersonated in an interview on Rotary objectives.

Joe Cargile, Junior Rotarian for February, made a talk on "What I Have Gotten Out of Rotary."

A humorous recording connected with C. P. Baker's trip to Washington to see King George VI and Queen Elizabeth was played. Visiting Rotarians were Ed S. Stewart, Abilene, Asberry A. Callaghan, Panhandle, Jed Rix of Fort Worth, representing the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, Clayton Heare, Shamrock, and A. A. Meredith, Amarillo, WPA district director.

Other guests were Jack Goldston and C. P. Jones, both of Pampa, and J. N. McGill, of Tulsa.

Caravan Of Trucks 60 Miles Long Will Transport Troops

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27. (AP)—A caravan of army trucks 60 miles long will transport more than 10,500 men of the 45th division from Fort Sill, Okla., to their new station at Camp Barkley near Abilene, Tex., next Friday, the war department announced today.

More than 1,400 vehicles will be used in the 223-mile trip, which will be made in one day.

The 45th is a national guard division of troops from Oklahoma, Arizona, New Mexico and Colorado. It was sent first to Fort Sill, but the camp near Abilene was set up after the army decided that the water supply at Fort Sill was insufficient for an indefinite expansion of that post.

The 10,500 men to be moved Friday comprise most of the division. Housing for troops at Camp Barkley consist of 4,628 six-man tents with steel bracings and wooden floors, and heated with gas stoves.

On the early season form shown by veteran moundsman Mel Harder may well rest the success or failure of Cleveland's bid for the American League pennant. Here the slim right-hander works out with a medicine ball in the Indians' camp at Fort Myers, Fla.

A "lipless language" is spoken by the North Carolina Cherokee Indians, since few of their words require the lips to come together. Cullasjee, Hivawsee, Jumaluskee, Tuckassee, and Nantahala are typical words in the language.

Citizenship Recognition Day

Every year about two million young men and women reach the age of 21, and thus become full-fledged citizens and voters. Every year thousands more become citizens by naturalization, and this year the number will be exceptionally large.

The naturalized citizen is required to learn at least some outline of what it means to be an American citizen. But the millions of native-born young men and women who achieve citizenship merely by being born and staying abroad for 21 years often are not taught even these basic elements.

It is something to be a citizen of the United States. The Apostle Paul, arrested in connection with a riot in Jerusalem, was able to tell the centurion proudly, "I am a man . . . of Tarsus . . . a citizen of no mean city," and demanding to be heard. So the men and women of the United States are citizens of no mean country, and they have every reason to wear their citizenship proudly.

So, a few years ago, certain people conceived the idea that this precious citizenship should not be assumed lightly or casually, but with solemnity, and after preparation for its responsibilities.

The movement grew, and this spring Citizenship Recognition Day is going to be more impressive than ever. The date, the third Sunday in May each year, has been set by congress in an effort to create a nation-wide ceremonial. Previously groups in different cities held their exercises at different times. Adoption of a single official date makes possible arrangement of a national broadcast, perhaps including an address by the President.

More and more communities are joining in the work each year. They form classes prospective citizens may attend, in which a background on the meaning and responsibilities of citizenship, as well as its privileges, is presented. State universities, with Wisconsin and Illinois in the lead, have prepared extension courses for new voters. The U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service, the National Education Association, and many other organizations are co-operating.

Plans are under way for the most impressive ceremony ever held to demonstrate on May 18 that Americans are growing more conscious of both their rights and duties implied by becoming "citizens of no mean country."

Only The Beginning

The very small extent to which selective service has as yet affected the United States is well known by the official figures on the army released by the war department.

Of 887,000 officers and enlisted men, only 128,000 thus far have come into the service via selective service. The regular army, 454,000, and the national guard in federal service, 223,000, are all volunteers. So are the navy and marine corps.

Surely never in peacetime have anything like so large number of young American men voluntarily entered the armed forces. It speaks well for their ability to understand the need, and their willingness to do what need requires.

These figures also make it clear that the raising and training of a mass army has scarcely begun. This first mobilization is merely the advance guard; it is to the army the United States can raise if it must, what the famous German "army of 10,000 sergeants" was before Hitler launched his "all-out" armament drive.

Behind The News

By PETER EDSON

The Pampa News Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Unpatriotic and sordid rumors have from time to time circulated maliciously to the general effect that all government reports are dull reading and fit only to give employment to the people who carry out waste-baskets.

Exceptions have been made for the government weather report, which furnishes the day's chief item of conversation; the crop reports, which help the farmers and facilitate speculation and gambling on the grain exchanges; and the daily treasury balance, which has been a great boon to the numbers racket.

But by and large, no government report has ever been a best-seller, and as substitutes for bedtime stories, a government report is no good because, if read aloud to any unsuspecting child, it might put him to sleep all too permanently.

"MISCONDUCT" MISLEADING

All this slander is unfortunate indeed, for some of the most solid reading in the world can be found in these mimeographed and printed paperbacks, and as exhibit A in proof thereof, your attention should be called to one of the latest hot numbers, just issued by the Social Security Board. The title—but don't let it scare you—is "Unemployment Compensation Interpretation Service, Benefit Series, Vol. 3, No. 12."

Well, anyway, "U.C.I.S.B.S." for short, is a great human document to rival "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and "Grapes of Wrath," and the chapter you shouldn't miss is titled "Misconduct."

Now we're getting somewhere.

It's a shame to spoil the build-up this early in the review, but the truth is that this isn't the kind of misconduct you were hoping it might be.

There is no preface, but the Social Security Board people explain that the purpose of this pamphlet is to spread around, among state unemployment commissions information about typical cases that other states have held hearings on, so the other states will know how to deal with such cases if they should arise at home.

The cases reported are interesting for two reasons:

Common Ground

By R. C. HOILES

This column contends there can be no satisfactory compromise until we measure the merits of each man by the common yardstick of the God-given equal right to create and enjoy anything anyone else has a right to create and enjoy.

ENGLAND'S MOVE TO COMMUNISM

For sometime people with foresight and who have carefully studied the European war, have been saying that England would crumble from within because of their socialistic ideas and their radical labor leaders, educators and preachers.

The fact that Bevin, head of the labor movement in England, has such power over Parliament is the strongest kind of evidence of the trend away from free enterprise in England. All of these labor leaders have been predicting a new form of society in England after the war. They never say what kind of a society it will be or by what mathematical rule or principle it will be governed.

This rapid movement towards state socialism or a communistic government is now evidenced, as never before, by a convention held in England on January 12 of this year attended by 2000 delegates from all the radical organizations of Great Britain.

The program was announced by Denis Pritt, a lawyer educated at Winchester, one of England's most exclusive schools, and former associate of Sir Stafford Cripps, now Britain's ambassador to Russia. In commenting on this, William R. Hearst, in the Los Angeles Examiner of February 18, has the following to say:

"The program provides specifically for taking over all banks and land transportation facilities, and all big industries by the government—for the liberation of India and for close cooperation with Bolshevik Russia.

"Thus war sows the seed of which Communism is the crop.

"And if America goes into this war we will be fighting mainly to make the world safe for Communism and the United States safe for totalitarianism."

In the same issue, Mr. Hearst gives the names and affiliations of the radical group signing this movement. It requires better than three columns of signatures. Most of the signatures are men associated with some labor organization, college or church.

Mr. Hearst has rendered a very valuable service to his fellow-Americans by devoting the space to making this movement public and giving the names of those who are sponsoring state socialism.

With this kind of a prospect facing Europe, it seems most absurd for people in the United States to be joining such a government when the aspirations of the English people seem to be so opposite from the laws of equal freedom on which this country prospered.

When your friends advocate the Lend-Lease bill, call their attention to the fact that they are, in reality, allying with very radical elements, when they are giving assistance to England.

EXPLAINING LABOR AND GOVERNMENT

I have read many pages on what the government should confine its objectives to, but I do not believe I ever ran across anything that so concisely describes what labor is and what the objectives of the government should be better than was written by Emerson when he was attempting to get Lincoln to emancipate the slaves. He wrote:

"Labor: a man coins himself into his labor; turns his day, his strength, his thought, his affection into some product, which remains as a visible sign of his power; and to protect that, to secure that to him, to secure his past self to his future self, is the object of the government."

Would that the American people recognized this limitation of government and also recognized the right of each man to the fruits of his labor!

DESCRIBING GOD

One of the shortest and best descriptions of God that I have ever run across was written by Emerson. I quote:

"God is God because He is the servant of all." This means that God is a universal God. He does not show favoritism. He is immutable. He is eternal.

"All" is a description that might be regarded as mathematical; and servant means that He has respect, regards, esteem, love for all mankind.

If we could realize that God is God because He is the servant of all, we would be less inclined to want to control the rest of the world by tariffs and immigration laws and by wars.

Truly, God is a servant of all.

First, because they are marvelous revelations of the things that worry poor, unfortunate little people when they do something dumb and get fired for it. There's the pathos.

Second, because they are an amazing confession of the extent to which the great United States government has had to step into the private lives of even the most unfortunate of citizens, to print books of case histories about their tough breaks and the errors of their ways. Furthermore, it's a confession of the shame of State governments, that they must hold formal hearings, take testimony just like a court, and make hard work and official decisions and findings on situations they shouldn't be bothered with. There's the pity.

BEERS OKAY— BUT NOT FEEDING

A few excerpts of these official decisions will give you the idea of what important things government is concerned with today, and just how much of Solomon's wisdom a government commissioner must possess to make these far-seeing and history making rulings:

Florida. Misconduct case 1225. A warehouseman who partook of two or three bottles of beer while not on the job, held not guilty of misconduct connected with his work.

Kansas. Misconduct case 1390. A member of a family in which a feud existed, who participated in encounters between members of the family on the employer's premises, held guilty of misconduct.

Missouri. Misconduct case 1230. A claimant who aided fellow employes in taking gasoline from the premises of the employer, held guilty of misconduct even though he did not profit by his actions.

New Jersey. Misconduct case 1310. An assembly line worker who lost his head and struck the "pusher," held not guilty of misconduct when the "pusher's" conduct provoked claimant's action.

West Virginia. Misconduct case 1380. A stockroom clerk who slept while on duty without reporting to the employer that he was ill, if such were the case, held guilty of misconduct.

Well, there's the government for you, and this brief glimpse may give you a few ideas about what goes on, which you may not have suspected. Also, there's a government report, should such classics be thrown in the waste-basket

MARCH

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON

NEA Service Staff Correspondent HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 27.—Of all the trolls, zombies, hobgoblins and ogres to be found under damp stones and in various positions of authority in Hollywood, none is more dreaded than the incompetent, officious producer who goes around sabotaging the best efforts of able employees just so he can show 'em who's boss.

Yet the movie colony rather cherishes a few such characters because, after all the tears and travail, they're good for a lot of laughs. Hollywood loves to laugh at its own traditional idiocies and extravaganzas, and a new producer story spreads around the town as if broadcast by short-wave or projected by telephatic witchcraft.

I've been hearing lately about a new producer who is fantastically ignorant of movie-making methods that he has reduced his staff and players to helpless hysterics. Trouble started early when he found some painters working on a section of what was to be a huge semi-circular backdrop of leaden sea and lowering clouds.

It looked pretty dull and monotonous—which was precisely the effect desired—but the big boss seemed to think the painters were just trying to do the easiest job, indignantly he ordered 'em to put in something that would show better on the screen—a few scudding white clouds and some streaks of light on the drab sea.

The craftsmen didn't argue. Next morning the company stared flabbergasted at the new scenery. There in the middle of an evening storm was a great patch of azure sky and sunshine.

SHOOT IT! EVEN WITHOUT LIGHTS YET

One day the producer wandered on the set and began telling the director and cameramen that a certain shot should be made in a different way, from a high angle.

The photographer protested that it would take a lot of time to try it and that such a shot couldn't be properly lighted. "Then shoot it without lights!" roared the executive. "But do it like I said!"

Another technical matter that bothered him was the position of a ship which had been built on rockers and seemed to be too high above the waterline in the background scenery. Nobody could explain to him that when the camera was elevated everything would look all right.

Later in the day, when only workmen were on that set, the big boss had the ship lowered according to what the photographer had said. It couldn't be rocked or even photographed, and another day was lost while it was put back in its original place.

SABOTAGE? NO, JUST ROUTINE

Even the average movie fan knows hits there are occasional scenes in which only the action is filmed, with sound effects and dialog dubbed in later. But this producer, so help me, hadn't heard of the method. There was a storm sequence in the picture requiring a lashing gale, and naturally they didn't want to record the blustering roar of the airplane engines which turned the fans to kick up the big wind.

The movements of some of the players on the set had to be timed to fit the dialog they were supposed to be speaking. So an assistant director stood behind the camera and read all the lines into a microphone. Next morning the producer went to see the rushes, heard a mna's voice apparently coming from the lips of the heroine, and burst out of the projection room with murder in his eye. He thought someone was plotting to ruin his picture.

One day the so-called executive noticed an order going through for a lot of scenery to be painted in oil, and he changed it to water-color paint with the idea of saving money.

People You Know

This one gladly turns this pathologic love tangle over to the psychiatrist in Ward No. 17.

THE PATIENT

By Madame Stella

As Lloyd sat waiting for his wife's return he reflected on the depths of his degradation. His wife was undoubtedly in love with his doctor. He was utterly dependent upon them both. His doctor for the treatments which kept him alive, and Eudora for reaching such satisfactory relations with his doctor that the very expensive medicines would keep coming without money. But what could he do with a spine practically paralyzed and a mind that even yet wandered in and out of consciousness. He could never feel any unkindness towards Eudora, who was always so tender with him. Whatever she was with Dr. Matteroff it couldn't be like that.

And the doctor knew his business. Without him, Lloyd knew he would sink back forever into those dim caverns of unconsciousness. And conscious and unconscious, those two had been near him, pulling him out of the darkness by ether will. Together, going and coming, talking in the hall, in the doctor's office, in the doctor's car, going and coming together. Now was this game of broadcasts. Whenever Eudora kept a rendezvous she said she was going to broadcast her little piece, and bring home some nice money. "You wouldn't like it," she said, and that was so he wouldn't ask questions. She knew that he knew it was a game, a tactical way of excusing herself to meet Dr. Matteroff. . . . Oh, to get well again, to keep the consciousness of all that Eudora had done for him, to work, to pay back to the last cent all Dr. Matteroff's bills, and then stick a knife in his treacherous heart. . . . From a neighboring apartment the too loud radio blared. "Once again we bring you that bundle of cheer, that basket of flowers, Eudora with her bright message of cheer for the sick in hospitals." Then there was Eudora's gay young voice encouraging, joking, wishing, praying for them all. Then it was no game. Eudora was earning money. There was no necessity for her being so gracious to Dr. Matteroff if she had money to pay him. Eudora had betrayed him! . . . Lloyd was sinking again. But before he went he'd find a knife. They kept going and coming, in and out of his room. Eudora and the doctor holding hands, laughing together, meeting in the corridors after they left him. And he thought it had not been for love! The knife, where was the knife. . . .

HIGHLIGHTS FROM LATEST BOOKS

By JOHN SELBY

"THE BATTLE FOR ASIA," by Edgar Snow; (Random: $3.75). Edgar Snow has brought the story of China down to date in a book which is quite as good a job as his "Red Star Over China," and in some ways better. The title is "The Battle for Asia," and for once it is exactly descriptive. Not many book titles are.

There is no space for an outline of the first and larger part of the new book. This covers the period since 1937, a time in which China has suffered a number of body blows which might have killed a more closely knit organism, but from which the Dragon has recovered with amazing speed and cleverness. The story has forced Mr. Snow into a bout of fact-gathering which certainly must have been exhausting. He has, as any reader can see for himself, come through it all with his personal viewpoint still clear.

Then, in the last pages, he goes down to suggestions. I do not know enough about Oriental politics to know whether these are feasible, but I do know that most of them sound that way.

Mr. Snow suggests, after due preparation of his thesis, that the United States at once withdraw all her army and naval forces from China, give up her extra-territorial rights, and with all possible noise and speed negotiate a treaty with China on a basis of entire equality. This would, he thinks, be followed by a British action of the same sort. Immediately the minor powers with special privileges in China would be forced to do likewise. The United States should then, Mr. Snow believes, negotiate with equal speed and no less friendship pacts with Britain and the self-governing dominions—Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and probably with the Philippine Commonwealth as well.

This, he believes, would politically disarm Japan and the Axis in Asia, especially if coupled with fresh bold action along economic and political lines designed to widen the democratic front. Japan is, at present, desperately anxious, Mr. Snow thinks, to get out of its Chinese entanglement, and Germany is anxious to get her out, so that she may hit back Britain, and the danger of a Chinese peace which would isolate China from the democratic powers is great.

TEX'S TOPICS

By Tex DeWeese

THERE'S something about getting away from the daily silt for a couple of days that's refreshing. That's what we are plotting to put into effect beginning tomorrow. . . . Well, we have just finished going 'round and 'round with the man who makes out the income and defense tax bills. . . . Have you filled out yours yet? . . . This is by way of reminding you that March 15 is the deadline and you may as well do it now.

Wouldn't it be nice if you could leave the income tax blank that way? Prison doors opened for three Nebraska men who stole $800 worth of musical instruments. Probably belonged to a robber band. . . . The hardest time for a man to get up in the world is every morning. . . . It'll soon be time for you to decide where you're going on your vacation beside broke. . . . Three cheers! A Portland stick up man got a dose of his own medicine. He was stuck up for 10 years.

BACK in the days before the World War there was a song which began, "When you see a tulip, a sweet yellow tulip. . . . Well, that's all over. . . . They're drinking tulips now in Holland, and perhaps in Germany, too. A private letter from a great Dutch tulip-grower recently revealed that he had lost a million bulbs of his 1933 crop are now being treated for use as a coffee substitute. . . . Whether the Germans are taking the coffee from the Dutch and leaving them their own tulip-bulbs to drink is not made clear. . . . Possibly all central Europe is now drinking tulip-bulbs and acorns as their first installment of the great new era promised by their conquerors.

Many of the younger married sets seem attracted by the idea of having their children born in certain months; in periods with favorable astrological signs. Some young people also think children born in certain months have a better chance of living longer. Our belief is importance of what month a child is born in is much over estimated. Longevity is said to be largely a matter of heredity. . . . In our opinion, success in life is a combination of heredity, youthful upbringing, hard work, environment and luck.

TENNYSON'S prophecy in "Locksley Hall," where he spoke of "the nations' airy navies grappling in the central blue," has frequently been quoted in the past year, especially since the skies have "rained" a ghastly dew. Now another remarkable bit has been translated from Thomas Gray's Latin poem, "Luna Habitabilis," by the London Times:

The time will come when thou shalt lift thine eyes To watch a long-drawn battle in the skies.

While aged peasants, too amazed for words, Stare at the flying fleets of wondrous birds, England, so long the mistress of the sea, Where winds and waves confess her sovereignty, Her ancient triumphs yet on high shall bear, And reign, the sovereign of the conquered air.

GRAY had just turned 21 when he penned these lines in 1797. Between the quoted stanzas, the poet spoke of a day coming when the moon would be colonized, and said the British would get there first. It was a day of imperial ambition, so significant at the verses today, however, lies chiefly in the final reference—a situation which the gallant R. A. F. have brought about over Britain and may yet extend to the continent, with the aid of American-made planes.

Another Italian loss cropped up in an unexpected spot yesterday when the British occupied the island of Casterosso, close to the Turkish coast and the easternmost of Rome's strategic Dodecanese islands. Casterosso is a seaplane base.

It wouldn't be surprising to see the British try to take over more of these Italian islands. They would be of vast military value if the Germans struck through Bulgaria at Greece or Turkey. Possession of Casterosso would be of great assistance in an attack on the other islands.

Such a move would be popular with Turkey which long has been anxious about these Italian bases right up against her coast. When I was in Turkey a couple of years ago I found the Turks gawky suspicious of Mussolini, believing he had designs on their Anatolian territory.

THE WAR Today

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The bloody clashes between the police in Nazi-occupied Amsterdam, Holland, and Dutch "disturbers of the peace," is perhaps the most important of the big news events of the past 24 hours.

Its significance lies in the fact that it is the rash which tells us of a malady that is taking hold on Europe—a growing opposition to the overlordship of Germany. We don't hear much of this, because of ear and censorship, but if you watch carefully you will see that it is there.

Thus far the occupations have been accepted in most countries with a smouldering, passive resistance, but in many cases this has broken out into active opposition to the Nazi conquerors. Undercover sabotage and refusal to cooperate with the German administration long has been apparent in numerous countries—namely Poland, Czechoslovakia, Norway, Holland, and France.

Much more sensational would seem to be the announcement that German troops are in action in Italian Libya and have clashed with the British south of Bengasi. Still, I personally can't give that high rating in military importance at this juncture. The fascists have made the most of news, presumably to cheer up the Italian public. But the German communique recorded a "skirmish" between German and English motorized reconnaissance squads. In other words there has been a small spat among a handful of men.

There has been no indication that the Germans have managed to smuggle any large number of troops through the British blockade. No threat has appeared thus far to the very strong British position.

Whether the moral effect on the Italian people will go remains to be seen. They may raise the question as to whether the appearance of Germans to bolster the fallen fortunes of the great Marshal Graziani doesn't in effect write the epitaph of Italy's African empire.

Certainly they will have further food for reflection when they learn that the British have captured Mogadiscio, capital of Italian Somaliland, thereby apparently gaining control of the whole big territory. This is the first entire colony to be claimed by the British.

'What I Owe To America,' Theme Of Morse Student's Speech Here

That America is a way of life, as well as a nation, was the theme of a speech by LaVerne Henderson, Morse High school student, one of two orators who addressed the Pampa Jaycees at the organization's regular weekly luncheon at noon Tuesday.

The other speaker was Scott Shamlhorst of Borger, whose subject was "What is Democracy?" Both students represented their schools in the Jaycees Top O' Texas Americanism contest.

Speech of the Morse student, titled "What I Owe America," follows:

America Defined

"Just what is America? We all know that it is a government, a people, and a continent, but is that all America is? According to many peoples view-points, this is as far as their definition reaches, but as I look back through history for a definition, I find that the pioneers' dream extended far beyond the frontier; that Abraham Lincoln's vision reached far beyond the government views; and Walt Whitman, an American poet of the 19th century, heard "America Singing," but his eyes saw more than just a people's voice. We may conclude, then, that America is not only a nation, or a people, but also a way of life.

"We who live in America have been born and bred to the ideas that we are a free people, and that we are entitled to freedom of speech, and freedom of worship. America developed because these customs were forbidden in the old countries.

"To this great nation, full of opportunities and blessings, we owe numerous debts and obligations.

Utilize Security

"My first important debt to America is to utilize the gift of security. America has instilled this gift in us giving us protection and defense against ignorance, which is the main basis upon which the dictators build. Therefore, we find ourselves indebted to America for teaching us to read and to write. We are obligated to do something constructive and profitable with our education.

"If it has prepared me to be a farmer, or a wall street broker, then by all means, I should raise fine wheat, or make my fortune in stocks. America has invested these years of schooling in us to prepare us for living. Isn't it up to us to utilize this gift of security to our fullest ability?

"America is rich! I say this because we know that America has a tremendous amount of natural resources—many still unexplored. We may say that America has invested them in us—her youngest generation. Our forefathers failed to utilize this great gift therefore, their failure is a stinging challenge to us, and one we must not ignore.

The Helping Hand

"Everyday we read about war-torn Europe and of people dying of starvation. We Americans are sympathetic with them, but can we afford to send food to them while thousands upon thousands of our own children are suffering from malnutrition? We must not let such wealth as lies in our national resources be idle while we can use it to such an advantage.

"Our democracy is threatened! I believe it is up to the youth of America to save her from a terrible ordeal. We young people certainly do not want a totalitarian state. When we see what horrors and grievances Europe is suffering from, we want more than ever to guard and protect America against such happenings. To do this we must acquaint every young American, as well as some of the older ones, with the true value of democracy.

"How can America expect us to be loyal to her when she neglects to teach us how, why, and what to be loyal to? In our history we have studied the problems and difficulties of the past, but we find little of present-day disturbances. America's future lies at stake. It is up to us to guard this precious future and to make her secure from any form of a government other than that which is based upon the principles of democracy.

"Being a democracy, the governments' problems are directly the

Colleen Contest Feature Of Irish Fete At Shamrock

SHAMROCK, Feb. 27.—One of the big features of the annual St. Patrick's Day celebration in Shamrock on March 17 is the selection and crowning of the winning colleen of the event with the title of "Irish Rose."

This year's colleen contest promises to be the best yet with a number of beautiful girls from neighboring towns and communities entered. Dr. L. A. Wood, state superintendent of public instruction will crown the winner with appropriate ceremony. She will be presented with a trophy and $20 in trade at local stores.

The young ladies will ride on floats in the parade and will be entertained at luncheon by the 20th Century club. A tea will be held in the afternoon immediately after the crowning ceremonies at Denver field and the visiting young ladies will be entertained in the evening at one of many dances.

The colleen contest has proved very popular in the past. Miss Lee Fender of Pampa was selected as the "Irish Rose" of the 1939 event and Miss Opal Tedder of McLean won the award in 1940.

Twenty three young ladies have already signified their intention of participating in this event and several towns have not decided as yet who they will have to represent them.

peoples' problems. If we refuse to face them, we are letting our heritage down. Many people often make the mistake of letting such seemingly minor events as called town meetings or county meetings go by without participating in them.

"They fail to recognize the importance of these minor affairs. Here is the chance America gives us to help form her policies and measures; she will do her share by transforming the ideas into action. If we fail to answer her needs—we, not her—suffer the consequences. It is our duty to help meet America's problems. We owe America our complete cooperation.

"If I repay America for what she has done for me, I should be a good citizen and do everything necessary to perpetuate the principles of democracy as has been so nobly exemplified by our forefathers, who fought and died that American principles should live; I quote from the American creed: "I, therefore, believe it is my duty to my country to love it, to obey its laws, to respect its flag, and to defend it against all enemies."

11 FIGHTS ON TOMORROW NIGHT'S BOXING CARD HERE

Wellington To Bring Ace Plains Boxers

Eleven fast boxing bouts will be staged in the high school gymnasium here tomorrow night when Pampa Harvester and Wellington Skyrocket mitt artists sling leather in the first home appearance of the Pampa team, coached by Oscar Hinger.

The bouts will begin at 8 o'clock. Admission will be 25 cents for students and 40 cents for the general public. Judges will be Dan McGrew, Paul Hill and the third yet to be named. The referee has not been selected.

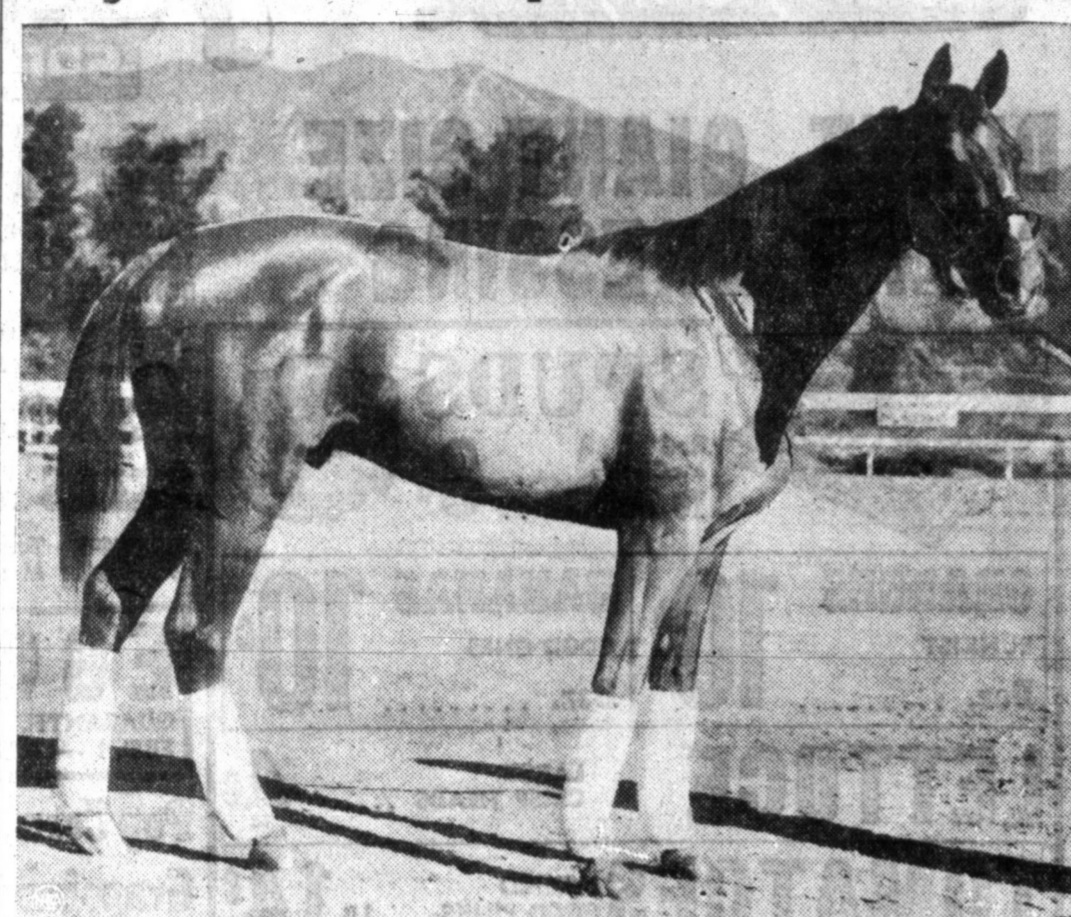

Two weeks ago boys belonging to the Future Farmers of America club boxed Miami FFA boys here in a torrid bunch of fights, that were real crowd pleasers. But only two of the Pampa boys were on the regular boxing team.

All weights from 65 pounds up to 165 pounds will be contested in the battle Friday night. Wellington will bring the team that won their own invitation tournament two weeks ago. Pampa and Amarillo tied for second place.

Pairings have not been made because the Wellington coach has not sent a list of his boxers to Coach Hinger. However, Coach Hinger knows that Smith, 85 pounds, Cook, 125 pounds, will be here. Thompson is the boy who won the middleweight championship in the Children's Golden Gloves tournament.

Representing the Harvesters will be: Billy Stevens, 65; Vance Vogle, 75; Johnny Campbell, 85; Billy Glise, 95; Murray McPherson, 95; Everett Sparks, or Richard Stephens, 105; Clyde Small, 115; Bert Isbell, 125; Herndon Sloan, 136; Roy Ray, 145; Lefty Pendleton, 155; John Cornett, 165.

Sons' Victories Spotlight The Porter, But Siring Winners Isn't Novelty to 26-Year Old

Porter's Cap, most famous racing son of The Porter, framed by the Sierra Mountains at Santa Anita.

By ISI NEWBORN

NEA Special Correspondent

Down on the bluegrass farm of John Hay Whitney near Lexington, Ky., stands a 26-year-old stallion. The Porter, serenely unaware that he has suddenly become one of the most talked of horses in America.

On far-flung circuits of winter racing, sons of the Porter scored brilliant victories within a few days of each other in the earliest important stakes of the year. And already their venerable daddy, one of the oldest thoroughbreds of prominence still alive, is well on the road toward becoming the champion sire of 1941.

On Feb. 12 his 3-year-old son, Porter's Cap, out of a mare possessed by the startling name, The Blonde, pulled away in the stretch to win an easy four-length victory in the $62,475 Santa Anita Derby.

Three days later at Hialeah, another of The Porter's boys, Haltal, out of a mare named False Modesty, romped to an easy triumph in one section of the $10,000 McLennan Memorial Handicap, regarded as the preview of the $50,000 Widener Cup, March 1.

PORTER'S CAP NOW A KENTUCKY DERBY THREAT

Porter's Cap is now the leading candidate for the 3-year-old championship of 1941, the leading money-winner thus far, and one of the favorites for the Kentucky Derby, May 3. And C. S. Howard, the present owner of Porter's Cap, paid only $1,300 for the colt at the Saratoga sales of 1939.

As for Haltal, a 4-year-old colt, he is easily the most improved horse of the winter season and leading contender for the Widener and other rich events of the handicap division.

Because of excess entries, the McLennan was split into two divisions, but Haltal, owned by Royce G. Martin of Toledo, whipped the toughest group and hung up the fastest time.

The Porter's rise to the top as a sire this year is all the more remarkable because of his advanced age. Older than even that great patriarch, Man o' War, the Whitney farm's ace stallion has enjoyed a full life spanning a period, which began before the nation had begun to take notice of a husky Boston pitcher named Babe Ruth, or had even heard of a fighter named Jack Dempsey.

At the Porter's age, horses aren't expected to produce top-notch offspring.

DISTANCE RACES WERE THE PORTER'S FORTE

Foaled in 1915, a son of Sweep-Ballet Girl, The Porter proved a classy campaigner. The records show he started 54 times, won 26, placed 10 times, showed on eight occasions and finished out of the money only 10 times while earning $73,866. This was consistency of the highest order.

He won, among other races, the Inaugural Handicap at Latonia in 1920, the Havre de Grace Handicap in the same year, and was second to Jack Hare, Jr., in the Preakness of 1918. In the 1920 Frontier Handicap in Detroit he finished behind Slippery Elm, but defeated the great Exterminator for the place.

Distance races were The Porter's forte and he was equally adapted to fast and mud going. The racing historians point out that his lifetime earnings as a racer might have reached considerably higher figures but for the fact his campaigning occurred during the lean war-time and early post-war years.

The old fellow's stamina has been

Henry Picard Planning To Retire Soon

By LARRY ROLLINS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 27. (AP)—Henry Picard, a former National P. G. A. champion and a top-line golfer for years, is planning semi-retirement from tournament competition at the height of one of his greatest scoring sprees.

When Picard shot a five-under-par 66 yesterday to lead in the $5,000 St. Petersburg open, it marked his seventh consecutive round as front-runner of the professional brigade.

He began his spurge in the last two rounds of the Texas open, won the New Orleans open with a record 276, and resumed here after skipping the Thomasville, Ga., tournament.

Subject to a change of mind, Picard plans to leave the tournament circuit after the St. Augustine pro-amateur March 13-16. He will take over his new duties at the Twin Hills club in Oklahoma City April 1, and thereafter expects to play only in the National Open, the P. G. A. championship and perhaps a couple of other tourneys annually.

Preferring the stability of a teaching profession to the tournament grind, Picard resigned his present post at Hershey, Pa., where Ben Hogan will take over. Hogan, conversely, hopes to change will permit him to continue playing the full tournament schedule.

Picard led a corps of 35 paracrackers into the second round of the St. Pete open today, but the pack was close on his heels.

Billy Disch To Retire As Texas Baseball Coach

By FELIX R. MCKNIGHT

DALLAS, Feb. 27. (AP)—Gently, without the dramatics of forty fabulous years that made him a character baseball won't forget, a tired, old man slips into the evening of his career.

Gaunt, silvery-haired W. J. (Uncle Billy) Disch won't coach the University of Texas this year.

A great heart that has pounded to many a diamond thrill since the century's turn, is tired.

Uncle Billy, the 66-year-old "boy" who only a couple of seasons ago, it seems, was still showing the kids how to steal second and hook slide into third, must obey his heart's wishes, the doctors say.

So the master of all college baseball, the sly fox with squinting eyes who could tell a baseball player by the way he dialed a telephone, won't be around for his 32nd year at the helm of Texas University baseball teams.

The announcement came quietly. It simply said that Uncle Billy would "have assistance this year from Bibb Falk."

Uncle Billy will huddle with Falk, but the giant Texan who is one of his most noted graduates into major baseball annually will handle the team on the field.

Back in 1920 Uncle Billy sent out Bibb Falk to make his way in major league baseball. He was the smoothest ball player the Southwest conference had ever seen. For 15 years Bibb Falk played with the Chicago White Sox, had a brief turn with Cleveland, managed at Toledo, and then came back to Texas.

Last season Falk actually did the field work as Texas won its 21st title in 26 conference campaigns.

That is the record that Uncle Billy has compiled. Nowhere in collegiate athletics can there be found a record to equal it.

Over the years the Old Fox, a great pal of Connie Mack, has produced nine that walloped the daylights out of the touring major league and Texas league clubs in spring games.

He gave the majors Falk, Frank (Pinkie) Higgins, the Detroit Tiger third baseman who was the hero of the 1940 world series; Ernie Koy, the Brooklyn outfielder, traded to the Cardinals; Oscar Eckhardt, perennial minor league batting champion, and a flock of others.

Now he has his prize pupil. Never has he had a ball player, Uncle Billy says, with the natural ability of Pete Layden.

But he's worried about his clouting outfielders. Pete, you know, is also the star of the great Texas football team—the man who fathered that stunning 7-0 triumph over the all-powerful Texas A&M Aggies last Thanksgiving Day.

Uncle Billy, it is whispered, thinks football is just a game to ruin good baseball players!

Babe Hunt Loses

OAKLAND, Calif., Feb. 27. (AP)—Babe Hunt, kingpin of Texas heavyweight couldn't handle Eddie Blunt, New York negro, here last night, losing on a technical knockout in the sixth round of a scheduled ten-round bout.

Many ancient Romans of that time believed that the comet of 44 B. C. was sent to convey the soul of Julius Caesar to its final resting place.

During a recent year, England produced 17,286 new books, as compared with 10,812 produced in America at the same time.

Low Jenkins 2-5 Favorite Over Ambers

By BILL BONI

NEW YORK, Feb. 27. (AP)—A lean guy up from Texas, with sagebrush for hair, slabs for ribs, and rocks in his fists, will go into Madison Square Garden ring tomorrow night bound and determined to show he's one man who can lick Lou Ambers and make it stick.

The lean guy with the perpetually hungry look is Low Jenkins, who learned about mules in the army and since has been demonstrating on assorted lightweights how hard mules can kick. Jenkins does this with his fists, and did it so effectively last May that it took him less than nine minutes to knock Ambers' lightweight crown right off his head.

This time there will be no title at stake, since Ambers, who has grown a bit, will come into the ring at about 138 pounds. But Jenkins is anxious to prove that all good things must come to an end some time, the good thing in this instance being Ambers' record of never having been licked twice by the same man.

The boys who bet apparently cent's see how Jenkins can lose, for they've made him a 2 to 5 favorite. In fact, there seems to be hardly anyone who sees how Jenkins can lose, except Ambers, who couldn't be expected to see things that way except under pressure. Ambers, in fact, insists one reason he lost the first time is that Jenkins tagged him two beauties after the bell ended the second round.

Just what Ambers' tactics will be is something that's puzzling the combers along Jacobs beach. The one-time herkimer hurricane has lost a good deal of velocity, and lost with it most of that bouncing, bounding style that used to make him the little man who wasn't ever where you expected him.

From Lou's training camp comes a hint he's going to turn slugger—will come in flat-footed and flail away. They say that in his bootless amateur style that used to make him the little man who wasn't ever where you expected him.

In that case, it's likely to be one of those "Hold your hats, boys, here we go again" things, for if there's anything Jenkins likes better than an elusive target, it's one that comes right at him.

Tiger Contract Balm For Hank's Draft Wounds

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, Feb. 27. (AP)—Hank Greenberg was still pretty peeved about the whole draft business today, but he felt a little better generally after taking a look at his brand new contract and discovering the juicy raise the Detroit Tigers were giving him for his baseball services.

However, Hank's Pankus, like the baseball world in general, and the Tigers in particular, was still all up in the air about just what baseballing he'll be doing before the army calls him. Growling all over the place, he arrived home last night as sore as an open wound about (1) The statements that he had asked deferred classification in the draft and (2) the publication by a Detroit draft board of information in his draft questionnaire which he said was supposed to be confidential.

The big fellow came in by airplane at the end of a trip from Honolulu on which he was stopped "every ten minutes" to explain the whole thing, and he was mighty put out about it. It definitely wasn't the usual colic home-run ace.

"See, anybody'd think I am the only guy going into the army," he told baseball writers. "And I don't know a thing about it. All I know is when my number is called I'll go, and I'm not asking, deferment. For any more dope, you'll have to ask that draft board in Detroit. They're making a statement every day, and every one seems to be different."

He understood, he added, that his number was 621 and that the Detroit board had reached No. 300 in calling the boys in, so he probably wouldn't get the signal until about June.

DRAFTED FOR LOVE

BY RUTH AYERS

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY April is seriously ill with flu for several days. She was exhausted, almost and pneumonia. Mother and Dad return care for her; the boy friends fill her room with flowers. But the emptiness in her heart remains.

NO WORD FROM KENT

ANN RETURNED the next day, sweet-faced, saddened. From her room upstairs where she sat bolstered in pillows, April heard the first greetings in the hall.

Ann was saying with a catch in her throat, "You're such darlings. I can't tell you how happy I am to be home. It's better than being a prima donna."

She was all sympathy and kindness to April. "I'll be a Nightingale one way or another," she smiled. "Wait until you see how I'll nurse you, April. It doesn't seem right for anyone as gay as you to have your wings clipped."

"It isn't my wings," April managed to grin. "It's my hoof."

In those first days of Ann's homecoming, April was beside herself to know the news of Kent. Had he written to Ann? Was he ready for the operation? Had he told Ann at last what had happened to his eyes?

Because she feared a word or a look would give her away, April kept silent, taking refuge in long periods when she stayed with her eyes closed, pretending sleep.

Mother guessed nothing. She beamed because April's ankle was improving; she sparkled at having Ann back from New York. "It seems like old times to have my two little girls with me again."

April caught herself studying Ann one day. If there were such a thing as great sorrow purifying one's face and features, this had happened to Ann, she decided.

Her sister's hair was still mole color, worn in the same simple style; her features quite as indelicate. But there was something close to beauty in her pallor and the gentle brown eyes.

That day, April almost spoke aloud to Ann. "What do you hear from Kent?" she wanted to say, but she kept her lips tight.

It wasn't until Ann had been home a week that Kent's letter arrived. Without preamble Ann began, "Did you know when Kent was home on leave that he had been temporarily blinded in an accident at camp?"

"Why-why, yes, that night I met him at the train, I knew."

"You should have told me."

"It was the night before your audition with Vivano. I was afraid it would upset you."

April had kept her head down. Now panic rose. If she acted self-conscious, ashamed, Ann would think she was guilty. So she met Ann's eyes with a defiance she didn't feel.

Ann stared at her with the same brown eyes, the same outwardly gentle expression. But behind it all, April felt a steeliness, the first hint of suspicion.

"If I'd known Kent needed me," Ann was saying, "I would have come home from the ends of the earth to be with him. Never forget that, April."

AFTER that, the Burnett house quieted down, outwardly serene and at peace. But a change had taken place, something deep and under the surface. Octavia sensed it, even though she kept grinning her marshmallow smile every time she laid her eyes on "her little lamb." Nip was aware of it and took to prowling in the rooms and spending long times curled up beside April.

April herself probably expressed it best on the first day she took a few wabbling steps around her room. "I'll have to get going," she said to her mother, who was busy sewing on something white and frilly for Ann. "This house is wearing me down. It's too quiet—like doom was going to crack one of these days. Besides, I'm fast going out of circulation. Look at my room. Why, when I was first sick, I was smothered in blooms. Every time I looked up, love had sent another gift of roses."

Mother smiled and pointed to the blue vase which brimmed with fresh yellow tulips. "Hal Parks has been faithful," she reminded April.

"Hal? Oh, yes. The constant suitors."

"He telephones religiously to learn how you are and wants to be your first visitor."

"Yes?" April's mouth twisted into a ghost of her old-time smile. After awhile she said, "You might tell him he can have that honor. I'll be all set to see him in a week or so."

She turned to her mother. There was this question, this all-important answer she must have before she could pick up her own life and go on. It had to do with Kent Carter.

"Mother, does Ann say how Kent Carter is?"

Mother looked up quickly and then bent to her work. "Ann is so shy," she sighed. "So reticent about talking of anything which she feels deeply. But there was a letter from Kent yesterday from which she read me parts. Surgeons have operated on Kent's eyes."

April was standing at the window. One hand reached forward and clutched the cretonne drape for support.

"Was—the operation a success?"

"It won't be known until the bandages are removed."

SO the days went by, in a lovely dazzle of blue ice and spangled snow. What April had said jokingly about being out of circulation, was turning out to be more fact than fun. No more "Sorry to learn you're sick" cards; no more flowers except those from Hal. Even the telephone was silent.

"It doesn't take long," April brooded, "for boy-friends like mine to forget."

A party girl, a glitterbug, the belle of the town when she could dart about, but nobody when a game ankle kept her house-bound. When she fussed at the mirror, it even seemed as if she looked different, older.

She started knitting for the Red Cross to pass the hours; patiently hemmed small garments for war refugee children.

Then one night, Hal Parks paid his long awaited visit. He stood in the door of April's room, dark, debonair, with the clipped mustache which made him, outwardly, so much of the man-about-town.

Absurdly, April felt her eyes filling with tears. Dear Hal! He was the stand-by, the devoted one. She stumbled to meet him, grateful for the haven his arms promised as they enfolded her.

Injured Girl In Her 63rd Day Of Coma

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 27. (AP)—The almost imperceptible flutterings of an eyelid was all that marked Miss Ruth Stevenson's battle for life today as the 22-year-old victim of an automobile accident entered the third month of her strange coma.

Temple university physicians believe the 63-day coma resulting from an injury constitutes a record. One physician said the longest previous period of coma from an injury was 29 days.

The attractive young brunette has lain unconscious at the hospital since last Christmas eve. A machine in which she was riding crashed into a pole, killing the driver and injuring her so critically that physicians feared she would die within a few hours.

Surgeons, who have operated on her brain twice when her condition became serious, explained her deep unconsciousness is not to be compared to sleeping sickness. In the latter case, patients have been known to remain unconscious for much longer periods.

Miss Stevenson's insensibility is so deep, they said that no anesthetic was necessary for the last operation.

Britain Extracts Promise From Spain

LONDON, Feb. 27. (AP)—Britain today announced a provisional agreement under which Spain has promised to refrain from fortifying the Tangier international zone.

Spanish troops occupied the international area flanking the Strait of Gibraltar last June 14 "to protect its neutrality." On Nov. 4 the Spanish military official took "full charge" of the zone, ousting British employees.

R. A. Butler, under-secretary for foreign affairs, told the house of commons that, under the provisional wartime agreement Spain had promised to compensate the dismissed British employees "on a generous scale" and said the British institutions there should be safeguarded. Both nations reserved claims for later discussion.

In return, Butler said, Britain recognized "the special interest of the Spanish government in the Tangier zone."

Hearings On Tax Measure Concluded

(By The Associated Press)
AUSTIN, Feb. 27 (AP)—Quietly and without fanfare, a legislative sub-committee labored today on the most vital issue of the session—a tax bill.

Thunderous controversy was sure to greet the proposal when it reaches the house of representatives floor some two or three weeks hence. Not since 1936 have taxes been boosted by the legislature. The lawmakers refused to increase levies in two long sessions and a short one since Governor W. Lee O'Daniel, who has fought unsuccessfully for higher revenues to pay bigger old age pensions, aid to the blind, aid to dependent children, teachers retirement and other governmental functions, asked for upwards of $50,000,000. Others contend $15,000,000 would suffice.

The bill, which may be an omnibus proposal upping levies on oil, gas and sulphur among other things, will be discussed and possibly amended by the 21-man committee on taxation before reaching the house floor.

The committee yesterday concluded a series of public hearings on bills which would tax a variety of sources, including picture shows, cigarettes, insurance companies, transactions, gross receipts of wholesalers and retailers, new automobiles, utilities companies, corporation franchises and gasoline processing. In addition, a state net income tax has been mentioned.

Sulphur company representatives at the final hearing, objected to bills increasing the tax on the yellow chemical, now $1.03 a ton, on grounds it would not be fair to load a bigger burden on one industry than on others.

Attempting to curb drunken driving, the house passed by an

Possibility Of Oil Under Texas Field Discussed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27 (AP)—Naval officers testifying before a house appropriations subcommittee for $12,954,000 additional funds for the Corpus Christi air station predicted that even more money yet would be sought for the Gulf coast project.

The flying school was authorized originally as a $25,000,000 project, just a year ago. That sum was calculated then to complete it.

Questioning by a committee member brought out that of the $12,954,500 appropriation, $328,100 was expected to be spent for purchase of 3,390 acres of farm land.

A witness told the committee that recently the question of oil under the main base field had arisen and that a justice department agent had investigated. To determine a policy to pursue in future condemnation suits.

"There is always a question on Texas land as to whether there is any oil under it or not," the aide testified, "and I think on the main base field (the agent) convinced himself that there is a question of oil."

"If we keep fee title to the sub-surface rights of that property we probably will eventually have to pay for the oil. So I think it is the intention to modify the petition to eliminate the oil estate."

"And just condemn the surface?" asked another committee member.

"Yes; and just condemn the surface," was the answer.

Labor Boss Plans To Cooperate With Resident Camacho

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 27 (AP)—Fidel Velazquez, former milk man who soon is to become boss of Mexico's greatest labor union, made it clear today he planned to guide it along a course of cooperation with the more conservative regime of President Manuel Avila Camacho.

The GTM (Confederacion de Trabajadores de Mexico—Mexican Confederation of Workers) always has had a keen sense of the realities and an understanding of situations," he said in an exclusive interview.

Velazquez has been endorsed by leadership of the GTM to succeed Hery, Vincente Lombardo Toledano.

The 6,000 delegates representing 1,300,000 members of the GTM are now holding their annual congress here.

Hazing Unbearable At Texas A. & M.

AUSTIN, Feb. 27 (AP)—A charge that hazing at Texas A. & M. college was almost unbearable was made in the house of representatives today.

Rep. J. A. Benton of Wylie made the charge during floor discussion of a bill authorizing the school to borrow $1,000,000 from the RFC to build dormitories. The money would be repaid by income from the dormitories. The bill passed, 106 to 19.

"If they don't stop hazing down there," Benton roared at Rep. W. T. McDonald of Bryan, who was explaining the bill, "they are going to have a lot of empty buildings."

"Conditions are almost unbearable," he asserted. "My boy couldn't stand it and had to leave. I know of others who had the same experience."

McDonald replied there was a state law forbidding hazing and he knew of no conditions at A. and M. such as Benton described.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 27 (AP)—The judge of Mexico's first criminal court, Luis G. Corona, quashed today all treason actions pending against partisans of General Juan Andreu Almazan, defeated presidential candidate in last year's turbulent campaign.

Citing the amnesty decree President Avila Camacho signed immediately after taking office, Judge Corona said there were no longer any Almazanistas or Avila Camachistas in Mexico. "We are all Mexicans," he declared.
