Jap Premier Warns 'Anglo-Saxons' Of 'Danger' In South Pacific

FDR CLAIMS PRESS HURT NATIONAL DEFENSE

U. S. Blockade Planned, Says Tokyo Paper

Britain And U. S. Warned Against Preparations

TOKYO, Feb. 21. (AP)—Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka told Japanese newspapers today that continued defense preparations by Britain and the United States in the south Pacific would produce a situation "attended by considerable danger."

Domei, Japanese news agency, quoted the foreign minister as expressing hope in a lengthy interview that "the Anglo-Saxons would refrain from taking any measures tending to excite Japanese public opinion."

Simultaneously he reiterated a denial that he had sent an offer of European mediation to London. He said he merely dispatched a communication to British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in which he gave a "very frank reply" to questions Eden had asked through the Japanese ambassador to London, Mamoru Shigemitsu.

TOKYO, Feb. 21.—The newspaper Chugai asserted today that British-United States maneuvers against Japan had assumed a "positive phase" to thwart Japanese negotiations in the East Indies and added that the United States was planning to blockade Japan.

The paper said it had confirmed to its own satisfaction that rumors of a crisis in the Far East were "ill-willed propaganda of British source."

Circulation of these rumors was followed by concerted action of defense forces in Malaya, the laying of mines around Singapore and the "concrete" shaping up of American defense activities in the Far East, it said.

"Further," Chugai said, "the United States is preparing to resort to economic blockade operations against Japan."

Other newspapers contributed to a chorus of critical comment on what is called here "the four-power economic and strategic encirclement of Japan," in which the main roles are given the United States and Britain, assisted by Australia and the Dutch East Indies.

Asahi gave prominence to a New York dispatch declaring that "the United States' immediate concern is to check Japan's southward advance."

Dewitt Mackenzie's daily interpretation of the war news published today on page four, will be of interest to persons interested in American-Japanese relations because today Mr. Mackenzie discusses the news behind Chugai's assertions and explores the Japanese mind and attitude toward the U. S.

"Outstanding instances of this," the dispatch said, "are the bill for reinforcement of defense equipment on the islands of Guam and Samoa and other Pacific bases (passed Wednesday by the house of representatives) and the executive order barring entry into strategic bases in the Pacific."

In Shanghai the Japanese army's spokesman, Major Akiyama, said "a snake—the United States and Britain—placed an egg in the dove's (Japan's) nest." The egg, he said, was "the fortification of Singapore, the arrival of Australian troops in Malaya and the impending fortification of Guam and Samoa."

Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka held a press conference last night to deny that he had offered to mediate for world peace.

"London" dispatches Wednesday said the British government had informed commons that it had received "a special message" from Japan offering to mediate in the war.

"As foreign minister," Matsuoka said, "I never offered mediation to any nation in the world for restoration of world peace."

"I replied to an inquiry by (British foreign secretary) Eden concerning matters relative to Japanese mediation of the Thailand-Indo-China dispute."

"Although I expressed my views in that reply concerning the establishment of world peace, I never sent to any nation any message concerning Japanese mediation for world peace as has been rumored."

It was reported here that confusion had arisen from the use in the Japanese press of the word "message."

Sweet Gas Bill Sent To Sub-Committee

Pampa business and professional men and gas operators appeared before the Senate Oil and Gas Committee yesterday in support of a bill which would permit burning of sweet gas for carbon black under certain conditions. The men were also to appear before a house committee last night or this morning.

After lengthy debate the bill was sent to a senate sub-committee for further investigation. The bill was presented in the senate by Grady Hazelwood of Amarillo, and in the house by Emis Favors of Pampa.

Opponents of the bill testifying were Senator Joe Hill, Lawrence Hagy of Amarillo, and C. P. Craft of the Northern Natural Gas company.

Alternately attacked and defended by witnesses before the Senate Oil and Gas Conservation committee, the measure proposed to lift restrictions against use of sweet gas by the carbon black industry when:

It comes from a common reservoir producing both sweet and sour gas. (Friends said this would limit its application to the Panhandle field.)

It is not suited or fit for light and fuel because of low pressure or lack of pipeline connection.

Proponents claimed the present restrictions discriminated against certain wells in the Pampa area, while opponents claimed wells prohibited from using the sweet gas for carbon black processing had sufficient without such use.

Sen. Joe Hill of Henderson viewed the measure as inviting federal control of the oil and gas industry.

He asserted: "If you fellows want Mr. Ickes (secretary of the interior) to come in and run your business, just go ahead and break down the sweet gas law."

The solution to the problem the bill seeks to correct, he said, was to compel pipe lines to take gas from any unconnected sweet wells.

Speaking in behalf of the proposal were M. A. Crahan and John Stuart, general field by 10 of 12 years was C. P. Craft of the Northern Natural Gas company, Amarillo, and Lawrence Hagy of Amarillo, who asserted 99.3 per cent of all Panhandle wells had pipeline connections.

ASCAP Anxious To End Music Feud

NEW YORK, Feb. 21. (AP)—Gene Buck, president of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, predicted today that the eastern members' approval of a decree ending the federal anti-trust action against the society would lead to "a complete settlement of the music situation in the United States."

"I honestly believe this," Buck told newsmen, but declined to say when or how the differences of ASCAP and the National Association of Broadcasters over fees would be ironed out. The dispute resulted in elimination of ASCAP music from radio network programs last January 1.

The broadcasters showed no signs of being in a hurry to enter into negotiations with ASCAP. A statement by Broadcast Music, Inc., set up by the broadcasters as their own music source, said BMI would give "careful study" to any consent decree signed by ASCAP as to ascertain its effect upon the decree to which BMI consented January 27.

"A settlement by ASCAP of its difficulties with the department of justice, however, will not remove the need for BMI's existence," the statement pointed out. "But it will emphasize the necessity of the continuation of BMI's position in the music field in order to maintain precisely the competition which is the government's purpose to permit."

Windows For New School Building Here

Eight Months Have Gone By Since First Purchase

Today, eight months and eight days after the Pampa school board thought it purchased windows for the new high school building the first shipment of windows arrived. In the car load were 600 of the 1,250 windows ordered.

The history of the windows for the new building is a long and complicated one. It all started back in May when the board opened bids for windows. They didn't purchase them at the time but narrowed the field to one steel and one aluminum.

Months passed and no windows were received. During that time the window company and the architect, Townes and Funk of Amarillo, argued over type of spandrels to be used. That argument was settled sometime in November.

Then in early December the window company informed the board that it was shipping the 101 windows. The board and the architect immediately wrote the company and said that type window was not the one either specified by the architect or ordered by the board.

Engineers from the window company came to Pampa and meeting after meeting was held. The board said it ordered windows according to specifications while the window company representatives said a window displayed was the one ordered, and that window was type 101, a lighter window than specified.

Finally it was decided that the board would accept the type 101 window, recommended by factory engineers as more than sufficient for the job if the factory would guarantee the window, which they did, for three years.

So on December 12 the board, with the exception of Member E. C. Sidwell, voted to take the steel windows. The architects asked that they be quoted on the meeting minutes as not okaying the purchase, because the windows were not the ones specified by them.

The windows were accepted by the board upon receipt of the completion certificate and representation of engineers who declared the windows were far heavier and better.

Sub-Committee Gets O'Daniel's Tax Bill

AUSTIN, Feb. 21.—Breasted through a public hearing marked by lack of bitter argument, Governor W. Lee O'Daniel's 1.6 per cent transactions tax bill became law today after a house sub-committee instructed to draft a general tax bill.

The proposal was praised as fair in that it taxed all, "both rich and poor," to support bigger old age pensions and other social security functions, and also condemned as a method to "make the poor poorer and the rich richer" and constituted "a death blow to agriculture and industrialization."

Governor W. Lee O'Daniel did not attend the hearing which drew about 100 spectators last night.

A bill increasing the daylight speed limit from 45 miles an hour to 60 was recommended for passage by another committee which followed a senate group's action by 24 hours.

German Steel Dragon Nears Greek Prey

Hitler's Columns Rolling South Through Rumania

(By The Associated Press)

Columns of German motorized troops many miles long were reported rolling through Rumania toward the Danube river frontier with Bulgaria today as Britain sped aerial reinforcements to Greece against an expected Nazi invasion of the Aegean kingdom.

Bulgaria would provide a logical gateway for a flanking attack on Greece, probably striking at the port of Salonika.

In Washington, Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the senate foreign relations committee, an intimate friend of Secretary of State Hull, declared:

"Germany is preparing to move fast. I think there will be tremendous developments within the next 10 days."

Military dispatches reaching Belgrade said the mass movement of German troops southward was accompanied by the shifting of general staff headquarters to the German Balkan army from Bucharest to Craiova, 40 miles from the Danube. Bulgarian police were reported to have fought "Communist demonstrators" against the expected entry of Nazi troops into Bulgaria.

High-lighted was the belief expressed by observers that Adolf Hitler had approved cessation of another slice of dwindling Rumania to Soviet Russia in return for Moscow's "cooperation"—that is, a passive attitude—with his plans for southeast Europe.

Russia's reward, these observers said, probably will be the province of Moldavia on which the Soviet long has cast covetous eyes, as even Red diplomats acknowledge.

There was a report already of friction between Bulgaria and Turkey, whose non-aggression pact is but for days old. The Turkish minister to Bulgaria, according to reports reaching Belgrade, has protested against the declaration of a semi-official Bulgarian newspaper that it is "none of Turkey's business when Bulgaria will recover her outlet to the Aegean sea from Greece."

This newspaper, Zora, had declared flatly that "the question of changing Bulgaria's frontiers was in no way affected by the Turkish-Bulgarian declaration."

Official Bulgarian quarters denied that Bulgaria was mobilizing. They said that "only a few" reservists were being called to the colors. They added, however, that Bulgaria "has the right to mobilize if she wishes without consulting anybody."

Diplomatic quarters heard that Germany is proceeding steadily with attempts to mediate the Italian-Greek war, seeking a favorable deal.

Students Get Taste Of Dictatorship And Regimentation

By SAMUEL G. BLACKMAN
SAG HARBOR, N. Y., Feb. 21. (AP)—Supervising Principal E. Raymond Schneible set himself up today as a "dictator" over 450 high school students in this fashionable Long Island village and proclaimed:

"They had to goosstep from class to class.

The girls could use no cosmetics and had to forego fancy hair-dos.

The boys were under orders to wear neckties but no sweaters.

Expression of personal opinion was prohibited.

The right of assemblage was barred.

Denominational religious instruction classes, for which they are usually excused an hour early on Fridays, were cancelled.

Middle-aged and of medium build, Schneible made "storm troops" of his faculty members and gave them strict orders to see that the regimentation didn't break down.

But it was all in fun and held for today only.

This was Pierson High school's way of terminating the celebrations of Bill of Rights week—to show what life is like under totalitarian rule.

Army Secrets Published, Writers Told

Asks American People Should Take A Hand

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21. (AP)—President Roosevelt said today he considered the disclosure of what was intended to be secret testimony before a senate committee yesterday by General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, as hurtful to national defense.

The president told a press conference that it raised a question of ethics, morals and patriotism on the part of committee members and editors, publishers, and broadcasters who printed reports of Marshall's testimony.

The chief executive said it was a question for the American people to consider. At the conclusion of lengthy questioning on the subject, he said it was purely a voluntary matter; that he was not thinking about censorship, but that he was merely putting it up to the people as a nice question to think about.

Information about General Marshall's testimony yesterday was given to the Associated Press by members of the Senate Military committee before whom he testified.

Marshall was reported by some members of the committee as having said that the Pacific fleet was bolstered with an unspecified number of army and navy planes and as having described the Pacific situation as serious.

Asked to clarify the accounts on Marshall's testimony, the president said he read them in the newspapers at breakfast this morning.

Then, with a warning to reporters not to say that he was angry or that a raised eyebrow indicated resentment, Mr. Roosevelt said he was interested in the problem of ethics and he thought that the American people should be interested for the same reason.

In times of world upheaval, he added, there were certain things regarding the defense of the United States that it was advisable to keep secret.

He emphasized it was only occasionally that it became necessary for defense officials, in the interest of national safety, to appear in a confidential capacity before congressional committees.

He said there was not much new in such appearances, as the practice had been going on since 1776, but that the problem of keeping this testimony from the public still lived.

More Inter-American Ties

There are 21 nations in the Pan-American system. The relations of all of them to each other are included in Pan-Americanism, not merely the relations of each to the United States. Pan-Americanism is given a boost every time an American nation links itself more closely to other American nations, for such ties tend to make all concerned less dependent on Europe and Asia. Thus when Chile and Peru get together on a mutual defense pact and trade agreement, as they did the other day, it strengthens the hand of both in resisting any possible aggression from the west, and that is a good thing for the United States. At the River Plate conference at Montevideo, just concluded, some 16 different agreements were made between and among the countries of southern South America, all tending to build up their economies.

The A. E. F. Comes Home

The last of the 2,000,000 soldiers who went from the United States to France during the World War are only now, more than 20 years later, straggling home. Many American soldiers stayed behind when the A. E. F. came home. They married French girls, and settled in Paris or in the little towns and villages they had come to know. At a rate of 100 a week the Red Cross is now moving them and their families to Lisbon on their way to the country most of them have not seen in 20 years, and which their wives and children have not seen. It is a tragic end to 20 years of effort to build a life in another land to which they had become attached. But of course the German conquest which wiped out so many Frenchmen has wiped out these Americans, too. Thus a thin trickle of good French blood is being added to our national life, and welcome it is, just as these veterans of the A. E. F. are welcome, though their homecoming has been so long delayed.

Behind The News

By PETER EDSON Pampa News Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON, Feb. 21--One of the tricks, one of the fine points of play in the great game of international diplomacy, is the development of a sense of timing. When a card is played it is just as important as what the card itself may be. Hitler and his playmates are past masters of this technique, in handling foreign affairs. Nazi speeches and moves are usually co-ordinated with beautiful cunning, and they can be counted on to catch any unguarded kings at large in the deck. For many years it was considered that Americans didn't know how to play this game. We were too direct in our dealings. We believed in open covenants openly arrived at. We said what we meant and we didn't play the diplomatic game with aces up our sleeve and motives concealed. The result was that the boys from Europe made us look like suckers at Versailles, and in the Kellogg pact.

F. D. R.'S "NO" IS BIG NEWS IN TOKYO

In the early days of the New Deal, Mr. Roosevelt manifested a certain mastery of timing in handling domestic issues. Later, there was some belief that he lost the gift and that bad timing was largely responsible for the second-term coup. Recently there have been a couple of moves on the American diplomatic front which have made Washington observers wonder again about the smartness of our timing, and as situations in Europe, in the Orient and at home become all the more acute, this sense of timing becomes all the more important. The incidents in question all have to do with our relations with Japan. To set the chain in motion, two may be said to have happened in the natural course of events. First, a scare went up from the region of Singapore and Netherlands East Indies. The Japanese fleet was reportedly on the move, and the British and Dutch from Malaya to Australia feared for the worst. Second, Admiral Nomura arrived in Washington as new ambassador from Tokyo, charged with improving Japanese-American relations. Glad hands were extended all over the place. Official Washington really believed there was a chance for these relations to improve. The President's clear "No!" when asked if he thought war would break out in the Pacific was big news in Tokyo. Sideline experts who had been predicting war in another 15 minutes had to suck back most of their predictions.

NO TRUSTING TO LUCK

And then what happened? The President asked congress to appropriate $898 millions to build bombproof shelters, improve harbors and strengthen air and submarine bases in Alaska and on half a dozen tiny islands south and west of Hawaii, outposts of defense and offense against Japan. Westernmost of the projects is at Guam. Only $4,700,000 was asked for Guam, and that was earmarked for harbor improvement. Such a sum is of course only a fraction of the $800,000,000 or so that the navy has previously estimated necessary to do a real fortifying job on Guam, but this is a first step that must be completed before the real defenses can be begun. It is therefore an indication that the administration would like to see Guam fortified, eventually, and such it might be salt water and sulphuric acid in the slant eyes of the Japanese. For Guam is only 1,500 miles from Japan and the subject of its fortification has been so painful to the Japanese that

Common Ground

By R. C. HOLLES This column contends there can be no satisfactory program until we measure the shares of each man by the common yardstick of the God-given equal right to create and enjoy anything anyone else has a right to create and enjoy.

BUYING ALL EMPLOYEE'S SALEABLE TIME

A good employer should attempt to buy all the time, energy and production any worker desires to sell. Of course, this is rather difficult to do when most production is in group operations. It is usually necessary to have a crew of operators doing different kinds of work to produce the complete product. And it might be difficult to permit those who are energetic with lots of health, vitality and ambition to work as many hours as they desire. This, however, should be the aim and aspiration of an employer to buy all the energies which any of his employees desire to sell. It, undoubtedly, makes no difference to any employer whether his employees work 2, 4, 8, or 16 hours, if his unit costs are not interfered with by the length of time the man works. The only thing an employer is interested in is the unit cost, not the hour cost.

LABOR LEADERS CANNOT ANSWER

There is one question that no labor leader can give a rational answer to. That is, why there has been unemployment for a longer period of time in the United States than any time in our history. The reason he cannot give a rational answer for this unemployment is that the things he advocates of establishing wages by force, intimidation, and coercion are largely the cause of unemployment. And the minute he tries to explain unemployment, he has to go into some oft-explored theory, like machines, or the rich are too rich, or he gets himself in a trap and had to admit that he is the cause of unemployment, by his setting the arbitrary wages that prevent the product of his labor from being exchanged with other people. Some of these apologists actually believe that if it were not for labor unions, wages would be much lower than they are, but none of these apologists can answer the question that if labor unions raise wages or prevent them from dropping—which is the same thing—then why can they not increase them a thousand-fold.

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON NEA Service Staff Correspondent HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 21--Short takes: One of the exploitation experts at Warners sent word to the music department that he'd like a nonASCAP tune for "Strawberry Blonde," so the picture could be plugged on the radio networks. After about an hour's concentration somebody sent back a song titled, "I Got the Razzberry on Blueberry Hill From a Mulberry Street Strawberry Blonde Blues."

JANE WITHERS GROWS UP

Jane Withers emerges as an omph- ying ingenue in her latest film—and "emerge" is right, because there are several sequences that have to do with the zipping off of a play skirt worn with a bathing suit. The picture is carefully planned to establish her as a budding romantic star, and she makes the whole transition in eight reels. Beginning as the Jane Withers you're accustomed to seeing, she winds up in a backless evening gown, complete with her first screen kiss. Some of the little second-hand book stores have adopted the slick scheme of writing the names of once-famous movie figures on the fly-leaves of a few of the volumes.

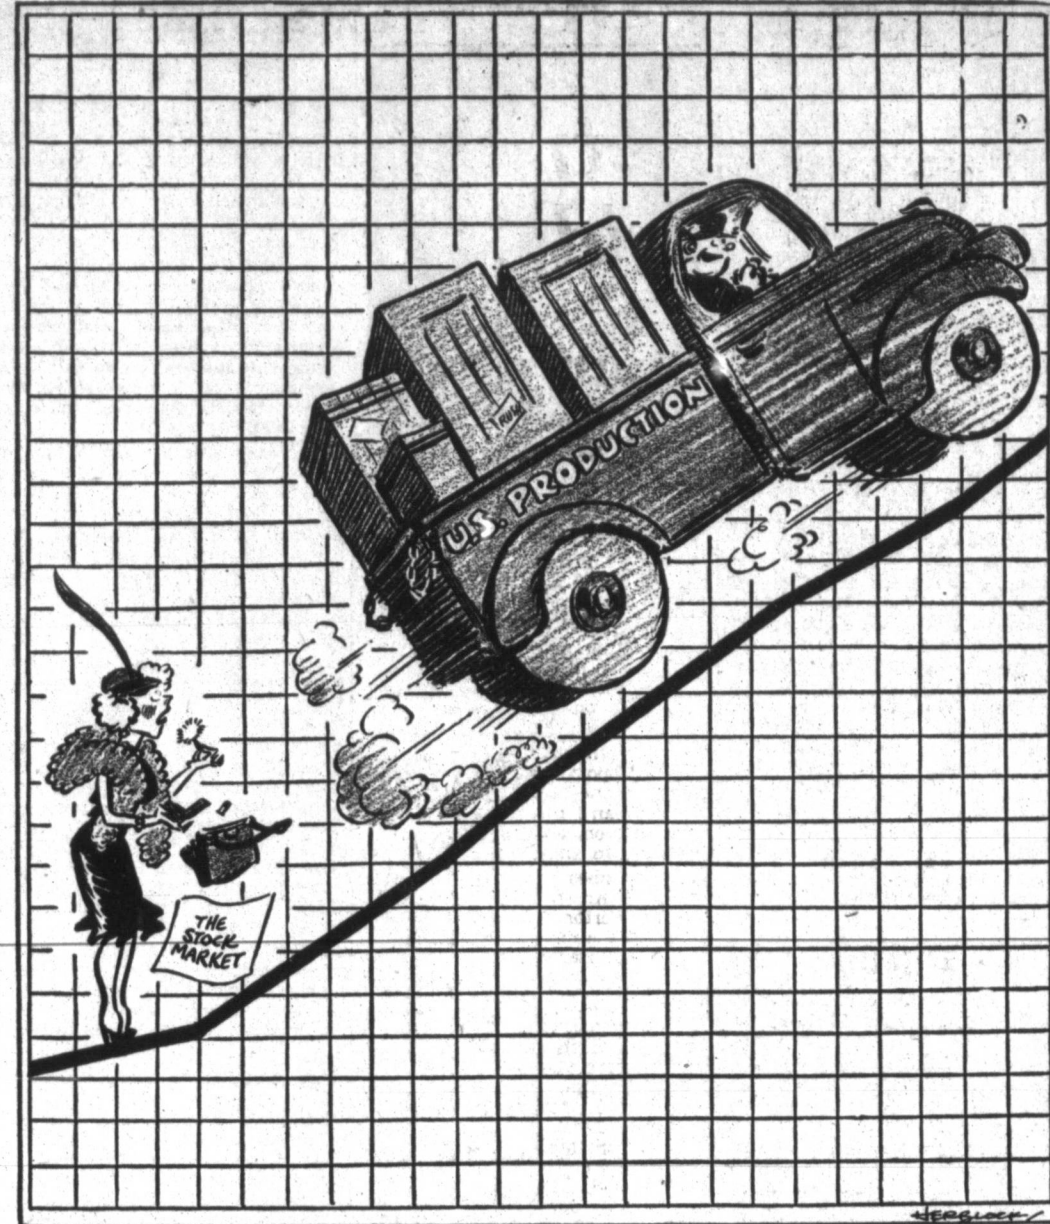

WESTERN FEATURES LADY OUTLAW

In Ginger Rogers' next picture, the role of her mother probably will be played by Mrs. Lela Rogers—who is her mother. . . . Eleanor Powell's new dancing partner, for a walk routine in "Lady Be Good," is a French poodle. . . . A year and a half ago, Carole Landis was playing leads in westerns and serials at Republic for $75 a week. Recently the studio offered her $10,000 to do the romantic lead in "Sis Hopkins," a top-budget musical. And Miss Landis turned it down. . . . A new angle has been discovered for westerns: In Paramount's "Men of Action," Evelyn Brent is a lady leader of the outlaws.

IT'S ALL A JUGGLING ACT

Well, maybe we're learning. We have tossed out, from time to time, sly hints that we might be interested in moving part of the U. S. fleet to Singapore. Whether this is actually done or not, the mere talk of it is good medicine for some people, if given at the right time. Of course if these various announcements and hints have the effect of forcing Japan to advance her schedule of expansion and attempt to move southward before U. S. defenses in the western Pacific can be completed, then administration timing would be considered bad. The point to bear in mind is that every American movie plays its part in this Japanese juggling act. Withdrawal of American citizens from Japan, increasing fortifications in the Philippines, restrictions on exports of scrap iron and aviation gas—all these have had to be carefully timed. Let one move be badly timed, and the whole act would do a pratfall.

'MAKE UP YOUR MIND, SISTER--WE AIN'T WAITING'

People You Know

By Archer Fullingim Now comes this realistic story of worry and wait, and of BUTCH AND EDNA

There was no crisis of any kind. Edna was just peeling potatoes out on the back porch when it struck her all in a heap that Butch didn't love her any more. He was a good provider, he didn't abuse her, but come to think of it there wasn't a thing to prove that he loved her. When she came home that night she asked him point blank if he loved her. He said what a crazy idea and did she know there was a sale on canned peaches at the Star market. Edna wandered all the way to the Star market how you could tell if a husband loved you. When you're a girl it's simple. A man has to make dates with you. And if he likes you a lot he brings you presents. You can't tell with a husband because naturally he comes home to sleep and naturally there isn't any money for presents. At least he might say something once in a while. Edna decided she'd be out when Butch came home so he'd have to say he missed her. She went to sewing, bridge and gardening meetings and stayed longer than anybody. Butch never minded. She'd find him hammering on something out in the garage. And when she left him without dinner he cooked himself a steak good-naturedly enough and fried pounds of onions. He assured Edna he hadn't enjoyed a meal so much in years. Edna bought some new clothes but all Butch said was "they sure make crazy hats these days." She even went for a long drive with a former beau and Butch didn't get excited. He didn't respond to anything. Edna was beating a rug in the backyard when Mrs. Brown's visiting sister stuck her head over the fence and started gabbling. "You've got a nice little set-up here, and take it from me nothing beats love in a bungalow but I'll do better next time. I had some silly ideas about romance, wanted a man to be galling in little ways, flowers and things you know, proof of love. I had the proof, but I had to share it with an awful lot of other women. You've shown more sense. I like the looks of your man." Two evenings later Butch got up from the table. "How'd you like to run over to the Browns a little while. That sister was out front tonight when I came up. Said it was a little party of some kind. Wanted us to come. Cute little trick she is. Wanna go?" Edna felt the panic of a wild animal not knowing where to take cover. "Wouldn't you rather see The Captain's Dinner? Tonight's the last night. It's a good movie." Whether Butch loved her or not was of no importance. Only please God, she prayed, let nothing change. Let everything go on as it was, always. Me and Butch together, please, God please!

HIGHLIGHTS FROM LATEST BOOKS

By JOHN SELBY "SUMMER 1914," by Roger Martin du Gard; (Viking; $3.50). When, a few years ago, the Nobel prize in literature was awarded Roger Martin du Gard for the then uncompleted novel he had been working at since 1922, the presentation was made for "the artistic power with which he has portrayed human conflicts and the foundations of human life in his series of novels, 'Les Thibaults.' Awards are not often made so justly, and their reason is not often made so clear. In French, M. du Gard's "The World of the Thibaults" has appeared in 11 volumes, not so many as Romains' "Men of Good Will," but certainly they add up to quite as effective and useful a work. In addition, M. du Gard has avoided the chief fault of the Romains series, which is its apparent lack of integration. He never leaves the Thibaults, and one may open either of the two volumes of the English translation at any point and within a very short time feel at home, and sense the plan of the whole gigantic novel. Du Gard is never vague and rarely tentative. He is French to the core, yet his people have a remarkable kinship to the people of any other country. The first book (in English, of course), was called "The Thibaults," and in it we meet Oscar, Jacques, and Antoine Thibault, their friends, and their world. These M. du Gard carries forward through time, from youth and into young manhood, evenly and without distortion. In life it is often difficult to sort out and make explicit the stages by which a boy changes into a man; it is the same in du Gard's novel. The process is completely natural, unforced, almost without literary artifice. What we find in "Summer 1914" is that actually Jacques Thibault does not grow up. As a man he never catches up with his mind, and his mind never quite reaches clarity. He retains his charm; he has an affair with Jenny; he calls himself a socialist and works with the Swiss group, and finally dies because of a silly idea. His cooler and shrewder brother, Antoine, arrives at death also, but by a different path. There is no space to trace the path here; one can only say that in this enormous book an author finally has managed to embody in prose the tragedy upon which life is founded.

TEX'S TOPICS

By Tex DeWesse

ALMOST everybody gets the urge to write. . . . We get it, but can't seem to find anything interesting to write about. . . . Most of the stuff in this space is written or suggested by somebody else, and if they ever quit writing to us and stop sending ideas, this column will be sunk. . . . One lady wrote in yesterday in this fashion: "Your column is like an evening meal to me, and I would just as soon do without the latter as your column." . . . Well, that made us feel pretty chummy, so we braced to "Stu" Johnson, of the advertising department, about what the lady wrote. . . . "Personally," said Mr. Johnson, "I'd rather eat!"

But, speaking of getting the urge to write, if you can't shake it off, the suggestion is made here that you clip out the following rules and paste them on your desk or typewriter: . . . 1. Know what you want to say. . . . 2. Say it. . . . 3. Use your own language. . . . 4. Leave out all the fine and fancy passages. . . . 5. A short word is better than a long one. . . . 6. The fewer the words the better. . . . So much for that. . . . Yesterday's cold reminds us that the average woman's clothing weighs around two and six-tenths pounds. The average man--most men being sissies--requires six pounds more protection against wintry blasts; his clothing weighs eight and six-tenths pounds. . . . Figures for the ladies do not include the weight of fur coats. . . . Who was it said: "A man does not buy a woman a fur coat to keep her warm, but to keep her pleasant."

In the public schools all over the land they say there is an epidemic of what is known to teachers as "Six-Weeks-Itis." . . . The symptoms vary from head-ache to toe-ache and are never fatal to pupils if permitted to stay out of class-room for the duration of "examina." The seriousness of these epidemics confronts parents and teachers in the almost certain recurrence of similar or worse attacks within another six weeks. . . . No sure cure has been found in Miami, but we're not sure why. Word from our friend Tom Collins, the Kansas City humorist, informs that he is engaged for the April week we had hoped to bring him to the Pampa Press convention. . . . There is only one other Tom Collins we know about, and the convention will be too early in the year for him to be popular. . . . ASCAR, the news despatcher, is in the seat of the pants as well as on the chin. . . . Here's a letter (printed with permission of the beautiful high school girl who sent it) we're going to let you read: "DEAR BILL: "I don't think I care to go out with you again. Most of last evening was wonderful. Bill. But the drive home spoiled everything. You behaved so nicely and acted so considerably up till the minute you got your hands on the wheel and we headed home. Then you suddenly were transformed into what seemed to me a bad-mannered and irresponsible gorilla. You yelled and roared and cursed as much right on the road as you. You scared my wit out by going at an absurd speed. "That might have been considered smart once upon a time, but I assure you it's now childish and stupid. Call me stuffy and prudish if you like. But I don't relish dying quite yet. Nor do I want to get in one of those accidents where I am just a heap of bones. I have sense enough to realize that you and the rest of the boys wouldn't be ringing my telephone if my face and body were inexpertly rearranged by a smash-up in your automobile. I don't think I'll go out again with you, Bill. At least not until you've grown up enough to behave decently as a driver, and not until you realize that you owe a certain responsibility to the person you ask to share your car with you. (Signed) BETTY."

The War Today

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The situation in the far east remains tense and therefore dangerous but there is hope that reason will prevail and that nobody will shoot until he sees the whites of his enemy's eyes, by which time shooting may not be necessary. The chief deterrent to an upheaval at the moment, as I pointed out yesterday, is the firm attitude and preparedness moves of the United States. Japan's greatest fear is that we will be drawn into the conflict.

Thus it is legitimate for us to say that one of the most powerful defenses of Britain's great naval base at Singapore is the moral and material support of the Anglo-Allied cause against the Axis, of which Japan is an appendage. That fact should give some satisfaction to those who have the strange idea that Uncle Sam is bearing on his back not only his own burdens of defense but all those of the United States. Uncle Sam doesn't need to apologize for the weight he is pulling and undertaking to pull.

The Tokyo newspaper Chugai today exposed one of Japan's greatest anxieties in connection with America's attitude. The paper said that "The United States is preparing to resort to economic blockades operations against Japan." That is, Nippon is fearful that we will place a wholesale embargo on all exports to her. Such an embargo would be a fierce blow, since Japan is dependent on us for many of her absolute essentials, especially for war gear. Whether Washington might resort to such an extreme measure remains to be seen, but Chugai would seem to have a right to worry about the position. That embargo is the most powerful restraint we could employ against the Japanese. It likely would be far more destructive, in fact, than any naval pressure which either Britain or America or both of them combined, could bring to bear. In this critical juncture when the European war is making such great demands. Indeed, should Japan have any designs on Singapore and the Dutch East Indies (which she denotes) she probably would get there with the job well done for two things: (1) the danger of that embargo and American involvement; (2) the certainty that unless the Axis won the war Nippon ultimately would be called to account by an unnumbered Britain and her allies. The Japanese have given no indication of particular concern over any possible offensive naval operations against her at the moment. Should she feel impelled to take the initiative and attack Singapore or the Dutch East Indies, however, the defensive strength of the British would be a matter of moment. Singapore is such a mountain of strength that even a small boy with an air-gun could stand-off a sizeable attack. In this connection Tokyo has given evidence of worry over the possibility that the United States may send a squadron to Singapore. The latching of this stronghold has long been out for Uncle Sam to pull any time he wanted to—or so it has been generally understood. Thus the basing of American warships on the island in itself is a belligerent action. Another of Japan's anxieties is bombing. Her buildings as a whole are constructed of paper and flimsy wood, and a few sticks of incendiary bombs could destroy a city. At one time the Japanese had a special relations have been strained. The Japanese have been in terror of possible raids by Soviet air forces only 600 miles away. That thought undoubtedly is very much to the fore in Tokyo's mind in the efforts to establish friendly relations with Moscow. The air bases of other countries, even those of China, are so far away from Japan as to make bombing difficult, barring the possible use of the latest long-distance bombers which are said to be able to cross the Atlantic and back without refueling. The Japanese would, however, have to figure that aircraft carriers would be the means of any naval expedition against her.

HARVESTERS TO PLAY FIRST GAME IN CAGE MEET TONIGHT

Phillips And Shamrock To Fight It Out

Play in the district one interscholastic league basketball tournament got under way this morning and will continue until Saturday night. Three games will be played this afternoon, two tonight, beginning at 7 o'clock, two Saturday afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock, and the championship game at 8 o'clock tomorrow night. In action tonight at 7 o'clock will be the Pampa Harvesters and the winner of the LeFors-Booker game, to be played at 1 o'clock this afternoon. The second game tonight will see Phillips meeting Shamrock. Both teams drew byes in the first round when Miami withdrew from the tournament.

Admission to each session will be 15 cents for students, and 25 cents for adults.

Referee for the tournament is Jim Lookabaugh, head coach at Oklahoma A. & M. college at Stillwater, Okla. He is recognized as one of the best basketball officials in the southwest.

Opening game this afternoon, soon after 1 o'clock, was to send Booker against LeFors. At 3 o'clock Spearman was to play the winner of the Perryton-White Deer game, at 10 o'clock this morning.

Last game of the afternoon session, at 4 o'clock, was to bring together Berger and Hedley, both drawing byes in the opening round because of withdrawal of Canadian. Semi-final games will begin at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

The team winning the tournament here will represent the district in the regional meet in Canyon, Feb. 23, and March 1.

Because of the number of teams coming to the tournament who have not played each other this season, picking a favorite would be a dangerous undertaking. However, the Pampa Harvesters, who have won 23 and lost six games so far this season, are being seeded number one, with Berger's Bulldogs next.

LeFors, White Deer, Shamrock, and Phillips have been beaten by tournament favorites, but that usually means nothing in a tournament of this type because many times beaten teams have risen to new heights in tournaments. The above four teams have been coming to the front in late games and may knock off the favorites.

Zale Favorite Over Makakos

By ARNOLD DERLITZKI
CHICAGO, Feb. 21 (AP)—Tony Zale, the hard punching middleweight from Gary, Ind., puts his seventh month-old national boxing association crown within reach of young Steve Mankos tonight in a 15-round bout at the stadium.

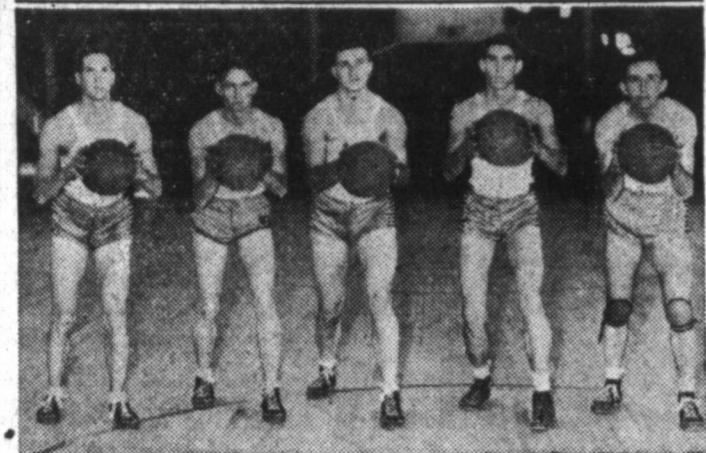

And if the title depended on reach alone, the 22-year-old Greek would have it. Comparing Mankos would have a 75-inch reach, four and a half more than the champion.

Bettors are not overlooking this technically, nor the manner in which the Washington, D. C., battler extended Zale in an overweight bout earlier this year. They are reminded, too, by Matt Twomey, Mankos' manager, that the challenger never has lost a return match.

The interest thus drummed up for Chicago's first middleweight title fight since 1929 when Mickey Walker successfully defended his championship against Ace Hudkins—has Promoter Bill Rand to predict a crowd of 12,000 persons and a $30,000 gate.

Zale, making the first defense of his crown since dethroning Al Hostak last July, has been established an 8 to 5 favorite. Observers point to the 26-year-old champion's proven stamina, his powerful right hand and his constant ring activity since his title conquest.

Even Dozen Major Football Schools Have New Coaches

By BILL BONI
NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (AP)—Though it may be rushing the season, college football already has had its 1941 spring cleaning. An even dozen major football schools have changed head coaches, besides at least ten smaller ones, and in many cases these shifts involved not only the head men but their entire staffs.

Most notable was the shakeup at Notre Dame, which sent Elmer Layden into a five-year, $20,000-a-year job as commissioner for the National Pro League, brought Frank Leahy and his three assistants to South Bend from Boston College, which he had helped make considerably more solvent in his two-year term, and left B. C. as the biggest job that so far hasn't been filled.

New England was hit hardest by the big wind, an Associated Press roundup shows. Not only did it blow Leahy back to Notre Dame, but it also blew Earl Blaik from Dartmouth, where he's spent seven successful years, to Army to replace Capt. Bill Wood, now on active service.

Transplanted Desmond (Tuss) McLaughry to Dartmouth from Brown, where he'd coached for 15 years and turned out the milk-fed "iron men"; Impelled Yale to break with tradition in hiring his first non-graduate head coach, Emerson (Spoke) Nelson, once of Iowa, to supplant Raymond W. (Ducky) Pond;

Lifted J. Neil (Skip) Stahley and Wes Fessler out of Harvard—assistants jobs into head coaching berths at Brown and Wesleyan, Maine, where Fred Brice resigned after 20 years. Bates and Springfield were other New England colleges affected. Eck Allen, one of McLaughry's aides at Brown, was Brice's spook Wendell Mansfield has left Bates to succeed Paul Stagg, son of "the grand old man," at Springfield.

The middle west had wholesale shakeups that included Paul Brown's transfer from Massillon (O.) High school to Ohio State to replace Francis Schmidt, another seven-year man; Oklahoma's hiring of Dewey (Snorter) Luster, New York coach, Emerson (Spoke) Nelson, once of Iowa, to supplant Raymond W. District Cage Meets Held Over State Today

Westerners Favorite In District 3

LUBBOCK, Feb. 21—If history repeats itself, the Lubbock Westerners say they are ready and waiting for a little repeating.

The repeating meant is for the District Three high school basketball championship which the Westerners have won for the last two years.

A close examination of figures tends to support their contention, even though the Lubbock won-and-loss record can't be compared with that of Morton and some of the other teams in the tournament.

The five games Lubbock has lost have been to Amarillo (two), Borger (two), and Morton. The Westerners have beaten Plainview twice, Pampa twice, Shallowater twice, Levelland twice and Morton once.

Beat Big Five Champ
The Amarillo and Borger defeats can be excused on the ground that the games were played early in the season before the Westerners really had their stride. And there is nothing to indicate that the Westerners took from Morton. The score was 43-50, and any high school team that scores 43 points isn't at all bad, even if it does lose. And the game was played on Morton's court, previously Lubbock defeated the Indians on Lubbock's floor, so that perhaps leaves the record even when and if the two teams meet on a neutral court this week end.

Those victories over Pampa were impressive too, because Pampa won the Big Five championship. The Harvesters lost only to Lubbock in league play, defeating Borger, Amarillo and Plainview twice each. And since Borger and Amarillo split their series, that left the Harvesters all alone at the top. Pampa and Amarillo, incidentally are rated probable winners of their district championships this week.

Coach "Goober" Keyes' five has accumulated 462 points and allowed 298 this season. In its last three games, the Lubbock team has averaged an even 50 points per game, and for a high school team that is some goaling.

Westerners Are Tallest
The Westerners will undoubtedly be the tallest team in the tournament, and height still means a lot in basketball. If he wishes, Keyes could start a lineup of six-footers. Usually, though, he opens with three of the tall boys and a couple of smaller lads.

The offense is built around Roland "Tuffy" Nabors, the double-tough football center who has developed into a terror on the court. Offensively, Nabors plays the pivot post position, that is, he stands near the foul line and provides the "hub" for the offensive gestures. He is a sure ball handler and on the pivot shot—a turning, one-handed try at the basket from the foul line—there are few better file shoots left-handed and is therefore exceptionally hard to guard.

Bob McKinnon, J. A. Blackwell, Milner Thorne and Max Walthall complete the usual starting quintet. McKinnon and Walthall have played only a few minutes in the last three games, because of illness, but are expected to be ready Friday.

McKinnon and Thorne, with Nabors, complete the tall trio. They are the boys Keyes depends on to get the ball off the backboards. Thorne stars particularly under the defensive goal, and McKinnon and Nabors under the offensive basket. Bob and Tuffy have won more than one game this season through their ability to bat the ball back in after somebody misses a shot.

Walthall is the No. 1 long shot man. He can sink a good percentage of his shots from anywhere out past the foul line, and he isn't afraid to fire when he has the ball.

Dallas Boy Will Fight Tucker In Elimination Bout
NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (AP)—On the theory that you have to walk before you can run, two scarcely known fighters will shuffle into the Madison Square Garden ring tonight to take the first step toward conquering the lightweight championship.

Jimmy Webb of Dallas and Robert (Tommy) Tucker of New York are the young hopefuls singled out by Promoter Mike Jacobs and the New York Boxing commission for the first 15-round elimination bout in a series that eventually may lead to a universally recognized successor to Billy Conn, now an aspiring heavyweight.

Conn still is recognized as champion by the New York fistie fathers, but he has a date to tackle Joe Louis next summer and has agreed to give up his lightweight crown when invited by Gen. John Phelan. This is expected to come from the machinery set in motion tonight.

The National Boxing Association already has recognized Anton Christoforidis of Akron, Ohio, as agreed to meet Gus Lazenby of Cliffside, N. J., at the Garden May 2.

The winners of tonight's tussle and the May 2 bout then will be brought together at a later date and peace presumably will reign once again in the light heavyweight ranks.

Silverton, Crowell, Carey, Childress All Rated Equal

MacPhail And Durocher Almost Come To Blows

By GAYLE TALBOT
HAVANA, Feb. 21 (AP)—Most of the newspapermen who travel with the Brooklyn Dodgers would pick them to win the coming National league race in a minute if they were asked to bet on the team.

But this season, instead of one team standing out, there are four squads so closely aligned in talent that any one of them may survive.

The competition stacks up similar to that in Childress county's playoff, wherein four of the five teams were so cautious of each other's ability and so evenly matched that every meeting was a crucial test.

The two Childress county representatives, Childress and Carey, make up half of the select quartet that heads the district tournament entry list. Silverton's Owls and the Crowell Wildcats compose the other half of the favored block.

Evenly Divided
A lucky draw in bracketing the teams placed the local Bobcats and Silverton in the top half of the bracket and Carey and Crowell in the lower half, evenly dividing the strongest hands and assuring a very interesting meet up to and including the title tilt.

Childress and Silverton cannot possibly meet until the Saturday morning semi-finals, and the Bobcats have only one game to play before then because they drew a first-round bye. The Cats will face the Matador-Paducah winner Friday afternoon and must survive this joust to get in a crack at the Owls.

The Cats have enjoyed their most successful season in years this winter and are considered just as likely to snag the district laurels as any of the other four choices. After starting their campaign at an average pace they hit a streak of late season victories and then went into a slight slump before hurting.

"What?" yelled our hair-trigger friend. "I'm the easiest guy in the world to manage for. I'll leave it to Leo if that isn't right. Isn't it, Leo?"

Durocher, who happened to be passing, grinned and said, "Sure, Larry," and went on about his business. Scout Ted McGraw also was challenged to deny it, and he would not, either.

through the county tournament last weekend.

Owls Lost Only Five
Silverton's classy team, which really has the best record of any of the district entrants, has lost only five games in 26 starts and has chalked up almost 1,000 points this year. The Owls meet Quail, a none too easy foe, in the first round Friday afternoon and the winner goes up against the Samnorwood-Quannah victor in the quarter-finals.

In the lower half of the bracket Crowell drew the bye but will have to tangle with Carey in the second round if the Cats get by Kings High in an opener, which they are expected to do easily. The Crowell-Carey mix-up will come Friday night and will be the standout attraction of the second night's program.

Lakeview, Thalia, and Memphis are the remaining teams in the lower portion of the bracket, and Memphis is the best pick to emerge as either Crowell or Carey's semifinal foe Saturday morning.

Canadian To Fight At Miami Tuesday

Special To The NEWS
MIAMI, Feb. 21—Miami's next "fight night" is scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 25, when Canadian mitt artists have been invited to meet the local boxing team.

This will probably be one of the two remaining matches staged in the home gym. However, Miami may have a boxing tournament to conduct.

SERIAL STORY
DRAFTED FOR LOVE
BY RUTH AYERS

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

FIND THE SOLUTION
CHAPTER XI
ALL the way down the hill to Elm Street, April remembered the last sight of Kent's face. He had gone white and following her to the gate, had reached out an imploring hand. "Then I blame if you never sing again. I thought you understood I loved your voice, Ann, that I wanted you to sing for your people, your friends and me. You even said you'd forgotten the stupid quarrel."

The walk was slippery. April crunched the hallstones under her heel. "Please, Kent," she had said, "I don't want to talk about it."

When she hurried the car away from his door, she found the storm-washed air like a cold draught in her feverish brain. Yes, that had been her downfall, going into Kent's house. He was suspicious already, hurt, bewildered, and there was nothing she could do.

Then something struck her. What was it Kent had said in those last words? "I thought you understood I loved your voice, Ann, that I wanted you to sing for your people, your friends and me." Her mind seized a second thought. When she had talked to Ann on long distance last night, Ann had said, "As a matter of fact, if Kent only knew it, he was the one who spurred me on to take this New York venture."

So that was it! Kent hadn't wanted Ann to have a career. He'd opposed the idea of her going on her own to New York. So he had quarreled and in the end, Ann had started off in hurt defiance.

OCTAVIA was waiting for April, as usual. "Been pacing here," she dramatized, "not knowing what sort of wreck or trouble you was in."

"Well, it wasn't a wreck."
"The Lawd be praised. You's safe. And a bad storm it is, Miss April."

April. Your father done send word he and your mother won't be back for another day. Snowed in, ah reckon."
"And April had been counting on Mother and Dad. "Oh," she said. Nip wagged back to the kitchen, barking for food and drink. "Jee's soon's Ah gives this hound something to quiet his bark down, you can tell me about this here outing," Octavia said.

"There isn't much to tell." Octavia, sure that April was sound in neck and limb, was breathing easier. "From the looks of you," she said, "seems like you wasn't exactly cut out to be a Campfire Girl."

"Or a Girl Scout either," April snapped as she started for her room upstairs.
"A hot bath, a hair-brush, a bottle of cologne drenched over her aching forehead and then the comfort of her white terry robe. That's what she needed, and sleep, plenty of it when she wouldn't have to think about today or tomorrow or any days to come.

An hour afterwards, April was sitting before her mirror. The yellow curls were brushed upward in her own way, the white robe, tight bodiced, swept out in a full skirt that was like a fan framing her figure.
Octavia moved in her mountainous fashion to the doorway. "Ah clean forgets to tell you that Mister Hal Parks' been a phoning all day."

"Hal Parks?" For a minute, April's eyes, horizon blue now like the hills she and Kent had seen today, flickered with interest. Then she flickered faded. "It he calls again," she said, "ask him if he will please excuse me tonight."

"Any other time, she would have welcomed seeing Hal. Tonight, the memory of Kent, their day, the fatal anti-climax, was too fresh in her mind.
"He's a handsome gentleman," Octavia was saying. "Seems like Ah finds him most in my favor of the gentlemen courtin' you, Miss April."

"Yes," said April, "yes, indeed." Then she spun around. "Ever hear of a Glitterbug, Octavia?"
Octavia shook her head. "Can't say that I did, Miss April."

"Well, you will," April predicted, "and plenty." When Octavia had gone, April still sat at the looking glass, where words like demons began to prance in front of her. "The trouble with April is that she never looks beyond her mirror." "Everyone raves at how beautiful she is. Personally, I would never see it."

More words. The Glitterbug figures she's the belle of the town and everyone owes her homage."
The powder puff which April held automatically in her hand as she leaned forward to dust her small, pert and perfect nose, went flying. She tore off the white robe and snatched up the light. Ther, with her face buried deep in the pillows, she began to cry, softly at first and then with sobs that shook the bed.

IT was almost noon when she awoke. Outside the storm which had started off with a spitting of hailstones yesterday, had calmed to a steady snow. Trees were white; house tops coated in the same fine-powdered silver.
April stared and then away. Perhaps Kent had called while she was asleep. Maybe Octavia had answered the telephone and blundered out the whole secret. Kent! The picture of him in his dark glasses, the way he smiled, came before her. He'd had a three-day leave against the darkness. Suddenly, she wanted to hold him in her arms, comfort him, laugh away the stinging, unkind tirade he had launched against her. There was that picture, and then, on the bureau, was the picture of Ann, her sister. It seemed as if Ann were looking at her with a wistful reproach.

Octavia brought orange juice, coffee and toast, quite a concession on her part but which she explained by saying she'd had to postpone the family wash on account of the storm.
"What sort of plans you got for the day, Miss April?"
"This is my day to sit by the fire and knit."
"You sure talking strange talk, Miss April."

"It's the weather, it's got me down. By the way, any cables, radiograms, telegrams, money orders or telephone calls for me?" She held her breath as Octavia answered. "No, ma'm, seems like we're kinda snowed in under."
Kent would be leaving on the 7 o'clock evening train. Well, let him leave. The young conscript would see that he got on the train and be his eyes for him on the trip back to the base hospital.
Nothing she could do at this eleventh hour would help.
It was near the dinner hour when a postman brought an airmail, special delivery letter. April fastened her wavering eyes on it—saw that it was from her sister, Ann, in New York.

McLean Pupils Hear Talk On "Army Life"

Special to the NEWS
McLEAN, Feb. 21—Two outstanding guests were present at assembly in McLean High school auditorium, Wednesday morning, Feb. 19.

T. A. Landers editor of the McLean News introduced Dr. Clyde Campbell, teacher of Bible at Hardin-Simmons university, Abilene, as guest speaker.
Dr. Campbell said, "Things that are nearest us sometimes become less interesting than those miles away. We live in a curious world but an interesting one."

"Group control and group opinion is very important to our daily living. We are one big community in this great world."
"Before an army camp can be erected, there must first be a need for it; second, there must be room for army maneuvers; and third, there must be a sufficient water supply."

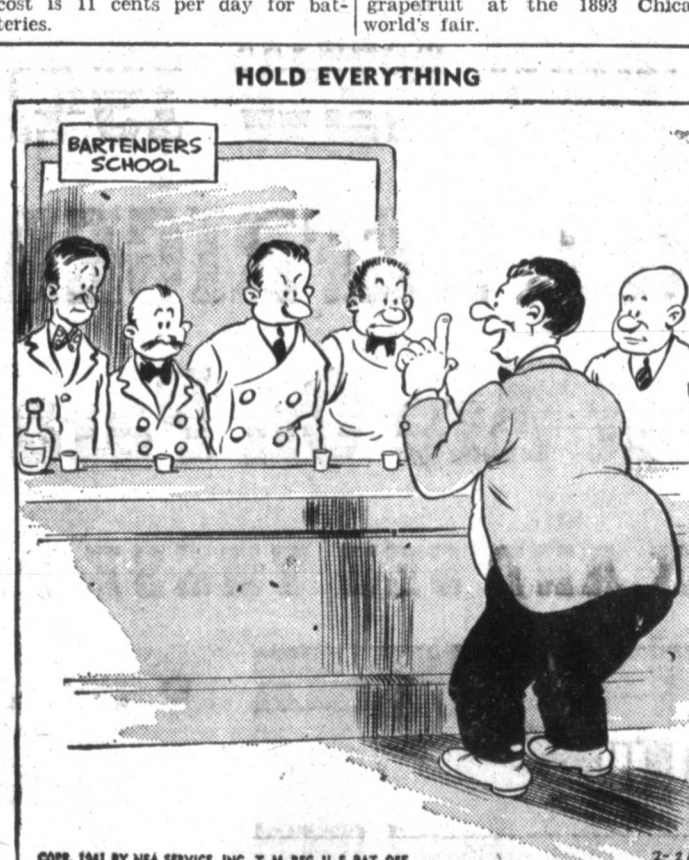

"When an army camp is being constructed first the ground is cleared and the first buildings that go up are the warehouses. Next come the office buildings, then the food, clothing, and supply buildings. When this is accomplished the hospital section is built."
"A soldier's home is at camp and not at town, and he is penalized for unexcused absence."

"Since the world of today is war minded there must be educational training for the soldiers. When an army camp is erected in a small town naturally the town must be prepared to face the social and moral problems that will arise."
"There must be amusement for the soldiers and care for their spiritual needs. Military training is here to stay, and women can do their part as secretaries, nurses, and hostesses."

'Salome' Champion Of 4-H Club Show

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 21 (AP)—A heavy overcast sky, together with falling temperatures, this morning failed to dampen the eagerness of 4-H club and F. F. A. members at the sixth annual Southwest Texas boys' Fat Stock show.

Attention of the youthful entrants centered on the sheep and goat division, where judging of mutton and wool-producing sheep and prize goats will be conducted today.

Bexar county youths led with two high places in the hog division yesterday, headed by "Salome," the entry of Samuel Galm having been judged the champion hog of the show.

Auction of the show animals will climax the exhibition tomorrow.

Governors Will Address Session

AUSTIN, Feb. 21 (AP)—The Texas legislature will be urged Monday by Governor Sam H. Jones of Louisiana, and Acting Governor Carl E. Bailey of Arkansas to pass a bill levying a tax on rice for purposes of advertising and research.

Rep. W. R. Chambers of May announced yesterday the governors of the states whose legislatures have passed such a measure and are awaiting the Texas lawmakers' action, had accepted invitations to address a joint house-senate session. The bill has met some opposition in the Texas House of Representatives.

To Head Rotary

Tom J. Davis, Butte, Mont., attorney, has been selected by the nominating committee of Rotary International as its choice for president in the election to be held during organization's June convention in Denver, Colo.

Market Brieft

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (AP)—The worst that could be said of today's stock market was that it generally failed to follow through Thursday's sharp rally, while on the credit side was the fact it retained most of yesterday's advance and even added modest amounts in many cases.

Hesitancy prevailed at the start and fractional irregularity was the rule during the remainder of the proceedings. Lack of real selling urgency was comforting to bullish proponents even though buying timidity was pronounced.

Transfers of around 300,000 shares again were among the slowest for a 5-hour stretch in nearly six months and compared with better than 400,000 the day before.

One reason given for the reversion to apathy was that many Wall Street habitués wanted to keep commitments light over tomorrow's holiday when principal financial markets will be closed.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 21 (AP)—After advancing as much as 2 cent early in the session to new highs for the recovery move, wheat prices today fell back a cent but closed only slightly lower than yesterday.

Profit taking, evening up sales for the holiday and selling stimulated by weakness of corn and rye unsettled the wheat pit.

Because it is considered undignified, bootblacks are not permitted to ply their trade in Route.

Linda Darnell To Get $750 Per Week

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 21 (AP)—Linda Darnell, 17-year-old daughter of a Dallas postal clerk, is going to get $750 a week this year for acting in the movies.

Linda won her first film contract just a year and a half ago. It was for $75 a week, one-tenth the amount of her present salary.

Her new contract with 20th Century-Fox studio, approved in superior court yesterday, provides for gradual increases, up to $2,250 a week, over a seven-year period.

The court ordered that $10,500 of her current earnings be placed in a trust fund, and approved the expenditure of $250 a week for living expenses.

Arkansas To Play Christians Tonight

FORT WORTH, Feb. 21 (AP)—The Arkansas Razorbacks come here tonight with definite designs on the Southwest conference basketball race.

Not that Texas Christian university can gain anything for itself by beating the Porkers, but if Arkansas sweeps both games from the Horned Frogs it will end the title race, giving Arkansas the championship. Southern Methodist university, the only other team with a mathematical chance of beating out Arkansas, plays Texas at Austin tomorrow night while Rice engages Texas A. and M. at College Station.

Frank Hill Back From Dallas Meet

Back home after attending the two-day annual meetings of the President's and Leader's clubs of his company in Dallas, A. Frank Hill, representative at Pampa of the Great National Life Insurance company, reported a steadily growing preference on the part of the American public for the payment of their life insurance policies on an income basis as against lump sum settlements.

Setting a new high record in the history of life insurance, payments to American families of the proceeds of their policies on a monthly income basis on other installment plans aggregated nearly $200,000,000 last year, Mr. Hill said, in citing figures just released by the Institute of Life Insurance. Payments under planned installments have thus increased 65 per cent within the last five years, and 275 per cent in the last ten years, he said.

Mr. Hill qualified for the Dallas meeting by reason of his sales leadership last year. Sales plans for 1941 were discussed, including a program of development in the Pampa area.

Recent reports indicate that the state highway patrolmen of Georgia will be courteous to tourists at all times even to the extent of helping them change tires.
